Moesolaeth, s. m. (moesawl) Morality.
Moesoleb, s. m. (moesawl) Morality.
Moesolder, s. m. (moesawl) Morality.
Moesoledd, s. m. (moesawl) Mannerliness.
Moesoli, v. a. (moesawl) To become moral.
Moesolrwydd, s. m. (moesawl) Mannerliness.

Moeswump, a. (moes—gwymp) Of fair department. Moeswump dwyfa, a family of splendid manners.

Moeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (my—oeth) That is soft, nice; blandishment; a delicacy, a dainty.

Moethawl, a. (moeth) Yielding blandishment.

Moethedig, a. (moeth) Being used tenderly.

Moethen, s. f. dim. (moeth) A dainty one.

Moethi, a. a. (moeth) To treat kindly or nicely.

Moethiad, s. m. (moeth) An using blandishment.

Moethineb, s. m. (moeth) That yields pleasure.

Tri moethineb cristen: darpar Daw; a eilir gun a to cyflawn i bawb; ac a allo cariad at bawb ei harfwr.

The three pleasures of a christian: the providence of God; what may be done consistent with justice to every body; and what love will can permit to be used.

Moethus, a. (moeth) Delicate; nice; dainty.

Nid moethus ond belu.

There is nothing so nice as the marten.

*Moethusach mewr moeth iao,
W'r ar ei ffordd, all ar ei fo;
No'r pŵer yn myn bell'r mor;
No Dafydd ar ffordd i for;
No mab mam ar ei fanneth;
No merch ar ei dynion maeth.*

More dainty, down there, in my food I am, at his table, and of his gold, than the fish amidst the brine of the sea; than Dafydd at the board of life; than a mother's child as his nursing breast; than a maid with her cherished suitors.

Moethusaid, a. (moethus) Somewhat nice.

Moethusaw, v. n. (moethus) To become nice.

Moethusder, s. m. (moethus) Blandishment; luxury, delicacy of living.

Moethusdra, s. m. (moethus) Blandishment; luxury, delicacy of living.

Moethuswydd, s. m. (moethus) Luxuriousness.

Moethyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. ion (moeth) A luxurious person.

Mohonof, pronom. prep. (mo—honof) From me, or from out of me. Mohonof, mohonot, mohono, mohoni, from out of me, thee, him and it, from out of her; mohonom, mohonoch, mohonynt, from out of us, you, them.

Moi, v. n. (mo) To throw out; or to cast; to foal

Moi o'r gaeaf ar ebawi mawr teledi.

The mare foaling of a large beautiful colt.

Mol, s. m. (mo—ol) What is concreted; the congealed humour, gum, or thick matter collected in the eyes.

Molach, s. f. (mawl) Slight or faint praise.

Molachiad, s. m. (molach) A praising slightly.

Molachu, v. a. (molach) To praise slightly.

Molachus, a. (molach) Apt to praise; flattering.

Molad, s. m. (mawl) Commendation, praise.

Moladwy, a. (mawl) Commendable, praiseworthy

Molafon, s. m. (mol—afon) River concretion; an epithet amongst the miners, for porphyry; also called Mwlafon.

Molaid, a. (mol) Full of concretions; full of particles, or spots; dappled.

Meirch—

Yn mhob llw cruanw cap rhygald dyn;

Yn ffrwyd, yn ffrwyd.

Sticks of every fair excellent colour, which a man can wish; yellow, and dappled.

Molawd, s. m. (mawl) Commendation, praise.

Ef o'i barth neod gwarth gwardwyd;

Gward folaed tal y dyfnyddwyd.

From his territory was not disgrace kept away; the song of praise as it was poured out. Cyddaleu, m. R. ab M. cyddaleu.

Molawg, a. (mol) Abounding with concrete matter; gummy. Y frech folaed, y frech wen, the small pox.

Mold, s. f.—pl. t. iau (mol) A mould.

Moldiad, s. m. (mold) A moulding; a kneading.

Moldiaw, v. a. (mold) To mould, to knead. Moldiaw toes, tyllaw toes, to knead dough.

Moldiedig, a. (moldiad) Moulded; kneaded.

Moldiwr, s. m.—pl. moldwyr (mold—gwr) One who moulds; one who works, or kneads.

Moled, s. f.—pl. t. an (mo—lled) A piece of cloth, forming a part of a woman's dress, to cover the head and shoulders; a muffer; a kerchief. Moled Olera, great blindweed.

Moledig, a. (molad) Praised; commendable.

Baich pob moleddig.

The commendable is proved.

Adapt.

Llawer o'r dydd a ddaillid yn ymadd, canys y gwyf dawns: moleddig a ddaillid yn ddaillid pob o'a gylid.

Much of the day was spent in fighting, for the men who were the most brave and most famous were vying in their dexterity on one another.

Molediw, a. (molad) Laudable, praiseworthy.

Molediwrwydd, s. m. (moleddiw) Landableness.

Moledd, s. m. (mawl) Praise, eulogy; worship.

Moleddiad, s. m. (moledd) Commendation.

Moleddu, v. a. (moledd) To commend, to praise.

Moleddus, a. (moledd) Commendable, laudable.

Moli, v. a. (mawl) To praise; to adore.

Nen ni orag Daw, wryd Beall Gavr,

Ben Bef beidd i'w fath,

Tril eigs, tranc argyrydd,

Tral meddyr, teyrn fal ti!

Shall there not be formed of God; seat of Beall Gavr, the voice of birds to praise thee, the son of conflict, death of sin; the waste of meadows; a prince like thee!

Y ddair—

Derchafed, moledd molaennaf.

Let the earth exult, let it praise the most worthy of adoration.

Nid ei mawl a melyn eiddo.

I will worship her with the yellow-blonded fur.

El. ab Owen.

Moli, v. n. (mol) To concrete, to generate gum. Moli yn y llygod, gum in the eye.

Moliad, s. m. (mol) A concretion; a yielding gum

Moliannawl, a. (moliant) Panegyric.

Moliannawr, s. m.—pl. moliannorion (moliant) A panegyrist; a praiser.

Moliannedig, a. (moliant) Made an object of praise

Moliannedigaeth, s. m. (moliannedig) The act of praising; commendation.

Moliannu, v. a. (moliant) To praise, to adore.

Moliannus, a. (moliant) Commendable.

Nid molaennus ond cydunab.

There is nothing so laudable as concord.

Adapt.

Moliannusaw, v. a. (moliannus) To render praiseworthy; to become an object of praise.

Moliannuswydd, s. m. (moliannus) The state of being praiseworthy; adorableness.

Moliannwr, s. m.—pl. moliannwyr (moliant—gwr) A praiser.

Moliannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (moliant) A praiser

Moliant, s. m. (mawl) Praise; adoration.

Moliant gwddi marw.

Prater after death.

Adapt.

Molitor, ger. (moliad) In praising, in lauding.

Oddi traethator,

Mawr molitor.

Seldom making recital, great in praising.

Telut.

Molitor, sup. (moli) To be praised or lauded.

Yymol Rydderch, reddid ar mawr,

Molitor yn mhob gwlad.

To me there is Rhydderch, reddid ar mawr, praised in every country.

El. ab Owen, t. l. p. 11

Moloch, s. m. (mol-och) Tumult, uproar. Gwergiol foloch, a man of vehement roar; moloch dragen, the tumultuous leader.

*Trwt yn Mhrydyn,
Ac awyl ar gwehlyn,
Rhwng Môn Llychlyn
A byrddu dros droch,
A byrddu ar foloch.*

A rumour in Scotland, and still on the way before the floods of the Baltic, and a boat, heavy and terrifying, and Britons in a tumult.

Molochain, a. (moloch) Full of uproar, or riot.
Molochi, v. a. (moloch) To raise a tumult; to disturb, to molest; to be tumultuous, or riotous.

Gwawr chod-rod, llawgad, Lloegr folochi; Gwar with war, hygar, boew-gerdd holl.

The fume-spread tumultuary, of boundless hand, dissipating loag; said to the wild, sabbath, food of the turbulent body.

Molochind, s. m. (moloch) A causing an outrage, riot, or tumult; a dissipating, a molesting; a becoming outrageous.

Molod, s. m. (maw) Panegyric, or eulogy.

*Trugid golod, ni thrugid hollod.
Welsh may perish, fomer will not perish.* Adage.

*Adwyr gwyr y dydd s'i gwne cyman
Molod, a modur, ac addu ban.*

A potential town there is, which is made social, by mead-drinking, and praise, and loved blades.

*Ni welles foid am geir.
Hwawno eulogy for treasure.* Bloddyn Perdd.

Molwr, s. m.—pl. molwyr (mawli-gwr) A praiser
Molwyn, s. m. (mol-gwyn) That breaks out; that foams.

Molwynad, s. m. (molwyn) A foaming, a spraying

Molwynaw, v. a. (molwyn) To foam, to spray.

Molwynawg, a. (molwyn) Abounding with foam. It has been used as a cognomen; as Rhodri, Molwynawg, and Meilyr Molwynawg.

Mis Awst molwynawg morfa.

The month of August foams the sea shore. Aneurin.

Moll, s. f. (my-oh) That surrounds, closes upon, or includes; that extends round.

Moll, a. (my-oll) Surrounding, closing upon, or extending round; close, or sultry. Marek ffron-fell, a horse with a distended nostril, or a smothering horse; his fell, close weather.

Mollaid, a. (moll) Tending to close round.

Mollawg, a. (moll) Stretching or closing round.

Molledig, a. (moll) Being included or closed in.

Molledigath, s. m. (molledig) The act of including, or taking in.

Moli, v. a. (moh) To include, to take in.

Moliad, s. m. (moll) A stretching round.

Mollt, s. m.—pl. myllt (moll) A mutton; a wether.

Mollt o babwyr, corn o babwyr, a handful of stript rubes, such as are used for candles.

Mollwyn, s. m.—pl. t. od (moll) Mutton. Cig mollwyn, mutton flesh; gwer mollwyn, suet.

Mon, s. f. (mo-on) That is a separate body, or individual; an isolated one, or that is separate; a point; a centre. It is an epithet sometimes used for a cow; it is also the name by which the Isle of Anglesea is called in Welsh; and for the sake of distinguishing it from Mon Aw, the Men of the Water, or the Isle of Man, it is sometimes called Mon Fynydd, or Mon of the Mountain: And, from that idea the small islet near the Isle of Man, came to be called the Cal of Man.

Mon nwn Oymarn.

Mon the mother of Wales.

Adage.

Cerddorion hyd Foh Fynydd Dros hwn yn prydern ydd.

As far as Mon of the Mountain, the minstrels are regretting him.

Y ddiwl a hwn yf heddion ymchred yd ei chynffon.

He that owns the cow of propriety has him this hold of her tail.

Adage.

Monad, s. m. (mon) A rendering a separate body, an isolating; a becoming isolated.

Mones, s. f.—pl. t. od (mon) A sulky female.

Moni, v. a. (mon) To swell out, to fill; to render sulky, sullen, or displeased; to become sulky, or somewhat displeased. Mae efe yn moni writh ei fwyd, he quarrels with his victuals.

Moniad, s. m. (mon) A sulking; a growing sullen

Monig, a. (mon) Sulky, sullen, ill-natured.

Monoch, s. pl. aggr. (mon) Entrails, guts.

Monochen, s. f. dim. (monoch) A small gut, or entrail; a pudding; a sausage.

Monof, pronem. prep. (mon-of) Of me. Mionot, of thee; mono, of it or him; moni, of her; monom, of us; monoch, of you; monynt, of them

Monw, a. (mon) That is identified or joined with Monwent, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mon-gwent) A sepulchre, or burying place; a church yard.

Monwes, s. f.—pl. t. au (monw) The bosom.

Monwesaw, a. (monwes) Belonging to the breast

Monweslad, s. m. (monwes) A bosoming.

Monweau, v. a. (monwes) To put to the bosom.

Monwys, s. pl. aggr. (mon-gwys) Anglesea people.

Monwysion, s. pl. (monwys) Anglesea people.

Monyn, s. m. dim. (mon) One who is sulky.

*En a wneith o fathmached
Llawer un salith a'r od;
Minhan sydd fwl modyn,
Nen fat brawd mael, heb yr an.*

He made mothers of many a one of the same kind as the shew; and I am like a sulky chap, or like a bald friar, without obtaining one.

Mop, s. m.—pl. t. iau (my-op) A maukin.

Mopa, s. m. (mop) A maukin; a mop.

Moppren, s. m.—pl. t. i (mop-pren) A baker's maukin; also called mopa.

Mor, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mo-or) That is infinite, or boundless; that is in motion, flowing, or fluctuating; the sea. Y Mor Hen, the briny sea; y Mor Tawch, the hazy sea, the German Sea; y Mor Mawr, the Dead Sea; Mor Udd, the British sea.

Mor ansefydlawg a'r mor.

As full of motion as the sea.

Adage.

Y don—

Caer Gwion myr, longwyr lid.

The wave, galaxy of the seas, the hatred of mariners.

Gr. Gwyg.

Hll Bardam—

O For Tawch, gwnethant ferw tost.

Offering of Bardam, from the Hazy sea, thou hast raised a severe tempest.

Dr. S. Cund.

Mor, s. m.—pl. t. an (mo-or) That is incessantly moving, or fluctuating; time; also an ant, or emmet.

Môr, adv. (my—or) How, so, as; how much, so much; how greatly. Môr a sonied am dani, what a deal has been said about her; môr lawen, as merry; môr dda, so good.

Môr hylthir a dwr hyd nebent.

As gliding as water along a trough.

Adage.

Môr oedd gyfrin fydd cyrrd Cyridwen;

Môr ddaia eu dŵyn yn ei dyrwen.

How mysterious were the ways of the songs of Cyridwen; how great the necessity of producing them in her building speed.

Cydeleu.

*Aer ac arian
Môr a'u difant
Eu dibenydd.*

Gold and silver how those who squander them do perish.

Tallwin.

Canadau a'm doddyn, môr yot anfonawg.

Messengers resort to me, how much they are sent. Talliesin.

Mora, s. m. (môr) The motion of the sea.

Morach, s. m. (mor—ach) Emotion, joy, jollity.

A Dewi blaen bwlch-lan Gyfelach,
Lle mae morach a mawr grefydd.

And Dewi owns the proud choir of Gyfelach, where there is happiness and great devotion. Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Kaw'r ferch ddloganafr,
A garaf i yu'r gwyr Fair,
Merch nef, nid mwy morach neb.

The name of the woman void of reproach, whom I love, is Mary the virgin, the daughter of heaven, not greater the joy of any one. Hi. ab Ll. ab I. ab Rhys.

Moradar, s. pl. aggr. (môr—adar) Sea fowls.

Neud smor gauaf gwelwaf gwelgi;
Gwelging moradar hwyllar bell!
Neud arllen arien Eryri weithlon;
Neud uchel gwen-don gwynadri Balli!

Is not in winter time the torrent most pale; the perch of the sea-birds the brine of raging course! Does not the bright bore veil Eryri now; hark, how loud the white wave of Enlli's blessed land! Bled dyn Par dd.

Moran, s. m.—pl. t. edd (mor) An epithet for a large sea fish, a whale; also called morfll, and morfarch.

Morawd, s. m. (môr) A going to sea; a going by sea, or a sailing.

I edfyn terwyn torf ei forawd
Nid adfara ceridau.—

To the severe loss of the host of his sea voyage songs shall not bring reproach. Merfyr.

Morawel, s. f.—pl. t. au (mor—awel) Sea breeze.

Morawg, s. (mor) That belongs to the sea; naval.

s. f. That is of the sea, or a sea conveyance.

Morawl, s. (mor) Marine, belonging to the sea.

Morolion, marine productions.

Morben, s. m.—pl. t. au (mor—pen) A promontory, or headland.

Morbryf, s. m.—pl. t. ed (mor—pryf) A sea animal.

Rhwddyn llawn f'm rhyddoded
Yn Masgor ar lawl cored;
Edrych di poen i mi gan morbryfod.

For a full year I was placed, at Bangor, on the post of a wear:
see thou the pain I bore from sea animals. Ysgolan.

Morbysg, s. pl. aggr. (mor—pysg) Sea-fish.

Morbysgod, s. pl. aggr. (morbysg) Sea-fishes.

Morbysgodyn, s. m. (morbysgod) A sea-fish.

Morchwain, s. pl. aggr. (mor—chwain) Small insects, which jump about the sea shore; also called chwain y mor.

Morchwydd, s. m. (mor—chwydd) Swell of the sea

Mordai, s. pl. aggr. (mor—tai) The sea shore, the sea coast; a maritime region.

Nis adrawdd Gododin ar lawr mordai
Rhag pobyll Mawg pan adgorai,
Nawys an o gant yn y deilal.

There shall not be told of Gododin on the sea coast, the floor of the house of Mawg when opened, of but one in a hundred who should enter. Anarain.

Otana, parcbellan, ordd raid myned
Rhag cynyddion mordai.—

Listen, little pig, it were necessary to go for fear of the hunters of the sea coast. Morddin.

Trengysant, trydydd o Fai, trichaullog

Yn llyngw forlail;

A deuant cyman a'u cithal cyfarf,

Heb an huf ar Fenni!

They perished, on the third day of May, three hundred ships, a fleet of the strand; and ten hundred times the number the patriotic weapon would cease to record, leaving not a single bard on Menai. Hi. ab Owain.

Mordailth, s. f. (mor—tailth) A sea voyage.

Mordir, s. m. (mor—tir) Maritime land.

Mordon, s. f.—pl. t. au (mor—ton) Sea breaker.

Dewisbethau—Baferydd adar, a llella huf mordon.

Choirest of things, the singing of birds, and the lessening of noise of the sea waves. D. Meiliogedd.

Mordrai, s. m. (mor—trai) The ebbing of the sea.

Mordwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (mor—twy) A sea coast, the raging of the sea; a storm at sea; a having to do with the sea.

Gobaith heb gwl morwy heb long.

Hope without exertion is like a voyage without a ship. Idy.

Odd Dyrdwy—

Yn llawn o lordwy a ll.

Dyrdwy was full of the tide of the sea and of food.

M. ab G. Gellin.

Mordwyad, s. m.—pl. mordwyaid (mordwy) One who goes by sea.

Achen ffyniella
Mordwyaid meria.

The brakiy-moving plain of the water voyagers. Taliesin.

Mordwyaeth, s. m. (mordwy) A seafaring life.

Mordwyaw, v. a. (mordwy) To go by sea; to sail.

Mordwyawl, s. (mordwy) Seafaring; sailing.

Mordwyedig, s. (mordwy) Being gone by sea.

Mordwyn, s. m. (mor—twyn) An ant hill.

Mordwys, s. m. (mor—twys) The waving ear of corn, as caused by wind.

Mordwywr, s. m.—pl. mordwywyr (mordwy—gw)
A mariner.

Mordwydd, s. m. (mor—tywdd) The sweet-pk.
or Dutch myrtle; also called gwyrtling.

Mordwys, s. m. aggr. (mor—tywys) The hart's tongue, sea-weed.

Mordd, s. m. (mor) That is full of motion.

Morddanad, s. pl. (mor—danad) Horehound.

Morddanadi, s. pl. aggr. (morddanad) Horehound.

Morddanadi gwynion, llwyd y cwn, and cynfa
y gath; morddanadi duon, stinking horehound morddanadi cochion, red-mint.

Morddarian, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mor—darian) A chart of a sea; hydrography.

Morddarluniad, s. m. (morddarian) Hydrographer.

Morddraenog, s. m. (mor—draenog) Butter-fish.

Morddwr, s. m. (mor—dwr) A gulf of the sea.

Einion ab Owain ab Hywel Dda—a ddynas

Ysall fawr o'r gwledydd yn aglin mawrwr Llychwr.

Einion son of Owain son of Hywel the Good, took part from the districts on the shores of the estuary of Llychwr.
Cered. Llancarfan.

Morddwyd, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (mordd—gwyd) A thigh.

Morddyluniad, s. m. (mor—dyluniad) A describing of seas; hydrography.

Moreb, s. m. (mor—eb) The ebb tide of the sea.

Mor moreb dan wyneb Dyfaant.

The bulwark against the ebbing sea below the front of Dyfaant.

Cydwddin.

Nem be arall-ddydd, yn rhyd rwy

Cer moreb caln wyneb Cowry.

Found I not a different day, when in prosperity by the ebb sea of the fair front of Cowry. Ll. P. H. ab.

Ym ni chad, yn rhed rhaid steb allwydd

Ellw gwddon moreb,

Neg er gwerth, neg er north neb,

Y gan hon eto'n steb.

For me there was not obtained (twice it is necessary to survey the love designation of her who is fair as the white wave of the ebb sea) nor for price, nor by the power of any one, for me a answer as yet. G. ab G. ab Yn.

Morebiad, s. m. (moreb) The ebbing of the sea.

Morebu, v. n. (moreb) To ebb as the sea.

Moredafeddog, s. f. (mor—edaf) Sea cotton-weed.

Moreyr, s. m.—pl. t. od (mor—eryr) An osprey.

Morfa, s. m.—pl. morfeydd (mor—ma) A sea brink; a sea marsh. Morfa hallt, a salt marsh.

Hir nos, gorddyr morfa;

Gaudd terfing yn nghymaedd;

Ni chydd dirdid a da.

Long the night, noisy the sea coast; a tumult is common to us assembly: the mischievous agrees not with the great.
Llyncerrid H.

Morfaflen, s. f. (mor—malwen) A sea snail.
 Morfaflod, s. pl. aggr. (mor—malwod) Sea snails.
 Morfan, s. m.—pl. t. au (mor—mau) A sea shore.
 Morfar, s. m. (mor—bar) The rage of the sea.
 Morfarch, s. m. (mor—march) A sea horse.

Ymarfer a was morfaflod
 O feli hwn.—

The sea horses do accustom themselves in praising him.
G. Ll. ob D. ob B. Llygiltu.

Morfil, s. m.—pl. t. od (mor—mll) A sea animal;
 a sea fish of the larger kind; a whale.

Eryllt, gwynach oddi ei cfnawd nos echedwynedig asgwrn morfil.

Eryllt, whiter was her skin than the polished bone of the porpoise.
Gr. ab Arthur.

Morfin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mor—min) Sea brink.

Proed echeddied y morfin!
 A' helyngodd gwadi gwia,
 Ffynnon ffinetwr mor telwja.

Be accursed the sea brink! after wine, the attendant of the spring let in the spreading sea.
Gwyddino, i G. Gwaetawd.

Morfeidd, s. m.—pl. morfeiddiau (mor—bladd) A sea wolf, the basc.

Morfoch, s. pl. aggr. (mor—moch) Grampuses.

Morfochyn, s. m. (morfoch) The grampus.

Morforwyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (mor—morwyn) A mermaid, a siren. Esgid morforwyn, a mermaid's shoe, a kind of a pod of a sea plant, of a square form. In British tales, the mermaid is fancied to carry a glass in one hand, and in the other a comb, with which she combs her beautiful hair; and that she weeps during the summer, for fear of the frost of winter.

Mae rhian ar y mor hallt
 A chryn, a drych, gwech ei gwallt,
 A wyl yr haf ar mli rhos
 Rhag ofa y sbectol gwallt.

There is a maid on the bring sea with a comb and a glass, splendid is her hair, who weeps away the summer, on the verge of the marsh, in dread of the frost of a winter night.
Bado Aeddem.

Mae o'r an wallt am wir Non Ar freacn 'r morforwynion.

There is of the same hair as round the shoulders of Non on the brows of the mermaids.
D. Nannor.

Morfran, s. f.—pl. morfranod (mor—bran) A cormorant; also called mwlfran.

Morfrwydr, s. f.—pl. morfrwydrau (mor—brwydr) A sea-fight.

Morfrwyn, s. pl. aggr. (mor—brwyn) Rushes that grow on sea marshes; also called testfrwyn, and berfrwyn.

Morfrwynen, s. f. (morfrwyn) The sea rush.

Morfnawch, s. f.—pl. t. od (mor—bnwch) Sea cow.

Morfwyd, s. m. (mor—bwyd) Marine food, or substance in the sea serving fish for food.

Morfwyd fydd eu cnawd,
 Hyd pan yw moidyrr,
 Pan yw ganawg pŵg.

Their flesh shall be marine food, until it is transformed, when fishes shall contain it.
Talliesin.

Morgad, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mor—cad) A sea-fight.

Morgant, s. f.—pl. t. au (mor—camlas) An estuary.

Morgant, s. m. (mor—cant) A sea brink. It is a very common proper name of men, of which Pelagius has been given as a translation.

Morgannwg, s. f. (morgant) Glamorganshire.

Morgareiau, s. pl. (mor—caral) Sea-laces.

Morgaseg, s. f.—pl. morgesyg (mor—caseg) A sea breaker.

Morgath, s. f.—pl. t. od (mor—cath) A skate, a ray; also a hollow roaring of the sea, denoting foul weather. Morgath arw, cath arw, cath bigarg, the thornback; morgath lefn, the smooth skate.

VOL. II.

Morgeintach, s. m. (mor—ceintach) A sea-fight.
 Morgelyn, s. m. (mor—celyn) Sea-bolly, eryngo.

I wellia y clybawd: cymet oddi y morgelyn, a dod yu dwym yn y glist.

To improve the hearing; take the juice of the sea-bolly, and put warm in the ear.
Medd. Myddfa.

Morgerwyn, s. f.—pl. t. l (mor—cerwyn) A gulf.

Morgi, s. m.—pl. morgwn (mor—ci) A sea dog; the dog fish; the shark. The varieties are Morgi gwyn, ci brych, ci coeg, the shark; penci, morgi glas, the lesser rough hound.

Morgranc, s. m.—pl. t. od (mor—cranc) The crab-fish; otherwise called cranc.

Morgrug, s. pl. aggr. (mor—crug) A hill of ants, or ant hillock; ants.

Morgrugyn, s. m. dim. (morgrug) A pismire.

Morgrwydr, s. m. (mor—crwydr) A roving by sea.

Morgrwydrad, s. m. (morgrwydr) A roving by sea.

Morgrwydrwr, s. m.—pl. morgrwydrwyr (morgrwydr—gwr) A sea-rover.

Morgudyn, s. m. (mor—cudyn) A polypus.

Morgylllell, s. f.—pl. morgylllell (mor—cyllell)

The calamary, or razor-fish.

Morgymmlawdd, s. m. (mor—cymmlawdd) The bolsterousness of the sea, the raging of the sea.

Pa beth bynag a furio morgymmlawdd i dir, megis tor llong, neu felw bygod, y brodin bleuddd.

Whatever shall be cast by a sea tempest to land, such as a shipwreck, or dead fishes, the king shall claim.
Welsh Laws.

Morgynhwrf, s. m. (mor—cynhwrf) The agitation or tumult of the sea.

Morgynnull, s. m. (mor—cynnull) The flow tide of the sea.

Morhaig, s. f.—pl. morheigiau (mor—haig) A shoal of living things in the sea.

Morhaig mad gynydd cyhoedd.

A conspicuous sea shoal of goodly increase. Talliesin.

Morhedydd, s. m. (mor—hedydd) The sea-lark.

Morherw, s. m. (mor—herw) A sea-roving.

Morherwa, v. a. (morherw) To rove by sea.

Morherwad, s. m. (morherw) A roving by sea.

Morherwr, s. m. (mor—herwr) A sea-rover.

Morherwriaeth, s. m. (morherwr) The life of a sea-rover.

Morheag, s. pl. aggr. (mor—heag) The sea-rushes, or mat-rushes; also called merydd.

Morhocys, s. pl. aggr. (mor—hocys) The sea tree; marshmallows.

Morhwch, s. f.—pl. morhychod (mor—hwch)

The dolphin; a grampus.

Moriad, s. m. (mor) A going by sea; a sailing.

Moriaw, v. a. (mor) To lead a sea-faring life.

Morion, s. pl. aggr. (mor) Ants or emmets.

Morionen, s. f. dim. (morion) An emmet, an ant.

Moriwr, s. m.—pl. morwyr (mor—gwr) A seaman.

Morladrad, s. m. (mor—lladrad) Piracy.

Morladradaidd, a. (morladrad) Piratical.

Morladradawl, a. (morladrad) Piratical.

Morladrata, v. a. (morladrad) To commit piracy.

Morlan, s. f.—pl. t. au (mor—glân) A sea brink.

Cadwyr o du myr, o du morlan,
 Uchel yu cadw eu rhyfel, nid ymgela.

Warriors by the side of waters, by the side of the sea shores, highly supporting their war, they will not conceal themselves.
Llywelyn Fydd.

Morias, s. m. (mor—glas) Sea-green colour.

Morieidr, s. m.—pl. moriadron (mor—lleidr) A pirate.

Morieisiad, s. m.—pl. morleisiad (mor—gleisiad)

The whiting pollack.

Morio, s. m.—pl. t. i (mor—llo) A sea-calf, a seal.

2 Y

Morlwch, s. m. (mor—llwch) The spray of the sea; vapour rising from the sea.

Morlywau, s. pl. (mor—llwy) Scurvy-grass.

Morlyffant, s. m.—pl. morlyffaint (mor—llyffant) The devil-fish; also called lyffant y mor.

Morlyswen, s. f. (mor—llyswen) A conger eel.

Morlyswod, s. pl. (mor—llyswod) Conger eels.

Mornant, s. m.—pl. mornentydd (mor—nant) A sea brook, a small channel on a flat shore into which the tide runs; a small estuary; also called moryd, morgamlas, and camlas.

Morneidr, s. f.—pl. mornadroedd (mor—neidr) A sea snake.

Mornodwydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (mor—nodwydd) The needle-fish, or girrock.

Moron, s. pl. aggr. (mo—rhon) Such plants as have a single tapering root; carrots. Moron cochion, llysiau cochion, carrots; moron gwynion, llysiau gwyddelig, parsneps; moron meilynion, moron yr allman, moron ffrainc, skirrets; moron y maes, wild carrots; moron y moch, pannas y moch, wild parsneps; moron y meirch, or efor, cow-paranep.

Moronen, s. f. dim. (moron) A single one of the moron plants. Moronen felen, a skirret; moronen wen, pannasen, a parsnep; moronen bigarg, prickly samphire; moronen y dwfr, water parsnep.

Moronyr, s. m. dim. (moron) A single one of the moron plants.

Mortais, s. f.—pl. mortisiau (mor—tais) A mortise.

Mortisiaid, s. m. (mortais) A mortising.

Mortisiau, v. a. (mortais) To make a mortise.

Morwaneg, s. f.—pl. t. au (mor—gwaneg) A wave of the sea. Rhygyr morwaneg, the violence of the sea-wave.

*Dug morwaneg dder o de gwaif
Llys llawr Lleu Gwyr, llan gwawr gwmpaf.*

A fair sea-wave from the region of winter took the floor plot of Lleu the Worthy, image of brightest dawn. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Morwennol, s. f.—pl. morwennoliaid (mor—gwenol) The sea swallow, the sand-martin.

Morwerydd, s. m. (mor—gweydd) A beach where the sea breaks; a sea-shore.

Morwiall, s. pl. aggr. (mor—gwiall) Grass-wreck.

*Yn y lle y gwelir dylun y morwiall.
In the place he saw drift and sea-wreck.*

Morwialen, s. f. (mor—gwialen) Sea-girdle and hangers.

*Crym mal y forwialen.
Trembling like the sea-girdle. *Adapt.

Morwiber, s. f.—pl. t. od (mor—gwiber) The sea-dragon, or viver.

Morwr, s. m.—pl. morwyr (mor—gwr) A seaman.

Morwregys, s. m. (mor—gwregys) Sea-belts.

Morwriaeth, s. m. (morwr) Seamanship.

Morwyf, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mor—gwyf) A bubble.

Morwyfiad, s. m.—pl. morwyfiad (morwyf) A bubbling of water.

Morwyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (môr—gwyn) A virgin, a maid; a damsel; also a clothes-horse. Morwyn ystafell, a chambermaid; llawforwyn, a handmaid.

Morwynaid, a. (morwyn) Virginlike, maidenly.

Morwynain, a. (morwyn) Maidenly virgin.

*Lle dwyr, y'ngheiliu draia
Y mae'r eidd morwynain.*

An evil place, in the recesses of thence the pure soul is confined.
Marys ab Rhys.

Morwynaw, v. a. (morwyn) To become a virgin.

Morwynawl, a. (morwyn) Belonging to a virgin.

Morwyndawd, s. m. (morwyn) Virginity.

Morwynig, s. f. dim. (morwyn) A little maid.

Morwynwraig, s. f.—pl. morwynwraigedd (morwyn—gwraig) A virgin wife, a married virgin, a betrothed maid.

Sef yw morwynwraig, gwraig gwedi ei rhoddli wr, a bethu, ho gyagu genti etes, ac yn forwyn.

A virgin-mother is a woman after she has been given to a husband, and she without being yet slept with, and being a maid.
Wales Llan.

Morwydd, s. m. (mor—gwydd) Sea green colour.

Morwys, s. pl. aggr. (mor—gwy) Bubbles, bubblings.

Morwysiad, s. m.—pl. morwysiaid (morwyn) A bubbling.

Morwyslaw, v. a. (morwys) To bubble up.

Mory, s. m. (mory) The time or day coming, the morrow, to-morrow. mry. To-morrow. It is mostly used with the article, as y fory, the morrow, or with a prefix, as efory, to-morrow.

*Arwyf o fedyr trion
Y fory a gad dan frig du;
Amddo wrawing amddan,
A llybia boer-fellian hai!*

Obsequies with green birchen to-morrow I shall receive, amidst the branches of the ash; a white covering about aimed at, as a veil of the lively trophies of summer! D. ab Gwyn.

Moryd, s. f. (mor) A small channel of sea water running into a marsh.

Morymdaith, s. m. (mor—ymdaith) A voyage or travel by sea.

Morymdeithlaw, v. a. (morymdaith) To travel by sea, to go a voyage by sea.

Morymdeithydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (morymdaith) A traveller by sea.

Moryn, s. m. dim. (mor) A sea or wave that breaks over any thing.

Morysball, s. f. (mor—ysball) Spoilation by sea.

Morysbeiliaw, v. a. (morysball) To spoil by sea.

Morysbeiliwr, s. m.—pl. morysbeiliwyr (morysball—gwr) A spoiler by sea; a buccaner.

Morysgyfaint, s. m. (mor—ysgyfaint) The hippocampus.

MU, s. f. r.—pl. t. on. A bulk, or mass; a measure of capacity; a mound.

*Tunell yw pedwar mu; ac yn mhob mu y bydd ddyr rann.
A tua cecolau o four munda; and in every mound there are two tubs. *Wales Llan.

Much, s. m. (mu—uch) A black, or gloom.

Muchiad, s. m. (much) A blackening, a lowering.

Muchlwin, a. (much) Of a black hue; gloomy; frowning, lowering.

*Ban ymdrawdd gwyf gwedd muchlwin celi;
Mid of eloquent ymgyd Owain.*

At the discouraging of men with the frowning aspect of him, there was no receding of the shield of Owain. Taliesin.

Muchlaint, s. m. (muchlwin) Blackness of hue; gloominess; a frowning; a lowering.

Muchiant, s. m. (much) A blackening, a rendering of a jetty black; a frowning, a lowering.

Muchudd, s. m. (much) A jet black; jet.

Y'nheredd Pedyddin yw prydwr, Echwydd a muchudd cymrygator.

In the city of the Quadrangle of the strongly guarded her, twilight and the gloomy jet mix together. Taliesin.

*Ei gwallt hithen a't dorynol ddech oeddynt ne't worketh.
Her hair also and her eyebrows blacker were they than the jet. *Pseudo-Taliesin.

Muchuddaid, a. (muchudd) Like jet, black as jet.

Muchuddawl, a. (muchudd) Of a jetty black.

Mud, s. w. (my—ud) A removal, a pass, a move, a change of residence; what is moved, as goods, or furniture; also a mew, a term in falconry.

Y penchobyrdd, o'r pen ddoto yr hysg yn mud yn i dyno allan, at ddyll aeth i nab o hawl, namys i un o'i gydwyddogion.

The chief falconer, from the time when he shall put the hawk in a mew until he shall take it out, shall not be obliged to answer to any one as to a suit at law, except to one of his brother officers.

Welsh Laws.

Mud, a. (my—ud) Expressing by motion, or sign; mute, dumb.

Hir y bydd y mud yn nhydd y bydder.

Long will the dumb be at the gate of the deaf. Adage.

Cenad fed drud et cwtwy.

Forward is he that believes a dumb messenger. Adage.

Ery mydd, gwyn bion dard; Mad crynhaig y llafar.

Sooty mountain, within the top of the oak: mute is the fear of the talkative. Tytilia.

Mudadwy, a. (mud) That may be moved, movable.

Mudai, s. c.—pl. mudeion (mud) A remover.

Mudair, a. (mud) Transmuted, changed.

Hecynat yw gwerth hebog cyn mud, a thro bo yn y mud: gwerth bo muddir, a gwyn, o bydd llesm modydd, pant a dal.

Six score pence is the value of a hawk before mewing, and whilst it is in the mew; when it shall have become changed and mute, it belonging to a king, a pound is its value. Welsh Laws.

Mudan, s. m.—pl. t. od (mud) A mute.

Mudaneth, s. m. (mudan) A mute state.

Udo'r yst—

Am y dyn o'r mudaneth.

I am talking for the fair one on account of her dumbness.

D. ab Edmund.

Mudanidd, a. (mudan) Like a mute, dumb.

Mudanes, s. f.—pl. t. od (mudan) A female mute.

Mudann, v. n. (mudan) To become a mute.

Mudaw, v. s. (mud) To remove, to change an abode, to move; to carry to another place.

For eidd, an eidda a'm gwedd, Fy ddiol gan gwr o'r lloedd: Os llyngwr a rhoi o, i ddryfodd fy mod Yn ddawr hwn reafodd.

The congenial chief, he will not let me appear to have a single want, source of bounty! whither I repair to Gwynedd: of the same spirit as Rhun, it is no wonder I should be remaining to obtain wealth. Lt. P. Mach, i M. Gwyn.

Mudawl, a. (mud) Belonging to a removal, or change of place; movable.

Mudedig, a. (mud) Being moved, or removed.

Modes, s. f.—pl. t. od (mud) A female mute.

Dyso—

Dy fodes yn dafodlog.

Grant thy dumb female to be possessed of tongue.

D. ab Edmund.

Mudfa, s. f. (mud) A remove, a removal.

Mudfa oedd dda ddyw calau, Lle hyl llawr ei dal o dan.

A removal was good on New Year's day, when his horses were fully stored with fire. Tra. Dydd Mawr.

Mudiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (mud) A removing, a changing place; a conveying; conveyance.

Mudiant, s. m. (mud) A removal; a moving.

Muding, s. f. (mud) A seat of changing; a mew.

Mudiw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mud—llw) A changing colour; a motley colour.

Mudsain, s. f.—pl. mudeisain (mud—sain) A mute sound; a mute letter.

Mudseiniald, s. f.—pl. mudseiniald (mud—sain) That is mute of sound, a mute letter. The mutes, the llythyrenau mud, or mudion, are these—b, f, p, ff, c, ch, g, ng, d, dd, t, th.

Mudw, s. m. (mud) That is moving or wandering.

Mudwg, s. m. (mud) A state of removing or changing.

Mudggfawr, a. (mudwg) Greatly transforming.

O bith ei hysg bloodd fawr a ddodol, A ddodol yd yn lloerwr; Eding mudiing mudggfawr; Edu can adale, can cerddawr.

From amidst his feather cloak a great outcry he would give, he that was laid in January; he of the greatly transforming mew, a bird chief of a hundred wings, a beautiful songster. Cynddelw, i'r ceiling.

Mul, s. m.—pl. t. od (my—ul) An ass. Bastardd mul, a bastard ass, or a mule.

Mul, a. (my—ul) Bashful, or modest; simple.

O'r meibion, gwyr doethion gynt Y mulaf a grannofyst.

Of youths, the wise of yore did the most modest prove.

H. Cae Llwyd.

Mab ni char gormod siarad, Mul sw a dorth, mul ei dal.

A child who loves not excess of talk, modest he is and wise like his sire. H. Cae Llwyd.

Mulaidd, a. (mul) Of a bashful disposition.

Mulaw, v. n. (mul) To become bashful; to be abashed, ashamed or timid.

Muldra, s. m. (mul) Bashfulness, or modesty.

Muleiddiaw, v. n. (mulaidd) To become bashful.

Mules, s. f.—pl. t. od (mul) A she ass.

Parasynat iddo farchogeth ar feles y brenin.

They caused him to ride upon the she ass of the king.

I Kings, i. 44.

Mulfran, s. f.—pl. t. od (mul—bran) A cormorant; also called morfra.

Nid gith ond mulfran.

Nothing greedy but a cormorant.

Adage.

Mulwriion, a. (mul—gwirion) Bashfully innocent, simply innocent; stupid.

Mulyn, s. m. dim. (mul) A little or young ass.

Mun, s. f.—pl. t. au (mun—nn) That is capable of forming; an epithet for a hand.

Mwnal a rasod, wrth radd, i bob un;

A mwy o'i ddwyfyn i ymddiwad.

Money he would distribute, when necessary, to every one; and more out of his two hands to the destitute. L. G. Cuth.

Munaid, s. f.—pl. muneidiau (mun) A handful.

Muned, s. f. (mun) That helps, or extends aid, an epithet for a hand.

Na fyned aur-funed fain, Gwawr nefolus, garafain.

Let not the golden handed slender maid, of heavenly aspect, take a perfect churl. D. ab Edmund.

Muneidiau, v. a. (munaid) To deal out a handful.

Muner, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mun) One that conducts; a ruler, or director. Muner Nef, the ruler of heaven.

Arddy cadernyd mawrwy muner.

The support of prowess is the pleasure of the sovereign.

Gwalchmai.

Gentiles, a'm llw ced, a'm llyddwy ar air; Fy hysg, a'm mawr i'm fy ngofy.

Gentiles, my fancied treasure, kills me at a word; my Lord, not much were for me to have my visit!

Gwalchmai.

Nod cer mawr mawr Gwa gwawr gwaing durgawr.

Is not the blossomed the lodging of the trading chief; the youth clad in a plate of steel. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Munerawd, s. m. (muner) A maintenance; a conducting, or regulating.

Munerawd y mawr fy mwynd, Mawr yn mawr lloeddau ryw Rha Plant; NM gormod fy ngair it.

The bounty of the dead is my enjoyment, as in the life of the race of Lleision, the sons of Rhun; not too much my word for thee. Lt. P. Mach, i Llywelyn II.

Munerawl, a. (muner) Maintaining, upholding.

Muneru, v. a. (muner) To maintain, to uphold; to conduct, to rule, to regulate.

Nia muner na fier, na fyndig; Nid dilaer cedeira cad argloddig.

Him, nor the mighty, nor the fortunate shall rule; the mighty ones shall not condemn the famed in battle. Gwalchmai.

Munud, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mun—ud) A gesture, or motion of the body; a nod, or beck; imitation; an antick trick. Tori munudiau ar bren, to cut figures upon wood; mae hi yn llawn munudiau, she is full of anticks.

Meinir a wyr y munud.

The fair one knows the trick. D. ab Gwilym.

Munudiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (munud) A making a gesture, a beckoning; a mimicking; a playing antick tricks.

Munudiaw, v. a. (munud) To make a gesture; to beckon; to mimic; to play antick tricks.

Munudiwr, s. m.—pl. munudwyr (munud—gwr) One who makes gestures; a beckoner.

Munodyn, s. m. dim. (munud) A gesture; a beck.

Mur, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mu—ur) That is firm, fixed, or established; a wall, a rampart.

*Madawg mur menwyd;
Madawg, cyn bu bodd,
Bu ddihaen eirysodd,
O gamp, a chymweidd.*

Madog the butcher of happiness, Madog, before he was in the grave, was the tower of strength of games and of courtesy. Taliesin.

*Mor tawch a dyr muriau'r tir,
A'r meilia i lyng yr eilfydd.*

The spreading sea will break the fences of the land, and the lightnings will burn up the towering cliffs. Dr. J. Cui.

Mur, a. (mu—ur) Firm, fixed, or established.

Murdd, s. m. (mur) A foundation, or base.

Murddyn, s. m.—pl. t. od (murdd) The ruins of a building; a toft.

Murddynaidd, a. (murddyn) Like a toft; ruinous.

Murddyns, v. a. (murddyn) To make a toft; to reduce to a ruin.

Murganllaw, s. f.—pl. t. iau (mur—canllaw) The battlement of a wall.

Murgald, s. m. (mur—craidd) A powerful and ardent principle; a firm violence, or ardency.

*Seintiaid ei gloddyf yn nhen naman;
Murgald oedd; moked o mab Gwyddon.*

His sword sounded on the tongues of mothers; he was mighty violence; let the son of Gwyddon extol him. Aneurin.

*Trindawd tragywydd
A orau eilfydd,
A gwedi eilfydd
Addaf yn gryfdd;
A gwedi Arde,
Y gorau Efa;
Yr Israel bendigaid
A orau murgald.*

The eternal Trinity made the element; and after the element, Adam wonderfully; and after the goodly Adam, he made Eve; the blessed Israel the mighty spirit made. Taliesin.

Muriad, s. m. (mur) A fixing, establishing, or determining; a walling, a building a wall.

Muriaw, v. a. (mur) To fix, to establish, to determine; to wall, to build a wall.

Muriawg, a. (mur) Having a limit, or fence; walled, having a wall.

Muriawl, a. (mur) Tending to establish, or to determine; belonging to a wall, mural.

Muriedig, a. (muriad) Fixed, determined; having a wall, or rampart; walled.

Muriwr, s. m.—pl. murwyr (mur—gwr) One who fixes, or establishes; one who builds a wall.

Muriysiau, s. pl. aggr. (mur—llyysau) Pelitory of the wall; also called muriwyn, and muriys.

Murn, s. m.—pl. t. au (mur) A stoppage, obstruction; a foul deed; murder.

Murniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (murn) A stopping, or obstructing; a harming; a murdering.

Gwyb at fydd i gyd yn gall a farnu Furniad truen aughall.

All blessed is he who shall discreetly judge the oppression of the simple wretch. W. Middleton.

Murnlaw, v. a. (murn) To stop, to obstruct; to harm; to murder.

Y farnu—

Murniad f, mae araf ol.

The bramble, it did harm to me, I hear the mark. D. ab Gwilym.

Murnlaw pen fyddol fel llydron.

Stopping on the high ways like thieves. I. B. Ely.

Murnlawl, a. (murn) Tending to obstruct; tending to harm; murdering.

Murniedig, a. (murniad) Being waylaid.

Murniwr, s. m.—pl. murnwyr (murn—gwr) One who stops, or obstructs; an assassin.

Ni ellir fy ngalw yn dad fch, namyn yn farawr coethion.

I can not be called a father to you, but a great oppressor. Cyd. Elydd or Ane.

Murs, s. m. (mur) That is stiff, nice, or prim.

Mursawg, a. (murs) Being trimmed up.

Mursen, s. f.—pl. t. od (murs) A coquette.

Mursen fydd o wr fal o wrigol.

There may be a coquette of a man as well as of a woman. Adey.

Tairgwath y dywad mwsen, hantith

Ddeu yn y ty.

Three times will a coquette say, be God's blessing in the house. Adey.

*Pan fydd gwlan gan farcen,
Y bydd gwa i bob cawnen.*

When the coquette is possessed of wool, there will be a quest for every stalk. Adey.

Mursenaidd, a. (mursen) Somewhat affected, or over-nice; coquettish, effeminate.

Mursendawd, s. m. (mursen) Affection, coyness, quaintness; coquetry.

Mursenaidd-dra, s. m. (mursenaidd) Coquetry.

Mursenaiddiad, s. m. (mursenaidd) A rendering, or becoming coquettish; effemination.

Mursenaiddiaw, v. a. (mursenaidd) To become affected, coy, or coquettish.

Mursenaiddrwydd, s. m. (mursenaidd) Coquetry.

Murseniad, s. m. (mursen) A becoming coquettish.

Mursenu, v. (mursen) To behave affectedly, coyly, or coquettishly; to be coy, or coquettish.

Mursogen, s. f. dim. (mursawg) One that is trimmed up; one who is coquettish.

Tywyll ben murgogen Maf,

Too o'r non, rhad Dew araf;

The darkly covered doll of May, thick from the top, brown; blessing be upon it. D. ab Gwilym, i farn.

Murayn, s. m. dim. (murs) A slighty one; a top.

Murwyll, s. m. (mur—gwyll) Wild wall-flower.

Mus, s. m. (my—us) Constrained motion, or jerk.

Muag, s. m. (mus) A difficulty of motion.

Musgr, s. m. (muag) That is sluggish, or slow.

Musgrell, s. m. (musgr) That moves with labour; that is helpless. a. Having a difficulty of action; slow, sluggish, drawing, hobbling.

Daw a byrth i fangrell.

God will provide for the helpless one. Adey.

Mai cogol guraig fangrell.

Like the distaff of a hobbling woman. Adey.

Musgrelledd, s. m. (musgrell) Laborious motion; sluggishness; helplessness.

Musgrelli, s. m. (musgrell) Laborious motion; sluggishness, helplessness.

Nid methiant oed musgrelli.

It is not a defect short of helplessness. Id.

Musgrelliad, s. m. (musgrell) A rendering slow, sluggish, or helpless; a becoming helpless.

Musgrellni, s. m. (musgrell) A laborious motion; a halting, or hobbling; helplessness.

Mugrellu, v. a. (mugrell) To render of laborious motion; to become helpless.
Mugrellyn, s. m. dim. (mugrell) One that moves with labour; a hobbling person; a hobbler.
MW, s. m. r. That is forward, upon, or about.
Mwcan, s. c. dim. (mwg) A cloud of fog.
Mwci, s. m. (mwg) Fog; a sprite, or goblin.
Mwcog, s. pl. (mwg) Hips; also called egroes.
Mwcwg, s. m. (mwg) Burnet rose.
Mwch, c. (my—wch) Hasty, swift, or quick.

Mwch barn pob shud.

Hasty the judgement of every fool.

Adage.

Mwchiad, s. m. (mwch) A hastening onward.
Mwchiaw, v. a. (mwch) To hasten; to be quick.
Mwchlaw, v. a. (mwchwl) To jumble, to mix; to damb with a variety of things.
Mwchiad, s. m. (mwchwl) A jumbling, a mixing.
Mwchaw, v. a. (mwchwn) To jumble together.
Mwchwl, s. m. (mwch) A jumble, a mixture; that is full of transitions, a term for a kind of musical composition.
Mwchwn, s. m. (mwch) A jumble, or a mixture.
Mwd, s. m.—pl. mydau (mw—wd) An arch, a vaulted roof; a roof, a ceiling.
Mwdr, s. m. (mwd) That rises or springs up.
Mwdrau, s. m. (mwdr) Washbrew, a sort of food, made by boiling water thickened with a soured infusion of oatmeal, and sweetened to the taste: it is also called brithdwyw.
Mwdwl, s. m.—pl. mydylan (mwd—wl) A round stack, cock, or heap.
Mwdd, s. m.—pl. myddi (mw—wdd) An arch; a spring; a cove; also luck, or fortune.

Cerddedind caru—

Cryno fel mwdd, caruwlw main.

Of the pace of a stag, compact like an arch; the pale-hoofed dander oze.

T. Alce, i farch.

Mwg, s. m. (mw—wg) Smoke, fume. Mwg y ddier, famitory; mwg y perthi, hedge-fumitory; Myg-jag, confusedly, in a huddle.

Arwydd drwg mwg yn niffalith.

Swch is a blindness is a sign of mischief.

Adage.

Mwgan, s. c. (mwg) A puff or cloud of smoke.
Mwgychiad, s. m. (mwg—sychiad) A smoke-drying.
Mwgychu, v. a. (mwg—sychu) To smoke-dry.
Mwgwd, s. m. (mwg—wd) A blind, a mask.
Geura mwgwd y dull, chwara mwgwd yr teir, the play of blind-man's buff.

Medd a ddioeg y mwgwd.

Mead will pull off the mask.

Adage.

Mwl, s. m.—pl. t. od (mw—wl) A concreate; a mass, a lump. Mwled a cheryg llathraidd, lumps and well-shaped stones, say, the mason's.
Mwlwch, s. m. aggr. (mwl) Refuse; sweepings.
Mwiwg, s. m. aggr. (mwl) Refuse; sweepings.
Mwiwg mawr, the small or refuse of peat.

Cals yn y mwiwg.

Sock in the sweepings.

Adage.

Mwlyn, s. m. dim. (mwl) A concrete; a mass.
Mwl, a. (mw—wl) Close, warm, or sultry. Tyw-ydd mwl, hin foll, sultry weather.
Mwn, s. m.—pl. mynan (mw) That rises up as a spire; that stretches out, the upper part of the shaft of a weapon next to the head; a neck.

Corow uchddrawl ei faint, a thair ffrwd o waed yn rhedeg o'r mwn hyd y llawr.

A spear of immense size, and three streams of blood running from the neck to the ground.

H. Peredur—L. ab Igeon.

Mwn, s. m. aggr. (mw—wn) Separate body, mass, or particle; mine, ore of metal. Mwn aur, gold mine; mwn arian, silver mine; mwn cfydd, copper mine; mwn plwm, lead mine; gwath mwn, mine work; tull mwn, a mine shaft.

Mwnai, s. m. aggr. (mwn) Money, or coin.

Mwnaidd, a. (mwn) Like mine, like ore.

Mwnawg, a. (mwn) Abounding with ore.

Mwnawl, a. (mwn) Belonging to mine or ore.

Mwndill, s. f. (mwn—dill) A spattle, a stirrer; a ladle; also called modbrwn.

Mwndir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mwn—tir) Land abounding with mine.

Mwndlws, s. m.—pl. myndlysau (mwn—tlws) A neck ornament; a necklace.

Mwndorch, s. f.—pl. myndorch (mwn—torch) A collar, a wreath for the neck.

Mwnglawdd, s. m.—pl. mwngloddiau (mwn—clawdd) A mine pit or shaft.

Mwngloddfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mwnglawdd) A mine pit, a mine shaft.

Mwngloddiaid, s. m. (mwnglawdd) A mining.

Mwngloddiaid, v. a. (mwnglawdd) To make a mine pit or shaft; to mine.

Mwngloddwr, s. m.—pl. mwngloddwyr (mwnglawdd—gwr) A miner.

Mwnt, s. m.—pl. mynnau (mwn) That rises up; a heap, or mound; a mount, a mountain; one hundred thousand. Ar y mynnau, on the hills. Brecon.

Deg myrdd yn y mwnt.

Ten myriads in the hundred thousand.

Mwnwg, s. m. (mwn) That shoots out as a spire; a neck. Pen-dra-mwnwg, headlong.

Mwnwgl, s. m.—pl. mynyglau (mwnwg) The neck. Mwnwgl y troed, the instep of the foot.

Cyd ag y gwelw Eiddyr ei rhedeg a orag, a myned ddwyllaw mwnwgl iddaw, a rhoddi llawer o gamas iddaw.

As soon as Eiddyr saw him he ran, and went with his hands round his neck, and gave him many blows. Gr. ab Arthwr.

Mwnws, s. pl. dim. (mwn) Small particles; dross, refuse, dust, pelf, riches.

Mwng, s. m.—pl. myngoedd (mwn) A mane.

Mwngial, v. a. (mwng) To speak from the throat; to matter, to speak indistinctly.

Mwngial, s. m. (mwng) A speaking from the throat; a muttering, a murmuring.

Cerdd wammwl fu'r mwngial maw.

A flighty song was that muttering of mice. D. ab Gwilym.

Mwr, s. m. (mw—wr) That tends to fall, or hap.

Mwrl, s. m. (mwr) A crumbling freestone.

Mwrl, a. (mwr) Crumbling, friable. Tir mwrl, a loose crumbling soil.

Mwrlwch, s. m. (mwr—llwch) A thick vapour.

Dyrd yn nos stynt, ehai yr angel, ac a'm cipal drwy lawer o fwrllwch diffaith, oedd yn codi o'r ddinas.

Come nearer to them, said the angel; and he snatched me through many a noxious exhalation, which were rising out of the city. Edic Wyn, B. Cwg.

Mwrn, s. m. (mwr) Sultry or close weather.

Mwrn, a. (mwr) Sultry, close, or warm.

Murnaw, v. a. (mwrn) To become sultry.

Mwrnder, s. m. (mwrn) Sultriness, closeness.

Mwrndra, s. m. (mwrn) Sultry heat, sultriness.

Mwrnedd, s. m. (mwrn) Sultriness, closeness.

Mwrth, s. m. (mwr) That tends forward.

Mwrthwyl, s. m.—pl. t. ion (morth—wyl) A hammer: the same also in Coromandel.

Gwell un dyraedd a'r oedd no dda a'r mwrthwyl.

Better one stroke with the mallet than two with the hammer. Adage.

Munud, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mun—ud) A gesture, or motion of the body; a nod, or beck; imitation; an antick trick. To i munudiau ar bren, to cut figures upon wood; mae hi yn llawn munudiau, she is full of anticks.

Meinir a wyr y munud.

The fair one knows the trick. D. ab Gwilym.

Munudiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (munud) A making a gesture, a beckoning; a mimicking; a playing antick tricks.

Munudiaw, v. a. (munud) To make a gesture; to beckon; to mimic; to play antick tricks.

Munudiwr, s. m.—pl. munudwyr (munud—gwr) One who makes gestures; a beconer.

Munodyn, s. m. dim. (munud) A gesture; a beck
Mur, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mu—ur) That is firm, fixed, or established; a wall, a rampart.

*Madawg mur menwyd;
Madawg, cyn bu bedd,
Bu ddinwa edrydd,
O gap, a chymwedd.*

Madog the bulwark of happiness, Madog, before he was in the grave, was the tower of strength of games and of courtesy.

Taliesin.

*Mor tawch a dyr muriau'r tir,
A'r wellt a lyg yr eiliydd.*

The spreading sea will break the fences of the land, and the lightnings will burn up the towering cliffs.

Dr. S. Cent.

Mur, a. (mu—ur) Firm, fixed, or established.

Murdd, s. m. (mur) A foundation, or base.

Murddyn, s. m.—pl. t. od (murdd) The ruins of a building; a toft.

Murddynaid, a. (murddyn) Like a toft; ruinous

Murddynau, v. a. (murddyn) To make a toft; to reduce to a ruin.

Murganllaw, s. f.—pl. t. iau (mur—canllaw) The battlement of a wall.

Murgald, s. m. (mur—craid) A powerful and ardent principle; a firm violence, or ardency.

*Seinleisid ei gieddyf yn mhen manau;
Murgald oedd; moleis ef mab Gwyddnes.*

His sword sounded on the tongue of mothers; he was mighty violence; let the son of Gwyddnes extol him.

Aneurin.

*Trindawd trazywydd
A oreu eilydd,
A gweil eilydd
Addaf yn gelfydd;
A gweil Adia,
Y goreu Efa;
Yr llaeth bendiguld
A oreu marguld.*

The eternal Trinity made the element; and after the element, Adam wonderfully; and after the goodly Adam, he made Eve; the blessed Israel the mighty spirit made.

Taliesin.

Muriad, s. m. (mur) A fixing, establishing, or determining; a walling, a building a wall.

Muriaw, v. a. (mur) To fix, to establish, to determine; to wall, to build a wall.

Muriawg, a. (mur) Having a limit, or fence; walled, having a wall.

Muriawl, a. (mur) Tending to establish, or to determine; belonging to a wall, mural.

Muriedig, a. (muriad) Fixed, determined; having a wall, or rampart; walled.

Muriwr, s. m.—pl. murwyr (mur—gwr) One who fixes, or establishes; one who builds a wall.

Muriysian, s. pl. aggr. (mur—llysian) Pellitory of the wall; also called muriwyn, and muriys.

Murn, s. m.—pl. t. au (mur) A stoppage, obstruction; a foul deed; murder.

Murniad, s. m.—pl. t. an (murn) A stopping, or obstructing; a harming; a murdering.

Gwyn ei fyd i gyd yn gall a farao Furniad truan anghall.

All blessed is he who shall discreetly judge the oppression of the simple wretch.

W. Middleton.

Murniaw, v. a. (murn) To stop, to obstruct; to harm; to murder.

Y faren—

Murniaw h, mae arnaf ol.

The bramble, it did harm to me, I bear the smart.

D. ab Gwilym.

Murniaw pen ffydd fal lladron.

Stepping on the high ways like thieves.

I. D. Eyr.

Murniawl, a. (murn) Tending to obstruct; tending to harm; murdering.

Murniedig, a. (murniad) Being waylaid.

Murniwr, s. m.—pl. murnwyr (murn—gwr) One who stops, or obstructs; an assassin.

Ni ellir fy ngalw yn dad i'ch, namyn y farnwr crwm.

I can not be called a father to you, but a cruel oppressor.

Cyd. Enllyd o Lan.

Murs, s. m. (mur) That is stiff, nice, or prim.

Mursawg, a. (murs) Being trimmed up.

Mursen, s. f.—pl. t. od (murs) A coquette.

Mursen fydd o wr fal o wrag.

There may be a coquette of a man as well as of a woman.

Idg.

*Telgrwath y dywed mursen, benthith
Dduw yn y ty.*

Three times will a coquette say, be God's blessing to the house.

Idg.

*Pan fydd gwian grau furen,
Y bydd gwian i bob cawnen.*

When the coquette is possessed of wool, there will be a pen for every stalk.

Idg.

Mursenaidd, a. (mursen) Somewhat affected, a over-nice; coquettish, effeminate.

Mursendawd, s. m. (mursen) Affectation, coyness, quaintness; coquetry.

Murseneidd-dra, s. m. (mursenaidd) Coquetry.

Murseneiddiad, s. m. (mursenaidd) A rendering, or becoming coquettish; effemination.

Murseneiddiaw, v. n. (mursenaidd) To become affected, coy, or coquettish.

Murseneiddrwydd, s. m. (mursenaidd) Coquetry.

Murseniad, s. m. (mursen) A becoming coquettish

Mursennu, v. (mursen) To behave affectedly, coyly, or coquettishly; to be coy, or coquettish

Mursogen, s. f. dim. (mursawg) One that is trimmed up; one who is coquettish.

Tywyll ben murosogen Mai, Tew o'r nen, rhad Daw arad;

The darkly covered doll of May, thick from the top, hewn blessing be upon it.

D. ab Gwilym, i Idg.

Mursyn, s. m. dim. (murs) A slighty one; a tof.

Murwyll, s. m. (mur—gwyll) Wild wall-flower.

Mus, s. m. (my—us) Constrained motion, or jerk

Musg, s. m. (mus) A difficulty of motion.

Musgr, s. m. (musg) That is sluggish, or slow.

Musgrell, s. m. (musgr) That moves with labour, that is helpless. a. Having a difficulty of action; slow, sluggish, drawing, hobbling.

Daw a, byrth i fangrell.

God will provide for the helpless one.

Idg.

Mal cogel gwrwg fangrell.

Like the distaff of a hobbling woman.

Idg.

Musgrellledd, s. m. (musgrell) Laborious motion, sluggishness; helplessness.

Musgrelli, s. m. (musgrell) Laborious motion, sluggishness, helplessness.

Nid methiant ond musgrelli.

It is not a defect short of helplessness.

Idg.

Musgrelliad, s. m. (musgrell) A rendering slow, sluggish, or helpless; a becoming helpless.

Musgrellni, s. m. (musgrell) A laborious motion, a halting, or hobbling; helplessness.

[illegible][illegible]

Adaptation

Mwndling, n. m.—pl. *mw*ndlings neck ornament; a necklace.
Mwndurh, n. f.—pl. *mw*ndurhs collar, a wreath for the neck.
Mwngclawd, n. m.—pl. *mw*ngclawds
(clawd) A mine pit or shaft.
Mwngloddi, n. f.—pl. *mw*ngloddis mine pit, a mine shaft.
Mwnglodliad, n. m.—pl. *mw*nglodliads mine shaft.
Mwnglodliaw, n. m.—pl. *mw*nglodliaws mine pit or shaft; to mine.
Mwngloddiw, n. m.—pl. *mw*ngloddiws glawd—(gw) A mine.
Mwnt, n. m.—pl. *mw*nts
a heap, or mound; a mass.
hundred thousand. Ar y *mw*nt mwnt.

Drug interdiction is a

Yes, my friend is also a doctor.

Mwnwg, s. m. (mwu) That does a neck. P'en-dru-mwng, head Mwng, s. m.—pl. myngan neck. Mwngl y trwl, the Side

Cid of Muang
As read

Arwydd drwg mwg yn sillath.

Smack is a wilderness in a state of mind.

Mwaw, refuse.
Mwng, a.
Mwngial, to matter
Mwngial, throat;
s. pl. dim. (mwng) Small pearls dust, peif, riches.
m.—pl. myngoid (mwng) all
s. a. (mwng) To speak from to, to speak indistinctly.
s. m. (mwng) A speaker
a matter.

Model a dialog y mwyd.

Meat will pull off the meat.

Mwr, s. m. (mwr—wr) That tends to fall.
 Mwri, s. m. (mwr) A crumbling fragment.
 Mwri, s. m. (mwr) Crumbling, friable. Fr a loose crumbling soil.
 Mwriwch, s. m. (mwr—wch) A thick w
 Dwyrd
 A

Cada ya y mawlung.

Work in the sweeping.

Mwru, s. m. (mwrt) Salty or close weather.
Mwru, s. m. (mwrt) Salty, close, or warm.
Mwruw, s. m. (mwru) To become salty.
Mwruwa, s. m. (mwru) Saltyness, closeness.
Mwruwa, s. m. (mwru) Salty heat, saltness.
Mwruwa, s. m. (mwru) Saltness, closeness.
Mwruwa, s. m. (mwrt) That trends forward.
Mwruwa, s. m. — pl. t. low (mwru-wu) & low-mer: the m (time also in Commaled).

Grave sidewalk at foot, a chair stood o' wood ye riding o'r was hid y' thur.

A spear of hawthorn stem, and show stream of blood running from the neck to the ground.

M. Fowler—L. Robinson.

Cont. on (reverse) side

Super one on

Mwrthwyliad, a. m.—pl. t. an (mwrthwyl) A hammering; using a hammer.

Mwrthwylaw, v. a. (mwrthwyl) To hammer.

Mwrthwylledig, a. (mwrthwyl) Being hammered

Mwrthwylwr, a. m.—pl. mwrthwylwyr (mwrthwyl—gwr) A hammerer; a hammer-man.

Mws, s. m. (mw—ws) That shoots out: an effluvia

Mws, a. (mw—ws) Of a strong scent, rank.

*Chlals ya gwrth i'm gwrthol,
I'r drws, a'r ci mws i'm ol.*

I suddenly retreated back out of door, and the stinking dog after me, D. ab Owlgm.

Mws, s. m. (mws) The muscus, or musk.

Mwstardd, s. m. (mws—tardd) The mustard.

Mwsag, s. m. (mws) Moss. Mwsag gwyn, white moss; also called migwyn.

Mwsagl, s. m. (mwsag) Moss, under all its varieties, except the lichen and the sorts growing upon stones which are called cên.

Mwswn, s. m. (mws) Moss; same as mwsag.

Mwth, s. m. (mw—wth) That has velocity.

Mwth, a. (mw—wth) Rapid, fleet, quick, nimble.

Nant myth, a. rapid brook; meirch mythion, fleet horses.

*Gochawn marchawg mwth, molod Gwrion,
O ddraig ddylaw addaw, doethaw Don.*

We shall have a mwsol horseman, of Gwrion's fame, a leader of fair promise, wise as Don. Taliesin.

Mwy, s. m.—pl. s. on (mw) That is vast or large; that is dark or black.

Mwy, a. (mw) Additional; also used for the comparative mwyach, more, greater, larger. adu. More; again; henceforward. Mwy dymunaw! neg awr, more desirable than gold.

Guan y goruan mwyaf gerbron y glewder lleif.

Feeble is the greatest tyranny in the presence of the smallest courage. Adage.

*Dy far, iolnwar Fydwyr,
Ar a'rh gar; ni fu far fwy.*

Thy ire, Myranwy delicate and slender, is on him who loves thee; there never was greater ire. H. ab Einion Llygion.

*Cyd ddol cariad celadwy,
Cywir, nis mynegir mwy.*

Utterly obtruding a concealed love, sincere, more, shall not be told. H. ab Owlgm.

Mwyad, a. m. (mwyau) An augmenting.

Mwyawl, a. (mwyau) Augmenting, increasing.

Mwyach, a. (mwy) More, greater, bigger. adu.

More, again, henceforward.

Mwyach ni elwir dy enw di Jacob.

More thy name shall not be called Jacob. Genesis 22. 29.

Mwyad, s. m.—pl. t. an (mwy) An increasing.

Mwyadawl, a. (mwyad) Tending to increase.

Mwyadu, v. a. (mwyad) To augment, to increase.

Mwyaf, a. (mwy) Greatest, biggest, largest; most. Yn fwyaf, gan mwyaf, mostly, in the greatest degree.

Tri lle y bydd y mwyaf o Ddew: lle mwyaf bo a'i cais; y mwyaf a'i car; a lleif o'r huan.

The three instances where there will be the most of God: where he is the most sought; where he is most loved; and where there is the least of self. Boddas.

Mwyald, s. pl. (mwyad) Consecrated wafers.

Ni cheuir mwyald ar fo.

The mass will not be sung on a retreat. Eileford.

Pader a mwyald bendigald.

The paternoster and blessed wafers. Ymdd. Arthur a Llewel.

Mwyalch, s. f.—pl. t. od (mwy—alch) An onsel. It is called gwyalch, and aderyn du.

Genos mwylich ac arch bladd.

The mouth of a blackbird with the request of a wolf. Adage.

Mwyalchen, s. f. dim. (mwyaleh) The onsel. Mwyalchen y dwfr, y frowes, broncs y dwfr, the water onsel; mwyalchen y graig, the rock onsel.

Mwyar, s. pl. aggr. (mwy) The class of berries, growing in clusters, called acini; so called from their dark hue. Mwyar y peribi, or mwyar duon, blackberries; mwyar berrya, mwyar durywon, mwyar gwenik, mwyar y ddair, cloud-berries; mwyar freinig, mwyar Mair, mulberries; mwyar y brain, bilberries.

Mwyara, v. a. (mwyar) To gather berries.

Mwyarawl, a. (mwyar) Of the nature of berries.

Y fan fwyarawl olwg, Fawaldid lawn o fwyaldid wg.

*The mold of berry hue, very delicate, and of tender look.
Gwyn Owen.*

Mwyaren, s. f. (mwyar) A single berry.

Mwyariad, s. m.—pl. mwyariad (mwyar) A negro; a moor.

Mwyau, v. a. (mwy) To augment, to enhance, to increase; to be increased, to grow bigger.

Hynaf mab wyt ti, ehai Gwrtheyrn, o blant Cawen: v r ellir frenis o yr an o'rh froyr, mor yst i'wseu; a ni d'n val di yn frenis; a mwyba dithan fuesse.

The eldest son art thou, said Gwrtheyrn, of the children of Cawenyn; and not one of thy brothers can be king, for they are so young; so I will make thee king; then do thou shall so be wise. Gr. ab Einion.

Mwyawr, s. m. (mwyau—gwr) An augurer.

Mwyd, s. m. (mwy) That is swelled or puffed up; that is moistened, soaked, or steeped.

Mwydaidd, a. (mwyd) Somewhat moistened.

Mwydaw, v. a. (mwyd) To moisten, to soak, or to steep; to become moist, or damp.

Mwydawl, a. (mwyd) Tending to moisten.

Mwydedig, a. (mwyd) Macerated, imbued.

Mwydedd, s. m. (mwyd) A moist state, humidity.

Mwydiad, s. m. (mwyd) A moistening, a soaking.

Mwydion, s. pl. aggr. (mwyd) The soft part, crumbs, or pith, of any thing. Mwydion hwn, the crumb of bread; mwydion y ddair, pith of Mwydionaid, a. (mwydion) Like soft pith, pithy

Mwydionawg, a. (mwydion) Abounding with pith

Mwydionl, a. a. (mwydion) To become pithy.

Mwydionllyd, a. (mwydion) Full of pith.

Mwydionyn, s. m. dim. (mwydion) The pith.

Mwydle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mwyd—lle) A fetlock.

Mwydwr, s. m. (mwyd—gwr) A soaker.

Mwydydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mwyd) A soaker.

Mwydyn, s. m. dim. (mwyd) A pith, a crumb.

Mwyedig, a. (mwyad) Augmented, enhanced.

Mwyedigath, s. m. (mwyedig) Augmentation.

Mwyedigaw, v. a. (mwyedig) To augment.

Mwyeri, s. pl. aggr. (mwyar) Briers, brambles.

Mwyfwy, a. (mwy repeated) More and more.

Mwyg, s. m. (mwy) That is soft or puffed.

Mwygl, a. (mwyg) Tepid, sultry, warm; the same as mwell, gwygl.

*Meigen Rye—
'Mogel di, mwygl yw dy feet.*

*Rhys of Meigen, take thee care, thy feet is warm.
D. ab Einion.*

Mwyglad, s. m. (mwygl) A growing sultry.

Mwyglaw, v. a. (mwygl) To make warm, or mild.

to become warm, or sultry; to grow lukewarm.

Mwygledd, s. m. (mwygl) Tepidity; salubrity.

Mwyglen, s. f. dim. (mwygl) A wanton wench.

Mwygliad, s. m. (mwygl) A growing sultry.

Mwyll, a. (mwy) Soft; tender, emollient.

lwyn, s. m. (mwy) Enjoyment, fruition, use, or benefit; profit, advantage.

Nid mwyn ond mwyn arian.

There is no mine except mine that is gold.

Adage.

Ni bydd i faddug mwyn or a wariant.

The doctor shall have no advantage from what they do.

Taliesin.

lwyn, a. (mwy) Tender, kind, mild, gentle, courteous, affable. Dynion mwynia, fairies.

Oeir mwyn a wna y ddadl yn gadarn.

A mild word will make the argument strong.

Adage.

Chut mwyn mab y ty.

A hundred times kind the son of the house.

Adage.

Mla frain rhin, gair Gymraeg;

Mwyn forwys hun-dwyn, hoes ddysg gysteg!

A slender elegant lady, whose Welsh is polished; a kind mild smiling deep way; the severe torment of health! Casnodyn.

lwyniad, s. m. (mwyn) An enjoying; fruition.

lwyniad, a. (mwyniad) Tending to enjoyment.

lwynidd, a. (mwyn) Of a tender or kind nature lwynair, a. (mwyn—gair) A kind word.

lwynas, s. f.—pl. t. au (mwyn) Kindness.

lwyniad, s. m. (mwynas) A doing a kindness.

lwynas, v. a. (mwynas) To do kindness.

lwynia, v. a. (mwyn) To enjoy, to make use of; to take the benefit of.

Yn ffeuch a ddaidd,

Daw, Fw fwyddu dafon hadd!

(Instead of anxiety and vengeance, God, send peace to be enjoyed.) H. D. ab Iwan.

lwynawl, a. (mwyn) Tending to enjoyment.

Mwynaw, gwaroddaw y gwir raddau;

Mwynawl hawl cefaw, caffi mawl mas.

The courteous, the gentle one of the exalted ranks; the twinkling heavenly title, my promise shall be obtained. H. D. ab Iwan.

lwynawr, s. m.—pl. mwynawyr (mwynau—gwr)

One who enjoys, a n enjoyer.

lwynbell, a. (mwyn—pell) Extendedly enjoyed

Cyran, darogan derwyddon dy ddaw;

Ed dyddw o Frytho.

Anaw gwynaw cerddorion,

Ua oeddi well, add mwynbell Mont!

Cyran, the druidic foretell he shall be coding; there has come of the bitches the complaining lay of minstrels for one more excellent, the far-enjoyed chief of Moun! L. P. Moch.

lwynder, s. m.—pl. t. au (mwyn) Tenderness, kindness; gentleness; affability; enjoyment.

Nid lwynder ond merch.

There is no tenderness but in a woman.

Adage.

Cymer trwy lwynder, tra fych;

Dod ran o'r da a dringych.

Accept, through enjoyment, whilst thou art; give a part of the remainder that thou dost manage. S. Tudur.

lwyndra, s. m. (mwyn) Tenderness, kindness; gentleness; affability, enjoyment.

lwyndys, a. c.—pl. t. ion (mwyn—dyn) A tender, kind, or courteous person.

lwynded, a. (mwyn) Being enjoyed, or used.

lwynded, s. m. (mwyn) Kindness, courtesy.

lwyndedd, a. (mwynedd) Full of tenderness.

lwyndidd-dra, s. m. (mwynidd) Tenderness.

lwyndiddiad, s. m. (mwynidd) A becoming of a kind or tender nature.

lwyndidlaw, v. a. (mwynidd) To become pleasing, kind, tender, or affable.

lwynen, s. f. dim. (mwyn) A pleasing one.

lwynfawr, a. (mwyn—mawr) Greatly kind.

Mwynfawr garcharawr a gychasant,

Mwynfawr llyu fudd, grym ddarogant.

A greatly courteous prisoner they brought away, Mwynfawr the son of Gwedd, the object of prediction. U. C. Cefnllwng.

Mwyniannawl, a. (mwyniant) Tending to enjoyment, or fruition.

Mwyniannu, v. a. (mwyniant) To render an enjoyment; to enjoy.

Y rhai nad yst y cyffwrdd y bywyd yma—ond tal alludneth, ac yn wyllygar i ymado ag of i fudd i lys y bruntia sefaw, y gadant mwyniannu cydwader o lawenydd.

Those who do not count this life more than like a state of exile and willing to come out of it to go into the court of the heavenly king, shall get to enjoy fulness of pleasure. Merchedwg Cynyddw.

Mwyniannus, a. (mwyniant) Tending to enjoyment; tending to please.

Mwyniannusaw, v. a. (mwyniannu) To render of a tendency to enjoyment.

Mwyniant, s. m.—pl. mwyniannau (mwyn) Benefit, use, or profit derived; enjoyment.

Cymer lwyntant y peth sy gysst, tra be y cybyddi yn bânaw y diawl am lai o chroen chweidn.

Take the enjoyment of what thou hast, whilst the miser is flying the devil for less than the skin of a hen. Adage.

Mwynlan, a. (mwyn—glan) Courteously fair.

Mwynwr, s. m.—pl. mwynwyr (mwyn—gwr) A kind or affable man.

Mwynyn, s. m. dim. (mwyn) A kind one.

Mwys, s. f.—pl. t. au (mwy) That has capacity, or that comprehends; that has latitude of import, a pun; also a kind of covered basket, pannier or hamper; also the quantity contained in such vessel. Mwys o ygadain, a mease, or five-score of herrings.

Un o'r tri thwa ar ddeg—Mwys Gwyddo Gwan Hir; bydd i ungrwr a roid yddi, a bydd i gwanwr a gaid yddi pan agorid.

One of the thirteen rarities: the basket of Gwyddo Longhank; the victuals for one man being put in it, victuals for a hundred men would be found in it when opened. Chwedlirion.

Mwys, a. (mwy) Comprehensive; enveloped; mysterious; ambiguous; ingenious, witty; elegant; also, of the nature of a pun, or of a double meaning. But the last sense arose from mistaking false for true wit; and hence gair mwys, in popular language, is a pun; of which the following part of an englyn, where An, a woman's name, and a negative particle, is the gair mwys, may serve as an example.—

An-fwyn, an-dwyn, an-nych, an-luwidd,

An-lana' lle delych.

Mwysai, s. c.—pl. mwysion (mwys) A punster.

Mwysaid, a. (mwys) Of a latitude of import; of the nature of a pun; ambiguous, oracular.

Mwysair, s. m.—pl. mwysairiau (mwys—gair) A word of double meaning; a pun.

Mwysaw, v. n. (mwys) To be of capacity; to have latitude of import, to pun.

Mwysawg, a. (mwys) Having capacity; having latitude of import; of a double meaning.

Mwysder, s. m.—pl. t. au (mwys) That is comprehensive; an ambiguity, a mystery.

Mwysdro, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mwys—tro) A quibble

Mwysdroad, s. m. (mwysdro) A punning.

Mwysdrol, v. a. (mwysdro) To quibble, to pun.

Mwysairlawg, a. (mwysair) Full of punning.

Mwyth, s. m.—pl. t. au (mwy) That is smooth, soft and puffed up; a fulness of humours; a fever. Y cryd a mwyth, the ague and fever, or intermitting fever: y mwyth brith, brith y gwanwyn, the military fever.

Cadw a—

Rhag poenau ciwysau, rhag clefyd a mwyth,

Rhag methiant ac adfyd!

Keep me from the pains of wounds, from disease and fever, from debility, and from adversity! H. D. ab Iwan.

Mwyth, a. (mwy) Puffed up, soft, sleek; tender.

Castell Mathrafal, mwyth werin wythawg,
Du prithlawg poeth eithra
O'rh gynnydd, gynwera byddin:
Nid uch wyneb heb no'i lin.

The castle of Mathrafal, of a pampered furious multitude, is black and cleanly burnt from thy attack; thou dependance of a host: no one's face is higher than his knee.

Ll. P. Moeh, i G. ab H. ab Owain.

Mwythach, s. m. (mwyth) The state of being puffed up, or pampered.

Mwythan, s. c. dim. (mwyth) Any soft tender substance, a tender shoot, a cartilage, a gristle.

Mwythaw, v. a. (mwyth) To puff up, to make smooth; to mollify, to soften; to become puffed up; to grow soft; to have a fever.

Mwythawg, a. (mwyth) Puffed up, pampered.

Mwythawl, a. (mwyth) Emollient, softening.

Mwythedig, a. (mwyth) Being mollified.

Mwythedd, s. m. (mwyth) Emolliency, softness.

Mwythiad, s. m. (mwyth) A mollifying.

Mwythiant, s. m. (mwyth) Softness, blandishment.

Mwythig, a. (mwyth) Puffed up, bloated.

Mwythigaw, v. a. (mwythig) To become puffed up or bloated; to swell with humours.

Mwythl, s. m. (mwyth) That has a tendency to puff up or to make sleek.

Mwythlan, s. c. dim. (mwythl) One that is puffed up, or pampered.

Mwythlawr, a. (mwyth) Puffed up, pampered.

Mwythlen, s. f. dim. (mwythl) A soft pampered female, one that is plump.

Mwythus, a. (mwyth) Puffed up, sleek, pampered, delicate, nice.

Nid mwythus ond hela.

None delicate but the marrow.

Adage.

Mwythusaw, v. a. (mwythus) To become delicate, or nice, to pamper.

Mwythusder, s. m. (mwythus) Delicateness.

Mwythusdra, s. m. (mwythus) Delicateness, softness, effeminacy, a pampered state.

Mwythusiad, s. m. (mwythus) A rendering puffed up, sleek, or soft, a pampering.

Mwythusrwydd, s. m. (mwythus) Pamperedness.

MY, s. m. r. That is, that is present; that is in agency. It is a prefix in composition.

My, pron. (my, s.) It is mutable into fy, in which form it most frequently occurs. My hun, my hunan, myself; mi fy hun, I myself.

Pan gefais fy maddu gan adfyd, mi wybom fod, fy seall yn gol-lannu ychydig.

When I got buffeted by adversity, I knew that my understanding was becoming a little enlightened.

Morchang Crwydrad.

Myanafu, v. a. (anafu) To maim, or to hurt.

Mychawl, a. (mwch) Of a rapid or quick motion.

Mychedyn, s. m. dim. (mwch) A sun beam.

Mychlad, s. m.—pl. mychiald (moch) Swineherd.

Ewawg mychlad o'i forh.

A swineherd is proud of his swine.

Adage.

Llawn mychlad pan fo gwynt.

Glad the swineherd when there is wind.

Adage.

Mychw, s. m. (mwch) Motion stopped or reflected.

Mychweg, a. (chweg) Luscious, very sweet.

Mychwegrwydd, s. m. (mychweg) Lusciousness.

Mychwin, a. (mychw) Reflected as to motion.

Myd, s. m. (my—yd) A circular enclosure.

Hael Arthwr, myd anghudd am redd;
Hael Rhydderch am aur fodd;
Hael Merdaf; hael mawriwg Nodd;
Haeluch, gredfolaich Gwafodd.

Generous was Arthur, of unperceivable readiness in giving; generous was Rhydderch as in the gold treasure; generous was Merdaf; generous the magnificent Nodd; more generous, more good-natured is Gwafodd.

Ll. P. Moeh.

Mydadwy, a. (mwd) That may be arched.

Mydaidd, a. (mwd) Like an arch, archwise.

Mydawl, a. (mwd) Belonging to an arch.

Mydedig, a. (mwd) Camerated, arched over.

Mydedd, s. m. (mwd) The state of being arched.

Mydeddawg, a. (mydedd) Having curvatures.

Mydeyrn, s. m.—pl. t. on (teyrn) A sovereign.

Mydiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (mwd) Cameration.

Mydiant, s. m. (mwd) Cameration, an arch.

Mydr, s. m.—pl. t. an (myd) A metre. Mydr ag-lyfawd, blank verse.

Mydraeth, s. m. (mydr) Versification.

Mydraethawl, a. (mydraeth) Versifying.

Mydraethiad, s. m. (mydraeth) Versification.

Mydraethu, v. a. (mydraeth) To compose verse.

Dedth y cyfryw drywyll ac offerydd mydraethu, a dall byddin.

There be come in one such perfectly wild and nonsensical versifying, and such blind poetizing.

Ed. Dafydd.

Mydraethydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mydraeth) A versifier, a maker of metres.

Mydrawl, a. (mydr) Metrical; rhythmical.

Mydriad, s. m.—pl. t. an (mydr) A versifying.

Mydrin, a. (mydr) Composed in metre.

Mydrwr, s. m.—pl. mydrwyr (mydr—gwr) A versifier, a maker of verses.

Mydrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mydr) A versifier.

Mydryddiad, s. m. (mydrydd) A versifying.

Mydryddiaeth, s. m. (mydrydd) Versification.

Tri anhegwr mydryddiaeth: colofn, cyngwedd, ac eidd.

The three indispensable of versification: feet, consonants, and rhymes.

Bedd.

Mydryddu, v. a. (mydrydd) To versify.

Wrth fydryddu cerdd—edrych y bardd na roddu yn gwisg y cyfryw fawr, a fawr ry anhegwr ac anghwedd, ac anghwedd berwydd cybudd.

In versifying a piece, let the poet see that he do not come together such verses as shall be too dissimilar, and unpoetical, and competent, with respect to length.

Bedd.

Mydu, v. a. (mwd) To arch, to vault, to make an arched roof, or ceiling.

Mydum, s. m.—pl. t. ian (tum) A gesture; mimicry. Gwneud mydumau, to make wry faces.

Mydw, s. m. (myd) Aptitude; fluency.

Gwyf seol gwr gorffod gwyf, Gwddi mydw a modd gwyf.

He knows the attack of the overbearing malicious man, after a fluency of discourse, and the his his-flaming sword.

Cynwedd, Cywyl, Dm.

Mydwal, a. (mydw) Of aptitude to proceed.

Mydwaledd, s. m. (mydwal) Flow of expression.

Mydr fydwaledd hawddgar.

Flair is the amiable speech.

App. Cyfrinach.

Dewredd mydwaledd a daua,

Ed rwy fo eidd rhod ei ffordd.

A chwa, gwaia, ac eiddoch.

The spirit of eloquence and talent, his nature was to give us his steeds and dogs, as we perceive, and his swans.

B. Drwydd.

Mydwr, s. m.—pl. mydwyr (mwd—gwr) One who forms an arch, or ceiling.

Mydwrdd, s. m. (my—dwrdd) A tumult.

Mydylan, s. c. dim. (mwdwl) A small stack.

Mydylawg, a. (mwdwl) In the stack, cocked.

Mydylad, s. m. (mwdwl) A making stacks.

Mydyla, v. a. (mwdwl) To make stacks, to rack.

Mydylwr, s. m.—pl. mydylwyr (mwdwl—gwr) One who makes stacks, or mows.

Mydylun, s. m. dim. (mwdwl) A small stack.

Myddl, s. f.—pl. t. an (mwdl) A hoghead.

Myfi, pron. (my—mi) I, me, myself.

Myfiath, s. m. (myfi) Egotism, a talking of self.

Myfiaw, r. a. (myfi) To egotize, to talk of self.

Myfinnan, pron. (minnac) I also, I likewise.

fyfyr, s. m.—pl. myfyr (mysaw—gwr) An egotist, or one who talks of himself.
fyfydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (myf) An egotist.
fyfyr, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (myr) The action of the mind; muse, study. Myfyr Eilian, the study of Eilian, in Mona; Glyn y Myfyr, a vale in Denbighshire.
lyfyr, a. (myr) Contemplative, thoughtful.
lyfyrw, s. m. (myfyr) Contemplation.
lyfyrwyll, s. m. (myfyr—pwyl) A contemplative mind. a. Of a thoughtful turn of mind.

Cyddyllus fyfyrwyll o fot Cedwynawg, cyddyllus lly.

Cyddyllus with a mind reverential of honour, the one of chains, the lowest one of war. Llywarch Hen.

lyfyrw, s. m.—pl. myfyrddau (myfyr) Meditation, or contemplation.

Tur cynddell cydawn lyfyrw: a ddechon fod, a ddynt fod, a ydai hardd o fod. Barddas.

The three foundations of just thinking: that is possible to be, that ought to be, and that is beautiful it should be.

lyfyrddawl, a. (myfyrddawd) Contemplative.

lyfyrar, a. (myfyr) Contemplative, cogitative.

lyfyrarwch, s. m. (myfyrar) Studiousness.

lyfriad, s. m.—pl. t. an (myfyr) Cogitation, contemplation; a cogitating.

lyfriadawl, a. (myfriad) Contemplative.

lyfriaeth, s. m. (myfyr) Cogitation.

Nid myfriaeth ond ydriaeth.

There is no contemplation without consideration. Adage.

lyfrianawl, a. (myfrian) Cogitative.

lyfrianu, v. a. (myfrian) To cogitate.

lyfrianus, a. (myfrian) Cogitative.

lyfrianusaw, v. a. (myfrianus) To become contemplative or thoughtful.

lyfrian, s. m. (myfyr) Cogitation.

lyfrian, v. a. (myfyr) To contemplate, to meditate, to cogitate, to muse, to study.

lyfrianawl, a. (myfrian) Contemplative.

lyfriadig, a. (myfriad) Contemplated.

lyfriadigawl, a. (myfriadig) Contemplative.

lyfriadig, s. m. (myfriadig) Studiousness.

lyfyrw, s. m.—pl. myfyrwyr (myfyr—gwr) A contemplator, a speculator.

lyfyrus, a. (myfyr) Apt to contemplate.

yg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (my—ig) That is of great space, or grand; that is solemn or holy.

Bendigam fyg Yw'r modylg.

A blessed solemnity is the nativity. Br. Fardd.

yg, a. (my—yg) Being of great space, or grand; reverential, respectable; honoured; holy; solemn; glorious.

ygargl, s. m.—pl. mygaroglas (myg—argl) Holy incense.

ygaw, v. a. (myg) To perform a solemnity.

*Gorddyllus, mygaw ddynted fawr Cadfor
Gowr y glawfwr a gar glawfwr.*

I have been asceticism, I have honoured the elevation of the robe of Cadfor, on the coast of the blue sea, which the salmon love. Llywelyn Ddu.

ygawd, s. m. (myg) A rising of smoke, steam or vapour; suffocation.

ygawl, a. (myg) Fumous, smoking, smoky.

ygawr, s. m. (myg) That is reverent, or solemn.

ygawr, s. m.—pl. t. an (myg—gawr) Vapour, exhalation, fog; famigation.

ygarthiad, s. m. (mygarth) A throwing out vapour; a famigating; a burning of incense.

ygarth, s. a. (mygarth) To burn incense.

ygad, s. f. (myg) Grandeur; reverence, honour, solemnity; glory.

VOL. II.

*Nodid ethyn!—gwasan-orddwr cyrd tyged:
Gwas a o'i fyned i'n naa gwelid!
Is he not gone! the inspired regulator of the solemnity of songs;
woe is me that he is gone to regions where I may not behold him!
*Ph. Brydydd.

Myged, a. (myg) Grand; respected, honoured, solemn, glorious.

*I ddaw ydd archaf, na, eu noddi,
Nodd-tyged ri!*

I will entrust a refuge for them of God the Father, the Lord of glorious gift.

Mygedawg, a. (myged) Respected, revered.

*Y digones gwyllyr Gwallawg
Elywod Gatruth fawr fygedawg.*

The heroic Gwallawg achieved exploits equal to those of Catruth great and glorious. Melgan.

Mygedawl, a. (myged) Having respect; honorary. Gradd fygedawl, honorary degree.

Mygedig, a. (myged) Respected, revered.

Mygedorth, s. f. (myged—gorth) A funeral pile.

*Yn Llongborth guchis i fygedorth, geryr yn goddef amorth,
A gorod gwadi gororth.*

In Llongborth I beheld a solemn pile, and men suffering privation, and in a state of subjection other excess of litigation. Llywarch Hen.

Cormac, mawr weithlos Eilw Gogorthfawr, a ddyr arnaw Gwyl, Feredur, Danawd Fyr, a Chynedys Wrogt, i edrych ar fygedorth Gwendolau yn Arderydd.

Cormac, the horse of the sons of Eilw with the great retinue, covered Gwyl, Feredur, Danawd Fyr, and Chynedys the stammerer, to see the funeral pile of Gwendolau in Arderydd. Trissedd.

Mygfa, s. f.—pl. mygfeydd (mwg) That suffocates; a suffocation.

Mygfaen, s. m.—pl. mygfain (mwg—maen) Brimstone; also called llwgfaen.

Mygiad, s. m. (mwg) A smoking; a suffocation.

Mygiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mygiad) A smoker.

Mygliad, a. (mwg) Apt to smoke, or smoky.

Mygliadrydd, s. m. (mygliad) Smokiness.

Mygliu, s. m. (mwg—llyd) Tobacco.

Mygod-darth, s. m. (mygawd—arth) Vapour, or exhalation.

Mygod-darth cylich Nal goedydd.

Vapour surrounding the woods of Nal. Br. ab Gathyr, i'r nin.

*Mygod-darth ari ei godod
Y gwelidion ari fych a'r nua.*

Vapour round his shaggy coat, the sparks flew up as high as heaven. R. Iorwerth.

Mygodfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mygawd) An asthma.

Mygodorth, s. f. (mygawd—gorth) An oppressor of wind; flatulency.

Cwmle, Nod mygodorth, a gwawd-darth, a llongfawr cwm a wawt.

The cwmle will break the flatulency, and relieve pain and heat in the womb. Nod. Myddyl.

Mygr, a. (myg) Majestic, grand, glorious.

*Glyw a'm rhydd—
Mawr ar gwrch yn gwrchodion;
Mawr gerddod, mygr gwddod-mawrion.*

A chief will present me with steeds upon oats kept prisoners, of extensive career, splendid, of equal pace and powerful. Cynddelu.

*Caraf gwaith fal forebau ludd,
A golygon hwyf hwyf ei grudd;
Caraf elion mygr—*

I love the nightingale of May, obstructing the morning sleep, with languid eyes and aspect long and pale. Gwackmas.

Mygradd, a. (mygr) Of a majestic, grand, or splendid aspect.

Mygrawl, a. (mygr) Tending to make majestic, grand, or splendid; beauteous; glorious.

Mygredd, s. m. (mygr) Majesty, grandeur; glory.

Mygrfalch, a. (mygr—balch) Majestically proud.

Mygrlad, s. m. (mygr) A rendering majestic, grand, or splendid; a rendering glorious.

Mygru, v. a. (mygr) To render majestic, grand, or splendid; to make of glorious appearance.

Mygrawr, s. f. (mygr—gwawr) A splendid ray.
Mygrwedd, s. f. (mygr—gwedd) A majestic, or splendid aspect.

Mygu, v. a. (mwg) To make smoke, to smoke; to smother, to stifle, to stop the breath; to smoke, or to rise in smoke.

Mygwr, s. m.—pl. mygwyr (mygu—gwr) A smoker.
Mygydawl, a. (mwgd) Being blindfolded.

Mygydiad, s. m. (mwgd) A blindfolding.

Mygydu, v. a. (mwgd) To blindfold, to blind.

Myhar, s. m. (har) The male of sheep, a ram.

Myharan, s. m.—pl. myheryn (myhar) A male sheep, a ram; also called hwdd. Llygaid myheryn, limpets.

Myharan, hair dafed a dal; un am bob enlli iddo, ac un yn lle ei gorpo ei hun.

A ram is of the value of three ewes; one for each of his teats, and one in lieu of his own body. Welsh Laws.

Myhefin, s. m. (hefin) The month of June.

Myher, s. f.—pl. myhyr (her) An attack.

*Gwirawd a'r gorthfyn gorth cyr a lloned,
Gan rwyf i'w rhed fyhyr.*

With liquor we are pined by the light of stars and moon, by a chief of beauty, of ruddy onset. Cyddfawr, t. O. Gwynedd.

Myhun, pron. (my—hun) Myself. It is mutable into fyhun, in which form it mostly occurs in construction.

*E ddaeth i'm cyrchaw
Gwedi fy nghroaw;
Y' nghrog ya gweled
Myhun i'm gwetod.*

He came to fetch me after I was crucified; being crucified and covered with blood, myself to deliver me. Aras dyddbraud.

Myhunna, pron. (myhun) Myself, me myself.

Myldardd, s. m. (mwl—tardd) That is pervaded with grains, or particles. Maen myldardd, the porphyry.

Myllaidd, a. (mwl) Of a sultry or hot tendency.

Myllad, s. m. (mwl) A growing sultry or hot.

Mylla, v. a. (mwl) To become sultry or warm.

Myllyn, s. pl. aggr. (mwl) The violets.

Myllynen, s. f. dim. (myllyn) A violet.

Mym, s. m. (my—ym) That is incipient.

Mympwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (myn—pw) Opinion, humour, good pleasure.

Mympwyath, s. m. (mympwy) Opinasion:

Mympwyaw, v. a. (mympwy) To exercise an opinion, humour, or pleasure.

Mympwyawl, a. (mympwy) Opinasionative.

Mympwyedd, s. m. (mympwy) Opinability.

Mympwyoldeb, s. m. (mympwyawl) Opinasionativeness, a state of opinion.

Mymryn, s. m.—pl. t. au (mym—rhyn) An atom, a mite; the smallest particle, the least that may be. Ni fyddi fymryn haw, thou wilt not be a bit the nearer.

*Bychannaf, o'r bychennaf,
Yn Hu Gadarn, fe'i barn byd;
A mawr, a mawr i mi,
Da oeddi, a'n Dawr celi;
Ygafn ei dath, ac eidd;
Mymryn tes gionyn ei glod,
A mawr ar dir, a morodd,
A mawr a'w gwlod a'w gwlod;
Mwy no'r bydodd, a'w mawr
A mawr gwlod i'r mawr hael hwn.*

The smallest, should be compared with small, is the Mighty He, the world doth judge; also the greatest, and lord over us, and our God of mystery. Light is his course and swift; a particle of light shining in his ear; And, grant on head and sea; and the greatest whom I shall manifestly find; you greater than the world; let us beware of mean indignity in this greatly boundless one. Rhy Brydydd.

*Ni wna hi erod fust
Y mymryn, gweddyn gwynedd.*

She would not do on my account the least little, the white-teethed fair one.

Myn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (my—yn) Will, desire.

Tri chylid pob gwlth; modd, modd, a myn.

The three necessities towards every work: power, knowledge and will. Adys.

Myn, s. m.—pl. t. od (my) A kid, a young goat.

Myn, adv. (myn, s.) By the will of, by. Myn dyn!

By heavens! Myn fy llaw! By my hand!

Myn fy ffydd! By my faith! Myn diawl! Man diable! Myn y nos! By the night!

*Myn dyn! pan oeddwn i'n ddu
Llwyd i ddyn a'w wyl;
Taro a wnaeth, terwyn oedd,
I'w rwyd taw.*

By heavens! when we two were full of joy: the tyrant with brown eyebrow! the rambler of thunder violently struck a white shock. R. ab Gwyn.

Mynach, s. m.—pl. t. od (mwn) A separate body, or individual; a monk; a pillar, or supporter in a building, as the post of a tent, or bench, and the four corner posts of a mill frame.

Sodn Daw a mynach mawr.

To deceive God with a dead monk. Adys.

Mynachaeth, s. m. (mynach) Monachism.

Mynachawl, a. (mynach) Monachal, monastic.

Mynaches, s. f.—pl. t. au (mynach) A female recluse, a nun.

Mynachlog, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (mynach—log) A monastery, a covenant.

Mynachlogaidd, a. (mynachlog) Monasterial.

Mynad, s. m.—pl. t. an (myn) A willing, a desiring; volition; demand.

Mynadwy, a. (mynad) That may be willed, desired, desirable, demandable.

Mynag, s. f.—pl. t. on (myn) That is uttered, declared, or spoken; a report, or recital.

Arwagaf i leidr ei fynag.

A warrant for a thief in his own declaration. Adys.

Mynai, s. c. (myn) One who wills or desires.

Mynaidd, a. (myn) Like a young goat.

Mynan, s. c. dim. (myn) A young kid.

Mynas, s. f. (myn) A menace, a threat.

Mynaiad, s. m. (mynas) A menacing.

Mynasu, v. a. (myn) To menace, to threaten.

Deaf Corineus, adan dros bwyll drosbwyll yn ei hun, a'r mynas ei gwrth i'r fwyll; ac yna y ddaethid cyfnewid rhyngddydd.

Corineus advanced, brandishing a two-edged hatchet at a deaf hand, and menacing to strike him with the ear; and therefore some friends came between them. Gr. ab Arthur.

Mynaswr, s. m.—pl. mynaswyr (mynas—gwr) A menacer, a threatener.

Mynasydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mynas) A menacer.

Mynaw, v. a. (mwn) To penetrate; to stretch or extend out.

Mynawg, s. m. (myn) One who exercises his will; one who has his own will.

*Rheolwr gorwydd; rhwydd pob gwlth;
Cymys mynawg mawr.*

Fleet is the steed; clear is every strand; the busy of the hy-mind-ed one in chivalry. Llyod.

*Nid wyf fynawg hwn;
Ni chwariad.*

I am no harassing high-minded one; I will not charge. Adys.

Mynawg, a. (myn) Willing, or desirous; ready to do; courteous, civil. Gwr mynawg, a courteous man; mynawg fonedd, courteous nobility; mynawg wrdd, a benign aspect; mynawg fawyd, a benign state of bliss.

Mynawl, a. (myn) Relating to the will.

Mynawyd, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (mynaw) That penetrates; an awl. Mynawyd y bagel, y ddracwdd the crane-bill.

Mynawydaw, v. a. (mynawyd) To pierce with an awl; to make use of an awl.
Mynawg, s. m. (mwn) Heath, or ling; also called grug, and myncock.
Myncl, s. m.—pl. t. m. (mwn) A hame.
Myncln, s. m. dim. (mwn) A hame.
Mynchedd, s. f. (mynach) A monastery.
Myned, v. a. (mwn—ed) To individualize; to depart; to set out, to set off, to go. Myned & r' camp, to bear away the palm.

Wedi myned i'r gyrn a phlân.
After going on horse and piper: or, become the common talk. Adage.

Nid myned a ddol allwath. Adage.

I'n ho no going me to what comes again. Adage.

Myned & r' mawn fr wal. Adage.

To go with the stone to the wall. Adage.

Gwedi myn'ed, or all lading.

Hyd yn dy froon, y doo deg!

After going, for the sake of the one like lading, into thy bosom, thou fair wench! D. ab Gwilym.

Mynedawl, a. (myned) Relating to departure.
Mynedfa, s. f.—pl. t. m. (myned) Departure, a setting off; a procession.

Mynediad, s. m.—pl. t. m. (myned) A going, or proceeding; a setting out, a departing.

Mynediant, s. m. (myned) A going; a departure.

Mynediw, a. (myned) Condescending, willing.

Mynedwy, s. m. (myned—gwy) A running water.

Llwyd cwyw—Ni Ryn mynedwy.
The hue of the foam of the flood of a pool of running water. Refuge.

Mynedgwy, a. (mynag) Expressible, utterable.

Mynedi, s. c. pl. mynedeion (mynag) That informs, tells, or points out: an index.

Mynediwl, a. (mynag) Expressive, indicative.

Mynedig, a. (mynag) Expressed, or declared.

Mynedfa, s. f. (mynag) A catalogue.

Mynedy, s. m.—pl. t. edd (mynag—bys) The pointing finger, the fore-finger.

Mynedi, v. s. (mynag) To express, to tell, to relate, to report, to declare, to inform.

Maddfêd dylun, m'ê hawyllys, nid gwyf newys Daw abun, ac y mab y mawr Daw ei fynedi! Mawr.
The thoughts of men, nor their will, none knows except God himself, and such as God would declare to. Rhacdarus.

Mynediad, s. m.—pl. t. m. (mynag) A telling, expressing, or informing; a declaration, relation, or information.

Mynediadawl, a. (mynediad) Declaratory.

Mynediadu, v. a. (mynediad) To make a declaration or relation.

Mynediath, s. m. (myneg) A recital, a report.

Mae lloegr yn wag, a'm llyfrau a wneith;
Mae'n wagach Cymru o'r mynegiaeth.
England is empty, and I am spoiled; Wales is more empty from the recital. L. G. Cuth, i Edmund i. Richmond.

Mynegiannu, v. a. (mynegiant) To make a declaration or recital.

Mynegiannus, a. (mynegiant) Declaratory.

Mynegiant, s. m. (mynag) A declaration.

Mynegin, a. (mynag) Expressive, declarative.

Mynegiath, s. m. (mynegin) Expression.

Yn mhob pull—
Gwyd mawr mynegiaeth.
In every failure thou hast a way to express. H. D. ab Ifon.

Mynegwr, s. m.—pl. mynegwyr (mynag—gwr) A teller, a declarer, a reporter, a reciter.

Mynedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mynag) A reciter.

Myned, s. f. dim. (myn) A little she kid.

Myniad, s. m. (myn) A willing; a having, or obtaining.

Mynial, s. m. (mwn) A guttural speaking.

Myniant, s. m. (myn) Volition, willing.

Myniar, s. f.—pl. mynieir (mwn—iar) A snipe.

Myniator, ger. (myniad) In willing; in obtaining, or in having.

Myniedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (myniad) One who obtains, or procures; a procurer.

Mynig, a. (myn) Apt to exert the will; willing.

Mynitor, sup. (myn) To be exerting the will.

Myniw, a. (mwn) Tending to project; jutting; peninsulated.

Mynogaeth, s. m. (mynawg) Courtesy, benignity, gentleness; humanity.

Mynogan, s. c. dim. (mynawg) A courteous one.

Mynogawl, a. (mynawg) Of a courteous nature.

Mynogen, s. f. dim. (mynawg) A courteous female.

Mynogi, s. m. (mynawg) Courtesy, benignity, gentleness; humanity; generosity.

Ni ddiant fân-ffridd; ni mawr gwyfdd
Fwy a chulio, o'r de ynydd;
Edwies curus clu cymrydd
Cenwos Mordai mynogi rhydd.

The pure peacemakers know naught; there will be no looking for who shall bear the prize, of the present race; the splendid youth of the region of the mountains has left the whelps of Mordai of untroubled courtesy. Meir.

Yn ôl o' win
O fâch fectin,
A' wngodd curin,
A' llyngi.

I drank of his wine out of the proud begie born, and his golden vats, and his courtesy I enjoyed. Ll. P. Mech, i Llewelyn II.

Gwynedyn Prydain, prawf fy Mordai
A' th sar rhudd, a' th fudd, a' th fynogi.

Splendid prince of Britain, essay to support me with thy ruddy gold, and thy favour, and thy courtesy. Ll. P. Mech, i D. ab Owain.

Mynogiant, s. m. (mynawg) Courtesy, benignity

Mynogrydd, s. m. (mynawg) Courteousness.

Och am naf, am ner diwydrwydd!
Och am ner mawr mynogrwydd!

Woe for the loss of the chief, for the lord of sincerity! Woe for the loss of the lord, the support of humanity! D. Benfras.

Mynor, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mwn) Marble. Mawr

mynor, marble stone.

Mynoradd, a. (mynor) Like marble.

Mynorain, a. (mynor) Marmoreous.

Mynorawg, a. (mynor) Abounding in marble.

Mynorawl, a. (mynor) Of the quality of marble.

Mynoren, s. f. dim. (mynor) A piece of marble.

Mynori, v. a. (mynor) To incrust with marble; to become marble.

Mynoriad, s. m. (mynor) Marmoration.

Mynta, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mwnt) An aggregate;

a million; also called Bwma.

Deu rhallus yn y fyma.

Ten hundred thousand is a million. Adage.

Myntal, s. f.—pl. myntloedd (mwnt) That is aggregated; a multitude, or a host; a troop.

Myntloedd byd, the multitudes of the world.

Myntiad, s. m. (myntal) A congregating.

Myntialw, v. a. (myntal) To congregate.

Myntialwg, a. (myntal) Congregated.

Myntialwl, a. (myntal) Congregating.

Myntiwr, s. m.—pl. myntiwrwr (myntal—gwr)

One who collects together a company.

Myntumlad, s. m. (tumlad) A leading on, or encouraging; a supporting, a maintaining.

Myntumlaw, v. a. (tumlaw) To lead on, to encourage; to support, to maintain.

Myntumlawg, a. (tumlawg) Having encouragement; supported, maintained.

Myntumlawl, a. (tumlawl) Tending to lead on.

Myntumiwr, s. m.—pl. myntumwyr (tumiwr) An encourager; supporter.

2 Z 2

Mynu, s. d. (myn) To exercise the will; to obtain sway; to obtain, to have; to seek, to procure; to insist, to will. A fysi di beth? Wilt thou have some? Mynaf, I will have.

Ni fyn pan gado, ni chaff pan fyno.

He that will not (have) when he may
When he will (have) he shall have nay.

Adage.

Perchaw dir ddiellodd a'i gorf a ddiddawna briodoli ei dir f'r neb y myno.

A proprietor of land without heir of his body can appropriate his land to whomsoever he chooses.

Welsh Laws.

*Y fun a all a fyno,
At byr a wdd, a'i bu be;
Ni ddichon meddygon mai
Yn einioes, ond llyd mynal.*

The fair that can do what she pleases, whether a poor wight is to live, or that he shall not; the physicians of May will not be able to preserve my life, but whilst she chooses.

Beda Brwyallys.

Mynud, s. m.—pl. t. lau (myn) That is courteous, or social.

*Gnawd arth cryr yu mhen dard
Ac ya nghyfyrdy gwyr llachar:
Goiwg fymad ar a gar.*

Common is the eagle's nest in the top of the oak, and in the assembly house violent men: the eye of the fond one is on whom he loves.

Llywarch Hen.

Mynud, a. (myn) Courteous; social; fond.

*Ef yn llafar, ef yn fad, ef yn fynad
Ef yn wrdd, ef yn ddur, pan dremyn dros dded.*

He is eloquent, he is dumb, he is courteous, he is ardent, he is bold when he takes a glance over the land.

Talliesin, f'r gwyt.

*Mynud wrth ffrwd, wrth ffrwd bu gwrdd,
Bu gorddwy ar Allmyr;
Cadyr wryd, bryd Bran fab Llyr,
Cedaw, arwynawl cryr.*

Attentive to praise, to warriors he was violent, he was a ruler on the foreign seas; mighty of body, with the mind of Bran son of Llyr, a boundless and fierce eagle.

D. Lloegwrn Mro.

Mynudaw, v. a. (mynud) To act kindly, or civilly; to become kind or civil.

Mynudawl, a. (mynud) Of courteous disposition.

Mynudedd, s. m. (mynud) Courteousness.

Mynudrwydd, s. m. (mynud) Courteous deportment or behaviour; civility.

Mynudwr, s. m.—pl. mynudwyr (mynud—gwr) A man of courteous manners.

Mynudyn, s. m. dim. (mynud) A gesture, a deportment, or conduct.

*Mae yn dy gura fwyaf dyn
Ar ei gair a'i mynodyn.*

She loves thee above all men, in her word and her deportment.

T. Li. D. ab Hywel.

Mynw, s. m. (mwn) That has action; a person; a body.

*Mab Codiwr, cad orngall—
Mynw ion, trowid y dygrych, Maeugen:*

The son of Codiwr, the tyrant of the battle, with a body of the hue of the wave, his approach to the stone covering has been seen!

Cynddelw.

*Yn myw mynw achen barchu beirddion;
Yn machedd galedig gwlad orchordion,
Gorddyfwas addedd badd a berthion.*

In life when a man his bosom was the refuge of birds; in the existence of the sovereignty of the superior regions, he bequeathed to them profit and riches.

Cynddelw, m. Cod. ab Medawg.

*Rhy dalaf ym rhwyf—
Delw ym peirch a meirch myr hydallth
Mynw cilow, mai gwylion godallth.*

I will repay to my chief as he shall treat me with fair attendance: patient for the course, with body of the hind skimming like the spirit of the conflagration.

Cynddelw.

Mynw, a. (mwn) Quick, active, apt.

*Maeolwg mynwffwr, mynw gyfod i gad;
Myr baidid, baidid coed;
Angbudd udd arddwy bynod
Angbudd badd angbudd angbudd.*

Moringing greatly kind, for war was quick
To rise: the spiridid impter was a wolf
To trust: not but his rank in bold career
Of wild commotion, to prevent disgrace.

Cynddelw, m. i. O. Gwynedd.

Mynwar, s. f.—pl. mynwyr (mwn—gwr) A collar; a collar of draught harness.

Mynwawl, a. (mynw) Corporeous; personal.

*Gwled yu myned mynwawl ddech
Gwyl gyfarchafast, ne chaf amnion, Gorogynaw Mab Daw.*

The corporeal principles were seen to be going on the fourth of the ascension, doubt not the memorial, the son of the fourth day of Goodness.

Mynwed, s. f. (mynw) Fellowship, company.

*Ei cirechion i cirechion ar llyd,
A'i nar rhudd, a'i fodd, a'i fymad.*

His favours scattered amongst others, with his right eye, in bounty, had his society.

Li. P. Hen, i. E. G. n.

Mynwen, s. f.—pl. t. au (mynw) A sepulchre.

*Rhaid yw wethion
At addod i'f fal yddwy, non,
At fannedd ei f'r fymad!*

It is necessary at length, either to explain my condition or to fair mind, or the grave will become my dwelling!

E. Hen.

Mynwennawl, a. (mynwent) Monumental.

Mynwent, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (mynw) A sepulchre, a grave, a church-yard, a burial place.

Cy plyn llyd f'r yddwy, yn llyd, Mynwentydd bu brenawd.

Before Rodri was made to bend by the propensities he, in the burial grounds were made a fellow.

Li. P. Hen.

Mynwes, s. f.—pl. t. au (mynw) The bosom.

Gwas a fo a'i feli yu ei bosom.

Woe to such as carries his disgrace in his bosom.

Adge.

Mynwesawl, a. (mynwes) Belonging to the bosom.

Mynweslad, s. m. (mynwes) A putting in or a the bosom.

Mynwesw, v. a. (mynwes) To put to the bosom.

Mynwr, s. f.—pl. t. au (mwn—gwr) A collar, a collar belonging to draught harness.

*Aur melyn am awyr mof
Trest maw traw ei mynwor.*

Like yellow gold round the foam of the sea are the chains over her collar.

D. ab Gwilym, i wail Hen.

Myny, s. m. (mwn) That rises or ascends. With the preposition i, to, it forms adverbs; a i fyny, upwards, up, aloft: Awn i fyny, we will go up. In Gwent, mynydd is used.

Mynych, a. (mwn) Frequent, often. Ys fynydd frequently. awd. Frequently, often.

Back a mynych fwyta, back ac awyrydd ddiab.

Little and frequent eating, little and unimportant drinking.

Adge.

Athd gell i gi mynych ydd a llyd.

Should a dog have a chamber he would often go into it.

Adge.

Mynychawl, a. (mynych) Frequentative.

Mynychedig, a. (mynych) Being frequented.

Mynychedd, s. m. (mynych) Frequency.

Mynychiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (mynych) Iteration, a rendering frequent; frequentation.

Mynychrwydd, s. m. (mynych) Frequency.

Mynychu, v. a. (mynych) To frequent, to iterate.

Ac effely y bu yn mynychu ated drwy yddid mawr mawr, i wybod o neb, eidd ei awyrydd chaw a odd yu ei fwyrydd.

And in that manner he was frequenting to be doing for me of seven years, without any one knowing, except his own and deathly friends who were guarding her.

Gr. ab Idris.

Mynychwedd, s. f. (mynych—gwedd) A variety of forms, or appearances. a. Of many forms.

*Mynychwedd awll
Mawr maddgryn baid,
Moddgar hall hwy! moddgar.*

Forty of attendance with mawr in buffle horn, mawr of service exciting praise.

Shales offered.

Mynychwr, s. m.—pl. mynychwyr (mynych—gwr) A frequenter.

Mynychydd, s. m.—pl. t. lon (mynych) A frequenter.

Mynydd, s. m. (mwn) That is a small part or particle; a minute.

Mynydd, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mwn) A mountain. I fynydd, upwards. See myny.

Gwell aghenawg mor nor aghegawg mynydd.

The acronions at sea is better than the notations of the mountains. Adage.

Rhydd o'r blaen oedd y fferoc,
On rhydd y mynyddi a'r mor.

Free therefore was the country, if free the mountains and the sea. G. ab I. Ten.

Mynyddawg, a. (mynydd) Mountainous, hilly.

Mynyddawl, a. (mynydd) Of the mountain.

Mynydd-dir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mynydd—tir) Mountain ground.

Mynyddiad, s. m.—pl. mynyddiaid (mynydd) A mountaineer, or inhabitant of the mountains.

Mynyddig, a. (mynydd) Mountainous, hilly.

Mynyddwr, s. m.—pl. mynyddwyr (mynydd—gwr) A mountaineer, or man of the mountain.

Mynyddyn, s. m. dim. (mynydd) A small mountain.

Mynyglawg, s. f. (mwnwgl) The quinsy; the woody nightshade, or bitter-sweet.

Mynyglwys, s. m.—pl. mynygldwysau (mwnwgl—twys) A neck ornament.

Mynygdorch, s. f.—pl. mynygdyrch (mwnwgl—torch) A collar or wreath for the neck.

Mynyglwys, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mwnwgl—gwysg) A neck-kerchief; a neck-cloth.

Mynyn, s. m. dim. (myn) A little he kid.

Mysgawg, a. (mwng) Having a mane; maned.

Nh cawsu cod agur rhag ygwu,
Nn hainag mysagawg, na mysgawu.

Nor the headless, nor the proud will collect treasure; nor a bear, with long mane, more be that is cropt. Cynuddelo.

Myngawn, a. (mwng—twn) Having a cropt mane

I'm rhodden o feirch—
Llawn du, m dwn, a myngawn melyn.

He gave me of steeds, some black, and dun, and mane-cropt yet low mane. Gwarchmai.

Myngen, s. f. dim. (mwng) The crest of a horse.

Myngfras, a. (mwng—bras) Thick-maned.

Meirch mwth myngfras
Y dan morddydd myngfras.

Swift and thick-maned steeds under the thigh of the splendid youth. Aneurin.

Myngial, s. m. (mwng) A guttural manner of speaking.

Myngialu, v. a. (mwngial) To speak gutturally.

Myngialus, a. (myngial) Gutturally speaking.

Mynglaes, a. (mwng—llaes) Having long mane.

Mynglwyd, a. (mwng—llwyd) Grey-maned.

Mynglyd, a. (mwng) Being of the throat. Siarad yn/ynlyd, to speak indistinctly, or thickly.

Myngus, a. (mwng) Of the throat, guttural. Dyn myngus, a person who speaks indistinctly, mutteringly, or through the nose.

Myngwen, a. (mwng—gwen) White-maned.

Myngwyn, a. (mwng—gwyn) White-maned.

Myr, s. m. (my—yr) That is essential, or pure; that is intellectual. a. Essential, pure, or holy.

Myaw cofn, cofn'n cyfgyrfa,
Myr maddgyrn mechdeyrn llechala.

A bold person, a towering column, the spirit of meathorns is the sovereignty of Mechala. Cynuddelo, i O. Cyfylling.

Meir forwynnodd mor addwynnodd;
Meir gyfawnnodd myr gyfawnnodd.

Very chaste of nature so benign; Mary all complete in holy perfection. I. ab R. ab I. Llwyd.

Myr, s. pl. aggr. (mor) That is infinite, and fluctuating; an aggregate of floods, or the sea, also ants, or emmets.

Llwyd fy nghenddwyd fy nghyd ond dydd;
Llwydd fy pennaidd yn ar f'ychydd;
Lleufer o'yr myr morfeydd dyhu,
Pan liwych huan ar fan fydd.

My companion in my day's migration bade my muse to flow; the spoiler of my cheeks in the evening hour; the that is bright like the light over the gulfs of the sea amidst the surrounding shores, when the sun illumines the lofty mountain. Ior. Fychan.

Myraeth, s. m. (myr) Purity, or essence.

Myrdwyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (myr—twyn) An ant-hillock.

Myrdd, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (myr) Infinity; a myriad; or ten thousand. Mil-can-myrdd, a hundred thousand myriads.

Gwell un haul no myrdd o ser.

Better is one sun than a myriad of stars. Adage.

Caiffant fydd o feirddion eu lles
O foli Rodri ryddes.

A myriad of bards will find their benefit from praising Rodri the magnificent. Ll. P. Mech.

Myrddfed, s. m. (myrdd) One of a myriad. a.

Belonging to one out of a myriad.

Myrddiwn, s. m.—pl. myrddiwnau (myrdd) A million.

Myrddiynfed, s. m. (myrddiwn) A millionth. a.

Millionth.

Myred, s. m. (myr) That is pure or essential.

Myredd, s. m. (myr) A pure or essential state.

Myriad, s. m. (myr) A making pure or fair.

Myriawl, a. (myr) Of essential nature.

Myrion, s. pl. aggr. (myr) Ants, or emmets.

Gwneuthur mynydd o dwmpath myrion.

To make a mountain of the ants' hill. Adage.

Myrionen, s. f. dim. (myrion) An emmet.

Myrnder, s. m. (mwrn) Sultriness, closeness.

Myrndra, s. m. (mwrn) Sultriness, closeness.

Myrnedd, s. m. (mwrn) Sultriness, closeness.

Myrniad, s. m. (mwrn) A growing sultry.

Myrniaw, v. a. (mwrn) To become sultry.

Myrierid, s. pl. aggr. (myr—iar) Pearls.

I' haw fy ngherdd nag ef id
Mial beu rhag moch myrierid.

The spreading of my songs before thee, be it not like casting pearls before swine. Ll. P. Mech.

Myrieriden, s. f. dim. (myrierid) A pearl.

Myrwydd, s. m. (myr—gwydd) A cause of motion; distraction; delirium.

Mydwyl myrwydd
Nolawd Dure Ddolydd.

I am agitator of the praise of God the renovator. Taliesin.

Nid oes yn cadw oes, a moes, a mynydd
Llwyth Maried mawreddus on merwydd.

There is no one supporting life, and menses, and courtesy, of the tribe of Maried dignified their cause of agitation. Gw. Brycheiniaw i Ddewi.

Predid fydd yn myrwydd mor
Y lloug a golio ei hangor.

Dismal will be in the tumult of the sea the ship that should lose its anchor. W. Llwyd.

Myrydd, s. pl. aggr. (myr) The sea rushes.

Mysangu, v. a. (sangu) To trample, to tread.

Caerusalem a fysengir tan draed.

Jerusalem will be trampled under feet. W. Salisbury.

Mysawr, s. m. (mws) That is of strong scent.

Mysg, s. m. (my—ysg) The midst, the middle.

Yn mysg, ar fysg, i fysg, amongst.

Trydydd Arianlle Ynys Prydain a elai gan Gaswallawn fab Beli, a Gwenwynwyn a Gwennar, melltion Llaf fab Nwyfre, ac Arianrod ferch Beli es mam; a'r gwyf hyn o Erch a Heledd pan hanoedd-yn; ac a seibyn gyda Gaswallawn eu hawythr ar fysg y Celdw-aid o'r ynys hon: Sef lle y mae y gwyf hyn yn Ngwynwyn.

The third silver host of the Isle of Britain went with Gaswallawn son of Beli, and Gwenwynwyn and Gwennar, the sons of Llaf son of Nwyfre, and Arianrod, daughter of Beli, their mother: and those men were natives of Erch and Heledd; and they went with Gaswallawn their uncle amongst the Cwennans out of this island: Where those men dwell is Gascogne. Triedd.

Mysgaid, a. (mysg) Mixt, or compound.
Mysgawl, a. (mysg) Tending to mix; compound.
Mysgedig, a. (mysg) Being mixed or blended.
Mysgedd, s. m. (mysg) The state of being mixed.
Mysgi, s. m. (mysg) A mixed state; confusion.

Gwryd ardderchawg marchawg mysgi.

The exalted manliness of the knight of Isumail. Aneurin.

Mysgiad, s. m. (mysg) A mixing, a blending.
Mysgiwyth, s. m. (mysg—llwyth) A mixed race.
Mysgu, v. a. (mysg) To mix, to mingle, to blend.
Mysorig, a. (mysawr) Yielding a stench. Wy mysorig, an addle egg.

Myswrn, s. m.—pl. mysyrnau (swrn) Any small edged tool, or instrument.

Myswynog, s. f.—pl. t. au (swynog) A farrow cow, a cow that has passed a season without calving, and has milk through the winter.

Mysygan, s. f. (sygan) Soft expression.

Mysygdawd, s. m. (mysygan) Fond language.

Mysyganu, v. a. (mysygan) To use soft language.

Mysyglawg, a. (mwawgl) Having moss, mossy.

Ni bydd mawr mysyglawg o'i fynych drafod.

A stone will not be mossy that is frequently turned. Adeg.

Mysygliad, s. m. (mwawgl) A gathering of moss.

Mysyglu, v. a. (mwawgl) To gather moss.

Y mawr a drwgla ni frysia.

The stone that rolls no moss will gather. Adeg.

Mysyniad, s. m. (mwawn) A gathering of moss.

Mysynlyd, a. (mwawn) Apt to gather moss.

Mysynu, v. a. (mwawn) To gather moss.

Mawr a drwgla ni frysia.

A stone that rolls will gather no moss. Adeg.

Myth, a. (my—yth) That pervades; that infects; a miasma.

Mythder, s. m. (mwth) Swiftmess, velocity.

Mythdra, s. m. (mwth) Swiftmess, velocity.

Mythiad, s. m. (mwth) A giving swiftmess.

Mythliad, s. m. (mythl) A rendering torpid.

Mythlu, v. (mythl) To make torpid; to canker.

Mythn, v. a. (mwth) To give swiftmess.

Mythl, s. m.—pl. t. ion (myth) The state of being pervaded, or infected

Llywy gwyn a wyf gwynol gwyn, Mythl oerwch gwyn mudi aml!

*I am quite wretched with the life of disappointment, but so coldly torturing canker should find a way to spoil thee!
 A. ab Owain, fr. John.*

Mywylliau, s. pl. aggr. (gwyll) Vigils, or even of holidays.

*Pan ddaw y garywyn,
 Mai y daw mywyllau dyw.*

When last shall come as the hallowest vigils come. H. ab Ith.

Myw, s. m. (my) That has activity, motion, a life; an ant, or emmet.

Mywion, s. pl. aggr. (myw) Ants, plumes; also called grugaid, morion, myr, and myries.

*Pan fo'r mywion mewn clyd ffoc,
 Rhob na gwynt, na gwynn i'r dryn,
 Cofr y cwlid rhedyn yfudl
 Gwedd rhogon a mawr o sawl.*

When the ants are in warm lodging, with neither wind nor sun to hurt them, the silly grasshopper will be found still and dead in the cold. Rhys I. Merdddri ab Ith.

Mywionyn, s. m. dim. (mywion) An ant, emmet.

*Ond well di'r mywionyn,
 A'r agurlyd gwlid rhedyn;
 Pan fo'r mudi yn cyrchu adre—
 Bydd y llall heb o'i ardd.*

Does thou not see the ant and the idle grasshopper; when one is carrying home, the other is void of care. Rhys I. Merdddri ab Ith.

Mywyn, s. m. (gwyn) Pith; also called myries.

Mywynaid, a. (mywyn) Like pith; pithy.

Mywynawg, a. (mywyn) Abounding with pith.

Mywynt, s. m. (mywyn) The pith, or core.

N.

NA, s. m. r. A cessation of concomitancy, or a negation of proceeding with; that implies a negative or denial; a no.

Gwell na no gan addewid.

A no is better than a false promise. Llofod.

Fy llythau a dyngwys im na chaffwr! wrag byth hyd na chaffwr! Olyon.

My mother-in-law did swear to me that I should not ever have a wife until that I should have Olyon. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Na, conj. Nor, neither; either. Dyma beth heb na dechren na diwedd, here is a thing without either beginning or end. It is used before a word with a consonant initial.—Na'm, nor my; na'th, nor thy; na'i, nor his, nor her; na'u, nor our; na'ch, nor your; na'u, nor their: Contractions of na ym, na yth, na ei, na eia, na eich, na eu. Na ym castir, may I not be hated.

Ni fya cartod o wada, Na'i ddangwys! Haws la.

Love will not have itself concealed, nor its bring shown to a crowd of people. H. ab Owain.

Na, adv. No, not, with imperative verbs, and in answering interrogatories, when governed by a verb with a consonant initial. Na ladd, thou shalt not kill: A fu hi yno? Has she been there? Na fu, or na dde, not been, not taken place, or she has not been. It is equivalent to that, or that not, in wishing; as, Na benni ti yno! O that thou hadst been there!

Na choll dy hen-fordd er dy ffordd newydd.

Lost not thy old way for the sake of thy new way. Adeg.

A fu at ddeuchach hyd faw?

Na fu na: na'i! Eirian!

Has there been one wiser than him from here to him? Or has he not been one: heaven to Eirian! E. G. Cuth.

Nabod, s. m.—pl. t. au (na—bod) Cognizance.

Nabod, v. a. (na—bod) To know, to recognize.

Califfyd tafed bawdd at nabod.

A tongue artist is easily known. Adeg.

With en gwrthododd nam?

Y mae nabod dros a de.

By their nearest works they are to be known, the evil and the good. F. Ll. J. ab Ith.

Nabodaeth, s. m. (nabod) Cognition, cognizance.

Nabodiad, s. m. (nabod) Cognition, a knowing.

Nabyddadwy, s. m. (nabyddu) Cognoscible.

Nabyddiad, s. m. (nabyddu) Cognition.

Nabyddiaeth, s. m. (nabyddu) Cognizance.

Nabyddu, v. a. (nabod) To recognize, to know.

Nabydded ddaed dy maw.

Wb! o'r hin o'r wyf hwn!

Let her know how affecting my condition, for: who would from the firmament to-night! H. ab Owain.

*Mild with faint of ladybird
Y nabydder dyw deddydd.*

Not by the magnitude of his discourse is the virtuous man to be known.
T. Ll. D. ab Eynon.

nabyddu, a. (nabyddu) Cognisitive.
no, conj. (na) Nor, neither; either. It is used before words, with vowel initials, as na precedes those with consonant initials.

na, adv. No, not, in negative imperatives, and in negative answers; than, in phrases of comparison; and that, or, oh that, in expressions of wishing. It is used before words with vowel initials for NA, which precedes consonant initials. Nec ananhan, doubt not.

Owell nac neg addaw ni wabydd.

Better is a denial than to promise what will not be done.
Adage.

naca, v. a. (nac) To make a denial, to deny.

naciad, s. m. (naca) Abnegation, a refusal.

naciawl, a. (naca) Belonging to denial, negative.

nachu, v. a. (nac) To refuse, or to deny.

*Madd yr enaid—
A drosallu a fu fan;
A ruddu a w fu fan;
A godwain a gollu;
A nethale cyd fan coll.*

With the soul—what I have wanted has been mine; what I have given is mine; what I saved I have lost; what I refused is to consign me to perdition.

nacius, a. (naca) Apt to deny; denying.

naciwr, s. m.—pl. nacawyr (naca—gwr) A refuser, a denier.

nacwy, a. (nac) Tending to deny; negative.

Pi Nar edmydd, odd nacwy o serch, Udawn hwyddwyr fwrch o Nacawyr.

To the Lord be she betrothed, that was negative of love, the upright and brisly fair mind of Nacawyr.
Eflyn.

nach, s. m.—pl. nelliach (na—ach) That is obstructive. Brye-nelliach oad, the sudden efforts of battle.

nad, s. f.—pl. t. an (na—ad) A shrill cry, a howl; clamour, noise. Taw a dy nadw drwg, have done with thy ugly cries.

Nad, s. m. (na) A conditional negative or no.
adu. That, that not. It is used before words with vowel initials. O, nad clai hi yno! O, that she would but go there! Pan nad oeddwn yno, when that I was not there.

Och wyr, nad nethaw yn wreidded.

Oh on the men, that they are not become women.
Adage.

*Och Ddew Tad, o chuddiwyd hi,
Nad oeddwn amdo iddi.*

Oh! God the Father, since she has been covered over, that I had not been a shroud for her.
D. Nanner.

Nadai, v. a. (nad) To hinder, to obstruct. Nad iddi fyned, hinder her from going; nedais iti dalu, I hindered thee from paying.

Nadawl, a. (nad) Tending to hinder, obstructive.

Nadel, v. a. (nad) To hinder, to obstruct.

Nadiad, s. m. (nad) A hindering, or obstructing.

Nadredd, s. pl. eggr. (nadr) Snakes, adders.

Nadreddawg, a. (nadredd) Abounding with snakes.

Nadu, v. a. (nad) To utter shrill cries, to howl.

Nadwr, s. m.—pl. nadwyr (nad—gwr) One who utters shrill cries, a screamer.

Nadr, s. f.—pl. t. odd (nad) A snake.

Nadd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—add) That is whole, complete, or entire; that is formed, wrought or worked; that is cut or chipt.

Nadd, a. (ny—add) That is complete or whole; wrought, or worked. Careg nadd, a stone that may be wrought, or a free stone.

*Pu both a wnel—
O gofyn fwrddyn y foot
Madd nadd yr kyn ni wyddont!*

What wilt thou do if a rattling rhaps of hounding should ask about the artificial part, the which thou dost not know!
Edm. Prye, i W. Cymwal.

Naddadwy, a. (nadd) Capable of being wrought into form; capable of being hewn.

Naddawl, a. (nadd) Relating to a working or hewing into form; hewing; sculpturing.

*Dywed iut—huanes y beirid;
Pa wyr fu ar gerdd yr gynt Naddawl aithuon ddynt.*

Declare to me the history of the birds: what men were, of the lovely song of yore, instructive teachers to them.
Edm. Prye.

Naddedig, a. (nadd) Being wrought or worked into form; hewn, cut, or chipt.

Naddedigaeth, s. m. (naddedig) The act of working into form; the act of chipping.

Naddfaen, s. m.—pl. naddfeini (nadd—maen) A stone that may be worked; free stone; hewn stone.

*Costas—
Iosau ran rwydd, dy ddieth,
Naddfaen, a gwyngach, ffaith fath;
Nab ni chyd y dyw llyd byth.*

Iosau, of liberal parts, bore the expense of a substantial house, of wrought stones, and white wash, proof the plan; no one will ever bear the cost of similar pillars.
Billyn.

Naddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nadd) A working into form; a cutting, hewing, or chipping.

Naddiad dy foch nadd yn rhyw.

The cutting of thy cheek let it be cut close.
Adage.

Naddial, v. a. (nadd) To be cutting or chipping.

Naddiaeth, s. m. (nadd) The practice or art of hewing into form.

*Naddiaeth hwy ni ddaw o'f hwy,
Er neb, ond mydr anyben.*

No fairly formed subject will come out of thy lips, for the sake of any body, but a drawing verse.
Edm. Prye.

Naddiant, s. m. (nadd) The act of working into form; the state of being wrought.

Naddion, s. pl. (nadd) Chippings, shreds, lint.

Naddo, adv. (na—do) Not done, not taken place.

Naddu, v. a. (nadd) To work or cut into form; to hew, to cut, to chip.

Awa i weryll y Syriaid: o cadwant hwy ni yn fyw, byw fyddwn; ac os naddant ni, byddwn felw.

Let us go into the camp of the Syrians: if they will preserve us alive, we shall live; and if they will cut us off, we shall die.
S. Trevelyan.

Naddwr, s. m.—pl. naddwyr (nadd—gwr) One who works or cuts into form; a hewer, a chipper.

Naf, s. m.—pl. nefion (ny—af) That embraces or comprehends, a forming principle; one that forms, or constructs, a creator; the Lord.

*Pwyll a'm cyfelydd,
O'r cawdr, o'r cyd
O'r ffaf, o'r Ybedd;
O'r iawfryd (ri;
O'r Drindawd Undaw, un dras a mi,
Un dra drwgaredd, uwedd ofri;
Under dair person,
Uch archbysg, ffon,
Undonion nefion,
Nerth heb drangi.*

Reason informs me of the Creator, of the junction of the Son, of the Spirit, of the rightly conceived pre-eminence; of the Triune Unity, one in kindred with me, one excelling in mercy, of universal glory; three persons in one fairly joined, higher than archangels, creators one in attributes, of power without end.
Gualcmaei.

Nafawl, a. (naf) Relating to formation; being wrought or formed.

Nafiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (naf) An operation.

*Ditw y rhod ar dy grair
Dydd heb nafiad nafair.*

Fairly has been bestowed on thy jewel a growth without the operation of a hand.
H. ab D. ab I. ab Ely.

Na ddifa na nfa nob,
Gochel wreithur creulodob.
Destroy not, cut not any body, beware of doing a cruelty.
Mor. Talai.

Nag, s. m. (na) A negative; a denial.

Gwell nag nag addaw ni waer.
Better a refusal than to promise what will not be done.
Adage.
Gwell nag no das eiddwid.
A denial is better than two promises.
Adage.

—Cair gweled
Nad da mynych nag am god.
It shall be seen that a frequent denial of a boon is not good.
Llywarch Hen.

Nag, conj. (na) Nor, neither; either. It is used before words with vowel initials.

Nag, adv. (na) No, not; that, o that. It is used before words with vowel initials. Nag &, no not, not it, or not so; nag ydyw, nag yw, it is not; nag oes, there is not; nag af, I will not go; nag wyf, I am not; nag wyt, thou art not; nag yw, he she or it is not; nag ym, nag ydym, we are not; nag ych, nag ydych, ye are not; nag ynt, nag ydynt, they are not.

Car y dyn da, ac nag anghar y dyn drwg.
Love the good man, and do not hate the bad man.
Adage.

Nage, s. m. (nag—e) A negative, to answer particular questions. adv. Not that, not so, no.

Nagu, v. a. (nag) To refuse, to deny; to hinder.

Christ culwydd—
O'm rhagf Ben neges na'm negwy.
Christ the gracious one, of my craved errand of good do not deny me.
Cyddfelen.

Nai, s. m.—pl. neidiant (na) That separates or branches of; a nephew.

Nid diwyd heb nai.
Not adherent without a nephew.
Adage.

Naid, s. f.—pl. neidiau (na—id) A recess; a withdrawalment; a refuge, or sanctuary; a leap, or jump.

Greyn oedd na chaf groes nai,
I gynnau da rhag cofdi!
It was a pity that he should not have a cross of refuge, to accumulate good for the soul!
D. Llwyd.

Athraw in' oil, aeth i'r naid.
Oedd leuan: och na ddwyald.
A teacher to me all, who is gone to the refuge, was leuan—alas, that he speaks not.
G. D. Yskola.

Bwrw naid i'r wybr a wnal
Ar hyder yr eiddai.
He would give a bound towards the city in confidence that he should fly.
T. Alld. i. forch.

Naill, pron. (nail) One of two, one or the other; one. Ar y naill tu, on one side; naill ai hwn, ai hwna, ai hwnu, either this person masculine, or that one present, or that one absent.

Y naill wenyw a ladd y llall.
The one poison will destroy the other.
Adage.

Naill, conj. (ny—all) Either, else, or.

Naill ai llwynog ai llwyn rhodyn.
Either a fox or a lump of fern.
Adage.

Nain, s. f.—pl. neinoedd (ny—ain) Grandmother.

Nais, s. m.—pl. neisiau (ny—ais) A band, or tie, the being trimmed, dressed, or made elegant.

Naith, s. m.—pl. neithion (na—ith) That is past or completed; that is given; troth, faith.

Nall, pron. (ny—all) One of two; one. Nall ac y llall, one and the other. Gwent.

Nam, s. m.—pl. t. an (na) A mark, or stigma; a defect, fault, blemish, or stain; an offence, or sin; an exception.

Yn nghywethas nam na'm beyned.
Into the company of iniquity may I not be going. L. P. Mac.
Gwneitham nam, a rhyddid rhy.
We committed a fault, and wonderful it was. Eld. i.
Ond cheldw Daw rhag nam,
He drips't fetch the tripl'dam.
If God do not keep against a fault, the daughter will slip slip where the mother slips.
Adage.

Nam, conj. (na) Except, but, save, only.

Nam with at Gwyneth to Gwyneth.
Only even those proceeded not from Gwyneth. Talen.

Named, conj. (nam) Except, but, save. Named un, except one; named ft, except me.

Namiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nam) A making a mark, making a defect, a blemishing, an exception.

Namu, v. a. (nam) To stigmatize; to render defective; to except.

Namwy, v. a. (nam) To make exception.

Namwyn, conj. (nam) Except, but, save.

Namwyn Daw nid oen deuth.
Except God there is none that knows the future.
Llywarch Hen.

Namyn, s. m. (nam) An exception. conj. Except, but, save.

Ni thag namyn chand.
An objection will not check a messenger. Adage.

Nan, s. m. (na) Something distinct; a what. adv. What, what now, now. Wela na, well what now, or well what do you want.

Nant, s. m.—pl. nentydd (nam) A hollow formed by water, a ravine; a mountain torrent, a brook. It enters into the composition of great many names of places.

Ad mewn mint nentydd i'r dydd.
And in the brooks some muddy torrents. D. of Gwyn.
Gwar yr nantau'r hyd y ddiol,
A ddyolw on gwelid.

Gentle are the brooks along the dale, and charming to be in them. Id. i.

Nar, s. m.—pl. t. edd (ny—ar) That is forward; that is abortive; a dwarf, a puny thing; an etc.

O ddredd, O nar, O ceryll, O yafyd, O ffl trillodol!
yr hwn hon y mae dy gwybodaeth gwybodaeth!
Oh little, Oh then puny thing, Oh then abortive, Oh the mad one, Oh distracted simplicity! where are now thy special apartments!
Merchwrdd Cynhyr.

Naraidd, a. (nar) Abortive, dwarfish, or puny.

Nareiddiad, s. m. (nareidd) Dwarfishness.

Nareiddiau, v. n. (nareidd) To become dwarfish.

Nareiddrwydd, s. m. (nareidd) Dwarfishness.

Naru, v. n. (nar) To be abortive, to become puny.

Nas, adv. (na—ys) That not, may not. It is of the same force with na; but when used, it preserves the initial of the word that follows its radical power; as, nas deio moni, for na deio moni, that she come not.

Nid tyledd ond nas cynnwys.
He is not poor but that does not enjoy. Adage.
Dylen y tai cyngor gwrwg, ond gwel i'r na cynnwys.
A wife's advice is of little worth, but was to the husband that will not take it. Adage.

Naw, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ny—aw) That is up or ultimate; that limits; nine, or the number nine.

a. Nine.
Tri chand hyd: mewn cell, der naw gwybodaeth, a chand m' c'riwaw.
The three hard things of the world: a first door, and times hotted, and the heart of the one of service. Id.

Y tri naw arbennig: naw yw y wraig, naw yw y cad, a naw y tymp.
The three peculiar names: the other waves of the ocean, the orders of heaven, and the nine months of gestation. Id.

Nawban, s. m.—pl. t. an (naw—ban) That consists of nine verses, a term in prosody. a. Of nine parts or verses.

Nawbanawg, a. (nawban) Of nine syllables.

Nawd, s. f. (naw) What is predominant; that is efficient; nature, a character, or trait.

Ti cymeth gwaed,
O fra moreydwad
A dynawl gindwad
O nawd newydd.

Thou didst become flesh, from the womb of virginity with mankind, of nature new. D. Dda o Hiraedd.

Yn gwaed o'r gwelwad
Un o'r mair ydychi nawd.

Thou I could perceive from below one from the breast in diurnal plight. Hafal Dda.

Nawd, adv. (naw) Effectually; easily, aptly.

Ni nawd gymmydd blaidd i deych.

A wolf is not easily reconciled to a mirror. Adage.

Ni nawd difawrwyd eyswlad.

The ingenious is not easily discomfited. Adage.

Nawdeg, s. m. (naw—deg) Ninety, nine tens.

Nawdd, s. m.—pl. noddau (naw) Refuge, protection, sanctuary, patronage; privilege.

Gorau nawdd diolweddwydd.

The best protection is innocence. Adage.

Ni thorau Arthwr nawdd gwrail.

Arthur broke not the protection of a woman. Adage.

Dyfaenai a roes noddau f'r eiridwr.

Dyfaenai assigned privileges to the ploughs. Gr. o'r Arthwr.

Nawdd pob merch wyf o'i eiridwr;

Ag o'chaf nodd gwybaf i:

Ni ofnau, myn f'ei noddau!

Er gair mair, nawdd ger i'm oed.

The protection of every woman I implore; and should I prove false here, I bravely shall go on: I will not crave, upon my life: hurring a boasting word, the protection of a man while I live. G. o'r H. o'r Tudur.

Nawddosgordd, s. f. (nawdd—gosgordd) A retinue of protection.

Nawed, s. m. (naw) A ninth. a. One ninth.

Nawedran, s. f.—pl. t. an (nawed—rhan) A ninth part. a. Of one ninth part.

Nawedgwaith, s. f. (nawed—gwaith) Ninth time.

Nawf, s. m.—pl. noffon (naw) A swim. Nawf pysgodys, the swim or wind bladder of a fish.

Nawfed, s. m. (naw) A ninth. a. Ninth.

Nawfed blaiddwys yw ymmod.

The ninth speaker is a judge. Welsh Laws.

A mi ddysgogafad ring ton nawfed.

And I will declare the future before the ninth wave. Myrddin.

Eft—hirdaf o'i heardadad—

Lhw gwyafw i'w rhag ton nawfed:

Nawfed ran yw pwrn er pan aed.

Eft, of stairly growth in her golden vent, of the hue of the fair spraying foam before the ninth wave: the ninth part of my pain from the time she was born. Cynddelw.

Nawfed-dydd, s. m. (nawfed—dydd) The ninth day, a time of appearance in law.

Nawgwaith, s. m. (naw—gwaith) The number of nine times. a. Nine times.

Nawmis, s. m. (naw—mis) Nine months. a. Of nine months.

Cyd cwyth nawmis, ni chafir newmis.

While nine nights may be concealed, nine months will not be concealed. Adage.

Nawn, s. m.—pl. nonan (naw) That is at the summit; the meridian, or noon; a noon meal.

Gwpanneth Daw yw gwpanneth law,
Nid gwpanneth law a nawn.

The service of God is to do justice, and not to pray morning and noon. Hen Bafin.

Tud achos boddwedd boddwedd cerddorion
Corddant aw eu nawn.

The food its safety gains when minstrels are contented, of their noon: tide most obscured. Cynddelw, m. t. O. Gwynedd.

VOL. II.

Nawnawl, a. (nawn) Belonging to noon.

Nawnoldeb, s. m. (nawnawl) Meridionality.

Nawnu, v. a. (nawn) To raise up; to uphold; to come to the meridian.

Arth worth wrthodad, a'm nad, a'm nawn,
Tra fe.—

A bear rejecting shame, who kept me from departing, who upheld me whilst he was. Cynddelw, m. Rhyd.

Nawplyg, s. m. (naw—plyg) That consists of nine folds. a. Nine fold.

Nawradd, s. f. (naw—radd) That consists of nine degrees; the nine degrees, or the heavenly hierarchy. a. Of nine gradations.

Nawrhyw, a. (naw—rhyw) Of nine sorts. Cawl nawrhyw, soup made of nine sorts of herbs.

Naws, s. f.—pl. t. an (naw) Nature, disposition, quality, temperament; a trait, or trace. Dyn da ei naw, a person of good disposition; ni wa i naw am dano, I know not a trace of it, or I know nothing of it. Sil.

Nid on nawe gwyros a gwers.

The private and the alder are not of the same nature. Adage.

Terwyn gwyn bryon broo

Nid cri nawd calon;

Treigl i ofery bon

Triglaw alar.

A severe complaint of the throbbing breast the quality of the heart will not conceal; a journey to visit her is terribly vexatious. G. o'r H. o'r Dafydd.

Ni rhan y gwr, nawddwydd,

Nid deilio naw y ddydd.

The cocken will not sing, that is amorous, until nature covers the dais with leaves. F. Pryd.

Nawsaidd, a. (naws) Genial, kind, tender, soft.

Aulintrydd a'm dygw i'm hystafol, ac a'm goodeal spewn gwylyd awnwyth nawsaidd.

Sensuality conducted me to my chamber, and got me in an easy soft bed. Merchion Cwydded.

Nawsain, a. (naws) Tending to softness.

Nawsawl, a. (naws) Of a temperate nature.

Nawsber, a. (naws—per) Kindly sweet.

Nawsedig, a. (naws) Being made genial, or tender, tempered.

Nawsedigwaith, s. m. (nawsedig) The act of rendering genial or temperate; the act of becoming temperate, or genial.

Nawsedd, s. m. (naws) Temperature; disposition.

Nawsedd-dra, s. (nawsaidd) Temperateness.

Nawsiddiad, s. m. (nawsaidd) A rendering genial or natural; a becoming genial.

Nawsiddiaw, v. a. (nawsaidd) To render genial, kind, or tender; to fill with tenderness; to become genial or tender; to become soft.

Caried perffafth a lŵa, ac a naw-siddia y galon.

Charity doth refresh, and doth soften the heart.

Merchion Cwydded.

Nawsiddiawl, a. (nawsaidd) Temperamental.

Nawsiddrwydd, s. m. (nawsaidd) Temperateness.

Nawsiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (naws) A forming the nature, disposition, or quality; a tempering; a pervading; a filtration.

Nawsiannawl, a. (nawsiant) Temperamental.

Nawsiannu, v. a. (nawsiant) To render temperamental; to cause a pervasion.

Nawsiant, s. m. (naws) Temperament; pervasion.

Nawsiaw, v. a. (naws) To form the nature, disposition, or quality; to temper; to pervade, to ooze, to filtrate.

Nawsiill, s. f. (naw—siill) That consists of nine syllables; nine syllables. a. Of nine syllables.

Nawsiillawg, a. (nawsiill) Of nine syllables.

Nawsineb, s. m. (naws) Temperament; pervasion.

Nawsoldeb, s. m. (nawsawl) Temperature.

Nawsolled, s. m. (nawsawl) Temperature.

3 A

Nawsoli, v. a. (nawsawli) To temper; to soften.
Nawsolrwydd, s. m. (nawsawli) Temperateness.
Nawsyllt, a. (naws—gwyllt) Of a wild disposition, of a furious nature; passionate.
Nawter, s. f. (nawd) Nature, quality; habit, or custom. Hae ynol ryw nawter ddreg, thou hast got some bad habit. Sil.
Nawtur, s. f. (nawd) Efficient principle; nature.
NE, s. m. r. A state of going or passing, a hne.
Ne, conj. (ne, s.) Or, otherwise, else, either.

Ne i affaith tan uffern.

Or to the influence of the fire of hell.

H. Daff.

Nëad, s. m. (ne) An opening to let out.
Neb, pron. (ne—eb) Whatever, any, any one, none, somebody, any body, nobody. a. Any, some, none.—Y neb u elo, whosoever that goes.

Dyn ni wnaid ddaol i neb

Ydyw un i dda wneid.

A man that would not do good to any is the one with a double face.

Ni roe neb, ac ni rown i

Seren bren er ei sori.

There would not be given by any body, and I would not give a chip, though he were affronted.

Gr. Grwg.

Nebawd, s. m. (neb) Any body, nobody.
Nebdyn, s. m. (neb—dyn) Any person, any one.
Nebie, s. m. (neb—lie) Any place, no place. adv. No place, no where.
Nebpell, s. m. (neb—pell) Any distance. adv. At no distance, not far.
Nebryhw, s. m. (neb—rhyw) Any kind. adv. Of any sort; not any sort.
Nebun, s. m. (neb—un) Any one, somebody; nobody.

Nid mdr ddarhob nebun

I'n gwind ni a hie hun.

Not so famous any one in our country as she herself.

D. ab Gwilym.

Hwen ffyn, da ddreg, nid oedd un,

Huan wylwr, a hi nebun.

Sprightly bloom of health, of good instruction, there were not one, luminary of the sky, and she nobody.

D. ab Gwilym, i Angharad.

Nedd, s. f.—pl. nydd (nv—edd) That forms a whirl or turn; a small dingle or hollow; a place where any thing rests; also nits on the hair.
Neddai, s. f. (nadd) That works into form.
Neddair, s. f. (nedd) The hollow of the hand, the grasp of the hand; the hand.

Pen a borthaf i'm neddair,

Eryr echwyd, oedd ni gair!

A head I bear in my hand of the eagle of the country, who was and will not again be had!

Llywarch Hen.

A'i neddair, f'awyl-grair fawn

Y nyntodd fiedw yn addwyl.

With her hand my kind dear jewel has elegantly entwined the birch.

D. ab Gwilym.

Neddawg, a. (nedd) Abounding with smalls, whirls, turns, or rests; abounding with nits.
Nedden, s. f. dim (nedd) A single nit.
Neddy, s. f. (nadd) A tool for cutting or working into form, and adze.

Tydd heb naddiat neddyf,

Ty, ar an piler y tyf.

A growth having not the operation of the adze; a house, upon one pillar it rises up.

D. ab Gwilym.

Nef, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ny—ef) A limit of a course, a turn, place of rest, a hollow, heaven.
Ty yn y nef, the house in the hollow; there are places so called.

A rannod nef a gafas.

He that has distributed has obtained heaven.

Adage.

Pump twarchen y cydd: ac, dalar, dwfr, tan, awyr, a nef; ac o'r pedair cyntaf pob defnydd difwyd; ac o'r nef (Dau), a phob bywyd, a bywydau; ac o'r ymgyd y pomp hyn pob peth, al bywydau, al amwygyddwyl y bo.

Five elements there are; that is to say, earth, water, fire, air, and the heavens: and out of the four first come every inanimate matter; and of the Aether, God, and all of life, and true; and from the conjunction of these five come all things, or things, or inanimate they be.

Bertha

Pan ddysfo Trindad—

Lig nef amlan,

Llywyl llydau ato,

Cyrd a cherddorion,

A ch-thlas awyrlon,

Dyrchafant o fiddan—y nefw.

When the Trinity shall come, surrounded by the host of hosts, pressing to him an extensive throng, with the songs of all the and the hymns of angels, out of the graves the dead shall rise.

Tel—

Nefair, s. f. (nef) An epithet for the opening or grasp of the hand; a hand.

Nefawl, a. (nef) Heavenly, celestial.

Nefawr, a. (nef) Of a celestial nature.

Nefed, s. m. (nef) An expansion.

Nefliw, s. m. (nef—liw) A cerulean. a. Of a cerulean hue.

Nefoedd, s. pl. aggr. (nef) The heavens.

Ar ffwrst mawr gawr ddigoniant

Nifer o'r nefoedd a sythiant.

At the great force of the shout of triumph numbers I—o to heroes shall fall.

D. Henar

Nefolaidd, a. (nefawl) Heaven-like, heavenly.

Nefoldeb, s. m. (nefawl) Heavenliness.

Nefolder, s. m. (nefawl) Heavenliness.

Nefoledd, s. m. (nefawl) A heavenly state.

Nefoleiddrwydd, s. m. (nefoliaidd) Heavenliness.

Nefolfryd, a. (nefawl—bryd) Heavenly-minded.

Nefolfrydded, s. m. (nefolfryd) Heavenly-mindedness, a heavenly state of mind.

Nefoli, v. a. (nefawl) To render heavenly; to canonize; to become heavenly.

Nefoliaeth, s. m. (nefawl) A heavenly state.

Archeff i ti

Dwyfawl nefoliaeth

A diwedd perffath

Perffath pob rhad.

I crave of thee a heavenly state divine, and a perfect end, the sovereignty of every grace!

D. ab Gwilym

Nefoliannu, v. a. (nefoliant) To render heavenly; to celestify; to become heavenly.

Nefoliannus, a. (nefoliant) Of a tendency to render celestial.

Nefoliant, s. m. (nefawl) Celestification.

Nefolrwydd, s. m. (nefawl) Heavenliness.

Nefolus, a. (nefawl) Of a celestial nature.

Nefwy, s. m. (nef) A heavenly state.

Nid wy a'm noddwy

Amgylch bala nefwy;

Ysidi rin y sydd fwr,

Gwawr gwyr Gorowwy.

They shall not be protecting me around the high towers, nor in a virtue that is more excellent, the light of the men of G—

ffenn

Nefyd, s. m. (naf) A performance, what is wrought or formed.

Safid wrth nefyd gwrthom

Yn dy hawl, dy farn dy hen.

Thou wouldst stand by an absurd performance, in the most alone, thy own judgement.

Edm. 177

Neg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—eg) That is not open that is not possible.

Neges, s. m.—pl. t. au (neg—es) An errand, a message; business.

A eiliys heb neges ddaed a'i neges gada.

He that goes to court without an errand let him wear up errand in his possession.

Adage

Cread hwyf drwg ei neges.

A lath messenger is upon a bad errand.

Adage

Negesa, v. a. (neges) To go on errands.

Negesai, s. c.—pl. negeseion (neges) One who goes on errands; a messenger.

Negesan, s. pl. aggr. (neges) Errands, messengers.

egesawg, a. (neges) Having an errand. s. m.
One that carries a message; a messenger.

*Elwath ydd euthym yn negeswrg
O leufer llyw cammaw, lawa dywysawg.*

A second time I went as an ambassador from the splendor of the leader of conflict, the righteous prince. Misyr.

egesawl, a. (neges, Missionary. Negesolion, missionaries.

egesena, v. a. (negesau) To go on messages; to transact business; to negotiate.

egesengar, a. (negesau) Officious.

egesengarwch, s. m. (negesengar) Officiousness.

egesewr, s. m.—pl. negesewyr (negesau—gwr) An errand-man, a messenger.

egeswraig, s. f.—pl. negeswreigedd (ne-gesau—gwraig) A woman-messenger.

egesgar, a. (neges) Fond of errands, officious.

egesgarwch, s. m. (negesgar) Officiousness.

egesiad, s. m. (neges) A carrying an errand.

egesiaeth, s. m. (neges) A commission.

egesianawl, a. (negesiant) Appertaining to a commission.

egesianus, v. a. (negesiant) To commissionate.

egesiant, s. m. (neges) A commission.

egeswas, s. m.—pl. negesweision (neges—gwas)
An errand-boy.

egeswr, s. m.—pl. negeswyr (neges—gwr) An errand-man, a messenger.

negeswraig, s. f.—pl. negeswreigedd (neges—gwraig) An errand-woman.

negeswriaeth, s. m. (negeswr) The business of a man who transacts for another.

Negesydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (neges) A messenger.

Negesyddawl, a. (negesydd) Appertaining to a messenger, missionary, missive.

Negesyddiaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (negesydd) The business of a messenger.

Negiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (neg) A disabling.

Negiant, s. m. (neg) A disabling.

Negiau, v. a. (neg) To disable, to render impossible. Mac arnaf eisien ei nego fe, I am in want of disabling him. Sil.

Negawl, a. (neg) Tending to disable.

Negwr, s. m.—pl. negwyr (neg—gwr) A disabler.

Negydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nag) A denier.

Ni bo Rodri, nai Beredur.

Negydd o'i win, nag o'i ddar.

Rodri, the nephew of Peredur, has not been a denier of his wine, nor of his steel. Guto y Glynn.

Negydlaw, a. (negydd) Negative, refusing.

Negyddiad, s. m. (negydd) A denying, a refusing.

Negyddiaeth, s. m. (negydd) A denial, a refusal.

Negyf, s. m. (nag) A negation, a denial.

Negyfaeth, s. m. (negyf) A refusal, a denial.

Codol aragonawl ar wyned Prydain,

Ni fagat fyw i ateb;

Ni fagat negyfaeth i neb.

The beseeching violent one, over the face of Britain the poets are answerable; he would not conceive a stern answer; he will not become a denier to any one. Lt. P. Moeh.

Nehedd, s. m. (ne—hedd) Entreaty, prayer.

Neidiad, s. m. (naid) A leaping, or springing.

Neidiaw, v. a. (naid) To leap, to jump; to pulse.

Neidiawl, a. (naid) Leaping, springing, throbbing.

Neidiwr, s. m.—pl. neidwyr (naid—wr) A leaper.

Neidraidd, a. (naidr) Snake-like, snaky.

Neidrillys, s. m. (neidr—llys) Snakewort.

Neidrydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (naid) The temples;
also called arlais and arlaisian.

Brath y lleidr dray ei neidrydd;

Beth dder ei ludd byth, gwr gwydd.

Such the thief through his temples: who would ever mind his death, the good of a man. P. ab Gwilym.

Neidr, s. f.—pl. t. edd (nad) A snake. Neidr ddu, a viper; neidr fraith, neidr y tomenydd, the common snake, or adder.

Cyfrithed a neidr.

As variegated as an adder.

Adage.

Chwefrawr chwyth neidr o'i nyth.

February will blow the snake out of her nest.

Adage.

Neifion, s. m. (naf) The comprehending one;
the creator; also the name of a person in the British mythology, probably the same with Neptune.

*Dadwraia i Frythion
A oren Gwilion;
Gefwraia ar Neifion;
Ar Grist o achwynon,
Hyd pan y gwaertal.*

A resurrection to the Britons was accomplished by Gwilion;
there was a calling upon the Creator; upon Christ for rescue until when he should deliver. Taliesin, Cad Godden.

El a yr nifer i for Neifion.

He will send a number to the sea of Neifion.

L. G. Colki.

Y nofod a weath Neifion

O Drois fawr draw i Fon.

The swimming which Neifion performed from great Troy after to Mons. D. ab Gwilym.

Neillawr, s. f. (naill—awr) The other hour, the next hour. adv. At another time.

Eu bachedd boen-wedd baham, y neillawr,

Ni wellant rhag drylam.

Their lives of spiritibly mood why, the next hour, they do not wound for fear of an evil day. W. M. M. M.

Neilldu, s. m. (naill—tu) One of two sides, one side. O'r neilldu, from one side; ar neilldu, on one side, or aside.

Neilldnad, s. m. (neilldu) A going aside; a putting aside; a separating; separation.

Neillduath, s. m.—pl. t. au (neilldu) A separation, dissociation. Tir neillduath, the land of reservation.

Neillduathu, v. a. (neillduath) To make a separation; to reserve, to put aside.

Neillduaw, v. a. (neilldu) To go on one side; to go aside, to retire, to recede; to dissociate; to separate, to put asunder, to set apart.

Yan ill dan ni neillduath

I roi y gwyl i yrr gyl.

Then they two would not separate in giving battle to men formerly. L. G. Colki.

Neillduawl, a. (neilldu) Separate, retired, solitary; particular, distinct; discriptive.

Neillduedig, a. (neillduad) Separated, abstracted.

Arthwl—yn myned i ofal y gwyr rylawr o'r cydnyddidion neillduedig iddu gylt; ac yu credied trwy y codd lawu y cyfaris ag Eilir ei fraidd yn ddilawybod.

Arthwl, going to terrify the men who formerly had been his perturbative companions; and in walking through that wood he met with Eilir his brother unexpectedly. Gr. ab Arthur.

Neillduediggaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (neillduedig)
The state of being put aside or separated; sequestration.

Neillduedigaw, v. a. (neillduedig) To render separated or sequestered; to become separated.

Neillduedd, s. m. (neilldu) Separateness, retired-ness; distinctness, discriminateness.

Neilldolaeth, s. m. (neillduawl) The state of being separated; discrimination.

Neillduoldeb, s. m. (neillduawl) Separability;
distinctness, discriminateness.

Neillduoli, v. a. (neillduawl) To render separate, or distinct; to particularize.

Neillduolrwydd, s. m. (neillduawl) Separateness, distinctness; particularity.

Neillduwr, s. m.—pl. neillduwyr (neilldu—gwr)
One who goes aside; one who puts aside.

Neilliad, s. m. (naill) A varying, a diversifying.
Neillaw, v. a. (naill) To vary, to diversify.
Neilliawg, a. (naill) Diversified, varied.
Neilliedig, a. (neilliad) Being diversified.
Neilliedigaeth, s. m. (neilliedig) The being diversified or varied.
Neilliogaeth, s. m. (neilliawg) A variation.

Cofir cyfnall y cyfryw neilliogaeth yn yr un banau ym mboob un arall o'r penullion.

Be it remembered that such diversity is to be maintained in the same verses in every other one of the stanzas. Barddas.

Neilliogi, v. a. (neilliawg) To diversify.

Oo o golofu allaw y daw y dyfiri, a rhai o'i banau o byny yn neilliogi ar ereili, cofir cyfnall y cyfryw neilliogaeth.

If the song is derived from a secondary canon, and some of those verses varying from others, it is to be remembered that such diversity is to be maintained. Barddas.

Neina, s. f. dim. (nain) A grandmammy.

Neirhiad, s. m. (nerth) A strengthener.

Fy Naw, fy neirhiad, fad rad rannu.

My God, my support, freely dispensing grace. Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Gwas wyf, ym nerthwy fy neirhiad.

Feeble am I, may my supporter support me. Y Bradd Madawg.

Neisiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nais) A kerchief.

Neisiaw, v. a. (nais) To wrap with a band; to deck, to dress up; to trim up nicely.

Neithiad, s. m. (naith) A passing, completing.

Neithiaw, v. a. (naith) To pass, to complete.

Neithiawl, a. (naith) Tending to perfect.

Neithiawr, s. m.—pl. neithiorau (naith) A state that is completed or confirmed; complete-ment; a wedding; a wedding feast, in some parts, which is kept on a fixt day after the wedding, generally the following Sunday, when the guests bring presents to the newly married couple: The term Neithiorau has been used for the Characteristics of Theophrastus.

Neithiora, v. a. (neithiawr) To bring to completion; to keep a marriage festival.

Neithiorawg, a. (neithiawr) Having a marriage or wedding feast.

Neithiorawl, a. (neithiawr) Tending to complete; relating to marriage solemnity.

Neithiori, v. a. (neithiawr) To render complete; to consummate a marriage solemnity.

Neithiorwr, s. m.—pl. neithiorwyr (neithiawr—gwr) One who consummates.

Neithiwr, s. m. (naith—hwyr) The evening past, or last night. adv. Last night, yesterday evening.

Neithyr, prep. (eithyr) Except, unless.

Nemawr, s. m. (nam) A few in number. adv. Not many; scarcely, hardly.

Nemol, pronom. prep. (nam) Except of me. nemol, except of thee; nemo, except of him; or it; nemi, except of her; nemom, except of us; nemoch, except of you; nemont, except of them.

El drosedd ni dreisir nemoch.

His transgression will not be curbed except of you.

Cydddyll.

Nemor, s. m. (nam—or) An exception of extent, of quantity, or number. adv. Not many; scarcely.

Nen, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ny—en) The inside top of a vault or canopy; the ceiling, roof, or top; a roof; a vault, or canopy; the heavens.

Ysawell Cydddyllan, ys twyll ei nen,

Gwedy gwen gyweithydd:

Gwas ni was da al dyddi.

The hall of Cydddyllan, its roof is dark, after Gwen the support-at; Woe that what shall come to it will produce no good!

Llywarch Hen.

Nenawl, a. (nen) Appertaining to a vault, roof or ceiling.

Nenawr, s. f.—pl. nenorau (nen) An upper story, or garret.

Nenbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (nen—pren) The upper roof beam in a building.

Nenfw, s. f. (nen—mwd) A ceiling arch.

Nenfydu, v. a. (nenfw) To make an arched ceiling.

Neniad, s. m. (nen) A vaulting, a ceiling.

Neniar, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (nen—iar) The upper roof-beam; also, called nenbren.

Nenorydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nenawr) A garretter.

Nenu, v. a. (nen) To vault, to roof, to ceil.

Nenwawl, s. m. (nen—gwawl) Cereless light.

El ydoedd Owain hir, bywyd beddrod,
 Ac andaw o fun nenwawl deffindd,
 A ddylwys a mi maith garennydd.

He was the stately Owain, the ready pledge of hope, so surrounded with a zone of heavenly light, who formed all his lasting union. Uwarch.

Ner, s. m.—pl. t. edd (ny—er) That is without impulse from another; that has self energy. an epithet of God; the Lord.

Cadfan ner ener anaw, cerddorion.

Cerddorion ar eiddaw;

Arwyr trydar tris ogan;

Eyr gwr brawd dyabyr braw.

Cadfan the sovereign of the energy of song, the minstrel who sojourned under thy protection; the director of the music of the bearing conduct; the eagle of the tolling men of a pleasant crew. L. P. H.

Nerth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ner) Might, power, strength, force; aid, help, or succour.

Ei nerth yw nwerth diried.

The strength of the machivorous is his ability. Amr.

Tri achaw bywedigion: cariad Daw, gan eiddi doli eiddi; deall Daw, yn gwybod eiddi moddion; a nerth Daw, gan eiddi mudi, cariad a deall.

The three causes of animated beings: the love of God, the plenitude of perfect knowledge; the knowledge of God, the plenitude of means; and the power of God with a plenitude of will, love, and knowledge. L. P. H.

Am bob trion ddioloni
 A'i nerth, a'i gynghor i ni,
 —Nerth enaid!

For every tender blessing, and his power, and his counsel to a heaven to his soul. Icu. Thomas, a. I.

Nerthai, s. c.—pl. nertheion (nerth) Strengthen-Nerthawg, a. (nerth) Mighty, powerful, potent.

Wrth gadarn nerthawg ydoedd;
 Ac o'r gwan trugurawg oedd.

With the mighty he was powerful; and to the weak was he. Gala y bap.

Nerthawl, a. (nerth) Powerful or strong.

Nerthedig, a. (nerth) Being strengthened.

Nerthedigaeth, s. m. (nerthedig) A strengthening.

Nerthedd, s. m. (nerth) Potency, or strength.

Nerthfawr, a. (nerth) Of great strength, powerful.

Nerthfawrawg, a. (nerthfawr) Of great power.

Nerthfawrogi, v. a. (nerthfawrawg) To endow with great strength.

Nerthfawrogiad, s. m. (nerthfawrawg) An endowing with great power.

Nerthfawrus, a. (nerthfawr) Of a potent nature.

Rhaid i'tl ymwrthard & gwyddan, ac arfer o'r campau mudi i'tl union.

Thou must refrain from vice, and practise the laws that are strength-creating ones. Cyngorion Idu.

Nerthfawrusaw, v. a. (nerthfawrus) To render strengthening; to become strengthening.

Nerthiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nerth) A strengthening; a supporting, or assisting.

Nerthiannawl, a. (nerthiad) Of a strengthening quality; empowering.

Nerthannu, v. a. (nerthiant) To render strengthening; to become strengthening.
Nerthianus, a. (nerthiant) Of a strengthening nature; tending to empower.
Nerthiannusaw, v. a. (nerthiannus) To render of a strengthening nature.
Nerthiant, s. m. (nerth) A strengthening.
Nerthiator, ger. (nerthiad) In strengthening.
Nerthieib, s. m. (nerth) Efficaciousness, potency.
Nerthitor, sup. (nerth) To be strengthening.
Nerthocad, s. m. (nerthawg) A rendering powerful, strong, or potent.
Nerthocân, v. a. (nerthawg) To render potent.
Nerthogi, s. a. (nerthawg) To make powerful.
Nerthogiad, s. m. (nerthawg) A making potent.
Nerthogrwydd, s. m. (nerthawg) Powerfulness.
Nertholdeb, s. m. (nerthawl) Potency, ability.
Nertholedd, s. m. (nerthawl) Powerfulness.
Nertholi, s. a. (nerthawl) To render powerful.
Nertholrwydd, s. m. (nerthawl) Powerfulness.
Nerthrwydd, s. m. (nerth) Potency, energy.
Nerthu, v. a. (nerth) To strengthen; to help.
Nerthus, a. (nerth) Efficacious, potent.
Nerthasaw, v. a. (nerthus) To render efficacious, to become efficacious.
Nerthasedd, s. m. (nerthus) Efficaciousness.
Nerthusrwydd, s. m. (nerthus) Efficaciousness.
Nerthwech, s. m. (nerth) Potency, energy, strength.
Nerthwr, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nerth—gwr) A strengthener; a supporter.
Nerthydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nerth) A strengthener.
Neryn, s. m. dim. (nar) The child of old age; a child born when the father is absent.
Nes, s. m. (ny—es) The state of being without distance, close, or proximate. a. Divested of distance: It is also used for the comparative nesach, nearer, closer, of less distance. Ni byddi nes er agny, thou wilt not be the nearer for that.

Nes an choel.

Nearer than belief.

Adapt.

Nes, adv. (ny—es) Until. Ni chei glod nes marw, thou shalt not have fame until thou art dead.
Nesâd, s. m. (nesân) Approximation; approach.
Nesâwl, a. (nesân) Approximating.
Nesach, a. (nes) Nearer, or more near.
Nesaf, a. (nes) Nearest, next, most near. s. m. The next, the nearest.

Melymf y gwellt nesaf i'r ddalar.

Sweetest the grass next to the ground.

Adapt.

Nesân, v. a. (nes) To draw near, to approach.
Nesâwr, s. m.—pl. nesâwyr (nesân—gwr) One who draws near or approximates.
Nesedig, a. (nes) Being approximated.
Nesedigaeth, s. m. (nesedig) Approximation.
Nesefin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nesaf) A neighbour.
Nesefiad, s. m.—pl. nesefiaid (nesaf) One who is nearest of kin; a relative.
Nesiad, s. m. (nes) A drawing near, or approaching; approximation.
Nesiannawl, a. (nesiant) Tending to approximate.
Nesianna, v. a. (nesiant) To approximate.
Nesiant, s. m. (nes) Approximation.
Nesiator, ger. (nesiad) In approximating.
Nesitor, sup. (nes) To be approximating.
Nesnes, a. (nes repeated) Nearer and nearer.

Nesnes y llefar i'r dref.

Nearer and nearer the shouting to the town.

Adapt.

*Nesnes yw cerdd Taliesin,
A'i lawl boucelrddaldd u'i fân*

Closer and closer still in Taliesin's song, and his mastery praised from his lips. S. Cent.

Nesrwydd, s. m. (nes) Nearness, proximity.
Nest, s. m. (nes) That is compact or close.
Nester, s. m.—pl. t. i (nest) A cupboard.
Nestig, a. (nest) Of a compact nature.

—Nestig mieldrath Meldraier llafar pob llawnsech.

Compact the structure of the accomplisher of the labour of every fulfilment. Edith Nes.

Nesu, v. a. (nes) To draw near, to approximate.
Nesta, v. a. (nest) To appropriate.

O rhoddâ genedl wrag diawl i alltâ,—ni chaff yr un o blant houo ei oeddfa arbenig hyd y drydedd sch; ac o'r rhyw gymweddul houo y nestir gwartheg ddech i eu teulu.

If a tribe betray a poor woman to an alien, none of the children of such a one shall obtain a special station, until the third descent; and, from that sort of connection, cattle not available as society shall be appropriated to their family.

Neu, v. a. (ne) To pant; to wish earnestly.
Neu, conj. (ne) Or. Tydi neu arall, thou or another; dyred neu buid, come or let it alone.
Neu, adv. (ne) Truly so; will not, is there not;
otherwise, else. Neu ym, neu'm, will not of me;
neu yth, neu'ith, will not of thee.

*Breuddwydiaw er ban balchilw arien dos;
Ys oddiawg hon, neu ym hebgyr rawdd!*

*Dreaming about the nymph of the superb hae of the hoar drop;
excellent be the night, does it bid save me from grief!* Gwylchmai.

*Neu'm cynnwys draig Bony's trwy borch;
Neu'm arwpr, neu'm car, neu'm cyfarch!*
Me will not the leader of Ponys receive with respect; will he not me solace, will he not me love, will he not me greet! Cynullew.

Neu'm be dydd cer elfydd Elwy.

To me truly there was a day by the stream of Elwy. L. P. Moch.

Neuad, s. m. (neu) A panting; a longing.
Neuadd, s. f.—pl. t. au (neu—add) A hall.

Neuadd pob diddos.

Every shelter is a hall.

Adapt.

*Wyl bardd neuadd, wyl cyff cadair;
Digonaf i leidd llafar llawdar.*

I am bard of the hall, I am butt of the chair; I shall be able to frustrate the talkative bards.

Neuaddawg, a. (neuadd) Having a hall.
Neuaddawl, a. (neuadd) Belonging to a hall.
Neuaddwys, s. f. (neuadd—gwys) A hall-full.

Addwyn enwydd yn neuaddwys.

Pleasing the minstrel in the hall.

Taliesin.

Neuant, s. m. (neu) A panting; longing; regret.
Neuaw, v. a. (neu) To pant; to wish earnestly.

Eryr gliw g'leuaf, neuaf na ddaw!

As an eagle the most gallant chief, I regret that he does not come! Cynullew.

Er pan llas llyw red neud neued nes?

Neuaf nae gwelaf fal ym gwleis.

Since the leader of generosity has been slain, is not regret come near? I regret that I see him not as he has been. Cynullew, m. Cudwotton.

Neuawd, s. m. (neu) A panting; a longing.
Neuawl, a. (neu) Panting; longing; regretting.

I'r gwir Ddow ydd wyl yn erchi,

Er geyr nef o'm neuawl weddi

—Tori gins clym.

To the true God I am praying, for heaven knows my earnest request, that the blue shackles may be broken. Hywel Fard.

Neud, adv. (neu) Is it not, is it not that, does not; verily it is.

Neud amser gausf gwleuaf gweligi,

Gweligiug moratar hwyfar bell;

Neud arien ar'au Eryri writhou;

Neud uchel gwendon gwyn-dir Enill.

Is it not the time of winter the ocean is most pale, the bed of the sea fowls in the raging course of the brine: does not the hour envelop Eryri now; is not the white wave loud round the sacred land of Enill. Blodwyn Fard.

Neued, s. f. (neu) A panting; longing; regret.

Yn y mae yfed, heb neued, heb nag,
Heb newid eiddad.

Where there is drinking, without regret, without refusal, without any kind of want.

Nenedd, s. m. (neu) A panting, or palpitation; a panting after, or longing.

Neufedd, s. m. (neu—medd) Wealth, riches.

Neur, adv. (neu—yr) Is it not; verily so.

Nens, adv. (neu—ys) Is it not; verily it is.

New, s. m. (ne) That is proceeding or going off.

Newid, s. m.—pl. t. iau (new) A change; a cheap rate, small value, or cheapness.

Nid erchis yr hen Gyrys onid a fal rhwng y newidiau.

Old Cyrys asked for no more than what might be between the bargains.

Angus'r newidiau fy nodi a was Yn un o'r nerthiari:

Angel a'k at Eli.

A'u un Duw, a'm enaid i.

The death of changes will mark me as one of the martyrs: may an angel go to Eli, and my only God, with my soul!

L. G. Cuth.

Clywn dyngw, a rhegi, a chabla, onid roeswn i newid ar fy agludiau rhag gwaudaw.

I could hear swearing, cursing and blaspheming, so that I would have set a bargain upon my ears rather than listen.

Ella Wyn, B. Cwg.

Newid, v. a. (new) To change, to exchange.

Newid y gwewyr.

To change the pain.

Adage.

Newidiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (newid) A changing.

Newidiadwy, a. (newidiad) Changeable.

Newidiannawl, a. (newidiad) Tending to change.

Newidiannu, v. a. (newidiad) To produce a change or alteration; to transform.

Newidiant, s. m. (newid) The act or state of changing; alteration; transformation.

Newidiaw, v. a. (newid) To change; to transform.

Tri pheth nis gall namn Daw: dyddodf bythoed y cengant; cychid a phob eiddwr heb newidaw; a rhoi gwell a newydd ar bob peth heb ei roi ar goll.

Three things which none but God can accomplish: endure the periods of eternity; converse with every state without changing; and confer improvement and renovation upon every thing without consigning it to annihilation.

Barddas.

Mae'n ei bryd fy newidiaw;

Mawr wall oddi fy mwrw o'i llaw.

It is in her mind to change me; great were the rashness to cast me off her hand.

Newidiawg, a. (newid) Having a change.

Newidiawl, a. (newid) Changeable, mutable.

Newidiedig, a. (newidiad) Being changed.

Newidioldeb, s. m. (newidiawl) Changeableness.

Newidiolder, s. m. (newidiawl) Changeableness.

Newidioli, v. (newidiawl) To be changeable.

Newidiolrwydd, s. (newidiawl) Changeableness.

Newidiwr, s. m.—pl. newidwyr (newid—gwr) A changer; one who barter.

Newidrwydd, s. m. (newid) A changed state.

Newidwriaeth, s. m. (newidiwr) Exchange, commerce, or traffick; a bartering of wares.

Gwladddyn wyd: gwaeddan idwyf:

Wachwraeth newidwriaeth idwyf.

Thou art an excellent person; a miserable wight am I: Worse and worse the commerce of love.

D. ab Gwilym.

Newidwriaethawl, a. (newidwriaeth) Appertaining to exchange or commerce.

Newydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (new) What is new. Papur Newydd, a news paper; newyddion da, good news; dywed imi ryw newydd, tell me some news.

Na ro gori i newyddion oni hont yn hen.

Give no credit to news until they are grown old.

Adage.

Newydd, a. (new) New; fresh. Newydd gra, newydd tanllw, brand new.

Newydddaidd, a. (newydd) Somewhat new.

Newyddawl, a. (newydd) Of a new quality.

Newyddban, a. (newydd—pan) Newly dressed.

Newyddbeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (newydd—beth) A new thing, a novelty.

Newydddeb, s. m. (newydd) Newness, novelty.

Newyddder, s. m. (newydd) Newness, novelty.

Newydddra, s. m. (newydd) Newness, novelty.

Newydddedd, s. m. (newydd) Novelness, newness.

Newyddgrëad, s. m. (newydd—crëad) A new creation. a. Newly created.

Newyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (newydd) The act of making new; a becoming new; innovation.

Newyddian, s. c.—pl. t. od (newydd) A novice.

Nid yn newyddian, rhag lldo ymnewyddaw, a syrthiaw i farol iageth y diabol.

Not a novice, lest, being lifted up with pride, he fall into the condemnation of the devil.

1 Timothy 3. 6.

Newyddianaeth, s. m. (newyddian) Noviciate.

Newyddiannawl, a. (newyddian) Appertaining to a new state; of a new condition.

Newyddiannu, v. a. (newyddian) To render of a new state; to become novel.

Newyddiannus, a. (newyddian) Tending to a new state; in a state of newness.

Newyddiant, s. m. (newydd) A state of newness.

Newyddiaw, v. a. (newydd) To make new.

Newyddiedig, a. (newyddiad) Being made new.

Newyddrwydd, s. m. (newydd) Recentness.

Newyddu, v. a. (newydd) To make new; to modernize, to innovate, to become new.

Newyddus, a. (newydd) Tending to innovation.

Newyddwr, s. m.—pl. newyddwyr (newydd—gwr) One who makes new; an innovator.

Newyn, s. m. (ne—gwyn) Hunger; famine.

Gloddest awr a newyn blwyddyn.

Excess for an hour and famine for a year.

Adage.

Ni ddwg newyn mam weision.

Boys will not bear the hunger of a mother.

Adage.

Pwybyng a gwallfawr ag Arthur, ag un dyddodf y lladdu, ac o'n'i farw; ac wrth hwy pawb a foynt rheddy, merys hwynt a safellid rhag lleu dywal, pan fal newyn mawr araw.

Whoever happened to meet with Arthur, with one stroke was to slay him and his horse; and therefore every body fled from him, as the beasts might flee from a furious lion, when he is suffering great hunger.

Gr. ab Arrian.

Newynawg, a. (newyn) Having hunger, famished.

Hwareldu mab noeth, ni hwery mab newynawg.

A naked child may play, a hungry child will not play.

Adage.

Newynawl, a. (newyn) Famishing; hungry.

Newyndawd, s. m. (newyn) Hungriness.

Newyndra, s. m. (newyn) A hungry state.

Newynedig, a. (newyn) Being famished.

Newyniad, s. m. (newyn) A famishing.

Newynllyd, a. (newyn) Hungry, half starved.

Newynllydrwydd, s. m. (newynllyd) Hungriness.

Newynogaeth, s. m. (newynawg) Famishment.

Newynu, v. a. (newyn) To starve one, to famish;

to be starved, to be famished.

Lladd gloddest yw newynu y meddyg.

To destroy intemperance is to starve the doctor.

Adage.

Mai cellawg y rhedyn yu canu yr haf a newynu y gzanf.

Like the grasshopper slugs in summer and famishes in winter.

Adage.

Newynwr, s. m.—pl. newynwyr (newyn—gwr) One who hungers; a famisher.

Nhw, pron. (hwy) They, or them.

Nhwy, pron. (nhw) They, or them.

Nhwythau, pron. (nhwy—tau) They also.

NI, s. m. r. A Number separate or apart.

Ni, pron. (ni, s.) We, us. Dyma ni, here we are; ni saw, we will go; ni sydd yma, it is we who are here.

Gwell gwae fi na gwae ni.

Better woe me than woe us.

Adage.

Ni, adv. Not; used mostly before words with consonant initials. Ni ddasant, they will not come; ni waeth er hynny, no matter for that; ni ym, ni yth, ni yn, ni ych, by syncope become ni'm, ni'th, ni'n, ni'ch.

Ni bydd doeth ni llo.

He will not be wise that will not read.

Adage.

Ni bydd dirind heb hawl.

The uncharitable will not be without a claim.

Adage.

Gwr ni'th gar ni'th gyddydd.

A person who loves them not will not bear with thee.

Adage.

Ar ni odddefo gwas bid was lldo ei hun.

He that will not bear with a servant let him be a servant to himself.

Adage.

Enillu ni char ei enillbu.

Scandal loves not to be scandalized.

Adage.

Diwedd ni bydd i'th, na dechre ni bu.

An end there will not be to thee, nor beginning has there been.

Eia. ab Gwalchmai.

Nid, s. m. (ni—id) A stop of progress; that is impending or in a state of rest.

Nid, adv. (ni—yd) Not; used mostly before words with vowel initials. Nid yw da, it is not good; nid yf ond y fo, not me but him; nid oes ed er doe er pan aeth, it is only since yesterday that he is gone; nid angen, not otherwise, to wit; nid awyrach, perhaps.

A Duw nid da ymdaraw.

With God it is not good to strive.

Adage.

Nid bod ond angen, nid angen ond Duw.

There is no being but necessity, there is not a necessity but God.

Adage.

Nidr, s. m. (nid) A let, impediment, or hinderance; an entanglement; a delay, or lingering.

Nidrad, s. m. (nidr) An entangling; perplexity.

Nidraw, v. a. (nidr) To entangle; to be entangled; to embarrass; to perplex.

Y haren—

Nidredd awgylech fy neddredd.

The bramble is entangled about my two feet.

D. ab Gwilym.

Nidrawl, a. (nidr) Entangling; dilatory.

Nidredd, s. m. (nidr) Entanglement; perplexity.

Nidri, s. m. (nidr) Entanglement; perplexity; obstruction, hinderance.

O nidri nid ai un adref.

From perplexity not one would reach home.

M. ab Grithin, fr. Saron.

Nidriad, s. m.—pl. nidriaid (nidr) An entangler.

Nidrwyr, s. m.—pl. nidrwyrr (nidr—gwr) One who entangles; a delayer.

Nif, s. m. (ni) A specific number or tale.

Nifer, s. m.—pl. s. oedd (nif) A number; a number collected together, a multitude, a host, a company; a retinue.

Niferai, s. c.—pl. niferelon (nifer) Numerator.

Niferawg, a. (nifer) Consisting of many.

Beirdd newid niferawg orsedd.

The wish of bards a numerous congress.

Cyddfela.

Niferawl, a. (nifer) Relating to number; numerical, numeral.

Niferedig, a. (nifer) Being numbered, or told.

Niferedd, s. m. (nifer) Numerousness.

Niferiad, s. m. (nifer) A numbering.

Niferiaeth, s. m. (nifer) Numeration.

Niferiarnawl, a. (niferiant) Numerary.

Niferiannu, v. a. (niferiant) To enumerate; to make out a number.

Niferiant, s. m. (nifer) Numeration.

Niferogl, v. a. (niferawg) To render numerous; to become numerous or multitudinous.

Niferogrwydd, s. m. (niferawg) Numerousness.

Niferu, v. a. (nifer) To number, to count.

Niferydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nifer) A numerist.

Nifwl, s. m. (nif—gwl) A mist; a cloud.

Nifwlawg, a. (nifwl) Misty, hazy, cloudy.

Nig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—lg) That is strait.

Nigrad, s. m. (nig) A straitening, a narrowing.

Nigrlaw, v. a. (nig) To straiten, to narrow.

Nigus, a. (nig) Strait, narrow, confined.

Ni wlegr fong nigus

O groen iollu.—

I will not wear any strait gloves of the skin of sheep.

D. ab Gwilym.

Nill, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—ill) What tends to gain upon or to encroach; a poppy.

Nilla, v. a. (nill) To be over-reaching, to augment Nillai, s. c.—pl. nilleion (nill) A sickle.

Ninnau, pron. (ni—tau) We also, and us.

Ebal Arawn ab Cynfarch, cyrchu yr banner-gwyr; a safon yn eu cyrchu, llyd pen orlous ni aruddant by, can ddwyn eu ar- rhydded, yd arferom ninnau o lawen fodd; goliaeth.

Said Arawn son of Cynfarch, let us fall on those half men; and let us persevere in attacking them, until we overcome them, so by taking away their honour, that we then may enjoy a glad triumph.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Nis, adv. (ni—ys) Not. It is synonymous with Ni, and used before words with consonant initials, and preserving them in their radical form; as nis doi, for ni ddoi, thou wilt not come; or nis gweli, for ni weli, thou wilt not see, and the like.

Eddewid nis gwneir nid yw.

A promise that shall not be performed doth not exist.

Adage.

Ni cheifl byyll nis prynn.

He shall not obtain wit who buys it not.

Adage.

Nith, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ny—ith) That is pure, or clear; a niece.

Nithiad, s. m. (nith) A winnowing, a cleaning.

Nithiannawl, a. (nithiant) Tending to purify.

Nithiannu, v. a. (nithiant) To make clean.

Nithiant, s. m. (nith) A purifying; a winnowing.

Nithiaw, v. a. (nith) To purify; to winnow.

Also Troelli and dioldi.

Nithia o'm bron gr-wlon gredd;

Nwetha yn war nyth awelredd.

Purge from my breast a cruel disposition; gently lay open the nest of iniquity.

H. D. ab Ifan.

Nithiawl, a. (nith) Tending to clear; relating to winnowing.

Nithiedig, a. (nithiad) Being winnowed.

Nithiwr, s. m.—pl. nithwyr (nith—gwr) A win- nower.

Nithlen, s. f. (nith—llen) A winnowing sheet.

Nithlen, pedair celulawg a dai.

A winnowing sheet, its value is four pence.

Welsh Laws.

Niw, s. m. (ny—lw) That is violent or sharp.

Niw, adv. (ni) Of what not, of that not.

Ni chyll niw dyfydd.

There will be no loss of what will not be.

Adage.

Niwed, s. m.—pl. niweidian (niw) Harm, hurt, damage, prejudice, disadvantage.

Na chwyr hyd niwed,

Na cheliwyr hyd niwed.

Play not till harm comes, lest not till it becomes calamity.

Adage.

Niwedu, v. a. (niwed) To hurt, or to injure.

Nad i'r cythrel, y gelyn,
Nodau dig niwedu dyn.

Prevent the devil, the foe, of wrathful impulses, to injure man.
T. Gruffydd.

Niweidiad, s. m. (niwaid) A hurting a damaging.

Niweidiannawl, a. (niweidiant) Of a noxious or hurtful quality; injurious.

Niweidiannu, v. a. (niweidiant) To create a hurt, or injury; to become an injury.

Niweidiant, s. m. (niwed) A harming, a hurting.

Niweidiaw, v. a. (niwed) To hurt, to harm, to injure, to damage, to annoy.

Niweidiawg, a. (niwaid) Hurtful, injurious.

Niweidiawl, a. (niwed) Noceut, mischievous.

Niweidiedig, a. (niwed) Hurt, or injured.

Niweidioldeb, s. m. (niweidiawl) Noxiousness.

Niweidiolled, s. m. (niweidiawl) Noxiousness.

Niweidioll, v. a. (niweidiawl) To render noxious; to become noxious or hurtful.

Niweidiolrwydd, s. m. (niweidiawl) Noxiousness.

Niweidiwr, s. m.—pl. niweidiwyr (niwaid—gwr) One who hurts or injures.

Niweidrwydd, s. m. (niwed) Hurtfulness.

Niwl, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ni—gwl) Mist, fog.

Niwl y gwaswyn, gwasarn gwyn;
Niwl yr haf, gwasarn lla;
Niwl y cynhaesi, gwasarn gwlaw;
Niwl y gwasf, gwasarn eira.

Mist in spring is the source of wind;
Mist in summer is the source of heat;
Mist in autumn is the source of rain;
Mist in winter is the source of snow.

Adage.

Niwlenn, s. f. dim. (niwl) A small mist; a small detached cloud.

Niwlach, s. pl. aggr. (niwl) Scattered clouds of mist; flying clouds.

Ni welaif oidd allwllach;
Nid yfai win; nid wyf iach.

I see nought but misty clouds: I will not drink wine; I am not well.
D. ab Gwilym.

Niwlid, s. m. (niwl) A becoming misty or cloudy.

Niwlaw, v. a. (niwl) To become misty or cloudy.

Niwlawg, a. (niwl) Covered with mist, misty.

Niwllogrwydd, s. m. (niwlawg) Mistiness.

NO, s. m. r. That stops, confines, or keeps in.

No, adv. (no, s.) Than, compared with. It is used before words, with consonant initials.

Llai no dim, less than nothing; mwy no dim, more than any thing.

Gwell ceiniog na brawd.

A penny is better than a brother.

Adage.

Nod, s. m.—pl. t. au (no—od) A characteristic, a token, a mark, a butt, a brand. Gwr nod, a man of note; haint y nodau, the plague; nod y dwfr yw gwlybuniadaeth, the characteristic of water is liquidity.

Llae haelion o ddynon tra fuan,
Triwyr nod mawr eu ciol, gan Elgan.

Stain were men generous whilst they were, three men of note great of fame, by Elgan.

Ni chwynwn aychu ennvd,
Nod bach, a newidlo byd.

I would not complain to suffer awhile, as a small stain, and to change condition.
D. Jones, o Lanfair.

Nod, adv. (no—od) Marking, to, even, likewise.

Car hwb, nod dy elyn.

Love every body, even thy enemy.

Adage.

Nodach, s. pl. aggr. (nod) Sundry articles.

Nodalwy, a. (nod) Remarkable, observable.

Nodal, s. c.—pl. nodelon (nod) A noter.

Nodawg, a. (nod) Having a mark or sign, noted.

Nodawl, a. (nod) Tending to characterize, or to mark; marked, notable, eminent, considerable.

Nodeb, s. m. (nod) A characteristic.

Nodedig, a. (nod) Characterized, noted, marked, eminent, considerable.

Noden, s. f.—pl. t. i (nawd) Thread, yarn.

Nodi, v. a. (nod) To characterize, to note, to mark, to point out; to appoint.

Ebal Arthur yna, eho na thngi di yna, nodon, d a gull; eho w a noto dy ben.

Thereupon Arthur said since thou wilt not tarry here, pray thou shalt have the request, which thy tongue may motion.
H. Cuthbert—Helsing.

Well iddynt nodi diwrnod iddo, llawer a ddech ato ei, fo iwr.
I'r rhai y tystiolaethodd—am yr lla.

After they had appointed a day for him, many came to him into his lodgings, to whom he testified concerning Jesus.
Act. xiv. 2.

Nodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nod) A characterizing; a noting, a pointing out; an appointing.

Nodiadawl, a. (nodiad) Characteristical.

Nodiadn, v. a. (nodiad) To characterize.

Nodiadur, s. m. (nodiad) An annotator.

Nodiannawl, a. (nodiad) Characteristic.

Nodiannu, v. c. (nodiad) To characterize.

Nodiannus, a. (nodiad) Characteristical.

Nodiannusrwydd, s. m. (nodiannus) Characteristicalness; that is of a marked condition.

Nodiant, s. m. (nod) A notation, a noting.

Nodidwydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nodiad) One who characterizes; one who remarks; a notary.

Nodlyfr, s. m.—pl. t. au (nod—lyfr) Note book.

Nodoldeb, s. m. (nodawl) Characteristicalness.

Nodolled, s. m. (nodawl) Characteristicalness.

Nodoli, v. a. (nodawl) To characterize.

Nodolrwydd, s. m. (nodawl) Characteristicalness; notableness, notability.

Nodrwydd, s. m. (nôd) A notable condition.

Nodwedd, s. m. (nôd—gwedd) A characteristic.

Nodweddlaw, a. (nodwedd) Characteristical.

Nodweddedig, a. (nodwedd) Characterized.

Nodweddiad, s. m. (nodwedd) A characterizing.

Nodweddu, v. a. (nodwedd) To characterize.

Istith yw yn meddu dyfala—pob dydymwg or a ddifiafwr a awen dyn o nodweddu.

Language is adequate to describe every idea, which the soul and genius of man may be able to characterize.

Llywelyn o Langryth.

Nodweddu, a. (nodwedd) Characteristical.

Nodweddwyr, s. m.—pl. nodweddwyr (nodweddwyr) A characterizer.

Nodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nod) A noter, a marker.

Nodyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nodydd) A notation.

Nodyn, s. m. dim. (nod) A note, a mark, a sign.

Nodd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—odd) The moisture or fluid pervading bodies; the juice, or sap of vegetation.

Noddadwy, a. (nawdd) Capable of affording refuge.

Noddawl, a. (nawdd) Tending to protect.

Nodded, s. f. (nawdd) Refuge, protection.

Noddfa, s. f.—pl. t. au (nawdd—ma) A place of refuge, a sanctuary.

Noddflau newydd fawr.

New sanctuaries they were.

E. G. Codd.

Mae hec groen mai earg noddflau yn mynydd Dwrth.

There is an old cross, like a stone of refuge, in the mountain of Dwrth.

A. Lewis.

Noddi, v. a. (nawdd) To give refuge, to protect.

A noddo Daw rhy noddi.

That will be protected by God, will be protected completely.

Adage.

Ffyniaf gadw Mao:

Daw Tad, am ei ddedd hi,

A noddo pob man iddi.

I will pray for the preservation of Mao: May God the Father for his excellency, protect every part of it.

Dr. E. G. Codd.

ioddiaid, s. m. (nawdd) A giving refuge, a protecting, a making an asylum.
 ioddianawl, a. (noddiant) As to protection.
 ioddianwn, v. a. (noddiant) To make a refuge.
 ioddiant, s. m. (nawdd) Protection, refuge.
 ioddlyd, a. (nodd) Of a juicy nature, sappy.
 ioddlydiad, s. m. (noddlyd) A rendering juicy; a becoming juicy or sappy.
 ioddlydrwydd, s. m. (noddlyd) Juiciness.
 ioddlydu, v. a. (noddlyd) To render juicy; to become juicy or sappy.
 ioddus, a. (nawdd) Affording a refuge or asylum.
 ioddusaw, v. a. (noddus) To render protective; to become protective.
 ioddwr, s. m.—pl. noddwyr (nawdd—gwr) One who gives refuge; a protector.
 ioddwraig, s. f.—pl. noddwreigedd (nawdd—gwaig) A protectress.
 ioddyn, s. m. (nawdd) That envelopes, an abys.

Eior y gwyr a elwir Gwyn
 Ab Nudd wrach ben y noddyn—
 And ag af.

May the bier of him who is called Gwyn ab Nudd take him above the abyss. R. Nanmor, 17r long.

Noc, s. f.—pl. t. an (no) Any shallow vessel; a platter, or flat wooden dish; a tray. Noc bobî, cys tylinaw, a kneading vessel or trough.

North—or pan anner and fo ddodddag mlyydd a ddylly fod wrth noc et thad.

A girl, from the time when she is born until she shall be twelve years old ought to be at her father's dish. Welsh Laws.

Noead, s. m. (noe) A putting in a platter or dish.
 Noeaid, s. f.—pl. noeaidian (noe) A platter-full.
 Noeaw, v. a. (noe) To put in a platter, to dish.
 Noeth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—oeth) A naked one.

Dod feathyg i noeth, nis cal dranoeth.

Give a loan to the naked one, thou wilt not have it the next day.
Adage.

Noeth, a. (ny—oeth) Naked, bare, exposed.

Cariddwch arglwydd a chledd noeth ys enbyd.

The familiarity of a lord with a naked sword is dangerous.
Adage.

Noethadwy, a. (noeth) That may be made naked.
 Noethawg, a. (noeth) Being naked or bare.
 Noethawl, a. (noeth) Tending to make bare.
 Noethedig, a. (noeth) Being made bare.
 Noethedd, s. m. (noeth) Nakedness, nudity.
 Noethi, v. a. (noeth) To make bare, to strip.

Triangenwrthun baidd Ynys Prydain: oel gŵn orfod, or hedd-wrth a lie; cwyr anafwl, gan ridd cyflawder; a noethi cledd ar ddraed ac arfauith.

The three repulsive obligations of the bards of the Isle of Britain:
 survey by compulsion, for the sake of peace and of good; the complaint of disrepair, for the sake of justice; and to washeneth the sword against evil and devastation. Harlequin.

Noethiad, s. m. (noeth) A making naked.
 Noethiadawl, a. (noethiad) Apt to make bare.
 Noethiadu, v. a. (noethiad) To denudate.
 Noethianawl, a. (noethiant) Apt to denudate.
 Noethianu, v. a. (noethiant) To denudate.
 Noethiant, s. m. (noeth) A denudation.
 Noethlwm, a. (noeth—lwm) Nakedly bare.
 Noethlyman, s. m.—pl. t. od (noeth—llyman) One that is stark naked. a. Stark naked.
 Noethni, s. m. (noeth) Nakedness, bareness.
 Nof, s. m. (ny—of) That is moving or flowing.
 Nofant, s. m. (nof) A state of motion; a fluid.
 Nofant, s. m.—pl. t. au (nawf) A swimming.

Ac yn noethach ym gwanthant
 Na glustiaid yn nofod nant.

And more naked they made me than the salmon in the swimming course of the brook. L. G. Ceithi, 1 supr. Cartillon.

Nofadaeth, s. m. (nofiad) The art of swimming.
 Vol. II.

Nofiadawl, a. (nofiad) Relating to swimming.
 Nofiadokdeb, s. m. (nofiadawl) Buoyancy.
 Nofiadoledd, s. m. (nofiadawl) Buoyancy.
 Nofiadur, s. m. (nofiad) That causes to swim.
Nofiadur pysgodyn, nawf pysgodyn, the swim or wind bladder of a fish.
 Nofiadwy, a. (nofiad) Capable of swimming.
 Nofiannawl, a. (nofiant) Buoyant, swimming.
 Nofiannu, v. a. (nofiant) To render buoyant;
 to become buoyant.
 Nofiant, s. m. (nawf) A swimming; a swim.
 Noflaw, v. a. (nawf) To swim; to cause to swim.
A eili di noflaw dros yr afon? Canst thou swim over the river? Dwyf a nofla long, water that will swim a ship.

Ni nofla mewn un afon
 Y deuth yn erbyn y doc.

The wise will not swim in a river against the stream of the wave.
Adage.

Nofiedig, a. (nofiad) Being swimmied.
 Nofiedigaeth, s. m. (nofiedig) The art of swimming; a swimming condition.
 Nofiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nofiad) A swimmer.

Niwl wybren—
 Nofiedydd y nef ydwyf:
 Gwasgarnu f'ia gwng orof;
 Dy lo: hea yw monwes mor.

Vapour of the atmosphere, thou art the swimmer of the sky: disperse to thy region of repose; thy retreat is the bosom of the sea.
D. Richard.

Noflwr, s. m.—pl. nofwyr (nawf—gwr) A swimmer
 Nofle, s. m. (nawf—lle) A swimming place.
 Nofwg, s. m. (nawf) Buoyancy, a swimming state Nog, adv. (no) Than, compared with. It is used before words with vowel initials.

Gwell crofti nog arllawd arglwydd.

Better is a trade than the profession of a prince. Adage.

Nag eirfach un nog arall.

Spare not one more than another.
H. Llwyd Cyfal, 17r llwyngog.

Nol, v. a. (ny—ol) To fetch, or to bring.
 Noll, v. a. (nol) To fetch, or to bring.
 Non, s. f.—pl. t. au (ny—on) A stream, a brook.

Dy flynawn lydan, dyleinw nonau;
 Dyddaw, dyhebyr, dybrys dybrau;
 Marwnad Corol a'm cyffroes!

Thy ample fountain, it will replenish the streams; sad omens come, dispensing with the path of haste: the death-cry of Corol hath agitated me! Tallies.

Nos, s. f.—pl. t. an (ny—os) Night. Min nos, min y nos, the twilight of evening; hanner nos, canol nos, midnight; perfeddion y nos, dyfnder y nos, the middle of the night, or the dead of the night; o'r nos y ganer of, from the night when he shall be born.

Nos yw mam y cyrwiau.

Night is the mother of plots. Adage.

Gwaith y nos y dydd a'l dengys.

The work of the night the day will disclose. Adage.

Nosawl, a. (nos) Relating to night, nocturnal.

Mawrhae yr hollyfnoethawg Ddau ei dregareidd yn mhilith y
 Prydeleidd, rhag ei lywyllaw hwynt o nosawl dywyllwg angho.

The omnipotent God hath magnified his mercy amongst the Brit-tons, in preventing their being darkened by the night-like darkness of death. Or. ab Arthur.

Nosgrwydr, s. m.—pl. nosgrwydrau (nos—crwydr)
 A night ramble.

Nosgrwydrad, s. m. (nosgrwydr) A night ramble.

Nosgrwydrai, s. m.—pl. nosgrwydroion (nos-grwydr) A night Rambler.

Nosgrwydrydd, s. m.—pl. nosgrwydryddion (nos-grwydr) A night Rambler.

Nosi, v. n. (nos) To become night, to draw towards night, to grow late.

*Er nosl dygeleirdeb eich gweld,
O'ch llygad dan gwawr y'ngbudd—
Ein e wawr.*

Though the brightness of your countenance is become night, from your eye being hidden under a cloud, again it shall shine.
Ro. Edwards Offriad.

Nosi, s. f. (nos) A night-time, darkness of night.

*Fenaid dios, ni ddaw nosl
I adall haf y del hi.*

My pretty soul, night will not come to the summer's day where she comes. Ll. ab Gwilym.

Nosiad, s. m. (nos) A becoming night.

Nosig, s. f. dim. (nos) A night time, a night.

Mabon fab Modron a ddysid yn nhair nosig twrth ei fam.

Mabon the son of Modron was taken in three nights from his mother. M. Culhwch—Malinogion.

Noson, s. f. (nos) A night time, a night; a certain night.

Jacob—a llettyl y noson hono yn y gwersyll.

Jacob lodged for that night in the camp. Genesis 32. 21.

Noswaith, s. f.—pl. nosweithiau (nos—gwaith) A certain night, a night.

Noswyl, s. f.—pl. t. iau (nos—gwyl) The evening, the nightfall, the time of leaving off work at eve; a vigil.

Noswyl iŵr, gwae at rŵr.

The hen's night-time, woe to such as loves it. Adage.

Noswyliaid, s. m. (noswyl) A leaving off work at eve; a keeping vigils.

Noswyliair, v. a. (noswyl) To give over work at eve; to keep a vigil.

Noswyliair, a. (noswyl) Resting for the night.

Noswylidig, a. (noswyliaid) Being laid by at night

Noswyliair, s. m.—pl. noswyliair (noswyl—gwr) One who leaves off for the night; one who keeps vigils.

Notur, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nawd) Nature.

Noturiaeth, s. m.—pl. t. an (notur) Nature.

Noturiair, a. (notur) Natural, or genial.

Nudd, s. m. (ny—udd) A fog, haze, or mist.

Nug, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—ug) A shake, a quiver, a ripple. a. Shaking; quivering.

*Metech—
Meth, mynngan, hirlam, haerlur,
Na byrnt gyt na rhywynt uch rydug.*

Stead, swift, white-maned, of long stride, and impatient, may they not be more fleet than the stormy wind above the rippling ford. Ll. P. Mech.

Nugiaid, s. m.—pl. t. au (nug) A shaking; a rippling; or broken motion.

Nugiair, v. a. (nug) To shake; to quiver; to ripple; to wrinkle.

Nugiair gŵn y cwn.

To be shaken by the dogs. Adage.

Nugiair, a. (nug) Tending to shake or ripple.

Nur, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—ur) A pure body or being; essence.

*Am Fadawg deifnawg dofn awen;
Am nur par fal pair Ceridwen—
Y prydair.*

For the accomplished Madawg of profound genius; for a pure essence like the cauldron of Ceridwen I am and. Sefyn.

NW, s. m. r. That is of a pervading nature.

Nwd, s. m. (ny—wd) That is sharp or pointed.

Nwdd, s. m. (nw) That is pervasive or oozing.

Nwf, s. m. (nw) That is subtil; that is pure, or hallowed. a. Holy, or pure.

Nwn, s. m. (nw) That is of an intense nature.

Nwth, s. m. (nw) That draws in or pulls.

Nwy, s. m. (nw) That is pervasive; spirit, or vivacity; spiritliness.

Nwyd, s. m.—pl. t. au (nwy) Drift, or scope; bent of the mind, or passion; a whim, or trick; a way, or manner. Nwydas drwg, bad tricks; anhwedd tyngs nwyd o hen geffyl, it is difficult to break an old horse of a trick.

O bent i bent bont tebyg Hwylong lwyd i nwyd acida!

From bottom to bottom is not the den roving ship of the sea course as a snake! R. Nann.

Nwydaw, v. n. (nwyd) To have a particular bent of mind; to have a whim or trick.

Nwydawg, a. (nwyd) Having a particular passion; having a whim or trick.

Nwydawl, a. (nwyd) Of a peculiar bent of mind; whimsical; apt to have tricks.

Nwydedd, s. m. (nwyd) The state of being of a peculiar turn of mind; whimsicalness; a habit of freaks or tricks.

Nwydiad, s. m. (nwyd) A filling with whims or freaks; a becoming whimsical.

Nwydiant, s. m. (nwyd) A whimsical disposition.

Nwydus, a. (nwyd) Freaky, or whimsical.

Nwydusaw, v. a. (nwydus) To render whimsical; to become whimsical or full of freaks.

Nwyduswydd, s. m. (nwydus) Whimsicalness.

Nwydyllt, a. (nwyd—gwyllt) Abounding with wild freaks; halfbrained.

Nwydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (nwy) Essence; stuff, substance, or materials; commodity; effect; wealth, riches. Mae nwydd da yn yr ceginiau Ayn, there is good stuff in these shoes. Sil.

Nwyddaw, v. a. (nwydd) To endue with matter or substance; a becoming substantial.

Nwyddawg, a. (nwydd) Material, or substantial.

Nwyddawl, a. (nwydd) Material, or substantial.

Nwyddiad, s. m. (nwydd) A rendering material or substantial; a becoming substantial.

Nwyddus, a. (nwydd) Material, or substantial.

Nwyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (nwy) A subtil pervading element; a fine ethereal fluid; animal spirits, liveliness, or vivacity; energy.

Tri bonedd awen, nwyf, pryll, a gwybodaeth.

The three foundations of genius, vision, judgment, and knowledge. Id. 1. 2.

Nwyfaw, v. a. (nwyf) To cheer up the spirits, to enliven; to become sprightly or wanton.

Nwyfawg, a. (nwyf) Full of vivacity, sprightly; wanton, amorous.

*Golygus wilged
Yn serchawg nwyfawg os mair.*

Slightly mares of amorous and wanton leap. I. P. 1.

Nwyfawl, a. (nwyf) Full of vivacity, sprightly; wanton, amorous.

Nwyfedig, a. (nwyf) Being made sprightly or wanton; being become lively or wanton.

Nwyfedigaeth, s. m. (nwyfedig) A rendering or becoming full of spirits.

Nwyfiad, s. m. (nwyf) An enlivening; a becoming sprightly or lively; a becoming wanton.

Nwyfiadawl, a. (nwyfiad) Of an enlivening tendency; of an amorous tendency.

Nwyfiadu, v. a. (nwyfiad) To render sprightly or vivacious; to become sprightly or wanton.

Nwyfiadu, a. (nwyfiad) Enlivening, cheering.

Nwyfiannawl, a. (nwyfiant) Enlivening.

Nwyfiannu, v. a. (nwyfiant) To render sprightly or wanton; to become full of spirits.

*El arogl o'i lwyd yn fays a'm nwyfiannawl;
Hwyliad'n rai arfeth.*

His fragrance from his grove kindly cheered me; a perfume brilliant design. E. D.

Nwyfiannus, a. (nwyfiant) Animating.

Nwyfannusaw, v. a. (nwyfannus) To render sprightly; to become full of vivacity.
Nwyfiant, s. m. (nwyf) Vivacity, sprightliness; wantonness.

—Brodyr a'm blant
Ac o bob gorwyf nwyfiant
Ni wyf Tŷn perchen cyngant!

Brothers to me there were, and each of these princely heirs possessed vigour: but Tŷn knows no congenial owner.

Llywarch Hen.

Nwyfator, ger. (nwyfiad) In enlivening.
Nwyfator, sup. (nwyf) To be enlivening.
Nwyfoed, s. m. (nwyf—oed) A love meeting.

Adwaen of o'i fedw nwyfoed,
Awdur cawd adar y coed.

I know him from his birchen recess of love, the author of song for the birds of the grove. D. ab Gwilym, t'r ffonfruth.

Nwyfre, s. f. (nwyf—rhe) The ethereal sphere; the firmament, the atmosphere.

Addwyn heul ya cywyb ya nwyfre.

Glafus is the sun moving in the firmament.

Taliesin.

Gorddyr acar, gwyb brach,
Egwr awyfre, chelach tŷn:
Gwyw canol rhag hirach!

Chambers are the birds, the strand is wet, clear is the welkin, sample the wave: the heart is pained with longing!

Llywarch Hen.

Nwyserch, s. m. (nwyf—serch) Wanton love.
Nwyfus, a. (nwyf) Full of spirits, sprightly, lively, cheerful; wanton.
Nwyfusaw, v. a. (nwyfus) To render sprightly; to become lively; to become wanton.

Nwyfusedd, s. m. (nwyfus) Sprightliness, vivacity; wantonness.

Nwyfusrwydd, s. m. (nwyfus) Sprightliness, vivacity; wantonness.

Nwyth, s. m.—pl. t. an (nwy) A drift, a course, whim, an oddity, a prank; impertinence. Mae nwythau rhyfedd yn y dyn yma, there are odd freaks in that man. Sil.

Nwythad, s. m. (nwyth) A rendering eccentric; a becoming eccentric or whimsical.

Nwythas, s. f. (nwyth) Eccentricity, oddity.

Drygmer pob oer, pob nwythas deyrn;

Daw o nef a'th swynae;

Wyl prifardd yr Ffynid a'i chlas.

Be thou taking every chieftain, every prince of arrogance; God of heaven hath doomed thee; to thou superlative the land of Britain and its church.

Ll. F. Moeh, i Llywelyn II.

Nwythaw, v. a. (nwyth) To render whimsical; to become full of freaks or whimsical.

Nwythawg, a. (nwyth) Having oddities.

Nwythawl, a. (nwyth) Eccentric, whimsical.

Nwythedig, a. (nwythad) Rendered eccentric; become eccentric or whimsical.

Nwythiad, s. m. (nwyth) A rendering eccentric; a becoming eccentric or whimsical.

Nwythig, a. (nwyth) Eccentric, whimsical.

Nwythus, a. (nwyth) Full of whims, freaks, or oddities; whimsical, freaky; impertinent. Dyn nwythus, a whimsical and impertinent person.

Nwythusaw, v. a. (nwythus) To render whimsical; to become whimsical.

Nwythusrwydd, s. m. (nwythus) Eccentricity.

Ny, s. m. r. That is spreading, pervasive, or universal; that is whole or in continuity. It is used as a prefix, implying augmentation, and certitude.

Nych, s. m. (ny—ych) A state of pain, a languishing, a pining away.

Hir nych i angen.

Long pining to death.

Adage.

Bld nych cwyn claf.

Languishing be the complaint of the sick.

Adage.

Nycha, interj. (ny—ycha) Behold! lo! see here!

Nychawl, a. (nych) Languishing; tormenting.
Nychdawd, s. m. (nych) A state of languishment or pain; a lingering disorder; a languishment.

Gwell marw na hir nychdawd.

Better is death than long languishment.

Adage.

Nychedig, a. (nych) Tortured, or afflicted.

Nychiad, s. m. (nych) A languishing; a causing pain, a tormenting.

Nychial, v. a. (nych) To be languishing or in pain.

Nychiant, s. m. (nych) Languishment; pain.

Nychlyd, a. (nych) Languishing, pining; painful.

Nychlydrwydd, s. m. (nychlyd) A state of anguish.

Nychlydu, v. a. (nychlyd) To become languishing.

Nychu, v. a. (nych) To inflict pain, to torment, to consume with pain; to languish, to pine, to waste away. Paid a'i nychu hi, do not torture her.

Wylaf—

Nychwyd, anafwyd aifer.

Na chawn ragor-ddawu gerdder.

I weep, afflicted, wounded are many, that we shall not enjoy the minstrel of superior talent.

Sfyn.

Nychwaew, s. m. (nych—gwaew) A languishing pain.

Nychwedd, s. f. (nych—gwedd) A countenance of anguish.

Nyddell, s. f.—pl. t. i (nwd) A needle.

Nydwydd, s. f.—pl. t. an (nwd—gwydd) A brooch, or pin; a needle. Nydwydd ddur, a stitching needle; cei y cwd a'r nydwydd ar ei ol, thou shalt have the bag and the brooch after him: Nydwydd y bygel, shepherd's needle.

Nydwyddai, s. c. (nydwydd) Worker at a needle.

Nydwyddaw, v. a. (nydwydd) To needle.

Nydwyddes, s. f.—pl. t. an (nydwydd) A needle-woman, a seamstress.

Nydwyddwr, s. m.—pl. nydwyddwyr (nydwydd—gwr) A needleman, or seamster.

Nydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—ydd) A spin, a turn, or twist; a perversion; equivocation, evasion.

Nyddawl, a. (nydd) Spinning; turning, twisting.

Nyddedig, a. (nydd) Being spun or twisted.

Nyddfa, s. f.—pl. nyddffeydd (nydd) A spinning place.

Nyddiad, s. m. (nydd) A spinning; a twisting.

Nyddoes, s. m. (nydd—oes) Spinach.

Nyddu, v. a. (nydd) To spin; to turn, to twist; to pervert, to equivocate, to evade.

Nyddwedd, s. f. (nydd—gwedd) The size of yarn in spinning.

Nyddwr, s. m.—pl. nyddwyr (nydd—gwr) A spinner.

Nyddwraig, s. f.—pl. nyddwreigedd (nydd—gwraig) A spinning-woman, a spinster.

Nyf, s. pl. aggr. (nwf) Snow. It is more generally called ciry, cira, and od.

Gwynbryd nyf cyn daddawdd.

A white countenance of snow before it dissolves.

Ior. Gylfar.

Nyfed, s. f. (nwf) A pure or holy nature.

Dyphorthes mewn nyfed nyfed.

The slender maid bore the praise for sanctity.

Anwyn.

Gorthwys nefoedd nyfed eglur,

Gwrthwyf na bo trist Crist creador!

Supreme of the heavens of splendid purity, at me may Christ the creator not be grieved!

Cynddelu.

Y gwr a oedd awyrawl adolant,

Ac adolant ddaerawl,

Egryw h. arglwydd canmawrwl;

Egryw gwyr nyfed nefawl;

Tu y bwyf y bo dy xanawl,

Tad yspryd, a'n Tad ysprydawl.

The Being who caused the mortal creatures of wing, and earthly abodes, hear me, thou universal Lord; let the gentle sovereignty of heaven listen; the side I am of be thou praised there, Father of spirit, and our spiritual Father.

Ididr Seb.

S B 2

Nyfel, s. m. (nwf—el) A subtil element.

*Uch swen uchel;
Uch no pob nyfel.*

Above the high; flowing; higher than every subtil element.
Talliesin, com y Meirch.

Nyfiad, s. m. (nyf) A snowing, a falling of snow.
Nyfiaw, v. n. (nyf) To snow: but dyrio ciry,
dyrio cira, and odi, are the popular words.

Nyni, pron. (ny—ni) We all; we, us.

Dew Tad, o'rh rad a'rh sawryd mawr, Ymorol a' nynt.

God the Father, of thy grace and thy awful majesty, have regard of us. H. D. ab Ifan.

Nyninnau, pron. (ny—ninnau) We also; us too.

Nyth, s. m.—pl. t. od (ny—yth) A nest. Nyth aderyn, or moron y maes, wild carrot.

Y penhebogedd— a ddyly nythod yr hebogau, a'r llemystnod, a fo ar dir y brwnin.

The head falconer ought to have the nests of the falcons, and the sparrow-hawks, which shall be on the land of the king.
Welsh Laws.

Nythai, s. c.—pl. nytheion (nyth) A nestling.

Nythaid, s. m.—pl. nytheldiau (nyth) A nestful.

Nythawd, s. m. (nyth) The act of nestling.

Nythdrig, s. m. (nyth—drig) The period of staying in the nest.

Nythdrigiad, s. m. (nythdrig) Nidulation.

Nythdrigiant, s. m. (nythdrig) The time of keeping the nest, nidulation.

Nythfa, s. f. (nyth—ma) A nestling place.

Nythgyw, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nyth—cyw) A nestling

Nythiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (nyth) Nidification.

Nythlwyth, s. m.—pl. t. i (nyth—llwyth) A nest-ful, the young ones in the nest.

Nythu, v. a. (nyth) To build a nest; to nestle.

Nythyn, s. m. dim. (nyth) A little nest.

Nyw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ny) Sprightliness, vivacity; ardour; vigour.

Nywiad, s. m. (nyw) A rendering lively; a becoming sprightly or wanton.

Nywus, a. (nyw) Of a sprightly nature.

Nywusaw, v. a. (nywus) To render sprightly; to become lively, brisk, or wanton.

Nywusedd, s. m. (nywus) Sprightliness.

Nywusarwydd, s. m. (nywus) Sprightliness.

O.

O, s. m. r. That goes out or proceeds. It is a termination of some nouns; and of the third person future tense of the subjunctive mood.

O, prep. From, of, out of; by. O'm, from my;
o'rh, from thy; o'i, from his, her, or its; o'n,
from our; o'ch, from your; o'u, from their; o'r,
from the; being contractions of o ym, o yth, o ei, o ein, o eich, o eu, o yr. O le i le, from place to place; o'r gorau, of the best, very well.

Godritor bruch o'i phen.

The milking of a cow must be from her head. Adage.

O, conj. If, used before words with consonant initials, in common with os, except that the mutable ones suffer no change with the latter;
but with o the change is optional, in certain cases. O ceri ff, o cheri ff, os ceri ff, if thou wilt love me.

O cheffr dyn yn llosgi yn lleddrad, bid eneidfadden.

If a man shall be found burning privily, let him be condemned to death. Welsh Laws.

*Bal mawr, y' Nghymru o bydd
Dyu bydaul ar d'ennu beidd.*

A great fault, in Wales if there shall be a mortal man of thy christian name. D. ab Iwan Ddu.

O, pron. The third person neuter and masculine;
it, he. Difai oedd o, faultless was he. This pronoun is also used idiomatically for persons, like it in English. O ddwyedd imi farw, it was said by him that I had died.

O, interj. Oh, alas. O druan oedd! Oh poor thing that he was! O dyn! Oh dear!

O ai a dwywan nef a dalar, a ddaw amey y gallwyf i dalu chwyf yn y gorthwylch i'r gwy hyn, y rhai ry orag i minnau ddyfod yn yr angenocyd hwn!

Oh me! ye gods of heaven and earth, will there come a time when I shall be able to retaliate against those men, who have caused me also to be in this adversity! Gr. ab Arthur.

OB, s. m. r. A going out, a going from.

Oblaid, conj. (o—plaid) Because, for this reason.

Obliged, conj. (o—plegid) Because, on that account, for, on this account that.

Obobtu, prep. (o—pobtu) On every side, on each side; about; from every side.

Obraidd, adv. (o—braidd) Hardly, or scarcely.

Obry, prep. (o—bry) Below, beneath, under.

*Addaf rhu a'i bil ddaw fry:
Dadodant o dud obry.*

Adam the sire with his offspring will come above; they will live and rise from the region below. H. D.

Obry, adv. (o—bry) Beneath, in a lower place.

O chyrrhaedd fry ni ddaw obry.

If he gets above he will not come below. Adg.

OC, s. m. r. An outward or opposite position.

Oc, prep. (oc, s.) From; of; out of; at a distance from; before, in front, or opposite to.
Oa ei wyneb, from his face; ac eu lle, o's ll.
out of their place.

Y Trofnywylon o wnaist aerth ddiffrw ei mabwl ac eiddw.

The Trojans made a slaughter of immense magnitude of the enemies. Gr. ab Iwan.

Oco, adv. (oc) Yonder, there, at a distance.

Ci'n bynod a barid, oco'n horewad i'u hyst;

Ci'n oen i daerion, mwy cygnar na ddwy-ryd.

A dog notable and handsome, yonder with upright cry as a course; a dog that is the dread of importunate men, over as than the impetuous wind. B. Dafydd, i ffridd.

Y cnewydd oco'n horew,

Irlia frig ar nel y ffon.

The nut tree's powder lively seem, with fresh-coloured brow, as on the brow of the hill. Marg. Gwynedd.

Ocr, s. m.—pl. ocran (oc—yr) Usury.

Oeraeth, s. m. (ocr) Usury, profit, gain.

Ocrawl, s. (ocr) Relating to usury.

Ocredd, s. m. (ocr) Usuriousness; profit.

Ocri, s. m. (ocr) Usury, profit, gain.

Ocriad, s. m. (ocr) A dealing in usury.

Ocrn, v. a. (ocr) To practise usury.

Ocrwr, s. m.—pl. ocrwyr (ocr—gwr) An usurer.

Ocrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ocr) An usurer.

Octid, s. m. (og) The time of youth; youth.

Cof can octid yn dir.

Memory with youth is certain. Adg.

CH, s. m. r. A forcible utterance; a moan, a groan. Och yn dy berfedd! May there be a grumbling in thy guts!

Oh, interj. (och, s.) Oh! Alas! Woe!

*Och sawy! o'r oer eagar,
Gwell dy fod yn drydar
Gan sbect dŵr diarchar,
Dy olo di y dan ddalar!*

Alas thou dear one! that a sad separation should come, after thou wert joyous with a gallant ruthless chief, that thou shouldst be covered under earth!
Cyfoesi Myrddin.

Oh, interj. (och) Oh, Ah. Ocha druan! Ah, poor thing! Ocha ft! ocha ffnau! Ah me!

Ohain, s. m. (och) A groaning often, a groaning.

Ohain, v. a. (och) To be uttering groans.

Ohan, s. m. (och) A groan, a moan; a woe.

Ohan, interj. (och) Oh! Alas! Woe!

Ochan! add pell y gull.

Alas! not much canst thou do.

Ochenaid, s. f.—pl. ochenaidian (och—enaid) A sigh.

Mae dan fy maron yu croni Ochenaid oer na chawn di.

There is within my breast collecting a heavy sigh that I do not have thee.
R. Ddu.

Ochenaidiad, s. m. (ochenaid) A sighing.

Ochenaidiaw, v. a. (ochenaid) To utter sighs.

Ochenaidiaw, a. (ochenaid) Sighing, sobbing.

Ochenaidiwr, s. m. (ochenaid—gwr) A sigher.

Ochi, s. m. (och) A groaning, a moaning; a sighing.

*A mill o' eneidias man,
Ochi anferth, a chwyntan,
—A gylwed.*

And a thousand of minute sobb, dreadful groaning, and complaint, were heard.
Dr. J. Cunt.

Ochi, v. a. (och) To utter groans, to groan, to sigh.

Rhag trymfryd ochid achennawg.

Because of an oppressed mind let the needy utter groans.
Adage.

Ochiad, s. m. (och) The uttering of sighs.

Ochr, s. m.—pl. t. an (och—yr) A side, an edge.

Ochraw, s. (ochr) Having sides, lateral.

Ochrawl, a. (ochr) Belonging to the side, lateral.

Ochredd, s. m. (ochr) The state of having sides.

Ochren, s. f. dim. (ochr) A side or shelving region.

Ochri, v. a. (ochr) To make a sharp side, ledge, edge, or rim; to side, to take a side. Mae o yn ochri am y fron, he is turning on one side for the breast.

Ochriad, s. m. (ochr) A siding, a forming a side.

Ochrrwr, s. m.—pl. ochrrwyr (ochr—gwr) A sider.

OD, s. m. r. that is out, clear or bright; the falling snow, snow.

Od, a. (od, s.) Notable; excellent; singular, odd.

Nid edwyn; mór od ydyw.

She does not recognise; so odd is she.
D. ab Gwilym.

Od, conj. (o—yd) If; used before words with vowel initials. Od awn, if we go; od arosi, if thou wilt stay.

*Od ydyw yn dawedog,
Is y chwared nos a chog.*

If she is become silent, lower will the nightingale and the cuckoo sing.
D. ab Edmund.

Odi, v. n. (od) To snow; for which buwio eira, is commonly used.

*Oid eiry; told ystrad;
Dyfrwynt cedwyr i gad;
Mi nid af; anaf ni'm gad!*

Let there be snowing of snow; let it cover the vale; let the warriors hasten to battle: I shall not go; infirmity will not let me!
Llywarch Hen.

Odiad, s. m. (od) A falling of snow, a snowing.

Odiaeth, s. m. (od) A peculiarity; that is notable, rare, or precious.

*Haerai rai—cich myn'd yn Saie,
A gado'ch gwyr ac odiaeth,
Ar dranc, megys llong ar draeth.*

Some would assert that you are become an Englishman, and leave your men and peculiarity to perish, like a ship on the strand.
W. Llwyn, i E. Llwyd, o lat.

Odiaethawl, a. (odiaeth) Peculiar, particular.

Odiaethu, v. a. (odiaeth) A rendering peculiar.

Odidi, s. m. (od) A peculiarity, a rarity. Od odid, peradventure.

Odidi, adv. (od) Perhaps, probably; rarely.

Odidi nad odidi yw.

It is probably only a probability.

Adage.

Odidi addewid a ddol.

A rarity is the promise that comes.

Adage.

Odidi a galwio wyneb o ciniwed.

A phenomenon is he that keeps his countenance out of necessity.
Adage.

Odidiawg, a. (odidi) Peculiar, or remarkable.

Odidiawg a fo didiwyll.

He is remarkable that is without deceit.

Adage.

Odiadd, a. (awdl) Of the nature of rhyme.

Odlawg, a. (awdl) Rhythmical; having rhyme.

Odledd, s. m. (awdl) The state of being rhythmical; the state of having rhyme.

Odlu, v. a. (awdl) To make rhyme; to rhyme, to have terminations of the same sound.

Odluad, s. m. (awdl) A rhyming.

Odlig, s. f. dim. (awdl) A little ode.

Odlud, a. (ôd) Niveous, or snowy.

Odludrwydd, s. m. (odlud) Snowiness.

Odlwaw, s. m. (od—glaw) Sleet; also called ciwrlaw.

Odlwawd, s. m. (odlud) A sleeting.

Odlwaww, v. n. (odlud) To sleet.

Odlwaww, a. (odlud) Abounding with sleet.

Odyn, s. f.—pl. t. an (od) That reduces to a calx; a kiln. Odyn galch, cylyn calch, a lime kiln; odyn frag, a malt kiln; odyn faes, a field kiln.

Pobodyn ni bo odyn biben, tralan ei gwerth a ddwygwydd.

Every kiln that is not a pipe kiln, the third of its value shall fall.
Welsh Laws.

Odynaid, s. f. (odyn) A kiln-full.

Odyndy, s. m.—pl. t. an (odyn—ty) A kiln-house.

ODD, s. m. r. That tends out or from.

Odd, prep. (o—ydd) From, of, out of; by.

Oddeutu, prep. (o—dentu) On both sides; about; round about. Oddeutu y ty, about the house; oddeutu mil, about a thousand. adv. From both sides.

Oddf, s. m.—pl. oddfau (odd) A knob, an excrescence; a wen; a corn; a botch.

*Wyr Farchudd arfan erchyll
A ddifa calth fal oddf cyll.*

The grandson of Marchudd of terrible weapons will destroy the slaves like knobs of hazel.
R. Ddu.

Oddfawg, a. (odd) Protuberant, bossed.

Oddfawl, a. (odd) Tending to be knobbed.

Oddfi, v. n. (odd) To become bossed or knobbed.

Oddfiad, s. m. (odd) A becoming knobbed.

Oddfogi, v. n. (oddfawg) To become knobbed.

Oddfogrwydd, s. m. (oddfawg) Knobbiness.

Oddfu, v. n. (odd) To bump out, to boss.

Oddfyn, s. m. dim. (odd) A knob, a knur; a bunch; a wen; a little swelling, a botch.

Oddi, prep. (odd) Out of, from; off, from off.

*Digrifon, doethlon fa'r do
A aned oddi yao.*

Merry and wise was the generation that was born from thence.
L. G. Collet.

Oddicw, adv. (oddi—acw) From yonder.
Oddiallan, prep. (oddi—allan) From the outside.
Oddiallan, adv. (oddi—allan) From without; on the outside, outwardly.
Oddiam, prep. (oddi—am) From the circumference, from round. adv. From about.
Oddiamdanaf, pronom. prep. (oddiam—tanaf) From about me, from off me. Oddiamdanaf, from about thee; oddiamdani, from about her; oddiamdano, from about him; oddiamdanom, from about us; oddiamdanoch, from about you; oddiamdanynf, from about them.
Oddiamgylch, adv. (oddiam—cylch) From round about, from about; in circumference. prep. About.

Oddiar, prep. (oddi—ar) From, or off; above.

Mal llyfu mei oddiar ddraiu.

Like licking honey off thorns.

Adage.

Oddiar, adv. (oddi—ar) From off; from, off.

Oddiarffordd, adv. (oddia—ffordd) From off the way.

Oddiarffordd, a. (oddia—ffordd) Out of the way.

Oddiarffordd grybwyll, an out of the way thought

Oddiarnadd, prep. (oddia—arnadd) From the possession of. Oddiarnaddynf, from the possession of them.

Oddiarnaf, pronom. prep. (oddi—arnaf) From me; from off me; from above me; above me.

Oddiarnad, oddiarnat, from over thee; oddiarno, oddiarnodd, from off him; oddiarni, oddiarni, from off her; oddiarnom, oddiarnon, from off us; oddiarnoch, from off you; oddiarnynf, from off them, above them.

Lloeddai y gwr cyn ei wled ebbi Gwgan. Paham yr ae yntan a fy march cyn fy nlegyn oddiarno.

Thou hast killed the man before seeing him, said Gwgan. Why should he take away my horse before I had sighted from off him.
Arach Gwgan.

Oddicartref, adv. (oddi—cartref) From home.

Oddidraw, adv. (oddi—traw) From yonder.

Oddidref, adv. (oddi—tref) From home.

Oddidros, adv. (oddi—tros) From beyond.

Oddiethr, conj. (oddi—ethr) Except, unless.

Oddiethr, prep. (oddi—ethr) On the exterior, on the outside. adv. From the external.

Aethant allan oddiethr y ddinas, i heri dangaws amryfollon gwadau.

They went out on the exterior of the city, in order to show various sorts of games.
Gr. ab Arthur.

Oddifae, adv. (oddi—maes) From without.

Oddifewn, adv. (oddi—mewn) From within.

Oddifry, adv. (oddi—bry) From above.

Oddifyny, adv. (oddi—myny) From above.

Oddifynydd, adv. (oddifyny) From above.

Oddigan, adv. (oddi—can) From the possession of; from being with. It is compounded thus with pronouns: Oddigenyf, oddiganryf, oddigandwyf, oddigenyf, oddigenyf, oddiganot, oddiganddot, oddigano, oddiganddo, oddiganto, oddigantho; oddigani, oddiganddi, oddiganti, oddiganthi, oddigenddi, oddigenti, oddigenth; oddiganom, oddiganddom, oddigantom, oddiganthom, oddigenym; oddiganoch, oddiganddoch, oddiganloch, oddiganthoch, oddigenych; oddiganynf, oddiganddynt, oddigantynf, oddiganthynf, oddigenynf.

Oddiger, adv. (oddi—cer) From by, from being close to.

Oddigerth, conj. (oddi—certh) Except, unless.

Oddigerth, prep. (oddi—certh) Except; beside. adv. From close to. Trwy ei hun, ac oddigerth ei hun, through herself, and besides herself.

Oddigyda, adv. (oddi—cyda) From along with.

Oddigylch, prep. (oddi—cylch) From about, of about; about. adv. From about.

Oddigylchen, adv. (oddigylch) From round about.

Golchodd Taf oddigylchen

Dau ei bala—

The Tav did wash from round about under his coat.

Long Lex.

Oddihwnt, adv. (oddi—hwnt) From far, from the farther side; from beyond; from yonder.

Oddilawr, adv. (oddi—llawr) From below.

Oddimewn, adv. (oddi—mewn) From within.

Oddiobry, adv. (oddi—obry) From below.

Oddirhwng, adv. (oddi—rhwng) From between, from the intermediate space. Oddirhwng, oddirhwngdom, oddirhwngtom, oddirhwngtuo, from between us; oddirhwngoch, oddirhwngdoch, oddirhwngtoch, oddirhwngthoch, from between you; oddirhwngynf, oddirhwngddynf, oddirhwngthynf, oddirhwngthynf, from between them.

Oddiso, adv. (oddi—iso) From below, or beneath.

Oddisod, adv. (oddi—sod) From below, from beneath.

Odditan, adv. (oddi—tan) From under; from below. prep. Below, underneath. Odditan, odditanaf, from under me; odditanad, odditanot, odditanof, from under thee; odditano, odditanod, from under him; odditani, from under her; odditanom, odditanon, from under us; odditanoch, from under you; odditanynf, from under them.

*Gwelwn y ddalar—megs pellen fechan groo yabell okano a
 I could see the earth, like a small round ball far below us.*
Ellis W. p. 5. l. 109

Odditros, adv. (oddi—tros) From over, or beyond

Odditrwy, adv. (oddi—trwy) From through.

Oddinchod, adv. (oddi—uchod) From above.

Oddiuch, adv. (oddi—uch) From above.

Oddiuchdo, pron. prep. (oddich) From above him.

Oddiwaered, adv. (oddi—waered) From below.

Oddiwrth, prep. (oddi—wrth) From by, from

adv. From being in contact, from off. (un wrthof, oddiwrthof, from me; oddiwrthot, oddiwrthot, from thee; oddiwrtho, from him; oddiwrthi, from her; oddiwrthom, oddiwrthyn, from us; oddiwrthoch, oddiwrthych, from you. oddiwrthont, oddiwrthynf, from them.)

Ni ddof oddiwrth nri Ddafydd

Oni ddeci y nos yn ddydd.

I will not come away from the nephew of David, at night shall become day.

Oddiyma, adv. (oddi—yma) From here, or hence

Oddiyma, adv. (oddi—yma) From hence.

Oddiyna, adv. (oddi—yna) From there, from thence; from thenceforth; thence; then.

Oddiynaeth, adv. (oddi—ynaeth) From there from thence; from thenceforth.

Oddiyno, adv. (oddi—yno) From there, or from thence, speaking of a distant place or time.

Y freniiaeth hon a raiid yn ddu, ac Ddaif a Brynach sydd o afor Humber; hyd yn afor Ddaif; ac oddiynf a Ygodald yn Brynach.

This kingdom was divided into two, namely Ddaif and Brynach Ddaif is from the river Humber to the river Trent; Brynach thence to the Scottish sea in Brynach.

Oddobry, adv. (oddi—obry) From beneath.

Odduch, adv. (oddi—uch) From above, from above

Odduchof, from above me; odduchod, from above thee; odducho, odduchto, from over him; odduchi, odduchti, from over her; odduchom, odduchon, from above us; odduchoch, odduchoch, from above you; odduchynf, odduchynf, from above them.

Odducho, adv. (odd—uch) From above.
Oddyma, adv. (odd—yma) From here, or hence.
Oddyman, adv. (odd—yman) From hence.

Pell oddyman Aber Llyw,
 Follach an ddy gyweddyw;
 Talan, teulu dy ddeigr heddyw.

Far from hence is Aber Llyw, farther our two kindred chiefs:
 Talan, I have repaid thy tears this day. Llywarch Hen.

Oddyna, adv. (odd—yna) From there, from thence; from thenceforth; thence; then.
Oddynaeth, adv. (odd—ynaeth) From there; from thence; from thenceforth.

Pwy a wledych oddynaeth?

Who will govern from thenceforth? Cyffwrdd Myrddin.

Oddyno, adv. (odd—yno) From there, or from thence, speaking of a distant place or time.

Oed, s. m.—pl. t. au (o—ed) Process of time; time to come; age; a set time, appointed time, a set day to come; a day of assignation; a delay, or put off of time. Yn oed un dydd, in the space of one day; also, delaying or excepting one day; oed dydd, a day of appointment; gwerthu ar oed, to sell upon credit; oed wrth borth, time granted in the process of a suit at law; y mas yn oed, it is high time. Sil.—Dyn mewn oed, a person of age; taw oed, under age.

Fob path a ymdaith a gynnwll of borthiant,
 Ond cler, ac oedion, a llacron difwyniant.

Every thing that moves doth collect its food, except ministers and rulers and worthless thieves. Taliesin.

Oedawg, a. (oed) Full of delay; dilatory.

Oedawl, a. (oed) Tending to delay, procrastinating.

Oedfa, s. f.—pl. t. on (oed—ma) A time or place of meeting; a meeting; convenient time, opportunity.

Nid oes i ai ddwygwyl ond gwradydd a goll oddiwrth esgwlenn oedion i ddwyn i henn amcanion dalonnes.

We are not to expect any thing but disgrace and affliction from neglecting opportunities for accomplishing good designs. Ior. Owain.

Oedi, v. a. (oed) To set a time; to procrastinate, to protract, to put off time; to postpone.

Ni henn hawl er ei boedi.

A claim will not grow obsolete though it be delayed. Adage.

Oeda'r drel, aed ar ei dro:
 Y llw eiddot ei haddo.

Put off the drel, let him go about his business: that complexion of thine may it kill him. Raf. ab Robert.

Oediad, s. m.—pl. t. an (oed) A setting or assigning a time, a making an appointment; a delaying; procrastination; a postponing.

Oediawg, a. (oed) Having a long process of time, of a long time; stricken in years, aged.

Oediedig, a. (oediad) Being settled as of time; being procrastinated or delayed.

Oedran, s. m. (oed—rhan) Time of life, duration of life; full age; age. Mae hi o oedran priodi, she is of age for marrying; dyn mewn oedran, a man in years.

Oedraniad, s. m. (oedran) A growing in years.

Oedranu, v. m. (oedran) To grow in years.

Oedranus, a. (oedran) Of a period of life; being in years, stricken in years; aged, elderly.

Oedwr, s. m.—pl. oedwyr (oed—gwr) One who appoints a time; a procrastinator, a delayer.

Oedd, v. m. (o—edd) Was, did exist; it, he, or she was. A oedd hi yno? Oedd. Was she there? She was.

Oedd gwr fy mab, oedd dysgywan hawl,
 Ac oedd mai i Urien;
 Ar ryd Fortes y llus Owen.

A man was my son, he was of illustrious inheritance, and he was the nephew of Urien; at the ford of Morles Owen was slain.
Llywarch Hen.

Oeg, s. m. (o—eg) That is opened out.

Oel, s. m. (o—el) Of a protruding tendency.

Oen, s. m.—pl. wyn (o—en) A state of motion, briskness, or agitation; a lamb.

A waelo ei hun yn oep a lyngcir gan y blaidd.

He that will make himself a lamb will be swallowed by the wolf.
Adage.

Oen tagnafodd iis gweddad,
 A llew'a y dris, llawen drad.

The lamb of peace where it seemed meet, and a lion in the conflict, sprightly and bold. W. Alaw.

Oens, v. (oen) To lamb, to yean.

Oenaidd, a. (oen) Like a lamb, lamb-like.

Oenan, s. c. (oen) A lambkin, a little lamb.

Oenawl, a. (oen) Belonging to a lamb.

Oenban, s. m. (oen—pan) A lamb's fur.

Oenes, s. f. (oen) An ewe lamb, a young ewe.

Oengen, s. m. (oen—cen) A lamb's skin.

Oenig, s. f. dim. (oen) A little ewe-lamb.

Oenyn, s. m. dim. (oen) A little lamb, a lambkin.
Wyniach, wynos, dyn bach, lambkins.

Oer, s. m.—pl. t. ion (o—er) That is of a repulsive quality; a frigidity, a cold nature; severity. a. Cold; repulsive.

Mai oer a yna ysgubwr gybas.

A cold May will make a warm baro. Adage.

Oer gwely pygod yn nghyngawd ion.

Cold is the bed of fishes under the shelling of ice. Adage.

Oeraidd, a. (oer) Somewhat cold, inclement.

Oerawl, a. (oer) Tending to frigidity; cooling.

Oerchwdl, s. m.—pl. t. au (oer—chwdl) A sad story, bad tidings, ill news.

Oerdeu, s. m. (oer) Coldness, frigidity.

Oerder, s. m. (oer) Coldness, or frigidity.

Oedra, s. m. (oer) Coldness, or frigidity.

Oeredig, a. (oer) Being cooled, or made frigid.

Oerdd, s. m. (oer) Coldness, or frigidity.

Oeren, s. f. dim. (oer) A cold female.

Oerfa, s. f.—pl. t. au (oer—ma) A cool place.

Oerfel, s. f.—pl. t. on (oer—bel) Cold air; cold weather.

Yr oerfel annyoddefedig—pai bwrdd mynydd o dan yddo ydd ael yn un isen.

The insuperable cold, if a mountain of fire were thrown thereon it would become a perfect body of ice. Eticidarius.

Oerfelawg, a. (oerfel) Of cold temperament.

O lath Llywelyn—

Oerfelawg calon dan fron o fraw.

For the death of Llywelyn, cold is the heart in the bosom through regret. Gr. ab yr Ynad Goch.

Oerferw, a. (oer—berw) Coldly bubbling.

Gorwynn bren derw, oerferw dwfr;

Cyrchid blw bren derw;

Gwneidd seith seith y syberw.

Glistening the tops of the oak, coldly-bubbling the water; the knee will resort to the skirt of the birch copse; the bolt of the hoaster is soon made to fly. Llywarch Hen.

Oergled, a. (oer—cled) Cool-sheltered.

Araf haf, hwar gwellt,
 Eirion oed, oergled cail.

Gentle the summer, calm the ocean, splendour the woods, of a cooling shade the grove. Gwalchmai.

Oerglyd, a. (oer—clyd) Cool-sheltered.

Oergrai, a. (oer—crai) Harshly-cold.

Ystafell Cynddylan yn oergrai heno,

Gwedi y parhau a'm baid;

Heb y'r, heb wreidded ai cadwal.

The hall of Cynddylan is harshly-cold this night, after the honour upon me bestowed; Without the men, without the women who kept it. Llywarch Hen.

Oergri, s. f. (oer—gri) A dismal cry.

Oergriad, s. m. (oergri) A crying dismally.

Oergriaw, v. a. (oergri) To cry dismally.

Oergwmp, s. m. (oer—cwmp) A dismal fall.
Oergwmp galanus, the sad lapse of slaughter compensation. It is an ancient law term, otherwise called Dynggoll cenedl, and Dynggolled cenedl.

Oergwmp galanus yw: pan laddo dyn ddyn arall, dodi oed dydd i wneuthur lawr drosto, a'i ladd ynysu o ddyn o gunedl arall na dylio. Oergwmp galanus y geirwir byny, rhag trymed ei gollid ef, a gadaw y gyfahan a wneithal ar ei genedi, a gorfod ei thala.

This is the dismal event of murder compensation: when a person kills another, appointing a day to make satisfaction for it, and he being killed by a person of another family, to whom he owes nothing. It is called the dismal event of murder, by reason of the grievousness of losing him, and leaving the weight of the heinous deed, committed by him, upon his family, and being obliged to make amends for it. Welsh Laws.

Oeri, v. a. (oer) To make cold, to cool; to become cold; to grow cool.

*Gwas chwær deg, o chwærwed oedd,
Gan hiraeth gwn, a'i hoerodd!*

It is woeful to the fair sister, so bitter was it, through regret, which I know, did make her cold! Ed. Dafydd.

Oeriad, s. m. (oer) A cooling, or a chilling.

Oerialn, v. a. (oer) To keep cooling; to seek cooling shades; to cool liquids by pouring from one vessel to another.

Oerials, s. m.—pl. oerleisau (oer—llais) A cold voice, a repulsive or grating voice.

Oerlef, s. m. (oer—llef) A dismal moan.

Oerleisau, v. a. (oerlef) To moan dismally.

Oerleisad, s. m. (oerials) A shrieking dismally.

Oerleisiaw, v. a. (oerials) To shriek dismally.

Oerilyd, a. (oer) Of a cold quality; chilly.

Oerilydrwydd, s. m. (oerilyd) Frigidness.

Oernad, s. f.—pl. & au (oer—nâd) A dismal howl, a lamentable or doleful cry.

Oernadu, v. a. (oernad) To howl dolefully.

Oerni, s. m. (oer) Coldness, chilliness; cold weather.

Oersych, a. (oer—sych) Being cold and dry.

Oerwaedd, s. f. (oer—gwaedd) A dismal cry.

Oerwedd, s. f. (oer—gwaedd) A chilling aspect.
a. Of a chilling aspect.

Oerweiddi, v. a. (oerwaedd) To cry dismally.

Oerwern, s. f. (oer—gwaern) A cold slough; a bar-dic epithet for the seat of lowest existence; and, under the christian system, often used for hell.

*Rhag oerwern geithu offern a'fha,
A'fha anoddes, lle anoddyn,
Lleu a. Dafydd buenydd byn:
Llawer a wna Daw er dyniaden!*

From the fends of the cold slough of the hell of uproar, the insuperable hold, the place profound, assign me a station, thou Creator comprehending eternity: Much doth God do for mankind! Eldr Sais.

Oerwlyb, a. (oer—gwyb) Being cold and wet.

Oerwr, s. m.—pl. oerwyr (oer—gwr) A cold man.

Oerwynt, s. m. (oer—gwynt) A chilling wind.

Oeryn, s. m. dim. (oer) A cold person.

Oes, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (o—es) A period of time; a duration of life, an age; life. Er cyn yr oesoedd, from before the ages, from eternity; oes oesoedd, pyth bythoedd, age of ages, world of worlds.

Hwchedd oes oes Iesu, a hyd frawd y para.

The sixth age the age of Jesus, and till judgment it will last. Talesin.

*Dawl i ydd ddwy oes hoddw;
Un fry fyth, un fer i fry.*

God! there are two existences this day; one above for ever, one short to live. T. Aled.

Oes, adv. (o—es) There is; is there. A oes neb yn y ty? Is there any body in the house? Oes, there is.

Nid oes cywilydd rhag goll.

There is no shame against affliction. Adap.

Nid oes neb heb ei fal.

There is not any body without his fault. Adap.

Oesawg, a. (oes) Aged, in years, olden.

Oesawl, a. (oes) Relating to a period of existence.

Y bryniau oesawl a grymmod.

The earriest hills did bow down. Hobart & L.

Oesbarth, s. m. (oes—parth) A period of existence.

Oesbell, a. (oes—pell) Of extended existence.

Oesbell gariad, long existing love.

Oesboen, s. m. (oes—poen) The pain of life. a. Life-tormenting.

—Oesboen ddagrus rwy Rhyddyr llw fy ngreddas!

Excess of life-tormenting tears takes away the colour of my cheeks! Bloddyr Park.

Oesbraff, a. (oes—praff) Of ample existence.

Oesdailth, s. f. (oes—taith) A course of life.

*Menawd molaidd gwaed gne lla waddgryg
Mawr wieg llaar ufar ofeg.
Nid a'i mawr, heb dawl, ddiadef chwyg frysiall,
Mawr-ddawna ganyndith oesdailth o'eg.*

Impressive be the praise of her whose skin is of the hue of hoarse-sounding wave, the nymph of the narrow vent of pearls: A thousand praise her, without ceasing, in sweet comprises speech unabated, a greatly gifted society of a life of study. Carmar.

Oesdlawd, a. (oes—tlawd) Of necessities life.

Oesdrais, s. m. (oes—trais) Oppression of life.
a. Life-oppressing.

Oesdraul, s. f. (oes—traul) The consumption of life. a. Life-consuming.

Oesdrawd, s. m. (oes—trawd) A course of life.

Oesdru, s. m. (oes—tru) Misery of life.

Oesdrwch, s. m. (oes—trwch) A cutting of life.
a. Life-breaking; life-destroying.

*Py fudd cerdd o'wch, oesdrwch estraw;
Py fudd oed wallaw fai Cadwallaw.*

Who will be the theme of song, the life destruction of art: who will be scattering gifts like Cadwallaw. Cydwil.

Oesdrwydden, s. f. (oes—trwydd) The barrenness

Oesfoddawg, a. (oes—boddawg) Having respect to life; leading a contented life.

Ni bydd penderoddi y mab gweyd ei dad yn aml lla, o' oesfoddawg y penderoddiath.

The son shall not be the patron of the family after his father's succession, for a headship of family in during life. W. d. Llew.

Oesfriw, s. m. (oes—briw) A lapse of life.

*Gorllechdel eisiau o'i oesfriw anedra;
O'i augeu arglennar.*

I have harboured regret from his brittle-childhood away a from his melancholy death. Gwyn. Iar.

Oesfyr, a. (oes—byr) Of short life, short-lived.

Oesfyr dy alon, aedriw Fawdard.

Short-lived thy love, Marred with the hastened death. L. P. M.

Oesgaeth, a. (oes—caeth) Leading a captive life.

Oesgawdd, a. (oes—cawdd) Of a vexatious life.

*Bro annawdd, oesgawdd, oesgawdd ei gwynnau
El gynnal nid hawdd-waith.*

The protection of the country, of vexatious vexation to the good life of his opponent: to support him in no ease with. (Ymddiried, i O. d. Llew.)

Oesgur, s. m. (oes—cur) The throb of life, the anguish of life. a. Life-afflicting.

Oesgwyn, s. f. (oes—cwyn) The complaint of life. a. Complaining of life.

Oesi, v. a. (oes) To pass through life, to live; to give life. Nid Daw i'w oesi, be God to grant him life.

*T'wya, er d'ow, at oest
Owrius fodd.—*

Conduct, for the sake of thy name, towards crying to a cent way. W. d. Llew.

Y gwr a'n rhai i'w oed,
Gyw da doeth, a'n hignadw di.

him that placed thee to exist preserve thee, thou black discreet bird. T. Prye, Tr. fcythchen.

Oesiad, s. m. (oes) A passing through life.

Oesran, s. f. (oes—rhan) An assigned portion of existence, a duration of life.

Oesred, s. f. (oes—rhed) A course of existence.

Oeswr, s. m.—pl. oeswyr (oes—gwr) One who passes through life; a liver.

A'm bod gannoes yn oeswr.

And my being a liver during a hundred ages. T. Prye.

Oeth, s. m. (o—eth) That is intense, pungent or harsh. a. Intense, pungent, harsh.

Ac yn llys afonod ym siddanr:

Fy oeth oeth dybyddaf, o dybyddaf rydd.

And in the hall of hospitality I shall be wished for: if asked I shall be harsh, if I shall be free. Gwalchmai.

Er mawr-gwymr Madawg, modur plymawyd;

Am bost cad, cad goeth, oeth yn uirwyd!

For the end full of Madog, the leader of conflict; for the pillar of battle, of precious gift, sorely have I been dismayed! Gwalchmai.

Oethi, v. a. (oeth) To render intense, pungent, sharp, harsh, or severe.

OF, s. m. r. The elementary state of a thing; an atomical state; atoms; particles, motes; fine; that is uncombined or crude.

Of, s. (of, s.) Elementary, or in an uncombined state; crude; raw; frail, mouldering.

Huewys a Histrum—pau alyt i'wast, nid eddywyt na thew na Denes, na thwys nac oer, na sur na chroew, nac yr na hallt, na lred nac of.

Long-mill and Long-trail, if they went on a visit, they would have not fat nor lean, nor cold nor hot, nor ever nor sweet, nor fresh nor salt, nor boiled nor raw. H. Culhwch—Mabinigion.

Byd of ar furd;—

Byd tost, mae'n fyr bywyd dyn.

A frail world for a bard; a cruel world, the life of man is short. D. Brwynn.

Ofaid, a. (of) Elementary; of a crude or raw quality; frail; mouldering.

Mohad Daw molaf a'i dywald;

Ac molwy, yw molaf ofaid,

Am obryw, am obrid fy rhaid.

I will praise each as express the praise of God; and if I praise, I shall not praise the frail, for a reward, for the satisfying of my necesity. Cynddelw.

Ofaid, a. (of) Of an elementary nature; of a crude or raw tendency; crumbling, mouldering.

Ofawd, s. m. (of) A reducing to an elementary state; a making crude, a mouldering.

Ofawg, a. (of) In an elementary state; having a crude or raw quality; crumbly.

Ofawl, a. (of) Elementary; of a crude nature, of a raw quality; mouldering.

Ofedd, s. m. (of) An elementary or atomical state; rawness; a crumbling or mouldering state.

Ofer, a. (of—er) Waste, vain, useless, idle, frivolous. It is prefixed in composition.

Ryd tra fuch na fydd ofer.

As long as thou shalt exist be not useless. Adage.

Ofers, v. d. (ofer) To waste, to squander; to act vainly or idly; to pass time frivolously.

Oferchwedl, s. m.—pl. t. au (oferchwedl) A vain or empty report.

Oferdaith, s. f.—pl. overdeithian (talith) A fruitless journey.

Oferdawd, s. m. (ofer) Vanity; frivolity.

Hwft e'r wael awen a gais bob overdawd.

Any with the subject matter that seeks for every frivolity. Adage.

Oferdlws, s. m.—pl. overdlysau (ofer—tlws) A vain toy, ornament, or jewel; a jewel merely ornamental.

VOL. II.

Y brawdwr llys a ddylly oferdlwsau, pan wyltel ei swydd iddo, nid amgys, farhwerdd o awgrym mordi i'w gwa y brawdwr, a modur y aer i'w gwa y frawdwr, ac arall i'w gwa y bardd teulu; ac yr oferdlwsau hyny, ni ddylly efe nac eu rhoddi nac eu gwerthu tra byddo byw.

The Judge of the palace claims ornamental jewels, when his office is pledged to him; namely, a chessboard of the house of a scion of the king, and a gold ring from the queen, and another from the domestic bard; and these ornamental jewels he ought neither to give, nor to sell whilst he lives. Welsh Laws.

Oferdraul, s. f. (traul) Useless expenditure.

Oferdreuliad, s. m. (overdraul) A using needlessly, a spending uselessly.

Overdreuliaw, v. a. (oferdraul) To use in vain.

Overdreuliwr, s. m.—pl. overdreuliwyr (overdraul—gwr) One who wastes uselessly.

Oferdyb, s. f.—pl. t. iau (over—tyb) Idle conceit.

Oferdybiaw, v. n. (overdyb) To have idle notion.

Overddadl, s. f.—pl. t. au (dadl) A vain dispute.

Oferddadlu, v. (oferddadl) To dispute vainly.

Oferddawr, s. m.—pl. oferddoniau (dawn) An useless talent, gift, or quality.

Oferddefawd, s. f. (defawd) An idle custom.

Oferddyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ofer—dyn) A vain idle person; a squanderer, or a dissipated man.

Oferedd, s. m. (ofer) Vanity, frivolity, idleness, worthlessness, dissipation.

Oferelw, s. m. (elw) Useless wealth or riches.

Oferelwa, v. a. (oferelw) To heap useless wealth.

Oferfardd, s. m.—pl. oferfeirdd (ofer—bardd) A person who assumes the bardic order irregularly.

Tri rhyw beirdd Ynys Prydain: prif-feirdd o' cyn cred; a gwrd crea beirdd holl, ac yr oferfeirdd.

The three distinctions of bards of the Isle of Britain: the primitive bards from before christianity; and after conversion the bards of warfare, and the bards by assumption. Barddas.

Tri overfeirdd Ynys Prydain: Arthur, Cadwallawn mab Cadfan, a Rhyawd all Morgant.

The three assumptive bards of the Isle of Britain: Arthur, Cadwallawn son of Cadfan, and Rhyawd son of Morgant. Triedd.

Oferfawl, s. f. (mawl) Empty or vain praise.

Oferfoll, v. a. (oferfawl) To praise vainly.

Oferfost, s. f. (boast) An empty boasting.

Oferfostiaw, v. a. (oferfost) To boast vainly.

Oferfostiwr, s. m.—pl. oferfostwyr (oferfost—gwr) A vain boaster.

Oferfrait, s. m.—pl. offerfreintian (braint) An useless privilege.

Oferfudd, s. f. (budd) A vain or useless benefit.

Ofergadiw, v. a. (cadw) To keep uselessly.

Ofergais, s. f. (cais) A vain attempt.

Ofergall, a. (call) Uselessly cunning.

Oferganlyn, v. (canlyn) To follow uselessly.

Oergaru, v. a. (caru) To love fruitlessly.

Ofergeisiaw, v. a. (ofergais) To make a vain attempt, to try uselessly.

Ofergoel, s. f.—pl. t. ion (coel) Vain belief.

Ofergoelaidd, a. (ofergoel) Superstitious.

Ofergoeidd, s. m. (ofergoel) Superstitiousness.

Ofergoellad, s. m. (ofergoel) A vainly crediting.

Ofergoeliwr, s. m.—pl. ofergoeliwyr (ofergoel—gwr) A superstitious man.

Ofergoelus, a. (ofergoel) Superstitious.

Ofergred, s. f. (cred) Vain belief; superstition.

Ofergredu, v. n. (ofergred) To believe vainly.

Oferhela, s. m. (hela) Fruitless hunting.

Gwerth gellgi y brenin yn ei oferhela chweugaint.

The value of the king's buck-hound in his training is six score pence. Welsh Laws.

Oferhela, v. a. (hela) To hunt fruitlessly.

Oferiaith, s. f. (iaith) Useless idle talk.

Oferieithus, a. (oferiaith) Full of idle talk.

Oferiaeth, s. m. (llaeth) Useless or over milk.

Tri oferiaeth y sydd: llaeth cath, llaeth gast, a llaeth casog, can ni ddwygwr dim am danaddyn.

There are three waste milks: the milk of a cat, and the milk of a bitch, and the milk of a mare; for no satisfaction is made for them. Welsh Laws.

Oferorchest, s. f.—pl. t. ion (gorchest) A vain exploit.

Oferorchwyl, s. f.—pl. t. ion (ofer—gorchwyl) A frivolous piece of business.

Oferwaith, s. m. (gwaith) Useless or vain work.

Oferwas, s. m.—pl. oferweision (gwas) A worthless chap.

Oferwawd, s. m. (gwawd) Empty praise.

Oferweithiaw, v. a. (oferwaith) To work vainly.

Oferwr, s. m.—pl. oferwyr (ofer—gwr) An useless idle man; an idler.

Gwas oferwr yn nghynau.

Woe to the idler during harvest.

Adage.

Oferymadrawdd, s. m.—pl. oferymadroddion (ymadrawdd) Vain discourse; fruitless discussion.

Tri oferymadrawdd, a ddywiedir yn llyu, ac ni fyddant: gwad cyn deddfryd, a llyu cyn amser, a chof a chynghaws wedi hrawd.

The three fruitless discussions, which are uttered in court, and which shall not avail: a denial before restoration, and objection before the time, and record and pleading after sentence.

Welsh Laws.

Oferymadrawdd, v. a. (ymadrawdd) To discourse vainly, to talk uselessly.

Oferymboeni, v. a. (ymboeni) To toil vainly.

Oferymgals, s. m. (ymgals) An idle attempt.

Oferymryson, s. m. (ymryson) Vain strife.

Oferymryson, v. a. (ymryson) To strive vainly.

Ofi, v. a. (of) To decompose; to become decomposed, to fall into an atomical state; to moulder, to crumble. Mae y gareg hon yn dechreu off, this stone is beginning to crumble.

Ofiad, s. m. (of) A reducing to an elementary state; a falling to atoms; a becoming crude; a mouldering, a decomposing.

Ofiannawl, a. (ofiant) Tending to decompose, tending to fall to atoms; mouldering.

Ofiannu, v. a. (ofiant) To reduce to an atomical state; to render friable.

Ofiannus, a. (ofiant) Relating to an elementary or atomical state.

Ofiannusaw, v. a. (ofiannus) To reduce to an elementary or atomical state.

Ofiannusedd, s. m. (ofiannus) An elementary or atomical state.

Ofiant, s. m. (of) A reducing to atoms.

Ofyd, a. (of) Apt to decompose, apt to fall to atoms; apt to moulder.

Diflas ganddo dy ofyd Eiriau, heb eu cysylltu cyd.

Disgusting to him thy jumbled words, without their being connected together.

E. Efen, o Aberdar.

Ofyddedd, s. m. (ofyd) A state of decomposition.

Ofydrwydd, s. m. (ofyd) A state of decomposition; a mouldering state; friableness.

Ofydu, v. a. (ofyd) To become decomposed; to crumble, to moulder.

Ofn, s. m.—pl. t. au (of—yn) Fear, or dread.

Gwell rhan ofn na rhan cariad.

Better the share of fear than the share of love.

Adage.

Ofnad, s. m. (ofnau) A terrifying, a frightening; intimidation; a becoming frightened.

Ofnadwy, a. (ofn) Terrible, frightful, awful.

Ofnau, v. a. (ofn) To become fearful; to render fearful or awful.

Ofnawg, a. (ofn) Fearful, timorous, timid.

Ofnawl, a. (ofn) Tending to frighten.

Ofnedig, a. (ofn) Being made timid.

Ofnedd, s. m. (ofn) Fearfulness, timidity.

Ofnl, v. a. (ofn) To fear, to dread, to be afraid; to frighten, to terrify, to put in fear.

Cala ddow yn gar, ac nae ofn far.

Seek God for thy friend, and fear no ill.

Adage.

A bed of law—

*Ar gloddau, er ei giaddu,
A llyu gwaith yn gorwedd,
Ef a wnaith bellach ofn'r bodd.*

Should his hand be on his sword, though he were buried, and 's manly form laid down, the proud beauty would be made to rue the grave.

L. G. Cuth.

Ofniad, s. m. (ofn) A dreading, a fearing.

Ofnid, s. m. (ofn) Terror, dread, or fear.

*Llyu tariau penneth, a llyu seiclon,
Llyu y pen ofnau yn llyu penna.*

The figure of a chieftain's shield, and the figure of arrows, to figure, of a goryon head full of pain.

L. G. Cuth, i hysgwrn.

Ofnoclan, a. (ofnawg) To stand in fear or awe.

Rhaid yw iai frodyr, care digrifect paradyr, ac ofnau paradyr.

It is necessary for us, brethren, to love the like of paradyr, and fear the pains of hell.

Brunddylf Part. 120.

Ofnogi, v. a. (ofnawg) To become timid.

Ofnogrydd, s. m. (ofnawg) Fearfulness.

Ofnu, v. a. (ofn) To fear; to frighten.

Ofnus, a. (ofn) Fearful, timorous.

Ofnusaw, v. a. (ofnus) To become timid.

Ofnusedd, s. m. (ofnus) Timorousness.

Ofnusrydd, s. m. (ofnus) Fearfulness.

Ofnwr, s. m.—pl. ofnwyr (ofn—gwr) One who dreads or fears.

Ofnus, a. (of) Atomical; being decomposed.

Ofnusedd, s. m. (ofnus) An atomical state.

Ofydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (of—ydd) One who is initiated into first principles or elements; a scientific person, a natural philosopher, a teacher of science, an artist; the name for a member of the scientific class, in the bardic system; an ovate. Cad ofydd, the regulator of battle; ofydd, the regulator of hostility, whose pen was sacred.

*Bodd Gwrgi gwydd—
A bodd Llaur, ff ofydd,
Yn ngwathaf Gwasa.*

The grave of Gwrgi the hero, and the grave of Llaur, the yr later of the host, in the height of Gwasa.

Engl. Bodin 1107

*Hi yn wryr, heb wld;
Hi yn hollawl rad,
Yn rhag ofydd.*

She a virgin, without denial; she of perfect grace, the bloom of the great artificer.

Gwathm, i Par

Od ach hyl-furdd ofydd o wld Ddu ofydd, Dydwedech 'ch brein hyl ofydd ei drwgrydd.

If ye are primary buds of faith of the work of God the god artist, declare to your king what will be his midwint.

Tellm, iad y llyd.

Ofyddaid, a. (ofydd) Ovatic, scientific.

Ofyddawl, a. (ofydd) Relating to the function of an ovate; scientific.

Ofydddeb, s. f. (ofydd) A discourse upon ovatic, a treatise upon science.

Ofyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (ofydd) A female member of the scientific class of bards.

Ofyddfardd, s. m.—pl. ofyddfeirdd (ofydd-bardd) A bard of science, a bard of art, his office was analogous to that of a lay graduate now in the universities.

Ofyddiaeth, s. m. (ofydd) What is taught by an ovate, ovatic, philosophy.

Llawer o beth gwybyddus ydych, ofydd yn namber i oer-ogrydd,—gwyddmab sech, a llyuwr ofyddmab, yn namber cynau.

Many contrary things, also, there are subversive to us a faction,—the frenzy of love, and the man of philosophy learning sleep.

Llyuwr Brydd 10

Ofyddiannawl, a. (ofyddiant) Belonging to ovaticism, philosophical.

Ofyddiannu, v. a. (ofyddiant) To exercise ovaticism; to philosophise.

Ofyddiant, s. m. (ofydd) Ovaticism; philosophy.

Ofyddu, v. a. (afydd) To exercise oration; to philosophise.

OFF, s. m. r.—pl. t. ion. That is essential or tending to a beginning.

Offeiriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (offer) A minister.

Offeiriad leulu, efe a ddyfod fod yn wastad ygyd a'r bronie, canys trydydd rhanbeger yw.

The domestic priest, he ought to be continually with the king, for he is the third indispensable one. Welsh Laws.

Offeiriadaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (offeiriad) A priesthood, the function of a priest.

Dydd eu hennedid iddynt yn offeiriadaeth trugwyddawl drwy eu renediddeithan.

Their anointment shall be to them for an everlasting priesthood through their generations. Rhodri 40. 15.

Offeiriadald, a. (offeiriad) Of a clerical quality.

Offeiriadawl, a. (offeiriad) Belonging to a priest.

Offeiriadu, v. a. (offeiriad) To perform priestly functions, to minister as a priest.

Eusebia ffeilion Aaron, megys yr eusebiaist eu Tad hwynt, i offeiriadu i mi.

Anoint the children of Aaron, as thou hast anointed their father, in minister before me. Rhodri 40. 15.

Offeriant, s. m.—pl. offeriant (offer) Ministration, the act of sacrificing.

Offeriant—
A'i haelch offeriant, a'i hofferiant,
A pharawd offeren hoffiant.

Metred with its stately priest, and its sacrifice, and the ready men of love. Cynulleid.

Offeriadyn, s. m. dim. (offeiriad) A bit of a priest, in cant language.

Offer, s. pl. aggr. (off—er) That has power to effect; an instrument; implements; gear, traces, or harness.

Gwell tyng, cynnyddu nerth,
Na thor offer na threfneth.

Better to pull on, exerting strength, than the breaking of gear or harness. Math. ab Llywelyn Goch.

Offerawl, a. (offer) Instrumental, serving.

Offeren, s. f.—pl. t. au (offer) Instrumentality; the service of the church of Rome, the mass.

Offeren pawb yn ei galon.

Every body's religion in his heart. Adage.

Offerena, v. a. (offeren) To do the duty of the church in general; to celebrate mass.

Offerenawl, a. (offeren) Belonging to divine service; belonging to the mass.

Offerendor, s. f. (offeren—tor) The vestment worn at mass; a cope.

Offereniad, s. m. (offeren) A performing of divine service; a saying mass.

Offerennu, v. a. (offeren) To perform divine service; to say mass.

Or gwneir agiwyd mewn taiogdref gan ganiad y henein, a'i bod yn gorffas, ac offeiriad yn offeren ynddi, rhydd fydd y dref hono o byny siliad.

If a church shall be built in a villain town, with the permission of the king, and it should be a place of interment, and a priest doing duty in it, that town shall be free from that time forward. Welsh Laws.

Offerenwr, s. m.—pl. offerenwyr (offeren—gwr) One who celebrates mass, a mass-priest.

Offerenwag, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (offeren—gwig) A vestment worn in celebrating mass.

Offeriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (offer) An acting as an instrument; a becoming an agent.

Offeriannawl, a. (offeriant) Instrumental.

Offerianniad, s. m. (offeriant) A rendering instrumental; a becoming instrumental.

Offeriannu, v. a. (offeriant) To be instrumental.

Offeriannus, a. (offeriant) Instrumental.

Offerant, s. m. (offer) Instrumentality.

Offeru, v. a. (offer) To provide implements or tools; to equip; to furnish with gear or harness

Offerwr, s. m.—pl. offerwyr (offer—gwr) One who equips or furnishes.

Offeryn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (offer) An instrument, or agent; a tool.

Off-ryu gwastadawl yn llaw pob dyu yw ei ddeud, er byny nid oes neb a wyl ei arfer yn iawn.

A tool which is continually in the hand of every person is his understanding, and yet no one knows how to use it rightly. Adage.

Offerynawl, a. (offeryn) Instrumental, agent.

Offerynoideb, s. m. (offerynawl) Instrumentalness

Offerynu, v. a. (offeryn) To act as an instrument; to be instrumental.

Offr, s. m. (off) That has the power to effect.

Offrwm, s. m.—pl. offrymau (offr) An offering.

Offrwm, v. a. (offr) To offer, or to sacrifice.

Offrymawl, a. (offrwm) Offering up, sacrificial.

Offrymiad, s. m. (offrwm) The act of offering.

Offrymu, v. a. (offrwm) To offer, or to sacrifice.

Offrymwr, s. m.—pl. offrymwyr (offrwm—gwr) One who offers up, a sacrificer.

Offrymydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (offrwm) One who offers up, a sacrificer.

OG, s. f. r.—pl. t. au. That is full of motion; that is apt to open or expand; that is full of life, youth; that moves or stirs; a harrow.

Tra rhoi yr og rhedol y freann.

Whilst the harrow moves let the mill move. Adage.

Mai y llyffan dan yr og.

Like the frog under the harrow. Adage.

Og, a. (og, s.) Having aptitude for motion; apt to move or stir; apt to open or expand; young, youthful.

A'm gyrrys yn aghrog,
A wyddu yn og.

That sent me to the crow, I knew when young. Tellies, wrth dyddbraud.

Ogaid, s. f. (og) A stroke of the harrow.

Ogan, s. f. dim. (og) A little harrow.

Cael a wneuthum both arfan,
A phrynu aradr ac ogan.

I obtained some money and bought me a plough and a harrow. S. Tudor.

Oged, s. f.—pl. t. au (og) That stirs or opens; a harrow.

Ogedig, a. (oged) Being stirred or harrowed.

Ogedn, v. a. (oged) To stir; to use a harrow.

Ogfaen, s. f.—pl. ogfain (og—maen) Hip, or the fruit of the dog rose. It is also called crawel y moch, bryd y moch.

Mai y llwynog am yr ogfaen.

Like the fox after the hips. Adage.

Ogfaenawg, a. (ogfaen) Abounding with hips.

Ogfaenen, s. f. (ogfaen) A single hip.

Ogfaenen yn agenseu-wch.

A hip in the mouth of an old sow. Adage.

Ogfaenliw, s. m. (ogfaen—lliw) The colour of hips. a. Of the colour of the hip.

Ogfaenllwyn, s. m.—pl. t. i (ogfaen—llwyn) A bush of dog-rose thorns.

Ogl, v. a. (og) To use the harrow, to harrow. Llynnu, to smooth, is popularly used.

Ogliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (og) A harrowing.

Ogliadwr, s. m. (ogliad—gwr) A harrower.

Ogl, s. m. (og) That is full of motion or life; expansion; growth. a. Full of motion or life; expanding; growing; youthful.

Heddyw, dydd da i'r hoewdyd
Fain og o gerf, fawgl gyw.

This morning, good day to thee! smart maid, of slender growth in body, and while neck. Sir Iwan Robert.

Ogledd, s. m. (ogl) Fullness of activity or motion

Ognaw, s. m. (og—naw) Activity, ertness.
Ogof, s. f.—pl. t. au (og—of) A cave; a den.
Ogofawg, a. (ogof) Abounding with caves.
Ohan, pronom. prep. (o—han) Out of, from out of. Ohanaf, out of me, of me; ohanot, out of thee; ohani, out of her; ohano, out of him or it; ohanom, out of us; ohanoch, out of you; ohanynt, out of them.
Ohon, pronom. prep. (o—hon) Out of, from out of; of, from. Ohonaf, out of me; ohonot, of thee; ohono, of him or it; ohoni, of her; ohonom, out of us; ohonoch, of you; ohonynt, of them.
Oi, v. a. (aw) To proceed to; to come forward.
Oi, interj. (oi, v.) Expressive of applause. Well.

Oi, was da; canys buost yn fyddiawn yn ychydigyn, cymet feddiantar ddeg dinas.

Well, thou good servant; as thou hast been faithful in a very little, be thou ruler over ten cities. W. Salisbury, Luke 19.

Gyr y gwartheg o'r erin;
 Oi! Oi! tro y llai o'r llin.

Drive the cattle out of the corn; Come! Come! drive the calves out of the fax. D. ol Gwilym.

O'i, prep. and pron. (o—ei) Out of or from the third person; from its, from his, from her.

Drwg pawb o'i wybod.

Every one is bad from his being known.

Adage.

Gwell gwr o'i bercht.

A man is better from his being respected.

Adage.

Ni cheff chwedl i'w ei o'i dy.

He will get no news who does not go out of his house.

Adage.

Oiad, s. m. (oi) A listening, or hearkening.

Oian, s. m. (oi) A listening, a hearkening.

Oiana, parchellau! y parchell gwyn gwys,
 Na chysgi hun fore;
 Na chhaid yn mhrys, rhag dawed
 Rhydderch hael a'i gwn cyfrows;
 Gan gaffael ohonod y coed
 Rhedodd dy chrys.

Listen, little porkling! thou forward little white pig, that thou dost not sleep a morning nap; do not burrow on the open ridge; lest Rhydderch the generous should come with his cunning dogs: As thou hast been able to get to the woods, thy sweat has trickled.
Myrddin.

Oianu, v. a. (oian) To hearken, or to listen.

Oiaw, v. a. (oi) To hark, to listen, to attend.
Gurandaw is the expression popularly used.

Oia di yr Arglwydd dy Dduw.

Hear thou the Lord thy God.

Malinogi.

Aeth ulw dros frig wyth aelwyd;
 Oia, ryssu ddu, mau'dd wyd.

Fumbers have become spread over eight hearths; hark, sable sleeper, be to me.
D. ab Gwilym, yr anghunedd.

Oio, interj. (oi) Oh! dear! well! alack!

OL, s. m. r.—pl. t. ion. A mark, trace, or impression; a track, course, or path; a footstep; what is in course, the future and the past; the rear, the hinder part. Mae arnaf ei ol, I bear his marks; ol buryall, the mark of a hatchet; ol troed, the print of a foot: Mae yr amser goreu yn ol eto, the best time is yet in course (to come); pa um sydd ar ol? What one is on the rear? or, what one is behind? Blaen ac ol, foremost and hindmost; bod yn ol, to be wanting; troi yn ol, to turn back; rhoi yn ol, to give back; ar ol bod yno, after being there; yn ol, according to; yr amser yn ol, the time hereafter; mynd ar ol, to go after.

Ellid bryd yn ol breuddwyd.

Let the mind go after the dream.

Adage.

Ol, a. (ol, s.) Hindmost. Y pen ol, the posteriors Olaf, adv. (ol) Farthest back, hindmost, last.
s. m. The last, the hindmost.

Gadu y nos waethaf yn olaf.

To leave the worst night till last.

Adage.

Olafedd, s. m. (olaf) Posteriority, ultimity.

Olafiad, s. m.—pl. olafiad (olaf) A successor.

Olafiaeth, s. m. (olaf) A successorship.

Olbrain, s. m. (ol—brain) Wart-cress, wine cress.

Olbre, s. f.—pl. t. on (ol—pre) The thumb on the end of a web; also called eddi.

Olddyddiad, s. m. (dyddiad) An after-dating.

Olddyddiaw, v. a. (ol—dyddiaw) To post date.

Ole, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ol) A ribble; a ravine, such as is formed by the current of waters.

Cyfarfod, yn yr ole feyn,
 A wnaia s. lodes.

A meeting, in the pleasant dingle, I had with a maid.
Morgan Gwynedd.

Olew, s. m.—pl. t. on (ol—ew) Oil. Dodi olew, to administer extreme unction.

Olewyydd, s. pl. aggr. (olew—gwydd) Olive tree.
Olewyydden, s. f. (olewyydd) An olive tree.

Oli, v. a. (ol) To proceed lastly; to be last.

Oliad, s. m.—pl. oliad (ol) That is in course, or consequent; posterity; the hindmost. Blac-iaid ac oliad, leaders and followers; cael ohad ar beth, to get a scent of a thing.

Oliannawl, a. (oliant) Successive; tracing.

Oliannu, v. a. (oliant) To form a track; to come in succession.

Oliant, s. m. (ol) Succession; a tracing.

Olieddyd, s. m. (oliad) A pricker, in hunting.

Olion, s. pl. aggr. (ol) Things left behind, leavings, refuse.

Oliwr, s. m.—pl. oliwyr (ol—gwr) A pricker.

Olpi, s. m. (ol) A puncture; an oil-hole.

Olpai, s. m. (olp) A tag put into an oil-hole.

Olrhain, s. m. (ol—rhain) A searching after.

Olrhain, v. a. (ol—rhain) To follow by the trace; to trace, to search out, to seek by the print of the feet; to search carefully.

Gwell cadw nog olrhain.

Better to keep than to search after.

Adage.

Olrhe, s. m. (rhe) A following a track.

Olrhëad, s. m.—pl. olrhëaid (olrhe) A beagle.

Olrhëain, v. a. (olrhe) To trace after, to indagate.

Am ael rhw i'm olrhëwyd.

About the brow of the hill I have been traced. O. ab Ll. Iud.

Olrhëawd, s. m. (olrhe) A scrutiny, a tracing out.

Olrhëawl, a. (olrhe) Scrutinizing, searching.

Olrhëiniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (olrhain) Indagation.

Olrhëiniadu, v. a. (olrhëiniad) To indagate.

Olrhëiniadwy, a. (olrhëiniad) Scrutable.

Olrhëiniaw, v. a. (olrhain) To indagate, to search out, to investigate, to scrutinize.

Olrhëiniedig, a. (olrhëiniad) Being traced out.

Olrhëiniedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (olrhëiniad) An indagator, a scrutinizer, a tracer.

Olrhëiniwr, s. m.—pl. olrhëiniwyr (olrhëais—gwr) A scrutinizer, a finder out.

Olrhëwr, s. m.—pl. olrhëwyr (olrhë—gwr) A diligent seeker, a scrutinizer.

Olw, s. m. (ol) That makes track, or mark.

Olwen, s. f. (ol—gwen) Of a white or fair track:

the Venus of the Britons, or a poetical personage, representing the prolific principle of nature: Four white trefoils sprang up wherever she trod.

Olwr, s. m.—pl. olwyr (ol—gwr) One who is last; a follower; a tracer.

Olwydd, s. m. (ol—gwydd) Knowledge by scent.

Olwyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (olw) What moves or turns to form a track; a wheel. Olwyn ar, the beam of a sledge or drag.

Pen a berthaf to mawddwyd,
Oedd ysgwyd ar ei wlad, oedd olwyn yn nghad.
A head I bear by the side of my thigh, that was a shield over his country, that was a wheel in battle. Llywarch Hen.

Olwyn, a. (ol—gwyn) Having a white track.
Olwynad, s. m. (olwyn) A moving in a track; a wheeling, a forming a wheel.
Olwynaw, v. a. (olwyn) To move in a track; to wheel, to form a wheel.
Olwynawg, s. (olwyn) Having wheels, wheeled.
Olymadrawd, s. m.—pl. olymadroddion (ymad-rawd) An after-discourse; an epilogue.
Olynol, adv. (ol—yn—ol) In succession, one after another.

Diogystri, Hywla F'rildid olynol
Noli olynolion f'canad.
Destroy, send to the dust one after another all the enemies of my soul. H. D. ab Ifan, ps. 143.

Olygrif, s. f.—pl. t. ion (ysgrif) A postscript.
Olygrifen, s. f. (olysgrif) A postscript.
OLL, s. m. r. That is separate, distinct, or complete in itself; a whole, or all.
OLL, a. (oll, s.) All, the whole of, every one.

Oeren oli y goren a ellir.
The best of all is what is possible. Adage.

Ollallu, s. m. (gallu) All-power, omnipotence.
Ollalluawg, a. (ollallu) Almighty, omnipotent.
Ollallneodd, s. m. (ollallu) Almightyness.
Ollallneoddus, a. (ollallu) Omnipotential.
Ollallnogi, v. a. (ollalluawg) To render omnipotent, to become omnipotent.
Ollallnogrwydd, s. m. (ollalluawg) Almightyness.
Ollarfawg, a. (arfawg) Completely armed.
Ollarfawg, s. m. (ollarfawg) A panoply.
Ollarfawg, a. (difaawg) All-consuming.
Ollardigawg, a. (digonawg) All-sufficient.
Ollardoeth, a. (doeth) All-wise, all-knowing.
Ollardoeth, s. m. (cyfoeth) All-power.
Ollardoethawg, a. (ollgyfoeth) All-powerful.
Oll, v. a. (oll) To render distinct or complete in itself; to make up a whole or all.
Ollach, s. m. (ollach) An universal remedy; the herb all-heal. a. Perfectly well.
Oll, s. m. (oll) An entireness, or a whole.
Ollawdd, s. m. (nawdd) Complete protection.
Ollnerth, s. m. (oll—nerth) All of power.
Ollnerthawg, a. (ollnerth) Omnipotent.

Ollnerthawg—
Yn ei wyrthion ollnerthawg.
I will praise him in his almighty wonders. W. Middleton.

Ollnerthedd, s. m. (ollnerth) Omnipotence.
Ollnoddawg, a. (ollnawdd) All-protecting.
Ollnoddawl, a. (ollnawdd) All-protecting.
Ollorod, s. m. (gorfod) Universal conquest.
Ollorodawg, a. (ollorod) All-conquering.
Ollrad, s. m. (oll—rhod) All of grace.
Ollradawg, a. (ollrad) All-gracious.
Ollryw, a. (rhyw) Omnigenious, of all kinds.
Ollrywad, s. m. (sylwad) Omnipercipency.
Ollryniad, s. m. (syniad) Omnipercipency.
Oll, a. (oll) Of a whole or entire form.
Ollwedd, s. f. (gwedd) A whole appearance. a.
Every way, all manner.

Bod yn addy, deddf y Don,
Cof ollwedd, f'ch cyfeillion.
To be humble, after the maxim of Don, remembering always,
to your friends. Wat. ab Hywel.

Ollweddawg, a. (ollwedd) Omniform, of all forms.
Ollwel, a. (gwel) All-seeing, seeing all things.
Ollwenthurawl, a. (gwenthurawl) Omnific.
Ollwybod, s. m. (gwybod) Omniscience.
Ollwybodawg, a. (ollwybod) Omniscious.

Ollwybodawl, a. (ollwybod) Omniscient.
Ollwybodus, a. (ollwybod) Omniscious.
Ollwydd, s. m. (gwydd) Omnipresence, ubiquity.
Ollysawl, a. (oll—ysawl) All-consuming.
Om, s. m. r. That stretches round, extends over, or includes; that bulges or swells out.
O'm, pronom. prep. (o—ym) Out of my, from my.
O'm pen, out of my head.
ON, s. f. r. That rises up; that is over superior, or beyond; that is in continuity; also an ash.
It is also a plural termination.
O'n, pronom. prep. (o—yn) Out or from our.
Onaddu, pronom. prep. (o—yn—addu) Of them.

Podwar melb ar agatol a'm bu—
Oedd Gwen goren gwr onaddu.
Four and twenty sons there were to me: Gwen was the best man of them. Llywarch Hen.

Ni chefal—
Onaddu yr un arfod.
I obtained not of them ever a single one. D. ab Gwilym.

Onaddynt, pronom. prep. (onaddu) Of them.
Onaid, a. (on) Like the ash, ash-like, ashen.
Onawl, a. (on) Belonging to the ash.
Onc, s. m.—pl. t. od (on) That stretches out, or that is headlong; an oak. Rada.
Onco, pron. (onc) That, speaking of what is near or under observation. Dyrol tmi onco, give me that; a fyny di onco? Wilt thou have that. Dyfed.
Onco, adv. (onc) There, or in that place.
Ond, conj. (on) But, only, except, save. Ond odid, nid hwygrach, peradventure; dim ond hyny, no more than that! ond gweli iti beidiar, but thou hadst better to be quiet.

Nid derwydd eithr o enwad;
Nid derwydd ond Daw.
Only a druid from appellation; for there is no druid but God.
Adage.

Ni bu Arthur ond tra fu.
Arthur was not but whilst he was. Adage.
Onen, s. f. dim. (on) An ash, an ash tree; also by metonymy, a spear. *Onen wyllt, a wild ash:
Rhwyd rudd ei onen, Rhyd with his crimson spear.*

Oni, conj. (o—ni) If not, unless, except. It is used before words with consonant initials.
Oni ddoi, if thou dost not come; oni'm gweli, if thou dost not see me.

Oni byddi cyfarwydd cyfarth.
If thou art not acquainted enquire. Adage.

Oni, adv. (o—ni) Until, to the time that; be not;
will not. Oni ddoi di yno? Wilt thou not come there? Oni weli di fi? Dost thou not see me?

Ni cheldw Cymro onl goilo.
A Welshman will not keep until he loses. Adage.

Onid, conj. (o—nid) If not, unless, except. It precedes words with vowel initials. *Onid eff hi, arosed; if she will not go, let her stay; onid e,
if not so.*

Onid, adv. (o—nid) Until, to the time that; be not; will not. *Onid wyf yma? am I not here?
Onid elo hi yno, until she goes there.*

Onide, conj. (onid—e) Otherwise, else, or.

Rhaid i weinidawg—fod yn gadarn yn y gwirionedd, onide ni wneir ag of ond collawg gwyni.
It is necessary for a minister to be firm in the truth, otherwise nothing will be made of him but a weathercock. Jer. Onian.

Onide, adv. (onid—e) If not so; if not that, otherwise; is it not so? how otherwise? Onide yn wir? is it not so indeed?

Onis, conj. (o—nis) If not, unless. It is used before words with consonant initials, preserving such as are mutable in their radical state. Onis tali, if thou dost not pay.

Onis, adv. (o-nis) Until, to the time that; be not; will not. Onis dolen, until we come.
Onite, conj. (onide) Otherwise, else, or, if not.
Onite, adv. (onide) If not so, if not that, or else, otherwise; is it not so? how otherwise?
Onwaew, s. f. (on-gwaew) An ashen spear.
Onwydd, s. pl. aggr. (on-gwydd) Ash trees.
Onwydden, s. f. dim. (onwydd) An ash tree.
Onynt, pronoun. prep. (on-ynt) Of them.

*Lle dolen, weblion haid, pawb onynt,
 Pwy bysag o'r ddwy-blaid,
 Tris gwerin cethin y caid.*

Where they should come, the outcast rubble, every one of them, of whichever of the two parties, terribly they would be found to oppress the multitude. H. D. ab Iwan.

Ong, s. f. (ou) A point of divergency.
Ongl, s. f.—pl. t. an (ong) A corner, an angle.
Yr ongl, the haw, a disorder in the eye so called.
Onglaidd, a. (ongl) Angular, angle-wise.
Onglawg, a. (ongl) Having angles, angular.
Ongli, v. a. (ongl) To make an angle; to make angular; to form a corner.
Ongliad, s. m. (ongl) A forming an angle.
Ongyr, s. f. aggr. (ou-gyr) A brunt or push of spears; an aggregate or throng of spears.

Tri cryr ongyr angerddawl.

Three angles of the vehement throng of spears. Ll. P. Mech.

*Aerddrad, aeth esgud wrth ongyll ongyr,
 Eryr rhodd bybyr mewn rhwydd bebyll.*

Bold in slaughter, the swift one went with the gleamings of the throng of spears, the eagle of magnificent gift in the moving tents. Frydydd Branan.

OR, s. f. r.—pl. t. oedd. That is outward, extreme, or bordering; a limit, a boundary; a coast, margin, brim, or edge.

Oedd—Treu rhag llew, rhag llyw pedair or.

There was a pressure before the lion, before the ruler of four borders. Cynaddeu.

Or, conj. (o-yr) If; but not so generally used as o, od, and os. Or bydd, if there shall be.
Or, prep. and art. (o-yr) Out of the, from the.

Gwneuthur deo-ddirwg o'r en.

Making two evils of the one.

Adage.

Oraw, v. a. (or) To utter, to send outward.
Orch, s. f. (or) That is an extreme; a rim; a limit, or border.
Ori, v. a. (awr) To make pauses; to breath at long intervals; to utter, to send out, to puff.
Oriad, s. m.—pl. t. an (awr) A puffing, a panting.
Oriadur, s. m. (oriad) What measures the hour; a watch.

Oriadur ya gofyn ei ddirwyn i fynydd bob dydd yw meddwl.

The mind of man is like a watch, which requires to be wound up every day. Defydd y Nant.

Oriain, v. a. (awr) To puff out, to pant for breath.
Mely byddai hi yn oriain ac yn methu cael ei goynt! how she used to be panting and failing to draw her breath.

Orian, s. f.—pl. t. an (awr) An utterance; a panting, or a puffing.

*Os cywair fy nghadair—
 Ys gwyr Maanwyd; a Phryderi,
 Tair orian, i am dan, a grau rhagddi:
 Ac am ei bawm ffyrilan gweligi,
 A'r fymaw ffwrthlawn ysedd o'ddechti;
 Ys chwaguch no'r gwia gwya y llyn yudi.*

If my chair is in order, it is known as Maanwyd; and Phryderi, three utterances, around the fire, will be sung before it; and about its bowls the streams of the torrent, and the fruitful spring is above it; more delicious than the white wine the liquor in it. Taliesin.

Orian, s. pl. aggr. (awr) Hours; periods; fits.
Dyn a rhyw orian drwg arno, a person with some bad fits upon him.

Oriawg, a. (awr) Having periods, changes, or fits; fickle, inconstant, changeable.

Oriawl, a. (awr) Belonging to the hour, hourly.

Oriawr, s. f.—pl. oriawr (awr) A watch.

Oriel, s. m.—pl. t. an (or) A porch; a gallery.

Orig, s. f. dim. (awr) A short hour, a little while.
adv. Now. Awr ac orig, continually. SH.

Oer yw'r locs,— Sy orig yn Nremanen.

Severe is the pang, which is now in Dremanen. S. C. G.

Origyn, s. m. dim. (orig) A short space.

Oriogl, v. a. (oriawg) To become capricious.

Oriogrwydd, s. m. (oriawg) Capriciousness.

Orials, s. m.—pl. orielsian (awr—llais) A clock.

Orielawr, s. m. (oriels—gwr) A clockmaker.

Orielaydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (oriels) A clockmaker.

Orn, s. m.—pl. t. an (or) A start, a push, a firm, a threat, a challenge, a stray.

Ornaidd, a. (orn) Tending to push out; apt to start; threatening.

Ornair, s. m.—pl. orneiriau (orn—gair) A war of challenge or threat.

*Clithle i'm corn gae ornair;
 Cael yagwyd, cethle y gair.*

I resorted into my shell at the threatening word, getting so I concealed the expression. D. ab Gwyn.

Ornawl, a. (orn) Repulsive; starting; threatening, challenging.

Ornedig, a. (orn) Threatened, challenged.

Ornedigaeth, s. m. (ornedig) A starting, threatening, a challenging.

Ornedd, s. m. (orn) A starting; a threatening state, a challenge.

Mablaeth arfelloeth warodd, Mab Brochwel, brochwel, hawl ornedd.

A picture of mildness the infancy of the son of Brochwel, generous heart, with scorn for claims. Cynaddeu, i Iwan.

Ornest, s. f.—pl. t. an (orn) A tilting match, or tournament; a single combat, a duel.

Ni ffordd ornest ar wr onni be di onni; ar o ddiwr ar hysgwr o'r cyfrith hido ornest.

A man shall not be judged capable to a combat until he be 21 years of age; and from thence and twenty onward the man shall fight him to combat. Wald Llew.

Ornestfa, s. f.—pl. t. on (ornest) A place of combat, a place for tournament.

Ornestiad, s. m. (ornest) The engaging in a tilting match; a fighting in single combat.

Ornestiaeth, s. m. (ornest) The practice of tournaments; the practice of single combat.

Ornestle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ornest—lle) A tiltyard, a place for tournaments.

Ornestu, v. a. (ornest) To engage in a tournament; to fight a single combat, to fight a duel.

Ornestwr, s. m.—pl. ornestwyr (ornest—rwr) One who engages in tournaments; a combatant.

Ornestydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ornest) Combatant.

Ornfoedd, s. f. (orn—bloedd) A shoot of threat.

Ornfoeddiad, s. m. (ornfoedd) A shooting in a threatening manner.

Ornfoeddiaw, v. a. (ornfoedd) To shoot threateningly; a shoot of defiance.

Orngri, s. f. (orn—cri) A threatening cry.

Orngriad, s. m. (orngri) A making a cry of threatening, or of defiance.

Orngriaw, v. a. (orngri) To cry threateningly.

Ornl, v. a. (orn) To push out or forward; to start, to threaten, to challenge.

Orniad, s. m.—pl. t. an (orn) A pushing out, starting, a threatening, a challenging.

Ornu, v. a. (orn) To push out or forward, to start, to threaten, to intimidate, to challenge.

*Gwelw afof—
A'i drydan fal thau Taf, Ornu, yn curo arnaf.*

A pale river, with its torrents like the waves of Taf, heaving upon me, I started with fear. D. ab Gwilym.
Ornwyr, s. m.—pl. ornwyr (orn—gwr) One who pushes or starts out; a starter, a threatener.
Ornydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (orn) A starter, a threatener, one who intimidates.
Orôl, v. a. (oraw) To utter, to be uttering.
Orroian, s. f. (orôl) An exclamation, an expression of joy; jubilation, iö pëan.

*Hînho, fal orolan,
El chlod yn Ngwynedd achlan.*

I have spread, as a song of triumph, her fame entirely over Gwynedd. D. ab Gwilym, i Forfudd.

Orroian, v. a. (orôl) To utter a shout of triumph.
OS, s. m. r. That tends from, out, or forward; that tends to increase; an increment. It is also a diminutive termination affixed to plural nouns, mostly used in tender language; as plant, children; plantos, dear little children.

Os, conj. (o—ys) If; used in common with e, odd, ed, and or, with verbs of the indicative mode. Os dei yma, if thou wilt come here. See PE.

Os pyll canwyll rhag cynhen, Goren canwyll yw pyll pen.

If there is a lamp to guard against contention, the best lamp is common sense. Hauk Cos Llwyd.

Osi, s. m. (awa) A sweet juice; cyder.

Myrwa—dhwed, mewn mael arfist, o oael wedy el glawur ar dri o farter rhodderu.

I would have for drink, in a silver basin, cyder after it has been warmed on three roddy-glowing embers. Arwel A Gugen.

*Pe bai gan mlt. yn ddilya,
O eryd rhyf ar dir Rhye;
A thrichan gwmlan a gwia;
Ac ya mela gan molio;
Pe llyf'r dclawr ya fara!
Nan faw dwer fal oael dai;
Yn ei wled rhyfodd barna
Dwr a dclawr dri dlan.*

If there were a hundred thousand, to a certainty, of numbered people on the head of Rhye; and three hundred nine-hundred teams of oxen; and in grinding a hundred mills; if the earth were of bread; or the taste of water like fine cyder; in his feast, it could be a wonder if the water and the land were to last for three days. D. Neesmer.

Osh, s. f.—pl. t. ion (os) That is erratic, a guest.

Gawd oeb er mas gwahoddir.

A guest is wont to come though he may not be invited. Adaga.

Osbawl, a. (osb) Belonging to a guest.

Oshi, a. a. (osb) To come as a guest; to be a guest or visitor.

Osi, s. m. (os) That tends from or out.

Osiatfydd, adv. (osg—atfydd) Peradventure.

The same as agatfydd and egatfydd.

Osged, s. f.—pl. t. nu (osg) A laver, a basin.

Osgl, s. m.—pl. t. nu (osg) A bough or branch; a twig, a spray.

Ercis y gwr y bloedd y berllan i'r garddwr dori an neu dclaw o ogles y pren mawr.

The person who owned the orchard ordered the gardener to cut down one or two of the branches of the large tree. Hauk Deothlan Rhafain.

Osglawd, s. m. (osgl) A ramification.

Osglawg, a. (osgl) Having branches, branched, branching, full of branches.

Osglawg, mewn dera; chwerw chwerth o;
Heug oer; chwertholau ion i;
Ni chet y grawd gystudd calce.

Full of branches the top of the oak; bitter the taste of ash, less than the cow-parasit; breaking out the wave: the cheek will not conceal the affliction of the heart. Llywarch Hen.

Osgledig, a. (osgl) Branched, ramified.

Osgledd, s. m. (osgl) Fulness of branches.

Osglen, s. f. dim. (osgl) A branch, a twig.

Osgil, v. n. (osgl) To branch, to shoot out.

Osgliad, s. m.—pl. t. an (osgl) A branching.

Osgo, s. m. (osg) Obliquity, or slope; a digression. Ar osgo, obliquely, aside.

Osgöad, s. m. (osgo) A going aslant, a going aside, a digression, a starting aside.

Osgöawl, a. (osgo) Tending to go aside, starting.

Osgöedd, s. m. (osgo) Obliquity, a starting aside.

Osgoi, v. a. (osgo) To go aslant, to go obliquely, to digress, to start aside.

Osgoiyld, a. (osgoi) Apt to go aside, apt to start aside, apt to be shy or coy.

Osgoiydrwydd, s. m. (osgoiyl) Aptness to start aside, aptness to avoid.

Osgöwr, s. m.—pl. osgöwyr (osgo—gwr) A starter, one who starts aside.

Osgyd, s. m.—pl. t. au (osg) A laver, a basin.

Osi, v. a. (os) To offer to do, to attempt.

Osiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (os) A making an essay.

Osiaw, v. a. (os) To offer to do, to essay, to make an attempt, to dare.

Osiawl, a. (os) Tending to make an essay.

Osid, adv. (os—id) If it be, if so be, peradventure.

Ost, s. m. (os) That is out, that extends out, that is spread or displayed.

Ostid, s. f. (ost) That is outward; an epithet for a shield or buckler.

Ostl, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ost) An open place, an inn.

Ostler, s. m.—pl. t. i (ostl) One who receives guests or acts at an inn, an ostler.

Ostr, s. m. (ost) That is spread out, or displayed.

Ostri, s. m. (ostr) Display of hospitality. Cadw ostrl, to keep open house.

Ostlys, s. m. (ost) Openness of conduct, display of hospitality; complaisance.

Osw, s. m. (os) That runs onward; a steed.

Oswydd, s. pl. aggr. (osw) Those that run out; ravagers; an epithet for war-horses; or the cavalry.

Ni byddai diwyth i lwyth oswydd.

There would be no abatement of wrath to the tribe of ravagers. Mediyr.

Gwral daf ar dyria oswydd.

He beheld alight amongst a host of ravagers. D. ab Llewelyn Hen.

*A'i cadarnau, oed hylwydd, yn hir,
i ymddifyn i'r ring torth oswydd.*

And long to support her, a prosperous treasure, to defend the land against a host of ravagers. Llywarch Hen.

*Gwynydd gwrth lawr, Gwynydd mawr,
Oswydd gwyddaw.*

The divider of opposing ground, the divider of shields, causing the fall of ravagers. Relell Brif-fwrdd.

Osyd, adv. (os—yd) If so; peradventure.

OTH, s. m. r. That is exterior or extreme.

O'th, pronom. prep. (o—yth) Out of thy.

OW, s. m. r. A breathing out; a moan.

Ow, interj. (ow, s.) Woe is me, alas, ah me!

Oyma, adv. (o—yma) From here, from hence.

Oyna, adv. (o—yna) From there, from thence; speaking of what is under observation.

Oyno, adv. (o—yno) From thence; speaking of what is distant, as to time or place.

P.

P A B

PA, s. m. r. What tends to proceed; what forms a continuity.

Pa, pron. (pa, s.) What, which. Pa le? which place? pa beth? what thing? pa un? which one? pa beth bynag a fo, what thing soever it shall be; pa ddyn bynag, what person soever.

Pa, adv. (pa, s.) To what, whither; what, which, how. Pa ffordd y doi? which way wilt thou come? I baleyr af? Where shall I go? Pa fan y byddi? Where wilt thou be? Pa un? Which one? Pa rai? Which ones? Pa gwaith? How often? Pa sut sydd? How is it with thee? Pa beth sydd arnat? What is the matter with thee? Pa sawl? How many? Pa gan? With what? Pa faint? How much? Pa gymaint, pa drysg? What quantity? Pa hyd? How long? Pa rag? From what? Pa ryw? What kind? Pa am? Wherefore? Pa ffordd, pa ddull, pa wedd, pa ddelw, pa fodd? in what way or form? Pa gan gymaint? About what quantity?

Pa anyberwyd, unben, a welcistl arnat?

What indecorum, prince, didst thou perceive in me?
li. Fywll—Mabinogion.

Abandd ba andaw.

What hearing can be of a tumult.

Adoffc.

Pab, s. m.—pl. t. au (pa—ab) That produces motion; that produces life; a father; the pope.

Arglwydd Iesu Grist erglwy,
Un Mab Daw bab wyd a bydd.

Lord Jesus Christ hear me, the son of God the living Father art thou.
R. Lelaif.

Pabaeth, s. m. (pab) Paternity: the papacy.

Pabald, a. (pab) Papal, or like the pope.

Pabawg, a. (pab) Having a pope, papal.

Pabawl, a. (pab) Belonging to a father; papal.

Pabell, s. f.—pl. pebyll (pab—ell) A moving habitation; tent, a pavillion; a tabernacle.

Pau ddol milgi Llywelyn,
Pob llwyn a fydd pebyll yn.

When the grayhound of Llywelyn comes, every grove will be a haunt for me.
Huw Cae Llywyl.

Pabellawg, a. (pabell) Having a tent, tented.

Pabelliad, s. m. (pabell) A fixing a tent.

Pabellig, s. f. dim. (pabell) A little tent.

Pabellu, v. a. (pabell) To pitch or fix a tent.

Pabeth, pron. (pa—peth) What thing.

Pabi, s. m.—pl. t. odd (pab) That is productive of motion or life; a poppy.

Pabiaidd, a. (pabi) Papaverous, poppy-like.

Pabiawg, a. (pabi) Abounding with poppies.

Pabiawl, a. (pabi) Papaverous, of poppy.

Pabir, s. pl. (pab—ir) Rushes, rush-candles.

Yr selwyd hon neuas cudd myr?
Mwy gorddyfussal babir gloew,
A chyffedau cywir.

This hearth, is it not covered with ash? More congenial would have been the shining rushes, with festivals of good faith.
Llywarch Hen.

Pabiraidd, a. (pabir) Like rushes, or rush-like.

Pabirawg, a. (pabir) Abounding with rushes.

Pabi, s. m.—pl. pabiau (pab) Activity; vigour, energy, faculty. Dwfn babi, profound faculty

P A E

Pablaidd, a. (pabl) Active; nervous, or potent.

Pablaidd gorff, pablaidd a gun,
Post addwyn hael, pab deudder.

Vigorous of body, men he overcomes, a pillar sturdy and firm, clad in a coat of thick steel. Iolo Goch, i O. Glander.

Pabledd, s. m. (pabl) Activity; vigorousness.

Pabliad, s. m. (pabl) A rendering active; a rendering vigorous.

Pablu, v. a. (pabl) To render active; to render nervous or vigorous; to give a faculty.

Pablus, a. (pabl) Nervous, vigorous.

Pablusaw, v. n. (pablus) To render vigorous.

Pablusedd, s. m. (pablus) Vigorousness.

Pabogaeth, s. m. (pabawg) The papacy.

Pabwyr, s. pl. aggr. (pab—wyr) The large rushes; rushes used for burning; also called lwyg.

Pabwyrn, v. a. (pabwyr) To gather rushes.

Pabwyrdd, a. (pabwyr) Like rushes.

Pabwyrwag, a. (pabwyr) Abounding with rushes.

Pabwyrn, s. f. dim. (pabwyr) The soft rush.

Pabwyrn, s. m. dim. (pabwyr) A bulrush. Yr wyf gan wlyped a'r pabwyrn, thou art as wet as the bulrush.

Pabydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pab) A papist.

Pabyddaid, a. (pabydd) Like a papist.

Pabyddawl, a. (pabydd) Papistical, popish.

Pabyddiaeth, s. m. (pabydd) Popery.

Pabynag, pron. (pa—bynag) Whatsoever.

Pad, s. m. (py—ad) That sustains, that keeps a continuity, that keeps together.

Padell, s. f.—pl. t. i (pad—ell) A pan. Padell bridd, an earthen pan; padell cydd, a brass pan; padell doddion, a dripping pan.

Fywll a ddylu padell.

The pan requires attention.

Aug.

Padellaid, s. f.—pl. padelleidiau (padell) A panful, or the contents of a pan.

Padellaid, a. (padell) Formed like a pan.

Padellau, s. f. dim. (padell) A little pan.

Padellawg, a. (padell) Having a pan.

Padelleig, s. f. dim. (padell) The kneecap; also called padell y glia.

Padellig, s. f. dim. (padell) A little pan.

Padellu, v. a. (padell) To form a pan.

Padellwr, s. m.—pl. padellwyr (padell—gur) A pan maker; a dealer in pans.

Padwysg, adv. (pa—twysg) What quantity.

Padyw, adv. (pa—yd—yw) What is it; why.

O Ddew! padyw yth reddir gwrnach,
Cyddylan, ar bedwar-deg-melch.

O God! why to thee are given the trappings of Gwynedd, four times ten stables.
Llywarch Hen.

Padd, s. m. (py—add) That causes to proceed; that keeps in a course.

Pae, s. m. (pa) That causes to go onward, that forms a continuity, that surrounds; a constraint; a panting, or constrained breathing; hesitation.

Paelled, s. f.—pl. t. an (pae—lled) A spread plaster; a skullcap.

A thrydyllu eu helmau, a briaw eu paelledu, ar yrru i faw a orgrug.

And perforate their helmets, and cut their skulls, and their weapons was what they did.
li. Gwynedd—Mabinogion.

'aedu, v. a. (paed) To lay on, to spread over, to plaster; to put on a skullcap.
'aen, s. m.—pl. t. od (pa—en) That spreads; a peacock.

Nid teg onid paen.

Nothing so fine as a peacock.

Adage.

'aenes, s. f.—pl. t. od (paen) A peahen.
'aenos, adv. (pae—nos) Every night, nightly.
'aenydd, adv. (pae—dydd) Every day, daily.
'aeni, s. m. (paen) Any thing plastered on.
'aentiad, s. m. (paent) A painting, a daubing.
'aentiaw, v. a. (paent) To paint; to daub.
'aentiawl, a. (paent) Painting, painted.
'aentiedig, a. (paentiad) Painted, daubed.
'aentiwr, s. m. (paent—gwr) A painter.
'aeol, s. m.—pl. t. au (pae—ol) A pail, a pot.
'aetu, adv. (pae—tu) On every side, round.
'aeth, s. m. (py—aeth) That forms a course, that keeps in a track; concurrence, agreement.
'afan, adv. (pa—man) What place, to what place, whither.
'aff, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—aff) A lump, a bulk.
'afiad, s. m. (paiff) A thumping, a buffeting.
'affiaw, v. a. (paiff) To thump, or to bang.
'affiwr, s. m.—pl. t. paiffwyr (paiff—gwr) A thumper.
'agan, adv. (pa—can) What with, with what.
'agwaith, adv. (pa—gwaith) How many times.
'agymaint, adv. (pa—cymaint) What quantity, how much.
Paham, adv. (pa—ham) What about, wherefore, for what cause, what for, why.

Bid bonid weithian, a fynydd yw, ac anafw, paham y gelwir y lle hwn yn ydy, a phaham yn afallach.

Be it known therefore; and it is notable and manifest, wherefore that place is called an island, and wherefore orchard.
St. Dinodd Arthur.

Pahyd, adv. (pa—hyd) How long, what length.
Pal, s. m. (pa) That sends out or from; that is objective.
Paid, s. m. (py—aid) A cessation of motion; a cessation, a state of rest, quiet. Paid, peidiu, be quiet; used for the imperative peidiu.
Paill, s. m. aggr.—pl. peillion (pall) Farina, flour.
Pain, s. m. aggr. (pan) Bloom, fine powder, or dust; farina; the bloom on fruits, the farina on flowers. Gwenith wedi bwrw y pain.
Pair, s. f. aggr. (par) An union of causes, instrumentalities or energies; a cause; also a boiler, a cauldron. Pair dadeni, the instrumentality or the alembic of regeneration; pair ceridwen, the energy of the smile of love, or prolific nature.
Berdism.

Pair Prydain profa yn nhangnef.

The energy of Britain we shall enjoy in tranquillity.

Cynddelw.

Cred fy ngair, o'm pair perid staf.

Believe my word, from my command he was caused to come to me.

Llywelyn Fardd.

Iolañ bair, o bared arwar,

A heria amad ac adar.

I will praise the cause, from an impulse so pure, that caused the various beasts and fowls.

Llywelyn Fardd.

Pais, s. f.—pl. peislau (py—ais) A coat. Pais arlau, a coat of arms; pais ddur, a coat of mail.

Pawb a drals yn mhais ei dad.

Every one will oppress in his father's coat.

Adage.

Paig, s. m. (pais) That forms a coating; a pod.
Paith, s. m.—pl. peithion (py—aitb) An opening, a strait forward course; a glance; a prospect, a scene.

Diffwys balth odwys,
Brithyniad elud giwys,
Argoedwys argludrad.

Trailing over a steep arched, an explication of a beauteous pile,
A wander of the men of Argoed. Cynddelw, i O. Cyfyllwng.

VOL. II.

Pal, s. f.—pl. t. au (pa—al) A spread, a ray, a flat body, a spade; the puffin, a bird so called.
Rhaw bal, rhaw balar, a shovel, a spade.

Palad, s. m.—pl. t. on (pal) A spreading or shooting out, a beaming, a radiating, a paling.

Paladr, s. m.—pl. pelydr (palad) A ray, a beam, a shaft, a stem, a trunk, a stalk, axis; a pole, or perch. Paladr melin, the shaft of a mill wheel; paladr gwaw, the shaft of a spear; paladr angor, the shank of an anchor; cyswyrn paladr, spear charge, a payment so called: pelydr hawl, van-beams; paladr englyn, the stave of a stanza; paladr hfr, broom-rape; paladr trwyddo, the herb thorow-wax.

Ceinlwg baledr yw yr hon a dalai bob gwr o'r genedl tu ar at dala galadau:—Ni lhai gwraig geinlwg baledr, am nad oes ludi ond cogel.

The spear-penny is that which every man of a family used to pay towards arming a fine for homicide:—A woman does not pay a spear-penny, so she has but a distaff. Welsh Laws.

Paladrawg, a. (paladr) Having a stem or shaft.

Paladriad, s. m. (paladr) A forming a stem.

Paladru, v. a. (paladr) To form a beam or shaft; to shaft; to rise in a stalk, or to bole.

Paladrywim, s. m. (palad—rhwym) The fastening, which joins the two parts of a flail.

Paladu, v. a. (palad) To spread or shoot out; to beam, to radiate.

Palaiwyf, s. f. (pal—llwyf) A lime tree; also called gwaglwyl.

Palar, s. f. (pal—ar) Delving soil or ground.

I Addaf a'i symbar

Y rhodol rhaw balar

I dori dalar.

I gael bara.

To Adam and his partner there was given a spade for soil-delving, to break up the ground to obtain bread. Audi Fraith.

Palawr, s. m.—pl. palorion (pal) A deliver.

Paled, s. f.—pl. t. au (pal) A shaft, a javelin, a dart. Guare paled, a tilting match.

Gwedi cyflawni o bonam ni pob peth, or a berthmamt ar y deyrwau y damwainiws y rhwng dda nolaist cyffrydd am fuddugoliaeth gwarnae paled.

After we had completed every thing, which appertained to the Gods, there happened between two nephews a dispute about the victory at a tilting match. Gr. ab Arthwr.

Paledrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (paladr) A maker of arrows, a fletcher.

Paledu, v. a. (paled) To throw a javelin, to tilt.

Paledwr, s. m.—pl. paledwyr (paled—gwr) A tilter, one who uses a javelin.

Palf, s. f.—pl. t. au (pal) The flat part or end of a shaft: a blade, as of an oar: a paw, the palm of a hand. Palf y gath, the herb cat's-foot: palf y llew, common ladies' mantle: palf yr arth, stinking hellebore: palf y blaid, common club-moss: palf y gath bali, ground pine.

Mai llygodyn dan balf y gath.

Like a mouse under the cat's paw.

Adage.

Palfaid, s. f.—pl. palfeidiau (palf) The stroke or motion of a palm.

Palfal, s. m. (palf) A moving the paws in all directions, a grope.

Palfaliad, s. m. (palfal) A groping about.

Palfalu, v. a. (palfal) To grope, to creep on the hands and feet.

Palfalwr, s. m.—pl. palfalwyr (palfal—gwr) One who gropes, a creeper on all-fours.

Palfawd, s. f.—pl. palfodau (palf) A stroke with the paw, a slap with the palm of the hand.

Palfawg, a. (palf) Having a palm, pawed.

Palfes, s. f.—pl. palfesiau (palf) A shoulder of a quadruped. Palfes mollt, ysbard mollt, a shoulder of mutton.

3 D

Palfiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (palf) A pawing.
Palfodiad, s. m. (palfawd) A slapping with the paw, a slapping with the open hand.
Palfodiaw, v. u. (palfawd) To slap with the paw.
Palfodiwr, s. m.—pl. palfodwyr (palfawd—gwr) One who slaps, a slapper.
Palfre, s. f.—pl. t. od (palf—rhe) A palfrey.
Palfu, v. a. (palf) To paw, to grope gently with the hand.
Palfwr, s. m.—pl. palfwyr (palf—gwr) A pawner.
Pali, s. m. (pal) That is of a downy glossy surface, satin, velvet. Cath bali, the glossy fur cat, an epithet for some ferocious animal, probably a tiger. See Palug.

Pwy y rian oco,—a gwig o ball melyn amdeni!
 Who is yonder lady, with a robe of yellow satin on her?
Hanes O. ab Urien—Mabinogion.

Nen'm rhoddes hil Rhun rudd a phall.
 Have I not been gifted by the race of Rhun with crimson and satin.
Rhwyf rhodas, biau beirdd i'n foli, Cynddelw.
A llen, a llyfran, a llen ball.

Lord of the virtues, it is incumbent upon her to do him honour, with learning, and books, and satin veil.
Gw. Brachylogus, i Ddewi.

Paliad, s. m. (pâl) A throwing out, a spreading, a delving, or digging.
Paliadd, a. (pali) Glossy like satin, or velvet.
Paliawg, a. (pali) Of satin, of velvet.
Palis, s. m.—pl. t. au (pal) A thin partition, as of boards, wattling, or laths: a wainscot; the steep of a rock.

O ballis llys nef, ef a gwymld, ac a fwrld i'r carchar laf.
 From the pale of the court of heaven, he was made to fall, and he was cast into the lowermost prison.
Bluddegarus.

Ni saif palis a oodir yn uchel yn erbyn y gwynt.
 A paling that is placed on high will not stand against the wind.
Eccliesiastes xxii. 18.

Palisaw, v. a. (palis) To make a partition of boards or laths, to wainscot.

Palisawg, a. (palis) Partitioned, wainscotted, paled, paly.

Dy ryw ballisawg darian—
Yw hon.

Thy appropriate paly shield is this. Gr. Hiraethawg.

Palisiad, s. m. (palis) A partitioning; a wainscotting; a paling.

Palm, s. m. (pal) A spread; a flag.

Palmant, s. m.—pl. t. au (palm) A pavement.

Palmantawg, a. (palmant) Having a pavement.

Palmantiad, s. m. (palmant) A paving.

Palmantu, v. a. (palmant) To make a pavement.

Palmantwr, s. m.—pl. palmantwyr (palmant—gwr) One who makes a pavement, a pavior.

Palmid, s. m. (palm) That is spreading or flat.

Palmidwydd, s. pl. (palmid—gwydd) Palm trees.

Palmidwydden, s. f. dim. (palmidwydd) Palm tree

Palmydd, s. pl. aggr. (palm—gwydd) Palm trees.

Palmyddden, s. f. dim. (palmydd) A palm tree.

Palores, s. f.—pl. t. au (palawr) A chongh.

Palu, v. a. (pal) To delve, or to dig.

Palug, s. m. (pâl) That is of a smooth glossy surface. Cath palug, the glossy coated cat, some fierce animal, probably a tiger, mentioned in the historical triads to have been one of three molestations of Mona, which were reared in it.

Palwr, s. m.—pl. palwyr (palu—gwr) A digger

Pall, s. m. (py—all) Loss of power, energy, or compactness; that is incompetent; a failing; neglect, omission, deficiency; a perishing state.

Yr holl wirionedd ar ball aeth
O biith hillogaeth dymion.

All righteousness is gone to naught from amongst the generation of men.
Edm. Frys.

Pall, s. m.—pl. t. au (pa—all) That encloses, is a loose hanging, or curtain; a mantle; also a tent, a pavillion; a throne.

Nid y mywn ty ydd oeddynt, namya y mywn pallu.

Not in houses were they, but in tents.
Ydori Ben. Ffyn—Mabinogion.

Pall, a. (py—all) Of a spreading or incompetent tendency; tending to fail or decay.

Ysgwyd ball gwall Gobeityn.

The spreading and tollsome shield of Gobeityn. Ll. F. Mack.

Palladwy, a. (pall) Fallible; perishable.

Palldawd, s. m. (pall) Failure; abortiveness.

Palldeg, a. (pall—teg) Spreadingly-fair.

Maengwr giod bell-daer, gwyd balldeg myrth.

A stone mansion of far-pervading fame, a warm spreading to spacious place.
Canwyb.

Pallder, s. m. (pall) Fallibleness; a perished state

Palledig, a. (pall) Being of a failed state.

Pallen, s. f.—pl. t. au (pall) A coverlid.

Palliad, s. m. (pall) A divesting of energy or compactness; a failing, a perishing.

Palliannawl, a. (palliant) Tending to fallibility.

Palliannu, v. a. (palliant) To render fallible, to render perishable, to become fallible.

Palliant, s. m. (pall) A failure, neglect, omission; a perishing, or a failing.

Pallu, v. a. (pall) To fail, to neglect, to omit; to be deficient, to cease; to perish, to mist.

Gawd eddwid gwraig ry phall.

A woman's promise naturally will fail. Alar.

Ye da felin a ballodd.

Good is the mill which has been worn out. Alar.

Pan roddal pob rhal, nid Rhys a ballid;

I'n ballid pob rhal, fo a roddal Rhys.

When every body would be giving, Rhys would not fail; the every body would fail, Rhys would give. D. Rasse.

Pallus, a. (pall) Apt to fail, fallacious.

Pallusaw, v. a. (pallus) To make fallible; to become fallible.

Pallusedd, s. m. (pallus) Aptness to fail.

Pallusrwydd, s. m. (pallus) A state of failing.

Pallwr, s. m.—pl. pallwyr (pall—gwr) One who fails, one who neglects or omits.

Pallydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pall) One who fails.

Pam, adv. (pa—am) What about, wherefore, for what cause, why.

Pan, s. m.—pl. t. au (py—an) A vessel of capacity; a pan; a bowl, a cup.

Gwirawd a ddygir o ddigawn stas;

Gwlu o ban, rhan rhadaw.

Liquor will be brought in plenty to me; wine from the pan, grateful portion.
Cynddelw.

Oni ddaw i mewn o'r madd gwynn all

Gwirawd o ban, dy ben fadden!

If there does not come of the mead the best of all liquor from the pan, thy head shall answer!
O. Cyfeir.

Pan, s. m. (pa—an) That is universal; pervasive, of spreading grain or texture; down; fur; nap; the milling, fulling, or thickening of cloth.

Gynau pan, fur gowns.

Pan, adv. (pa—yn) When, at which time; whence, from whence; since; for which cause.

Pan fo, when there shall be; pan elo hys hysio, when this shall pass away; pan gw, that is;

hyd pan, so that: pan hyneddwyd? Whence were they descended?

Pan ddwyco cyfrath anrhaith o farwty, nae o neb dull rhod-e bydd un peth a dalio bunt, bwrain bieuwydd.

When the law takes an exchequer from a death house, or from any other claim, if there should be any one thing of the value of a pound, it shall belong to the king.
Wlad. Llew.

Pan fai lawen frain, pan fryddi wael,
Pan wyar waryd,
Pan ryddi, pan ruddi ei thal
Pan Rhodan pan ruddi-yn llogol,
Pan ruddan ruddion ffrwyddi hyd nef,
Yn addol ai noddol.

When the ravens rejoice, when blood hastens, when pure bubbles, when there was war, when its houses were reddened, when Rhodan of the time its red court burned, when we made the reddy fame to glow, it flamed up to heaven, no habitation would yield shelter. Hywel ab Owain.

Dreodynt hwynebu wrtho : pan deul di wr! O'r gae'r a welwch chwi rhawo.

They then said to him : Whence comest thou, man! From the castle that you see yonder. Hanes Cuthack—Mabynogion.

Pannan, s. c. (pan) That involves together.

Pannas, s. f. (pan) A kind of straw hangings, or plaited partition of straw; also called plaid-wellt; paranep; panes y dafwr, water paranep.
Pannawg, a. (pan) Covered with down or nap; furred; frized; thickened by fulling, or milled. Y dew bannawg, the great mullein.

Panc, s. m.—pl. f. lau (pan) A blow; a spank.

Pand, adv. (pa—ond) What but; is it not.

Pandy, s. m.—pl. f. au (pan—ty) A fulling mill.

Paned, adv. (pan) When, at which time.

Panedig, a. (pan) Covered with down or fur;
thickened by fulling or milling.

Paneg, s. f.—pl. penyg (pan) A gut, or entrail.

Cyrryll hyl chwedryll, chwydrut penyg mawr.

The ugly trunk of six parts, with a tail discharging horse's entrails.
H. Ystern, i ddol Brynck.

Panel, s. m.—pl. f. i (pan) What is plaited or worked together; the thick matting of straw, or the cushion of a pack-saddle; it is also called panlle; also the pannel, or pack-saddle, otherwise called ystrodyr, and pynioreg.

Pancelawg, a. (panel) Involved, or blended together; consisting of plaited work; pannelled.

Panels, v. a. (panel) To involve, plait, to mat.

Panfa, s. f.—pl. panfydd (pan) The state of being covered with down, nap, or fur; the act of fulling; a banging.

Panlad, s. m.—pl. f. au (pan) A covering with down, nap, or fur; a fulling, or thickening by beating; a banging.

Pannawl, a. (pan) Tending to involve; or to hem in; forming a depression or hollow.

Pannedig, a. (pan) Hemmed in; depressed.

Pannel, s. m.—pl. f. au (pan) A little slope or fall; a small dingle.

Pwy, yu all y pannellau,
A gan mor ber ei gennau
A'r enw!

What one, in the recesses of the dingles whose mouth so sweetly deep as the nightingale! Meirion Dafydd.

Pannellawg, a. (pannell) Abounding with small hollows, or falls in the ground.

Pannell, v. a. (pannell) To form a gentle depression in a surface; to form a small hollow.

Pannoli, v. a. (pannawl) To form a devexity; to sink in, to slope down, to dimple.

Pannou, s. m. (mutation of panton) That comprehends universally; an epithet for the deity;
the originator, the creator.

E hunat Pannou,
Ar lawr glyn Ebron,
A'i ddwyllan geynion,
Gwrlwian Adon.
A naw can mlynedd,
Heb wawr ymgeidd,
Y be yn gorwedd,
Eich enaid.

The Creator formed, on the ground of Ebron vale, with his fair loam, the superior frame of Adam. Nine hundred years, without the dawn of self-supporting foresight he had been lying, before he obtained a soul. Audi Frith.

Pannu, v. a. (pan) To involve, to include, to hem in, to cause to sink in, to make a depression or hollow; to cause a panic.

Pannu a fydd dir rhag dewy gorllwg.

Pan fo dydd gorwedd, a chad yn wag.

A shrieking in will be certain before a hero sternly fierce, when there shall be a day of depredation, and a battle rent. Ein. ab Mad. Rhosod.

Pannwl, s. m.—pl. pannylan (pan) A depression,

a hollow, a sinking in; a dimple, a dinge.

Pannylawg, a. (pannwl) Abounding with falls, depressions, or hollows.

Pannyledd, s. m. (pannwl) Devexity of surface.

Pannyllad, s. m. (pannwl) A devexion; sinking in, a forming a hollow.

Pannylu, v. a. (pannwl) To form a devexity; to sink in, to slope down into a hollow.

Pant, s. m.—pl. pentydd (pan) That involves, circumscribes or includes; a depression, or sinking in, a hollow, a dinge, a low place, or bottom hemmed in all round.

I'r pant y rhed y dwr.

To the hollow will the water run.

Adage.

Mae gyncwlw, yr eilir alaf gan ddraig,
A dragon medrydd!
Heb bant molaet mllodd naf,
Heb bannu gan y penaf.

After my example, there will be obtained riches from the chief and the dragon of tents; without a sinking thousands will praise the prince, without the sovereign's making any fall. Ll. P. Mech, i R. ab H. ab Owain.

Pant, a. (pan) Involving, hemming in; involved, encompassed, included.

Mi a'i gyrfa o'm gorwedd,
Mor bant a'r mawr ar y bodd.

I will cause it to be by my lying down, so involving as the memory on the grave. Gm. Tru, i wily ph.

Pant, prep. (pan) Down. Af bant i Landain, I will go down to London. Dydd.

Pantawg, a. (pant) Having a depression, a sinking in or hollow.

Pantawl, a. (pant) Depressing, apt to sink in.

Pantedd, s. m. (pant) The state of being depressed, sunk in, or made hollow.

Pantiad, s. m. (pant) A depression, a sinking in,
a becoming hollow; a dimpling.

Panton, s. m. (pant) The all-comprehending one;
a bardic appellation for the deity.

Pantu, v. a. (pant) To involve, to compass: to depress, to bulge in: to dimple: to sink in,
to become a hollow.

Pannu, v. a. (pan) To make universal or pervasive: to form a texture or grain: to cover with down or nap, to full or to mill cloth, to thicken by beating, to bang, to beat. Cei dy bannu yn dda, thou shalt be well beaten.

Awen gordd bannu.

The genius of a fulling beetle.

Adage.

Panwaen, s. f.—pl. panweunydd (pan—gwaen) A wet meadow, a peat moss; also called gwaen bon, and mauwog.

Panwlan, s. m. (pan—gwan) Down or fine wool.

Panwr, s. m.—pl. panwyr (panu—gwr) A fuller.
Cribau y panwr, the tennel.

Panwriaeth, s. m. (panwr) The fuller's trade.

Panyw, adv. (pan—yw) Whence it is; that it is;
that is.

O derfydd i'r amddiffynwr ddodi yn mhen yr argwydd ac yr yngnald panuw hwan yw y dydd.

If the defendant shall have declared to the lord and the judges that it is that is the day. Welsh Laws.

Bid ddina i bawb, panuw yn mynwent y fynachlog yn Ynys Afallach, gwedi gweill anghwyl ar afoe Camlan yn Nghornyr y claddu Arthur.

Be it certain to every one, that it is in the monastery of the Isle of Avalloch, after mortal wounds on the river of Camlan in Ceru-yw, was Arthur buried. Hanes Dinodd Arthur.

Pang, s. m. (pang) A pang; a convulsion fit.
Pangaw, v. n. (pang) To have a convulsion fit.
Pangawl, a. (pang) Convulsive, giving a pang.
Pangiad, s. m. (pang) A convulsing; convulsion.
Pangu, v. a. (pang) To be convulsed.
Papyr, s. m.—pl. f. au (pab) Paper. Papyr gwyn, white paper; papyr llwyd, brown paper.
Papyraidd, a. (papyr) Like paper, papery.
Papyrawl, a. (papyr) Consisting of paper.
Papyrfrwyn, s. pl. aggr. (papyr—brwyn) Paper-reeds.
Papyriad, s. m. (papyr) A papering.
Papyrwr, s. m.—pl. papyrwr (papyr—gwr) A paperman, a papermaker.
Par, s. m. (py—ar) That is upon, or contiguous; that is in continuity; a state of readiness or preparedness; also a pair, fellow, match, or couple.

*Ac yno, yn medw Gwynedd,
 I ml ar bar y mae'r bodd.*

And there, in the birch groves of Gwynedd, for me in readiness is the grave. D. ab Gwilym.

Par, s. m.—pl. t. au (pa—ar) A cause; that is instrumental in causing or producing; the essence, germ or seed of a thing; also a spear.

Par, a. (pa—ar) Causing; causative; caused; in a state of energy or instrumentality.

Para, v. n. (par) To continue, to endure; to last; to persevere.

*Hir nis pery yr abwy lle bo llawer o frain.
 The carrion will not last long where there are many crows.* Adage.

*Nis pery glawder seren;
 Na'i phryd ond ennyd i wen.
 The splendor of a star will not endure; nor her continuance to the fair but for a while.* Bede Brynlligs.

Para, adv. (pa—rha) What sort, what kind.

*Para lesiad arbenig yr ydym ni yn ei dderbyn oddiwrth dderchaeth Crist?
 What particular benefit are we receiving from the sacration of Christ?* The Williams, in T. a Kempis.

*At para ymddadieu gynt y mae y rhyfel hwn, rhwng yr angel-ion da a drwg, debycaf yn burw!
 To what former contentions does this war, between the good angels and the bad, most probably refer?* Ibid.

Parâd, s. m. (parâ) Perseverance; continuance, duration.

*Diwyrrth yw dy gariad,
 Dau'r hedd, mewn rhyfedd barâd.
 Inexhaustible is thy love, God of peace, in wonderful duration.* D. Richard, Glan y Morfa.

Parâwl, a. (parâ) Continuing, continual.

Parab, s. m. (par—ab) Aptitude for utterance.

Parabl, s. m. (parab) The power of speech; speech, utterance; discourse.

Parablain, v. a. (parabl) To talk continually.

Parabledd, s. m. (parabl) Readiness of discourse

Parabliad, s. m. (parabl) A discoursing.

Parablu, v. a. (parabl) To hold a discourse.

Parablusaw, v. a. (parablus) To render fluent in discourse; to become eloquent.

Parablusedd, s. m. (parablus) Readiness in discourse or speech.

Parablwr, s. m.—pl. parablwr (parabl—gwr) A discourser; a preacher.

Parad, s. m. (par) Causation; a causing.

Paradwy, a. (parad) Causable, effectible.

Paradwyad, s. m. (paradwy) Effectuation.

Paradwyawl, a. (paradwy) Efficient, effective.

Paradwys, s. m. (para—twys) A continuity of increase or fructification; paradise.

Paradwysaidd, a. (paradwys) Paradisiacal.

Paradwysain, a. (paradwys) Paradisiacal.

Paradwysawl, a. (paradwys) Relating to paradise.
Paradwysoll, v. a. (paradwysawl) To render paradisiacal; to become like paradise.

Paraed, s. m. (para—ed) A partition.

Paraeth, s. m. (par) A causation, a cause.

Paraethu, v. a. (paraeth) To render causative.

Parag, adv. (pa—rhag) Because of what, why so.

Paral, s. c. (par) That causes or makes to be.

Parator, ger. (parad) In causing or bidding.

Parâu, v. n. (para) To persevere, to persist; to continue, to remain, to last, to abide.

*A fydd barâu yn hir yn teusne, ac yn chwyrdd yn hen.
 He that wishes long to continue young, let him soon become old.* Adage.

Parâus, a. (para) Of long continuance.

Parâusder, s. m. (parâus) Lastingness.

Parâusrwydd, s. m. (parâus) Lastingness.

Parawd, s. m. (par) That is in readiness. a. Ready, prompt, prepared.

*Ni cheillir nâf wir, nâf wrhydi,
 Ar gymathu gwaed,
 Awdrychion an drôed,
 Ac na bob parawd loeg.*

His justice nor his promises will be concealed, on the first meetings of blood, breaking round the fem, and about every a ready burning. Lt. P. Mach, i. 160.

Parawl, a. (par) Causing, effective; creative.

Parâwr, s. m.—pl. parâwr (parâ—gwr) One who continues.

Parc, s. m.—pl. f. lan (par) An enclosure; a field; a park.

Parcawl, a. (pare) Belonging to enclosure.

Parciad, s. m. (pare) An enclosing, a shutting in.

Parciaw, v. a. (pare) To enclose, to hedge in.

Parciwr, s. m.—pl. parciwr (pare—gwr) One who encloses, a hedger, a ditcher.

Parc, s. m. (py—arch) Respect, reverence.

*A fydd barch bid gadarn.
 Who would obtain honour let him be mighty.
 Mwy parch hynawr no llynd.
 Greater the respect of the good-natured than the reverence.* Adage.

Parchadwy, a. (parch) Respectable, reputable.

Parchawl, a. (parch) Tending to respect.

Parchedig, a. (parch) Respected, revered.

Parchedigaeith, s. m.—pl. t. au (parchedig) shewing respect, a reverencing or honoring.

Parchedigaw, v. a. (parchedig) To render reverent; to become revered or honoured.

Parchedd, s. m. (parch) Respectability; respect.

Parchiad, s. m. (parch) A respecting, honoring.

Parchlawn, a. (parch) Respectful, full of respect.

Parchlonder, s. m. (parchlawn) Respectfulness.

Parchlonedd, s. m. (parchlawn) Respectfulness.

Parchraith, s. f. (parch—raith) A law of honor.

Parchrydd, a. (parch—rhydd) Respectfully free.

Parchu, v. a. (parch) To respect, or to honor.

*Morwydion moellon, gwelgodd rheydd,
 Cerant, ni pharchant on ceruwydd;
 Rhyddid ni bydd gyffwydd wrth ei gylad.
 Eogb anghyfaith, difaith, ddydd.*

*Bare-headed virgins, wanton wives, they will love, &c. &c. respect their relatives; readily they will not be wroth to, &c. &c.
 one another, bishops of strange language, unprudent in faith.* Mydd.

Parchus, a. (parch) Respectful; respectable.

Parchusaw, v. a. (parchus) To render respectable; to become respectable or respected.

Parchusedd, s. m. (parchus) Respectability.

Parchusrwydd, s. m. (parchus) Respectableness.

Parchwr, s. m. (parch—gwr) A respector.

Parddu, s. m. (par—du) The black adhering vessels, that are set on fire: sumt.

Parthrediannusedd, s. m. (parthredi annus) The state of being discriminative.

Parthrediant, s. m.—pl. parthrediannau (parthred) Discrimination.

Parthredu, v. a. (parthred) To discriminate.

Parthredus, a. (parthred) Discriminating.

Parthredusaw, v. a. (parthredus) To render discriminative, to become discriminative.

Parthredusedd, s. m. (parthred) Discriminateness.

Parthryd, s. m. (parth—rhyd) A distinct course.

Parthu, v. a. (parth) To part, to partition, to separate, to divide.

I archebogyb Llandain y parthid Lloegr yn hollaw.

To the archbishopric of London was appropriated the whole of Gr. ab Arthur.

Parthwr, s. m.—pl. parthwyr (parthn—gwr) One who makes a distinction, a separator.

Parthyd, s. m. (parth) Distinction, characteristic.

Parthyd y peth a'r peth, the characteristic of such and such a thing.

Paru, v. a. (par) To put in continuity, to put together, to couple, to join, to pair.

Parwar, a. (par—gwar) Silent, still, calm.

Eglwysau Bass, ynt barwar heno;

A minnas wyf dyar:

Rhodd ynt hwy; rhyw fy ngular!

The churches of Bass, they are silent this night; and I am clamorous: red are they; excessive is my grief! Llywarch Hen.

Parwg, s. m.—pl. parygoedd (par) Enclosed field

Parwr, s. m.—pl. parwyr (par—gwr) A causer.

Parwyd, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (par—gwyd) Partition.

A wyddost—

Py peris parwyd

Rhwng dyn ac annwyd!

Doest thou know who caused a partition between man and frigidity? Tallies.

Parwydaw, v. a. (parwyd) To make a partition.

Parwydawg, a. (parwyd) Having a partition.

Parwydawl, a. (parwyd) Belonging to a partition.

Parwyden, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (parwyd) Work that encloses, a fence, the trunk or the region of the ribs and breast of an animal; partition work in a house.

Goðdms wyl o barwydenau fy nghalon.

I am afflicted from the sides of my heart. Icremi iv. 19.

Y delyn ledr—

Ni luntwyd ei pharwyden,

Na'i chreglais ond i Sais hen.

The leathern harp, its trunk was not formed nor its hoarse sound, but for an old Saxon. D. ab Gwilym.

Parwydd, s. m. (par—gwydd) That is cognitive of acting or causing, a verb. It is also called peirwyddiad.

Parwyddawl, a. (parwydd) Belonging to a verb.

Parwyddiad, s. m.—pl. parwyddiaid (parwydd) that conveys the knowledge of causing, a verb

Parydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (par) A causer.

Paryddawl, a. (parydd) Procuratorial; causative.

Pas, s. m.—pl. t. au (pa—as) That is expulsive, that causes to pass, a pass, an exit, a cough, a hooping cough.

Pasawl, a. (pas) Expulsive, belonging to cough.

Pasawl, adv. (pa—sawl) What number, how many

PASC, s. m. Easter. Tri gwyl arbenig, Nadolig,

Pasc, a Sulgwyn, the three principal festivals,

Christmas, Easter, and Whitsuntide.

Pasg, s. m. (pa—asg) A feeding, or fattening.

Bod yn mhasg, to be fed in a stall; opposed to pori allan, to feed out or in pasture.

Pasgadur, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pasg) One who feeds.

Pasgadwy, a. (pasg) Capable of being fattened.

Pasgawl, a. (pasg) Feeding, or fattening.

Pasgdwrch, s. m. (pasg—twrch) A fattened pig.

Pasgedig, a. (pasg) Fed, fattened, crammed. Ych pasgedig, a fattened ox.

Pasgell, s. f. (pasg) A pasture, a feeding place.

Pasgfarch, s. m.—pl. pasgfeirch (pasg—march)

A pampered steed.

Pasghwch, s. f.—pl. t. od (pasg—hwch) Fat sow.

Pasgiad, s. m. (pasg) A feeding, or a fattening.

Pasgiadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (pasgiad) A feeder.

Pasgle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pasg—lle) A feeding place.

Pasnawd, s. m. (pasg—nawd) A tendency to become fat. I'asgfeirch pasnawd.

Pasiad, s. m. (pos) A causing an exit, expulsion, a passing.

Pasiaw, v. a. (pas) To cause an exit, to expulse, to make an exit, to pass.

Pasiedig, a. (pas) Being expelled or passed.

Pasiwr, s. m.—pl. paswyr (pas) One who passes.

Pastwn, s. m.—pl. pastynau (pas—twn) Long staff.

Estydd ym bastwn dig.

There was reached to me an angry staff. Idris.

Pastynu, v. a. (pastwn) To beat with a staff.

Pathawr, adv. (pa—tawr) What concerns it, who cares, mangre, in spite of, notwithstanding.

Cychwyn i'w thefryn, pathawr ei hoewold,

Hirfelyn ei gwasgawr:

Dysan, dyw calan lasawr,

Dwydd an daved faclawr.

Set off to its confined mangre its uprightly society, its long and low spurs: make thy way, on new year's day, say that we are coming to Meador. G. Cyfeiliog.

Pathew, s. m.—pl. t. od (pa—tew) A dormouse.

Nid sawwyr ond pathew.

Nothing so sleek as the dormouse. Adey.

Pan, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pa) That is in continuity, that extends, or extends about, that includes,

or confines: a settled country, or where the tribes spread about and are stopt in their careers

Dynwailloedd ei win o'i wneud madd,

Yn Arfonig gear, ger hirfelyn hen.

I have been cherished with his wine from his white protection hand, in the Arfonian town, near the region of the saint and glory. Gwalcham.

Gorpydd gan Ddaw fry, gwedy gwyliau,

Gorffod gorphowys baradwys hen!

May I be caused to be with God above, divested of transgressions, enjoying the repose of the region of paradise. Sim. ab Gwalcham.

Päun, adv. (pa—un) Which one, what one.

Päunfodd, adv. (päun—modd) Which way soever, what way soever, in a manner.

Paw, s. m. (pa) That extends round.

Pawan, s. c. (paw) A spreader, or extender.

Celliawg pawan, a peacock, iar baran, a pen-hen

Pawb, pron. (paw) Every body, all persons.

Rhydd barn i bawb.

Opinion is free to every body. Adey.

Caffant bawb eu teithi, llawen 6 Brython,

Caintor corn eiwh caith hadduch a llaen.

All persons shall obtain their rights, Britons shall be glad: no horns of triumph proclaiming the hymn of peace and of amnesty. Idris.

Y bedd yn Ystafellachas,

Y mae pawb yn ei amman

Bedd Gwrtheyrn Gwrtheman.

The grave in Ystafellachas, every body occupies it in the style of Gwrtheyrn Gwrtheman. Engl. Beddau y Mithrop.

Pawb, a. (paw) Every body: all, applied to people. Pawb ac un, one and all.

Pawd, s. f. (paw) That stretches out, a sham.

Pawen, s. f.—pl. t. au (paw) A paw, a hoof.

Pawena, v. a. (pawen) To gather with the paw.

Pawenaidd, a. (pawen) Like a paw.

Pawenawg, a. (pawen) Having a paw.

Pawenlad, s. m. (pawen) A pawing.

Pawen, v. a. (pawen) To use the paw.
 Pawenwr, s. m.—pl. pawenwyr (pawen—gwr)
 One who uses his paw.
 Pawgen, s. f.—pl. t. au (paw—cên) A sock.
 Pawl, s. m.—pl. polion (paw) A pole, a stake.

Dreg pawl ni safu fwydyn.

Bad is the pole that will not stand for a year. Adage.

Pawr, s. m.—pl. porion (py—awr) Pasture, grass,
 a grazing, or feeding in pasture.

Ti haf—

*Dod yno 'n y fro dy fring,
 Yn wyrtin lawr, yn iwing.*

Thou summer, bestow these over the country thy track, in luxuriant pasture, in verdant covering. D. ab Owlym.

*Biodau hafidd hyd y llawr,
 A gwyth y pawr o linad.*

Summer sowers strew the ground, and how gay the grass so grows. Gw. Tru.

Pawrwel, s. m. (pawr—gwel) Bromo-grass.
 PE, s. m. r. That is causative, that is an agent.
 Pe, conj. (pe, s.) If. It is used conditionally, with verbs of the subjunctive and potential moods, before words with consonant initials.
 See ped, pes, pe, o, ed, os.

Pe a bawd y gwelid gwe.

If with a thumb a web were woven. Adage.

Pebr, s. m. (py—ebr) That is uttered.
 PE, s. m. r. (pebr) To be chattering.
 Pebraeth, s. m. (pebr) A chattering, a tattling.
 Pebre, s. m. (pebr) A chatter, a babble.

Pebre o'i safu pob ryw set.

*Every kind of chattering from her mouth.
 Gr. Ffiondheug, i ffonfwrth.*

Pebyd, s. m. (pab) That is of the pope, papacy.
 Pebydiawg, s. m. (pebyd) The popedom: also a castrif so called, in Dyfed.

Pebyllad, s. m. (pabell) A putting up tents.
 Pebyllaw, v. a. (pabell) To pitch tents.
 Pebylliawg, a. (pabell) Having tents, tented.
 Pebylliwr, s. m.—pl. pebyllwyr (pebylliaw—gwr)
 One who puts up tents.

Pech, s. m. (py—ech) A cessation, a ceasing to exert; a still state; a swerving from; the sin of inaction; sin. Bydd di pech, be thou quiet.
Armoric.

Ni saed ni wyddid bech.

There has not been born any but has known sin. Adage.

Pech, a. (py—ech) Void of exertion; inert.
 Pechaberth, s. m.—pl. t. an (aberth) Sin-offering.
 Pechadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (pech) A sinner.

Dangwys naft i bechadur.

Show heaven to a sinner. Adage.

Pechadures, s. f. (pechadur) A female sinner.
 Pechaduriad, s. m.—pl. pechaduriad (pechadur)
 One who commits sin; a sinner.

Pechaduriaeth, s. m. (pechadur) The state of a sinner.

Pechadurus, a. (pechadur) Of a sinful aptitude.
 Pechaduruswydd, s. m. (pechadurus) Sinfulness.
 Pechaduryrn, s. m. diam. (pechadur) A sinful one.
 Pechawd, s. m.—pl. pechodan (pech) Sin.

Pechodan athrawon ynt athrawon pechodan.

The sins of instructors are instructions of sins. Adage.

Sallh ryw bechawd marwawl y sydd—syberwyd, cyngborfynt, liliocedd, trwyd bydawl neu longedd, chwant a chybyddiaeth, gyltineb a maddawd, godineb.

There are seven kinds of deadly sins: pride, envy, dejection in worldly affairs, or inaction, desire and soridness, voluptuousness and drunkenness, adultery.

Ll. Gwyn Hergest.

Pechawl, a. (pech) Appertaining to sin; sinning.
 Pechedd, s. m. (pech) A sinning condition.

Pechiad, s. m. (pech) A sinning; a transgressing.
 Pechodawg, a. (pechawd) Abounding with sin.
 Pechodawl, a. (pechawd) Appertaining to sin.
 Pechodlawn, a. (pechawd) Full of sin, sinful.
 Pechu, v. a. (pech) To sin, to commit sin.
 Pechus, a. (pech) Apt to commit sin; sinful.
 Pechusaw, v. m. (pechus) To become sinful.
 Pechusrwydd, s. m. (pechus) Sinfulness.
 Pechwr, s. m.—pl. pechwyr (pech—gwr) A sinner Ped, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py—ed) That is agent of progression, that bears onward; a foot.

Ped, conj. (pe—yd) If; used for pe, before words with vowel initials. Ped awn, if I were to go:
petwn, if I were; petit, if thou wert; petai, if it, he, or she, were; petym, if we were; petych, if ye were; petynt, if they were.

Ped, adv. (pe—yd) How many, what number.

Pedair, s. f. (ped) The number four, speaking of the feminine gender. a. Four.

Pedawl, a. (ped) Belonging to a foot, pedal.

Pedeirael, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—ael) Four skirts.
a. Having four skirts or corners.

Ei orwydd oedd a—llan pedeirael amdanu, ac afal nur wrth bob ael iddi: Can mae oedd gwrth pob awl.

His stood was with a four-cornered cloth about him, and an apple of gold to each of its corners: A hundred lines was the value of each apple. H. Culhuc—Mabinogion.

Pedeirawdl, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—awdl) Four rhymes. a. Of four varieties of rhyme.

Pedeirblwydd, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—blwydd)
 Four years. a. Of four years old.

Pedeirblwyddawl, a. (pedeirblwydd) Quadriennial.

Pedeirdalen, s. f. (pedair—dalen) That consists of four leaves. a. Quadriphyllous.

Pedeirfordd, s. f. (pedair—fordd) Where four roads meet. a. Of four roads.

Pedeirgwaith, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—gwaith) Four times. a. Of four times.

Pedeirllaw, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—llaw) Four hands. a. Quadrimanus.

Pedeiror, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—or) Four limits;
 four regions; four quarters. a. Of four sides.

*Ef yn ddinchor;
 Ef yn ddinchor;
 Ef o bodeiror;
 Ni bydd wrth grynghor;
 Ni bydd heb grynghor.*

*He unconquered; he without a fellow; he from four regions; he will not be according to council; he will not be without council.
 Taliesin, i'r gwyni.*

Pedeirran, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—rhan) Four shares or parts. a. Quadripartite.

Pedeirranawg, a. (pedeirran) Of four parts.

Pedeirranawl, a. (pedeirran) Of four parts.

Pedeirraniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pedeirran) A quadripartition; a quartering.

Pedeirranu, v. a. (pedeirran) To part into four.

Pedeirall, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—sill) Four syllables. a. Of four syllables.

Pedeirallawg, a. (pedeirall) Of four syllables.

Pedeirallawl, a. (pedeirall) Belonging to what consists of four syllables.

Pedest, s. m. (ped) Motion of the feet.

Pedestr, s. m.—pl. pedestron (pedest) That travels on foot, a pedestrian.

Yn bedestr anwybodawl.

Being a pedestrian uninformed. Ein. ab Gwalchmai.

Pedestraid, a. (pedestr) Pedestrian.

Pedestrawg, a. (pedestr) Having a power of walking or of using the feet.

Pedestrawl, a. (pedestr) Of foot travelling.

Pedestres, s. f.—pl. t. au (pedestr) A walking female, a female pedestrian.

*Pedestres wrtholdd yn hedraidd hŷr,
Pedestrig iolig, pa hyd y'ŷh foillr?*

The handsome female pedestrian a long journey travelling, thou famous in walking, how long wilt thou be famed? Cynddelw.

Pedestriad, s. m. (pedestr) A travelling on foot.

Pedestrig, s. f. dim. (pedestr) A foot pace.

Et a gafas ei bedestrig.

He recovered his walking. H. Cor. Mag—Mabinogion.

Pedestru, v. a. (pedestr) To travel on foot.

Pedestrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pedestr) A foot traveller, a pedestrian.

Pedfed, adv. (ped) Of what number.

Pedi, adv. (ped) A round about way of asking or craving, also a guarding against a request, by anticipating a similar want. v. a. To ask or crave indirectly.

Nid rhaid pedi yn llys arglwydd.

There is no necessity of begging restrainedly in a prince's court. Adaf.

Pediad, s. m. (ped) A making use of feet.

Pedol, s. f.—pl. t. au (ped—ol) What is under a foot, a pedal, a shoe of a horse or other animal.

Pedol y march, tufted horse-shoe vetch. Ceffyl yn ennill ei bedolan, a horse gaining his shoes, a term for a horse's laying down to tumble.

Pedolawg, a. (pedol) Having something under the foot, pedalled: having shoes as horses.

Pedoli, v. a. (pedol) To put something under the feet to save them, to pedal, to shoe a horse or other animal.

Arian pedoli yw treth, a oodwyd er ya talm o flynyddoedd, ar ddellid yr arglwydd, neu bedoli melrch yr arglwydd; ac yn Brecknockshire it is paid. Hen Ddefodau.

Shoeing money is a tax which was laid many years ago, on the subjects of the lord, for shoeing the lord's horses; and in Brecknockshire it is paid. Hen Ddefodau.

Pedoliad, s. m. (pedol) A shoeing; a forming a pedal, a fixing a pedal; the using a pedal.

Pedolwr, s. m.—pl. pedolwyr (pedol—gwr) A shoer; one who makes or uses a pedal.

Pedr, s. m. (pad) That consists of four. It is used as a prefix in composition.

Pedrain, s. f.—pl. pedreiniau (pedr) The buttock, breech, or crupper. Pedrain march, a horse's crupper.

Pedrawg, a. (pedr) Of a square form, square-built, complete.

Pedrawl, a. (pedr) Belonging to square.

Pedreindew, a. (pedrain—tew) Fat-buttocked.

Pedreindor, s. m. (pedrain—tor) A covering of cloth reaching over a horse's crupper from the saddle. a. Crupper-covered.

*Coch rodawg pedrydawg pedror,
Y ar orwydd pedrogl pedreindor.*

A red chariot moving squarely with four limits over a crupper-covered steed of perfect form. Cynddelw, i O. Cyfeiliawg.

Pedrenwawl, a. (pedr—enwawl) Quadrimonial.

Pedrogl, s. m.—pl. pedroglau (pedrawg) That consists of four sides; a square, a quadrangle. a. Quidrilateral, square, complete, of perfect symmetry.

Pedrogl friw, pwy a dreigl Franc.

Thou square of visage, who wilt turn a Franc. T. H. d.

Pedroglaid, a. (pedrogl) Like a square.

Pedroglawd, s. m. (pedrogl) A quadrating.

Pedroglawg, a. (pedrogl) Of a square form.

Pedroglodd, s. m. (pedrogl) A quadrature.

Pedrogl, v. a. (pedrogl) To quadrature.

Pedroglad, s. m. (pedrogl) A quadrating.

Pedroglyn, s. m. dim. (pedrogl) A quadrate.

Pedrongl, s. f.—pl. pedronglau (pedr—ongl) A quadrangle. a. Of four angles.

Pedronglawg, a. (pedrongl) Of four angles.

Pedronglodd, s. m. (pedrongl) The state of being quadrangular; that consists of four angles.

Pedrongli, v. a. (pedrongl) To form a quadrangle.

Pedrongliad, s. m. (pedrongl) A making to consist of four angles, a forming a quadrangle.

Pedror, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pedr—or) That consists of four sides, a square. a. Quadrilateral, square. Par pedror, a four-sided spear.

Pedrorawg, a. (pedror) Having four extremities.

Pedrorawl, a. (pedrawr) Of a square form.

Pedrorddarn, s. m.—pl. t. au (pedror—darn) A quarter-piece.

Pedroredd, s. m. (pedror) A squareness.

Pedrori, v. a. (pedror) To quadrate, to square.

Pedroriad, s. m. (pedror) A quadrating.

Pedroryn, s. m. dim. (pedror) A quadrature.

Pedrrhod, s. f. (pedr—rhod) That has four wheels. a. Four-wheeled.

Pedrrodawg, a. (pedrrhod) Having four wheels. s. f. A carriage with four wheels.

Pedru, v. a. (pedr) To quadrate, to square.

Pedrus, a. (ped—rius) Apt to start, hesitating, dubious, uncertain.

Pedrusad, s. m. (pedrus) A starting aside, a doubting, a hesitating.

Pedrusaeth, s. m. (pedrus) Hesitation, doubting.

Pedrusaw, v. a. (pedrus) To start aside, to hesitate, to doubt, to scruple.

Yr wyf i'n nasu yr erchi dy drugaredd di, ac yn ceisio perthyn i north y genyd di i geisio fy nghyfoeth i mi trachefu, bydd i'n trwy fy nerth i'n nasu a'm porth y gellir dithos orngyn i'n dailo: Ac o hyn nasu petrus ddim; canys nid oes dim twm na yn yr ymadrawd hwn.

I am likewise entreating thy mercy, and am seeking support of strength of thee towards getting my kingdom back again, so that it shall be through my power and my aid thou liberate me from the Isle of Britain: And of this do not hesitate in the least for there is neither deceit nor treachery in this declaration. G. ab Arif.

Pedrusawd, s. m. (pedrus) Hesitation, doubt.

Pedrusawg, a. (pedrus) Having a doubt.

Pedrusawl, a. (pedrus) Hesitating, doubting.

Pedrusawd, s. m. (pedrus) Hesitation.

Pedrusdeb, s. m. (pedrus) A doubting state.

Pedrusder, s. m. (pedrus) Dubiousness, scrupulosity, indeterminateness.

Pedrusedd, s. m. (pedrus) A state of hesitation.

Pedrusgar, s. m. (pedrus) Apt to hesitate.

Pedrusgarwch, s. m. (pedrus) Aptness to doubt.

Pedrusi, s. m. (pedrus) Hesitation, doubt.

Pedrusiad, s. m. (pedrus) A hesitating.

Pedrusiannawl, a. (pedrusiant) Tending to hesitation, indeterminate.

Pedrusiannu, v. a. (pedrusiant) To make hesitation; to become indetermined.

Pedrusianus, a. (pedrusiant) Of a doubtful tendency, of an uncertain state.

Pedrusianusaw, v. a. (pedrusianus) To become of a hesitating disposition.

Pedrusiant, s. m. (pedrus) Hesitation.

Pedrusoldeb, s. m. (pedrusawl) Dubiousness.

Pedrusoli, v. a. (pedrusawl) To become starting or hesitating; to become scrupulous.

Pedruswydd, s. m. (pedrus) Doubtfulness.

Pedruswch, s. m. (pedrus) Doubtfulness.

Pedruswr, s. m.—pl. pedruswyr (pedrus—wr) One who hesitates, a doubter.

Pedrwg, s. m. (pedr) A quadrature; a perfect state, completeness of parts.

Pedrwgl, s. m.—pl. pedryglon (pedrwg) That is quadrate; that is perfect, a model.

*Plant Tudr—
Pedwar eglor pedryglon Anglystwr maswr Môn.*

The children of Tudr—four, conspicuous models, expositions of the community of Môn.

Pedry, s. m. (pedr) That consists of four; that belongs to four. It is used as a prefix in composition.

Pedryad, s. m. (pedry) A quadrating, a squaring. Pedryael, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pedry—ael) That has four skirts or borders, a square. a. Square.

Fy nghyfarw oedd caflaf, dywn dy anghid ti a wnaif byd y bu dy glod yn mhedyrol byd haelaf.

My horse if I obtain not, thy infancy will I bear for me; thy fame has been in the furthest four extremities of the world.

H. Culbrech—Mabwysion.

Pedryaw, v. a. (pedry) To make of four parts.

Pydryawg, a. (pedry) Having four parts.

Pedryawl, a. (pedry) Belonging to four.

Pedrychwal, s. m. (pedry—chwal) That spreads out four ways. a. Four ways spreading.

Pedrychwelyd, v. a. (pedrychwal) To spread or separate four different ways.

Pedryfan dwfn pedrychwelyd.

A deep quarry four ways opening.

Llefred.

Pedryd, s. m.—pl. t. on (pedr) A quadrate.

Pedrydan, s. m.—pl. t. au (pedry—tan) That extends or spreads out four ways, four extents, four regions. a. Four ways spreading; universal.

Peryng cynwstwr pair pedrydan.

The grapple of depredation of universal way.

Cynddelw.

Yn agwath Môn Cernod, can frýrran

Dyhaeryr nial ehyf deulaw;

Dychlaid cied Prydain bedrydanaw.

In the action of Môn Cernod, with the barons wealth dispenses with the splendour of talents; the fame of Britain accompanist in the four regions.

Gwalchmai.

Pedrydant, s. m. (pedryd) A quadrate state; a state of perfection. Pedrydant dannau, strings of harmony, tuneful strings.

Creadis dy foliant, fal mae rhyngant,

Milwr pedrydant, pedrydang ri.

I have seen thy prison, as they will not be able to sin, thou warrior of perfection, chief of perfect form.

Lt. P. Meek, i D. ab Owain.

Arol marw mawrgoel derydant;

Armas arwg dragon pedrydant:

Come, also, in the death of the magnificent hope of the orator; the destiny of the paragon chief of Britain!

Cynddelw.

Pedrydanu, v. a. (pedrydan) To extend or spread out four ways.

Pedrydawg, a. (pedryd) Having a quadrature, completely formed, complete.

Pan yw de troed alarch gwya,

Pedrydawg gwacw llym.

As the foot of the white swan is black, the sharp spear is unerring.

Milwr pedrydawg Machw.

Taliesin.

The complete warrior of Marlor. G. F. ab G. ab Edrydd.

Pedrydawl, a. (pedryd) Of a quadrate state, of a perfect form.

Pedrydiad, s. m. (pedryd) A quadrating; a rendering complete or perfect.

Pedrydu, v. a. (pedryd) To quadrate; to perfect.

Pedrydydd, s. m. (peiry—dydd) The fourth day of the week. Burddas.

Pedryddail, a. (pedry—dail) Quadriphyllous.

Pedryfal, s. m.—pl. t. au (pedry—mal) That consists of four pieces or joints.

Pedryfan, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pedry—fan) That consists of four parts; a quarry, a quarter; four regions. Pedryfanocdd byd, the four quarters of the world.

Vol. II.

*Adarwringdaw enawg cyran drud
Draig Prydain pedryfan.*

The bird-providing one adorned with a wreath, of a brave pre-eminent race the dragon of Britain the complete region.

Lt. P. Meek, i Llywelyn II.

Pedryfannawg, a. (pedryfan) Having four regions or parts, of four quarters.

Pedryfannawl, a. (pedryfan) Belonging to four regions; quaternary.

Pedryfaniad, s. m. (pedryfan) A making into four regions; a quartering.

Pedryfanu, v. a. (pedryfan) To make into four regions; to quarter.

Pedrygan, s. m. (pedry—can) That is contained between four, the quantity that is taken up between three fingers and the thumb.

Pedrygana, v. a. (pedrygan) To pinch up between the three fingers and the thumb.

Pedrygarn, a. (pedry—carn) Having four hoofs.

Pedryging, s. m. (pedrwg—ing) The space between the three fingers and thumb closed together; the grasp.

Pedryllaw, s. m. (pedry—llaw) A square or quadrant, such as artisans use. a. Dexterous.

Parwdd o'i aroff, cyn no'i adaw,

Parau pwt enwair pair pedryllaw;

Pedryllaw ei lufu i hadd rhagrian;

Pedryllaw cyrhaedd cyrdd anadaw!

Ready from his hand, before his departure, were the shafts of the pillar of the lance of dextrous energy; of perfect colour his blade to slay before him; of continued voice the lamentation of songs for him!

Cynddelw, m. E. Florida.

Pedryled, s. m. (pedry—lled) Complete extension, a square superficies.

Pedrylef, s. m. (pedry—llef) A quadrate voice; a perfect voice.

Pedryllw, s. m.—pl. t. lau (pedry—lliw) A quadrate colour, a perfect colour.

Pedryllun, s. m.—pl. t. lau (pedry—llun) A quadrate form; a perfect figure.

Pedryoled, s. m. (pedryawl) That consists of four divisions or intersections; the grasp.

Hædd oedd bedryoled ei law.

Ashen shafts were scattered from the grasp of his hand.

Anarwin.

Pedryoled breawr.

A four-pointed bract.

Anarwin.

Pedryoledl, s. m. (pedryawl) Quadrature.

Pedryoll, v. a. (pedryawl) To quadrate, to square.

Pedryollt, s. m. (pedry—ollt) That is cloven or split into four parts; two splits crossing each other so as to form four parts.

A bwlk o bedryollt bron.

With a bolt from the intersecting cleft of a piece of timber.

D. ab Owain.

Pedryollti, v. a. (pedryollt) To split into four parts; to make an intersecting cleft.

Pedryor, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pedry—or) That consists of four regions; a quadrate.

Pedryori, v. a. (pedryor) To quadrate.

Pedryran, s. f.—pl. t. an (pedry—rhan) Quadrant.

Pedryranawl, a. (pedryran) Quadripartite.

Pedryranu, v. a. (pedryran) To quadrate.

Pedrysawdd, s. f.—pl. pedrysoddion (pedry—sawdd) A square root.

Pedu, v. a. (pad) To ask or to crave in a roundabout way, also to gnard against a request, by anticipating a similar want.

Pedw, s. m. (pad) That is made to diverge.

Pedwar, s. m.—pl. t. au (ped—gwar) The number four. a. Four, speaking of masculines.

Pedwaraid, s. m. (pedwar) That is included in four, that consists of four.

Pedwaran, s. c.—pl. t. an (pedwar) A fourth, a quarter, a quatern; a faithing.

3 E

Pedwarbymtheg, s. m. (pedwar—ar—pymtheg) Nineteen. a. Nineteen.
Pedwararddeg, s. m. (pedwar—ar—deg) Fourteen. a. Fourteen.
Pedwarawl, a. (pedwar) Belonging to four.
Pedwarban, s. m. (pedwar—ban) That consists of four parts. a. Of four parts.
Pedwarbanawg, s. m. (pedwarban) A quadrain.
Pedwarcanfed, s. m. (pedwarcant) The four hundredth. a. Four hundredth.
Pedwarcanplyg, s. m. (pedwarcant—plyg) Four hundred times folded.
Pedwarcant, s. m. (pedwar—cant) Four hundred. a. Consisting of four hundred.
Pedwarcanwaith, s. f. (pedwarcant—gwaith) Four hundred times. adv. At four hundred times.
Pedwarcarn, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—carn) Four hoofs. a. Four-hoofed.

Syrthid march oddiar ei bedwarcarn.

The horse may fall off his four hoofs.

Adagr.

Pedwarcarnawg, a. (pedwarcarn) Having four hoofs; quadrupedous.
Pedwarcarnawl, a. (pedwarcarn) Belonging to the four hoofs, of four hoofs.
Pedwarcarniad, s. m. (pedwarcarn) A using the four hoofs, a galloping.
Pedwarcarnu, v. a. (pedwarcarn) To use the four hoofs; to gallop.

Yr neid peithau wedi eu dudymheirdd, a's tadu bendramynwyl; a minau oeddyr yu pedwarcarnu yn ol i Rufain.

Things were become reversed, and thrown topsy-turvy; and we were galloping back to Rome.

Idagr.

Pedwardull, s. f. (pedwar—dull) A quadriform.
Pedwardyblyg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pedwar—dyblyg) A quadruplicate. a. Quadruple.
Pedwardyblygiad, s. m. (pedwardyblyg) Quadruplication; a doubling four times.
Pedwardyblygu, v. a. (pedwardyblyg) To quadruplicate, to double four times.
Pedwaredd, s. m. (pedwar) A fourth. a. Fourth.
Pedwariad, s. m.—pl. pedwariad (pedwar) A quaternity, one that is over four.
Pedwariannawl, a. (pedwariant) Quaternary.
Pedwariannu, v. a. (pedwariant) To form a quaternity, to make up of four.
Pedwariant, s. m. (pedwar) Quaternity.
Pedwarochr, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—ochr) Four sides. a. Four-sided.
Pedwarochrawg, a. (pedwarochr) Having four sides.
Pedwarochrawl, a. (pedwarochr) Quadrilateral.
Pedwarochredd, s. m. (pedwarochr) Quadrilaterality; squareness.
Pedwarochri, v. a. (pedwarochr) To make quadrilateral, to render four sided.
Pedwarochriad, s. m. (pedwarochr) A making quadrilateral.
Pedwaroli, r. a. (pedwarawl) To make quarterly.
Pedwarparth, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—parth) Four parts. a. Of four parts.
Pedwarpen, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—pen) Four heads. a. Four-headed.
Pedwarplyg, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—plyg) Four doubles, four folds. a. Fourfold, quadruple.
Pedwarplygiad, s. m. (pedwarplyg) Quadruplication, a making into fourfolds.
Pedwartro, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—tro) Four turns, four times. a. Of four turns.
Pedwartroed, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pedwar—troed) A quadruped. a. Quadruped, four-footed.
Pedwartroedawg, a. (pedwartroed) Quadrupedal.
Pedwartroedogion, quadrupeds.

Pedwartroedawl, a. (pedwartroed) Quadrupedous.
Pedwartu, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—tu) Four sides. a. Four-sided, quadrilateral.
Pedwartnawg, a. (pedwartu) Having four sides.
Pedwartheg, s. m. (pedwar—deg) Fourteen.
Pedwaru, v. a. (pedwar) To make into four.
Pedwarygrw, s. m. (pedwar—grw) A fourth person.
Pedwerydd, s. m.—pl. t. on (pedwar) A fourth part, a quarter; a quatern. a. Fourth.
Pedyd, s. pl. aggr. (ped) The foot, the infantry.
Pedyddawd, s. m. (pedydd) The infantry.
Pedd, s. m.—pl. t. on (py—edd) The agent of progress; a foot. See ped and troed.
Peddest, s. m. (pedd) Foot travelling.
Peddestr, s. m.—pl. t. on (peddest) A pedestrian.

Gores peddestr yw gau.

The best traveller is a lie.

Idagr.

Peddestres, s. f.—pl. t. on (peddestr) A female pedestrian.
Peddestrig, s. f. dim. (peddestr) A pedestrian.
Peddiad, s. m. (pedd) A travelling on foot.
Peddu, v. a. (pedd) To use the feet, to go on foot.
Pedydd, s. pl. aggr. (pedd) The infantry.

Medyllian a orug Baldwylh dwn noswyl gyrrh am bee Arthwr a'i lo; ac Arthwr a wybu hwy: sef a orug Arthwr yna, sefion yna, y wyddawg feryn, a chwechiant marchu a guallo, ac a'r mil o beddyd ynglwyd ag ef, a myned yn ei erbyn; ac a'r orug y nos hono.

It was purposed by Baldwylh to make a night attack upon Arthwr and his army; and Arthwr knew that: what did Arthwr do, but he sent Cadwr prince of Cornwall, along with six hundred horsemen, and with three thousand infantry, and which should fight against him, and meet him on that night.

Gr. ad Arthwr.

Pef, s. m. (py—ef) That radiates or beams.
Pefr, s. m. (pef) That is radiant, bright, or shining. a. Radiant, splendid, bright, smart.

Dogn o sur pefr yw'r gwallt gwydh.

A wreath of radiant gold is the beauteous hair.

I. ad Rh. ab I. Llyod.

Pefraidd, a. (pefr) Somewhat radiant, gairish.
Pefrawl, a. (pefr) Radiating, brightening, full of gaiety or smartness.
Pefredd, s. m. (pefr) Radiancy, gairishness.
Pefren, s. f. dim. (pefr) A smart little woman.
Pefri, s. m. (pefr) Splendour, gairishness.
Pefriad, s. m. (pefr) A radiating, a rendering bright or gairish; a smartening.
Pefriaw, v. a. (pefr) To cast a splendour, to render gairish, to become gairish, to brighten.
Pefrin, a. (pefr) Of a radiant or splendid appearance, gairish.
Pefrineb, s. m. (pefrin) Gairishness, smartness.
Pefrnyd, s. f. (pefr—nyd) A gay or smart disposition.
Pefru, v. a. (pefr) To radiate, to brighten, to render gairish, to become gairish, to smarten.
Pefrwellt, s. m. (pefr—gwellt) Canary-grass.
Pefryn, s. m. dim. (pefr) A smart bean.
Pefryuaid, a. (pefryn) Beauish, like a bean.
Pefwch, s. m. (pef) Dilation, effusion.
Pefwg, s. m. (pef) Expansion; effusion.
Pefychawl, a. (pefwch) Expanding, effusive.
Pefychdwd, s. m. (pefwch) Effusiveness.
Pefychedd, s. m. (pefwch) Effusiveness.
Pefychiad, s. m. (pefwch) An opening out, effusion, a gushing.
Pefychu, v. a. (pefwch) To expand, to render clear or open, to become expanded, to puff out.

Pan ddarh o Ffrainc Ffranc, o erchit hebbyd rhyng y dydd, rhag chlyfodd, Wnebrhawr ddawr, dim ni wch; Pefychwys, trenwys, drwy fodd Ddawl.

When there came out of France a Frank, in craving for deliverance from disease, from the ill of blindness, an o'form the visage, nothing could he see; As brightened, he beheld, then the will of Ddawl.

Gr. Dry. hanner.

Peg, s. m. (py—eg) That is an agent of expansion or opening; that expands; also a measure of capacity, equal to eight bushels.

Pegaid, s. m.—pl. pegeidiau (peg) The contents of an eight-bushel measure, or a quarter.

Peged, s. m. (peg) A measure of capacity, equal to eight bushels or a quarter.

Pegor, s. m.—pl. t. au (peg) That whereon any thing turns or is suspended; a centre of rotatory motion; a pivot, a pert little fellow, a dwarf. Y pegor drwg! The naughty little urchin!

Gogwn py begor Yydd y dan for.

I partly know what bore there is beneath the sea. Talliesia.

Pegoraid, a. (pegor) Like a pivot or axis.

Pegorawl, a. (pegor) Serving as a pivot.

Pegori, v. a. (pegor) To form a pivot.

Pegoriad, s. m. (pegor) A forming a pivot.

Pegoryn, s. m. dim. (pegor) A small pivot or axis; a pert little chap; a dwarf.

Pegwn, s. m.—pl. pegynau (peg) A pole or axis, an axle, a pin, or spindle, a pivot.

Mal y der at y pegwn.

Like the steel to the pole.

Adage.

Pegwr, s. m.—pl. pegyrion (peg) A pivot, or axis; a dwarf, a pigmy.

Pegwrn, s. m.—pl. pegyrnau (peg—gwrn) The axis whereon any thing revolves; a pivot.

Pegynawl, a. (pegwn) Belonging to an axis.

Pegyniad, s. m. (pegwn) A forming an axis.

Pegynn, v. a. (pegwn) To form a pivot or axis.

Pel, adv. (pe—l) If it were, if it should be.

Pel cysgodd ar ddrwydded ag ar ddaewd y byddai wrail, hi a ddal-id ddiagon o lachod i grynau tan y bore.

If every woman were as swift of foot as of tongue, she would catch every of lightnings to kindle a fire in a morning.

Adage.

Peind, s. m. (pai) A rendering objective.

Peiaw, v. a. (pai) To render objective.

Peiawl, s. m. (pai) A being objective.

Peiawl, a. (pai) Objective; perceptive.

Peiawr, s. m. (pai) That is objective.

Peidiad, s. m. (paid) A ceasing, a desisting.

Peidiannawl, a. (peidiant) Tending to cease.

Peidianno, v. a. (peidiant) To make a pause.

Peidiant, s. m. (paid) A cessation, a ceasing.

Peidiaw, v. a. (paid) To cease; to leave off, to give over, to desist. Gwell i ti heidiaw, thou hadst better be quiet; paid da diithau, be quiet, that is a good creature.

Call a dwylio, catch a bald.

The ceasing will desist, the more ceasing will desist.

Adage.

Peidlawl, a. (paid) Tending to cease or desist.

Peidiedig, a. (peidiad) Being left off or ended.

Peiliad, s. m. (pal) A displaying, a raying.

Peiliaw, v. a. (pal) To spread out, to radiate.

Peiliawg, a. (pal) Having a display, rayonnant.

Peilliedig, a. (peiliad) Displayed, radiated.

Peilldy, s. m.—pl. t. au (paill—ty) A bolting-house.

Peillged, s. f. (paill—ced) A tribute of flour; such used to be paid by the prince of Math-raval to the prince of Aberffraw.

Peilliad, s. m. (paill) A bolting or searcing.

Peilliant, s. m. (paill) That is made into flour.

Peilliaw, v. a. (paill) To searce or to bolt flour.

Peilliawd, s. m. (paill) A making into flour.

Peilliawg, a. (paill) Abounding with flour.

Peillied, s. m. (paill) Bolted meal, or flour.

Peilliedig, a. (peilliad) Reduced to flour.

Peillion, s. pl. aggr. (paill) Fine flour.

Peilliwr, s. m.—pl. peillwyr (paill—gwr) A bolt-er, or sicerer of flour.

Peillwy, s. m. (paill) Fine flour, or powder.

Peillydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (paill) A sicerer.

Peillyddes, s. f. (peillydd) A female sicerer.

Peiniad, s. m. (pain) A producing a farina.

Peiniaw, v. a. (pain) To yield bloom or farina.

Peiniawl, a. (pain) Tending to yield farina.

Peiodawl, a. (peiawd) Objective, perceptive.

Peiodi, v. a. (peiawd) To render objective.

*Gwelad prae l'rh arwad.
A chyd awch behodud.
Trichantail biwyddynedd.*

*The present world will be expecting thee, and with ardour will be making thee the object, for three hundred thousand years.
Talliesia, arces dydddrawd.*

Peiran, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pair) A necessary.

Peiriad, s. m. (par) A causer, causer, or effector.

Yr haf—

Peiriad hardd yn perit dail.

*The summer, a glorious cause causing foliage.
D. ab Gwilym.*

Peiriad, s. f. (pair) As much as a cauldron holds.

Peirianna, v. a. (peiriant) To bring together causes or instrumentalities.

Peiriannawg, a. (peiriant) Having a cause.

Peiriannawl, a. (peiriant) Causative; effective.

Peiriannawr, s. m.—pl. peiriannorion (peiriant) An instrumentality; what is conducive.

Peiriannedig, a. (peiriant) Being made instrumental or conducive.

Peiriannedd, s. m. (peiriant) Instrumentalness.

Peiriannolaeth, s. m. (peiriannawl) The act of rendering instrumental; organization.

Peiriannoldeb, s. m. (peiriannawl) Instrumentality; conduciveness.

Peiriannolder, s. m. (peiriannawl) Instrumentality; conduciveness.

Peiriannoled, s. m. (peiriannawl) Instrumentality; conduciveness.

Peiriannol, v. a. (peiriannawl) To render instrumental; to become instrumental.

Peiriannu, v. a. (peiriant) To put in a state to act; to organize, to accoutre, to harness.

Peirianna y ceffyl, put the furniture on the horse.

Peiriannus, a. (peiriant) Apt to be instrumental.

Peiriannusaw, v. a. (peiriannus) To render instrumental; to become instrumental.

Peiriannusedd, s. m. (peiriannus) Instrumentality; an organized state.

Peiriannusrwydd, s. m. (peiriannus) Instrumentalness; a conducive state.

Peiriannwr, s. m.—pl. peiriannwyr (peiriant—gwr) One who puts in a state for action; an organizer; one who accoutres.

Peiriannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (peiriant) One who puts in a state to act; an organizer.

Peiriant, s. m.—pl. peiriannau (par) The means or agent by which any thing is accomplished, instrumentality; an instrument, or a tool.

Tri pheiriant Dew yn abrad, er gorfod drwg a chythraul, a di-anc oddi wrthiat at wynfyd; angen, aughof, ac angen.

The three means of God in the circle of probation, for subduing evil and the adverse principle, and to open a way from them to happiness; necessity, loss of memory, and death. Barddas.

Ni all y corff wneuthur dim ohono ei hun, ond a wnel yr enaid trwyddo ef, weyrus trwy beiriant—Y rhai drwg sy weyrus peiriannau i buraw y rhai da.

The body is not able to perform any thing of itself, but what the soul performs through it, as through a machine.—The wicked ones are so instruments to purify them that are good. Elucidarius.

Peirwyddiad, s. m.—pl. peirwyddiaid (parwydd) That conveys the knowledge of causing; a verb

Peirwyddiad yw pob gair; neu beth, a arwyddocao gwneuthur, neu beirnod, o ba ddyn, neu beth, neu haniad y bu y peri bysg.

A verb implies every word, or circumstance, that denotes a doing, or causing, of what person, or thing, or existence soever the agency may be. Edgwa.

Peiriennyn, s. m.—dim. (peiriant) An instrument.

Peisgwellt, s. m. (paisg—gwellt) Fescue-grass.

Peisgwyn, s. m. (paisg—gwyn) The great white poplar.

Peiswyn, s. m. aggr. (pais—gwyn) Chaff; also called us.

Peithadwy, a. (paith) Capable of being made clear or open; capable of being explored.

Peithas, s. f.—pl. t. au (paith) A scout, a sort of scout boat, which with the sails, used to be all of blue colour, to prevent a discovery.

Peithawd, s. m. (paith) The act of making clear or open, a laying waste, a scouting.

Peithdra, s. m. (paith) Plainity; exposedness.

Peithedig, a. (paith) Being made plain or clear.

Peithes, s. f.—pl. t. au (paith) A female scout.

Peithfrig, s. m. (paith—brig) A clear top.

Differ s. fy aer, rhag—

Y pair, gair gweddig, peithfrig poethfrych!

Protect me, my Lord, awful the word, from the furnace of hotly-agitated glowing surface! Casodyn.

Peithi, s. pl. aggr. (paith) Those that are out or exposed, the people of the open plain; the people of the waste or desert, also those who scout; those who lay waste; the Picts.

Peithiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (paith) A making clear or open; a reducing to a desert; an exploration; a scouting, a hunting, a looking about.

Peithiannawl, a. (peithiant) Tending to make clear or open, exploratory.

Peithiannu, v. a. (peithiant) To put in a clear or open state; to make into a waste or desert.

Peithiannus, a. (peithiant) Of an open or exposed state; exploratory.

Peithiant, s. m. (paith) The act of making clear or open; a scouting.

Peithiaw, v. a. (paith) To make clear or open; to lay waste; to scout, to hunt, to look about, to search; to look, to seem, to appear.

—Aeron godymdailh, Dwrn-dra-dwrn, draggyu yd paith.

The battle-upholding companion, with flat to flat, most violently he lays open. Cynddelw, i O. ab Mudawg.

Peithiawg, a. (paith) Having open space, open, desert, waste, having an open view or prospect

*Dy gynneddf dyfod—
A gwaeluwr gwyr aerfwr arfawg,
A gwaelu am ben yn beithiawg.*

Thy custom is to come with the blood-streaming of armed men dealing slaughter, and a veil of blood over the head conspicuously Ll. P. Moch.

*Braw cwyddam vnyhyd yn nghyd anghred;
Yn uffern geithrus, garch dreifed erwan;
Yn adan poethfau, peithiawg drwydded.*

Fearfully we should have fallen altogether in the lot of inhumanity; amongst the furies of hell, a habitation confined and vile; in the reach of a hot place, of devastating course. Ll. P. Moch.

Peithiawl, a. (paith) Tending to lay open or waste, of an open or exposed state.

Peithig, a. (paith) That is clear, plain, or open.

Peithin, a. (paith) Abounding with plainness, clearness, or openness.

Peithineb, s. m. (peithin) Plainity; openness.

Peithioledd, s. m. (peithiawl) The state of being out, open, or exposed.

Peithw, a. (paith) That is plain, clear, or open.

Peithiwr, s. m.—pl. peithwyr (paith—gwr) One who lays open; one who explores.

Peithlong, s. f.—pl. t. au (paith—llong) A scout-boat, an advice-boat.

Peithus, a. (paith) Being plain, clear, or exposed

Peithw, a. (paith) That is obscured or closed.

Peithwg, s. m. (paith) That is plain, clear, open, or exposed, an open space, hunting ground.

Peithwydd, s. pl. aggr. (paith—gwydd) The reeds of a loom, the slay; also called peithyn, peithynau, rhwydau, and brwydau.

Peithyll, s. m. (paith) That opens or yawns.

Peithyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (paith) Open space; open work; that is plain, clear, or open; what clears, or the reed-work of a loom, a slay; a slate, a tile, or other plain body. Peithynau olwyn, the cogs of a wheel.

Y mur a wnethwyd o beithynau pridd berwedig, wedi eu gddiasu o byg.

The wall was made of baked earthen tiles, after being over-spread with pitch. Edmonia yr Yngylgar.

Peithynawd, s. m. (peithyn) The act of reducing to a flat or level; a laying flat.

Peithynawl, a. (peithyn) Tending to reduce to a flat or level; being an open space.

Peithyndawd, s. m. (peithyn) The state of being a flat or plain.

Peithyndo, s. m. (peithyn—to) A tiled roof.

Tan gefall trefordd ni ddwygyl, a fu naith wrhyd y rhwydau a'r tal, a hithae yn beithyndo.

The fire of a township smithery shall not be made good, where shall have seven fathoms between it and the houses, so that it is of tide-covering. Welsh Laws.

Peithynen, s. f. dim. (peithyn) That is plain or clear; a plain body, as a slate, tile, a sheet of paper, and the like; the elucidator, or frame of writing, the book of the ancient bards, which consisted of a number of four-sided or three-sided sticks written upon, which were put together in a frame, so that each stick might be turned round for the facility of reading.

Peithyniad, s. m. (peithyn) A making a clear place; a making into a flat; a making flat.

Peithynn, v. a. (peithyn) To make a clear place; to make a flat or plain, to flatten; to lay flat.

*Yn nghyrydded a Lloegr, llydd amed,
New aglun am un a beithyand.*

In the contention with Lloegr, of various conditions, who were for one then wouldst lay flat. Taliesin, G. Mabinogion.

Peithynwr, s. m.—pl. peithynwyr (peithyn—gwr) One who makes a level; one who lays flat, a layer of tiles.

Peithynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (peithyn) One who forms a flat or plain; one who flattens.

Pel, s. f.—pl. t. i (py—el) That has a principle of motion; a ball, a sphere.

*A'r bel o ryfel yr aeth,
Ar baladr o fabolath.*

With the ball from the war he went, on the shaft of youth. Guto y Glyn.

Pela, s. m.—pl. t. on (pel) That moves round or hovers; the titmouse. Y pela glas bach, prelöyn, the ox-eye, a small bird so called.

Mor hinc a'r pela.

As brisk as the titmouse. Adgar.

Pelaidd, a. (pel) Roundish, like a ball, globular.

Peled, s. f.—pl. t. au (pel) A ball, a bullet.

*Plad gwyrh rhag ofn pold gwn—
Ymylichu dar amgylch dyn.*

A splendid plate for fear of the ball of a gun; putting round of steel round a person. T. Frys, i orfen gwyn.

Peledu, v. a. (peled) To throw a ball.

peleirad, s. m. (paladr) The pushing of spears.

*Atol peleirad, dywal dilynidd;
Nid arbotwy car corff ai gilydd.*

Again shall come the bill of spears, fierce and sharp; the friend shall not spare the body of his fellow.

Gelyddan, arwr Prydein.

peleirad, s. m. (paladr) A darting of rays; a gleaming; a darting or pushing of spears.

Dweddiddu Bows peleirad rhyfel.

The gleaming of war has rooted up Pows.

Gwelchmat.

peleirannawl, a. (peleiriant) Tending to make a radiancy or gleaming.

peleirannu, v. a. (peleiriant) To produce a radiance; to make a radiance.

peleiriant, s. m. (paladr) A radiation.

peleiraw, v. a. (paladr) To radiate.

elen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (pel) A little ball.

elenawg, s. (pelen) Having a ball or lump.

eleniad, s. m. (pelen) A forming into a ball.

elenn, v. a. (pelen) To form into a ball.

elen, s. m.—pl. t. od (pel) The greenfinch.

*A gylwriad a gant y pelen,
Gyd'n edar yu chwarcu!*

Hast thou heard what the greenfinch sang, playing with his birds?
Anglynon y Clywed.

elgib, s. f.—pl. t. au (pel—cib) A ball racket.

eliad, s. m. (pal) A spreading out.

eliaw, v. a. (pal) To spread out, to brandish.

elid, s. m. (pal) Radiance; splendour.

elere, s. m. (pel—rhe) A beating of a ball backwards and forwards; turmoil, bustle, trouble.

*Celindon moeth cywld eu pofon!
Machawgyn mor dner an Gaeir Llion;
A ddaid idwal ar Aranwyllon
A gwara pelen a phan Saxon.*

Songsters, soon would their cares be heard; an army of horsemen so harassing round Caer Llion; and the revenge of idwal on the Aranwyllon; and then playing of ball—buffeting with Saxon heads.

Tallierin.

elread, s. m. (pelre) A playing at ball; a tumbling; a bustling.

elre, v. a. (pelre) To knock a ball about; to play at ball; to turmoil.

ela, v. a. (pel) To move by revolving, to throw a ball, to ball, to throw a bullet.

peidr, s. pl. (paled) The legs of stockings with the feet cut off; also called bacsau.

peidr, s. pl. aggr. (paladr) Pellitory. Pelydr gwyllt, bastard pellitory, or bertram; pelydr dŷ, black hellebore.

Pelydradd, a. (pelydr) Radiate; beaming.

Pelydrawg, a. (pelydr) Radiant; rayonnant.

Pelydriad, s. m. (pelydr) A radiating.

Pelydra, v. a. (pelydr) To radiate, to cast rays.

Pelydryn, s. m. dim. (pelydr) A ray, a beam.

pell, s. m. (py—ell) An extreme limit or verge; the periphery of a circle.

Cores amddiffyfaŷa digawn pell.

The best place of defence is a sufficient distance.

Adage.

Pell, a. (py—ell) Being in the round, verge, or horizon; distant, remote, far. Pell iawn, pell hyd, per pell, tra phell, very far.

Dawg i oed pryllawg pell.

Remis to an appointment is the remote thinker of it.

Adage.

Drog pechawd o'i bell erlid.

Bad is sin from its being far pursued.

Adage.

*Pell ei ffrigi a'i anaw,
Gweryd Machawe araw;
Beldawg Radd yu hwn ab Emyr Llydaw.*

For his turmoil and his fame, the call of Machawe is upon him;
Belding the ruddy in this, the son of Emyr Llydaw.

Engl. Beldan Military.

Pellad, s. m. (pellau) A rendering far; a removing to a distance; a becoming distant.

Pellach, a. (compar. of pell) More distant, farther. adv. At some point of time lately passed, at length, further, furthermore.

Pellaf, a. (superlative of pell) Farthest, utmost.

Pellan, s. c.—pl. t. au (pall) A form or range of seats round an area; the range of seats of an amphitheatre.

Pellau, v. a. (pell) To put far off; to remove far off; to be far removed; to elongate.

Pellbell, a. (pell repeated) Far and far, very far.

Pelldaer, a. (pell—taer) Remotely harassing.

Pellder, s. m. (pell) Remoteness, or distance.

Pelldra, s. m. (pell) Remoteness, distance.

Pelldrem, s. f.—pl. t. iau (pell—trem) A far view; a sight for a distant object.

Pelldremaeth, s. m. (pelldrem) Dioptrics.

Pelldremiant, s. m. (pelldrem) A far viewing.

Pelldremiawl, a. (pelldrem) Assisting to view distant objects, dioptrical.

Pelldremyn, s. m. (pelldrem) A look to a great distance, a far sight.

Pellddrych, s. m. (pell—drych) A distant view.

Pelledd, s. m. (pell) Remoteness, farness.

Pellen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (pell) That is made for motion; that may be aptly implied; a compact round body; a round mass; a ball of thread, yarn, or other thing; a round lump, or gland in the body of an animal.

Pellenaid, a. (pellen) Like a ball, globular.

Pellenawg, a. (pellen) Having aptitude for moving off; having the form of a ball.

*Rhyddbydd Llymawg,
A fydd wr chuanawg;
Arall a ddyfdd,
Pellenawg ai llydd
Llewawdd i Frython.*

There shall come into existence Llymawg, who will be an ambitious man; another there will be far-extending his foot, a triumph to Britons.

Taliesin.

Pelleniad, s. m. (pellen) A forming into a ball.

Pellenig, a. (pellan) Of a remote situation, being distant, or remote. s. m. That is situated at a distance, that is of a far course, a stranger.

*—Brynias, wleuch
Naf dalarollon a phellenigion ffluch.*

Ye hills, praise the Lord of earthly creature and of rapid wandering herds.

D. Ddu, Hiraddug.

Pellenigaeth, s. m. (pellenig) Any foreign affair.

Owr cyfrwag, yn llys, ac yn llan, ac yn nghanmaw, ac yn mhob pellenigaeth—yw y teibantyle.

A mediating man, in court, and in congregation, and in combat, and in every foreign affair, is the representative.

Trioedd Dyfnewl.

Pellenigaw, v. a. (pellenig) To render remote, to remove to a distance; to become remote.

Pellenigedd, s. m. (pellenig) Remoteness.

Pellenigiad, s. m. (pellenig) To render remote.

Pellenigrwydd, s. m. (pellenig) Remoteness of situation; an extreme state.

*Arglwydd pellenigrwydd parch,
Owain wasw bla-ffin dhen-farch.*

Lord of the ultimate state of honour, Owain with the sharp pungent spear and foremost steed.

Gr. ab D. Fychan.

Pellenigwr, s. m.—pl. pellenigwr (pellenig—gwr) One who is remote; a stranger.

*Talawdy arwy eurwedd gan eryr
I bellenigwr—*

Costly the preparation of the golden feast of the eagle-horn for foreign men.

Med. Dwygrog.

Pellenn, v. a. (pellen) To form into a ball.

Pelliad, s. m. (pell) A rendering remote, a moving to a distance, a furthering.

Pellineb, s. m. (pell) Farness, remoteness.
Pellrwydd, s. m. (pell) Remoteness, farness.
Pellt, s. m. (pell) That is external, a surface.

Assawr deit am bell adawt.

Splintered shields about the ground he would leave.
Aneurin.

Pelltawg, a. (pellt) Having a surface.
Pelltad, s. m. (pellt) A forming a surface.
Pelltu, v. a. (pellt) To form a surface or outside.
Pellu, v. a. (pell) To render remote or distant;
 to remove far off.

*Trugarawg Argiwydd, trugarla
 Wrthwyf; i wrthyd ni'm pella.*

Merciful Lord, be merciful to me; from thee do not remove me
Cynddelin.

Pellus, a. (pell) Tending to the exterior or verge, surrounding, compact.

Pellynig ei glod, pellus ei galch.

Far-extending his fame, compact his armour.
Aneurin.

Pellyn, s. m. (pell) That is extreme or exterior.
Pellynawl, a. (pellyn) Far extending.
Pellynig, a. (pellyn) Far-extending, far-wandering, far-roaming.

*Pellynig fy nghof yn Nghaerwys dir;
 Pellydd wyf!*

Far-roaming is my memory in Caerwys land; and far off am I!
Cynddelin.

*Pellynig fy nghof yn nghyfeirdd,
 Yn eithyb caru Caerwys lebin.*

Far-roaming is my memory in the beginning of summer, on account of loving the nymph of Caerwys.
Gwalchmai.

Pellynu, v. a. (pellyn) To render remote, to remove far off; to become remote.

Pellynus, a. (pellyn) Tending to remoteness.

Pen, s. m.—pl. t. au (py—en) An extremity, end, or conclusion, the upper part; the head; a chief; a capital; a summit; a beginning, or foremost end; the state of being over or upon.

Pen Tir Lloegr, the Land's End of England; pen y bont, the bridge end; y pen yma, y pen hwn, this end; y pen oco, pen acw, pen draw, yonder end; wedi dawed i ben, being come to an end; pen ty, house top; pen y ty, the top of the house; pen yn erdd, at logger-heads; bod yn ben, to be a principal; pen y bryn, the summit of the hill; lladron pen ffordd, highway robbers;
pen blaen, the foremost end; Dyro hyn ar ei ben ei hun, put this by itself; bwro dwfr am ben y tan, to throw water over the fire; mae hi yn chwertlin am dy ben, she is laughing at thee.
Pen y neidr, dog's violet; pennau y gwyr, or llwynhidydd, ribwort plantain.

Tafawd aur yn mhen dedwydd.

A golden tongue is in the head of the wise.
Adage.

*Dy dafawd, wr da difeth,
 Dy ben, yw pen ar bob peth.*

Thy tongue, thou good and infallible man, thy head, over every thing be chief.
Gw. ab Ieu. Hen.

Muedan pen gwlad, rhy wir i hwerthin am eu penau.

The common sayings of the multitude, too true to be laughed at.
Adage.

Pen, a. (pen) Head, chief, supreme, principal.
Penad, s. m. (pen) A making chief; a becoming a head, chief, or principal.

Penadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (penad) One that is supreme or principal, a primate, a sovereign.

—Daw benadur,

A'th del o'th haint, a'th dolur,

A'th diledol anhawdd gawdd gur!

God the supreme, bring thee out of thy illness and thy wound, and thy unending and severely afflicting pain!
G. ab M. ab Dafydd, i Oronwy.

*Tri meib Llywelyn:—
 Tri araf penaf penadurion.*

The three sons of Llywelyn these gentle ones, supreme of over-ruling.
D. Nanfrut.

Penaduriaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (penadur) Pre-eminence, sovereignty, supremacy.
Penaduriaethu, v. a. (penaduriaeth) To create a sovereignty or pre-eminence.

Pennaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen) A pre-eminence, or supremacy, a principal, a chieftain, a chief.

*Nid gair gus, of gorow gorow,
 Hyd Gwer Llyr, a hyd Gwer Lleu,
 Hyd Ystradgigr Eidd, hyd Aeron ystrad
 Ei benneth o Benmon.*

It is no false word, he is the best of heroes; to Gwer Llyr to Gwer Lleu, to the English Ystradgigr to Aeron has he in power, extended from Benmon.
Cynddelin, i O. Gwynn.

*Ei blant a ddraust bob ddau,
 Rhyddid teg o bennethau.*

His children come forward two by two, a fair word of retaint.
Iolo Goch, i O. Gwynn.

Pennaethawg, a. (pennaeth) Having sovereignty.
Pennaethawl, a. (pennaeth) Belonging to sovereity; belonging to a sovereign.

Pennaethiad, s. m.—pl. penaeithiad (pennaeth) One who is supreme or principal, a chieftain.

Pennaethu, v. a. (pennaeth) To create a supremacy, to act as a chief, or a principal.

Pen aig yn penaeithu.

A chief stock exercising pre-eminence.
Gw. Brycheiniog, i Gwyl Da.

Pënaf, a. (pen) Chiefest, most eminent.

Penafedd, s. m. (penaf) Pre-eminence.

Penafiaeth, s. m. (penaf) Pre-eminence.

Penafrwydd, s. m. (penaf) Primeness, superiority.

Penafu, v. a. (penaf) To render superior.

Penag, conj. (pe—nag) If not; unless, except.

Penagored, a. (pen—agored) Open at top.
Cuch penagored, an open boat; lladri penagored, vessels without decks.

Penalld, a. (pen) Prime, superior, or excellent.

Ni bu neb; i—Ni bu Nudd yn bennidldach.

There has been nobody; even Nudd was not more excellent.
Gwyl Da.

Penaig, s. m. (pen—aig) A supreme stock, a supreme, a sovereign, a chieftain.

Oedd redarn ddraig bennig borth;

Oedd cad grynnydd, cad ganneth.

The fair chieftain was a mighty leader; he was the great bounty, the stay of battle.
Bladud yw.

Penarth Gwynedd at boddys:

Pen yd at bwyll: pam ai da byr!

The prime stock of Gwynedd departs this day: why should soon depart; why is it good to live.
Gw. ab Gwyl, i Gwyl.

Penain, s. pl. dim. (pen) Petty chiefs or lords.

*Rhacledawdd ei gladdys uch gwisg;
 Rhaglym fu yn pennau penain.*

He carried forward his sword out of the sheath: forward was he terrifying of petty chieftains.
Cynddelin, i B. ab Ieu.

Penant, s. m.—pl. penaint (pen) That is at the or over; supremacy, superiority; also a flat gritty kind of stone used for paving.

Yn nghyfoeth Penai difed gwrthet.

A rhydd heb add, heb-afu nagr,

Heb ofal cynhen cych i bennaf.

In the dominion of Deu there are friends used of stone liberty without molestation, without leaving a reserve, anxiety of a dispute about his prerogative.
Gw. Brycheiniog.

Penardd, s. f.—pl. peneirdd (pen—garrd) The point or salient angle of a bending ridge.

Penarth, s. f.—pl. peneirth (pen—garth) The jutting or trending of a mountain so as to form a cove; a cape or promontory. It is also called penardd and penarth.

Penaur, s. m. (pen—aur) The bird called yellow hammer. a. Gold-headed.

Penawd, s. m. (pen) A conclusion or end.

Penawg, a. (pen) Having superiority, or supremacy; headed. s. m. That is supreme; master. Gyda'ch cened y penawg, by your leave, master.
Penawl, a. (pen) Capital, principal, supreme.
Penawr, s. m. (pen) Superior, supreme, a master; covering, guard for the head; a headpiece, a helmet, also a headstall, a mazzle.
Peñabladr, a. (pen—paladr) Especial, particular. adr. Particularly.

Ddynt emellith Daw, ac un y gyanfelffth hno, ac un Cymru hnebladr ar y neb a ddrall y cyfrellthau hnyr.

They imprecated the course of God, and the one of that congregation, and the particular one of Wales, on such as should break those laws. Welsh Laws.

Penben, adv. (pen repeated) With heads together, in confusion, at loggerheads. Gyrn eua yn benben, to set dogs together to fight; ni ddyllid dodi y pethau hyny yn benben, those things ought not to be put confusedly together.

Penbleth, s. m. (pen—pleth) Confusion of the head; perplexity; anxiety, distraction of mind. Pa henbleth sydd arno? What perplexity is he in?

Penblethiad, s. m. (penbleth) A distracting the head; a becoming perplexed.

Penblethu, v. a. (penbleth) To distract the head.

Penblydd, a. (pen—plydd) Soft-headed, or dull.

Penboeth, a. (pen—poeth) Hot-headed. Y benboeth, the common hemp-nettle.

Penboethni, s. m. (penboeth) Hot-headedness.

Penbwl, a. (pen—pwl) Blunt headed. s. m. A blunt head, a blockhead, the pilchard, a tadpole. Y penbwl gartirion! thou silly blockhead!

Penbwla, s. m. (penbwl) A blockhead, a dolt.

Penblydd, s. m. (penbwl) Blockishness.

Penblyliad, s. m.—pl. penblyliad (penbwl) That is blunt-headed, a tadpole.

Penbysla, v. a. (penbwl) To make blunt-headed.

Pencær, s. f. (pen—cær) A metropolis.

Pencais, s. m.—pl. pencaisiaid (pen—cais) A receiver general; a chief treasurer.

Pencawna, v. a. (pen—cawna) To gather the tops of ryegrass; to trifle away time seemingly about business. Gwyddau yn pencawna, geese picking the wild rye.

Penceirddiad, s. m.—pl. penceirddiaid (pencerdd) A chief of song, a chief singer.

Penceirddiaeth, s. f. (penceirddiaid) The office of a chief of song, or of a chief musician.

Penceirddiaeth, s. f. (pencerdd) The office or jurisdiction of a chief of song.

Ni all neb bardd erchi dim, heb genad penceirdd hyd y bo ei bracerddiaeth ef, onid bardd gorwlad fydd, canys rhydd fydd bwr.

No bard can ask for any thing, without the licence of a chief of song within the extent of his jurisdiction of song, except he should be a bard of another country, for such a one is free. Welsh Laws.

Penceirddiaidd, a. (pencerdd) Belonging to a chief of song; like a chief of song.

Penceirddiaw, v. a. (pencerdd) To render masterly in song; to compose according to the laws of song.

Pa mawl beth a benceirddiaid cerdd dafawd!

How many points render complete according to art the vocal song! Sim. Pychan.

Penceirddiawl, a. (pencerdd) As a chief of song.
Penceisiad, s. m.—pl. penceisiaid (pencais) A chief receiver, a tax-gatherer.

Eilon ab Gwilym ab Gwernad ab Cabelyn Farid a laddes trefch-ar-again a benceisiad Cemaile.

Eilon son of Gwilym son of Gwernad son of Cabelyn the bard, was twenty-six of the chief-collectors of Cemaile. Honington.

Pencenedi, s. m. (pen—cenedl) The head of a family, tribe or clan; the representative of a family.

Ni wudd yn bencenedi ond gwr a ymladdo gyd a'i garac a ofer; a ddyweto gyd a'i gar ac a wraddaw; a lochale gyd a'i gar ac a gymere.

It is not meet for any to be the head of family but a man who shall fight with his relation and who shall be feared; who shall speak on the part of his relation and shall be listened to; who shall be surety with his relation and shall be accepted. Adafs.

Pencenediaeth, s. f. (pencenedl) The state or prerogative of head of a family.

Ni ddyltir penceinediaeth o famwys.

The representation of a family ought not to be from maternity. Welsh Laws.

Pencenedlawg, a. (pencenedl) Having a family representation, as a head of a tribe.

Pencenedlawl, a. (pencenedl) Belonging to the headship of a family or tribe.

Pencerdd, s. m.—pl. penceirddion (pen—cerdd) A master of the science of song.

Sef fydd penceirdd bardd gwedi ennillio gadair; Ni henpw y penceirdd o rif y swyddogion llyu.—Y bardd teulu a gan yn all yn y cerdd, canys y penceirdd a ddechreu.

A master of song is a bard after he shall have obtained a chair; the master of song is not reckoned of the number of the officers of court.—The bard of the family shall sing the second in the hall, for the master of song shall begin. Welsh Laws.

Pencerddradd, s. f. (pencerdd—gradd) The degree of a chief or master of song.

Penci, s. m.—pl. t. on (pen—ci) The dog-fish.

Penciwadaw, s. m.—pl. penciwadodion (pen—ciwadaw) A chief or leader of a colony; a generalissimo.

Pencilm, s. m.—pl. pencilyman (pen—clwm) A knob at the end of any thing; a close.

Dawal i fod yn babydd cyhoeddus, pan dybal efe fod pethau wedi dawed i'r fath beucwm, mael ag yr oedd yn ddiogel iddo ef ddiogel ei orchudd.

He came to be a professed papist, as soon as he thought that things was come to such a conclusion, that it were safe for him to put off his mask. Jer. Owain.

Pencnaw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pen—cnaw) The receiving end of a joint; a joint, or articulation.

Pencnawiau yr esgyrn, articulations of bones.

Pencnawiad, s. m. (pencnaw) The articulation of a joint, a jointing.

Pencnawiaw, v. a. (pencnaw) To articulate a joint, or to form a joint.

Pencnwd, s. m. (pen—cnwd) The chief of a skulk, the chief of a pack.

Gnawd cryr ebyr abar gwedd bangaw;

I bencnwd wy gylledd,
 A chigfrain cyfyrain cigwledd,
 Cigyddion coelion celanedd.

The eagle of the waters exults in spoiling the fair comeliness; with the leader of wolves he revels, and with hovering ravens glutted with flesh, butchers with keen bodings for carcasses. Ll. P. Moch, i R. Gwy.

Pencor, s. m. (pen—cor) The chief of a circle.

Pencun, s. m. (pen—cun) A chief leader.

Pencwd, s. m. (pen—cwd) The top of the bag.

A fu bencwd aeth yn dinwud.

That was the top of the bag is become the bottom of the bag. Adafs.

Pencyfeistedd, s. m. (pen—cyfeistedd) The chief place of sitting, the principal seat of assize.

Pencynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—cynydd) The chief huntsman, the tenth officer of the court.

Pencynydd, pedair ceiniawg cyfrith a galf y gan bob cynydd mliet; ac wyth ceiniawg cyfrith y gan bob cynydd galf, gan rddo y brenin eu swyddau iddynt.

The chief huntsman, four-pence in law shall he have from every huntsman with greyhound; and eight-pence in law from every huntsman with buckhound, when the king grants to them their offices. Welsh Laws.

Pencynghor, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—cynghor) A chief of council; a chief counsellor.

Penchwarëydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—chwarëydd) A principal player.

Penchwiban, a. (pen—chwiban) Light-headed.

Penchwibandawd, s. m. (penchwiban) Light-headedness; capriciousness, freakishness.

Penchwibanrwydd, s. m. (penchwiban) Light-headedness; whimsicality, capriciousness.

Penchwibanu, v. n. (penchwiban) To become light-headed, to become hair-brained.

Pendandde, s. m. (pen—tandde) A scald-head.

Pendarddiad, s. m. (pen—tarddiad) A breaking out of the head, a scabby head; also called pendandde, pengrechi, and crach drwg.

Pendawd, s. m.—pl. pendodau (pen) That is chief; that is ultimate; decision. Pendawd y ty, the principal of the house.

Tri phendawd trefn gwaith Daw er perit pob peth; ddyrnu y drwg, northu da, ac amlygu pob gwahardd; mai y gwyrer a ddylai oddiwrth na ddylai fod.

The three tendencies of the order of God's operation towards causing all things; extenuation of evil, increase of good, and manifestation of every diversity; so that it might be known what should and what should not be. Barddas.

Pendeddlig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—teddlig) A principal one, a nobleman.

Pendefig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—tefig) One of the highest rank; a grandee, a man of quality.

Neges pendefig yn rhad.

The errand of a nobleman gratis. Adage.

*Trystan wyn, bendefig lla,
Car dy genedl, cred a fu,
A minnau yn bentuol.*

*Fair Trystan, chief leader of a host, love thy nation, overlook what has been, and use the head of the family.
Ymdd. Gwaichmai a Thrystan.*

Pendefigaidd, s. m. (pendefig) Like a chieftain.

Pendefigawl, a. (pendefig) Belonging to the rank of nobility.

Pendefiges, s. f.—pl. t. au (pendefig) A woman of high rank; a lady.

Pendefigiaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (pendefig) A state of the highest rank or of pre-eminence.

Pendel, s. m.—pl. t. i (pen—tel) A head ornament, or chaplet.

*Gwlgaw aorwg Brutus, pendel o ddall y gwlgwydd am ei ben.
Brutus put a chaplet of the leaves of the vine upon his head.
Brut. y Breninodd.*

Pendeln, v. a. (pendel) To put on a chaplet.

Penderfyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—terfyn) A conclusion, a settled point, determination.

Penderfynawl, a. (penderfyn) Definitive.

Penderfynedd, s. m. (penderfyn) Determinateness, conclusiveness.

Penderfyniad, s. m. (penderfyn) A determining; determination, conclusion.

Penderfynrwydd, s. m. (penderfyn) Conclusiveness, determinableness.

Penderfynu, v. a. (penderfyn) To determine.

Penderfynwr, s. m.—pl. penderfynwyr (penderfyn—gwr) A determinator.

Pendew, a. (pen—tew) Thick-headed, stupid.

Pendewedd, s. m. (pendew) Thick-headedness.

Pendist, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pen—dist) A piazza.

Pendodaeth, s. m. (pendawd) Superiority.

Pendodaeth gwaith, diglywlydd-dra merch, ac anwybodach mab a drownt y byd wyneb i waered.

A wife's governing, a girl's shamelessness, and a boy's ignorance, will turn the world upside down. Adage.

Pendodawl, a. (pendawd) Discriminative.

Pendodi, v. a. (pendawd) To render peculiar; to become notable; to discriminate. Uchelwr pendodi, a newly created nobleman; gwr pendodi, a man become conspicuous, or an upstart

Pendodiad, s. m. (pendawd) A rendering particular; a becoming particular; discrimination.

Pendodiad teulu, chiefs of a family.

Pendogn, s. m. (pen—dogn) A major part.

Pendoll, a. (pen—toll) Having a head full of holes. Llysben bendoll, a lamprey.

Pendraphen, a. (pen—tra—pen) Having head beyond head; promiscuous. adu. Confusedly.

Pendragon, s. m. (pen—dragon) A chief leader.

Pentraffollach, a. (pen—tra—ffollach) Having the head beyond the fork; having head over heels. adu. With head over heels; topsy-turvy.

Pendramynwgl, a. (pen—tra—mynwgl) Having the head beyond the neck; headlong. adu. With head foremost; topsy-turvy.

Pendrawn, a. (pen—trawn) Giddy-headed.

Pendraigl, a. (pen—traigl) Having a turning of the head; giddy-headed. Dyn pendraigl, a gayer, a reprobate hair-brained person.

Pendreigl, s. m. (pendraigl) A turning of the head, a giddiness of the head.

Pendreiglaw, v. a. (pendraigl) To turn or roll the head about.

Pendreigledd, s. m. (pendraigl) The state of being giddy-headed.

Pendrist, a. (pen—trist) Having a drooping head.

Pendristedd, s. m. (pendrist) The pensive appearance of the head, pensiveness.

Pendristwch, s. m. (pendrist) A droopingness of the head, pensiveness.

Pendro, s. f. (pen—tro) A turning of the head, giddiness of the head, a vertigo, the stagger, also called dere.

Pendroad, s. m. (pendro) A turning round of the head; a becoming giddy-headed.

Pendroch, a. (pen—troch) Having the head broken or cut, having the end cut. Sam brodroch, a sound ending brokenly.

Pendroedig, a. (pendroad) Vertiginous, giddy-headed, hair-brained.

Pendroi, v. n. (pendro) To become giddy-headed.

Pendroiawg, a. (pendroi) Giddy-headed. Dyn hygoel pendroiawg, a hair-brained person.

Pendrom, a. (f. of pendrwm) Heavy-headed.

Pendromi, v. n. (pendrom) To become top-heavy.

Pendronawd, s. m. (pendrawn) The state of being giddy-head, or hair-brained. Pendronawd Cymro, the whimsicality of a Welshman.

Pendronedd, s. m. (pendrawn) The state of being hair-brained; whimsicalness.

Pendroni, v. n. (pendrawn) To have strange whims in the head, to be hair-brained.

Pendroniad, s. m. (pendrawn) A rendering giddy-headed; a becoming giddy or hair-brained.

Pendrwch, a. (pen—trwch) Broken-headed, having the end broken, divided, or shattered.

—Gwmaeth pendragon pendrychiwn o wyr.

The supreme leader made broken-headed one's of war.

Pendrwm, a. (pen—trwm) Being heavy-headed.

Pendrychawl, a. (pendrwh) Head-breaking, end-breaking, end shivering.

Pendrychiad, s. m. (pendrwh) A breaking of cutting of the head; a cutting of the end.

Pendrychu, v. a. (pendrwh) To break the head to break, cut, or shiver the end.

Pendrymald, a. (pendrwm) Rather top-heavy.

Pendrymdawd, s. m. (pendrwm) Heaviness of the head, a stupefied state.

Pendrymedd, s. m. (pendrwm) Heaviness of the head, a state of stupefaction.

Penndrym, s. m. (pendrwm) Heaviness of head.
Penndrymiad, s. m. (pendrwm) A rendering top-heavy; a becoming top-heavy.
Penndrymu, v. n. (pendrwm) To become top-heavy; to drop the head; to droop.
Penndwmpian, v. n. (pen—twmpian) To be nodding the head.
Penndwpa, a. (pen—twpa) With a nodding head.
Penndwynaw, v. n. (pen—twynaw) To let the head fall different ways; to stagger.
Pennddar, s. f. (pen—dar) A vertigo, a giddiness.
Penddaredd, s. m. (penddar) Giddiness of head.
Penddariad, s. m. (penddar) A rendering giddy, a distracting the head; a becoming giddy.
Penddaru, v. a. (penddar) To produce a vertigo; to distract the head; to become giddy-headed.
Penddiannod, a. (pen—diannod) Indispensable.
Penddifadawl, a. (pen—difadawl) Tending to distract the head, stupefying.
Penddifadiad, s. m. (pen—difadiad) A distracting the head, a becoming stupefied.
Penddifadu, v. a. (pen—difadu) To distract the head, to be distracted, to be stupefied.
Penddifadden, a. (pen—difadden) Indispensable.

Eithr yn benddifadduwr yr ydym ni yn ciodfodi dy ddawwari i'w rhydi, am eis cadw y dydd hwn yn ddilgwr.

But in a most special manner, we adorn thy divine Majesty, for preserving us this day in security. R. Fychan, Y Dardoldeb.

Penddig, a. (pen—dig) Having an inflamed head.
Penddiged, s. f. (penddig) An inflamed tumour, a phlegmon. Dail y benddiged, St. John's wort.
Penddu, a. (pen—du) Black-head. s. c. Black-head. Y benddu, the marsh odweed; Penddu, blackcap, several birds so called; penddu y brwyn, the blackcap of the rushes.
Penddŷyn, s. m. dim. (penddu) A botch, a blemish.
Penddŷynaw, s. a. (penddŷyn) Covered with blemishes.
Penelin, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—elin) The top of the elbow; the elbow.

Nes penelin nog arddwr.

Heater is the elbow than the wrist.

Adage.

Penelinad, s. m. (penelin) An elbowing.
Penelinaw, v. n. (penelin) To push with the elbow, to elbow, to rest on the elbow.
Penelinawd, s. m. (penelin) An elbowing.
Penenw, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—enw) A surname.
Penenwad, s. m. (penenw) A surnaming.
Penenwawl, a. (penenw) Surnamed.
Peneuwl, v. a. (penenw) To surname.
Penes, s. f.—pl. t. au (pen) One that is supreme or of the highest rank of females; a lady.
Penesig, s. f. dim. (peneuwl) A smart little lady.
Peneuraid, a. (penaur) Gold-headed. Y beauraid, wood crowfoot.

Peneurnyn, s. m. dim. (penaur) The yellow-hammer.
Penfadden, a. (pen—madden) Having the head forfeited; specially forfeited.

Tri gwynal ni ddwydd yn benfadden.

Three pledges there are which shall not become specially forfeited. Welsh Laws.

Rhodd gwynt i fod yn benfadden yn amodawl.

To give a pawn which may be under condition of sale, at a specified time. Welsh Laws.

Penfain, a. (pen—main) Having a pointed head or top, copped, tapering to the top.
Penfar, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—bar) A muzzle, a muzzle to hinder a calf from sucking.
Penfas, a. (pen—bas) Shallow-pated, dull.
Penfaser, s. m. (penfas) A shallow-pated state.
Penfasedd, s. m. (penfas) A shallow-pated state.
Penfau, v. n. (penfas) To become shallow-pated.

Vol. II.

Penfawr, a. (pen—mawr) Large-headed.
Penfeddal, a. (pen—meddal) Soft-headed; dull.
Penfeddw, a. (pen—meddw) Giddy-headed.
Penfeddwawd, s. m. (penfeddw) Giddiness of the head, a swimming of the head.
Penfeddwi, v. n. (penfeddw) To become giddy-headed, moldered, or crazed.
Penfeiniaw, v. a. (penfain) To acuminate.
Penfelen, a. (f. of penfelyn) Yellow-headed. Y beufelen or gwenus, the groundsel.
Penfelyn, a. (pen—melyn) Yellow-headed.
Penfoel, a. (pen—moel) Bare-headed, bald.
Penfoelidd, a. (penfoel) Bare-headed.
Penfoeldra, s. m. (penfoel) Bare-headed state.
Penfoledd, s. m. (penfoel) A bare-headed state.
Penfoeli, v. a. (penfoel) To make bare-headed.
Penfoelni, s. m. (penfoel) A bare-headed state.
Penfrag, s. m. (pen—brag) A swimming in the head, also called penddar, and pendro.
Penfras, a. (pen—bras) Large-headed, thick-headed, fat-headed. Y penfras, the cod-fish.
Penfrasedd, s. m. (penfras) A thick-headed state.
Penfro, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (pen—bro) A head-land region; also the name of Pembrokeshire.
Penffestin, s. f.—pl. t. lon (pen—ffestin) A helmet.

Taraw Arthur yn ei dal a wnael Ffrollo, a phel na rhyddai y ciedd-yf ar fodrw, a y penffestin.

Strike Arthur on his forehead was what Ffrollo did, so that the sword was blunted on the rings of his helmet. Gr. ab Arthur.

Penffestiniaw, v. a. (penffestin) To helmet.
Penffestiniawg, a. (penffestin) Wearing a helmet.
Penffestr, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—ffestr) A head-stall; a collar.
Penffetur, a. (pen—ffetur) Headstrong, obstinate.
Penffeturedd, s. m. (penffetur) Peremptoriness.
Penffetus, a. (pen—ffetus) Head-strong.
Penffluwch, a. (pen—ffluwch) Bushy-headed.
Penffluwchedd, s. (penffluwch) Bushiness of head.
Penffol, a. (pen—ffol) Silly-headed, block-headed.
Penffoledd, s. m. (penffol) Blockishness, stupidity.
Penffwrwyn, s. f.—pl. t. au (pen—ffwrwyn) A head-stall; a muzzle.

Penffwrwynaw, v. a. (penffwrwyn) To muzzle.

Pengadarn, a. (pen—cadarn) Strong-headed.

Pengadarn yn barn pob diwybod.

Obstinate is the opinion of every knave. Adage.

Pengarad, a. (pen—cead) Close-headed.
Pengaled, a. (pen—caled) Having a hard head; headstrong. Y beugaled, the knapweed; also called cliffylls, cramenog, and penlas.
Pengaledrwydd, s. m. (pen—caled) Obstinacy.
Pengaledu, v. n. (pengaled) To become hard-headed; to grow obstinate or headstrong.
Pengam, a. (pen—cam) Wry-headed.
Pengamedd, s. m. (pengam) The state of having the head awry; perverseness.
Pengamiad, s. m. (pengam) A turning the head awry, a bending the head.
Pengamleddf, a. (pengam—lleddf) Having the head, or end, turning aside.
Pengamrwydd, s. m. (pengam) Wryness of the head, the state of having the head turning aside.
Pengamu, v. a. (pengam) To turn the head awry, to bend down the head; to nod.
Pengamwr, s. m.—pl. pengamwyr (pengam—gwr) A nodder, one who bends the head.
Pengarn, a. (pen—carn) The hard part of the head of some animals; a beak.
Pengemi, s. m. (pengam) Wryness of the head.
Pengernyn, s. m. dim. (pengarn) A gurnard, also called penheicragn and penhaiarn.

Penglo, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—elo) A close; a stop at the end, a conclusion.
Penglôad, s. m. (penglo) A closing up the end.
Penglog, s. f.—pl. t. au (pen—clog) A skull, a noddle; a thickhead, a blockhead.

Deuparth clod yn mhenglog.

Two parts of fame in the skull.

Adage.

Penglogaid, a. (penglog) Blockheaded.
Penglogedd, s. m. (penglog) Blockishness.
Penglogeiddrwydd, s. m. (penglog) Blockishness.
Pengloges, s. f.—pl. t. au (penglog) A block-headed female.
Penglogfa, s. f. (penglog) A golgotha.
Penglogi, v. n. (penglog) To grow blockheaded.
Penglogyn, s. m. dim. (penglog) A numskull.
Penglôl, v. a. (penglo) To close the end, to close.
Penglwrm, s. m.—pl. penglymau (pen—clwm) A knot at the end.

Pengoch, a. (pen—coch) Red-headed. Y bengoch, the knotgrass; also called y benboeth, y dinboeth, and clinog goch.

Pengochedd, s. m. (pengoch) Redness of the head.
Pengochi, v. n. (pengoch) To grow red-headed.
Pengoll, a. (pen—coll) Having the head lost, having the end lost or hidden.

Pengolla, a. (pengoll) Having the termination lost; a term in grammar.

Unawd union y byddo ei gyrch yn bengollawli.

The enrythm direct that has its recurrence with a lost termination.

Gr. Robert, Duned.

Pengolli, v. n. (pengoll) To lose the termination.
Pengrach, a. (pen—crach) Scabby-headed.

Pengrachedd, s. m. (pengrach) Scabbiness of the head.

Pengrech, a. (s. of pengrych) Curly-headed; having the end rough.

Pengrechi, s. m. (pengrach) Scabbiness of head.
Pengrechleddf, a. (pengrech—lleddf) Soft with rough termination; a term in grammar.

Pengrechni, s. m. (pengrach) Scabbiness of the head, the state of having a scald head.

Pengrest, a. (pen—crest) Scurfy-headed.

Pengroes, a. (pen—croes) Having a cross head, having the end crossed.

Pengroesi, v. a. (pengroes) To cross the head.
Pengroesni, s. m. (pengroes) The state of having the head, or end, crossed.

Pengron, a. (s. of pengrwn) Round-headed.
Pengrwn, a. (pen—crwn) Round-headed.

Pengrych, a. (pen—crych) Rough-headed; curly-headed; frizzle-headed; having rough or curly ends.

Telamon, gwr grymus oedd, ag ymadrawd eglur ganthaw, a gwallt du pengrych ar ei ben: a dywal a chruafawu oedd wrth ei ctylon.

Telamon was an athletic man, he had a clear pronounciation, and he had black hair with curled ends on his head; and fierce and cruel was he to his enemies.

Ystori Dared.

Pengrychedd, s. m. (pengrych) Curly-headedness.
Pengrychiad, s. m. (pengrych) A becoming curly-headed, or frizzle-headed.

Pengrychni, s. m. (pengrych) Curly-headedness.

Pengrychu, v. a. (pengrych) To render rough-headed or curly-headed.

Pengrynawg, a. (pengrwn) Round-headed.

Pengrynedd, s. m. (pengrwn) Roundness of head.

Pengrynen, s. f. dim. (pengrwn) A round-head.

Pengryniad, s. m.—pl. pengryniaid (pengrwn) A round-head.

Pengrynu, v. a. (pengrwn) To grow round-headed; to grow to a head, as a cabbage.

Pengrynnyn, s. m. dim. (pengrwn) A round-head.

Penguwch, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pen—cawch) The fore part or poke of any head covering, a bonnet, a cap; also the capping or the work that joins the two pieces of a flail together.

Penguwch melyn a wngal merch newydd-weddyg.

A yellow bonnet used to be worn by a woman newly married.

Idm Dedydd.

Penguwch, ceiniawg a dâl.

A bonnet, its value is a penny.

Walia Llan.

Pengwaith, s. m. (pen—gwaith) A chief work.
Pengwas, s. m.—pl. pengweision (pen—gwas) A head servant.

Pengwastrawd, s. m.—pl. pengwastrodion (pengwastrawd) A head groom, being the chief officer in the prince's household.

Y pengwastrawd a gaffi groen ych y gwas, a chwen ych yst, i wucuthur celystrau i feirch y bencâl.

The head groom shall have the skin of an ox in winter and the skin of an ox in summer, to make halters for the horse of a king.

Walia Llan.

Pengweithiwr, s. m.—pl. pengweithwyr (pengwaith—gwr) A head workman.

Pengwleddwr, s. m.—pl. pengwleddwyr (pengwleddwr) One who is chief in the carnival.

Pengyrnig, a. (pen—cyrnig) Having the head pointed or tapering. Bun pengyrnig, a mud with a tapering crown.

Penhaiarn, s. m.—pl. t. od (pen—haiarn) The gurnard; also called pengernyn, and penhaiarn yn. Penhaiarn coch, the red gurnard; also called ygyfarnog y mor.

Penhebygdd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—hebygdd) The chief falconer; being the fourth officer of the royal household.

Penhebygdd a ddylai drailu dirwy yr hebogddion, a mawr eu merched.

The head falconer shall claim the third of the fess of the hawks, and the maiden fee of their daughters.

Walia Llan.

Penhebygddiaeth, s. m. (penhebygdd) The office of the chief falconer.

Penheirnyn, s. m. dim. (penhaiarn) A gurnard.

Penhoeden, a. (pen—hoeden) Giddy-headed.

Penhwtian, v. n. (pen—hwtian) To have the head ready to fall; to be tottering.

Penhwtiawl, a. (pen—hwtiawl) Top-heavy.

Penhwyad, s. m. (pen—hwyad) The pike, or jack.

Penhwyliar, s. m. (pen—hwyliar) A main man.

Penhynaif, s. m.—pl. penhynelfion (pen—hynaf) A chief of the elders; a title given to the tributary princes of the first rank, who did homage to the monarch.

Caradawg Freichfras penhynaif yn Nghernyn, a Arddu benhynedd.

Caradog with the brawny arm chief of elders in Gernyn, and Arthur the supreme prince.

Idm.

Peniadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (peniad) That is the head; a principal.

Peniad beirdd llawr cefnawr oed;

Peniadur deu r-far D; fed.

The sovereign of the bards of the floor gloriously doing the treasure; the crown-work of the gay rampart of Dyfed.

Frydydd Dyfed, i Gynon a Sion.

Penial, s. m. (pen) A capital, a helmet.

Dafydd yw—

Penial cerdd, dyfal dafnawd.

Dafydd is the chief of song, of persevering genius.

Idm. Dafydd.

Gnaws edyn adnodd hore;

Gnaws an hys beirdd yst.

Congential for the birds to recognise the more: cognate with the bowl the chief of the mansion.

Gnaws an.

Ni gnydaudd Peredur ei feddwl er gwled y penial a wna ben Cal.

Peredur did not change his mind for seeking the helmet that was on the head of Cal.

Idm. Peredur—M. 10. 1.

Penialawg, a. (penial) Having a capital or chief; wearing a head-piece or helmet.

Penialu, v. a. (penial) To surmount with a capital; to put on a head-piece.

Peniannawl, a. (peniant) Being a capitation.

Peniauu, v. a. (peniant) To make a capitation.

Peniant, s. m. (pen) A capitation, a heading.

Penig, s. f. dim. (pen) A little head; a nipple.

Penigamp, a. (pen-camp) Masterly, chief of the art. Saer penigamp, a masterly wright.

Penigan, s. f.—pl. t. i. (penig) A pink. Penigan ruddgoch, clove pink.

Penlas, a. (pen-glas) Blue-headed. Y penlas, field scabious; also called pengaled. Varieties: Penlas yr yd, and penlas wen, corn blue-bottle.

Penlassu, v. a. (penlas) To become bine-headed.

Penlasi, s. m. (penlas) Blueness of the head.

Penlin, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pen—glin) The head of the knee; the knee.

Penliniad, s. m. (penlin) A kneeling.

Penliniaw, v. a. (penlin) To fall on the knees, to kneel. s. m. The act of kneeling.

Deaf as ya rhodog, ac a breiniad iddo, ac a fynegol iddo; Athrw, pa both a wael i gael meddiadu bywyd trugyfyhaw!

One came running, and he bawled to him, and spoke to him thus; Master, what shall I do to obtain life everlasting.

W. Salisbury.

Mwnt hwy yn cymeryd mwy o hoflder mewn penliso, gwddio, ac ymrydio, nos yd y byddolion yn na y byd hwn.

They are taking more delight in knowing, praying, and fasting, than the worldlings do in the things of this world.

Merchery Cwydrad.

Penliowr, s. m. (penlin—gwr) A kneeler.

Penlŷn, s. m. dim. (pen—glŷn) The blackcap; the titmouse. Varieties: Penlŷn mwyaf, y rŷn, the chaffinch; penlas bach, the ox-eye; y llŷn, gwas y dryw, yswidu, yswidu, the titmouse.

Gwel penlŷn yn llaw no hwyd yn awyr.

A titmouse in hand is better than a duck in the air; A bird in hand is worth two in the bush.

Adage.

Penllad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—llad) A chief good, the highest blessing. Rhad penllad, the grace or gift over measure.

Penlle, s. m. (penlle) Where the head should be; a head stead; a numskull.

Penllian, s. m.—pl. penllieiniau (pen—llian) A head-cloth.

Penllian, wyth penllawg a dal.

A head-cloth, eight-pence is its value.

Welsh Laws.

Penllwyn, s. m. (pen—llwyn) A head-band.

Penllorcan, s. m. (pen—llorcan) A jolt-head.

Penlluestai, s. c. (pen—lluestai) The chief arranger of tents; a quartermaster-general.

Penllwyd, a. (pen—llwyd) Hoary-headed, grey-headed. s. m.—pl. t. ion. The grayling; the sewin. Y penllwyd, common cudweed.

Penllwydaw, v. a. (penllwyd) To become grey-headed or hoary-headed.

Penllwydded, s. m. (penllwyd) Greyiness of the head, grey-headedness.

Penllwydeg, s. f. (penllwyd) A net for catching graylings, young salmon so called.

Penllwydeg, den rwyd penllwydiad, deuddeg celulawg a dal.

A grayling net, or a net for graylings, twelve pence is its value.

Welsh Laws.

Penllwydi, s. m. (penllwyd) Greyiness of head.

Penllwydiad, s. m.—pl. penllwydiad (penllwyd) The grayling or sewin.

Penllwydni, s. m. (penllwyd) Hoariness or greyiness of the head.

Penllwy, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pen—llyw) The head-leader; a term in building for the stone next to, or which secures, the corner stone.

Penllwyawdr, s. m.—pl. penllwyodron (penllwy) A chief director or governor.

Penllwyodraeth, s. m. (penllwyawdr) Supreme government or direction.

Penllwyodraethwr, s. m.—pl. penllwyodraethwyr (penllwyodraeth—gwr) A chief governor.

Penllwyodraethydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (penllwyodraeth) A governor general.

Penllwydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—llywydd) A sovereign lord.

Penllwyddiaeth, s. m. (penllwydd) Supreme dominion; sovereignty.

Pennill, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—dill) A prime division or part; a complete division; wattle; a pannel, a stall, a pane, a stanza, or strophe, an epigram.

Gwell car cell no sbar pennill.

Better the chamber friend than the song friend.

Adage.

Pennill yw nifer o freichiau, o'r un neu fwy o'r cyhyddedion, trwy gado, cymharied, cyghanedd, gair cych, gair loddad, a chyfochriad, ac yr un eiddad.

A stanza is a number of verses, of one or more of the metricalities, where the common initial, consonation, word of modulation, and parallel, are preserved on the same rhythm.

W. Middleton.

Pennilliach, s. pl. dim. (pennill) Trifling verses.

Pennilliad, s. m. (pennill) A forming a stanza.

Pennilliaw, v. a. (pennill) To form a stanza.

Cadwrawd—modd gorchestawl iawn a fydd hwn ar edli a pheunillaw.

The catenated rhyme, this is a very masterly mode of rhyming and of forming of stanzas.

Barddas.

Pennilliawg, a. (pennill) Consisting of stanzas.

Mewn cardd beunillawg, caer bob pennill o'r gerdd yn gyflwr iau.

In a composition divided into stanzas, let every stanza be formed of the same number of verses.

Barddas.

Pennod, s. f.—pl. t. au (pen—nod) A concluding mark; a complete period; a chapter.

Pennodawl, a. (pennod) Belonging to a chapter.

Pennodi, v. a. (pennod) To mark the end or conclusion; to divide into chapters.

Pennnoeth, s. m. (pen—noeth) A bare head. a. Bare-headed.

Pennnoethi, v. a. (pennnoeth) To make bare-headed; to uncover the head.

Pennnoethiad, s. m. (pennnoeth) A making bare-headed; the act of uncovering the head.

Penodawl, a. (penawd) Particular, definitive, especial. Yn benodawl, especially.

Penodedig, a. (penawd) Defined, or specified.

Penodi, v. a. (penawd) To particularize, to specify; to constitute, to appoint, to assign.

Penodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (penawd) A particularizing, or specifying; a specification, assignation, allotment.

Penodiaeth, s. m. (penawd) Specification.

Penodoldeb, s. m. (penodawl) Definitiveness, particularity, speciality.

Penodolder, s. m. (penodawl) Specialness.

Penodoledd, s. m. (penodawl) Specialness.

Penodoli, v. a. (penodawl) To render definitive.

Penodolrwydd, s. m. (penodawl) Specialness.

Penodrwydd, s. m. (penawd) Particularity.

Penodwr, s. m.—pl. penodwyr (penawd—gwr) A specifier; one who assigns.

Penodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (penawd) A specifier.

Penon, s. f.—pl. t. au (pen) A pennant.

Penorawg, a. (penawr) Wearing a helmet.

Penorawl, a. (penawr) Principal, supreme.

Tri bancewyddion teyrnedd Ynys Prydain: Prydain ab Aedd Mawr, Dyfnwal Moelmuad, a Bran ab Llyr Llediaith; sef gortu trofu eu trefn hwy ar deyrnedd Ynys Prydain, hyd oall bernid hwy yu benorawlar bob trefnau ereill.

The three consolidators of the monarchy of the Isle of Britain: Prydain son of Aedd the Great, Dyfnwal Moelmuad, and Bran son of Llyr Llediaith; for the best regulation was their regulation of the monarchy of the Isle of Britain, so that they were deemed superior over every other regulation. Teyrnedd.

Penori, v. a. (penawr) To render supreme or principal; to put on a helmet.Penoriad, s. m. (penawr) A rendering supreme; a wearing a helmet; a putting on a helmet.*Penpington, s. m. (pen—pinc) Branchy head; the name of a droll character in ancient tales. Penpington, enw un o borthorion Arthur, Penpington, one of Arthur's door-keepers.

Penpington a ymddda ar ei ben er arbed ei draed.

Penpington would go upon his head to save his feet. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Penpryd, s. m. (pen—pryd) A visage.Penre, s. f. (pen—rhe) A hair lace, a fillet.*Penrhaith, s. m.—pl. penrheithiau (pen—rhaith) The chief of the law; that has supreme right; a supreme claimant; a principal evidence. Brenin penrhaith Ynys Prydain, the king of supreme authority of the Isle of Britain.

Drosg y llaw y llaw oedd penrhaith ei lloedd.

Had is the colour of the hand that was the supreme law of his armies. D. ab Lloegern Mawr.

Meibion Brychan Brycheiniawg a achyrt yn benrheithiau yn Yspawen.

The sons of Brychan Brycheiniawg became as chiefs of jurisprudence in Spain. Llyfr Iechan.

Penrheithiant, s. m. (penrhaith) Supreme jurisdiction; sovereignty of law.Penrheithiaw, v. a. (penrhaith) To constitute supreme jurisdiction.*Penrheithiawg, a. (penrhaith) Having supreme jurisdiction or loyal supremacy.*Penrudd, a. (pen—rhudd) Ruddy headed. Y benrudd, the common marjoram.*Penrwym, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—rhwym) A head-band, a hair-lace, or fillet, also called penre, ffanen, and ysnoden.*Penrwymaw, v. a. (penrwym) To bind the head.

Na phenrwyma yr ych a fo yn dylado yr yd.

Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that shall be carrying the corn. W. Sallabury.

Penrwywiad, s. m. (penrwym) Binding the headPenrwymyn, s. m. dim. (penrwym) A head-band*Penrydd, a. (pen—rhydd) Loose headed; dissolute; having loose ending. Geiriau penryddion, unconnected words; can benrydd, blank verse.*Penryn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pen—rhyn) End of a point, a promontory, cape, or head-land. It forms the names of several places; as Penryn Blathdon, Cathness, Penryn Rhionydd, the point of Galloway, in Scotland; Penryn Penryth, Land's End, in Cornwall.*Penrynawg, a. (penryn) Forming a headland.*Penrynu, v. n. (penryn) To form a headland.*Pensach, s. f. (pen—sach) The mumps.*Pensaer, s. m.—pl. penseiri (pen—saer) A chief architect, a chief wright.*Pensaerniaeth, s. m. (pensaer) Architecture.*Pensaerniaidd, a. (pensaer) Architective.*Pensag, s. m. (pen—sag) The hop-plant; hops.*Pensedd, s. f. (pen—sedd) A supreme seat.

Mair, ddeddfawl ddwywawl, ddiwael benedd.

Mary, moral and divine, whose throne is without frailty. Deffydd Ddu, Hiraddug.

Pensel, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—sel) A supreme object; a grand standard.

Gores arwydd gwa Wyddyl
Melyn a cbech yu mhen dweyl
Urida beusel llywelyn;
Arddel hwy a'r ddaolir hyn.

The choicest token with the Irish are yellow and red in front of onset; do thou consecrate the supreme standard of llywelyn; do thou lead them on with these two colours. Iolo Goch, i O. Gilydyfryd.

Pensellaeth, s. m. (pensel) The office of bearing the grand standard.Pensigl, a. (pen—sigl) Having a shake of head.*Pensiglad, v. a. (pensigl) A shaking of the head*Pensiglaw, v. a. (pensigl) To shake the head.

Caerlon—
A'm dygyfrent, tan ddiol ffr,
A thau benaiglo aml.

Enemies treat me with contempt, in passing by, and wagging their heads at me. Edm. Iry.

Pensiglwr, s. m.—pl. pensiglwr (pensigl—gwr) A wagger or shaker of the head.Penswydd, s. f.—pl. t. an (pen—swydd) A chief or principal office.*Penswyddawg, s. m.—pl. penswyddogion (penswydd) A chief of office, a chief officer.*Penswyddwr, s. m.—pl. penswyddwyr (penswydd—gwr) A chief officer.*Pensyfrdan, a. (pen—syfrdan) A giddiness.*Pensyfrdandawd, s. m. (pensyfrdan) Distraction*Pensyfrdaniad, s. m. (pensyfrdan) A distracting the head; a becoming giddy-headed.*Pensyfrdannu, v. a. (pensyfrdan) To distract the head; to become stupefied.*Pentan, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—tan) A fire back, a fire side; a chimney corner. Cods ryl bentan, gwyliau gwyl bentan, to sit up all night*Pentanfaen, s. m. (pentan—maen) The stone that forms the fire-back.*Penteulu, s. m. (pen—teulu) The chief of the family, the president of the household, the patron of the family.

Y penteulu a ddylai fod yn fab i'r brenin, neu yn uch, na'n frawd, neu yn gylfach gwr ag y gallir penteculu o hon.

The president of the household should be a son of the king, or a nephew, or a brother, or a man of as high a rank as he can be made a president of the household. Wlad Iwan.

Pentenluath, s. m. (penteulu) The office of a president, or patron of the household.Pentewyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—tewyn) A brand.

Gwaie y cynbenus mewn gwlad!
Pentewynion uffern ydynt.

Woe to the contentious in a country! They are the fuel of hell. Mer. Llwy.

Penteyrnedd, s. m. (pen—teyrnedd) The supreme of princes; a sovereign.

Arthur yn benaeyrnedd yn Mheyrn Rhionydd yn y Cych Cyndeyrn Garthwys yn benaeyr, a Gwirthmwl Wladig yn ben llynaill.

Arthur a supreme of princes at the promontory of Rhionydd in the north, and Cyndeyrn Garthwys archbishop, and Gwirthmwl Wladig chief of elders.

Pentir, s. m.—pl. t. edd (pen—tir) A headland, or promontory; also a term used in Mea for a land steward. Pentir Cefnion, Cape Clear, in Ireland.Pentref, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (pen—tref) The head of a township, a village, or hamlet; also the outskirts or suburb of a city.*Pentrefaeth, s. f. (pentref) A villagery.*Pentrefaidd, a. (pentref) Villatic, village.*Pentrefawg, a. (pentref) Having a village.*Pentrefawl, a. (pentref) Belonging to a village.*Pentrefwr, s. m. (pentref—gwr) A villager.

Pentreislad, s. m. (pen—treislad) A supreme oppressor or tyrant.

Pentreisiwr, s. m.—pl. pentreisiwyr (pen—treisiwr) A supreme tyrant or oppressor.

Pentretlwr, s. m.—pl. pentretlwyr (pen—trethwr) A chief tax-man or receiver of taxes.

Pentwr, s. m.—pl. pentyrau (pen—twr) A raised heap or pile.

Pentwynaw, v. a. (pen—twynaw) To drop the head in different directions.

Pentwynawl, a. (pen—twynawl) Head-nodding.

Pentwyniad, s. m. (pen—twyniad) A nodding.

Penty, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—ty) A building added to the main house; penthouse, a shed; also the head house.

*Pent da yu'r ty yma ym!
Pent hwa yu'r penly dymy!*

Why is not this house good for me! Is not this the first house for me?
L. G. Cuth.

Pentyrawg, a. (pentwr) Having a heap or pile.

Pentyrawl, a. (pentwr) Accumulative.

Pentyredig, a. (pentwr) Accumulated, heaped.

Pentyredd, s. m. (pentwr) A heaped state.

Pentyriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pentwr) Accumulation.

Pentyra, v. a. (pentwr) To heap up, to accumulate; to amass.

Y rwyd a bentwr yr amser hwnn, ac a oodir i gadw arbyn amser i ddawed, a'r pryd y bydd rwyd wrtho.

The produce will be accumulated in that time, and will be put to be kept against the time to come, and the season when there will be a necessity for it.
Jer. Owsen.

Pentyrwr, s. m. (pentwr—gwr) A heaper.

Pentywsawg, s. m.—pl. pentywsogion (pen—tywsawg) A supreme prince.

Pentywsogasth, s. f. (pentywsawg) A supreme principality.

Penn, v. a. (pen) To render chief or principal; to become chief, to surpass, also to specify, to fix, to appoint.

Tri chyfnder gwynfyd: cyfrin yn mhob amcudd ac yn cydawn yn pen; cyfmdwynn a phob awen, ac yn un rhagori; cariad at bob byw a bod, a thegat un, nef Dau, yn beaf; ac yn y tri un yma y saf cyfnder nef a gwynfyd.

The three plenitudes of the intellectual world: participation in every nature, with a plenty one predominating; conformity with every cast of genius, and in one excelling; love towards every life and existence, and towards one, that is God, more especially; and in these three ones consist the plenitude of heaven and felicity.
Burdaw.

Pennuchaf, s. m. (pen—uchaf) An upper end.

Pennuchawg, a. (pen—uchawg) Being pre-eminent

*Tri chloen eu parau, fel Peryddon;
Tri chloen eu parau, penurhogion;
Tri chlo ar eu bro rhag bradogion.*

Three with penneering spurs, like Peryddon; three keystones of a capital, superior ones; three safe-guards over their country against depredators.
D. Brufus.

Penwag, a. (pen—gwag) Empty-headed. s. m.—pl. penwag. A herring; also called ysgaden.

Penwag mair, pilchards.

Penwan, a. (pen—gwan) Weak-headed. Dynionos penwraigion, weak-headed mortals.

Penwader, s. m. (penwan) Weakness of head.

Penwar, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—gwar) A head-stall; a muzzle; a barnacle, in farriery.

Pwa ar eu, fel penwar yu.

A load on a skin, like a muzzle it seems.

Iolo Goch, Pw forf.

Penwen, a. (f. of penwyn) White-headed.

Penwendid, s. m. (penwan) Weakness of the head, brain-sickness, infatuation.

Penwg, s. m. (pen) That is superior, that is special or peculiar.

Penwig, s. f. (pen—gwig) A head-dress.

Penwigiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (penwig) The dressing of the head; a head-dress.

Penwa, s. m.—pl. penynau (pen—wa) A banner.

Penwyn, a. (pen—gwyn) White-headed. Y penwyn, y bod penwyn, the bald buzzard.

Penwnder, s. m. (penwyn) Whiteness of head.

Penwynedd, s. m. (penwyn) Whiteness of head.

Penwyni, s. m. (penwyn) Whiteness of head.

Penwynu, v. (penwyn) To grow white-headed.

Penwyr, a. (pen—gŵyr) Having the head inclined, wry-headed.

Penwyrw, v. a. (penwyr) To incline the head.

Penwyrredd, s. m. (penwyr) Inclination of head.

Penyd, s. m. (pan) Atonement, penance.

Penydiad, s. m. (penyd) A doing penance.

Penydiaw, v. a. (penyd) To atone, to do penance.

Penydiawl, a. (penyd) Atoning, expiatory.

Penydiwr, s. m.—pl. penydwyr (penyd—gwr) An atoner; one who performs penance.

Penydu, v. a. (penyd) To atone, to do penance.

*Cyd elwys i llaen i henys,
Dodi dda angh i eu treusid.*

Whilst they went to churches to do penance, the certain stroke of death pervaded them.
Amos.

Penydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pan) An atonement.

Penyddawl, a. (penydd) Atoning, expiating.

*Gwalth gwynfyd dymn—
Ddar a nef cyn pen odde con penyddawl.*

A blow-out work, to blow off earth and heaven before suffering of punishment, then atoning prince.
Abi-rdy.

Penygawl, a. (penwg) Discriminative.

Penygen, s. f. dim. (paneg) The region of the entrails, the paunch.

Nid llawnach yr enaid, ar Manu y benygen.

The soul is not the more satisfied, though the paunch be filled.
Catwg.

Penygu, v. a. (penwg) To render supreme, peculiar, or notable; to discriminate.

Penygwl gwl penigamp, Penod, a chwmpod, a champ.

He would discriminate superlative genius, in design, campaign, and execution.
Gr. Grg, i D. ab Iudith.

Penyn, s. m. dim. (pen) A capital of a pillar.

Penynad, s. m.—pl. t. on (pen—ynad) A chief judge, a chief justice.

Penynadaeth, s. m. (penynad) Chief justiceship.

Penysgafn, a. (pen—ysgafn) Light-headed.

Penysgafnder, s. m. (penysgafn) Light-headedness, giddiness of the head.

Penystafellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—ystafellydd) High chamberlain.

Pepra, v. a. (pebr) To be chattering.

Pepraeth, s. m. (pebr) Chattering, babbling.

Pepriad, s. m. (pebr) A chattering, a chatting.

Pepra, v. a. (pebr) To prate to chat, to babble.

Peprown, s. m. (pebr) Chattering, babbling.

*Er pen fu Elphin yn nghyrydd
Macgwn, neu portlen peprown poli dyfrydd!*

Ever since Elphin has been in the dispute of Macgwn, has not babbling brought extensive war!
Ph. Hrydd.

Pepryn, s. m. (pebr) A chatter-box, a chatterer.

Per, s. f.—pl. t. au (py—er) That pervades, that involves, that is involved; a spit; also sweet fruit; pears, pear-trees. Cig ar y ber, meat on the spit.

*Per gwrn gwrn
Yn mhlwynyd mewn.*

Pear-tree the best of intruders in the conflict of the plain.
Tatterin, Cad Gddau.

Per, a. (py—er) Delicious, sweet. Afaleu perion, or afaleu surion, cultivated apples, and sour apples; cirinen ber, a sweet plumb; llais per, a sweet voice.

Perhad, s. m. (perhu) A rendering sweet or savory, a becoming sweet or delicious.

Peraidd, a. (per) Somewhat delicious, sweetish, sweet, pleasant.

Perau, s. pl. aggr. (per) Pears; also called gell-aig, ellaig, rhwynn, and peranan.

Un ffae, ned yn felysach
A'r perau wyd o'r preu iach.

Of the same savour, or more delicious than the pears, art thou, from the luxuriant tree. S. Ceri.

Peran, s. c. dim.—pl. t. au (per) A pear.

Peranen, s. f. dim. (peran) A single pear.

Perarogl, s. m.—pl. t. au (per-arogl) A perfume, or aromatic.

Perarogla, s. c.—pl. perarogleion (perarogl) A perfumer, a dealer in sweet scents.

Peraroglaidd, a. (perarogl) Odoriferous.

Perarogledig, a. (perarogl) Perfumed.

Perarogleidd, s. m. (perarogl) Perfumery, odoriferousness, fragrant.

Perarogli, v. a. (perarogl) To perfume.

Perarogliad, s. m. (perarogl) A perfuming.

Perarogliant, s. m. (perarogl) Fragrant.

Peraroglus, a. (perarogl) Odorous, fragrant.

Peraroglsaw, v. a. (peraroglus) To render odoriferous or aromatic; to become odoriferous.

Peraroglwyr, s. m.—pl. peraroglwyr (peraroglgwr) A perfumer, a dealer in aromatics.

Peraroglydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (peraroglt) A perfumer, a dealer in aromatics.

Perarwynt, s. m. (per-arwynt) A perfume.

Perau, v. a. (per) To render sweet, to become sweet, delicious, or fragrant.

Perawr, s. m.—pl. perorion (per) A musician.

Perbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (per-pren) A pear-tree.

Perc, s. m. (per) That is close, compact, or trim; a compact spot; a perch.

Yn leol barseil dan berc.

Being a low mark under a perch. I. ab R. ab Iwan Llwyd.

Perc, a. (per) Compact, trim, neat, perk.

Percaidd, a. (perc) Tending to involve, wrap, or make compact.

Percawl, a. (perc) Involving, wrapping; tending to be compact or trim; perching.

Perced, s. f.—pl. t. au (perc) That encloses or wraps; a bow net; a wrapper.

Pilin rhag dryghin a drig;
Perced ddeudl Wyddelig.

A covering against the angry storm; an Irish wrapper of two breadths. D. Ll. ab Ll. ab Gruffudd, i fanteill.

Percediad, s. m. (perched) A closing, a wrapping.

Percedu, v. a. (perced) To involve, to close.

Percell, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (perc) A place that is compact or safe; a store place, a magazine.

Hwaw—a wnaeth bercell o Dŷinas Basing.

That one made a store place of Basingwerk. I. Brooke o Fawddwy, Ll. Achan.

Perceta, v. a. (perced) To amass; to gain.

Percetwyr, s. m.—pl. percetwyr (perced-gwr) One who makes compact or shuts in; one who heaps together.

Perciad, s. m. (perc) A rendering compact, close, neat, or trim.

Percin, a. (perc) Tending to involve, make compact, neat, tidy, or trim, a trimming.

Percini, s. m. (percin) The mesentery.

Percu, v. a. (perc) To trim, to make smart.

Percus, a. (perc) Tidy, smart, trim, perk.

Percusaw, r. a. (percus) To render tidy, trim, or smart; to become smart, or perk.

Percusedd, s. m. (percus) Trimness, smartness.

Percusrwydd, s. m. (percus) Smartness, neatness.

Perchen, s. c.—pl. t. oedd (parch) A possessor, owner, or proprietor.

Call mi blaen, aeghall bum berchen.

Cunning is I own, simple is I was a possessor. Idiq.

Adnew gan berchen.

To pawn with the owner. Idiq.

Perchenawg, a. (perchen) Having possession. s. m.—pl. perchenogion. A possessor, an owner.

Perchenawg y tir y lladder arno a ddyn adeg a ddaeth i ni y neb a'i lladdo.

The proprietor of the land, whereon any thing shall be cut, shall claim fifty pence from whosoever shall cut it. Welsh Law.

Perchenawl, a. (perchen) Possessory, possessive.

Perchenogaeth, s. m. (perchenawg) Ownership.

Tri rhyw berchenogaeth y sydd ar dir, herwydd cyhoir: n yw estyn heb oregyn; all yw goredyn heb mlyn, trydyd goredyn ag estyn.

There are three sorts of possessions of land, according to how one is extent without occupation; the second is occupation without extent; the third is occupation with extent. Welsh Law.

Perchenogaethawl, a. (perchenogaeth) Belonging to ownership, possessory.

Perchenogaethiad, s. m. (perchenogaeth) A making a possession; a giving possession.

Perchenogaethu, v. a. (perchenogaeth) A making out a possession; a giving possession.

Perchenogawl, a. (perchenawg) Possessive.

Perchenogi, v. a. (perchenawg) To be possessed of, to possess, to own.

Perchenogwr, s. m.—pl. perchenogwyr (perchenawg-gwr) A possessor.

Perchenoldeb, s. m. (perchenawl) Ownership.

Perchenoli, r. a. (perchenawl) To render possessive, to render possessed, to become possessed.

Perchentyaeth, s. m. (perchen-tŷaeth) Possession of a house; a being a householder.

—Eich gwelir

Pernaeth perchentyaeth iŵr.

You will be seen the chief in house-keeping of the land. From Llŷr.

Perchenu, v. a. (perchen) To possess, to own.

Perchenwr, s. m.—pl. perchenwyr (perchenawg-gwr) A possessor, an owner.

Perchi, v. a. (parch) To respect, or to honour.

Cadwaladr cerddgar,
Cerdau cyfarwâr,
Cyfarfa s'm perchi.

The muse-loving Cadwaladr of solacing songs, he met with us honouring.

Perchwerwyn, s. m. (per-chwerw) The white horehound; also called llwyd y caw.

Perchydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (parch) A respecter.

Yn wir, dymbl leithlwg Moa,
Penllwydd perchydd llorygion.

In truth, there will be one enthroned from Moa, a respecter of armour-wearing men. Tam.

Perdawl, s. m. (per) Delicacy, sweetness.

Perder, s. m. (per) Deliciousness, sweetness.

Perdra, s. m. (per) Deliciousness, sweetness.

Peredd, s. m. (per) Delicateness, or sweetness.

Pereiddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (peraidd) A sweetening, dulcification.

Pereiddiant, s. m. (peraidd) Dulcification.

Pereiddiaw, v. a. (peraidd) To dulcify, to render sweet, or mellow; to become sweet.

Pereiddiawl, a. (peraidd) Of a sweetening quality.

Pereidrrwydd, s. m. (peraidd) Deliciousness.

Pereidsain, s. f. (peraidd-sain) Euphony.

Peren, s. f. dim. (per) A pear, one pear.

Pererin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (per-er) That has a course through; a pilgrim.

Mi, Feilyr Brydydd, hererin i Bedr,
Porthawer a gymeru gymeru deth.

I, Feilyr the Bard, am a pilgrim to Peter, the porter who will regulate appropriate qualities. Idiq.

Pererimbren, s. m. (pererin—pren) A pine-tree.
Pererindawd, s. m.—pl. pererindodau (pererin)
 A state of pilgrimage.

Pererindota, v. a. (pererindawd) To peregrinate.

Pereriniad, s. m. (pererin) Peregrination.

Pereriniath, s. m. (pererin) A state of peregrination, or a pilgrimage.

Pereriniaw, v. a. (pererin) To peregrinate.

Perfagl, s. f. (per—magl) The herb periwinkle.

Perfarwhun, s. f.—pl. t. an (per—marwhun) A rapturous trance.

Perfedd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (per—medd) The middle region, centre, or inward part. It is also used as a plural noun: the entrails, the bowels.
Nis dei adref oni bo berfeddion y nos, Thou wilt not come home until it shall be the middle of night.

A genyw bob tra trwyddi berfedd
 O'i gantad, o'i rad, o'i rinwedd yn llawch,
 Llwydchydig hael yn ei synfodd.

He that comprehends every course through its cradle, by his perambulation, by his beauty, by his virtues in protecting, splendid is that sun in its orbit.
Gr. ab Uwercen.

Perfedd, a. (per—medd) Middle, inward, central.
Y bŷ perfedd, the middle finger; y tri perfedd-af, the three inmost.

Locutina, a symmetr y rhan berfedd i'r ynys.
 Locutina, took the middle portion of the island.
Gr. ab Arthur.

Perfeddawl, a. (perfedd) Belonging to the middle, central; intestinal.

Perfeddiach, s. pl. dim. (perfedd) Intestines.

Perfeddwiad, s. f. (perfedd—gwlad) A middle country; an inland country.

Perfelys, a. (per—melys) Delicately sweet.

Perffaith, a. (per—ffaith) Perfect, complete.

Y gwr awyrd-ddoeth—
Y perffaith ddyn praf o ddys.

The man pleasingly wise; the perfect person great in learning.
Borgen ab Hywel.

Perffeithdawl, s. m. (perffaith) Perfectness.

Perffeithder, s. m. (perffaith) Perfectness.

Perffeithiad, s. m. (perffaith) A perfecting.

Perffeithiaw, v. a. (perffaith) To perfect.

Perffeithiawl, a. (perffaith) Perfectional.

Perffeithiedig, a. (perffaith) Being perfected.

Perffeithioldeb, s. m. (perffaith) Perfectibility.

Perffeithiol, v. (perffeithiawl) To perfectionate.

Perffeithrwydd, s. m. (perffaith) Perfectness.

Perging, s. m. (perc) That involves, that keeps together, that shelters or defends; a skreen, or settle. a. Enclosing, sheltering. Perging pen-arthau, the defence of princes.

Perging brein, chweugaint a dal:—
Perging, pedwar-og-ugaint a dal:—
Y penau hauru a'r perging.

The fore-side skreen of the king, its value is six score pence:—
 A fore-side skreen, its value is twenty-four pence:—The iron fore-hob and the skreen.
Welsh Laws.

Llew mawr-llid awair, llyd bair beryng
 Llwrw trylw; llew llawr llaryg deiling.

A lion great in wrath and vigorous, simply he will cause protection towards the brave, the lion of the ground enveloped in armour.
Cynddelw.

Rhys—
 Na'm gwrthawd yn ddurung,
 Mwy llwyr, llaw beryng.

Rhys, reject me not harshly, thou eagle of glory, of protecting hand.
Phyllip Irydd.

Perhon, adv. (pe—rhon) Be the consequence, be it so, for all that.

Peri, s. m. (par) A causation, a cause.

Peri, v. a. (par) To cause; to cause to effect, to make to do; to bid, to command. Duw a'm peris, God caused me to be; pera tddi beidiaw, bid her to cease; perid imi dy alw, I was commanded to call thee.

Angen a bair l henwrach duthlaw.

Necessity will cause the old woman to trot. Adage.

Peris ef, peryl nef moddha,
Per addawd paradywys wyddha.

He, the carmer of the sanctuary of heaven, did cause the bliss circle of the paradisaical place of presence. Cynddelw.

Iolaŷ bair, o bered arwar,
 A beris amad ac adar.

I will worship the cause, from so pure a motive, who did cause all things walking and those of wing. Llywelyn Ferdd.

Periad, s. m.—pl. t. an (par) A causing, a making to do, a bidding, effectuation, causation.

Periadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (periad) A causator.

Duw a feler yn y deindawd, Tad, Mab, ac Ysbryd Gsan, yn gro-awdur a pheriadur pob peth.

God shall be praised as a Trinity, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit the creator and causer of all things. Berddas.

Periant, s. m. (par) Causation, effectuation.

Periator, ger. (periad) In causing, in bidding.

Perid, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (par) That is caused.

Gollychaf peryl peridydd,
 A beris deigr mab Dolydd.

I will adore the Causer of caused things, who caused the tears of the son of David. Dirigant, M. Cynddelw.

Perig, a. (per) Extreme; perilous.

Perigl, a. (perig) Perilous, or dangerous.

Periglaw, v. a. (perigl) To make extreme or perilous; to administer extreme unction; to become extreme.

Edid a berid o'i beriglaw.

Vexation was caused from bringing him to extremity. Cynddelw, M. Rhydd.

Ac a'm gwnef peryl, pan beriglawy,
 Perffalh, walth oleg a dex dalwyf!

And may the Creator, when I go to extremity, make me perfect, a work of the mind, which I may fairly requite!
Binion ab Gwalchmai.

Periglawd, s. m. (perigl) The act of rendering urgent, extreme, or perilous.

Periglawr, s. m.—pl. periglorion (perigl) One who has to do with what is extreme or dangerous; one who administers extreme unction; a parish priest.

Na ddifaw dy beriglawr.

Do not contemn thy pastor. Adage.

Peritor, sup. (peri) To be causing or bidding.

Perlafar, s. m. (per—llafar) Euphony.

Perlais, s. m.—pl. perleisau (per—llais) A sweet voice, a melodious voice.

Perlef, s. m. (per—llef) A melodious voice.

Perleisad, s. m. (perlais) Producing euphony.

Perleisiaw, v. a. (perlais) To produce euphony.

Perlewyl, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (per—llewyl) Ecstasy

Perlewylgawl, a. (perlewyl) Rapturous.

Perlewylgfa, a. f.—pl. t. an (perlewyl) Rapture.

O ddwyawyl garlad—y deuant ysbrydolion welodignethau yn y marwhuau ac y perlewylgfa.

From divine love there will come spiritual visions in the death-like trances and the raptures. Cysegrian Puchdd.

Perlewylgiad, s. m. (perlewyl) A yielding a rapture, a falling into a fit of ecstasy.

Perlewylgu, v. a. (perlewyl) To fall into rapture

Perloes, s. f.—pl. t. ion (per—gloes) Ecstasy.

Perloesaid, a. (perloes) Extatic, rapturous.

Perloesi, v. a. (perloes) To enrapture.

Perlysiaw, s. pl. aggr. (per—llysiaw) Sweet herbs

Brynia, fy sawlyd—bydd debyg i lwrch, neu lwdn bydd ar fyn- ydoedd y perlysiaw.

Hasten, my love, be like the roebuck, or the young hart on the mountains of the sweet herbs. Ier. Uwela.

Perlysiawg, a. (per—llysiawg) Abounding with aromatic herbs.

Perllan, s. f.—pl. t. au (per—llan) An enclosure of sweet fruit; an orchard.

Tri thiwa cenedl: meln, cored, a pherllan; a'r rhai hyny ni ddylir eu rhannu, na'u cychwyu; nanyr rhannu eu ffrwythau i'r nob a'u dylir.

The three rarities of a family: a mill, a wear, and an orchard; and those things ought not to be divided, nor removed; but their produce is to be divided amongst such as may have a claim.

Welsh Laws.

Perllanaidd, a. (perllan) Like an orchard.

Perllanawg, a. (perllan) Abounding with orchards

*Pob rhan o'r adall—
A'r barth perllanawg llanwyd,
Heb ddwyn ond chwyn a heug.*

Every part of the structure, on a region abounding with orchards was filled, without producing any thing but weeds and reeds.

Ellis Wyn, B. Crag.

Perllanwydd, s. pl. aggr. (perllan—gwydd) Orchard trees.

Perllys, s. pl. aggr. (per—llys) Parsley: perllys yr hel, or perllys y morfa, wild celery.

Peron, s. m. (par) That causes or bids to be; the creator; the lord.

Perores, s. f.—pl. t. au (perawr) A female who practises melody, a female musician.

Peroriad, s. m.—pl. t. an (perawr) A producing a sweet sound; a producing of melody.

Peroriaeth, s. m. (perawr) Melody, harmony of sound, foolish idle talk.

Peroriaethawl, a. (peroriaeth) Belonging to the science of music; musical.

Peroriaethu, v. a. (peroriaeth) To make melody, to harmonize sounds; to practise music.

Peroriaethus, a. (peroriaeth) Harmonical.

Peroriaethwr, s. m.—pl. peroriaethwyr (peroriaeth—gwr) A practiser of music.

Peroriaethydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (peroriaeth) A harmonizer of sounds, one who practises harmony, or music.

Peroriannawl, a. (peroriant) Producing music.

Peroriannu, v. a. (peroriant) To yield melody.

Peroriant, s. m. (perawr) Practice of music.

Peroriaw, v. a. (perawr) To practise music.

Persain, s. f.—pl. perseiniau (per—sain) Euphony

Perseiniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (persain) A producing euphony.

Perseiniaw, v. a. (persain) To produce euphony.

Perseiniawl, a. (persain) Euphonical; melodious

Pert, a. (per) Smart, spruce, dapper, pert, nice.

Pert pob peth bach ond diawl bach.

Pretty is every thing little except a little devil.

Adage.

Mesyg, pert galeinig por.

The gloves, the pretty present of a chieftain.

D. ab Gwilym.

Pertaidd, a. (pert) Of a smart or pert nature.

Pertedd, s. m. (pert) Smartness, neatness.

Perten, s. f. dim. (pert) A smart little girl.

Pertirwydd, s. m. (pert) Smartness, prettiness.

Pertu, v. a. (pert) To render smart or spruce; to become smart, trim, or spruce.

Pertyn, s. m. dim. (pert) A smart little fellow.

Perth, s. f.—pl. t. i (py—erth) A thorn bush.

Troi o lobta y berth.

To turn on each side of the bush.

Adage.

Tist i groesau egronau perthi,

Nas portall cardola;

Trist fu ei hyder o glera;

Trigwaeth nog y darch yd i.

It is woeful for a buffoon to be gathering hips off the brakes, and that charity should not support him; woeful was his dependence upon the circuit of minstrelsy; three times worse than what has been to him will he come to.

Madawg Dwyraig.

Perthawg, a. (perth) Abounding with bushes.

Perthen, s. f. dim. (perth) A thorn bush; a bush

Pertheurddrain, s. f. (perth—eurddrain) A gooseberry bush.

Perthgae, s. m. (perth—cae) A quick-set hedge.

Perthgan, v. a. (perth—can) To enclose with quickset hedge.

Perthlys, s. m. (perth—llys) Climbing backward

Perthyn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (parth) What is appropriate, relating, or belonging to. s. n. To be appropriate, to have relation, to belong.

A berthyn am ddyn a ddynodaf;

A borthio gwydd bod hysgoca.

What relates of man I will treat of; he that learns of him be the most concerned.

Llywelyn Fawr.

Perthynad, s. m. (perthyn) Appertinence.

Perthynas, s. f.—pl. t. au (perthyn) Relation, relationship, appertinence.

Perthynasawl, a. (perthynas) Appropriate.

Perthynasiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (perthynas) Appropriating; appropriation.

Perthynasoldeb, s. m. (perthynasawl) Appropriateness, an appropriated state.

Perthynasolder, s. m. (perthynasawl) Appropriateness, pertinentness.

Perthynasoli, v. a. (perthynasawl) To render appropriate: to become appropriate.

Perthynasolrwydd, s. m. (perthynasawl) Pertinentness, appropriateness.

Perthynasu, v. a. (perthynas) To render appropriate, to become appropriate.

Perthynawl, a. (perthyn) Pertaining. Elenus perthynawl, a relative pronoun.

Perthynedig, a. (perthyn) Made appropriate.

Perthynedigaeith, s. m. (perthynedig) Appropriation, the state of being relative.

Perthynedigawl, a. (perthynedig) Tending to be appropriate, or pertinent.

Perthyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (perthyn) Appertainment, a rendering pertinent.

Perthynoldeb, s. m. (perthynawl) Appropriateness, relativeness, appertinence.

Perthynoledd, s. m. (perthynawl) Appropriateness, relativeness, appertinence.

Perthynoli, v. a. (perthynawl) To render appropriate, to become appropriate.

Perthynolrwydd, s. m. (perthynawl) Appropriateness, relativeness.

Perthynraid, a. (perthyn—rhaid) Relatively necessary; suitable.

Llywelyn Sion—a wnaid drefn a deubarth ar fannau onid i y peth oedd berthynraid iddynt.

Llywelyn Sion reduced to order and method the various songs, and what was appropriate to them.

Ed. Dafydd.

Perthynn, v. a. (perthyn) To render appropriate; to become appropriate or pertinent, to appertain, to belong, to have relation.

Byr ach bonedd lle nis perthynn iddi an chroeg an chroeg yd.

Short is the genealogy of nobility to which there is long water a thief nor a whore.

Id.

Perthynus, a. (perthyn) Appropriate, relative.

Nid ydwy ffydd yn berthynus i bethau amwg, o s-ben ydwy gweledig amwg nid rhaid iddynt ffydd, ond y gweledig.

Faith is not appropriate to visible things, because faith is not necessary for things seen and conspicuous, but vision.

Marchwyl Crysbeu.

Perthynusrwydd, s. m. (perthynus) Appropriateness, relativeness, or appertinence.

Pern, v. a. (par) To cause, to effect, to bid to be, to bid, to command.

Abwy a bair wybod lle ba.

A carrion will cause it to be known where it is.

Id.

Perwellt, s. m. (per—gwellt) Sweet-scented reed grass, also called melyn-wellt.

Perwrg, s. m.—pl. perygon (per) That is of a kind.

or sweet tone, a musical instrument so called; probably a hurdy-gurdy.

With y drws, an a'i growth drwg,

A lawe wail a'i berwg.

By the door, one with his crazy fiddle, and another dirty chap with his hurdy-gurdy.

L. G. Cuth.

Perwr, s. m.—pl. perwyr (peru—gwr) A causer, a bidder to be, one who orders.

Perwraidd, s. m. (per—gwraidd) Liquorice.

Perwrychion, s. pl. aggr. (per—gwrychion) Delicious emanations.

Digrifech yn cydawnu y clywedigaeth, o'r perwrychion maei-der, mai y demati o waneglad y gwefusan.

Happiness replenishing the hearing with the delicious emanations of sweetness, as they proceed from the opening of the lips.

Cynegrian Fuchedd.

Perwydd, s. pl. aggr. (per—gwydd) Wood bearing sweet fruit, fruit trees, pear trees.

Addwyn blodau ar warthaf perwydd;

Arall addwyn a Chreawdr ceremnydd.

Delightful the blossoms upon the pear trees; again delightful it to hold communion with the Creator.

Taliesin.

Perwydden, s. f. dim. (perwydd) A pear tree.

Perwyddiad, s. m.—pl. f. au (par—gwyddiad) A causal faculty, a verb.

Perwyddiadawl, a. (perwyddiad) Relating to, or of the nature of a verb.

Perwyl, s. m.—pl. f. ion (par—gwyl) Occasion.

Perwylaw, v. a. (perwyl) To produce an occasion or event.

Perwylad, s. m. (perwyl) A producing an occasion or event.

Perwylus, a. (perwyl) Eventual, incidental.

Perydd, s. m. (par) A causer, one who bids to be, a bidder, one who orders or gives command.

Peryddon, s. f. (perydd) A stream possessing some powerful virtue; a divine stream; it is the name of some rivers. This appellation is used by the poets for the river Dee, in common with Dyfrdwy, Dyfrdowwy, and Aerfen.

Mae breuddwyd am Beryddon,

Yr al gaeir hys ar gwr hon.

There is a dream respecting Peryddon, that a long fort would rise upon its border.

T. Ald., i. Gwyn.

Peryf, s. m. (par) One who causes; the giver of existence, a creator; one who bids or commands; a sovereign, a king. It has been used for the appellation of Pharaoh; as, Peryf a'i is, Pharaoh and his host.

Awyryaf, archaf archfawri beryf

A beris nef a llawr,

Nawdd rhag dy fur.

I will put myself under protection, I will ask a great petition to the Creator that caused heaven and earth,—a refuge from thy wrath.

Cynddelw, i. R. ab Gruffudd.

Peryf nef, pura fy ngheudawd!

Creator of heaven, make pure my breast.

Sir, ab Gwalchmai.

Peryg, s. m. (per) That is extreme or perilous.

Perygl, s. m.—pl. f. on (peryg) Danger.

Yn mhob ciwylf y mae perygl.

Adage.

Archant eu llonrau ar y polion heleir—dyoddefynt ddwyfud perygl angauwl, hyd pan foddyn ar floedd.

Their ships went upon the iron piles, and they suffered a sudden deadly peril, so that they were drowned by thousands.

Brut y Brennoedd.

Perygled, s. m. (peryg) Dangerousness.

Perygliad, s. m. (peryg) An adventuring, a hazarding; a running into danger, an endangering, an exposing to danger.

Peryglu, v. a. (peryg) To endanger, to expose to peril; to become dangerous.

Peryglu am furus fones:

Fan fywch yw pen fcinioes.

Running into danger in judging of my life: when thou shalt prove in the end of my existence.

T. Ald.

VOL. II.

Peryglus, a. (peryg) Dangerous, or perilous.

Peryglusaw, v. u. (peryg) To render perilous or hazardous; to become perilous.

Peryglusedd, s. m. (peryg) Perilousness.

Peryglusrwydd, s. m. (peryg) Dangerousness.

Peryglwr, s. m. peryglwyr (peryg—gwr) One who endangers.

Pes, conj. (pe—ys) If. It is used conditionally, for pe, and ped, with verbs of the subjunctive and potential modes, preserving the initials of words following in their radical state.

Peagl, v. a. (pasg) To feed, to fatten; to pamper, to cram, to become fat.

Ban bateg berion a bwyntgion coed.

Conspicuously he feeds the vultures and wild beasts of the wood.

Gwalchmai.

Pesgiad, s. m. (pasg) A fattening, a feeding.

Pesgiator, ger. (pesgiad) In fattening or feeding.

Pesgitor, sup. (pasg) To be fattening, or feeding.

Bid diaspad aies; bid au byddia;

Bid beagtor dyre;

Bid drud glw; a bid rew bra.

Be querulous the illing; be moving the army; be getting fat the wanton; be bold the brave; and be the hill slippery.

Llywarch Hen.

Pesgus, a. (pasg) Fattening; nutritive.

Pesgwr, s. m.—pl. pesgwyr (pesgi—gwr) A fattener or a feeder.

Peat, s. m. (py—est) That is violent, pushing, or penetrating.

Pestawd, s. m. (pest) A forcing, a bustling.

Pestodi, v. a. (pestawd) To bustle about; to frisk.

Pestota, v. a. (pestawd) To bustle, to frisk.

Peswch, s. m. (pas) A cough. Mae arnat beswch tost, thou hast a severe cough.

Peswch sych diwedd pob nych.

A dry cough ends every ill.

Adage.

Pesychawl, a. (peswch) Apt to cough; coughing.

Pesychiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (peswch) A coughing.

Pesychlyd, a. (peswch) Troubled with cough.

Pesychlys, s. m. (peswch—llys) Colicfoot.

Pesychu, v. a. (peswch) To cough. A besycher, that is coughed; that is ejected by coughing.

Pesychwr, s. m. (peych—gwr) A cougher.

Petrus, a. (pedrus) Apt to cause a start, apt to start, doubtful, dubious. Y petrus, the starters, partridges.

Petrusad, s. m. (petrus) A making a start, a startling; a hesitating, a doubting.

Petrusaw, v. a. (petrus) To startle, to hesitate.

Petrusawd, s. m. (petrus) A startling, hesitation.

Petrusawl, a. (petrus) Startling, hesitating.

Petrusdeb, s. m. (petrus) A state of startling, a state of hesitation, doubtfulness.

Petrusder, s. m. (petrus) Doubt, hesitation, ambiguity, quandary.

Petrusdra, s. m. (petrus) Dubiousness, quandary.

Petrusedd, s. m. (petrus) Dubiousness, scrupulosity, ambiguity.

Petrusen, s. f. dim. (petrus) A partridge.

Petrusgar, a. (petrus) Apt to startle, hesitating.

Petrusgarwch, s. m. (petrusgar) A state of startling, hesitation, doubtfulness.

Petrusi, s. m. (petrus) A startling hesitancy.

Petrusrwydd, s. m. (petrus) Hesitancy; doubt.

Petruswr, s. m.—pl. petruswyr (petrus—gwr) A startler, one who hesitates, a doubter.

Petryael, s. m. (pedry—ael) That consists of four skirts or sides, a square. a. Quadrilateral.

Petryal, s. m.—pl. f. au (pedry—al) That has four points or sides; a square, a space hemmed in on all sides. a. Quadrangular, square.

3 G

hawd, s. m. (pi) A possessing, or owning.

*Prydydd wyf i' rhag Prydain ddraigion,
Ffawd cerdd raddol prydyddion.*

I am a poet, in the presence of a leader of Britain, possessing the song of the choir of poets. Cyddfawd.

hawg, a. (pi) Having possession, or possessed.

haw, a. (pi) Possessing, owning; being owned.

ib, s. f.—pl. t. au (py—ib) A pipe, a tube, a squirt, a lax, a musical pipe; a flute. Pibaw cod, bagpipes; pib gorn, a horn pipe; Pib waed, the bloody flux.

Aeth hysy ar gryn a phibau.

That is gone upon horse and pipes; or become a common talk. Adage.

ibaw, v. a. (pib) To make use of a pipe, to pass through a pipe, to squirt, to pipe.

ibawg, a. (pib) Having a pipe, piped.

ibawl, a. (pib) Belonging to a pipe, laxative.

ibawr, s. m. (pib) That is like a pipe.

Pibell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (pib) A pipe, a duct, a tube, a musical pipe. Pibell odyn, a kiln pipe; pibell wynt, or brenant, a windpipe.

Pibellaidd, a. (pibell) Like a pipe or a tube.

Pibellawg, a. (pibell) Having pipes, piped.

Pibellad, s. m. (pibell) A forming a pipe; a piping, a smoking.

Pibellu, v. a. (pibell) To form a pipe, to pipe.

Pibellwr, s. m.—pl. pibellwyr (pibell—gwr) A pipe-man, a smoker.

Pibellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pibell) A piper.

Piben, s. f. dim. (pib) A pipe. Piben odyn, the pipe of a kiln.

Pibenawg, a. f. (piben) Jointed pipewort.

Pibiaeth, s. m. (pib) The act of piping.

Pibion, s. pl. aggr. (pib) Squirtings.

Pibled, a. (f. of piblyd) Apt to squirt, squirting.

Piblyd, a. (pib) Apt to squirt, squirting.

Piblys, s. m. (pib—llys) The flax-weed.

Pibon, s. pl. (pib) Pipes, what are as pipes.

Pibonwyr, s. m. aggr. (pibon—gwy) Sleet, isicles.

Pibori, s. m. (pibawr) A state of piping or shooting out, a budding. v. a. To pipe or shoot out, to bud.

*Yr ena low-dlos lwydlw—
Fod ar ddor y pibori;
Amen fyth, o mynau ddi!*

The nightingale of a glossy fair brown hue; be she on the cooey of budding; Amen, for ever I would have it so! D. ab Gwilym.

Piborig, a. (pibawr) Piping or shooting out.

*Aflun breu bborig,
Mely ei haeron, nid mawr eu masig.*

Apple-tree delicious and Arming with buds, yellow its fruit, not to be chewed by the multitude. Myrdain.

Pibwr, s. m.—pl. pibwyr (pib—gwr) A piper.

Pibydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pib) A piper. Pibydd cod, a bagpipe player; pibydd y traeth, the sandpiper; pibydd glas, ash-coloured sandpiper; pibydd llwyd llydandroed, grey scolloped sandpiper; pibydd du mânawg, black-spotted sandpiper; pibydd gwyrdd, green sandpiper; pibydd rhuddgock, the dunlin.

Dige paw o anadl y pibydd.

Disgusting to every body the breath of the piper. Adage.

Pibyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (pibydd) Female piper.

Pibyddiaeth, s. m. (pibydd) Pipe-playing.

Pibyddiaethn, v. a. (pibyddiaeth) To practise piping, or pipe-playing.

Picell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (pig) What is darted, a dart, a javelin.

Picellai, s. c. (picell) A dart thrower.

Picellawg, a. (picell) Armed with a dart.

Picelliad, s. m. (picell) A throwing a dart.

Picellu, v. a. (picell) To throw a dart.

Picellwr, s. m.—pl. picellwyr (picell—gwr) A dart-man, a thrower of darts.

Picellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (picell) A darter.

Picffon, s. f.—pl. picffyn (pig—ffon) A pike-staff.

Picfforch, s. f.—pl. picffyrch (fforch) A pitchfork.

Piciad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pig) A darting, a making a sudden pass, a going suddenly.

Piciaw, v. a. (pig) To dart, to fly suddenly. Picia yno a brycia yn ol, run there and make haste back.

*Gwr du i biciau gair del,
Gwr ysg i gwr isel.*

A black man to throw a churlish word; a crazy man with a low stoop. T. Pry.

Piciawl, a. (pig) Darting, flinging.

Piciedig, a. (piciad) Being darted or flung.

Picwd, s. m.—pl. picydau (pig) The prickled dog, or houndfish; also called ci pigau, and ci pigawg.

Picwsmain, s. m. (pig—malu) Oat bread crumbled into butter-milk.

Picyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (pig) A wooden vessel hooped, used for eating out of.

Picynaid, s. m.—pl. picyneidian (picyn) As much as a picyn will hold.

Picynwr, s. m.—pl. picynwyr (picyn—gwr) A good man at the picyn.

Picynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (picyn) A picynwr.

Pid, s. m. (py—id) What tapers to a point.

Pidyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. od (pid) A pintle. Pidyn y gog, the herb wake-robin.

Pienfod, v. n. (piau—bod) To be possessed of, to be owner. Gwyn ei fyd bieuai! Happy him who should enjoy it!

Pleaso y furch aed yn ei llosgwrn.

Who owns the cow let him take to her tail. Adage.

Piff, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—iff) A puff, or blast.

Piffiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (piff) A puffing.

Piffaw, v. a. (piff) To puff, or to whiff.

Pig, s. f.—pl. t. au (py—ig) What terminates in a point, a pointed end, a point, a pike; a beak, bill, or nib; the pipe, a disease amongst fowls.

Pig yr araw, the crane-bill; also called traed-rudd; pig y bwn, shoots of river horse-tail; pig y creyr, stork's-bill.

*A moes achwyn mawr uchel,
Rhwng nes y dda rhyngau ddi:
Y mae'r byd yna ar big
Yn tueddu at elldig!*

And let me complain out aloud, against the life of a person odiously churlish: this world is on a pivot placed, inclining to the jealous cuss! T. Pry.

Pigaw, v. a. (pig) To prick, to prickle; to sting; to pick; to peck. Pigodd draen fâ, a thorn has pricked me; piga y goreuon, pick the best ones; iar a biga y brwion, a hen will pick the crumbs; mae yn pigaw gwlaw, it spits of rain.

Pigawd, s. m. (pig) The act of pricking.

Pigawg, a. (pig) Prickly, full of points. Croes bigawg, a cross fitchee.

Pigawglyn, a. (pigawg—llym) Sharp pointed.

Pigawglymaidd, a. (pigawglyn) Rather sharply pointed, or acuminated.

Pigawglymedd, s. m. (pigawglyn) The state of being sharply pointed.

Pigawglyn, s. pl. aggr. (pigawg—llym) The spinach; also called pigoga.

Pigedig, a. (pig) Pricked, prickled.

Piufain, a. (pig—main) Sharp-pointed.

Pigfan, s. m. (pig—mân) A mark of a point.

Pigfaniad, s. m. (pigfan) A punctulating.
 Pigfann, v. a. (pigfan) To punctulate.
 Pigfeiniad, s. m. (pigfain) Acumination.
 Pigfeiniaw, v. a. (pigfain) To acuminate.
 Pigfforch, s. f.—pl. pigfforch (pig—fforch) A pitchfork.
 Pigiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (pig) A pricking; a stinging; a picking; a culling.
 Pigiedig, a. (pigiad) Pricked, stung; picked.
 Pigin, s. m. (pig) A stitch, or pricking pain.
 Pigion, s. pl. aggr. (pig) Picked things; selections; excerpctions.
 Pigl, s. m. (pig) The herb honnds-tongue.
 Pigoden, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (pigawd) A prickle; a sharp point; a sting; a field mouse.
 Pigoga, s. f. (pigawg) The spinage.
 Pigwlaw, s. m. (pig—gwlaw) A spitting rain.
 Pigwlawiaw, v. n. (pigwlaw) To spit of rain.
 Pigwn, s. m.—pl. pigynau (pig) A round heap or tump; a cone; a turret; a beacon.
 Pigwr, s. m.—pl. pigwyr (pig—gwr) A pricker, a stinger; a picker.
 Pigwrda, s. m. (pig—gwrda) A sort of play, similar to the one of "This is the house that Jack built."
 Pigwrn, s. m.—pl. pigyrnau (pig—gwrn) A pinnacle, a spire.
 Pigyn, s. m. dim. (pig) A stitch in the side; a pleurisy.
 Pigyn rhedeg, a stitch caused by running; pigyn astrus, morwiber, a weaver.
 Pigyrnaidd, a. (pigwrn) Like a pinnacle, spired.
 Pigyrnawg, a. (pigwrn) Having points or asperities; pinnacled, turreted. Dyn pigyrnawg, a wrangling person.
 Pigyrnawl, a. (pigwrn) Shooting out in a spire.
 Pigyrniad, s. m. (pigwrn) A shooting out in a point or spire.
 Pigyrnn, v. a. (pigwrn) To render sharp; to form a pinnacle; to wrangle; to be crabbed.
 Pil, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pi—il) That goes round; that is round; that hovers about; a sergeant, or apparitor; a surface, that is thrown off; a peel, paring, or rind.
 Pil, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—il) A small inlet of the sea filled by the tide; generally called Camlas in North Wales.
 Nl'rh ddalle pil, na milwr,
 Na thwrn dwys, na thir na dwr.
 May neither sergeant nor warrior thee enlral, nor enclosing turn, nor land, nor water. L. Morgannwg.
 Pila, s. m.—pl. t. on (pil) A finch; also called pinc, pincyn, ysbincyn, and telor. The varieties are, Pila pen aur, gold-headed finch; pila cap sidan, silk cap finch; pila glas, blue finch; pila glas bach, small blue finch, or titmouse.
 Pilai, s. c.—pl. pileion (pil) A moth; a butterfly; also called eilier, cloyn, and cloyn byw.
 Pilai yn ei wisg, gwenynen yn ei mel.
 A butterfly in his coat, a bee in her honey. Adage.
 Pilaid, a. (pil) Transient, frail, weak, poor; mean, wretched; sickly, indisposed. Gwael, cwla, and salw are generally used for it, in North Wales. O chwiwgi pilaid! Oh thou sculking mean dog! Gwaith pilaid iawn, very indifferent work; yd pilaid iawn, very poor corn; wyfy yn bilaid iawn, I am much indisposed.
 Pilan, s. f.—pl. t. od (pil) Sparrow hawk; a spear.
 Pilc, s. m. (pil) That turns or whisks about.
 Pilcod, s. pl. (pilc) The fish called menows.
 Pilcodyn, s. m. dim. (pilcod) A menow.
 Pilcoes, s. f. (pil—coes) The plane-tree.

Pilcota, v. a. (pilcod) To catch menows.
 Pildin, s. m. (pil—tin) A galling by riding.
 Pilen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (pil) A cuticle, a membrane, a thin skin, or rind; a fringe, or border.
 Sych-bilen, a web in the eye.
 Pilenaid, a. (pilen) Membraneous; filmy.
 Pilenawg, a. (pilen) Having a cuticle or thin skin; covered with a film.
 Pileniad, s. m. (pilen) A forming a cuticle; a covering with film.
 Pilenllyd, a. (pilen) Apt to produce a thin skin.
 Pilenu, v. a. (pilen) To form a cuticle of thin skin; to be covered with film.
 Piler, s. m.—pl. t. au (pil) A pillar, a post.
 Pilerawg, a. (piler) Having a pillar; columnar; pillared.
 Pileriad, s. m. (piler) A forming a column or pillar; a building upon pillars.
 Pileru, v. a. (piler) To make a pillar; to build upon pillars; to set up pillars.
 Pileryn, s. m. dim. (piler) A small column.
 Piliad, s. m. (pil) A stripping the surface, a paring, a peeling.
 Piliant, s. m. (pil) A taking off the surface, a rind; a paring, a stripping, a peeling.
 Piliaw, v. a. (pil) To take off the surface, rind or skin; to peel, to pare; to pillage. Piliaw brwyn, to peel rushes.

Piliaw wy cyn ei boll.
 To peel an egg before it is roasted. Idag.
 Y bol a bll y cefn.
 The belly will strip the back. Idag.
 Piliant a rhwygant yr yd;
 Pli l'r ddera a ddeiryd.

They will strip away and will tear about the corn; a sheep light on that devil. T. Prym, 1599.

Piliawd, s. m. (pil) A stripping the surface, a rinding, a peeling.
 Piliawg, a. (pil) Having a coating, rinded.
 Piliedig, a. (piliad) Pared, stripped, peeled.
 Pilig, s. m. dim. (pil) That is of rind, bark, or skin; a vessel made of any rind; a laver.
 Pillion, s. pl. aggr. (pil) Strippings, peelings.
 Pillionen, s. f. dim. (pillion) A thin skin or film; a fine membrane; a thin peeling.
 Piliwr, s. m.—pl. pilwyr (pil—gwr) A stripper, parer, or peeler.
 Pilo, s. m.—pl. t. au (pil) An apparitor's rod.
 Pilus, a. (pil) Apt to fly about; transient; frail; weak; poor, mean, wretched.
 Pilwrn, s. m.—pl. pilyrnau (pil—gwrn) A dart.
 Pilyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (pil) A piece of skin; a clout, a rag; a tegument, a piece of any texture used as a covering or garment; also a horse cushion or pillion. Pilyn gwedd, a neck-kerchief.
 Pilyndawd, s. m. (pilyn) A covering; habilliment; garment, or vesture.

Nid wyt nes er dillad twym-gyrd,
 I guddio'r enwad, i alai anwyd;
 Oni bee i'r gael pilyndawd
 I atal bai, i guddio pechawd.

Thou art not the nearer for warmly-sheltering clothes; but the flesh, to keep off cold; if thou shouldst not clothe to keep off vice, to hide sin. R. Pritchard's Llan...

Pilyniad, s. m. (pilyn) A putting on a garment; a wrapping in any covering.
 Pilynu, v. a. (pilyn) To cover with a garment.
 Pilyls, s. m.—pl. t. au (pil) A covering or robe made of skin; a pelisse.

Rhita Gawr a wna'i bilys o gwyn barfa breinawdd Rhita the Giant made a pelisse of the skins of kings. Gr. a. 1111

Rhodd pilys rhwyllon pell Rhita Gwyr ar hyd das gl.

There was put the covering of the velvet settings of Rhita the Giant over the two dogs. Gwyl y Glyn.

Pilysawg, a. (pils) Wearing a robe or pelisse.
Pilysyn, s. m. dim. (pils) A robe, a pelisse.
Pill, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py—ill) That which turns round; a pivot; a shaft; a base, a stem, or stalk; a stump, or stake; a stock; a heater for ironing; a goal, or spot to retire to in playing; a strong hold, a fortress; a support, or what keeps together, a frame. Gwyr yn mhill yn gwara lawburdd, a man in a secure place playing at chess: Pill bwcl, the tongue of a huckle; pill clo, the hip of a lock; dyn yn byw ar ei bill, a person living upon his means. Sil. Pillion ac ebbilion peithynen, the supporters and staves of the bardic writing frame.

Ni thry i'w bill nes ennill das.

He will not turn to his hold until the game is gained. L. G. Cofhi.

Blawd man yu'r pan ar bob pill.

Five four seems the covering upon every stem. D. ob Gwilym, i'r ciry.

Bwrru liân uwchlaw pen pob pill.

Casting a veil above the top of every stem. L. Goch ab Meirig Hen, i'r ciry.

El bawr, el arfas arfoloch,
Ei bwyll, ei bill, a'i bill coch.

His spear, his weapons of tumult, his tents, his fort, and his red throne. Cynddelw, i O. Cyfeiliawg.

Pillgorn, s. m.—pl. pillgryn (pill—corn) The neck bones, the neck joints. Pillgorn y gwogil, the nape of the neck.

Pillgun, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pill—gun) A plug.

Pillguniad, s. m. (pillgun) A plugging.

Pillguniaw, v. a. (pillgun) To stop with a plug.

Pilliad, s. m. (pill) A fixing a shaft or stem; a pegging; a forming a hold or place of safety.

Pilliaw, v. a. (pill) To shaft, to stem, to peg, to form a hold or place of safety.

Pilliawg, a. (pill) Having a pivot, or shaft; pegged; having a strong hold.

Cadfarchwag pillwag pwyll angylhau gwrd
Gorddwy ei eगर.

A warrior on a steed with a shaft terribly fierce in vanquishing his foes. Fryddd Hychan.

Pilliedig, a. (pilliad) Shafted, stemmed; pegged.
Pillydd, s. pl. aggr. (pill—gwydd) Dried wood, dead trees left standing.

Pillyn, s. m. dim. (pill) A small shaft, stem, or stock; a stake; a peg.

Pin, s. m.—pl. t. au (py—in) A pin; a stile for writing with; a pen.

Pinbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (pin—pren) The pine-tree; also called pinwydd.

Pinc, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pin) A sprig, a spray; also the bird called a finch.

Pinc, a. (pin) Smart, brisk, gay, or fine.

Mor binc a'r penterin.

As brisk as the yellow-hammer. Adage.

Pincedig, a. (pinc) Being made smart.

Pincedd, s. m. (pinc) Smartness, briskness.

Pincen, s. f. dim. (pinc) A sprig, a spray.

Y dryw—ar hyd placenau,
Llywd foddau unlad foddwl.

The wren, along the sprays, brown, contented, of wanton thought. T. Fryt.

Pinciad, s. m. (pinc) A sprigging, a spraying.

Pinciaw, v. a. (pinc) A state of sprigging.

Pinciaw, v. a. (pinc) To sprig, to spray.

Pinciaw, a. (pinc) Tending to sprig.

Pincwydd, s. m. (pinc) Smartness, briskness.

Pincyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (pinc) What is smart or gay; a sprig, a spray; also the finch; also called pila, pinc, yabincyn, and teler.

Piner, s. m. (pin) That is fastened with a pin.

Piniad, s. m. (pin) A fastening with a pin.

Piniaw, v. a. (pin) To pin, to stick with a pin.

Piniawl, a. (pin) Being fastened with a pin.

Piniedig, a. (piniad) Fastened with a pin.

Piniwn, s. m.—pl. piniwnau (pin) A gable, or end wall of a building.

Pinwg, s. m. (pin) That is tapered or pointed.

Pinwydd, s. pl. aggr. (pin—gwydd) Pine-wood.

Pinwydden, s. f. dim. (pinwydd) A pine-tree.

Pinygl, s. m.—pl. pinyglau (pinwg) That runs into a point; a pinnacle.

Pinygliad, s. m. (pinygl) A forming a pinnacle.

Pinyglu, v. a. (pinygl) To form a pinnacle.

Pioden, s. f. dim. (piawd) A piannet, a magpie.

Piog, s. f.—pl. t. od (pi) A pie, a magpie.

Piogen, s. f. dim. (piog) A pie. Piogen y coed, caseg y dryc-hin, a jay; piogen y mor, the sea pie.

Pipgnau, s. pl. aggr. (pib—cnau) Chestnuts.

Pipian, v. a. (pib) To be piping, to pule.

Pipianaidd, a. (pipian) Apt to be puling.

Pipianawl, a. (pipian) Tending to pule.

Pipianllyd, a. (pipian) Apt to be pulling.

Pipianu, v. a. (pipian) To be piping, to pule.

Pipianydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pipian) A puler.

Pipre, s. f. (pib—rhe) A diarrhoea, or a lax.

Pis, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py—is) A spout, that is spouted; a piss; urine, piss.

Pisaw, v. a. (pis) To piss, to make water.

Ni pibis boneddig ei hun.

A gentleman will not piss by himself. Adage.

Pisawd, s. m. (pis) The act of voiding urine.

Piser, s. m.—pl. t. i (pis) A jug, a pitcher.

Pisg, s. pl. aggr. (py—isg) Small blisters; pods.

Pisgen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (pisg) That consists of little blisters or pods; also a pimple, a wheal: the linden.

Pisgennu, v. a. (pisgen) To rise in little blisters; to break out in wheals; to pod.

Pisgwrn, s. m.—pl. pisgwrnod (pisg—gwrn) A pimple, or wheal.

Pisgwydd, s. pl. aggr. (pisg—gwydd) Lime trees, linden trees; also called Palawysf.

Pisgwydden, s. f. dim. (pisgwydd) A linden-tree.

Pisgrynawg, a. (pisgwrn) Having pimples.

Pisgrynriad, s. m. (pisgwrn) A breaking out in pimples.

Pisgrynru, v. a. (pisgwrn) To break out in pimples.

Pisgrynyn, s. m. dim. (pisgwrn) A small pimple.

Pision, s. pl. aggr. (pis) Urines, stales.

Pislath, s. f.—pl. t. au (pis—llath) A bar laid to keep in the litter of a cowhouse. See llawoddbren

Pislyd, a. (pis) Apt to void urine; diabetical.

Pislydrwydd, s. m. (pislyd) Aptness to void urine.

Pisodyn, s. m. dim. (pisawd) The quantity of urine voided at one time.

Hanbydd schwaneg y mor o bloddyn y dryw.

The sea will be augmented by the pissing of the wren. Adage.

Hawdd crdal frawd pisodyn.

It is easy to dam the current of a pissing. Adage.

Pistyll, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pis—tyll) A spout.

Pistyll yr ysgafaint, the spout of the lungs, or lower part of the trachea; pistyll y breuant, the top of the windpipe.

Pistylliad, s. m. (pistyll) A spouting out.

Pistylliaw, v. a. (pistyll) To spout out.

Pistylliawg, a. (pistyll) Having a spout.

Plaw, s. m. (pis) What is staled as urine; also the same as biswal, the draining from where cattle are kept.

Piswydd, s. pl. aggr. (pis—gwydd) Spindle trees.

Piswydden, s. f. dim. (piswydd) A spindle-tree.

Pitan, s. c. dim. (pid) A teat, a nipple.

Pitw, a. (pid) Very little, minute, or petty.

Pith, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py—ith) That is like grains, that is granulated.

Pithell, s. f.—pl. t. od (pith) A shardfish.

Piw, s. m.—pl. t. od (pi) A dug, or udder.

Pla, s. m.—pl. t. au (py—lla) That expands, opens, or breaks out; a plague.

Darth l lwyth Hwfa pla plyg.

There befel to the tribe of Hwfa a double affliction.

Bledwyn Fardd.

Pläaidd, a. (pla) Like a plague, plaguy.

Pläawg, a. (pla) Having a plague, or pestilence.

Pläawl, a. (pla) Belonging to the plague.

Plad, s. m. (py—llad) What is driven out, what is beaten out, or flattened; any flat piece; plate

Tra bo dur na plad, tra bo dewr na llwch.

Whilst there be steel or plate, whilst there be the bold or active.

W. Llynn.

Pladr, s. m. (plad) That spreads out flatly.

Pladren, s. f. dim. (pladr) That is spread out.

Pladres, s. f.—pl. t. i (pladr) A shewy woman.

Pladru, v. a. (pladr) To spread out, to flaunt.

Pladur, s. f.—pl. t. ian (plad) A scythe.

Pladuraw, v. a. (pladur) To use a scythe.

Pladurawd, s. m. (pladur) A stroke of a scythe.

Pladuriad, s. m. (pladur) A making use of a scythe.

Pladuriaeth, s. m. (pladur) The use of the scythe.

Pladurwr, s. m.—pl. pladurwyr (pladur—gwr)

One who uses a scythe, a mower.

Plaew, v. a. (pla) To plague, or to torment.

Oni byddid i mi dy nerth, a chymeryd trugaredd arnâd, dithau a fyddid yn cael dy blaew gyda hwynt.

If I were not to strengthen thee, and have mercy upon thee, then thou wouldest be getting thyself to be tormented with them.

Marchaeg Crwydrad.

Plaid, s. f.—pl. pleidian (pla—id) That parts or divides off; a side; a partition; a wall; a part; a party; a cause. Plaid wellt, a straw partition. O blaid, on the part of, because of.

Rhaid wrth anghwyll pwyll parawd.

With indiscretion there is cause for ready wit.

Adage.

Deffraw, fan! differ f'ensald.

Dew! dyu blin sy dan dy blaid.

Awake, fair maid! God save my soul; an afflicted person is under thy veil.

D. ab Edmund.

Plan, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pla—an) That is parted off; or that proceeds from; a ray, a scion or shoot; a plantation, or planting; also a plane.

Planad, s. f. (plan) A shooting off; that shoots or radiates; that is generated; a flowing element; a meteor.

Piliwr adall, ple'r ydwyi;

Planad wyllt, i a le nid wyi!

Stripper of a building, where art thou; wild meteor, where art thou not!

Merchediad ab Rhys.

Tad planad waelad; tad niwl dystaw gwyn;

Tad i'r gwyn, gwaith ei law;

Tad gwenith, tad eglwaw;

Tad yw i'r gwaith, tad i'r gwlaw.

The father of the regular fluid element; father of the silent pale mist; father of the wind, the work of his hand; father of the fair corn; father of germination; father is he of the dew; father to the rain.

L. G. Cosh.

Planc, s. m.—pl. t. ian (plan) That is driven out; that is flat; a plank, or board. Bara plane, a sort of hard thin bread, used in Carmarthenshire.

Heb na chainog, na chlogon,
(Blin yw'r ciwyf) yn blaenc gles.

Sometimes without a penny, or a cloke (variations in the rhyme) like a bare board.

Giles ab Iwan.

Planaid, a. (plan) Tending to shoot off.

Planawd, s. m. (plan) A producing by shoots; the act of planting.

Planawg, a. (plan) Producing shoots; planted.

Planawl, a. (plan) Tending to shoot; belonging to planting.

Planed, s. f.—pl. t. au (plan) That shoots or radiates; a shooting body; a planet.

Planedawl, a. (planed) Planetical, planetary.

Planedig, a. (plan) Being produced by shoot; planted, or set.

Planedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (planed) Planetarium

Planfa, s. f.—pl. planfeydd (plan—ma) A plantation, or nursery of trees.

Planiad, s. m. (plan) A planting, a setting shoot.

Planig, a. (plan) Being apt to produce shoot.

Planigfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (planig) A plantation.

Planigyn, s. m. dim. (planig) A shoot; a plant.

Plant, s. pl. aggr. (plan) Emanations; issue, offspring, children.

Plant gwirionedd ynt lora ddiaffonion.

Old proverbs are the children of truth.

Adage.

Tri nodau plant Daw i ymddywys ddiach, cydwybod lla, a'r oedol cwmwedd yn amynadgar.

The three characteristics of the children of God; comfort of pride, a pure conscience, and the bearing of injury patiently.

Barddon.

Planta, v. a. (plant) To get or to bear children.

Plantach, s. pl. dim. (plant) Little children.

Plantaidd, a. (plant) Like children; childish.

Rhaid i'r dawllion fod mor blantaidd na eidd am cyfrynas.

It is necessary for pious ones to be so like children as to be possible to make them crafty.

Morgan Llyd.

Plantawg, a. (plant) Having children.

Plantawl, a. (plant) Belonging to children.

Planteiddiad, s. m. (plantaidd) A becoming like children.

Planteiddlaw, v. n. (plantaidd) To become like children; to grow childish.

Plantos, s. pl. dim. (plant) Little children.

Planu, v. a. (plan) To shoot off; to produce a shoot or offspring; to plant; to set shoots.

Planwr, s. m.—pl. planwyr (planu—gwr) One who produces shoots; a planter.

Plas, s. m.—pl. t. au (pla—as) An extended plot or area; an edifice; a large house, a hall.

Llyw delfinawg llidawg, llediedd fydd ei bla:

Llyw'r-waeth yw ei gwa na'i guremnydd.

The bounteous and wasteful leader, disappointed with prodigal his hall; much worse is his taste than his conduct.

Llyw'r Ger.

Plasaidd, a. (plas) Like a hall; like a palace.

Plasawl, a. (plas) Belonging to a hall.

Plast, s. m. (plas) That is spread out.

Plastr, s. m.—pl. plastrion (plast) That is spread over; a plaster, a daub.

Plastrawg, a. (plastr) Covered with plaster.

Plastriad, s. m. (plastr) A plastering.

Plastriaw, v. a. (plastr) To plaster, to daub.

Plastriwr, s. m. (plastr—gwr) A plasterer.

Plasu, v. a. (plas) To form an extended area; to build a large edifice; to build a large house.

Plân, v. a. (pla) To expand, to break out; to infect with a plague, to plague.

Pled, s. m. (py—lled) A principle of extension.

Pledr, s. m. (pled) That stretches out.

- Pledraidd, a. (pledr) Tending to stretch.
Pledren, a. f. dim. (pledr) A bladder, a bowl.
Lionaid pledren o flawd, a bowlful of meal. Dyf.
Pledrig, s. f. dim. (pledr) A little bladder.
Pledru, v. a. (pledr) To stretch or extend out.
Pledryn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (pledr) A slang, or slip: waste ground by the way side.
Pleiden, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (plaid) What serves for a partition; a hurdle, a wattling.
Pleidgar, a. (plaid) Apt to side; factious, partial Pytyr wasar, pleidgar blyag.

A vigorous leader, factious and relentless.
Iolo Goch. i O. Glyndyfrdwy.

- Pleidgarwch, s. m. (pleidgar) Factiousness.
Pleidriad, s. m. (plaid) A taking a part.
Pleidiant, s. m. (plaid) The act of taking a side.
Pleidiaw, v. a. (plaid) To take a part, to side.
Pleidiawg, a. (plaid) Of a side or party; factious.
Pleidiawl, a. (plaid) Belonging to a party.
Pleidiolrwydd, s. m. (pleidiawl) The state of belonging to a party.
Pleidiwr, s. m. (plaid—gwr) A partisan.
Pleidwriaeth, s. m. (pleidiwr) The state of being a party-man, or a partisan.
Pleidwyn, s. m. (plaid—gwyn) Party rage.
Pleidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (plaid) A partisan.

Yn y Swyddyn ses y dyddyn blyddydion leuaf ab Idrwal Goffrid ab Harallt y drydy-waith i Fon.

In the year 888 the partisans of Ienau son of Idrwal brought Goffrid son of Harallt the third time into Mon.

Cered. Llangerfen.

- Pleiniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (plan) Radiation.
Pleiniaw, v. a. (plan) To radiate, to cast rays.
Pleiniawg, a. (plan) Having rays.
Pleiniawl, a. (plan) Radiating, casting rays.
Plenig, a. (plan) Radiant, splendid, glorious.

Cirides Argwydd! bywif caredig fry,

Yn y ffrid ddeuwig—

Gracious Lord! may I be beloved on high, in the blissful region, on the covenant of the glorious children of Eve.
Gr. ab M. ab Dafydd.

- Plent, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (plan) That is rayed.
Plenty, s. m. dim.—pl. t. od (plant) A child.
Plentyaidd, a. (plenty) Childish, babyish.
Plentyawl, a. (plenty) Belonging to a child.
Plentyeiddiad, s. m. (plentyaidd) A becoming childish, a becoming like a baby.
Plentyeiddiaw, v. a. (plentyaidd) To become childish; to become as a baby.
Plentyeiddrwydd, s. m. (plentyaidd) Childishness.
Plenydd, s. m. (plan) Radiance; display; light.

Tri chynalligion beirdd Ynys Prydaid;

Plenydd, Alawn, a Gwron.

The three primordialists of the birds of the Isle of Britain; Light, Harmony, and Energy.
Barddas.

- Pleth, s. f.—pl. t. i (py—lleth) A plait, a braid.
Plethadwy, a. (pleth) Capable of being plaited.
Plethawl, a. (pleth) Plaiting, or wreathing.
Plethbin, s. m.—pl. t. au (pleth—pin) A bobbin, a small pin used in weaving.
Plethedig, a. (pleth) Plaited, wreathed, braided.
Plethiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pleth) A plaiting, a braiding, a wreathing; a doubling; a twirling; also a shake in music.
Plethlinyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (pleth—llinyn) A plaited cord, or bobbin.
Plethu, v. a. (pleth) To plait, to braid, to wreath.
Plethwr, s. m.—pl. plethwyr (pleth—gwr) A plaiter, a braider, a wreather.
Pliciad, s. m.—pl. t. au (plig) A peeling.
Pliciaw, v. a. (plig) To pluck, to peel.

- Plig, s. m. (py—llig) A pluck off, a peel.
Pling, s. m. (py—lling) A flay, a strip off.
Plingaw, v. a. (pling) To flay, to skin.
Plingiad, s. m. (pling) A flaying, a skinning.
Plingwr, s. m. (pling—gwr) A flayer.
Plisg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (lly—lag) Shells, husks.
Plisgaw, v. a. (plisg) To shell, or to husk.
Plisgawl, a. (plisg) Belonging to a shell.
Plisgiad, s. m. (plisg) A shelling, a husking.
Plisgwrn, s. m. (plisg—gwrn) The lime-tree; also called gwaglawfen, plisgyrnen, and piagen.
Plisgyn, s. m. dim. (plisg) A shell, or a husk.

A'rh whig a fu o'r plisgry,
O'rh febyd helyd hyd hyn.

And thy covering was of the shell, from thy youth, also, to this time.
D. Ph. Rhys Len.

- Plith, s. m. (py—llith) The state of being blended or amongst. Plith-dra-plith, plith-dra-chymyg, all in confusion, heister-skelter.

Daw a lloedd ei deul,
Fau canerion, loewou lu,
I gann cerdd gogoniant,
Ac yn eu plith gennau plant.

God has called his family, chief of songsters, a splendid host, to sing a hymn of glory, and in their company were infants' lips,
Gro. Owain.

- Plithaw, v. a. (plith) To blend, to be mixed.
Plithedd, s. m. (plith) Mixedness, blendedness.
Plithiad, s. m. (plith) A blending, a mixing.
Ploc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—lloc) A block.
Plociaw, v. a. (ploc) To block; to plug.
Plocyn, s. m. dim. (ploc) A small block.
Plu, s. pl. aggr. (py—llu) Feathers. Plu y gwennwydd, cotton-grass; gwely plu, a feather bed.

Mae llawr gwydd heblaw yr un sy'n gwngaw plu.

There be many a goose besides the one which wears feathers.
Adage.

- Pluad, s. m. (plu) A feathering, a fledging; a pluming; a plumation.
Pluaid, a. (plu) Feathery, plumous, featherlike.
Pluaw, v. a. (plu) To feather, to fledge; to plume, to deplume; to strip of feathers. Pluaw eiru, to snow in large flakes.
Pluawg, a. (plu) Covered with feathers, fledged.
Pluawl, a. (plu) Plumous; feathering.
Pluawr, s. m. aggr. (plu) A plumage, feathers.
Plucan, s. c. dim. (plu) Down; kidney-vetch.
Pludd, s. m. (py—ludd) That is flexible or soft.
Pluddaw, v. a. (pludd) To render flexible.
Pluen, s. f. dim. (plu) A feather, a plume.
Plueniad, s. m. (pluen) A pluming, a feathering.
Plueni, v. a. (plu) To plume, to feather.
Pluf, s. pl. aggr. (plu) Plumage, or feathers.

Yr alarch—

Pafas gwydd, yn y pluf gwyn.

The swan, with shanks of a goose, in the white plumage.
D. ab Iwan Dafydd.

Dyged pob eden ei blaf oddigeithl, ac efallai hi a uffoddwr.

Let every bird take its own feathers away from her, and so she shall be humbled.
Demeg.

- Plufaid, a. (pluf) Feathery, or plumous.
Plufawg, a. (pluf) Feathered, or plumed.
Plufawl, a. (pluf) Plumous; pluming.
Plufen, s. f. dim. (pluf) A plume, or a feather.
Plufiad, s. m. (pluf) A pluming; plumosity.
Plufiaw, v. a. (pluf) To deplume, to feather.
Plüwr, s. m. (plu—gwr) A feather dresser.
Plw, s. m. (py—llw) That spreads or expands out.
Plwch, s. m. (plw) A space; a while; a quantity.
Plucc mawr, a great deal; rhaid i ti cwrw plucc, thou must stay a while; mi ei gwneffo plucc, I will do it instantly.
Plwca, s. m. (plwc) A spread; a splash; mire.

Plwm, s. m. (plw) Lead. Mwn plwm, lead ore.

*Yr dda—
Plwm oer ei giog; p'le mae'r gwial!
The snow, like lead of chilling cloke; where is the rain.
D. ab Gwilym.*

Plwng, s. m. (py—llwng) A plunge, or a dip.

Plwy, s. m. (plw) A community, a parish.

Plwydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (plwy) A community.

Plwyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (plwy) A whole mass or complete body of people; a cure, a parish.

*Rhydderchafwy Daw ar blwyf Brython Arwydd llewysydd llydd o Fon!
May God exalt over the community of Britons the sign of gladness of a host from Mons!
Taliesin.*

Plwyfald, a. (plwyf) Being like a parish.

Plwyfawg, a. (plwyf) Having a parish.

Pwyfawl, a. (plwyf) Belonging to a parish.

Plwyfogaeth, s. m. (plwyfawg) The jurisdiction of a parish; the jurisdiction of the church.

*Yr eglwys y gorddweddys arno gyfraith yn ei plwyfogaeth.
The church where the law overtook him within its parochial jurisdiction. Welsh Laws.*

Plwyfogi, v. a. (plwyfawg) To settle in a parish; to become settled in a parish.

Plwyfoli, v. a. (plwyfawl) To render parochial; to become settled in a parish.

Plwyfoliaeth, s. m. (plwyfawl) The act of rendering parochial; the state of being parochial.

Plwyn, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—llwyn) That is full or perfect. Plwyniau, the hairs on the breast and other parts of a full-grown person.

Plwynaw, v. a. (plwyn) To have signs of puberty.

Plwyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (plwyn) A having signs of puberty.

Ply, s. m. (py—lly) That is flexible or tender.

Plydd, a. (ply) Soft, delicate, tender, limber, flexible, pliant.

*Mynai adar man—
I gael plad gwelyau plydd.
He would procure small birds to enjoy the spread of soft beds.
H. ab D. ab I. ab Rhye, i welch.*

Plyddaad, s. m. (plyddau) A rendering soft or tender, a becoming soft, delicate, or pliant.

Plyddawl, a. (plyddau) Tending to soften, apt to become delicate or pliant.

Plyddau, v. a. (plydd) To render soft, to render pliant; to become soft or pliant.

Plyddaw, v. a. (plydd) To soften, to make tender or delicate, to become soft or tender.

*Clwyd tewydd nis plydd, nis plyg,
Clod gyhoedd casroedd ceryg.
A shivered pallade that will not yield, that will not bend, the public boast of stone forts.
Ll. P. Moeh.*

Plyddawl, a. (plydd) Of a soft or tender quality.

Plyddedd, s. m. (plydd) Softness, tenderness.

Plyddiad, s. m. (plydd) A softening, a making tender or flexible, a becoming soft.

Plyddu, v. v. (plydd) To soften; to become soft, tender, or delicate; to grow limber.

Plyg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ply) A flexion, a double, a plait, a fold, a bend.

Plygain, s. m.—pl. plygeiniaw (ply—cain) The return of light, the early morning, the dawn.

*Yn newaint, yn mhlygeiniaw
Llewychawd yn lleuferau.
In the nightfall in the early dawn let our lamps brightly shine.
Taliesin.*

Plygaint, s. m. (plygain) The dawn, or day-spring

Plygawl, a. (plyg) Doubling, or folding.

Plygddor, s. m. (plyg—dor) A folding door.

Plygedd, s. m. (plyg) A doubled or folded state.

Plygeiniaw, a. (plygain) Dawning, matin.

*Y bore yn plygeiniaw leu—ei alia.
In the morning very early—he went out. Marth.*

Plygfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (plyg) A double, a fold.

Plygiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (plyg) A doubling, a folding, a bending back.

Plygiadawl, a. (plygiad) Tending to double.

Plygiant, s. m. (ply) A duplication, a folding.

Plygiedig, a. (plygiad) Doubled, or folded.

Plygiedydd, s. m. (plygiad) Tweezers, pliers.

Plygu, v. a. (plyg) To double, to plait, to fold.

Gwell y wleisn a byrco nog a doru.

*Better the rod that will bend than the one that will break.
Idor.*

*Nis plyg ei foddwl, mai Cyckwilya;
Ni ddifancia'n rhod de'n rhodl 'ya.*

*His mind will not give way, like Cyckwilya; he will not turn from his purpose in distributing bounty according to our wish.
L. G. Caw.*

Plygwr, s. m. (plyg—gwr) A folder, a doubler.

Plygyd, s. m. (plyg) A party or side. Obligat on account of; yn mhlygyd, in relation to.

Plym, s. m. (py—llym) That is agonizing.

Plymawl, a. (plym) Agonizing, writhing.

Plymen, v. a. f. dim.—pl. t. au (plym) That is of lead; a leaden vessel; a plummet. Plymenid, a flake of ice.

Plymiad, s. m. (plym) A leadening.

Plymiadd, a. (plym) Like lead; leaden.

Plymiaw, v. a. (plym) To leaden; to lead, or to sound with a lead-line.

Plymiawl, a. (plym) Of the quality of lead.

Plymiwr, s. m. (plym—gwr) A plumber.

Plymliw, s. m. (plym—lliw) Lead-colour.

Plymlyd, a. (plym) Of the nature of lead.

Plymnwyd, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (plym—wyd) A struggle, a conflict.

Er lles gwledig Non gwaint yn mhlymwyd.

*To the benefit of the ruler of Non active in the conflict.
Gwlad.*

Plymu, v. a. (plym) To lead, to cover with lead.

P'ris gwnethur pollo—ac en plymu, a gwent; i'w hysdan y dwf.

*He caused stakes to be made, and leaden them, and to fit in under the water.
Er. ab Iwan.*

Plymwriaeth, s. m. (plymiwr) Plumbery.

Pŵ, s. m. r. That comprehends; that is com-prehended, contained, or restrained.

Po, adv. (po, s.) If; by how much, by so much.

Po amaf y bloeddian gwacthaf i'r deffid.

*By so much the more frequent the wolves the were the war.
L. G.*

Pob, pron. (po) Each, every. Pob yn yr. 113
by man; pob yn un, one by one; pob yn rann.

Pob, a. (po) Each, every. Pob dyn, every person; pob un, every one; pob peth, every thing.

Pob peth yn ei amser.

Every thing in its time. L. G.

Ahafer pob tawedawg.

Inarticulate is every silent one. L. G.

Cyfoethawg pob diddylled.

Rich is every one not in debt. L. G.

Pob, s. m. (py—ob) A bake, baking. a. Baked roasted, toasted.

Poban, s. f.—pl. t. au (pob) An oven.

Pobedig, a. (pob) Baked; roasted, toasted.

Pobi, v. a. (pob) To bake; to roast, to toast.

Poethflam, s. f. (poeth—flam) A hot flame; the hearts-ease; also called blaen y gwawr.

Poethgur, s. m. (poeth—gur) An inflamed throb.

Poethl, v. a. (poeth) To make hot, to heat, to become hot, to be heated.

Poethiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (poeth) A heating.

Poethiannawl, a. (poethiant) Tending to torrefy, of a parching nature.

Poethiannu, v. a. (poethiant) To torrefy.

Poethiant, s. m. (poeth) Torrefaction.

Poethiator, ger. (poethiad) In heating.

Poethineb, s. m. (poeth) A torrid state.

Poethior, sup. (poeth) To be heating.

Poethni, s. m. (poeth) Hotness, or heat.

Poethotor, part. (poeth) Having been heating.

Poethus, a. (poeth) Of a hot quality.

Poethwal, s. m. (poeth—gwal) A place where furze, heath, or the like, has been burnt standing.

Poethwag, s. m. (poeth) Torridity, aridity.

Poethwraidd, s. m. (poeth—gwraidd) Masterwort.

Poethwy, s. m. (poeth—wy) The razorbill.

Poethwyn, s. m. (poeth—gwyn) An inflammatory heat; heat of passion.

Poethygus, v. (poethwg) Of a torrid nature.

Pol, s. m. (py—ol) That is without a trace.

Pol, a. (f. of pwl) Blunt, round, obtuse.

Poliad, s. m. (pawl) A fixing a pole.

Poliaw, v. a. (pawl) To set up a pole or stake; to beat with a stake, to cudgel.

*Bid let mawd; bodion oeddwa,
Bell heel, it belaw hwa.*

Be the protection done away; I were content, generous Bell, that thou shouldst cudgel this one. Rhis. Torwerth.

Poiledig, a. (pollad) That is staked.

Polion, s. pl. aggr. (pawl) Stakes, poles.

Polioni, v. a. (polion) To set stakes or poles.

Pon, s. m. (py—on) That is puffed or blistered.

Pona, adv. (po—na) If not, if it should not. It precedes words with consonant initials.

Ponad, adv. (po—na) If not, should it not.

Ponag, adv. (po—nag) Unless, except.

Ponar, s. f. (pon) A puff; a pod. Teisen bonar, a puff cake: a bean.

Ponc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (py—onc) A hillock.

Poncen, s. f. dim. (ponc) A small hillock.

Ponciad, s. m. (ponc) A swelling up.

Ponclaw, v. a. (ponc) To swell up, to puff up.

Mal y poncia dy fron! how thy breast heaves!

Ponclawl, a. (ponc) Tending to swell up.

Poncyn, s. m. dim. (ponc) A little hillock.

Pond, adv. (py—ond) Is it not; what else.

Poni, adv. (py—oni) Why is it not; why not.

*Poni welwch hynt y cwynt a'r gwlaw!
Poni welwch chw! r deri ya ymdaw!*

Why behold you not the course of the wind and the rain; why behold you not the oaks beating one against the other!

Or. ab yr Ynad Coch.

Poniaw, v. a. (pon) To puff out, to swell out, to fatten, to feed.

Ponid, adv. (py—onid) What not, is it not, is it not so. Dyn wydd ti: Ponid dyn wydd ti haw?

Thou art a man: Art not thou a man too?

*Ponid erio dy gyfrow
A lefair dy enau!*

*Do not thy passions counteract what is uttered by thy lips!
Talcen, Armes Dyddbraud.*

Pont, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (pon) That rises up; that rises or supports; that elevates; a bridge. Pont ysgwydd, a collar-bone; pont y trwyn, the bone of the nose; pynt perth, the archings of a bush; pont farn, a stone bridge; pont goed, a wooden bridge.

A fo pen bid pond.

That would be the top but him be a bridge. Adey.

*Milodd a waant
Mawlogoniant
Ar fryn a phant
A phant ydydd.*

*Thousands will give praise of triumph, on hill and da. . .
the elevations of the spirit. Piggant: 12.*

Cymrodawg wydd cymrawd ei ffr;

Cymrodred fyned gan fo post Dewi.

*Of conciliating disposition, seating in his honour: let it tranquilized to go when Dewi shall be supporting it.
Meirion ab Gwynedd.*

Pontawg, a. (pont) Having an arch or bridge.

Pontbren, s. m.—pl. t. i. (pont—pren) A rustic bridge of a single piece of timber.

Pontiad, s. m. (pont) A bearing over; a vaulting, a rising like a vault; a forming a bridge.

Pontlaw, v. a. (pont) To bear over; to raise up as a vault; to raise up like a vault or bridge.

Pontydd, s. m. (pont) A bridge-builder.

Pontyddiaeth, s. m. (pontydd) Bridge-building.

Por, s. m.—pl. pyr (py—or) That comprehends, that is exterior, or over; that is supreme, sovereign, a lord.

Pur yr ei giedd, por y Glyn, Pwyll rwygwr pell ogyrn.

Pure is his sword, the lord of the Dale, a hero of forwardness far conquering. Iolo Goch, i O. Glan.

Porch, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (py—orch) A pig.

Porchell, s. m.—pl. t. od (porch) A little pig.

*Oians, porchellan, y porchell gwyn:
Rhyndydwad chwiliannu chwedl o'r dyddyn.*

Listen, dear little pig, the white little pig: a wandering swine has imparted to me an oracle, which will testify me. Rhys.

Porchellan, s. c. dim. (porchell) A tiny little pig.

*Oians porchellan, hym o'nedd,
Cywely a ffryn, pen alyd i o'r oedd;
Bychan a wyr rhydderch fawl, heno i ar ei wlad
A borthale i nethwyr o anhedd!*

Listen, dear little pig, of sharp claws, thou wanderer on a bedfellow, when thou shouldst go to the down: Little doe thou dread the generous know to-night what I suffered last night affliction! My son.

Porchella, s. f.—pl. t. od (porchell) A young swine.

Porchelliad, s. m. (porchell) A pigging.

Porchellig, s. f. dim. (porchell) A young swine.

Porchellu, v. a. (porchell) To bring forth pigs.

Porchellwr, s. m.—pl. porchellwyr (porchella—gwr) One who collects pigs, a hunter of pigs.

Ni bu dy well porchellwr, Lwyd-da gwych ya latal gw.

Than thee no better pig hunter has been, in gay hue thou love messenger for a man. S. ab Rhys ab Iwan, i'r Buge.

Porchellyn, s. m. dim. (porchell) A little pig.

Porfa, s. f.—pl. porfeydd (pawr) Pasture.

Porfaad, s. m. (porfa) A pasturing, a grazing.

Porfaawg, s. a. (porfa) Having pasture or grass.

Porfaawi, a. (porfa) Belonging to pasture.

Porfadir, s. m. (porfa—tir) Pasture ground.

Porfan, v. a. (porfa) To become pasture.

Porfel, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pawr—mel) Pasture.

Porfela, v. a. (porfel) To attend to grazing; to manage a dairy farm, to practise dairy farming.

Porfelaeth, s. m. (porfel) The practice of grazing or dairy farming; what relates to grazing a cattle; agistment.

Porfelawg, a. (porfel) Abounding with pasture. Tir porfelawg iawn, land very abundant in grass. Silurian.

Porfeldir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (porfel—tir) Grassland. Gwent.

Porfeliad, s. m. (porfel) A forming a pasture.

Porfela, v. a. (porfel) To depasture, to graze.

Porfelwr, s. m.—pl. porfelwyr (porfela—gwr)
One who attends to grazing, a grazier.

Call porfelwr ei ffeith.
A grazier's pasture is his corn-yard. Adage.

Porfelydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (porfel) A pasturer.
Por, v. a. (pawr) to graze, to browse, to feed upon grass; to pasture.

Llwm tir ni phoro dafed.
Bare is the land which a sheep will not browse. Adage.

Yr oes yn dygyn i ddafed bod.
The lamb teaching the sheep to graze. Adage.

Tryw lych bori meillion.
It is natural for an ox to browse trefolio. Adage.

Poriad, s. m. (pawr) A pasturing, a grazing.
Poriadaeth, s. m. (poriad) Agistment.
Poriadawl, a. (poriad) Belonging to pasturage; belonging to agistment.
Poriadu, v. a. (poriad) To depasture, to agist.
Poriannawl, a. (poriant) Belonging to pasturage.
Porianau, v. a. (poriant) To depasture.
Poriant, s. m. (pawr) A pasturage, grazing.
Poriaw, v. a. (pawr) To cause pasture or grass; to become pasture.

Pond oeddyd yn wych dy wedd,
For gwyliu'n poriau gwasodd.

Written not of gay appearance, thou lord of glorious haes, carrying with pasture the greenward. D. ab Owlym i'r haf.

Poriawg, a. (pawr) Having pasture or grass.
Poriawl, a. (pawr) Relating to pasturage.
Porth, s. m.—pl. pyrth (por) Aid, help, support, succour, sustenance, provision; that bears, carries on, or conveys; a carrying place, a passage, a port; a porch, or a gateway; a ferrying-place.
Oed wrth borth, delay for support, of evidence, in law; Duw yn borth iti! God be thy help!
porthglas, porth-og, a portcullis.

Afon a orw Llyr gwned at y brenia, ac at ei farch—gwedi rhedol o'i ddau ddolion o. Yr Fryda'n yn ddienyddeddus; ac yn ddaul i gaelw'r porth gawddyn.

What Llyr did was the sending a messenger to the king, and to his daughter, after being cheerfully driven out by his two sons—blessed from the Isle of Britain: and he being coming to obtain assistance from them. Gr. ab Arthur.

Dual Gwilym i'r newydd; ac y dywawd Arthur wrtho: Hweddin porth gawddyn!

There came Gwilym into the hall; thereupon Arthur said to him: "Hast thou any good news?" H. Cuthwch—Mabinigion.

Tryw byrth angen y cawn olwg ar fydd ydd well.

Through the gates of death we shall have a view of a better world. Adage.

Portha, v. a. (porth) To afford aid or help.
Porthai, s. c. (porth) That helps, aids, or supports; that bears, or carries.
Porthawd, s. m. (porth) The act of helping, or assisting; maintenance; conveyance.
Porthawg, a. (porth) Having aid or support.
Porthawl, a. (porth) Helping, aiding, succouring, tending to sustain, tending to bear.
Porthawr, s. m.—pl. porthorion (porth) A porter.

Y porthawr a ddylly, o bob anrwydd ddelo trwy y porth, eiddyraid; nid angen gweron, ac wynt, a phenwalg.

The porter has a claim out of every present that may come through the gate, of bearing his handful; that is to say of fruits, and eggs, and herrings. Welsh Laws.

Porthedig, a. (porth) Supported, carried on.
Porthfa, s. f.—pl. porthfeydd (porth) A carrying place, a passage place, a ferrying-place, a port.

Bodde a agst a phob da
O'r borth-for i'r borthfa.

Both went with every commodity from the bay into the port.
L. G. Cuth.

Porthi, v. a. (porth) To aid, to help, to support, to succour, to sustain, to provide with food, to bear, to convey, to carry on, or to bring forward.

Porthi hen chwedl, to make use of an old saying.

Niddyllych angen ei borthi.
Necessity will not thank for to be supported. Adage.
A borthi oed bid bwyllocaf.

That bears affliction let him be the most circumspect. Adage.

Ar ni phorthio ei gath porthed ei lygod.
Such as will not support his cat let him support his mice. Adage.

Pen a borthaf ar fy ysgwydd,
Ni'm arfollai warfodwydd:
Gwas fy llaw, llaed fy arglwydd!

A hand I bear upon my shoulder, that would not let me receive disgrace: Woe my hand, that my lord is slain!
Llywarch Hen, m. Urien.

Porthiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (porth) A helping on, a succouring, supportation, a bearing, a conveying, a bringing forward. Prydyddion borthiad, that is the support of poets.

Porthiadawl, a. (porthiad) Tending to succour.
Porthiadu, v. a. (porthiad) To render succouring, to become a support.

Porthiannau, v. a. (porthiant) To provide support or sustenance, to supply with necessaries, to deal in provisions of any sort, to deal in cattle, or to act as a drover.

Porthiannawl, a. (porthiant) Apt to succour.
Porthianniad, s. m. (porthiant) A rendering a succour, supportation.

Porthiannu, v. a. (porthiant) To render a succour, to become a support.

Porthiannus, a. (porthiant) Being provided with sustenance; pampered.

Porthiannusaw, v. a. (porthiannus) To render succouring, to become supportative.

Porthiannwr, s. m.—pl. porthiannwyr (porthiant —gwr) A supporter, or a succourer.

Porthiannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (porthiant) One who supports, a succourer.

Porthiant, s. m. (porth) Support, maintenance.
Porthiator, ger. (porthiad) In supporting.

Porthid, s. m. (porth) Assistance, sustenance.

Porthidon, s. m. (porthid) That aids, assists, or succours, a helper, one who sustains.

Porthidon mwyaf,
Cyraf di lmi fy ngau!

Thou supreme supporter, blot out for me mine iniquity!
Ysgolan.

Porthitor, sup. (porthid) To be supporting.
Porthladd, s. f.—pl. t. au (porth—ladd) A place of export; a port, a harbour.

Porthladdawg, a. (porthladd) Having a place of export; having a port; abounding with ports.

Porthle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (porth—lle) A place of support; a carrying place; a port, a harbour.

Arglwydd a'm portles portle tewdor.

A chieftain has maintained me with the thickly covered place of support. Cynddelw.

Porthleawg, a. (porthle) Having a port.

Porthleawl, a. (porthle) Belonging to a port.

Porthloedd, s. m. (porth—lloedd) Means of support or maintenance.

Prif arglwydd brolydd bronhellyn,
Bratg anloedd beirid, borthloedd berthyn.

A supreme lord of generous breast the prosperity of a country,
a great blessing of bards, of appropriate maintenance.
Cynddelw, i'r argl. Rhys.

Porthloeddawg, a. (porthloedd) Having means of support or maintenance.

Porthlys, s. m. (porth—llys) A portmote.

Porthmon, s. m.—pl. porthmyn (porth—mon) A conveyer or trader; a dealer in provisions;
a provision merchant; a drover. Porthmon

gwartheg, a drover of cattle; porthmon defaid, sheep-drover; porthmon moch, a pig-drover.
Porthmona, v. a. (porthmon) To deal in provisions; to traffic; to act as a drover.

Porthmonaeth, s. m. (porthmon) A dealing in provisions; purveyance.

Porthog, s. f.—pl. t. au (porth—og) A portcullis.

Portholaeth, s. m. (porthawl) Supportation.

Portholdeb, s. m. (porthawl) The state of being a succour, or support.

Portholi, v. a. (porthawl) To render supportative.

Porthordy, s. m.—pl. t. au (porthawr—ty) A porter's lodge.

Porthorddwy, s. m. (porth—gorddwy) That is aiding violence; an abettor of violence.

Seithfed afallt galanas yw cannorthwaw y dyn a laddo y llall; a hono a chwir porthorddwy.

The seventh abetment of murder is, to assist the person who kills the other: and that is called siding of violence.

Welsh Laws.

Porthores, s. f. (porthawr) A female door-keeper.

Porthori, v. a. (porthawr) To act as a door-keeper.

Porthoriseth, s. m. (porthawr) The office of a door-keeper.

*Llyn Owain—
 Anhwad yn fynych yno
 Weled na chlicied, na chlo,
 Na phorthoriseth—*

The court of Owain, difficult is it there to see nor latch, nor lock, nor a porter's office.

Iolo Goch.

Porthotor, part. (porthawd) Being succoured.

Porthwas, s. m. (porth—gwas) A ferryman.

Porthwy, s. m. (porth) Assistant, or support.

Nac ymddiried am dy borthwy fy peth a fwrir ymamath.

Trust not for thy support to what is thrown away.

Adage.

Porthwr, s. m.—pl. porthwyr (porth—gwr) A supporter a provisioner; a conveyer; a ferryman; a door-man.

Porthwriaeth, s. m. (porthwr) The calling of one who conveys; the office of a ferryman.

Porthwys, s. m.—pl. t. ion (porth—gwys) That attends a ferry.

Y fferi fawr i ffair Fon Wrth omw ei phorthwydon.

The great ferry to the fair of Moen under the regulation of its ferryman.

Gr. ab Hywel ab Tudgr.

Porwr, s. m.—pl. porwyr (pori—gwr) A man who feeds on grass.

Pos, s. m. (py—os) An increment; growth, or increase; that is gathered, or heaped.

Posel, s. m. (pos—el) Curdled milk; posset.

Posfardd, s. m.—pl. posfeirdd (pos—bardd) A preceptive bard, a teaching bard.

Tewch chwî boseirddion.

Be silent ye teaching bards.

Basil Bredid.

Prydydd, neu farid caw, sydd o dri rhyw: sef, prifardd, posfardd, ac arwyddfardd.

A poet, or a bard of verse, is of three branches; namely, a primary bard, a didactic-bard, and a herald-bard.

S. D. Alys.

Posiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pos) A gathering together, a collecting to a heap, a questioning, or investigation; a posing.

*Yn bosefardd, ba farid a fo, 'R hyd breidd rhaid ei boelo;
 A thrwy hys rhyr o boelid
 Graddas gynt o'n guraidd a god.*

A didactic-bard, whatever bard would be, on the fingers it is necessary to question him; and through the weight of a solemn interrogation degrees from their source were given of yore.

Edm. Pry.

Posiannawl, a. (posiant) Investigating, posing.

Posiannu, v. a. (posiant) To investigate, to pose.

Posiant, s. m. (pos) An investigation.

Posiar, s. f.—pl. posieir (pos—lar) A fat hen.

Posiaw, v. a. (pos) To make an increment; to gather knowledge; to investigate, to examine, to interrogate, to pose.

*Rhaid i mi, ar y rhad man,
 Os doeth, dy bosiaw dithan.*

It is necessary for me then, from the talent given me in wisdom, to question thee.

Edm. Pry.

Posiawl, a. (pos) Investigating, posing.

Posiedig, a. (posiad) Investigated, questioned.

Posned, s. m.—pl. t. au (pos) A round body, or that swells out; a squat figure; a porringer; a pap saucepan. O y posned bach! O the little squab!

Post, s. m.—pl. pyst (py—ost) What projects in branches out; a post. Pedwar post y corff, pedair aelawd y corff, the four limbs of the body.

Pan nad rhyddid na thyl post ar dryn na y cyr.

When it is not wonderful that a post of gold does not pass through the house top of the saint.

Adge.

Tri phost cad Ynys Prydain; Ddaewd Fer, mab Pabo Post-aw, Gwallawg fab Llorenwg, a Cynddyls Drogwl.

The three pillars of battle of the Isle of Britain: Ddaewd Fer, the son of Pabo the pillar of Britain, Gwallawg son of Llorenwg, and Cynddyls the Stembler.

Trand.

Post rudyd oedharth Eilfer.

The pillar of the wanderers leading a life like Elfer.

Gyda.

Postiad, s. m. (post) A shooting out a stem; putting up a post, or pillar.

Postiaw, v. a. (post) To shoot out a stem; to set up a post, to set up a pillar.

Postyn, s. m. dim. (post) A little post.

Pot, s. m.—pl. t. iau (po) A pot. Pot a lech, a pot of milk.

Potel, s. f.—pl. t. i (pot) What is puffed out; a leather bottle; a bottle.

Potellad, s. m. (potel) A bottling.

Potelu, v. a. (potel) To bottle, to fill a bottle.

Poten, s. f.—pl. t. i (pot) What bulges out; a paunch; a pudding. Y boten fawr, y boten wr, cod wen, the large ventricle, or the stomach; y boten fach, the lesser ventricle; poten po-gauad, blind-gut; poten wen, a batter-pudding; poten lysau, a fruit pudding.

O! mynych brod bwytyd y boten i gyd.

By frequently tasting it the pudding has been all eaten up.

Adge.

Potena, v. a. (poten) To gather a paunch; to swell out the belly.

Potenaidd, a. (poten) Like a paunch or belly.

Potenawg, a. (poten) Having a paunch or belly.

Potenawl, a. (poten) Belonging to a paunch.

Poteniad, s. m. (poten) A swelling out a paunch.

Potenig, s. f. dim. (poten) A little paunch.

Potenu, v. a. (poten) To form a paunch.

Potes, s. m. (pot) Pottage, broth, soup.

Poteswr, s. m. (potes—gwr) A pottage man.

Potiad, s. m. (pot) A potting; a potatoes.

Potiald, s. m. (pot) A potfull, a fill of a pot.

Potiaw, v. a. (pot) To put in a pot, to pot; to drink, to tipple.

Poth, s. m. (po) That swells out, a boss.

Pothan, s. c. dim. (poth) A round boss, bump, a bunch; a cub. Pothan blaidd, a wolf's cub.

Pothell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (poth) What is puffed, or blown out; a wheal, or blister; also a disease amongst cattle, being a blister under the tongue, which is otherwise called y defordard, or the tongue disease.

Pothellaidd, a. (pothell) Like a blister or wheal.

Pothellawg, a. (pothell) Puffed out; having wheals or blisters.

Pothelliad, s. m. (pothell) A blistering.

Pothellu, v. a. (pothell) To puff up; to blister.
Pothon, s. m. (poth) A round lump, or boss; a cab, & wheel.

Powys, s. m. (po-gwys) The state of being at rest, stationary, or settled. It is the name of a district in North Wales, which was anciently a principality.

Powysaw, v. a. (powys) To render at rest, or to settle; to become stationary.

*Powysed aegus, Powyswg a'i gwyr
 O'r goron i lannwg;
 A edau rhian rhyddwrg,
 Ac a fo da ef ei dwg!*

*Be arrested death, Powyswg has men the best for her defence;
 he spares chieftains evil in the extreme, and such as are good he takes away!*
Ll. P. Meck, i Fad ab Madawg.

Powyswg, s. f. (powys) A place that is settled upon. It is used as an epithet for Powys.

Pra, s. m. (py-rha) That tends to the extremity; that spreads round.

Prad, s. m. (py-rhad) A gentle spread, a stroke
Praff, a. (pra) Large, ample; thick in circumference. Caeus preffion, thick legs.

Cerdded yn braff a wasl.

Walk at large was what she did. H. Pwyll—Mabinogion.
Trailled praff a baryyat i Bown.

Affliction ample had they caused to Bown.
H. Bown—Mabinogion.

*Mai mab i Ddyfwal Moel Mad
 Yw Phylip praff ei olod.*

Like a son of Dyrnwal Moel Mad is Phylip of ample wealth.
L. G. Cokki.

Praffaid, a. (praff) Somewhat large, or ample; somewhat thick in circumference.

Praffder, s. m. (praff) Amplitude; rotundity.

Praffdra, s. m. (praff) Amplitude; thickness in girth.

Praffedd, s. m. (praff) Largeness; thickness round
Praffiad, s. m. (praff) A rendering large, or ample; a becoming thick in circumference.

Praffu, v. a. (praff) To make large; to make thick in compass, to become thick round.

Praidd, s. f.—pl. preiddian (pra-idd) A flock, or herd; also a booty of cattle taken in war.

Praidd gyfrithlawn: pedair bu ar againt a tharw.

A lawful herd: twenty-four cows and a bull. Welsh Laws.

Take rhwyd heyr yst, allwest ei fferch, ei breiddoedd gwartheg, a'i genddiau foch.

The three nets of a baron are, the pasture of his horses, his herds of cattle, and his breed of swine. Welsh Laws.

A rhag preiddian awna tost yd geni.

And before the herds of the infernal region dimally thou dost slay. Taliesin.

*Pell ei gied o glodau aurhaith,
 Praidd wasgar, drudfawr drisauth gyfarpar
 Yn ngwyar, yn agwyniaith.*

Far his flame, for collecting spoil, scattering the flock, his wrath overbearing thrice seven of spears of conflict in blood, in the violence of passion. Cynddelw.

Prain, s. m.—pl. preinion (pra-in) That tends to spread or swell out; that causes to spring up; a feast, or banquet.

*Lledfawr y gan ri rhyfel ei rain,
 A llen llw chog, a medd prain.*

Reclined has the god of war his spear, with the veil of bright green hue, and mead of the banquet. Taliesin, Mic. Dinbych.

Gwy cynnarwyr ei ddwyr: gwawr Cymwyr, neud marw!

*Slayer o' chieftains o'm doctry:
 Owain add prain, neud pridd wey!*

A man whose being taken off is universal grief; the luminary, he not dead! an awful report awakes me: Owain lord of the banquet, that earth is his bed!
Frydydd Bychan, m. O. ab Madawg.

*Rhag Teifi, yn tori twr mair
 Teyrn gylw tarwya, tyrrat prain yn ddur
 I gwa cued wrth cwaith!*

On the Teifi, destroying a stone tower of a sovereign prince, they lustily heap together a feast for the dogs of the scale, over the venacious gawling. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Praith, s. m.—pl. preithiau (py-rhaith) An act, or deed; practice.

Pranc, s. m.—pl. prancian (py-rhanc) A prank.

Pranciad, s. m. (pranc) A frolicking.

Pranciaw, v. a. (pranc) To frolic, to play pranks.

Pranciawl, a. (pranc) Frolicsome, playful.

Pranciwr, s. m.—pl. pranciwr (pranc-gwr) One who plays pranks.

Pratiad, s. m. (prad) A stroking, a coaxing, or fondling, by gently drawing the hand over.

Pratiaw, v. a. (prad) To stroke, to rub gently, to sooth, to fondle, to coax. Pratia y plentyn, fondle the child.

Pratiawl, a. (prad) Coaxing or stroking.

Pratiwr, s. m.—pl. pratiwr (pratiaw-gwr) A stroker, a coxer.

Praw, s. m. (pra) An essay, a trial, or a proof.

Gwellir—

Y daw gwiaw yn ol praw pradd.

It will be seen, that a shower will come after a serious trial.
D. ab Gwilym.

Prawen, s. f.—pl. t. an (praw) An essay, or cast for trial, in gaming.

Prawf, s. m.—pl. profion (praw) A proof, trial, or essay; experience. Bod ar brawf, to be on proof: Prawf Ynad, and Llyfr Prawf, the Judge's Proof and the Book of Proof, the name of a section of laws, according to the code of Hywel Dda.

Prawfaen, s. m. (praw-maen) A touchstone.

Pre, s. m. (py-rhe) The origin of a course.

Pred, s. m. (pre) A stray, or migration.

Preg, s. m. (py-rheg) A greeting or address.

Pregawthen, s. f. (preg) Prattle, rigmarole.

Pregeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (preg) A sermon.

Pregethiad, s. m. (pregeth) A preaching.

Pregethu, v. a. (pregeth) To preach.

Pregethwr, s. m.—pl. pregethwyr (pregeth-gwr) A preacher.

Preidiad, s. m. (pred) A migrating, a straying.

Preidiaw, v. a. (pred) To migrate, to stray.

Preiddiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (praidd) A herding; a collecting a herd; a driving of cattle away as a booty in war; predation.

Preiddiaw, v. a. (praidd) To herd; to collect a herd; to drive off a booty of cattle; to predate Preiddiawg, a. (praidd) Abounding with herds.

Ni thores ei bawr a fu breiddiawg.

His pasture has not been cut that was teeming with herds.
Meltyr.

Preiddiawl, a. (praidd) Belonging to a herd; relating to the pillage of cattle; predatory.

Preiddiawr, s. pl. aggr. (praidd) Beasts of the chase; beasts taken as prey in a foray.

Huysgwn am breiddiawr, am brain.

Aptly rising for the prey, for the feast. Ll. P. Meck.

Preiddiedig, a (praidd) Herded; depredated.

Preiddyn, s. m. (praidd) That is of the herds.

Ef a'm porthes—

Ar win, ar breiddyn, ar brain.

He nourished me on wine, on venison, on feast.

Preiddin, a. (praidd) Consisting of herds; Mock preiddin, anrhaith o foch, a booty of swine.

Preiddiwr, s. m.—pl. preiddwyr (praidd-gwr)

One who follows a herd; one who pursues herds for booty; a pillager.

Er peryl preiddwyr perll fawnd, Pasgudwr cyfrain Prydain briawd.

To the hazard of depredators causing a gash, the nourisher of the true sons of Britain.
Meltyr.

Preiddwal, s. f. (praid—gwal) The resort of the herd, where a herd lies down.

Prydwn gawr, priddawr preiddwal.

The foremost of the shout, the proprietor of the region of herds Cyuddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Preiddwalch, s. m.—pl. preiddweilch (praid—gwalch) Hawk of the herds; hawk of pillage.

Preiddwriaeth, s. m. (preiddiwr) The calling of a herdsman; the practice of a pillager.

Preiddyn, s. m. dim. (praid) A beast of chase.

Preiddyn oedd ei gwyn cyn nol gwyddaw.

For the booty was his anxiety before his fall. Cyuddelw.

Preiniad, s. m. (prain) A carousing, a feasting.

Preiniaw, v. a. (prain) To carouse, to feast.

Preiniawg, a. (prain) Abounding with feasts.

*Mi a'th arwyne odd bre breiniawg,
Breiglew, a'fel hael, o hil Madawg.*

I will extol thee, chief of the hill of feasting, a mighty lion, holding bounty, of the line of Madoc. Ll. P. Moch, i Llywelyn II.

*Dau ychen Dewi ardderchawg oeddynt;
Dau gurn a gerdynnt yn gyf breiniawg.*

The two oxen of Dewi majestic were; two that walked hoof to hoof together enjoying feasts. Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Y melyn gwanwyn, ac ych brych, yn ddau gyd breiniawg a fyuaf.

The yellow ox of spring, and the two brindled oxen, being two feeding together, those I will have. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Preiniawl, a. (prain) Belonging to a feast.

Preinrudd, a. (prain—rhudd) Ruddy with feasting

*Cyrhiad, tremyniad, tra mor odd dy gas,
Dy gowrdd yn breinrudd.*

An assaulter, a scout, beyond the British sea extends thy hate, thy retinue seem racy with festivity. Ll. P. Moch, i Llywelyn II.

Preithiad, s. m. (praith) A practising, a using.

Preithiaw, v. a. (praith) To practise, to use.

Preithiawg, a. (praith) Having practice.

Preithiawl, a. (praith) Practical, operative.

Preithiedig, a. (preithiad) Practised, or used.

Preithig, a. (praith) Belonging to practice.

Pren, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pre) A tree, a timber, a piece of wood. *Pren troed, gweddig, bre, a last; pren ceri, a medlar tree; pren y gerwyn, the bay tree; pren melyn, pren y clesfyd melyn,
the barberry-tree; pren awyr, mistletoe.*

Pren yn nghoed arall biau.

A tree in a wood another owns. Adage.

Prenaid, a. (pren) Lignous, or like wood.

Prenfol, s. m.—pl. t. au (pren—bol) A wooden coffer, box or chest.

Prenial, s. m. (pren) A coffer or shrine of wood.

Prenial gweddes, pedair ar ugalnt a dal.

A warping trough, its value is twenty-four pence. Welsh Laws.

*Prenial dywal gal ysgwn
Gorug ar Loegr in cyngwrn t
Beid Gwen fab Llywarch Hen yw hwn.*

The shrine of the fierce overbearing foe, that vanquished the circulary-compact army of Lloegrin; the grave of Gwen the son of old Llywarch is this. Llywarch Hen.

Preniaw, v. a. (pren) To apply timber or wood to any thing; to fasten with a wooden bar.

*—Y nos—
Na ad un drws, nodwn draw
Heb ar unwallth ei breiaw.*

He will not leave a single door, we may yonder note, without barring it at once. G. ab I. ab Llywelyn Fychan.

Prenol, s. m.—pl. t. au (pren) A busk.

Prensaer, s. m.—pl. prensairi (pren—sacr) A wright or worker in wood; a carpenter.

Pres, s. m.—pl. t. i (pre—es) That is imminent;
that is quick or ready; that is sharp or smart;

that overruns; brushwood, or whatever overruns the ground, as stubble, straw, and the like; fuel wood; fodder; frequency; haste; a crib, or cratch; also brass. Pres fferu, fuel for the oven; Pres y moch, the resort or sty of the pigs; pres y cwn, the kennel of the dogs.

*Truan o anian iul o anghwyll,
Tracharu present, pres gynahwyll.*

A miserable state is fallen to us from induration, to cross loving the present, a felchot involved in darkness.
Melyr ab Gwladus.

Pres, a. (pre—es) Imminent, at hand, quick;
ready; hasty; sharp; overrunning, frequent;
present. Pres gynahwaf, a quick harvest; llus pres, a sharp or shrill voice. Sil.

*Dig yw ein hwy, dygw hwynt
Yn bris a'r tair gormes gyl.*

Vexatious is our condition, we take an abrupt course, like us three molestations of ancient time. Ll. ab Iwan.

Presai, s. m.—pl. presecion (pres) A pole put across a river for hindering cattle.

Presawl, a. (pres) Imminent; close upon; quick.

Preseb, s. m. (pres—ab) A crib, or a stall.

Presebu, v. a. (preseb) To crib, to stall.

Presedig, a. (pres) Rendered imminent; quickened; hastened; made a resort.

Presel, s. f.—pl. t. au (pres) A place overgrown,
as with furze and the like, a brake. Sil.

Preselaidd, a. (presel) Tending to be braky.

Preselawg, a. (presel) Overgrown with shrubs.

Preseldir, s. m. (presel—tir) Land overgrown with bushwood, foul land.

Preseliad, s. m. (presel) An overrunning with brushwood; a becoming wild.

Preselu, v. n. (presel) To become wild or overrun. Mae y tir yn preselu ganto, the land grows foul under his care. Sil.

Preselyn, s. m. dim. (presel) A brake, a thicket.

Presen, s. f. (pres) The present, the present time or age; the present life.

Nid aeth neb i nef er hantfryg y brws.

No one went to heaves for the leading of his present. Tafm.

*Nid oes o'r presen,
O'r dechrau hyd orphen,
Un orlo o ddydd,
Wrth y fuchedd dragywydd.*

There is not of the present, from the beginning to the end, an hour of day, compared with the state of eternity. Tafm.

*Pwyllat Dunawd, odd presen,
Erechwydd gwnethur cadwes
Yn erbyn cywrydd Paegres.*

Fiercely would Dunawd rage, the chief of the present, as mind elate for combat, against the strife of Paegres.
Llywarch Hen.

Presennawl, a. (present) Being imminent, near,
or ready; present.

Presennoldeb, s. m. (presennawl) The state of being at, or upon; a present state; present.

Presennwr, s. m. (present) One who is present.

Priodawr Prydain prais praddia; Presennwr, prysar pres olaf.

A prince of Britain with feast of spoils; a present man, the dweller in a splendid abode. Cyuddelw, i H. ab Iwan.

Present, s. m. (presen) The present state.

*Pan fydd Dew dy ddifuriau
O dyllent present, o hreuwyl fraw,
Cyd a'th fo di golad, gofen anaw,
Na'th pynd, eidd ar ei addaw.*

When God should please to annihilate thy frame of the present of the present state, of the abode of terror, though thou art possess wealth, and splendid greatness, let these details depart at his call depart. Melyr ab Gwladus.

Presiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pres) A hastening, being quick or ready; a frequenting.

Prest, s. m. (pres) Quickness, smartness;
Ready, quick; soon.

Prestl, s. m. (prest) Smart, talk, repartee. a. Smart, ready, fluent.

*Starad yn brosti starad yn ddesti;
Starad yn wasti starad anwesti.*

A talking smartly is talking elegantly, a talking tamely is a talking inelegantly. Adage.

Prestlaidd, a. (prestl) Disposed to prattle.

Prestlawg, a. (prestl) Full of smart talk.

Prestlodd, s. m. (prestl) Smartness of discourse.

Prestliad, s. m. (prestl) A talking smartly.

Prestia, s. a. (prestl) To talk smartly or wittily; to repartee; to prattle.

Prestins, a. (prestl) Of smart or witty talk.

Presu, v. a. (pres) To render imminent, near, or ready at hand; to hasten, to quicken; to frequent, to resort; to render present; to become present.

Preswyl, s. m. (pres—gwyll) The state of being present or in readiness; a tarrying; a habitation. a. Being present or in readiness; waiting, tarrying. March preswyl, a horse kept in readiness, or a horse of attendance.

Gwestod allwyn a dderg ei farch yn gwyddi'r ysgawd lly, i hawyl pau y myno.

The groom of the reign shall bring his horse furnished to the lodge of the palace, to be in readiness at his will. Welsh Laws.

Preswylledd, s. m. (preswyl) A state of abiding.

Preswylfa, s. f.—pl. preswylfeydd (preswyl) A place taken up as an abode; a camp; a dwelling-place, a habitation.

Ys yr amser y caethiwyd Iwda, deg preswylfa candaidd a synt ar goll.

In the time when Juda was led into captivity, ten tribes of them became lost. Old Chronicle.

Preswylfiedd, s. m. (preswyl—medd) That is kept in readiness.

Preswylfoddu, v. a. (preswylfiedd) To keep in readiness, to take care of constantly.

Preswylfod, s. m. (preswyl—bod) A dwelling place.

Preswylfoddawg, a. (preswyl—boddawg) Having an habitation, or a constant abiding at will.

Offered y freudde;—Offru y freudde hagen a goll y preswylfoddawg.

The chaplain of the queen, the offering of the queen he shall have constantly at his will. Welsh Laws.

Preswylgoll, s. m. (preswyl—coll) Loss of dwelling. a. Home-lost.

Fall arwys, pwyllaf, y dogat, Preswylgoll, hwydoli engr.

A failure to him, I will foretell, there will be allotted, loss of home, a painful privation. Cynddew.

Preswyliaid, s. m. (preswyl) A being present; a tarrying or abiding; a taking up a residence.

Preswyliaeth, s. m. (preswyl) The act of frequenting, or resorting; inhabitation.

Preswylannawl, a. (preswylant) Relating to habitation, dwelling or abiding.

Preswylannu, v. a. (preswylant) To make a resort; to settle a habitation.

Preswylant, s. m. (preswyl) The act of taking up a residence or a dwelling.

Preswylaw, v. a. (preswyl) To fix a residence, to dwell, to inhabit; to tarry in a place.

*Plant Adaf phatigion fuant;
Ys y preswylannawt;
Gan ddow yn lleifer llewylant.*

The children of Adam, graftings have they been; in the present state they have sojourned; with God in splendor they will abide. Mythyr ab Gwaichma.

*Daw hys—
Y byd, pawb cryd, pob anant,
Is heulwen, yddo a hewylant.*

To God belong the world, every one existing, all of life, becoms the radiant sun, therein who dwell. W. Middleton.

Preswylawg, a. (preswyl) Having a resort; having an abode; being attended.

*Presennwr,
Pryswr pres oleu;
Preswylawg farchawg feirch gwleu.*

A present man, a dweller in a splendid place; a warrior constantly attended with bay steeds. Cynddew. Yr argl. Rhys.

Preswylledig, a. (preswyliaid) Inhabited.

Preswylledigaeth, s. m. (preswylledig) The act of taking up an abode or dwelling.

Preswylwr, s. m.—pl. preswylwyr (preswyl—gwr) A dweller, or an inhabitant.

Preswylydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (preswyl) An inhabitant, or a dweller.

Pri, s. m.—pl. t. on (py—rhi) An increment; an origin, or cause; that is prime or first.

Priad, s. m. (pri) A forming an increment, or source of increase; a rendering prime, a becoming prime, or original.

Prialen, s. f. (pri—gall) Privet; also called priellyn and gwydd.

Priawd, s. m. (pri) That is appropriate, peculiar, proper, or fitting; that is possessed or owned; a married person, the same as guraig boys, or a spouse. a. Appropriate, peculiar, fitting; possessed; married.

Ni ddyls gwrail na phryna na gwerthu, o bydd priawd, heb gael ei gwr.

A woman ought neither to buy, nor to sell, if she be a married one, without the consent of her husband. Welsh Laws.

Mal cofala cywain Cymryd, fardd Danawd, Mau i'm draig priawd gward, ni bo gwyd.

Like the correct memorial song of Cymryd, the bard of Danod, to my proper lord is my praise, which shall not be faulty. Gw. Dda e Arfon, m. G. Llwyd.

Pric, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pri) A small piece of wood; a broach; a skewer. Wyd sythed â phe llyncasid bric edafedd, thou art as stiff as if thou hadst swallowed a yarn stick.

Pricald, s. m.—pl. preiceidiau (pric) What is held on a stick; the quantity of yarn taken off the spindle and put upon a stick.

Prid, s. m. (pri) That is in unison or equivalent; price, value; ransom. a. Valuable, precious, dear. Pryned hwna yn brid, that has been dearly bought. Sil.

Ni cheir geirfa heb brid.

There will be no good word had without desert. Adage.

Nid prid pry gair iag.

The purchase of a good word is not dear. Adage.

Cyrrydd Prydain y sy bryder yn;

Y sy brid i lawer

Armes gwr gwyllawr ei ober

Argleiddiaid, hollad, ddaid nifer.

The contention of Britons is afflicting to us; dear to many is the sale of the man of wrathful achievement, the protection, the foremost one, the wolf of a host.

Cynddew, m. E. ab M. ab Iddon.

Anwya Mynyddawg anwys y gwaseth;

A phrid er prydau breithell Gairneith.

The dainty of Mynyddog, notably it worked; and was the price for purchasing the battle of Gairneith. Anwria.

Pridadwy, a. (prid) Capable of being equivalent.

Pridaw, v. a. (prid) To render equivalent; to become equivalent; to expiate.

Pridiad, s. m. (prid) A rendering an equivalent; a pledging; a ransoming.

Pridiannawl, a. (pridiant) Tending to be an equivalent; expiatory.

Pridiannu, v. a. (pridiant) To render an equivalent; to become an equivalent.

Pridiannus, a. (pridiant) Tending to be equivalent; expiatory.

Pridiannusaw, v. a. (pridiantus) To render of an equivalent consideration; to become equivalent; to become expiatory.

Pridiant, s. m.—pl. pridiannau (prid) The act of pledging a value; a ransoming; expiation.
Pridiaw, v. a. (prid) To give a price, value, or equivalent; to lay a pawn or pledge; to ransom, to expiate.

Ni bu ond Crist ar y groes,
 Yn dydddef gloes i'n pridiaw.

There has been none else but Christ upon the cross, a pang to suffer, us to ransom.

Morgan Tais.

Pridiawg, a. (prid) Having a value, price, or equivalent; being an equivalent.

Pridiawl, a. (prid) Equivalent; redeeming.

Priededig, a. (pridiad) Made equivalent; ransomed, expiated.

Priedoldeb, s. m. (pridiawl) Equivalency.

Pridoli, v. a. (pridiawl) To render equivalent; to render deserved; to become equivalent.

Pridiwr, s. m.—pl. pridiwyr (prid—gwr) One who gives a price; a ransom; an expiator.

Pridwerth, s. m. (prid—gwerth) Value given as a ransom, the thing given as an equivalent.

Am ei bridwerth, ni pherthya
 Ymlw a Duw, mal a dyn;
 Rhaid fydd lle rho Duw ei far
 Dwy eginyn yn gynnar.

Concerning his demand, it belongs not to man to question the will of God; it will be necessary where God sends his wrath for the effect soon to appear.

T. Alce.

Pridd, s. m. aggr. (pri—idd) Mould, or earth; also a delicate term used for the ordure of an animal. Sil. Pridd y wradd, a mole-hill; llestri priddion, earthen ware.

Priddaw, v. a. (pridd) To mould, to earth, to put in the mould, to cover with earth.

Bum yn claddu hen gydymmaith
 A gododd yn fy mhen i ganwaith;
 Ac 'r wy'n 'n ofut er ei briddo,
 Y cyfyd yn fy mhen i eto.

I have been burying an old companion, who flew to my head a hundred times; and I fear, though he be buried, that he will fly to my head again.

Alce rhiswyn seed: haw haidd.

Priddawl, a. (pridd) Of the nature of earth, or mould; earthy.

Priddawr, s. m.—pl. priddorion (pridd) A potter.

Priddell, s. f.—pl. t. i. (pridd) A mass, or clod of earth; a piece of pottery; a tile.

Cyfreued a phriddell.

As brittle as a piece of pottery.

Adage.

Priddellan, s. f. dim. (priddell) A small mass of earth; a small tile, or piece of pottery.

Priddellawg, a. (priddell) consisting of masses of earth, glebous.

Priddellig, s. f. (priddell) A small mass of earth.

Priddellwaith, s. m. (priddell—gwaith) Tile-work

Priddellwr, s. m. (priddell—gwr) A tile-maker.

Priddellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (priddell) A tiler.

Pridden, s. f.—pl. t. i. (pridd) An earthen vessel.

Priddenig, s. f. (pridden) A little earthen vessel.

Priddfaen, s. m.—pl. priddfeini (maen) A brick.

Priddfeinwaith, s. m. (priddfaen) Brick-work.

Priddgalch, s. m. (pridd—calch) Calcareous earth; fuller's earth; a mixture of earth and lime, a manure so prepared.

Priddgalchwag, a. (priddgalch) Abounding with calcareous earth, being of earth and lime.

Priddgalchiad, s. m. (priddgalch) A doing with calcareous earth; a manuring with a mixture of earth and lime.

Priddgalchu, v. a. (priddgalch) To manure with a mixture of earth and lime.

Priddgist, s. m. (pridd—cist) Potters' clay.

Priddiad, s. m. (pridd) A doing with earth; a putting in earth; a returning to earth.

Priddin, a. (pridd) Of the nature of earth.

Priddlestr, s. m.—pl. t. i. (pridd—llestr) An earthen vessel, or a piece of pottery.

Priddlestrwr, s. m.—pl. priddlestrwyr (priddlestr—gwr) Earthenware man.

Priddlestrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (priddlestr) A dealer in earthenware.

Priddlyd, a. (pridd) Earthly, mixed with mould.

Priddlydrwydd, s. m. (priddlyd) Earthiness.

Priddlydu, v. a. (priddlyd) To render earthy.

Priddred, s. m. (pridd—rhed) An earthly course, an earthly state.

O bridd, o briddred
 Pau ym digoned—

Of earth, of an earthly course when I was formed—Talcia.

Priddwal, s. m. (pridd—gwal) An earth couch.

Minnuu sy greg, beb dog dal,
 Yma'n priddaw mwyn priddwal.

I am also horse, without a fair reward, here resting in a bed of earth.

Rhys Idris.

Priddwr, s. m.—pl. priddwyr (pridd—gwr) One who puts in earth.

Priddyn, s. m. dim. (pridd) That is formed of earth; an earthly being.

Prif, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pri) That is a source; that tends to increase; that is prime, chief or principal; the first day of the new moon; the ordinal number. a. Prime, first, principal, chief.

Tri phrif anffawd abred: angen, anghof ac angen.

The three primary misfortunes of the circle of existence: necessity, loss of memory, and death.

Rhys.

Prifachaws, s. m.—pl. prifachawion (prif—achaw) A primary cause, a principal cause.

Prifafon, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (prif—afon) A principal river; a law term for a river preserving its regular channel as a boundary of lands.

Prifalaethwr, s. m.—pl. prifalaethwyr (prif—alaethwr) A chief mourner.

Prifanian, s. f. (prif—anian) An original nature, a primary nature.

Prifansawdd, s. m.—pl. prifansoddion (prif—sawdd) An original quality or element.

Yn nosparth a rheithlader cerdd Ceraist Fardd Oly, a mawr eithr deg prifansawdd; sef mawr gorchuan a chyngwyb.

In the grammar and rudiment of verse of Ceraist the Bard there are only ten primary elements; namely, whose instruction is a caution of combination.

Rhys.

Prifardd, s. m.—pl. prifeirdd (pri—bardd) A primitive bard, a primary bard; a doctor, or professor of sciences.

Tri rhyw prifardd y dydd: bardd braint, neu brifardd pŵerth, wrth braint ddaidd a thalar gorsedd; a'i awydd yu bynnu'r odydd, wrth awen, ynglun a dychwain, a'i awydd yu mawr a derwydd, wrth bywll, anasawdd, a gorsedd, a'i awydd yu isethu.

There are three degrees of primary bards; a bard of poetry, or a primary bard proper, according to the privilege of the poem and voice of a convention, and his office is to correct, to rectify; an orator, following genius, elevation, and incident, and his office is to apply to works of genius; and a third, according to the reason, nature, and necessity of things, and his office is to correct.

Rhys.

Prifarddoni, s. m. (prifardd) The learning of the primitive bards; the bardic philosophy.

Prifawdl, s. f.—pl. prifodlau (prif—awdl) A primary or leading rhyme.

Prifdeg, a. (prif—teg) Primarily fair.

Prifder, s. m. (prif) Primeness or origin.

Prifdde, s. m. (prif—de) Original source.

Prifddeddf, s. f.—pl. t. au (prif—deddf) A primary law.

Prifddinas, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (prif—ddinas) A principal city, or a metropolis.

Prifddinasawl, a. (prifddinas) Metropolitan.

Prifdull, s. f.—pl. t. iau (pulf—dull) A primary form or manner.

Prifad, s. m. (prif) A thriving, a growing, or increasing; a prospering.

Prifaw, v. m. (prif) To grow up, to increase in stature, to thrive; to prosper.

Prifawl, a. (prif) Tending to grow.

Prifwr, s. m.—pl. prifwyr (prif—gwr) One who increases, a thriver.

Prifad, s. m. (prif—llad) A sovereign grace.

Prifas, s. m. (prif—llas) A supreme good.

Prifys, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (prif—llys) A principal court, a supreme court.

Prifnawd, s. m. (prif—nawd) An original habit.

Prifnod, s. m.—pl. t. au (prif—nod) A prime point or number; an epoch.

Prifod, s. m. (prif—oed) A primitive age.

Prifoes, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (prif—oes) A first age; a primary life, a first existence.

Prifran, s. f.—pl. t. au (prif—rhan) A primary share; a primary division.

Prifragiad, s. m. (prif—ran) A primary division.

Yd prifragiad y cyd at dir: chan rhwng brodyr: adran rhwng criolwyr; a chyfrifod rhwng cyfrydyr.

There are three primary divisions of land: division amongst brothers; subdivided amongst cousins, and co-extension amongst second cousins. Welsh Laws.

Prifred, s. f. (prif—rhed) A primary course.

Prifriwedd, s. f.—pl. t. au (prif—rhinwedd) A cardinal virtue.

Prifymudai, s. c. (prif—symudai) A primum mobile; a first cause of motion.

Prifwaith, s. m. (prif—gwaith) A chief work.

Prifwyd, s. m. (prif—gwyd) A chief sin. Y seith brifwyd, the seven deadly sins.

Prifwydd, s. pl. (prif—gwydd) Primary trees.

Rhag hwyth wyth hechawd prifwydd, prifwydd Mab Daw mad garsenydd.

From the bosom of the eight original sins of the primary wood, the Son of God had purchased a good connection. Gwalchmai.

Prifwynt, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (prif—gwynt) A principal wind.

Prifysgol, s. f.—pl. t. ion (prif—ysgol) A principal school, a primary school.

Prifffordd, s. f.—pl. prifffyrdd (pri—ffordd) A principal road, a high road.

Ffyrdd mae prifffordd bob uwswr adref adref y Gyrdd Fawr.

For us there is a high road at all hours homewards to the skirts of the Great Yggyrdd. L. G. Gold.

Prill, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhill) A rill.

Prin, s. m. (py—rhin) That partly appears, or breaks through; that is of slight trace.

Prin, a. (py—rhin) Scarce, rare, scant, spare. ad. Scarcely, hardly; sparingly.

*Llyma wraith amlder
O bryn hyd uchwr
Dyngwener—*

Behold the multifarious woe from morn till eve of Friday. And y Creed.

Prinad, s. m. (prinân) A rendering scarce or scanty; a becoming scarce; a diminishing.

Prinhawl, a. (prinân) Tending to scarcity.

Prinân, v. q. (prin) To make scarce, scanty or small; to diminish; to grow scarce; to be diminished.

Prinder, s. m. (prin) Scarcity; scantiness.

Prindra, s. m. (prin) Scarcity, scantiness.

Print, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—rhint) That forms a notch, or scratch; a print.

Printiad, s. m. (print) A printing, a marking.

Printiaw, v. a. (print) To imprint, to print.

Printiedig, a. (printiad) Imprinted, or printed.

VOL. II.

Prinwydd, s. pl. aggr. (prin—gwydd) Scarlet-oak.

Prinwydden, s. f. (prinwydd) The scarlet oak.

Priodadwy, a. (priawd) Capable of being appropriated; marriageable.

Priodas, s. f.—pl. t. au (priawd) A marriage.

Priodas Sais a Gwyddel, naidlaw droe yr ygabell.

The marriage of an Englishman and an Irishwoman, jumping over the broom.

Priodas a wnaethpwyd ar dibechu cydgnewd y rhwng gwr a gwrraig, ac ar eiddad plant.

Marriage was established for divesting of sin a carnal union between man and woman, and for begetting children. L. G. Hergest.

Nid er diben priodas, na'i thwyll, yddym ni yn dywedyd, gent mab i forwyn; osid naidlaw yddym ni ei galfaelad ef.

It is not for annihilating marriage, nor for obscuring it, that we are saying, a son is born to a virgin; but the setting aside his birth is what we do. Ydori Shvester.

Priodasawl, a. (priodas) Matrimonial.

Priodasfab, s. m. (priodas—mab) A bridegroom.

Priodasferch, s. f. (priodas—merch) A bride.

Priodasgan, s. f. (priodas—gan) A bridal song.

Priodasgerdd, s. f.—pl. t. i (priodas—cerdd) An epithalamium, or a bridal song.

Priodawl, a. (priawd) Appropriate, peculiar; legitimate; belonging to marriage; married.

Dau fab gyfreithiawl briodollon.

Two sons legitimate ones of marriage. Welsh Laws.

Priodawr, s. m.—pl. priodorian (priawd) A proprietary, a hereditary possessor of land; a prince; one who has a natural claim; a native.

Yn bedwarygwyr ydi t dyn yn briadawr.

As a fourth person will a man become a hereditary proprietor. Welsh Laws.

Eldr, priodawr o'r Gogledd:—Cenau ab Coel Hen, priodawr o'r Gogledd.

Eldr, a prince from the North:—Cenau son of Coel the Aged, a prince from the North. Harvard.

Priodedig, a. (priawd) Appropriated; wedded.

Priodfab, s. m.—pl. priodfeibion (priawd—mab) A bridegroom.

Priodferch, s. f.—pl. t. ed (merch) A bride.

Priodi, v. a. (priawd) To render appropriate; to espouse; to marry; to be married.

Y farch a ddol i'w phrodi, Hwy'r y daw i'w priodi.

The woman that comes to be tried, late will she come to be married. Adage.

*Mor gadarn yd gollu hyd Reges
Mab Owain Frydain; priodes gwenedd Gwyndafra Eryr.*

So powerfully will the son of Owain defend Britain as far as Reges; the eldest prince of the region of Eryr has appropriated the happy land. L. G. Mech, i Redri.

Priodlad, s. m. (priodi) A marrying, a wedding.

Priodoldeb, s. m. (priodawl) Appropriateness.

Priodolder, s. m. (priodawl) Appropriateness, propriety; attribute; property, the right or title to a thing.

Oe y nawfed-dyn a ddaw i ofyn tir difoddedig yn ei briodolder, a hwnw a ddys diadad am ei fod yn myned o briodawr yn an-mbriodawr, ac yna y gwrandawr y gyfrith y diadad hwn.

If the ninth person shall come to demand land extinguished as to title and he shall give an outcry on account of his becoming from a proprietor to be one without property, thereupon the law will listen to that outcry. Welsh Laws.

Priodoleddig, a. (priodawl) Appropriated.

Priodoledd, s. m. (priodawl) Appropriateness.

Priodoli, v. a. (priodawl) To appropriate, to make appropriate or proper; to become appropriate; to dedicate; to render peculiar.

Priodoliad, s. m. (priodawl) An appropriating, a rendering peculiar; a dedication.

Priodoliaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (priodawl) Appropriation; the state of being peculiar.

Priodoliaethu, v. a. (priodoliaeth) To make an appropriation; to assign an attribute.

31

Priodolrwydd, s. m. (priodawl) Appropriateness.
Priodolwr, s. m.—pl. priodolwyr (priodawl—gwr)
 An appropriate man.

Priodori, v. a. (priodawr) To render a proprietor; to become a proprietor, or inheritor.
Priodoriaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (priodawr) A peculiar property; an inheritance.

*Cynnyddwys mawr wr mawr freolaeth galf,
 Yu nghynaf ei brif briodoriaeth.*

An exalted man has increased the great frailty of anxiety, in the affliction of his primary inheritance. Ll. P. Moch, i Grist.

Prion, s. pl. aggr. (pri) Origination; animals in a first state of life; imps.

Prionyn, s. m. dim. (prion) A little imp.

*Pig wenwynig anianawl;
 Prionyn o dydyna diawl.*

A spike of nature poisonous; an imp from the devil's territory. I. Gethin ab I. ab Llewelyn, i'r neidr.

Pris, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pri—is) That is reckoned; that is taken; rate, value, price.

Prisiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pris) A valuation.

Prisiaw, v. a. (pris) To value, to appraise.

Prisiawl, a. (pris) Belonging to rate, or price.

Pro, s. m. (py—rho) That is counter, or against.

Probyll, s. m.—pl. t. au (pro—pwyll) The stilt of a plough.

Probyllau a rhagurawdd, ceulawg s dal.

The stilt and the beam, the value is a penny. Welsh Laws.

Proc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pro) A thrust, a drive.

Prociad, s. m.—pl. t. au (proc) A thrusting.

Prociaw, v. a. (proc) To thrust, to stick, to stab.

Prociwr, s. m.—pl. t. au (proc—gwr) A thruster, a sticker, a stabber.

Proest, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pro—est) A sequel in contrast with the first; a term in prosody for a counterchange of vowels; it is also called gorchan. Proest Cadwynardl, a quadran stanza with alternate concatenated rhyme; proest cyfnewidiawg, alternity interchanged; proest unardl, a single rhymed alternity.

Proestawdl, s. f.—pl. proestodlau (proest—awdl) Rhyme with vowels interchanged.

Proestiad, s. m. (proest) Interchanging of vowels.

Proestiaw, v. a. (proest) To interchange vowels.

Proestlawn, a. (proest) Abounding with counterchanges of vowel sounds.

*A dysydd ei fudd i feirdd proestlawn;
 A dyran atan; ataw ydd awn.*

And he will bestow his bounty to harmonious bards; and he will set apart shares for us; to him let us go.

Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

Proestodlaeth, s. m. (proestawdl) The state of having rhyme with counterchanged vowels.

Proestodli, v. a. (proestawdl) To form rhyme with vowels counterchanged.

Proestodliad, s. m. (proestawdl) A rhyming with vowels counterchanged.

Profadwy, a. (prawf) Provable, or essayable.

Profawl, a. (prawf) Belonging to proof.

Profedig, a. (prawf) Proved, approved.

Profedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (profedig) The act of rendering proved; temptation.

Cariad a bair i ddyn enogia y byd, a bod yn llawen mewn trallodau a phrofedigaethau.

Love will cause a man to condemn the world, and to be cheerful in afflictions and temptations. Marchant Cragtad.

Profedigawl, a. (profedig) Probationary.

Profi, v. a. (prawf) To prove, to try, to examine; to attempt; to essay; to taste. Profi gyad, to examine for the function of a judge.

Nid erchie bwyd ei brofi.

Virtues only demanded to be tested.

Adage.

*Tair lloeg y dorchant lloeg lloer:
 Tair prawf, prif lyngas wy brw bawl:
 Un o lwerddon;
 Arall arfogion
 O'r Llychlyniglon,
 Lloerw bwlion m.*

Three legions came in vessels of the food; three ample ships basely to attempt him: one from Ireland; another of warriors of the Llychlynian men, long barbed of the food. Gwethmawr, i O. Gwynedd.

Profiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (prawf) A proving; a trying, or essaying; a probation; a tasting; an essay, or trial.

Profiadawl, a. (profiad) Probationary.

Profiadu, v. a. (profiad) To make a probation.

Profiannawl, a. (profiant) Probationary.

Profiannu, v. a. (profiant) To make probation.

Profiannus, a. (profiant) Probationary.

Profiannusaw, v. a. (profiannus) To render probationary; to become probationary.

Profiant, s. m. (prawf) Probation; proof.

Profiator, ger. (profiad) In proving.

Profiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (profiad) A probator.

Profitor, sup. (prawf) To be proving.

Profwr, s. m.—pl. t. au (profi—gwr) A prover, a tryer, an examiner; one who attempts; a taster.

Proffes, s. f.—pl. t. au (pro—ffes) A predetermination; a vow; a profession, a calling.

Crefyddwr, a doro ei broffes, mid gair ei alr.

A religious man who shall break his vow, his word is a force. Wales Law.

Proffesawr, s. m.—pl. proffesorion (proffes) A retary; a professor.

Proffesiad, s. m. (proffes) A making a vow; entering into an obligation; a professing.

Proffesw, v. a. (proffes) To predetermine course; to make a vow; to profess.

Proffeswr, s. m.—pl. proffeswyr (proffes—wr) One who enters into a solemn obligation.

Proffesydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (proffes) A person who predetermines; a professor.

Prophwyd, s. m.—pl. t. i (pro—pwyd) A prophet.

Nid prophwyd neb yn ei wlad ei ben.

No one is a prophet in his own country. Ll. P. Moch.

Prophwydawl, v. a. (prophwyd) To prophesy.

Prophwydoliaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (prophwydawl)

A prophecy, a prognostication.

Prw, s. m. (py—rhu) That tends out, or forward.

Prudd, a. (pru) Circumspect, prudent, discreet; serious; sad, sorrowful.

O gydgyngbor tywysogion Ffrainc, y rhoddodd Llewelyn, a choron y deyrnas y gylid i hi; a gwedd hyryd y cyfoeth yn brudd ac yn ddoeth ac yn ddodwydd byd ei ors.

From the common advice of the princes of France, it was given to Llewelyn, and the crown of the kingdom, and after that he governed the realm discreetly and was happy, as long as his life lasted. G. ab Iwan.

Pruddaad, s. m. (pruddau) A rendering circumspect or prudent; a rendering serious; a becoming serious or thoughtful.

Pruddawl, v. a. (pruddau) Of a prudent tendency; tending to become serious or thoughtful.

Pruddau, v. a. (prudd) To use circumspection; to become prudent; to be serious; to become sad or sorrowful.

Prudd-deb, s. m. (prudd) Prudence; seriousness.

Prudd-der, s. m. (prudd) Seriousness; pensiveness.

Prudd-dra, s. m. (prudd) Discreetness.

Pruddedd, s. m. (prudd) Discreetness; sadness.

Prw, s. m. (py—rhu) Extension or a reach forward; a state of anxiety.

Prws, s. m. (prw) A state tending to; a state of activity, or business.

'rwst, s. m. (prws) Bustle; turmoil, tumult.
'rwy, s. m.—pl. f. on (prw) That tends onward.
'rwyaw, v. a. (prwy) To attain, or to reach.
'rwyawl, a. (prwy) Attaining, reaching.
'rwsy, s. m. (py—rhwys) A tendency to protrude.
'rwsyaw, v. a. (prwys) To protrude, to reach out.
'rwsawl, a. (prwys) Protruding, reaching out.
'rwsyg, s. m. (prwys) That protrudes; that is over, upon, or impending.
'rwsygaw, v. a. (prwysg) To surmount, to get upon, to get uppermost.

Pan dyblai, prwygaf i'r bwr,
Gael anrwyd—

When he thought he might, he mounted to the top, thinking to have a treat—
L. Mow, duchan Ll. ab Gutyn.

'rwsygawl, a. (prwysg) Surmounting, getting on.
'rwsygiad, s. m.—pl. f. an (prwysg) A surmounting, a getting uppermost.
'rwsygl, s. m. (prwysg) That is impending.
'rwsygliad, s. m. (prwysgl) An impending.
'rwsysiad, s. m. (prwys) A protruding, thrusting.
'rwsyst, s. m. (prwys) That is forward, or before; an obstacle; that causes anxiety, or care.
'rwsysti, s. m. (prwyst) Solicitude, or anxiety.

Nac ofawch ormod prwystl,
Nwy no'r fwyach yn gweith,
Nid ardd, nid erddir toll;
Nid llawenach neb no hi.

Be not dejected with too much anxiety, more than the blackbird in a grove, who ploughs not, who has no ploughing done for her; there is none more cheerful than her. Englynion Moe.

Prwystiad, s. m.—pl. f. an (prwyst) A rendering fall of bustle; a becoming solicitous.
Prwystiaw, v. a. (prwyst) To bustle; to be full of anxiety, to be solicitous.
Prwysti, s. m. (prwyst) That is agitated, tumultuous or bustling. a. Tumultuous; bustling.

Prwystl fydd ton, a tharan;
Cyd bont brwstl eu gweith,
Yn nydd trin ni yn Trystan.

Tumultuous will be a wave, and a thunder; as long as their course may be tumultuous, is the day of conflict I am Trystan. Ymdd. Trystan a Gwarchmai.

Prwystiad, s. m. (prwystl) A bustling; hurry.
Prwystiaw, v. a. (prwystl) To bustle, to hurry.
Prwystledd, s. m. (prwystl) A state of bustling.
Pry, s. m.—pl. f. oedd (py—rhy) That is extended; that is produced; that abounds; produce; food, victuals. Dos i hel dy bry, go and hunt for thy food, or seek for thy grub.
Pryd, s. m.—pl. f. ian (py—rhyd) That is present, that is an object or under cognizance; a stated period, set time, hour, or season; time; a meal time; also, the favour of the countenance, or visage; an aspect; also comeliness, handsomeness, beauty. O bryd bwy gilydd, from one time to another; pa bryd y dot yma? what time wilt thou come here?

Un-pryd yr iar yn ysgubawr.

The hen makes but one meal in a barn. Adage.

Hwarddedig pryd with a garer.

The countenance wears a smile towards such as he loves. Adage.

Nid wrth bryd cerid gwelgedd.

Not by the aspect do the women love. Adage.

Yr oedd hi, er a ddwyron',
Ragor bryd rhag eiry bron.

There was to thee, whatever they may say, a countenance serving the snow of the hill. Bede Brwynllys.

Pryd, adv. (py—rhyd) Seeing that; as it happens.
Pryd nad clif, seeing that thou wouldst not go.
Prydain, a. (pryd) Exhibiting presence or cognizance; exhibiting an open or fair aspect; full of beauty, well-seeming, beautiful; polished or civilized with respect to morals. YNYS PRYDAIN, the Fair Island, the Isle of Britain.

Tri enw Ynys Prydain; cyn ei chyflannoddy Gwl Gwl o galwal Cws Merddin; gweili ei chafael, y Fyl Ynys; a gwedi caffel o Brydyn ab Aedd Mawr hi, Ynys Prydyn.

The three names of the Isle of Britain: before it was inhabited the Hord Gwl used to call it the Water-girt Green Flat; after obtaining it, the Honey Island; and after Prydyn son of Aedd the Great had obtained it, the Isle of PRYDYN. Triodd.

Triagail cantref Prydain y sydd dan Cado Hen.

The three score hundreds of BRITAIN are under Cado the Aged. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Prydawl, a. (pryd) Belonging to what is present or an object of cognizance; seasonable.

Prydeiniad, s. m.—pl. prydeiniad (prydain) An inhabitant of Britain, a Briton.

Pryder, s. m. (prw) Anxiety, solicitude, care.

Ni wyr pryder nis prydero ac nis prydo.

He knows not anxiety that does not consider and that does not experience. Adage.

Mi nid wyf lawen o lawenydd bryd,
Am bryder yr unlydd;
Am Owain, am ddwyrain dyrllydd,
Am deyrn, am gedyrn gedydd.

I am not cheerful from cheerfulness of mind, because of the trouble of that one day; for Owain, for exalted generosity, for a prince, for the companion of the mighty. D. Lloisgwrn Moe.

Pryderawl, a. (pryder) Solicitous, anxious, considerate, provident, careful, thoughtful.

Pryderl, s. m. (pryder) Anxiety, deep thought.

Pryderiad, s. m. (pryder) A causing anxiety; a considering anxiously.

Pryderu, v. n. (pryder) To be anxious, to be solicitous; to consider; to provide.

Dihudd a brydero.

Let such as will be anxious be divested of sleep. Adage.

Gweddus ar wraig, y nalll law yn casgu, y llall yn rhanu, ac ei phen yn pryderu.

Seemly on a woman, the one hand collecting, and the other distributing, and her head considering. Triodd Moe.

Pryderus, a. (pryder) Anxious, pensive.

Pryderusaw, v. a. (pryderus) To render anxious; to become solicitous, to become thoughtful.

Pryderusedd, s. m. (pryderus) Anxiousness.

Pryderusrwydd, s. m. (pryderus) Anxiousness, solicitousness; pensiveness; contemplativeness.

Pryderwawd, s. m. (pryder—gwawd) A profoundly considered eulogy.

Pryderwawd cendawd cyfnerthi ni wn.

Profound praise of the energetic mind I am not master of. Elusen ab Gwarchmai.

Prydfalch, a. (pryd—balch) Of a superb aspect.

Prydfardd, s. m.—pl. prydfeirdd (pryd—bardd) A bard who delineates; a recording bard.

Gwaedd uchel dwyn Hywel harid;
Gwaeth yw dwyn brawdfach brydfardd.

A loud outcry for the taking away of Hywel the Superb; woe is the taking the foster-brother of a recording bard. Iolo Goch.

Prydfawr, a. (pryd—mawr) Magnificent.

Graecaw amw ynghudd yn Mhrydain
I'm mbyrdiawr ddaenhuad.

The gratulation of the public ministry in Britain to my magnificent restorer. Ll. P. Moch, i G. ab Llywelyn.

Prydferth, a. (pryd—berth) Of fair time, seasonable; handsome, decent, or seemly.

Cymeryd alludes heddyw yn wraig it, ni wyddodd ti pa le pan henyn, a gwrthawd fy merch innau; etnebyddi hagen nad pryderth it hyn, ac nad dibrid hyd tra paráu werth yn y brach deua hwn.

Taking this day a stranger for thy wife, whom thou dost not know whence descended, and refusing also my daughter; know therefore that such a thing is not handsome in thee, and it shall not be requited, whilst there is strength in this right arm. Gr. ab Arthur.

Prydferthedd, s. m. (prydferth) Becomingness.

Prydferthiad, s. m. (prydferth) A rendering handsome, a becoming comely or graceful.

prydferth, s. m. (prydferth) Becominggracefulness.
prydferth, s. m. (prydferth) To render becom-comely.
prydferth, s. m. (prydferth) Becomingness, comeliness, gracefulness.
pryd, s. m. (pryd) A delineating of nature; a composing of poetry; poetry.

Yn yr ystyr, neu brydial!

What is metre, or poetry?

Sim. Pechm.

pryd-iaith, s. f. (pryd-iaith) Poetic language.
pryd, s. m. (pryd) To represent an object; to represent an event; to render seasonable; to set part a time; to become seasonable.

Yn yr ystyr, neu brydial!

Yn yr ystyr, neu brydial!

Yn yr ystyr, neu brydial!

There comes from Alclad bold faithful men, to drive away war from the Britons; there comes from Llydaw an auxiliary becoming seasonable, heroes on steeds of war who will not respect their lives.

Golyddau, Armes Prydain.

prydawl, s. m. (pryd) Objective; belonging to an event; seasonable, or of due time.

prydlaeth, s. m. (pryd-laeth) The quantity of milk milked at one time.

prydlaen, s. m. (pryd-laen) Seasonable, timely.

prydlaenad, s. m. (prydlaenad) A rendering seasonable; a becoming timely.

prydlaenau, v. a. (prydlaenau) To render seasonable; to become seasonable or timely.

prydlaender, s. m. (prydlaender) Seasonableness.

prydlaenodd, s. m. (prydlaenodd) Seasonableness.

prydlaeni, v. a. (prydlaeni) To render seasonable.

prydlaenau, s. m. (prydlaenau) The time from mid-day to the sixth hour; the afternoon.

Prigolau, dwyrain dawns,

Amser, aherth iawn,

A bore, a dawn,

A phrydawn hwy.

The twilight, when beauty rises, the hour of vapour, of acceptable sacrifice, and morning, and noon, and afternoon late.

L. G. Cuth.

prydawnawl, s. m. (prydawnawl) Afternoon tide.

prydawnbryd, s. m. (prydawnbryd) An afternoon meal; a dinner.

prydawnfryd, s. m. (prydawnfryd) Afternoon meat; a dinner.

prydawnfryd, s. m. (prydawnfryd) A certain afternoon.

prydawni, v. s. (prydawni) To grow late in the day, or in the afternoon.

*Trech i ddyn o'i wyn a'i yst na ddaw,
Cyn fwrddyd brydawni—*

It is simple for a man, that from his lust and his ardour he doth not come, ere his day grows towards a close.

Edm. Pry.

prydawniad, s. m. (prydawniad) A becoming late in the afternoon.

prydred, s. m. (pryd-rhed) Chronology.

prydu, v. a. (prydu) To represent an object; to represent an event; to record time; to delineate, to form; to compose; to compose poetry.

Prydu gairiau chwaraes;—Yr Arglwydd a bryddodd y poder.

To invent playful words;—The Lord composed the paternoster.

H. Cer. Mag.—Mabington.

Ref a orog Hengist, erbyn y dydd hwn, prydu twyll, nid awgyn no rhoddi cyllau i'w bod gwr oadodyn.

What did Hengist, against that day, was to contrive treachery, nothing less than giving a long knife to every man of them.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Dewlawn dduchen Dafydd

O'n prydu ym gloewrym gied

O arall—

I would rather choose the satire of David, than to have composed for me splendid praise by another.

Gr. Grog.

prydu, v. a. (prydu) Slightly, comely; seasonable.
prydusaw, v. s. (prydusaw) To render comely or handsome; to become comely; to become seasonable or timely.

prydusdra, v. m. (prydusdra) Comeliness; beauty;
seasonableness.

prydusedd, s. m. (prydusedd) Comeliness, beauty;
seasonableness.

prydusarwydd, s. m. (prydusarwydd) Comeliness.

prydwen, s. f. (pryd-gwen) That is white.

Tarlau a gymdal Arthur ar ei ysgwydd, yr hon a elwid Prydwen.

A shield did Arthur take upon his shoulder, the which was called Prydwen.

Gr. ab Arthur.

prydydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (prydydd) One who describes or represents, a recorder of events; one who forms or composes; a delineator of what is beautiful; a teacher of what is fair, in a moral sense, a civilizer; a poet.

Tri pheth a wnant prydydd; awen, gwybodaeth a chyhyrion.

Three things form a poet; genius, knowledge, and licence.

Bardd.

prydyddaid, s. m. (prydyddaid) Like a poet, poetic.

prydyddawl, s. m. (prydyddawl) Poetic, poetical.

prydyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (prydyddes) A poetess.

prydyddiad, s. m. (prydyddiad) A poetising.

prydyddiaeth, s. m. (prydyddiaeth) The composition of poetry, poetry.

Tair dyben prydyddiaeth; cynnydd ddaol, cynnydd ddaol, cynnydd dyddau.

The three intentions of poetry; the increase of good, the increase of understanding, and the increase of happiness.

Bardd.

prydyddu, v. a. (prydyddu) To poetise, to compose poetry, to write verses, or to versify.

prydyn, s. m. (prydyn) A name synonymous with Prydain, or Britain, and sometimes used for it but in general applied to Scotland.

Hon a orugyn

Holl Loegr a Phrydya.

She will conquer all England and Scotland.

Taliesin.

prydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (prydd) That is teeming with produce; a luxuriant spot.

A'r bedwerydd

Rhan mawn i'r prydd,

Yn dda i'r ffrwyth

Ar ei gartref—

A'r bryn a'r prydd

A yst ddaerdydd;

A'r dyn a fo

Tebyg iddo,

Cael mae hwn

Y gair a'i gadw.

And the fourth part in rich land, producing fruit a hundredfold; and the hill and dale are happy; and the person who is similar to that, he receives the word and keeps it.

T. ab Iwan a'r Rhy.

prydd, s. m. (prydd) Good, teeming with good; rich or luxuriant; comfortable, happy.

prydd, s. m. (prydd) To live well; gwlad prydd teem, a country abounding with every comfort; llath prydd, rich milk; yd prydd, fine corn.

Sid.

Tragwyddoldeb yw dy oen brydd;

Pawb oroll ydd i ddaerdd.

Eternity is thy happy life; all other beings are to end.

Gr. G. Grog.

Mae guto'r bryddid gorus,

Ac o'i bryddid's brydd.

He has the best of victuals, and all of his month comfortable.

Bardd a'r Rhy.

pryddad, s. m. (pryddad) A teeming with good a becoming luxuriant; a being comfortable.

pryddawl, s. m. (pryddawl) Of a luxuriant tendency; tending to be comfortable.

pryddau, v. a. (pryddau) To become teeming with luxuriance; to be productive.

pryddodd, s. m. (pryddodd) Luxuriantness, fertility.

ryrdest, s. f.—pl. t. au (pry—dest) A rule or law of poetry; metre; song. Fryrdest ddaedi, blank verse.

Pryrdestau Cymaru, cymrodol cynnw, Nadd Cynrdestu a'n cymau!

The poets of Wales, expressive of social harmony, shall not Cynrdestu maintain them!

ryrdestawd, s. m. (prydest) Poetic composition

*Goren ym o'm rhen ragfedi
Rwyddi afaith o brifiaith bryde,
Prydestawd o'r Drindawd draetha
Traeth folant teilyngdawd dalu.*

Rest for me from my Lord to be pre-endowed with the fluent mastery of poetry in a primitive tongue, a composition speaking of the Trinity, a discourse of praise, a tribute due to be paid.

Elder Sels.

ryrdestawl, a. (prydest) Metrical, poetical.

ryrdestiad, s. m. (prydest) A forming of metre ryrdestu, v. a. (prydest) To form rules of poetry; to make metrical compositions.

ryrdestwr, s. m.—pl. prydestwyr (prydest—gwr) A versifier, a minstrel.

ryrddawr, a. (prydd) Greatly teeming or rich.

ryrddiad, s. m. (prydd) A teeming with produce; a rendering luxuriant.

ryrddineb, s. m. (prydd) Luxuriantness.

ryrddus, a. (prydd) Of a productive nature.

pryf, s. m.—pl. t. ed (pry) Any thing produced, or generated; any small animal, a vermin; a worm. Pryf ffyrnig yw y seidr, the snake is a noxious vermin; pryf cyfrwys yw llwynnau, a fox is a cunning animal; y pryf, the vermin; a term often used for an animal that is hunted for prey, but more particularly applied to the hare. Pryf llwyd, pryf penfith, a badger; also called brach and mochyn bychan; pryf cadach-cw, pryf y gwinwydd, blewog amldroed, a palmerworm; pryf y dail, pryf y cawl, pryf y bre-sych, lindys, a caterpillar; pryf ciust, chwilen ciust, an earwig; pryf y gamwyll, pryf y goleu-ad, pryf y maldwydd, pryf dillad, a moth; pryf cogy, adar cop, a spider; pryf y gwellt, pryf ysgwed, a cadeworm; pryf yr yd, ydy, the caterpillar.

Pryfad, s. m.—pl. pryfaid (pryf) An animal state; an animal; a vermin; a worm.

Pryfadau, a. (pryfad) Fall of vermin; vermiculous; moth.

Pryfawl, a. (pryf) Verminous; vermicular.

Pryfed, s. pl. aggr. (pryf) Vermin; worms.

*Trefnais wrth afaith afaith afaith;
Trefnais i bryfed, lle yd ymbrofa!*

Then didst prepare the slough of hell suitable for Satan; the habitation for worms, where they will be in mutual strife.

Cornewyn.

Pryfediad, s. m. (pryfed) Vermination.

Pryfedig, a. (pryfed) Affected by worms. Pren pryfedig, worm-eaten wood.

Pryfedu, v. a. (pryfed) To become worms; to breed worms, to verminate.

Pryfen, s. f.—pl. t. au (pryf) A vermin of the female kind.

Y bryfen, grybes gefnach A'r garen a'r barns bach.

The animal, the warmly clad hare, with the small shanks and legs.

T. Pryf.

Pryfeta, v. a. (pryfed) To gather vermin, to hunt for vermin.

Pryfetol, s. c.—pl. pryfetolion (pryfed) A vermin-catcher.

Pryfig, a. (pryf) Having worms, vermiculous.

Pryfigodd, s. f. (pryfig) A breeding of worms.

Pryfydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pryf) A vermin-killer.

Pryfyddiaeth, s. m. (pryfydd) The calling of a vermin-killer.

Pryfyn, s. m. dim. (pryf) A small vermin; a little worm; a single vermin.

*Nid gwr dewr, nid gwr dyn
Nid par wyf, ond pryfyn.*

Not a brave man, not a best person, not pure am I, but a small worm.

W. Middleton.

Pryffan, s. m. (pry—ffan) A spreading radiation

Pryffwn, s. m. (pry—ffwn) A source of spreading.

a. Excellent, principal, superior.

Gogwa Ddaw, pryffwn y proffwyd.

I know God, the one set forth of the prophets.

Li. P. Mech.

*Gwigoedd ym rhoddes—
O borffar, o bryffwn flant,
O hall, ac sar ac arian.*

Garments he bestowed on me, of purple, of superior linen, of velvet, and gold and silver.

Li. P. Mech.

Pryffwnt, s. m. (pryffwn) A source of spreading; a centre; a principal.

Gadewais, a bystidia bwyt Priffford y bob, a'n pryffwnt.

I forsook, and I turned off the people's high road, and their central point.

D. ab Owllwyn.

Pryleu, s. m. (pry—llen) A fluent utterance.

Pryn, s. m. (pry) A take, a taking to one's self; a purchase; desert, merit. a. Bought.

Gwell un syawyr pryn na dda syawyr parawd.

Better is one wit bought than two wits ready.

Adage.

Gwell addon gwarth neg na pryn.

Better a selling beast than a bought one.

Adage.

Prynadwy, a. (pryn) Purchasable; buyable.

Prynator, ger. (pryn) In purchasing.

Prynawl, a. (pryn) Purchasing, buying.

Pryned, s. f.—pl. t. au (pryn) A holder, or that takes hold; a hand.

Prynedig, a. (pryn) Being purchased; redeemed

Prynedigaeth, s. m. (prynedig) The act of taking, buying, or purchasing; redemption.

Prynedigawl, a. (prynedig) Belonging to purchase; redemptory.

Pryngar, a. (pryn) Addicted to buying.

Pryniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pryn) A buying, a purchasing; a redeeming.

Pryniadawl, a. (pryniad) Purchasing; redeeming

Pryniawd, s. m. (pryn) The act of buying.

Pryniawdwr, s. m.—pl. pryniawdwyr (pryniawd—gwr) A purchaser or a buyer; a redeemer.

Pryniawdr, s. m.—pl. pryniodron (pryniawd) A purchaser or a buyer; a redeemer.

Prynitor, sup. (pryn) To be purchasing.

Prynu, v. a. (pryn) To take, to lay hold of; to purchase, to buy; to redeem; to deserve, to merit. Pryna hyn, buy this much.

Gwarch dy wybodaeth i bryn agawyr.

Sell thy knowledge to buy some.

Adage.

Cas dyn a bryno bob peth ac heb ennill ar ôdlin.

Odious the person who buys every thing without gaining upon any.

Adage.

Cred yn Naw a yth wneith; car Ddaw a yth brynwys; ac ofna Ddaw a yth barna.

Believe in God who made thee; love God who redeemed thee and fear God who will judge thee.

Barddas.

*Nid mas modd dewi heb holl pry oddynt;
Prynesynt eu moll.*

In no wise can I be mute, without asserting who they were; they deserved to be extolled.

Owllwyn.

Prynwyr, s. m.—pl. prynwyr (pryn—gwr) Buyer

Prynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pryn) A buyer.

Prys, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pry—ys) A covert; a resort, or an abode; brushwood, underwood.

It forms the names of several places: as Bryn y Prys; Prysaddfed, Pryseddod, Prys Ior-westl, Prys Gaga, Prystalyn, Prys Dolffyn.

Twrif gawr gorwyddawr gochwy, Mal twrif loredawnt am brys.

The din of the shout of the tolling steed-mounted warriors, like the tumult of a whirlwind over the brushwood.

Selyll Bryfforch.

Prysain, a. (prys) Abounding with coverts; abounding with brushwood. s. f. A place covered with brushwood.

Prysawl, a. (prys) Belonging to a covert; frequented; overrun with brushwood.

Prysedd, s. m. (prys) State of being frequented.

Prysedda, v. a. (prysedd) To make a resort; to make an abode, to dwell, to inhabit.

Pryseddawl, a. (prysedd) Belonging to a dwelling
Pryseddfa, s. f.—pl. t. on (prysedd) A place of resort; a dwelling place.

Pryseddod, s. f.—pl. t. au (prysedd—bod) A dwelling place, or a habitation.

Prysediad, s. m. (prysedd) A making a resort; a fixing an abode; a dwelling.

Pryseddu, v. a. (prysedd) To make a resort; to take up an abode; to dwell.

Y nos hono y doel Collen adref i'w guddig, ac y gwoddial ar Dduw am gael lle i bryseddu tra byddal byw.

That night Collen came home to his hermitage, and he prayed to God for obtaining a place to dwell whilst he should live.

Buckedd Collen.

Prysel, s. m.—pl. t. au (prys) A place overgrown with brushwood, a thicket.

Pryseliad, s. m. (prysel) A becoming covered with brushwood, a growing to a thicket.

Pryselu, v. n. (prysel) To become overgrown with brushwood, or to become a thicket.

Prysg, s. m.—pl. t. au (prys) That extends or stretches over; also brushwood, or underwood. There are several mountains of this name; as the Prysg Du, in Radnorshire, Y Prysg, in Glamorganshire.

Prysgawl, a. (prysg) Expanding over, covering.

Prysgiad, s. m. (prysg) A stretching over; also a becoming covered with brushwood.

Prysgl, s. m. (prysg) A copse; brushwood.

Prysgliach, s. pl. aggr. (prysgl) Stunted straggling trees.

Prysglwyn, s. m.—pl. t. i (prysg—llwyn) Copse.

Prysgoed, s. pl. aggr. (prys—coed) Brushwood.

Prysgwydd, s. pl. (prysg—gwydd) Brushwood.

Prysgwydden, s. f. dim. (prysgwydd) A coppice-tree.

Prysgyll, s. m. (prys—cyll) A place overgrown with small hazel wood, a hazel copse.

Prysiad, s. m. (prys) A forming a covert; a making a resort; a becoming overrun.

Prystell, s. f. (prwat) Tumult, or uproar.

Prystellach, s. f. (prystell) A state of uproar. v. a. To make an uproar or a tumult.

Y rhai drwg—pan drosgont wy y daw y cythreullaid yn heitlau a phrystellach (awr gant) ym grolaw i byrth uffern.

The wicked ones, when they are deceased, the devils will urge in screams with dire uproar horribly to the gates of hell.

Elucidarius.

Prysu, v. a. (prys) To form a covert; to make a resort; to overrun; to cover with brushwood.

Prysur, a. (prws) Assiduous, diligent, busy; making haste; serious. Yr wyf yn brysur iawn wrth dy waith, thou art very busy at thy work; gweda imi yn brysur, tell me seriously. Dyfied.

Rhaid yw ymddilwng i'w lloedd present, Canys prysur ei holeredd!

It is necessary to depart from the station of the present, for seeing is the vanity of it.

Elide Soli.

Prysuraw, v. a. (prysur) To make haste with what is in hand; to be assiduous; to haste. to be serious or intent upon a thing.

Prysurawl, a. (prysur) Tending to be assiduous, tending to hasten; of a serious turn.

Prysardeb, s. m. (prysur) Assiduity, diligence; business; haste; earnestness, attentiveness.

Prysuredig, a. (prysur) Being busied, hastened.

Prysuriad, s. m. (prysur) A being diligent, a busy; a hastening, a giving attention.

Prysuriath, s. m. (prysur) The state of being diligent; a state of bustle; attention.

Och Dduw! na ddaw ef eto'neth, I ytwag treiswyr treiswriaeth cynnyga Yn nghyfl prysuriath.

Would to God that he were to come again, to humble the oppressors, of the most violent oppression, in the urgency of distress.

Elide Soli.

Prysurwch, s. m. (prysur) Diligence; earnestness; a state of bustle or haste.

Prysurwr, a. m.—pl. prysurwyr (prysur—gwr) A bustling; a hastener.

Pryswr, s. m.—pl. pryswyr (prys—gwr) A sorter, a frequenter; a dweller.

Puch, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py—uch) A sigh; earnest desire, a wish.

Puchaw, v. a. (puch) To sigh; to long, to wish.

Ar eu pechodau puchawen arwydd eidd; Ym dwyn croes Crist ar fy ysgwydd; Augur yr enaid, afraid afwydd, A ddaw am buchlaw am bechwydd.

On their sins I would have desired the signs of the cross that I might bear the cross of Christ on my shoulder; the of the soul, an unloving fate, will come for longing for a edness.

Elide Soli.

Puchedig, a. (puch) Being longed for or desired.
Puchiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (puch) A sighing after; a desiring earnestly; a desiring.

Puchiannawl, a. (puchiant) Panting; sighing; earnestly desirous; greatly longing after.

Puchiannu, v. a. (puchiant) To make a sighing to desire earnestly, to long or to pant after.

Puchiannus, a. (puchiant) Sighing; longing.

Puchiant, s. m. (puch) A sighing; earnest desire.

Daw llywyswr— Ddoddu digrwydd s'm diweddod hyd frwad; Defaid dibechawd ym a bucho; O bechiant mawrion of a'r rhodda Roddion ordywyll s'm didwyll!

God the supreme ruler, with uncorrupted love may he send me for judgement; a sincere heart may he send for me; greatly existing anxiety may he bestow on me; that shall undecieve me.

Elide Soli.

Puchlaw, v. a. (puch) To sigh, to desire earnestly.
Puchlawl, a. (puch) Sighing, longing, wishing.

Puchwr, s. m.—pl. puchwyr (puch—gwr) One who sighs, one who longs.

Pud, s. m. (py—ud) That tends to allure.

Pudd, s. m. (py—udd) Aptness to stop.

Pul, s. m.—pl. t. on (py—al) That tends to straiten.

Pum, s. m. (py—um) That tends to form, or to aggregate; the number five, used as a prefix in composition.

Pumban, s. m.—pl. t. au (pum—ban) A term of prosody for a stanza of five verses.

Pumbanawg, a. (pumban) Consisting of five verses or lines.

Pumby, s. pl. (pum—bys) Five fingers. a. Five-fingered; common cinquefoil: pumbyr yr aith, procumbent albidia.

Pumcanfed, s. m. (pumcant) The five hundredth part. a. Five hundredth.

Pumcanmil, s. m. (pumcant—mil) Five hundred thousand. a. Five hundred thousand.

Pumcanmilfed, s. m. (pumcanmil) Five hundred thousandth part. a. Five hundred thousandth.

Pumcanmyrdd, s. m. (pumcant—myrdd) The number of five hundred myriads, or five millions. a. Five hundred myriads.

Pumcant, s. m. (pum—cant) Five hundred.

Pumcanwaith, s. m. (pumcant—gwaith) Five hundred times.

Pumdalen, s. f. (pum—dalen) A cinquefoil. a. Five-leaved.

Pumdalenawg, a. (pumdalen) Having five leaves.

Pumdeg, s. m. (pum—deg) Fifty. a. Fifty.

Pumdegawl, a. (pumdeg) Belonging to fifty.

Pumdegfed, s. m. (pumdeg) The fiftieth part.

Pumdegmil, s. m. (pumdeg—mil) Fifty thousand. a. Fifty thousand.

Pumdryll, s. pl. (pum—dryll) Five pieces. a. Consisting of five pieces.

Pumloes, s. pl. (pum—gloes) The five agonies; a term in theology.

Pumleng, s. pl. (pum—lleng) Five legions. a. Consisting of five legions.

Pumlyfr, s. pl. (pum—llyfr) The pentateuch.

Pumped, s. m. (pump) The fifth. a. Fifth.

Pumpedban, s. m. (pumped—ban) A fifth line.

Pumpedmis, s. (pumped—mis) The fifth month.

Pumpednos, s. f. (pumped—nos) A fifth night.

Pumedran, s. f. (pumped—rhan) A fifth part.

Pummil, s. m. (pum—mil) Five thousand.

Pummilfed, s. f. (pummil) The five thousandth part. a. Five thousandth.

Pummis, s. pl. (pum—mis) Five months. a. Of five months.

Pummysriad, s. m.—pl. pummysriaid (pum—mysriad) What is five years of age.

Pumwnt, s. m. (pum—mwnt) Five hundred thousand.

Pumalen, s. f. (pum—dalen) Cinquefoil.

Pumalenawg, a. (pumalen) Cinquefoil.

Pumochr, s. m. (pum—ochr) A pentagon. a. Of five sides.

Pumochrawg, a. (pumochr) Five-sided, pentagon.

Pumoed, s. pl. (pum—oed) Five ages; a term used sometimes for Pumoes.

Pumoes, s. pl. (pum—oes) Five lives, or five periods; a term in theology for the period before the coming of Christ.

Achaw pumoes byd y bu iddaw, Uchelwr mirnais, ber drain dreyddaw.

For the sake of the five ages of the world, the glorious exalted one was pierced with the point of thorns. D. Benfras.

Pumongl, s. m. (pum—ongl) That has five angles. a. Of five angles.

Pumonglawg, a. (pumongl) Pentagonal.

Pump, s. m. (pum) Five, used only absolutely.

Pumplyg, s. m. (pum—plyg) What is doubled five times. a. Quintuple.

Pumplygawl, a. (pumplyg) Quintuple.

Pumrhan, s. pl. (pum—rhan) Five shares.

Pumrhanawl, a. (pumrhan) Quinquartite.

Pumsill, s. pl. (pum—sill) Five syllables. a. Of five syllables.

Pumsillawg, a. (pumsill) Of five syllables.

Pumtant, s. m. (pum—fant) A pentachord.

Pumtro, s. pl. (pum—tro) Five turns. a. Of five turns; five times.

Pumwaith, s. pl. (pum—gwaith) Five times.

Pumwan, s. pl. (pum—gwan) Five wounds, a term in christian theology.

Can dug pumwan Crist pumoes o gaeth—

Since the five wounds of Christ bear the five ages out of bondage. L. P. Moch.

Pumwr, s. pl. (pum—gwr) Five men.

Pumwriad, s. m.—pl. pumwriaid (pumwr) One who is over five men.

Pun, s. m. (py—un) That is equal, even, or equivalent. a. Equal, equivalent.

*Podwar pun brodyr a'm be,
Ac i bob un pentaul;
Ni wyr Tŷen berchen i'da.*

Four equal brothers to me have been, and each was allowed to be the head of a family; but Tŷen knows to itself no owner. Llywarch Hen.

Punt, s. f.—pl. punnoedd (pun) A denomination for the sum of twenty shillings, or a pound.

Pur, s. m. (py—ur) That is pure or without alloy. a. Pure, clean; undefiled, perfect; sincere.

*Iotaf hair, o bwrw arwar,
A beris smad ac arwr.*

I will adore the Cause, from so pure a source did produce revealing things and birds. Llywelyn Fardd.

Pur, adv. (py—ur) Essentially; very. Pur dda, very good; pur dost, very severe.

Purad, s. m. (pur) Depuration, a purifying.

Puradwy, a. (purad) Capable of being pure.

Puraidd, a. (pur) Somewhat pure or clean.

Purain, a. (pur) Abounding with purity.

Puraw, v. a. (pur) To purify, to cleanse.

Purawd, s. m. (pur) Purgation, or cleansing.

Purawl, a. (pur) Purifying, cleansing.

Purawr, s. m. (pur) A purifier, a purger.

Purdan, s. m. (pur—tan) Purgatory.

Purdeb, s. m. (pur) Parity; sincerity.

Tair cynnedd purdeb ar iaith; prif anawdd, prif arfer, a phrifddallwydd.

The three principles of purity in a language; an established idiom, an established usage, and established application. Barddas.

Purdra, s. m. (pur) Pureness, or purity.

Puredig, a. (purad) Purified, cleansed.

Puredigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. an (puredig) The being purified; a purification; a lustration.

Puredigaethawl, a. (puredigaeth) Purificative.

Puredigaethu, v. a. (puredigaeth) To make a purification, to make a lustration.

Puredigaw, v. a. (puredig) To render purified.

Puredigawl, a. (puredig) Purificatory.

Puredd, s. m. (pur) Purity, pureness, cleanness.

Pureidd-dra, s. m. (puraidd) A purified state.

Pureiddiad, s. m. (puraidd) A rendering purified.

Pureiddiaw, v. a. (puraidd) To render pure; to become of a pure nature; to lustrate.

Pureiddiedig, a. (pureiddiad) Being purified.

Pureiddiedigawl, a. (pureiddiedig) Purificative.

Pureiddrwydd, s. m. (puraidd) Pureness, purity.

Puren, s. f.—pl. t. an (pur) A purifying machine, a sifting skreen.

Puriad, s. m.—pl. t. an (pur) A making pure; a becoming pure; a purifying; a lustration.

Puriannawl, a. (puriant) Purificative.

Puriannu, v. a. (puriant) To dehydrate.

Puriannus, a. (puriant) Depuratory, purifying.

Puriannusaw, v. a. (purianus) To render purificatory; to become purificative.

Puriant, s. m. (pur) Purgation, depuration.

Purior, ger. (puriaid) In purifying.

Puriedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (puriaid) A purifier.

Purineb, s. m. (pur) A state of purity.

Purion, adv. (pur) Essentially, purely; very well.

Wyd burion i gyrchu aneu at wr boneddig.

Thou art very well to fetch death to a nobleman. Adage, applied to a dilatory one.

Puritor, sup. (pur) To be purifying.

Purian, a. (pur—glan) Purely clean, .

Id, adv. (pwyl—clydd) To another.
m.—pl. f. oedd (pwyl—yll) That clears the way forward, an opening a way; impulse; common sense, wit, discretion, prudence, perseverance. Pwyll certh, sharp wit.
Athraw doeth pwyll, athraw angoeth dylth.
The instructor of the wise is reason, the instructor of the gawies is example. Adage.
Owell pwyll nog sar.
Prudence is better than gold. Adage.
A fo da o bwyll a fydd diboen.
He that will be of good discretion will be free from pain. Adage.
Pylt wyb—
Pwyll tan trwy lamon.
Fair Pylt of a course of fire through a chimney. Llywarch Hen.
On pwyll canwyll rhag cymen,
Gorse canwyll yw pwyll pen.
If there be a lamp to avoid contention, the best lamp is common sense. H. C. Llwyd.
A'r bwyll a cyrth o'r bellon,
A'r byd a ddygwydd ar hen.
And the impulsive power will fall out of the globe, and the world will come to an end. Llywarch Hen.
Pwyll, a. (pwyl—yll) Tending onward, forward; wary, discreet.
Par yw ei gledd, por y Glyn,
Pwyll rwygwyr poli orawyn.
Pure is his sword, the lord of the Vale, the forward hero far conquering. Iolo Goch.
Pwyllad, s. m.—pl. f. oedd (pwyl) An impelling, or guiding forward; a reasoning; a reasoning faculty.
Fy Maw, fy nerthiad,
A ddolen trwy fy tad
Rheid i'm pwyllad.
My God, my strengthener did infuse through my temple a soul for my guidance. Taliesin.
Pwylladwy, a. (pwyllad) Capable of reasoning.
Pwyllad, s. c.—pl. pwyllleion (pwyl) That is impulsive; one who uses discretion.
Pwyllator, ger. (pwyllad) In impelling, or investigating; in reasoning.
Pwyllaw, v. a. (pwyl) To clear a way forward, to open a course; to impel; to reason, to think, to deliberate; to act discreetly; to call to mind, to contemplate, to think of.
Pwyllad Ddaewd farchwag gwain,
Ez schwydd gwnethur celcia,
Ys erbyn a cryddid Owain.
Dashed the active warrior would impel onward, expecting to take a corpse, against the hasty onset of Owain. Llywarch Hen.
Mab Dew, dylaf dy bwyllaw.
Son of God, I ought to think of thee. D. Bonifas.
Pwyllawd, s. m. (pwyll) Impulsion; guidance forward; exertion of the mind.
Pwyllawg, a. (pwyll) Having impulse; rational, prudent, discreet, considerate, well-advised; circumspect, wary.
Pedyddawg, pwyllawg pwyll goddadh,
Pell a glod o glodaw aarnad.
Vigorous, impelling forward like the impulse of a conflagration, far has time for collecting spoil. Cynddelw, i O. ab Iedwyr.
Pwyllawr, s. m. (pwyll) An impulse; a motive; reasoning faculty.
Pwyllid, s. f.—pl. f. au (pwyll—tid) A loop.
Pwylledig, a. (pwyllad) Endued with impulse.
Pwyllodd, s. m. (pwyll) Discreetness, wariness.
Pwyllgall, a. (pwyll—call) Rationally wise.
Pwylliad, s. m.—pl. f. au (pwyll) An impelling, or guiding forward; a reasoning, exertion of the mind; contemplation.
Owain i feich cymrudd o gad;
A gwedy gwr garw bwylliad.
I beheld steeds harried with mutual fell from battle; and after the shout a frightful impelling. Llywarch Hen.

Noss goron dan bwyllad nerthiad gwychedd.
Were not the emotion of a hero best under discretion. Anarthur.
Nis myn pwyllad.
He will not receive direction. Adage.
Pwyllad, s. m.—pl. pwylliad (pwyll) A pilot.
Pwylliadu, v. a. (pwyllad) To guide as a pilot.
Pwyllawr, s. m. (pwyll) Impulse; motive.
Daw dewr-wir, pwyll pwyllawr o'n cyhan.
God of active truth, reason is far driven from our contention. L. F. Mech.
Pwyllig, a. (pwyll) Rational; discreet, wary.
Mae yn dawed yn bwyllig iawn, he is coming very leisurely. Dyfed.
Nid pwyllig y dyn a ddolir gwisgion.
The person who harbours envy is not prudent. Adage.
Pwylligrwydd, s. m. (pwyllig) Rationality.
Pwyllineb, s. m. (pwyll) Rationality, prudence.
Pwylllogi, v. a. (pwyllawg) To endue with reason, to become rational.
Pwylllogrwydd, s. m. (pwyllawg) Rationality, considerateness.
Pwyllus, a. (pwyll) Impulsive, rational, discreet.
Pwyllusaw, v. a. (pwyllus) To grow rational.
Pwyllusrwydd, s. m. (pwyllus) Impulsiveness; rationality, discreetness.
Pwyllwr, s. m.—pl. pwyllwyr (pwyll—gwr) One who impels; a discreet man.
Pwyn, s. m.—pl. f. iau (pwy—yn) A point.
Pwyned, s. f.—pl. f. i (pwyn) A broach; a fork.
Tri pheth boddid i wrar ei glaw: cyllid swchus; pwyndd; ac iau wr glaw.
Three things normally for a person at his dinner: a keen knife; a sharp-pointed broach; and a clean plate. Triodd Moes.
Pwyniad, s. m.—pl. f. au (pwyn) Any pointed tool; a spike; a skewer.
Tri anharddwch gwr mawr gwidd; pwyndd ryfer, cyllid sbectol, ac y saig y mabell.
Three things uncomely to a man in a banquet: a skewer too short, a blunt-edged knife, and the victuals at a distance. Triodd Moes.
Pwyniaw, v. a. (pwyn) To spike, to skewer.
Pwynt, s. m.—pl. f. iau (pwyn) An end, or point; a state, condition, case, or plight; good case.
A wyddant hwy pwy, o'm pwynt,
O ddaie ym, a droes namhwynt!
Do they know who, out of my good condition, out of treachery to me, has brought about indisposition. Iddo Brynnllw.
Pwyntel, s. m.—pl. f. i (pwynt) Any pointed tool; a pencil, a painter's brush or tool.
Un dull yw'r byd cyngyd oel
A phwyntelur dda pwyntel.
Of the same manner is the world of hidden design as a painter of an image with a pencil. Dr. R. Cent.
Pwyntiad, s. m. (pwynt) A bringing to a point; a putting into good case or plight.
Pwyntiaw, v. a. (pwynt) To point, to bring to a point; to put in good case or plight.
Braekst, tewychast, pwyntiaw.
Then hast become large, thou hast become fat, thou hast become of good case. Deut. 32. 15.
Pwyntiawl, a. (pwynt) Tending to a point; tending to be of good condition.
Pwyntiedig, a. (pwyntiad) Pointed, being made of good condition.
Pwyntiwr, s. m.—pl. pwyntwyr (pwynt—gwr) One who points; a fattener.
Pwyntl, s. m.—pl. f. au (pwynt) A pointed end; a tag. Pwyntl carai, tag of a lace; a poniard.
Pwys, s. m.—pl. f. au (pwy—ys) The state of being put down or at rest; the state of being down or upon; pressure, weight; a pound weight. Pwys cwyrr, pwys bach, a pound avoirdupoise; pwys cyfelein, pwys y gareg, but varying in weight: in Meirion it is two pounds avoirdupoise, and in Mon it is five. Dos wrth dy bwys, go at thy leisure; cymra bwys, take a seat. Dyfed.

Myndd i'w yr dion a phent ar bwys.

To go through the river with a bridge on the spot. Adage.

Pwysadwy, a. (pwys) Ponderable, capable of being weighed.

Pwysaw, v. a. (pwys) To throw upon, to fling down; to press, to weigh; to incline; to lean; to be a pressure, to be a burden: to take rest. Pwysa y bel, serve thou the ball; pwysaw at yr amser, to draw near the time; a waet di bwysaw? wilt thou take rest? Dyfed. Gwraig bwys, or gwraig briawd, a wedded wife; cariad-wraig, a love wife, or concubine.

Pwysawd, s. m. (pwys) The act of pressing, or weighing down; a weighing.

Pwysawdr, s. m.—pl. pwysadron (pwysawd) Any thing to press down with; a rammer.

Pwysawg, a. (pwys) Having a pressure; being of weight, being heavy.

Pwysawl, a. (pwys) Pressing; weighing.

Pwysedig, a. (pwys) Being pressed, weighed.

Pwysfawr, a. (pwys—mawr) Ponderous, weighty, momentous, of great consequence.

Pwysgar, a. (pwys) Tending to press.

Pwysgarwch, s. m. (pwysgar) Weightiness.

Pwysl, s. m. (pwys) Weight, heaviness.

Pwysiad, s. m. (pwys) A pressing; a weighing.

Pwysianawl, u. (pwysiant) Depressive.

Pwysiannu, v. a. (pwysiant) To cause a depression; to become depressive.

Pwysiant, s. m. (pwys) Depression, pressure.

Pwysig, a. (pwys) Pressing, ponderous, emphatic.

Pwysigrwydd, s. m. (pwysig) Pressingness; ponderousness, weightiness.

Pwysnech, s. m. (pwys) Depressiveness.

Pwyswr, s. m.—pl. pwyswyr (pwys—gwr) One who presses, or bears down; a weigher.

Pwysydd, s. m.—pl. t. lon (pwys) One who presses, one who bears down; a weigher.

Pwyth, s. m.—pl. t. i (pwy—yth) That runs in; a thrust; a stitch; a point, an angle, or indenting; a retaliation, a requital, a return. This pwyth, to pay a point, or to return like for like; pwyth celwydd, the reward of a lie; Pwythion, requitals; certain presents given, according to old usage, to a newly married couple, by the persons invited to the wedding: Pwyth Meirion, the Narrow Green Point, the name of the place where Caesar landed in Britain.

Pwythaw, v. a. (pwyth) To thrust in; to stitch.

Pwythawg, a. (pwyth) Having stitches.

Pwythawl, a. (pwyth) Stitching, sewing.

Pwythedig, a. (pwyth) Stitched, sewed.

Pwythiad, s. m. (pwyth) A stitching, a sticking.

Pwythwr, s. m.—pl. pwythwyr (pwyth—gwr) A stitcher.

Pwythydd, s. m.—pl. t. lon (pwyth) A stitcher.

PY, s. m. v. That is inward, that is involved; that is inward. It is a prefix in the composition of words; but generally dropping the vowel, on account of its being the shortest and giving way to all the other vowels.

Py, pron. (py, s.) What; which. It is used for Pa. adv. why, for what reason. Py efelly? why so?

Y gelysion oeddynt yn ymroddi i'w gwrthodwyr, gan gwrthodwyr y yrru, a'i ddiwyro: ac, i'w blaith pob wrth, priu a wngynt py wddi y gelysion gwrthodwyr hwy y brenia yn gystal.

The enemies were giving themselves up to their most cruel foes, in trying to conquer the island, and to destroy it: but amongst every thing, they were going to devote what way they could work the ruin of the king in the first place.

Brud y Brudwdd.

Nid rhaid tra ditha pŵl o'w py.

Py gellw'r gorddyr rhag pob gorddyr.

There need not be too much inquisitiveness in the act of whom; who will keep the bordering water from every material.

L. P. Moch, i'w gelysion.

Pyb, s. m. (py—yb) That is energetic or stout.

Pybi, s. m. (pyb) Vigour, potency, energy.

Rhos difro Benfro penfuddeu pybi;

Pob fedydd rwy cytira.

The depopulated moor of Penfro whose strength is cut off: the people of Christendom have heard it.

L. P. M.

Pyblaidd, a. (pybl) Of a vigorous nature.

Pyblu, v. a. (pybl) To invigorate, to animate.

Pybyr, a. (pyb) Strenuous, stout, vigorous.

Pybyraid, a. (pybyr) Somewhat strenuous.

Pybyriad, s. m. (pybyr) A rendering stout, or vigorous; a becoming vigorous; invigoration.

Pybyrn, v. a. (pybyr) To act stoutly; to exert.

Pawb ar d'ol: pybyrn; doe!

Pawb a'i warch, po bee achos

Ygyfarnog i'w log fach.

Every one is after thee: cheer up; thy every one is ready to his shout, if there should be occasion, thou little every one.

L. P.

Pybyrwrch, s. m. (pybyr) Strenuousness; stoutness, vigorousness; valiantness.

Heddwch, pybyrwrch y byd,

Cyfoeth a'w fach bwyd.

The peace, the vigor of the world, and wealth also be there.

L. P.

Pyd, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (py—yd) That sinks in; pit; a snare; danger. a. Dangerous.

Ar nid yw pwyll pyd yw.

If it be not prudent it is danger.

Adage.

Nid i'w hysu yw pyd.

What is not just is dangerous.

Adage.

Yn ddydd y'w yr oedd y pyd i'w hysu, yn ddydd y'w yr oedd y pyd i'w hysu.

When they came to the place where the snare was hidden for immediately the men of some rose up against them.

Brud y Brudwdd.

Pydaidd, a. (pyd) Tending to sink; dangerous.

Pydaw, s. m.—pl. t. an (pyd—aw) An ooze fluid; a quag; a well, or spring.

Pydawl, a. (pyd) Tending to sink; dangerous.

Pydewaid, s. m. (pydaw) An ooze of water.

Pydewtyd, a. (pydaw) Apt to ooze with water.

Pydiad, s. m. (pyd) A sinking; a forming a snare; a creating of danger.

Pydiant, s. m. (pyd) A sinking in; a snare; the act of bringing to danger.

Pydiaw, v. a. (pyd) To ensnare, to endanger, to expose to danger; to be in peril.

Ni bydd a'w hysu dymunaw

A fo mynaw byd yw ni bydiaw.

We will not be without the possibility of putting from the snare God whom the pelf of the world ensnare.

L. P.

Pydiedig, a. (pydiad) Being ensnared, endangered, exposed to peril.

Pydoldeb, s. m. (pydawl) Dangerousness.

Bydd yw Tawdr a'w hysu i'w fuddeu, rhag pydiedig.

Heiddid o'w.

When out of Tawdr and into Tawdr for fear of the danger that he would be slain.

Brud y Brudwdd.

Pydraidd, a. (pwrdr) Tending to rot, corrupt.

Pydrawl, a. (pwrdr) Tending to rot, corruptive.

Pydredig, a. (pwrdr) Being rotted, corrupted.

Pydredd, s. m. (pwrdr) Rottenness, putridity.

Pydriad, s. m. (pwrdr) A rotting; putrefaction.

Pydrni, s. m. (pwr) Rottness, putridity.

Ydrn, v. a. (pwr) To rot, or to putrefy.

Ydn, v. a. (pyd) To sink; to cause a sinking; to form a snare; to create danger; to endanger; to become dangerous.

—Mab pyd, mor fu parwd,
My darfa, yn eiddiwr, pl. by pŵdwd
Gan Odor, py angen pŵyl, pyth dalarwd.

The son of snaring, so ready was he, aptly did, in the marriage which was not appropriate to God, for want of other company, renounce the earthly world.

Meigwr, m. Cynddylan.

Ydus, a. (pyd) Tending to sink; dangerous.

Ydusaw, v. a. (pydus) To render sinking; to render dangerous; to become dangerous.

Ydusedd, s. m. (pydus) A state of sinking; a state of snaring; a state of danger.

Ydwern, s. f. (pyd—gwrn) A quaking bog.

Pan ddyf y Mab Rhod eidd eidd ydus—
I ddwr, ydwern, heb adaw y chwyth;
Yn an bwrwath ei hanreithw.

When the Son of Grace came there was a necessity for him; to hell, a quaggy bog, leaving not shance; in one morning tide it despoiling.

D. Bryn.

Ydwr, s. m.—pl. pydwyr (pyd—gwr) A snarer.

Ydd, s. m. (py—ydd) The state of running out.

Yddawl, a. (pydd) Tending to spread out.

Yddiad, s. m. (pydd) A running out.

Ydda, v. a. (pydd) To run out, to spread.

Yg, s. m. (py—yg) Pitch, rosin of pine.

Ygawl, a. (pyg) Of a pitchy quality.

Ygbren, s. m.—pl. i. i (pyg—bren) Pitch tree.

Ygedig, a. (pyg) Covered with pitch.

Ygedd, s. m. (pyg) Pitchiness, a pitchy quality.

Ygiad, s. m. (pyg) A covering with pitch.

Yglian, s. m. (pyg—llian) A cere-cloth.

Ygliw, s. m. (pyg—lliw) Pitch colour. a. Of a pitch colour.

Yglyd, a. (pyg) Pitchy, of a pitchy quality.

Yglydwydd, s. m. (pyglyd) Pitchiness.

Yglys, s. m. (pyg—llys) Flag's fennel, fernula.

Yga, v. a. (pyg) To pitch, to cover with pitch.

Ygydd, s. m.—pl. a. (pyg—gydd) Common fir, or pitch-trees.

Ygwydden, s. f. dim. (pygwydd) A pitch-tree.

Ylaid, a. (pwl) Somewhat blunt, bluntness.

Yledig, a. (pwl) Being made dull, blunted.

Yledd, s. m. (pwl) Bluntness, or obtuseness.

Ylgain, s. m.—pl. pylgeinlan (pwl—cain) An indistinct light; the morning twilight, the morning, the dawn of day.

Ylgaint, s. m. (pylgain) The morning twilight.

Ylgeinawl, a. (pylgain) Belonging to the morning twilight; matin.

Yli, s. m. (pwl) Bluntness, dullness.

Yliad, s. m.—pl. i. au (pwl) A blunting.

Ylini, s. m. (pwl) Bluntness, or dullness.

Ylor, s. m. (pwl) Dust, or powder.

Yloradd, a. (pylor) Powdery, like dust.

Ylorawg, a. (pylor) Full of dust, powdery.

Yloriad, s. m. (pylor) A reducing to powder.

Yloru, v. a. (pylor) To reduce to powder.

Yloryn, s. m. dim. (pylor) A grain of powder.

Ylwydd, s. m. (pwl) Bluntness, dullness.

Ylu, v. a. (pwl) To make obtuse, to blunt; to become obtuse, blunt, or dull.

Ylus, a. (pwl) Tending to make blunt or dull.

Ylwr, s. m. (pwl—gwr) One who blunts.

Yll, s. m. (py—yll) That is compact. a. Compact.

Yllaid, s. m.—pl. pylleidian (pwl) The contents of aplash or puddle.

Y Nghanan gwt eidd yn rheddw neu gwilyd, ac o ddrysddawm hi a gwynpwl neu pŵllid o'r gwl.

The mouse once on a time was walking about in a tavern, and thence got drunk and fell into a puddle in the wine.

Danegon.

Pyllawg, a. (pwl) Full of pits, or puddles.

Pylliad, s. m. (pwl) A forming a pit or puddle.

Pyllogrwydd, s. m. (pyllawg) The state of being full of pits or puddles.

Pyllun, s. m. dim. (pwl) A small puddle.

Pymtheg, s. m.—pl. f. au (pwnp—deg) Fifteen.

Pymthegfed, s. m. (pymtheg) A fifteenth.

Pymthegnos, s. m. (pymtheg—nos) The space of fifteen nights; a fortnight.

Pymthegwaith, s. pl. (pymtheg—gwaith) Fifteen times. a. Of fifteen times.

Pyn, s. m. (py—yn) What is upon or in contact.

Pyn, adv. (py—yn) Otherwise, soever. It is used before words with consonant initials, and Pynag, before vowels.

Amgysgwr
Bepyl plu tygion,
A gwna pa le tua bon
N'ys gwyl an s'ys gwynion.

Encourage the sons of our inhabitants, and make what place soever they are in so that not one of our sons may see us.

H. D. ab Iff.

Pynag, adv. (py—nag) Soever. Pa beth bynag, pynag pa beth, what thing soever; pwy bynag, whosoever; pwy un bynag, pynag pwy, what one soever: "Pe diasbetych di bynag," if thou wert to cry out ever so.

Pynas, s. f.—pl. f. au (pwn) That is collected together; that forms a compact body; a tribe.

A'm eiddwyl Mair ar y Mab cwt,
Nad ei wyl yn llwgr, yn lloc idad,
N'ys mado fflam, cys deg pynas,
Yn rhawd Kaps oon Spilhamas.

May I be interested for by Mary with the precious Son, that I go not to corruption, in the society of Judas! May I not go left by the Creator, before the ten tribes, in the destruction of Cain with the delicate host.

History of Goughm.

Pynawr, s. m. (pwn) That is a load or burden.

Pynciad, s. m.—pl. f. au (pwn) A noting of time. a. Noting; pointing; a decanting; a disquisition; a disputation; a playing at ball, by the players hitting of it to one another.

Pynciadawl, a. (pynciad) Relating to notation of time; relating to tuning; pointing.

Pynciaw, v. a. (pwn) To note or to point time; to note; to point; to decant; to make a disquisition; to play a kind of game at ball, by the players hitting of it to one another. Maryn- ed y pynciant yr adar! How sweetly do the birds trill the song!

Pynciawl, a. (pwn) Noting; timing; pointing.

Pynciedig, a. (pynciad) Noted; pointed; tuned.

Pynciwr, s. m.—pl. pynciwr (pwn—gwr) A noter, or one who points; a tuner.

Pynwr, s. m.—pl. f. i (pyn) That is upon or over; a covering.

Nis canlyn o'i dda, o'i ddifid gwdro,
Oid ei amio, amlyd bynwr.

There will not follow him of his goods, of his means of protection, but his proud, a stretched cover. Gr. ab yr Ynad Coch.

Pynfarch, s. m.—pl. pynfarch (pwn—march) What serves to raise up, to aggregate, or to collect; also a pack horse, or sumpter-horse; an escheat. Pynfarch melin, a mill dam.

Wyl pynfarch brenin ydd; mor; a diffail; ac achawg gwlad arall yn corded ur y brenin; a fflod; mawr yn awr, y brenin hys ran y mawr o'r dda, ac ei chaid dda o ran y wraig a'r achawg; anlyb mawr y cello chawg; cannyll y cello ddrwy mawr gawliwr i ganho.

There are eight holds of the king; the sea; and a wilderness; and a vagrant of another country travelling on the king's ground; and a thief; a sudden death, the king omphs' death; a queen of all the children, but he shall not have any of the share of the wife and the children; the infant of a daughter from whom he receives the word; and a criminal from whom he gets his or possibly Welsh Laws.

Pyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pwn) An aggregating, a heaping, a burdening, a loading.

Pyniaw, v. a. (pwn) To aggregate; to load.

Pyniawl, a. (pwn) Burdened, loaded.

Pyniawr, s. m. (pwn) That is a load.

Pyniedig, a. (pyniad) Burdened, loaded.

Pyniored, s. f.—pl. t. au (pyniawr) What serves to bear a load; a pack-saddle.

Pyniori, v. a. (pyniawr) To put on a load.

Pyniwr, s. m.—pl. pyniawr (pwn—gwr) A burdener, a loader.

Pynored, s. f.—pl. t. au (pynawr) A pack-saddle. It is also called ystroddur.

Pynoriad, s. m. (pynawr) A putting on a load.

Pynoriaw, v. a. (pynawr) To put on a load.

Pynoriawg, a. (pynawr) Having a load.

Pynoriedig, a. (pynawr) Being under a load.

Pynu, v. a. (pwn) To lay upon; to burden.

Pynaid, v. n. (pwng) To cluster; to swarm.

Pynawl, a. (pwng) Clustering; swarming.

Pyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pwng) A clustering.

Pyngu, v. n. (pwng) To cluster; to swarm.

*Fren bywiol sy'n y nefoedd fawr,
Ac hyd y llawr ei gangau,
A'i strwyth yn pynga arno'n llawn,
Yn rhed brydaewn a bore.*

In the great heaven there is a living tree, its branches spreading over the ground, with its fruit clustering fully on it, freely had evening and morning. W. Williams.

Pyr, s. m. (py—yr) That shoots out in a point or cone; the fir tree.

*Eira mynydd, coch blaen pyr;
Llidiawg llosgawg ongyr.*

Snowy mountain, red the top of the fir; wrathful the push of many spears. Llywarch Hen.

Pyr, adv. (py—yr) Forward, toward, onward.

*O folt pair deon pyrdawf;
O ddor cor coeling cynnelwaf.*

In praising the canes of the lord forward I come; after the mystery of the circle of foreboding I will conform. Cynddylan, i O. Gwynedd.

Pyrag, adv. (py—rhag) Wherefore, why.

Pyradd, a. (pyr) Tending to a point; like a fir.

Pyrchwyn, s. m. (pyr—cwyn) A crest of a helmet.

Pyrgwyn, s. m. (pyr—cwyn) A crest, or plume of a helmet.

Pyrnawn, s. m. (pyr—nawn) The afternoon.

Pyrdwyaw, v. a. (pyr—twyaw) To bear a spear pointed forward.

*Pan wisgat Garanmael garbale Cynddylan,
A phyrwyaw ei oen,
Ni chaffai Ffranc tanc o'i ben.*

When Garanmael should put on the war-coat of Cynddylan, and point forward his zehen shaft, a Franc would not obtain rest for his head. Llywarch Hen.

Pys, s. pl. aggr. (py—ys) Pease, pulse. Pys y garanod, or pys yr achar, tares; pys y llygod, chit-pease; pys y coed, heath peas; pys y wig, vetch; pys y fwyall, pedol y march, hatchet-vetch.

Pysen, s. f. dim. (pys) A single pea, a pea.

Pysg, s. m.—pl. t. od (py—ysg) Fish. Pysgod duon, llamidyddion, porpoises; pysgod bychain, sand-eels.

Mal y pysg am y dwfr.

Like the fish for the water. Adage.

Yn y dwfr y gorag ef y pysg; ac yr edar yn y rhan tencusf, sef yw huanw yr awyr.

In the water he created the fish; and the birds in the most rarest part, that is to say the air. Elucidarius.

Pysgaid, a. (pysg) Of the nature of fish; fishy.

Pysgawl, a. (pysg) Piscatory, of fish, like fish.

Pysgod, s. pl. aggr. (pysg) Fishes. Pysgod y mor, morbysg, morbysgod, sea-fishes; pysgod afon, river fishes; pysgod duon, porpoises.

Mal y gath am y pysgod.

Like the cat after the fishes. Adage.

Pysgodawg, a. (pysgod) Having fishes.

Pysgodawl, a. (pysgod) Relating to fishes.

Pysgodfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pysgod—ma) A fishery, a fishing-place; a fish-market.

Pysgodfwyd, s. m. (pysgod—bwyd) Fish-meat.

*Ysgrifur ar don eigion wrd,
Esgudfaich o'n bysgodfwyd.*

Light art thou on the ocean wave, thou swiftly-scoring bird whose food is fish. D. ab Gwilym i'r wylic.

Pysgodlyn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pysgod—llyn) A fish-pond.

Pysgodwr, s. m.—pl. pysgodwyr (pysgod—gwr) A fisher, a fisherman.

Pysgodwriaeth, s. m. (pysgodwr) The vocation of a fisherman.

*Gwenwynwyd Taf; gwas niamen?
Dyrwyd y bysgodwriaeth
Gyda ni i gyd yn wasth.*

The Taf has been poisoned; Was to us! the fishing-truth we are altogether worse. Llew Llew.

Pysgodig, a. (pysgod) Teeming with fishes.

Pysgodyn, s. m. (pysgod) A single fish, a fish.

Pysgota, v. a. (pysgod) To fish. Gwialen bysgota, gwialen enwaer, genwaer, a fishing-rod.

Pysgota yn mhen y rhywyd.

To fish in the front of the net. Adage.

Pysgotwr, s. m. (pysgod—gwr) A fisherman.

Pysgotty, s. m. (pysgod—ty) A fish-house.

Pysgydd, s. m.—pl. t. lon (pysg) An ichthyologist.

Pysgyddiaeth, s. m. (pysgydd) Ichthyology.

Pystyl, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystyl) A restless motion; the shank of a bow that is let into the yoke to fasten it on the neck of the ox.

Pystylad, s. m. (pystyl) A restless activity; the being agog; the restlessness or capering of a horse under restraint. "Gwerymad y mawr a's pystylad," the neighing of the steeds and their capering.

*Annoged end,
Diffredid gwlad,
Gwedd an ddaed
Llwrif bystyld;
Pystylad llwrf,
Ac yfed corwf.*

Thou incitement to battle, the protection of a country, on its account there has been the capering of the coward; the capering of the coward with drinking of ale. Taliesin.

Pystyled, v. a. (pystyl) To jump about. Man bachgen yn pystyled, the boy is capering.

Pystyllad, s. m. (pystyl) A capering about.

Pystylu, v. a. (pystyl) To move about in a restless manner; to caper.

Pystylwyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (pystyl—gwyn) A crupper of a saddle.

Pyswydden, s. f. (pys—gwydd) Bean-trefail tree.

Pyth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (py—yth) A space, revolution or period of time; a world; the duration of the world; ever, never.

Tri pheth nid gall namyn Daw: dyddodf pysgodd; y rhyngodf; cyngbyd a phob cyflwr heb newidaw; a rhai gwedd a mwyd a bob peth, heb ei roi ar goll.

Three things which God only can accomplish: to endure to revolutions of eternity, to participate with every state of time changing, and to impart amelioration and newness to every thing, without causing a loss of its originality. Berddin.

Trewydd a phonyddi a pyth.

The day after to-morrow and daily and forever. L. G. Cuth.

Pythagoras, s. f. (pythagori) Explanation of the universe; cosmogony.

Pythagori, v. a. (pyth—agori) To explain the system of the universe.

ythawd, s. m. (pyth) A great period or world.
ythawl, a. (pyth) Eternal, everlasting, ever.
ythawr, v. n. (py—tawr) To be anxious.

A'r moth bythorod o thyr.

And the arrow thou wouldst regret were it to break.
D. ab Gwilym.

ythefnos, s. m. (pymthegnos) A fortnight.
ython, s. m. (pyth) A system of the universe.
ythonas, s. f. (python) A system of cosmogony.
ythones, s. f.—pl. t. au (python) A female cosmogonist.

Pythoni, v. a. (python) To treat of cosmogony.
Pythonydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (python) A cosmogonist; a systemizer of worlds.

Pyw, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py) That is together or in unison; that is in order, or perfect; a member, a limb. Dyna fe yn cerdded ar ei bedwar pyw, new ar ei bedwar agor, There he is walking upon all fours. Sil.

Pyw, a. (py) In order of unison, regular, complete, perfect. Dyn pyw, a well-formed man; brethyn pyw, cloth of good quality. Silurian.

R.

HA, s. m. r. That forces or drives onward.
hāawd, s. m. (rha) A forcing, or impelling.
hab, s. m. (rha) Force, constraint, control.
habedd, s. m. (rhac) Controlment, constraint.
habn, v. a. (rhac) To constrain, to check.
hac, s. m.—pl. t. au (rha—ac) What is in advance, forward, upper, or opposite; the wrest of a cross-bow; the spine of a quadruped, also called glain cefn.

hac, prep. (rha—ac) Before, fore; from; for, lest. It is dialectically used for rhag.

haca, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhac) What is brought before; a spectacle, or show.

hacai, s. m.—pl. rhacelon (rhac) A rake.

hacan, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhac) A rake, a scraper.

hacaniad, s. m. (rhacan) A raking, a scraping.

hacanu, v. a. (rhacan) To rake, to use a rake.

hacawr, s. m. (rhacan—gwr) A raker.

haciad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhac) The fore-running, the beginning, or first appearance; a coming forward; a coming in opposition.

Rhaciad y sawr, the first breaking of the dawn.

haciannawl, a. (rhaciant) Tending to advance.

haciannu, v. a. (rhaciant) To make an advancement, to take a forward position.

rhaciant, s. m. (rhac) Advancement, the act of putting forward; a precursor.

haciaw, v. a. (rhac) To advance, to move forward; to come in opposition. Daw y sawr yn rhaciaw, yonder the dawn is appearing.

haco, adv. (rhac) Yonder, in the advance, in the distant view. Sylla di rhaco, behold thou yonder.

Doe i gyfrwch a'r dyn rhaco.

Go to meet with yonder man. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

hacu, v. a. (rhac) To put before, to put forward; to advance; to take the lead.

hach, s. m. (rhac) That is forced out.

had, s. m.—pl. t. au (rha—ad) That comes freely, that is given freely; prosperity; good luck; a blessing; grace, favour. Nid oes rad ar a wnele, there is no prosperity on what he does; Rhad Duw yma! Be the blessing of God here! Rhad Duw yn y ty! Be the blessing of God in the house! Rhad Duw ar yr adgor! Be the blessing of God on the cattle! Rhad Duw arnoch! Rhad Duw ar y gwaith! God prosper the work! Rhad pen llad, Grace the supreme blessing: Rhad Duw ar ei fam! God's blessing on its mother! said to the people in milking: Rhad Duw ar bob rhadferth-wch! The blessing of God on every gracious gift! Rhad Duw ar bob cywir galon! The blessing of God on every faithful heart! Rhad Duw ar bob ymgais dda! The blessing of God on every good undertaking! Rhad Duw ar bob llaw ddifia! The blessing of God on every industrious hand! common expressions of greeting.

Dedwydd, Dofydd ei rhydd rhad.

The supplicant, the Creator will give him grace. Adage.

Argwydd llachynt gwynt, a gwyll ffyrddas mor,

Mawr dy rad, a'th wyrddas!

Lord of the course of the wind, and the wild torrents of the sea; great thy grace, and thy wonders. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Rhad, a. (rha—ad) Free, gratuitous; cheap. Y Mab Rhad, The Son of Grace, the Saviour.

Rhadawl, a. (rhac) Gracious, or beneficent.

Rhadbryn, s. m. (rhac—bryn) A free purchase.

Rhadbryniad, s. m. (rhadbryn) A cheap buying.

Rhadbrynu, v. a. (rhadbryn) To buy cheaply.

Rhadedd, s. m. (rhac) Freeness; cheapness.

Rhadfawr, a. (rhac—mawr) Gracious.

Tri olliddeyrn Yn Prydain—rhoddedd teyrnedd iddynt am eu campan ac eu cynuodddia clodforion a rhadforion.

The three plebeian princes of the Isle of Britain—had principalities conferred on them for their acts and principles, praiseworthy and virtuous. Trieddeu.

Rhadferth, a. (rhac—berth) Graciously placid.

Rhadferthwch, s. m. (rhadferth) Beneficent.

Rhadforedd, s. m. (rhadfawr) Graciousness.

Rhadgar, a. (rhac—car) Grace-loved.

Rhadgaredig, a. rhadgar) Grace-beloved.

Hauptych gwell, y radgaredig! yr Argwydd yn y rhyd a thi!

All hail, thou grace favoured one! the Lord is with thee! W. Saltbury.

Rhadgariad, s. m. (rhadgar) Free love.

Rhadgaru, v. a. (rhadgar) To love freely.

Rhadlawn, a. (rhac) Gracious; gentle; serene.

Rhadlonaeth, s. m. (rhadlawn) Graciousness.

Ef hira radu rhadlonaeth,

Uch new toryf new tywysogaeth.

He possesses the virtues of benevolence, over the nine multitudes of nine principalities. Cynddew.

Rhadlondeb, s. m. (rhadlawn) Graciousness.

Rhadlonder, s. m. (rhadlawn) Graciousness.

Rhadlondra, s. m. (rhadlawn) Graciousness.

Rhadlonedd, s. m. (rhadlawn) Graciousness.

Rhadloni, v. a. (rhadlawn) To render generous;

to become gracious; to be generous; to become gentle or placid.

Nid hawdd rhadloni ondigen.

It is not easy to render malice generous. Adage.

Rhadrodd, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhac—rhodd) A free gift

Rhadroddedigaeth, s. m. (rhadroddedig) The act of giving freely; the state of being freely given or conferred.

Pawb a chwanogbant gael braint yn ei radroddedigaeth.

Every one is desirous of obtaining a title in his free offering. Ier. Gwynn.

Rhadu, v. a. (rhad) To render free, to bestow grace; to render cheap; to become free.
Rhadwehyn, s. m. (rhad—gwehyn) A pouring of grace, a. Grace-diffusing.
Rhadwehynawl, a. (rhadwehyn) Grace-diffusing.
Rhadwehyniad, s. m. (rhadwehyn) A shedding of grace, a pouring of grace.
Rhadwehynn, v. a. (rhadwehyn) To shed grace.
Rhadd, s. m. (rha—add) An advance, a state of progression, or going onward.
Rhae, s. f.—pl. rhenau (rha) A constraint, a battle; also a chain; otherwise called tld, syg, tres, cadwen, and cadryn.

O nod ffreusau hynod ffrowys
 Gwr a dywys y gwyr duon,
 Ys da reuws i'w jatriwys
 Al drwy Bowys.

From the mark of the rushings of the noted turbulence of a man who leads the subtle men, if good the battles excellent in craft, he would go through Powys. T. Pry.

Rhaeaw, v. a. (rhae) To put to a stand still. Rhaeaw gwyr, to startle people.

Rhael, s. m. (rha—el) Bent, or inclination.

Wrth weled y merched mor awchus eu rhael
 A minnau yn fab leuanc heb ddil iddell gael—
 —Hae yn syn!

When I see the young women of so greedy a disposition, and I a young man not prospering, it is grievous! Cannu.

Rhaf, s. m. (rha—af) A spread, a diffusion.

Rhafn, s. m. (rhaf) A tendency to diffuse.

Rhafnwydd, s. pl. aggr. (rhafn—gwydd) Witch-elves.

Rhafnwydden, s. f. dim. (rhafnwydd) A witch-elm

Tri phren nid rhydd eu tŷri, heb gŷnad gwled ac arglwydd;
 meirhen, sef derwen, bedwen, a rhafnwydden.

Three trees not to be cut, without the permission of the country and the lord: acorn tree, or oak; the birch tree, and the witch-elm. Triedd Dylunol.

Rhafol, s. pl. aggr. (rhaf—ol) The berries of the service-tree; also called cyrafol, and cyrafon.

Rhafon, s. pl. aggr. (rhaf) Berries growing in clusters; the fruit of the service-tree.

Rhafu, v. a. (rhaf) To spread out, or to diffuse.

Rhafun, s. m. (rhaf) That is spread or diffused.

Rhaff, s. f.—pl. t. au (rha—aff) A rope.

Rhaffaid, a. (rhaff) Like a rope; like a cord.

Rhaffan, s. f. dim. (rhaff) A small rope, a cord.

Gware rhaffan or siglen donen, swinging.

Rhaffawl, a. (rhaff) Formed like a rope.

Rhaffiad, s. m. (rhaff) A roping; a cording.

Rhaffiaw, v. a. (rhaff) To rope, to make a rope.

Rhaffwr, s. m.—pl. rhaffwyr (rhaff—gwr) A roper.

Rhag, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rha—ag) A front, a presence, a van; an entrance. It is used as a compositive prefix. O dy rag, o yth blaen, from before thee, before thee.

Rhag pebyll Madawg, pan atgorai,
 Namyn yn e kant yni delai.

The entrance of the tents of Madog, when he returns, only one of a hundred therein doth come. Aneurin.

Seren o'r rhag yn rhod golau.

A star before them giving light. Y Brawd Madawg.

Rhag, prep. (rha—ag) Before, fore; from; for, lest, lest that; because. Dos rhag dy flaen, go straight forward. Rhagwyf, rhagddwyf, rhagof, rhagddaf, before me; rhagot, rhagddot, before thee; rhago, rhagddo, before him or it; rhagi, rhagddi, before her; rhagom, rhagddom, before us; rhagoch, rhagddoch, before you; rhagynt, rhagddynt, rhagddudd, before them.

Ffo rhag dryg-dir, ar na fo rhag drwg arglwydd.

He will fly from a bad land that flies not from a bad lord. Adag.

Achwyn rhag achwyn rhagido.

Complaining for fear of a complaint against him. Adag.

Tarf ygwyr yn gward yn aghymawr
 Tarf rhag cid rhag Cwmddyrrawg.

An exalted host well-trained in combat flies from battle to the tribe of Short-caps. Cyndddar, Gwel. Powys.

Rhagachub, v. a. (achub) To save the vantage; to obtain a priority; to become before.

Rhagachubwn ei wyneb—a chawen olin iddaw; canys Arglwydd mawr yw Duw.

Let us come before his presence; and let us sing praises to him for a mighty Lord is God. D. Dda o Huredog.

Rhagachubawl, a. (rhagachub) Tending to obtain advantage or priority; coming before.

Rhagachubiad, s. m. (rhagachub) A coming before; a getting a priority.

Rhagachubiaeth, s. m. (rhagachub) The act of obtaining a priority, the state of having a priority; the state of coming before.

Rhagachubwr, s. m.—pl. rhagachubwyr (rhagachub—gwr) One who comes before.

Rhagadail, s. f. (adail) An out-building.

Rhagadelladu, v. a. (rhagadail) To build an out-work; to make an outbuilding.

Rhagadnabod, v. n. (adnabod) To know beforehand, to get a previous acquaintance.

Rhagadnabodawl, a. (rhagadnabod) Previously acquainted; previously recognising.

Rhagadnabyddawl, a. (rhagadnabod) Previously acquainted; previously known.

Rhagadnabyddiaeth, s. m. (rhagadnabod) A previous acquaintance.

Rhagadrawdd, s. m.—pl. rhagadrodion (adrawdd) A preface, a preamble. v. a. To preface.

Rhagadrodawl, a. (rhagadrawdd) Prefatory, introductory.

Rhagadrodidiad, s. m. (rhagadrawdd) A prefacing.

Rhagaddas, a. (addas) Previously fitting.

Rhagaddasawl, a. (rhagaddas) Tending to adapt or to make fit beforehand.

Rhagaddasiad, s. m. (rhagaddas) A fitting before.

Rhagaddam, v. a. (rhagaddas) To adapt or to fit beforehand.

Rhagaddaw, v. a. (addaw) To promise before.

Rhagaddewid, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhagaddaw) A previous promise.

Rhagaddfed, a. (addfed) Premature, precocious.

Rhagaddfedawl, a. (rhagaddfed) Tending to ripen beforehand, of early maturity.

Rhagaddfediad, s. m. (rhagaddfed) A ripening beforehand, to become precocious.

Rhagaddfedrwydd, s. m. (rhagaddfed) Precocity.

Rhagaddfedu, v. a. (rhagaddfed) To ripen before.

Rhagafael, s. m. (gafael) A previous hold; a forehold or seizure.

Rhagafaeliad, s. m. (rhagafael) A previously holding; a taking a first hold.

Rhagafaelu, v. a. (rhagafael) To hold previously.

Rhagagawr, s. m. (agawr) An opening before. v. n. To open before.

Rhagagori, v. a. (rhagagawr) To open before.

Rhagagoriad, s. m. (rhagagawr) A fore-opening.

Rhagagwedd, s. f. (agwedd) A prior form, a prior appearance.

Rhagagweddiad, s. m. (rhagagwedd) Preformation.

Rhagagweddu, v. u. (rhagagwedd) To preform.

Rhagair, s. m.—pl. rhageiriau (gair) A leading word, a catch-word.

Rhagalw, v. a. (galw) To call beforehand.

Rhagalwad, s. m. (rhagalw) A calling beforehand.

Rhagallu, s. m. (gallu) A previous power; a being able beforehand.

Rhagafodd, s. m. (galla) Ability beforehand.
Rhagamcan, s. m.—pl. t. ion (amcan) A prior purpose, or design; a proposition.
Rhagamcanawl, a. (rhagamcan) Previously purposing, presupposing.
Rhagamcaniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagamcan) A purposing beforehand; a pre-supposition.
Rhagamcanu, v. a. (rhagamcan) To form a design beforehand; to pre-suppose.
Rhagamcanus, a. (rhagamcan) Previously purposing; having a previous intention.
Rhagamecanwr, s. m.—pl. rhagamecanwyr (rhagamcan—gwr) One who designs beforehand.
Rhagamddiffyn, v. a. (amddiffyn) To defend beforehand, to make a previous defence.
Rhagamddiffynawl, a. (rhagamddiffyn) Previously defending or protecting.
Rhagamddiffyniad, s. m. (rhagamddiffyn) A defending or protecting beforehand.
Rhagammben, v. a. (ammhen) To pre-arrange.
Rhagammod, s. f.—pl. t. uo (ammod) A preliminary agreement or contract.
Rhagammodawl, a. (rhagammod) Belonging to a preliminary agreement.
Rhagammodi, v. a. (rhagammod) To agree beforehand; to make a previous contract.
Rhagammodiad, s. m. (rhagammod) A covenanting beforehand.
Rhagammodwr, s. m.—pl. rhagammodwyr (rhagammod—gwr) One who agrees beforehand.
Rhagannaid, s. f. (annaid) A previous signal.
Rhagannaidiad, s. m. (rhagannaid) A making a previous signal.
Rhagannaidaw, v. u. (rhagannaid) To make a previous signal.
Rhagannaidawl, a. (rhagannaid) Belonging to a previous signal.
Rhagamser, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (amser) A previous or prior time.
Rhagamserawl, a. (rhagamser) Belonging to previous time, of a previous season.
Rhagamseru, v. u. (rhagamser) To fix a previous time, to antedate.
Rhaganfon, v. u. (anfon) To send beforehand.
Rhaganfonadwy, a. (rhaganfon) Capable of being sent beforehand.
Rhaganfonawl, a. (rhaganfon) Being sent beforehand, premissive.
Rhaganfonedig, a. (rhaganfon) Being sent beforehand; a premission.
Rhaganfonedigfaeth, s. m. (rhaganfonedig) The act of sending before.
Rhaganfonlad, s. m. (rhaganfon) A sending before; a sending a previous messenger.
Rhaganfonwr, s. m.—pl. rhaganfonwyr (rhaganfon—gwr) One who sends beforehand.
Rhagansawdd, s. f.—pl. rhagansoddion (ansawdd) A prior nature or quality.
Rhagansoddadwy, a. (rhagansawdd) Capable of being endowed with an original nature.
Rhagansoddawl, a. (rhagansawdd) Of an original nature or quality.
Rhagansoddi, v. u. (rhagansawdd) To endue with an original nature.
Ragansoddad, s. m. (rhagansawdd) A forming an original nature.
Rhagangen, s. f. (angen) A previous necessity.
Rhagangenawl, a. (rhagangen) Previously necessitated.
Rhagangeniad, s. m. (rhagangen) An enduing with a previous necessity.

Rhagangenrhaidd, s. f.—pl. rhagangenrhaiddia (rhagangen—rhaidd) A previous necessity.
Rhagangenrhaiddaw, v. a. (rhagangenrhaidd) To render previously necessary.
Rhagangenrhaiddawl, a. (rhagangenrhaidd) Previously necessary.
Rhagangenrhaiddrwydd, s. m. (rhagangenrhaidd) A previous necessity.
Rhagangennu, v. a. (rhagangen) To endue with a prior necessity; to necessitate beforehand.
Rhagarueth, s. f.—pl. rhagaruethiau (arueth) A prefatory discourse.
Rhagarawd, s. f. (arawd) An introductory speech.
Rhagarchwasth, s. m.—pl. rhagarchwasthion (archwasth) A forestaste.
Rhagarchwasthaw, a. (archwasth) Forestasting.
Rhagarchwasthedig, a. (archwasth) Forestasted.
Rhagarchwasthiad, s. m. (rhagarchwasth) A forestasting.
Rhagarchwasthu, v. u. (archwasth) To forestaste.
Rhagaraethiad, s. m. (rhagaraeth) A making a prefatory speech.
Rhagaraethiaw, v. a. (rhagaraeth) To make a prefatory speech.
Rhagareithiwr, s. m.—pl. rhagareithwyr (rhagarueth—gwr) One who makes an exordium.
Rhagarfaeth, s. f. (arfaeth) Predetermination.
Rhagarfaethawl, a. (rhagarfaeth) Predestinarian; predisposing, pre-determining.
Rhagarfaethedig, a. (rhagarfaeth) Predestinated, predisposed, predetermined.
Rhagarfaethiad, s. m. (rhagarfaeth) A predetermination; a predisposition.
Rhagarfaethu, v. a. (rhagarfaeth) To predetermine; to predispose.
Rhagarfaethu, a. (rhagarfaeth) Predetermining.
Rhagarfaethydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhagarfaeth) A predeterminer.
Rhagarfawg, a. (arfawg) Being forearmed.
Rhagarfogi, v. a. (rhagarfawg) To arm beforehand, to forearm.
Rhagarfogiad, s. m. (rhagarfawg) An arming beforehand.
Rhagarfu, v. u. (arfu) To arm beforehand.
Rhagarfandd, s. m. (argandd) A foreseeing.
v. u. To foresee, to forecast.
Rhargosol, s. f.—pl. t. ion (argosol) A foretold.
Rhagian, s. pl. aggr. (arian) Earnest money.
Rhagariwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (arlwy) Food that is ready beforehand.
Rhagariwyd, a. m. (rhagariwy) A getting food ready beforehand.
Rhagariwyaw, v. a. (rhagariwy) To get food ready beforehand.
Rhagarsawdd, s. f. (arsawdd) A plough handle.
Rhagarswyd, s. m. (arswyd) A previous dread.
Rhagarswydaw, v. a. (rhagarswyd) To frighten beforehand, to have a previous dread.
Rhagarwain, v. a. (arwain) To lead before.
Rhagarweiniad, s. m. (rhagarwain) A conducting or leading before.
Rhagarweiniawl, a. (rhagarwain) Leading beforehand; a previous conducting.
Rhagarwedd, s. f. (arwedd) Predisposition.
Rhagarweddawl, a. (rhagarwedd) Predisposing.
Rhagarweddad, s. m. (arwedd) A predisposing.
Rhagarweddun, v. a. (rhagarwedd) To predispose.
Rhagarwydd, s. f.—pl. t. ion (arwydd) A prognostic, a foretold, a presage.
Rhagarwyddaw, v. a. (rhagarwydd) To prognosticate, to fore signify.

Rhagarwyddawg, a. (rhagarwydd) Foretokening.
Rhagarwyddawl, a. (rhagarwydd) Foretokening.
Rhagarwyddiad, s. m. (rhagarwydd) A prognostication.

Rhagarwyddocâd, s. m. (rhagarwyddocâu) A prognosticating, a foretokening.

Rhagarwyddocâwl, a. (rhagarwyddocân) Prognosticating, foretokening, foreshadowing.

Rhagarwyddocâu, v. a. (rhagarwyddawg) To prognosticate, to foreshadow.

Rhagattal, s. m. (attal) A previous stopping.

Rhagattalgar, a. (rhagattal) Apt to stop before.

Rhagattaliad, s. m. (rhagattal) A stopping before.

Rhagatteb, s. m.—pl. t. ion (atdeb) Prior answer.

Rhagattebawl, a. (rhagatteb) A first answering.

Rhagattebiad, s. m. (rhagatteb) An answering beforehand, a previously answering.

Rhagattebu, v. a. (rhagatteb) To answer before.

Rhagawd, s. m.—pl. rhagadion (rhag) The act of going before; the state of being before; an obstacle, let, or hinderance.

Wadd y freniaes yw dŵys dyn droo deryn y wlad, heb erlid, heb ragawd.

The protection of the queen is to convey the person over the borders of the country, without pursuit, without opposition.

Welsh Laws.

Rhagawd, v. a. (rhag) To go before; to go against; to stop, to hinder. Rhagadion, those who take the lead, or that are in advance.

Gwell erlid argwydd nag ei ragawd.

It is better to pursue a lord than to go against him. Adage.

Gwalth teg yw marchogion iŵn

I regard prais o'r dilyn.

It is pleasant work to ride the wave to encounter the fishes of the deep. D. ab Gwilym.

Rhagawdl, s. f.—pl. rhagodlan (awdl) A first or leading rhyme, a primary rhyme.

Rhagawl, a. (rhag) Being against, opposite or in front; opposing.

Rhagbarawd, a. (parawd) Ready-beforehand.

Rhagbaradawl, a. (rhagbarawd) Tending to be ready or prepared beforehand.

Rhagbarodi, v. a. (rhagbarawd) To prepare or make ready beforehand.

Rhagbarodrwydd, s. m. (rhagbarawd) The state of being prepared or ready beforehand.

Rhagbarotâd, s. m. (rhagbarotol) A preparing or making ready beforehand.

Rhagbarotâwl, a. (rhagbarotol) Tending to be prepared or ready beforehand.

Rhagbarotbi, v. a. (rhagbarawd) To prepare beforehand, to get ready beforehand.

Rhagbarotâwr, s. m.—pl. rhagbarotowyr (rhagbarotol—gwr) One who prepares beforehand.

Rhagbenaeath, s. m. (penaeath) A vice-chief.

Rhagbenawd, s. m. (penawd) A prior conclusion.

Rhagbenodawl, a. (penawd) Predetermined.

Rhaghenodi, v. a. (penawd) To predetermine.

Rhagbenodiad, s. m. (rhagbenawd) A predetermination; a previous conclusion.

Rhagborth, s. m.—pl. rhagbyrth (porth) An outer gate; a fore porch.

Rhagbrawf, s. m. (prawf) A previous trial.

Rhagbrofi, v. a. (rhagbrawf) To try beforehand.

Rhagbrofiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagbrawf) A trying beforehand; a foretasting.

Rhagbrofwr, s. m.—pl. rhagbrofwyr (rhagbrawf—gwr) One who tries beforehand.

Rhagbryder, s. m.—pl. t. au (pryder) Precaution.

Rhagbryderawl, a. (rhagbryder) Precautious.

Rhagbryderiad, s. m. (rhagbryder) A using precaution; circumspection.

Rhagbryderu, v. a. (pryder) To use precaution.

Rhagbryderus, a. (rhagbryder) Circumspect.

Rhagbryn, s. m. (pryn) A prior purchase.

Rhagbrynawl, a. (rhagbryn) Relating to a buying beforehand; a forestalling.

Rhagbryniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagbryn) A buying beforehand; a pre-emption.

Rhagbrynnu, v. a. (rhagbryn) To buy beforehand; to forestall.

Rhagbrynwyr, s. m.—pl. rhagbrynwyr (rhagbryn—gwr) One who previously buys.

Rhagbwys, s. m. (pwys) A previous weighing.

Rhagbwysaw, v. a. (rhagbwys) To weigh before.

Rhagbwysawl, a. (rhagbwys) Being previously weighing, a fore-weighing.

Rhagbwysedig, a. (rhagbwys) Being weighed beforehand.

Rhagbwysiad, s. m. (rhagbwys) A weighing beforehand.

Rhagchwaeath, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (chwaeath) A foretaste.

Rhagchwaeathawl, a. (rhagchwaeath) Foretasting.

Rhagchwaeathiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagchwaeath) A pre-emption, a foretasting.

Rhagchwaeathu, v. a. (rhagchwaeath) To foretaste.

Rhagchware, s. m.—pl. t. on (chware) A prelude.

Rhagchwareu, v. a. (rhagchware) To make a prelude.

Rhagchwedl, s. m.—pl. rhagchwedlan (chwedl) A prior report, a preamble.

Rhagchwedledd, s. m. (rhagchwedl) The state of being reported beforehand.

Rhagchwedliad, s. m. (rhagchwedl) A reporting or rumouring beforehand.

Rhagchwedlu, v. a. (rhagchwedl) To make report beforehand; to make a preamble.

Rhagchwegr, s. f. (chwegr) A grandmother-in-law.

Rhagchwegrwn, s. m. (chwegrwn) A grandfather-in-law.

Rhagchwillad, s. m. (chwillad) A previous searching.

Rhagchwillaw, v. a. (chwillaw) To search before.

Rhagdaen, s. m. (taen) A fore-spreading.

Rhagdaeniad, s. m. (rhagdaen) A fore-spreading.

Rhagdaennu, v. a. (rhagdaen) To spread before.

Rhagdal, s. m.—pl. t. au (tal) What is in front; a frontlet, a frontlet, a frontpiece.

Rhagdal, s. m. (tal) Payment before; earnest.

Rhagdaliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagdal) A paying beforehand, a paying as earnest.

Rhagdalu, v. a. (rhagdal) To pay beforehand.

Rhagdaluwr, s. m.—pl. rhagdaluwr (rhagdal—gwr) One who pays beforehand.

Rhagdebygiad, s. m. (tebygiad) A fore-deciding.

Rhagdebygu, v. a. (tebygu) To presuppose.

Rhagdeilyngdawd, s. m. (teilyngdawd) The state of being previously suitable.

Rhagdeilyngu, v. a. (teilyngu) To make suitable or appropriate beforehand.

Rhagdeimlad, s. m. (teimlad) A feeling before.

Rhagdeimlaw, v. a. (teimlaw) To feel beforehand.

Rhagder, s. m. (rhag) The state of being before, leading, or against; resistance, opposition.

*Paŵl cawr, cawr yn agwylwr;
Paŵl cawr, cawr yn rhagder.*

A cause of energy renowned for bravery; a spear of war, not a stripping in the advanced post. Cynabala, i. e. Gwyn.

Rhagder ei ofn, naŵl hysbys ei lly.

The foremost of his host, a chief of elegant race. Idon 11.

Rhagderfyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (terfyn) A pre-conclusion, end, or determination.

Rhagderfynedig, a. (rhagderfyn) Predetermined.

Rhagderfyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagderfyn) Predetermination, a prior conclusion.
Rhagderfynu, v. a. (terfyn) To predetermine.
Rhagdestyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (testyn) A preliminary theme, or discourse.
Rhagdestyniad, s. m. (rhagdestyn) A making a preliminary theme.
Rhagdestynu, v. a. (rhagdestyn) To form a preliminary theme.
Rhagdor, s. m. (tor) A prior fracture or break.
Rhagdori, v. a. (rhagdor) To break before.
Rhagdoriad, s. m. (rhagdor) A breaking before.
Rhagdraddawd, s. m. (traddawd) A prior passing.
Rhagdraddodawl, a. (rhagdraddawd) Being previously passed over, of previous tradition.
Rhagdraddodi, v. a. (rhagdraddawd) To pass over previously; to give a previous tradition.
Rhagdraddodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagdraddawd) A previously passing over; a former tradition.
Rhagdraethawd, s. f. (traethawd) An introductory discourse.
Rhagdraethu, v. a. (traethu) To recite before.
Rhagdraigl, s. m. (traigl) A previous turn.
Rhagdrefn, s. f.—pl. rhagdrefnau (trefn) A pre-ordination; predestination.
Rhagdrefnadwy, a. (rhagdrefn) Capable of pre-ordination.
Rhagdrefnawl, a. (rhagdrefn) Tending to pre-ordain; fore-ordinating.
Rhagdrefnodig, a. (rhagdrefn) Fore-ordained.
Rhagdrefniad, s. m. (rhagdrefn) A preordination, a preordaining; predestination.
Rhagdrefnu, v. a. (rhagdrefn) To order beforehand, to preordain; to predispose.
Rhagdreiglilad, s. m. (rhagdraigl) A revolving before; a previous revolution.
Rhagdreigliaw, v. a. (rhagdraigl) To revolve before; to make a previous revolution.
Rhagdreymyn, s. m. (tremyn) A first glance.
Rhagdreymynawl, a. (rhagdreymyn) Being looked over beforehand; having foresight.
Rhagdreymyniad, s. m. (rhagdreymyn) A glancing over beforehand.
Rhagdreymynt, s. m. (rhagdreymyn) A previous glance; a foresight.
Rhagdreymyns, v. a. (rhagdreymyn) To glance over beforehand; to have foresight.
Rhagdrin, s. m. (trin) To put in order, or to manage beforehand.
Rhagdriniad, s. m. (rhagdrin) A managing or ordering beforehand.
Rhagdriniath, s. m. (rhagdrin) A previous management; a previous arrangement.
Rhagdrochi, v. a. (trochi) To immerse before.
Rhagdrochiad, s. m. (trochiad) A prior immersion.
Rhagdroci, v. a. (troci) To drive before.
Rhagdrwch, s. m.—pl. rhagdrychion (trwch) A fore-cut; a previous cut through.
Rhagdrychiad, s. m. (rhagdrwch) A cutting before; a fore-cutting.
Rhagdrychu, v. a. (rhagdrwch) To cut before.
Rhagdy, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ty) An outhouse.
Rhagdyb, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tyb) A preconceit.
Rhagdybiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagdyb) Presupposition, preopinion, prenotion.
Rhagdybled, v. a. (rhagdyb) To presuppose.
Rhagdybu, v. a. (rhagdyb) To presuppose.
Rhagdybus, a. (rhagdyb) Presuppositional.
Rhagdybusaw, v. a. (rhagdybus) To become presuppositional.
Rhagdybusrwydd, s. m. (rhagdybus) Previous

Vol. II.

suppositiousness; a preconceived state.
Rhagdyddyn, s. m.—pl. t. od (tyddyn) An out-tenement; a bordering farm.
Rhagdyn, s. m. (tyu) A fore-draught.
Rhagdyneriad, s. m. (tyneriad) A previous softening or melioration.
Rhagdynern, v. a. (tyneru) To soften beforehand.
Rhagdyniad, s. m. (rhagdyn) A drawing before.
Rhagdynu, v. a. (rhagdyn) To draw before.
Rhagdyst, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tyst) A prior witness.
Rhagdytiad, s. m. (rhagdyst) A previously testifying; a giving a previous testimony.
Rhagdytiaw, v. a. (rhagdyst) To testify beforehand; to witness beforehand.
Rhagdytiawl, a. (rhagdyst) First testifying.
Rhagdytiolaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhagdytiawl) A previous testimony.
Rhagdytiolaethu, v. a. (rhagdytiolaeth) To give a previous testimony.
Rhagdywyll, a. (tywyll) Being dark before.
Rhagdywyllu, v. a. (rhagdywyll) To darken before.
Rhagdywyn, s. m. (tywyn) A radiance before.
Rhagdywyniad, s. m. (rhagdywyn) A shining before; a previously shining.
Rhagdywynu, v. (rhagdywyn) To shine before.
Rhagdywys, v. a. (tywys) To lead before.
Rhagdywysaw, v. a. (rhagdywys) To fore-lead.
Rhagdywysiad, s. m. (rhagdywys) A leading before, or a leading in advance.
Rhagddadgan, v. a. (dadgan) To declare before.
Rhagddadganiad, s. m. (rhagddadgan) A declaring beforehand; previous declaration.
Rhagddadl, s. f.—pl. t. au (dadl) A previous debate, or previous question.
Rhagddadliad, s. m. (rhagddadl) A previous argumentation.
Rhagddadlin, v. a. (rhagddadl) To debate before.
Rhagddal, v. a. (dal) To hold beforehand.
Rhagddaliad, s. m. (rhagddal) A first holding.
Rhagddanfon, v. a. (danfon) To send before.
Rhagddanfonawl, a. (rhagddanfon) Being sent beforehand; being of a previous mission.
Rhagddanfoniad, s. m. (rhagddanfon) A sending beforehand.
Rhagddant, s. m.—pl. rhagddannedd (dant) A foretooth, or a front tooth.
Rhagddangaws, v. a. (dangaws) To shew beforehand, to premonstrate.
Rhagddangosawl, a. (dangaws) Premonstrating.
Rhagddangosiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagddangaws) A prognostication; a premonstration.
Rhagddangoswr, s. m.—pl. rhagddangoswyr (rhagddangaws—gwr) A prognosticator.
Rhagddarbod, s. m.—pl. t. au (darbod) Provision beforehand; circumspection.
Rhagddarbodaeth, s. m. (rhagddarbod) A preparation beforehand; providence.
Rhagddarbodawl, a. (rhagddarbod) Providential.
Rhagddarbodedig, a. (rhagddarbod) Being provided or furnished beforehand.
Rhagddarbodi, v. a. (rhagddarbod) To provide or furnish beforehand.
Rhagddarbodiad, s. m. (rhagddarbod) A providing or furnishing beforehand.
Rhagddarbodus, a. (rhagddarbod) Provident.
Rhagddarbodwr, s. m.—pl. rhagddarbodwyr (rhagddarbod—gwr) One who provides beforehand.
Rhagddarlun, s. m. (darlun) Prefiguration.
Rhagddarluniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagddarlun) A prefiguring.
Rhagddarlunniaw, v. (rhagddarlun) To prefigure

3 L

Rhagddarluniedig, a. (rhagddarlun) Prefigured.
 Rhagddarmerth, s. m. (darmerth) Provision made beforehand; a previous preparation.
 Rhagddarmerthawl, a. (rhagddarmerth) Provident.
 Rhagddarmerthu, v. a. (rhagddarmerth) To provide beforehand.
 Rhagddarn, s. m.—pl. t. au (darn) A fore-piece.
 Rhagddarpar, s. m.—pl. t. au (darpar) Previous order or disposition.
 Rhagddarparawl, a. (rhagddarpar) Tending to furnish beforehand; providential.
 Rhagddarparedig, a. (rhagddarpar) Being previously ordered; being previously furnished.
 Rhagddarparedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagddarparedig) The being previously furnished.
 Rhagddarparedigaw, v. a. (rhagddarparedig) To render complete beforehand.
 Rhagddarparedd, s. m. (rhagddarpar) The state of being previously furnished.
 Rhagddarpariad, s. m. (rhagddarpar) A providing or ordering beforehand.
 Rhagddarparu, v. a. (darpar) To furnish before.
 Rhagddarparwch, s. m. (rhagddarpar) Support previously given.

Na antaria fydd drwy yr hoenyon ac y cydlwynau hyn, cyn i weddian am ragddarparwch Daw.

Do not venture to go through those snare and ambuscades, before thou hast prayed for the provident support of God.
R. Fychan, Ym. Dawlodeb.

Rhagddawd, s. m.—pl. rhagddodau (dawd) A prefix.
 Rhagddawn, s. m.—pl. rhagddoniau (dawn) A previous gift or endowment.
 Rhagddëall, s. m. (dëall) Previous knowledge.
 Rhagddëalliad, s. m. (rhagddëall) A pre-apprehension.
 Rhagddelw, s. f.—pl. t. au (delw) A prototype.
 Rhagddelwad, s. m. (rhagddelw) Prefiguration.
 Rhagddelwi, v. a. (rhagddelw) To prefigure.
 Rhagdderbyn, v. a. (derbyn) To receive before.
 Rhagdderbynai, s. c. (rhagdderbyn) A prolepsis.
 Rhagdderbyniad, s. m. (rhagdderbyn) A receiving beforehand.
 Rhagdderbyniawl, a. (rhagdderbyn) Previously receivable.
 Rhagddewis, s. m. (dewis) A previous choice. v. a. To choose before.
 Rhagddewisawl, a. (rhagddewis) Pre-elective.
 Rhagddewiad, a. (rhagddewis) Fore-chosen.
 Rhagddewisiad, s. m. (rhagddewis) Pre-election.
 Rhagddial, s. m. (dial) A previous revenge.
 Rhagddialiad, s. m. (rhagddial) A revenging beforehand.
 Rhagddialu, v. a. (rhagddial) To revenge before.
 Rhagddiddymiad, s. m. (diddymiad) A previous annihilation.
 Rhagddiddymu, v. a. (diddymu) To annihilate beforehand.
 Rhagddiogeliad, s. m. (diogeliad) A securing beforehand; a previously making safe.
 Rhagddiogelu, v. a. (diogelu) To secure before.
 Rhagddiogelwch, s. m. (diogelwch) A previous security.
 Rhagddirnad, s. m. (dirnad) Presurmise.
 Rhagddirnadawl, a. (rhagddirnad) Presurmising.
 Rhagddirnadiad, s. m. (dirnad) A presurmising.
 Rhagddirnadu, v. a. (dirnad) To presurmise.
 Rhagddiryrawl, a. (dirymawl) Tending to debilitate beforehand.
 Rhagddiryimiad, s. m. (dirymiad) A previously debilitating or enervating.

Rhagddiryrau, v. a. (dirymau) To debilitate beforehand.
 Rhagddodadwy, v. a. (rhagddawd) Capable of being placed before.
 Rhagddodawl, a. (rhagddawd) Prepositive.
 Rhagddodedig, a. (rhagddawd) Being prefixed.
 Rhagddodedigaeth, s. m. (rhagddodedig) The act of placing before, a prefixing.
 Rhagddodedigawl, a. (rhagddodedig) Prepositive.
 Rhagddodi, v. a. (rhagddawd) To prepose.
 Rhagddodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagddawd) Preposition.
 Rhagddoniad, s. m. (rhagddawn) A gifting beforehand; a previously endowing.
 Rhagddoniaw, v. a. (rhagddawn) To gift beforehand; to endow previously.
 Rhagddoniawl, a. (rhagddawn) Tending to endow beforehand.
 Rhagddor, s. f.—pl. t. au (dor) A fore-door; a wicket; a half-door.
 Rhagddorig, s. f. dim. (rhagddor) A small wicket.
 Rhagddrws, s. m.—pl. rhagddrysau (drws) A fore-door, an outer door.
 Rhagddryll, s. m.—pl. t. iau (dryll) A fore-piece.
 Rhagddychweliad, s. m. (dychweliad) A returning beforehand.
 Rhagddychweylid, v. a. (dychweylid) To return beforehand.
 Rhagddychymyg, s. f.—pl. t. ion (dychymyg) A prior device or invention; a presuppositional.
 Rhagddychymygadwy, a. (rhagddychymyg) Capable of being devised beforehand.
 Rhagddychymygawl, a. (rhagddychymyg) Previously devising; presuppositional.
 Rhagddychymygodig, a. (rhagddychymyg) Devised beforehand; presupposed.
 Rhagddychymyglad, s. m. (rhagddychymyg) A devising beforehand; a presupposing.
 Rhagddychymygu, v. a. (rhagddychymyg) To devise beforehand; to presuppose.
 Rhagddydd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (dydd) A prior day.
 Rhagddyddiad, s. m. (rhagddydd) An antedating.
 Rhagddyddiaw, v. a. (rhagddydd) To antedate.
 Rhagddyfallad, s. m. (dyfallad) A describing beforehand.
 Rhagddyfalu, v. a. (dyfalu) To fore-describe.
 Rhagddyled, s. f.—pl. t. ion (dyled) Prior debt.
 Rhagddyledus, a. (rhagddyled) Previously due.
 Rhagddymchweil, s. m. (dymchweil) A previous turn over. v. a. To turn over previously.
 Rhagddymchweiliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagddymchweil) A previously turning over.
 Rhagddymchwelyd, v. a. (rhagddymchweil) To turn over beforehand.
 Rhagddysg, s. m. (dysg) Previous instruction.
 Rhagddysgawl, a. (rhagddysg) Tending to instruct beforehand.
 Rhagddysgiad, s. m. (rhagddysg) A previously instructing.
 Rhagddysgu, v. a. (rhagddysg) To fore-learn.
 Rhagddywedawl, a. (dywedawl) Galasaying.
 Rhagddywededig, a. (dywed) Beforementioned.
 Rhagddywedliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (dywedliad) A gainsaying; a speaking previously.
 Rhagedrych, v. a. (edrych) To look before.
 Rhagedrychiad, s. m. (rhagedrych) A foresering.
 Rhagegawr, s. m. (egawr) An opening before.
v. a. To open before.
 Rhagegorawl, a. (rhagegawr) Opening before.
 Rhagegori, v. a. (rhagegawr) To open before.
 Rhagegoriad, s. m. (rhagegawr) A fore-opening.

Rhageisian, s. m. (eisian) A prior want.
 Rhageistedd, v. a. (sistedd) To be presiding.
 Rhageisteddawl, a. (rhageistedd) Presiding.
 Rhageisteddlad, s. m. (rhageistedd) One that sits before; a president.

Rhageisteddled cunref, nid angen y troedawg, cerwynnwl o fodd a dal i'r brenin bob blwyddyn.

A president of a hundred, that is to say, the foot-holder, a horse-head of metal shall be pay to the king every year. Welsh Law s.

Rhagenw, s. m.—pl. t. an (enw) A pronoun.
 Rhagenwad, s. m. (rhagenw) Prenomination.
 Rhagenwawl, a. (rhagenw) Prenominal.
 Rhagenwedig, a. (rhagenwad) Before-named, fore-mentioned. Rhagenwedigion, premises.
 Rhagenwl, v. a. (rhagenw) To premise.
 Rhagerchi, v. a. (erchi) To pre-require.
 Rhagethol, v. a. (ethol) To pre-elect.
 Rhagetholawg, a. (rhagethol) Pre-electing.
 Rhagetholedig, a. (rhagethol) Fore-chosen.
 Rhagetholedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. an (rhagetholedig) A pre-election.
 Rhagetholi, v. a. (rhagethol) To pre-elect.

Daw a'i hetholes ac a'i rhagetholes, A'i phrewyliaw a wna.

God did choose it and did choose it before-hand, and he will dwell in it. D. Ddu o Hiraiddyg.

Rhagetholiad, s. m. (rhagethol) A pre-election.
 Rhagetholwr, s. m.—pl. rhagetholwyr (rhagethol—gwr) One who chooses beforehand.
 Rhagfai, s. m.—pl. rhagfeian (bai) A prior fault.
 Rhagfarn, s. f.—pl. t. an (barn) Prejudice.
 Rhagfarnawl, a. (rhagfarn) Prejudging.
 Rhagfarnedig, a. (rhagfarn) Prejudicate.
 Rhagfarnedigaeth, s. f. (rhagfarnedig) Prejudication; a previous adjudication.
 Rhagfarnedd, s. m. (rhagfarn) Prejudicialness.
 Rhagfarniad, s. m.—pl. t. an (rhagfarn) A prejudging, a prejudication.
 Rhagfarnu, v. a. (rhagfarn) To condemn beforehand, to pre-judge, to prejudicate.
 Rhagfarnwr, s. m.—pl. rhagfarnwyr (rhagfarn—gwr) One who prejudices.
 Rhagfed, a. (rhag) Foremost, or anterior.
 Rhagfedd, s. m. (medd) Preoccupancy.
 Rhagfeddal, a. (meddal) Being soft before.
 Rhagfeddialad, s. m. (rhagfeddal) A softening beforehand.
 Rhagfeddalu, v. a. (rhagfeddal) To soften before.
 Rhagfeddiad, s. m. (rhagfedd) Preoccupation.
 Rhagfeddiannawl, a. (rhagfeddiant) Preoccupying, belonging to preoccupation.
 Rhagfeddiannedig, a. (rhagfeddiant) Preoccupied, possessed beforehand.
 Rhagfeddianniad, s. m. (rhagfeddiant) Preoccupation, prepossession.
 Rhagfeddiannu, v. a. (rhagfeddiant) To preoccupy.
 Rhagfeddiannwr, s. m.—pl. rhagfeddiannwyr (rhagfeddiant—gwr) A preoccuper.
 Rhagfeddiannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhagfeddiant) A preoccuper, a prior possessor.
 Rhagfeddiant, s. m.—pl. rhagfeddiannau (rhagfedd) Preoccupancy.
 Rhagfeddu, v. a. (rhagfedd) To prepossess.

Goresu ym o'm rhannu racteldu Rhwydd arallh o briffaith brydu.

Best for me from my Creator to be pre-occupied with the fluent oratory of the poetry of the primitive tongue. Elder Sais.

Rhagfeddwl, s. m.—pl. rhagfeddyllau (meddwl) A previous thought. v. a. To preconceive.
 Rhagfeddwr, s. m.—pl. rhagfeddwyr (rhagfedd—gwr) A preoccuper.

Rhagfeddyliad, s. m. (rhagfeddwl) Precogitation.
 Rhagfeddyliaw, v. a. (meddwl) To precogitate.

Ym y dywedd Arthur—Meddyllwch hawb am gyngor da gwynne; ac yr awrodd, o anfyd, rhoddwch atch cyngor, ac yu ddech rhagfeddyllwch pa beth a fo iawn i sbab.

Then said Arthur, think every one of you of a good and energetic counsel; and in this conjuncture, with one mind, give your advice, and wisely precogitate what may be proper to be answered. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhagfeddylied, v. a. (meddwl) To foredeem.
 Rhagfeddyliedig, a. (meddyliad) Precogitated.
 Rhagfeddyliwr, s. m.—pl. rhagfeddyliwyr (rhagfeddwl—gwr) One who precogitates.
 Rhagfeiad, s. m. (rhagfal) A criminating beforehand; a blaming beforehand.
 Rhagfelaw, v. a. (rhagfal) To criminate beforehand, to blame beforehand.
 Rhagflaen, s. m. (blaen) A fore point, a fore end.
 Rhagflaenawl, a. (rhagflaen) Preceding, antecedent, foregoing.
 Rhagflaenawr, s. m.—pl. rhagflaenorion (rhagflaen) A predecessor; an anticipater.
 Rhagflaenedig, a. (rhagflaen) Anticipated.
 Rhagflaenedigaeth, s. m. (rhagflaenedig) The state of being anticipated.
 Rhagflaenedigawl, a. (rhagflaenedig) Tending to anticipate; tending to take the lead.
 Rhagflaeniad, s. m. (rhagflaen) A going forward; a going before; precession; anticipation.
 Rhagflaeniadawl, a. (rhagflaeniad) Tending to anticipate.
 Rhagflaenorawl, a. (rhagflaenawr) Relating to precedence; introductory.
 Rhagflaenori, v. a. (rhagflaenawr) To take the lead or precedence.
 Rhagflaenu, v. a. (rhagflaen) To anticipate.
 Rhagflaenwr, s. m.—pl. rhagflaenwyr (rhagflaen—gwr) A preceder; a precursor.
 Rhagflaenydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhagflaen) A preceder; a precursor, a forerunner.
 Rhagflas, s. m.—pl. t. an (blas) A foretaste.
 Rhagflasu, v. a. (rhagflas) To foretaste.
 Rhagflin, a. (blin) Previously weary.
 Rhagfliniad, s. m. (rhagflin) A tiring beforehand.
 Rhagflinaw, v. a. (rhagflin) To tire beforehand.
 Rhagfod, s. m.—pl. t. an (bod) A prior existence.
 Rhagfodawl, a. (rhagfod) Previously existing.

Tri rhagfodolion doethineb: deddfoldeb, tangweddoldeb, a dwyfoldeb.

The three pre-existent views of wisdom: morality, peaceableness, and piety. Cofwg ab Gwynllaw Fflwr.

Rhagfodd, s. m. (bodd) Previous pleasure.
 Rhagfoddawl, a. (rhagfodd) Tending to please beforehand.
 Rhagfoddliad, s. m. (rhagfodd) A pleasing before.
 Rhagfoddliaw, v. a. (rhagfodd) To please before.
 Rhagfoel, a. (moel) Bald or bare before.
 Rhagfrait, s. m.—pl. rhagfreintiau (braint) A prerogative.
 Rhagfras, a. (bras) Of ample presence.
 Rhagfrawd, s. f.—pl. rhagfrodau (brawd) A sentence beforehand, pre-judication.
 Rhagfryd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (bryd) A previous design or intention.
 Rhagfrydiad, s. m. (rhagfryd) A designing beforehand; a premeditating.
 Rhagfrydiaw, v. a. (rhagfryd) To design beforehand; to premeditate.
 Rhagfuan, a. (buan) Quick in front; quickly moving forward.

Rhagfuan ei feirch rhag rhyw gawr;
Yn dydd gwyth adwyrth oedd ei llofaur
Pan grydai Cynon gan wyrdd wawr.

Quick in front his steeds before the shock of the shout of war;
In the day of wrath destruction were his blades, when Cynon girded himself with the green dawn. Acwria.

- Rhagfur, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mur) A contramure.
Rhagfuriad, s. m. (rhagfur) A raising a contramure; a forming a counterscarp.
Rhagfuriaw, v. a. (rhagfur) To make a contramure, to form a counterscarp.
Rhagfuriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagfwrw) A forecasting; predetermination.
Rhagfuriadawl, a. (rhagfuriad) Predetermining.
Rhagfuriadu, v. a. (rhagfuriad) To predetermine, to foredesign, to foredoom.
Rhagfuriadus, a. (rhagfuriad) Premeditating.
Rhagfwrw, v. a. (bwrw) To forecast, to foredeem.
Rhagfyfyr, s. m.—pl. t. ion (myfyr) Forecast.
Rhagfyfyrdawd, s. m.—pl. rhagfyfyrdodau (rhagfyfyr) Premeditation, precognition.
Rhagfyfyriad, s. m. (rhagfyfyr) A premeditating, a precognitating.
Rhagfyfyriaw, v. a. (rhagfyfyr) To premeditate; to contemplate beforehand.
Rhagfyfyriawl, a. (rhagfyfyr) Premeditating.
Rhagfyfyriedig, a. (rhagfyfyriad) Premeditated.
Rhagfyfyriwr, s. m.—pl. rhagfyfyrywyr (rhagfyfyr—gwr) One who premeditates.
Rhagfygwith, s. m.—pl. rhagfygythion (bygwith) A previous threat.
Rhagfygythiad, s. m. (rhagfygwith) A previously threatening.
Rhagfygythiaw, v. a. (rhagfygwith) To threaten beforehand.
Rhagfygythiawl, a. (rhagfygwith) Threatening beforehand.
Rhagfygythiwr, s. m.—pl. rhagfygythwyr (rhagfygwith—gwr) One who threatens beforehand.
Rhagfynag, s. m. (mynag) A prior declaration.
Rhagfyned, v. a. (myned) To go before.
Rhagfynedawl, a. (rhagfyned) Preceding.
Rhagfynediad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagfyned) A precession; a going before or in advance.
Rhagfynegawl, a. (rhagfynag) Prenunciating.
Rhagfynegi, v. a. (rhagfynag) To prenunciate, to declare beforehand.
Rhagfynegiad, s. m. (rhagfynag) Prenunciation.
Rhagfyr, s. m. (byr) That is short before; the first month of the year, according to ancient calculation, beginning at the winter solstice; it is now the name for December.
Rhagfyrâd, s. m. (rhagfyrâu) A foreshortening.
Rhagfyrâawl, a. (rhagfyrâu) Foreshortening.
Rhagfyrâu, v. a. (rhagfyr) To foreshorten.
Rhagffer, a. (ffer) Strong-fronted.
Rhagffordd, s. f.—pl. rhagffyrdd (ffordd) A forward road, an advance way.
Rhagfforddawl, a. (rhagffordd) Belonging to an advance road.
Rhagffysg, s. m. (ffysg) A forward haste.

Tarfysg yn rhagffysg yn rhagffer a waeth,
Tarlôn ffracth ffraw aber.

A tumult in the forward haste in the mighty front he made, the din of the noisy wave of the efflux of frow.
Cynddelw, m. E. ab M. ab Iddon.

- Rhagffysgiad, s. m. (rhagffysg) A hastening before; a hastening forward.
Rhagffysgiaw, v. a. (rhagffysg) To hasten before.
Rhagffysgiawl, a. (rhagffysg) Tending to hasten forward.
Rhaggadarn, a. (cadarn) Strong in front.

- Rhaggadarnâd, s. m. (rhaggadarnâu) A strengthening before; a strengthening in front.
Rhaggadarnâawl, a. (rhaggadarnâu) Tending to strengthen beforehand.
Rhaggadarnâu, v. a. (rhaggadarn) To strengthen before; to strengthen in front.
Rhaggaer, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (caer) Any advance-work in fortification; an outwork; the suburbs of a city.
Rhaggais, s. m. (cais) A prior attempt.
Rhagganfod, s. m. (canfod) A foresight. t. a. To see before; to foresee.
Rhaggau, v. a. (cau) To shut before.
Rhaggauad, s. m. (rhaggau) A shutting before.
Rhaggeiniad, s. m.—pl. rhaggeiniad (ceiniad) A preceptor.
Rhaggeisiad, s. m. (rhaggais) A previously attempting or seeking.
Rhaggeisiaw, v. a. (rhaggais) To attempt beforehand; to seek previously.
Rhaggeisiawl, a. (rhaggais) Previously trying.
Rhaggerdded, s. m. (cerdded) A walk before.
Rhaggerddediad, s. m. (rhaggerdded) A walking before, or a walking in advance.
Rhaggiliad, s. m. (ciliad) A previously receding.
Rhaggiliaw, v. a. (ciliaw) To recede previously.
Rhagglod, s. f. (clod) A former fame.

Cynddelw! Bowys cyfodol yn ar
Yn arddu eu rhaglod.

The characteristic of Powys is the giving the advance war to battle, awaiting their former fame. Cynddelw.

- Rhagglud, s. f. (clud) A heap before, or in front.
Rhaggludaw, v. a. (rhagglud) To heap before.

Rhaggludawd ei gloddyf uch gwah;
Rhaglym fu yn penna penala.

The sword above the sheath raised a heap in front, even a forward course dismaying chiefs. Cynddelw, i. H. ab Iddon.

- Rhaggludiad, s. m. (rhagglud) A heaping before.
Rhagglyw, s. m. (clyw) A previous hearing.
Rhagglywed, v. a. (rhagglyw) To hear before.
Rhaggnaf, s. m. (cnaif) A shearing before.
Rhaggneifiad, s. m. (rhaggnaf) A shearing before, a shearing the front.
Rhaggneifiaw, v. a. (rhaggnaf) To shear before.
Rhaggnôad, s. m. (cnôad) A previously chewing.
Rhaggnôawl, a. (cnôawl) Previously chewing.
Rhaggnôi, v. a. (cnoi) To chew previously.
Rhaggraff, s. m. (craff) A previous impression.
a. Previously impressed; having foresight.
Rhaggraffawl, a. (rhaggraff) Tending to impress previously; inducing foresight.
Rhaggraffiad, s. m. (rhaggraff) A previously impressing; a previously perceiving.
Rhaggraffu, v. a. (rhaggraff) To impress before.
Rhaggri, s. f. (cri) A cry or shout before.
Rhaggrybwyll, s. m. (crybwyll) A previous hint.
Rhaggrybwyllaw, v. a. (rhaggrybwyll) To intimate previously; to mention beforehand.
Rhaggrybwyllledig, a. (rhaggrybwyll) Before intimated; before mentioned.
Rhaggrybwylliad, s. m. (rhaggrybwyll) A previously intimating; a previously mentioning.
Rhaggydnaw, v. a. (cydnaw) To agree before.
Rhaggymmer, s. m. (cymer) A previous taking, a previous receipt.
Rhaggymmerawl, a. (rhaggymmer) Previously receiving, or taking.
Rhaggymmeredig, a. (rhaggymmer) Being previously received or taken.
Rhaggymmeriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhaggymmer) A taking beforehand; a prolepsis.

haggymeriadawl, a. (rhaggymeriad) Of an anticipating tendency; proleptical.
haghanfod, s. m. (hanfod) Pre-existence.
haghanfodawl, a. (rhaghanfod) Pre-existent.
haghanfodl, v. a. (rhaghanfod) To pre-exist.
haghanfodiad, s. m. (rhaghanfod) A pre-existing; a pre-existence.
haghawl, s. f.—pl. rhaghollon (hawl) A previous question or claim.
hagbeuddawl, a. (henddawl) Premeriting.
hagheuddu, v. a. (heuddu) To premerit.
hagholl, v. a. (rhaghawl) To question before.
hagholiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhaghawl) A questioning beforehand.
hagiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhag) A getting before; a coming before; a stopping.
hagial, v. a. (rhag) To controvert.
hagisel, a. (isel) Having the fore part low.
hagladd, v. a. (lladd) To cut before.
hagladdawl, a. (rhagladd) Cutting in front.
hagladdiad, s. m. (rhagladd) A cutting before.
haglafar, s. m. (llafar) A harangue made before or in public. a. Prolocutory.

Arghwydd, nid rhaid iddo fod yn rhaglafar; ac wrth hyn y gwisg yr un o dri mad gornedd.

A sovereign, it is not requisite for him to be prolocutory; and therefore he is called one of the three mates of court.
Welsh Laws.

haglafarawl, a. (rhaglafar) Speaking before.
haglafariad, s. m. (rhaglafar) A speaking before.
haglafaru, v. a. (rhaglafar) To speak before.
haglafariwr, s. m. (rhaglafar—gwr) A prolocutor.
haglam, s. m.—pl. t. au (llam) A forward step.
haglamiad, s. m. (rhaglam) A stepping before.
haglamu, v. a. (rhaglam) To step forward.
haglaw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (llaw) A deputy, a surrogate; a lieutenant; a vice-president.
haglawd, s. m. (llawd) A first increase.
haglawiseth, s. f. (rhaglaw) The office, or jurisdiction of a deputy; a lieutenantcy; a prefecture; a vice presidency.
haglawisethawl, a. (rhaglawiseth) Belonging to the office of a deputy or lieutenant.
haglawiaethu, v. a. (rhaglawiaeth) To perform the function of a deputy or lieutenant. haglawiaw, v. a. (rhaglaw) To make a deputy.
haglawyn, s. m. (llawyn) A first filling or gathering in. Cylich rhaglawn, cylich rhaglawd, the circuit of first fruits, certain dues anciently paid by tenants to their lords.
haglef, s. m. (llef) A proclamation.
haglefain, v. a. (rhaglef) To proclaim.
haglewych, s. m. (llewych) Illumination before.
haglewychiad, s. m. (rhaglewych) A lighting first haglewychu, v. (rhaglewych) To illumine before.
agllith, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (llith) A preface.
agllithiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagllith) A making in introductory discourse.
agllithiaw, v. a. (rhagllith) To preface.
agllithiawl, a. (rhagllith) Prefatory, introductory agllithiwr, s. m.—pl. rhagllithwyr (rhagllith—wr) One who makes a preface.
aglofydd, s. m. (rhaglawn) A vicegerent.
aglun, s. m.—pl. t. iau (llun) A prior form.
agluniad, s. m. (rhaglun) A performing.
agluniaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhaglun) The act of forming beforehand; providence.
agluniaethawl, a. (rhagluniaeth) Providential.
agluniaethu, v. a. (rhagluniaeth) To carry on the dispensation of providence.
agluniaethus, a. (rhagluniaeth) Providential.

Rhaglunlaw, v. a. (rhaglun) To preform; to forecast, to foresee, to provide.

Sawl a raglunodd ei, y rhai hynny hefyd a alwodd.

Such as he has formed before, those also he has called.
W. Salisbury.

Rhaglunniawl, a. (rhaglun) Tending to form beforehand.
Rhaglunniedig, a. (rhaglun) Performed.
Rhaglwgr, s. m. (llwgr) A prior corruption.
Rhaglywyr, s. m.—pl. t. au (llwybr) A previous path; a path in front.
Rhaglywbraw, v. a. (rhaglywyr) To open a path before; to clear the way in front.
Rhaglywbrawl, a. (rhaglywyr) Tending to open a path before.
Rhaglyd, s. m. (llyd) Providence, forecast.
Rhaglydaw, v. a. (rhaglyd) To use forecast.
Rhaglydawl, a. (rhaglyd) Providential.
Rhaglyfn, a. (llyfn) Previously smooth.
Rhaglyfnawl, a. (rhaglyfn) Tending to make smooth beforehand.
Rhaglyfniad, s. m. (rhaglyfn) A previously making smooth.

Rhaglyfnu, v. a. (rhaglyfn) To smooth before.

Gwelat rhaglunhath Daw yn ôda raglyfnu peth ar y byd, drwy athrawiaeth y Groegiaid.

The divine providence saw it good previously to smooth the word a little, through the knowledge of the Greeks.
C. Edwards, H. y Ffydd.

Rhaglygrawl, a. (rhaglwgr) Tending to corrupt beforehand.
Rhaglygriad, s. m. (rhaglwgr) A previously corrupting.
Rhaglygru, v. a. (rhaglwgr) To first corrupt.
Rhaglym, a. (llym) Sharp before; sharp-pointed.

Cynon lary frôn—rhaglym ei wasawwr.

Cynon of humane breast, sharp in front the pushing of his spear.
Aneurin.

Rhaglymiad, s. m. (rhaglym) A sharpening before; acumination.
Rhaglymu, v. a. (rhaglym) To sharpen before; to make sharp-pointed.
Rhaglys, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (llys) An inferior court; the court of a comot, a court leet.
Rhaglyw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (llyw) A deputy governor.

Rhaglywiad, s. m.—pl. raglywiaid (rhaglyw) One who governs as a deputy.

Gosodwn fod—rhaglywiaid cymydau dros Gymru.

We appoint that there be deputy constables of comots over Wales.
Good. Rhuddlan.

Rhaglywiaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhaglyw) A deputy governor, a vice presidency, a prefecture.
Rhaglywiaethawl, a. (rhaglywiaeth) Belonging to the office of a deputy or lieutenant.
Rhaglywiaethu, v. a. (rhaglywiaeth) To perform the function of a deputy governor.
Rhaglywiaw, v. a. (rhaglyw) To rule as a deputy.
Rhaglywiawd, s. m. (rhaglyw) The function of a deputy governor.
Rhaglywiawdr, s. m.—pl. rhaglywiodron (rhaglywiawd) A deputy governor.
Rhagllaw, adv. (llaw) Henceforth, in future.
Rhagnaid, s. f. (naid) A leap before.
Rhagnawdd, s. m. (nawdd) A refuge or protection before; a preservative.
Rhagnedd, s. m. (nedd) A station before.

Gwelir isafwr bwn—

A llyu rhagnedd

Yn rhaglywedd

Yn nydd gwedd

Yn nghyrryedd.

There will be seen the pole blade, and a host in an opposing station threatening, in the day of struggle in conflict.
Aneurin.

Rhagorhawl, s. (rhagnerth) Tending to strengthen beforehand.

Rhagnerthiad, s. m. (rhagnerth) A previously strengthening.

Rhagnerthu, v. a. (rhagnerth) To strengthen beforehand.

Rhagneuadd, s. f. (neuadd) A hall of entrance.

Rhagnod, s. m.—pl. t. an (nod) A mark before.

Rhagnodawl, a. (rhagnod) Marking before.

Rhagnodi, v. a. (rhagnod) To mark before.

Rhagnodiad, s. m. (rhagnod) A marking before.

Rhagnoddawl, a. (rhagnawdd) First protecting.

Rhagnoddi, v. a. (rhagnawdd) To protect before.

Rhagnoddiad, s. m. (rhagnawdd) A protecting beforehand.

Rhagnoeth, a. (noeth) Naked before.

Rhagnoethi, v. a. (rhagnoeth) To make naked before; to expose the front.

Rhagnoeithiad, s. m. (rhagnoeith) A making naked before; an exposing of the front.

Rhagnyth, s. m.—pl. t. od (nyth) A prepared nest.

Rhagnythawl, a. (rhagnyth) Tending to nestle.

Rhagnythiad, s. m. (rhagnyth) A preparing a nest.

Rhagnythu, v. a. (rhagnyth) To prepare a nest.

Rhagnythed i'ar cyu dodwy.

Let the hen prepare a nest before laying. Adage.

Rhagnythydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhagnyth) One who prepares a nest.

Rhagochel, v. a. (gochel) To avoid previously.

Rhagocheiliad, s. m. (rhagochel) A previously avoiding.

Rhagocheilyd, v. a. (rhagochel) To avoid previously.

Rhagodawl, a. (rhagawd) Coming before, coming against, coming in opposition.

Rhagodfa, s. f.—pl. t. on (rhagawd) A place for coming against; an ambuscade.

Rhagodi, v. a. (rhagawd) To come before, to come against; to oppose.

Rhagoddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagawd) A coming before, a coming against.

Rhagoddi, v. n. (rhagawdi) To form a leading rhyme.

Rhagoddiad, s. m. (rhagawdi) A forming a leading rhyme.

Rhagodlig, a. (rhagawdi) Having the quality of a leading rhyme.

Pan fo y gynia ragodlig yn ddauwynsbawg, ni eill y synghawdd fod yn gryn ddyrchwiledig.

When the first rhyming consonant has a double aspect, the consonant cannot be a reverted transition. Gr. Roberts.

Rhagodwr, s. m.—pl. rhagodwyr (rhagawd—gwr) One who comes before or against.

Rhagodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhagawd) One who comes before or against; an opposer.

Rhagoddef, s. m. (goddef) A previous suffering.

Rhagoddefawl, a. (rhagoddef) Previously passive.

Rhagoddefiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagoddef) A suffering beforehand.

Rhagofal, s. m.—pl. t. on (gofal) Precation.

Rhagofaliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagofal) A taking previous care, a taking precaution.

Rhagofalu, v. a. (rhagofal) To take precaution.

Rhagofalus, a. (rhagofal) Careful beforehand.

Rhagofalwr, s. m.—pl. rhagofalwyr (rhagofal—gwr) One who takes previous care.

Rhagofyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (gofyn) A prerequisite; an adjunct requisite.

Tair swydd llys: canghellwr, canllaw, neu bledlwr, a rhagfyll; sef rhagofynion llys eu geirw, chn y gellir llys hebddynt.

The three adjunct offices of a court: a chancellor, a conductor, or partizan, and an apparitor; for they are called adjunct requisite, as a court can be held without them. Triodd Dyfhwel.

Rhagofyn, v. a. (gofyn) To bespeak.

Rhagofynawl, a. (rhagofyn) Bespeaking.

Rhagofyniad, s. m. (rhagofyn) A bespeaking.

Rhagolwg, s. m. (golwg) Prospect; foresight.

Rhagolwyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (olwyn) Fore-wheel.

Rhagolgyawd, a. (rhagolwg) A prospect.

Rhagolgyawl, a. (rhagolwg) Prospective.

Rhagolgyiad, s. m. (rhagolwg) A foreseeing.

Rhagolgyu, v. a. (rhagolwg) To look forward.

Rhagongl, s. f. (ongl) A salient angle.

Rhagonglaid, a. (rhagongl) Tending to a salient angle; of the nature of a salient angle.

Rhagongli, v. a. (rhagongl) To form a salient angle.

Rhagongliad, s. m. (rhagongl) A forming a salient angle.

Rhagor, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhag—gor) The state of being before; excellence; attribute; superiority; difference; more.

Rhagoria, excellencies; yn rhagor, in a greater degree, more. Mae rhagor mawr rhagorot ti a mi, there is great difference betwixt thee and me.

Tair dyben barddoniaeth: gwyddia mewn a ddefn; cynnwych; a moli pob dalonau a rhagor.

The three intentions of bardism: to improve every habit; to maintain peace; and to praise all the good excellent.

D'ofn a drir, dwfn dy rhagor, Od ofn mawr dwfn o'r mor.

Thy dread will remain, profound thy superiority, if a part of the sea be dreaded.

El rad— Archaf ar dir, a chaf yr awron Er el wir garfud, a'i rhagoria, Ac er a wyddid o gwyddon— Er el wyth allu, a'i archolion.

His grace I crave verbally, and at the present hour I am a bit, for the sake of his true love, and his attributes, we are of what he has known of rejoicings; for the sake of his energies, and his wounds. G. ab I. ab Llywelyn: 1500.

Rhagorawl, a. (rhagor) Excellent, or superlative.

Rhagorbarch, s. (rhagor—parch) Pre-eminence.

Rhagorbryd, s. m. (rhagor—pryd) Superior appearance.

Rhagorbwyll, s. m. (pwyll) Superior discretion.

Rhagordawn, s. m. (rhagor—dawn) Superior talent or endowment.

Rhagorddull, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhagor—dwl) A superior form.

Rhagorddwy, a. (rhagor—dwyn) Bearing a superiority; excelling.

Pethau godidogion a rhagorddwy, eminent and superlative things.

Rhagorddysg, s. (rhagor—dysg) Superior learning.

Rhagoredig, a. (rhagor) Being made superior.

Rhagoredigaeth, s. m. (rhagoredig) Superiority.

Rhagoredd, s. m. (rhagor) Excellency.

Rhagoresgyn, v. a. (goresgyn) To come upon the s. m. A prior coming upon; a prior conquest.

Rhagoresgynawl, a. (rhagoresgyn) Belonging to prior conquest.

Rhagoresgyniad, s. m. (rhagoresgyn) A previously overcoming or surmounting.

Rhagorfaint, s. m.—pl. rhagorfaintiaid (bawt) A prerogative.

Rhagorgamp, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhagor—camp) A superior feat or exploit.

Rhagorgampus, a. (rhagorgamp) Pancreatic.

Rhagori, v. a. (rhagor) To go before, to go beyond; to excel, to surpass; to cause a difference; to differ.

Rhagoriad, s. m. (rhagor) An excelling, a surpassing; a differing.

Rhagoriaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagor) A state of being beyond, or surpassing; difference.

Tri rhagoriaeth eidd: iawn fydrydd, iawn ddydd, a'u ymddwy.

The three excellencies of song: just present; just description and just testimony.

Rhagorietawwl, a. (rhagoriaeth) Relating to excellence; differential.

Rhagoriaethu, v. a. (rhagoriaeth) To form a state of excellence; to make a difference.

Rhagoriannawl, a. (rhagorian) Surpassing, superlative; differential.

Rhagoriannu, v. a. (rhagorian) To render superlative; to create a difference.

Rhagoriant, s. m. (rhagor) Excellence; difference

Pob peth anweledig, megys angel, a folir herwydd yr ansawdd, ac y rhagoriant y sydd arno.

Every thing invisible, as an angel, is praised according to the nature, and excellence appertaining to it. Norddies.

Rhagoriawd, s. m. (rhagor) The act or state of excelling; a difference.

Rhagoriawdr, s. m. (rhagoriawd) One who excels.

Rhagorineb, s. m. (rhagor) Excellency, superiority; preference; difference.

Rhagoroleb, s. m. (rhagorawl) Preference.

Rhagorolrwydd, s. m. (rhagorawl) Excellentness.

Rhagosawd, v. a. (gosawd) To set previously; to set before, to prefix.

Rhagosawdl, a. (rhagosawd) Prepositive.

Rhagosodedig, a. (rhagosawd) Being set before; fore-appointed, pre-established; prefixed.

Rhagosodedigaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhagosodedig) Pre-establishment, pre-ordination.

Rhagosodedigawl, a. (rhagosodedig) Prepositive.

Rhagosodiad, s. m. (rhagosawd) A setting before.

Rhagosodwr, s. m.—pl. rhagosodwyr (rhagosawd gwr) One who sets before.

Rhagraith, s. f.—pl. rhagreithian (rhaith) A previous adjustment; a prejudication.

Rhagran, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhan) A prior share.

Rhagranawl, a. (rhagran) Of a prior sharing.

Rhagraniad, s. m. (rhagran) A previously sharing.

Rhagrannu, v. a. (rhagran) To share previously.

Rhagre, s. f. (rhe) A first setting off, a preamble.

Rhagred, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhed) A prior course.

Rhagredawl, a. (rhagred) Forerunning, antecedent, procatartec.

Rhagredeu, v. a. (rhagred) To forerun.

Rhagrediad, s. m. (rhagred) A forerunning.

Rhagredwr, s. m.—pl. rhagredwyr (rhagred—gwr) A precursor, a forerunner, a harbinger.

Rhagreithiad, s. m. (rhagraith) A previously rectifying; consideration.

Rhagreithiannawl, a. (rhagreithiant) Tending to previous rectitude; deliberative.

Rhagreithiannu, v. a. (rhagreithiant) To make a previous adjustment.

Rhagreithiant, s. m. (rhagraith) Previous adjustment; deliberation.

Rhagreithiaw, v. a. (rhagraith) To adjust beforehand; to consider.

Rhagreithia dy air cyn nol ddodi.

Consider thy word before it is given.

Adage.

Guedy darglo i'r hounrfaid rhagreithiau eu synwyr, a chadurau ei ddi llyw drwg, yna y dylyant y brawdwr, fydd ar neillia, a bwrw herwydd y'r hounrfaid.

When the elders shall have debated considering their sentiment, and supported its form by oath, then the judges ought to go aside, and pass sentence according to the elders. Welsh Laws.

Rhagreithiawl, a. (rhagraith) Previously rectified.

Rhagreithiedig, a. (rhagreithiad) Previously rectified; considered, deliberated.

Rhagreithiwr, s. m.—pl. rhagreithwyr (rhagraith—gwr) One who rectifies beforehand.

Rhagreithus, a. (rhagraith) Considerate.

Rhagrif, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhif) A prior number.

Rhagrifaw, v. a. (rhagrif) To reckon beforehand.

Rhagrifawl, a. (rhagrif) Of previous numbering.

Rhagrifiad, s. m. rhagrif) A reckoning before.

Rhagrith, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rith) Hypocrisy.

Rhagrithiad, s. m. (rhagrith) A practising of hypocrisy; dissimulation.

Rhagrithiannawl, a. (rhagrithiant) Of an hypocritical disposition.

Rhagrithiannu, v. a. (rhagrithiant) To use hypocrisy; to put on appearance.

Rhagrithiannus, a. (rhagrithiant) Apt to practise hypocrisy or dissimulation.

Rhagrithiant, s. m. (rhagrith) Simulation.

Rhagrithiaw, v. a. (rhagrith) To use hypocrisy.

Rhagrithiawg, a. (rhagrith) Using hypocrisy.

Rhagrithiawl, s. (rhagrith) Hypocritical.

Rhagrithiwr, s. m.—pl. rhagrithwyr (rhagrith—gwr) A dissimulator, a hypocrite.

Rhagrithus, a. (rhagrith) Hypocritical.

Rhagrodd, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhodd) A gift before.

Rhagroddedig, a. (rhagrodd) Being previously given.

Rhagroddi, v. a. (rhagrodd) To give beforehand.

Rhagroddiad, s. m. (rhagrodd) A giving before.

Rhagroddwr, s. m.—pl. rhagroddwyr (rhagrodd—gwr) One who gives beforehand.

Rhagruth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rathr) A rushing forward; a rushing to the front.

Rhagruthraw, v. a. (rhagruthr) To rush before.

Gwawr onen rethren a regruthral;

Rhag ofn gwir gutofo gwyr a gllad.

A going ashen appear he would rush forward; for fear of a trusty pillar heroes would flee away.

Heliya Fordd, neu Ll. Drydydd Heddant.

Rhagruthrawl, a. (rhagruthr) Rushing before.

Rhagruthriad, s. m. (rhagruthr) A rushing before; a rushing forward.

Rhagrwym, s. m. (rhwym) A previous bond or tie.

Rhagrwymaw, v. a. (rhagrwym) To bind before.

Rhagrwymawl, a. (rhagrwym) First binding.

Rhagrwymedig, a. (rhagrwym) Bound before.

Rhagrwymiad, s. m. (rhagrwym) A previously binding.

Rhagrwysr, s. m. (rhwystr) A previous hindrance or obstacle.

Rhagrwysraw, v. a. (rhagrwysr) To preclude.

Rhagrwysrawl, a. (rhagrwysr) Previously hindering; precluding.

Rhagrwysriad, s. m. (rhagrwysr) A previously hindering or precluding.

Rhagrybudd, s. m. (rhybudd) Premonition.

Rhagrybuddiad, s. m. (rhagrybudd) Premonition.

Rhagrybuddiaw, v. a. (rhagrybudd) To forewarn.

Rhagrybuddiawl, a. (rhagrybudd) Premonitory.

Rhagrybuddiwr, s. m. (rhagrybudd—gwr) A premonisher, a forewarner.

Rhagsaf, s. f. (saf) A stand before or in front.

Rhagsail, s. f. (sail) A prior foundation.

Rhagsaln, s. f.—pl. rhagsalcian (sain) A prior or leading sound.

Rhagsathr, s. m. (sathr) A tread before.

Rhagsathrawl, a. (rhagsathr) Treading before.

Rhagsathriad, s. m. (rhagsathr) A treading before; a treading in front.

Rhagsathru, v. a. (rhagsathr) To tread before.

Rhagsefydlawg, a. (sefydlawg) Pre-established.

Rhagsefydliad, s. m. (sefydliad) A fixing or establishing beforehand, a pre-establishing.

Rhagsefydlu, v. a. (sefydlu) To pre-establish.

Rhagsefyll, v. a. (sefyll) To stand before.

Rhagseiliad, s. m. (rhagsail) A laying a previous foundation.

Rhagseiliaw, v. a. (rhagsail) To lay a previous foundation.

Rhagseiniad, s. m. (rhagsain) A sounding before.
Rhagseiniaw, v. a. (rhagsain) To sound before.
Rhagseiniawl, a. (rhagsain) Previously sounding.
Rhagsen, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (sen) A prior reproof.
Rhagsenawl, a. (rhagsen) Previously reproving.
Rhagseniad, s. m. (rhagsen) A first reproving.
Rhagsennu, v. a. (rhagsen) To reprove before.
Rhagwydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (swydd) A prior office; an adjunct office.
Rhagswyddiad, s. m. (rhagwydd) A filling a prior office; a previously officiating.
Rhagwyn, s. f. (swyn) Preventive charm.
Rhagwynaw, v. a. (rhagwyn) To charm before.
Rhagwynawl, a. (rhagwyn) Fore-charming.
Rhagwyniad, s. m. (rhagwyn) A charming beforehand; a preventive charm.
Rhagsylw, s. m. (sylv) A previous remark.
Rhagsylwad, s. m. (rhagsylw) A previously remarking or noticing.
Rhagsylwl, v. a. (rhagsylw) To remark before.
Rhagsyll, s. m. (syll) A look forward or before.
Rhagsylliad, s. m. (rhagsyll) A looking forward.
Rhagsyllu, v. a. (rhagsyll) To look forward.
Rhagsyniad, s. m. (syniad) Pre-apprehension.
Rhagsyniawl, a. (syniawl) Premeditating.
Rhagsynied, v. a. (synied) To premeditate.
Rhagsyniedig, a. (rhagsyniad) Premeditated.
Rhagsyniedigaeth, s. m. (rhagsyniedig) The exercise of previous thought, premeditation.
Rhagsyniedigawl, a. (rhagsyniedig) Inducing premeditation.
Rhagsyniwr, s. m.—pl. rhagsyniwr (syniwr) One who premeditates.
Rhagu, v. a. (rhag) To go before, to go in front; to get before; to oppose, to withstand.
Rhagus, a. (rhag) Tending to go before; opposing; contrary, adverse.
Rhagwahan, s. m. (gwahan) A leading division.
Rhagwahanawl, a. (rhagwahan) Belonging to a leading division.
Rhagwahaniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagwahan) A forming a leading division.
Rhagwahanod, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagwahan—nod) A leading division point, a semicolon.
Rhagwahanu, v. a. (rhagwahan) To form a leading division; to use a semicolon.
Rhagwan, s. m. (gwan) An advance or front division.
Rhagwanawl, a. (rhagwan) Belonging to an advanced division.
Rhagwaniad, s. m. (rhagwan) A forming an advanced division.
Rhagwant, s. m.—pl. t. au (gwant) The advanced division, a term in prosody for the accented part of the second pause of a verse, of Unawdl union, or the fifth syllable, concatenating with a preceding sound.
Rhagwau, v. a. (rhagwan) To make a division or opening before.

Cyfran ya rhagwan rhag byddinawr.
A party opening a forward way before the hosts. Acurin.

Rhagwas, s. m.—pl. rhagweision (gwas) A preceding minister; a harbinger; a deputy servant; a term used for the article, by some grammarians; and by others for the adverb.

Gwas i ragwas: nos, gwas i was y cwn.
A servant to an underservant; or, a servant to the servant of the dogs. Adage.

Rhagwasanaeth, s. m. (gwasanaeth) Previous servitude; a prior ministration.

Rhagwasanaethawl, a. (rhagwasanaeth) Previously serving; a ministering before.
Rhagwasanaethiad, s. m. (rhagwasanaeth) A serving beforehand.
Rhagwasanaethu, v. a. (rhagwasanaeth) To serve beforehand; to minister before.
Rhagwedd, s. f. (gwedd) A presence; a front.

Rhagwedd rhoddid i fardd y byd.
A countenance was given to the bard of the world. Telen.

Gwyr Gogledd yn actynedd yn en cyfelys
Yn mherfodd eu rhagwedd y diagryns.
The men of the North, in the portal around them, in the of their place of presence descended. Gwyddon, Arm. 177.

Rhagweini, v. a. (gweini) To serve before.
Rhagweinydd, s. m.—pl. t. iaid (rhagweini) One who ministereth before.

Tri rhagweinyddiaid doethnach: addug ddodidid, arf uw redawl, a serch swenawl.
The three precursors of wisdom: moral instruction, an ac habit, and an implanted foodness. Caring John.

Rhagwel, s. m. (gwel) Foresight, or precience.

Da nad pell rhagwel dyn.
It is happy that the precience of man extends not far. Aep.

Rhagweladwy, a. (rhagwel) Capable of being foreseen.
Rhagweled, v. a. (rhagwel) To foresee.

Angen a rhagweir ni ddaw byth ar ddech.
Need that is foreseen will never come upon the west. A.

Yna y dywedd Arthur—Pa beth bynag ar a rhagweir na y bles ygan doethnach, pan ddeler ar y gwelidur hys y oddeler.
Thereupon Arthur says, whatever thing shall be foreseen or more complete, or wiser than that, which the precience of the lord Arthur has preconceived. Gr. of Aep.

Rhagwelediad, s. m. (rhagweled) A foreseeing.
Rhagweledig, a. (rhagweled) Foreseen.

Ni thebyraf i gallu o nob o bonum ni reddid cyrbyr forach, na chrynoch, na doethnach, na y hwa a rhyddid rhagweledig doethnach yd arwyddid Arthur.
I do not think that any of us could give a more valuable or more complete, or wiser than that, which the precience of the lord Arthur has preconceived. Gr. of Aep.

Rhagweledigaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhagweledig) The act of foreseeing.
Rhagweledigaw, v. a. (rhagweledig) To render foreseen.
Rhagweledigrwydd, s. m. (rhagweledig) The state of being foreseen.
Rhagwelgar, a. (rhagwel) Apt to foresee.
Rhagweiliad, s. m. (rhagwel) A foreseeing.
Rhagweledydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhagweled) One who foresees.
Rhagwelwr, s. m.—pl. rhagwelwyr (rhagwel—wr) One who foresees.
Rhagwerth, s. m. (gwerth) A prior sale.
Rhagwerthawl, a. (rhagwerth) Relating to a previous selling.
Rhagwerthiad, s. m. (rhagwerth) A selling beforehand; a previous selling.
Rhagwerthu, v. a. (rhagwerth) To sell beforehand.
Rhagwerthwr, s. m.—pl. rhagwerthwyr (rhagwerth—gwr) One who sells beforehand.
Rhagwiriad, s. m. (gwiriad) A previously affirming or certifying.
Rhagwiriawl, v. a. (gwiriawl) To certify beforehand.
Rhagwiriawl, a. (gwiriawl) Previously certifying.
Rhagwiriwr, s. m.—pl. rhagwirwyr (gwiriwr) One who certifies beforehand.
Rhagwisg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (gwsg) A fore-dress; a prior dress.
Rhagwisgaw, v. a. (rhagwisg) To dress previously.
Rhagwisgiad, s. m. (rhagwisg) A first dressing.

Rhagun, s. m. (rhag) A scarecrow.
Rhagwybod, v. a. (gwybod) To foreknow.
Rhagwybodadwy, a. (rhagwybod) Capable of being foreknown.
Rhagwybodath, s. f. (rhagwybod) Precognition.
Rhagwybodam, a. (rhagwybod) Belonging to prescience.
Rhagwybodus, a. (rhagwybod) Prescient.
Rhagwyl, s. f. (gwyl) A previous watch.
Rhagwylad, s. m. (rhagwyl) A fore watching.
Rhagwylled, v. a. (rhagwyl) To watch before.
Rhagwylwr, s. m.—pl. rhagwylwyr (rhagwyl—gwyr) One who watches before.
Rhagwyneb, prep. (gwyneb) Before, in presence.
a. Ensuing, forthcoming, following.

To y Rhagwylwyr a Rhagwylwyr
 i'r hwn aeddf, y rhagwylwyr
 i'r hwn aeddf, y rhagwylwyr
 i'r hwn aeddf, y rhagwylwyr

Rhagwynebaf, a. (rhagwyneb) Tending to come forward, forthcoming.
Rhagwynebiad, s. m. (rhagwyneb) A coming before, a coming forward.
Rhagwynebu, v. a. (rhagwyneb) To come before.
Rhagwys, s. f.—pl. s. iau (gwys) A previous suppers; a premonition, a forewarning.

Rhagwys—

Y rhagwys a rhagwys iau

Rhagwys a rhagwys iau

He brought the forewarning of the Loegian race to the king's presence.

Rhagwysiad, s. m.—pl. s. iau (rhagwys) A previously citing; a forewarning.
Rhagwysaw, v. a. (rhagwys) To cite previously.
Rhagwysawl, a. (rhagwys) Pronomitory.
Rhagwysad, adv. (yngwys) Henceforth; hence.
Rhagymadrawd, s. m.—pl. rhagymadrawdion (ymadrawd) A prolegomena, a preface.
Rhagymadrawdawl, a. (rhagymadrawd) Prefatory.
Rhagymadreddi, a. (rhagymadrawd) To make a preface, or introduction.
Rhagymadreddwr, s. m.—pl. rhagymadreddwyr (rhagymadrawd—gwyr) A prefacer.
Rhagymadwyn, s. m.—pl. (ymadwyn) A prolepsis.
Rhagymegniad, s. m. (ymegniad) A previous exertion of one's self.
Rhagymegniaw, v. a. (ymegniaw) To exert one's self beforehand.
Rhagymegniawl, a. (ymegniawl) Previously exerting one's self.
Rhagymegadu, v. a. (ymegadu) To refrain previously; to keep one's self beforehand.
Rhagymegais, s. f. (ymegais) A previous attempt.
Rhagymegsiad, s. m. (rhagymegais) A previously attempting or trying.
Rhagymegsiaw, v. a. (rhagymegais) To attempt before; to exert one's self beforehand.
Rhagymegsiawl, a. (rhagymegais) Previously attempting, trying or seeking.
Rhagymegodawl, a. (ymgodawl) Previously rising.
Rhagymgodl, v. a. (ymgodl) To raise one's self beforehand.
Rhagymgodlad, s. m. (ymgodlad) A previously raising one's self.
Rhagymgudd, s. m. (ymgudd) A previous hiding of one's self.
Rhagymguddiad, s. m. (rhagymgudd) A previously hiding one's self.
Rhagymguddiaw, v. a. (rhagymgudd) To hide one's self previously.
Rhagymguddawl, a. (rhagymgudd) Previously hiding one's self.

Vol. II.

Rhagymgymerad, v. a. (ymgymerad) To take one's self beforehand.

Rhagymgyrch, s. m. (ymgyrch) A previous resort.

Rhagymgyrchawl, a. (rhagymgyrch) Previously resorting mutually.

Rhagymgyrchlad, s. m. (rhagymgyrch) A previously resorting mutually.

Rhagymgyrchu, v. a. (rhagymgyrch) To resort beforehand mutually.

Rhagymladd, v. a. (ymladd) To fight before.

Rhagymladdawl, a. (rhagymladd) Fore-fighting.

Rhagymladdiad, s. m. (rhagymladd) A fighting before.

Rhagymlid, v. a. (ymlid) To pursue before.

Rhagymliad, s. m. (rhagymliad) A previously pursuing, or following.

Rhagymliawl, a. (rhagymliad) Fore-pursuing.

Rhagymorchest, s. f.—pl. s. ion (ymorchest) A previous exertion of one's self.

Rhagymorchestawl, a. (rhagymorchest) Tending to previous exertion of one's self.

Rhagymorchestiad, s. m. (rhagymorchest) A previously exerting of one's self.

Rhagymorchestu, v. a. (rhagymorchest) To exert one's self beforehand.

Rhagymrith, s. m. (ymrith) A previous appearance.

Rhagymrithiad, s. m.—pl. s. iau (rhagymrith) A previously appearing.

Rhagymrithiaw, v. a. (rhagymrith) To appear beforehand.

Rhagymrithawl, a. (rhagymrith) Tending to appear beforehand.

Rhagymroddawl, a. (ymroddawl) Tending to become previously resigned.

Rhagymroddi, v. a. (ymroddi) To resign one's self beforehand, to become previously resigned.

Rhagymroddiad, s. m.—pl. s. iau (rhoddiad) A previously resigning one's self.

Rhagymrwymaw, v. a. (ymrwymaw) To become bound beforehand; to fore bind one's self.

Rhagymrwymawl, a. (ymrwymawl) Tending to become previously bound.

Rhagymrwymiad, s. m. (ymrwymiad) A becoming previously bound.

Rhagyna, adv. (yna) Thenceforth, thenceforward.

Rhagyno, adv. (yno) Thenceforth, from that point of place or time forward.

Rhagynys, s. f.—pl. s. oedd (ynys) An adjacent or neighbouring island.

Tair rhagynys i'r Gwynedd.

The three adjacent isles of the land of Gwynedd.

Rhagyrwedd, s. f. (gyr—gwedd) A forbidding aspect; a threatening.

A gwyrdd i'm swydd a'm rhagyrwedd.

Rhagor na'm rhad, na'm rhagyrwedd—

What I may owe to my chief from my respect, more than my favour, than my threatening.

Rhagysbys, a. (ysbys) Previously known.

Rhagysbysawl, a. (rhagysbys) Previously writing.

Rhagysbysiad, s. m. (rhagysbys) A previously shewing or declaring; a premonition.

Rhagysbysan, v. a. (rhagysbys) To make known beforehand; to premonish.

Rhagysgrif, s. f.—pl. s. ion (ysgrif) A previous writing; a prescript.

Rhagysgrifaw, v. a. (rhagysgrif) To write beforehand; to write for, to prescribe.

Rhagysgrifawl, a. (rhagysgrif) Prescriptive, an original writing.

Rhagysgrifen, s. f. (rhagysgrif) A previous writing; an original writing.

3 M

- Rhagysgrifonedig, a. (rhagysgrifen) Being previously written.
- Rhagysgrifeniad, s. m. (rhagysgrifen) A writing beforehand.
- Rhagysgrifenu, v. a. (rhagysgrifen) To write beforehand.
- Rhagysgrifiad, s. m. (rhagysgrif) A previously writing.
- Rhagysgythrawl, a. (ysgythrawl) Fore-logging.
- Rhagysgythriad, s. m. (ysgythriad) A previously logging.
- Rhagysgythru, v. a. (ysgythru) To lop before.
- Rhagystafell, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ystafell) An antechamber.
- Rhagystawd, s. f.—pl. rhagystodion (ystawd) A prior layer; a foremost layer.
- Rhagystodawl, a. (rhagystawd) Belonging to a foremost layer.
- Rhagystodi, v. a. (rhagystawd) To form a prior layer; to put a forward layer.
- Rhagystodiad, s. m. (rhagystawd) A putting a previous layer; to put a foremost layer.
- Rhagystum, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ystum) A prior bend or form.
- Rhagystumiad, s. m. (rhagystum) A previously bending or forming.
- Rhagystumlaw, v. a. (rhagystum) To mould into form beforehand.
- Rhagystumlawl, a. (rhagystum) Belonging to previous formation.
- Rhagystyr, s. m. (ystyr) A first idea; forethought.
- Rhagystyriad, s. m. (rhagystyr) A considering beforehand, precogitation.
- Rhagystyriaw, v. a. (rhagystyr) To precogitate.
- Rhagystyriawl, a. (rhagystyr) Precogitating.
- Rhagystyried, v. a. (rhagystyr) To precogitate.
- Rhagystyriedig, a. (rhagystyriad) Being previously considered.
- Rhagystyriwr, s. m.—pl. rhagystyriwyr (rhagystyr—gwr) One who precogitates.
- Rhai, s. pl. aggr. (rha) Such as be separate or standing forward; a few, some. Dyro i mi rai, give some to me; rhyw rai, some ones, some persons.
- Pe cafall pawb a fynai,
Ni byddai hirathawg heb rhai.
If every body could obtain what he wished, not any would be longing.*
- Rhan o bob addysg, rhai 'a llybiddion,
Weithiau rhai ereilli yn grythorion,
Ereilli yn delyndorion wyl uchel,
Rhai a 'a llyd ei, ereilli a ddon'.
A little of every lore, some being pipers, now and then some others being crows, others being harpers on the high festival, some go where he goes, others come.*
- Rhaiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhai) A radiation.
- Rhaiadawl, a. (rhaiad) Radiating, radiant.
- Rhaiadr, s. m.—pl. rheideir (rhaiad) A spout or stream of falling water, a cataract.
- Rhai drwy'r main rheideir mellt.
There will pervade the rocks cataracts of lightning.*
- A rhaiadr o win yn agrych rhais
Hydyr, mywa aer a gwyr mawr gwawda.
And a cataract of wine surrounding chiefs of intrepidity, in the gold and glass of the exciter of eclogues. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.*
- Rhaiadrawl, a. (rhaiadr) Tending to spout forward as a cataract.
- Rhaiadriad, s. m. (rhaiadr) A spouting forward as a cataract.
- Rhaiadru, v. a. (rhaiadr) To spout out, to flow or to stream in a cataract.
- Rhaiadu, v. a. (rhaiad) To radiate, to gleam.
- Rhaib, s. f.—pl. rheibiau (rha—ib) A seizing or catching in the clutches, a snatch; a greediness, or voracity; a bewitching. Rhaib yr awen, gwaen yr awen, newyn y pridd, a craving appetite sometimes attending the mortal tura of a disease.

Rhaid, s. m.—pl. rheidiau (rha—id) An impetus; need, necessity. Rheidiau, necessities.

Geoprid Myrddaw, awen yr rhaid, Gweth eu gwild a fodd iu an llydd.

The rapture of Myrddaw, abounding with gold in necessity, or price of their food of mood were their wealth.

*Uchen af'n aeth yr awen rhaid:
Och, Cynddylig, ni hoesd wrag!*

A lender, thou wilt not be called in the day of trial: Oh, Cynddylig, that thou wert not a woman!

Troi rhaid yn rheura.

To make a virtue of necessity.

Rhaid, a. (rha—id) Needful, necessary. Rheidiau fyddai i ti gadw dy arian, more necessary would it be for thee to keep thy money; mae yn rhaid i hynny fodd, it is necessary for that to be.

Tri amser celfyddyd; pan fo lawr, pan fo hysbaid, a plan fo all.

The three times of an art: when it is proper, when it is wanting, and when it is necessary.

Rhaid, adv. (rha—id) It is necessary. Rhaid i mi fod yno, I must be there: A raid i fithen? must thou likewise? na raid, it is not necessary.

Nid rhaid i ddodwyd ond at eni.

The prudent has no counsel but to be born.

Nid rhaid dodi cloch am fawrwr yr ynydd.

It is not necessary to put a ball round the neck of a fool.

Nid rhaid dangos dirid i gon.

It is not necessary to point the mischievous to the deep.

Rhaidd, s. f.—pl. rheiddiau (rha—idd) A ray; what is cast forward; spear. Rhaidd ygyria, a shivered lance.

Rhalen, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhail) A ray, the ray-fish.

Rhail, s. f.—pl. rheiliau (rha—il) That divide, or parts off; that is divided; a rail; a paddle-staff, a paddle. Cad-rail, a war fence. There is a dike of this kind, still called the Cad Ral crossing the south-east of Scotland, in a north-east direction, from the borders of Northumberland to Gala Shiel in Selkirkshire.

Rhain, s. pl. aggr. (rha—in) Lances, spears.

*Nid ydychet i heb ddywa llyr mudi;
Cyd agrych rhag gwyr rhain rheidiau.*

Is it not fair play for any one to take a bold one; against and other against them with ready spears.

Rhain, a. (rha—in) Having a tendency to run forward or to pervade.

Rhaint, s. m. (rhain) That runs through.

Rhaith, s. f.—pl. rheithiau (rha—ith) That is straight forward, right, or just; that is set right; decision, verdict; right; law; a jury. Rhaith gwlad, the law or voice of the country.

Rhaith gwlad yw llw dangwyr a dangwyr a wyr rhain ddu a bren.

The fury of a country is the oath of fifty men, of those who hold land under the king.

Pon rhailh yw Dwn.

God is supreme arbiter.

Dr. J. Gm.

Rhai, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rha) A particular, a specific part; a characteristic. Dyn o rai rhyfodd wye ti, thou art a person of an odd disposition.

*Hyd yr amser, yn mhob rhai,
Y pery'r dail creulwch,
O bryddion ar Bryddion bar,
Yr ddyw a hanner llydion.*

The length of the time, in every particular, that the cruel vengeance shall continue, of years over Britain brought with even are exactly two and a half.

Rhaledd, s. m. (rhal) Particularity; characteristic.
Rhaliad, s. m. (rhal) A characterizing.

Rhals, v. a. (rhal) To characterise; to form a trait of disposition.

Rham, s. m. (rha—am) A rise over, a reach over or beyond.

Rhamant, s. f.—pl. t. au (rham) A rising up, an extending over, a vaulting, or springing; an omen, sign, or token of future events; a figurative expression; a romance. a. Rising boldly.

Mac's rhamant fy molhart maw.

My prize is of a tendency to omit. G. L. ab D. ab Eirian.

Gwir iâll rhywau gwyddon rhamant.

Excellently have I combined highly-spiriting odes to her. D. ab Eirian.

Rhamants, v. a. (rhamant) To rise or extend over; to reach to a distance; to dive into fatuity; to divine, to observe by omens; to romance; to allegorize.

Our Pm yr's hawg, a'r th, A'r mawrth, i rhamant.

The hawk and the ice and the mantling clouds are chiding for me to be flowery in speech. D. ab Eirian.

Rhamantawl, s. (rhamant) Of a soaring tendency; hyperbolic; romantic.

Rhamantedd, s. m. (rhamant) A state of soaring; figurative language.

Rhamantfud, s. m. (rhamant) A soaring; the using figurative language; a romancing.

Rhamants, v. a. (rhamant) To use high-flown language; to speak in a romantic style.

Rhamantus, s. (rhamant) Highly soaring; romantic; hyperbolic; portentous.

Rhamantwr, s. m.—pl. rhamantwyr (rhamant—gwr) One who speaks in a figurative style.

Rhamiad, s. m. (rham) A rising over, a reaching over or beyond; a soaring.

Rhampt, s. m. (rham) A running or reaching out.

Rhamu, v. a. (rham) To rise over, to reach over or beyond; to soar, to vault.

Rhan, s. f.—pl. t. au (rha) A part, share, or portion; division. O ym rhan i, on my part; e ran nad olli, because thou canst not.

Drydd pob ambythyl at ran.

Every indirection speaks its part.

Adage.

Drydd ambythyl at ran.

The indirection doth say his share.

Adage.

Rhan, s. m. (rha) On the part of, in respect, on account of; because. Rhan hyn, ardd hyn, in respect of that.

Rhanedwy, s. (rhan) Capable of being shared.

Rhanawg, s. (rhan) Having a share, or participating; being divided, or parted. s. m. One who shares, a participator.

Rhanawl, s. (rhan) Sharing, parting, or dividing.
Rhanc, s. m. (rha—anc) Desire, craving, want; appetite; voracity. a. Content, satisfactory.

Dydwed y cawr, da yw y gweth; rhanc bodd yw gwyf.

The giant said, the deed is good; it is content of mind to me. H. Culhwch—Meddiantion.

Rhanc fu gan hawr cawdynt gyngtor Gwynia.

Satisfactory to all of them was the advice of Gwynia. Brat y Brwnodd.

A maid thus y gwyddant gria.

With all the graces of the sigmoid hand.

D. ab Eirian, fr. fren.

Rhancawl, s. (rhanc) Craving, or wanting.

Rhancodd, s. m. (rhanc—bodd) Content, satisfaction, pleasure.

O arwydded ddaenau, pa bysag pwy yd, ni ddwyf i ti yn ydyl, o gelly fad y rhancodd gwyl, fy helpu allan o'r gwa hainy hon!

Oh, beneficent lady, whenever thou art, I humbly intend thee, if it can be a pleasure to thee, to help me out of this narrow strait! Rhancodd Gwydd.

Rhancoddaw, s. (rhancodd) Tending to give contentment or pleasure; satisfactory.

Rhancoddiaeth, s. m. (rhancodd) A yielding satisfaction of mind.

Rhancoddiaeth, s. m. (rhancodd) Satisfaction of mind; enjoyment, pleasure.

Yr holl rhancoddiaeth byr, myd a'i parodd i ti, a rhancodd singar hwyd, o'r yr arwydded i wneid.

The whole of that enjoyment, I will prepare it for thee, and thousands beside likewise, said the lady Gwydd.

Rhancoddiaeth, s. m. (rhancodd) To yield satisfaction of mind or contentment; to please.

Rhanciad, s. m. (rhanc) A craving, a want.

Rhanc, v. a. (rhanc) To crave, or to want.

Rhandir, s. f.—pl. t. eodd (rhan—ty) A quantity of land; an inheritance; a share.

Cabla dy ffo dda P. A'th rhandir, a th.

Run down thy good content, and turn thyself there.

Pedair rhandir yn mhob g.

Four shares in every hamlet. in every ash Lane.

Rhandwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhan—twy) A dividend, a portion, or allotment.

Rhandy, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhan—ty) A house-room, an apartment where a guest dwells.

Rhandedig, s. (rhan) Shared, parted, divided.

Rhandedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhandedig) Distribution, the act of sharing or dividing.

Rhandedigaethawl, s. (rhandedigaeth) Distributive.

Rhandedigawl, s. (rhandedig) Distributive.

Rhanned, s. m. (rhan) The state of participating.

Ni'm gwaith heb rhanned

Mac's drayd.

It will not make me without a share, to praise thy merry. Telling from Dydd Bwedd.

Rhangymerawl, s. (rhan—cymerawl) Participial.

Rhangymeriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhan—cymeriad) A participle.

Rhangymeriadawl, s. (rhangymeriad) Participial.

Rhangymeryd, v. a. (rhan—cymeryd) To take in part, to take in allotment.

Rhaniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhan) A parting, sharing, or dividing; partition, distribution.

Rhaniator, ger. (rhaniad) In dividing.

Rhancdydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhaniad) A divisor.

Rhanitor, sup. (rhan) To be sharing.

Rhant, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhan) That separates.

Rhanu, v. a. (rhan) To part, to share, to divide, to distribute; to fix an allowance. Dylid rhannu arno, he ought to be allowed.

Ne chryndd law a rano i ranno.

May the hand not tremble that distributes to the needy. Adage.

Daw a rhannod

Not a gulf.

God did dispense, heaven he did obtain. Adage.

Dyn a ran da yd i rano.

Daw a ran da yd i rano.

Rhanwr, s. m.—pl. rhanwyr (rhan—gwr) A sharer, a distributor, an allotter.

Lleol rhan rhan rhanwr.

The least share the share of a sharer. Adage.

Rhang, s. f. (rha—ang) An over content.

Rhangawl, s. (rhang) Tending to fulfil.

Rhangiad, s. m. (rhang) A fulfilling, a pleasing.

Rhangu, v. a. (rhang) To render replete; to fulfil; to satisfy, to render content.

Y cleddyf a ddarfa ei wrthall; a'i roddi a' orug Cal yn llaw Wnach Gwyr, y maelpl i adrych a rangol ei fodd.

The sword was put in order; and Cal gave it into the hand of Wnach the Great, as if it were to see if it would answer his purpose.

Can rhangudd bodd yr Arglwydd ei bobl dda ddiwyd.
For the will of the Lord was fulfilled by his good and prudent people.

Rhangus, a. (rhang) Tending to fulfil.

Rhangwr, s. m.—pl. rhangwyr (rhang—gwr) One who makes over-full; a fulfiller.

Rhasg, s. f. (rhy—dag) That is forcibly shaved off. Rhasgl, s. f.—pl. t. an (rhasg) A slicer; a draw-kife, a tool used by carpenters.

Rhasgliad, s. m. (rhasgl) A slicing, a paring.

Rhasgliaw, v. a. (rhasgl) To cut with a slicer.

Rhasgliwr, s. m.—pl. rhangiwr (rhasgl—gwr) One who slices.

Rhath, s. m.—pl. t. an (rha—ath) A smooth eminence, mornd, or hill.

*Y fedwen bardd—a ddaeth o'r rhath;
Nid oes ei beth yn bod.*

The fair birch, which came from the hill, its like doth not exist.

Rhathawl, a. (rath) Stripping; rubbing.

Rhathedig, d. (rath) Stripped, rubbed, rasped.

Rhathell, s. f.—pl. t. an (rath) A rasp.

Rhathellad, s. m. (rathell) A rasping, a grating.

Rhathellu, v. a. (rathell) To rasp, to grate.

Rhathiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (rath) A making bare or plain; a stripping, a rubbing off.

Rhathu, v. a. (rath) To make clear, bare, plain, or smooth; to rub off; to rub; to strip; to rasp, to grate. Rhathu plw; to strip feathers off; rhathu dail; to strip off leaves; rhathu croen; to strip off a skin. Sû.

Rhathu y croen oddiar gefn a'i dyco.

To strip the skin from the back of him that bears it.

Rhathwr, s. m.—pl. rhathwyr (rath—gwr) One who makes bare, rubs, or strips off.

Rhan, s. f.—pl. rhanoedd (rha) A band, a chain. Cethern gaeth-ran; an infernal crew confined in chains.

Rhaw, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rha) That collects together; a shovel. Rhaw dygarch; a pating shovel; rhaw fawn; a peat cutter.

Rhawaid, s. f.—pl. rhawaidiau (rhaw) A shovel-full; as much as a spade will hold.

Rhawbal, s. f.—pl. t. an (rhaw—pal) A kind of spade made all of one piece of wood, having the head rounded and edged with iron.

Rhawbalar, s. f. (rhawbal) A delving spade.

Rhawch, s. m. (rha—wch) That is imminent; that is extreme or urgent.

*—Tyrneleirdd, nos gwidsuch,
Perigieu giew a gyluswch,
Fais Prydain, pryd nad oedd fawch.*

Royal bard, do you not know; you heard of extreme action administered to a hero, the chief of Britain, when it was not reasonable.

Rhawd, s. f.—pl. rhodion (rha—wd) A way, course, or race; a rout. Rhawd o goed; a float or raft of trees; rhawd o fock; a drove of pigs.

*Can ordd cymrod, o'i anamodion,
Cyn wyf rawd heddwad ymlith heddas,
Cyn dydd chwyrw gylhad chwedlas,
Cyn adiant pŵlltallt pŵlltallt,
Dew a'm gad caried y myn chwrn nef;
Dew a gylw fy llof ym llyg fryddas.*

I obtaining reconciliation for my indignation, etc I am resorting arduously amongst the graves, ere the tide of bitter tales occur, ere the return of remorse for sin, may God in his love grant me the mansion of heaven; God will hear my voice for my lukewarm thoughts.

Einlen a Gwelchmet.

Rhawden, s. f. dim. (rhawd) A footstep.

Rhawdd, s. m. (rha—wdd) That is clear or open.

Rhawel, s. m. (rhaw) That is clustered.

Rhawfon, s. f.—pl. rhawfyn (rhaw—fon) A shovel-handle.

Rhawg, adv. (yrhawg) For a long while.

*Rhawg fydd rhawg, gylhawg iau,
At ennu hi mewn cyfion.*

At liberty for a long while, a metaphorical good, will be to obtain it is confusion.

*Fy wyneb, am ddys fawrall,
Ni bydd y rhawg heb ddys fawrall.*

My face, on account of the fair one with fine hair, it will be for a long time without evil tears.

Rhawind, s. m.—pl. t. an (rhaw) A shovelling.

Rhawlaw, v. a. (rhaw) To throw with a shovel.

Rhawlawr, s. m. (rhaw—lawr) A shoveller.

Rhawlech, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhaw—lech) A shoveller, a shovel.

Rhawn, s. m. aggr. (rhy—awn) The long or coarse hair of beasts; the hair of a horse's tail. Telyn rawn; a harp strung with hair; rhaf rawn; a half rope; carthen rawn; a hair cloth; rhawn a bogel; a line and plummet; rhawn y chwal; colt's tail, stonewort; rhawn y gawg; mare's tail; rhawn y march; horse-tail.

Rhawnawg, a. (rhawn) Having long hair.

Rhawnogoch, a. (rhawn—coch) Having red hair.

Y rhawnogoch, y rhawnogoch, the redstart.

Rhawnu, v. n. (rhawn) To grow into long hair.

Rhawniad, s. m. (rhawn) A growing of long hair.

Rhawnt, s. m. (rhawn) Vigour, spirit, vivacity.

Yn lawen rhawnt yn llaw rhawnt.

Exuberantly merry, full of spirit.

Rhawyn, s. m. dim. (rhawn) A coarse hair.

Rhawol, s. m. (rhaw) A cluster, or a bunch.

Rhawr, s. f.—pl. rhofau (gawr) A reas, m. of the sea or a catarract.

Rhawter, s. f. (rhawd) A multitude in motion.

Rhawtiad, s. m. (rhawd) A hurrying onward.

Rhawthaw, v. a. (rhawd) To proceed onward in a hurrying manner; to rush.

Rhawtiaw, a. (rhawd) Hurrying; rushing.

Rhawtiwr, s. m.—pl. rhawtwyr (rhawd—gwr) One who hurries forward.

Rhawth, s. m. (rha—wth) Greediness. a. Greedy.

Yr oedd efe yn bwyty yn rhawth rhyng eiddo ei mynydd.

He was eating greedily from the granaries of his mountains.

RHĒ, s. f. r.—pl. t. on: A swift motion, a run.

a. Fleet, speedy; active.

A'm rhedidau mawr iau, Rhawyd a dawl,

He bestowed on me fleet steeds, scapling under me.

Oedd hi redidau ddiw forddwyd Gwlad.

There were swift runners under the wings of Gwlad, you her steeds.

Byddai ry y rhawdron i waw.

I was active to thrumming a spur.

Rhēad, s. f. (rhe) A running, a carrying.

Rhēadaw, a. (rhead) Running, current.

Rhēadu, v. a. (rhēad) To cause a running.

Rhēan, s. f. (rhe) That runs; a streamlet.

Rhēawd, s. f. (rhe) The act or faculty of running.

Rhēawdr, s. m.—pl. rhēodron (rhēawd) That performs a race of course.

Yn myn Rhēan rhēawdr dybodd.

In the lifetime of Rhēan the runner of a course of peace.

Rhēawl, a. (rhe) Running, or current.

Rheb, s. m. (rhe—eb) A run by, a going off.

heath shield-fern: rhedyn gogofau, common scaly spleenwort; marckredyn, wall-fern.

Byddai wrth gonyf fyw ar y mynydd, a bwyta gwraldd rhedyn nog ffructwraig llydyl.

I would rather live on the mountain, and eat the roots of fern, than submit to them. Adage.

Rhedyna, v. a. (rhedyn) To gather fern.

Rhedynach, s. m. dim. (rhedyn) Filmy leaved fern.

Rhedynaidd, a. (rhedyn) Of the nature of fern.

Rhedynawg, a. (rhedyn) Abounding with fern.

s. f. A place where fern grows.

Rhedyndir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhedyn—tir) Fern land; or land overgrown with fern.

Rhedyneg, s. f. (rhedyn) A fern brake.

Rhedynon, s. f. dim. (rhedyn) A single fern.

Rhedynlach, s. pl. dim. (rhedyn) Small fern.

Rhedynllwyn, s. m. (rhedyn—llwyn) A fern brake.

*Ydd wyt yn debyg i'r ddwyn
i danllwyth mewn rhedynllwyn.*

*Carrying that round me, I am like a breeze in a fern-brake.
I. De y Bllwg i'r Own Cech.*

Rhedynos, s. pl. dim. (rhedyn) A fern-brake.

Ymchwylyst ar ffio, gan ymddirgelu ac ynguddiaw yn ngogofau, a llwynau, a rhedynosydd, ac elltydd, a difwysau, a chor-ydd, a dryswch, a cheryg, ac yn mhob rhyw leodd ereill.

The returned on retreat, with secreting themselves and hiding themselves in caves, and groves, and fern-brakes, and cliffs, and steeps, and bogs, and wide, and stones, and in every other place of the kind. Buch. G. ab Cyman.

Rhedd, s. m.—pl. t. an (rh—edd) A joint.

Rheddawl, a. (rhedd) Being separated or jointed.

Rheddedig, a. (rhedd) Being separate or jointed.

Rheddiad, s. m. (rhedd) A jointing; articulation.

Rheddu, v. a. (rhedd) To open by a joint.

Rheen, s. m. (rh—en) A pervading principle;
an epithet for the supreme being; the Lord.

Awech rhoddaf arawd orawen gyffes i

*Awech rhoddes awch rheen
Wrth awch bodd awch bod yn llawen;
Wrth awch bryd awch braint o Feigen.*

*To you I dedicate an oration of ingenious confidence: To you your Lord has granted with contentment of mind that you should be glad; according to your desire your privilege from Meigen.
Cynddelio, Gwel. Fawst.*

Rhef, s. f.—pl. t. au (rh—ef) That is collected together, or thick; a bundle. a. Bundled; thick. Cyfristed ag y myno, as thick as he pleases.

Ys dir lladd y llafn wrth refed y troed.

It is certain the blade will cut from the handle being as thick. Adage.

Rhefawg, a. (rhef) Binding or encompassing.

s. f. That binds or contains; a binder, a bandage.

Nyddu pedair gwialen, a gwneuthur pedair rhefawg i rwyman Ollifer a oragyn.

The twisting of four rods, and making four bandages to bind Ollifer was what they did. H. Car. Meg.—Mabinogion.

Rhefawl, a. (rhef) Thickening, aggregating.

Rhefder, s. m. (rhef) Bigness about, thickness.

Rhefdra, s. m. (rhef) Thickness, an aggregate.

Rheffed, s. m. (rhef) Thickness.

Rhefiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rh—ef) A thickening.

Rhefiannawl, a. (rh—efiant) Of a tendency to thicken in compass.

Rhefiannu, v. a. (rh—efiant) To render thick in compass.

Rhefiannus, a. (rh—efiant) Tending to render or to become thick round.

Rhefiant, s. m. (rh—ef) Thickness or bigness.

Rhefi, s. m. (rh—ef) That tends to grow thick.

Rheffawg, a. (rh—ef) Being grown thick or full; blubbery.

Rheffu, v. a. (rh—ef) To grow thick or blubbery.

Rhefr, s. f.—pl. rhefran (rh—ef) The gut of the fundament, the anus. Rhefr medel, the last of a company of reapers.

Rhefrawg, a. (rh—ef) Having a large fundament.

Rhefrawl, a. (rh—ef) Belonging to the anus.

Rhefrwrth, a. (rh—ef—rwth) Loose in the anus.

Rhefrwrym, s. m. (rh—ef—rwym) Costiveness.

Rhefrwrymaw, v. a. (rh—ef—rwym) To render costive; to become costive.

Rhefrwrymawl, a. (rh—ef—rwym) Costive.

Rhefrwrymiad, s. m. (rh—ef—rwym) A rendering costive; a becoming costive.

Rhefrwrymus, a. (rh—ef—rwym) Being costive.

Rhefu, v. a. (rh—ef) To thicken in compass.

Rheffyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. an (rh—ef) A small rope.

Rheffynawl, a. (rh—ef—yn) Relating to cording.

Rheffyniad, s. m. (rh—ef—yn) A cording, a tying with a rope.

Rheffynnu, v. a. (rh—ef—yn) To tie with a rope.

Rheffynwr, s. m.—pl. rheffynwyr (rh—ef—yn) A corder; one who uses a rope.

Rheg, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rh—eg) A sending out, or utterance; a present, a gift; a giving up, or consigning; a ban, a curse, or imprecation.

—Cursf cana canod,

Can o'm rhoddes fy rheen rag addidd.

I love to sing of the redemption, as thus my God has caused a longed-for gift. Llywelyn Idd.

Mawr fyddaf o'r clyfdd hwn, a gwrreig wrth i'f hys; i rheg dofydd ynt y gwreigedd weithon.

I shall be dead of this disease, and then another will it be take; and the blessing of the Lord are the women men. H. Culbrech—Mabinogion.

Nid adwyth rheg ni haddid.

A curse that is not deserved will do no harm. Id.

Rhegadwy, a. (rheg) Capable of being given.

Rhegain, v. a. (rheg) To be sending out a murmuring noise; to mutter, to whisper.

Ni ddaw hennist lwyd-haist lous i regnau byth i regon.

Age oppressed with hoary influence will never come to liege to make a muttering. Gwyn Idd.

Rhegawl, a. (rheg) Consigning, giving; caring.

Rheged, s. f. (rheg) Liberality, or bounty.

*Dyw iau—dallwyd yn chwyrdd
Gwir wared, i'r rheged rhyddid,
Gwawr curiog, ein gwir argwydd.*

On Thursday was apprehended suddenly the true man, the sovereign of free bounty, a glorious light, our true Lord. Gwyn Idd.

Rhegedig, a. (rheg) Consigned, presented, cared.

Rhegedd, s. m. (rheg) The state of being given up; a cursed state.

Rhegen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. od (rh—eg) A name for some birds of a screaming note. Rhegen y pl.

rh—eg y rhych, soffler, the crex, dukun, a quail; rh—eg y dafr, a water-ouzel.

Ni thaw mwy na rhegen yn y rhych.

He will not be silent more than the quail in the fern. Id.

Rhegi, v. a. (rheg) To consign, to give up; to present; to curse, to imprecate.

Rhegiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (rh—eg) A consigning; giving up; a presenting; a cursing.

Rheglyd, a. (rh—eg) Apt to curse, cursing.

Rhegofydd, s. m. (rh—eg—ofydd) The shaker of gifts.

Rhegu, v. a. (rh—eg) To consign; to give; to present; to curse, to imprecate.

Rhegwr, s. m.—pl. rh—egwyr (rh—eg—wyr) One who utters, gives, or consigns; a curser.

Rhegydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rh—eg) One who consigns or gives up; a presenter; a curser.

rhaid, s. m.—pl. t. an (rhai) A radiating.
rhain, s. f.—pl. t. an (rhai) A streak. Rheian
las, a blue streak or weal.
rhainawg, a. (rheian) Having streaks or weals.
rhainawl, a. (rheian) Tending to streak.
rhainu, v. a. (rheian) To streak, or to stripe.
rhiaw, v. a. (rhai) To radiate; to gleam.
rhiawg, a. (rhai) Abounding with radiation.

*Dybs braidd Lloegr yn Rheidlawg;
 Cyd daeth of ald oeth yn warthegwg;
 Mi yn Eryri yn rhiawg.*

The king of England came with a numerous host; though he came he did not return with spoil: We were gleaming in Eryri.
Melbyr.

rhiawl, a. (rhai) Darting, gleaming, shooting.
rhiawr, s. m. (rhai) That darts or that gleams.

*Cres cyrchyd, cyrallyst rhawr,
 Y cyran mai lannu twrt hawr.*

Blad they sought, the gleamers assembled, tumultuous like under the din of shields.
Amwyl.

rhiebs, s. f.—pl. t. an (rhailb) A witch.
rhiebiad, s. m. (rhailb) An overpowering; a forcing from; a fascination, a bewitching.
rhiebiadeth, s. m. (rhiebiad) Witchery.
rhiebiadu, v. a. (rhiebiad) To overcome by invincible power; to fascinate.
rhiebiadu, a. (rhiebiad) Fascinating, bewitching rhiebiadwy, a. (rhiebiad) Capable of being overcome or fascinated.

rhiebiadeth, s. m. (rhailb) Rapacity; witchery.
rhiebiannawl, a. (rhiebiad) Fascinating.
rhiebiannu, v. a. (rhiebiad) To fascinate.
rhiebiannus, a. (rhiebiad) Fascinating.
rhiebiant, s. m. (rhailb) A forcibly possessing;
 fascination; a bewitching.

rhiebiator, ger. (rhiebiad) In fascinating.
rhiebiaw, v. a. (rhailb) To snatch by force; to captivate, to fascinate, to bewitch.
Rhebiawg, a. (rhailb) Having a power; rapacious,
 fascious, bewitching.

Rhebiawl, a. (rhailb) Forcing, overpowering;
 fascinating, bewitching.
Rhebiedig, a. (rhiebiad) Being taken by force;
 fascinated, bewitched.

Rhebiedigath, s. m. (rhiebiedig) Fascination.
Rhebiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhiebiad) One who forcibly captivates, a fascinator.

Rhebioldeb, s. m. (rhiebiawl) The state of being captivated or fascinated.

Rhebioli, v. a. (rhiebiawl) To render fascinating.
Rhebiator, sup. (rhailb) To be captivating.

Rhebiwr, s. m.—pl. rhebiwyr (rhailb—gwr) A captivator, a fascinator.

Rheibog, s. f. (rhailb) The power of digestion.

A choll rhellog oeth of chylla'n luddw.

And losing a power of digestion her stomach became an urban.
Madam Duggrey.

Rhebus, a. (rhailb) Rapacious; bewitching.

*Rhebusaf os yn holl wlad Gwynedd
 Yn'n deudredlawg a wyr llofr.*

The most rapacious one in the whole country of Wales is the one with two legs who is wont to lunge.
Adage.

Rhebusaw, v. a. (rhebus) To become rapacious.

Rhebusrwydd, s. m. (rhebus) Rapaciousness.

Rheidodd, s. m. (rhaid) Necessity, or want.

*Tori newyn llawd bob tro,
 A cychod llo bo rheidodd.*

Breaking the hunger of the poor at all times, and the want of drink where necessity exists.
Sienc. S. Eynwl.

Rheidgnawd, s. m. (rhaid—gnawd) A natural or habitual need.

*Mid gylf gan, of gurus gurus—
 Hyd wared rhaidgnawd rhaidness.*

It is no fine word, he is the most virtuous person, for relieving the habitual need of necessitous ones.
Cyddfeth, i O. Gwynedd.

Rheidlad, s. m. (rhaid) A necessitating.
Rheidlannawl, a. (rheidiant) Necessitating.
Rheidlannu, v. a. (rheidiant) To necessitate.
Rheidiant, s. m. (rhaid) Necessity, or need.
Rheidlaw, v. a. (rhaid) To necessitate, to need.
Rheidlawg, a. (rhaid) Necessitous, necessary.
Rheidlawi, a. (rhaid) Necessary, needful.
Rheidolath, s. m. (rheidlawi) Necessariness.
Rheidoldeb, s. m. (rheidlawi) Necessariness.

Tri chyfystyr doethnab; rheidoldeb, moddoldeb, a bddoldeb.

The three considerations of wisdom; necessity, want, and benefit.
Cating Ddorch.

Rheidolder, s. m. (rheidlawi) Necessariness.
Rheidolodd, s. m. (rheidlawi) Requisitesness.
Rheidoli, v. a. (rheidlawi) To render necessary.
Rheidolrwydd, s. m. (rheidlawi) Necessariness.
Rheidrwydd, s. m. (rhaid) Necessity, or need.
Rheidus, a. (rhaid) Necessitous, needy. Rheid-
usion, needy ones, beggars.

Gwedi daved Brant Hir i berth Hamwat i dir, of a gymrat wng rhaidus andano, ac yn rhith anghefnawd horedad—ac yn gymyngus i rhaidusion a erwg, y rhai a oeddyt yn arwys allan ya morth llyd y breu.

After the coming of Brant to the port of Hamwat to land, he put on a bigger garb, and under the appearance of want he proceeded, and mixed with necessitous ones, the which were waiting for alms in the gate of the king's palace.
Gr. ab Arthur.

Rheidusaid, a. (rheidus) Somewhat needy.
Rheidusaw, v. a. (rheidus) To become necessitous.
Rheidusdodyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rheidus—dyn) A necessitous person.

Rheidusodd, s. m. (rheidus) Neediness, poverty.
Rheidusni, s. m. (rheidus) Neediness, poverty.
Rheidusrwydd, s. m. (rheidus) Necessitousness.
Rheidusyn, s. m. dim. (rheidus) A pauper.
Rheidwg, s. m. (rhaid) A necessary thing.
Rheidwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhaid) A voyage.

Grafudd a cerynys of long ac a ymchwalu o'i reidwy hyd yn Aber Menai.

Grafudd ascended his ship and returned from his expedition unto Aber Menai.
Duch. Gr. ab Cynon.

Rheidddiad, s. m. (rhaidd) A casting rays.
Rheidddiaw, v. a. (rhaidd) To beam, to cast rays;
 to lance, or to cast a lance.

Ar bob rhai rheidddiaw yn cer-rhoddawg.

Upon all he would beam with golden bounty.
Melbyr.

Rheidddiawd, s. m. (rhaidd) A radiation; a lancing.
Rheidddiawg, a. (rhaidd) Having rays; pervading,
 apt to cast forward; bearing a lance.

Rheidddiawg achenawg ar fo.

The necessitous on flight is violently impelled.
Adage.

*Rheidddin a'm rhoddus Hywel
 Rheiddiawg, feiniawg, fawng si;
 Cefais gan drefn orddethol
 Tarw teg Talgarth yn ngwarthol.*

Freely did Hywel bestow on me a scattering, sleek, and spotted beast; I obtained as a choice contribution the fair bull of Talgarth in the yoke.
Cyddfeth, i H. ab Ieuan.

Rheidddiawl, a. (rhaidd) Radiating; lancing.
Rheidddiawr, s. m. (rhaidd) That beams; lancing.
Rheidddin, a. (rhaidd) Tending to radiate or to dart; pervading; profuse.

*Daw Dofydd dymrydd reiddin awen ber,
 Mai o bair Cyrdawen.*

God the supreme ruler on me bestows the ready melodious muse,
 as if from the cauldron of Cyrdawen.
Ll. P. Moch.

Rheidddlym, a. (rhaidd—llym) Sharp-lanced.
Rheidddrudd, a. (rhaidd—rhudd) Ruddy-lanced.

Rheng, s. f.—pl. t. odd (rhe—eng) A row, a rank.

Rheng ddaia rhwng y ddwyllan.

A purple streak between the two banks. R. Ddu, i. Arian.

Rhengiad, s. m. (rheng) A placing in a row.

Rhengiaw, v. a. (rheng) To set in a row, or rank.

Rhengiawl, a. (rheng) Running in rows.

Rhengiedig, a. (rhengiad) Being set in a row.

Rhengiwr, s. m.—pl. rhengiwywr (rheng—gwr)

One who places in a row.

Rheodig, a. (rheawd) Persevering on a course.

Dothiwr i Ddewi, ddiſfreiddig tag,
Rhys mawr, Môn wledig, roodig rag.

There came to Dewi, of their protection, after a great career, the Sovereign of Môn, with a continuing gift.
Gwyn. Brycheiniog.

Rheol, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhe—ol) Rule, or order.

Goruchel Eidd, neol ddiſfyd
Goleudw arglwydd gileued byd,
Gorpyw, Graewdr nwy, nwrth y gwepd,
Gobryd gwled gwled yn hollt ywdd!

The Most High Eternal, whose providence is a refuge; mighty Lord the light of the world, be there to me, Creator of heaven, strength from thee, in due time to see a feast in felicity without end! Meisyr ab Gwalecham.

Pawb ol-yn-ol
Gwneud lwyd roed
Ran wylasa,
O nos i nos
Fai chwarae aros
Cyfrowa.

Every body in succession would according to rule bear a part in vigils, from night to night, as if whistly waiting for presents.
Madawg ab Gwailier.

Rheolaidd, a. (rheol) Orderly, or regular.

Rheoledig, a. (rheol) Ordered, or regulated.

Rheoledigaeth, s. f. (rheoledig) Regulation.

Rheoleiddiad, s. m. (rheolaidd) A rendering regular; a becoming orderly or regular.

Rheoleiddiaw, v. a. (rheolaidd) To render orderly.

Rheoleiddrwydd, s. m. (rheolaidd) Canonicalness.

Rheoli, v. a. (rheol) To order, to rule, to sway.

Rheoliad, a. m. (rheol) An ordering, a directing.

Rheolus, a. (rheol) Orderly; easily ruled.

Rheolusodd, a. m. (rheolus) Orderliness.

Rheolusrwydd, s. m. (rheolus) Orderliness.

Rheolwr, s. m.—pl. rheolwyr (rheol—gwr) One who orders; a ruler, a conductor.

Rheonlly, s. m. (rhe—llys) Rhubarb.

Rhes, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhe—es) A row, or rank.

Rhesawl, a. (rhes) Belonging to a row or rank.

Rhesedig, a. (rhes) Being ranged or set in a row.

Rhesel, s. m.—pl. t. i (rhes) A rack, a grate.

Rhesclaw, a. (rhesel) Having a rack or grate.

Rheselad, s. m. (rhesel) A forming into a rack.

Rheselu, v. a. (rhesel) To form a rack or grate.

Rhesiad, s. m. (rhes) A placing in a row.

Rhesiaw, v. a. (rhes) To place in a row or rank.

Rhest, s. m. (rhes) What is set in parallel rows.

Rhestl, s. m.—pl. rhestlan (rhest) A rack.

Rhestog, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhest) Plaited mat.

Rhestr, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhest) Array, rank.

Rhestraid, a. (rhestr) Partly ranged in rows.

Rhestraw, a. (rhestr) Having rows or ranges;
plaited, or matted; rowed. s. f. A plaited target, or buckler.

Rhestrawl, a. (rhestr) Ordinal; arrayed. Rhestr- olion, ordinal numbers.

Rhestredig, a. (rhestr) Ranged or arrayed.

Rhestredigaeth, s. m. (rhestredig) Arrangement.

Rhestriad, s. m. (rhestr) A ranging; a marshalling.

Rhestrig, s. f. dim. (rhestr) A row, or range.

Calhastig cestrig yn lle rhestraw.

A stony ridge where we should be impeded.

T. Frys.

Rhestru, v. a. (rhestr) To range, to marshal.

Rhestrwr, s. m.—pl. rhestrwyr (rhestr—gwr) A man who sets in order, a marshaller.

VOL. II.

Rhesu, v. a. (rhes) To set in a row, to range.

Rheswydd, s. pl. aggr. (rhes—gwydd) Joists.

Rheswyddaw, v. a. (rheswydd) To lay joists.

Rheswydden, s. f. dim. (rheswydd) A joist.

Rhetgyr, s. m. (rhes—gyr) A projecting snout.

Olan y parchellau, y parchell ddaewydd,
Na chlodd dy reitgyr yn mhen mynydd.

Hart, thou pigling, the happy pig, burrow not thy snout on the top of the mountain. Myrddin.

Rheth, s. f. (rhe) A pervading quality.

Rhethr, s. f.—pl. rhethran (rhethr) That pervades or runs into.

Rhethrawr, s. m. (rhethr) That thrusts a pike.

Rhethren, s. f. dim. (rhethr) A pike, a lance.

—Dy hawl i Brydain
Wrth dorf bwrh i th wing wen,
A th rathr i'r mawr w'th feithren,
—Llywdded!

Thy course to Britain, whilst speeding a track in thy white garb, and thy onset to the field with thy pike, be thou prosperous!
G. Ll. ab D. ab Eilwyr.

Rhëu, v. a. (rhe) To run about; to move.

Eiddil hen hwyr yd re.

Slender the aged, slowly he moves along. Llywarch Hen.

Rhenedd, s. m. (rheu) Activity, agility, speed.

Mor yw eillon mygr mahl el rhenedd.

How great the activity of the beauteous hinds!

Llyweli ab Owain.

Dynawl bodd at borthant lawnedd,
Iawn i Ddau difaw eu rhenedd.

Human kind who maintain not equity, it is just for God to take away their activity. Cynddelw.

Rhenedda, v. a. (rhenedd) To obtain activity.

Rheneddawl, a. (rhenedd) Of an active nature.

Rheufawr, a. (rhu—mawr) Of continuous praise.

Ezriw ddog tlawd yn goodawlerch
Trasfodd id, fy rhir rheufawr!

Hear the querulous wretch habitually craving mercy of thee, my Lord, whose praise is universal. Eilwr Sais.

Rheufedd, s. m. (rheu—mudd) Moveable property; affluence, plenty.

Rheufedd tawndd i binn i drail.

The property of princes is thin by force. Ll. P. Mech.

Hill forwerth cannerth cain wylaw rheufeddi.

The race of forwerth maintains the splendid distribution of wealth. Bledwyn Fardd.

Rheufeddawg, a. (rheufedd) Having abundance.

Pan fai gwydded o wyl gwyddaw,
Atgoryn' ddyrnodd yn rheufeddawg.

If there should be an assemblage of gallant men, the leaders would return with abundance. M. Ilyr.

Rhew, s. m. (rhe) That is beyond a current state, or become fixed; ice, frost.

Lleithen rhew, hollwyr glaw.

As the ice is diminished, activity is diminished. Adage.

Dybydd rhew i lyfust.

There will be frost for the frog. Adage.

Hwot ddrud rhew no ddywyo rhew.

It is easier to unfreeze ice than to change the nature of a thing. Adage.

Rhewi, v. a. (rhew) To produce ice; to freeze.

Rhewiad, s. m. (rhew) A producing ice; a becoming ice, a freezing.

Rhewiedig, a. (rhewiad) Become iced; frozen.

Rhewin, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhew) A sudden glide, fall, or slip; a downfall, destruction; ruin. a.
Ruinous.

A draig Môn, mor ddred ei cullwyd yn ser,
Y be twryg ier, a heur holl;
A rheiddio rheuwr ddyr ddyr,
A rheuio, a thrin, a thran cymari.

Against the dragon of Môn, so bold his tread in the slaughter, there was a violent tumult, and heaving chains; and before him ran fire confusion, and rain, with conflict, and the end of pre-sistence. (Iwoddw.)

Rhel, a. m. (rhe) That is flagging or tralling.

R H I

Parentage, ancestry.
ancestry.
lady.
or

"

ator.

ience

ber.
ie pro-

numeriat.
ring.

; numerous.

wealth.
as D. to Tadyr.

(d) Numerator.

(d) A numeral.

ical.

nerate.

neration.

(rifnod) Numerator

numerical notch.

(rif-gwr) One who

(rif) A numberer.

science of numbers.

(g) Arithmetical.

(rhifydddegwyr (rhifydd-

cian.

(rhifydd) A female ac-

cian.

(fydd) Numeration.

(y) A single number.

(rhi-iff) That tends to

e.

hat is divided or cleaved.

(ffwnt) The jaundice.

(rhi-ig) A notch; a groove,

) To notch; to indent.

(rhigodau (rhig) A pillory.

Notching; indenting.

(rhig) A notching, a grooving.

(rhig) A notch; a groove.

Rhignedd, v. m. (rhign) A notched or furrowed part; a notch or indenting.

Cel wrach i grafa dy gefn, a dynal y ginn a'r gwythi gyda phob byr, o gawc dy wegil i rhignedd dy din.

Thou shalt have a hag to scratch thy back, who would draw the quincies and the veins with every finger, from the nape of thy neck to the partition of thy buttock.

Arach Gogan.

Rhigodi, v. a. (rhig) To put in a pillory.

Rhigol, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (rhig—ol) A grove; a trench, a furrow; a drill; a small ditch, a drain

Rhigolawg, a. (rhigol) Grooved; furrowed; having a trench or drain.

Rhigoli, v. a. (rhigol) To groove; to trench.

Rhigoliad, s. m. (rhigol) A grooving; a trenching

Rhigolwr, s. m.—pl. rhigolwyr (rhigol—gwr) One who makes a groove or trench.

Rhigolydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhigol) What makes a groove or trench; a groove-plane.

Rhigwm, s. m.—pl. rhigyau (rhig) A long rote.

Rhigymiad, s. m. (rhigwm) A saying by rote.

Rhigymu, v. a. (rhigwm) To say by rote.

Rhigymwr, s. m.—pl. rhigydwyr (rhigwm—gwr) One who speaks by rote.

Rhill, s. m. (rhi—il) An interstice.

Rhill, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhi—ill) A row; a small trench or furrow; a drill.

Rhilliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhill) A drilling.

Rhilliaw, v. a. (rhill) To trench; to drill.

Rhilliawg, a. (rhill) Trenched; drilled.

Rhilliedig, a. (rhilliad) Being drilled.

Rhilliwr, s. m.—pl. rhilliwyr (rhill—gwr) One who trenches; a driller.

Rhim, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhi) A rim, or edge.

Rhimiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhim) An edging.

Rhimiaw, v. a. (rhim) To edge, or to rim.

Rhimiawl, a. (rhim) Edging, or rimming.

Rhimiedig, a. (rhimiad) Being rimmed.

Rhimp, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhim) An edge, rim, or boundary; a limit, or ending.

Rhimpyn, s. m. (rhimp) A close; rhyme.

Rhimpyniad, s. m. (rhimpyn) A terminating, or ending; a rhyming.

Rhimpynu, v. a. (rhimpyn) To form an ending, or termination; to rhyme.

Rhimyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhim) A rim.

Rhimynawl, a. (rhimyn) Being formed to a rim.

Rhimyniad, s. m. (rhimyn) A forming an edge.

Rhimynu, v. a. (rhimyn) To make a rim or edge.

Rhin, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhi—in) That runs through or pervades; a channel which carries off lesser waters; in draining a name for the secondary dykes, which receive the small ditches, and convey the water to the gwyth fawr, or great channel; a furrow between lands. Powys, also a pervading quality, a virtue; a secret, a mystery; a charm.

Gochel ddannagu dy rin.

Beware to allegorize thy secret.

Adage.

Rhin deuddyn cyfrin yw,
Rhin tridys cannyu a' ciw.

The secret of two persons is a mutual pledge; the secret of three persons a hundred persons will hear.

Adage.

Pob math rin a doethineb
Bydd arnad yn anad neb.

Every kind of virtue and wisdom thou dost possess above any one.

T. Prye.

Y gair deddf cyntaf sydd yn gwahardd rhinlau, a swynlon, a chyfereddon.

The first expression of the law doth forbid mysteries, and charms, and incantations.

Etymologia.

Rhinaw, v. a. (rhin) To endure with a hidden quality; to be mysterious; to use spells.

Gwasgawrd nalet iau gloddid cor,

A minnes a rinol

Ysgwyd bydd brw cys teclaf.

May the torrents spread about the wall of the fort, and I may divine that the shield will be broken ere I reach.

Epworth MS.

Rhinc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhinc) A creak; a gnash; a continued sharp noise; also the quail. Rhinc y tes, rhinc y llin, the sand-cricket; glo rhinc, a sort of hard coal.

Cann rhinc o'r cenn rhinoc.

The tottering whelp muzzling his cluck.

T. Hen.

Rhinciad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhinc) A creaking.

Rhinciaw, v. a. (rhinc) To creak; to gnash.

Cenfigen—

Rhincian y bydd, yn rhinoc

A' charas-fant, arw-dant a' dde.

Envy, with her lantern jaw, will be gnashing a maggot on what is good.

Ork. Univ.

Rhinciaw, v. a. (rhinc) To creak, to gnash.

Rhinciawl, a. (rhinc) Creaking; gnashing.

Rhincyn, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhinc) A creak, a clink; a gnash, a grinding noise; a habit of scolding.

Cadw rhincyn, to keep scolding continually.

Rhinddyg, s. m. (rhin—dyg) A cabala.

Rhinddygiad, s. m. (rhinddyg) A following a cabalistic learning.

Rhinddygawd, s. m. (rhinddyg) Cabalistic law.

Rhinddygawdr, s. m.—pl. rhinddygawdros (rhinddyg) A cabalist.

Rhinfawr, a. (rhin) Endowed with great virtue.

Cai feddygon—

En gair o' dderwina, brau byd

Wyr rhinfawr, yn yr hantfa.

Physicians had the appellation of gods, open of wisdom the greatly endowed men, in the ancient world.

L. Hen.

Rhiniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhin) A pervading; a enduing with some hidden quality or virtue; a using of mystery; a charming.

Rhiniaw, v. a. (rhin) To pervade; to endue with a quality or virtue; to use mystery, to charm, to talk secrets, to whisper.

Rhinlawg, a. (rhin) Having some hidden quality or virtue; possessed of a mystery or secret.

Rhiniawl, a. (rhin) Relating to a secret quality or virtue; mysterious.

Rhiniedig, a. (rhiniad) Rendered mysterious.

Rhiniwr, s. m.—pl. rhinwyr (rhin—gwr) One possessed of some hidden virtue or power; one possessed of a secret; or dealer in spells.

Maent fal y neidr fyddar, yr hon a gae et oblation, a'u mwy dy ar iau y rhinwyr.

They are like the deaf adder, which shuts her ears, and v. o' listen to the voice of the charmer.

Dr. Jones.

Rhinon, s. m. (rhin) A pattern of virtue.

Rhint, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhin) A groove, a notch.

Rhintach, a. (rhint) Grooved; notched; jagged.

Rhintachrwydd, s. m. (rhintach) Jaggedness.

Rhinwedd, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhin—gweidd) A virtue; a mystery; a sacrament.

Rhinweddau the good qualities: Seith rhinwedd aglwyd, the seven sacraments of the church.

On da gwedd mawr o'u deig wodd,

Er byn gwell yw rhinwedd.

If in the splendid scene of life noble blood is prized, or less virtue is more excellent.

Edw. Evans.

Rhinweddawg, a. (rhinwedd) Having virtue.

Rhinweddawl, a. (rhinwedd) Being virtuous.

Rhinwediad, s. m. (rhinwedd) A conferring of virtue; a becoming possessed of virtue.

Rhinweddiaeth, s. f. (rhinwedd) The practice of virtue; virtuous conduct.

Rhinweddoldeb, s. m. (rhinwedd) Virtuousness.
Rhinweddolder, s. m. (rhinwedd) Virtuousness.
Rhinweddoll, v. a. (rhinweddawl) To render virtuous; to become virtuous.
Rhinweddus, v. a. (rhinwedd) To endue with virtue; to acquire a virtuous habit.
Rhinweddus, a. (rhinwedd) Virtuous.
Rhinweddusaw, v. a. (rhinweddus) To render virtuous; to become virtuous.
Rhinwedduswydd, s. (rhinwedd) Virtuousness.
Rhinwraig, s. f.—pl. rhinwreigedd (rhin—gwraig) A woman who performs mysteries or charms.
Rhing, s. m. (rhi—ing) A creak, or clink.
Rhingwar, s. m. (rhing—gwar) A clump.
Rhingyll, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhing) A citer, an apparitor, a summoner, a sergeant.

Tri aw rhingyll y cydd; gwedd gwlad, a garw gychwell was y cyngheir, a rhingyll.

The three names of an apparitor; the cry of a country, and the chancellor's terrible talisman, and the apparitor.

Welsh Laws.

Iesu Bedyddiwr oedd ringyll o lleu yr Iesu.

John the Baptist was a harbinge before Jesus. Rhucidarius.

Rhingyllaeth, s. m. (rhingyll) Serjeantship.

Gwrthodol rywyr rhingyllaeth.

It rejected unreasonable serjeantship. Cynddelu.

Rhingylliad, s. m. (rhingyll) A performing the office of an apparitor.

Rhingyllu, v. a. (rhingyll) To do the duty of a serjeant or an apparitor.

Rhiolawd, s. m. (rhiawl) Management.

Rhiolawdr, s. m.—pl. rhiolodron (rhiolawd) A manager, a ruler, or a director.

Rhiolodd, s. m. (rhiawl) Management, or sway.

Rhioli, v. a. (rhiawl) To manage, to rule.

Rhiol, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (rhi) A sire.

Rhip, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhib) That runs with intermission; an overkip.

Rhipai, s. c. (rhip) A hatchel. See heislau.

Rhipiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhip) An over-skipping.

Rhipiaw, v. a. (rhip) To pass over, to skip.

Rhipiawg, a. (rhip) Abounding with intermissions or lapses.

Rhipiawl, a. (rhip) Tending to skip or pass over.

Rhipiedig, a. (rhipiad) Being over-skipped.

Rhipiwr, s. m.—pl. rhipwyr (rhip—gwr) One who passes over, or skips.

Rhis, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhi—is) That tends to a point; that is broken into points; mince.

Rhisell, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhis) A grater, a rasp.

Rhisg, s. m. aggr. (rhy—lg) Bark, or rind.

Mai y rhig am y pren.

Like the bark about the tree.

Adage.

Rhisgaw, v. a. (rhig) To bark; to strip off bark.

Rhisgawg, a. (rhig) Having bark or rind.

Rhisgawl, a. (rhig) Belonging to the bark.

Rhisgedig, a. (rhig) Barked; stripped of bark.

Rhisgen, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhig) A vessel made of bark; a dish, or bowl.

Rhisgen, ffring a dal;—Rhisgen ymenyn tair dynfodd o led, a thair dynfodd o duedd, heb fodd.

A bark dish, its value is a furling;—A bowl of better is three made in breadth, and three hands in thickness, without a top.

Welsh Laws.

Rhisgiad, s. m. (rhig) A forming of bark; a barking, or a stripping of bark.

Rhisgi, s. m. (rhig) Bark, rind, or peel.

Rhisglad, s. m. (rhig) A forming of bark; a stripping of bark, a barking.

Rhisglaw, v. a. (rhig) To form bark; to bark.

Rhisglawg, a. (rhig) Having bark or rind.

Rhisgledig, a. (rhig) Barked; stripped of bark.

Rhisglen, s. f. dim. (rhig) A piece of bark.

Rhisglyn, s. m. dim. (rhig) A piece of bark.

Rhisgyn, s. m. dim. (rhig) A piece of bark; a vessel of bark.

Rhisgynaid, s. m.—pl. rhisgynaidiau (rhisgyn)

The quantity contained in a bark bowl. Rhisgynaid o gmenyn, a bark bowlful of butter.

Rhit, s. m. (rhi) A tendency or move forward.

Rhith, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhi—ith) That tends to break out or to appear; a piece of outward form, shape, or figure; appearance, guise; embryo.

Blawu cledid athrow a rhith gwirionedd.

To point the sword of destruction with the semblance of truth.

Adage.

Yn mhob rhith y daw segen.

In every shape death will come.

Adage.

Felly, 'mhob rhith fellythlaw!

Gwlad y dyn a gais dawl.

Therefore, in every cursed shape the devil doth man entice.

T. Frys.

Rhithedd, s. m. (rhith) Apparentness, semblance.

Rhithgwag, s. m. (rhith—cwag) Apparent sleep.

Rhithiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhith) An appearing, a seeming; a taking a shape, or form.

Rhithiadwy, a. (rhithiad) Capable of appearing; capable of taking a shape or form.

Rhithlannawl, a. (rhithiant) Being apparent.

Rhithlannu, v. a. (rhithiant) To make an appearance; to take a form; to become apparent.

Rhithiant, s. m. (rhith) Appearance; semblance.

Rhithiator, ger. (rhithiad) In appearing.

Rhithlaw, v. a. (rhith) To tend to break out; to appear; to seem; to be formed or shaped; to become an embryo; to knlt, as fruit; to change from one form to another.

Angus—

Yn mhob cyfrith y rhithi.

Death, in every combination thou dost appear. Imon Tew.

Rhithlawg, a. (rhith) Having an appearance.

Rhithlawl, a. (rhith) Appearing, or seeming.

Rhithledig, a. (rhithiad) Having appeared.

Rhithiogaeth, s. m. (rhithlawg) The state or act of appearing; a particular form.

All rhithiogaeth y rhig gwnaf ar droell—ymadwdd yw gwtwyr gerdd.

The second variety of the first species of figurative grandeur is irony. H. Ferri.

Rhithiogi, v. a. (rhithlawg) To endue with an appearance; to have an appearance.

Rhithioli, v. a. (rhithlawl) To make apparent.

Rhithitor, sup. (rhith) To be appearing.

Rhithiwr, s. m.—pl. rhithwyr (rhith—gwr) An appearer, a seamer; a dissembler.

Rhiw, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhi) A slope, or side of a mountain. It forms the names of many places; as Rhiwlas, green slope; Rhiwfeleu, yellow slope, and the like.

RHO, s. m. r. That is put or extended from.

Rhoad, s. m. (rho) A giving, or a bestowing.

Rhoadl, a. (rho) Giving, or bestowing.

Rhoc, s. m. (rhy—oc) That shoots out in different ways; a motion in different directions.

Rhocas, s. m. (rhoc) A stripling, or youth.

Rhocian, v. a. (rhoc) To be moving in contrary directions; to rock.

Rhocos, s. pl. dim. (rhoc) Points, or irregularities shooting out; broken particles. Mae y llaeth wedi suraw, oni welst di o yn rhocas? the milk is sour, dost thou not see it broken?

Rhoch, s. f. (rhy—och) A broken or rough utterance; a grunt, a groan.

Rhockain, v. a. (rhoch) To grunt like swine.
Rhockan, s. m. (rhoch) A grunting; a groaning.
Rhochi, v. a. (rhoch) To grunt; to growl.
Rhochiad, s. m. (rhoch) A grunting; a groaning.
Rhochus, a. (rhoch) Grunting, or grumbling.
Rhod, s. f.—pl. t. au (rho—od) An orb, a circle; a wheel; the ecliptic; the space between the solstices; a season. Trôad y rhod, the turning of the circle, or the solstitial change.

*Codi rhai y caed y rhod,
 A'u gostwag o frig yfed.*

It was found that the wheel exalted some, and lowered them from the summit of the station. Edm. Pry.

Rhodawg, a. (rhod) Having a wheel; wheeled; orb'd. s. f. That is wheeled, or orb'd; an epithet for a shield; that wheels; any wheeled vehicle; a chariot.

*Boddawg ei rodawg i rodaw torfoedd.
 Ready in his chariot to range amid armies. Cynddelw.*

*Plwg y rhodawg rudd faran aerlle;
 A'i baerfaldid gyr ei ban;
 Pwy briw uch browys-farch can;
 Pwy ei henw, hynod gyfran!*

To whom belongs the car of the crimson face of the field of slaughter; and who its desolating wolf on its front, who deals wounds above the white prancing steeds; what his name, whose lot is so glorious? Llywarch Llyell.

Rhodawl, a. (rhod) Of the form of a wheel; orbical; wheeling; turning; having a tendency to turn about; vagrant, wandering.

*Ban yd ran ei rad i rodellon byd;
 Balch ei fenwyr; beich ei fion.*

Conspicuously he distributes his bounty to the wandering ones of the world; aspiring in his mind; proud are his subjects. Gwalchmai.

Rhodawr, s. f.—pl. rhodorion (rhod) That wheels, that forms an orb; an epithet for a shield; a chariot; also the goatsucker.

*Caeawg, cynhorawg men y deil;
 Difys yn mlaen bua, modd y deil
 Twil tai ei rodawr, yn y clywâl
 Awr, ni roddai nawdd, maint dilynai.*

Caeawg, supreme wherever he appears; affording protection to the maid, as the front opening of his chariot comes where he hears a shout, no mercy would he grant, whilst he pursued. Aneurin.

Rhodedd, s. m. (rhawd) A state of going forward. Rhodell, s. f. (rhod) A whirl, a spindle; the cat's tail, or reed-mace; also called cynffon y gath.

Rhodellen, s. f. dim. (rhodell) A whirl for a spindle. It is also called chwawren.

Rhodellaidd, a. (rhodell) Apt to whirl or whisk.

Rhodellawg, a. (rhodell) Having whirls or turns.

Rhodelliad, s. m. (rhodell) A whirling, a twirling.

Rhodellu, v. a. (rhodell) To whirl, or to twirl.

Rhoden, s. f. dim. (rhawd) A switch, a whip.

Rhodfa, s. f.—pl. rhodfeydd (rhod) A circular course, an orbit.

Rhodiad, s. m.—pl. rhodiaid (rhawd) A goer up and down, a wanderer, a stroller.

Rhodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhod) A wheeling.

Rhodiadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhodiad) A perambulator, one who walks about.

Nid diffeithwch gwenith a luddio ffordd rhodiadur.

The wheat that obstructs the way of the perambulator is not a wilderness. Adage.

Rhodian, s. m. (rhawd) A being traversing.

Rhodiana, v. a. (rhodian) To be traversing; to be going about; to walk about.

Rhodianawl, a. (rhodian) Ambulatory, strolling.

Rhodiar, s. f. (rhawd) That traverses, a ranger.

*Hyglaser arf, rydaer rodiair byddinoedd,
 I flocdd ucliair.*

A glittering weapon, the vehement ranger through armies, a consuming fire to thousands. Binion Lenn.

Rhodlaw, v. a. (rhawd) To traverse, to amblate, to walk about, to take a walk, to range.

Nid da rhodio yn y gwâl, Lle dalo diawl y gauwyl.

It is not good to walk in the light, where the devil holds the candle. Adage.

*Rhodd fy ngwyl, rhwydd fy ngwyl;
 Rhodd i'r beirdd yw rhodlaw'r byd.*

The gift of my festival, gratulosity is my wealth; it is free to the bards to traverse the world. Llywarch Bannwr.

Rhodiawg, a. (rhawd) Given to strolling.

Rhodiawl, a. (rhawd) Ambulatory; strolling.

Rhodiedig, a. (rhodiad) Being walked or strolled.

Rhodienn, v. a. (rhodian) To walk up and down.

Rhodiennad, s. m. (rhodian) A strolling about.

Rhodiennai, s. f. (rhodian) A gadding gossip.

Rhodiennawl, a. (rhodian) Ambulatory; vagrant.

Rhodiennwr, s. m.—pl. rhodiennwyr (rhodiennwr) An ambulator; a stroller.

Rhodiwr, s. m.—pl. rhodiwyr (rhawd—gwr) An ambulator, one who walks about.

Rhodl, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhawd) A paddle; a scull.

Rhodlath, s. f. (rhawd—lath) A walking staff.

Rhodle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhawd—lle) A course.

*Celst yn addfyrn rodle yn moes rhag Uria
 Yn cwydd am ein trued gwaged ar ddien.*

Briskly in the glorious career, before Uria with the dawn round our feet falls the blood where death prevails. Taliesin.

*Elin rhedden—
 Yn rhodle gwyach gwyarlly.*

Our leader in the course of the vulture of the blood stream. Cynddelw.

Rhodli, v. a. (rhodl) To paddle, to scull.

Rhodliad, s. m. (rhodl) A paddling, a sculling.

Rhodliwr, s. m.—pl. rhodliwyr (rhodl—gwr) A paddler.

Rhodlydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhodl) A paddler.

Rhodol, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhawd) A paddle, a scull.

Rhodre, s. f. (rhawd—rhe) A career, a course.

Meysr ei hendad, o'i rad roddu.

Like his grandfather, in his boundless career. L. P. Ben.

Rhodres, s. m. (rhyddres) Ostentation, vainglory; a flaunting, or swaggering.

Rhodresalld, a. (rhodres) Apt to be ostentatious; somewhat pragmatical; flaunting.

Rhodresawl, a. (rhodres) Ostentatious.

Rhodresgar, a. (rhodres) Pragmatical; flaunting.

Rhodresgarwch, s. m. (rhodres) Superciliousness.

Rhodresiad, s. m. (rhodres) A practising of ostentation; a swaggering, a flaunting.

Rhodresolrwydd, s. m. (rhodres) Superciliousness.

Rhodresu, v. a. (rhodres) To act ostentatiously; to swagger, to flaunt.

*Lle rhodresor,
 Yno neder,
 Ar eu troed,
 Y rhai trawdon.*

Where a great display is made, there be the roots, to tell the tale, of forward men. T. Pry.

Rhodresus, a. (rhodres) Ostentatious, flaunting.

Rhodreswr, s. m.—pl. rhodreswyr (rhodres—gwr) An ostentatious man; a swaggerer.

Rhodri, s. m. (rhod—rhi) Raddish; also called rhuddygi.

Rhodwedd, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhod—gwedd) An anticular course; a course.

*Ni derfydd awen i ar dardd trall,
 Tra fo llor a haul ar eu rhodwedd.*

The muse will not be exhausted from excess of use, while there shall be moon and sun on their course. Philip Bryche.

Rhodwr, s. m. (rhod—gwr) A wheeler.

Rhodwydd, s. m. (rhawd—gwydd) An open course; a centry ground.

Ar rodwydd Fortas gwyll.

On the course of Fortas I will watch. Llywarch Ben.

Ni thelr o wir, o wraiddwydd bndag,
A bwydyr yn rhoddydd,
Rhoddyr gur brw brw dygwydd,
Yn ydd brwydr, rhag bron di argiwydd.

From truth, from great heroism, and rubbing on the war course, there shall not be paid the heriot of a wounded man, falling dreadfully in the day of battle, in the presence of his lord.

Cynddelw.

Rhodd, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rho) A gift, a present.
a. Given, gratis.

Nid edrychir yn llygad march rhodd.

The eye of a gift horse will not be examined.

Adage.

Rhodd gwyr: Erging.

The gift of the men of Erging.

Adage.

Yn rhodd, fy sŵnaw, both yw gobenydd cerdd, a chymeriad, a bwyll gyngorodd!

Graciously, my master, what is the peace of a song, and repetition, and false consequence!

F. Prye.

Rhoddadwy, a. (rhodd) Capable of being given.

Rhoddai, s. c. (rhodd) That gives; a dative case.

Rhoddawg, a. (rhodd) Abound with gift; giving.

Fy beris cœnawg
O strinat rhoddawg!

Who caused coin of current silver!

Taliesin.

Rhoddawg braw llaw i draut.

The spreader of terror is a hand to destroy.

Taliesin.

Rhoddawl, a. (rhodd) Giving, or conferring.

Rhoddedig, a. (rhodd) Given. Rhoddedigion, data.

Tri phif rhoddedigion Daw: awen, deall, a rhodferthwch.

The three chief gifts of God: genius, understanding, and virtue.

Cadogan Dafydd.

Rhoddedigaeith, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhoddedig) Donation.

Rhoddedigawl, a. (rhoddedig) Giving; dative.

Rhoddfawl, a. (rhodd—mawl) Praise-bestowing.

Rhoddffawr, a. (rhodd) Greatly giving; sacred.

Rhoddffyg, a. (rhodd—myg) Of gift.

Rhoddged, a. (rhodd—ced) Munificent.

Rhoddgymer, a. (rhodd—cymer) Gift-receiving.

Rhoddgymeriad, s. m. (rhoddgymer) A giving.

Rhoddgymeriawd, a. (cymer) Gift-reception.

Rhoddgymeriawdr, s. m. (rhoddgymeriawd) A receiver or acceptor of gifts.

Rhoddgmeryd, v. a. (rhodd—cymeryd) To receive or to accept gifts.

Rhodd, v. a. (rhodd) To give, to bestow, to confer.

Gores gwaredred, garedwyn llaw,
Gobrynnu goberyr pobryll o bosaw;
Gwerth yn rhoddiaid, dyn dyniaw andaw,
A th reddaf gysul heb gys yndaw;
Pan fyao Daw dy ddifarlaw
O dyllent present, a phreuwyl llaw,
Cod a th lo di gofod golow enaw.

The best deliverance, of glorious cognizance, to purchase a reward meet of consideration; for the value thou hast bestowed on me, worthy man attend, I give the counsel in which no harm doth lurk: When God shall please to dissolve thee from thy present state, and dwelling of dignat, be thou possessed of the treasure of the sons of glory.

Meliwr ab Gwalchmai.

Rhoddiaid, s. m.—pl. rhoddiaid (rhodd) A giver,
a donor; also, a giving, or bestowing.

El yn wyl yn oled roddiaid.

He is diffidently the bestower of wealth.

Ll. P. Mac h.

Rhoddianawl, a. (rhoddiant) Donative; giving.

Rhoddianus, v. a. (rhoddiant) To make donation.

Rhoddiant, s. m. (rhodd) A donation, a behest.

Rhoddiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhoddiaid) A donor.

Rhoddwr, s. m.—pl. rhoddwyr (rhodd—gwr) A giver.

Rhogl, s. m.—pl. rhoglan (rhy—ogl) The power or sense of smelling; smell, scent.

Rhoglawg, a. (rhogl) Having a smell, scented.

Rhogledig, a. (rhogl) Being smelled; scented.

Rhogledd, s. m. (rhogl) The state of having a smell; scentedness.

Rhogli, v. a. (rhogl) To smell; to scent.

O rogl rhoglan ddolweddwrwydd.

In scenting have the scent of harmlessness.

Cadogan Gwynallter.

Rhogliad, s. m. (rhogl) A smelling, a scenting.

Rhogliant, s. m. (rhogl) A smelling; a scenting.

Rhoglus, a. (rhogl) Olfactory; oldous; the stinking goose-foot.

Rhol, v. a. (rho) To give, to bestow, to present.

Rhaid rhol deall i allied.

It is necessary to give information to a stranger.

Adage.

Ni rown ai garal o goos chwawen am dy gynghor.

I would not give the thought of a goose-skin for thy advice.

Adage.

I was trist y rhodd win trwm;

I gadarn y rhodd godwm.

To the dejected washing thou wouldst give heady wine; to the mighty thou wouldst give a fall.

G. ab Idris Hen.

Daw, trwy dan dig enaw—

I roi cadarn farn ar fydd.

He will come, with consuming fire, to give a mighty judgement on a world.

H. D. ab Iwan.

Rhòl, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rho—ol) A roll, a cylinder. Mas fe yn rhòl, he is like a buck.

Rholaidd, a. (rhol) Tending to roll, rolling.

Rholbren, s. m. (rhol—pren) A rolling-pin.

Rholbreniad, s. m. (rholbren) A working with a rolling-pin.

Rholbrenu, v. a. (rholbren) To use a rolling-pin.

Rhòlen, s. f. dim. (rhol) A roll, a roller. Dyns rolen o lodes, there is a bouncing lass.

Rhollad, s. m. (rhol) A rolling; a turning round.

Rholian, v. a. (rhol) To be rolling about.

Rholiaw, v. a. (rhol) To roll. Rholiaw gwlân, to card wool into rolls for spinning.

Rholiawg, a. (rhol) In the form of a roll, rolled.

Rholiwr, s. m. (rhol—gwr) One who rolls.

Rholyn, s. m. dim. (rhol) A roll, a roller. Rholyn o wlan, a roller of wool: rholyn o ddyn, a fat hale man.

Rhon, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rho—on) A tail; also a pike, or lance. Gwlân rhonies, the wool of tails: rhon bawnd, dovetail, in joinery.

Rhonc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhy—onc) A swag.

Rhonca, a. (rhonc) Sinking; falling, swagging.

Rhoncaedd, s. m. (rhonca) A sinking or falling state, swaggingness; a hollowness.

Rhonciad, s. m. (rhonc) A sinking; a swagging;
a becoming hallow, loose, or goggling.

Rhoncian, v. a. (rhonc) To swag; to goggle.

Rhonco, a. (rhonc) Swaggy; goggling.

Rhonell, s. f.—pl. t. od (rhawn) The whisk or the whole hair of a tail; a tail. Rhonell y march, marchronell, the horsetail; rhonell y wcanol, axe-vetch; rhonell y ci, the dog's-tail grass;
rhonell y cadnew, fox-tail grass; rhonell y gath,
cat's-tail grass.

Rhonellawg, a. (rhonell) Having a tail.

Rhonellgoch, a. (rhonell—coch) Red-tailed. Y rhonellgoch, y rhawnogoch, y dinbeeth, coch y berllan, the redstart.

Rhongymynian, s. f. (rhon—cymynn) A kind of battle-axe with a long handle; a poetical epithet for Arthur's battle-axe.

Rhonos, s. pl. dim. (rhon) Small particles.

Rhont, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhon) A frisk, a skip.

Rhonta, v. a. (rhont) To frisk, to gambol.

Rhontai, s. c. (rhont) One who gambols.

Rhontêig, a. (rhonta) Apt to gambol; frisky.

Rhonten, s. f. dim. (rhont) A friaker.

Rhontiad, s. m. (rhont) A gambeling, a friaking.

Rhontyn, s. m. dim. (rhont) A friaker.

Rhonwyn, a. (rhon—gwyn) White-tailed.

*Madyn roewyn, ryanwr
Meliŷi gwyth, myni gig ir.*

White tailed reynard, surnamed the clever slender dog, thou wilt have fresh flesh. R. Goch Eryri.

Rhosyn, s. m. dim. (rhon) A small body, or particle, of a cylindrical form.

Rhos, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (rhy—os) That is parched; a dry meadow; a moor. Gwair rhos, moor-land hay. It forms the name of many places.

Rhos, s. pl. aggr. What is convolved; roses. Rhos cochion, red roses; rhos guynion, white roses; rhos y cwn, dog-roses. See Brellia.

Rhosaid, a. (rhos) Tending to be parched.

Rhosawg, a. (rhos) Abounding with dry grass.

Rhosaw, a. (rhos) Of a parching nature.

Rhosb, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhy—osb) A whim, a trick. Gware rhosbau, to play at crambo.

A hoffer ei rosb hoffer a'i cosb.

He that loves his whim let him love him who corrects it. Adage.

Rhosba, v. a. (rhosb) To play at crambo.

Rhosbai, s. c. (rhosb) One who plays at crambo; a doggerel rhymester.

Rhosbawl, a. (rhosb) Belonging to crambo play.

Rhosbeig, a. (rhosba) Apt to play at crambo.

Rhosbiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhosb) A playing at crambo; a making of doggerel rhymes.

Rhosbwr, s. m.—pl. rhosbwyr (rhosb—gwr) One who makes doggerel rhymes.

Rhosdir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhos—tir) Dry ground.

Rhosedd, s. m. (rhos) A state of extending over; superabundance, superfluity.

Rhoslyd, a. (rhos) Of a parched quality.

Rhoslydu, v. a. (rhoslyd) To become parched.

Rhost, s. m. (rhy—ost) That is dried or crimped; that is browned; a roast. a. Roast, roasted.

Cael rhost, nid er host, nad y bwn.

Obtaining roasted meat, for the sake of loast, and bitterness too. L. G. Collek.

Rhostawg, s. m. (rhost) A plover. It is also called brondaw y twynau. Rhostawg coch, the red godwit.

Rhostiad, s. m. (rhost) A roasting; a toasting.

Rhostiaw, v. a. (rhost) To roast; to toast.

Rhostiawl, a. (rhost) Tending to roast, roasting.

Rhostiedig, a. (rhostiad) Roasted; toasted.

Rhostiwr, s. m. (rhost—gwr) A roaster.

Rhosyn, s. m. dim. (rhos) A rose. It is otherwise called breilia and breily. Rhosyn y mynydd, bledau y brenin, mountain rose.

Rboth, a. (f. ef rhwth) Loose, hollow, swaggy.

RHU, s. m. r. A forcible sending out; a loud utterance; a roar.

Rhuad, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhu) A roaring; a talking loudly; loquacity.

Rhuaid, a. (rhuad) Apt to roar; noisy.

Rhuadawl, a. (rhuad) Roaring; blustering.

Rhuadu, v. a. (rhuad) To make a roaring.

Rhuadus, a. (rhuad) Roaring; loquacious.

Rhuadusaw, v. a. (rhuadus) To render loquacious, to become loquacious.

Rhuadwr, s. m.—pl. rhuadwyr (rhuad—gwr) A roarer; a boaster, a blusterer.

Rhuadwy, a. (rhuad) Roaring; loquacious. Llew rhuadwy, a roaring lion.

Rhuain, a. (rhu) Roaring; blustering.

Rhuaw, v. a. (rhu) To roar; to talk loudly; to bluster. Rhuaw farw yna, a bull roars there.

Rhuawd, s. m. (rhu) A roaring; a loud talk.

Rhuawdr, s. m.—pl. rhuadron (rhuawd) A roarer.

Rhuawl, a. (rhu) Roaring; loquacious.

Rhuch, s. m. (rhy—uch) A coat, a film, a husk.

Rhuchaw, v. a. (rhuch) To coat over, to husk.

Rhuchawl, a. (rhuch) Tending to coat over.

Rhuchen, s. f. dim. (rhuch) A coat, a skin; a leathern jerkin; a web in the eye.

Mychlad a rhuchen o groen andwyn.

A swineherd with a coat of skin about him.

H. Colbuck—Mabynog.

Rhuchiad, s. m. (rhuch) A coating, a husking.

Rhuchiaw, v. a. (rhuch) To coat over, to husk.

Rhuchiedig, a. (rhuchiad) Coated, husked.

Rhuchion, s. pl. (rhuch) Husks, gurgions.

Rhuchionaid, a. (rhuchion) Apt to be husky.

Rhuchionawg, a. (rhuchion) Having husks.

Rhuchloni, v. a. (rhuchion) To clear of husks.

Rhuchloniyl, a. (rhuchion) Full of husks.

Rhuchlony, s. m. dim. (rhuchion) A outside covering, or film; a thin husk.

Rhuchiwr, s. m.—pl. rhuchiwyr (rhuch—gwr)

One who skins, one who clears of husks.

Rhud, s. m. (rhy—ud) A cast or drive forward rue; also called gorddawn.

Rhudd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhy—udd) A ruddy or crimson colour. a. Ruddy, crimson; calve.

Yn Llangedaf gwelid i weithian,

Ac glawr rhag arllan,

A gwyf rhudd rhag rhuddwr arllan.

In Llangedaf I saw a blood stream, and there beams of red and red men from the assault of death. Llywarch H.

Rhuddain, a. (rhudd) Of a crimson colour.

Rhuddaur, s. m. (rhudd—aur) Ruddy gold.

Rhuddaw, v. a. (rhudd) To make of a crimson colour; to become of a crimson hue.

Rhuddawg, a. (rhudd) Having a redness. ! rhuddawg, the redbreast.

Rhuddawl, a. (rhudd) Tending to reddens.

Rhuddbar, s. f. (rhudd—par) A ruddy spear.

Rhudded, s. m. (rhudd) A red streak; a path.

Rhuddedig, a. (rhudded) Being made ruddy.

Rhuddel, s. f. (rhudd) A ruddy tinge; a glow.

Y cerbyd—

Yn gwnid ruddel felen.

The star appearing a luminary of yellow glow. Ith Goh.

Rhuddell, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhudd—ell) A red skin.

Rhuddelin, a. (rhuddell) Of a ruddy tinge.

Rhuddell, s. f. (rhudd) A crimson colour; red ochre, or ruddle, also called nod coch; nodau Rhuddellen, s. f. (rhuddell) One of a ruddy hue.

Y ferch bygar rhuddellen.

The maid that is a lovely one of ruddy hue. D. ab Gwyn.

Rhuddelliad, s. m. (rhuddell) A streaking with crimson, a staining with crimson.

Rhuddellu, v. a. (rhuddell) To stain with crimson.

Rhuddem, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhudd—gem) A ruby.

Ac y dan ruddem ruddawr fodwyr.

And beneath the ruby a ring of ruddy gold. Cynddelw.

Rhudden, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhudd) What is of a crimson hue; a red streak; a ruby.

Rhuddenn, v. a. (rhudden) To streak with red.

Rhuddew, a. (rhudd—erw) Surrounded with red.

Marwor rhuddew, red glowing embers.

Rhuddfa, s. f.—pl. rhuddfeydd (rhudd) A red dened spot; a spot of ground parched or made bare of grass.

Rhuddfawg, a. (rhuddfa) Abounding with crimson spots: An epithet for a warrior, synonymous with rhuddfawg.

Heim-gribawg rhuddfawg fydd.

With helm high-crested stained with crimson he will be. Id.

Rhugargweh, s. m. (rhugar) Aptness to start.
Rhusiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhus) A beginning to move; a starting; a hesitation.
Rhusiant, s. m. (rhus) A starting; hesitation.
Rhusoglyd, a. (rhusage) Apt to start; restive.
Rhusogrydd, s. m. (rhusage) The state of being subject to starting; restiveness.
Rhuswr, s. m.—pl. rhuswyr (rhus—gwr) A starter.
Rhuth, s. m. (rhu) A break out; a rush.
Rhuthr, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhuth) A sudden drive, gust, or rushing; an attack, assault, or onset; a stretch; a good while.

*Yn Llŷnborrh gweis i wythaint,
 Ac siorawr mwy na maiat,
 A gwyr rhudd ring rhuthr Geraint.*

In Llŷnborrh I beheld the desolation of wrath, and biers not to be numbered, and warriors staked with blood from the assault of Geraint.
Llywarch Hen.

Gwedy treulaw rhuthr o amser, Caswallon ac Edwyn—a ymchwasant trach eu cefu i eu gwlad.

After consuming a length of time, Caswallon and Edwyn returned back to their country.
Gr. ab Artur.

Rhuthrad, s. m. (rhuthr) A rushing forward.
Rhuthraw, v. a. (rhuthr) To make an onset, to rush, to assault, to fly or run at.
Rhuthrawg, a. (rhuthr) Apt to rush, apt to attack. Tarw rhuthrawg, a vicious bull.
Rhuthrawl, a. (rhuthr) Rushing, assaulting.
Rhuthredig, a. (rhuthrad) Being rushed upon.
Rhuthredd, s. m. (rhuthr) A state of rushing.
Rhuthriad, s. m. (rhuthr) A rushing onward.
Rhuthriam, s. m. (rhuthr—llam) A rushing leap.
Rhuthrlym, a. (rhuthr—llym) Rushingly fierce or outrageous.
Rhuthruald, s. f.—pl. rhuthrneidian (rhuthr—nald) A ramping leap.
Rhuthrwr, s. m.—pl. rhuthrwyr (rhuthr—gwr) One who rushes forward; an assaulter.
Rhuthrwyllt, a. (rhuthr—gwyllt) Rushingly wild, outrageous, or furious.
Rhuwch, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhu) An exterior coat, a rug; a rough garment. Gogr rhuwch, a ranging sieve, a bolter.

*Rhuwch mab allit LXX a dal:
 Rhwch talawg XXX a dal.*

A free tenant's rug is of the value of sixty pence: a villain's rug is worth thirty pence.
Welsh Laws.

Rhuwchen, s. f. dim. (rhuwch) An exterior coat; a rough cloak; a rug.
Rhuwr, s. m.—pl. rhuwyr (rhu—gwr) A roarer; a loquacious or noisy person.
RHW, s. m. r. What breaks or grows out.
Rhwawg, a. (rhw) Abounding with growth; having hair, full of hairs. Dyn rhwawg, a very hairy man, or one who has a thick strong beard. Sil. Iestyn Farfrawg, Iestyn with the thick beard.
Rhwb, s. m. (rhw—wb) A rub; a chafe.
Rhwbiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwb) A rubbing.
Rhwbiaw, v. a. (rhwb) To rub; to chafe.
Rhwbiawl, a. (rhwb) Rubbing, tending to rub.
Rhwbiwr, s. m. (rhwb—gwr) One who rubs.
Rhwch, s. m. (rhw) That is rough; a grunt.

Rhyw i hwch ei rhwch.

Genial to the sow is her grunt.

Adage.

Rhwchiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwch) A grunting.
Rhwchial, s. m. (rhwch) A grunting, such as a hog makes when he is shrill with it.
Rhwchiala, v. a. (rhwchial) To keep grunting.
Rhwchiaw, v. a. (rhwch) To grunt; to grumble.

Rhwchiawl, a. (rhwch) Grunting, grumbling.
Rhwchws, s. m. (rhwch) A ray, or a skate.
Rhwd, s. m. (rhw—wd) What generates on a surface; rust; also the smut in corn. Rhwd haidarn, iron mould; rhwd lli, the crust or sediment left by a flood; rhwd lompdd, the draining of dangehills.

Rhwdawg, a. (rhwd) Covered with rust, rusty, of a rusty colour. Y rhwdawg, the redbreast; also called Y rhuddawg, brwnrhuddyn, and brwgoch.

Rhwf, s. m. (rhw) That breaks out; that swells or puffs out; a ravager.

Rhwg, s. m. (rhw) That projects; a nub.

Rhwgl, s. m. (rhwg) That tends to reach.

Rhwgn, s. m. (rhwg) A rub, a friction; a place rubbed or worn away.

Rhwmm, s. m. (rhy—wm) That tends inward.

Rhwmmal, s. m. (rhwmyn) That runs through; a main channel. There are several rivers so called. Gwŷn rhwmmal, rheinish wine.

Rhwmp, s. m. (rhwm) A borer, an aeger.

Rhwmp, dwygeulawg a dal.

A large auger, its value is two-pence. Welsh Laws.

Rhwmmyn, s. m. (rhwm) That perforates.

Rhwn, s. m. (rhy—wn) That covers over.

Rhwnc, s. m. (rhy—wnc) A snort, a snore. Rhwn yn ngwddw, a rattle in the throat.

Rhwnciad, s. m. (rhwnc) A snorting; a gagging.

Rhwncian, s. m. (rhwnc) A snorting; a gagging.

Rhwncianu, v. a. (rhwncian) To make a continual snorting; to make a gagging.

Rhwnciaw, v. a. (rhwnc) To snort; to gaggle.

Rhwnciawl, a. (rhwnc) Snorting; gagging.

Rhwnen, s. f. (rhwn) A single pear.

Rhwnai, s. m. (rhwn—ai) A rough-coated horse.

Rhwnt, s. m. (rhwn) That covers over.

Rhwnyn, s. pl. aggr. (rhwn) Pears. They are also called gellaig, erawt, and perawen.

Rhwnynen, s. f. dim. (rhwnyn) One of pear.

Rhwng, s. m. (rhy—wng) Intermediacy.

Rhwng, prep. (rhy—wng) Between. Rhwyf, rhyngwyf, rhyngthof, rhyngthwyf, between me; rhyngot, rhyngthot, between thee; rhyng, rhyngiko, between him; rhyngi, rhyngiki, between her; rhyngom, rhyngithom, between us; rhyngoch, rhyngthoch, between you; rhyngyf, rhyngithynt, between them.

Cant punt yn y flwyddyn yw y gwahanbarth rhwng din i dyn.

A hundred pounds a year is the difference between poor and rich.
Adage.

Rhws, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (rhwa) A fertile country; a cultivated region, as opposed to the waste. It is synonymous with bro.

Rhwsg, s. m. (rhws) That tends out, that is bulky; that is luxuriant. a. Bulky; luxuriant, fertile. Tir rhwsg, rank land, that is rich, or apt to overrun with fern and the like.

Rhwtiad, s. m. (rhwd) A corroding; a chafing.

Rhwtiaw, v. a. (rhwd) To corrode; to fret, to rub.

Rhwtiawg, a. (rhwd) Having a fret or chafe.

Rhwtiawl, a. (rhwd) Corroding; chafing.

Rhwtiedig, a. (rhwtiad) Corroded; chafed.

Rhwtion, s. pl. aggr. (rhwd) Particles; dregs.

Rhwtion, v. a. (rhwtion) To produce dregs.

Rhwttw, s. pl. dim. (rhwd) Small unconnected particles; dregs, dross.

Rhwttionllyd, a. (rhwtion) Drossy, or dreggy.

Rhwth, s. m. (rhw—wth) That is open or wide. a. Wide, open, gaping, yawning; greedy.

heind, s. m.—pl. t. an (rhai) A radiating. heian, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhai) A streak. Rheian law, a blue streak or weal.
heianawg, a. (rheian) Having streaks or weals.
heianaw, a. (rheian) Tending to streak.
heianu, v. a. (rheian) To streak, or to stripe.
heiaw, v. a. (rhai) To radiate; to gleam.
heiawg, a. (rhai) Abounding with radiation.

*Dyba brada Lloegr yn heiddawg;
 Cyd ddaeth ef nid oeth yn warthegawg;
 Ni yn Eryri yn rheiawg.*

The king of England came with a numerous host; though he came he did not return with spoil: We were gleaming in Eryri.
Melgwr.

heiawl, a. (rhai) Darting, gleaming, shooting.
heiawr, s. m. (rhai) That darts or that gleams.

*Crae cyrcysyd, cynallyst rhawr,
 Yn cyrraen mai huanu torri tanawr.*

Round they sought, the gleamers assembled, tumultuous like thunder the din of shields.

heibes, s. f.—pl. t. an (rhai) A witch.
heiblad, s. m. (rhai) An overpowering; a forcing from; a fascination, a bewitching.
heibiadaeth, s. m. (rheibiad) Witchery.
heibiadu, v. a. (rheibiad) To overcome by invincible power; to fascinate.
heibiadu, a. (rheibiad) Fascinating, bewitching heibiadwy, a. (rheibiad) Capable of being overcome or fascinated.

heibiath, s. m. (rhai) Rapacity; witchery.
heibianaw, a. (rheibiant) Fascinating.
heibianu, v. a. (rheibiant) To fascinate.
heibianus, a. (rheibiant) Fascinating.
heibiant, s. m. (rhai) A forcibly possessing;
 fascination; a bewitching.
heibitor, ger. (rheibiad) In fascinating.
heibiau, v. a. (rhai) To snatch by force; to captivate, to fascinate, to bewitch.
heibiau, a. (rhai) Having a power; rapacious,
 fascious, bewitching.
heibiau, a. (rhai) Forcing, overpowering;
 fascinating, bewitching.
heibiedig, a. (rheibiedig) Being taken by force;
 fascinated, bewitched.
heibiedigaeth, s. m. (rheibiedig) Fascination.
heibiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rheibiad) One who forcibly captivates, a fascinator.
heibiodeb, s. m. (rheibiau) The state of being captivated or fascinated.
heibioli, v. a. (rheibiau) To render fascinating.
heibitor, sup. (rhai) To be captivating.
heibwr, s. m.—pl. rheibwyr (rhai—gwr) A captivator, a fascinator.
Rheibog, s. f. (rhai) The power of digestion.

*A cholli rheibog oeth of chyllis 'n lludw.
 And losing a power of digestion his stomach became so weak.
 Madam Dwygwaig.*

Rheibus, a. (rhai) Rapacious; bewitching.

*Rheibusaf os yn holl wlad Gwynedd
 Yr en ddaiddawg a wyl ioraw.*

The most rapacious one in the whole country of Wales is the one with two legs who is wont to harrow.

Rheibusaw, v. a. (rheibus) To become rapacious.
Rheibusrwydd, s. m. (rheibus) Rapaciousness.
Rheibedd, s. m. (rhai) Necessity, or want.

*Tori newyn llawd bab tro,
 A cyched llo he rheibedd.*

Breaking the hunger of the poor at all times, and the want of drink where security exists.

Rheidgnawd, s. m. (rhai—gnawd) A natural or habitual need.

*Nid gair gan, of gairu gairu—
 Nid waruad rheidgnawd rheidgnawd.*

It is no false word, he is the most virtuous person, for relieving the Artificial need of necessitous ones.

Cynddelw, t O. Gwynedd.

Rheidlad, s. m. (rhai) A necessitating.
Rheidlannaw, a. (rheidiant) Necessitating.
Rheidlannu, v. a. (rheidiant) To necessitate.
Rheidiant, s. m. (rhai) Necessity, or need.
Rheidiau, v. a. (rhai) To necessitate, to need.
Rheidiau, a. (rhai) Necessitous, necessary.
Rheidiau, a. (rhai) Necessary, needful.
Rheidiaeth, s. m. (rheidiau) Necessariness.
Rheidiaeth, s. m. (rheidiau) Necessariness.

*Tri chyffwrdd doethnab; rheiddiebb, moddoleb, a rheiddiebb.
 The three considerations of wisdom; necessity, means, and benefit.*

Cyngor Dedeith.

Rheidolder, s. m. (rheidiau) Necessariness.
Rheidoledd, s. m. (rheidiau) Requisite.
Rheidoli, v. a. (rheidiau) To render necessary.
Rheidolrwydd, s. m. (rheidiau) Necessariness.
Rheidrwydd, s. m. (rhai) Necessity, or need.
Rheidus, a. (rhai) Necessitous, needy. Rheid-
usion, needy ones, beggars.

Gwedi dawed Brailt i borth Hamwat i dir, of a gymraet wraig rheidus andano, ac yn rhith anghenau hordded—ac yn gymyru a rheidusion a orng, y rhai a oeddynt yn arwne allwedd yn mhorth llyso y brodd.

After the coming of Brailt to the port of Hamwat to land, he put on a bigger garb, and under the appearance of want he proceeded, and mixed with necessitous ones, the which were waiting for alms in the gate of the king's palace.

Gr. ab Arthwr.

Rheidusall, a. (rheidus) Somewhat needy.
Rheidusaw, v. a. (rheidus) To become necessitous.
Rheidusydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rheidus—dyn) A necessitous person.
Rheidusodd, s. m. (rheidus) Neediness, poverty.
Rheidusni, s. m. (rheidus) Neediness, poverty.
Rheidusrwydd, s. m. (rheidus) Necessariness.
Rheidusyn, s. m. dim. (rheidus) A pauper.
Rheidwg, s. m. (rhai) A necessary thing.
Rheidwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhai) A voyage.

*Grafudd a gwynu of long ac a ymchwylw o'i raidwy hyd yn
 Aber Menai.*

Grafudd succeeded his ship and returned from his expedition unto Aber Menai.

Buch. Gr. ab Cynan.

Rheidid, s. m. (rhaidd) A casting rays.
Rheididaw, v. a. (rhaidd) To beam, to cast rays;
 to lance, or to cast a lance.

Ar bob rhai rheiddid yn eur-rhoddawg.

Upon all he would beam with golden bounty.

Melgwr.

Rheididawd, s. m. (rhaidd) A radiation; a lancing.
Rheididawg, a. (rhaidd) Having rays; pervading,
 apt to cast forward; bearing a lance.

Rheididawg schenawg ar fo.

The necessitous on flight is violently impelled.

Adage.

*Rheidid a'm rhoddes Hywel
 Rheiddawg, feiniawg, fawng di;
 Cefais gan dreth orddethol
 Tarw teg Talgarth yn ngwarthol.*

Freely did Hywel bestow on me a scattering, stock, and spotted beast; I obtained as a choice contribution the fair bull of Talgarth in the yoke.

Cynddelw, t H. ab Iwan.

Rheididaw, a. (rhaidd) Radiating; lancing.
Rheididawr, s. m. (rhaidd) That beams; lancer.
Rheidid, a. (rhaidd) Tending to radiate or to dart; pervading; profuse.

*Daw Dofydd dyntydd reiddid awen ber,
 Wal a hair Cynddelw.*

God the supreme ruler on me bestows the ready melodious muse,
 as if from the cauldron of Cynddelw.

L. P. Moch.

Rheididaw, a. (rhaidd—llym) Sharp-lanced.
Rheididawd, a. (rhaidd—rhudd) Ruddy-lanced.

Rhwyfad, s. m. (rhwyf) An impelling forward; a directing; a swaying.
Rhwyfadain, s. f. (rhwyf—adain) A guiding wing; a guiding or impelling fin.

Tan dy fron—
 Odwy adain dda odheth;
 Ac ar dy gefn gwyd gais,
 I fudo dy rhwyfadain.

Beneath thy breast two wings excellently good; and on thy back of fair extent, to move along, thy directing fin.

T. Pry, yr gleisiad.

Rhwyfadr, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhwyfad) One who sways; a ruler; a guider, a director.
Rhwyfai, s. c. (rhwyf) That sways, dominator.
Rhwyfain, v. a. (rhwyf) To be swaying.
Rhwyfan, s. m. (rhwyf) That sends or directs forward; rule, sway, direction. "Oer rwyfan tymhestl," the cold sway of the tempest.
Rhwyfan, v. a. (rhwyf) To guide, to direct; to bear sway, to dominate.

Rhyarfddiaf naf nerthawg ddgyrchu,
 Yn rhwyfan teulu, rhwyf teuluawg.

With confidence I will venture to approach the mighty chief, conducting a family, a lord of a numerous race.

Ll. P. Moch, i Llycelyn ab Iorwerth.

Llaw orthrech wrth rwyfan Morwyr.

An overpowering hand whilst swaying on the watery course.

Ll. P. Moch.

Rhwyfanawl, a. (rhwyfan) Swaying; directing.
Rhwyfanus, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhwyfan) A female who rules, guides, or directs.
Rhwyfaniad, s. m. (rhwyfan) A swaying; a directing; domination.
Rhwyfaniaeth, s. m. (rhwyfan) Domination.
Rhwyfanu, v. a. (rhwyfan) To dominate.
Rhwyfanus, a. (rhwyfan) Dominative; ruling.

Gwelonau'n fraeth bid arfaethus;
 Yd fyddant wyr rhamaut ryd rwyfanus.

Loquacious youths let them be full of designs; aspiring men will be of imperious course.

Myrddin.

Rhwyfaw, v. a. (rhwyf) To tend forward; to guide; to impel; to rule, to sway; also to row.
Rhwyfawl, a. (rhwyf) Ruling, swaying; directing; rowing.
Rhwyfedig, a. (rhwyf) Swayed; directed; rowed Rhwyfennydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhwyfan) A ruler.

Y profwy fy marddrin,
 Gysefn uch cyrtan,
 Bedd Rhufawn rwyfennydd ran.

So as to prove my bardic lore, of superior lot, this to the grave of Rhufawn with the aspect of an imperious one.

Taliesin.

Rhwyfiad, s. m. (rhwyf) A tending forward; a directing; a swaying; a rowing.
Rhwyfiadawl, a. (rhwyfiad) Dominative.
Rhwyfiadu, v. a. (rhwyfiad) To dominate.
Rhwyfiadr, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhwyfiad) One who sways, rules, or directs; a governor.

Oiana barchellan—
 Cladd yn lle argel yn argoedydd,
 Rhag arwa Rhydderch Hael, rhwyfiadr fydd.

Listen, little pig: burrow in a secret place in the bordering woods, for fear of the chase of Rhydderch the Generous, leader of the faith.

Rhyddin.

Rhwyfiadus, a. (rhwyfiad) Dominative.
Rhwyfiant, s. m. (rhwyf) Domination.
Rhwyfiator, ger. (rhwyfiad) In directing.
Rhwyfineb, s. m. (rhwyf) Guidance; sway.
Rhwyfiator, sup. (rhwyf) To be swaying.
Rhwyfolaeith, s. m. (rhwyfawl) Dictatorship.
Rhwyfoldeb, s. m. (rhwyfawl) A state of sway, direction, or authority; a dictatorial state.
Rhwyfoli, v. a. (rhwyfawl) To render dominant; to become possessed of sway, to become dictatorial.

Rhwyfus, a. (rhwyf) Fond of sway; haughty.

Gwnae ddilyn cyngor gwyrr boneddigus leuac rhwria;
 gynt no dangosad gwyr araf deothlos.

He would follow the advice of proud young men of noble race sooner than the direction of moderate wise men.

Merchwg Croydd.

Rhwyfusaw, v. a. (rhwyfus) To render imperious or haughty; to become dictatorial.
Rhwyfusedd, s. m. (rhwyfus) Imperiousness.
Rhwyfwr, s. m.—pl. rhwyfwyr (rhwyf—gwr) One who leads or impels forward; a rower.
Rhwyfydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhwyf) One who guides or directs; a rower.
Rhwyg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhwy) A rent, a rupture.
Rhwygadwy, a. (rhwyg) Capable of being rent.
Rhwygaw, v. a. (rhwyg) To rend, or to tear.
Rhwygawl, a. (rhwyg) Rending, lacerating.
Rhwygedig, a. (rhwyg) Rent, torn, lacerated.
Rhwygiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwyg) A tearing.

Ior cyngor ragor, parau rwygylt iŵa,
 Parau gwirionion iŵa, pen gwarediad.

A chief of superior counsel who would continue the tearing of conflict, the displayer of warring wine, supreme deliverer.

R. ab Gedyr.

Rhwygiant, s. m. (rhwyg) A tearing, a rending.
Rhwygliator, ger. (rhwygiad) In tearing.
Rhwygitor, sup. (rhwyg) To be tearing.
Rhwygwr, s. m. (rhwyg—gwr) A tearer.
Rhwyl, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhwy) An open space; a clear enclosed spot; a ring-fence; court.

Rhwyl Careg Hefa cefn yddlaw
 Caudd Baeon, lledron yn en lledaw.

The hall of Careg Hefa had in it the affliction of Baeon, those who were reduced to dust.

Llygad Ow, i G. Moch.

Rhwylaw, v. a. (rhwyl) To make an opening; to form a paddock, or enclosure.
Rhwylwaith, s. m. (rhwyl—gwaith) Open-work; a curious interlaced work.
Rhwyl, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhwy) A narrow aperture, a hole; a mortise; an interstice; a passage; a casement; also a fretwork, or open-work. Rhwyliau botymau, button-holes; rhwyl au gwedydd, brwyddau gwedydd, a weaver's reed.
A rhwyl yn sgafnol pob rhod.
And a fretwork in the midst of every circle.

W. Llwyd, i J. M.

Tri llew, glas fal yr awyr,
 Triw yllt dan, dy bar rhwylt dar.

Three lions, blue like azure sky, through vehement fan, with three flets of steel.

Iolo Goch, i arfau Llychwr.

Rhwylaw, v. a. (rhwyl) To make narrow aperture; to make fretwork; to make lattice-work.
Rhwylaw edafedd, to wind thread.
Rhwylawg, a. (rhwyl) Abounding with holes or interstices; fretted, consisting of lattice-work, chequered, cross-barred.

Yr oedd hen wisg o ball rhwylawg amlent.

There was an old garment of fretted velvet about her.

H. Parhar—Rhithyrn.

Rhwylledig, a. (rhwyl) Perforated with crevices, fretted, grated; latticed.
Rhwylldad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwyl) A forming of narrow apertures; a fretting; a grating; a making lattice-work.
Rhwylldwaith, s. m. (rhwyl—gwaith) A fret-work.
Rhwylldwr, s. m.—pl. rhwylldwyr (rhwyl—gwr) One who makes interstices, or fretwork.
Rhwym, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwy) That circumscribes or contains; a bond, a tie. a. Bond.

Dyg ran dy gwemydd;
 Dwg ni o'n rhwym dyg yn rhydd!

Take the portion of thy hindred; take us from our sworn bond and set us free!

Iolo Goch, i G. Moch.

Rhwmaw, v. a. (rhwym) To bind, to tie.
Rhymaw gaurtheg, to tie or to house cattle.

Rhwmawl, a. (rhwym) Tending to blind; blinding; restrictive; obligatory.

Rhwybleth, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhwym—pleth) An entwined wreath.

Rhwymed, s. m. (rhwym) A bounden state.

Rhwymedi, s. m. (rhwym) That keeps bound; a power to bind or to restrain.

*Ymdeit heb rymedi;
A theut ymdeit a thei!*

To part without a power to prevent, and affixing it to part with thee!

Rhwymedig, a. (rhwym) Bounden, tied; obliged Rhwymedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. an (rhwymedig)
The state of being bound; restriction.

*Dymd, o'i rymedigaeth,
Dda i ti i' na, da chw a waeth.*

He conducted, owing to his confinement, two hosts to heaven; a good deed he thus performed.

Rhwymedigaw, v. a. (rhwymedig) To render bounden; to become bounden.

Rhwymedigawl, a. (rhwymedig) Obligatory.

Rhwymedydd, s. m.—pl. t. lon (rhwym) Oblige

Rhwymodd, s. m. (rhwym) A bounden state.

Rhwyriad, s. m.—pl. t. an (rhwym) A tying; a binding; a bandage; restriction; obligation.

Rhwyriannawl, a. (rhwymiant) Restrictive.

Rhwyriannu, v. a. (rhwymiant) To make a restriction, to make an obligation.

Rhwyriant, s. m. (rhwym) Restriction; bond.

Rhwyriwr, s. m.—pl. rhwymwyr (rhwym—gwr)

One who binds.

Rhwyrydd, s. m.—pl. t. lon (rhwym) A binder.

Rhwymyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. an (rhwym) A band,

a bandage; a swathe, a swaddling-band.

Rhwymyn y coed, black briony.

Rhwymynawl, a. (rhwymyn) Tying, binding.

Rhwymyniad, s. m. (rhwymyn) A tying on a bandage; a swaddling.

Rhwymynu, v. a. (rhwymyn) To tie on a bandage; to swaddle.

Rhwymynwr, s. m.—pl. rhwymynwyr (rhwymyn —gwr) One who puts on a bandage.

Rhwyn, s. m. (rhwy) A stretching round, a wind, or twist.

Rhwynaw, v. a. (rhwyn) To stretch round.

Rhwyniad, s. m. (rhwyn) A stretching round.

Rhwyoli, v. a. (rhwyawl) To render excessive or superfluous; to become prodigal.

Rhws, s. m.—pl. t. an (rhwy) Vigour; wantonness; luxuriance. a. Vigorous, lively, wanton; luxuriant.

*Tydi yr haf, tad y rhws,
A'f h goed-frig berth gweidrhws,
Caws gwyl y byd o'i ben.*

Thou summer, father of vigour, with thy fair vegetating branches thickly spreading, of thee we shall have the world all before us.

D. ab Gwilym.

Rhwsaw, v. a. (rhws) To render vigorous; to render luxuriant; to become vigorous.

Rhwsawg, a. (rhws) Full of vigour; luxuriant

*Y goe—
A rhwsawg i'f hach rhwsawg
Yn mlaio gwad—Olyw E.*

The cuckoo, with thy lively language filled with food love, expressing praise, listen to me.

D. ab Gwilym.

Rhwsawl, a. (rhws) Invigorated; enlivening.

Rhwsawd, s. m. (rhws) Vigorousness; luxuriance; liveliness, wantonness.

Rhwsdeb, s. m. (rhws) Vigorousness; vivacity hwyder, s. m. (rhws) Vigorousness; vivacity.

Rhwsdra, s. m. (rhws) Vigorousness; luxuri-ance, fertility; liveliness; wantonness.

Rhwsedig, a. (rhws) Invigorated; enlivened.

Rhwsedd, s. m. (rhws) Vigorousness; vivacity.

Rhwsfawr, a. (rhws) Full of vigour; greatly luxuriant; full of vivacity.

Rhwsag, s. m.—pl. t. an (rhy—gwyag) A career,

a course; forwardness; sway, pomp, grandeur. Rhwsag mawen, a small's track; mas

efe ga fawr ei rwsag, he takes upon himself great sway.

Rhwsagaw, v. a. (rhwsag) To make a career, to run a course; to go forward, to risk; to take upon one's self to sway, to be forward.

Rhwsagawd, s. m. (rhwsag) The act of taking a career or swaying; a taking a career.

Rhwsagawg, a. (rhwsag) Having an open course or career; having sway; froward.

Rhwsagawl, a. (rhwsag) Going an unrestrained course; risking, swaying; forward.

Rhwsagedig, a. (rhwsag) Being made to run headlong; unrestrained.

Rhwsagedd, s. m. (rhwsag) The state of having unobstructed course or sway.

Rhwsagfawr, a. (rhwsag) Of great away; of pomp

Rhwsagfawredd, s. m. (rhwsagfawr) Greatness of sway; unrestrained course; pomposity.

Rhwsagiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (rhwsag) A taking an unrestrained course; a swaying.

Rhwsagi, s. m. (rhwsag) A tendency to go headlong.

Rhwsagiaw, v. a. (rhwsagi) To run headlong.

Rhwsaglad, s. m. (rhwsagi) A going headlong.

Rhwsaglyd, a. (rhwsag) Froward, or restive.

Rhwsagm, a. (rhwsag) Apt to start, starting.

March rhwsagm, a starting horse.

Rhwsagwr, s. m.—pl. rhwsagwyr (rhwsag—gwr)

One who takes an unrestrained course.

Rhwsiad, s. m. (rhws) An invigoration.

Rhwsianawl, a. (rhwsiant) Invigorating.

Rhwsianu, v. a. (rhwsiant) To invigorate; to become vigorous; to luxuriate.

Rhwsiant, s. m. (rhws) An invigoration.

Rhwsineb, s. m. (rhws) Vigorousness.

Rhwsogi, v. a. (rhwsawg) To render vigorous;

to become vigorous; to luxuriate.

Rhwsoldeb, s. m. (rhwsawl) Vigorousness.

Rhwsolder, s. m. (rhwsawl) Vigorousness.

Rhwsolodd, s. m. (rhwsawl) Vigorousness.

Rhwsoli, v. a. (rhwsawl) To invigorate.

Rhwsatr, s. m.—pl. t. an (rhy—gwyst) Opposition, hinderance, impediment, let, or obstacle.

*Nid traia ond tra;
Nid rhystr ond dwf.*

There is no violence but fire; there is no obstruction but under Adgr.

Rhwystrad, s. m. (rhwystr) An opposing; a hindering; opposition, obstruction.

Rhwystradwy, a. (rhwystr) Capable of opposing, obstructing, or hindering.

Rhwystraw, v. a. (rhwystr) To go before; to oppose, to hinder; to become hindered.

Rhwystrawg, a. (rhwystr) Abounding with opposition or hinderance; restrictive.

Rhwystrawl, a. (rhwystr) Opposing, hindering.

Rhwystredig, a. (rhwystr) Opposed, hindered.

Rhwystredigeth, s. m. (rhwystredig) The act of opposing, obstruction, hinderance.

Rhwystredigawl, a. (rhwystredig) Obstructive.

Rhwystredd, s. m. (rhwystr) A state of opposition

Rhwystri, s. m. (rhwystr) Hinderance, or let.

*Yn mydd i'f yrru Eufil,
Ar yrruad o'f hach rhwystr.*

Going to the lake of Eufil, for deliverance from every obstruction.

Cefny.

Rhwystriad, s. m.—pl. rhwystrïad (rhwystr) An obstructor, a hinderer.
Rhwystriadawl, a. (rhwystrïad) Obstructive.
Rhwystrus, a. (rhwystr) Having opposition or obstacle; hindering, encumbered.
Rhwystrusaw, v. a. (rhwystrus) To render obstructive; to become obstructive.
Rhwystrusedd, s. m. (rhwystrus) Obstructiveness.
Rhwystrusi, s. m. (rhwystrus) Hindrance.
Rhwystruswydd, s. m. (rhwystrus) A state of opposition or hindrance; cumbersomeness.
Rhwystwr, s. m.—pl. rhwystrwyr (rhwystr—gwr) A hinderer, an obstructor.
Rhwysawd, s. m. (rhwy—gawd) Vigorous flow of genius.
Rhwyth, s. m. (rhwy) That pervades; juice.

*Arwyf, prafal prifawd, nis cyll,
 Eargd rhuth yfed, nid rhwyth cyll.*

I will manage, I will essay a high strain of praise, not to perish, to the golden law of drinking, not of crab-tree juice.
Frydydd Brown.

Rhwythaw, v. a. (rhwyth) To pervade.
Rhwythawl, a. (rhwyth) Pervasive, penetrant.
Rhwythawr, s. m.—pl. rhwythorion (rhwyth) A pervader. Rhwythawr llawr, the pervader of the ground.

RHY, s. m. r.—pl. t. on. The state of being beyond or over; excess. It is used very generally as a preposition of emphasis, especially with verbs. Prefixed to the preterite of a verb it forms the preterpluperfect tense; with the present tense, it implies the action done in a signal manner: and with the future it implies a time still further. Ni rhyngwyllynt, they had not previously seen one another.

Nid da rhy o eddis.

The excess of any thing is not good.

Adage.

Rhy, adv. (rhy, s.) Over, beyond, too much; very, excessively; too. It is often compounded with the first and second pronouns singular and plural: as rhym dorai, it would much concern me: rhych welid, thou wert previously seen: Dofydd rhy'n digones, the Lord did abundantly provide for us.

*Rhy ddîrwy, dyraur ei bolion;
 Rhy ddy larch, circlid ar circhion;
 Rhy ddyddid yn ddorad ran camon cnuid;
 Rhy ddyllus alludion.*

He fines excessively, he impels his claims; greatly he encourages petitioners with gifts; most boldly he slays the portion of the whelps of sculk; he completely keeps off strangers.
Cyrddeio, i H. ab Owain.

*Rhanwr pob pwrn rhy uniswn:
 Rhan ar wir yn rhanu'r lawa.*

The giver of every point most just; a party on the side of truth dispensing justice.
L. G. Colth.

Rhyachub, v. a. (achub) Completely to save.
Rhyachubaw, v. a. (rhyachub) Completely to save.
Rhyachubawl, a. (rhyachub) Fully saving.
Rhyachubiad, s. m. (rhyachub) A fully saving.
Rhyachwyn, v. a. (achwyn) To complain overmuch.
Rhyachwynawl, a. (rhyachwyn) Too complaining.
Rhyachwyniad, s. m. (rhyachwyn) A complaining overmuch; a greatly complaining.
Rhyadaw, v. a. (gadaw) To leave utterly.
Rhyadawiad, s. m. (rhyadaw) A leaving utterly.
Rhyadfarn, s. f. (adfarn) A full rejudgment.
Rhyadfarniad, s. m. (rhyadfarn) A rejudging.
Rhyadfarnu, v. a. (rhyadfarn) To rejudge entirely; to revoke a judgment.

Os addaf a wna yr unddifynwr, adfered i'r bawler yr eiddo, yn herydd rhyadfarnu y gyfraith a fu gyt.

If the defendant shall make an acknowledgement, let him restore to the claimant the property, so as to rejudge entirely the sentence formerly given.
Welsh Laws.

Rhyaddaw, v. a. (addaw) To promise greatly.
Rhyaddawiad, s. m. (rhyaddaw) A promising overmuch.
Rhyaddewid, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhyaddaw) A too great a promise.
Rhyafael, s. m.—pl. t. ion (gafael) Too great a hold; an excessive grasp.
Rhyafaelgar, a. (rhyafael) Grasping overmuch.
Rhyafaeliad, s. m. (rhyafael) An over-grasping.
Rhyal, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (al) Procreation.
Rhyaledd, s. m. (rhyal) Procreteness.
Rhyaliad, s. m. (rhyal) A procreating.
Rhyalu, v. a. (rhyal) To procreate, to beget.
Rhyalus, a. (rhyal) Procreative; procreant.
Rhyall, s. m. (gall) Superior power. a. Of superior power; invincible.

*Coronaw faban, modd bardd arall,
 Mydonwy esgob, a fydd rhyall.*

The crowned infant, says another bard, Mydonwy the bishop will be invincible.
Rhyf Kanner.

Rhyallad, s. m. (rhyall) Supreme power.

*Pen a borthaf yn angad fy llaw,
 Llary add llywial wrad
 Pen post Prydain rhyallad.*

A head I bear in the grasp of my hand, a mild sovereignty governed a country, the chief pillar of Britain's supreme power.
Llywarch Hen.

Rhyallu, v. a. (rhyall) To have superior or complete power; to be fully competent.

Arnyelgaw ac ofann a orag Coel ymhadd yn ei orys; cwp d giod a gadarnai na ryaliai un breinia gurthwyndd llo.

Coel became intimidated and fearful of fighting against us; for his fame had strengthened the men that not one warrior could have had the power to withstand him.
Gr. ab Idris.

Rhyamcan, s. m.—pl. t. ion (amcan) Too great a design.

Rhyamcanawl, a. (rhyamcan) Over designing.

Rhyamcaniad, s. m. (rhyamcan) A designing overmuch.

Rhyamcanu, v. a. (rhyamcan) To design overmuch.

Rhyanfodd, s. m. (anfodd) Over difficulty of pleasing or giving satisfaction.

Rhyanfoddawg, a. (rhyanfodd) Being too difficult to please; very hard to please.

Ni chedd rhyanfoddawg ryberch.

He that is over difficult to please will not get much respect.
Idor.

Rhyanfoddiad, s. m. (rhyanfodd) A displeasing overmuch; a satisfying with difficulty.

Rhyanfoddiaw, v. a. (rhyanfodd) To over-displease.

Rhyanfon, v. a. (anfon) To send fully.

Gwodes Daw, megys breuin cyfoethawg, llyso ddoradur i h a elwir teyrnas nef;—ac f'r llyso hoes y rhagwedd d'lyso obono rif llyso o rthodididion.

God, like a powerful king, established for him a supernal court, which is called the kingdom of heaven; and so that one be forewarned that he should have to send a certain number of chosen ones.
Rhyndar.

Rhyanfonawl, a. (anfon) Completely sending.

Rhyanfoniad, s. m. (anfon) A sending fully.

Rhyanhael, a. (anhael) Illiberal to excess.

Rhyanllad, a. (anllad) Wanton to excess.

Rhyanlladwydd, s. m. (rhyanllad) Excess of wantonness; a state of excessive lust.

Rhyanlladu, v. (rhyanllad) To be too wanton.

Rhyanllofi, v. a. (anllofi) To over-earch.

*Cwrw o'i yfed,
 A chain drefred,
 A chain dudoddy,
 Ym rhyanllofi.*

Alc to be drunk, and fair habitation, and splendid rooms, too have been profusely bestowed on me.
Taliesin.

Rhyanllofiad, s. m. (anllofiad) A profusely enriching; an endowing overmuch.

Rhyannog, s. m. (annog) Too much excitement.
v. a. To excite overmuch.

Rhidiawg, a. (rhid) Abounding with secretion; having an oozing or drain; having sperm.
Rhidiawl, a. (rhid) Secretory; oozing, draining.
Rhidedig, a. (rhidiad) Secreted; impregnated.
Rhidyll, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhid) A riddle, a sieve.
Rhidylliad, s. m. (rhidyll) A riddling; a sifting.
Rhidylliaw, v. a. (rhidyll) To riddle, to sift.
Rhidsys, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhid) A very small stream or rill; a drain.

—Rhyd ocsedd:
 Wrth rhyddys meision
 Profodd awysu prifafon.

For ages it will run: compared with Helle's rill it has proved a primary stream. Rice Jones.

Rhidiysiad, s. m. (rhidys) A flowing in a rill.
Rhidiysaw, v. a. (rhidys) To flow in a very small quantity; to flow as a rill; to dribble.
Rhidd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhi—idd) That is central; that is an obstacle; that repels.
Rhiddiad, s. m. (rhidd) A rendering central; a becoming central; a repelling.
Rhiddiaw, v. a. (rhidd) To place central; to repel, to drive back; to recoil.
Rhiedd, s. m. (rhi) Paternal governance.

Daw a'm dagra, yn dogn anrhyddedd,
 I'w wneud, i'w rad, i'w rhedd.

God will take me, for my complete honour, to his most kingdom, to his grace, to his governance. Cynnddelw.

Rhieddawg, a. (rhiedd) Having high origin.

Elrig ei rethron rhieddawg.
 Splendid his commanding spear. Taliesin, i Wallawg.
 Brang rebydd, yn rhydd, yn rhydd nawd
 Y gwn Rhys rhieddawg o diawd.

The mighty ravager, freely and with good nature Rhys would make the poor one noble. Cynnddelw.

Rhieddawl, a. (rhiedd) A paternal authority.

Rhieddu, v. a. (rhiedd) To have authority.

Rhieingader, s. f. (rhiān—cader) The seat or throne of a lady or queen.

Rhieinged, s. f. (rhiān—ced) A female treasure.

Gwyn ei fyd podyw Daw yd rangwy Rhieinged.

Blissed is he on whom God may bestow a female treasure. Gwalchmai.

Reieingerdd, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhiān—cerdd) A song or eulogy in praise of the fair sex.

Rhieingerdd Efa a fewryst;
 Treuyn y treiddwai trefa a gadwyst.

The female eulogy on Efa they would extol, with a glance I could observe the order they were used to keep. Cynnddelw.

Rhieingylch, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhiān—cylch) The circuit of the female, by which vassals furnished a table for the queen, in certain cases.

Uswailh yn y fwyddyn y gwedd i bob ffrwd yn hwydd i orwlad, gylch'r beudde, o'u myn; ac ym y ffrwdde a ddyly rhiāngylch.

Once in the year it is meet for every body to go in the army, to the borders, with the king, if he requires; and then the queen is entitled to a female circuit. Welsh Laws.

Rhieiniadd, a. (rhiān) Feminine.

Rhieiniadd fawr, rhannodd fudd.
 Delicate maid, she has distributed a bounty.
D. ab Owain, i Lughawed.

Rhieiniawl, a. (rhiān) Feminine, abounding with female softness.

Mae Gwnehwyfar—
 Yn rhieddawl,
 Yn rhagoraw,
 Yn ahragaredd.

Gwnehwyfar, of feminine softness, in mercy doth excel. Gronw Daf.

Rhieni, s. pl. aggr. (rhiant) Parentage; forefathers, ancestry; parents.

Rhieni dyn yw ei dad, a'i henedd, a'i orhenedd.

A person's ancestry are his father, and his grandfather, and his great grandfather. Welsh Laws.

Rhienfaeth, s. m. (rhieni) Parentage, ancestry.

Rhienfawl, a. (rhieni) Relating to ancestry.

Rhies, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhi) A dame, or a lady.

Rhif, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhi—lf) That divides, or separates; a number.

Rhifadwy, a. (rhif) Capable of being reckoned.

Rhifaw, v. a. (rhif) To number, to numerate.

Lliw awyrlw teg rhag ion nawfed,
 Nawfed ran ym poen, er pan aned,
 Na rhyborthes neb na llybyced,
 Ni rhifaf ar fun fod yn galed.

That is of the hue of the fair spraying foam before the ninth wave, the ninth share of my pain, since she was born, no one has felt or imagined. I will not reckon of the dame that she is cruel. Cynnddelw, i Efa ech Madawg.

Rhifawl, z. (rhif) Numeral, or numerical.

Rhifed, s. m. (rhif) A number, numeration.

Rhifed syr cyrthasant yn ngraw,
 O'rh gyanngu, o'rh gynneddau.

Of the number of the stars they fell in blood, from thy conflict, from thy stratagems. Gwalchmai.

Rhifedi, s. m. (rhifed) A number.

Rhifedig, a. (rhifed) Numbered. Rhifedigion, those that are numbered.

Rhifedigaeth, s. m. (rhifedig) Numeration.

Rhifedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhifed) Numerator.

Rhifedyddawl, a. (rhifedydd) Numerary.

Rhifedyddiaeth, s. m. (rhifedydd) The science or skill of numbering.

Rhifedd, s. m. (rhif) Numerousness; number.

Rhifgoel, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhif—coel) The property of chance belonging to numbers.

Rhifgoelydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhifgoel) Numerist.

Rhifad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhif) A numbering.

Rhifannawl, a. (rhifant) Numerary.

Rhifannu, v. a. (rhifant) To numerate.

Rhifant, s. m. (rhif) Numeration.

Rhifawg, a. (rhif) Having a number; numerous.

Cadarn fab Madawg rhifawg reufodd.

The mighty son of Madawg multitudinous wealth. O. ab D. ab Tadyr.

Rhifedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhifad) Numerator.

Rhifnod, s. c.—pl. t. au (rhif—nod) A numeral.

Rhifnodawl, a. (rhifnod) Numerical.

Rhifnodi, v. a. (rhifnod) To numerate.

Rhifnodiad, s. m. (rhifnod) Numeration.

Rhifnodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhifnod) Numerator.

Rhifrill, s. f. (rhif—rhill) A numerical notch.

Rhifwr, s. m.—pl. rhifwyr (rhif—gwr) One who numbers, a reckoner.

Rhifydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhif) A numberer.

Rhifydddeg, s. f. (rhifydd) Science of numbers.

Rhifydddegawl, a. (rhifydddeg) Arithmetical.

Rhifydddegwr, s. m.—pl. rhifydddegwyr (rhifydddeg—gwr) An arithmetician.

Rhifyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhifydd) A female accountant, or arithmetician.

Rhifyddiaeth, s. m. (rhifydd) Numeration.

Rhifyn, s. m. dim. (rhif) A single number.

Rhif, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhi—iff) That tends to divide or to separate.

Rhifft, s. m. (rhif) That is divided or cleaved.

Rhiffwnt, s. m. (rhi—ffwnt) The jaundice.

Rhig, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhi—ig) A notch; a groove, also a pillory.

Rhigaw, v. a. (rhig) To notch; to indent.

Rhigawd, s. m.—pl. rhigodau (rhig) A pillory.

Rhigawl, a. (rhig) Notching; indenting.

Rhigiad, s. m. (rhig) A notching, a grooving.

Rhigu, s. m. dim. (rhig) A notch; a groove.

Rhydyriad, s. m. (rhydwr) An over-heaping.
Rhydyru, v. a. (rhydwr) To over-heap; to gather together extremely.

*Atan rhydyruan, o'i luo llorodd;
 Rhydyllif cynnal cau fodd Dofydd.*

To us they will flock extremely, of his fair multitude; misery will be fully relieved through the will of the Supreme.
Llynclyn Ffordd, i Gadfan.

Rhydd, s. m. (rhy—ydd) The state of being open, loose, or at large; liberty, freedom.

Tri chynfeirgaeth cydwr dyn: cynnoll cyntaf ar wybodaeth, cariad, a nerth, heb augeu; ac nis gellir hyn yn mrairi rhydd a dewis cyn dyndawd; ac y tri hyn a elwir y tri gortrech.

The three primal things in the state of humanity: the accumulations of knowledge, love, and power, without undergoing dissolution; and this cannot be done as of liberty and choice previous to humanity; and these three are called the three victories.
Barddas.

Rhydd, a. (rhy—ydd) Open, loose, at large; free.

*Or tery dyn rhydd ôdyn caeth, taled ddeuddeg ceiniawg iddo.
 If a free person shall strike a bondman, let him pay to such twelve pence.*
Welsh Laws.

Nid oedd yr all a fal can ddoeth a Helen Luyddawg yn y cel-fyddau rhydd.

There was not another that was so wise as Helen the Warlike in the liberal sciences.
Gr. ab Artkuur.

*Mae rhai s'u golwg yn rhydd,
 Yn gweled beuan' gilydd.*

There are some with their sight unrestrained, perceiving the faults of each other.
G. ab Hywel i Tudgr.

Rhyddad, s. m. (rhyddau) A loosening, an enlarging, a freeing; liberation.

Rhyddawwl, a. (rhyddau) Loosening, enlarging.
Rhyddadeni, v. (dadeni) To be fully reproduced.

Rhyddadl, s. f.—pl. rhyddadlau (dadl) Excess of dispute, contention, or debate.

Rhyddadliad, s. m. (rhyddadl) An over-disputing.
Rhyddadlu, v. a. (rhyddadl) To over-dispute.

Rhyddail, s. pl. aggr. (dail) Over-leaves; the second growth of leaves.

Rhyddal, v. a. (dal) An excessive holding.

Rhyddaliad, s. m. (rhyddal) A holding to excess.

Rhyddaly, v. a. (rhyddal) To hold overmuch.

Rhyddarogan, s. f.—pl. t. au (darogan) A superior prediction.

Rhyddaroganiad, s. m. (rhyddarogan) A delivering a superior oracle or prognostication.

Rhyddarogannu, v. a. (rhyddarogan) To deliver a superior prediction.

*Morini Brython;
 Rhyddarogannu;
 A medd leon
 Am Hafren afon.*

The Morini Britons, their fate will be fully predicted; and the reaping of heroes about Haveren river.
Tallenin.

Rhyddau, v. a. (rhydd) To set open, to loosen, to set at large; to free, to liberate; to deliver, to release, to acquit.

Rhyddawn, s. m.—pl. rhyddoniau (dawn) Superior gift, endowment, or virtue.

Rhyddawr, s. m. (dawr) Extreme concern.

Rhyddawr, s. m.—pl. rhyddawyr (rhyddau—gwr)

One who sets free, one who loosens.

Rhydded, s. f. (rhydd) A state of liberty, freedom.

Rhyddedawg, a. (rhydded) Having liberty; enlarged, released, exempted, dispensed with.

Rhyddedogi, v. a. (rhyddedawg) To set at liberty; to render exempted; to become at liberty.

Rhyddeisyf, s. m. (deisyf) Earnest entreaty. v. a. To entreat earnestly; to crave overmuch.

Rhyddeisyawl, a. (rhyddeisyf) Greatly entreating

Rhyddeisyniad, s. m. (rhyddeisyf) An entreating earnestly, a craving or begging overmuch.

Rhyddeisyfu, v. a. (rhyddeisyf) To entreat greatly

Rhydderchafawl, a. (derchafawl) Over-exalting.

Rhydderchafiad, s. m. (derchafiad) An exalting overmuch, a being uplifted overmuch.
Rhydderchafu, v. a. (derchafu) To over-exalt.

*Ryddnoedd Cadwaladr cadu y deuant;
 Rhydderchafwynt Cymru; cad a wnaist.*

The hosts of Cadwaladr mightily they would come; they would extremely assail the Cymru; they would bring on a battle.
Glyddia.

Rhyddiaeth, s. m. (rhydd) A state of freedom.

Rhyddiaith, s. f. (rhydd—iaith) Free language.

Rhyddiant, s. m. (rhydd) Relaxation; liberation.

Rhyddiawg, a. (diawg) Lazy overmuch.

Rhyddid, s. m. (rhydd) Liberty, freedom; immunity, exemption; licence, leave.

Tri chyflwr hanfod bywydion: cyflwr afreud yn awen, cyflwr rhyddid yn dyndawd, a chyflwr cariad, sef gwynfyd, yn y def.

The three states of existence of living beings; the state of exaltation in the great deep, the state of liberty in immunity, and the state of love, that is felicity, in heaven.
Barddas.

Rhyddieithaid, a. (rhyddiaith) Like prose.

Rhyddieithawl, a. (rhyddiaith) Prosaic.

Rhyddifeichiaw, v. a. (difeichiaw) To exonerate bail fully; to free a surety fully.

Rhyddifoneddu, v. a. (difoneddu) To divest completely of nobility.

Rhyddig, a. (dig) Extremely wroth or angry.

Rhyddigon, s. m. (digon) A more than enough.

Rhyddigonedd, s. m. (digon) Over-sufficiency.

Rhyddigoni, v. a. (rhyddigon) To satiate.

Rhyddilyn, a. (dilyn) Smart to excess.

Rhyddillynedd, s. m. (rhyddilyn) Affectation.

Rhyddineb, s. m. (rhydd) Exemption from restraint, freedom, facility, readiness, fluency.

Rhyddiogi, v. a. (rhyddiawg) To become extremely lazy, or indolent.

*Ni eola noeth yn ymali;
 Fawb pan ryddogor yd hali.*

The naked is not bold amongst thieves; every body when rendered very idle, will fall.
Talcan.

Rhyddiriad, s. m. (diriad) Excess of iteration; a being troublesome to excess; a being very mischievous.

Rhyddiriaw, v. a. (diriaw) To iterate to excess.

Un rodd orwag ni ryddirwa o god.

One empty gift of treasure I would not greatly importune.
Glyn. Gwyn.

Rhyddiriawl, a. (diriawl) Excessively iterating.

Rhyddisgyn, s. m. (disgyn) A bringing down fully. v. a. To alight completely.

Rhyddisgyniad, s. m. (rhyddisgyn) A completely bringing down or alighting.

Rhyddisgynu, v. a. (rhyddisgyn) To bring or put down completely; to alight fully.

Gwedi dawed ohono byd gerllaw glyn, oedd yn agwau i rwy Caint, ef gwele yn y lle hono lin gwy; Rhuddis ag eu pwyll ac eu lloestau, gwedi rhyddisgynu yn y glyn.

After he had come close to a valley, which was near to Caernarvon, he saw in that place the army of the men of Rhuddis, &c. their tents and their booths having been quite taken down in the valley.
Gr. ab Artkuur.

Rhyddodawl, a. (dodawl) Superinducing.

Rhyddodi, v. a. (dodi) To superinduce.

Rhyddodiad, s. m. (dodiad) Superinduction.

Rhyddoeth, a. (doeth) Wise overmuch.

Rhyddoethedd, s. m. (rhyddoeth) Over-wisdom.

Rhyddogn, s. m. (dogn) An over-quantity.

Rhyddognedd, s. m. (rhyddogn) Over-quantity.

Rhyddogni, v. a. (rhyddogn) To give an over-quantity; to satiate.

*Ale o'm dygnedd ydd ym dorned;
 Rhyddogniaid fawr gerdd am ei lawr-ged.*

With grievous severity I have been portoned; I dedicate a superfluity of exalted song for his great treasure.
Cyndddu, i Cadwaladr.

Rhyddogniad, s. m. (rhyddogn) A giving an over-quantity; a satiating.

Rhydechid, s. m. (rhydech) A skulking gossip.
Rhydech, v. a. (rhydech) To skulk extremely;
 to become completely cooped.

Hi rhydech rhydech.

Who will not conceal himself greatly will be completely taken away. Edifed.

Rhydechwr, s. m.—pl. rhydechwyr (rhydech—gwr) One who skulks overmuch; a coward.

Rhydedd, s. m. (rhyd) Being made into a ford.

Rhydedd, s. m. (tadd) Presidency, or supremacy.

Rhydeddau, s. m. (rhydedd) Having supremacy.

Rhydeddau, s. m. (rhydedd) Apt to be supreme.

Rhydeddiad, s. m. (rhydedd) A making supreme.

Rhydedd, s. a. (rhydedd) To render supreme or exalted; to become exalted.

Rhydeddus, s. m. (rhydedd) Superior, or exalted.

Rhydeg, s. m. (rhy—deg) Extremely fair or fine.

Rhedeg, s. m. (terig) Excessive or continual aptitude to copulate; a term applied to barren animals.

Rhesk rhyderig, a cow that doth not calve; huch rhyderig, a barren sow.

Rhydewi, s. a. (rhydaw) To be very swift.

Hi rhyr tragar tra rhydewi;
Hi rhyr tragar tra rhydewi.

The powerful will not be over fond of extreme speed; the vile are not so fully blinded about the object of his love. Cynadlan, i. 129.

Rhydgoch, s. m. (rhyd—goch) A rusty red; a russet colour; also called rhydderyd.

Rhydiad, s. m. (rhyd) A forming a ford; a fording.

Rhydiad, s. m. (rhyd) A rusting; a corrosion.

Rhydiaw, v. a. (rhyd) To form a ford; to ford.

Harod rhydiaw rhyd rhydiaw.

It is easy to ford the stream of a piddle. Adge.

Rhydiawg, s. m. (rhyd) Having a rippling course; having a ford.

Rhydiawl, s. m. (rhyd) Relating to a ford.

Rhydid, s. m. (tid) That is out of bond; liberty.

Rhydie, s. m.—pl. f. codd (rhyd—die) A passage place, a fording place; opportunity.

Rhydie, s. m. (rhyd) Full of rust; rusty.

Bed llyd dy rhydie; hi rhydie dy rhydie.

As the horse rhydie, so the woman rhydie. Adge.

Rhydydd, s. m. (rhydd) Rustiness.

Rhydydd, s. m. (rhydd) To become rusty.

Rhydni, s. m. (rhyd) Rustiness, or rust.

Rhydy, s. m. (to) A complete covering.

Rhyddad, s. m. (rhydd) A covering over fully.

Rhyddogeth, s. m. (rhyddog) Deliverance.

O Dduw na chym rhyddogeth
Y ddyn oedd hi'n ffordd:
Os llyddogeth i'dd na rhyddogeth.

Would to God we had a deliverance of our tribe from the whole! If they seem like their kind, available in the generation. P. Davies a Llewellyn.

Rhyddi, s. a. (rhydd) To cover over fully; to overpread; to overwhelm.

Seithenyn, m. di allan,
Ac edrych weryddu farddod:
Medd Mawr rhyddiaw rhyddiaw.

Seithenyn, do thou stand pat, and behold the fertile land of thy subjects: the lord has overpread the plain of rhyddiaw. Samuel.

Rhyddi, s. m. (rhyd—oild) Sawdust.

Rhyddiaw, s. m. (rhyddiaw) The state of being pre-attuned.

Rhydraethawd, s. f. (rhydraeth) A prediction.

Rhydraethiad, s. m. (rhydraeth) A predicting.

Rhydraeth, s. a. (rhydraeth) To predict.

Dduw ddarogant
A ddaf a'i blant
Y rhydraethawd
Y rhydraeth.

A certain prophecy with respect to Adam and his progeny the prophets did predict. M. Hyr.

VOL. II.

Rhydraidd, s. m. (rhydd) Extreme pervasion.

Rhydrais, s. m. (rhydrais) Extreme violence.

Rhydraul, s. f. (traul) Excess of consumption; excessive waste; excess of expence.

Rhydraws, s. m. (traws) Extremely thwarting; excessively froward or perverse.

Rhydreiddiad, s. m. (rhydraidd) A pervading extremely; superimpregnation.

Rhydreiddiaw, v. a. (rhydraidd) To pervade extremely, to penetrate thoroughly.

Rhydreisiad, s. m. (rhydrais) A using extreme violence; a tyrannizing to excess.

Rhydreisiaw, v. a. (rhydrais) To use extreme violence; greatly to tyrannize.

Rhydres, s. m. (tres) Assogance; pragmatism.

Rhydresawl, s. m. (rhydres) Pragmatical.

Rhydresgar, s. m. (rhydres) Arrogant, assuming; ostentatious, supercilious, flaunting.

Rhydresgarwch, s. m. (rhydres) Arrogance, assumingness, pragmatism; superciliousness.

Rhydreiniad, s. m. (rhydraul) A consuming extremely; a wasting overmuch.

Rhydreiniaw, v. a. (rhydraul) To consume to excess; to waste overmuch.

Rhydrig, s. m. (trig) Over-continuance or delay.

Rhydrigaw, s. m. (rhydrig) To tarry too long.

Rhydrigad, s. m. (rhydrig) An over-tarrying.

Rhydriat, s. m. (triat) Extremely defeated or sad.

Rhydriatwch, s. m. (rhydriat) Extreme sadness.

Rhydras, s. m. (traw) Too much dressing.

Rhydrasgad, s. m. (rhydras) An over-dressing.

Rhydrasgiaw, v. a. (rhydras) To dress extremely.

Rhydu, v. a. (rhyd) To generate rust, to rust.

Hi ad, mwy nosi dda, o'i dy,
Ar y rhydd, ar y rhydd.

He more than his father, will be softer, from his house, for a weapon to rust, in time of battle. Ap. I. 129, p. 7. I. 129.

Rhydwel, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhyd—gweli) An artery.

Mac hwyf mwy i'm bar-iaid,
A llyddaf mwy i'm rhyddiaw.

There is an arrow wound below my rib, and through my temple a throbbing vein. R. 129.

Rhydwf, s. m. (twf) Excess of growth; exuberance.

Rhyddi, s. m.—pl. rhyddiaw (twi) A perforation.

Rhyddwng, s. m. (twng) An anathema.

Rhydwr, s. m.—pl. rhydryau (twr) An over-heap.

Rhydddiad, s. m. (tyddiaw) A completing an arrangement, bargain, or compact; a final settlement.

Rhyddiaw, v. a. (tyddiaw) To complete an arrangement, bargain, or compact. Dyfed.

Rhyddiawd, s. m. (rhyddiaw) Tending to overgrow.

Rhyddiad, s. m. (rhyddiaw) An overgrowing; a supercrescence, superexuberance.

Rhyddyn, v. a. (rhyddiaw) To overgrow.

Rhyddiawd, s. m. (rhyddiaw) A perforating.

Rhyddiaw, v. a. (rhyddiaw) To perforate.

A'i ddwyllaw i'r ward o ddolgorion;
A'i ddwyllaw i'r ward o ddolgorion.

And his hands reeking with blood from wounds; and his feet all bare they pierced extremely. G. 129, p. 12. 129.

Rhydyn, s. m. (tynd) Overtight; overstress.

Rhydyniad, s. m. (rhydyn) A drawing overmuch, a superstraining.

Rhydynu, v. a. (rhydyn) To draw to excess.

Rhydyniawd, s. m. (rhydyn) Anathematizing.

Rhydyniad, s. m. (rhydyn) An anathematizing.

Rhydynu, v. a. (rhydyn) To anathematize.

A'i ddwyllaw i'r ward o ddolgorion;
A'i ddwyllaw i'r ward o ddolgorion.

Every body will be put away when there shall be anathematizing. Adge.

3 P

Rhydryiad, s. m. (rhydwr) An over-heaping.
Rhydyru, v. a. (rhydwr) To over-heap; to gather together extremely.

Attan rhydryan, o'i lan lloerdd;
 Rhydyllif cynnif can fodd Dofydd.

To us they will flock extremely, of his fair multitude; misery will be fully relieved through the will of the Supreme.
Llynclyn Ffardd, & Gadfan.

Rhydd, s. m. (rhy—ydd) The state of being open, loose, or at large; liberty, freedom.

Tri chynleigaueth cydwr dyn: cynnuli cyntaf ar wybodaeth, cariad, a nerth, heb augeu; ac nis geillir hyn yn mraint rhydd a dewia cyn dyddawd; ac y tri hyn a elwir y tri gortrech.

The three primal things in the state of humanity: the accumulations of knowledge, love, and power, without undergoing dissolution; and this cannot be done as of liberty and choice previous to humanity; and these three are called the three victories.
Barddas.

Rhydd, a. (rhy—ydd) Open, loose, at large; free.

Or tery dyn rhydd ddyn cweh, taled ddeuddeg ceinlawg iddo.

If a free person shall strike a bondman, let him pay to such twelve pence.
Welsh Laws.

Nid oedd yr all a fal can ddoethed a Helen Luyddawg yn y cefyddau rhydd.

There was not another that was so wise as Helen the Warlike in the liberal sciences.
Gr. ab Arthur.

Mae rhai a'u golwg yn rhydd,
 Yn gweld beiau' gylidd.

There are some with their sight unrestrained, perceiving the faults of each other.
G. ab Hywel ab Tudgr.

Rhyddâd, s. m. (rhyddâd) A loosening, an enlarging, a freeing; liberation.

Rhyddâwl, a. (rhyddâd) Loosening, enlarging.

Rhyddadeni, v. (dadeni) To be fully reproduced.

Rhyddadl, s. f.—pl. rhyddadlau (dadl) Excess of dispute, contention, or debate.

Rhyddadliad, s. m. (rhyddadl) An over-disputing.

Rhyddadlu, v. a. (rhyddadl) To over-dispute.

Rhyddail, s. pl. aggr. (dail) Over-leaves; the second growth of leaves.

Rhyddal, v. a. (dal) An excessive holding.

Rhyddaliad, s. m. (rhyddal) A holding to excess.

Rhyddaly, v. a. (rhyddal) To hold overmuch.

Rhyddarogan, s. f.—pl. t. au (darogan) A superior prediction.

Rhyddaroganiad, s. m. (rhyddarogan) A delivering a superior oracle or prognostication.

Rhyddaroganu, v. a. (rhyddarogan) To deliver a superior prediction.

Morini Brython;
 Rhyddaroganu'n;
 A medd beon
 Am Hafren afon.

The Morini Britons, their fate will be fully predicted; and the resping of heroes about Hafren river.
Taliesin.

Rhyddâd, v. a. (rhydd) To set open, to loosen, to set at large; to free, to liberate; to deliver, to release, to acquit.

Rhyddawn, s. m.—pl. rhyddoniau (dawn) Superior gift, endowment, or virtue.

Rhyddawr, s. m. (dawr) Extreme concern.

Rhyddâwr, s. m.—pl. rhyddâwyr (rhyddâd—gwr) One who sets free, one who loosens.

Rhydded, s. f. (rhydd) A state of liberty, freedom.

Rhyddedawg, a. (rhydded) Having liberty; enlarged, released, exempted, dispensed with.

Rhyddedegi, v. a. (rhyddedawg) To set at liberty; to render exempted; to become at liberty.

Rhyddeisyf, s. m. (deisyf) Earnest entreaty. v. a.

To entreat earnestly; to crave overmuch.

Rhyddeisyfawl, a. (rhyddeisyf) Greatly entreating

Rhyddeisyhad, s. m. (rhyddeisyf) An entreating earnestly; a craving or begging overmuch.

Rhyddeisyfu, v. a. (rhyddeisyf) To entreat greatly

Rhydderchafawl, a. (derchafawl) Over-exalting.

Rhydderchafiad, s. m. (derchafiad) An exalting overmuch, a being uplifted overmuch.
Rhydderchafu, v. a. (derchafu) To over-exalt.

Rhyddinoedd Cadwaladr cadu y deua;
 Rhydderchafwynt Cymru; cad a wainat.

The hosts of Cadwaladr mightily they would come; they would extremely exalt the Cymru; they would bring on a battle.

Rhyddiaeth, s. m. (rhydd) A state of freedom.

Rhyddiaith, s. f. (rhydd—iaith) Free language.

Rhyddiant, s. m. (rhydd) Relaxation; liberate.

Rhyddiawg, a. (diawg) Lazy overmuch.

Rhyddid, s. m. (rhydd) Liberty, freedom; immunity, exemption; licence, leave.

Tri chydwr hanfod bywedigion: cyfwr shred yn awr, rhyddid yn nyddawd, a chyfwr cariad, oed gwyboda, yn y m.

The three states of existence of living beings; the state of relaxation in the great deep, the state of liberty in humanity, the state of love, that is felicity, in heaven.
Bardas.

Rhyddieithaid, a. (rhyddiaith) Like prose.

Rhyddieithawl, a. (rhyddiaith) Prosaic.

Rhyddifeichiaw, v. a. (difeichiaw) To exonerate bail fully; to free a surety fully.

Rhyddifoneddu, v. a. (difoneddu) To divest completely of nobility.

Rhyddig, a. (dig) Extremely wroth or angry.

Rhyddigon, s. m. (digon) A more than enough.

Rhyddigonedd, s. m. (digon) Over-sufficiency.

Rhyddigoni, v. a. (rhyddigon) To satiate.

Rhyddilyn, a. (dilyn) Smart to excess.

Rhyddillynedd, s. m. (rhyddilyn) Affectation.

Rhyddineb, s. m. (rhydd) Exemption from restraint, freedom, facility, readiness, facility.

Rhyddiogi, v. w. (rhyddiawg) To become extremely lazy, or indolent.

Ni cofa noeth yn ynnall;
 Pawb pan ryddioger yd holl.

The naked is not bold amongst thistles; every body who is derved very idle, will fall.
Tanon.

Rhyddiriad, s. m. (dirtiad) Excess of iteration; a being troublesome to excess; a being very mischievous.

Rhyddiriaw, v. a. (diriaw) To iterate to excess.

Un rodd orwng ni ryddiriaw e ged.

One empty gift of treasure I would not greatly importune.
Gr. Owen.

Rhyddiriawl, a. (diriawl) Excessively iterative.

Rhyddisgyn, s. m. (disgyn) A bringing down fully.

Rhyddisgyni, v. a. (disgyn) To alight completely.

Rhyddisgyniad, s. m. (rhyddisgyn) A completely bringing down or alighting.

Rhyddisgynu, v. a. (rhyddisgyn) To bring a pt down completely; to alight fully.

Gwedi dawed ohono byd gerllaw glyn, oedd yn awr i'r Caint, ef gwelir yn y lle hoso i'r gwyr Rhuddiaid ag on pwynt ac eu lluestau, gwedi rhyddisgynia yn y glyn.

After he had come close to a valley, which was near to Caint, he saw in that place the army of the men of Rhuddiaid, their tents and their booths having been quite taken down in the valley.
Gr. ab Idris.

Rhyddodawl, a. (dodawl) Superinducing.

Rhyddodi, v. a. (dodi) To superinduce.

Rhyddodiad, s. m. (dodiad) Superinduction.

Rhyddoeth, a. (doeth) Wise overmuch.

Rhyddoethedd, s. m. (rhyddoeth) Over-wisdom.

Rhyddogn, s. m. (dogn) An over-quantity.

Rhyddognedd, s. m. (rhyddogn) Over-quantity.

Rhyddogni, v. a. (rhyddogn) To give an over-quantity; to satiate.

Ale o'm dyguedd ydd ym ddoed;
 Rhyddogniaf fawr-gedd am ei lawr-ged.

With glorious severity I have been portended; I desire a superfluity of exalted song for his great love.
Cynddelw, & Gwalter.

Rhyddogniad, s. m. (rhyddogn) A giving an over-quantity; a satiating.

Rhyddonlad, s. m. (rhyddawn) A gifting with superior talent or endowment.
Rhyddonlath, s. m. (rhyddawn) Superior gift.

Gwa na welwn—
 Wr un fath rhyddonlath rym,
 Na gwaindr a wnael Gwilym.

I know that we shall not see a person of like education with the energy of superior talent, nor such a leader as Gwilym would make.
Rhys Goch Bryri.

Rhyddoniaw, v. a. (rhyddawn) To gift in a superior manner.

Dirigddion ddynion, ni ryddonich, Tad,
 Dyrddi fydd ffrad, brad a'i bradych.

Mischiefous men, whom thou dost not endow with grace, Father, without a way to escape through faith, ruin will destroy them.
Casnodyn.

Rhyddorawl, a. (rhyddawr) Of extreme concern.
Rhyddori, v. a. (rhyddawr) To give extreme concern; to be extremely concerned.
Rhyddoriad, s. m. (rhyddawr) A rendering or becoming of great concern.
Rhyddrent, s. m. (rhydd—rhent) Gavel-kind. Sil.
Rhyddrud, a. (drud) Over-bold; dear to excess.
Rhyddwylls, s. m. (rhydd—gwylls) Free will.

Eia rhyddwylls nid ydyw yn cyfarwyddaw rhad Daw; ond rhad Daw yn cyfarwyddaw ein rhyddwylls.

Our free will doth not influence the grace of God; but the grace of God doth influence our free will.
Marchionus Crwydrad.

Rhyddwyn, v. a. (dwyn) To over-carry.
Rhyddyd, s. m. (rhydd) Liberty, or freedom.
Rhyddyddiad, s. m. (dyddiad) A making a compact.
Rhyddyddiaw, v. a. (dyddiaw) To make a compact.
Rhyddygiad, s. m. (dygiad) An over-carrying; superfetation, superconception.
Rhyddygn, a. (dygn) Being excessively severe.
Rhyddygnawl, a. (rhyddygn) Over-toiling.
Rhyddygnw, v. a. (rhyddygn) To toll to excess.
Rhyddygydd, v. n. (dygydd) To over-happen.
Rhyddygyddawl, a. (rhyddygydd) Previously happening or coming to pass.
Rhyddygyddiad, s. m. (rhyddygydd) A previously happening; superconsequence.
Rhyddygyd, v. a. (dygyd) To over-carry; to superferate; to take away overmuch.
Rhyddyhan, a. (dyhan) Previously slumbering.
Rhyddyhanaw, v. a. (rhyddyhan) To be taking a slumber previously.

Rhyddyhanaf dremad.

I will previously take a nap awhile. Talliesin.

Rhyddylawch, s. m. (dylawch) Excess of solace.
Rhyddylif, s. m. (dylif) A complete flowing away.
Rhyddylifaw, v. a. (rhyddylif) To be flowing or passing away completely.
Rhyddylloch, v. a. (rhyddylawch) To encourage extremely; to be cherishing greatly.

Rhyddylawch circhlad ar circhlon.

He will extremely cherish the petitioner with requests.
Cynuddaw.

Rhyddyllochiad, s. m. (rhyddylawch) A cherishing or protecting extremely.
Rhyddylad, s. m. (dylad) Extreme pursuit.
Rhyddylindaw, v. a. (rhyddylud) To follow, or to pursue excessively. Rhyddylud alltudion, foreigners he pursues extremely.
Rhyddyl, v. n. (dyl) To be fully incumbent.

Rhyddylis dithas gwleddioladon,
 Rhyddylis cyranif cadiaon;
 Rhyddylis rwyf, draig rhodolion, circhlad
 Rhyddylis ar rhodolion.

The festering ones ought to be extremely incited fully to cause the affliction of fields of battle to pass away; a chief of gloomy counsel, the resort of wanderers, petitioners who will fully repay their gifts.
Cynuddaw, i H. ab Owain.

Rhyddymunaw, v. a. (dymunaw) To desire earnestly, to wish extremely.

Rhyddymunawl, a. (dymunawl) Extremely desirous; extremely wishful.

Rhyddymuniad, s. m. (dymuniad) A desiring earnestly; a wishing extremely.

Rhyddyoddef, v. a. (dyoddef) To suffer greatly.

Rhyddyoddefiad, s. m. (rhyddyoddef) A suffering or bearing extremely.

Rhyddyrchawl, a. (dyrchawl) Apt to over-exalt.

Rhyddyrchiad, s. m. (dyrchiad) An over-exalting.

Rhyddyrchu, v. a. (dyrchu) To over-exalt.

Rhyddyrlid, v. a. (dyrlid) To flow extremely.

Rhyddyrlid fy nghedd yn nghelion o fedd
 Yn nghyntedd tairnos.

My muse will be greatly made to flow in caronals of mead in the hall of princes.
Cynuddaw, i H. ab Owain.

Rhyddysg, s. m. (dysg) Profound learning.

Rhyddysgawl, a. (rhyddysg) Being over-learned.

Rhyddysgiad, s. m. (rhyddysg) A learning greatly.

Rhyddysgu, v. a. (rhyddysg) To instruct profoundly; to become extremely learned.

Rhyddysgal ddygywcau felfddion.

I will profoundly instruct illustrious bards. Cynuddaw.

Rhyddysgwyl, v. a. (dysgwyl) To be expecting extremely, or earnestly looking for.

Rhyddysgwyliad, s. m. (rhyddysgwyl) A being expecting extremely.

Rhyddysgwyliaw, v. a. (rhyddysgwyl) To be expecting extremely.

Rhyddysgyrch, s. m. (dysgyrch) Excess of resorting.

Rhyddysgyrchawl, a. (rhyddysgyrch) Being resorting extremely.

Rhyddysgyrchiad, s. m. (rhyddysgyrch) A being resorting extremely.

Rhyddysgyrchu, v. a. (rhyddysgyrch) To be resorting extremely.

Rhalth anolath rhyddysgyrchuam;
 Yn agorphen on trethas athen a widdan.

The maxim of devastation they have resorted to extremely: in the conclusion of their impositions they experienced death.
Golyddon.

Rhyddweddiad, s. m. (dyweddiad) A previously saying, a fully declaring.

Rhyddwedyd, v. a. (dywedyd) To say previously; to declare fully.

Gwedi gwelod o Wl Cawar y llythyr hruw, yn ddiannod parotod el llyngas a orag, ac araws gwyl; wrth ei leuwl o'i weithred, yr byn a ryddweddiad Gwawllaw.

After Julius Caesar had seen that letter, immediately he prepared his fleet, and waited for wind, which should accomplish the act that he had before intimated to Carnwallion. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhyedd, s. m. (rhy) The state of being extreme.

Rhyeiddil, a. (eiddil) Extremely slender, or slim.

Rhyeiddilaw, v. a. (rhyeiddil) To render extremely slender; to become very slender.

Rhyeiddiliad, s. m. (rhyeiddil) A making extremely slender, a becoming very slim.

Rhyeiddilwch, s. m. (rhyeiddil) Great slenderness.

Rhyeistedd, s. m. (eistedd) A sitting before; presidency. v. a. To sit over; to preside.

Rhyeisteddawl, a. (rhyeistedd) Presiding.

Rhyeisteddiad, s. m. (rhyeistedd) A presiding.

Rhyeni, v. n. (geni) To be born previously.

Ar glawr elfydd
 Ei gystodlydd
 Ni ryaned.

On the face of the earth, his equal was not born before.
Talliesin.

Rhyerchi, v. a. (erchi) To beseech earnestly.

Rhyerchys a rhyerchi.

He has bought very dear who has importuned much. Adage.

Rhyerfyniad, s. m. (erfyniad) An entreating or imploring extremely.
Rhyerfyniaw, v. a. (erfyniaw) To entreat extremely, to implore earnestly.
Rhyerfyniawl, a. (erfyniawl) Extremely imploring, earnestly beseeching.
Rhyesgeulus, a. (esgeulus) Over-careless.
Rhyesgeulusaw, v. a. (rhyesgeulus) To act extremely careless; to be over-careless.
Rhyesgeulusdawl, s. m. (rhyesgeulus) Extreme carelessness, or negligence.
Rhyesgeulusiad, s. m. (rhyesgeulus) A neglecting overmuch; a being careless overmuch.
Rhyesgyn, s. m. (esgyn) An ascent before; an ascent over. v. a. To ascend before.
Rhyesgynawl, a. (rhyesgyn) Previously ascending.
Rhyesgyniad, s. m. (rhyesgyn) A previously ascending; an ascending overmuch.
Rhyesgynna, v. a. (rhyesgyn) To ascend beyond.
Rhyf, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhy) That enlarges or swells out; what is rife or abundant; a swell or puff out; arrogance, pride; also a berry; a currant.

Afrald i briddin afryn.
 Rh'of a Duw, faint f' rh'f dyn,
 Llunlaw balch llawh o bethod:
 Lle rhyfodd i faelodd fod!

It is needless for frail chy, between heaven and God, however great man's presumption may be, to form a full load of sin: what a place for pride to exist!
Gwyl. ab Iestyn, i benglog.

Rhyfab, s. m.—pl. rhyfeibion (rhy—mab) A boy under age, or an infant. Welsh Laws.
Rhyfaeddawl, a. (rhyfaedd) Being much dragged.
Rhyfaeddiad, s. m. (rhyfaedd) A dragging much.
Rhyfaeddu, v. a. (rhyfaedd) To drag about extremely; to buffet extremely.
Rhyfael, s. f. (mael) Excessive gain or profit.
Rhyfaeliad, s. m. (rhyfael) A gaining excessively.
Rhyfaeln, v. a. (rhyfael) To gain extremely.
Rhyfaeth, s. m. (maeth) Much nurture.
Rhyfaethawl, a. (rhyfaeth) Greatly nourishing.
Rhyfaethiad, s. m. (rhyfaeth) A nourishing greatly; a being over-nursed.
Rhyfaethn, v. a. (rhyfaeth) To over-nourish.
Rhyfagawl, a. (magawl) Much nursed.
Rhyfagiad, s. m. (magiad) An over-nursing.
Rhyfagl, s. f.—pl. rhyfaglau (magl) A snare.
Rhyfagiad, s. m. (rhyfagl) An ensnaring.
Rhyfaglu, v. a. (rhyfagl) To ensnare fully.
Rhyfagu, v. a. (magn) To rear up or to nourish extremely; to be over-nursed.

Twyllid rhyfegid rhyfagid.

Deceived has been who has been much nourished with presumption.
Adage.

Nid perthyn rhyfag rhyfagab i'm bryd.

Not proper the presumption that I have much nourished in my mind.
Cynddelw.

Rhyfagwyr, s. f. (magwyr) An advanced wall.

Glod wellwell cludaw allan
 Goed mawr yn fagodau man;
 O warthar rhai'n wrth yr hwyr
 Arfogion a'u rhyfagwyr.

With increasing fame carrying out large trees as tiny bundles; behind these at evening came armed men having their entrance.
H. ab D. ab I. ab Rhys.

Rhyfai, s. m.—pl. rhyfeiau (bai) Extreme fault.
Rhyfaidd, s. m. (baidd) An over-daring.
Rhyfail, s. m. (mail) Prepossession.
Rhyfaint, s. m. (maint) Excess of quantity.

Ffawg i ddolaw nid rhyfaint.

Prosperity to the idle is not an excess.

Adage.

Rhyfalu, v. a. (malu) To grind very small.

Rhyfamiad, s. m. (mamiad) A making an extreme impression, a making an over-effect.
Rhyfannu, v. a. (manna) To make an extreme mark or impression.

Ffawd i ddiffrid ni rhyfannu.

Prosperity to the mischievous will not take effect. Adage.

Rhyfarn, s. f. (barn) An over-opinion; prejudice.
Rhyfarnawl, a. (rhyfarn) Prejudging.
Rhyfarniad, s. m. (rhyfarn) A judging overmuch; a condemning extremely.
Rhyfarnu, v. a. (rhyfarn) To judge overmuch; to condemn extremely; to prejudge.
Rhyfas, a. (bas) Extremely of very shallow.
Rhyfasiad, s. m. (rhyfas) A rendering very shallow; a becoming extremely shallow.
Rhyfasn, v. a. (rhyfas) To render very shallow; to become very shallow.
Rhyfawl, a. (rhyf) Assuming or arrogant.
Rhyfawl, s. f. (mawl) Extreme praise; flattery.
Rhyfawr, s. m. (rhyf) A frequent stretching about or scrambling.
Rhyfawrth, s. m. (hawrth) The beginning of the storms of March.
Rhyfawrthin, s. f. (rhyfawrth—hin) The equinoctial weather or storms of March.

Mawrth a'i rhyfawrthin.

March with its stormy-forbidding weather. Job Oak.

Rhyfedd, a. (medd) Being over possession or scope; wonderful, marvellous, strange.

Isch rhyd rhyfedd pa gwyr.

With health at liberty it is wonderful what the creature does.

Rhyfeddawl, s. f.—pl. Rhyfeddodau (rhyfedd) What is surprising or extraordinary, a rarity; a wonder, a miracle.

Rhwedd pob rhyfeddawl.

Every wonder is changeable. Adage.

Rhyfeddawl, a. (rhyfedd) Wonderful, strange.
Rhyfeddeb, s. f. (rhyfedd) Exclamation, exclamation; a term in rhetoric.
Rhyfeddoldeb, s. m. (rhyfeddawl) Extraneousness; marvellousness; marvellousness.
Rhyfeddoli, v. a. (rhyfeddawl) To render marvellous; to become wonderful.
Rhyfeddolrwydd, s. m. (rhyfedd) Wonderfulness.
Rhyfeddu, v. a. (rhyfedd) To wonder, to marvel.
Rhyfeddwl, s. m.—pl. rhyfeddyllan (meddwl) An over-thought; a previous thought.
Rhyfeddyliad, s. m. (rhyfeddwl) Premeditation.
Rhyfeddyllaw, v. a. (rhyfeddwl) To premeditate.

Nid porthi penyd rhyfeddyllan.

To undergo penance I have not premeditated. Quelch.

Rhyfeiad, s. m. (rhyfai) An over-criminating.
Rhyfeiaw, v. a. (rhyfai) To over-criminate.
Rhyfeiddiad, s. m. (rhyfaidd) An over-daring.
Rhyfeiddiaw, v. a. (rhyfaidd) To over-dare.
Rhyfeiliad, s. m. (rhyfail) A prepossessing.
Rhyfeiliaw, v. a. (rhyfail) To prepossess.
Rhyfeilus, a. (rhyfail) Prepossessing.
Rhyfeins, a. (rhyfai) Over-faulty.
Rhyfel, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (bel) War, or warfare.

Golochwyd diawl amwg rhyfel.

The religion of the devil is to instigate war. Adage.

Yn mhob rhyfel mawr gwyd.

In every warfare there is anxiety. Adage.

Mae gobath gwyr o rhyfel, nid gobath mab o'r beth.

There is hope for a man from war, there is no hope for a man from the grave. Adage.

Rhyfyg, s. m. (rhyf) Presumption, arrogance.
Rhyfygald, s. m. (rhyfyg) Presumption.
Rhyfygawl, a. (rhyfyg) Presuming, insolent.
Rhyfygiad, s. m. (rhyfyg) A presuming.
Rhyfygu, v. a. (rhyfyg) To presume, to dare; to act arrogantly or insolently.
Rhyfygus, a. (rhyfyg) Presumptuous, arrogant.
Rhyfygusaw, v. a. (rhyfygus) To render presumptuous; to become presuming.
Rhyfygusedd, a. m. (rhyfyg) Presumptuousness.
Rhyfygusrwydd, s. m. (rhyfyg) Presumptuousness.
Rhyfygwr, s. m.—pl. rhyfygwyr (rhyfyg—gwr) One who presumes, an arrogant man.
Rhyfynych, a. (myfynych) Frequent overmuch.
Rhyfynychiad, s. m. (rhyfynych) A frequenting overmuch; an occurring too often.
Rhyfynychu, v. a. (rhyfynych) To render very frequent; to frequent overmuch.
Rhyfysg, s. m. (myfysg) Extreme mixture; confusion. a. Confused.
Rhyfysgiad, s. m. (rhyfysg) A confusion.
Rhyfysgu, v. a. (rhyfysg) To confuse.
Rhyffaeth, a. (ffaeth) Over ripe, too mellow.
Rhyffaethiad, s. m. (rhyffaeth) A rendering over-mellow; a becoming over-mellow.
Rhyffaethu, v. a. (rhyffaeth) To render over-mellow; to become over-mellow.
Rhyffe, s. m. (ffe) An extreme verge or border.
Rhyffwch, a. (ffwch) Extremely apt; very rife.
Rhyffo, s. m. (ffo) Extreme flight or escape.
Rhyffoad, s. m. (rhyffo) A fleeing overmuch.
Rhyffoi, v. a. (rhyffo) To flee overmuch.
Rhyffrau, s. m. (ffrau) An extreme flow; a respiration; a violent breathing.
Rhyffrenad, s. m. (rhyffrau) A respiring.
Rhyffreuaw, v. a. (rhyffrau) To respire greatly.

Rhyfedd—
 Nae gwddant yn ddian,
 Enaid pwy ei hadnau;
 Pwy bryd ei haelodau;
 Fy barth pan ddyneis;
 Fy wynt a rhyffren.

I am surprised that they know not, without a doubt, concerning the soul, which is her seat; her members of what form; through what part she causes to pass out; what air she dole respires.
Tatterin.

Rhyffrom, a. (ffrom) Extremely irritable or testy.
Rhyffromi, v. a. (rhyffrom) To taunt or to irritate overmuch; to become very testy.
Rhyffromiad, s. m. (rhyffrom) A taunting overmuch, a becoming very testy.
Rhyffrost, s. m. (ffrost) Extreme vaunting.
Rhyffrostiad, s. m. (rhyffrost) A vaunting or swaggering overmuch.
Rhyffrostiaw, v. a. (rhyffrost) To over-vaunt.
Rhyffrostiawl, a. (rhyffrost) Extremely vaunting.
Rhyg, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhy—yg) Rye.

Po bynaf fo y rhyg tebycaf fydd i'w dad.

By so much older the rye may be the more like it will be to its father.
Adage.

Coll mab Collfrewi a ddosol a gwenith a haidl gyntaf i Ynys Prydain, lle nid oedd cyn no bryn namyn cefnch a rhyg.

Coll the son of Collfrewi brought wheat and barley first into the Isle of Britain, where there were before then only oats and rye.
Triodd.

Rhyga, v. a. (rhyg) To gather or collect rye.
Rhygabl, s. m. (cabl) Extreme calumny.
Rhygablaid, a. (rhygabl) Very calumnious.
Rhygabled, s. m. (rhygabl) Extreme calumny.
Rhygablaid, s. m. (rhygabl) A calumniating extremely; a greatly scandalizing.
Rhygabu, v. a. (rhygabl) To shew extreme contempt; to calumniate extremely.

A glywch chwyl, ddoon, a ddywadir;
 A ddywed rhigau ni rhygablir!

Do you hear, strangers, what is said; what a lady says it will not be severely derided?
Cynulleid.

Rhygadw, v. a. (cadw) To keep extremely.
Rhygaffael, v. a. (caffael) To over-get; to obtain previously.

Pancerdd a ddyly bodair ar ugrat y gan bob gwaig a gwyn gan wr, or nis rhygaffo y gentil gyt.

A chief of song is entitled to twenty-four peace from every woman who sleeps with a husband, if he has not previously obtained it of her.
Welsh Law.

Rhygaffaliad, s. m. (rhygaffael) An over-obtaining; a previously getting.
Rhygais, s. m. (cais) An over-attempt or trial.
Rhygall, a. (call) Extremely discreet.

Ni bydd cyfoethawg rhygall.

The powerful will not be discreet overmuch.
Adage.

Rhygalledd, s. m. (rhygall) Excess of cunning.
Rhygallineb, s. m. (rhygall) Excess of cunning.
Rhygam, a. (cam) Extremely crooked.
Rlygamiad, s. m. (rhygam) A bending extremely, an over-bending.

Rhygamu, v. a. (rhygam) To bend extremely.
Rhygant, s. m.—pl. t. au (cant) An extreme or outmost circle.

Rhyganu, v. a. (cann) To sing before.

Cerdd newydd i'm rhybydd rhygall
 Cain awen, gan awel bylgall.

A new song to my chieftain the exalted name has before me, with the gale of the morning.
Cynulleid.

Rhygardd, s. m. (cardd) A violent drive or thrust.
Rhygarddiad, s. m. (rhygardd) A chasing or driving overmuch; a violently afflicting.
Rhygarddu, v. a. (rhygardd) To over-impel.

Rhygarddys fy ais;
 Fy nghalon, nend doreis!

My bosom has been severely reached; my heart, is it not broken?
Llywarch Hen.

Rhygariad, s. m. (cariad) Extreme fondness.
Rhygaru, v. a. (caru) To love extremely.

Ti a doddys
 A rygydd
 O bob carthar.

Thou wouldst protect such as thou shouldst surely love from every bondage.
Taliesin.

Rhygas, s. m. (cas) Extreme hate. a. Very hateful.

Rhygas rhywllir.

That is extremely hated will be soon too soon.
Adage.

A glywriet a grant Rhydderch,
 Trydydd bael serchawg serch;
 Gwawd rhygas gwedi Rhydderch!

Hast thou heard how Rhydderch sang, the third grandson of cordial affection; common is extreme hate after extreme love?
Engl. s. Cyman.

Rhygasad, s. m. (rhygasan) An over-hating.
Rhygasau, v. a. (rhygas) To hate extremely.
Rhygastelliad, s. m. (castelliad) A completely spreading round.

Rhygastellu, v. a. (castella) To raise a complete fence round about.

Rhygawdd, s. m. (cawdd) An extreme affront.
Rhygawg, a. (rhyg) Abounding with rye.

Rhygawl, a. (rhyg) Of the quality of rye.

Rhyged, s. f. (ced) Excess of treasure. a. Very bountiful; lavish; prodigal.
Rhygeisiad, s. m. (rhygeis) An over-attempting.
Rhygeisiaw, v. a. (rhygeis) To over-attempt.
Rhygel, s. m. (cel) A complete concealment.
Rhygeilad, s. m. (rhygel) A fully concealing.
Rhygelu, v. a. (rhygel) To conceal fully.

Ni rygeilir dryglam.

Misfortune will not be fully concealed.
Adage.

Rhygen, s. f. dim. (rhyg) A grain of rye.

Rhyethlig, a. (cethlig) Excelling in song.
Rhyethlydd, s. m. (cethlydd) A master in song.

Unle rhyethlydd, rhyethlig, Rhyethlydd; rhyethlig i mudiog.

The station of the complete songster, excellent of song, I ardently desire; I will greatly sing to a sovereign. Tallies.

Rhygil, s. m. (cil) A complete recession.
Rhygliad, s. m. (rhygil) A fully receding.
Rhygillaw, v. a. (rhygil) To recede fully.
Rhygiplaw, v. a. (ciplaw) To snatch violently.
Rhygloff, a. (cloff) Extremely lame or halting.
Rhygloffedd, s. m. (rhygloff) Extreme lameness.
Rhygloffi, v. a. (rhygloff) To lame extremely.
Rhygloffiad, s. m. (rhygloff) A rendering very lame; a becoming extremely lame.
Rhyglud, s. m. (clud) An over-carriage.
Rhygludaw, v. a. (rhyglud) To over-carry.
Rhygludiad, s. m. (rhyglud) An over-carrying.
Rhygydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhgw) Desert, merit

*Mya walson, rhygyddion clod;
 Mya no neb mya ei nabod.*

He will have attendants, from-deserving ones; more than any body he will cause himself to be known. Idm. Trew, i Syr E. Herbert.

Rhygyddaid, a. (rhygydd) Of a meritorious or a deserving tendency.
Rhygyddawd, s. m. (rhygydd) A meriting.
Rhygyddawl, a. (rhygydd) Meritorious.
Rhygyddedig, a. (rhygydd) Merited, deserved.
Rhygyddedigath, s. m. (rhygyddedig) Meritoriousness.

Rhygyddiad, s. m. (rhygydd) A meriting.
Rhygyddiannawl, a. (rhygyddiant) Meritorious.
Rhygyddianna, v. a. (rhygyddiant) To render meritorious; to become deserving.
Rhygyddiannus, a. (rhygyddiant) Meritorious.
Rhygyddiannusaw, v. a. (rhygyddiannus) To render meritorious; to become deserving.
Rhygyddiant, s. m.—pl. rhygyddiannau (rhygydd) Merit, desert, worth, reward, claim.

Rhygyddu, v. n. (rhygydd) To deserve, to merit

*Calves Arthur ar hawb i on ho, i dala on gwasaaneth iddynt;
 a byr fdi rhygyddiant.*

Arthur called every body to one place, to reward them for their service, and that according as they might deserve. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhyglyw, s. m. (clyw) A full hearing; a previous hearing.

Rhyglywed, v. a. (rhaglyw) A fully hearing; a previously hearing.

Rhygnawg, a. (rhwgn) Having friction; having scores or hacks.

Rhygnawl, a. (rhgn) Rubbing; scoring.

Rhygnabren, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhgn—pren) A stick for scoring upon, a tally.

Rhygnedig, a. (rhwgn) Rubbed, chafed; scored.

Rhygnedd, s. m. (rhwgn) A state of friction; the state of being scored or hacked.

Rhygnell, s. f. (rhwgn) A whipsaw.

Rhygnen, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhwgn) A file.

Rhygniad, s. m. (rhwgn) A rubbing, a chafing; a scoring; a hacking.

Rhygnogrydd, s. m. (rhygnawg) The state of being rubbed, chafed, or scored.

Rhygnu, v. a. (rhwgn) To rub, to chafe; to score; to hack.

*Rhag Telf, yn lori twr main,
 Rhygnawd rhy naw cwt celain.*

Before Telf, demolishing a stone tower, they scored the number of one hundred corpses. H. ab Owain.

Rhygnwr, s. m.—pl. rhygnwyr (rhwgn—gwr) One who rubs; a scorer.

Rhygnawd, a. (rhygnawd) Very insulting.

Rhygodded, s. f. (rhygawdd) Extreme insult.
Rhygoddedig, a. (rhygodded) Extremely thwarted.
Rhygoddi, v. a. (rhygawdd) To vex extremely.

*A rhygoddy glaw, gogolled rhygoddiaw;
 Gwawd yw o'i ddygnaw ddeffnydd codded.*

Who greatly insults the brave, let him beware; from his being irritated generally proceeds a cause of trouble. U. Cyfelliawg.

Rhygoddiad, s. m. (rhygawdd) A thwarting extremely or overmuch.

Rhygoddiant, s. m. (rhygawdd) Extreme vexation; extreme insult.

Rhygoddwr, s. m.—pl. rhygoddwyr (rhygawdd—gwr) One who vexes extremely.

Rhygoel, s. f.—pl. t. ion (coel) Superstition.

Rhygoeidd, s. m. (rhygoel) Superstitiousness.

Rhygoeliad, s. m. (rhygoel) A believing overmuch.

Rhygoellaw, v. a. (rhygoel) To believe overmuch.

Rhygoelus, a. (rhygoel) Being superstitious.

Rhygoli, s. f. (coll) Extreme loss. a. Over apt to lose.

*Lloegr aeth o'r llaw rhygol;
 I'r llaw gref yw aeth Lloegr oll.*

England is gone from the greatly losing hand; to the strong hand is all England gone. D. Lloyd, i Henri VI.

Rhygolled, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhygoli) Extreme loss.

Rhygolledig, a. (rhygolled) Being totally lost.

Rhygolledu, v. a. (rhygolled) To cause extreme loss; to damage extremely.

Rhygoli, v. a. (rhy—goli) To lose overmuch.

*Ni rhygolwyf Daw o ddewydd byd;
 Ni rhygolw naef ni fo yafyd.*

May I not totally lose God through the perty of the world: he has not completely lost heaven who is not mad. Ll. P. March.

Rhygrëad, s. m. (crëad) A perfectly creating.

Rhygred, s. f. (cred) Over-belief; credulity.

Rhygrediad, s. m. (rhygred) An over-believing.

Rhygredu, v. n. (rhygred) To be credulous.

Rhygren, v. a. (cren) To create perfectly.

Ac yn oren dyn Daw rhygreas.

And the best man God did perfectly create him. Gwelchmai.

Rhygrin, a. (crin) Being extremely brittle.

Rhygrinaw, v. n. (rhygrin) To become extremely dry, parched, or brittle.

Rhygriniad, s. m. (rhygrin) An over-drying.

Rhygronawl, a. (cronawl) Tending to collect overmuch; very accumulating.

Rhygroni, v. a. (croni) To collect overmuch.

Rhygroniad, s. m. (croniad) An over-collecting.

Rhygu, s. m. (cu) Over-fondness. a. Over-fond.

Rhygu pob rhyfychawd.

Over-precious every thing very small. Adage.

Ni fo rygu na bai ryguo.

There has been no over-fondness but there would be excess of hate. Adage.

Rhygudd, s. f. (cudd) A full hiding. a. Being completely concealed.

Rhyguddiad, s. m. (rhygudd) A fully hiding.

Rhyguddiaw, v. a. (rhygudd) To hide fully.

*Och mor drwm yw ych marw draw;
 Och roi gwedd i'ch rhyguddiaw!*

Alas! how mad that you should ponder die: to put a covering so completely to hide you how direful! Rhye Fynglydd.

Rhygwellt, s. m. (rhyg—gwellt) Rye-grass.

Rhygwag, s. m. (cwag) Extreme sleep.

Rhygwydd, s. m. (cwydd) An extreme fall.

Rhygwyddaw, v. n. (rhygwydd) To fall extremely.

Rhygwyddawl, a. (rhygwydd) Tending to fall extremely; being very apt to tumble.

Rhygwyddiad, s. m. (rhygwydd) An over-falling.

Rhygwyn, s. f. (cwyn) Extreme complaint.

Rhygwynaw, v. a. (rhygwyn) To complain extremely; to be very querulous.

Rhygyngawl unwyt amodwyl gwl
(Rhygyngawl) Unwyt amodwyl gwl.

Ministry will extremely deplore the hard-to-be-lost prison of all the princes of Wales.
Dr. ab Ithorw. Rhw.

Rhygyngawl, a. (rhygyngawl) Very querulous.
Rhygyngiad, s. m. (rhygyngiad) A complaining extremely, a being very querulous.
Rhygyngydd, s. m. (cybydd) A complete miser.

*Nid gwel rhyael, anghel fych,
 Yn rhod ei gwyl, na rhygyngydd.*

Not better the over-liberal than the greatest miser, disadvantage will ensue in giving him all.
Dr. ab Ithorw.

Rhygyngyddawl, a. (rhygyngydd) Over-miserly.
Rhygyngydd-dawd, s. m. (rhygyngydd) Extreme niggardliness or stinginess.
Rhygyngydd-dra, s. m. (rhygyngydd) Extreme miserliness; over-stinginess.
Rhygyngyddu, v. a. (rhygyngydd) To act very niggardly, to be over miserly or stingy.
Rhygyngfarch, s. m. (cyfarch) A presentment.
Rhygyngfarchawl, a. (rhygyngfarch) Presenting.
Rhygyngfarchiad, s. m. (rhygyngfarch) A presentment.
Rhygyngfarcha, s. a. (rhygyngfarch) To present.
Rhygyngfariad, s. m. (cyfariad) A fully meeting.
Rhygyngfarsu, v. a. (cyfarsu) To meet fully.

Anfon cenad a wasai at ei farch, i fynegi iddi y rhyw anghyffwrdd a rhyngfarch ei ei.

He sent a messenger to his daughter, to inform her of the peculiar infirmities that had completely met with him.
Dr. ab Ithorw.

Rhygylch, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (cylch) A periphery.
*Dag mlynnedd, cymyredd cylch,
 Ar hynghir yw ei rhygylch.*

*Three times ten years, that circle of renewals
 Will solemn Nature's revolution crown.*
Ed. Richard, i. Boduan.

Rhygylch, s. m. (rhygylch) A going round an orbit; a performing a revolution.
Rhygylch, v. a. (rhygylch) To go round an orbit.
Rhygynnal, v. a. (cynnal) To support fully.
Rhygynnal, s. m. (rhygynnal) A fully supporting, maintaining, or upholding.
Rhygynnar, v. a. (cynnar) Over-early.
Rhygynnaredd, s. m. (rhygynnar) Over-earliness.
Rhygynnarwch, s. m. (rhygynnar) Prematureness.
Rhygynnl, s. (cynnl) Over-exact; over-sparing.
Rhygynnlaw, v. a. (rhygynnl) To act too exactly; to be over-sparing.
Rhygynalledd, s. m. (rhygynnl) Over-exactness.
Rhygynnulliad, s. m. (rhygynnl) A being over-exact; a being over-sparing.
Rhygynnullwch, s. m. (rhygynnl) Over-exactness.
Rhygynnull, v. a. (cynnull) To heap together overmuch, to over-collect.
Rhygynnullaw, v. a. (rhygynnull) To gather together overmuch, to over-collect.

*Beich rhygynnulliad
 O bechardd anyfud;
 Rhygynnullaw
 O gymhoir.*

A load I have over-heaped of incongruities etc; I have been trembling extremely from the distress of it.
Melior.

Rhygynnulliad, s. m. (rhygynnull) A heaping or collecting together overmuch.
Rhygynnyg, v. a. (cynnyg) To over-offer.
Rhygynnygiad, s. m. (rhygynnyg) A making an extreme offer.

Rhygyng, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwg—yng) An ambling pace.
Rhygyngawl, s. m. (rhygyng) An ambling.
Rhygyngawg, a. (rhygyng) Of ambling pace.
Rhygyngedd, s. m. (rhygyng) An ambling pace.
Rhygyngan, s. f. (rhygyng) A rattle in the throat.
Rhygyngfarch, s. m.—pl. rhygyngfarch (rhygyng—march) An ambling horse.

Rhygyngan, s. f. (cyngan) Superior accordance.
Rhygyngan, s. m. (rhygyngan) An agreeing excellently.
Rhygyngan, v. n. (rhygyngan) To accord excellently.

*Cred a ched a cherd rhygyngan fth hwl.
 Ffith pad tregorw ap song de hgti extremely in thy company.*

Rhygyngiad, s. m. (rhygyng) An ambling.
Rhygyngu, v. a. (rhygyng) To amble, to go with an ambling pace; to stalk.
Rhygyngydd, s. m. (rhygyng) An ambler.
Rhygyrch, s. m. (cyrch) An over-resort.
Rhygyrchawl, a. (rhygyrch) Over-resorting.
Rhygyrchiad, s. m. (rhygyrch) An over-resort.
Rhygyrchu, v. a. (rhygyrch) To over-resort.

Rhygyrchawl, rhygyrchawl yn aghladyth Rhygyrchawl aghladyth.

They would greatly moderate, they would greatly moderate the sword-conflict of the citizens (that) of the nation but a tumult.

Rhygyrchaw, s. m.—pl. rhygyrchaw (rhygyrchaw) One who resorts overmuch.

Rhygyrhaedd, v. a. (cyrhaedd) To reach over.
Rhygyrhaeddawl, a. (rhygyrhaedd) Tending to reach over; an over-extending.

Rhygyrhaeddiad, s. m. (rhygyrhaedd) A reaching or extending over.

Rhygyrhaeddyd, v. a. (rhygyrhaedd) To reach over, to reach beyond.

Rhygyngawl, a. (rhygyng) Over sleeping.

Rhygyngiad, s. m. (rhygyng) An over-sleeping.
Rhygyng, v. a. (rhygyng) To sleep overmuch.

Rhygyngwr, s. m.—pl. rhygyngwyr (rhygyngwr) One who over-sleeps.

Rhygyngw, s. m. (cystlwn) Much intercourse.
Rhygyngawl, a. (rhygyngw) Of much intercourse or connection.

Rhygyngwedd, s. m. (rhygyngw) A state of much intercourse or connection.

*Yn rhygyngwedd o hwnnau wlad, Rhygyngwedd Lymnawg,
 A fidd wr chwaraeg
 I rhygyngwedd.*

In the close alliance of the sovereign's service, Lymnawg first appears, who will be an ambitious man, to make his name.

Rhygyngiad, s. m. (rhygyngw) A carrying a much intercourse; a forming close alliance.

Rhygyngiwn, v. a. (rhygyngw) To have much intercourse; to form close alliance.

Rhygyngiwnr, s. m.—pl. rhygyngiwnr (rhygyngiwn—gwr) One of much intercourse.

Rhygywir, a. (cywir) Extremely exact.

Rhygywiraw, v. a. (rhygywir) To make very exact; to be over exact or accurate.

Rhygywiredd, s. m. (rhygywir) Extreme exactness.

Rhyhael, a. (hael) Liberal overmuch.

Rhyhaeddd, s. m. (rhyhael) Over liberality.

Rhyhawd, s. m. (hawd) An extreme shout up.

Rhyher, s. f. (hër) Excess of defiance.

Dychymydd dychyd byd a rhyher.

The defections of the world will last with our own eyes.

Rhyheriad, s. m. (rhyher) A brandishing about extremely; a defying greatly.

Rhyheriaw, v. a. (rhyher) To brandish extremely.

Rhyherw, s. f. (herw) Excess of saving.

Rhyherwa, v. a. (rhyherw) To save about extremely; to stray overmuch.

Rhyhiraeth, s. m. (hiraeth) Extreme longing.

Rhyhiraethawl, a. (rhyhiraeth) Over-longing.

Rhyhiraethiad, s. m. (rhyhiraeth) A longing or wishing extremely.

Rhyhiraethu, v. a. (rhyhiraeth) To long or to wish extremely.

Endeunis i caws a'm rhyhiraeth er gwyl.

I have listened to a nightingale that has caused me extreme longing since I saw her. Gwalekhamoi.

Rhyhiraethus, a. (rhyhiraeth) Apt to long much.

Rhyhodi, v. a. (rhyawd) To soar greatly.

Rhyhodig, a. (rhyhawd) Extremely aspiring.

Doddyr! Dyganwy i amryson;
Ehryddig fy nghyrdyd yn awydda dda,
A haelgwyn, (gwyl ei arhwyddion,
Eiddo pendig rhyhodigion.

I came to Dyganwy to court; I liberated my lord to the presence of strangers, and of haelgwyn, the greatest in arguments: Eiddo the sovereign of greatly aspiring ones. Taliesin, i feib Llgr.

Rhyhoddiaid, s. m. (hoddiaid) Over-facilitating.

Rhyhodiaw, v. a. (hoddiaid) To over-facilitate.

Rhyhoff, a. (hoff) Extremely fond, over-fond.

Rhyhoffawl, a. (rhyhoff) Apt to be over-fond.

Rhyhoffi, v. a. (rhyhoff) To be over-fond.

Rhyhoffiad, s. m. (rhyhoff) An over-loving.

Rhyhwy, a. (hwyr) Too late; high time; far-extending. Mae yn rhyhwyr i'w beidiau, it is high time for us to leave off.

Hdyr ydd a clod, rodd rhyhwy.
Hdyr ydd aeth dywyl hwy i'w dyf.

Fame will swiftly fly the for extending deeds, which the course of sea and stars have traced. Ll. F. Math.

Rhyhwyraad, s. m. (rhylawyr) A rendering over-late; a growing over-late.

Rhyhwyrau, v. (rhylawyr) To become over-late.

Rhyhwyredd, s. m. (rhylawyr) An over-lateness.

Rhyhy, a. (hy) Over-bold, over-forward.

Rhyhyd, a. (hyd) Extremely long, over-long.

Cureu fab dyg—
Cureu gwyl yn rhyhyd yn rhyw!

Woe to the son of man from loving vice for too long to excess. Cyndddu.

Rhyhyder, s. m. (hyder) Excess of confidence.

Rhyhyderiad, s. m. (rhyhyder) A confiding much.

Rhyhyderu, v. a. (rhyhyder) To confide much.

Rhyhyderus, a. (rhyhyder) Over-confiding.

Rhyliad, v. a. (liad) To cut off completely.

Rhyliaddiad, s. m. (rhyliad) A fully cutting off.

Rhylias, a. (lias) Trailing or falling very low.

Rhyliasur, a. m. (liasur) Over-labouring.

Rhyliasuriaw, v. a. (rhyliasur) To labour much.

Rhyliasuriawl, a. (rhyliasur) Very labourous.

Rhyliam, s. m.—pl. t. au (liam) An over-step.

Rhyliamawl, a. (rhyliam) Over-stepping.

Rhyliamiad, s. m. (rhyliam) An over-stepping.

Rhyliamu, v. a. (rhyliam) To over-step.

Rhyliaw, s. m. (liaw) An over-fulness.

Rhyliar, a. (liar) Very mild or soothing.

Rhyliarwch, s. m. (rhyliar) Extreme mildness.

Rhyliarychiad, s. m. (rhyliarwch) A much assuaging.

Rhyliarychu, v. a. (rhyliarwch) To assuage greatly.

Rhylas, a. (glas) Very blue; very livid. 'Rhylas-wedd fy nghran!' Of very pale hue my brow!

Rhylasiaid, s. m. (rhylas) A making very blue.

Rhylassu, v. a. (rhylas) To become very blue.

Rhyliath, a. (liath) Extremely glittering.

Rhyliathraidd, a. (rhyliath) Extremely glittering.

Rhyliathrawl, a. (rhyliath) Very glittering.

Rhyliathredd, s. m. (rhyliath) Extreme glister.

Rhyliathriad, s. m. (rhyliath) A making very glittering, a polishing extremely.

Rhyliathru, v. a. (rhyliath) To make very glittering, to polish extremely; to glitter much.

Rhyliawn, a. (liawn) Redundant, over-full.

Rhyliawnder, s. m. (rhyliawn) A redundancy.

VOL. II.

Rhyliawnedd, s. m. (rhyliawn) A redundancy.

Rhyliawni, v. (rhyliawn) To make redundant.

Rhyli, s. m. (lle) An over-place; superiority.

Ystryw chwervw, nid chwervlan i rhyli.

A bitter trick, not diversions for superiority. Gwalekhamoi.

Rhyliad, s. m. (rhyli) An over-placing; a giving a superior place.

Prif gyfarach gelfydd pwr rhyliad.

An useful first greeting will ensure an over-placing. Taliesin.

Rhyliawl, a. (rhyli) Tending to over-place.

Rhyliel, s. m. (liel) An extreme cry.

Rhylielain, v. a. (rhyliel) To cry out much.

Rhylieni, v. a. (rhyliaw) To over-charge, to fill over; to abound to excess.

Rhyliesu, v. a. (rhy—liesu) To relax.

Rhyliid, s. m. (liid) Extreme rage or anger.

Rhyliidiad, s. m. (rhyliid) A greatly irritating.

Rhyliidiaw, v. a. (rhyliid) To irritate greatly.

Rhyliithr, s. m. (liithr) That is slippery overmuch; a diarrhoea. a. Too slippery.

Rhyliithraw, v. a. (rhyliithr) To slip extremely.

Rhyliithrawl, a. (rhyliithr) Very slippery.

Rhyliithredd, s. m. (rhyliithr) Extreme slipperiness.

Rhyliithriad, s. m. (rhyliithr) A slipping extremely.

Rhyliw, s. m.—pl. t. ian (liw) A high colour.

Rhyliwiad, s. m. (rhyliw) A colouring highly.

Rhyliwiaw, v. a. (rhyliw) To colour highly.

Rhyliwiawg, a. (rhyliw) Of high colour.

Rhyliof, v. a. (liof) To bestow greatly.

O'r dwn rhyliofast rhy liawr wyf.

From the dullest I am. And amply conferred too loquacious am I. Meilyr ab Gwalekhamoi.

Rhyliofiad, s. m. (liofiad) A greatly bestowing.

Rhylog, s. m.—pl. t. au (liog) Over-hire.

Rhylogawl, a. (rhylog) Relating to over-hire.

Rhylogi, v. a. (rhylog) To over-hire; to deal seriously.

Rhylogiad, s. m. (rhylog) An over-hiring.

Rhylog, s. m. (liog) An extreme burning.

Rhylogedd, s. m. (rhylog) Extreme burning.

Rhylogi, v. a. (rhylog) To burn extremely.

Rhylogiad, s. m. (rhylog) Over-burning.

Rhyliudd, s. m. (liudd) Extreme hinderance.

Rhyliuddiad, s. m. (rhyliudd) A hindering much.

Rhyliuddiaw, v. a. (rhyliudd) To hinder greatly.

Rhyliun, s. m. (liun) A complete form; a preform.

Rhyliuniad, s. m. (rhyliun) A fully forming.

Rhyliuniath, s. m. (rhyliun) Complete formation.

Rhyliuniathawl, a. (rhyliuniath) Tending to complete formation.

Rhyliuniathiad, s. m. (rhyliuniath) Preformation.

Rhyliuniathu, v. a. (rhyliuniath) To form completely; to preform.

O'm lath y rhyliuniathir.

Air, nid gwel mwyd y gwyl.

From my language will be completely formed a report of thee, the truth will be no disguise. D. ab Gwilym, i Ifor.

Rhyliuniaw, v. a. (rhyliun) To form fully.

Rhyliwgr, s. m. (liwgr) Extreme damage or hurt.

Rhyliwnc, s. m. (liwnc) An extreme swallow.

Rhyliwyth, s. m. (liwyth) An over-load.

Rhyliwythaw, v. a. (rhyliwyth) To over-load.

Rhyliwythawg, a. (rhyliwyth) Over-loaded.

Rhyliwythiad, s. m. (rhyliwyth) Over-loading.

Rhyli, a. (ly) Extremely apt to move.

Yn gerdd gyfodod rod rhyli.

Being an amicable song of the most aptly moving circle.

Prwydd Dyddan.

Rhyliygrawl, a. (rhyliwgr) Tending to damage extremely; extremely defiling.

3 Q

Oedd chynghwylfwr can y teyrnasoedd pell i wrtho, hwnant cled ei lly, a rhyddes ei deula.

Barry filed the hibernians far from him, for the fame of his court and the pomp of his family. Gr. ab Arthur.

- Rhyoddef, v. a. (goddef) To bear extremely.
 Rhyoddefawl, a. (rhyoddef) Over-patient.
 Rhyoddefiad, s. m. (rhyoddef) A bearing much.
 Rhyoddefu, v. a. (rhyoddef) To bear extremely.
 Rhyoed, s. m. (oed) Over-age, extreme age.
 Rhyoedran, s. m. (rhyoed) Extreme age.
 Rhyoedranus, a. (rhyoedran) Superannuated.
 Rhyofal, s. m. (gofal) Extreme care.
 Rhyofalu, v. a. (rhyofal) To act very cautiously; to be over-anxious.
 Rhyofalus, s. m. (rhyofal) Over-careful.
 Rhyofu, a. (ofu) Extreme terror or fear.
 Rhyofnawg, a. (rhyofu) Over-fearful.
 Rhyofni, v. a. (rhyofu) To fear extremely.
 Rhyofniad, s. m. (rhyofu) A fearing extremely.
 Rhyogwydd, s. m. (gogwydd) An over-bias.
 Rhyogwyddaw, v. a. (rhyogwydd) To over-bias.
 Rhyogwyddawl, a. (rhyogwydd) Over-inclining.
 Rhyogwyddiad, s. m. (rhyogwydd) An inclining extremely; an over-biasing.
 Rhyorchwyl, s. f.—pl. t. ion (gorchwyl) An over-performance, supererogation.
 Rhyorchwylaw, v. (rhyorchwyl) To supererogate.
 Rhyorchwyliad, s. m. (gorchwyl) Supererogation.
 Rhyorchwylus, a. (rhyorchwyl) Supererogatory.
 Rhyoresgyn, s. m. (goresgyn) A full subjection.
 Rhyoresgynawl, a. (rhyoresgyn) Fully subduing.
 Rhyoresgyniad, s. m. (rhyoresgyn) A fully subduing; a completely overcoming.
 Rhyoresgynnu, v. (rhyoresgyn) To subdue fully.
 Rhyorfod, v. a. (gorfod) To overcome fully; to be fully necessitated.

Owedi gwelodd o Wl Caisar rhyorfod arno, ynghyd ag ychydig o'i nerf ydd al ar ddo yn ei longau, a chymeryd diogelwch y mor yn amddiffyn iddo.

After Julius Caesar had perceived that he was completely overcome, with a small part of his army he retreated to his ships, and took the security of the sea for his protection. Gr. ab Arthur.

- thyorfodawg, a. (rhyorfod) Being completely overcome; under full subjection.
 thyorfodawl, a. (rhyorfod) Tending to overcome completely.
 thyorfodiad, s. m. (rhyorfod) A fully overcoming, a making a complete conquest.
 thyorugaw, v. a. (gorugaw) To perform, to make completely, to accomplish fully.

Rhygorug Duw dda—
 Rhygorug fy awen,
 I feli fy rben:
 Mydd yf Taliesin,
 Arneith lli' deuin.

God originally formed good; he originally formed my muse, to praise my sovereign: I am Taliesin with flowing speech of prophecy. Taliesin.

- thyorugawl, a. (gorugawl) Tending to do fully.
 hyorugiad, s. m. (gorugiad) A doing fully.
 thyosgoew, a. (gosgoew) Having a very contrary direction or bearing.
 hyran, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhan) Extreme part.
 hyranawl, a. (rhyran) Tending to over-divide.
 hyraniad, s. m. (rhyran) An over-dividing.
 hyrann, v. a. (rhyran) To over-divide.
 hyrawd, s. f. (rhawd) An extreme course.
 hyred, s. f. (rhed) An extreme running.

Ac yn lli' foddys, a fedd gwared an gau,
 A ddwyn innu yn ymddried;
 Yn e'f arglwydd nef a nerthad,
 I ddiofryd gwyd gwedi rhyred.

And to us there is a physician, who has the power to put away our falsity, and let us then place our dependence; for it is the Lord of heaven who is endued with power, to put aside vice after an excessive course. Gwalchmai.

- Rhyredawl, a. (rhyred) Tending to run beyond.
 Rhyreddeg, v. a. (rhyred) To run extremely.
 Rhyrediad, s. m. (rhyred) A running extremely.
 Rhyrif, s. m. (rhif) An over-number.
 Rhyrifaw, v. a. (rhyrif) To over-number.
 Rhyrifawl, a. (rhyrif) Supernumerary.
 Rhyrifiad, s. m. (rhyrif) An over-numbering.
 Rhyrith, s. m. (rhith) A prior appearance.
 Rhyrithiad, s. m. (rhyrith) A previously appearing; an over-appearing.
 Rhyrithiaw, v. a. (rhyrith) To appear before.
 Rhyrithiawl, a. (rhyrith) Previously appearing.
 Rhyrodiad, s. m. (rhyrawd) A rambling overmuch.
 Rhyrodiaw, v. a. (rhyrawd) To ramble overmuch.
 Rhyrodiawl, a. (rhyrawd) Apt to stroll much.
 Rhyrodd, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhodd) An over-gift.
 Rhyroddawl, a. (rhyrodd) Over-giving.
 Rhyroddi, v. a. (rhyrodd) To give overmuch.
 Rhyroddiad, s. m. (rhyrodd) An over-giving.
 Rhyrwym, s. m. (rhwym) Extreme stricture.
 Rhyrwymaw, v. a. (rhyrwym) To bind extremely.
 Rhyrwymawl, a. (rhyrwym) Over-binding.
 Rhyrwyriad, s. m. (rhyrwym) An over-binding.
 Rhyrys, s. m. (rhyr) Extreme strait or difficulty.

Nia deulbi rhyr.

There would not come a great difficulty. Taliesin.

- Rhyrsiaw, v. a. (rhyrys) To hesitate extremely.
 Rhyrsiawl, a. (rhyrys) Extremely hesitating.
 Rhys, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhy—ys) Extreme arduity; extreme tendency; aptitude to set off, begin, pervade, or to overrun; a rushing; a strait; a trial, a difficulty.

Dyweri Myrddin y dawwl
 Y rhys a'r adwydd ar rai.

Myrddin said that there would come a certain difficulty and misfortune upon some. Iwan Iwan.

- Rhys, pronem. prep. (rhy—ys) That signally; of that particularly.

Rhys gwolychwylfwr rhyf rhyddedau,
 Can digoon Duw o'i ddefnyddiau.

That above all may I adore the Lord of wonders, since God has formed him from his materials. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

- Rhysaeth, s. m. (rhys) The act of putting in a moving tendency; a putting in a course; a running a course; a straitening.
 Rhysail, s. f.—pl. rhyselliau (sail) An extreme or first foundation.
 Rhysawl, a. (rhys) Rushing; over-running.
 Rhyse, s. m. (se) Extreme fixedness; the state of being quite fixed or determined.

Gnawd gwedi rhyserch ryse.

Frequently after extreme fondness comes excess of obstinacy. Gwalchmai.

- Rhysedd, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhws) Superfluity, excess, an over-abundance.

Gwell goled no rhysedd.

Better are means than superfluity. Adage.

- Rhysedd, s. m. (rhys) A rush, or violent course.

Pan amug Tegedigl, teg rhysedd
 Rhysed cad Cadellig fonedd
 Oedd tramawr tramewr yn dybedd.

When he defeated Tegedigl, splendid the career on the course of battle of Cadell's progeny, innumerable thence to death consigning falling to silence. Cynadeler m. G. Gwynedd.

- Rhysedda, v. a. (rhysedd) To rush on; to rush into difficulty or trial.

Gwell dyhudd no rhysedda.

Better is forbearance than to rush into contest. Adage.

Gwell rhydd no rhysedda.

Better what is easy than to encounter difficulties. Ll. Ior.

- Rhyseddawg, a. (rhysedd) Having superfluity.

Rhylygredd, s. m. (rhylygr) The state of being extremely damaged; extreme defilement.
Rhylygriad, s. m. (rhylygr) A damaging extremely; a defiling extremely.
Rhylygru, v. a. (rhylygr) To damage extremely; to pollute extremely.
Rhylyncawl, a. (rhylywnc) Fully swallowing.
Rhylynciad, s. m. (rhylywnc) A fully swallowing.
Rhylyncu, v. a. (rhylywnc) To swallow fully.
Rhyll, s. m. (rhy—yll) A rift, cleft, or parting.
Rhym, s. m. (rhy—ym) That stretches round.
Rhym, pronom. prep. (rhy—ym) Signally mine; me signally; me before.

Rhym a fal bla blith yr haf;
 Rhym a fal eddytrod y ganaf;
 Rhym a fal wla glaw.—

Peculiarly mine were the milch kine of summer; peculiarly mine were the harnessed steeds of winter; peculiarly mine was the sparkling wine.— Taliesin.

Rhym geisw yr fyrr, yn ffyng arab hwy!
 Yn arabhawl derfyng.

I particularly shall be called the powerful, the quick of blithe-some course in the joy-liciting tumult. Cynddelw.

Rhodri mawr rhym llawr; rhym llofes,
 A rydd budd i bawb ei gymha.

Great Rodri the ground doth bind; he before endowed me, who gives to every one his appropriate good.

Ll. P. Moeh, t R. ab Owain.

Rhymofyn, v. a. (ymofyn) Peculiarly to enquire, seek, or demand.

Rhymofyn Calwydd cyreilaint;
 Ei folawd rhy bydd rhy calint.

The Fountain of love peculiarly demands contrition; his praise will be supremely the first of songs.

Meigant, m. Cynddylan.

Rhymofynawl, a. (rhymofyn) Peculiarly enquiring or demanding.

Rhymofyniad, s. m. (rhymofyn) A peculiarly enquiring or demanding.

Rhyn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhy—yn) That reaches, shoots, or extends into; that causes to run into; a principle of motion; impulse; a shiver, or shake; dread; an instant; a small space; a small quantity; a point, or cape. s. f. Rhen, a torrent, a brook. Hence Aedren and Owren.

O amddifad feibion ac ereill ryn.

Of orphan children and others a few.

Taliesin.

Rhyn, a. (rhy—yn) Pervading; agitating, shivering; terrible.

Mynaiet gyfarfod yn gyfarfawg
 A Gwenwynwyn, ryn rwyf lluosawg.

Thou didst seek to meet in arms with Gwenwynwyn, the terrible chief of many hosts. Ll. P. Moeh, t L. ab Iorwerth.

Ys gorwyn ewyn rhyn yn rhedeg;
 Ys gwedd yn fonawr mawr morgroeg.

Supremely white is the shivering foam in running; in January how mighty the great surging of the sea. D. Benfras.

Rhyn, pronom. prep. (rhy—yn) Ours peculiarly; us signally; us before.

Ni'm gatwy Rheen yn i'han fadden!
 Rhoddyaid i Dduw yn an dechreu,
 Rhod per paradwys parau goieu;
 Rhyn parau! Duw heb ddin eisieu.

May my Creator not leave me in the discarded party! There was given of God to us our beginning, in the blissful circle of paradise of continuing light; us originally God had caused void of every want. Millyr ab Gwalchmai.

Rhynaidd, a. (rhyn) Tending to be shivering.

Rhynaig, a. (rhyn) Tremulous, or trembling.

Rhynawd, s. m. (rhyn) Pervasion, a running into; agitation; that is fleeting or passing; a moment; a while; a small space; a small quantity. Rhynawd yn y coed, a little way in the wood.

Digawn yw gware rhynawd.

Sufficient is the play of a moment.

Adage.

Rhag rhynawd tan dychyffwr mwg.

From the agitation of fire smoke will be raised.

Taliesin.

Rhynawl, a. (rhyn) Agitating; shivering.

Rhyndawd, s. m. (rhyn) A shivering, a quake.

Rhyned, s. f. (rhyn) That runs in; a small space; a small quantity; a moment.

Rhynedig, a. (rhyn) Agitated; shivered.

Rhynedd, s. m. (rhyn) A state of agitation.

Rhyni, s. m. (rhyn) An agitating, or trembling.

Oian a phorthellau, a phorthell yni
 Teueu yw fy llen, aidd honydd iai.

Listening with a pigling, with a little pig of trembling, the my covering, for me there is no contentment. Myrddin.

Rhyniad, s. m. (rhyn) An agitation; a shivering.

Rhyniaw, v. a. (rhyn) To pervade; to agitate; to have instinct; to follow instinct.

O saith laseuad—

Ua yw a rhyad;

A dan y tyndaf;

A thri a waddaf;

A phedwar a fannaf;

A phump a welfaf;

A chwech a gylwaf;

A seith a roglwaf.

Of seven faculties: one is what I know by feeling; and a second I touch; with the third I call; with the fourth I see; with the fifth I go; with the sixth I hear; with the seventh I smell. Taliesin.

Cl i dyna, march i rhylaw,
 Eiddon i was, hwech i dyraw.

A dog to pull, a horse to move, a kine to gart, a cow to drive. Taliesin.

Rhyniawg, a. (rhyn) Being pervaded; being agitated; having instinct.

Rhyniawl, a. (rhyn) Pervasive; apt to agitate.

Rhynion, s. pl. (rhyn) Oats cleared of the husk.

Rhynllyd, a. (rhyn) Full of shivering.

Rhynllydrwydd, s. m. (rhynllyd) Shiveringness.

Rhynswch, s. m.—pl. rhynsychau (rhy—swch) The trunk of an elephant.

Rhynn, v. a. (rhyn) To cause an emotion; to extend into; to cause a shivering or quaking; to shiver, to shake with cold, to be chilled. Wf yn rhynn, I am shivering with cold.

Rhyngad, s. m. (rhwng) Intervention.

Rhyngadwy, a. (rhwng) Capable of intervening, capable of fulfilling.

Rhyngadwy fodd genym bob pwrn ohand.

Agreeable to our will is every article of it.

Bruiden Bards y Nyn.

Rhyngawd, s. m. (rhwng) An intervention.

Rhyngawg, a. (rhwng) Having intervention. a. a. That mediates.

Bid rhyngawg cleirch.

Let an elder be a mediator.

Llywarch H.

Rhyngawl, a. (rhwng) Intervening; mediate.

Rhyngawr, s. m. (rhwng) That intervenes.

Rhyngdawd, s. m. (rhwng) Intervention.

Rhyngedig, a. (rhwng) Intervening.

Rhyngedd, s. m. (rhwng) Intermediateness.

Rhyngiad, s. m. (rhwng) An intervention.

Rhynglinell, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhwng—linell) is intervening line.

Rhynglinellawl, a. (rhynglinell) Interlinery.

Rhynglinelliad, s. m. (rhynglinell) Interlination.

Rhynglinellu, v. a. (rhynglinell) To interlinise.

Rhyngsang, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhwng—sang) A di-cope, in rhetoric.

Rhyngu, v. a. (rhwng) To intervene; to mediate; to bring to pass; to content. "A rhyng dy fad: di hyny?" Will that be agreeable to thy will?

Rhyodidawg, a. (godidawg) Superexcellent.

Rhyodres, s. m. (godres) Ostentation, or pomp.

Caflant fydd o feirddion eu ties
 O foli Rodri ryodres.

A myriad of bards will find their good from praise of Rodri. Ll. P. Moeh.

Oeddi chynghorffys can y teyrnwedd pall i wrtho, iantid cled ei lly, a rhyddres ei deula.

Fanny filled the kingdoms far from him, for the fame of his court and the pomp of his family. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhyoddef, v. a. (goddef) To bear extremely.
Rhyoddefawl, a. (rhyoddef) Over-patient.
Rhyoddefiad, s. m. (rhyoddef) A bearing much.
Rhyoddefu, v. a. (rhyoddef) To bear extremely.
Rhyoed, s. m. (oed) Over-age, extreme age.
Rhyoedran, s. m. (rhyoed) Extreme age.
Rhyoedranus, a. (rhyoedran) Superannuated.
Rhyofal, s. m. (gofal) Extreme care.
Rhyofalu, v. a. (rhyofal) To act very cautiously; to be over-anxious.
Rhyofalus, s. m. (rhyofal) Over-careful.
Rhyofn, a. (ofn) Extreme terror or fear.
Rhyofnawg, a. (rhyofn) Over-fearful.
Rhyofni, v. a. (rhyofn) To fear extremely.
Rhyofniad, s. m. (rhyofn) A fearing extremely.
Rhyogwydd, s. m. (gogwydd) An over-bias.
Rhyogwyddaw, v. a. (rhyogwydd) To over-bias.
Rhyogwyddawl, a. (rhyogwydd) Over-inclining.
Rhyogwyddiad, s. m. (rhyogwydd) An inclining extremely; an over-biasing.
Rhyorchwyl, s. f.—pl. t. ion (gorchwyl) An over-performance, supererogation.
Rhyorchwylaw, v. (rhyorchwyl) To supererogate.
Rhyorchwylad, s. m. (gorchwyl) Supererogation.
Rhyorchwylas, a. (rhyorchwyl) Supererogatory.
Rhyoresgyn, s. m. (goresgyn) A full subjection.
Rhyoresgynawl, a. (rhyoresgyn) Fully subduing.
Rhyoresgyniad, s. m. (rhyoresgyn) A fully subduing; a completely overcoming.
Rhyoresgynn, v. (rhyoresgyn) To subdue fully.
Rhyorffod, v. a. (gorffod) To overcome fully; to be fully necessitated.

Gwell goled a Wi Caluar rhyorffod arno, ychydig ag ychydig o'i nifer yd ai ar Ro ya ei longau, a chymeryd dogelwch y mor yn amddiffyn iddo.

After Julius Caesar had perceived that he was completely overcome, with a small part of his army he retreated to his ships, and took the security of the sea for his protection. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhyorffodawg, a. (rhyorffod) Being completely overcome; under full subjection.
Rhyorffodawl, a. (rhyorffod) Tending to overcome completely.
Rhyorffodiad, s. m. (rhyorffod) A fully over-coming, a making a complete conquest.
Rhyorffod, v. a. (gorffod) To perform, to make completely, to accomplish fully.

*Rhyorffod Dew dda—
 Rhyorffod fy awen,
 I fell fy then:
 Myddyl Taliesin,
 Arneith lli dewin.*

God originally formed good; he originally formed my muse, to praise my sovereign: I am Taliesin with flowing speech of prophecy. Taliesin.

Rhyorngawl, a. (gorngawl) Tending to do fully.
Rhyorngiad, s. m. (gorngiad) A doing fully.
Rhyorngow, a. (gorngow) Having a very contrary direction or bearing.
Rhyran, s. f.—pl. t. an (rhan) Extreme part.
Rhyranawl, a. (rhyran) Tending to over-divide.
Rhyraniad, s. m. (rhyran) An over-dividing.
Rhyranu, v. a. (rhyran) To over-divide.
Rhyrawd, s. f. (rhawd) An extreme course.
Rhyred, s. f. (rhed) An extreme running.

*Ac yu hui fedyd, a fedd gwared an gau,
 A dduw innau yn ymddiried
 Ymef argyfyddi nael a nerthiad,
 I ddifodf gwyd gwell rhyred.*

And to us there is a physician, who has the power to put away our fealty, and let us then place our dependence; for it is the Lord of heaven who is endued with power, to put aside vice after an excessive course. Gwelchmai.

Rhyrodawl, a. (rhyred) Tending to run beyond.
Rhyreddeg, v. a. (rhyred) To run extremely.
Rhyrediad, s. m. (rhyred) A running extremely.
Rhyrif, s. m. (rhif) An over-number.
Rhyrifaw, v. a. (rhyrif) To over-number.
Rhyrifawl, a. (rhyrif) Supernumerary.
Rhyrifad, s. m. (rhyrif) An over-numbering.
Rhyrith, s. m. (rith) A prior appearance.
Rhyrithiad, s. m. (rhyrith) A previously appearing; an over-appearing.
Rhyrithlaw, v. a. (rhyrith) To appear before.
Rhyrithlawl, a. (rhyrith) Previously appearing.
Rhyrodiad, s. m. (rhyrawd) A rambling overmuch.
Rhyrodiaw, v. a. (rhyrawd) To ramble overmuch.
Rhyrodiawl, a. (rhyrawd) Apt to stroll much.
Rhyrodd, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhodd) An over-gift.
Rhyroddawl, a. (rhyrodd) Over-giving.
Rhyroddi, v. a. (rhyrodd) To give overmuch.
Rhyroddiad, s. m. (rhyrodd) An over-giving.
Rhyrwym, s. m. (rhwym) Extreme stricture.
Rhyrwymaw, v. a. (rhyrwym) To bind extremely.
Rhyrwymawl, a. (rhyrwym) Over-binding.
Rhyrwyriad, s. m. (rhyrwym) An over-binding.
Rhyrys, s. m. (rhis) Extreme strait or difficulty.

Nis deulir rhyrs.

There would not come a great difficulty. Taliesin.

Rhyrsiaw, v. a. (rhyrys) To hesitate extremely.
Rhyrsiawl, a. (rhyrys) Extremely hesitating.
Rhys, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhy—ys) Extreme tendency; extreme tendency; aptitude to set off, begin, pervade, or to overrun; a rushing; a strait; a trial, a difficulty.

*Dywed Myrddin y ddaud
 Y rhys a'r alwydd ar rai.*

Myrddin said that there would come a certain difficulty and misfortune upon some. Iwan Iwan.

Rhys, pronom. prep. (rhy—ys) That signally; of that particularly.

*Rhys gwyllychwyf rwyf rhyfodau,
 Cua digonau Dew o'i ddwyddiaid.*

That above all may I adore the Lord of wonders, since God has formed him from his materials. Meir ab Gwelchmai.

Rhysaeth, s. m. (rhys) The act of putting in a moving tendency; a putting in a course; a running a course; a straitening.
Rhysail, s. f.—pl. rhyselliau (sail) An extreme or first foundation.
Rhysawl, a. (rhys) Rushing; over-running.
Rhyse, s. m. (se) Extreme fixedness; the state of being quite fixed or determined.

Gnawd gwadi rhyarwch rhyse.

Frequently after extreme fondness comes excess of obstinacy. Gwelchmai.

Rhysedd, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwa) Superfluity, excess, an over-abundance.

Gwell goled no rhysedd.

Better are means than superfluity. Adagr.

Rhysedd, s. m. (rhys) A rush, or violent course.

*Pan amsg Tegingl, teg rhysedd
 Rhysed cwl Cwelling fowid Oedd trawer trawerw yn dybadd.*

When he defended Tegingl, splendid the cover on the course of battle of Cadell's property, innumerable those to death consigning falling to silence. Cynddewr m. O. Gwynedd.

Rhysedda, v. a. (rhysedd) To rush on; to rush into difficulty or trial.

Gwell dybadd no rhysedda.

Better is forbearance than to rush into contest. Adagr.

Gwell rhwydd no rhysedda.

Better what is easy than to encounter difficulties. Ll-ford.

Rhyseddawg, a. (rhysedd) Having superfluity.

Saerniaidd, a. (saerni) Like the work of an artist; masterly; mechanical; architectonic.
Saerniaw, v. a. (saerni) To work as a wright.
Saerniawi, a. (saerni) Architectural.
Saernieiddiad, s. m. (saerniaidd) A rendering, workman-like; a becoming mechanical.
Saernieiddiaw, v. a. (saerniaidd) To render workman-like; to become mechanical.
Saernieiddrwydd, s. m. (saerniaidd) Masterliness, as a wright, that is workman-like.
Saeru, v. a. (saer) To work as an artisan.
Saerwaith, s. m. (saer—gwaith) A wright's work.
Saesoneg, s. f. (saeson) The Saxon language; the English language.
Saesones, s. f. (saeson) An English-woman.
Saeson, s. pl. (sais) Saxons; Englishmen.
Saesonach, s. pl. dim. (saeson) Saxon hordes.
Saesonaidd, a. (saeson) Saxon-like; English.
Saesoniad, s. m.—pl. saesoniad (saeson) A Saxon.
Synwyr yr holl Saesoniad.
The come of all the Saxons. Lloedden.
Saesoniog, a. (saeson) Saxon, or English.
Saesy, s. m. dim. (sais) An Englishman.
Saeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (sa—aeth) An arrow.
Owneidd aeth saeth i sybwr: of
Gwneidd cerch saeth sybwr.
Let love make an arrow for the courtesan. Adage.
Saethawd, s. m. (saeth) The act of shooting.
Saethawl, a. (saeth) Tending to shoot; ejective.
Saethbenig, s. m. (saeth—pen) Arrow-grass.
Saethbawl, s. m.—pl. saethbawllion (saeth—ebawl)
 A cast coal, an epithet for a young colt.
Ni ddwyth daly ebawl yn ol ei fam: a hwnw a eiwr saethbawll.
It is not proper to lay hold of a colt after its dam; and that is called a cast foal. Welsh Laws.
Saethedig, a. (saeth) Being ejected or shotten.
Saethflew, s. m. aggr. (saeth—blew) The hairs which rise through the fur, in some animals.
Saethiad, s. m. (saeth) A shooting; ejection.
Saethiant, s. m. (saeth) The act of shooting.
Saethlys, s. m. (saeth—llys) Common arrowhead.
Saethu, v. a. (saeth) To shoot, or to dart.
Have burns no saeths.
It is easier to judge than to shoot. Adage.
Nid rhydd i neb saethu anifeil y bo heiriwrnaeth arno, pan fo yn ei cwmrythau, tan horeu coll ei fwa a'i saeth i arlydd y tir.
It is not free for any body to shoot an animal of the chase, when it shall be in its state of rest, under pain of forfeiting his bow and his arrow to the lord of the land. Cyfraith Hely.
Saethwr, s. m.—pl. saethwyr (saeth—gwr) A shooter; an archer.
Saethwriaeth, s. m. (saethwr) The act of shooting; archery.
Saethwrym, s. m.—pl. t. ian (saeth—gwrym) The sagittal suture.
Saethyd, s. m. (saeth) A shooting, or a darting.
Saethydd, s. m. (saeth) A shooter; an archer.
—Curied
Saethodd, briwodd si'm bron:
Syth eiddaw y saethyddion.
—Love did shoot, did wound me in my breast: the sturdy idol of the archers. R. Tudyr.
Saethyta, v. a. (saethyd) To shoot, or dart about; to frolick; to banter, to jest.
Dywedd Ydyddeden Bancwr: Na saethyta â ballach, onid dy fwr a fyal.
Said Ydyddeden Bancwr: Answer me no further, unless thou hast a mind to die. H. Culbrech—Matingion.
Saethytawl, a. (saethyd) Frolicsome.
Saethytiad, s. m. (saethyd) A playing of frolick.
Saf, s. f. (sa) A stand; the act of standing.

Safadwy, a. (saf) Capable of standing; permanent, lasting, durable.
Safaeth, s. m. (saf) A standing still, rest; a stand.
Safawi, a. (saf) Standing; permanent; resting.
Safdal, s. m. (saf—tal) Pitching money paid for stands in a fair.
Safdoll, s. f. (saf—toll) Pitching toll.
Safedig, a. (saf) Being made to stand; established, fixed, confirmed.
Safedigawl, a. (safedig) Having a tendency or power of standing. Ew safedigawl, noun substantive. G. Roberts.
Safedd, s. m. (saf) A fixed state, stationariness.
Safiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (saf) A remaining still, or resting; a standing; stature.
Saf ya nod heb un gwilyr;
Safed fal dafed ar dwyn.
She will stand firmly without any chain; a standing like a sheep on the hill. R. Dafydd Llwyd, i hen gaug.
Safiadawl, a. (safiad) Stationary, standing.
Safiadu, v. a. (safiad) To render stationary; to become stationary.
Safiannawl, a. (safiannawl) Stationary, standing.
Safiannu, v. a. (safiannawl) To render stationary; to become stationary.
Safiant, s. m. (saf) The act of standing; posture.
Safiator, ger. (safiad) In standing.
Savitor, sup. (saf) To be standing.
Safle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (saf—lle) A station.
Syfed pob mla o'i safle
Ac aed a gwyl gyd ag e.
Removed be every month from its place, and let the festival go along with it. Gro. Owain.
Safn, s. f.—pl. t. au (safn) The upper region of the mouth; the chop.
Can dy safn, ac agor dy giast a'th bygd.
Shut thy mouth, and open thine ear and thine eye. Adage.
Safnaid, s. f.—pl. safneidiaw (safn) A chopful, a mouthful.
Safnawg, a. (safn) Having a large wide mouth.
Safnawl, a. (safn) Relating to the palate.
Safndrom, a. (safn—trom) Of heavy jaw, of drawling enunciation.
Safndrwm, a. (safn—trwm) Drawling.
Safndrymedd, s. m. (trwm) Slowness of speech.
Safneidiad, s. m. (safnaid) A taking a mouthful.
Safneidiaw, v. (safnaid) To swallow by mouthfuls.
Safniad, s. m. (safn) A mouthing; a gaping.
Safnrwth, a. (safn—rhwth) Wide-mouthed.
Safnrhythiad, s. m. (safnrwth) A stretching the mouth widely; a gaping.
Safnrhythni, s. m. (safnrwth) Wideness of mouth.
Safnrhythu, v. a. (safnrwth) To open the mouth widely, to gape.
Safnrhythwr, s. m.—pl. safnrhythwyr (safnrwth—gwr) One who makes a wide mouth.
Safu, v. a. (saf) To stand; to become fixed.
Ni safi gogan ar gadarn.
Slender will not fix on the mighty. Adage.
Safwr, s. m.—pl. safwyr (saf—gwr) A stander.
Safwyr, s. m. (saf—gwyr) Savour; odour, scent.
Safwyr hwn sy fwy'r hanner,
Fal pen e safon pen.
The odour of this is greater by half, like a load of sweet apples. D. ab Edmond.
Safwyrw, v. a. (safwyr) To produce a savour.
Safwyrwyl, a. (safwyr) Savoury; odorous.
Safwyrber, a. (safwyr—per) Sweet-savoured.
Safwryiad, s. m. (safwyr) A savouring.
Safwyrus, a. (safwyr) Savoury; odorous.
Saff, s. m. (sa) That stands or shoots out.

Rhywrys, s. m. (gwrys) Extreme ardency or zeal. a. Over-ardent.

*Yn mhryffwr rhyrys
Yn rhywyl gwrys
Yn mhrydain Yngs
Gwys an gweil.*

In the height of extreme ardency augmenting of zeal in the British Isle he proclaims our visitations.

Ll. P. Moch, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Rhywrysiad, s. m. (rhywrys) A rendering over-ardent; a becoming very ardent or zealous.

Rhywrysiaw, v. a. (rhywrys) To act with extreme ardency or warmth.

Rhywrysiawl, a. (rhywrys) Being very ardent.

Rhywun, s. m. (rhyw-un) Some one, somebody.

Rhywyl, s. m. (gwyl) A very sharp look out.

Rhywyliad, s. m. (rhywyl) A watching greatly.

Rhywyliaw, v. a. (rhywyl) To watch extremely.

Rhywyllt, a. (gwyllt) Extremely wild.

Rhywylltiad, s. m. (rhywyllt) A rendering very wild; a becoming extremely wild.

Rhywylltiaw, v. a. (rhywyllt) To make extremely wild; to scare extremely.

Rhywynt, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (gwynt) A hurricane.

Arddwyd can-cad—

Ys cynt no rhywynt uch rodd wybren.

The master of a hundred conflicts: being more active than the violent wind over the ruddy atmosphere.

Ll. P. Moch.

Rhywyr, a. (gwyr) Oblique overmuch.

Rhywyrw, v. a. (rhywyr) To make over-oblique.

Rhywyrwl, a. (rhywyr) Of extreme obliquity.

Rhywryriad, s. m. (rhywyr) A rendering extremely oblique; a becoming over-oblique.

Rhywystl, s. m.—pl. t. on (gwyd) An over-pledge; a previous pledge.

Rhywystlaw, v. a. (rhywystl) To give an over-pledge; to pledge previously.

Rhywystlawg, a. (rhywystl) Over-pledged.

Rhywystliad, s. m. (rhywystl) An over-pledging.

Rhywyth, s. m. (gwyth) Extreme violence.

Rhywythaw, v. a. (rhywyth) To enrage extremely; to be extremely enraged.

Rhywythawg, a. (rhywyth) Full of extreme rage.

Rhywythiad, s. m. (rhywyth) An enraging extremely; a being extremely enraged.

Rhyymadaw, v. a. (ymadaw) To go away utterly to forsake utterly.

Rhyymadawiad, s. m. (rhyymadaw) A going away utterly; a forsaking utterly.

Rhyymgadw, v. a. (ymgadaw) To keep or preserve one's self fully; fully to abstain.

Rhyyrawl, a. (gyrawl) Extremely impulsive.

Rhyyriad, s. m. (gyriad) A driving extremely.

Rhyyru, v. a. (gyru) To drive on extremely.

S.

SA, s. m. r. A negative of motion; a state of opposition; a fixed state; a firm, steady, or even state; a standing.

Sach, s. f.—pl. t. au (sa—ach) A sack, or bag.

Sach diawl, a demoniac, or one possessed.

Sachaid, s. f.—pl. sacheidian (sach) A sackful.

Sachawl, a. (sach) Sacking, or bagging.

Sachbwn, s. m. (sach—pwn) A bale.

Sachedig, a. (sach) Being put in a sack, sacked.

Sachell, s. f. dim. (sach) A small sack, or a bag.

Sachelliad, s. m. (sachell) A bagging; a padding, or stuffing out, as with wool or the like.

Sachellu, v. a. (sach) To bag; to stuff in; to pad.

Sachiad, s. m. (sach) A putting in a sack.

Sachlian, s. m. (sach—llian) Sackcloth.

Sachu, v. a. (sach) To put in a sack, to stuff.

Sachwisg, s. f. (sach—gwisg) Sackcloth covering.

Sachwr, s. m.—pl. sachwyr (sach—gwr) A man who sacks or puts in a bag.

Sad, a. (sa—ad) Permanent, firm; discreet, sober.

Merch sad, a discreet woman.

Sai yn sad heb un gadwyn.

She will stand firmly without any chain. R. Dafydd Llwyd.

Sadell, s. f.—pl. t. i (sad) A dorser, or a pannel.

Sadelliad, s. m. (sadell) A putting on a packsaddle.

Sadelliath, s. m. (sadell) The use of a packsaddle.

Sadellu, v. a. (sadell) To put on a packsaddle.

Sadellwr, s. m.—pl. sadellwyr (sadell—gwr) A maker of packsaddles.

Sadiad, s. m. (sad) A rendering firm or steady.

Sadiaw, v. a. (sad) To render firm or steady.

Sadiawl, a. (sad) Of a firm or steady tendency.

Sadiedig, a. (sad) Rendered firm or steady.

Sadrwydd, s. m. (sad) Firmness, steadiness.

Sadwrn, s. m. (sad—gwrn) A fixt or firm point; a centre point: also the name of Saturn.

Sae, s. m. (sa) A kind of woollen stuff, say.

Gwig a ddanfoned—

Is dail yt, o sae du.

A robe has been sent to thee, under the leaves, of bad —

D. ab Gwyn.

Saen, s. f.—pl. t. i (sa—en) A vehicle, a carriage.

Saer, s. m.—pl. seiri (sa—er) A wright, an artificer, an artisan.

Saer coed, a carpenter; saer maen, mason; saer melin, a millwright; saer ffrith, a bricklayer; saer cist, a cabinet-maker.

Saer llong, a shipwright; saer llestri gwedd, a straw-joiner.

Pen saer pob perchennawg.

Every proprietor is the chief artificer.

Alap.

Un o dri madgyrffnyddion Yngs Prydain—Morddall Gwllt, saer Ceraint ab Gweldawl, a ddynges waith mewn a chack gi—i geuodl y Cymry.

One of the three beneficial inventors of the Isle of Prydain, the Alan of the Torrent, the architect of Ceraint of Gweldawl, who first taught the work of stone and iron in the nation of the Cymry.

Saeraiidd, a. saer Wright-like, workman-like.

Saerawl, a. (saer) Artificial; architectural.

Saeriad, s. m. (saer) A forming a wright or artisan.

Saeriannawl, a. (saeriant) Architectonic.

Saeriannu, v. a. (saeriant) To practise or work on architecture or the work of a wright.

Saeriant, s. m. (saer) Architecture.

Saerni, s. m. (saer) A wright's work.

Saerniaeth, s. m. (saerni) The calling of a wright or artificer; the art of building or framing.

Saerniaeth, s. m. (saerni) The calling of a wright or artificer; the art of building or framing.

Saerniaeth, s. m. (saerni) The calling of a wright or artificer; the art of building or framing.

Saerniaeth, s. m. (saerni) The calling of a wright or artificer; the art of building or framing.

Saerniaeth, s. m. (saerni) The calling of a wright or artificer; the art of building or framing.

Saerniaeth, s. m. (saerni) The calling of a wright or artificer; the art of building or framing.

Saerniaeth, s. m. (saerni) The calling of a wright or artificer; the art of building or framing.

Saerniaeth, s. m. (saerni) The calling of a wright or artificer; the art of building or framing.

Saerniaeth, s. m. (saerni) The calling of a wright or artificer; the art of building or framing.

Saerniaeth, s. m. (saerni) The calling of a wright or artificer; the art of building or framing.

Saltring, s. m.—pl. t. au (salt—rhing) Snuffers; also called Gleuniader.

Salltu, v. a. (salt) To go out, to go off; to go away to hide, whilst the eyes of the seeker are covered, in the play of hide and seek. Gwara saltu, the play of hide and seek. Sil. It is also called Mic ynguddiau.

Samp, s. m.—pl. t. au (sy—amp) A mole, or mark on the skin.

San, s. m. (sa—an) The state of being out, beside, apart, or divested; a state of being wary; a gaze; a maze. a. Aware; wary.

Sanawl, a. (sân) Gazing; amazed, stupefied.

Sanedig, a. (sân) Being made to gaze; amazed.

Sanedigaeth, s. m. (sânedig) Amazement.

Saniad, s. m. (sân) A gazing; a rendering amazed.

Sant, s. m.—pl. teintiau (san) A saint. a. Holy.

Santaidd, a. (sant) Sanctified, hallowed, holy.

Santawl, a. (sant) Saintly, hallowed, or holy.

Santeiddiad, s. m. (santaidd) Sanctification.

Santeiddiaeth, s. m. (santaidd) Sanctification.

Santeiddiaw, v. a. (santaidd) To sanctify.

Santeiddiawg, a. (santaidd) Having holiness.

Santeiddiawl, a. (santaidd) Sanctified, holy.

Santeiddiedig, a. (santaidd) Sanctified.

Santeiddiedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (santeiddiedig) Sanctification.

Santeiddiedigawl, a. (santeiddiedig) Of a sanctifying or hallowing tendency.

Santeiddrwydd, s. m. (santaidd) Holiness.

Santes, s. f.—pl. t. au (sant) A female saint.

Santolaeth, s. m. (santawl) Sanctitude.

Egier oedd o'i santolaeth a'i fuchedd.

He was conspicuous for his sanctity and his course of life.

Or. ab Arthawr.

Saru, v. a. (sar) To gaze; to astonish, to amaze.

Sarg, s. f.—pl. t. au (sa—arg) A tread; a trample.

Sargad, v. f.—pl. t. au (sarg) A treading.

Sargawd, v. m. (sarg) The act of treading.

Breithedd yrr;
Brydion Llyr;
Lloer ddufand;
Bri Brydion
Briand Sargawd.

The confused conflict of war, like the shore wells, Lloer's run; the glory of the Brydion is the trampling of the privilege of Saxons.

Cynddaleu.

Sargawl, a. (sarg) Treading; trampling.

Sargedig, a. (sarg) Trodden; trampled.

Sargedigaeth, s. m. (sargedig) The act of treading.

Sargiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sarg) A treading.

Sargiar, s. f. (sarg) A treading place; a doorway, a gateway.

Sargu, v. a. (sarg) To tread; to trample.

Wa sarg ar droed ci chwera.

Tread not on the foot of a curly dog.

Adage.

Sargwr, s. m.—pl. sargwyr (sarg—gwr) Treader.

Sar, s. m. (sa—ar) That is on or along; that is apt to cast down; fury, insolence; insult.

Saraad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sarau) A throwing upon; a discarding; an abusing, an insulting, an affronting; an injuring; a disgracing; reproach; offence.

Tair Sarrd g. gwantr sarlad i'r brenia: un yw, pan dorot ei naddu, pan raddo awwd i ddyn a'i ladd; all yw, pan ddel dan frein a'r en cyd-derfyn o achaw yntirfoll, ac yn gwydd y ddau frein ladd o wr i'r nall wr i'r lall; trydydd yw, cymarion ei wrag.

In three ways may an insult be given to the king: one is, when his protection is broken, from his giving protection to a person and, when may be killed; the second is, when two blags come upon their mutual boundaries, for the sake of an interview, and in the presence of the two kings, a man belonging to one kills a man of the other side; the third is, to have improper conversation with his wife.

Welsh Laws.

VOL. II.

Saraadu, v. a. (sarau) To give an insult.

Saraadus, a. (sarau) Insulting, affrontive.

Saraawl, a. (sarau) Abusive; insulting.

Sarled, s. f.—pl. t. au (sarau) Abuse; insult, affront, offence; injury; reproach.

Mi ei tasgrefeddaf o'r emherawdr; canys, o gwnaeth ei sarled i mi, digawn o lawm yw cennyf huanu, ei fod ei yn erchi ty ahrugard.

I will pacify him and the emperor; for, if he has done me an injury, enough of satisfaction is it with me then, that he doth crave my mercy.

Or. ab Arthawr.

Saraw, v. a. (sar) To throw off; to abuse; to insult; to affront; to offend; to injure.

Pwybynas a sardd en gilydd, o verio—Debenbarth, Gwynedd, Powys, a Lloegr, taled bedair be a phedwar agant arian.

Whoever shall insult another, of the people of South Wales, North Wales, Powys, and England, let him pay four cows and four-score pieces of silver.

Welsh Laws.

Saraw, a. (sarau) Insulting, offensive; abusive.

Sarawaw, v. a. (saraw) To become insulting.

Sarawdra, s. m. (saraw) A disposition to insult.

Sarawsedd, s. m. (saraw) Offensiveness; abuse.

Sarawrwydd, s. m. (saraw) Offensiveness.

Sarch, s. m.—pl. seirch (sar) What is upon, or covers; a piece of harness.

Sarchawl, a. (sarch) Covering, as a harness.

Sarchiad, s. m. (sarch) A harnessing; a furnishing.

Sarchu, v. a. (sarch) To cover, as with harness.

Sard, s. m.—pl. t. iau (sar) A beat down; a rebuff.

Sardiad, s. m. (sard) A beating down; a rebuffing; a chiding, a chastising.

Sardiaw, v. a. (sard) To beat down; to rebuff; to chastise, to reprove, to rebuke, to chide.

Sardia felch yn wrood fan;

Od om gwg nll ysgogan.

He would beat down proud ones to dust; if there be a frown he will not go aside.

Two Brydydd.

Ar hyny mi drowm at Ffolneb, ac a ddechreuai ei sardo.

Upon that I turned to Folly, and I began to rebuke her.

Marchawg Cwydrad.

Sardiawl, a. (sard) Beating down; chastising.

Sardiedig, a. (sardiad) Beaten down; chastised.

Sardiwr, s. m.—pl. sardiwyr (sard—gwr) One who beats down; a chastiser, a rebuker.

Sardd, s. m.—pl. t. au (sar) That is recumbent.

Sarddain, a. (sardd) Reptile, or creeping.

Sarddan, s. f.—pl. t. au (sardd) A creeping thing.

Sarddawl, a. (sardd) Reptitious, reptile.

Sarddedig, a. (sardd) Being rendered creeping.

Sardiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sardd) A causing to creep, a creeping.

Sarddu, v. a. (sardd) To cast down; to creep.

Sarddus, a. (sardd) Causing to creep, or crawl.

Sarddusaw, v. a. (sarddus) To render creeping.

Sarddusdra, s. m. (sarddus) A creeping state.

Sarddusrwydd, s. m. (sarddus) A creeping state.

Sarf, s. m. (sar) That is prone, or on the ground.

Sarff, s. f.—pl. seirff (sar) A serpent; also the true service-tree.

Gwelen wely hanner yn dymu corb, yn yr hwn yr oedd gwraig yn gorwedd yn noeth, a sarff yn ei braichleido.

We could perceive an iron bed red hot, in which there was a woman lying naked, with a serpent embracing her.

Marchawg Cwydrad.

North sarff yn ei chloren.

The strength of a serpent in her tail.

Adage.

Sarffaid, a. (sarff) Like a serpent; serpentine.

Sarffawl, a. (sarff) Of the nature of a serpent.

Sarffea, s. f. (sarff) A female serpent.

Sarffwydd, s. pl. aggr. (sarff—gwydd) Service trees.

Sarffwydden, s. f. (sarffwydd) True service tree.

Sariad, s. m. (sar) A rendering haughty or arrogant; a becoming overbearing.

3 R

Sain, s. m. — pl. seintian (sa—in) A sound, a tone.

Cur croc wyl, gura ei sain;
Dred byd, heb drood, heb sain.

A wonderful being art thou, of sound terrible; the ruler of the world, without feet, without wing. D. ab Iwan, 1799.

Sais, s. m. (sai) That is still, quiet, or soft.

Sais, s. m. — pl. saeson A Saxon; an Englishman.

Saith, s. m. — pl. seithian (sa—ith) That separates;

that is separated; an essence; a crucible; a crucible; the number seven. a. Seven. Tract saith, a small sandy cove in Llanarth, Cardigan.

Saith mlwyned y dargoch dell.

For seven years will blindness be propagated. Map.

Sal, s. f. (sa—al) A safety; plight; relief.

Dreg yw'r sal, a! a! odd.
Drychda gorllewin a lid.

Bed, as the apple of discord, is the plight of sorrow-storm.

Gwas sef y cyndd heb ad
Rhag blinder, heb gwyl nodal,

O thy fail y taces y corff.

Woe to the soul without a pillow from trouble, without relief, if it turns as the body has turned. D. ab Iwan.

Sal, a. (sa—al) Safe, secure; precious; safe.

Aur sal ym a roes o'i law.

Precious gold he gave me from his hand. D. ab Iwan.

Salaidd, a. (sal) Somewhat hale or firm.

Salau, v. a. (sal) To render sane, or safe.

Salder, s. m. (sal) Safety, good plight.

Salw, a. (sal) Vile, base, sorry, frail; poor; sick.

Dillad seilwon, poor clothes; gwedde seilwon, poor cattle; tir salw, poor land; /p

salw, a sick man; pa fyd sydd arsal? /p how goes the world with thee? rather inferior.

Salwrad, s. m. (salwrad) A rendering frail or mean; a becoming frail or despicable.

Salwrad, a. (salwrad) Of a frail tendency.

Salwrad, v. a. (salwrad) To render frail or mean; to become frail or despicable; to become ill.

Ti a ymgeist a mi, y boreu, pa na chaffet i; an E. re gywyddu, ac mi an dderbyniad o'u Dau, a'g dylid i cyngor, ond mi'n hysgryddu.

Thou wilt be seeking for me, in the morrow, when thou art not find me; for that thou hast hated knowledge, and knowest thou didst not receive the fear of God, nor follow my voice, I despise my reproach. Matthew 13:12.

Salwder, s. m. (salw) Frailty, meanness; illness.

Nid eidd y gwanth, nid eidd eidd.

He did not act abjectly, he did not the arrow of frailty. Public.

Salwdra, s. m. (salw) Frailty, debility, illness.

Salwedd, s. m. (salw) Illness; sorrows.

Salwin, a. (salw) Of a frail nature.

Salwinaw, v. a. (salwin) To render frail, or ill.

Salwineb, s. m. (salwin) Frailty, debility.

Salwiniad, s. m. (salwin) A becoming debility.

Salwredd, s. f. (salw—gweidd) A frail appearance.

Nid eidd y Salw

Modur y Salwredd!

Setting aside the Sabbath, meanly-appearing manner. Id. 16.

Sall, s. m. (sy—all) That is out, or exposed.

Sallawg, a. (sall) Being exposed; outcast.

Differ a. fy Ner, rhag aych uffern gual.

A'f prydd eidd, collawgrych aychwyl.

Afrydd swydd allawg, trechawg trechawg.

Protect me, my Lord, from the torment of hell flesh, and hard reptiles, bristled with rattling stings, the serpent of the region, rent with the clang of stunning bells. Id. 16.

Salledd, s. m. (sall) Externalness; outwardness.

Salliad, s. m. (sall) A turning out; a sallying.

Sallt, s. m. — pl. an (sall) An exterior estate.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.

Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

odorous.
render savoury;
ques, remains,

Sefydledigrwydd, s. m. (sefydledig) Settledness.
Sefydliad, s. m. (sefydl) An establishing.
Sefydlogrwydd, s. m. (sefydlawg) Stability.
Sefydln, v. a. (sefydl) To settle, to make to stand, to establish, to fix.
Sefydliwr, s. m. (sefydl—gwr) An establisher.
Sefydlydd, s. m. (sefydl) An establisher.
Sefydlyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (sefyd—llyn) A plash.
Sefyll, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (saf) A standing, a position. v. a. To stand.

Tri dyn a safant yn hawl a brajat brodyr a chwiorodd: amddiffid, gwoddw, ac allind.

Three persons who stand in the right and privilege of brothers: an orphan, a widow, and a stranger. Herddas.

s. f.—pl. t. oedd (sefyll) A standing station, a situation.

—pl. t. au (sefyll—mân) A standing station; a fixed abode.

—will—bod A fixed abode.

Welwa ein bod wedi dawed i ryw sefyll.

covered, I could see that we were Ellis Wyn, B. Cwag.

(sefyll) A stationing; a standing.

(sefyll) To stand often; to loiter.

hawl, a. (sefylliant) Stationary.

annu, v. a. (sefylliant) To render stationary, to become stationary.

Sefylliannwr, s. m. (sefyllian—gwr) A loiterer.

Sefylliant, s. m. (sefyll) A stationing.

Sefylliaw, v. a. (sefyll) To fix a station.

Sefylliawg, a. (sefyll) Being apt to stand; loitering. s. m. A loiterer.

Sefylliwr, s. m. (sefyll—gwr) One who stations.

Seg, s. m. (se—eg) That is without access.

Segaid, a. (seg) Like a covering.

Segan, s. f.—pl. t. au (seg) A covering, a cloak.

Segan cariad rhannodd;
Guto'r mawr gytlywr medd,
Mi bla'n'r hug—

The love cloak of the ladies; Guto the panegyrist, a loiterer amongst mead, know that mine is the garment. I. ab H. Spretwal.

Segawl, a. (seg) Tending to envelope.

Segenfab, s. m. (segen—mab) Gownsmen, monk.

Segiad, a. (seg) An enveloping; a cloaking.

Segr, s. m. (seg) That keeps apart; that is apart or enclosed; that is sacred; a memorial.

Segrawl, a. (segr) Being secret or apart.

Segredig, a. (segr) Being secreted or hidden.

Segrffug, a. (segr—ffug) Secretly false. Urddawl

segrffug, a noble secretly false. Taliesin.

Segriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (segr) A secreting.

Segru, v. a. (segr) To secrete, to put apart.

Segrwydd, s. m. (seg) The state of being enclosed
Segur, a. (cur) Being composed; void of trouble, or at leisure, or idle.

Llygad y segur a wel.

The eye of the one at leisure, will see.

Adage.

Ni moch wna da dyn segur.

An idle man will not soon do any good.

Adage.

Segura, v. a. (segur) To pursue ease or leisure; to be at leisure; to be idle; to trifle.

Y rhai a alwyd i weindogarth y gair, y maent wedi eu galw i waenmesth poenau, ac nid i segura.

Those who have been called to the ministry of the word, they are called to a laborious service, and not to be idling about. Ier. Owein.

Segurdawd, s. m. (segur) Idleness, or laziness.

Segurdawd a meddwadw a waant grogryddion yn gylloethawg. Idleness and drunkenness will make hangmen rich. Adage.

Segurddyn, s. m.—pl. t. lon (segur—dyn) Idler.

Sarid, s. m. (sar) What is thrown over; what is given additionally in selling; an overplus.
Sarig, a. (sar) Haughty, froward, stern; saucy.
Sarita, v. a. (sarid) To collect remains.
Sarllach, s. m. (sar—llach) Riotous mirth.

*Ef a gylwal gerddau, a gloddest, a sarllach, yn y nelthlawr.
 He could bear songs, and feasting, and riotous mirth, in the marriage.*
H. Gwyn—Mabinogion.

Sarn, s. f.—pl. t. au (sar) What is laid down or along; a litter; a causeway; stepping stones.
Sarnaid, a. (sarn) Like a floor, or pavement.
Sarnawl, a. (sarn) Strewing, or covering as a crust, or pavement; like a causeway.
Sarnedig, a. (sarn) Strewed; laid as a causeway.
Sarniad, s. m. (sarn) A laying or strewing along; a littering; a making a causeway.
Sarnllyd, a. (sarn) Tending to cover; strewing.

*Gadawal y dilyw tald sarllyd ar ei ol.
 The deluge left an incrustating mire after it.* Ier. Owein.

Sarnu, v. a. (sarn) To strew, to spread; to trample.
Sarnwr, s. m.—pl. sarnwyr (sarn—gwr) One who strews along; a trampler.
Sarnydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sarn) One who strews; one who lays a causeway.
Sarth, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (sar) A reptile; a scorpion; a serpent; a hedgehog; a severe sarcasm.
Sarthawl, a. (sarth) Reptilious, reptile.
Sarthies, s. f.—pl. t. au (sarth) A reptile.
Sarthu, v. a. (sarth) To creep or crawl along.
Sarug, a. (sar) Haughty, froward, stubborn; severe; surly, stern; dogged, cynical.

*Madawg oedd marchwag meirch sarug caln;
 Wr all Cynfawr Cadgaddug;
 Dywan garu! Duw a'n gorug
 Dan sygn poen dygn pan y dug.*
Madog was a cavalier with splendid high-mettled steeds; a man like Cynfawr the Lowering Cloud of Battle; gone is our idol! God brought us under the yoke of pain by taking him away.
Sefwyn.

Sarugaid, a. (sarug) Somewhat severe or surly.
Sarugaw, s. a. (sarug) To render froward, stern, or surly; to become stern or surly.
Sarugawl, a. (sarug) Apt to be stern or surly.
Sarugedd, s. f. (sarug) Frowardness; surliness.
Sarugiad, s. m. (sarug) A rendering haughty, froward, or severe; a becoming surly.
Sarugrwydd, s. m. (sarug) Frowardness, perverseness; surliness, asperity.
Sarugyn, s. m. dim. (sarug) A froward one; a surly fellow, a sour cur.
Sath, s. m. (sa—ath) The state of being set, put, or fixed; a state of opposition.
Sathan, s. m. (sath) An adversary; Satan.

*Trefnast dalar fawr, a'i chwilar achlan;
 Trefnast wern uffern, a'faliau Sathan
 Trefned i bryfed, lle yd ymbrofa'n.*
Thou didst order the ample earth, with the whole of its surface; thou didst order the sough of hell, the portion of Satan, a habitation for worms, where they shall be striving. Carnodyn.

Sathanes, s. f. (sathan) A female devil.
Sathar, s. m. (sath) A tread; a trample. a. Treading; trampling. Meirch sathar, trampling steeds.
Meirw aengi, mai seri sathar.
The treading of the dead, like the trampling of furirs. Lt. P. Moch.

Sathr, s. m. (sath) A tread; a trampling.
Sathraid, a. (sathr) Trodden; trampled.
Sathrawl, a. (sathr) Treading, trampling.
Sathredig, a. (sathr) Trodden, trampled.
Sathrfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (sathr) A trodden place.
Sathriad, s. m. (sathr) A treading, a trampling.
Sathrsarn, s. f. (sathr—sarn) A trodden place.
Sathru, v. a. (sathr) To tread; to trample.

Sathrwr, s. m.—pl. sathrwyr (sathr—gwr) A treader, a trampler.

Saw, s. f. (sa) That encloses, or causes to stop.

*Oedd braw saw Saeson Ctwedd y Cawch.
 Terror was the stop of the English of Cawch Dr.* D. Breff.

Sawch, s. m. (sa—awch) A heap, a pile; a load.
Sawchi, v. a. (sawch) To heap up, or to pile.

*Digon sawchi anfad
 Yn erbyu dofyddiad.*
Enough of loading of iniquity against the coming of the Lord. Telusa.

Sawd, s. m.—pl. sodion (sa—awd) Drift, tendency; juncture; plight; extremity; limit, border, or verge; a siege. Sawd y mor, a sea beach; wyf dan sawd oer, I am under a sad plight.
Mordwy sawd, a voyage of extremity.

Sawdawl, a. (sawd) Tending, verging; limiting.

Sawdiad, s. m. (sawd) A tending, a verging.

Sawdiaw, v. a. (sawd) To tend, to verge.

Sawdl, s. m.—pl. sodlau (sawd) A heel. Sawdl crydd, mercury goosefoot.

Sawdr, s. m. (sawd) A verge; a juncture.

Sawdriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sawdr) A joining.

Sawdriaw, v. a. (sawdr) To join; to soder.

*Sawdriaw yn ael, and yw'r nod.
 Joining in the brow, and is the mark.* Bede Brucylyth, i. 1. 1. 1.

Sawdur, s. m. (sawd) Juncture; soder.

Sawduriad, s. m. (sawdur) A joining; a sodering.

Sawduriaw, v. a. (sawdur) To join; to soder.

*I efall o ddall ydd aeth,
 Ac eunill clod ac aethoch,
 Ac a'i llaw sawduriaw serch.*

To a forge of leaven she repaired, gaining fame and complaint and with her hand rivetting fondness. D. ab Gwilym, i. 1. 1. 1.

Sawdwr, s. m.—pl. sawdwyr (sawd—gwr) A man of the verge or border; a soldier.

Sawdd, s. m.—pl. soddion (sa—awdd) A bottom; a depth; a sink, a sinking, or plunging in; a root, or power of numbers. a. Sinking.

*Cal arddas ffordd y cerddych,
 Hyd dwr sawdd, a dalar tych.*

Thou shalt have honour the way thou goest, over sinking and dry earth. Ed. Dafydd.

Sawell, s. f.—pl. t. i (saw) An outlet; a smoke hole, a chimney.

Tri pheth a yrant wr o'i dy; crongwyd ddyferydd, mawr by lyd, a gwralg geintachlyd.

Three things that will cause a man to leave his home; a roof through which water drops in, a smoky chimney, and a scold wife. Cadogan Dafydd.

*Mad dodes ei fforddwyd dros efall
 Ei orwydd, o wag ac o bell;
 Fylli pwyll tan drwy sawell.*

Early he threw his thigh over the saddle of his horse, as if near and off side; Fyll whose course is like fire through a key. Llywarch Hir.

*Yn sawell ym gyrrawr.
 Into a hole me impelling.* Taliesin.

Sawf, s. m. (saw) That is stopt or standing.

Sawiad, s. m. (saw) A stopping or standing.

Sawl, s. pl. aggr. (sa—awl) That is out or not in reach. pron. Those. a. Such.

*Dysg hyd angau; ac angau i'r sawl na ddysgo.
 Learn until death; and death to such as will not learn.* Idor.

Sawyr, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (sa—gwyrr) Savour, taste.

Sawyriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sawyr) A rendering; savoury; a becoming savoury.

Sawyriannawl, a. (sawyriant) Tending to savour.

Sawyriannu, v. a. (sawyriant) To make savoury.

Sawyriant, s. m. (sawyr) A making savoury.

Sawyriaw, v. (sawyr) To savour; to yield odour.

Sawyrus, a. (sawyr) Savoury, odorous.
 Sawyrusaw, v. a. (sawyrus) To render savoury;
 to become savoury, or odorous.
 SE, s. f. r.—pl. t. on. That continues, remains,
 is fixed, or stated; a star.

*El cyrch cerddorion,
 Se sybarw soon.*

To him minstrels will resort, the star of magnificent stars.
Taliesin.

*Astrus chwedi—
 All yfth, all syrth se.*

A useful tale: like the concourse, like the fall of a star.
Gwalchmai.

Se, adv. As stated, to wit, so, thus.

Se y meddybale at chedaw.

So I have thought to obtain her. D. ab Gwilym.

Sëad, s. m. (se) A stating, or a fixing.
 Sëawl, a. (se) Being stated or fixed.
 Seb, s. m. (se—eb) A tendency to hem in.
 Sebach, a. (seb) Straitened, confined; shrill.

*Syrnall's wretch, sebach son,
 Siro: prawf'fian serion.*

Then muttered the hag, of squeaking tone, Sir, thou shalt taste sour apples. T. Penllyn.

Sebon, s. m. (seb) Soap. Agalen o sebon, a bar of soap.

Sebonaid, a. (sebon) Like soap; soapy.
 Sebonawg, a. (sebon) Abounding with soap.
 Sebonawl, a. (sebon) Saponaceous, soapy.
 Seboni, v. a. (sebon) To soap; to lather.
 Sebonllyd, a. (sebon) Soapy, dawbed with soap.
 Sebonwr, s. m.—pl. sebonwyr (sebon—gwr) A soap-man, a dealer in soap; a soapmaker.
 Sebonydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sebon) A soapmaker.

Gwell dwylaw y clydd no dwylaw y sebonydd.

Better the hands of the butcher than the hands of the soapmaker.
Adage.

ech, a. (f. of seych) Dry, dried, or parched.
 echi, v. a. (sach) To fill a sack; to stuff.
 echiad, s. m. (sach) A bagging, or a stuffing.
 edd, s. f.—pl. t. an (se—edd) The state of being without motion; a seat.

*Cydydd medd ar sedd sech!
 Cygardded coed a gorderch.*

Drinking together of mead on the seat of love; together walking woods with a mistress. D. ab Gwilym.

dda, v. a. (sedd) To sit habitually, to sit often.
 ddawg, a. (sedd) Being in a sitting posture.
 ddawl, a. (sedd) Sedentary, or sitting.
 ddedig, a. (sedd) Seated; made to sit.
 ddiad, s. m. (sedd) A being seating, a sitting.
 ddoledb, s. m. (seddawl) Sedentariness.
 ddoli, v. a. (seddawl) To render sedentary.
 dds, v. a. (sedd) To seat; to become seated.
 ef, a. (se—ef) Certain; truly. adv. To wit, that is to say, namely.

Sef, a ludd a gyhudd.

Thus, he that kills will accuse. Adage.

Sef a lwydd i fed ei cheis.

Truly it will prosper for disgrace that it be concealed. Adage.

Sef y gwael wrag winen deledw.

So he could perceive a beautiful brown woman.
H. Peredur.

nig, s. f. dîm. (safn) The gullet, the throat.
 id, v. a. (saf) To stand, to become still.

Da yw a saf ac ni wner.

That will stand and not be separated is good. Adage.

idl, s. m. (sefyd) That is stationary.
 idlawg, a. (sefyd) Standing, stationary; stea-
 r, staple, stedfast, constant.
 idledig, a. (sefyd) Stationed; settled.
 idledigaeth, s. m. (sefydledig) Settledness.

Sefydledigrwydd, s. m. (sefydledig) Settledness.
 Sefydliad, s. m. (sefydl) An establishing.
 Sefydlogrwydd, s. m. (sefydlawg) Stability.
 Sefydln, v. a. (sefydl) To settle, to make to stand,
 to establish, to fix.

Sefydliwr, s. m. (sefydl—gwr) An establisher.

Sefydlydd, s. m. (sefydl) An establisher.

Sefydlyn, s. m.—pl. t. an (sefyd—lyn) A plash.

Sefyll, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (saf) A standing, a position. v. a. To stand.

Tri dyn a safant yn hawl a braint brodyr a chwilydd: amddifed, gweddw, ac allud.

Three persons who stand in the light and privilege of brother-and sisters: an orphan, a widow, and a stranger. Bardeus.

Sefyllfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (sefyll) A standing place, a station, a situation.

Sefyllfan, s. f.—pl. t. au (sefyll—mân) A standing place, a station; a fixed abode.

Sefyllfod, s. f. (sefyll—bod) A fixed abode.

Erbys i mi dddebru, gwelwn ein bod wedi dawed i ryw sefyllfod.

By the time that I was recovered, I could see that we were come to some station. Ellis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Sefylliad, s. m. (sefyll) A stationing; a standing.

Sefyllian, v. a. (sefyll) To stand often; to loiter.

Sefylliannawl, a. (sefylliant) Stationary.

Sefylliannu, v. a. (sefylliant) To render stationary, to become stationary.

Sefylliannwr, s. m. (sefyllian—gwr) A loiterer.

Sefylliant, s. m. (sefyll) A stationing.

Sefylliaw, v. a. (sefyll) To fix a station.

Sefylliawg, a. (sefyll) Being apt to stand; loitering. s. m. A loiterer.

Sefylliwr, s. m. (sefyll—gwr) One who stations.

Seg, s. m. (se—eg) That is without access.

Segaid, a. (seg) Like a covering.

Segau, s. f.—pl. t. au (seg) A covering, a cloak.

*Segau caried rhannodd;
 Guto'r mawl gyfitywr medd,
 Mi blaen y hwg—*

The love cloak of the ladies; Guto the panegyrist, a loiterer amongst mead, know that mine is the garment. I. ab H. Sgerdwil.

Segawl, a. (seg) Tending to envelope.

Segenfab, s. m. (segen—mab) Gownsmen, monk.

Segiad, a. (seg) An enveloping; a cloaking.

Segr, s. m. (seg) That keeps apart; that is apart or enclosed; that is sacred; a memorial.

Segrawl, a. (segr) Being secret or apart.

Segredig, a. (segr) Being secreted or hidden.

Segrffug, a. (segr—ffug) Secretly false. Urddawl

segrffug, a noble secretly false. Taliesin.

Segriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (segr) A secreting.

Segru, v. a. (segr) To secret, to put apart.

Segrwydd, s. m. (seg) The state of being enclosed

Segur, a. (cur) Being composed; void of trouble, or at leisure, or idle.

Llygad y segur a wel.

The eye of the one at leisure, will see. Adage.

Ni moch wna da dyn segur.

An idle man will not soon do any good. Adage.

Segura, v. a. (segur) To pursue ease or leisure;
 to be at leisure; to be idle; to trifle.

Y rhai a alwyd i weinidogwrth y gair, y maent wedi eu galw i wasaneth poenus, ac nid i segura.

Those who have been called to the ministry of the word, they are called to a laborious service, and not to be idling about.
Ier. Owein.

Segurdawd, s. m. (segur) Idleness, or laziness.

Segurdawd a meddudawd a waant groyddlon yn gyfoethawg.

Idleness and drunkenness will make bachelors rich. Adage.

Segurddyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (segur—dyn) Idler.

Seguredd, s. m. (segur) A state of leisure.
 Seguren, s. f. dim. (segur) An idling female.
 Seguriad, s. m. (segur) An enjoying of leisure.
 Segurilyd, a. (segur) Loving leisure; idle.
 Segurwas, s. m. (segur—gwas) An idle youth.
 Segurwr, s. m.—pl. segurwyr (segur—gwr) One who enjoys leisure; an idler.
 Seguryd, s. m. (segur) A state of leisure or ease.

Tri pheth sydd yn llygru y byd: balchder, afraid, a seguryd.
 Three things do corrupt the world: pride, excess, and idleness.
Barddas.

Seguryn, s. m. dim. (segur) An idler.
 Seibiad, s. m. (saib) A standing at leisure.
 Seibiannawl, a. (seibiant) Leisureable.
 Seibiaeth, s. m. (saib) A state of rest; sabbath.
 Seibiannu, v. a. (seibiant) To procure leisure.
 Seibiant, s. m. (saib) A standing about, a resting, or stopping; a respite; leisure.
 Seibiaw, v. a. (saib) To stand about, to take respite; to be at leisure.
 Seibiawl, a. (saib) Leisurely; resting, at rest.
 Seidiad, s. m. (said) An insertion; the insertion of a tongue into the handle.
 Seidiaw, v. a. (said) To insert; to insert a tool into a handle.
 Seidiawg, a. (said) Having an insertion; tonged.
 Seidyn, s. m. dim. (said) The part of a tool that is inserted in the hilt.
 Seifiad, s. m.—pl. seifiad (saf) A stander.
 Seigen, s. f. dim. (saig) A little mess or meal.
 Seigiad, s. m. (saig) A messing; a taking a meal.
 Seigiaw, v. a. (saig) To mess, to partake of a meal; to serve up dishes or messes.
 Seigiawl, a. (saig) Relating to a mess or meal.
 Seigiwr, s. m.—pl. seigwyr (saig—gwr) A messer.
 Seilddar, s. f.—pl. seildderi (sail—dar) A main beam or pillar; a prop; a foundation pile.
 Seilddarluniad, s. m. (darluniad) An ichnography.
 Seiddor, s. f.—pl. t. au (sail—dor) A threshold.
 Seiler, s. f.—pl. t. i (sail) A foundation space; a ground floor; a cellar.
 Seilfaen, s. m.—pl. seilfeini (sail—maen) A foundation stone.
 Seilgam, a. (sail—cam) Having a wry tread.
 Seilgamiad, s. m. (seilgam) A treading awry.
 Seilgamu, v. a. (seilgam) To tread a sole awry.
 Seiliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sail) A foundation.
 Seiliannawl, a. (seiliant) A base, or foundation.
 Seiliannu, v. a. (seiliant) To make a foundation.
 Seiliant, s. m. (sail) Relating to foundation.
 Seiliaw, v. a. (sail) To found, to lay a foundation.
 Seiliawd, s. m. (sail) A being made a foundation.
 Seiliawg, a. (sail) Having a foundation.
 Seilledig, a. (seiliad) Having a foundation laid.
 Seilledigaeth, s. m. (seilledig) The act of founding.
 Seiliwr, s. m. (sail—gwr) One who founds.
 Seilwaith, s. m. (sail—gwaith) Ground-work.
 Seilydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sail) A founder.
 Seimiad, s. m. (saim) A greasing.
 Seimiaw, v. a. (saim) To grease, to make greasy.
 Seimiawg, a. (saim) Abounding with grease.
 Seimiawl, a. (saim) Of a greasy quality.
 Seimiedig, a. (saim) Greased; made greasy.
 Seimiwr, s. m.—pl. seimiwyr (saim—gwr) Greaser.
 Seimlyd, a. (saim) Of a greasy quality.
 Seindraws, a. (sain—draws) Transversely sounding.
 Cynganedd seindraws, a transversely sounding consonancy.
 Seindwll, s. m. (sain—twll) A sound-hole.
 Seinfawr, a. (sain) Sonorous, of great sound.
 Seinfwrdd, s. m. (sain—bwrdd) A sounding-board

Seinglawr, s. m. (sain—clawr) A sounding-board.
 Seingroes, a. (sain—croes) Transversely sounding.
 Cynganedd seingroes, a transversely sounding consonancy.
 Seingudd, a. (sain—cudd) Of concealed sound.
 Seinguddgyswllt, s. m. (seingudd—cyswllt) A junction of concealed sound.
 Seinguddgysylltgroes, a. (seinguddgyswllt) Being of transversely conjoined concealed sound.
 Seinguddhannergysylltgroes, a. (seingudd—hanner—cyswllt—croes) Being of half transversely conjoined concealed sound.
 Seiniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sain) A sounding.
 Seiniannawl, a. (seiniant) Productive of sound.
 Seiniannu, v. a. (seiniant) To produce a sound.
 Seiniant, s. m. (sain) A making a sound.
 Seiniaw, v. a. (sain) To sound, to resound.
 Seiniawd, s. m. (sain) A resounding, a sounding.
 Seiniawdr, s. m.—pl. seiniadron (seiniawd) That yields a sound.

Molwch yr Arglwydd—
 Molwch ef ar seiniadron glych.

Praise ye the Lord; praise him ye bulls that are high-sounding:
D. Ddu Hwdding

Seiniawg, a. (sain) Having a sound or tone.
 Seiniawl, a. (sain) Sounding; toned.
 Seiniedig, a. (seinlad) Sounded; toned.
 Seiniedigaeth, s. m. (seiniedig) Act of sounding.
 Seiniwr, s. m.—pl. seiniwyr (sain—gwr) One who sounds or makes a sound.
 Seintiad, s. m. (saint) A canonization.
 Seintiaw, v. a. (saint) To canonize.
 Seintiawl, a. (saint) Sanctified, saintly.
 Seintiedig, a. (seintiad) Canonized, sainted.
 Seintiolaeth, s. m. (seintiawl) Sanctitude.
 Seintwar, s. f. (saint—gwar) A sanctuary.

Seintwar f'r adar ydydd.

The sanctuary of the feathered tribe art thou.
H. Mackay, t y Ddwydd.

Seirch, s. pl. aggr. (sarch) Equipage, horse trappings, furniture, or harness, a set of harness.

Gwr gwlw uch ei amllw seirch.

A roddid seirch i seirch.
 A superior man on his many-coloured trappings, who would give horses to the seirch.
Taliesin.

Dyphorthyt ei seirch mewn rhyngwag.

Ambling steeds conveyed his equipage.
Mirch.

Seirchiad, s. m. (seirch) A harnessing.
 Seirchiaw, v. a. (seirch) To harness, to equip.
 Seirchiawg, a. (seirch) Harnesses, equipped.
 Seirchiawl, a. (seirch) Belonging to harness.
 Seirchiedig, a. (seirchiad) Harnesses, equipped.
 Seiriad, s. m. (ser) A sparkling like stars.
 Seirian, s. m.—pl. t. au (ser) A sparkling.

Nid oes yna dy hanner,
 Na th drws, llw seirian ser.

There is not in that place thy half, nor thy third, there no half as the glittering of stars.
D. du Gwynn.

Seirianad, s. m. (seirian) A sparkling.
 Seirianadd, a. (seirian) Tending to sparkle.
 Seirianawl, a. (seirian) Sparkling, glittering.
 Seirianu, v. a. (seirian) To sparkle, to twinkle.
 Seirniad, v. a. (sarn) To trample down.
 Seisoneg, s. f. (saeson) The English tongue.
 Seisong, a. (saeson) Saxon; English.
 Seisongaw, v. a. (seisong) To turn into English, to imitate the English.
 Seithblyg, s. pl. aggr. (saith—plyg) Seven folds.
 Seithdant, s. pl. aggr. (saith—tant) Seven strings, a heptachord. a. Seven-stringed.
 Seithdro, s. pl. aggr. (saith—tro) Seven turns seven times. a. Of seven turns.

Seithddog, s. m. (saith—deg) Seventy.
Seithddedged, s. m. (seithddedg) A seventieth.
Seithddedgwaith, s. pl. aggr. (seithddedg—gwaith) Seventy times. a. Seventy times.
Seithfan, s. pl. aggr. (saith—ban) Seven verses or lines. a. Of seven lines.
Seithfanawg, a. (seithfan) Having seven verses.
Seithfed, s. f. (saith) A seventh. q. Seventh.

Cel dy benyd ar dy seithfed.

Thou shalt take thy penance on thy seventh.

Fyddia.

Seithfedydd, s. m. (seithfed—dydd) The seventh day, the ancient name for Sunday.
Seithgafed, s. m. (seithgant) A seven hundredth.
Seithgant, s. pl. (saith—cant) Seven hundreds.
Seithganwaith, s. pl. (seithgant—gwaith) Seven hundred times. a. Seven hundred times.
Seithi, s. m. (sath) Frustration; disappointment.

Cerddoriau allen heb ran seithi.

Musicians abroad without a portion of disappointment.

Mysddia.

Seithiawl, a. (saith) Septenary, of seven.
Seithmlwydd, s. pl. aggr. (saith—blwydd) Seven years. a. Septennial.
Seithnalen, s. f. (saith—dalen) Tormentil.
Seithryn, s. pl. aggr. (saith—dyn) Seven persons. a. Consisting of seven persons.
Seithochr, s. pl. aggr. (saith—ochr) Seven sides; a heptagon. a. Seven sided.

A seithochr wasw ym seithawdd;
A seith-yawd cymhendard canyd.

With a seven-sided spear the shot was with sevenfold force of insulting eloquence.

D. de Gwilym, i Forudd.

eithochrawg, a. (seithochr) Heptagonal.
eithochrawl, a. (seithochr) Heptagonal.
eithochri, v. a. (seithochr) To be seven-sided.
eithongl, s. pl. aggr. (saith—ongl) Seven angles; a septangle. a. Septangular.
eithongiawg, a. (seithongl) Septangular.
eithongli, v. a. (seithongl) To render septangular, or to render of seven angles.
eithor, s. pl. aggr. (saith—gor) Seven regions or sides; a heptagon. a. Of seven regions.
eithrad, s. pl. aggr. (saith—rhad) Seven endowments, seven virtues. Seithrad eiddo, the seven endowments of a bishop.
eithran, s. pl. aggr. (saith—rhan) Seven parts; that is of seven parts. a. Of seven parts.

Saith meddi Eilfer, muth gwyr han brofer,
Saith gwyrwyl pl oghol yn gŵ gŵthman.

The seven sons of Eilfer, seven men when tried by seven spears they were not cut their seven parts.

Fyddia.

thranaul, a. (seithran) Of seven parts.
thrif, s. pl. aggr. (saith—rhif) Seven numbers; even times a number. a. Seven times the number.

thrifed, a. (seithrif) Seven times the number.
thsiill, s. pl. aggr. (saith—siill) Seven syllables; hat consists of seven syllables.
thsiillawg, a. (seithsiill) Of seven syllables.
lug, a. (sath) Being frustrated; futile, vain.

thwaith, s. pl. aggr. (saith—gwaith) Seven mes. a. Seven times.
thwedd, s. pl. aggr. (saith—gwedd) Seven arms; that is of seven forms. a. Septiform.
hwr, s. pl. aggr. (saith—gwr) Septemviri. a. Consisting of seven men.

hwriaeth, s. m. (seithwr) Septemvirate.
hygiad, s. m. (seithug) A frustrating, a renouncing futile; a becoming futile.
hygiaceth, s. m. (seithug) A frustration.
hygiant, s. m. (seithug) A frustration.

Saethyglaw, v. a. (seithug) To frustrate, to render futile or vain; to disappoint.

Seithygiawl, a. (seithug) Frustrating.

Sel, s. m. (se—el) An espying, sight at a distance.

Seldeb, s. m. (sel) Keen-sightedness.

Selder, s. m. (sel) Keen-sightedness.

Seldra, s. m. (sel) Keen-sightedness.

Seldrem, s. f.—pl. f. au (sel—trem) A prospect; a perspective view; a vanishing line or point; arrangement; what is placed in a straight line; a layer, as of corn after the reaper.

Pwyll, a chrochwr, a sylwedd, a seidr, a ham, a dechymys, ac ystyr, a meddwl; se o hyn gŵthman gŵthman a dŵthman.

Reason, idea, observation, perspicacity, judgement, inspiration, significance, and thought; and from these the excellency of the Welsh language proceeds.

Barddon.

My sight leaves not a day prospect.

D. de Gwilym.

Seldremiad, s. m. (seldrem) A putting in prospect.

Seldremiaw, s. g. (seldrem) To put in prospect; to place in view; to lay in a straight line or row.

Tellynawd a thelith yr iaith Gymraeg—yn adnawdd—pob peth of a sŵl y seidr i'r awd ei dŵthman, a'r seidr i'r awd ei sylwedd.

The merit and characteristics of the Welsh language are, that it can express every thing, which the thought and the mind may be able to conceive, to arrange, and to explicate.

Barddon.

Seldremiawg, a. (seldrem) Perspicuous.

Seldremiawl, a. (seldrem) Perspicacious.

Seldremiwr, s. m.—pl. seldremiwr (seldrem—gwr) One who makes perspicuous.

Seldremu, v. a. (seldrem) To place perspicuously; to place in layers.

Seledig, a. (sel) Perceived, or observed.

Seladigeth, s. m. (seladig) Observation.

Seliad, s. m.—pl. f. au (sel) A despying, an espying; perception; observation. Dyn seliad, a person of observation, or of quick wit.

Seliadwy, a. (seliad) Perceptible, observable.

Seliannawl, a. (seliant) Perceptive.

Seliannu, v. a. (seliant) To render perceptive.

Seliant, s. m. (sel) Perception, observation.

Selais, s. f.—pl. f. od (sal—sig) A sausage.

No heia i sal, no gwyr i selis.

Then a martyr to honey, than a woman to a pudding. Adapt.

Selsigen, s. f. dim. (selsig) A pudding, a sausage.

Selu, v. a. (sel) To espy, to perceive, to behold; to gaze.

Cael dirgeia

Cwyl ansein

Cael dy selis

Croew des haelion.

Being able to conceal the wound of the arrow shot, an opponent can be kept to behold thee, the warm luminary of generous observation.

D. de Gwilym.

Selidat, cryf effidat heb cur oghon;

Selidat, a dŵthman gŵthman yr hŵthman;

Selid, ansein yr sel yn iŵthman.

Syndymid iŵthmanid lle y collwraig.

Thou didst feign, thou didst firmly build all throbbing carnes; thou didst espy, thou didst take the way of deluders; beholding, aiming at the brow supremely smiling love, the passing sensible scene of sportive idoms.

D. de Gwilym.

Selus, a. (sel) Apt to espy; perspicacious.

Selusaw, v. a. (selus) To render perspicacious.

Selusdra, s. m. (selus) Perspicacity.

Selwedd, s. m. (sel—gwedd) Perceptivity.

Selweddawl, a. (selwedd) Perspicacious.

Selweddiad, s. m. (selwedd) A perceiving.

Selwedu, v. a. (selwedd) To endue with perceptivity; to exert perspicacity.

Selweddu, a. (selwedd) Perspicacious.

Selwr, s. m.—pl. selwyr (sel—gwr) An espyer.

Selydd, s. m.—pl. f. ion (sel) An espyer.

Sellt, s. m. (sallt) A limit or border.

Sellti, s. m. (sellt) An exploring; a seek out, the play of hide and seek.

Selltdad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sellt) Exploration.
Selltu, v. a. (sellt) To explore, to seek out.
Sên, s. f.—pl. t. au (sy—en) The state of being extended; that is capable of affecting; a taunt, a scoff; a chide.
Senadwy, a. (sên) Liable of being chided.
Senaidd, a. (sên) Invective, reproachful.
Senawl, a. (sên) Censorious; taunting, scoffing, reprehending; reproaching.
Senedig, a. (sên) Scoffed, reproached, rebuked.
Senedigaeth, s. m. (senedig) Reprehension.
Senedigawl, a. (senedig) Reprehensive.
Senedd, s. f.—pl. t. au (sen) A synod; a senate.
Senedd wyllt, wild senate; an epithet used for the bishop's visitation.
Senedda, v. a. (senedd) To resort to a synod.
Seneddawl, a. (senedd) Synodal; senatorial.
Seneddu, v. a. (senedd) To form a synod.
Seneddwr, s. m.—pl. seneddwr (senedd—gwr) A member of a synod; a senator.
Seneddwriaeth, s. m. (seneddwr) Senatorship.
Senferw, a. (sên—berw) Censure-brooding.
Sengar, a. (sên) Censorious; taunting, scoffing.
Sengarwch, a. (sengar) Censoriousness, reproachfulness; aptness to chide.
Sênïad, s. m. (sên) A reprehension, a chiding.
Senoldeb, s. m. (sênawl) Censoriousness.
Senolder, s. m. (sênawl) Censoriousness.
Senoli, v. a. (sênawl) To render censorious.
Senolrwydd, s. m. (sênawl) Censoriousness.
Sensigl, s. m.—pl. t. on (sên—sigl) The great daisy, or white ox-eye.
Sênu, v. a. (sên) To censure, to chide, to reprehend; to reproach; to taunt, to scoff.
Senw, s. m. (sên) That is past a chide; boldness.

Enw heb senw.

A name without dignity.

Adage.

Enw heb senw oedd ei henw hi.

A name without dignity was her name.

Iolo Goch.

Senwad, s. m. (senw) A giving boldness.
Senawl, a. (senw) Tending to embolden.
Senwi, v. a. (senw) To give confidence.
Sênwr, s. m.—pl. senwyr (sen—gwr) A censurer.
Senyllt, s. m. (sên) A seneschal; a constable.

*Cenes fab Llywarch ddihafarch ddud,
 Nid ei borthi gwarth gorsedd;
 Senyllt a'i lestri llawn medd.*

Cenes the son of Llywarch magnanimously bold, he would not support the reproach of a convention: a seneschal with his vessel full of mead.

Ancurin.

Sengi, s. m. (sang) A treading; a trampling
v. a. To tread about; to trample.
Sêr, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (sy—er) That tends to, that is apt to enclose; a bill, a tool so called.

Ser, dimal a dal.

A bill-hook, its value is a halfpenny.

Welsh Laws.

Ser, s. pl. aggr. (se—er) Stars. Poets also give them the appellations of syr, and in the singular se and sy. Ser-ysgall, common star-thistle.

Cyfoled a'r cwn yn cyfarth y ser.

As foolish as the dogs barking the stars.

Adage.

*Ser y bore a ddwyreint,
 Yn lla i gydganu gyt.*

The stars of the morning were wont to rise, assembled to sing in harmony of yore.

Gro. Owain.

Seraidd, a. (ser) Like stars; sidereal; starred.
Serawg, a. (ser) Starry, studded with stars.
Serawl, a. (ser) Sidereal, astral, starry.
Serch, s. m. (ser) Appulsion; desire; affection, love. Serch anlad, wanton desire: rhois fy serch arnat, I have placed my affection on thee.

*Trafu llygrya a'i llw iafu llygrya oyle;
 Treigl'a'm bron serch serch dyrchu.*

He leads the horns of battle with his gleaming sword to the of England; to him my breast returns the greeting of love—conault. G. ab M. ab Duffel.

*El gasbeth a'i argonbiau,
 Gwr meddw serch a gwrddol oia.*

With his odious instrument and its torment, a fellow true with love and noisy to excess. H. ab D. ab I. ab Eip.

Serch, prep. (ser) With respect to, because of, for. adv. Notwithstanding. Ni wna i'ti serch hyny, it is no use for thee because of that; u scaeth ganto serch hyny, he is not sorry notwithstanding that.

Serchald, a. (serch) Tending to excite desire.

Serchawg, a. (serch) Having desire; amorous.

*Eiddig—
 Ni ddaw hwn ond ddaw haf;
 Rhodd ei gyfoed o'r gwaith;
 A rhos serchogion yw'r haf.*

The jealous one—he will not come unless summer comes. temporary with him was winter given; and the portion of love once is summer. D. ab Grig.

Serchawl, a. (serch) Exciting love; lovely.
Serchedig, a. (serch) Being rendered loving.
Serchedd, s. m. (serch) A state of desire; fondness.
Sercheiddiad, s. m. (serchaid) A disposing to love.
Sercheiddiaw, v. a. (serchaid) To dispose to fondness; to become disposed to fondness.
Serchfawr, a. (serch) Very fond or affectionate.
Serchiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (serch) Appassion; desiring; a creating love or fondness.
Serchiadaeth, s. m. (serchiad) A causing to love.
Serchiadawl, a. (serchiad) Love-exciting.
Serchiadu, v. a. (serchiad) To excite fondness.
Serchiant, s. m. (serch) Affection, fondness.
Serchiator, ger. (serchiad) In loving or fondling.
Serchitor, sup. (serch) To be loving or fondling.
Serchlawn, a. (serch) Amorous, full of love.
Serchlonddeb, s. m. (serchlawn) Amorousness.
Serchlonedd, s. m. (serchlawn) Amorousness.
Serchlioni, v. a. (serchlawn) To fill with love.
Serchogaeth, s. m. (serchawg) State of fondness.
Serchogaidd, a. (serchawg) Somewhat amorous.
Serchogeiddiad, s. m. (serchogaidd) A rendering or becoming somewhat amorous.
Serchogeiddiaw, v. a. (serchogaidd) To render somewhat loving; to become a little amorous.
Serchogi, v. a. (serchawg) To render (and) amorous; to become amorous.
Serchogiad, s. m. (serchawg) A rendering (and) amorous; a becoming amorous.
Sercholdeb, s. m. (serchawl) Amorousness.
Sercholi, v. a. (serchawl) To become amorous.
Serchu, v. a. (serch) To desire; to affect; to be affected; to have affection; to love.
Serchus, a. (serch) Creating fondness; agreeable.
Serchusaw, v. a. (serchus) To tend to fondness.
Serchusdra, s. m. (serchus) Fondness.
Serchusedd, s. m. (serchus) Lovingness, fondness.
Serchusrwydd, s. m. (serchus) Desirableness; agreeableness; affectionateness, fondness.
Serchwr, s. m.—pl. serchwyr (serch—gwr) One who fixes his desire; one who is fond or loves.
Serddewin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ser—dewin) An astrologer, one who foretells by the stars.
Serddewindeb, s. m. (serddewin) Astrology.
Serddewiniad, s. m. (serddewin) A divining by the stars; a practising of astrology.
Serddewiniaeth, s. m. (serddewin) Astrology.
Serddewiniaw, v. a. (serddewin) To astrologize.
Serddewiniawl, a. (serddewin) Astrological.

Seren, s. f. dim. (ser) A star. Seren wallhawg, seren gynffonawg, seren y gynffon, seren losgyrnawg, a blazing star, a meteor.

Mawr yw seren y morwyr;
Mwy yw ao awr o'r man syr.

Grand is the star of the mariners; greater than a crowd of flaming spears. L. G. Codd.

Ni roe neb, ac ni rowa i
Seren bron er ei sort.

Nobody would give, and I would not give a star of wood for offending him. Gr. Gryg.

Serenawl, a. (seren) Sparkling like a star.
Sereniad, s. m. (seren) A sparkling.
Serenig, s. f. dim. (seren) An asterisk.
Serenlys, s. pl. (seren—lys) Starwort.
Serenu, v. a. (seren) To sparkle, to glitter.
Serenwyl, s. f.—pl. t. iau (seren—gwyll) Epliphany. It is also called Ystwyll.
Serenyn, s. m. dim. (seren) The vernal squill.
Serf, a. (sy—erf) Whirling; dizzy or giddy.
Serfan, a. (serf) Tending to dizzy; dizzied.
Serfanawl, a. (servan) Startling; dazing.
Serfaniad, s. m. (serfan) A startling.
Serfannu, v. a. (servan) To start; to stare; to dizzy. Serfannu llygaid, to turn about the eyes wildly; to astonish.
Serfawl, a. (serf) Whirling; dizzying.
Serfiad, s. m. (serf) A startling; a dizzying.
Serfu, v. a. (serf) To startle; to dizzy.
Serfyll, a. (serf) Dependent; ready to fall, unsteady, wagging; shattered; crazy.

Serfyll oer hysyll yw'r byd;
Somat ar bob rhyw symyd.

A grey cold tent is the world; a deceiver on every sort of change. S. Tudgr.

Serfyllra, s. m. (serfyll) Craziness.
Serfylliad, s. m. (serfyll) A crazing, a shattering.
Serfylliaw, v. a. (serfyll) To craze, to shatter.
Serfyllrwydd, s. m. (serfyll) Craziness.
Serfyllus, s. m. (serfyll) Tending to fall; tending to become crazy.

Seri, s. pl. aggr. (sar) Sullen ones, furies.

Mae'r sergi, mai seri eithaf.

The tramping of the dead, like the tramping of Serici.
LL. P. Moch.

Serig, a. (ser) Starred, studded with stars.
Seri, s. m. (serig) That is spangled, or studded.
a. Studded with stars. Arfaen serig/rigw, arms with spangled surface.

Edla-feirch a serch serig cynnw.

Winged steeds and harnessed with spangled borders. LL. P. Moch.

Seriglaw, v. a. (serig) To stand with stars.
Seri, s. m. (serig) A spangling.
Seri, s. m. (ser—llw) Starlight.

Mellion tag, mae lloead twyn,
Mae serigw mynnes trwy.

Fair spangles, which will fill the bush, the minute starlight of the bosom of the verdant grove. Ieu. Druwryn, i fediwrn.

Serigw, s. m. (ser—gloew) A star-glow. Mae yn serigw hene, it is a star-glow to-night, or it is very starry. Sil.

Serigw, a. (ser—gloew) Star-glowing.
Seri, v. a. (sarn) To graze, to raise; to jar.
Seri, s. m.—pl. t. ion (serigw) Astronomer.
Seri, a. (serigw) Astronomical.
Seri, s. m. (serigw) Astronomy.
Seri, v. a. (serawl) To proceed as the stars.
Seri, s. m. (serawl) The starry system.

Rhy gryn yw hon ar ei bynt,
Prwyfogaeth serigwllan mawr.

Round to examine is this one on her course, through the community of the solemn starry system. D. ab Gwilym, yr Imed.

Seri, s. m. (ser) The system of the stars.

Seronawl, a. (ser) Astronomical.

Seroni, s. m. (seron) To systemize the stars; to pursue or study the science of astronomy.

Seronydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (seron) Astronomer.

Tri gwyn seronyddion Ynys Prydain: Idris Gaur, a Gwydion, mab Don, a Gwyn ab Nadd; a chan faint en gwyboda am y ser, a's haniaeth, a'u harsoddeu, y darogwynt a chwechyddeu ei wybod.

The three excellent astronomers of the Isle of Britain: Idris the Mighty, and Gwydion son of Don, and Gwyn son of Nadd; and from the magnitude of their discoveries, respecting the stars, their natures and their dispositions, they could foretell whatever might be desired to be known. Triodd.

Serth, a. (ser) Inclination, tendency, bias, or fall; a steep.

Serth, a. (ser) Inclining, tending, falling; steep, abrupt, alippery; obscene.

Plam daniwyd yafyd anserth
Yw tyfied swydd tafawd serth.

The fiery flame of monstrous folly is the fruit of the office of a fool tongue. Ed. Morris.

Serthadwy, a. (serth) Capable of precipitancy.

Serthaid, a. (serth) Somewhat inclined.

Serthair, s. m.—pl. sertheirian (serth—gair) An obscene word or expression.

Serthallt, s. f. (serth—gallt) A steep cliff.

Serthan, s. f. (serth) A precipice, a cliff.

Serthawl, a. (serth) Precipitous; obscene.

Serthedig, a. (serth) Inclined; precipitated.

Serthedd, s. m. (serth) Inclinedness; steepness; abruptness; alippery; obscenity.

Sertheirlawg, a. (serthair) Having obscene words.

Serthfrwnt, a. (serth—brwnt) Grovellingly filthy.

Serthfrynt, s. m. (serthfrwnt) Grovelling filthiness or obscenity.

Serthi, s. m. (serth) A falling tendency; alippery; obscenity.

Serthiad, s. m. (serth) An inclining, a tending; a rendering steep; a becoming obscene.

Serthiannawl, a. (serthiant) Tending to be precipitous or steep.

Serthianna, v. a. (serthiant) To render steep or declivous; to become steep.

Serthiant, s. m. (serth) Precipitancy, steepness.

Serthwydd, s. m. (serth) A precipitous state.

Serthu, v. a. (serth) To render precipitous; to become steep; to act obscenely.

Serthus, a. (serth) Precipitous; declivous; obscene, vulgar.

Serthusaw, v. a. (serthus) To render precipitous; to become steep; to grow vulgar.

Serthusdra, s. m. (serthus) A precipitous state; vulgarity.

Serthusedd, s. m. (serthus) Steepness; vulgarity.

Serthusrwydd, s. m. (serthus) Steepness.

Serthyd, s. m. (serth) A steep or falling tendency; vulgarity, obscenity.

Tri harddwch cerdd; mawr heb droth, mwy heb anlledrwydd, a dychan heb serthyd.

The three ornaments of song; praise without flattery, gaiety without licentiousness, and satire without vulgarity. Barddas.

Serw, a. (ser) That is flat and opaque or dull.

Serydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ser) An astronomer.

Seryddawl, a. (serydd) Astronomical.

Seryddiaeth, s. m. (serydd) Astronomy.

Y dyn a garaf eis dicerale,
Yn seryddiaeth Don
Yn serydd Gwernafon,
Lle bu ron dragon
Dreigau Emrale.

The man I respect, whom I have not ceased to love, studying the astronomy of Don in the county of Gwernafon, where the shaft of the chief of the dragons of Emrale has been.
Gr. ab D. ab Tudor.

Seryddiannawl, a. (seryddiant) Astronomical.

Seryddianna, v. a. (seryddiant) To follow the science of astronomy.

Seryddiant, s. m. (serydd) Astronomy.
Seryfa, v. a. (sêr) To gaze upon; to spaze. Er seryfa gr arian Ryd gr eilha, though spazing of the money to the utmost.
Seth, a. (f. of syth) Stiff, rigid; being set or put up; erect, upright; diadainful.
Sêa, v. a. (se) To render fixed, or stated.
Sew, s. m.—pl. f. ion (sê) Gravy; jelly.
Sewed, s. m. (se—gwd) Discourse of the stars.
Sewedawl, a. (sewed) Descriptive of the stars.
Sewedydd, s. m.—pl. f. ion (sewed) Astronomy.
Sewedyddawl, a. (sewedydd) Astronomical.
Sewedyddieth, s. m. (sewedydd) Astronomy.
Sewlyd, a. (sew) Abounding with gravity.
Sewyd, s. m.—pl. f. ion (se—gwyd) A diffusion of stars. Sewyd am loer, a sprinkling of stars round the moon. Tallesin.
SI, s. m. r. A hiss, a whiz; a buz; a tingling noise.
Siad, s. m. (si) A hissing, a whizzing; a buzzing.
Siad, s. f.—pl. f. au (sy—iad) The top of the skull, the crown of the head; the cranium.
*Ribaw trued—
 Ar of siad, eres ydê.
 Shaving a ring on his noddle, strange it is. I. R.
 Daw a yrr synwr dy siad,
 Goff a bwr dy siad.
 God knows what value thy head betidest, anger causes thy talk. T. Pryd.*
Siadfoel, a. (siad—moel) Bald-pated.
Siar, s. m. (si—ar) An articulate sound.
Siarad, s. m.—pl. f. an (siar) A talking, a talk.
*Gweddodol fal siarid gwydied.
 He cried out like the gabbling of geese. D. ab Gwilym.*
Siaradach, s. m. (siarad) Chit-chat; babbling, garrulity, dilaclity.
Siaradafdd, a. (siarad) Talkative, or prating.
Siaradawl, a. (siarad) Talking, or speaking.
Siaradfa, s. f.—pl. siaradfydd (siarad) A talking place, or a gossip shop.
Siaradgar, a. (siarad) Querulous, prating, talkative, garrulous, fond of talking.
Siaradgarwch, s. m. (siaradgar) Garrulosity.
Siaradu, v. a. (siarad) To make a talking.
Siaradus, a. (siarad) Talkative, loquacious.
*Tripheth nid hawdd eu rhifaw; banyau y golio, gelfrau benyw siaradus, a dicheithon cybydd.
 Three things that are not easily numbered; the particles of light, the words of a talkative female, and the schemes of a miser. Cefnydd Ddoeth.*
Siaradusaw, v. a. (siaradus) To render talkative; to become talkative.
Siaradusedd, s. m. (siaradus) Talkativeness.
Siaradusrwydd, s. m. (siaradus) Talkativeness.
Siaradwr, s. m.—pl. siaradwyr (siarad—gwr) A talker; a prater.
Siaradwraig, s. f.—pl. siaradwreigedd (siarad—gwraig) A talking woman, a gossip.
Siared, v. a. (siar) To talk, to chat, to discourse.
*Siared cymulat a mob Seithgrudyn.
 To talk as much as the son of Seven-locks. Adage.
 Siared cymulat a Merddin ar lawr.
 To talk as much as Merddin on a pole. Adage.*
Siaw, v. a. (si) To hiss, to whiz, to buz; to tingle
Siawl, a. (si) Hissing, whizzing, buzzing.
Sib, s. m. (si—ib) That tends to involve or to encircle.
Sibol, s. pl. aggr. (sib) Young onions, scallions.
Sibolen, s. f. dim. (sibol) A young onion.
Sibr, s. m. (sib) That is imbibed or taken in.
Sibrad, s. m. (sibr) A dressing with sauce.
Sibraw, v. a. (sibr) To sauce, to do with sauce.

Sibrydawl, a. (sibrdwl) Doing with sauce.
Sibwl, s. pl. aggr. (sib) Young onions, scallions.
Sibyllen, s. f. dim. (sibwl) A small or young onion; a scallion.
Siciad, s. m.—pl. f. an (sig) A steeping.
Siciant, s. m. (sig) A steeping, a seething.
Siciaw, v. a. (sig) To steep, to wet; to wash.
Siciawl, a. (sig) Steeping, or seething.
Siciedig, a. (siciad) Steeped, seethed, wetted.
Sicion, s. pl. aggr. (sig) Steepings, washings.
Sicioni, v. a. (sicion) To make steeping.
Sid, s. m. (si—id) A wind, a round, a circling.
Sidan, s. m.—pl. f. an (sid) Silk, satin. Sidan, wacen, cotton-grass, sidan y brain, hair-weed.
Sidana, v. a. (sidan) To collect silk.
Sidanadd, a. (sidan) Like silk, silky. Gwallt sianadd, silky hair.
Sidanawg, a. (sidan) Having silk; in silk.
*Gweddion am ben yn bethiawg,
 A golo oer man-ro meiniawg
 Gelyntion Seesow sidanawg.
 A veil of blood over the head complexion, and hair in the beach of small stones the Saxon form arranged in silk.
 D. P. M.*
Sidanawl, a. (sidan) Of the quality of silk.
Sidanbla, s. pl. (sidan—pla) Down feathers.
*Gwelir rai ar weliau sidanbla yn yndryboda mawr ych wch.
 We could perceive where on beds of down, walking in the thimbles. D. P. M.*
Sidanen, s. f. dim. (sidan) That is silky, or made of silk. It is the name of an old tune; also an epithet for a fine woman; and has been applied particularly to queen Elizabeth.
Sidaniad, s. m. (sidan) A making of silk; a making silky.
Sidanion, s. pl. aggr. (sidan) Silken things, sil-meryery.
Sidana, v. a. (sidan) To make silk; to wind; to make silky, or smooth: to coax, to wheedle.
*Nyddu a sidana, to twist and to wind.
 Mae y diawl yn dda tra y sidana.
 The devil is civil as long as he is coaxed. Adage.*
Sidanwe, s. f.—pl. f. oedd (sidan—gwe) A silk web.
Sidanwedydd, s. m.—pl. f. ion (sidanwe) A silk-weaver.
Sidanwr, s. m.—pl. sidanwyr (sidan—gwr) A silkman.
Sidanydd, s. m.—pl. f. ion (sidan) Silk-mercer.
Sidedd, s. m. (sid) A state of twirling.
Sidell, s. f.—pl. f. i (sid) A winder; a whirl; the rim of a wheel; a fly-wheel.
Sidellawg, a. (sidell) Having a whirl or wheel.
Sidelliad, s. m. (sidell) A whirling round.
Sidellu, v. a. (sidell) To whirl round.
*Ys dy lafa, gorta dau lu
 Ydyllia yu sidellu.
 A blade that is trusty, between two heads a game whirling round.
 T. Pryd.*
Sidellydd, s. m.—pl. f. ion (sidell) A winder.
Sider, s. m.—pl. f. ion (sid) That winds or twirls that is in ringlets; lace, fringe.
Sidera, v. a. (sider) To form into ringlets.
Sideraidd, a. (sider) Like twirls or ringlets.
Siderawg, a. (sider) That is made up of winds or ringlets; full of fringes; fringed; laced.
*Marchawg siderawg doriad.
 A cavalier decked with lace. D. ab Iwan Dda, i. dda.*
Siderawg, a. (sider) Formed into ringlets; fringed.
Sideriad, s. m. (sider) A twirling into ringlets; a fringeing.

Siderogrwydd, s. m. (siderawg) The state of being in ringlets, or fringed.

Sideru, v. a. (sider) To make ringlets; to plait; to fringe; to make lace; to lace.

Siderwr, s. m.—pl. siderwyr (sider—gwr) A maker of fringe.

Siderydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sider) Fringe maker.

Sidi, s. f. (sid) A state of revolution. Caer sidi, a zone of revolving, the zodiac; also called caer sidin, and caer sidydd.

Sidin, a. (sid) Winding, or revolving.

Mi a fwm yn aghadafr sin
Uwch caer sidi;
A hws yn troi sydd
Rhwyng tri elfydd.

I have been in a tollsome seat, above the revolving zone; and that constitutes turning between three elements. Tallerin.

Sidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sid) The agent of revolving; the zodiac. Caer sidydd, the circle of the zodiac, the ecliptic.

Sidyll, s. m.—pl. t. au (sid) A whirl, a turn round, the circumference or rim of a wheel. Sidyll troell, the rim of a spinning wheel; Troi yn sidyll, to turn in a twirl.

Siff, s. m. (si—iff) An intermitted noise.

Siffr, s. m. (siff) A rustle; a whisper.

Sifraw, v. a. (siff) To rustle; to murmur.

Sifrawd, s. m. (siff) A soft rustling; a murmuring; a whispering. v. a. To rustle; to murmur; to whisper.

Sig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (si—ig) A shatter; a bruise.

Sigaw, v. a. (sig) To shock, to craze, to shatter; to bruise.

Sigawl, a. (sig) Crazy, shattering; bruising.

Sigad, s. m. (sig) A shattering; a bruising.

Sigl, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sig) A shake, a rocking; a stir. a. Shaking, rocking. Sigl-din y gwys, sigl-din slone, tasigl y gwys, brith y fuchs, the wag-tail; Sigl dyhoedan, siglaethan, neu linsiliois, the play of swinging.

Sigladwy, a. (siglad) Capable of being shaken.

Siglaeth, s. m. (sigl) A shaking; a swinging.

Siglaethan, s. f. dim. (sigl) A play of swinging.

Siglaw, v. a. (sigl) To shake, to rock; to stir; to be shaken. Sigla law, shake hand. Dimet.

Agor ei law i bob ci a siglo ei gynffon arno.

He opens his hand to every dog that wags his tail at him. Adage.

Rhag bod y sul heb siglaw.

For fear of being on Sundays without stirring. Adage.

Siglawg, a. (sigl) Having a shaking.

Sigledig, a. (sigl) Shaked, rocked; stirred.

Sigledigaeth, s. m. (sigledig) A shaking.

Sigledd, s. m. (sigl) The state of being shaken.

Siglen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. ydd (sigl) What shakes or rocks; a swing; a quag. Siglen donen, siglen denc, siglen denym, a swing rope.

Siglenawg, a. (siglen) Abounding with quags.

Sigwr, s. m.—pl. siglwyr (sigl—gwr) A shaker, a rocker; a stirrer.

sil, s. m.—pl. t. ion (si—il) That is produced, or brought forth; issue, progeny; seedling; spawn, or fry; also the cleansing or hulling of grain. Sil pysgod, fry of fish; sil penweig, herring fry; Eista sil, husks or hullings of oats. sil, s. f. dim. (sil) A single issue; a seedling; a single spawn or fry.

sil, s. m. (sil) A state of teeming, a shoaling.

Siliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sil) A producing; a spawning; a hulling of grain; grain that is hulled.

Siliada, v. a. (siliad) To produce an issue; to produce a spawning.

VOL. II.

Siliannawl, a. (siliant) Belonging to the act of producing; spawning.

Siliannau, v. a. (siliant) To cause an issuing; to cause a spawning.

Siliant, s. m. (sil) The state of being produced, or issued; a spawning; a hulling of grain.

Siliaw, v. a. (sil) To produce, to bring forth; to spawn; to hull grain. Siliaw ceirch, to hull oats.

Siliawg, a. (sil) Having issue; having spawn.

Silled, s. m. (sil) That is produced; cleared grain, as the grits of oats, and the like.

Silledig, a. (siliad) Produced as young; spawned; divested or separated from the hull.

Silledyn, s. m. dim. (siliad) An individual issue; a single grain divested of the hull.

Silod, s. pl. aggr. (sil) Seedlings, spawns, fry, or young fishes. Silod brithlon, brith y gro, samlets; silod y mor, sea fry; silod y dom, brithyllaid y dom, pysgod y gath, sticklebacks.

Silodi, v. a. (silod) To issue seedlings, fry, or spawn; to form a fry.

Silodyn, s. m. dim. (silod) A single one of a fry.

Silyn, s. m. dim. (sil) A single issue, a single seedling, fry, or spawn.

Sill, s. f.—pl. t. au (si—ill) A component part, fragment, or element; a syllable; a word. Ni chlywais i sill amdani, I have not heard a syllable about her. Sil.

Heb wybod—
Na fuff un sill ar ei phen,
Na thorodd un llythyren.

Knowing not the form of one syllable apart, nor the cutting of a single letter. Ieu. ab Hywel Suddut.

Silldrwm, a. (sill—trwm) Of a heavy syllable.

Silleb, s. f.—pl. t. au (sill—eb) An elementary part of speech: a syllable.

Sillebawl, a. (silleb) Elementary of speech.

Sillebiad, s. m. (silleb) A forming the elements of speech.

Sillebu, v. a. (silleb) To syllabize; to form the elements of speech.

Silliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sill) A forming of syllables; a spelling.

Silliadaeth, s. m. (silliad) The system or formation of syllables.

Un aball ni adnabydd—
Yn awyrlu'r awyddau sydd;
Na'u binau 'mllob gobenydd,
A llef silladaeth hefyd.

A feeble one doth not recognise, in words, what qualities there are; nor their feet in every pause, and the secret of the syllabic system. Ieu. ab Hywel Suddut.

Silladawl, a. (silliad) Syllabic, syllabical.

Silladu, v. a. (silliad) To syllabize; to spell.

Silliaw, v. a. (sill) To arrange into elements or parts; to syllabize.

Silllawg, a. (sill) Consisting of elements; consisting of syllables.

Silliedig, a. (silliad) Formed of syllables.

Silliedigaeth, s. m. (silliedig) Formation of elementary parts or syllables.

Sillt, s. f.—pl. t. au (sill) An elementary part; a syllable.

Deall silltas sy'n gwan'r gerdd,
Yw cywirgorn cysirgerdd.

To understand the syllables which combine the song is the key of correct versification. Ieu. ab Hywel Suddut.

Silltaer, s. f.—pl. t. au (sillt—aer) A connection of links; a chain. Silltaerau heizirn oddieithr arfau, links of iron on the outside of the armour.

Silltaeren, s. f.—pl. t. au (silltaer) A link.

Cheau silltaerau serch,
Er gowd y tafawd, hoes-ferch,
A roddais—

Wreaths of the links of love, for the praise of the tongue, lively maid, which I bestowed. D. ab Gwilym.

Silltiad, s. m. (sillt) A forming an elementary part; a forming a kindred.
Silltiaw, v. a. (sillt) To connect, to form a part; to be joined, to be a component part.

*O ffaith wylfa'r byd, af l'th elfydd;
 At Adda silltia', a't ealltydd.*

*From the tedious station of the world, I will go to thy element;
 to Adam I will become connected, and his progeny.*
Ieuan Brydydd Hir.

Silltiawg, a. (sillt) Consisting of parts; having syllables.

Silltiawl, a. (sillt) Component, kindred.

Silltiedig, a. (silltiad) Connected by parts; formed into syllables.

Sillydd, s. m. (sillt) That forms an elementary or a component part; a kindred.

Sillydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sill) A syllabary.

Sillyddiad, s. m. (sillydd) An arranging of syllables

Sillyddiaeth, s. m. (sillydd) The system of arranging syllables; prosody.

*Trefu sillyddiaeth nedd gaeth gyst,
 I bob galr bawb ei gerynt.*

The order of prosody was strict of yore, to every word each his kindred one.
Ieuan ab Ihywel Sordwal.

Sillyddn, v. a. (sillydd) To arrange syllables.

Sim, s. m.—pl. t. od (si—im) That is light, flip-pant, or full of motion.

Simach, s. m. (sim) A monkey, an ape.

Cymwythach corach a simach.

The mutual complacency of the pigmy and the monkey.
Adage.

Simdde, s. f.—pl. t. au (sim—de) A chimney.

Simer, s. m. (sim) Levity, trifling; a frisk.

Simera, v. a. (simer) To play or frisk about; to trifle, to dally.

Simiawl, a. (sim) Full of motion, flip-pant.

Simne, s. f.—pl. t. iau (sim—ne) A chimney.

Simp, s. m. (sim) The state of being instable; a flut-ter.

Simpl, a. (simp) Tottering, ready to fall.

Simplaidd, a. (simpl) Seeming to fall.

Simplaw, v. a. (simpl) To totter.

Simpliad, s. m. (simpl) A tottering.

Simsan, a. (sim—san) Tottering, ready to fall.

Simwr, s. m.—pl. t. au (sim—wr) A kind of ves-ture; a chimmar.

Sin, s. m. (si—in) That is an outside or surface; donation, alms.

*Sin dynion gweinio o gan;
 Sin i ereill sy'n arian.*

The alms of poor persons of white flour; the alms of others be in money.
L. G. Cothi.

Sinach, s. m.—pl. t. au (sin) A mere or landmark; a balk, a ridge; jungle; but, in Rhos and about Conwy, it is any spot of wild land in a cultivated field.

Terfyn dwy erw, dwy gwys, a hwaun a elwir sinach.

The boundary of two acres consists of two furrows, and that is called a ridge.
Welsh Laws.

Sinachad, s. m. (sinach) A cutting into dribblets.

Paid â sinachad y bara, cease with mangling the bread.
Dyfed.

Sinachu, v. a. (sinach) To cut into dribblets.

Sindal, s. m. (sin—tal) Sindon, fine linen; cambric

A Dewi fab Sant sindal dudedd.

And Dewi son of Sant with a fine linen vest.

Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Sindw, s. pl. aggr. (sin—tw) That is forced to the surface; the scoria or cinders of a forge.

Siniad, s. m. (sin) A burning to cinders.

Siniaw, v. a. (sin) To reduce to cinders; to be-come cinders.

Siniawg, a. (sin) Abounding with cinders. s. f.

The part of a hearth which holds the cinders.

Siniawl, a. (sin) Of the quality of cinders.

Sinld, s. m. (sin) Surface, or scum.

Sinldr, s. m. (sinld) The scoria or dross of iron.

Sinldraw, v. a. (sinldr) To form dross.

Siob, s. f.—pl. t. au (si—ob) A tuft; a tassel.

Sioba, s. f. dim. (siob) A tuft; the crest of a bird.

Siobawg, a. (siob) Having a tuft, tufted.

Siobo, s. m. dim. (siob) A tuft; a sprinkle used in throwing holy water.

Tynal Collen y siobo allan, ac o ferol y dwf heulgid m o penau; ac ar hyn y difanant o'i olwg.

Collen pulled out the sprinkler, and he threw the holy water over them; and upon that they vanished out of his sight.
Buchold Colen.

Siobyn, s. m. dim. (siob) A small tuft.

Siobynawg, a. (siobyn) Tufted; crested.

Siobynu, v. a. (siobyn) To form a small tuft.

Sioch, s. f.—pl. t. au (si—och) That spreads out; bushy hair.

Siochen, s. f. dim. (sioch) A small tuft of hair; a bushy tuft.

Siochi, v. a. (sioch) To form a tuft, to make bushy.

Siol, s. m. (si—ol) The top of the head; the skull.

Siolyn, s. m. dim. (siol) A noddle.

Sionc, a. (si—onc) Brisk, nimble, active; flip-pant

Sioncaidd, a. (sionc) Somewhat brisk.

Sioncawl, a. (sionc) Tending to vivacity.

Sioncedd, s. m. (sionc) Briskness, nimbleness.

Sionci, v. a. (sionc) To make brisk; to become brisk, or lively.

Sioncwydd, s. m. (sionc) Briskness, vivacity.

Ond mawr na feddal sioncwydd Rhian Rygyngu cecne rhag angus!

How odd it is that the briskness of France should not drive a trip some time to escape from death!
Ellis Wym, R. Cap.

Siopos, s. pl. aggr. (siob) What is all in shatter; a mass bruised or beat together.

Sipiad, s. m. (sib) A sipping, a drawing with the lips, a drawing the lips together.

Sipian, s. m. (sib) A sipping, a smacking of lips.

Sipian, v. a. (sib) To keep sipping; to sip.

Sipiaw, v. a. (sib) To draw the lips.

Sipiawl, a. (sib) Sipping, drawing the lips.

Sipledig, a. (sipiad) Sipped, drawn with the lip.

Sipiwr, s. m.—pl. sipiwr (sib—gwr) A sipper.

Sipyn, s. m. dim. (sib) A single sip.

Sir, s. m. (si—ir) Cheer, solace, comfort.

Siriad, s. m. (sir) A cheering, a comforting.

Siriaw, v. a. (sir) To cheer, to be cheered.

Siriawl, a. (sir) Cheering, or cheerful.

Siriedig, a. (siriad) Cheered, comforted.

Siriolder, s. m. (siriawl) Cheerfulness.

Sirioledd, s. m. (siriawl) Cheerfulness.

Sirioli, v. a. (siriawl) To make cheerful; to be-come cheerful.

Sis, s. m. (si—is) A sharp low sound; a whisper.

Sisial, s. m. (sis) A gossip. v. a. To whisper.

Sisiala, v. a. (sisial) To keep whispering.

Sisialawg, a. (sisial) Full of whispering.

Sisialn, v. a. (sisial) To whisper, to mutter.

Sisialwr, s. m.—pl. sisialwr (sisial—gwr) A whisperer; a gossip.

Sisaw, v. imper. (sis) Only used to drive sewis

Sistrain, v. a. (sis) To whisper, to buzz.

Sitell, s. f.—pl. t. i (sid) A whisk, a brush.

Sitelliad, s. m. (sitell) A whisking round.

Sitellu, v. a. (sitell) To whisk round.

Sitiad, s. m. (sid) A whirling, a whisking round.

Sitiaw, v. a. (sid) To whirl, to whisk round.

Sitiawl, a. (sid) Whirling, whisking round.

Sitiwr, s. m.—pl. sitiwyr (sitiaw—gwr) One who whirls, turns, or goes round.

*Seth awr y bonn
Yn caw'r bertiau,
Cyn cwrdd a Satana,
Sitiwr Tartara.*

Seven hours had they been guarding the garden, before meeting with Satana, the ranger of Tartarus.

Sitr, s. m. (sid) That jags, or that shreds.
Sitrach, s. m. (sitr) That is in jags or shreds, like a beaten end of a stick.

Sitrachawg, a. (sitrach) Jagged, or in shreds.
Sitrachied, s. m. (sitrach) A jagging, a shredding
Sitrachu, v. a. (sitrach) To jag, or to shred.

Siw, s. m. (si) A hiss. Siw! An exclamation used in driving fowls away.

Nid odd na siw na siw.

There was not hiss nor mew.

Adage.

Siwen, s. m. (siw) An epithet for the mermaid, the general name for which is morforwyn.

Siwr, s. m.—pl. siwyr (si—gwr) A hisser.

SO, s. f. r. A spread out, along, or over.

Sob, s. m.—pl. t. au (sy—ob) A tuft; a bunch, a cluster; a mass.

Soba, s. f. dim. (sob) A small tuft, bunch, cluster, or mass.

Soban, s. f. dim. (sob) A small tuft, or bunch.

Socan, s. f. dim. (sog) A wallower. Socan cira, socas lwyd, a fieldfare.

Socas, s. f. (sog) A wallower; the fieldfare.

locyn, s. m. dim. (sog) A pig; an urchin, a boy, in droll style.

loch, s. f. (so—och) A sink, or a drain.

lodawl, a. (sawd) Tending to fix, implant, or settle; characteristic.

odi, v. a. (sawd) To constitute, to fix, or to set.

odiad, s. m. (sawd) A constituting, a fixing, or implanting.

odiawg, a. (sawdl) Having a heel, beeled.

odli, v. a. (sawdl) To heel; to trip the heel.

odliad, s. m. (sawdl) A heeling; a tripping.

odwedd, s. f. (sawd—gwedd) A characteristic.

oddawry, a. (sawdd) Capable of being sunk.

oddawl, a. (sawdd) Sinking; plunging.

oddedig, a. (sawdd) Being sunk or plunged.

ddediggaeth, s. m. (soddedig) The act of sinking ddi, v. a. (sawdd) To sink, to submerge.

ddiad, s. m. (sawdd) A sinking; a plunging.

ddwr, s. m.—pl. soddwyr (soddi—gwr) A sinker eg, s. m. (so—eg) That is puffed by seething; grains of malt; draft.

A fagyr gyda moch a ddwyg fwyta soeg.

That is bred with swine will learn to eat grains.

Yr hwch a dau a fwyty y soeg.

The silent sow eats the draft.

Hwch dy gyfalaf, hi a ddwyg iti fwyta soeg.

Be a sow thy companion, she will teach thee to eat grains.

egen, s. f. dim. (soeg) A swaggy female.

egi, v. a. (soeg) To puff up with moisture; to steep; to slabber.

eglyd, a. (soeg) Puffed by steeping; slabbered eglydrwydd, s. m. (soeglyd) A steeped state; slabbiness.

fi, s. m.—pl. soffydd (sawf) Stubble.

fawg, a. (soff) Having stubble, stubbly.

fiar, s. f.—pl. soffieir (soff—iar) A quail; also called Rhinc.

flyn, s. m. dim. (soff) A single stubble.

g, s. f. (so—og) A wallow, a spread.

ga, a. (sog) Wallowing; slovenly. Geneth sog, a slovenly girl. Sil.

Som, s. f.—pl. t. au (sy—om) A vacuity, a void; a balk, a disappointment.

Somawl, a. (som) Disappointing, balking.

Somedig, a. (som) Disappointed, balked.

Somedigaeth, s. f. (somedig) Disappointment.

Nid somedigaeth ond gwralg.

There is no deception equal to a woman.

Adage.

Somedigawl, a. (somedig) Disappointing.

Somedd, s. m. (som) A disappointment.

Somgar, a. (som) Apt to disappoint.

Somgar a soma ei hunan yn y diwedd.

The deceitful will deceive himself at last.

Adage.

Somgarwch, s. m. (somgar) Aptness to balk.

Somi, v. a. (som) To balk, to disappoint.

Y cryf a'r doeth—

Dleyweth dau a somir.

The strong and the wise, two that suddenly will be deceived.

E. Eoson a Aber Dar.

Somlad, s. m. (som) A disappointing, a balking.

Somlant, s. m. (som) A disappointment.

Somwr, s. m.—pl. somwyr (som—gwr) A balker; a disappointer, a deceiver.

Son, s. m.—pl. t. ion (so—on) A noise; a report; a rumour; a mention. v. a. To noise; to report; to mention. Mae son amdani, there is talk about her; na wna son amdanad, do not cause a talk about thee:—Na son, do not say so; taw a son, hold thy tongue.

Son am y son amdanu,

Ni cheir son dda o hano.

To talk of the talk about him, no good talk will be had from that.

Adage.

A fo doeth, ar fyd wethion,

A dwys i'r, fo dau a son.

Such as he wise, at present on the world, with a significant word, he will cease with talking.

T. Frys.

Sonfawr, a. (son) Noisy, or rambling.

Songryf, a. (son—cryf) Of powerful noise.

Soniad, s. m. (son) A noising, a reporting, a rumouring, a mentioning.

Sonial, s. m. (son) A continued noise. v. a. To keep a continual noise.

O edwedd Mortal

A gwedl Rhys mawr y sonial.

For the disappearing of Mortal, and after Rhys great the lamentation.

Llywarch Hen.

Soniaw, v. a. (son) To noise; to report; to rumour; to make mention; to talk. Gostega bach a sonio amdanad, silence every body that shall talk about thee.

Soniwn bellach am—ddyledswyddau truaidd.

We will mention now about domestic duties.

Theo. Eoson.

Soniawl, a. (son) Noising, reporting, rumouring.

Soniawr, s. m. (son) That is noisy, or loud.

Eis hould a drywanaf drwy garawg soniawr ei ll.

Our soul had been made to pass through a brook of noisy food.

D. Ddu, p. 124.

Soniedig, a. (soniad) Noised, reported, rumoured, mentioned, talked.

Soniwr, s. m.—pl. soniwr (son—gwr) A man who makes a report or rumour; a mentioner; a talker.

Sopen, s. f.—pl. t. i (sob) Any mass squeezed or trussed together; a bundle, a truss. Sopen o gaws, a ball of cheese curds; sopen o flew, a bundle of hair; sopen o wair, a truss of hay.

Dos, y sopen front, Go, thou dirty baggage.

Sopenawg, a. (sopen) Being squeezed into a mass.

Sopeniad, s. m. (sopen) A squeezing into a mass, a making into a bundle.

Sopenu, v. a. (sopen) To bundle, to truss.

3 S 2

Sopiad, s. m. (sob) A pressing together into a mass; a bundling, a trussing.

Sopiaw, v. a. (sob) To press together into a mass; to bundle, to truss.

Sôr, s. m. (sy—or) The state of being pressed upon, chafed, or irritated; the being displeased or silently angry; sullenness. a. Sullen, sulky; angry; harsh, grating; sullen.

*Dial yn sôr am dori
Da glos, Duw, dy eglwys di.*

Avenge harshly, for breaking a goodly sanctuary, God, thy church.

Sôriad, s. m. (sôr) A displeasing; a becoming displeased, sullen, or sulky.

Sôradow, a. (sôradow) Capable of displeasing.

Sôrawl, a. (sôr) Displeasing, tending to sullenness.

Soredig, a. (sorad) Displeased, offended.

Soredigaeth, s. m. (soredig) The act of displeasing; displeasure, sullenness.

Sôri, v. a. (sôr) To press upon; to chafe; to displease, to offend; to render sullen or sulky; to become displeased or offended; to grow sullen or sulky. Ystafell sôri, a sulking room: Na sôra wrth dy fwyd, do not quarrel with thy victuals.

Nid sôri yt ar dy fam.

Be there not for thee to be sulky to thy mother. Adage.

*Ni fydd am nid fo,
Na bryn, na thyno,
Na rhyuawd godo
Rhag gwyot pan soro.*

There can be no where free, nor hill, nor dale, nor the least of shelter from the wind when it shall rage. Taliesin.

Sôriad, s. m.—pl. sôriaid (sôr) A grating, chafing, or irritating; a becoming offended, sullen, or sulky.

Saer dy fawl, sôriad wyf fi.

The author of thy praise, an offended one am I. R. Ddu.

Sôriannawl, a. (sôriant) Tending to displeasure, offensive; tending to sullenness.

Sôriannu, v. a. (sôriant) To cause displeasure, offence, or sullenness.

Sôriant, s. m. (sôr) Displeasure, disgust, offence; sullenness.

Sôrig, a. (sôr) Apt to take offence; sulky.

Sôrilyd, a. (sôr) Apt to grow angry, or sulky.

Sôrilydrwydd, s. m. (sôrilyd) Aptness to be offended, or sulky.

Sorod, s. pl. aggr. (sôr) Small particles, parts, or fragments; shatters; dregs, dross, sordes; also called swrwd.

Sorodi, v. a. (sorod) To yield dross or dregs.

Sorth, s. f. (sôr) That is sudden, imminent, or upon; chance.

Sorth, a. (sôr) Sudden; imminent, falling; unwieldy; slothful; rude, rough, fell.

*Ffryd dda i'n cadw'n holl ddiwerth,
O ffwrn a safn uffern sorth.*

Wholesome faith to keep us pleasantly without price, from the furnace and the jaw of precipitous hell. S. Mawddwy.

Noth, s. m. (sy—oth) That is on the outside.

Sothach, s. pl. aggr. (soth) Refuse, dross.

*Llyw a'm dysgawld hawdd hoddiau gwyd berffaith,
Nid fal sothach-faith berdd cuth Cawaw.*

A chief has instructed me with facility to acquire the perfect song, not like the refuse-speech of the slavish bard of Cawaw. Sefnyu.

Sothachlyd, a. (sothach) Abounding with refuse.

Sothachu, v. a. (sothach) To cast a refuse.

SU, s. m. r. That tends to pervade; a buzz.

Suad, s. m. (su) A buzzing; a lulling; a lullaby.

Suaw, v. a. (su) To hush, to lull to rest.

Suawl, a. (su) Hushing, lulling to rest.

Sucan, s. m. (sug) Any thing seethed, or steeped, washbrew, gruel, flummery; small beer. Suca blasod, cawl dwr, water gruel; sucan gryn, bruchan, candle, made with soured or seethed oatmeal, and sweetened.

Gwell sucan meddiant no gwin cardawd.

Better is small beer than is one's own wine on chairs. Adag.

Sucanaidd, a. (sucan) Of a washy quality.

Sud, s. m. (su—ud) A first glance; an exterior appearance; condition, fashion, shape. A ryd ti yn dda dy sud? Art thou in a good way?

Sudd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (su—udd) That pervades or sinks in; moisture; juice, sap.

Suddadwy, a. (sudd) Capable of pervading; capable of containing juice.

Suddas, s. m. (sudd) A sinking, an immersion. Clych suddas, water bubbles.

Suddaw, v. a. (sudd) To sink in, to pervade; to sink; to become sunk. Suddaw lleng, to sink a ship.

Suddawl, a. (sudd) Tending to sink in, or to pervade; sinking.

Suddedig, a. (sudd) Pervaded as moisture; moist.

Suddiad, s. m. (sudd) A sinking, a plunging.

Suddiant, s. m. (sudd) Pervasion of moisture; a sinking.

Sug, s. m.—pl. t. ion (su—ng) An imbibing principle; a suck, or drawing; what is imbibed; juice, sap.

Sugaeth, s. m. (sug) The state of being juicy; moisture; succulence.

Sugaethan, s. m. (sugaeth) What is suckled. washbrew, caudle; a poultice.

Sugaw, v. a. (sug) To imbibe; to fill with juice; to have juice.

Sugawl, a. (sug) Imbibing; juicy; succulent.

Sugedig, a. (sug) Imbibed; filled with juice.

Suger, s. m. (sug) Extracted juice; cyder.

Sugiad, s. m. (sug) An imbibing of juice; a becoming juicy.

Suglian, s. m. (sug—llian) A cerecloth, a drawing plaster.

Sugn, s. m. (sug) A suck: suga y geifr, woodbine or honey-suckle.

Sugnad, s. m. (sugn) A sucking, an imbibing.

Sugnai, s. c. (sugn) That sucks or imbibes.

Sugnaw, v. a. (sugn) To suck, to imbibe.

Sugnawl, a. (sugn) Sucking, imbibing.

Sugnbeiriant, s. m. (sugn—peiriant) An hydraulic machine; a pump.

Sugnbib, s. f.—pl. t. an (sugn—pib) A drawing pipe; a syringe.

Sugndraeth, s. m.—pl. sugndreathydd (sugndraeth) A quicksand.

Sugndrec, s. m. (sugn—tree) A pump.

Sugnedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sugnad) A sucking pump.

Sugneidd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sugnai) A pump.

Sugnfor, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (sugn—mor) A vortex in the sea; a quicksand.

Sugnostrel, s. m.—pl. t. an (sugn—castrel) A sucking-bottle.

Sugniad, s. m. (sugn) A sucking, or imbibing.

Sugnwr, s. m.—pl. sugnwyr (sugn—gwr) One who sucks, or imbibes.

Sugnwydr, s. m.—pl. suguwydrau (sugn—gwydr) A cupping-glass.

Sugnydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sugn) A pump.

Sugolaeth, s. m. (sugawl) Succalency.

Sugoli, v. a. (sugawl) To render juicy; to become juicy or succulent.

Sugr, s. m.—pl. sugron (sug) An extracted juice crystallized; sugar.

Sugraw, v. a. (sugr) To sugar; to sweeten.

Sugrawl, a. (sugr) Of the quality of sugar.

Sul, s. m.—pl. t. iau (su—ul) That extends round; the sun. Dydd Sul, Sunday; also called Dywsul, Dydd yr Arglwydd, and simply Sul. Sul, a gwyb, a gwaiht, Sunday, holiday, and work-day; Sul y gweddiâu, rogation Sunday.

Sulwyn, s. m. (sul—gwyn) Whitsunday.

Sulw, s. m. (sul) Observation, notice, remark. Dal sulw, take notice.

Sulw, s. m. (sulw) A scope round; exploration.

Sum, s. m.—pl. t. iau (su—um) Amplitude, magnitude, bulk, size; sum. Nid oes gyddde fawr o sum, it is of no great bulk.

Sumiad, s. m. (sum) A bestowing amplitude, or magnitude; a becoming of bulk; a making observation as to size; a summing.

Sumiaw, v. a. (sum) To endue with amplitude, or magnitude; to sum; to deduce the size or bulk of a thing by positing it in the hand.

Sumiawl, a. (sum) Relating to amplitude.

Sumiedig, a. (sumiad) Endued with bulk; measured as to size; summed.

Sumiwr, s. m.—pl. sumwyr (sum—gwr) One who deduces the size of a body.

Sur, s. m. (su—ur) The state or quality of sourness; an acid. a. Sour, acid; stale. Llaeth sur, sour milk; afaleu surion, crab apples; cirtia surion, sloes.

Ni chair afal per ar brwn wr.

No sweet apple can be had from a sour tree.

Adapt.

Suraidd, a. (sur) Somewhat sour, subacid.

Suran, s. f.—pl. surain (sur) The sorrel. Surain yr yd, sheep's sorrel; surain y maes, surain y wacen, common sorrel; surain y fran, sorrel; surain hirion, tafol y dwfr, great water dock; surain codawg, winter cherry; surain y coed, surain y gog, surain tairdalen, wood sorrel.

Suranen, s. f. dim. (suran) A sorrel. Suranen godawg, dagrau addaf, winter-cherry plant.

Suraw, v. a. (sur) To sour, to turn sour; to make sour.

Surawl, a. (sur) Of a sour tendency.

Surber, a. (sur—per) Of an acid sweetness.

Surfwg, s. m. (sur—bwg) Sillabub.

Surdeb, s. m. (sur) Acidity, sourness; tartness.

Surder, s. m. (sur) Acidity, sourness; tartness.

Surdoes, s. m. (sur—toes) Sour dough, leaven.

Surdoesawg, a. (surdoes) Having leaven.

Surdoesawl, a. (surdoes) Leavening.

Surdoesl, v. a. (surdoes) To leaven.

Surdra, s. m. (sur) Acidity, or sourness.

Surdrwnc, s. m. (sur—trwnc) Stale urine.

Suredig, a. (sur) Acidulated or soured.

Surredd, s. m. (sur) Acidity, sourness.

Surfedd, s. m. (sur—medd) A syrup.

Surfelys, a. (sur—melys) Of an acid sweetness.

Surian, s. f.—pl. surialn (sur) A cherry.

Eurais wawd—

Er bouc blodau surian.

I have ornamented an elegy for her who is of the hue of the cherry blossoms. H. ab Ein, Llyllio.

Surni, s. m. (sur) Sourness, tartness, acidity.

Surwern, s. f. (sur—gwrn) A sour swamp; also an epithet for hell, consonant to the bardic theology.

Adapt. ydith guthen, surwen, old cyth.
Lid llin llawer gwas wathurych speigor
Lia du—

Mell, the retortacle of a slavish crew, a sour swamp that drives not, where there is space a yore dimly appearing without relief of the black host. Carnodyn.

Surn, s. m. dim. (sur) Any acid thing.

Sut, s. m. (sud) An exterior; appearance; manner, condition, plight; shape. Pa sut sydd? How goes it? Naidia yna: Pa sut? Jump to there: which way? How?

Wrth sut eu herith ar son
Yr adwainir y dyllod.

By the manner of their discourse in talking with the persons he knows. Ira. Bryddad Hw.

Sutiad, s. m. (sut) A seeming; giving a manner, form, or shape; a suiting.

Sutiaw, v. a. (sut) To endue with a manner, plight, or shape; to adapt, to suit.

Sutiawl, a. (sut) Relating to manner, condition, or shape; adapted, suiting, befitting.

Süwr, s. m.—pl. süwyr (su—gwr) A husher.

SW, s. m. r. That remains, that is on, fixed upon, or exterior.

Swb, s. m. (sw) That is piled, heaped, or pressed together; a bundle.

Swba, s. m. dim. (swb) A small hunch.

Swbach, s. m. (swb) That is drawn together in a heap.

Swbachiad, s. m. (swbach) A shrinking up.

Swbachn, v. a. (swbach) To shrink up; to become shrunk up or decrepit.

Swci, s. m. (swg) That is soaked; steepings. Oen soci, oen llawfaeth, a lamb reared by hand; lle soci, a calf reared by hand.

Swch, s. f.—pl. sychod (sw—wch) A snout; a soc. Swch aradr, ploughshare; swch cegid, the point of a shoe.

Sychu y swch i fynydd fr yrhyd.

To wipe the snout to go into the soil.

Adapt.

Swchiad, s. m. (swch) A snouting, a turning about with the snout.

Swchlaw, v. a. (swch) To snout; to search with the snout, as a pig, or a dog; also to share a plough.

Swchlawl, a. (swch) Belonging to the snout; belonging to a ploughshare.

Swd, s. m. (sw—wd) An exterior; appearance, manner, condition, plight; shape. Sit.

Swdd, s. m. (sw—dd) A frame, beams put together to support any thing; what is piled together.

Swdden, s. f.—pl. t. i (swdd) A beam.

Swf, s. m. (sw) That is on; a spot, a space.

Swg, s. m. (sw—wg) A soak, or imbibing.

Swga, a. (swg) Tending to soak; soaked; filthy.

Mor swga wyt ti! how filthy thou art!

Swgan, s. f. (swg) A slut, or a slattern.

Swgawl, a. (swg) Tending to soak; soaking, drenching.

Swgiaw, v. a. (swg) To soak; to become soaked, to become flaccid; to become filthy.

Swgiad, s. m. (swg) A soaking, a drenching; a growing flaccid; a becoming filthy.

Swl, s. m. (sw—wl) A flat space, or surface, the ground; soil, dirt.

Swl, a. (sw—wl) Flat; grounded, soiled.

Sawl'th gale, swl-tath gwyn;

Sawl swch y dyllod a son.

Feeble is thy attempt, with thy plain uniform speech; perch above the rafter and talk away. D. ab Gwilym, fr werned.

Swla, a. (swl) Being grounded, or covered with soil; dirty. Sit.

Swil, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (sw—wl) That is clear or open; a scene, a prospect.

Swilt, s. m.—pl. sylitan (swil) That has a clear surface; a shilling; money; treasure.

Rhola ar ferch drwsach a drig, Eyllt wedd, a swilt eiddig.

I have fixed on a fair one fondness that will remain, with the form of Eyllt, and the treasure of a jealous cuff. D. ab Gwilym.

*Y gwar a gymerynt, a chuddedig swilt y ciododwyr a ranynt.
The city they got possession of, and the concealed treasure of the citizens they divided. Gr. ab Arthur.*

Swm, s. m. (sw—wm) The state of being together.

Swmer, s. m.—pl. t. i (swm) That supports, or keeps together; a beam. Swmer car, the hind part of a drag or dray, which holds up the load.

Swmerfarch, s. m.—pl. swmerfeirch (swmer—march) A sumpter-horse.

Swmeriad, s. m. (swmer) A supporting, uphold-ing, or propping; a fixing a beam.

Swmeru, v. a. (swmer) To support, uphold, or prop; to fix a beam.

Swml, s. m.—pl. symlau (swm—yl) A goad.

Swmwl, s. m.—pl. symylau (swm—wl) A goad.

Syml iawn roi swmwl ymad.

It was very simple to put a goad in thee. Llywelyn Moch.

Swm, s. m.—pl. syniau (sw—wn) A noise; a sound. Swm taran, the noise of thunder; swm llw, the noise of a multitude.

Swniad, s. m. (swn) A noising; a sounding.

Swniad, v. a. (swn) To make a continual noise; to make a clattering; to ring.

Swniaw, v. a. (swn) To noise; to sound.

Swniawl, a. (swn) Noisy, loud, sounding.

Swniedig, a. (swniad) Being noised, or sounded.

Swniwr, s. m.—pl. swniwyr (swn—gwr) One who makes a noise; a sounder.

Swp, s. m.—pl. sypiau (swb) A squeezed lump or mass; a heap; a pile; a bunch, a cluster. Gwnaf di yn swp yn dy groen, I will beat thee all to a mummy; dyma fo yn un swp, here it is all in a heap.

Swpws, s. pl. aggr. (swp) A heap of things squeezed or beat together.

Swr, s. m. (sw) That is surly, sullen, or cross; a surly one.

Swr, a. (sw) Surly, sullen, sulky, cross. Dyn sur iawn, a very ill-natured man.

Swri, s. m. (swr) Surliness; sullenness; a snarling; a barking. Swri! swri! words used to invite a dog to one.

Swrn, s. m.—pl. syrnau (sy—wrn) A small opening, space, or separation; a somewhat, a quantity, a little; the joint next to the foot of a quadruped; the pastern-joint or fetlock-joint.

A swrn hyd Ddywawwrn sydd.

And a good space till Saturday there is. D. ab Gwilym.

Swrnach, s. m. (swrn) A snarl, or a grin.

Swrnach, v. a. (swrn) To grin, or to snarl.

Swrndaraw, v. a. (swrn—taraw) To cut or knock the pastern-joints together.

Swrth, s. m. (swr) That is sudden, imminent, or falling.

Swrth, a. (swr) Sudden; imminent, falling; drowsy; unwieldy; slothful; rude, rough, fell. Dywedi yn swrth, thou speakest roughly. Sil.

Swrth pob diawg.

Every lazy one is clumsy. Adage.

Mor swrth y syrbloedd march Paen!

How suddenly fell the steed of Paen! Llywarch Hen.

Swrth oedd ei fyn'd, syrbloedd fo

Drwy oer iag i dir ango.

Had was his departing, he fell through severe affliction to the land of oblivion. Ed. Samuel.

Swrthdrwm, a. (swrth—trwm) Of a drowsy be-viness.

Swrthlyd, a. (swrth) Apt to be drowsy.

Swrthyn, s. m. dim. (swrth) A clumsy one.

Swrwr, s. m. (swr) Surly, snarling; sullen.

Swrwd, s. pl. aggr. (swr) Parts, fragments; shatters; dross, sordes. Mac e yn swrwd yn ei groen, he is all to shatters in his skin.

Swta, s. m. (swd) That is volatile, flying, or sudden; also soot. a. Volatile, flying, sudden.

Llu swta mewn llw swta.

Satan's host in livery of soot.

Ido Gwl.

Swtain, s. m.—pl. swtain (swd) A whitening post. It is called bawd melinydd, and cod lwyd.

Swtiad, s. m. (swt) A flying about; a being of sudden motion.

Swtiaw, v. a. (swt) To fly about; to be volatile & sudden.

Swtr, s. m. (swd) A sudden crack, or crash.

Swtrach, s. pl. aggr. (swtr) Dross, dreg.

Swtrws, s. pl. aggr. (swtr) That is bruised. Tori yn swtrws, to bruise to a mash.

Swth, s. m. (sw—wth) A frame, or what keeps together; a pile, a heap.

Swy, s. m. (sw) That is on, over, or exterior.

Swyd, s. m. (swy) That extends over; awe.

Swydaw, v. a. (swyd) To awe, to intimidate.

Swydawl, a. (swyd) Tending to awe.

Swydiad, s. m. (swyd) A creating an awe.

Swydu, a. (swyd) Tending to awe.

Swydd, s. f.—pl. t. an (swy) Employ, office, duty; suit; service, with respect to tenure; also a jurisdiction; a shire. Tir a swydd wrthi, land with service attached to it; tir heb swydd, land free of service: Eis gmo yn un swydd, I went there on purpose.

Drwg y swydd ni thal ei gwasnach.

Bad is the office that is not worth serving. Adg.

*A gado swydd afwysdawl
Y gyfrith ddifallh i ddawl.*

*And leave the intricate pursuit of the wicked law to the wit.
Ido Llywarch Hen.*

Swyddawg, a. (swydd) Having an office. s. m.—pl. swyddogion. An officer. Swyddogion y llyn, the officers of the court; swyddogion llyn & llyn, purveyors of meat and drink; swyddog y dollfa, an officer of the customs.

Swyddawl, a. (swydd) Official, of office.

Swyddfa, s. f.—pl. swyddfeydd (swydd) A place of business, or office.

Swyddgar, a. (swydd) Officious, full of business.

Swyddgarwch, s. m. (swyddgar) Officiousness.

Swyddogaeth, s. f.—pl. t. an (swyddawg) The sway or extent of any office; the jurisdiction of a county.

Had swyddogaeth a dythant yn mhob thr.

The seeds of office will grow in every land. Adg.

Swyddogawl, a. (swyddawg) Belonging to office.

Swyddogedig, a. (swyddawg) Officered.

Swyddoges, s. f.—pl. t. an (swyddawg) A female officer.

Swyddogi, v. a. (swyddawg) To hold an office.

Swyddogiad, s. m. (swyddawg) A holding an office.

Swyddwial, s. f.—pl. swyddwial (swydd—gwial) A rod of office.

Swyddwialen, s. f. (swyddwial) A rod of office.

Swyddwr, s. m.—pl. swyddwyr (swydd—gwr) An officer.

Swyddymgais, s. m. (swydd—ymgais) A seeking or looking after office.

wyddymgeislad, s. m. (swyddymgais) A seeking after an office.
wyddymgeislaw, v. a. (swyddymgais) To seek after an office.
wyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (swy) That is on the surface; froth; yeast; also suet. See Ysgui.

Maer y brawd a gollf swyf a blonog ysgui y Rys.

The lord steward shall have the suet and the lord of the animals of the palace. Welsh Laws.

ryfaw, v. n. (swyf) To produce a scum or surface; to yield suet; to turn to suet.
ryfaw, s. a. (swyf) Having a scum; having suet.
ryfedd, s. m. (swyf) That becomes a surface or coating; suet.
ryfen, s. f. (swyf) Scum, froth, or top.
ryfi, s. m. (swyf) Scum, froth, or top.
ryfind, s. m. (swyf) A yielding scum or surface; a yielding suet.
ryl, s. f.—pl. t. on (swy) A saving.
rylaw, v. a. (swyl) To save, or to put by.

Swylaw ar y clyd dweiddaf.

To save when reduced to the last scrap.

Adage.

rya, s. f.—pl. t. lon (swy) A preservative, protection, or comfort; a remedy; a charm. Dwfr hys, holy water; swyn ddrwg, bad comfort.

Gwae i na allaf, ha fwrch!

Dy ddrwg yna gwaethu swyn sorch.

Woe to me that I cannot, oh maid! bear thee away by making a love charm. Irish Text.

yna, v. a. (swyn) To collect preservatives or emedies; to deal in charms.

ynaw, v. a. (swyn) To apply a preservative, omfort or cure; to charm; to bless; to save armless; to excuse.

*A'm swynnedi Math,
 Cyn benn ddiard!
 A'm swynwyl i Wdion,
 Mawr-aw y Brythod:
 O Ewrye, o Euron,
 O Euron, o Fedron,
 O bamp pamwnt calyddion
 Athrawon all Math.*

Math had given one preserving means, before that I was made mortal; I was also made secure by Gwion, the mighty profound of the Brythod; by Ewrye, by Euron, by Euron by Medron, by the times five hundred thousand arts of doctors equal to Math. Taliesin.

Dew o nef a'th swynaw.

God of heaven both blessed thee.

L. P. Mech.

nawg, a. (swyn) Possessed of a preserving virtue.

nawl, a. (swyn) Preservative; tending to comfort; curative; blessing; tending to charm.

nedig, a. (swyn) Furnished with a preservative, or remedy; endowed with a charm.

Dwfr a halen swynedig ya y bodyn.

Consecrated water and salt in the baptism.

Ll. Gwyn Hergest.

nedigaeth, s. f. (swynedig) The act of preserving or remedying by some hidden virtue; a preserving by charm.

nedigawl, a. (swynedig) Tending to preserve to remedy by any hidden virtue.

ifri, s. m. (swyn—bri) The daisy.

gyfaredd, s. f.—pl. t. lon (swyn—cyfaredd) amulet; witchcraft.

gyfareddawg, a. (swyngyfaredd) Possessed witchcraft.

gyfareddawl, a. (swyngyfaredd) Belonging witchcraft.

gyfareddiad, s. m. (swyngyfaredd) A practicing of witchcraft.

gyfareddu, v. a. (swyngyfaredd) To practise deal in witchcraft.

Swyngyfareddwr, s. m. (swyngyfaredd—gwr) A dealer in witchcraft.

Swyniad, s. m. (swyn) A preserving, a comforting; the applying of a remedy; a charming; a blessing; a saving harmless; an excusing.

Swynogl, s. f.—pl. t. au (swynawg) An amulet, a charm.

Yeo Pfolleob a wleagl andanuf ryw arall o barnale, yr hon a elwir o'rogonnat—o'm basogol i afyn cygher i wleagdd y swynoglas, ya writhwyneb i gyfrith Daw.

Thereupon Folly arrayed me in another sort of attire, which is called valagery—that would impute me to ask counsel from women who deal in charms, contrary to the law of God.

Merchawg Cwydrad.

Swynogli, v. a. (swynogl) To apply a preservative; to apply a remedy; to charm; to fascinate.

Y gairia hyn a'm swynogol i, merys ag yr oedd hir gonyf, o etates cael gwled y llys hinfidd hwn.

Those words fascinated me, as it was tedious to me, for want of getting to see that palace of summer days.

Merchawg Cwydrad.

Swynogliad, s. m. (swynogl) Fascination.

Swynoglwyr, s. m.—pl. swynoglwyr (swynogl—gwr) A dealer in spells, a fascinater.

Swynwr, s. m.—pl. swynwyr (swyn—gwr) One who uses a preservative, or remedy; a comforter; a dealer in amulets, or charms; a magician. Swynwr drwg wyt ti, thou art a Job's comforter.

Swynwraig, s. f.—pl. swynwraigdd (swyn—gwraig) A woman who deals in charms.

Swynydd, s. m.—pl. t. lon (swyn) A wizard.

Swys, s. m.—pl. t. au (sy—wys) A scope round; emotion; impulse; a throb, a throw.

*Cynnyddwn nloann, heb swysau seuth,
 Can na Daw fry freinleuth.*

We also shall grow up, without the arrow thrown, in the kingdom of our God on high.

Cynyddwr.

Swysaw, v. a. (swys) To fill with emotion.

Swysawg, a. (swys) Having emotion, or impulse.

*Bid swynawg ton tu porth Wryn,
 Bid swynawg serchawg, bawwg breyr.*

Foamy be the wave towards the port of Gwynn, anxious be the lover, exalted be the chieftain.

Gwynleuth.

Swysawl, a. (swys) Tending to give impulse.

Swysiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (swys) A producing emotion, impulse, or feeling.

Swyson, s. pl. aggr. (swys) Emotions; passions.

SY, s. m. r. That is, existeth, or remaineth; that is fixed or stated; a star. v. n. Is, existeth, or hath a being. It is used as a prefix in composition.

Pwybyng sy heb wrail sy heb ymryson.

Whoever is without a wife is without contention.

Adage.

Syber, a. (swb—er) Having a low tendency; of good conduct, sober, staid.

Tri hardd byd: dwyflaw, calydd, a syber.

The three ornaments of the world: the pious, the ingenuous, and the one of sober conduct.

Cating ab Gwynllyth.

Syberedig, a. (syber) Being rendered of sober demeanour.

Syberl, s. m. (syber) A good demeanour; neatness; sobriety.

Syberw, a. (syber) Stately, magnificent, noble; courteous, generous; supercilious, haughty, highminded; elegant. Meirch syberw, proud steeds; ach syberw, a noble lineage.

Y neb a ddyweto ya syberw, neu ya hagr, wrth y brein, taied dair-ba camlwr.

Whoever shall speak superciliously, or unseemly, to the king, let him pay three kine for compensation of injury.

Welsh Laws.

A rhag syberwdd Rolant of a edenic iddo gyng.

And from Rolant being so magnanimous he suffered him to sleep.

H. Cer. Mag—Mabingion.

Pan glywyr bod enw breichn iddynt, syberwch fyddant.

When it shall be heard that they possess the name of a king, more arrogant will they be.
Gr. ab Arthur.

Syberwad, s. m. (syberw) A rendering stately.
Syberwaidd, a. (syberw) Tending to be stately.
Syberweiddrwydd, s. m. (syberwaidd) Stateliness.
Syberwi, v. a. (syberw) To make stately, to become noble, high, or elated; to become elegant.
Syberwyd, s. m. (syberw) Stateliness, magnificence; nobleness; courtesy, generosity, munificence; highmindedness; haughtiness, elegance. Rhodd a syberwyd gorsedd, the grant and courtesy of a convention. Barddas.

Gwell syberwyd no bonedd.

Better is courtesy than nobility.

Adage.

Er dy syberwyd, pwylla wrtho heno.

For thy honour, be comendate to him this night.

H. Peredur—Mabinogion.

Llawer a berio Roiant eu coll o wyrda, o'i syberwyd ef.

Many did Roiant cause to perish of brave men, owing to his highmindedness.
H. Car. Mag—Mabinogion.

Sybid, s. m. (swb) That is all in a heap.
Sybidan, s. f. dim. (sybid) A weakly female.
Sybidyn, s. m. dim. (sybid) A worthless fellow.
Sybw, s. m. (swb—wb) A rumple, a pressing out of shape.
Sybwbiad, s. m. (sybw) A tumbling about; a rumpling.
Sybwbiaw, v. a. (sybw) To toss, to rumple.
Sybwbiwr, s. m. (sybw) A tosser, a rumpler.
Sybwll, s. m.—pl. sybyllau (sy—pwll) A puddle, or a plash.

Sybwrr, s. m.—pl. sybyrrau (sy—bwrr) Bundle.
Sybywydd, s. pl. aggr. (swb—gwydd) Pines, or fir-trees.

Sybywydden, s. f. dim. (sybywydd) A pine-tree.
Sybyllawg, a. (sybwll) Having puddles, plashy.
Sybyllid, s. m. (sybwll—tir) Plashy ground.
Sybyllu, v. a. (sybwll) To make plashy.
Sybyrnawg, a. (sybwrr) Banded, trussed.
Sybyrnawl, a. (sybwrr) Like a bundle.
Sybyrniad, s. m. (sybwrr) A bundling.
Sybyrnaw, v. a. (sybwrr) To bundle.
Sybyryn, s. m. dim. (sybwrr) A little bundle.
Sych, s. m. (sy—ych) Drought. a. Dry. Dillad sychion, dry clothes.

Tri pheth anhawdd eu cael: dwfr sych, tan gwlyb, a gwrald ddaear.

Three things difficult to be obtained: dry water, wet fire, and a silent wife.

Adage.

Tri pheth a gryffiant y coff: gorwedd ar wely caled, wybren oerlyd, a bwyd sych.

Three things that strengthen the body: a laying on a hard bed, a cold atmosphere, and dry victuals.

Adage.

Sychadwy, a. (sych) Capable of drying.
Sychawl, a. (sych) Tending to dry, drying.
Sychbilen, s. f.—pl. t. au (sych—pilen) A dry film.
Sychder, s. m. (sych) Drought, or dryness.
Syched, s. m. (sych) Drought; thirst. Gad imi dori fy syched, let me quench my thirst.

Dymunaw ydd wyf y dydd y cyfarfyddom ni yghyd; canys syched eu gwael bwynt y sydd arnaf.

I am wishing for the day when we shall meet together; for a thirst after their blood is upon me.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Sychedawl, a. (syched) Tending to cause thirst.
Sychediad, s. m. (syched) A thirsting; a causing thirst.

Sychedig, a. (syched) Being made dry; thirsty.
Sychedigaeth, s. m. (sychedig) A causing to be dry, or thirsty.

Sychedigawl, a. (sychedig) Tending to make dry.

Sychedigrwydd, s. m. (sychedig) A dried state.

Sychedu, v. n. (syched) To thirst, to be thirsty.
Sychedwr, s. m.—pl. sychedwyr (syched—gwr) A thirster.

Sychedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (syched) A thirster.
Sychfa, s. f.—pl. sychfeydd (sych) A drying place.
Sychgernyn, s. m. dim. (sych—cernyn) A dry scale, or scurf.

Sychin, s. f. (sych—hin) Dry weather.
Sychinawg, a. (sych—hin) Being dry weather.
Sychiad, s. m. (sych) A drying, a siccation.
Sychiadu, v. a. (sychiad) To desiccate, to siccate.
Sychiannawl, a. (sychiant) Desiccative, desiccant.
Sychiannu, v. a. (sychiant) To desiccate.
Sychiant, s. m. (sych) Desiccation, siccation.
Sychin, s. f. (sych) Drought, or dry weather.

Hen ar y sychin, phannu ar y gwlth.

Sow on the dry weather, plant on the wet weather.

Adage.

Sychmer, s. m. (sych—mer) Paroxysm of a hectic.
Sychnych, s. m. (sych—nych) A dry pining.
Sychnychdawl, s. m. (sychnych) Consumption.
Sychnychiad, s. m. (sychnych) A pining of tubes.
Sychnychu, v. n. (sychnych) To pine with a tube.
Sychrwyd, s. f.—pl. t. au (sych—rwyd) A dry web, or film, on the eye; also called sychgryn, sychbilen, and rhuchen.

Sychu, v. a. (sych) To dry, to wipe dry; to become dry. Sycha dy drwyg, wipe thy nose.

Hyd y daw y gwlaw, ac y gwlych gwaed;

Hyd y chwyso haf, a hyd y sych.

Ni'm dauw o wgerdd ond tra oerddig;

Ni'm dauw o lawredd pan orweddig.

Whilst rain shall come, and winter drowns; whilst summer warms protector, and whilst I dried; I shall not be concerned for a course but whilst thou dost sojourn; I shall care not for to me when thou shalt be laid down.

Gr. Isgari.

Sychwr, s. m.—pl. sychwyr (sych—gwr) A dryer, a wiper.

Sychwydd, s. pl. aggr. (sych—gwydd) Dry wood, fuel; also called tanwydd, and cynud.

Sychydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sych) A desiccant.
Sydyn, a. (swd) Abrupt, quick, sudden.
Sydynrwydd, s. m. (sydyn) Abruptness.
Sydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (sy) That is, existeth, or remaineth; rest. v. n. Is, existeth, or hath a being. Pwy sydd yna? who is there?

Freuer wen, brodyr a'ch fu,

Pan glywyd gywreidd lla,

Ni ochr yddall sydd gwanha.

Fair Freuer, brothers hast thou had, when they should have din of army, their shade would not be left to cover them.

Gr. Isgari.

Gwae hi y ddraig goch, canys ei hualall sydd yn brynn.

Woe to her, the red dragon, for her destruction is upon her.

Gr. Isgari.

Syddawl, a. (sydd) Relating to being or dwelling.
Syddiad, s. m. (sydd) A being, a remaining.
Syddu, v. a. (sydd) To exist, to abide, to dwell.
Syddyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (sydd) A habitation; a tenement.

Cawn seidd, llw can, i'n syddys,

Cain wiell a gwaiddall gryn.

We shall have a nest, thou of blossoms here, for our shade, is fair branches and the green leaves of the glen.

Gr. Isgari.

Syddynawl, a. (syddyn) Tenementary, of a farm.
Syddyniad, s. m. (syddyn) A holding a tenement.
Syddynn, v. a. (syddyn) To take up a settled abode; to hold a tenement.

Syddynwr, s. m.—pl. syddynwyr (syddyn—gwr) fixed inhabitant; a husbandman, a farmer.

Syfa, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (swf) A riddle; also called rhidyll.

A gollir yn y syfa a gair yn y gwgr.

What is lost in the riddle will be found in the secret.

Gr. Isgari.

syfag, s. f.—pl. t. an (swf—ag) That is out-spreading.

Pwybyddag a ffriso dy, talied—am y pollon syfagau, ceiniawg.
Whoever damages a house, let him pay for the poles for out-spreading, a penny. Welsh Laws.

syfal, a. (sy—mal) Fickle, changeable.

syfalad, s. m. (syfal) A rendering fickle.

syfaliu, v. a. (syfal) To render fickle; to become fickle or uncertain.

syfaldawd, s. m. (syfal) Fickleness, uncertainty.

syfalu, v. a. (syfal) To act with fickleness.

sy, s. pl. aggr. (swf) Strawberries; also called meys.

Lle am y syf am y neldredd.

Where the strawberries abound there snakes abound. Adage.

syfen, s. f. dim. (syf) A single strawberry.

Syfen yn mole huch.

A strawberry in a sow's belly.

Adage.

syf, s. m. (swf) A tendency to move.

syfiad, s. m. (syf) A moving, a stirring.

syfiawg, a. (syf) Having motion or stir.

syfiad, s. m. (syf) A moving, a stirring.

syfiwr, s. m.—pl. syfiwyr (syf—gwr) A stirrer.

sydyd, v. a. (syf) To move, to stir; to be moved.

Na syfied un oddyn, let no one stir from there; o syfi, if thou stirrest.

syf, a. (swf) Of a firm quality.

syfnaw, a. (syfn) Of a firm quality.

syfnawd, s. m. (syfn—cnawd) Firm flesh.

Owng na ddiolwg saith noswath.
Gwasgawd mwythaw syfnawd maith.

A garment that she will not put off for seven nights, the shelter of a delicate plump firm flesh. D. ab Gwilym.

syfnid, s. m. (syfn) A making firm.

syfnu, v. a. (syfn) To make firm or hard.

syfr, a. (swf) Tending to make hard or severe.

syfrdan, s. m. (syfr—tan) A state of giddiness.

Yn mhob man syfrdan sydd,
A blinaw heb lawenydd.

In every place there is distraction, and weariness void of pleasure. D. Brufas.

syfrdan, a. (syfr—tan) Giddy, dizzy; stupified; delirious.

Coll medd y frdan, syfrdan son
Dinguan, pan gafai ddiogan;
Felly'r gwyr a falgarant.

Coll quoth the raven, slandering with crazy noise, when she has had enough; so the men who falsely love. D. ab Dafydd Llwyd.

syfrdaidd, a. (syfrdan) Tending to be giddy, dizzy, or crazy; somewhat stupified.

syfrdanaw, a. (syfrdan) Stupifying.

syfrdandawd, s. m. (syfrdan) Giddiness, dizziness; stupefaction; delirium; craziness.

syfrander, s. m. (syfrdan) Giddiness; craziness.

syfranedd, s. m. (syfrdan) Giddiness, craziness.

syfraniad, s. m. (syfrdan) A making giddy, dizzy, or crazy; a stupifying.

syfranu, v. a. (syfrdan) To make giddy, or dizzy, to stupify; to astonish; to become giddy, dizzy, or stupified.

syfranus, a. (syfrdan) Tending to make giddy or dizzy; stupifying.

syfrdanwr, s. m.—pl. syfrdanwyr (syfrdan—gwr) One who makes giddy; a stupifier.

syriad, s. m. (syfr) A rendering severe.

syru, v. a. (syfr) To render hard or severe.

syd, s. m. (swf) That is gradual, that forms a space.

s, s. f.—pl. t. iau (sy—yg) A chain formed of links; a trace; also called tid, and rhaw. Bow-ys, the chain extending from the plough beam to the yoke.

VOL. II.

Sygan, s. m. (sy—can) A whisper; a mutter.

Syganawl, a. (sygan) Whispering, muttering.

Syganriad, s. m. (sygan) A whispering, muttering.

Syganu, v. a. (sygan) To whisper, to mutter.

Syganawl'r bi cyal cwyn.

The pie would be muttering a burden of complaint.

D. ab Gwilym.

Sygu, s. f.—pl. syguan (syg) A circle; a zodiacal sign.

Bu Alexander, byd lywider;
Hyd sygonedd niofodd ni bu segr.

There has been Alexander, the ruler of the world; even to the signs of heaven he was not idle. Cyddfaw.

Sygog, s. f. (sy—gog) A shove, a move.

Sygogi, v. a. (sygog) To move about, to fidget; to be restless or fidgeting.

Sygydiad, s. m. (sygog) A fidgeting, a being restless.

Syl, s. f. (sy—yl) A surface, ground, or foundation.

Sylch, s. f.—pl. t. au (syl) A furrow.

Sylchdan, s. m. (sylch—tan) A wheel plough.

Sylchiad, s. m. (sylch) The opening a surface.

Sylfa, s. f.—pl. t. on (syl) A foundation.

Sylfaen, s. f.—pl. sylfeini (syl—maen) A foundation stone.

Sylfaenedig, a. (sylfaen) Having a base stone.

Rhaid i'r dduwollon fod mor sylfaenedig na ellir eu sgilw;
mor biantlaid na ellir eu cyfrwyo.

It is necessary for the godly to be so established that they cannot be moved; so like children that they cannot be made crafty. Morgan Llwyd, Y Tri Aderyn.

Sylfaeniad, s. m. (sylfaen) A laying a foundation stone; a foundation.

Sylfaennu, v. a. (sylfaen) To lay a foundation stone; to found.

Sylfaenwr, s. m.—pl. sylfaenwyr (sylfaen—gwr) One who lays a foundation stone.

Sylfaenydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sylfaen) A founder.

Sylfan, s. f.—pl. t. au (swl—man) A foundation.

Sylfanawl, a. (sylfan) Foundatory.

Sylfaniad, s. m. (sylfan) A laying a foundation.

Sylfon, s. m.—pl. t. au (swl—bon) A subject.

Sylgyngan, v. a. (swl—cyngan) To speak with a low voice, to mutter.

Syliad, s. m. (syl) A making a foundation.

Syln, v. a. (syl) To make a foundation.

Sylw, s. m.—pl. t. au (swl) Observation, sight, view, regard, notice. Dal sylw, to take notice.

Sylwad, s. m. (sylw) A regarding, or observing.

Sylwaew, s. m. (syl—gwaew) A radical disease.

Nid sylwaew oidd salwedd.

Not a radical ailment but indisposition.

Gr. Gryg.

Sylwedig, a. (sylwad) Being observed.

Sylwedd, s. m.—pl. t. au (sylw) Observation.

Sylwedd, s. m.—pl. t. au (syl—gwedd) Substance.

Sylwedd yw pob ychyd; ac nid yw y byd a wetir ond cygwad o'r byd aie gwellir, yr hwn sy drwy y byd yma.

Every spirit is substance; and the world that is seen is but a shadow of the world that is not seen, and which pervades this world. Morgan Llwyd.

Sylweddawg, a. (sylwedd) Having substance.

Sylweddawl, a. (sylwedd) Substantial; corporeal.

Sylweddliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sylwedd) Substantiating.

Sylweddianawl, a. (sylweddiant) Substantiating.

Sylweddiannu, v. a. (sylweddiant) To substantiate.

Sylweddianus, a. (sylweddiant) Substantiating.

Sylweddiant, s. m. (sylwedd) Substantiality.

Sylweddlogi, v. a. (sylweddawg) To substantiate.

Sylweddlogiad, s. m. (sylweddawg) A rendering substantial, substantiation.

3 T

Sylweddoldeb, s. m. (sylweddawl) Substantialness, reality; corporeity, materiality.
Sylweddolder, s. m. (sylweddawl) Substantialness.
Sylweddoldra, s. m. (sylweddawl) Substantialness.
Sylweddoli, v. a. (sylweddawl) To render substantial; to realize; to consolidate.
Sylweddolaeth, s. m. (sylweddawl) Materialism.
Sylweddolrwydd, s. (sylweddawl) Substantialness.
Sylweddu, v. a. (sylwedd) To make of substance.
Sylweddu, a. (sylwedd) Substantial; corporeal.
Sylwedduaw, v. a. (sylweddu) To make substantial; to become substantial.
Sylweddnader, s. m. (sylweddu) Substantialness.
Sylweddustrwydd, s. (sylweddu) Substantialness.
Sylweddwyr, s. m.—pl. sylweddwyr (sylweddwyr) One who treats of substance or matter.
Sylwi, v. a. (sylw) To observe, to regard, to notice.

Tri pheth a ddylid sylwi yn benaf ar bob peth: natua, gwedd, a gweithred.

Three things should be principally regarded as to every thing: nature, appearance, and action. Cating ab Gwynllw.

Sylwyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sylw) A pryer.

Nid sylwyn ond cyfydd.

There is no one that is such a pryer as to himself. Adage.

Syll, a. m.—pl. t. ion (sy—yll) A gaze, a stare; the act of beholding; sight, view.

Syllbeirianneth, s. m. (syllbeiriant) The science of optics.

Syllbeiriannawl, a. (syllbeiriant) Relating to optics.
Syllbeiriant, s. m.—pl. syllbeiriannau (syll—peiriant) An optical instrument.

Sylldy, s. m.—pl. t. au (swll—ty) A shop. Breithys sylldy, fine woollen cloth.

Syllgar, a. (syll) Keen of sight; speculative.

Syllgarwch, s. m. (syllgar) Speculativeness.

Sylliad, s. m. (syll) A gazing, a staring; a looking, a beholding; observation.

Sylliannawl, a. (sylliant) Speculative.

Sylliannu, v. a. (syll) Observation, speculation.

Sylliaw, v. a. (syll) To gaze; to behold, to observe.

Sylliawg, a. (syll) Endued with observation.

Sylliedig, a. (sylliad) Being observed; endued with observation.

Syllt, s. m. (syll) That is fair or clear; a look.

Sylltiad, s. m. (swllt) A forming a surface.

Sylltiawg, a. (swllt) Having an exterior.

Sylltiawl, a. (swllt) Of a fair exterior.

Sylltly, s. m.—pl. t. au (swllt—ty) A treasury.

Sylltu, v. a. (syllt) To make a fair surface.

Syllu, v. a. (syll) To gaze, to stare; to look; to behold; to observe. Syll di rano, behold thou yonder.

Sefwch dilaen ferwysion a sylwch weryddo Cynddyha, Llŷs Pengwern nesd tande!

Stand ye out virgins and behold the fair region of Cynddyha, is it not with flame pervaded! Llywarch Hen.

De sy wellt wedi sylld.

Black is better after it has been seen. L. G. Coll.

Syllwg, s. f. (syll) An open prospect.

Syllwr, s. m.—pl. syllwyr (syll—gwr) A spectator.

Syllwydr, s. m.—pl. syllwydrau (syll—gwydr) A spyglass.

Syllwydryn, s. m. dim. (syllwydr) A spyglass.

Syllwydrwr, s. m.—pl. syllwydrwyr (syllwydr—gwr) An optician.

Syllyr, s. m. (syll) That is open or prospective.

Sym, a. m.—pl. t. iau (sy—ym) That is integral; that is whole or complete.

Digrif oedym o sym cerch;

A mether yn pannerch.

Happy were we from the enjoyment of love; and the fair one reigning herself. D. ab Gwilym.

Symeth, a. m. (sym) A middle or central state; a state of ease.

Symawl, a. (sym) Integral; middling. Pe sy'r awt ti? symawl: How dost thou do? pretty well.

Symedd, v. m. (sym) An integral condition.

Symerth, s. m. (sym—erth) Integral energy; simple power.

Symiad, s. m. (sym) A rendering integral.

Symiannawl, a. (symiant) Penetrating.

Symiannu, v. a. (symiant) To penetrate; to apprehend, to comprehend.

Symiant, s. m. (sym) Penetration; apprehension.

Symlaw, v. a. (sym) To penetrate; to apprehend.

Ni sym twyll mo byrll y byd.

Deceit will not comprehend the sense of the world. Edm. Ry.

Symiedig, a. (symiad) Being comprehended.

Symiwyr, s. m.—pl. symiwyrr (sym—gwr) One who enters into, penetrates, or perceives.

Symyl, s. m. (sym) That is simple. a. Simple.

Symlad, s. m. (syml) A pointing; a simplifying.

Symlant, s. m. (syml) Pointedness, simplicity.

Symlawg, a. (syml) Of a simple nature.

Symledig, a. (symlad) Pointed; simplified.

Symledd, s. m. (syml) Simplicity, plainness.

Un o dair prif orchestr bardd: cwydded gysu roddid a ddi mla gallir symleddach o'r symledd.

One of the three chief excellencies of a bard; not so much as he comprehended that nothing more known can be produced as to simplicity. Edm.

Symlen, s. f. dim. (syml) A simple one. Symlen ben bys, the name of an old tune.

Symliad, s. m. (syml) A pointing, a simplifying.

Symliaw, v. a. (syml) To point, to simplify.

Symlogen, s. f. dim. (symlawg) A simple female; a simple yielding girl.

Symlu, v. a. (swml) To point; also to goad.

Symluo dŵr yn symlu dyn.

Like points of steel goading man. Rob. Goch, 16th c.

Cygu wodi symlu oen

A whistling, bobi anathem.

After driving on the talk the foolish people went to sleep. D. ab Gwilym.

Symlwr, s. m.—pl. symlwyr (swml—gwr) One who points; a goader.

Symlyn, s. m. dim. (syml) A simpleton.

Symlynidd, a. (symlyn) Like a simpleton.

Symu, v. a. (sym) To render integral; to become whole or complete.

Symud, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sy—ud) Motion. a.

To move, to remove; to change place.

Symudadwy, a. (symud) Capable of moving.

Symudaw, v. a. (symud) To move, to remove.

Symudaw addaf rhag drwg.

To move an adder for fear of evil. Adm.

Tri pheth y cydd a wladfardd y heb o'r symu: ff a. b. d. w. r. ac arwydd fardd ac arwydd.

There are three things that render account out of the world: a man, a mark, a watercourse, and a bay-plot. Cating Hen.

Symudawg, a. (symud) Being moved.

Symudawl, a. (symud) Moving, moveable.

Symudedig, a. (symud) Moved, removed.

Symudedigaeth, s. m. (symudedig) A removal.

Symudedigawl, a. (symudedig) Transitive.

Symudfa, s. f.—pl. symudfeydd (symud) A translocation.

Symudfa o'r dyniaeth a symudfaeth.

A translocation of the traction and bay straps. Coringdon.

Symudiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (symud) The act of moving, a moving; transmutation; conversion.

Symudiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (symudied) One that transmutes.

ymudiw, a. (symud—llw) Of various shades of colours; of changing hues; shot with divers colours.

ymudoldeb, s. m. (symudawl) Moveableness.

ymudolder, s. m. (symudawl) Mobility.

ymudoli, v. a. (symudawl) To render moveable; to become moveable or transitive.

ymudolrwydd, s. m. (symudawl) Moveableness.

ymudwr, s. m.—pl. symudwyr (symud—gwr) A mover, a remover.

ymudydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (symud) A mover.

ymwl, s. pl. aggr. (sym—wl) Common primroses.

These were held in great veneration amongst the Britons, on account of their many medicinal virtues.

ymwth, a. (sy—mwth) Of interrupted motion.

Un a braw aeth yn ei bron,
Mor ymwith, am air Sionos.

One became with her bosom filled with dread, so embarrassed because of the word of Sionos. D. ab Edmwnd, 1 Petr.

ymwy, s. m. (sym) Ample, prominent.

ymylawg, a. (symwl) Having a point or goad.

ymylen, s. f. dim. (symwl) A primrose.

Mer dditair a symylen.

As unconsummated as a primrose.

ymyliad, s. m. (symwl) A goading.

ymyln, v. a. (symwl) To egg on, to goad.

ymythawl, a. (symwth) Interruptive.

ymythiad, s. m. (symwth) Interruption.

ymythu, v. a. (symwth) To interrupt; to embarrass.

yn, s. m. (sy—yn) That is upon or with; sense, feeling, sensibility, perception. a. Feeling, sensible, of quick sensation; overcome with feeling, concerned; amazed; stunned; confounded. Newydd syn lawm yw haen, this is very distressing news.

Gnwd syn aym aargyfrith.

A simple stranger to a language must seem confused. Adage.

yn, v. imper. (syn) Feel, be concerned; perceive; behold.

ynaid, a. (syn) Somewhat sensitive.

yndawd, s. m. (syn) Sensation; amazement; concern; the state of being stunned.

yndeb, s. m. (syn) Sensation; anxiety. Trim-wn rhyw syndeb ynaf, I felt a kind of sensation within me.

ynder, s. m. (syn) Sensation; concern.

yndra, s. m. (syn) Sensation; perceptivity.

ynedig, a. (syn) Having the sense affected; astonished, stunned.

ynedigaeth, s. m. (synedig) Sensation; astonishment, the act of stunning.

ynedigawl, a. (synedig) Sensitive; tending to stun.

ynedigrwydd, s. m. (synedig) Sensitiveness.

ynfeddwl, a. m.—pl. synfeddyliau (syn—meddwl) Deep thought.

ynfeddyliad, v. a. (synfeddwl) A deeply thinking.

ynfeddylaw, v. a. (synfeddwl) To think or meditate feelingly.

yniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (syn) Sensation, feeling.

Syniad y cnaudd, carnal sensation.

Tri pheth a gynnull addysg; gyowy, syniad, a dychwain.

Three things accompanie instruction; reason, feeling, and fortitude. Hardd.

yniadawl, a. (syniad) Sensitive; sensitive.

yniadwy, a. (syniad) Capable of sense; sensible.

yniannawl, a. (syniant) Sensitive; sentimental.

yniannu, v. a. (syniant) To give sensation; to become sensitive; to be sentimental.

yniannus, a. (syniant) Sentimental.

Syniannusaw, v. a. (syniannus) To render sentimental; to become sentimental.

Syniant, s. m. (syn) Sensation; sentiment.

Synlaw, v. a. (syn) To feel, to perceive; to be sensible; to consider; to consult; to make up the mind. Synh y tylawd, consider the poem.

Cal fan y giod er cynnodd?

Synla, farch; cymun.

Thou shalt have great pains for becoming reconciled; think, folk one: come hie hie. Bede Brwynllys.

Daw a oreg y noddod o ddolli; yr heul a'r llyer ei syniant, canys hwynt a gwynt eu cyrch, a'r drosat dracheta tado ar y rhodda; y ddolir ei synia, canys hi a ddwy frwythau a'r gwreiddiau yn amgerawl ac yn wastad; yr alosydd ei syniant, canys hwynt a ymchwilant dracheta fr llo y llydion o bone; y moe a'r gwynnodd ei syniant, canys hwynt a dylidat hido, ho orphwynt pan i larche llydnt yn ddiunod.

God formed the heavens in wisdom; the sun and the moon do acknowledge him, for they preserve their courses, and will return again to him who gave them; the earth doth acknowledge him, for she bears fruits with their roots in season and continually; the rivers do acknowledge him, for they pour again to the place from whence they glide; the sea and the winds acknowledge him; for they submit to him, and they run when he commands them, without delay. Blactidius.

Synlawg, a. (syn) Having the sense affected.

Synlawl, a. (syn) Sensible, perceptive, considerate.

Syniedig, a. (syniad) Considered; perceived.

Syniedigaeth, s. m. (syniedig) The faculty of feeling or knowing by the sense; sensation; consideration; contemplation.

Syniedigawl, a. (syniedig) Cognitive, perceptive, sensitive; considerate; contemplative.

Synig, a. (syn) Having a sensation.

Synigl, s. m. (synig) That stimulates, or eggs.

Syniglaw, v. a. (synigl) To agitate, to stimulate.

Synigliad, s. m. (synigl) A stimulation.

Syniolath, s. m. (syniawl) Perceptivity.

Synioldeb, s. m. (syniawl) Sensibility; perceptibility; consciousness; contemplation.

Syniolder, s. m. (syniawl) Sensibleness.

Synioldra, s. m. (syniawl) Sensibleness.

Synioledd, s. m. (syniawl) Considerateness.

Synioli, v. a. (syniawl) To render sensible; to become sensible or considerate.

Syniolrwydd, s. m. (syniawl) Considerateness.

Synu, v. a. (syn) To observe or to look steadfastly;

to beware; to be affected; to be amazed, or surprised; to be overpowered with feeling; to be stunned. Syni pen well di fo, thou wilt be astonished when thou seest it; tarawai ff oid eiddon yn synu, he struck me so that I was stunned.

Synwr, s. m.—pl. synwyr (syn—gwr) One whose sense is affected or looks astonished.

Synwyr, s. m.—pl. t. au (syn—gwr) Rational sense, wit; meaning. Synwyr pen, synwyr cyffredin, common sense.

Nid dyg heb synwr.

There is no knowing without sense.

Gwell synwyr na chlydwr.

Wit is better than vanity.

Tair colofn synwyr; eglwdd, llydwr, a chlydwr.

The three supports of sense; perceptivity, simplicity, and justness. Bardd.

Y llyn dyfud o'r afon llydwr yn haf yw ei son;

Y doeth ni ddwyed a dyr;

Nid o son y daw synwyr.

The deepest pool in the river, the least in the summer month its noise; the wise utters not all he knows; it is not from noise that sense proceeds.

Gw. ab Iwan Hen.

Synwyradd, a. (synwyr) Sensible, rational.

Synwyrav, v. a. (synwyr) To endue with sense, to make rational; to become sensible or rational; to gather sense.

Brenin myr a yw o'm synwyr!

The sovereignty of nobility and state, may he endue me with sense! Merchwr 46 Gwladswail.

Trawd angen ferus faddu fyddan;
Tra hy yw pob dyn na synwyran',
Trymder Lucifer a'i loes affan.

Pierced by death's flying shafts they will be; bold to excess are all men that they will not think of the sad state of Lucifer with his pang of conflict. Casnodyn.

Synwyrwl, a. (synwyr) Sensible, rational.

Nid synwyrwl ond cydwybodas;
Nid cydwybodas ond cywir.

There is none sensible but the conscientious; no one is conscientious but the equitable. Adage.

Synwyrbell, a. (synwyr—pell) Of profound sense

Synwyrbwl, a. (synwyr—pwl) Dull-witted.

Synwyrdeb, s. m. (synwyr) Sensibleness.

Synwyrredig, a. (synwyr) Being endowed with sense

Synwyrddoeth, a. (synwyr—doeth) Sensibly wise

Synwyrreb, s. f. (synwyr) A sentence; paragraph

Synwyrredd, s. m. (synwyr) Rationality.

Synwyrreg, s. f.—pl. t. au (synwyr) A complete expression of the sense, or a sentence.

Synwyrfa, s. f. (synwyr) A sensory.

Synwyrfas, a. (synwyr—bas) Shallow-witted.

Synwyrfawr, a. (synwyr) Pregnant with sense.

Synwyrfael, a. (synwyr—cael) Wit-acquiring.

Synwyrall, a. (synwyr—call) Keen-witted.

Synwyrgar, a. (synwyr) Sententious.

Synwyrgarwch, s. m. (synwyr) Sententiousness.

Synwyrroll, a. (synwyr—roll) Reason-losing.

Synwyrriad, s. m. (synwyr) An enduing with sense; a becoming rational.

Synwyrllawn, a. (synwyr) Pregnant with sense.

Synwyrlym, a. (synwyr—lym) Sharp-witted.

Synwyrroldeb, s. m. (synwyrwl) Sensibleness, the state of being endowed with good sense.

Synwyrrolder, s. m. (synwyrwl) Sensibleness.

Synwyrrolledd, s. m. (synwyrwl) Sensibleness.

Synwyrroli, v. a. (synwyrwl) To render sensible;
to become sensible or rational.

Synwyrroliad, s. m. (synwyrwl) Sensualization.

Synwyrrolwydd, s. m. (synwyrwl) Sensibleness.

Synwyrus, a. (synwyr) Sensible, discreet.

Synwyrusaw, v. a. (synwyrus) To render sensible; to become sensible.

Synwyrusdra, s. m. (synwyrus) Sensibleness.

Synwyrusrwydd, s. m. (synwyrus) Sensibleness.

Synwyrwan, a. (synwyr—gwan) Weak-witted.

Sypiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (swp) A heaping, or squeezing together; a bundling; a bunching.

Sypiau, v. a. (swp) To heap or squeeze together;
to bundle or lap together; to form into a bundle or heap. *Mi dy sypias di, I will squeeze thee to a mummy.

Sypiawl, a. (swp) Tending to heap or press together; being made into a bundle.

Sypiedig, a. (sypiad) Being bundled together.

Sypiw, s. m.—pl. sypiwyr (swp—gwr) One who heaps or bundles together.

Sypyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (swp) A small bundle or packet; a little heap or mass.

Sypyniad, s. m. (sypyn) A forming a bundle.

Sypynu, v. a. (sypyn) To form a bundle.

Syr, s. pl. aggr. (inflection of ser) The stars.

Trefnais syr a myr morawl dyian;
Trefnais dalar lawr a'i chwawr achlan.

Thou hast regulated stars and fluctuations of ocean tide; thou hast regulated the ample earth, and its surface all complete. Casnodyn.

Syrch, s. m. (serch inflected) Appulsion; approach; desire, affection, love.

Syrchawl, a. (syrch) Tending to cause desire.

Syrchiad, s. m. (syrch) A causing desire or love.

Syrchub, v. a. (syrch) To cause approach; to fill with desire; to cause love.

Syrn, adv. (inflection of swrn) Partly, half. *Syrn deg; tolerably fair; syrn debyg, somewhat like syra galed, rather hard; syra gryf, pretty strong.

Syrniad, s. m. (swrn) A forming into small shares.
Syrno, v. a. (swrn) To divide into parts.

Syrnyn, s. m. dim. (swrn) Some quantity, a very little, ever so little.

Syrth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (swrth inflected) A fall,
a chance, a lot; a sort; inclination, propensity; also the offal, small parts, or cuttings of a carcase, as the feet, head, entrails, and the like.
a. Falling, inclining, or steep. *Gwedi syrth, after the fall.

A dim syrth nid ymroethon.

With any propensity I would not descend myself.

Rhys ab Rhys Brydydd.

Tri pheth o'a deall a barant hoddwch: syrth aml, lani of lawnder, a llafar gwirioedd.

Three things from being understood will produce pure in-tendency of nature, pursuit of equity, and the propensity to truth. Burden.

Ameu cerdd, o bob rhyw a syrth, yw habsath ddiol a pher:
ac amliu doethineb.

The design of poetry of every kind and tendency, is to enrich the understanding and mind; and to increase wisdom. Burden.

Syrthfa, s. f.—pl. syrthfeydd (syrth) Fallen state.

Coffia hefyd y cariad, yr hwn a ddangosol of i mi, pan i ef fi allan o syrthfa pechawd.

I have remembered too the love, which he showed to me, when he drew me out from the fallen state of sin. Merchug Cerydd.

Syrthiad, s. m. (syrth) A falling, a tumbling.

Syrthiadwy, a. (syrthiad) Capable of falling.

Syrthiannawl, a. (syrthiant) Of a falling tendency.

Syrthiannu, v. a. (syrthiant) To render of a falling tendency; to become apt to fall.

Syrthiannus, a. (syrthiant) Of a falling tendency.

Syrthiant, s. m. (syrth) A falling; propensity.

Syrthiaw, v. a. (syrth) To fall, or to tumble.

Syrthid medd o gemid.

Evil wish is made to fall from the bosom. Adge.

Yna y syrthiwyd y gwyr brathedig yn mhilch y brathedig. a gys y syrthial yd y cynauaf, pan fyddant y myddiawr da y m ryson.

Then the wounded men were falling amongst the huts, a corn of harvest might fall, when the skillful reapers are there. Gr. ab Idris.

Cydwbyd lan a gan yn ber,
Pan syrthio'r ser i'r ddalar.
A clear conscience will sweetly sing, when stars shall be ward the earth. Joh. Wyn.

Syrthiawl, a. (syrth) Falling, or tumbling.

Syrthiedig, a. (syrthiad) Fallen, or tumbled.

Pawb a'i droed ar syrthiedig.

Every one with his foot on the fallen. Adge.

Syrthineb, s. m. (syrth) Propensity, tendency.

Syrthiwr, s. m.—pl. syrthiawyr (syrth—gwr) One who falls or tumbles down.

Syrthni, s. m. (swrth) A heavy or unwieldy state.
listlessness, torpidity.

Nid diogel ond syrthni;
Nid syrthni ond pechawd.

The essence of idleness is torpidity; the essence of torpidity is sin. Burden.

Syth, s. m. (sy—yth) The state or quality of being stiff, rigid, or erect; that has a tendency to stiffen; that is put up, set, or erect; the size, or cement, as glue, starch, or paste; a stiffening.

Degle'n neu, dwy glun esyth
Dlws wyt, dan dda syth.

Draw nearer, with thy two supple limbs, diagonally it is thumping thy slaver. Gr. Gwy, i B. d. C. 1.

Syth, a. (sy—yth) Stiff, rigid; being set or put up; erect, upright; disdainful.

*Sythaf ac uridaf, mewn gorddwy, o'm lath,
All Math mab Mathonwy.*

The most erect and most honorable, in the post of danger, of any who speak my speech, like Math son of Mathonwy.
Om. Trw.

Sythadwy, a. (syth) Capable of being made stiff, or rigid; capable of being made erect.

Sythaw, v. a. (syth) To stiffen with size; to cement

Sythawl, a. (syth) Tending to make stiff, or rigid; tending to erectness; perpendicular.

Sythdant, s. m.—pl. sythdanna (syth—tant) A string that is of sharp discordancy.

Sythdeb, s. (syth) Stiffness, rigidity; erectness

Sythder, s. m. (syth) Stiffness, rigidity; erectness.

Sythdoes, s. m. (syth—toes) Patty.

Sythdra, s. m. (syth) Stiffness, rigidity, erectness

Sythedig, a. (syth) Stiffened; being made erect.

Sythedd, s. m. (syth) Stiffness, rigidity; erectness

Sythfalch, a. (syth—balch) Rigidly-proud.

Sythfachedd, s. m. (sythfalch) Stiff pride.

Sythi, s. m.—pl. t. on (syth) That stiffens or keeps erect; a beam in a building.

Sythiad, s. m. (syth) A rendering stiff, or rigid; a setting upright; a becoming erect, or perpendicular.

Sythiannawl, a. (sythiant) Tending to stiffness, or rigidity; tending to erectness.

Sythiannu, v. a. (sythiant) To render of a stiff quality; to tend to erectness; to become of a stiff or rigid nature.

Sythiant, s. m. (syth) A stiffening; erection, or a setting upright.

Sytholdeb, s. m. (sythawl) A tendency to rigidity; a tendency to erectness.

Sytholder, s. m. (sythawl) A tendency to be stiff; a tendency to erectness.

Sytholdra, s. m. (sythawl) A tendency to stiffness; a tendency to be erect.

Sytholedd, s. m. (sythawl) A tendency to stiffness; a tendency to erectness.

Sytholi, v. a. (sythawl) To render, or to become of a stiff tendency; to tend to erectness.

Sytholrwydd, s. m. (sythawl) A tendency to stiffness; a tendency to erectness.

Sythrwydd, s. m. (syth) Stiffness, erectness.

Sythu, v. a. (syth) To stiffen, to make rigid or erect; to put up, or to set erect; to stiffen with size; to starch; to become erect.

Sythus, a. (syth) Of a stiffening quality; tending to erectness.

Sythusaw, v. a. (sythus) To render of a rigid quality; to tend to erectness; to become of a rigid quality.

Sythusdeb, s. m. (sythus) A tendency to be stiff; a tendency to erectness.

Sythuser, s. m. (sythus) A tendency to be rigid; a tendency to erectness.

Sythudra, s. m. (sythus) Aptitude to be stiff or rigid; aptitude to erectness.

Sythusedd, s. m. (sythus) Aptness to be stiff; tendency to erectness.

Sythusrwydd, s. m. (sythus) A tendency to stiffness; a tendency to erectness.

Sythwr, s. m.—pl. sythwyr (syth—gwr) One who makes stiff, rigid, or erect; one who becomes rigid or erect.

Syw, s. m. (sy) That is circling, stated, or regular. a. Constant, stated, regular; trim, smart

Nid syw ond y bl.

There is nothing so smart as the magpie. Adage.

Gores bod—Morwyn ya syw.

It is best for a maid to be smart. Catwg Ddodh.

Dewi mawr Mynyw syw sywedydd.

Great Dewi of Mynyw a constant observer of the stars.

Y daeth i Ffynw syw sywyras.

There came to Mynyw constant intellects.

Mab Sant syw gormant, gormes haint ni ad.

The son of Sant of constant plantitude, no affliction of profligence will he suffer to remain. Om. Brycheiniog, i Ddewi.

Y llor—Molannus yw ei syw swydd.

The moon, praiseworthy is her constant duty. D. ab Gwilym.

Sywdeb, s. m. (syw) Constancy; statedness; regularity; trimness, smartness.

Sywder, s. m. (syw) Constancy; smartness.

Sywdra, s. m. (syw) Constancy; smartness.

Sywed, s. m. (sy—gwd) Astronomy.

Sywedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sywed) A speaker of the stars; an astronomer; an astrologer.

Ni chain sywedydd yn anfon.

An astronomer will not be restricted to one house. Adage.

Talhaiarn y sydd Mwyaf sywedydd.

Talhaiarn is the greatest astronomer. Talhaiarn.

Selyf sywedydd sywedydd, Mab gwledig gorau gwarthegydd.

Selyf the e-necrated astronomer, the son of a over-rig the possessor of immense herds. Mrigual, m. Cyddylton.

Selyf hen sywedyddion.

Selyf the chief of astronomers. Ll. F. Mech.

Sywedyddawl, a. (sywedydd) Astronomical.

Sywedyddiaeth, s. m. (sywedydd) Astronomy.

Sywiad, s. m. (syw) A rendering uniform; a trimming, a making smart.

Sywiaw, v. a. (syw) To make uniform; to trim.

Sywiaw y llyswawl—

Sywiaw, didrwyliwch ddrwydd.

Trim ye the herbage hay—trim ye, nip ye off the tops of the thorn-woods. Edm. Ffyn.

Sywiawl, a. (syw) Tending to render regular.

Sywidw, s. f. (sy—gwid) A titmouse; also called gwidw, and gwidw.

*Sywidw, llo ydwyd
Was y dryw, a'i mawdwr wyd.*

The titmouse, there below thou art the servant of the wren, and his soldier too art thou. Guto y Glyn.

Sywin, a. (syw) Being in constant turning.

Sywinaw, v. a. (sywin) To use continually.

Sywinaw yr arben yn ddim.

To dissipate the money to nothing. Adage.

Sywiniaid, s. m. (sywin) A continually using.

Sywydd, s. m.—pl. t. on (sy—gwydd) Star-knowledge.

A'm swywydd sywydd Sywyddion.

I have been made safe from harm by the astrology of astrologers. Talhaiarn.

Sywyddaw, v. a. (sywydd) To study star-knowledge; to astrologize.

*Sywydd sywydd;
Erwiff sywydd.*

The astrologer doth astrologize; Erwiff was regulated. Talhaiarn.

Sywyddawl, a. (sywydd) Having star-knowledge.

Sywyddiad, s. m. (sywydd) An astrologizing.

T.

T A C

TA, s. m. r. That spreads or extends onward; a superior or supreme one. Y ta urddawl, the noble superior.

Tab, s. m. (ta—ab) A spread over; a surface.

Tabar, s. m.—pl. tebyr (tab—ar) A tabard.

Tabar hir tew i barau.

A long tabard, thick to last.

T. Aled, am un.

Y celynlwyn—

Tew byr-wallt was tabar-wydd.

The bolly-bush, a thick short-haired youth in green tabard. D. ab Gwilym.

Tabwrdd, s. m.—pl. tabyrddau (tab—gwrdd) A tabour, a drum.

Tabyrddawl, a. (tabwrdd) Tabouring; drumming.

Tabyrddiad, s. m. (tabwrdd) A tabouring.

Tabyrddu, v. a. (tabwrdd) To tabour; to drum.

Tabyrddwr, s. m.—pl. tabyrddwyr (tabwrdd—gwr) A tabourer; a drummer.

Tacl, s. m.—pl. t. au (tag) That combines; an instrument, or tool.

Taclau, s. pl. aggr. (tacl) Implements, tackling; accoutrements, equipage, furniture.

Tacledig, a. (tacl) Being put in repair.

Tacliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tacl) A repairing.

Taclu, v. a. (tacl) To put in order, to accoutre; to dress, to deck, to trim; to repair, or to set right. Taclu melin, to repair a mill; taciu esgidiau, to mend shoes.

A dachwys a gerchlys.

He that hath made ready both set off.

Adng.

Taclus, a. (tacl) Being in order; accoutred; trim, neat, or tidy; complete. Dynes daclus iawn yw hi, she is a very tidy woman; dyua i ti dro taclu, there is for you a pretty piece of business.

Taclusaw, v. a. (taclus) To put in order; to set to right; to render neat or tidy.

Taclusder, s. m. (taclus) Orderliness; neatness.

Taclusdra, s. m. (taclus) Orderliness; neatness.

Taclusedd, s. m. (taclus) A compact state.

Taclusiad, s. m. (taclus) A putting in order; a repairing; a smartening up.

Taclusiant, s. m. (taclus) The act of putting in order, or repair.

Taclusrwydd, s. m. (taclus) Orderliness; neatness.

Tacluswr, s. m.—pl. tacluswyr (taclus—gwr) One who puts in good order or repair.

Tach, s. m. (ta—ach) That spreads, vanishes, or is diffused.

Tachwedd, s. m. (tach—gwedd) A receding appearance, a tending to a conclusion; an end or annihilation; a somewhat, a little quantity, or space; a remnant; also the month of November. Tachwedd o arian, a small sum of money; tachwedd o yd, a small quantity of corn; amser tachwedd, the time of receding, or latter end of the season, the time of fattening cattle; that is from midsummer to the winter solstice.

*Pan amon Tegingl, teg ryddid.
Oedd trawwr trwyntu tachwedd;
Oedd tremid cyfnewid cochwedd
Cledydai clau dywal diwedd!*

When he defended Tegingl, of splendid course, great beyond bounds appeared destruction; there was rapidly seen the interchange of red stains from the incessant sword slashes of ruthless termination. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

T A D

*Llys byddys y gwyn, nid gwyd, cer Aeru, Carwralod gymlegyd;
Lloegrus dachwedd arleiddyd,
Llath awchym yn agrym yn agryd.*

A court conspicuous for secret; not of view, by Aeru, of insubstantial concern; its maxim is the extermination of the Lloegrus with the ardently keen blade in energy, in the conflict. Idyls.

Tachweddawl, a. (tachwedd) Tending to an end.

Tachweddïad, s. m. (tachwedd) A causing to disappear; a bringing to an end; a determining.

Tachwedu, v. a. (tachwedd) To cause to disappear; to bring to an end; to terminate.

*Llyr oia ser frwyddol, a's frelgedd frondol;
Llawch feirdd, lor angor Eingl dachwedd.*

Dreadful as Llyr in the precipitously-deep stercher, with black overwhelming shield; he protects the lands, the sea; chief exterminating the Angles. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Tad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ta—ad) That spreads a continuity; a father. Tod a mam, father and mother; tad cu, a father of fondness, as epithet for tad, or grandfather, in some parts of Wales; but in some districts of Powys tad is or good father, is a grandfather, and tad cu, a great grandfather, or hendedd, and hendedd cu is a gorhendedd, or great great grandfather; Tad gwyn, a stepfather, in North Wales, but the same as tad cu, in parts of the South; Tai yn nghyfraith, a father in law; tad bedydd, a godfather.

Nid cyngor ond tad.

There is no counsel like a father.

Idyls.

Llaw mab yn ffwrw ei dad.

The hand of a son in the skirt of his father.

Idyls.

Tadaeth, s. m. (tad) Fatherhood, paternity.

Tadaidd, a. (tad) Fatherly, or paternal.

Tadawg, a. (tad) Having a father; paternal.

Tadawl, a. (tad) Belonging to a father; fatherly; paternal, patronal.

Alectus oedd yn Llundain yn gwneuthur gwyth i'r mawr ddywys.

Alectus was in London holding a festival to the holy father. G. ab Idris.

Tadenw, s. m.—pl. t. au (tad—erw) Patronymic.

Tadenwawg, a. (tadenw) Patronymical.

Tadenwawl, a. (tadenw) Patronymical.

Tadenwogawl, a. (tadenwawg) Patronymical.

Tadiad, s. m. (tad) A fathering; a becoming a father.

Tadladd, s. m. (tad—ladd) A father-killing.

Tadladdawl, a. (tadladd) Parricidal.

Tadladdiad, s. m. (tadladd) A killing a father.

Tadleiddiadawl, a. (tadleiddiad) Parricidal.

Tadmaeth, s. m. (tad—maeth) A foster-father.

Tadmaethawl, a. (tadmaeth) Belonging to a foster-father.

Tadmaethu, v. a. (tadmaeth) To act as a foster-father; to become as a foster-father.

Tadogaeth, s. m. (tadawg) Paternity, or fatherhood; also the origin of a word, etymology.

Tadogaethawl, a. (tadogaeth) Belonging to paternity; etymological.

Tadogaidd, a. (tadawg) Fatherly in a small degree.

Tadogair, s. m.—pl. tadogeiriau (tadawg—gair) A radical word, or etymon.

Tadogawl, a. (tadawg) Patronal, patronymic.

Tadogi, v. a. (tadawg) To assign a father to; to have a father.

Taerwrys, s. m. (taer—gwrys) Fierce contention.
Taeth, s. m. (ta—eth) That pervades; essence.
Taethawl, a. (taeth) Essential; fertilizing.
Taethedig, a. (taeth) Rendered of a fertilizing quality.
Taethiad, s. m. (taeth) A rendering of a fertilizing quality.
Taethu, v. a. (taeth) To render fertilizing.
Taethus, a. (taeth) Essential; fertilizing.
Taf, s. m.—pl. teifion (ta—af) A spread.
Tafad, s. m. (taf) A spreading; extension.
Tafal, s. f.—pl. tafeli (taf) A balance.

Mihangel, dirgel ei dal,
 Dyfod a wna a'r dafal.

Michael, with veiled front, come he will with the balance.
Math. ab Llywelyn Goch.

Tafar, s. m. (taf) That spreads or displays.
Tafarch, s. m. (taf—arch) A cricket bat. Pel dafarch, a cricket ball.
Tafarn, s. f.—pl. t. au (taf—arn) A tavern.
Tafarn dy, s. m.—pl. t. au (tafarn—ty) A tavern.
Tafarnwr, s. m.—pl. tafarnwyr (tafarn—gwr) A tavern-keeper.
Tafarth, s. m. (tafar) That is spread or laminated.
Tafawd, s. m.—pl. tafodau (taf) A tongue. Tafawd drug, a scolding; tafawd cloch, a bell clapper;—Tafawd yr hydd, the sole fish; tafawd yr ych, the burt fish;—Also the name of many plants—Tafawd y bwch, or tafawd yr afwr, common viper's bugloss; tafawd yr hydd, hart's tongue; tafawd y ci, broad-leaved pondweed; tafawd yr ych, tafawd y fawch, borage; tafawd yr oen, hoary plantain; tafawd y llew, bristly ox-tongue; tafawd y march, horse tongue; tafawd y weidr, adder's tongue; tafawd yr eden, common stitchwort; tafawd yr hedydd, larkspur; tafawd yr wydd, sneeze-wort yarrow; tafawd yr ych anwyw, evergreen alkanet; tafawd yr ych culddail, small bugloss.

Goreu gwaial, gwaial heb dafawd,

The best wife is a wife without a tongue.

Adage.

Da daint rhag tafawd.

The teeth are good to stop the tongue.

Adage.

Un o dri delfaogion cerdd a cheudawd cenedl y Cymry:
 Gwyddon Ganhebon, a wael gerid dafawd gytasaf o'r byd.

One of the three improvers of science and the art of composition of the nation of the Cymry: Gwyddon Ganhebon, who was the first in the world that made vocal song.

Harddus.

Tafawdlysg, a. (tafawd—llysg) Of slow moving tongue; plaintive.

Yn ffridd cyrdd cerdd dafawdlysg,
 Yn brydydd, yn brifardd dysg.

In the ways of songs of the plaintive muse, a poet, a primary bard of learning.

Cynulleidw.

Tafawl, a. (taf) Spreading, expanding; an epithet for the various kinds of the dock plant. Dail tafawl, dock leaves; tafawl y mor, golden dock; tafawl y dufr, tafawl hirion, great water-dock; tafawl mair, tafawl cochion, tobacco; tafawl newydd, gwelld newydd, new herbage. Welsh Laws.

Tafell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (taf) Any flat mass, piece, or spread, a tablet; a slice. Tafell o fara, a slice of bread.

Rhoi y dorth a gofyn y dafell.

To give a loaf and ask for the slice.

Adage.

Fia Mai caf weled bun yn—
 Dyfod dan wyrddion defyll.

The month of May I shall see the maid resting under green foliage.

D. ab Gwilym.

Tafellan, s. f. dim. (tafell) A small slice.

Tafellawg, a. (tafell) Being in thin masses; being in slices.

Tafelliad, s. m. (tafell) A spreading into a thin mass; a slicing.

Tafellu, v. a. (tafell) To form into a slice or flat mass; to slice; to spread as foliage.

Taf, s. m.—pl. tafau (taf) A spread, a cast; a throw, a fling; a balance. Ffon daf, a sling; tafau, a pair of scales.

Tafiadwy, a. (tafi) Capable of being thrown down.

Tafian, s. f.—pl. tafieni (tafi) A balance.

Taflawd, s. f.—pl. tafloidydd (tafi) A spread, or covering; a roof; the space next to the roof in a building; a loft, a garret. Taflawd y genen, the roof of the mouth; taflawd wair, a hay-loft; taflawd teir, a hen-roost.

Taflawg, a. (tafi) Having a throw; projectile.

Tafled, s. f. (tafi) That serves for throwing.

Tafledig, a. (tafi) Being thrown, or flung.

Tafledigaeth, s. m. (taffedig) The act of throwing; projection; interjection.

Tafledigawl, a. (taffedig) Tending to throw.

Tafledydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tafiad) A hurler, a flinger.

Tithau—

Tafledydd, defnyddwydd da,
 Brath y lleidr.

Thou too, the flinger, with well-seasoned wood, wast thou thief.
D. ab Gwilym, am Rys Gogon.

Tafien, s. f.—pl. t. au (tafi) That is spread out; a tablet; a table of figures.

Tafienawl, a. (tafi) Tabular.

Tafeniad, s. m. (tafi) A tabulation.

Tafenu, v. a. (tafi) To tabulate.

Taffaen, s. m.—pl. taffei (tafi—maen) A bulging stone.

Tafhual, s. m.—pl. t. au (tafi—hual) The goss of a hawk.

Y penhebydd a ddylly groen hydd, yr hydref, ac y gwyrdd groen ewig, i wneuthur menyf wrth arwain ei adur, i ddi hualau.

The chief falconer ought to have a stag skin in autumn, and in the spring the skin of a doe, to make gloves for leading his hawk and for gasses.

Welsh Laws.

Tafiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tafi) A throwing.

Tafledydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tafiad) A thrower.

Tafnerth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tafi—nerth) A projectile power.

Tafnodawl, a. (tafawd) Interjective.

Tafodi, v. a. (tafawd) To interject.

Tafodiad, s. m.—pl. au (tafawd) Interjection.

Tafirwyd, s. f.—pl. t. au (tafi—rwyd) A casting net.

Tafrym, s. m. (tafi—grym) Projectile force.

Tafu, v. a. (tafi) To throw, to cast, to fling, to hurl, to project. It is synonymous with lancu, burow, luchiau, taenu.

Mai dail yn tafu ei ffôn.

Like the blind throwing his staff.

Adage.

Gwell march bwrw a'm dyco no march teg a'm tala.

Better is an ugly horse that will carry me than a fair horse that will throw me.

Adage.

Tafwr, s. m.—pl. tafwyr (tafi—gwr) A thrower.

Tafydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tafi) A thrower.

Tafodaeth, s. m. (tafawd) Language.

Tafodawg, a. (tafawd) Having a tongue.

Tri phrif dafodogion llyso: arglwydd, barddwr, a sach.

The three primary speakers of a court: the lord, the poet, and the bail.

Prifardd D. Gwyn.

Tafodawl, a. (tafawd) Belonging to the tongue.

Tafodi, v. a. (tafawd) To tongue; to use the tongue; to scold.

Talcentlad, s. m. (talcen) A forming a forepart or end; a forming a forehead.

Talcenn, v. a. (talcen) To form a fore part or end; to form a forehead; to butt with the forehead. Talcennu ty, to raise the gable end of a house; talcennu barrel, to put in the end of a barrel.

Talch, s. m.—pl. tellichion (ta—alch) A piece, a fragment, any thing broken; grit, or coarse meal. Dyns fo wedi tori yn tellichion man, there it is broken all to shatters.

Talchadd, a. (talch) Somewhat broken or brayed.

Talchwag, a. (talch) Consisting of broken parts.

Talchedig, a. (talch) Made into fragments; fractured. Talchedigion, broken things.

Talcheiddiad, s. m. (talchadd) A rendering somewhat broken; a rendering half broken.

Talcheiddlaw, v. a. (talchadd) To render somewhat broken; to become partly broken.

Talcheiddrwydd, s. m. (talchadd) A half broken state or condition.

Talchiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (talch) A making into fragments; a shattering.

Talchu, v. a. (talch) To fract, to break in pieces; to make grit.

Talchwr, s. m.—pl. talchwyr (talch—gwr) A man who fracts; a shatterer; one who makes grit.

Talchydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (talch) One who brays; a shatterer; one who makes grit.

Taldal, a. (tal repeated) Being front to front.

*A'm dalawdd, be hawdd, bu byr,
Daldal yn nghogel y daldy.*

He that caught me, if easy, was bold, tale-a-tale in the corner of the bow. D. ab Gwilym.

Talder, s. m. (tâl) Loftiness; tallness, stature.

Taldra, s. m. (tâl) Loftiness; tallness, stature.

Taldrwch, s. m.—pl. taldrychion (tal—trwch) bushiness, of the front; a forelock. a. Of front thickness; front-covered. Gwallt taldrwch, hair that is thick over the forehead.

Talddrws, s. m.—pl. talddrysau (tâl—drws) A front door.

Penrhin a ddwy elistedd ar y tâl haf i'r penadd, ag ei law awy ar y talddrws.

The patron of the family ought to sit at the lower end of the hall, with his left hand towards the front door. Welsh Laws.

Taledig, a. (tal) Being paid; requited, rewarded.

Taledigaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (taledig) Payment, remuneration.

Taledigawl, a. (taledig) In a course to be paid; remunerative.

Taleithiad, s. m. (talaeth) A forming a province.

Taleithiaw, v. a. (talaeth) To form a province.

Am lenlaw gwr yn mlaen, gryn, feda lwyth a daleithynt.

For producing a man to lead, of yore, the tribe of Jude they formed into a principality. S. Breynnawg.

Taleithiawg, a. (talaith) Wearing a diadem. s. m. One who wears a princely crown.

Tri taleithiawg cad Ynys Prydain; Trystian mab Taliuch, Huzil mab Caw, a Chul mab Cynyr Ceinarchlawg; ac un oedd daleithiawg aruddyrat hwyntau ill ti, Beilwyr mab Pedrwr oedd hwyntau.

The three diademed chiefs of the Isle of Britain; Trystian son of Taliuch, Huzil son of Caw, and Chul son of Cynyr the Splendid Knight; and one was a diademed chief over them three, this was Beilwyr son of Pedrwr. Triadad.

Taleithiawl, a. (talaeth) Being provincial.

Taleithiedig, a. (talaith) Diademed.

Taleithig, s. f. dim.—pl. t. ion (talaith) A fillet, a bandlet; a bandlet, in heraldry.

Taleithydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (talaeth) A provincial.

Talfa, s. f.—pl. talfeydd (tâl) A front place; a pediment; a projection.

Talfawg, a. (talfa) Having a pediment.

Talfaedig, a. (talfa) Pedimented; projected in front.

Talfainc, s. f.—pl. talfainciau (tâl—mainc) A front form; a throne.

*Holl Ffrainc, ei thalfainc, ei thir,
A'i choron uwch a yfir.*

*All France, her throne, her wide domain,
And crown, will higher honour gain.*

S. Tudyr.

Talfedel, s. f. (tâl—medel) Garden angelica.

Talfiodau, s. pl. aggr. (tâl—blodau) Festoons.

Talfiodenwaith, s. m. (talfiodau—gwaith) Festoon-work.

Talfiodeuyn, s. m. dim. (talfiodau) A festoon.

Talfoel, a. (tâl—moel) Having a bald front.

Talfoeledig, a. (talfoel) Being grown bald-fronted.

Talfoledd, s. m. (talfoel) A bald-fronted state.

Talfoeli, v. a. (talfoel) To render bald-fronted;

to become bald-fronted; to expose the front.

Talfoeliad, s. m. (talfoel) An exposing the front.

Talfoelni, s. m. (talfoel) Front-baldness.

Talfrith, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tâl—brith) A variegated front. a. Of many-coloured front.

*Arwr a dwy ygwedyd y dan
Ei dalfrith, ag all teth Fryddan,
Bu trydar yn serfre, bu tan,
Be ehad waenawr bu ban.*

*His painted front on ample shoulders soars,
Which marks the hero, swifter in his course
Than Fryddan, when the sound of war he hears,
And sees the thick incessant gleams of spears.* Aneurin.

Talfrithaw, v. a. (talfrith) To adorn the front.

Talfrithawg, a. (talfrith) Of variegated front.

Talfrithedig, a. (talfrith) Front-painted.

Talfrithiad, s. m. (talfrith) A variegating the front

Talfrw, s. m.—pl. t. au (tâl—briw) A front wound or cut. a. Having a cut or bruised front.

*Lle maelhion cein-gatrawd rwydd rithle,
O Ddiolwydd yu nysu-wydd o'n dyfau,
Yegwyd rygn rhag tarw tris talfrw fu.*

*Our faithful band in martial pomp array'd
Went'd from Diolwydd's deep and woody glade, Clash'd front-bruis'd shields before the bull of war.* Aneurin.

Talfrwaw, v. a. (talfrw) To cut or hurt the front.

Talfrwedig, a. (talfrw) Front-bruised.

Talfrwiad, s. m. (talfrw) A cutting the front.

Talfrwdd, s. m.—pl. talfrwddau (tâl—bwrdd)

The front or upper table in a hall.

Talfyr, a. (tâl—byr) Short-fronted, short towards the front; brief, abrupt.

Talfyradwy, a. (talfyr) Capable of being fore-shortened; reclassable.

Talfyredig, a. (talfyr) Foreshortened; abridged.

Talfyredigaeth, s. m. (talfyredig) The act of fore-shortening; abridgment.

Talfyredigawl, a. (talfyredig) Tending to fore-shorten; abbreviative.

Talfyriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (talfyr) A foreshortening; abbreviation; reclassification.

Talfyrn, v. a. (talfyr) To foreshorten; to abridge.

Talfyrwr, s. m.—pl. talfyrrwyr (talfyr—gwr) A foreshortener; an abbreviator.

Talffrwyn, s. f.—pl. t. i (tâl—ffrwyn) The front-stall or fillet of a bridle.

Talgainc, s. f.—pl. talgainciau (tâl—cainc) A browantler.

Talgainciad, s. (talgainc) A forming browantlers.

Talgainciaw, v. n. (talgainc) To form browantlers.

Talgainciawg, a. (talgainc) Having browantlers.

Talgell, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tâl—cell) A pantry.

Talgellawg, a. (talgell) Having a pantry.

Talgrib, s. f.—pl. t. au (tâl—crib) The frontboard that holds the spindle of a spinning-wheel.

Talgron, s. f.—pl. talgrynon (tâl—cron) That is round fronted; an abrupt turn; an inflection.

Taiogyn, s. m. dim. (talawg) A rude fellow.
Taid, s. m.—pl. teidiau (ta—id) That has spread a contingency; a grandfather. But in parts of Powys, and South Wales, tuid is a great great grandfather; in others it is a father in the fifth degree, hendaid in the sixth, and gorhendaid in the seventh degree: See Tud.—Tuid a nain, a grandfather and grandmother.
Tair, s. f. (ta—ir) Three of feminine gender. a. Three, speaking of females. Tair merch, tair o ferched, three women.

Tair ffynnon gwybodaeth: crebwyll, ystyriaeth, a dysgreidiaeth.

The three fountains of knowledge: imagination, meditation, and learning. Horddas.

Tairth, s. m. aggr.—pl. teirthion (tarth) An ague.
Tais, s. f.—pl. teision (ta—is) That spreads round; a cover, a daiz, a canopy; a cake.
Taith, s. f.—pl. teithiau (ta—ith) A journey.

Cain dros y trothwy yw hauner y dalith.

A step over the threshold is half the journey. Adage.

Melan a ddyl ei dalith.

Melan deserves his journey. Adage.

Taiwr, s. m.—pl. taiwyr (tai—gwr) A rustic man.

*Brad werthu ei bryd i wr
A fwykal fwyd taiwr.*

It was deceitful to sell his meal to a man who would eat the food of a ploughman. Syr Lewys Mredwy.

Tal, s. f.—pl. t. ion (ta—al) A space spread out or over; that is even or clear; clearance; pay, reward, requital; an equivalent, or value. Pa a dal hwna? what is the value of that?

*Llyna Forfudd ddiedryw,
A gal o dal: gofod yw.*

Behold, Morfudd of undebased race, what of recompence I get: it is grief! D. ab Gwilym.

*Dynlon sy'n cael dalont;
Dydd tal yw pob dydd i ti.*

The multitudes are receiving benefit; a day of payment is every day to thee. Hywel ab Reinalt.

Tâl, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tý—al) That is over, that tops, that is fronting, or upon; a front; the forehead. a. Towering; tall. In the names of places it answers to end; as Tal-y-Bont, Bridgend; In the names of men it denotes front; as Taliesin, Fair-front; Talarian, Silver-front; Talhaiarn, Iron-front.

Ffawd parh yw ei dâl.

Every body's fortune is in his forehead. Adage.

*Dy lewydch, ddyn dâl ewyn,
Dy gorff a lunodd Duw gwyn.*

'Twas heav'n thy form, thy bloom, that gave,
Thy forehead like the foamy wave. S. Tudyr.

*Telynlor tâl awenydd,
Trwythaw beirdd mewn traethau bydd.*

The harper, blest with lofty muse,
The bards is briny floods imbrues. Guto y Glyn.

*O deir-llith y gwnaf darlawn clod Efa,
O dalau India hyd wâl Luodaju.*

In three lectures I will read the praise of Efa, extending from the frontiers of India to the wall of London. L. G. Cochi.

Talâad, s. m. (tâl) To elevate; to grow tall.

Taladwy, a. (tal) Capable of being paid; payable.

Cusan cariad taladwy Cefais: ni ddymunnais mwy.

A kiss as due to faithful love
She gave; for that alone I strove. S. Tudyr.

Taladdurn, s. m.—pl. t. an (tal—addurn) A front ornament; a moulding.

Taladdurnaw, v. a. (taladdurn) To adorn the front.

Taladdurnawg, a. (taladdurn) Having an ornamented front.

Taladdurniad, s. m. (taladdurn) An adorning the front.

Talaeth, s. f.—pl. taleithiau (tâl) A front region; a frontier; a province, or dependent territory.

Ymys Prydain a gynneir dda an goron a thair talaeth.

The Isle of Britain is held under one crown and three provinces. Welsh Law.

Talaidd, a. (tâl) Somewhat high; tallish.

Talais, s. f. (tal—ais) An empaneled jury.

*A deuddeg o brydyddion,
Yn dalais deg, dilyn don.*

With twelve poets, a fair jury, of certain voices.

*Talais a wyr mainiolli,
Trefn hardd, rhwng 'y mardd a ml.*

A jury of men of property, a fair order, between my lord's me. Edm. Iry.

Talaith, s. f.—pl. taleithion (tâl—aiih) A band worn round the head; a frontlet, a headband, a chaplet; a radial crown; a diadem.

Talar, s. f.—pl. taleri (tâl—ar) A headland in a field, at the end of ridges; a cross-ridge.

Talarawg, a. (talar) Having cross-ridges.

Talarriad, s. m. (talar) A forming cross-ridges.

Talaru, v. a. (talar) To form cross-ridges.

Talarw, a. (tâl—garw) Roughly fronted.

Telidw yn nghyngrodd yn nghyngrodd, tal ysgafn yn gwyddu twynt yn fuan.

The rough-fronted ones in the mutual struggle of the war—the battle, the front of the gold-covered shield they would break. O. Cyfchawg.

Talâu, v. a. (tâl) To make high; to grow tall.

Talawd, s. m. (tal) A payment, a requital.

Talawdr, s. m.—pl. talodron (talawd) A payer.

Talawg, a. (tâl) High-fronted; bold-faced.

Talawr, s. m. (tal) One who makes equable; a rewarder; a payer.

Ef tarddo talawr, Tardodd nef i lawr.

When the remunerator shall appear let the heavens open below. Taliesin, armer dyddiwr.

Talben, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tal—pen) A settled price or standard value. In order to adjust transactions of barter, the law affixed to every thing a settled mean value; and if any article given in payment fell short of its standard, the deficiency was made good in money.

Talbenig, a. (talben) Of current value. Talbenig-ion, things of standard value.

Eidlon a dalu ddeg ar ugain yw bryn talbenig;—Saf yw i b benig, gwarieth heb dderchafael gydag hwynt o arfa mwyd.

An ox that is worth thirty pence is a kind of standard measure. Kine of standard value are those with which an equivalent is made of kine-qualifying money. Welsh Law.

Talbenigiad, s. m. (talbenig) A regulating to a standard value.

Talbenigiaw, v. a. (talbenig) To regulate to a standard value; to become of standard value.

Talbenigrwydd, s. m. (talbenig) The state of being of standard value.

Talbenn, v. a. (talben) To set a mean price.

Talbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (tâl—pren) A front let or a stock of wood placed behind the fire; the same as talpentun.

Talcen, s. m.—pl. t. i (tâl—cen) The fore part or end of anything; the forehead; the end, of a building; the head, of a barrel, and the like.

Nid edrych angau pry drefn at dalcen.

Death doth not regard who hath the thirteenth forehead. Idem.

Gradd pob un yn ei dalcen.

Every one's condition is in his forehead. Idem.

Talcenawg, a. (talcen) Having a fore part or end; having a forehead; ample-fronted.

Talcenawl, a. (talcen) Relating to the fore part or end; belonging to the forehead.

Talrynawg, a. (talrwn) Having a head ridge.
Talu, v. a. (tal) To make even or clear, to discharge, or to pay; to requite, to reward; to be worth; to answer a purpose. Os pryml hwn ei dalu endano, if thou buyest this thou shalt pay for it: Pa á dal hwna? What is that worth? Pa beth á dal son am hyny? What is the use of talking about that?

Gwael y peth ni thal ei offyn.

It is a poor thing that is not worth asking for. Adage.

Y gwiall a'r hwnn a dalant yn gywir y nalll i'r hall.

The rich and the fair weather with repyr equitably the one to the other.

A gorchwa taled i'r crythawr.

He who dances for him pay the fiddler.

Talwg, a. (tâl—gwg) Toweringly frowning.

—As heb y talwg Siliadllic he magel drwg.

On all highly-frowning houses chimneys where smoke generates. Iolo Goch i lys G. Glendwr.

Talwsg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tâl—gwiwg) What is worn on the forehead, a head-dress.

Talwr, s. m.—pl. talwyr (tâl—gwr) A person who requites; a payer.

Talwrn, s. m.—pl. talwrnan (tâl—gwrn) What projects forward.

Talym, s. m.—pl. talhau (tâl) Any thing that comes on abruptly; an impression; a short space, a while; a good while; a small quantity; a some, or somewhat; a range of anything in motion; a clap of thunder. Ni buailst yma er ys talen, thou hast not been here for this good while.

*Oedd cywir ei alr erioed;
Oedd haeli talym diwael tald.*

Ever equitable was his word; he was the generous one of a period undebated and splendid. Ffrydd Bychan, m. Bledydd.

Tall, s. m. (ta—all) A spread out or over.

Tallawg, a. (tall) Being spread out or over.

Talliad, s. m. (tall) A spreading out or over.

Tallu, v. a. (tall) To make a spread out or over.

Tallwch, s. m. (tall) The state of being spread.

Tam, s. m.—pl. & lon (ta—au) A stretch over so as to take in; as much as can be bitten off; a morsel, a bite.

Roll tam mab ni thierer.

Sweet is the droll of a child drollish.

Rid tam o gwlawr nath.

Not a morsel of a philosopher's dinner.

D. ab Gwilym.

Tama, s. m. (tam) Hard food, or that is to be masticated, as bread and flesh; and what is taken with it, as butter and the like, is called callu.

Callu—

Ei thymr tlawd, a'i thoma, a'i claws, drwg yw gwaio a'i gwaio.

Losing her poor estate, her bread, and her cheese, and in the condition that is the same. Madrug Dwygryn.

Tamaid, s. m.—pl. tameldian (tam) The quantity taken by a bite, a morsel, a bit, a bite, or mouthful. Bu raid iddo hel ei damaid, he was obliged to beg his subsistence: Yr wyt yn braf dy damaid, thou goest on with ample bite, or with good appetite: Hwda damaid, take a bite: tamaid y cythraul, devil's bit scabious.

Bera ac ymenny yw un tamaid.

Bread and butter make one morsel.

Adage.

Tameidiad, s. m. (tamaid) A forming a morsel; a breaking off a morsel.

Tameidiaw, v. a. (tamaid) To break into mouthfuls, to make morsels, to take bites; to bite off a morsel.

Tameidiawl, a. (tamaid) Like a mouthful.

Tameidiwr, s. m.—pl. tameldiwr (tamaid—gwr) One who takes a mouthful.

Tameidyn, s. m. dim. (tamaid) A little mouthful.

Tamiad, s. m. (tam) A forming into bits.

Tamig, s. m. dim.—pl. t. ion (tam) A small morsel or bite.

Tamigaw, v. a. (tamig) To take a nibbling bite; to nibble; to nib.

Tamigawl, a. (tamig) Nibbling; nipping.

Tamigiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tamig) A nibbling.

Tammorth, s. m. (tam—porth) Sustenance.

Need angus Ffreuer a'm de hroo!

Am dammorth brodyrde,

Dihunaf, wylaf fore!

How the death of Freer makes me solitary to-night! For the sustenance of the community, I will be awake, I will early weep. Llywarch Hen.

Near syllais i ddinlle Ffrecon?

Hirach am dammorth brodyrde!

Have not I gazed on the camp plot of Wrecon? The fair patrimony of Freer regrets the lost sustenance of the community. Llywarch Hen.

Tamp, s. m. (tam) That is pervasive.

Tampawg, a. (tamp) A fit of passion or anger.

Gochel y tampawg tros awr; gochel y gwedol tros fywyd.

Avoid a passion fit for an hour; avoid babbling for even.

Tampr, s. m.—pl. tamprau (tamp) A taper.

Maddel hi of a Champ cwyrr, cau nid oedd wilen genti, ond aeth ei codd o homo agaw.

She did beat him with a wax taper, not having a stick by her, so that his soul went out of him almost. Strut y Sennan.

Tampriad, s. m. (tampr) A forming a taperlight; a burning as a torch.

Tampru, v. a. (tampr) To make a taper light; to burn as a torch.

Tamyn, s. m. dim. (tam) A small bit or morsel.

Tan, s. m.—pl. t. au (ta—au) An expanding principle; a cause of expansion; fire.

Awen heb ddeothlloch, tan yn llaw ddeothlloch.

Talent without wisdom is a fire in the hand of folly. Adage.

Tri pheth oedd ar eu cyntyd: tan, a'r golcan; ddeith, a'r gwirionedd; ac anad, a'r bywyd: a gorfod a wnaet ar bob pryd; ac yna ddeithlloch.

Three things are on their increase: fire, which is light; intellect, which is truth; and soul, which is life: and they will overcome all things; and then there will be an end of the inchoative state. Barddon.

Tri char-elyn dyn: tan, dwfr, ac arglwydd.

The three cherished foes of man: fire, water, and a governor. Cefng Bledith.

Tan y cy gorfornaf; ac ni allaf gyfryw hyny bori ybryd.

The fire is material; and what is of such a nature could not torment a spirit. Henar Gwido.

Tân, s. m. (ty—au) A spread or expansion; continuity. a. Spreading; flat, low; continuous. prep. To, till, until, as far; under, beneath, below. adv. Along; under. Tân yr oes hon, till this age; tân ammod, under covenant; y goron tân haul, the heat under the sun. A verb, of the infinitive mood, preceded by dan, forms a participle. Dyna hi yn mynd tân gwa, there she is going singling along.

Pruddled ni's parodd hi Tan sel ou tan elen.

Dejection she has not caused herself a one brow until this year. W. Wyn.

Ei biwyf, yn gwlid o'feg, Yw ei la, dan ei law beg.

His parish, with entire concern, is his host, under his fair hand. L. G. Cuthi, i Syr H. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Tanaf, pronem. prep. (tân) Under me. Tanaf, under thee; tano, under him, or it; dan, under a. Front-turning; inflective. Sain dalgron, an inflective sound, a diphthong: Talgron gadr, of strong inflection, as gwaw; talgron laddf, of soft inflection, as gwaw; talgron fud, mutely inflective, as gwaw; talgron gela, of short inflection, as marw; talgron wib, of transitive inflection, as gwaw.

Talgrwn, s. m.—pl. talgryniôn (tâl—crwn) That is round-fronted; precipitance. a. Precipitate, straightway.

Oed a'm rhian—
A waethwn yn dalgrwn deg.

An amigation with my love I made
Straightways to meet her in the shelter'd glade.
D. ob Gwilym.

Talgrych, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tâl—crych) A rough front; a wrinkled front. a. Rough-fronted; frowning. Dyna genawcon talgrychion, those are rough-headed whelps.

Diridid, nid telaid, talgrych wylionder.

Mischievous, not comely, is rough-fronted cruelty.

Carnodyn.

Talgrychedd, s. m. (talgrych) Rough-fronted state
Talgrychiad, s. m. (talgrych) A ruffling the brow, a frowning.

Talgrychni, s. m. (talgrych) Roughness of the forehead.

Talgrychu, v. a. (talgrych) To knit the brow.
Talgrychwyr, s. m. talgrychwyr (talgrych—gwr)
One who knits his brows; a frowner.

Talgryf, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tâl—cryf) That is hard-fronted. a. Hard-fronted; impudent.

Talgryfion a chaled-galon ydynt hwy.

Impudent ones and hard-hearted are they.
Eschial

Talgryfaad, s. m. (talgryf) A rendering dent; a becoming impudent.

Talgryfau, v. a. (talgryf) To render im-to have effrontery.

Talgryfder, s. m. (talgryf) Effrontery.
Talgrynadwy, a. (talgrwn) Capable of capable of abbreviation.

Talgrynedig, a. (talgrwn) Inflective precipitate; without hesitation.

Talgrynaw, a. (talgrwn) Inflective Talgryniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (talp ing the front; inflection; pr-

Talgrynn, v. a. (talgrwn) To pitate.

Talgrynwydd, s. m. (talp front; aptness for inflect-

Gwell ddywla all y dydd—ym talgrynwydd cydwybod.

After comprehending the gr-comes instructed how to walk

Talgrynydd, s. m.—
fector; an abbrev-

Talgudyn, s. m.—pl.
lock; a love-loc-

Talgudynawg, a. ariant, How be

Talgwn, s. m.—
fronted.

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

He was n not before

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

Talgynawd, s.
anddaiar Subterranean.

Talladawl, a. (tallad) Tending to off; remunerative.

Talladu, v. a. (tallad) To make ment; to make a reman-

Tallant, s. m. (tal) A paym-

Tallator, ger. (tallad) In-

Tallitor, sup. (tal) To be-

Talm, s. m.—pl. t. oed comes on abruptly space, a while,

tity; a some,

of any thing
Pa sut yr wydd this good w-dawn o aw this long arno, th him:

Sew

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Seu

Talrynawg, a. (talrwn) Having a head ridge.

Talu, v. a. (tal) To make even or clear, to discharge, or to pay; to requite, to reward; to be worth; to answer a purpose. Oe pryni hwn cet dalu emdano, if thou buyest this thou shalt pay for it: Pa 4 dal hwna? What is that worth? Pa both a dal son am hyny? What is the use of talking about that?

Gwael y peth ni thal of offyn.

It is a poor thing that is not worth asking for.

Y gwiau a'r hwna a dalant yn gywir y melli f'r llaith.

The rale and the fair weather will repay equitably the one to the other.

A goretio taled f'r cryhawr.

He who dares let him pay the fiddler.

Talwg, a. (tâl-gwg) Toweringly frowning.

—Ar hwb ty talwg

Stimulat he magal awg.

On all highly-frowning houses chimneys where smoke generates.

Iolo Goch i ffrs U. Gwendwr.

Talwng, s. f.—pl. t. oddd (tâl-gwng) What is worn on the forehead, a head-dress.

Talwr, s. m.—pl. talwyr (tâl-gwr) A person who requites; a payer.

Talwrn, s. m.—pl. talwrnan (tâl-gwrn) What projects forward.

Talym, s. m.—pl. talhuan (tâl) Any thing that comes on abruptly; an impression; a short space, a while; a good while; a small quantity; a some, or somewhat; a range of anything in motion; a clap of thunder. Ni bantist yma er ys talu, thou hast not been here for this good while.

Oodd cywir ei alr erioed;
Oodd hant talym dwnal fidd.

Ever equitable was his word; he was the generous one of a period undebated and splendid.

Prydydd Dyhan, m. Bledydd.

Tall, s. m. (ta—all) A spread out or over.

Tallawg, a. (tall) Being spread out or over.

Talliad, s. m. (tall) A spreading out or over.

Tallu, v. a. (tall) To make a spread out or over.

Tallwch, s. m. (tall) The state of being spread.

Tam, a. m.—pl. t. ion (ta—am) A stretch over so as to take in; as much as can be bitten off; a morsel, a bite.

Hoff tam nab ei cherer.

Sweet is the morsel of a child's delight.

Rid tam o ghwau ameth.

Not a morsel of a philosopher's dinner.

Tama, s. m. (tam) Hard food, or that is to be masticated, as bread and flesh; and what is taken with it, as butter and the like, is called cullyn.

Cullu—

Ei thymyr thawd, a't thama,
A't chawd, drag yw gnaw. a'l gwna.

Losing her poor estate, her bread, and her cheese, and is the condition that is the same.

Tamaid, s. m.—pl. tameidian (tam) The quantity taken by a bite, a morsel, a bit, a bite, or mouthful. Bu raid iddo hel ei damaid, he was obliged to beg his subsistence: Yr wyt yn bruff dy damaid, thou goest on with ample bite, or with good appetite: Hwda damaid, take a bite: tamaid y cythraul, devil's bit scabious.

Bera ac ymawya yw on tamaid.

Bread and butter make one morsel.

Tameidiad, s. m. (tamaid) A forming a morsel; a breaking off a morsel.

Tameidiaw, v. a. (tamaid) To break into mouthfuls, to make morsels, to take bites; to bite off a morsel.

Tameidiawl, a. (tamaid) Like a mouthful.

Tameidiawr, s. m.—pl. tameidiawyr (tamaid—gwr)

One who takes a mouthful.

Tameidyn, s. m. dim. (tamaid) A little mouthful.

Tamiad, s. m. (tam) A forming into bite.

Tamig, s. m. dim.—pl. t. ion (tam) A small morsel or bite.

Tamigaw, v. a. (tamig) To take a nibbling bite; to nibble; to nib.

Tamigawl, a. (tamig) Nibbling; mipping.

Tamigiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tamig) A nibbling.

Tammberth, s. m. (tam—porth) Hastenance.

Neod angus ffreuer a'm de hruol

Am damborth brodyrde,

Dihunaf, wylaf fore!

How the death of Freuer makes me solitary to-night! For the hastenance of the community, I will be awake, I will early weep.

Llywarch Hen.

Near syllable i ddinlle Ffrecon!

Ffreuer werydro

Hireth am damborth brodyrde!

Have not I gazed on the camp plot of Wrecon! The false patri-mony of Freuer regrets the lost hastenance of the community.

Llywarch Hen.

Tamp, s. m. (tam) That is pervasive.

Tampawg, a. (tamp) A fit of passion or anger.

Gochel y tampawg tros awr; guchel y gwedust tros fywyd.

Avoid a passion fit for an hour; avoid babbling for ever.

Adage.

Tampr, s. m.—pl. tamprau (tamp) A taper.

Maddol hi of a tampr cywr, can nid oddd wileu gred, oal neith ni ameth othmo agaw.

She did beat him with a wax taper, not having a stick by her, so that his soul went out of him shame.

David y Gwynn.

Tampriad, s. m. (tampr) A forming a taperlight; a burning as a torch.

Tampru, v. a. (tampr) To make a taper light; to burn as a torch.

Tamyn, s. m. dim. (tam) A small bit or morsel.

Tan, s. m.—pl. t. au (ta—an) An expanding principle; a cause of expansion; fire.

Awen heb ddoethineb, tan yn llw ffolioch.

Talent without wisdom is a fire in the hand of folly.

Adage.

Tri pheth cydd ar eu cynnydd: tan, ni gwlwm; ddiell, ni gwirionedd; ac gwlwm, ni gydd: a gorffed a wnaid ar bob prap; ac yw ddiell ddiell.

Three things are on their increase: fire, which is light; intellect, which is truth; and soul, which is life; and they will overcome all things; and then there will be an end of the factitious state.

Barddas.

Tri char-elyd dyn: tan, dŵr, ac arglwydd.

The three cherished foes of man: fire, water, and a governor.

Ceryn Bleda.

Tan y oy gorfornaf; ac ni allaf gyfryw hyny boral jeryd.

The fire is material; and what is of such a nature could not torment a spirit.

Hanes Gwido.

Tân, s. m. (ty—an) A spread or expansion; continuity. a. Spreading; flat, low; continuous. prep. To, till, until, as far; under, beneath, below. adv. Along; under. Tân yr oes hon, till this age; tân ammed, under covenant; y goren tân hant, the heat under the sun. A verb, of the infinitive mood, preceded by dan, forms a participle. Dyna hi yn myned dan gennu, there she is going strolling along.

Pruddell a't parodd hi

Tan na'i tan elen.

Dejection she has not caused herself a one brow until this year.

W. Wyn.

Ei blyf, yn gwdd ofog,

Yw ei lo, dan of law feg.

His parish, with entire concern, is his heat, under his fair hand.

L. G. Cych, i Syr H. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Tanaf, pronom. prep. (tân) Under me. Tanaf, under thee; dan, under him, or it; dam, under her; tanon, under us; tanoch, under you; tan-yaf, tanaddynt, under them. See Am prefixed to it, in amdanaf.—Maent yn codi dani, they are making an insurrection.

Y Deau, bid hyd y bo,
A dwy Wynedd y dano.

The South, as long as it endures, and the two Gwynedde, be they under him.
L. G. Colli.

Tanadwy, a. (tan) Ignitable; capable of being fired

Tanaidd, a. (tan) Somewhat fiery, partly fiery.

Tanawg, a. (tan) Abounding with fire.

Tanawl, a. (tan) Expansive; igneous, fiery.

A dan yr enallt hwnw y goeodeu ef dan heb ddifoddi byth, yn wreiddion nac yn haddw; iawyn paw ddechreuat ddifoddi yna eil-waith ydd ymchwilai yn danolion.

Under that unction he placed a fire ever without being extinguished, in sparks nor in ashes; but when it should begin to be extinguished, then again it would return in fiery particles.
Gr. ab Arthur.

Tanawl, a. (tan) Spreading, expanding.

Tanbaid, a. (tan—paid) Having the expansive power stopped; violent, vehement, fervent.

Llosgi yn danbaid, to burn vehemently; dyn tanbaid, a passionate man.

Y bwa—
Tanbaid ei nahl yn ei ol;
Tanbeidiach no'r tan bydol.

The bow, violent in its bound in returning: more violent than the natural fire.
T. Alid.

Tanbeidiad, s. m. (tanbaid) A rendering violent or vehement; a becoming violent.

Tanbeidiaw, v. a. (tanbaid) To render violent or ardent; to become violent.

Tanbeidiawl, a. (tanbaid) Of a violent tendency.

Tanbeidrwydd, s. m. (tanbaid) Violence.

Tanbeiriant, s. m.—pl. tanbeiriannau (tan—peiriant) A fire-engine.

Tanboer, s. m. (tan—poer) A spitfire. a. Fire-spitting.

Tanboerawl, a. (tanboer) Fire-spitting.

Tanboeri, v. a. (tanboer) To spit fire.

Tanboeriad, s. m. (tanboer) A spitting of fire.

Tanboerwr, s. m.—pl. tanboerwyr (tanboer—gwr) One who spits fire.

Tanc, s. m. (tan) A state of expansion; space; an unobstructed state; ease; a tranquil state; peace

Archaf danc cyn franc, trwy eirolion.—

I crave for peace before dissolution, through intercession.—
Li. P. Moch.

Tair ciwdaud nawdd a ddaethant i Ynys Prydain; ac yn nhanc a cheud cendyl y Cymru y doynt, heb arf, heb onawd; cyntaf oedd ciwdaud Celyddon yn y Gogledd; ail oedd yr ail Wyddyl, ac yn yr Alban y maent; trydydd, gwyr Galedin, a ddoynt yn y llongau moelion hyd yn Ynys Wyth, pan soddus eu gwlad.

The three tribes of refuge who came to the Isle of Britain; and under the peace and consent of the nation of the Cymru did they come, without weapon, without assault; the first was the tribe of Celyddon in the North; the second was the primitive Gwyddelians, and in the Alban they remain; thirdly, the men of Galedin, who came in the bare ships to the Isle of Wyth, when their country was inundated.
Triodd.

Tancwd, s. m. (tan—cwd) The scrotum.

Tanchwa, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tan—chwa) Fire blast, the fire damp, or noxious vapour in mines.

Tanchwydd, s. m. (tan—chwydd) An inflammatory swelling.

Tandawd, s. m. (tan) Ignition; a conflagration.

Tanddaiar, s. m. (tan—daiar) Subterranean.

Tanddaiarawg, a. (tanddaiar) Subterranean.

Tanddaiarawl, a. (tanddaiar) Subterranean.

Pan yw yn enw yr leu i bob gila bligw, yn gystal i'r nefolion, a ddaiarolion, ac i danddaiarolion.

That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, as well of things in heaven, and things in earth, and of things under the earth.
W. Salisbury.

Tanddaiaroldeb, s. m. (tanddaiarawl) Subterraneanness; an under-ground state.

Tanddalaroli, v. a. (tanddaiarawl) To render subterraneous; to become subterraneous.

Tandde, s. m. (tan—de) That is pervaded by fire; an inflammation.

Y gislarillys sy dda rhag tandde a gurus.

The brooklime is good against inflammation and heat.

Li. Meddygians.

Tanddewin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tan—dewia) One who divines by fire.

Tanddewiniad, s. m. (tanddewin) A divining by fire.

Tanddewiniath, s. m. (tanddewin) Pyromancy.

Tanddewiniaw, v. a. (tanddewin) To divine by fire.

Tanddodi, v. a. (tan—dodi) To place under.

Tanddodiad, s. m. (tan—dodiad) A placing under.

Tanddwyn, v. a. (tan—dwynd) To subduce.

Tanddygal, s. m. (tanddygyd) A subtrahend.

Tanddygiad, s. m. (tan—dygiad) Subduction, subtraction.

Tanddygyd, v. a. (tan—dygyd) To subduce, to subtract.

Tanedig, a. (tan) Being spread, expanded.

Tanedigaeth, s. m. (tanedig) The act of spreading.

Tanen, s. f. dim. (tan) A small particle of fire, a spark.

Taufa, s. f.—pl. tanfeydd (tan) An explosion; a fire damp; also called tanchwa.

Tanfaen, s. m.—pl. tanfeini (tan—maen) A fire-stone, a pyrite.

Tanfer, s. m. (tan—ber) Fiery violence.

Pryder am danfer, pryddaf iddaw;
Pryddais i rwyf traie, cyn trau allaw;
A thal enffus a fu eiddaw.

Sorrow for violence, I will sing to him; I have before me the leader of power, before the silent rain; and of the bow of golden horn he was possessed.
Cynulleid, m. Rhy.

Tanfre, s. m. (tan—bre) A pile of fire.

Molawd yw yn ngrall, mael yn danfre,
Edain-feirch a seirch verygi cynwae.

He is the theme of praise in the toll, like a conflagration, and ed steeds with studded harness forming the front line.
Li. P. Moch.

Tanfflam, s. f.—pl. t. au (tan—fflam) A fiery flame.

Tanfflamawl, a. (tanfflam) Fire-flaming.

Tanfflamiad, s. m. (tanfflam) A flaming with fire.

Tanfflamu, v. a. (tanfflam) To make a fire flame.

to brandish a fire flame; to be in a fiery flame.

Angelion yn tanfflamu, angels flaming with fire.

Tanffon, s. f.—pl. tanffyn (tan—ffon) A poker.

Tangelfydd, a. (tan—celfydd) Pyrotechnic.

Tangelfyddawl, a. (tangelfydd) Pyrotechnical.

Tangelfyddyd, s. f.—pl. t. on (tangelfydd) Pyrotechny.

Tanglawdd, s. m.—pl. tangloddian (tan—clawd)

An undermine, a mine.

Tangloddiaid, s. m. (tanglawdd) An undermining.

Tangloddiauw, v. a. (tanglawdd) To undermine.

Tangloddiauw, a. (tanglawdd) Undermined.

Taniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tan) A firing; ignition.

Taniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tan) A spreading.

Taniadawl, a. (taniad) Tending to fire, igniferous.

Taniadu, v. a. (taniad) To make a firing.

Tanial, v. a. (tan) To fire, to set on fire.

Rhyddias mab Gradd, rwydd ei arall,
Cymru yn danial, rhyfel ar gaul.

The son of Gradd, of fluent speech, released, Wain; war on the slaves.
Ym. Lloedd y ffr.

Taniaw, v. a. (tan) To fire; to set on fire.

Taniedig, a. (taniad) Being fired, set on fire.

Taniedigaeth, s. m. (taniedig) A setting on fire.

Tanlen, s. f.—pl. t. i (tan—llen) A fire-stream.

Tanlwydd, a. (tan—llwydd) Subject, obedient.

Tanlwyddiad, s. m.—pl. tanlwyddiadau (tanlwydd) A subject.

Daw a'ch rhwyddo oll i fod—yn danlwyddiadau dyddiawn, yn frodyr anegor.
God prosper you all to be faithful subjects, to be inseparable brethren.
N. Ferri.

Tanllachar, a. (tan—llachar) Fire-gleaming.

Tanllestr, s. m.—pl. tanllestri (tan—llestr) A lantern.

*Rhy bell yw ym ddifprwyaw
Llatal dref yw ffynnyddu—
Na dwyn o'm blaen danllestri,
Na phyt cwyrr, pan fo hwyr hi.*

Too far is it for me to commission an audacious messenger to her lodging yonder; nor to have born before me lamps nor lamps of war, when it happens to be late.
D. ab Gwilym.

Tanli, s. m. (tan—lli) A fire glow. a. Ignifugous; span new.

*Cylllell—
Tanli gallestr der-restr don Uffyl wrych efalli wreiddion.*

*A halfe open arm, steel-rayed striking from the flint spitting fire sparks of a forge.
Rhyr Goch Eryri.*

'anlliw, s. m. (tan—lliw) Flame-colour. a. Of flame-colour; bran new.

'anllwynawg, s. m. (tan—llwynawg) Alopecia.

'anllwyth, s. m.—pl. t. i (tan—llwyth) A great blazing fire.

'anllyd, a. (tan) Fiery, full of fire.

'anllydrwydd, s. m. (tanllyd) Fieriness.

'anllyd, v. a. (tanllyd) To render fiery; to grow fiery.

'ansawg, a. (tant) Having sudden starts, or flights

'anriad, s. m. (tant) A stretching; a starting; a causing a sudden impulse; a throbbing.

'annorth, s. m. (tan—dorth) An overspreading; a substitute.

*Pan dyfys y Mab Rhad oedd raid wrtho,
Er porth, yn danorth a dawn arno.*

When the Son of Grace did come, there was a necessity for him, as a help, as a substitute endowed with virtue.
D. Brydwr.

annu, v. a. (tant) To stretch; to start, to give a sudden impulse; to throb, to ache; to stretch a string.

ano, prep. (tân) Below, beneath.

ano, pronom. prep. (tân) Under it, under him.

anoedd, prep. (tân) Under, beneath, below.

anogan, s. m.—pl. t. au (tan—gogan) Pyromancy.

anoganawl, a. (tanogan) Belonging to pyromancy.

anoganiad, s. m. (tanogan) A divining by fire.

anogannu, v. a. (tanogan) To divine by fire.

anradd, s. f.—pl. t. au (tân—gradd) An inferior rank.

anre, s. f. (tan—rhe) A fire course. a. Permeated by fire.

anrew, s. m. (tan—rhew) A nipping frost.

anrif, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tân—rhif) An inferior number.

anryw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tân—rhyw) An inferior kind.

ansang, s. f.—pl. t. au (tân—sang) An under-tread.

ansangawl, a. (tansang) Subpedaneous.

ansangiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tansang) An under-treading.

ansangu, v. a. (tansang) To under-tread.

ansawdd, s. m.—pl. tansoddion (tân—sawdd) Submersion.

ansoddawl, a. (tansawdd) Submersive.

ansoddi, v. a. (tansawdd) To submerge.

ansoddiad, s. m. (tansawdd) A submersion.

Tanswydd, s. f.—pl. t. an (tân—swydd) An inferior office.

Tanswyddawg, a. (tanswydd) Subaltern. s. m. A subaltern; a subdelegate.

Tanswyddiad, s. m. (tanswydd) A subdelegation.

Tant, s. m.—pl. tannau (tan) A stretch, or distension; a sudden start, or impulse; a spasm, a throb, or agony; a gust of passion, flight, or whim; what is stretched; a string; a string of a musical instrument. Rhyfedd yw dy dannaau di, thou hast strange whims; tannau o lawenydd, sudden fits of joy; tannau gwylltion, wild fits; tannau poethion, violent passions; tannau dolur, the prickings or agonies of a sore; tannau grŵniaraw, the sharp pains occasioned by being frost-bitten; Tant telyn, a harp string; tant rhwyd, a net-line.

Tantawr, s. m.—pl. tantorion (tant) A player on a stringed instrument; a musician.

*Nerth tantawr yn ei fys;
Nerth llwrf ei droed byfrys.*

*The power of the musician is in his finger; the power of the timid is in his nimble foot.
Canteg ab Gwilym.*

Tantiad, s. m. (tant) A stretching, or tightening; a starting; a taking a sudden fit; a throbbing; a stringing.

Tantiaw, v. a. (tant) To stretch, to tighten; to start, to cause a sudden impulse; to take a fit; to produce a spasm; to throb; to string.

Tanu, v. a. (tân) To spread, to scatter.

Tanu, v. a. (tan) To fire, to set on fire.

Hawdd tanu crinweillt.

It is easy to fire parched grass.

Adage.

Hawdd tanu cithen crinlon, nid hawdd eu difawdd.

*It is easy to fire parched furze, it is not easy to extinguish them.
Adage.*

Tanwalth, s. m. (tan—gwaith) Fire-work.

Tanwr, s. m.—pl. tanwyr (tan—gwr) A fire-man; a fuel-man.

Tânwr, s. m.—pl. tânwyr (tân—gwr) A spreader.

Tanwyd, s. m. (tan—gwyd) A breaking out of fire.

Tanwydyn, s. m. (tanwyd) A fiery meteor.

*Mai rhod tanwydyn tros elydd,
Mai ion tethiang llyfeydd.*

*Like an orb of kindling meteor over the humid plain, like the bareling wave is he who justly sways llyfeydd.
Taliessin.*

Tanwydr, a. m.—pl. tanwydrau (tan—gwydr) A burning-glass.

Tanwydd, s. m. (tan—gwydd) Fire-wood.

Tanysgrif, s. f. (tân—ysgrif) A subscription.

Tanysgrifaw, v. a. (tanysgrif) To underwrite.

Tanysgrifiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tanysgrif) An underwriting.

Tangnef, s. m. (tanc—nef) Celestial expansion; tranquillity, peace.

*Aed lle mae'r eang dangnef;
Ac aed y gerdd gydag ef!*

*May he go to where there is extensive tranquillity; and with him go the song!
Idol Goch, M. D. ab Gwilym.*

Tair ciwdaud addwyn Ynys Prydain: cyntaf oedd cenedl y Cymry, a ddoynt gyda Hu Gadarn i Ynys Prydain, sef ni fynall of wlad a thiroedd y ymled ac ymlid, o'r ydyddau ac yn nharnef; all oedd a'r Lloegrwys, a ddoynt o dir Gwasgwyn, ac a hanoedd ynt o brif gawed y Cymry; trydydd oedd y Brython, ac o dir Llydaw y daethant, ac eu hanes o gyfeirir y Cymry.

*The three beneficent tribes of the Isle of Britain: the first was the nation of the Cymry who came with Hu the Mighty to the Isle of Britain, who would not possess nor country nor lands through fighting and persecution, but of equity and in peace; the second was the stock of the Lloegrwys, who came from the land of Gwasgwyn, and were descended from the primitive nation of the Cymry; the third were the Brython, and from the land of Llydaw they came, having their descent from the primary stock of the Cymry.
Trioedd.*

Tangnefawl, a. (tangnef) Tranquillous.

Tangnefedd, s. m. (tangnef) A state of celestial expansion; heavenly tranquillity; tranquillity.

Crist, ti—Oen tangnefedd a heddweh!

Christ, thou Lamb of heavenly rest and peace! Gato y Glyn.

*Crist creawdr—
Crist oeli, colofa tangnefedd.*

Christ the Creator, Christ the mysterious one, the pillar of tranquillity.

Ll. P. Moch.

Tangnefeddawl, a. (tangnefedd) Tranquillizing. Tangnefeddiad, s. m. (tangnefedd) A tranquillizing; a producing peace.

Tangnefeddu, v. a. (tangnefedd) To tranquillize. Tangnefeddus, a. (tangnefedd) Tranquillous. Heddweh tangnefeddus, tranquil peace.

Tangnefeddusaw, v. a. (tangnefeddus) To render tranquillous; to become tranquillizing.

Tangnefeddusder, s. m. (tangnefeddus) Tranquillousness.

Tangnefeddusdra, s. m. (tangnefeddus) Tranquillousness.

Tangnefeddusedd, s. m. (tangnefeddus) Tranquillousness.

Tangnefeddusiad, s. m. (tangnefeddus) A rendering tranquillous; a becoming tranquillous.

Tangnefeddusrwydd, s. m. (tangnefeddus) Tranquillousness.

Tangnefeddwr, s. m.—pl. tangnefeddwyr (tangnefedd—gwr) A tranquillizer; a peace-maker.

Tangnefiad, s. m. (tangnef) A tranquillizing.

Tangnefig, a. (tangnef) Tranquillous.

Gwledig pob tangnefig.

Patriotic is every thing tranquillous.

Adage.

Tangnefoldeb, s. m. (tangnefawl) Tranquillousness; a state of peace.

Tangnefolder, s. m. (tangnefawl) Tranquillousness; a state of peace.

Tangnefoledd, s. (tangnefawl) Tranquillousness.

Tangnefoli, v. a. (tangnefawl) To render tranquil; to become tranquil.

Tangnefolrwydd, s. m. (tangnefawl) Tranquillousness.

Tangnefu, v. a. (tangnef) To tranquillize.

*Amherawdr mor a thir,
Cafwyf nef, lle tangnefu!*

Sovereign of sea and land, may I obtain heaven, where tranquillity takes place!

Deifydd y Coed.

Tangnefus, a. (tangnef) Tranquillous.

Hywel Dda—a lywodraethal yn gydwybodus yn mhob iawnder tangnefus.

Hywel the Good was wont to govern conscientiously in every tranquillizing equity.

Car. Llancarfyn.

Tangnefusaw, v. a. (tangnefus) To render tranquillous; to become tranquillous.

Tangnefusedd, s. m. (tangnefus) Tranquillousness.

Tangnefusiad, s. m. (tangnefus) A rendering tranquillous; a becoming tranquillous.

Tangnefusrwydd, s. m. (tangnefus) Tranquillousness.

Tangnefwr, s. m.—pl. tangnefwyr (tangnef—gwr) A tranquillizer.

Tangnefydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tangnef) A tranquillizer.

Tangwedd, s. f. (tanc—gwedd) A tranquil aspect.

Tangweddawg, a. (tangwedd) Of tranquil aspect.

Ysleddi tir Penbrys a Gwallawg, Teyrn teyrnodd tangweddawg.

The support of the land of Penbrys and Gwallawg, the king of the kings of tranquil aspect.

Teloria.

Tangweddawl, a. (tangwedd) Tranquillous.

Tangweddiad, s. m. (tangwedd) A tranquillizing.

Tangwedd, v. a. (tangwedd) To tranquillize.

Tangweddus, a. (tangwedd) Tranquillous.

Tangwystl, s. m.—pl. tangwystlon (tanc—gwr)

A pledge of tranquillity; a hostage of peace.

Tref tangwystl, a town delivered as a pledge of peace.

Pan ddylholer tangwystl yn hys o dir Gernedd, Dybydd seichganllong o hysn gan wynt gwydd.

When there shall be a long seeking for a pledge of peace from the land of Gernedd, there will be seven hundred ships on a river with the northern wind.

Myddin, Iorwerth.

Tangwystlaw, v. a. (tangwystl) To give a pledge of tranquillity.

Tangwystlad, s. m. (tangwystl) A pledging of peace or tranquillity.

Tangwystlwr, s. m.—pl. tangwystlwyr (tangwystl—gwr) One who pledges peace.

Tap, s. m.—pl. t. ian (tab) A projecting ledge or shelf; a projecting rock. Tap esgid, the heel of a shoe.

Tapiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (tap) A shelving, a ledge.

Tapiaw, v. a. (tap) To form a step, or ledge.

Tapiawg, a. (tap) Abounding with steps, shelves, or ledges; abounding with precipices.

Tapig, s. m. dim. (tap) A small step, or ledge.

Taplas, s. m.—pl. t. on (tap—llas) A gambol; a dance.

O gwledycha meddwwg, a chariad y gwledydd, a gwynn, a thaplas, a gwyddwyl, colia y gwledwr ac y northydd.

If drunkenness should reign, and the love of women, and the love of dancing, and chessplaying, but will be the cause of the strength.

Brud. y Brwedd.

Taplas, v. a. (taplas) To gambol; to dance.

Taplasaw, a. (taplas) Skipping; dancing.

Taplasiad, s. m. (taplas) A skipping; a dancing.

Taplasu, v. a. (taplas) To gambol; to dance.

Taplaswr, s. m.—pl. taplaswyr (taplas—gwr) A person who gambols.

Tapyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. an (tap) A small projection, ledge, or shelf. Tapyn fust, tegid fust, the capping of a flail.

Tapynu, v. a. (tapyn) To form a ledge or shelf.

Tar, s. m. (ta—ar) A pervading principle.

Tarad, s. m. (tar) A pervasion, a striking through; taste, flavour.

Taradr, s. m.—pl. t. on (tarad) That pervades; a ray; a piercer; an anger. Taradr y coed, the woodpecker.

Huan haf—

Hebwn twy wydr teyrdr ten.

Sun of summer, send through the glass rays of heat.

D. d. Gwyn.

Taradr penfodd, celatwng a dal.

A medium anger its value is a penny.

Wdd. Llan.

Taradriad, s. m. (taradr) A penetrating, a piercer; a boring.

Taradru, v. a. (taradr) To penetrate, to pierce; to bore with an auger.

Taradrydd, s. m. (taradr) One who bores.

Taran, s. f.—pl. t. au (tar) That pervades, impels, or gives a shock; a clasp of thunder; thunder. Mellt a tharann, lightning and thunders: Maen taran, a thunderstone.

Ten a dwr yn ymwrwio Yw tarannu drwgion drew.

Fire and water striving for mastery are the thunders of war.

R. d. Gwyn.

Y march—

*A' wddi auwar (a) taran,
A' firoennau dig fal fura dan.*

The horse with neck like thunder, breaking no restraint in his nostrils ardent as a fiery furnace.

Gyn. Llan.

Taran, a. (tar) Of goodly size or magnitude.

Cymern Gwladon ei huchath ac y tarannu Gwladon yw huch dan eigr.

Gwladon took his wand of Ilusion and struck Gwladon; he becomes a well sized blind.

Myddin. Iorwerth.

Taranad, s. m. (aran) A thundering, fulmination.
Taranadu, v. a. (aran) To make a thundering or fulmination.

Taranawg, a. (aran) Charged with thunder.

Taranawl, a. (aran) Fulminant, thundering.

Tarandrwt, s. m. (aran—trwt) A thunder-rumbling. a. Thunder-rumbling.

Homer—
 Daw, a' fara ddrandrwt,
 I gad—

Homer will repair, with his thunder-rumbling state, to maintain the battle. Gro. Owen.

Tarandwrf, s. m. (aran—twrf) A thunder-tumult; a thunderstorm. a. Thunder-dinning.

Taraniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (aran) Intonation, fulmination; a thundering.

Taranoldeb, s. m. (aranawl) A fulminatory state.

Taranolder, s. m. (aranawl) A fulminant state.

Taranoli, v. a. (aranawl) To render fulminant; to become fulminant.

Taranolrwydd, s. m. (aranawl) A fulminant state.

Taranon, s. m. (aran) That is pervasive; that is impulsive, or apt to produce a shock; a thunderer.

Taranu, v. a. (aran) To fulminate; to thunder.
Ofni pan daranu, thou wilt fear when it thunders.

Pindar—
 A'i loedd o'i gylchoedd gant
 Hyd trinoedd y taranuast.

Pindar with his hosts about him in hundred bands, they will thunder through the wars. Gro. Owen.

Taranus, a. (aran) Fulminant, thunderous.

Hi af—
 Llo ai wygo heb fy hyst,
 Ar agwedd gwyl taranus.

I will go where no one may know my course, just like the thundering wind. Gofalus.

Taranwlaw, s. m. (aran—gwlaw) A thunder-shower.

Taranwr, s. m.—pl. taranwyr (aran—gwr) A thunderer.

Ni throchael neb ond y Taranwr hollafnawg fy nerth.
 No one but the almighty Thunderer would overcome my power. Ella Wyn, E. Cwag.

Taranydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (aran) A thunderer.

Taraw, s. m. (tar) A shock, a collision, a stroke; an effect or impression; a hit. Nid oes erwi fawr o daraw, she is under no great hardship: Ti eili hyny heb daraw yn y byd, thou canst do so without any trouble in the world.

O dair flodd y mair pob dyn ya y byd: o daraw, a gowad, a dwyn trwl i arw.

By three means may every person in the world be insulted: by striking, and attacking, and by forcing from him. Welsh Laws.

O hai ar Sioepr dare,
 Treu si y taraw fo.

If any difficulty should be on Jasper, through a thousand would he strike. L. G. Cuth.

Taraw, v. a. (tar) To produce a shock, or collision; to strike, to hit; to affect. Taraw a ffen, to strike with a stick: Tarnais wrthi o ddamwain, I met her by chance: Taraw dy glun i lawr, seat thyself down.

Meddyg a ddyly, pan darawer dyn ar ei ben, o bob awgwrn uch creuan bodair cetauwg gata; awgwrn la creuan bodair cetauwg cyfrath.

A doctor should have, when a person shall be struck on the head, for every bone on the skull region four cartilaged prance; a bone below the cranium four prance in law. Welsh Laws.

Tarawd, s. m. (tar) A pervasion; impulsion.

Tarawiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (taraw) A collision.

Tarawwr, s. m.—pl. tarawwyr (taraw—gwr) A striker, or one who gives a stroke.

Tarawydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (taraw) A striker.

Tardd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tar) A state of breaking through, issuing, or proceeding from; an issue, Vol. II.

or vent, a bubbling, flow, or spring; a budding, or sprouting.

Tri pheth tardd o'r tri un cysteig: pob bywyd, pob daloni, a phob galls.

There are three things the effect of the three primeval entities: all of life, all of good, and all of power. Tarddau.

Tarddawg, a. (tardd) Having an issue or spring.

Tarddawl, a. (tardd) Issuing; springing.

Rheg barna Cynan tan tarddawl;
 Cadwaladr a'i cwya.

Before the front of Cynan there was the issuing fire; Cadwaladr mourns it. Tarddau.

Tarddadwy, a. (tardd) Capable of breaking out, issuing, or springing.

Tarddai, v. a. (tardd) To break out, to ooze.

Tarddedig, a. (tardd) Being sprung; being made to break out, or to appear; derived.

Tarddedigaeth, s. m. (tarddedig) The act of breaking through, issuing, or springing.

Tarddell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (tardd) An issue, a spring.

Tarddelliad, s. m. (tarddell) A running out, or springing. Tarddelliad gwaed, a hemorrhage.

Tarddellu, v. a. (tarddell) To issue, to spring, or to run out; to bubble out.

Tardden, s. f.—pl. t. i (tardd) The orifice of any efflux or issue; the mouth of a spring.

Tarddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tardd) A pervasion; a breaking out, emanation, effusion, or eruption, an issuing; a derivation; a proceeding; a springing; a spouting; a budding.

Tarddiadawl, a. (tarddiad) Effluent, effusive, effluenscent.

Tarddiadu, v. a. (tarddiad) To cause an effusion or springing; to become effusive.

Tarddiannawl, a. (tarddiant) Pervasive; eruptive; tending to issue; derivative.

Tarddianno, v. a. (tarddiant) To render pervasive or eruptive; to become a spring.

Tarddiannus, a. (tarddiant) Tending to cause an effusion or breaking out.

Tarddiannusaw, v. a. (tarddiannus) To render effusive; to become of a springing tendency.

Tarddiannusrwydd, s. m. (tarddiannus) Effusiveness, a tendency to break out.

Tarddiant, s. m.—pl. tarddiannau (tardd) An issuing, or proceeding; an emanation.

Tarddoldeb, s. m. (tarddawl) Effusiveness; a state of springing or breaking out.

Tarddolder, s. m. (tarddawl) A state of breaking out, springing, or effusion.

Tarddoldra, s. m. (tarddawl) Effusiveness.

Tarddoli, v. a. (tarddawl) To render effusive; a breaking out; to become effusive.

Tarddu, v. a. (tardd) To pervade; to cause to break out; to break out, to issue, to proceed, to emanate; to spring, to bud, to sprout.

Daw y wawr yn tarddu, yonder see the dawn appearing.

Tarddus, a. (tardd) Tending to break out.

Tarddusaw, v. a. (tarddus) To render effusive; to become of a tendency to break out.

Tarddusedd, s. m. (tarddus) Aptness to break out.

Tarddwraint, s. m. (tardd—gwraint) A tetter.

Tarddwreinnen, s. f. dim. (tarddwraint) A ring-worm, or tetter; also called tarwden, tarwyden, and taroden. Sil.

Tarddwreinnyn, s. m. dim. (tarddwraint) A tetter.

Tared, s. m. (tar) That is uttered; noise, clamour.

Bel cyman cain dard wedi cyffwr red.

Consonant was the joyous clamour after the agitation of battle. Anuria.

Taredd, s. m. (tar) A tendency to pervade.

Tarell, s. f. dim. (tar) An issue, or a spring.

Taren, s. f. —pl. t. i (tar) What breaks through or smashes out; a spot; a tramp, or knock; a spot of what smashes everywhere with farze. Taren a tar, a spot of ground. Taren llyrr, rather late. Cyfril.

Be taren ar gwlwm — gwlwm is a verb, and taren is a noun. The verb is taren, and the noun is taren. Adage.

Tarhauw, a. (taren) Abounding with excrements, tramps, or knock.

Tarhauw, a. taren Tending to grow out.

Tarhauw, a. m. taren A growing out; a forming a tramp or knock.

Tarhauw, a. f. dim. taren A small tramp.

Tarhauw, v. m. taren To form a tramp.

Tarf, s. m. —pl. t. oedd tar A violent throw out, or expulsion; a sudden drive; a scattering; a scaring; dispersion; flight.

Be taren llyrr
Gwylwch llyrr
A taren llyrr
A taren llyrr
Carew llyrr

Be taren llyrr of the word, he won't break through a riot, with much on board, and llyrr on llyrr, avoiding the rising storm. Scylli llyrr llyrr.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf) Tending to scatter; scaring.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf) Being driven; scared.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf) Expulsive, scaring.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf) Expelled, dispelled, chased, driven away, put to flight; scared.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf—cryd) The common feverfew; also called amrwyd.

Tarf, s. m. —pl. t. od (tarf—hutan) A scarecrow.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf) A violently driving out, dispersing, or expelling; a scaring.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf) To cause a dispersion; to cause a scaring.

Tarf, s. m. —pl. t. oedd (tarf—lle) A place of flight. Tarf Saxson, the Saxons' place of flight.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf) Easily scared; skittish.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf) Aptness to scare.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf) To expel; to chase; to put to flight; to scare. Tarf a darf ar awen, tumult will dismay the muse.

Unio dolen yn y gwynt a darf gydwylbod euawg.
The rustling of a leaf in the wind scares a guilty conscience. Adage.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf) Expulsive; tending to scare.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf) To render expulsive; to become dismayed.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf) A state of dismay.

Tarf, s. m. (tarf—gwgan) Perforated St. John's wort.

Tarf, s. m. —pl. t. tarfwr (tarf—gwr) A putter to flight; a scarer.

Tarf, s. m. —pl. t. ion (tarf) That puts to flight; a scarer.

Tarf, s. m. (tar) A percussion; a clash.

Tarf, s. f. —pl. t. i (tar) A target.

Tarf, s. m. (tar) A striking against, a collision; a stopping; a staying, a tarrying.

Tarf, s. f. —pl. t. au (tar) A clasher; a shield; defence. Luch a tharian, lightning and thunder. Casnodyn.

Goreu tarian cyflawder.

The best shield is righteousness. Adage.

Car dy gynyddawg, ond na ro lldo na'th gledl na'th darian.

Love thy neighbour, but give him not thy sword nor thy shield. Adage.

Nid amddiffyn ond tarian.

The only defence is a shield. Adage.

Tarians, v. a. (tarian) To clash a shield; to make use of a shield.

Tarianad, s. m. (tarian) The using a shield.

Tariansaidd, a. (tarian) Like a shield.

Tariansawg, a. (tarian) Having a shield.

Asymaf nawdd hawdd haelon Ddeubarth,
Dienborth cerdorton,
A'th dwrf o'th darianotlon,
A'th dwrf o'th deyrn-felbion.

I will secure the ready protection of the generous nobles of Wales, the sure support of ministers, and thy host of noble knights, and thy throng of princely sons. Cynadion, i Rys ab Gwffell.

Tarianedig, a. (tarian) Being shielded.

Tarianedigaeth, s. m. (tarianedig) The act of shielding.

Tarians, v. a. (tarian) To shield, to use a shield.

Tarianswr, s. m. —pl. tarianswyr (tarian—gwr) One who makes use of a shield.

Tariansydd, s. m. —pl. t. ion (tarian) A shielder.

Tariaw, v. a. (tar) To strike against, to come in contact; to stop; to tarry.

Tarlais, s. m. —pl. tarleisian (tar—llais) A piercing noise.

Tarleisiad, s. m. (tarlais) A making a sharp noise.

Tarleisiaw, v. a. (tarlais) To make a clashing noise.

Tarleisiawg, a. (tarlais) Having a harsh noise.

Tarleisiawl, a. (tarlais) Yielding a harsh noise.

Tarleisiwr, s. m. —pl. tarleiswyr (tarlais—gwr) One who makes a harsh noise.

Tarlwnc, s. m. (tar—llwnc) An eructation.

Tarlwng, s. m. (tar—llwng) An eructation.

Tarlwnciad, s. m. (tarlwn) A belching.

Tarlwncu, v. a. (tarlwn) To belch, to eructate.

Tarn, s. m. —pl. t. au (tar) A wipe, the act of wiping up any liquid, or absorbing.

Tarnawl, a. (tarn) Absorbent, drying.

Tarnedig, a. (tarn) Absorbed, dried up.

Tarniad, s. m. (tarn) An absorption.

Tarnu, v. a. (tarn) To absorb, to dry up.

Peirian faban, taru dy ddagrau.

Commanding prince, wipe thy tears. Merddin.

Llywarch hen, na fydd di wyt,

Twyddell a gell di auwyt;

Taru dy lygaid, taw nag wyt.

Old Llywarch, be thou not ashamed, cheering thyself; thou shalt have: wipe thine eyes, be silent and weep not. Llywarch Hen.

Taroden, s. f. dim. (tarawd) A tetter.

Tarodwl, s. m. —pl. tarodyllau (taraw—twl) A punch-hole.

Tarth, s. m. —pl. t. oedd (tar) Vapour, exhalation.

Golath dy eगरant angant dy fro,

Mal tan tawu tarth yn yd fo.

The slaughter of the foes about the borders of thy court, as fire it heats a vapour where it happens to be. Tarus.

Tarthadwy, a. (tarth) Capable of evaporating.

Tarthain, v. a. (tarth) To cause a continual exhalation; to puff out the breath.

Tarthawg, a. (tarth) Abounding with vapour.

Tarthawl, a. (tarth) Vaporous; foggy.

Tarthedig, a. (tarth) Being evaporated.

Tarthedigaeth, s. m. (tarthedig) Vaporisation.

Tarthiad, s. m. (tarth) Evaporation, exhalation.

Tarthlyd, a. (tarth) Apt to be vaporous; foggy.

Tarthlydrwydd, s. m. (tarthlyd) Fogginess.

Tarthu, v. a. (tarth) To exhale, to rise in vapour.

Tarthus, a. (tarth) Vaporiferous; hazy.

Tarthusaw, v. a. (tarthus) To render vaporiferous to become vaporiferous.

Tarthusdra, s. m. (tarthus) Vaporiferousness.

Tarthusedd, s. m. (tarthus) Vaporiferousness.

Tarthusrwydd, s. m. (tarthus) Vaporiferousness.

Tarw, s. m. —pl. teirw (tar) That strikes against a bull. Tarw trefgordd, a bull kept by a town.

ship; tarw trin, tarw cad, tarw byddin, a bull of conflict, bull of battle, bull of armies.

Nerth tarw ya ei ddwyfion.

The strength of a bull is in his breast.

Adage.

Gwerth tarw trufondd yw tarw arall, a allo hanes, a bawch o'i ffein ac arall yn ei ol.

The value of a township bull is another bull, which can leap, with a cow before him and another after him.

Welsh Lanes.

Tri tharw cad Ynys Prydain: Cynfawr Cad Cadawg mab Cynwyd Cynwydion, Gwendolau mab Celdinaw, ac Urien ab Cynfawr.

The three bulls of conflict of the Isle of Britain: Cynfawr Cad Cadawg son of Cynwyd Cynwydion, Gwendolau son of Celdinaw, and Urien son of Cynfawr.

Triodd.

Tarwain, s. m. (tar—gwain) A spout, a gush; a flutter. v. a. To spout; to be spouting, to gush; to flutter.

Gwetais i gwlain fain a brain ar gwain.

Ac arall ar darwain gwain cledylawd.

I beheld a delicate corpse with crown feeding on flesh, and another on a flutter from the felt wound of a sword stroke.

Golyddion, dar. Cadwaladr.

Gwainlaw ar darwain, gwain ar darwain.

A blood-hand at work, blood in a state of spouting.

Cyndddu.

Tarwedd, s. m. (tar—gwedd) The state of being pervaded; a ferment.

Tarw y rhag hwar, yn ddogan rhwng dwylaw, a'i ddoddi ar darwedd mewn llestr i curaw, a'i fragodi a llaeth geifr.

Put that bark in a bundle between both hands, and place it in a steep in a vessel to sour, then breaking it with goat's milk.

Meddygon Myddfai.

Ac oddoch gwadnas gwain ar darwedd.

And above the soles of the feet blood on a ferment.

Llygod Gwr.

Ni dderfydd awen i ar darwedd trael.

Genius will not be exhausted from the operation of wear.

Ph. Brydydd.

Tarweddadwy, a. (tarwedd) Fermentable. Tarweddawg, a. (tarwedd) Having a ferment. Tarweddawl, a. (tarwedd) Fermentarious. Tarweddedig, a. (tarwedd) Fermented. Tarweddian, s. m. (tarwedd) Fermentation. Tarweddus, v. a. (tarwedd) To put in a state of pervasion; to ferment.

Tarweddus, a. (tarwedd) Fermentative.

Tarwgi, s. m.—pl. t. on (tarw—ci) A bull-dog.

Tarwhaid, s. f.—pl. tarwheidian (tarw—haid) The bull swarm, the second swarm of bees that leaves the hive.

Tas, s. m.—pl. t. au (ta—au) That hems in, combines, or binds together; fascia; a band.

Tasawl, a. (tas) Tending to combine.

Tasedd, s. m. (tas) A combined state.

Tasel, s. m.—pl. t. l (tas) A bandage; a sash; a fringe; a tassell.

Taselawg, a. (tasel) Sashed; fringed; tasselled.

Taseliad, s. m. (tasel) A sashing; a fringing; a tasselling.

Taseln, v. a. (tasel) To sash; to fringe; to tassell.

Tasg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tas) That is set aside, that is fixed; a bond, a pledge; that is settled, or agreed, as to be done; a job, a piece of work; a task. Medi ar dasg, to reap by the piece; gweithiaw ar dasg, to work by the job; a roi di dasg i mi? wilt thou give me a job?

Haws genyd, trwy naws gynnydd,

Ar dasg, bob amser o'r dydd,

Fisaw gweith—

More ready art thou, with increasing avidity, on task every hour of the day, to pick up wheat.

D. ab Gwilym, i'r fran.

Tasgawl, s. (tasg) Tending to bind, being fixed, rated, or set as a job; starting, springing.

Tasged, s. f. (tasg) That is tense or strict.

Tasgedig, a. (tasg) Bound, settled, or fixed to be done; set as a task, or job.

Tasgell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (tasg) A bandlet, a band, what fastens or confines; a bunch, a whisk; a handful; also a closet, or pantry. tasgell o flodau, bunches of flowers; tasgell o wellt, tasw o wellt, a whisk of straw; tasgell clo, the spring of a lock.

—Tasw gwyrdd,
Tasgell yn sefyll yn sod.

A green whisk, bunches standing like stable.

D. ab Gwilym, i Ffynnon.

Tasgellawg, a. (tasgell) Being in bundles.

Tasgelliad, s. m. (tasgell) A tying, a forming into a bunch or whisk.

Tasgellu, v. a. (tasgell) To tie, to form into a small bundle, to form a whisk.

Tasgiad, s. m. (tasg) A binding, a settling to be done, a rating; a settling a job or task.

Tasgu, v. a. (tasg) To set, settle, assign, or fix; to rate; to job; to task; also to spring, to rebound, to start, or to leap back; to cause to start; to urge. Na thasgu arni, do not urge her to do much. Tas yn tasgu o bedolau march, fire striking from the shoes of the horse. Dyf.

Llew glew gelydym, grym gryd flemycha;

Lloerf corff cad, ceinid eusan danga.

A courageous lion with keen blade, of gleaming energy in the conflict; the pillar of the centre of battle; assigning a task to the composer of song.

G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Tasgwyr, s. m.—pl. tasgwyr (tasg—gwr) One who assigns a task.

Tasgydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tasg) A tasker.

Tasiad, s. m. (tas) A tying or combining together.

Tasiaw, v. a. (tas) To tie together, to combine.

Tau, s. m. (ta) A stretch, a reach; the state of being at rest; the state of being held or possessed. v. a. To stretch out, to extend; to become still, or silent.

Tau, pron. (ta) Thine. It is used after a noun in the genitive case; as y tad tau, the father thine.

Gwartheg arall yn adnau,

Pan fo ciwerau ni bydd iau.

The cattle of another in pledge, when it shall be most fair they will not be thine.

Adage.

Taw, s. m. (ta) The state of being spread or extended; rest, quiet; silence. a. Still; silent. Gyrs taw ar aw, to urge silence upon one; gyrs daw arno, make him to be silent; awr daw, a silent hour.

Teyrn tad awr,

Yr mas i gwynaw,

Oal twyl y dydd taw.

The sovereign of the region of harmony, it is my lot to mourn him, until I shall be at the day of silence.

Tallies, Gerchan Cynaflym.

Boloch fydd daw.

Minchiel will be silent.

Adage.

Goreu taw taw tewl.

The best silence the silence of silencing.

Adage.

Taw, conj. (ta) That. It is used in Gwent and Dyfed, synonymously with maid. Clywais taw c oedd, I have heard that it was him; gredir taw calwydd yw, it is said that it is a falsehood.

Pan wyba taw o gyfoeth Herod yr haneodd, ef ei danfonas at Herod.

When he knew that of the dominion of Herod he was descended, he sent him to Herod.

W. Salisbury.

Tawch, s. m.—pl. t. ion (taw) That rises, or stretches over; vapour, exhalation, steam, damp, haze, fog. a. Humid, hazy, foggy. Mor tawch, a hazy sea; also the name of the German Ocean. Clych tawch, bubbles.

Y llong—

Llaid bellbell y'th gymhellir

Lle mac tawch, lle amhau i'r.

3 X 2

Thou ship, to cut farther and farther thou wilt be impelled, where there is a haze, where land is imagined.

Morys ab Llywelyn.
Cawn dywydd caln-dawel,
Nid tawch a gwyt uchel,

We shall have weather fairly-serene, not an overcast with high wind. D. Williams.

Ni wys heddyw na suddir;
Och, rot mor tawch rho'm a'r tir!

It is not known to-day but we may sink; woe that a hazy sea is placed between us and the land! T. Alld.

Dwr a wylis—
Defosw tawch, wedi f'an tad!

Tears I have wept, thick drops, after my only father.
L. Morganwg.

Tawchlyd, a. (tawch) Vaporous, hazy; sultry.

Tawd, s. m. (taw) A spread, a distension.

Tawdd, s. m.—pl. toddion (taw) What is in a dissolved state; a melting. a. Melted. Toddion, drippings, as of meat that is roasting: Delw
dawdd, a molten image.

Tawddgyrch, s. m. (tawdd—cyrch) That is meltingly recurrent; a term in prosody.

Tawddleddf, a. (tawdd—lleddf) Meltingly-pliant;
a term in prosody.

Tawddlestr, s. m. (tawdd—lestr) A melting-pot.

Tawed, s. m. (taw) A state of silence.

Tawedawg, a. (tawed) Tacit, silent, reserved.

Tawedawg, tew ei ddwrwg.

The reserved is full of mischief. Adage.

Nid tawedawg ond goldefus;
Nid goldefus ond synwrawl.

No one is silent but the patient; no one is patient but the ac-cusable. Adage.

Tawedig, a. (taw) Silenced, being hushed.

Tawedogrwydd, s. m. (tawedawg) Taciturnity.

Goreu o gampau doethineb tawedogrwydd.

The best of the feats of wisdom is taciturnity. Adage.

Tawedwst, a. (tawed—gwst) Murmuring.

Tawel, a. (taw—el) Calm, tranquil, serene, gentle; silent. Dyn tawel, a tacit person. Taw- eled yw yr hin! How serene the weather is!

Tawel awel, ti hirgiyw:
Oddid a fo moledyw,
Nam Urien, can nid yw!

Gently-breathing gale, wistfully art thou heard: scarcely is there one writing fame, after Urien, since he is not!

Llywarch Hen.

Tros y rhwf tores yr haul
Wen bore wynw araul;
Mae'n deg min dydd,
Tawel tywydd.

Over the brow of the hill the sun has spread the morning smile of cheering countenance; fair is the verge of day, serene the weather. Gro. Owain.

Tawelaidd, a. (tawel) Calm in a small degree.

Tawelawg, a. (tawel) Abounding with calmness.

Taweldra, s. m. (tawel) Calmness; serenity.

Taweledig, a. (tawel) Calmed, tranquillized.

Taweledigaeth, s. m. (taweledig) The state of being made calm or serene.

Taweledd, s. m. (tawel) Calmness, serenity.

Taweli, s. m. (tawel) A calm or still state.

Taweliad, s. m. (tawel) A calming, a stilling.

Taweliannawl, a. (taweliant) Tranquillous.

Taweliannu, v. a. (taweliant) To produce calmness; to become a calm.

Taweliannus, a. (taweliant) Tranquillous.

Taweliant, s. m. (tawel) A making serene.

Tawelin, a. (tawel) Of a calm tendency.

Oen Duw—

Brenin tawelin wyt ti!

Lamb of God, a tranquillizing king art thou.

H. D. ab Ifan.

Tawelu, v. a. (tawel) To calm, to tranquillize, to soothe; to silence; to become calm or serene:
Pan dawelo ton y mor, when the wave of the sea grows calm: Ti ddyn, tawela dy far, thou man, calm thy rage.

Tawelns, a. (tawel) Of a serene tendency.

Tawelnsaw, v. a. (tawelns) To render of a serene tendency; to become tranquillous.

Tawelnsder, s. m. (tawelns) Tranquillousness.

Tawelnsdra, s. m. (tawelns) Tranquillousness.

Tawelnsrwydd, s. m. (tawelns) Tranquillousness, calmness, serenity.

Tawelwch, s. m. (tawel) Calmness, serenity; gentleness; stillness. Tawelwch angen, the stillness of death.

Tawelwr, s. m.—pl. tawelwyr (tawel—gwr) A calmer, one who makes still.

Tawf, s. m. (taw) A stretched or extended state.

Tawg, s. f. (taw) That is lengthened, or stretched out in length.

Tawgar, a. (taw) Disposed to be silent.

Doeth pob tawgar.

Wise is every silent one. Adage.

Tawiad, s. m. (taw) A quelling, a silencing.

Tawl, s. m.—pl. tollon (ta—awl) A cast off; a throw; a take off; a separation; a cut off; a interruption; a diminishing.

Goronwy rwyg gredlawl,
Cher ar aer, cher ar wran,
Cedidra oetwg, deilwng dawl.

Goronwy of ardent course, the bulwark of battle, a heroic trim the debaser of the mighty ones, a meritorious throw.
G. ab M. ab Dydd.

Tawlfwrdd, s. m.—pl. tawlfyrddau (tawl—bwrdd)
A throw board, a certain game, seemingly like the present game of backgammon.

Tawlfwrdd chwengaint a dal; ac fal hys y rheidr, tripart
y werin wynlon, a thriugalnt ar y brein a'i werin.

A throw-board its value is six score pence; and is thus protioned, three score on the white men, and three score on the red and his men. Welsh Laws.

Tawlfion, s. f.—pl. tawlfyn (tawl—ffon) A throwing staff, an engine for throwing darts.

Tawlgar, a. (tawl) Apt to put aside; apt to throw off; interruptive.

Tawlgarwch, s. m. (tawlgar) Apt to put aside aptness to throw off.

Tawliad, s. m. (tawl) A casting off; a throwing;
a taking off; a separating; a cutting off; a diminishing; an interrupting.

Tawlnerth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tawl—nerth) Projectile force.

Tawlrym, s. m.—pl. t. ian (tawl—grym) Projectile power.

Tawlu, v. a. (tawl) To cast off, to throw; to take off; to separate; to interrupt.

Gwell asyn a'm dyco na march a'm trolo.

Better an ass that will carry me than a horse that will leave me. Adage.

Tawr, s. m.—pl. torion (taw) A covering, surface.

Awn i'r llwyni arllonnadd;
A theced tawr y llawr lliadd.

Let us go to the pleasure seeking groves, as the covering of a luxuriant ground is so fair. D. ab Gwynn.

TE, s. m. r. That is spread or extended.

Teb, s. m. (te—eb) The state of being animated; a type.

Tebed, s. m. (teb) A prospect, a spectacle.

Pell debed by hyd o Iwerddon,
Teg llaw dillig, glaw Cennarogion.

A far prospect if extending from Ireland, the splendid prosperity of sending away the men of Cennar. Yn Llund. Hen.

Gwelsis, o arfawd aerfab Gwelfod,
Riallucddi trwch, tebed wawdd.

I have seen, from the stroke of the warlike son of Gwelfod, broken armies, a scene of wonder. Gwelfod.

Tebedawg, a. (tebed) Having a prospect.

A' hoeswg tebedawg tra mordwydalon.

With his blue streamer displayed whilst the foe ranges the sea.
Amurta.

Tebedu, v. a. (tebed) To render prospective.

Tebig, a. (teb) Similar, like; probable.

Nid ef a byrth dyn ei debig.

A person will not bear his like.

Adage.

Tebu, v. a. (teb) To assimilate; to typify.

Tebyg, a. (teb) Similar, like. Tebyg iawn, very likely. Tebycyd yw hwn i ti! how like this is to thee! Tebycas peth, the most likely thing.

Tri pheth tebyg y naill i'r hall: yrgubawr deg heb yd, mair deg heb ddolaw, a merch deg heb ei geirid.

Three things similar to one another: a fine barn without corn, a fine goblet without drink, and a fine woman without her reputation.
Catwg Ddodeth.

Nid tebyg hyn i ddrych cenanau: ef tebynach hyn i slyndon, a fwynt waethur trais, a gorwgyd gwindoedd.

This is not like the appearance of messengers; more like is this to enemies, that would commit a trespass, and conquer countries.
Gr. ab Arthur.

Tebygadwy, a. (tebyg) Capable of being like; comparable; presumable.

Tebygawl, a. (tebyg) Tending to be like or similar; likely, probable, presumptive. Tebygawl genf y byddi di yno, I presume that thou wilt be there.

Tebygedig, a. (tebyg) Being likened; assimilated; compared; imagined.

Tebygad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tebyg) A likening, a comparing; a thinking probable.

Tebygiaeth, s. m. (tebyg) The act of likening or comparing; comparison; imagination.

Nid wyf i ar fedr danawd un pechawd lldo, yn amgen no thrwy yndawdd o debygiaeth.

I am not upon the intention of upbraiding him with one sin, otherwise than through speaking from comparison.
S. Trystedyn.

Tebygianawl, a. (tebygiant) Tending to similitude; comparative; conjectural.

Tebygianu, v. a. (tebygiant) To make a similitude; to make a comparison.

Tebygiant, s. m. (tebyg) A similitude.

Tebygoldeb, s. m. (tebygawl) Similarity; probability.

Tebygol, v. a. (tebygawl) To render similar; to render likely or probable; to compare.

Tebygolrwydd, s. m. (tebygawl) Similarity; likeness, likelihood, probability.

Tebygrydd, s. m. (tebyg) Similitude; likelihood; probability; conjecture.

Tebyg, v. a. (tebyg) To render similar; to assimilate; to compare; to presume, to think probable, to deem, to conjecture; to be like.

Hon a wry, leuanc a debyg.

The aged know, the young suppose.

Adage.

Cas a debyco orfod o feichder.

Haleful is he that thinks to overcome through haughtiness.
Adage.

Tebygaf al wyddant hwyddim i wrth siwrneith, wrth en bod yn wrogydd eithaf y byd yn newn yr eigaen; ac ymghaf, herwydd i tebygaf, fydd en cymhell hwynt i dalu teyrnedd.

I think it likely that they know nothing of military matters, from their being inhabiting without the world in the ocean; and cast, as I imagine, will it be to compel them to pay tribute.
Gr. ab Arthur.

Tebygwr, s. m.—pl. tebygwyr (tebyg—gwr) One who supposes, one who compares.

Tecad, s. m. (teg) A rendering fair or fine; a becoming fair or beautiful.

Tri theclad cerdd: bardd grobyllyl, bardd berthynas, a bardd gwyneidw ap ydfras.

The three ornaments of song: fine conception, fine connection, and a fine mastery skill in the metres.
Barddas.

Tecawl, a. (tecân) Tending to make fair or fine; tending to become fair.

Tecân, v. a. (teg) To make fair; to become fair.

Teclyn, s. m. dim. (taci) A tool, an instrument.

Tech, s. m. (te—ech) A sculk, a lurk, a hide.

Techawg, a. (tech) Of a disposition to sculk.

Techawl, a. (tech) Sculking, or lurking.

Techiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tech) A sculking.

Techial, s. m. (tech) A frequent sculking. v. a.

To be sculking continually.

Techialu, v. a. (techial) To sculk continually.

Techu, v. a. (tech) To sculk, to lurk, to lie hidden

Cyddylan, ni theclai troedfedd byth.

Cyddylan, he would never sculk a foot.
Llywarch Hen.

Aerwalch eirf ni theclai, ni theclai.

The slaughter-hawk of arms will not recede, will not sculk.
Frydydd Bychan.

Techus, a. (tech) Disposed to sculk or lurk.

Techusaw, v. a. (techus) To render sculking; to become disposed to sculk.

Techusdra, s. m. (techus) Aptness to sculk.

Techwr, s. m.—pl. techwyr (tech—gwr) A sculker, a lurker.

Techydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tech) A sculker.

Techyn, s. m. dim. (tech) A sculking fellow.

Ted, s. m. (te—ed) A stretch, a distended state.

Tedu, v. a. (ted) To stretch out, to distend.

Tedyn, s. m. dim. (ted) Anything distended.

Tedd, s. m. (te—edd) A spread; a display; a range, a row.

Nifer hyn, os nef ar hynt

Am ei gael, f'mo-relynt

Wed'i'r cig rhod, fust fethrin,

Ar llaia gwyn fain, a gwin,

A'r gwleddau, a'r gwerau gwtwreg,

A'r gwngudd cerwedd, tedd teg.

This number, if heaven were of course to be obtained, they would keep themselves aloof; after the roasted viand, a roasted fare, and the fine white linen and wine, and the fennel, and the emulating games, and the women bedecked with gold, a fair display.
S. Cent.

Teddawg, a. (tedd) Being spread, displayed.

Teddawl, a. (tedd) Spreading, displayed.

Teddiad, s. m. (tedd) A spreading out; a displaying; a disposing in a row.

Teddu, v. a. (tedd) To spread out, to display.

Teddus, a. (tedd) Tending to spread or display.

Teddyf, s. m. (tedd) A socket, a hollow for receiving a handle, or the like.

Y gol llyn a ddylf—gwneuthur rhedlas y llyn yn rhod, eithaf tri pheth: aef yst y rhaf hyn, gwarthaf chafall callawr, a chwll cwllr, a theddyf berall gynnau a phan gwaew.

The smith of the palace ought to perform all the jobs of the palace gratuitously, except three things; those are particularly, the rim of a pot, the edge of a coultar, and the socket of a hatchet and of a spear head.
Welsh Laws.

Tefawg, a. (taf) Respectable, or of repute. Dyn

tefawg, a respectable person. Dyfed.

Tefig, a. (taf) Over-spreading; sovereign.

Pan sig o naf, pan a'n gwnaeth,

Pan dafig pob pen difeth.

The supreme source of heaven, the supreme that made us, the sovereign head of every infallible head.
L. G. Cuth.

Tefin, a. (taf) Of a spreading tendency.

Tefydd, s. m. (taf) That is ample or large.

Tefyddawg, a. (tefydd) Having possession. Dyn tefyddawg, a person of consequence.

Tefu, v. a. (taf) To spread, to become spread.

Teg, a. (te—eg) That opens out, that is clear or smooth; clear, fair; beautiful, pretty, bland.

Hin deg, fair weather; chwara teg, fair play;

gwartheg teg, fine cattle.

A ddialo air hagr rhod ateg teg.

He that would revenge a harsh word let him give a gentle reply.
Adage.

Ni thyr pen er dywedyd yn deg.
The head will not break on account of speaking fairly.
Adage.

Teg yd gan yr aderyn ar berwydd bren;
Uch pen Gwenn, cyn ei olo tan dywarch;
Briwal galch Llywarch Hen.

Fair the song of the bird on the apple tree, over the head of Gwenn, before he was covered under the sod; he was wont to braise the armour of old Llywarch.

Llywarch Hen.

Tegad, s. m. (tegau) A rendering fair or fine; an adorning; a becoming fair.
Tegawl, a. (tegau) Tending to render fair; tending to become fair; beautifying.
Tegald, a. (teg) Somewhat fair; fairish.
Tegan, s. m. dim.—pl. f. au (teg) A pretty thing, a toy, a bauble, a jewel.

Anwybodus a ddengys yn fuan a wyr, fal plentyn yn dangawsu teian.

The ignorant will quickly shew all he knows, like a child shewing his toy.
Adage.

Teganaidd, a. (tegan) Like a plaything.
Teganawg, a. (tegan) Having a plaything.
Teganwaith, s. m. (tegan—gwaith) Toywork.
Teganwr, s. m.—pl. teganwyr (tegan—gwr) A toyman.

Tegau, v. a. (teg) To render clear, smooth, or fair, to beautify; to appease; to become clear, smooth, or fair.

Tegawl, a. (teg) Tending to make fair.

Tegedd, s. m. (teg) Fairness, clearness, fineness.

Tegirian, s. m. (teg—cirian) Orchis, cullions, or dog's stones, also called baldr, ceilliau y ci, cirin y ci, tegcirian y wren, meadow orchis.

Tegid, s. m. (teg) Fairness, or beauty.

Tegriwydd, s. m. (teg) Fairness, fineness.

Tegu, v. a. (teg) To make fair, to beautify.

Tegwch, s. m. (teg) Clearness, fairness, fineness; beauty; fine weather. Gwir degwch, perfect beauty.

Tegwch a gogedd dyniawl—cynnt y derfydd ac y diffanas, nog anwadolwch blodau y gwanwyn.

The beauty and symmetry of the human form, will sooner end and vanish, than the fleetingness of the blossoms of the spring.
Honcs Dineidd Arthur.

Tegwedawg, a. (teg—gwedawg) Fair spoken.

Tegwedd, s. f. (teg—gwedd) A fair appearance. a. Of a fair appearance.

Tegwel, s. m. (teg—gwel) A fair countenance. a. Of a fair aspect.

A phan ei leuenctyd ymalib,
—Ni ddaw eilwaith.

So when youth shall pass away, with its fair aspect, it will not come a second time.
H. Morris.

Tegychawl, a. (tegwch) Of a tendency to fairness; beautifying, adorning.

Tegychiad, s. m. (tegwch) A rendering fair or fine; an embellishing; a becoming fair.

Tegychu, v. a. (tegwch) To render of a clear or fair aspect; to adorn, to embellish; to become fair; to become fine weather.

Teidiawg, a. (taid) Having a grandfather.

Teidiawl, a. (taid) Belonging to a grandfather.

Teilai, s. m. (tel) The dipsacns, or teasel: teilai gwyllt, wild teasel; teilai mawr, fuller's teasel.

Teilaw, v. a. (tail) To spread manure.

Teilawg, a. (tail) Manured, having dung.

Teilchion, s. pl. aggr. (talch) Fragments, pieces, shatters. Dyna fo yn deilchion mun, there it is all in shatters.

Teilfa, s. f. (tail) A place for manure; a dunghill.

Teilfforch, s. f.—pl. teilffyrch (tail—fforch) A dung-fork.

Teiliad, s. m. (tail) A spreading of manure.

Teiliedig, a. (teiliad) Covered with manure.

Teilig, a. (tel) Tending to cover, enveloping.
Teiling, a. (tel) Meet to cover, enveloping; meet.
Lluryg teiling, an enveloping armour.

Nog y bydd cyfing gwydd teiling gwledd.

Than there shall be scanty the covering delicacy of the house.
S. ab Gwynn.

Teiliwr, s. m.—pl. teiliwyr (telu—gwr) A maker of habits, a tailor.

Teiliwriaeth, s. m. (teiliwr) A tailor's trade.

Teiliwriaw, v. a. (teiliwr) To work as a tailor.

Teiliw, a. (tel) Gentle, or yielding; complying.

Owain—
Gwr teild teuluodd lochi;
Gwr teiliw, teiliwng ei foell.

Owain, a comely man protecting of families; a man worthy to be praised.

Teiliwng, a. (tal—wng) Worthy, meritorious; merited, deserved, genuine.

Teiliwr, s. m.—pl. teiliwyr (tail—gwr) A man of a dungman, a muckman.

Teilyngawl, a. (teiliwng) Tending to render worthy; meritorious.

Teilyngdawd, s. m. (teiliwng) Merit, desert, right deservedness, worthiness.

Cyfoed Endaf harll Eryng ac Eas yn erbyn y tywysog, ry adawed Cystenn yn cynnal yr ynyr wrth Rufeiddawd.

Endaf the earl of Eryng and Eas rose against the prince which had been left by Constantine to maintain the law; on the Roman jurisdiction.
Gr. ab Irlan.

Teilyngdra, s. m. (teiliwng) Meritoriousness.

Teilyngedig, a. (teiliwng) Being deserved.

Teilyngedd, s. m. (teiliwng) Meritoriousness.

Teilyngiad, s. m. (teiliwng) A rendering worthy.

Teilyngrwydd, s. m. (teiliwng) Worthiness.

Teilyngu, v. a. (teiliwng) To render worthy; to think worthy; to vouchsafe.

Teilyngus, a. (teiliwng) Tending to make worthy.

Teilyngwr, s. m.—pl. teilyngwyr (teiliwng—gwr) One who makes worthy.

Teimlad, s. m.—pl. f. au (teimyl) A sensation.

Teimladaidd, a. (teimlad) Somewhat sensible.

Teimladawl, a. (teimlad) Of a feeling nature.

Teimladedig, a. (teimlad) Endued with feeling.

Teimladedd, s. m. (teimlad) Feelingness.

Teimladrwydd, s. m. (teimlad) Feelingness.

Teimladwy, a. (teimlad) Capable of feeling, sensible; capable of being felt.

Teimlaw, v. a. (teimyl) To feel; to feel by the touch; to be sensible.

Hon y teimlar cryddion a gaed yn leuac.

In age will be felt the blows that have been obtained by it.
J. J.

Nu fyno welod ei ynyddrwydd heddyw, fe ei teimla e lwy.

He that desires not to see his foolishness to-day he will see it to-morrow.
A. J.

Tra'n y ceidwr a'u hynydria
Ar y llafargar werin,
Gwae a'u teimyl! gwae dygethria!

The tyranny of the mighty and their trojan on the black multitude, woe to such as feel them! dreadful woe!
Geraint Ford G.

Teimlawd, s. m. (teimyl) Feeling, sensation.

Teimledig, a. (teimyl) Being felt; touched.

Teimledigaeth, s. m. (teimledig) A being touched with feeling.

Teimlfa, s. f.—pl. f. oedd (teimyl) The seat of feeling.

Teimliad, s. m.—pl. teimliaid (teimyl) A feeling; a touching.

Teimlwr, s. m.—pl. teimlwyr (teimyl—gwr) A feeler.

Teimlydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (teimyl) A feeler, a toucher.

Ishal oedd dad pob teimlydd teiml ac organ.

Ishal was the father of every one who handles the harp and organ. Genesis 4. 21.

Teimyl, s. m. (tem) The faculty of feeling.

Teirawdl, s. pl. aggr. (tair—awdl) Three rhymes.
a. Consisting of three rhymes. Englyn teirawdl, englyn milor, triban.

Teirawr, s. pl. aggr. (tair—awr) Three hours.
a. Of three hours duration.

Teirbiwydd, s. pl. aggr. (tair—biwydd) Three years. a. Of three years.

Teircaill, s. m. (tair—caill) The small ragwort.

Teirdalen, s. pl. aggr. (tair—dalen) Three leaves.
a. Three-leaved, trefoil. Swain teirdalen, wood-sorrel.

Teirgwaith, s. pl. aggr. (tair—gwaith) Three times. a. Of three times.

Doeth a ddyllwr deirgwaith, ni thwyllir dued ond snwath.

The wise will be deceived three times, the bold will be deceived but once. Adage.

Teirialth, s. pl. aggr. (tair—ialth) Three languages. a. Of three languages.

Teiricithawg, a. (teirialth) Having three languages
Teirnos, s. pl. aggr. (tair—nos) Three nights. a. Of three nights.

Teirrolawg, a. (teirawdl) Having three rhymes.

Teirongl, s. pl. aggr. (tair—ongl) Three angles; that is of three angles. a. Of three angles.

Teironglawg, a. (teirongl) Triangular.

Teirongl, v. a. (teirongl) To form a triangle.

Teirhan, s. pl. aggr. (tair—rhan) Three parts or shares. a. Of three shares.

Teirhanawl, a. (teirhan) Tripartite.

Teirhon, s. f. (tarth) An ague fit; a fever.

Pedair teirhon y dydd.

There are four sorts of fevers. Maldwynn Myddfai.

Teisban, s. f.—pl. t. au (tais—pan) A middle space, a central point; an origin, or stock; what spreads out, an overspread; any cloth worked over; a piece of tapestry; a quilt; a hassock; a kind of seat or stool made of straw-work; otherwise called tispan; also an epithet for a fat heavy wench. Teisban y ddwyffroen, the gristle that divides the nostrils: Doda deisban aruo yn ei wely, put a quilt over him in his bed.

Gwasthaf fr yd rhyfel teisban.

The worst for the corn is an intestine war. Adage.

Oed Crist 777—y bu rhyfel teisban rhwng y Deheuwr a'u breidd.

The year of Christ 777 there was an intestine war between the South Wales men and their king. Corad. Llancarfan.

Teisbanawg, a. (teisban) Having a central space; central, intestine; having a spread.

Teisbanawl, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (teisban—teulu) The central place of a family; a family stock; representative of a family.

Galwes Hywel ato holl becneddioedd gwlad, a'u teisbanawl-odd, a phob doethion a dywedigion o wyr llen a llyegion, yn dygynnuall gowedd, hyd y Ty Gwyn.

Hywel called to him all the heads of tribes of the country, with their family representatives, and all the wise and the learned men of the bely and the clergy, in a general convention, to the White house. Cor. Llancarfan.

Teisbantyle, s. m. (teisban—tyle) A dormitory; a couch; a centre or representative of a family; a mediator, an arbitrator.

Teisbantyle, sef yr hwnnw gwt cyfrwng, yn llyn, ac yn llen, ac yn aglwmawr, ac yn mhob prifelyneith; efo a fydd o ddoethion y gwedi, gan raiith pentecododd y gwedi, ac yn dygyfarall ag y pentecod, yn mhob rhaith a dygynnuall gwlad.

The representative, who is the mediating man, in court, and in congregation, and in combat, and in every foreign affair; he is to be of the wise men of the tribe, by the vote of the heads of families of the tribe, and to be a coadjutor with the head of the tribe, in every vote and convention of a country. Tryedd Dyfnwal.

Tri marchogaeth a ddyrchaf frut dya, pryd a gullo hwynt: marchogaeth i llydd, a ddaia, a llen. Sef fydd efo ym teisbantyle; ac mwy fydd y gwaib am ei ladd, no phetl ar ei wedd ei huan.

Three cavalades extend the right of a man, at the time he can perform them: to ride to warfare, to a court of law, and to church. For he is then a family representative; and more will be the punishment for killing him, than if he were on his own concern. Welsh Laws.

Teisbanu, v. a. (teisban) To form a central space; to originate; to spread out; to form a hassock.
Teisen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (tais) A cake. Teisen briodas, a bride cake.

Gorow rhan o'r deisen un a gefir.

The best share of the cake is the one that is obtained. Adage.

Teisenau, s. f. dim. (teisen) A little cake.

Teiseniad, s. m. (teisen) A caking.

Teisenig, s. f. dim. (teisen) A small cake.

Teisennu, v. a. (teisen) To form into a cake.

Teithawl, a. (taith) Wayfaring, itinerant.

Teithdrwydded, s. f.—pl. t. an (taith—trwydded) A passport.

Teithedig, a. (taith) Journeyed, or travelled.

Teithgynnwys, s. m. (taith—cynnwys) A passport.

Teithl, s. m. (taeth) Faculty, quality, characteristic; the peculiar trait, which distinguishes one thing from others; the peculiar state of a being, or its perfection. Teithl gwrwg, the female catamenia. Welsh Laws.

Teithl traia yw, llef, a chorn, a chwyn.

The characteristics of trespass are, a shout, and horn, and complaint. Welsh Laws.

O bôl dyn 24 fr mach, a dywedyd o'r addiffynwr mai 12 a ddyly efo, sef yr hawl yn edryd y mach; ac os yntau a ddywed mai am 6 chednig y rhod efo yn fuch, teled y cubl, am na wneith teithl mach, am na ddywed yr un o'r ddau edryd.

If a person should sue the bail for twenty-four pence, and the defendant should say that what he owes is twelve pence, let the claim be referred to the statement of the bail; but if he should say that for six-pence he was held to bail, let him pay the whole, forasmuch as he did not perform the functions of a surety, because he declares neither of the two statements. Welsh Laws.

Teithl cath yw, bod yn gyflust, gyflgad, gyfwein, cyflogwra, difan o dan, a ludd llygod, ac na chacterica bob lloer, ac na yuo ei cheswion; a'i gwerth yw ei theithl.

The perfections of a cat are, that she be complete in ears, complete in eyes, complete in nails, complete in tail, not spotted with fire, and fitting mice, and that she doth not go a rutting every moon, and that she devour not her young; and her value are her perfections. Welsh Laws.

Mi Fellyr Brydydd, berwin i Bedr, Forhawr a gymmedr gymmes deithl.

I Melyr the Post, a pilgrim to Peter, a porter who regulates appropriate perfections. Melyr.

Teithlad, s. m.—pl. t. au (taith) A travelling.

Am y fawr—

Adwythedig ei deithladau A fewr bradus drwy fawr brydded.

On account of the fair one, vexations his journeyings, who forms deceptions, through great study. Gwynn Owein.

Teithiannawl, a. (teithiant) Itinerary.

Teithiannu, v. a. (teithiant) To make a journey.

Teithiannus, a. (teithiant) Itinerant.

Teithiant, s. m. (taith) A journeying.

Teithiator, ger. (teithiad) In journeying.

Teithiaw, v. a. (taith) To travel, to journey.

Teithiawg, a. (teithl) Having faculties, qualities, or traits; characteristic; perfect as to character.

Arddwyf hael o hil Rodri;
Arddwyd gorwlad, uwerlin teithii;
Teithiawg Prydain,
Twyth arddwyth Owain,
Teyrnain ni grain, ni grawn tel.

I will exalt the bounteous one of the offspring of Rodri; the curber of the country's border, endued with the characteristics of an illustrious race; having a right to Britain's throne, Owain the active one in the course of wrath, a prince who will not succumb, who hoards not pelf. Gwarchmael.

I ennoble Arthur, namyn mab brenin gwlad teithiawg, neu i gerddawr a ddycio ei gerdd, ni aler i uerwin.

Into the hall of Arthur, except the son of a king of a country of acknowledged right, or to an artist who brings his art, none will be suffered to enter. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Teithiawg, a. (taith) Journeying, travelling.

Teithiawl, a. (teithi) Of perfect concurrency, character, faculty, or quality; characteristic; perfect. Anifael teithiawl, a beast in which all natural qualities are perfect: March teithiawl, a sound horse.

Nawfeddydd Mai y dyly bowch fod yn delthiawl; dawed llaeth o ben pob ieth kdlu; ac ymdaith o'i llo naw cam yn ei bol.

The ninth day of May a cow ought to be complete as to natural qualities; the milk coming through the end of every dug; and that her calf walk nine paces after her. Welsh Laws.

Teithiedig, a. (teithiad) Journeyed, travelled.

Teithig, a. (taith) Being characteristic.

Teithigrwydd, s. m. (teithw) Characteristicalness.

Ych yn ei gyflawn delthigrwydd.

An ox in his complete state of natural qualities. Welsh Laws.

Telthiwr, s. m.—pl. telthiwyrr (taith—gwr) A journeyer, a traveller.

Teithlyfr, s. m.—pl. t. au (taith—llyfr) A journey-book, an itinerary.

Teithwg, s. m. (taith) A wayfaring, a journeying.

Teithydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (taith) A traveller.

Teithygawl, a. (teithwg) Belonging to wayfaring.

Teithygiad, s. m. (teithwg) A making a journey.

Teithygu, v. a. (teithwg) To make a journey.

Tel, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ty—el) That is straight, that is drawn tight or strict, that is on a stretch, a tightness; a stricture; that keeps on a stretch, or props up; a straight line; a warp, in weaving; telau are also teats, as of a sow, and of a bitch; also a suppressed laugh, titter, or giggle. a. Tight, strict, compact, stretched, on the stretch; straight, prompt. Dd yn ddylar y gwir, to keep strictly to the truth. Daethost yn ddyl iawn y ffordd hono, thou didst come very exactly that way.

Dos a'th ddyl, was ffil; nes ffoli, rhodda Ar hyder dy feistr.

Away with thy titter, thou sly fellow; until thy folly is complete, range about on the credit of thy mastery. Huw Daf. Probert.

Tel, s. m.—pl. t. au (te—el) That is even, regular, smooth, or compact; that is fair; a regulator, or standard measure of capacity, and of length; in South Wales, a corn measure, equal to 5½ bushels, and in North Wales 4 bushels, divided into 8 parts. In some places Tel is for capacity, and Ystaca, for long measure; but in others they are reversed. a. Even, regular, compact; fair.

Telai, s. m.—pl. teleion (tèl) That is strained or even; that is regular; a kind of thistle; the teasel. Telai gwyllt, telai gwyllt, the common or wild teasel.

Telaid, s. m. (tèl) That is stretched, or tightened; that is even, smooth, or of fair appearance. a. Fair, beautiful, graceful. Teleidion, graceful ones, the graces.

Llyari deisid honaid hael.

A milk graceful one famed for being generous. Bloddyn Fardd.

*Ef mwyaf, y medd adroddiad;
Ef haelaf, ef tecaf telaid.*

He is the greatest, as minstrels declare; he the most generous, he the fairest graceful one. Ll. P. Moeh, i E. ab Iwan.

Gnawd tawel yn telaid.

It is genial for the silent to be graceful. Idyll.

Bendigwech Ddau telaid.

Bless ye God full of grace. Dafydd Ddu.

Telaid, s. m.—pl. teleidian (tel) The measure, or contents, of a tel, a tel-full.

Telaidd, a. (tel) Somewhat strained, tight, even, or compact; harmonious.

Telain, v. a. (tèl) To put on a stretch; to break out as a suppressed laugh; to titter, to giggle.

Telain, a. (tel) Being on the stretch; being made smooth, fair or tight.

Telan, s. f.—pl. t. au (tèl) A harp; but telyn is now the general name for it.

Telawd, s. m. (tèl) The act of stretching or tightening.

Telawr, s. m.—pl. telorion (tèl) A warbler; the goldfinch, also called piac; telawr y coed, the woodlark.

Telc, s. m. (tèl) A straightened state; a shrink.

Telciad, s. m. (telc) A shrinking, a crimping.

Telcu, v. a. (telc) To shrink up, to crimp.

Telchyn, s. m. dim. (talch) A small fragment.

Teled, s. m. (tel) That is stretched or strained.

Teledawg, a. (teled) Being on the stretch, a straitened. s. m. A jealous one.

Teledig, a. (tel) Handsome, or comely.

Teledigrwydd, s. m. (teledig) Handsomeness.

Telediw, a. (teled) Compact; perfect; of fair aspect, comely, handsome, beautiful. Gw telediw, a handsome youth; rhian telediw, a beautiful woman; eidion telediw, a beast that is perfect in its kind.

Telediwrydd, s. m. (telediw) Compactness, comeliness, handsomeness; gracefulness.

Ych a ymadawo a'th telediwrydd, ni ddylid ei ddarwngw y gymaint a 60; canys ei werth yn ei telediwrydd oedd 60.

An ox that shall lose his perfectness, should not be valued at a rate equal to 60 pence; for his value in his perfectness was 60 pence. Welsh Laws.

Helen Llydiawg, pryd hono hagen a'th telediwrydd, ni ddylid yr ynydd yn ei chych a'i cyffelypal.

Helen with the numerous host, as to her form then and her gracefulness, there should not be found in the same rate any to compare with her. Gr. ab Iwan.

Teleidiad, s. m. (telaid) A rendering comely, beautiful, or graceful; a becoming comely, or graceful.

Teleidiaw, v. a. (telaid) To render comely, elegant, or graceful; to become comely or graceful.

Teleidiawg, a. (telaid) Abounding with comeliness, elegance, or grace.

Teleidiawl, a. (telaid) Tending to render comely, or graceful; tending to become elegant.

Teledrwydd, s. m. (telaid) Comeliness; elegance; gracefulness.

Teleiddiad, s. m. (telaid) A rendering even, consonant, or harmonious.

Teleiddiaw, v. a. (telaid) To produce harmony, to practise minstrelsy.

Teledidr, s. m.—pl. teledidwyr (telaid—gwr) A minstrel, a songster.

*Cwyned cerddorion cwnil,
A theledidwyr, nwynwyr mil.*

Let correct musicians complain, and minstrels, a pleasant men. Wel. ab Hywel. m. T. W. Hywel, bardd a th. 1000.

Teleiddyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (telaid) A songster.

Teleiniad, s. m. (telain) A playing the harp.

Teleiniaw, v. a. (telain) To play the harp.

Telcniwr, s. m.—pl. telcniwyr (telcni—gwr) A harper. Ll. Llandaf.

Teler, s. m.—pl. t. au (tèl) That keeps tight or stretched: a stretcher; a compact, or condition. Teler lif hir, the handle, and frame, of a long saw: Ar y telerau hyny, on those conditions. Dyfed.

Telg, s. m. (tel) A straitened state, a shrink, a crumple.

Telging, a. (telg—ing) Constricted; crimped.

Wyt telging, enaid Telgarth.

Thou art constricted, thou soul of Telgarth. D. ab Edmunt.

Telgorn, s. m.—pl. telgyrn (tel—corn) A hantboy.

Telgwn, s. m. (telc—wn) A rebound; a stagger.

Telgwng, s. m. (telg—wng) A crimpling.

Telgynawd, s. m. (telgwn) A readiency.

Telgyniad, s. m. (telgwn) A rebounding.

Telgynu, v. a. (telgwn) To rebound; to stagger.

Telgynawd, s. m. (telgwng) A crimpling.

Telgynawg, a. (telgwng) Crimpling; staggering.

Telgyniad, s. m. (telgwng) A crimpling.

Telgyngu, v. a. (telgwng) To crumple; to stagger, to falter. Cei ddynawd a wna i ti delgyngu, thou shalt have a blow that will cause thee to stagger.

Teli, s. m.—pl. t. au (tèl) The being compact, or tight; exactness; an art.

Teliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tèl) A rendering stretched, a tightening; a making smooth or fair.

Teliad, s. m. (teli) A rendering compact; an acting ingeniously.

Teliadd, a. (teli) Being compact, or tightly put together; ingenious. Dyn teliadd iawn, a very ingenious person. Sil.

*Chwi sydd heb—
Na bti teliadd, na brain
Hocem, ond a fyn hennant.*

You are without any ingenious pre-eminence, or active quality, save what old age daily gains. Gw. Williams.

Teliaw, v. a. (tel) To strain, to tighten; to make accordant.

Teliaw, v. a. (teli) To put compactly together; to practise any ingenious art.

Al Ceraint Fardd Gŵa yn fardd teliaw at Aelifryd frenin Lloegr.

Ceraint the Blue Bard went as a bard of art to Alfred king of England. Ed. Dafydd.

Telid, s. m.—pl. t. au (tèl) That is combined tightly; a compact frame; elegance; gracefulness.

*Gwneynt eu perorion Oferwynt heb don;
Gwneynt eu telidau
Yn oer oer
Dyddiwyd dyddiawd
O ddylawydd gwawd.*

Their musicians would produce a fruitless wind without sound; their instruments would ever make from the effect of vibration a profound how of prunes. Taliesin.

Telitor, sup. (tal) To be requiting; to be paying.

Os llygrir yd i neb yn ymyl trefgordd, ac na chaffo y perchennawg dady un llwda arno, cymered efe grair a doed i'r dref: ac os llyngant i'u diarnabod, talent yr yd i rif y llwda: a'r gyfraith hono a elwir telitor gwodi balawgiw.

If the corn of any one shall be damaged on the border of a township, and the owner shall not be able to catch one beast upon it, let him take the relics and then come to the town; and if they shall swear an oath of ignorance of the fact, let them pay for the corn to the number of the beast: and that law is called paying after a polluted oath. Welsh Laws.

Teliu, a. (tèl) Being stretched or expanded.

Telm, s. f.—pl. t. au (tel) A gimcrack; a toy; a springe.

Y farau—Telm yw ar lëther bron talar.

The briar, a snare is it on the headland slope. D. ab Gwilym.

VOL. II.

Telma, v. a. (telm) To play with toys; to trifle.

Telmaidd, a. (telm) Toyish; like a snare.

Telmaidd, s. m. (telm) A toying; a laying a snare.

Telmu, v. a. (telm) To form a toy; to snare.

Telmyn, s. m. dim. (telm) A little toy; a trap.

Telori, v. a. (telawr) To warble, to be warbling.

Telpyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (talp) A small lump.

Telpynawg, a. (telpyn) Having small lumps.

Telpyniad, s. m. (telpyn) A forming small lumps.

Telpynu, v. a. (telpyn) To form small lumps.

Teln, v. a. (tèl) To put on a stretch, to strain; to make compact or regular.

Telwr, s. m.—pl. telwyr (tèl—gwr) One who strains; one who makes compact.

Telydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tèl) One who strains or draws tight; a harmonist.

Telyn, s. f.—pl. t. au (tèl) What is stretched, what is compact or straight, what is in even row; a harp; also the ribs and whole side of a carcass, when divided into two. Sil.

Pencerdd a ddyl i gan y cerddorion leuainc, pan ymadawnt a thelyn rawa, a myna bod ya gerddu rion cywethbas, ac yn eirchriad, pedair ar againt o ariant yn ei obrey.

The master of art ought to receive from young minstrels, when they leave off the hair-strung harp, and desire to become associated minstrels, and suitors, the sum of twenty-four of silver for his fee. Welsh Laws.

*Nid oes nag angel, na dyn,
Nad wyl pan gano delyu.*

There is nor angel, nor man, but would weep, when the harp resounds. D. ab Edmunt.

Telynai, s. c.—pl. telyneion (telyn) A harpist.

Telynaidd, a. (telyn) Of the form of a harp.

Telynawr, s. m.—pl. telynorion (telyn) A harpist.

*Telyn sar telynorion,
Ti sydd yn teul a sou!*

The golden harp of the harpists, thou art becoming silent! D. ab Edmunt, m. S. 1111.

*Cor o saint—
Cu es hodiau cyhydlef,
Gwynion delynorion nef.*

A choir of saints, lovely their accordant strains, the white-robed minstrels of heaven. Gw. Owen.

Telyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (telyn) A harping.

Telyniawr, s. m. (telyn) A harp player.

Telyniwr, s. m.—pl. telyniwyr (telyn—gwr) A harper, a harp player.

Telynores, s. f.—pl. t. au (telynawr) A female harpist.

*Zawaw yll wna'r, gair grynbyll,
Armes, telynores twyll.*

Eminent art thou made, of thought profound, the 'word,' predicting thee the fair minstrel of deceit. D. ab Gwilym, i Iorwdd.

Telynoriad, s. m. (telynawr) A playing a harp.

Telynoriaw, v. a. (telyn) To play on the harp.

Telynwr, s. m.—pl. telynwyr (telyn—gwr) Harper

Telyr, s. m. (tèl) That constricts, or tightens.

Telyraw, v. a. (telyr) To keep on the stretch; to keep on, to persevere. Pa le buost, er ys llawer dydd, yr hen was, yn telraw? Where hast thou been, for these many days, old boy, keeping it up? Sil.

Telyw, s. m. (tel) A covering, a garment.

*Llew awei, llwm bonyd er byw,
Pan orwig coed telyw hui;
Terydd glaf wyl budyw.*

Sharp the gale, it is bare punishment to live, when the woods wear the robe of summer: I am severely ill this day. Llywarch Hen.

Tell, s. m. (te—ell) The state of being stretched over. a. Being stretched over.

Telliad, s. m. (tell) A stretching over; a covering.

Tellin, v. a. (tell) To stretch over; to cover.

Telliwedd, s. f. (tell—gwedd) A covered aspect; a covered state; an annuity, or indemnity, in law.

Terfynawl, a. (terfyn) Conclusive, ending.
Terfynedig, a. (terfyn) Determined, ended.
Terfynedigaeith, s. m. (terfynedig) Determination, conclusion.
Terfynedigawl, a. (terfynedig) Of a limiting tendency, restrictive, determinate.
Terfynfa, s. f. (terfyn) A boundary spot.
Terfyniad, s. m. (terfyn) A terminating.
Terfynoldeb, s. m. (terfynawl) Finiteness.
Terfynolder, s. m. (terfynawl) Finiteness.
Terfynoldra, s. m. (terfynawl) Finitude.
Terfynoledd, s. m. (terfynawl) Conclusiveness.
Terfynoli, v. a. (terfynawl) To render conclusive; to become conclusive.
Terfynolrwydd, s. m. (terfynawl) Conclusiveness.
Terfyn, v. a. (terfyn) To fix a bound, to limit, to determine, to conclude.

Meddwl dyn, Daw a'i terfyn.

The thought of man, God doth determine.

Adage.

terfynwr, s. m.—pl. terfynwyr (terfyn—gwr) One who concludes or terminates.
terfynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (terfyn) A concluser, a finisher, a determiner.
terfysg, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (têr—mysg) Confusion, commotion, tumult, disturbance.

Pan na! oedd plant i Len, a ddyllys gynnal y deyrnas yn ei ol; with byn y cyfodwr ciwdodawl derfysg y rhwng y Brydeiniaid ac y Rhodaniaid gyfoeth.

Since there were no children to Len, who had a right to govern the kingdom after him; upon that there arose a civil commotion between the Britons and the Roman dominion.
Br. ab Arthur.

terfysgaidd, a. (terfysg) Apt to be riotous.
terfysgawg, a. (terfysg) Full of tumult.
terfysgawl, a. (terfysg) Tumultuous.
terfysgblaid, s. f. (terfysg—plaid) A tumultuous faction.
terfysgedig, a. (terfysg) Rendered tumultuous.
terfysgedigaeth, s. m. (terfysgedig) The act of raising a tumult.
terfysgedd, s. m. (terfysg) Tumultuousness.
terfysgiad, s. m. (terfysg) A making a tumult.
terfysglyd, a. (terfysg) Apt to be tumultuous; riotous, mutinous.
terfysglydrwydd, s. m. (terfysglyd) Tumultuousness, riotousness, factionousness.
terfysg, v. a. (terfysg) To raise a tumult; to become tumultuous; to be in an uproar.

Terfysg; dalia, mael defflon mewn braw, En llyd a'u hancardus.

Render tumultuous; blind, like blind ones in terror, their purpose and their designs.
H. D. ab Iwan.

terfysgus, a. (terfysg) Tumultuous.
terfysgwr, s. m.—pl. terfysgwyr (terfysg—gwr) One who makes a tumult.
terfysgydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (terfysg) One who makes a tumult.
teri, v. a. (têr) To grow sullen, to sulk. Mae ef yn têri ar ei fwyd, he is quarrelling with his meat.
triad, s. m. (ter) A rendering clear, a clarifying; a purifying.
triad, s. m. (têr) A rendering ardent; irritation.
trica, v. a. (terig) To irritate; to become irritated; to rat, to go a rutting.
trig, a. (têr) Ardent, poignant; severe, harsh; also an epithet for the season of copulation of cats, and some other animals.

Bwched fâl—Lleudad aer yn llaw derig.

A buckler like a golden moon in an ardent hand.

Rhys Nanmor

Terigaw, v. a. (terig) To render ardent or severe; to become harsh or severe.
Terigiad, s. m. (terig) A rendering severe or harsh; a becoming fierce or severe.
Terllyd, a. (têr) Outrageous; miles.
Terllydrwydd, s. m. (terllyd) Outrageousness.
Terllydu, v. a. (terllyd) To render outrageous; to become outrageous.
Term, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (têr) An extreme point, a crisis, a limited space of time, a term; a drinking bout.

*Gwell angen o'm gollynfy
No thori 'mhen a therm hîr.*

Better death than I might be retained, than to distract my head with a long term.
T. Alod.

Terriad, s. m. (term) A limiting of time, a fixing a term; a making a drinking bout.
Termiaw, v. a. (term) To limit a time, to fix a term; to keep up a drinking bout.
Termud, a. (têr—mad) Tacit, silent.

*Rhai trallwyr tra llafar eu son;
Ac arall terriaw termudion.*

Some very cowardly extremely loud in their talk; and others paradoxically brave being silent ones.
L. F. Meek.

Termudaw, v. a. (termud) To render tacit or silent; to become silent.
Termudedd, s. m. (termud) Taciturnity.
Termudiad, s. m. (termud) A rendering tacit; a becoming tacit or silent.
Termudrwydd, s. m. (termud) Taciturnity.

Gores mewn termudrwydd.

The best behaviour is taciturnity.

Adage.

Tern, s. m. (têr) That is ardent or vivid, or full of motion. a. Of an ardent or vehement nature.
Terniad, s. m. (tern) A moving ardently.
Ternu, v. a. (tern) To move or turn ardently.
Terogen, s. f. dim. (têrawg) A female miser.
Terogi, v. a. (terawg) To render full of avidity; to become full of avidity.
Terogyn, s. m. dim. (terawg) A miserly churl.
Terth, s. m.—pl. t. an (têr) A bung.
Terthain, v. a. (tarth) To pant for breath.
Tera, v. a. (ter) To purify, to clear, to clarify; to render fine or smooth. Tera mel, to clarify honey.
Têru, v. a. (têr) To act sullenly; to grow sullen, to pout, to sulk. Tera ar fwyd, sori ar fwyd, to quarrel with the victuals. Sil.
Têrwr, s. m.—pl. têrwyr (têr—gwr) A sullen man.
Terwr, s. m.—pl. terwyr (ter—gwr) A purifier, a clarifier, or one who makes clear.
Têrwyn, a. (ter—gwyn) Of a violent disposition; ardent, fervent; strong.
Terwynaldd, a. (terwyn) Somewhat ardent.
Terwynawl, a. (terwyn) Of an ardent tendency.
Terwyndeb, s. m. (terwyn) Ardency.
Terwynnder, s. m. (terwyn) Ardency, vehemency.
Terwynndra, s. m. (terwyn) Ardency, vehemency.
Terwynddrud, a. (terwyn—drud) Very bold.
Terwynfalch, a. (terwyn—balch) Highly proud.
Terwynlad, s. m. (terwyn) A rendering ardent; a becoming ardent; a glowing.
Terwyniaw, v. a. (terwyn) To render ardent; to become ardent; to glow.
Terwynu, v. a. (terwyn) To render ardent; to become ardent; to glow.

El gyd-diroeg yn cam-dewyns wrtho.

His fellow-countrymen unjustly becoming offended against him.
H. Gwynn—Mabllaw.

Terydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ter) A refiner.

Terydd, a. (tër) Ardent, vehement, full of activity, volatile; swift, nimble.

—Torioedd terydd eu gawr, trwm eu dyar.

Hosts of vehement shout, heavy their din.

Tutisia.

Teryddawl, a. (terydd) Tending to render ardent or vehement; apt to be volatile.

Pummed byystnou
Ar holl wibion
Egipcïon;
Gwelsid miled,
O dryn aied
Dryddollon.

The fifth was destruction upon all the flying things of the Egyptian; the animals were seen, through severe disease, maddened ones.

Tutisia.

Teryddiad, s. m. (terydd) A rendering ardent, vehement, or full of activity.

Teryddu, v. a. (terydd) To render rapid; to grow rapid.

Teryg, s. m. (tër) An incrustation, a crust, or any thing clotted on the surface, incrustated dirt. Mae teryg ar dy sodlau, there is a crust of dirt on thy heels.

Teryll, a. (tër) Ardently glancing. Golwg teryll, an ardently-glancing eye, a piercing eye.

Teryllaidd, a. (teryll) Tending to glance ardently.

Terylliad, s. m. (teryll) A glancing ardently.

Teryllu, v. a. (teryll) To glance ardently; to look fiercely.

Tes, s. m. (te—es) A spreading of rays; sunheat, sunshine, hot weather. Graid is used for it in South Wales generally.

Cydwydd a'r tes.

As warm as the sunshine.

Ldrych barddwch yr haul yn ei dew, ac nid yn ei ffrîw.

Look at the beauty of the sun in its shining, and not in its disk.

Adage.

Morfu'dd glae—
Nid haul ynyllau hoewles,
Manneth lywyogaeth tes.

Bright Morfu'dd, like a sun with rays of active beneficence, the mother of the sovereignty of heat.

D. ab Gwilym.

Dillad i noeth—
A gwely, a thy, a thes aelwyd.

Clothing for the naked, and bed, and house, and the warmth of a hearth.

Gwalchmai.

Tesa, v. a. (tes) To gather warmth; to wanton.

Tesach, s. m. (tes) Fullness of heat; wantonness.

Tesain, a. (tes) Abounding with warmth.

Tesaint, s. m. (tesain) A state teeming with warmth; cheerfulness, gladness.

Meiriod wen—
A'i balchwyr, a'i balchwyr tesaint.

Fair Meiriod, with its eminent men, and its soaring truth of gladness.

Cyndarlur.

Tesawg, a. (tes) Abounding with heat; abounding with sunshine, sunny, hot.

Un o'r tri enghir ddichwain—yr haf tesawg, pan aethynt y coed—ydd a'r llysiau ar dan, gan angherdd gwres yr haul, a cholli llawer o ddyfion, ac anghlithni, a rhywiau adar, a phryted, a choeddydd, a llysiau, yn amsgorawi.

One of the three awful events: the hot summer, when the woods and the herbs took fire, from the vehemency of the heat of the sun, and many men being lost, and cattle, and species of birds, and animals, and woods, and herbs, irretrievably.

Trioedd.

Tesawl, a. (tes) Affording warmth or heat.

Tesfawr, a. (tes) Abounding with much heat.

Tesiad, s. m. (tes) A dispensing warmth.

Tesiant, s. m. (tes) A producing warmth.

Testun, s. m.—pl. t. au (tes—tun) A theme, or subject of investigation.

Eriodd ni welais yr un,
Enraid wylh, a rŏe destun.

Never have I seen one, of golden pledge, that would propose a theme.

D. ab Gwilym.

Testunaw, v. a. (testun) To set a subject or theme

Teth, s. f.—pl. t. au (te—eth) A teat, a dog, or pup. Tethau y gaseg, honeysuckle; also called gwyddfa.

Tethaidd, a. (teth) Like a teat or dog.

Tethan, s. f. dim. (teth) A small teat.

Tethawg, a. (teth) Having teats or dogs.

Tethawl, a. (teth) Papillary, belonging to teats.

Tethiad, s. m. (teth) A forming a teat.

Tethu, v. n. (teth) To grow into a teat.

Teulu, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tan—lla) A family, or household; a clan, or tribe. Y teulu, y telys teg, bendith eu mamau, fairies: Cantreul, fairy dogs.

Tri diwair deulu Ynys Prydain—teulu Cadwallawr ab Idris, m. f. ynt huslogion; teulu Gafran mab Aeddan, pan fa ydy Gafran coll; a theulu Gwenddolau ab Ceidio, yn Arceirdd, a ddigwyb yr ymladd bythfawr a mis wedi llodd eu hargywyd.

The three faithful clans of the Isle of Britain: the clan of Cadwallawr son of Beli, when they were fettered together; the clan of Gafran son of Aeddan, when he was in the overwhelming wreck; and the clan of Gwenddolau son of Ceidio in Arceirdd, who carried on the war for a fortnight and a month after the death of their lord.

Tutisia.

Teuluaeth, s. m. (teulu) Domestic economy; social intercourse; hospitality.

Brodyr teuluaeth: bardd, ysgolai, a dadgaled.

The brothers of social life: a bard, a scholar, and a recluse.

Adage.

Teuluaidd, a. (teulu) Belonging to a family, or household; domestic, familiar.

Teuluaeth, s. m. (teulu) Domestic economy.

Teuluaug, a. (teulu) Having a family.

Teuluawl, a. (teulu) Belonging to a family.

Teuluedd, s. m. (teulu) Familiarity; concord.

Ar ol tala yr alaw, bid teuluedd tragywyddau rhwng y ddyn genedl.

After paying the fine of homicide, let there be eternal peace between the two generations.

Wash Llan.

Teulueidd-dra, s. m. (teuluaidd) Domesticity.

Teulueiddiad, s. m. (teuluaidd) A domesticating, a familiarizing; a becoming hospitable.

Teulueiddlaw, v. a. (teuluaidd) To domesticate; to become hospitable.

Teulueiddrwydd, s. m. (teuluaidd) Domesticness, hospitality.

Ac ni char gwanaer genym
Ond teulueiddrwydd rwydd rym.

And the distributor loves with us but hospitality of liberal poor.

S. Mawdry.

Teuluwas, s. m.—pl. teuluweision (teulu—gwa) A domestic servant.

Nid oes—l'ith deuluwas
Awr daw, ond wylaw gwlaw glas.

There is not for thy household servants a slight hour, but weep the pearly drops.

D. ab Gwilym.

Teuluwr, s. m.—pl. teuluwyr (teulu—gwr) Household man, a family man; a hospitable man.

Teulüwriaeth, s. m. (teulüwr) Household economy, domestic order; hospitality.

Teulüwraig, s. f.—pl. teulüwreigedd (teulü—gwraig) A housewife.

Teulüydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (teulu) One who domesticates; a family man.

Teulüyddawl, a. (teulüydd) Apt to familiarize.

Teulüyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (teulüydd) Housewife.

Teulüyddiaeth, s. m. (teulüydd) The act of domesticating; a domestic state.

Tew, s. m.—pl. t. ion (te) That is thick, or gross, fat. a. Thick, gross, fat, plump; frequent, or abundant. Croen tew, a thick skin; dya tew, a fat person; y mor sy dew o byged, the sea is thick of fishes.

Tew y brian lle tanceu y cariad.

Thick are the faults where the affection is tender.

Adage.

Tewad, s. m. (tewau) A thickening.
Tewawl, u. (tewau) Tending to thicken.
Tewaid, a. (tew) Somewhat thick or gross.
Tewau, v. a. (tew) To thicken; to condense; to fatten; to become thick; to grow fat.

Tewban, s. m. (tew—pan) That is thickened by beating, or by fulling.

Tewbanawg, a. (tewban) Being thickened by milling; an epithet for several thick-leaved plants. Y dewbanawg, canwyll yr adar, y banawg, ciust y fwrch, the great mullein, or high-taper; y dewbanawg fechan, cowslip; y dewbanawg wen wryw, gwynndail, menyg y merched, rose-campion; yr hanner-pan, white-mullein.

Tewder, s. m. (tew) Thickness; denseness, density; fatness.

Tewdor, s. m. (tew—tor) A thick cover; a thick shelter or defence. a. Of a thick covering or shade. Taw tewdor, a thick-breasted bull; tewdor annedd, a thickly covered habitation.

*Bid yth arfaeth i'r tri—
 Can deg pum-wan Crist pemnos o gaeth,
 O ing, o gyffwr gwynogareth,
 O angor tewdor tud alaeth.*

Be thy practice devoted to the three, as the five wounds of Christ brought the five ages out of thralldom; from a sinful, from a constrained society, from the tenacity of the thick shade of the region of woe. Cynddelw.

Gwedd fyddin felddiad yn aherddor.
 One who attacks a powerful host in the thickest part. Cynddelw.

*Uchel-ian Gwddan ger glau glau-for,
 Ni cholliat ei thir nac ei thewddor.*

The chief of Cadfan by the shore of a blue sea, his land will not be lost, nor its thick crop. Llywelyn Fardd.

Tewdra, s. m. (tew) Thickness, density.
Tewdrwch, s. m. (tew—twrch) Density, solidity.
a. Thick in bulk, solid.

Eis beneddiaid nid ydynt yn tarddu o gorff, neu ddelfydd tewdrach anghreiddiadwy.

Our souls do not originate from a body, or dense matter not to be pervaded. Ier. Owain.

Tewdwr, s. m. (tew—twr) This is a thick heap.
Tewds, s. m. (tew—tw) A thick assemblage.
a. Thickly collected. Y twr tewds, the pleiades.

Tewi, s. m. (taw) A keeping silent, a holding one's tongue. v. a. To keep silent, to hold one's tongue.

Nid deuthineb ond tewi.
 There is no wisdom like holding the tongue. Adage.

Tawed doeth, nanneth ni than.
 Let the wise be silent, the unwise will not cease talking. Llywarch Hen.

*Tawn, tawn, goren yw tewi;
 Am hwn nid yganwn i.*
Let no silence, let no silence, it is best to be silent; about this we will not utter a word. Iolo Goch.

Tewiad, s. m. (tew) A thickening, a condensing.
Tewlaeth, s. m. (tew—llaeth) Thick milk. Llwyn y tewlaeth, the bell-flower.

Tewlyd, a. (tew) Tending to grow thick.

Tewu, v. a. (tew) To thicken; to grow thick.

Tewwch, s. m. (tew) Thickness, denseness.

Tewychaid, a. (tewwch) Partly tending to thicken, or condense.

Tewychawl, a. (tewwch) Of thickening tendency

Tewychedig, a. (tewwch) Condensed; spissated.

Tewychedd, s. m. (tewwch) Spissitude.

Tewychind, s. m. (tewwch) A thickening.

Tewychiannawl, a. (tewychiant) Condensing.

Tewychiannu, v. a. (tewychiant) To condensate.

Tewychiant, s. m. (tewwch) Condensation.

Tewychu, v. a. (tewwch) To thicken, to condense.

Tewyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (te—gwyn) A firebrand, or a torch; a burning coal.

Tewyn a than yn mhob pen.

A brand with a fire in both ends. Adage.

Tewynawl, a. (tewyn) Tending to produce light.

Tewynllyd, a. (tewyn) Apt to produce light.

*Caflestr tanlestr tewynllyd,
 O walth gof yn doeth i gyd.*

A flint fire-pan aptly striking fire, the work of a smith altogether hot. T. Pryg, on two pistols.

Teyrn, s. m.—pl. t. edd (te—gyrn) A sovereign, a king, a supreme ruler.

Treun teyrn heb ei osgordd.

A sovereign is miserable without his train. Adage.

Taw—

Cyn, mal yn deyrn, y dwg,

Mawr gwylion, yn Morgannwg.

The bull, like a sovereign, carries horns large and white, in Morgannwg. D. ab Iwan Ddu.

Teyrnaidd, a. (teyrn) Like a sovereign.

Teyrnaig, s. f. (teyrn—aig) A supreme origin.

Teyrnaig arwar arfolitor gwen

Teyrnerdd awen amgu am gor.

The sovereign source of tranquillity receiving the smile of the peculiar royal song of the muse round the circle. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

Teyrnain, a. (teyrn) Having sovereignty.

Teyrnair, s. m. (teyrn—gair) A royal word.

Teyrnas, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (teyrn) A kingdom.

Dwyf yn heddwch—gloew deyrnas

Gwledig nef a llawr a llwyr ddinas,

Llary argyfydd llawr llewyn gwannas.

May I inherit the peace of the glorious Kingdom of the Supreme of heaven and earth and the whole universe, the benedict Lord of many central radiations. Melir ab Gwalchmai.

Teyrnasawl, a. (teyrnas) Having a kingdom.

Teyrnasiad, s. m. (teyrnas) A reigning, a reign.

Teyrnasiath, s. m. (teyrnas) The rule of a kingdom; a reign.

Teyrnau, v. a. (teyrnas) To govern a kingdom, to perform the functions of a king, to reign.

Teyrnawg, a. (teyrn) Having a king.

Teyrnawl, a. (teyrn) Belonging to royalty.

Teyrndiws, s. m.—pl. t. i (teyrn—diws) A jewel or part of regalia.

Teyrndreth, s. f.—pl. t. i (teyrn—treth) A tribute.

Teyrnddrud, a. (teyrn—drud) Royally bold.

Teyrnedd, s. m. (teyrn) Sovereignty, kingship.

Prydain ab Addd Mawr a wniad wladolath a theyrnedd gynaf ar Ysyr Prydain; a chyn no hyny nid oedd o lawr namyn a wneid o addwyddu, na deddi namyn y truchaf treinded.

Prydain son of Addd the Great formed a body politic and sovereignty first in the Isle of Britain; and previously there was of justice only what might be done through kindness of disposition, nor any law but the strongest might oppress. Triedd.

Teyrnes, s. f.—pl. t. au (teyrn) Female sovereign.

Teyrnfar, s. m. (teyrn—bar) A kingly wrath.

Teyrnfardd, s. m.—pl. teyrnfeirdd (teyrn—bardd) A royal bard.

Teyrnfoes, s. f. (teyrn—moes) A kingly demeanour.

Teyrnfoes eirion eirichador

Teyrnedd ni gwyl, a gwelator.

A splendid kingly demeanour to be imploring, princes behold it, and it will be seen. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

Teyrnfrad, s. m. (teyrn—brad) Treason against a sovereign; high treason.

Teyrnfradu, v. a. (teyrnfrad) To commit treason against a sovereign.

Teyrnfradwr, s. m.—pl. teyrnfradwyr (teyrnfrad—gwr) A traitor against a king.

Teyrnfradwriath, s. m. (teyrnfradwr) High treason.

Teyrnfro, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (teyrn—bro) A country under the rule of a king.

Teyrnfudd, s. f. (teyrn—budd) Benefit of the king.

Teyrnged, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (teyrn—ced) Tribute

Gwedi clybod o Gloew Cesar y chwedl hwnw, ystau a anfonas Fopasian, i gymhell Gweirydd ar daugnefedd a gwyr Rhufain, ac i dala y guoeddig deyrnged.

After Claudius Cesar had heard that report, he then sent Ves-pasian, to prevail on Gweirydd to be on terms of peace with the men of Rome, and to pay the accustomed tribute.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Teyrngerd, s. f.—pl. t. i (teyrn—cerdd) Royal song.

Teyrngoron, s. f.—pl. t. au (teyrn—coron) A diadem.

Teyrnialen, s. f. dim. (teyrn—ialen) A sceptre.

Yn yr ystafell hono yr oedd cader, yn yr hon y fawredig yr oedd tywysawg yn elatedd—ac yn ei law deyrnialen.

In that chamber there was a chair, in which majestically there was seated a prince, and holding in his hand a sceptre.

Marchawg Cwyddad.

Teyrnlaw, s. f. (teyrn—llaw) A royal hand.

Teyrnles, s. m. (teyrn—lles) The good of a king.

Teyrnllid, s. m. (teyrn—llid) Royal wrath.

Teyrnlin, s. m. (teyrn—llin) Royal line.

Teyrnllw, s. m. (teyrn—llw) A royal oath.

Teyrnogaeth, s. f. (teyrnawg) A kingly office.

Teyrnogi, v. a. (teyrnawg) To render kingly; to become regal.

Teyrnoldeb, s. m. (teyrnawl) A regal state.

Teyrnolder, s. m. (teyrnawl) Regality.

Teyrnolled, s. m. (teyrnawl) Royalty.

Teyrnoli, v. a. (teyrnawl) To render regal.

Teyrnolrwydd, s. m. (teyrnawl) Regality.

Teyrnion, s. m. (teyrn) A princely one.

*Selyf yngnad—
Bu gwell nog odd
Mab teyrnon :
Bu gnaed berthyn
O'i gywathydd.*

Selyf the judge, superior to him was the son of a royal chief, wealth was eventual from having his support.

Taliesin.

Teyrnwal, s. f. (teyrn—gwal) A regal couch.

Teyrnwalch, s. m.—pl. teyrnweilch (teyrn—gwalch) An aspiring prince.

Teyrnwarth, s. m. (teyrn—gwarth) Royal shame.

Teyrnwas, s. m.—pl. teyrnweision (teyrn—gwas) A royal youth.

*Dinas teyrnos teyrnwale oben
Teyrnwalch din Emraus :
Bu da deithol a gefais ;
Bu doeth fal y deitholais.*

The bulwark of the kingdom of yielding princely youths is the aspiring lord of the castle of Emraus : a choice good fortune I obtained ; wise was the course I chose.

Cynddel.

Teyrnwawd, s. m. (teyrn—gwawd) Royal eulogy.

Teyrnwawl, s. m. (teyrn—gwawl) Royal splendor.

Teyrnwawr, s. f. (teyrn—gwawr) Dawn of royalty.

Teyrnwialen, s. f. (teyrn—gwialen) A sceptre.

Ti, s. m. r. That is in ; that is separate ; that is distinct. pron. Thee ; thou. I ti a mi da peid-iaw, for thee and me it is good to desist : Ti yw y dyn, thou art the person.

Gwna iaw, ti a gel iaw andano.

Do justice, thou shalt have justice in return for it.

Adolf.

*Tal am dy wawd, cyn toll ;
Twyll y pryddodon wyt ti.*

Pay for thy praise, ere it be curtailed : the delusion of the poets art thou.

U. ab Gwilym, i Forfudd.

Tib, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ti—ib) A particle ; a bit.

Tiboeth, s. m. (tib—oeth) A pure particle. It was the name of a rare book, left by Beuno in the church of Clynnawg, and said to have been written by Twrog, in the beginning of the seventh century.

*Llygad fel glais cawnd cuth,
Tebyg i laen y tibioeth.*

An eye like the pure shower crystal, to be compared to the drop gem.

Sup. Cyfoddy.

Tic, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ti—ic) A particle.

Ticiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tic) A forming into small particles.

Ticial, v. a. (tic) To produce small particles, or drops ; to drain the last drops, in milking.

Ticyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (tic) A particle, a small bit, a little scrap.

Mae pob ticyn yn dicyn, oher y dryw, pan blwyg yn y mor.

Every little is a little, said the wren, when he played in the sea.

Adolf.

Tid, s. f.—pl. t. au (ti—id) A draught chain hwera tidaw, to let drivel, to fall, to drivel, to tiddle.

Tidaw, v. a. (tid) To fasten with a chain or rope, to chain.

Tidawg, a. (tid) Having a chain, chained.

Tidawl, a. (tid) Belonging to a chain ; like a chain.

Tidial, s. m.—pl. t. au (tid) A chaining.

Tidiedig, a. (tidial) Being fastened with a chain.

Tidmwy, s. m.—pl. t. au (tid—mwy) A tedder.

Tidmwyad, s. m. (tidmwy) A teddering.

Tidmwyaw, v. a. (tidmwy) To tie, to tedder.

*Cymer a fo yn dy feddiant,
A tidmwyad dy fawrchwas,
Hawo no's cadw cyrnell atied.*

Take of what is in thy possession, and restrain thy rapine : it is easier than to keep to collect money.

Caring ab Gwynn.

Tidraff, s. f.—pl. t. au (tid—rhaff) A chain-rep.

Tifar, a. (ti—bar) Repentant, contrite.

Tifariad, s. m. (tifar) A repenting ; repentance.

Tifaru, v. a. (tifar) To repent, to be sorry.

Tifaru fal y gwr a laddwyd ei flig.

To repent like the man who killed his greyhound.

Adolf.

*Mae yn rhy buyr tifaru,
Yn ol yr fact gynnw.*

It is too late to repent, after the trap hath sprung.

Adolf.

Tifarns, a. (tifar) Repenting, penitent.

Tifedd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ti—medd) An heir.

*Plant Tudyr—baellon penodol
A thifeddion, lallu fydded, Gwynedd ; pedwar cydwedd ced.*

The children of Tudyr, generous chiefs of tribes, are he (omissive be the words) of Gwynedd ; four noble families.

John Gork.

Tifeddadwy, a. (tifedd) Hereditary ; inheritable.

Tifeddawg, a. (tifedd) Having inheritance.

Tifeddawl, a. (tifedd) Hereditary ; inheriting.

Tifeddedig, a. (tifedd) Being inherited.

Tifeddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (tifedd) An inheritance.

Tifeddiad, s. m. (tifedd) An inheriting.

Tifeddiaeth, s. m. (tifedd) Inheritance.

Tifeddiaethu, v. a. (tifeddiaeth) To form an inheritance.

Tifeddogi, v. a. (tifeddawg) To endow with an inheritance ; to have an inheritance.

Tifeddogrwydd, s. m. (tifeddawg) The state of being inherited.

Tifeddoldeb, s. m. (tifeddawl) The state of being hereditary.

Tifeddoli, v. a. (tifeddawl) To render hereditary.

Tifeddolrwydd, s. m. (tifeddawl) The state of being hereditary.

Tifeddu, v. a. (tifedd) To inherit ; to possess.

Tifeddu, a. (tifedd) Hereditary ; possessory.

Tifedduaw, v. a. (tifeddu) To render hereditary, to become hereditary.

Tifedduswydd, s. m. (tifedus) The state of being hereditary.

Tifeddw, s. m.—pl. tifeddwyd (tifedd—gwr) An inheritor.

Tifeiriad, s. m. (tifar) A repenting.

Tifeiriannawl, a. (tifeiriant) Tending to repentance, or remorse.

Tifeiriannu, v. a. (tifeiriant) To produce repentance, or remorse.

Tifeiriannus, a. (tifeiriant) Tending to repentance, or remorse.

Tifeiriant, s. m. (tifar) Repentance, remorse.

*Ma'r Fardieu, mae'n y saint,
Y daforeu difeiriad.*

Mary Magdalene, the imaginary of saints, the choicest fruit of repentance. Guyn Ceiriog.

Tifeirwch, s. m. (tifar) Repentance, remorse.

Tifeirwch newydd am ben bechawd.

New remorse for an old sin.

Adage.

Til, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ti—ll) A minute particle.

Tilad, s. m.—pl. tiliald (til) A small fly like a gnat.

Tim, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ti—lm) A little.

Timyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (tim) A small particle; a little bit, a small matter.

*A rhyddwadau i hyd hyn,
I Wondydd wasaf unbyn,
Dydwedid cymaint dymyn.*

What I have predicted until now, to Gwendydd the idol of prices, it shall come to pass to the smallest little. Cyf. Merddin.

Tin, s. f.—pl. t. au (ti—in) A tail, a bottom, a breech. Tin y curd, the bottom of the bag: Tin y nyth, back y nyth, the tail of the nest, or the least of the brood; tin y gler, the tail of the minstrel, a poetaster: Tision yr yd, the light grains of corn: Tin ab, the ape's breech, a fault in prosody, being the full rhyme, as used in English versification.

Tingored, a. (tin—agored) Open tailed. Tingored, the common medlar; also called y disdell.

Tinaw, v. a. (tin) To form a tail; to stretch out the posteriors.

Tinaw, a. (tin) Having a tail; having large posteriors.

Tinawl, a. (tin) Belonging to the posteriors.

Tinbais, s. f.—pl. tinbekiau (tin—pais) A petticoat.

Tinben, adv. (tin—pen) Head to tail. Tinben-draen, tin-draen, topsy-turvy.

Tinbleth, a. (tin—pleth) Tail-twined.

Tinboeth, a. (tin—poeth) Hot-tailed. Y dimboeth, areamart; also called elinasog: y tinboeth, y tingoch, the redstart, a bird so called.

Tinbren, s. m.—pl. t. l (tin—pren) The bracer.

Tinc, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ting) A tink, a tinkle.

Tinceirddiad, s. m.—pl. tinceirddiaid (tincerdd) A doing tinkery work.

Tinceirddiaeth, s. m. (tincerdd) Tinkery.

Tinceirddiaw, v. a. (tincerdd) To work as a tinker.

Tinceirddiawl, a. (tincerdd) Belonging to a tinker's work.

Tincerdd, s. m.—pl. tincerddion (tin—cerdd) The tail of a craft, a tinker.

Tincerddiaeth, s. m. (tincerdd) Tinkery.

Tinciad, s. m. (tinc) A tinkling, a tinkling.

Tincial, v. a. (tinc) To tinkle, to tingle; to draw the last milk, in milking.

Tincian, v. a. (tinc) To tink, to tinkle, to tingle; to draw the last milk; to drain the last drops.

Ni weth i ti dawi se thincian, thou mayest as well be silent as to be dinning.

Tinciaw, v. a. (tinc) To tink, to tinkle; to ring.

Tincion, s. pl. aggr. (tinc) The last-drawn milk.

Tincwd, s. m. (tin—cud) The bottom of a bag.

A fyno fod yn bencud, na wnaed a wodd i dinewd.

He that would be the top of a bag, let him not commit what suits the bottom of a bag. Adage.

Tindafiad, s. m. (tin—tafiad) A throwing the tail, a shaking the tail.

Tindafu, v. a. (tin—tafu) To throw the tail; to winch.

Tindew, a. (tin—tew) Fat-buttocked.

Tindin, adv. (tin repeated) Tail to tail.

Tindoll, a. (tin—toll) Having the tail sink. Y disdell, the common medlar.

Tindopiaw, v. a. (tin—topiaw) To flounce.

Tindraphen, adv. (tin—tra—pen) Arse over head.

Tindraws, a. (tin—traws) Cross-tailed.

Tindro, s. m. (tin—tro) A turn of the tail.

Tindroed, s. m. (tin—troed) The didapper.

Tindroi, v. a. (tin—dro) To turn the tail.

Tindrom, a. (tin—trom) Heavy-tailed.

Tindrosben, adv. (tin—tros—pen) Arse over head.

Bodolwyr y bu darw Awyben dindrosben draw.

For four hours there was yonder a tedious topey-turvy content. Morgan Eifael.

Tindrwm, a. (tin—trwm) Heavy-tailed.

Tinfoel, a. (tin—moel) Bare-tailed. Breuan din-foel, a round-bottomed quern.

Tingloff, a. (tin—clloff) Lamé in the hip.

Tingloffedd, s. m. (tingloff) Lameness of the hip.

Tingloffu, v. a. (tingloff) To render lame in the hip; to become lame in the hip.

Tingloffni, s. m. (tingloff) A limping, a halting.

Tingoch, a. (tin—coch) Red-tailed. Aderyn tingoch, aderyn rhawngoch, gwas y seiri, the bull-finch.

Tingrach, a. (tin—crach) Scabby-tailed.

Tingrech, s. m. (tingrach) Scabbiness of the tail.

Tinlaw, v. a. (tin) To turn tail.

Tinlach, a. (tin—lach) Broad-bottomed; squabby

Tinlethu, v. a. (tin—llethu) To overlay.

Tinllachad, s. m.—pl. tinllachiaid (tinlach) A broad-bottomed one.

Tinllom, a. (tin—llom) Bare-bottomed.

Tinllwm, a. (tin—llwm) Bare-bottomed.

Tinllwyd, s. m. (tin—llwyd) Wild-tansy.

Tinnioeth, a. (tin—neeth) Bare-tailed.

Tinpen, s. f.—pl. t. i (tin—pen) A hassock or straw stool. Tinpen fagu, a nursing-stool.

Tinred, s. f. (tin—rhed) A tail running.

Tinroth, a. (tin—rloth) Open-tailed.

Tinrwith, a. (tin—rhwith) Open-tailed.

Tinrythiad, s. m. (tinrwith) A tail opening.

Tinrythu, v. a. (tinrwith) To open tail.

*Nycha'r fân—
Yn dwyn rhaith dan dinrythu.*

Behold the crow making an assault while spreading out the tail. Dr. S. Gwent.

Tinsigl, s. m. (tin—sigl) A wagtail. Tinsigl y gwys, brith y fuchs, the field wagtail; tinsigl y dwyr, the water wagtail or kingsfisher.

Tinsiglad, s. m. (tinsigl) A shaking the tail.

Tinsiglaw, v. a. (tinsigl) To shake the tail.

Tinwyg, a. (tin—gywg) Open-tailed.

Tinwygydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tinwyg) One with open tail.

*Menaich—yat ar eu braig;
Brallagos diawgyddion dig.*

The monks, they feast on their fat viands; the surly pumper open tolled ones. Dr. S. Gwent.

to become delightful; to become gentle. O, tiriona wrtho, da dithau! Oh, be compassionate to him, that is a good creature!

O daw gweth, dig ydyw!
Trwy na ddol, tiriol 'ddwyf.

If afterwards he come, I am angry grown; so he comes not, I am becoming pleasant. I. ab Hywel Gwyn.

Tirioniad, s. m. (tirion) A rendering pleasant, delightful, or lovely; a becoming pleasant.

Tirionus, a. (tirion) Pleasing; delighting.

Tirionusaw, v. a. (tirionus) To render pleasing, or delightful; to become pleasing.

Tirionussedd, s. m. (tirionus) Pleasingness.

Tirionusrwydd, s. m. (tirionus) Pleasingness.

Tirionwch, s. m. (tirion) Pleasantness, delectableness; kindness, genialness, suavity, courteousness; loveliness; gentleness.

Pan fo Môn a'i thirionwch,
O wres fflam, yu eirias fflwch.

When Môn and its pleasantness shall be, from the heat of destructive flame, a scorching ember. Gro. Owain.

Tirogdd, s. m. (tirawg) Continuity.

Tirwibiad, s. m.—pl. tirwibiad (tir—gwiabiad) A landluper; a vagrant.

Tis, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ti—is) A sneeze.

Tisiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (tis) A sneezing.

Tisian, v. a. (tis) To sneeze, to keep sneezing.

Tisiaw, v. a. (tis) To sneeze, to sternutate.

Tisiawg, a. (tis) Having a sneezing.

Tisiawl, a. (tis) Tending to sneeze, sneezing.

Tisiedig, a. (tisied) Sneezed, or sternutated.

Tisiwr, s. m.—pl. tisiwyr (tis—gwr) A sneezer.

Titen, s. f. dim. (tid) That turns, or spins; the name of a small fly like a gnat.

Titaid, s. m.—pl. titaid (tid) A sort of small fly, like a gnat. Titaid are also called gwiabed bach, and tisied.

Titw, s. f. (tid) Puss, a fond name for a cat.

Titr, s. m.—pl. t. an (tid) That makes a whirl, or spin. Titr bach, the name of one of the 24 measures in music.

Tithau, pres. (ti—tau) Thyself; thou also.

Car heddweh, a Daw a'th gar dithau.

Love possess, and God will love thee then. Adagr.

Mi Lywarch; tithau Llywelyn
Myrddyrus codyra.

I am Llywarch; and thou art Llywelyn sovereign of the mighty ones. Ll. P. Mech.

Tlawd, s. m.—pl. tlawdion (tylawd) That is poor or needy, the poor. a. Poor.

Tlodaidd, a. (tlawd) Somewhat poor, or needy.

Tlodedig, a. (tlawd) Being rendered poor.

Tlodedd, s. m. (tlawd) Poverty, poorness.

A ghyweiddi a gant Heledd,
Ferch Cyndrwyn, fflwr ei rhanfodd;
Nid rhoddi da a was tlodedd.

Hast thou heard what Heledd sung, the daughter of Cyndrwyn, of great wealth: it is not the giving of goods that causes poverty. Rag. y Cigwrdd.

Tloden, s. f. dim. (tlawd) A poor female.

Tlodi, s. m. (tlawd) Poverty. v. a. To make poor, to impoverish; to become poor.

Tlodiad, s. m. (tlawd) A making poor, an impoverishment.

Tlodrwydd, s. m. (tlawd) Poverty, neediness.

Tlodus, a. (tlawd) Necessitous, needy.

Tlodusaw, v. a. (tlodus) To render necessitous; to become necessitous.

Tlodusdeb, s. m. (tlodus) Necessitousness.

Tlodusder, s. m. (tlodus) Necessitousness.

Tlodusdra, s. m. (tlodus) Necessitousness.

Tlodussedd, s. m. (tlodus) Necessitousness.

VOL. II.

Tlodusrwydd, s. m. (tlodus) Necessitousness.

Tlodyn, s. m. dim. (tlawd) A poor fellow.

Tlôs, a. (f. of tlws) Pretty, or handsome.

Digio, ddi aar Degau dlo,
Ydyw bechawd, heb uchos.

To be offended, thou with golden front like beautiful Tegau, in a sin, and without cause. S. Tudgr.

Tlôsen, s. f. dim. (tlôs) A pretty little female.

Tlôsgain, a. (tlôs—gain) Pretty and splendid.

Bun dlosgain, a maid pretty and fine.

Tlws, s. m.—pl. tlysau (ty—llws) Any thing pretty; a jewel. a. Pretty, beautiful.

Goren un tlys gwraig dda.

The best jewel of any is a good wife. Adagr.

— Ceirfais dy fin,
Tlysau dy frawd Taliecin.

The words of thy lips, are the beauties of thy brother Taliecin. H. ab How Bardd Coch.

Tlysaidd, a. (tlws) Somewhat pretty.

Tlysaïr, s. m.—pl. tlysaïrian (tlws—gair) A fine word; a bon mot.

Tlysaug, a. (tlws) Abounding with jewels.

Tlysaui, a. (tlws) Of a pretty appearance.

Tlysedd, s. m. (tlws) Prettiness, handsomeness.

Tlysgist, s. f.—pl. t. ian (tlws—cist) A cabinet for jewels.

Tlysal, s. m. (tlws) Prettiness, handsomeness.

Tlysiad, s. m. (tlws) A rendering pretty.

Tlysiant, s. m. (tlws) A rendering pretty.

Tlysiol, s. m. (tlws) Prettiness, handsomeness.

Tlysarwydd, s. m. (tlws) Prettiness, handsomeness.

Tlysen, v. a. (tlws) To render pretty.

Tlysyn, s. m. dim. (tlws) A pretty thing.

TO, s. m. r.—pl. t. an. That is out or over; an exterior; a surface; a covering; a layer; a generation; the covering of a house, a roof. Tan do, under cover: pedol a'i tho o heolion, a horse shoe with its set of nails: Am y to a elo to arall a ddaw, for the generation that passes away another generation will come; y to a ddol, the generation to come: To dr do, stratum super stratum: To gwellt, a thatch roof; to ceryg, a slate roof: Adar y to, sparrows.

Ni wyddant —
Pwy a enillio dr do y rydd.

They know not who would get the advantage of the race that is. Meliyr.

Nid dim gan y to yna,
Trwy lid oed trollo da.

This generation thinks of nothing, altogether in a rage, but of wasting property. T. Alrd.

Töad, s. m. (to) A covering, or spreading over; a roofing.

Töadwy, a. (töad) Capable of being covered.

Töawg, a. (to) Having a covering; being roofed.

Töawl, a. (to) Belonging to a covering; or roof.

Tob, s. m. (to—ob) A summit, or a top.

Tobren, s. m.—pl. t. i (to—pren) A thatcher's dibber or stick.

Tobyn, s. m. dim. (tob) A summit, or highest point. Dibyn dobyn, impending top, an expression used in childish play.

Toc, s. m. (to—oc) That is upon or over; that is instantaneous, short or abrupt; a hat, a cap, or bonnet.

Toc, adv. (toc, s.) Instantly, forthwith, presently, shortly. Mi af yno toc, I will go there presently; toc a da, presently and in good time.

Tocen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. an (toc) That is cut or docked.

Toci, s. m. (toc) That is cut into a piece; what is cut out; an allowance.

Tociad, s. m. (toc) A cutting off; clipping.
Tociaw, v. a. (toc) To curtail, to clip, to trim, to dock.

Daria'r dinistriwr mawr wna'n grym llaweroedd ar y ffordd, ac a dociodd eu hadenydd bwynt yn dost, fal na bu mo'r gallu ynddynt b'ith mwyaib i ehedeg yn uchel.

The great destroyer has enfeebled the energy of many on the way, and has clipped their wings dreadfully, so that there was no power in them ever after to fly on high. for. Owein.

Tociawg, a. (toc) Having a clipping, or docking; having a ticket, or ticketed.

Tociawl, a. (toc) Clipping, docking; ticketing.

Tociedig, a. (tociad) Being curtailed; clipped.

Tociwr, s. m.—pl. tociwyr (toc—gwr) A clipper, one who clips or docks.

Tocyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. od (toc) A short piece or slip; a ticket. Tyns tocyn, to draw a lot; dewis at byraf docyn ai hiraf docyn, choose whether the shortest lot or the longest lot.

Tocynawl, a. (tocyn) Belonging to a ticket.

Tocyniad, s. m. (tocyn) A ticketing.

Tocynu, v. a. (tocyn) To ticket, to draw lots.

Tochawl, a. (tawch) Moistening, soaking; hazy.

Tochi, v. a. (tawch) To render moist, to soak; to thicken; to become humid; to become foggy or hazy.

Tochiad, s. m. (tawch) A soaking; a hazing.

Todawl, a. (tawd) Being stretched in contact.

Todi, v. a. (tawd) To stretch over; to constrict.

Todlad, s. m. (tawd) A constriction; a junction.

Todyn, s. m. dim. (tawd) That stretches over.

Toddadwy, a. (tawdd) Capable of being melted.

Toddad, s. m. (tawdd) That is in a melting state; that is of a melting nature; the name of a species of metre, consisting of nineteen syllables. Y doddad felen, common butterwort; y doddad wên, or toddedig, the white rot, or marsh pennywort.

Toddawl, a. (tawdd) Dissolving, or melting.

Toddedig, a. (tawdd) Dissolved, melted. Toddedigion, liquids, in grammar: Y doddedig rudd, the rosacolis; y doddedig wên, ladies bedstrow, a herb used instead of rennet.

Toddedigath, s. m. (toddedig) The act of melting

Toddedigawl, a. (toddedig) Of a tendency to melt

Toddi, v. a. (tawdd) To melt, to dissolve; to become melted.

Ni thawdd dyled er ei baros.

A debt will not dissolve in waiting for it. Adge.

Gormes mawr a dawdd o fflen glewder bach.

Great oppression will melt away before a little courage. Adge.

Toddiad, s. m. (tawdd) A melting, a dissolving.

Toddiannawl, a. (toddiant) Dissolvent.

Toddiannu, v. a. (toddiant) To make a solution.

Toddiant, s. m. (tawdd) A solution, a melting.

Toddion, s. pl. (tawdd) Meltings; dripping.

Toddwr, s. m.—pl. toddwyr (tawdd—gwr) A melter, or one who dissolves; a smelter.

Töed, s. m. (to) A covering; a roofing.

Ystafell Cyddyrian a'm gwân,

Ei gwaelod heb dued, heb dan!

The hall of Cyddyrian wounds me, to see it without covering, without fire! Llywarch Hen.

Töedig, a. (töed) Covered, or roofed.

Toes, s. m. (taw) Dough, or paste of bread.

Toesaldd, a. (toes) Somewhat like dough.

Toesawg, a. (toes) Abounding with dough.

Toesawl, a. (toes) Of a doughy quality.

Toeseg, s. f. (toes) A kneading trough.

Toesi, v. a. (toes) To make dough; to become dough.

Toesiad, s. m. (toes) A making into dough.

Toeslyd, a. (toes) Doughy or like dough.

Toeslydrwydd, s. m. (toeslyd) Doughiness.

Toesyn, s. m. dim. (toes) A lamp of dough.

Tofi, v. a. (tawf) To draw out; to place in a range.

Tofiad, s. m. (tawf) A drawing out in a range.

Tofrwyn, s. pl. aggr. (to—brwyn) Thatch-rubes.

Togi, v. a. (tawg) To elongate, to extend.

Tol, v. a. (to) To cover over, to put a layer over; to cover in, or to roof, to thatch, to slate, or to tile a building.

Tal y cyfreithwyr a dolr a chwyra y cyfreithgar.

The houses of the lawyers are covered with the skins of the pigeons. Adge.

Tol, s. m. (to—ol) that covers or includes; that separates; that is loud.

Tolach, s. m. (tol) A moan. v. a. To moan.

Tolc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tol) An impression or hollow made by a blow; a dent, a dingle.

Ni rodd tol yu yr lad tan.

A dent has not been given in that head of thine.

O. ab Llywelyn Hen.

Tolciad, s. m.—pl. t. an (tolc) A forming a hollow, or lapse; a punching, or driving in; a denting, a creasing, a dinging.

Y tolciadon oydd yn gwasannethu yn lle beudod, ac y pheddi ad yn tegus rhwng llyndod a chywstrannod.

The stops serve instead of bowings: and the shaven make between drawings and chords. Cuddwraeth.

Tolciaw, v. a. (tolc) To make a hollow, or impression by a blow; to dent, to crease, to dinge.

Tolciawg, a. (tolc) Having falls, dents, or creases.

Tolciedig, a. (tolciad) Being impressed, or dented by any force; dinged.

Tolciwr, s. m.—pl. tolcwyr (tolc—gwr) One who makes a mark, or dent, by a blow.

Tolch, s. f.—pl. t. an (tol) A coagulated mass, a clod.

Tolchedig, a. (tolch) Clotted, coagulated.

Tolchen, s. f.—pl. t. i (tolch) A clod, a coagulated mass. Tolchen o wead, a clotted mass of blood.

Tolchenawg, a. (tolchen) Full of clotted masses.

Tolcheniad, s. m. (tolchen) A forming a clod.

Tolchennu, v. a. (tolchen) To form into a clod.

Tolchi, v. a. (tolch) To form a coagulated mass; to clod; to become clotted.

Tolchiad, s. m. (tolch) A clotting, a coagulating.

Tolfaen, s. m.—pl. tolfaini (tol—maen) An even stone.

Tolgorn, s. m.—pl. tolgryn (tol—corn) A trumpet, or a clarion.

Toll, v. a. (tawl) To curtail; to diminish; to put aside, to spare; to take from, to deal out.

Hawdd toll yn helueth o dorth gwr arell.

It is easy to deal amply from another man's loaf. Adge.

Gwr cerddedd dilled heb doll.

A man of unrestrained gifts of gold without sparing.

H. Poet ab Iorwerth.

Merfudd—

Tal am dy wawd cyn toll;

Teyll y prydychen wyt ti.

Merfudd, pay for thy praise before a diminution take place the detention of the poets art thou. Edrydd ab Iorwerth.

Tollad, s. m.—pl. t. an (tawl) A diminishing; a privation; a sparing.

Toliannawl, a. (toliant) Privative, curtailing.

Toliannu, v. a. (toliant) To make a diminution; to cause a privation.

Toliant, s. m. (tawl) A diminution, a privation; a saving, a sparing.

Toliaw, v. a. (tawl) To diminish; to curtail; to take away, to deprive; to save, to spare.

Howe talleu no hawaw.

It is easier to spare than to hire.

*Ni thollau fy lles llyw rhydd;
Ni thollaf a gwall heb gaid.*

The portended chief has not restricted my bliss; I will not restrain what I sing without disguise.

Tolledig, a. (tawl) Diminished, taken away.

Toliwr, s. m.—pl. tollwyr (toll—gwr) A diminisher; one who puts aside, or spares.

Tolo, s. m. (tol) That is overwhelming; heavy; loud; a pound weight.

Cyglys dda drom o tholo.

Hear the wave of sudden din.

Llywarch Hen.

Tolws, s. m. (tol) That makes a roar, a roarer.

Toll, s. f.—pl. t. au (ty—oll) A fraction; custom, or toll.

Toll fawr a was doli fochon.

A great toll will produce a small toll.

Adage.

Yn ddiell Cyddylan aed aethwyd heb fodd!

Maes ym mudi dy rygwyl.

Hyd tra fu ai be doli glwyd.

The halt of Cyddylan art thou not gone devoid of need! thy abode is in the grave, which whilst remaining was no broken shelter.

Llywarch Hen.

Tolladwy, a. (toll) Capable of being tolled.

Tollawg, a. (toll) Having a toll, tolled.

Tolledig, a. (toll) Being exacted as toll.

Tollfa, s. f.—pl. tollfeydd (toll) A place to receive toll; a receipt of custom; a custom house.

Tolli, v. a. (toll) To subtract, or to take a part from; to exact toll, or custom; to toll.

Tolliad, s. m. (toll) A subtracting, a taking a part away; a taking custom, or toll; a tolling.

Tolliant, s. m. (toll) A toll, or custom.

Tollrhydd, s. m. (toll—rhydd) Free of custom; toll-free. Aeth y tir yn doli-rhydd, the land is become free of toll.

Tollwr, s. m.—pl. tollwyr (toll—gwr) One who takes toll, or custom.

Brodyr cywethau, arglwydd, tollwr, a chythraul.

Confederate brethren, a lord, a toll-gatherer, and the devil.

Adage.

Tolldydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (toll) A toll-gatherer.

Tom, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (to—om) A mound, a heap, a tumulus; a heap of dirt; dung.

Tom Elwyddan seir gwylch gwlad:

Mae Maedyn y deunaw;

Dyn fu Gwynn i gwynaw!

The mound of Elwyddan how drenched by rain: Maedyn is under it; a man whom Gwynn is left to mourn!

Llywarch Hen.

Tomawd, s. m. (tom) A monument; a tomb.

Gwas ddyn nad ystyr

Ydd i yn adegwr,

Cyn rhythyr llymwr,

Tomawd fawredd.

Was to the man who will not consider that he may ruefully go, before a short space, to the stone grave with its monument.

D. Dda Hiraidd.

Tomawg, a. (tom) Having a heap; covered with dung; mucky.

Tomdail, s. m. (tom—tail) Dung manure.

Tomen, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (tom) A mound, a tumulus, a hillock; a dunghill.

A gwallt domen a gwallt un cor cywir.

He that collects a dunghill will have one faithful friend.

Adage.

Pob ci a fydd gwn ar ei domen ai hys.

Every dog will be a lord on his own dunghill.

Adage.

Tomfoi, v. a. (tom—moi) To drop dung.

Gwerth porchell o'r nos y gaeir yni ei i donfoi, ceiniawg.

The value of a pig from the night it is brought forth until it goes to drop dung, a penny.

Welsh Lane.

Tom, v. a. (tom) To make a heap; to dung.

Tomliad, s. m. (tom) A forming a heap; a dropping of dung.

Tomlyd, s. m. (tom) Abounding with dung.

Tomlydu, v. a. (tomlyd) To render mucky.

Tomwr, s. m.—pl. tomwyr (tom—gwr) One who heaps; a muck-man.

Tôn, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ty—on) A surface, an outer coating, peel, paring, or skin; also, lay land, or unploughed land; a green. Ten las, glas-don, a greensward.

Dar a dyfws ar y ton:

Gwedi gwaddfws, a briw bron.

Gwas a gar wyd smyrson!

An oak has grown on the green: after blood-spilling, and the wounded breast, was to him that loves the vice of contention!

Robert T. Norman.

Tôn, s. f.—pl. t. au (f. of twn) That breaks out, that is broken; a breaker, a surge, or wave. a. Shattered, broken.

Ni nodu mewn un afon

Y deuth yn arlyu y don.

Not in any river will the wave swim against the wave.

Ed. Dyfidd.

Oedd amlyd twn, twm anker oedd,

Nid oeddylt dilafr:

Twn heil helyth trwy far,

Tôn arall gwallt goch gwyr.

Many-coloured were the waves, broken and of mixed din their course, they were not void of sound: a wave of bring ample in its rage, another dreadful wave red with gore.

Lt. F. Mech.

Bid grafnagwyr lary: bid trwyd law;

Bid ynydd ymddigwr!

Bid twn calon gla ahr.

A lion scratches with her claws; a lion roars: the fool is fond of brawls; the heart is broken oppressed with woe.

Llywarch Hen.

Ton, s. f.—pl. t. au (to—on) A tone, an accent.

Un addom a Theismen,

Eucid-lyw teg, difreg don.

Of the same fate as Theismen, a fair superior soul, of unbroken accent.

D. y Cord.

Tônawg, a. (tôn) Abounding with breaks, abounding with breakers or waves; turbulent, froward, stubborn.

Tônawl, a. (tôn) Breaking like a surge.

Tonc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ty—onc) A tink, a ring. Cri eithaf tonic, thou shalt have extreme joy.

Dyfed.

Tonciad, s. m. (tone) A tinkling, a ringing.

Tonclaw, v. a. (tonc) To tinkle, to ring.

Tönen, s. f. dím. (tôn) A surface, an outer coating, peel, or paring; a cuticle; also, a bog, or quag.

Tonfryd, a. (tôn—bryd) Of a rough disposition.

Tongar, a. (ton) Sonorous, resonating.

Tóni, v. a. (tôn) To form a surface; to become covered with a skin, or cuticle; to pare, to peel.

Toniad, s. m. (ton) A making a tone, or accent.

Tóniad, s. m. (tôn) A forming a surface; a forming a cuticle, a paring, a peeling.

Toniadur, s. m. (toniad) That forms an accent.

Toniar, s. f. (tôn) A plank, a shingle.

Tóniar, s. f.—pl. tonleri (tôn) A breaker, a surge, or wave.

Gwirgud Gwain llyry, lluchar ei derfyg

Ar derfyn ei cawr.

Balch y daw yn llaw lluchfar:

Maddu ei thori, madd ei thoriar.

The cap of Gwain the mild, whose tumult ebbs on the border of his foe, proudly it comes on the wrath-dispensing hand, drunk its currying rotaries, its wave is madd.

Cyddfai.

Tonlardy, s. m.—pl. t. au (toniar—ty) A house or booth made of boards.

Tonlarn, v. a. (tóniar) To lay planks, to board.

Tonlawn, v. a. (ton) To tone, to accent.

Tonogi, v. a. (tônawg) To raise breakers or billows; to rise in billows; to become bolsterous or turbulent.

Tonogiad, s. m. (tônawg) A raising of breakers; a rising in waves, or surges; a becoming turbulent.

Tonogrwydd, s. m. (tônawg) The state of rising in surges; turbulence.

Tonwaed, s. m. (tôn—gwaed) A blood clot.

Tonwen, a. (tôn—gwên) White-skinned.

Tonwryg, a. (tôn—gwryg) Rising in billows; turbulent.

Tonwrygiad, s. m. (tonwryg) A rising in billows; a becoming turbulent.

Tonwrygiaw, v. a. (tonwryg) To raise surges; to rise in surges; to become turbulent.

Tonwyn, a. (tôn—gwyn) White-skinned.

Tonydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ton) An accenter.

Tonyddiaeth, s. (tonydd) A tonation, accentation.

*Tonyddiaeth beareth hylaw,
A gair, mewn llafair a gawn.*

A tonation ample and complete, and a word, in expression we obtain. Meirg Dafydd.

Top, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tob) A top; a stopple.

Topiad, s. m. (top) A topping, a cresting.

Topiaw, v. a. (top) To top, to form a crest.

Topiawg, a. (top) Having a top, or crest.

Topiawl, a. (top) Tending to form a top.

Topiwr, s. m.—pl. topiwr (top—gwr) One who tops

Topyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (top) A top, a bunch, bush of hair; a topple; a stopple.

*Erfyniad i'm rhwyf ydd wyf ei ôd—
A harawd topyn felja fôd.*

I see to my chief for his goods, that renders unnecessary a top, a yellow knob. Gr. ab D. ab Tudgr.

Topyniad, s. m. (topyn) A forming a top.

Topynn, v. a. (topyn) To form a top, or crest.

Tôr, s. m. (ty—or) A break, a rupture; a cut; an interruption, a cessation, a discontinuation.

Tôr calon, a heart breaking.

Tôr, s. f.—pl. t. au (to—or) A swell out, a bulge, a prominence; a belly; the lower part of the belly. Tôr y mynydd, the swell of the mountain; tôr y llaw, the ball of the hand; tôr sarian, the convex or outside of a shield.

Tyld euderig o'i dôr.

The steer grows from his belly.

Adage.

Tôrady, a. (tôr) Capable of being broken.

Toraeth, s. f.—pl. toreithiau (tôr) Produce, profit; fecundity, fruitfulness; abundance, store. Nid oes dim toraeth ohono, there is no good to be had out of him.

Mawr yw toraeth yr allwydd.

Great is the store of the unfortunate.

Adage.

Mawr toraeth allwydd ban fynd.

Great is the store of misfortune when he commands. Adage.

Torammod, s. (tôr—ammod) Breach of covenant.

Torarfoil, s. f. (tôr—arfoil) Breach of faith.

Torawg, a. (tôr) Having a prominence; big-bellied; an epithet applied to a sow, a bitch, and a cat, when big with young.

Torawl, a. (tôr) Tending to spread round; prominent.

Torbwt, s. m.—pl. torbytiald (tôr—pwt) A turbot.

Torcalon, s. m. (tôr—calon) A heart-breaking.

Torcalonus, a. (torcalon) Heart-breaking.

Ystyrieth dorcalonus ydyw ein bod ni bob dydd yn myned ymmeth oddiwrth ein deddyddwch.

It is a heart-breaking consideration that we should be every day going away from our happiness. Ios. Rhys.

Torch, s. f.—pl. tyrch (tôr) A wreath; a coil; a collar; a badge of distinction, worn by the ancient Britons, which it was a point of honour for a warrior to preserve from being lost to the enemy in battle. Tyns am y dorch, to strive for the torques: Mi dynaf y dorch a thi, I will pull the torques with thee.

Braich uch balaenys Henyrch; Brychwaith at braich a'i thyrch.

A handle above the point of the scabbard; of fretwork in brass and its wreathlike. Rhys Iwan, i. f. 101.

Torchawg, a. (torch) Having a wreath, coil, or turn; wreathed, coiled, twisted, turned up; wearing a torques.

Torchawl, a. (toich) Wreathing, twisting, coiling

Torchawr, part. (torch) Wreathing, entwining.

Gwefrawr godrwyawr torchawr am ras.

Amber-bands in ringlets entwining round the temples. Amara.

Torchedig, a. (torch) Wreathed, twisted; coiled

Torchl, v. a. (torch) To wreath, to twist, to twine; to coil, to gather into a chain; to turn up

Torchl dy lewys, turn up thy sleeves.

Torchl gwrodd tywarch a go i'r gwyl, ac i'r wybr, gwna.

Turning up the roots of rods and gravel into the wind, as into the air, by him. L. Marjones.

Torchiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (torch) A wreathing.

Torchwr, s. m.—pl. torchwyr (torch—gwr) A coiler, a wreather, a twister.

Tordain, s. m. (tor—tain) A spread out in a lolling manner. v. a. To loll.

Tordanawi, a. (tordain) Swelling out the belly.

Tordaniad, s. m. (tordain) A lolling on the belly.

Tordann, v. a. (tordain) To spread out the belly.

Tordor, adv. (tor repeated) Belly to belly.

Tordyn, a. (tor—tyn) Tight stomach; full-bellied; high-stomached, proud-stomached.

*Bydd dordyn wrth elynion man,
Fel chwylio tan mewn sord.*

Be high-stomached to petty foes, like blowing the fire amongst dross. Edm. Pry.

Tordyniad, s. m. (tordyn) A stretching the belly.

Tordynn, v. a. (tordyn) To tighten the belly.

Tordd, s. m. (tor) A murmur, a din, a tumult.

Torddawl, a. (tordd) Murmuring, tumultuous.

Torddiad, s. m. (tordd) A murmuring, a rising a din.

Torddn, v. a. (tordd) To murmur, to make a din.

Torddus, a. (tordd) Murmuring, tumultuous.

Tored, s. m. (tor) That expands round. v. a. Vast.

Toredig, a. (tôr) Broken, fractured, cut.

Toredlu, s.—pl. t. oedd (tored—llu) A vast host.

Mynogid iddo fod yr amherwyr wedi llwneis yn agor wrth thoredlu ganib; ac yn y lle ydd oedd Arthur a lloeswr yr ia cin

It was told him that the emperor had encamped near to the place, having a vast host with him; and in the spot where he was Arthur encamped on a river side. Gr. ab Idris.

Toredwynt, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tored—gwylt) A whirlwind.

Twrff toredwynt mawr ach mor difluth.

The din of a mighty whirlwind over a desert sea. Llyod Cer.

Toryst toredwynt ach tog odhau.

They would burst a whirlwind over a fair raven. G. Cybony.

Toreithiad, s. m. (toraeth) A forming a store.

Toreithianawl, a. (toreithiant) Of a productive tendency, tending to store.

Toreithianu, v. a. (toreithiant) To cause abundant; to become abundant.

Toreithiant, s. m. (toraeth) Abundance; store.

Toreithlaw, v. a. (toraeth) To render productive, or abundant, to yield increase; to be productive.

Toreithlawg, a. (toraeth) Having produce, plenty, or abundance; profitable, yielding increase.

Toreithlawl, a. (toraeth) Productive, abundant.

Toreithiedig, a. (toreithiad) Made abundant.

Toreithus, a. (toraeth) Productive, abundant.

Toreithusaw, v. a. (toreithus) To render productive; to become productive.

Toreithusdra, s. m. (toreithus) Productiveness.

Toreithuswydd, s. m. (toreithus) Productiveness.

Torf, s. f.—pl. i. oedd (tor) A crowd, a throng, a multitude; a troop; a host.

*Godurf—
Tostu Madawg, mawr eglur,
Mai pawr torf iau Arthwr.*

The murmur of the tribe of Madawg, a conspicuous bark, the host about the tribe of Arthwr.

Cynderdd.

—Gorddud ei hoelr, Dwad rwyf torf llaw yn aber.

Impetuous to extreme his blue shaft, the bold leader of a host tumultuous as a flood in the mouth of a river.

Cynderdd, i U. Gwynedd.

Torfa, s. f.—pl. torfeydd (torf) An assembled host; also the number of one thousand millions.

Deg degwith yw cant, deg cant yn y fl, deg mil yn y myrdd, deg myrdd yn y mwst, deg mwst yn y llaeth, deg llaeth yn y ffrid, deg ffrid yn y dorf, deg dorf yn y gwyrtia fawr; y rith myrd yw hwarw.

Ten ten times is a hundred, ten hundreds is a thousand, ten thousands is a myriad, ten myrds is a hundred thousand, ten hundred thousands is a million, ten millions is the cumulus, ten cumulus in the aggregate multitude, ten aggregate multitudes is the great protecting host: the greatest number is that.

Torfagl, s. f. (tor—magl) That breaks or dissipates a sty; the eyebright, or wild English clary, also called glacwys, and golendrem.

Torfawg, a. (torf) Having a host; multitudinous.

*Owain—
Dlofa cad cedeira dorfogion.*

Owain dauntless in the battle of mighty ones assembled together.

H. For ab Griffr.

orfad, s. m. (torf) An assembling of a host.

orflawdd, s. m. (tor—blawdd) A spreading tumult, or uproar.

orfloddiad, s. m. (torflawdd) An expanding of a tumult.

*Dym cyfnewyddiad Unwch dywal,
Bling chwerrthlin mawr rhyfel dorfloddiad Urten.*

May the fortune Unwch lead me on, like the sudden agitation of the sea in the war expanding tumult of Urten.

Llywarch Hen.

orfu, v. a. (torf) To collect a host, to assemble in a body.

orfyngwl, a. (tôr—myngwl) Neck breaking.

orfyngliad, s. m. (torfyngwl) A breaking the neck; a casting headlong; a prostration.

orfynglu, v. a. (torfyngwl) To cause a neck-breaking, to break the neck; to cast headlong.

orgeingl, s. f.—pl. i. au (tor—ceingl) A girth.

orgeist, s. f.—pl. i. i (tor—ceist) A hernia.

orgeistawg, a. (torgeist) Having a hernia.

orgeistiad, s. m. (torgeist) A forming a hernia.

orgeistn, v. a. (torgeist) To form a hernia.

rgoch, a. (tor—coch) Red-bellied; an epithet for the red char fish of the Alpine lakes.

rgochiad, s. m.—pl. torgochiad (torgoch) A red-bellied one; a red char fish; also called brithyll melyn.

ri, v. a. (tôr) To break, to make a rupture; to cut; to become broken.

On a ddi goruchwestwith Yny Prydain: Llwg Nefydd Naf Neifion a dda yddi wryw a benw, pau dorei llym lloes.

One of the three superior exploits of the tale of Britain: the ship of Nefydd Naf Neifion, which carried in it male and female when the aggregate of floods broke out.

Triedd.

*Pai gwaethid fy nghyngor i, ni thoitid gyfethidus y llys orddo.
If thou hadst done my advice, thou wouldst not break the laws of the court on his account.*

H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Tôriad, s. m.—pl. i. au (tôr) A breaking, a making a rupture; a cutting; a becoming broken; a cessation, a breaking off, a breaking in, or taming. Tôriad y dydd, the break of day: Nid oes arno dôriad yn y byd, he is not under the least regulation in the world.

Gofyn i ddall a ydyw yn doriad gwawr.

Asking of the blind whether it is break of day.

Adage.

Toriadawl, a. (tôriad) Fractive, fracturing.

Toriadu, v. a. (tôriad) To make a break.

Toriannawl, a. (tôriant) Fractory.

Toriannu, v. a. (tôriant) To make a fraction.

Tôriant, s. m. (tôr) A fraction, a fracture.

Toriator, ger. (tôriad) In breaking.

Toriedydd, s. m.—pl. i. ion (tôriad) A fracturer.

Toritor, sup. (tôri) To be breaking.

Toriaith, s. m. (tôr—llaith) White hellebore.

Tôrlan, s. f.—pl. tôrlenydd (tôr—glân) A broken bank, a bank worn away by water.

Gollir yfed yr alon, ond nid eillir bywia y dôrlan.

The river may be drank, but the bank cannot be eaten.

Adage.

Torlla, s. f.—pl. i. od (tôr—lla) A slattern.

Torllengig, s. m. (tôr—llengig) A hernia.

Torllwyd, a. (tôr—llwyd) Having the prominence or belly of a grey colour. Y dorllwyd, the wild tansy, or silverweed; also called torllwydig, and torllwydog, y diallwyd, gwyn y merched.

Torllwydog, s. f. (torllwyd) The wild tansy.

Torllwyth, s. m.—pl. i. i (tor—llwyth) The burden of the belly; the burden of the womb; an epithet for a litter of pigs, and for other animals that bring forth several at once.

*Hwch a furw, o chysleir,
Dorllwyth o dylwyth i dir;
Yn myrd rhwng Arfon a Môn
Y clawery frethian hirion.*

A sow that will cast, if resorted to, a litter of progeny on the land: yidding between Arfon and Môn she plays about her long arms.

Gr. ab Hys. ab Tudy, i Ysgwrth.

Term, s. f. (tôr) That is stretched or rounded round.

Tormach, s. m. (tôr—mach) A forfeit of bail; contempt of court; hardship.

Tormaen, s. m. (tôr—maen) That breaks the stone; the saxifrage; also called mawr-haf, and llafnwy.

Tormaenawl, a. (tormaen) Lithontriptic.

Tormaenwydd, s. m. (tormaen—gwydd) Sassafras-tree, or stone-dissolver.

Tormennawg, a. (torment) Having a surrounding assemblage.

Amegor dy far, fur tormennawg.

Unavoidable thy wrath, host-surrounding bewitch.

Llygad Gwr.

Tormenniad, s. m. (torment) A pressing or crowding round.

Tormennu, v. a. (torment) To crowd round; to crowd together in conflict.

*Mae ystau oron yn tormennu;
Tormennuodd allwedd yn llyw dirlawg.*

He also is the best of any host surrounded one; our leader empty possessing land, caused riches to surround.

Gwalchmai.

Torment, s. m. (torm) The state of pressing round; a conflicting host; a conflict; torment.

Teyrallwyd teyrnas terfysg torment.

A supreme leader of a kingdom the tumult of conflict.

H. F. Mech.

Tryllw o yegwyd ysgydw'r yn ahermost.
Three-colored his shield that is made to move in conflict.
Cynuddau.

Godw'r a gylwaf am glaw'r leithon hir;
Hidw'r o'r w'r ar Season;
Teulu Madawg, mawr galon,
Mallw'r tormennodd Cynon.

A murmur I hear along the surface of the far-extending leithon;
its truth is confidence to the Saxons: of the tribe of Madawg, a bulwark against foes, like the tumult of the conflicts of Cynon.

Tormiad, s. m. (torm) A gathering round.
Tormiannawg, a. (tormiant) Being surrounded by retinue.

Gwr tormiannawg cyfoethawg.

A magnifcent wealthy man.

Mabinogi.

Tormiannu, v. a. (tormiant) To form a surrounding retinue.

Tormiant, s. m. (torm) A surrounding assemblage

Tormu, v. a. (torm) To assemble round.

Tormwyth, s. m. (tôr—mwyth) Feverfew.

Tormyn, s. m. (torm) A surrounding croud.

Tormynawg, a. (tormyn) Surrounded by retinue.

Tormynogaeth, s. m. (tormynawg) The state of having a surrounding retinue.

Torogen, s. f. dim. (tôrawg) A big-bellied one; a tike.

Torogenawg, a. (torogen) Full of tikes.

Torogiad, s. m. (torogen) A breeding of tikes.

Torogenn, v. a. (torogen) To breed tikes.

Toroges, s. f. (torawg) A big-bellied one.

Torogi, v. a. (torawg) To make a big belly, to swell the belly; to cause a gestation; to become big-bellied; to become big with young.

Yn Ganga y mae llysoed a thricbant troedfod yn eu hyd; ac yno y mae pryfed lloerw i wregodd, a dwy fraich ddwynt, clwre cufydd yn eu hyd; ac o'r rhai hyn y toroca yr eilfant, ac yn y tona'u y soddant, ac yn y mor hwan y magant; ac yn eu cibinau y diclawnu dynion adawu.

In Ganga there are eels having three hundred feet in their lengths; and therein are animals like women, having two arms, six cubits in their lengths; and those grates from the elephant, and in the waves they sink, and in the sea there they rear their young; and in their shells men might move about.

Deio y Byd.

Torogiad, s. m. (torawg) A making a big belly, a swelling the belly; a causing a gestation; a becoming big with young.

Torogwr, s. m.—pl. torogwyr (torawg—gwr) One who swells out the belly.

Torogyn, s. m. dim. (torawg) A big-bellied one.

Toron, s. f.—pl. t. au (tawr) That spreads over; a plot in a garden laid out in beds; a decking out of a table; a mantle, or cloak.

Toronaeth, s. m. (toron) The act of decking out.

Toronaug, a. (toron) Having a mantle.

Torw a gaf: Ffodd hir y gwallt

Toronaug.—

A bull I shall get: surely the covering hair is long.

F. Ffyllen.

Toronaw, a. (toron) Mantling, cloaking.

Toroni, v. a. (toron) To deck out, to cover over, to spread out a table, to spread a feast; to cover with a mantle, to mantle, to cloak.

Glewbydd Gafaeliaw'r a dynal y pair oddir y tan, pan oedd yn —Toronl tai'r yna.

Glewbydd with mighty grasp pulled the children off the fire, when he was feeding three inmates.

Iolo Goch.

Toronlad, s. m. (toron) A spreading over, a decking, or covering; a mantling.

Torp, s. m. (tor) A round mass, a lump.

Torpell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (torp) A small mass or lump; any thick or coagulated matter formed into a mass; a clod; a dumpling.

Torpellawg, a. (torpell) Abounding with masses, or clods; formed into lumps.

Torpelliad, s. m. (torpell) A clotting.

Torpella, v. a. (torpell) To clod, to form a lump.

Torpwith, s. m. (tor—pwth) A short big-bellied person; a squab.

Tors, s. f.—pl. t. au (tawr) A covering.

Telros f'r corff, tors awr corff.

Three lives to the person, the golden shelter of man.

H. Idris.

Torsed, s. f.—pl. t. i (tors) A rag, a covering, also called cadwy.

Torsed gwyddid a'r gwydd.

A rag of equal breadth with the loom.

L. G. G.

Torsi, v. a. (tors) To deck, or cover over.

Torsiad, s. m. (tors) A decking over.

Torstain, a. (tors—tain) Prominent, bulging.

Y tws—

Hirfain a thorstain at thy.

The bow long and slender and bulging out that will not bend.

T. Fy.

Torsyth, a. (tor—syth) Swaggering out the belt stiffly, stiff-stomached.

Torsythald, a. (torsyth) Rather stiff-stomached.

Torsythawg, a. (torsyth) Swaggering.

Torsythawl, a. (torsyth) Apt to swagger.

Torsythiad, s. m. (torsyth) A swaggering, a swelling out the belly.

Torsythni, s. m. (torsyth) A swaggering.

Torsythu, v. a. (torsyth) To stiffen the belly.

Torth, s. f.—pl. t. au (ty—orth) That supports or sustains; a loaf of bread.

Torthawl, a. (torth) Being like a loaf.

Torthi, v. a. (torth) To form into a compact mass, to harden, to settle; to cake. Gwair wedi hysg, hay after it is settled.

Torthiad, s. m. (torth) A forming a loaf.

Torwen, a. (tôr—gwen) White-bellied.

Torwenawyn, s. m. (tôr—gwenawyn) Rae.

Torwyn, a. (tôr—gwyn) White-bellied.

Torympwyd, s. m.—pl. t. ian (tôr—ympryd) A breakfast; also called borefydd, tori cythawg.

Pan oeddwn yn ymdroddwr, Melympwyd a'i chorff ddaid a ddol i mewn, y rhai a baridid i mi fy shwydwr.

When I was dressing myself, Volempwmen, still he was Drunkness, came in, who prepared for me my breakfast.

Marching Crypion.

Torympwydiad, s. m. (torympwyd) A breakfast.

Torympwydiaw, v. a. (torympwyd) To breakfast.

Toryn, s. m.—pl. t. ian (tawr) An outer-covering a mantle, a cloak; a cope, or sacerdotal vesture.

Ni byddaf na theryn dŵyn na chapau gwlo.

I will not be a carrying cloak nor robe cap.

Idr.

Torynawg, a. (toryn) Having a mantle.

Toryniad, s. m. (toryn) A cloaking, a mantling.

Torynu, v. a. (toryn) To cloak, to mantle.

Tos, s. m. (ty—os) A quick jerk; a toss; a snatch.

Tosed, s. m. (tos) A snatch; a rapine.

Tosiad, s. m. (tos) A jerking; a tossing.

Toslaw, v. a. (tos) To jerk; to snatch; to toss.

Toet, a. (to—oet) Severe, harsh; violent; tumult.

Toet fydd ar dŵyn yna gwlle dŵyn.

It is hard on a person when he is put to his choice.

Idr.

tostalar, a. (tostalar) Severely grieving.
tostawl, a. (tost) Of a severe quality.
ostedig, a. (tost) Being made severe or harsh.
ostedd, s. m. (tost) Severity, pungency, harshness; also the stranguary.
ostfwrn, s. pl. aggr. (tost—brwyn) Sea rushes.
ostfwrnen, s. f. dim. (tostfwrn) A sea rush.
ostl, v. a. (tost) To cause violent pain, to rack, to torture; also to feel for, or to be pained.

Nai dalu gal bundell ym tostos yr balars dur!

Like cutting an open headed leech the steady iron pained me!
H. Culhwch.

Tosti a thrasu wrtho a oreg.

To take pity and to commiserate with him was what he did.
Henes No.

stiad, s. m. (tost) A causing severity; a torturing stilym, a. (tost—llym) Poignant, acrimonious.
stymder, s. m. (tostlym) Acrimoniousness.
stymdra, s. m. (tostlym) Acrimoniousness.
stymrwydd, s. m. (tostlym) Acrimoniousness.
stur, s. m. (tost) Misery, severe plight.
sturiad, s. m. (tosturau) A commiseration.
sturiaw, a. (tosturau) Commiserating.
sturiu, v. a. (tostur) To commiserate, to pity.

Nid pŷr hon doesturle!

No idea to commiserate hath she! T. Alod.

sturi, s. m. (tostur) Compassion, pity, mercy.
sturiad, s. m. (tostur) A pitying, a taking pity.
sturiath, s. m.—pl. t. au (tostur) Compassion.

A arth dy dosturiathes Olymala am ein gwaith gae!

Are all thy tender mercies fled away on account of our deceitful art?
D. Richard Glem y Morfa.

sturiannawl, a. (tosturiant) Compassionate.
sturiannu, v. a. (tosturiant) To compassionate.
sturiant, s. m. (tostur) Compassion, pity.
sturiaw, v. a. (tostur) To compassionate, to pity.
sturiawg, a. (tostur) Compassionate.
sturiaw, a. (tostur) Compassionate; piteous.

Pe elwyn Rhod Daw fy nghwynfa tosturiawl, hi o'i daiois i cysyllt i mi hiraen awr, ac a orchymysd hwi ddoed fy llaw ernt.
When the Grace of God heard my pitiful complaint, she out of her goodness extended to me a golden rod, and desired me to lace my hand upon it. Merchawg Crydded.

sturiedig, a. (tosturiad) Commiserated, pitied.
sturioldeb, s. m. (tosturiawl) Compassionateness turiwr, s. m.—pl. tosturiwyr (tostur—gwr) One who takes compassion.

sturus, a. (tostur) Compassionate; piteous.
sturusaw, v. a. (tosturus) To soften to pity; to become compassionate; to render piteous; to become piteous.

sturuswydd, s. m. (tosturus) Compassionateness
tr, s. m.—pl. towyr (to—gwr) One who forms covering, one who roofs; a thatcher, a tiler, slater.

ue, s. m. A noise made in calling cattle.

Tpree led! lo llwng o gynffon, Ffis o redd.

Come my calves! avoid that bare-tailed calf, a signally gift.
Mad. Dwygryd.

s. m. (ty—rha) An extreme, an extremity; excess; a turn; whatever is, thing. It is so prefixed in composition. Paid a gwneuthur
s, do not be over nice.

*Gwelychaf whedig, gweddol pob fu,
 Gwr a gyanell y nat, argwydd pob tra.*

I will adore the Supreme, the sovereign of every region, he that holds the heavens, the Lord of every thing. Talliesin.

*As gyanell gwynn, ac nis wrydd,
 Meid hithid molaidd, meid i bob tra.*

The hero collect, and they do not enjoy it, the distilled mead rightful, the delight of every extremity. Talliesin.

Tra, prep. (ty—rha) Over, above; beyond. Tra mynydd, over the mountain; tra mor, beyond sea; tra dy gefn, beyond thy back.

Tra, adv. (ty—rha) Over; very, excessively;
 whilst, as long as, so long as.

Tra dithell tra dycheill.

Excess of cunning excess of loss. Adage.

Amlaf y mel tra hithir.

Honey is most frequent whilst it is put through a sieve. Adage.

Doeth dyn tra tawo.

A person is wise whilst he keeps silent. Adage.

*O gwyl di ddyn gael dy ôs,
 A chymar tra fych ym;
 Na fydd cybydd, caiffyd call,
 I ddwyn awr i ddyn arall.*

See, oh man! when thou obtainest thy wealth, and enjoy it whilst thou shalt be here; be not a miser, of cunning scheme, to hoard gold for another person. S. Tudgr.

Träannog, s. m. (annog) Extreme excitement.
v. a. To excite beyond measure.

Träannogiad, s. m. (träannog) Extreme excitation Träannos, s. m. (annos) A chasing extremely.

v. a. To drive overmuch.

Träannoiaid, s. m. (träannos) A chasing greatly.
Träarglwyddiaethiad, s. m. (arglwyddiaethiad) A governing tyrannically; a domineering.

Träarglwyddiaethu, v. a. (arglwyddiaethu) To exercise dominion to excess; to domineer.

Traberw, s. m. (berw) An over-boil.

Traberwad, s. m. (traberw) An over-boiling.

Traberwedig, a. (traberw) Over-boiled.

Traberwi, v. a. (traberw) To over-boil.

Trablaudd, s. m. (blaudd) Extreme activity. Trablaudd ffosawd, the extreme velocity of gashing.

Trablaur, s. m. (blaur) Extremely gloomy.

Trabloedd, s. f. (bloedd) A great outcry.

Trabloeddi, v. a. (trabloedd) To make an outcry.

Trabloeddiad, s. m. (trabloedd) A making an outcry.

Trabludd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (bludd) Trouble, toil, pains, business; turmoil, tumult.

*Ni wledd i lly
 Mŷr twys edwys—
 A thrydar methlon,
 A thro cerddorion,
 A thralloedd gwedion Gostymddithig.*

I have not beheld a court so fair and solemn, with the noise of youths, and the turn of minstrel, and the bustle of servants serving the feast. D. ab Ieuan Idd.

Trabluddiad, s. m. (trabludd) A troubling.

Trabluddiaw, v. a. (trabludd) To trouble, to tease.

Trabluddiawg, a. (trabludd) Full of trouble.

Trabluddiawl, a. (trabludd) Troublesome, teasing.

Trabluddiedig, a. (trabludd) Troubled, teased.

Trabluddiwr, s. m.—pl. trabluddiwr (trabludd—gwr) A troubler, a teaser.

Trablwn, a. (blwn) Extremely early.

Trablwydd, adv. (blwydd) Beyond the year.

Trablwyddyn, adv. (trablwydd) Beyond the year.

Trabrys, s. m. (brys) Extreme haste, or hurry.

Trabrysar, a. (trabrys) Extremely hasty.

Trabrysiad, s. m. (trabrys) An over-hastening.

Trabrysiaw, v. a. (trabrys) To over-hasten.

Trabuan, a. (buan) Extremely quick.

Trabychan, a. (bychan) Extremely small.

Trabychaniad, s. m. (trabychan) A making extremely little.

Trabychau, v. a. (trabychan) To make extremely little; to depreciate extremely.

Trabywawg, a. (bywawg) Extremely lively.

Trach, s. m.—pl. t. an (tra) A hill protruded as it were into low ground. Trach Dindyrn, a hill over Tintern Abbey; also a hill near

Denbigh, with a farm house in front of it, called Taldrack.

Trach, adv. (tra) Beyond; beside; at; asidê.

Casawli doeth trach ei gefa, a merch o flaen ei gwyneb.

Præte the wise behind his back, and a woman before her face.

Trin dygwydd trach trach ei llaunwr.

A dreadful fall of slaughter beneath the stroke of his blade.

Trachadw, v. a. (cadw) To keep extremely.

Trachauer, s. f.—pl. t. au (caer) Advanced wall.

A thori trachauer Roma.

And breaking the advanced wall of Rome.

Tallerin.

Trachaled, a. (caled) Extremely hard.

Trachalediad, s. m. (trachaled) A hardening extremely.

Trachaledn, v. a. (trachaled) To harden extremely.

Trachall, a. (call) Extremely cunning.

Trachallder, s. m. (trachall) Extreme cunning.

Trachariad, s. m. (cariad) Extreme love.

Tracharu, v. a. (caru) To love to excess.

Trachas, s. m. (cas) Extreme hatred.

Caraf trachas Lloegr.

I love the extreme enmity of England. H. ab O. Gwynedd.

Trachasâad, s. m. (trachas) A hating extremely.

Trachasân, v. a. (trachas) To hate extremely.

Trachawdd, s. m. (cawdd) Excess of vexation.

Trachefn, adv. (cefn) Behind the back; again.

Trachelfydd, a. (celfydd) Extremely skilful.

Trachgefn, adv. (trach—cefn) Behind the back.

Trachil, s. m. (cil) An extreme recess.

Trachiliad, s. m. (trachil) A receding extremely.

Trachiliaw, v. a. (trachil) To recede extremely.

Trachoddi, v. a. (trachawdd) To vex extremely.

Trachoddiad, s. m. (trachawdd) A vexing extremely.

Trachoddiant, s. m. (trachawdd) Extreme vexation; extreme offence.

Trachraff, a. (craff) Of very keen hold; of extremely keen perception.

Trachraffiad, s. m. (trachraff) A taking a very keen hold; extreme perception.

Trachraffu, v. a. (trachraff) To take very keen hold; to perceive extremely.

Trachrin, a. (crin) Extremely brittle or fragile.

Trachrinaw, v. a. (trachrin) To render extremely brittle; to become extremely brittle.

Trachryn, s. m. (cryn) Extreme shaking.

Trachrynaw, a. (trachryn) Tending to shake extremely.

Trachryniad, s. m. (trachryn) A shaking extremely.

Trachrynu, v. a. (trachryn) To shake extremely.

Trachu, a. (cu) Extremely fond or loving.

Trachudd, s. m. (cudd) Extreme obscurity.

Trachuddiad, s. m. (trachudd) A hiding to excess.

Trachuddiaw, v. a. (trachudd) To hide to excess.

Trachuedd, s. m. (trachu) Over fondness.

Trachul, a. (cul) Extremely narrow.

Trachulaw, v. a. (trachul) To narrow extremely.

Trachulledd, s. m. (trachul) Extreme narrowness.

Trachur, s. m. (cwr) Extreme beat or throb.

Trachuraw, v. a. (trachur) To beat extremely.

Trachwannawg, a. (trachwant) Extremely greedy.

Trachwant, s. m.—pl. t. au (chwant) Immoderate desire: lust; covetousness; ambition.

Tri gwrthgefnnyddion diont: balchder, lld, a thrachwant.

The three contrasts of goodness: pride, wrath, and ambition.

Hawdd tangnefodd rhwng twyll a thrachwant.

It is easy to make peace between deceit and cupidity. Ad-ge.

Trachwant a brad a ddoynt i Ynys Frydau yr hertwr.

Cupidity and treachery came to the island of Britain as golden horns.

Trachwanta, v. a. (trachwant) To lust extremely.

Trachwantaidd, a. (trachwant) Tending to lust.

Trachwantawl, a. (trachwant) Extremely coveting.

Trachwantiad, s. m. (trachwant) A coveting extremely, a lusting extremely.

Trachwantu, v. a. (trachwant) To lust extremely.

Ei olud i gyd, ar gais, a'i deile,

A'i dy, drwy chwanta, a drachwantu.

His wealth altogether, in idea, and his family, and he too through coveting, I coveted extremely.

H. D. ab I. a.

Trachwantus, a. (trachwant) Extremely covetous.

Tlawd pob trachwantus.

Every covetous one is poor.

Idy.

Trachwantusaw, v. a. (trachwantus) To render extremely covetous: to become full of avidity.

Trachwar, a. (chwar) Extremely active or playful.

Trin trachwar, a conflict extremely active.

Trachwennych, v. a. (trachwant) To covet extremely.

Trachwennychiad, s. m. (trachwennych) A coveting extremely.

Trachwennychu, v. a. (trachwennych) To covet extremely.

Trachwiliad, s. m. (chwiliad) A searching and.

Trachwiliaw, v. a. (chwiliaw) To search to excess.

Trachwres, s. m. (trach—gwres) Extreme heat.

Trachwsg, s. m. (cws) Excess of sleep.

Trachwydd, s. m. (cwydd) Extreme fall.

Trachwyddaw, v. a. (trachwydd) To fall greatly.

Trachwyddawl, a. (trachwydd) Tending to fall extremely.

Trachwyddedig, a. (trachwydd) Extremely fair.

Trachwyddiad, s. m. (trachwydd) A falling extremely.

Trachwyl, s. f. (chwyl) An extreme course.

Trachwylaw, v. a. (trachwyl) To make an extreme course or revolution.

Trachwyliad, s. m. (trachwyl) A making an extreme course.

Trachwyp, s. m. (cwyp) An extreme fall.

Trachwypaw, v. a. (trachwyp) To fall greatly.

Trachwypawl, a. (trachwyp) Tending to fall extremely.

Trachwympiad, s. (trachwyp) A falling greatly.

Trachwyn, s. f. (cwyn) Extreme complaint.

Trachwynaw, v. a. (trachwyn) To complain extremely.

Trachwynawl, a. (trachwyn) Extremely complaining.

Trachwyniad, s. m. (trachwyn) A complaining extremely; an over complaining.

Trachwys, s. m. (chwys) Excessive sweat.

Trachwysawl, a. (trachwys) Tending to sweat excessively.

Trachwysiad, s. m. (trachwys) A sweating much.

Trachwysu, v. a. (trachwys) To sweat extremely.

Trachwyth, s. m. (chwyth) An extreme blast.

Trachwythawl, a. (trachwyth) Greatly blowing.

Trachwythiad, s. (trachwyth) A blowing greatly.

Trachwythu, v. a. (trachwyth) To blow much.

Trachyflawn, a. (cyflawn) Over-complete.

Trachyflawnder, s. m. (trachyflawn) Over-completion; the state of being over-full.

Trachyflawedig, s. a. (trachyflawn) Over-completed, proteropluperfect.

Trachyflawedd, s. m. (trachyflawn) Over-completeness.

Trachyflawai, s. a. (trachyflawn) To render over-complete.

Trachyflawiad, s. m. (trachyflawn) A rendering over-complete.

Trachyfoeth, s. m. (cyfoeth) Excess of means.

Wel drif drachyfoeth.

Heaven a seat of extreme enjoyment.

Dr. S. Cent.

Trachyfoethawg, s. a. (trachyfoeth) Having excess of means; extremely rich.

Trachyfoethi, s. a. (trachyfoeth) To endow with excess of means.

Trachyfoethiad, s. m. (trachyfoeth) An endowing with excess of means.

Trachyfoethogi, s. a. (trachyfoethawg) To enrich extremely.

Trachyfoethogiad, s. m. (trachyfoethawg) An enriching extremely.

Trachyfrif, s. m. (cyfrif) An over-reckoning.

Trachyfrifaw, s. a. (trachyfrif) To over-reckon.

Trachyfrifawl, s. a. (trachyfrif) Supernumerary.

Trachyfrifiad, s. m. (trachyfrif) A making an over-reckoning.

Trachyfrwys, s. a. (cyfrwys) Extremely cunning.

Trachyfrwysaw, s. a. (trachyfrwys) To render extremely cunning; to be very cunning.

Trachyfrwysdra, s. m. (trachyfrwys) Extreme cunningness.

Trachyffraw, s. m. (cyffraw) Extreme agitation.

Trachyffroad, s. m. (trachyffraw) A causing extreme agitation.

Trachyffroi, s. a. (trachyffraw) To agitate greatly.

Trachymhwys, s. a. (cymhwys) Extremely connected; very besitting.

Trachymhwysaw, s. a. (trachymhwys) To render extremely connected.

Trachymhwysdra, s. m. (trachymhwys) Extreme connectedness or fitness.

Trachymhwysiad, s. m. (trachymhwys) A rendering extremely connected or fit.

Trachymmen, s. a. (cymmen) Extremely fluent of speech.

Trachymmendawd, s. m. (trachymmen) Extreme fluency of speech.

Trachymmeniad, s. m. (trachymmen) A discoursing extremely eloquent.

Trachymmenn, s. a. (trachymmen) To use extreme fluency of speech.

Trachymysg, s. a. (cymysg) Over-mixed.

Trachymysgawl, s. a. (trachymysg) Tending to mix extremely.

Trachymysgedd, s. m. (trachymysg) The state of being extremely mixed.

Trachymysgiad, s. m. (trachymysg) A mixing extremely.

Frachyndyn, s. a. (cyndyn) Extremely stubborn.

Frachyndynawl, s. a. (trachyndyn) Tending to be extremely obdurate.

Frachyndyniad, s. m. (trachyndyn) A being extremely obstinate.

Frachyndyn, s. a. (trachyndyn) To act extremely stubborn, or obstinately.

Frachynhen, s. f. (cynhen) Extreme contention.

Frachynhenawl, s. a. (trachynhen) Extremely contentious, or quarrelsome.

Frachynheniad, s. m. (trachynhen) A contending or quarrelling extremely.

VOL. II.

Trachynhen, s. a. (trachynhen) To contend extremely; to be very quarrelsome.

Trachynhwrf, s. m. (cyunhwrf) Extreme agitation, bustle, or tumult.

Trachynhyrfawl, s. a. (trachynhwrf) Extremely agitating, very tumultuous.

Trachynhyrfiad, s. m. (trachynhwrf) A causing extreme agitation.

Trachynhyrfu, s. a. (trachynhwrf) To agitate extremely, to ruffle extremely.

Trachynnil, s. a. (cynnil) Extremely exact.

Trachynnullaw, s. a. (trachynnil) To act with extreme exactness; to be extremely sparing.

Trachynnildeb, s. m. (trachynnil) Extreme exactness; extreme sparingness.

Trachynnyg, s. m. (cynnyg) An extreme attempt. s. a. To make an extreme attempt.

Trachynnygiad, s. m. (trachynnyg) A making an extreme attempt.

Trachynnygiaw, s. a. (trachynnyg) To make an extreme attempt.

Trachywed, s. m. (cywed) An extreme uniformity or congeniality. s. Very uniform.

Grachynlon trachlon trachywed eiddem,

Trachydydnt ben o dued.

Pale cherks mangled highly congenial to them, they fell excessively head and foot confused.

Cymddia.

Trachywedd, s. m. (cywedd) Extreme capformality. s. Extremely conformable.

Llew Cemais llym drach trachywedd.

The lion of Cemais of severe sway extremely habitual.

Llygged Gwr.

Trachyweddliad, s. m. (trachywedd) A conforming extremely; a becoming extremely adapted.

Trachyweddu, s. a. (trachywedd) To conform extremely; to be extremely adapted.

Edrywaat trachwaat trachywedd an cnaed.

The trace of ambition persuades extremely our carnal nature.

Gr. ab. Gorgeneu.

Trachywir, s. a. (cywir) Extremely exact or just.

Trachywiraw, s. a. (trachywir) To render extremely exact; to be very exact.

Trachywirdeb, s. m. (trachywir) Extreme exactness; extreme justness.

Trachywiriad, s. m. (trachywir) A rendering extremely exact; a becoming extremely just.

Trachywrain, s. a. (cywrain) Extremely accurate; extremely ingenious.

Trachywraindeb, s. m. (trachywrain) Extreme accuracy; extreme ingenuity.

Trachywrainiad, s. m. (trachywrain) A rendering extremely accurate.

Trachywrainlaw, s. a. (trachywrain) To render extremely accurate.

Trad, s. m. (tra—ad) That runs or spreads out.

Tradu, s. a. (da) Extremely good, very good.

Tradaiouns, s. a. (daionns) Extremely good.

Tradedwydd, s. a. (dedwydd) Extremely happy.

Tradedwyddwch, s. m. (tradedwydd) Extreme happiness.

Tradestl, s. a. (deatl) Extremely smart.

Tradestledd, s. m. (tradestl) Extreme smartness.

Tradestliad, s. m. (tradestl) A trimming extremely.

Tradestlu, s. a. (tradestl) To smarten extremely.

Tradestlus, s. a. (tradestl) Apt to be over-smart.

Tradewr, s. a. (dewr) Over-brave; foolhardy.

Tradowredd, s. m. (tradewr) Foolhardiness.

Tradichell, s. f.—pl. f. ion (dichell) Extreme craft.

Tradichellgar, s. a. (tradichell) Extremely crafty.

4 A

Tradichelliad, s. m. (tradichell) A making use of extreme craft.
Tradichellu, v. a. (tradichell) To use extreme craft.
Tradichlyn, a. (dichlyn) Extremely assiduous.
Tradichlyniad, s. m. (tradichlyn) A using extreme assiduity.
Tradichlynu, v. a. (tradichlyn) To use extreme assiduity; to be extremely assiduous.
Tradiflas, a. (diflas) Extremely insipid.
Tradiflasawd, s. m. (tradiflas) Extreme insipidity.
Tradiflasiad, s. m. (tradiflas) A disgusting extremely; a becoming very insipid.
Tradiflasu, v. a. (tradiflas) To disgust extremely.
Tradifrif, a. (difrif) Extremely serious.
Tradifrifaw, v. a. (tradifrif) To act very seriously; to be extremely serious.
Tradifrifawl, a. (tradifrif) Extremely serious.
Tradifrifiad, s. m. (tradifrif) A using extreme seriousness; a being very serious.
Tradifrifwch, s. m. (tradifrif) Extreme seriousness.
Tradigawn, a. (digawn) Over-sufficient.
Tradigonawl, a. (tradigawn) Over-sufficing.
Tradigonedd, s. m. (tradigawn) Over-sufficiency.
Tradigoni, v. a. (tradigawn) To over-suffice.
Tradigrif, a. (digrif) Extremely diverting.
Tradigrifaw, v. a. (tradigrif) To divert extremely.
Tradigrifwch, s. m. (tradigrif) Extreme pleasantry.
Tradilyn, v. a. (dilyn) To follow to excess.
Tradilyniad, s. m. (tradilyn) A following to excess.
Tradilyn, a. (dilyn) Extremely smart.
Tradillyniad, s. m. (tradilyn) A rendering extremely smart; a becoming very smart.
Tradillynu, v. a. (tradilyn) To render extremely smart; to become very smart.
Tradirgel, a. (dirgel) Extremely secret.
Tradirgeliaid, s. m. (tradirgel) A rendering extremely secret; a becoming very secret.
Tradirgelu, v. a. (tradirgel) To render extremely secret; to become very secret.
Tradiwyd, a. (diwyd) Extremely industrious.
Tradiwydiad, s. m. (tradiwyd) A using extreme industry; a being very industrious.
Tradiwydiaw, v. a. (tradiwyd) To act with extreme industry; to be extremely assiduous.
Tradrwg, a. (drwg) Extremely bad or naughty.
Tradrygioni, s. m. (drygioni) Extreme badness.
Tradrygionus, a. (tradrygioni) Very iniquitous.
Tradwy, s. m. (tra-dwy) The third day to come.
Tradwy, adv. (tra-dwy) Three days hence.
Tradwys, a. (dwys) Very dense; very constant.
Tradwysaw, v. a. (tradwys) To render extremely dense; to become extremely dense.
Tradwysiad, s. m. (tradwys) A rendering extremely dense; a becoming extremely dense.
Tradyfal, a. (dyfal) Extremely persevering.
Tradyfaliad, s. m. (tradyfal) A persevering extremely.
Tradyfalu, v. a. (tradyfal) To persevere greatly.
Tradynawi, a. (dynawl) Superhuman.
Tradynoldeb, s. m. (tradynawl) A superhuman state.
Tradynoli, v. a. (tradynawl) To render superhuman; to become superhuman.
Tradysgedig, a. (dysgedig) Extremely learned.
Tradd, s. m.—pl. t. au (tra—add) Extreme motion. Eidion ac y tradd arno, a beast that has the scouring.
Traddawd, s. m. (dawd) A delivery over.
Traddiad, s. m. (tradd) A moving violently.
Traddodawl, a. (traddawd) Tending to deliver over; surrendering.

Traddodedig, a. (traddawd) Delivered over, surrendered; delivered as a tradition.
Traddodi, v. a. (traddawd) To deliver over; to surrender, to give up; to deliver as a tradition.
Traddodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (traddawl) A delivering over; a surrendering; a tradition.
Traddodiadawl, a. (traddodiad) Traditionary.
Traddodiadu, v. a. (traddodiad) To deliver over; to deliver by tradition.
Traddodiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traddodiad) A traditionist.
Traddodwr, s. m.—pl. traddodwyr (traddawd—gwr) One who delivers over.
Traddodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traddawd) One who delivers over, one who surrenders.
Traddu, v. a. (tradd) To produce violent motion.
Traddyawl, a. (dygawl) Tending to transfer.
Traddygiad, s. m. (dygiad) A transferring.
Traddygyd, v. a. (dygyd) To carry over; to carry, or to lead, from one place to another.
Traed, s. pl. aggr. (tra—ed) That whereby transition is effected; feet. It is used as a plural for Troed, a foot, instead of the regular plural Troedau.

I galon was da traed bass.

For a weak heart nimble feet are good.

Adg.

Trægwaw, a. (egwan) Extremely feeble.
Træiddil, a. (eiddil) Extremely slender.
Træiddilaw, v. a. (træiddil) To make very slender; to become extremely slender.
Træiddiliad, s. m. (træiddil) A making extremely slender; a becoming extremely slender.
Træiddilwch, s. (træiddil) Extreme slenderness.
Trærchyll, a. (erchyll) Extremely horrible.
Trærchylldawd, s. (trærchyll) Extreme horror.
Trærchylliad, s. m. (trærchyll) A rendering extremely horrible; a becoming very horrid.
Trærchyllu, v. a. (trærchyll) To render extremely horrid; to become very horrible.
Træsgud, a. (cagud) Extremely nimble.
Træsgudaw, v. a. (træsgud) To render extremely nimble; to become very nimble.
Træsgudrwydd, s. (træsgud) Over nimbleness.
Traeth, s. m.—pl. treuthydd (tra—eth) An extremity, or outside; that is clear, or open, a tract; the margin, shore, or sandy beach of the sea, or the sand between high and low water marks.

Pwybynas a bwrdd dir yn uplan traeth, o'n blaenaf gwlod o'r tir o'r traeth; a gwawd gored arno os mwy.

Whoever owns land on the margin of a strand, he did up as much in breadth as the land of the strand; and he can wear upon it if he will.

Welsh Law.

Traethad, s. m. (traeth) A spreading out; a forming a tract; a treating; a declaring, or uttering.
Traethadur, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traethad) One that treats or declares.

Pan brofer traethawd traethadurion call. Nid collidig fy nghyfeillion.

When the treatise of those who treat skillfully is tried, no companions will not be losers.

Cymraeg.

Traethadwy, a. (traethad) Utterable, effable.
Traethator, ger. (traethad) In reciting.
Traethawd, s. m.—pl. traethodau (traeth) A discourse, a treatise, a tract.

Rhwych wch wnewd, Rhug deg draethawd a draethator.

The splendid scope of fair ecology, be the gift of course that is discouraged.

Swyddig Drys.

Traethawdl, s. f.—pl. traethodlau (traeth—awdl) A recitative ode; also called traethodyn.
Traethawl, a. (traeth) Tending to open, express.

fraethawr, s. m. (traeth) That utters or expresses.
fraethawyr, s. m. (traeth—awyr) Sand sky, of clouds when they are much broken.
fraethedig, a. (traethad) Being spread out; being uttered, treated, or expressed.
fraetheg, s. f. (traeth) Science of declamation.
fraethell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (traeth) A sandbank.
fraethellfor, s. m. (traethell—mor) A sea that breaks over a sandbank.
fraethelliad, s. m. (traethell) A forming a sandbank.
fraethells, v. a. (traethell) To form a sandbank.
fraethen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (traeth) A sand-drift.
fraethiad, s. m. (traeth) A treating; a diction.
fraethitor, sup. (traeth) To be reciting; to be discoursed of.
fraethodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traethawd) One who makes a treatise.
fraethodyn, s. m. dim. (traethawd) A recitative verse, a sort of free versification.

Fraethodyn, see draethodyn, a waith ar yr m a fynwr o'r pen-goleis, neu y gwybodd hwyf, yn gyflwr awdd.

A recitative or reciting ode, is composed upon any one that may be desired of the five fundamental metres, or the longest metricality, in unrhyme complete. Bardas.

fraethoriseth, s. m. (traethawr) Declamation.
fraethu, v. a. (traeth) To utter, to relate, to rehearse, to discourse; to treat.

Nid rhaid tafod i draethu cerch.

A tongue is not necessary for declaring love. Adage.

Tenebris a draethus y deyrus trwy hoddwch a thanguedd.

Tenebris treated the kingdom through peace and tranquillity. Dr. Gualter o Rydycheim.

fraethwr, s. m.—pl. traethwyr (traeth—gwr) One who utters, or relates, a discourser.
fraethydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traeth) A treater.
raf, s. m. (tra) A strain, a stir, a scour.
rafael, s. f.—pl. trafaelion (tra—mael) Extreme effort; trouble, travail.

*Trafael a cher, gyda doter, gwdd dalled
 Traw gyswrt, traw yn prysod.
 O'r pen crochod.*

Trouble and affliction, with pain, after apprehension, heavily thou didst receive, opposing all thou didst redeem us, from the crucifying tree. Casnodyn.

rafaeliad, s. m. (trafael) A travelling.
rafael, v. a. (trafael) To travail, to toil.
rafaelus, a. (trafael) Harassing, travelling.
rafael, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (traf) A stir, or bustle.
"Trafael ac amryson," Bustle and contention.
rafawd, s. f.—pl. trafodau (traf) A stirring, a turning about; a bustle; an intermeddling; labour, pains, trouble.

Po awyaf y draethw mwyf fydd y gorod.

The more the pains may be the more will be the necessity. Adage.

*O draffodion yr ystyr y tardd y deall;
 O draffodion y deall y tardd y meddwl.*

From the impulses of the sense proceeds the understanding; from the impulses of the understanding proceeds the thought. Gervat Farid Glas.

*Nid dyfod trafod tra allodedd hir,
 Y mor dros dir enw'r sawdd!*

Does there not exist the affliction of a course of tedious banishment, the sea completely over a sinful land! G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

rafel, s. m.—pl. t. au (traf) That stirs, or works; a press; a hatchel.
rafwnc, s. m.—pl. trafynnean (traf—llwnc) A greedy swallow, a guzzle.
rafwng, s. m. (traf—llwng) A guzzle.
rafynawl, a. (trafwnc) A guzzling.
rafyniciad, s. m. (trafwnc) A guzzling.

trafynicu, v. a. (trafwnc) To swallow greedily.

Ni chais i lawr o aros, ond dyna i yn ngwng allawr furw arswyddu, lle gwelwn y brenin eychrynnuwy yn trafynicu eig a gwad dylion, a mli o fan awgusod o bob twll yn ei borth.

I obtained only a short stay, but here I was in sight of a large dreadful altar, where I perceived the terrible king devouring the flesh and blood of men, with a thousand tiny deaths from every corner supplying him. Rita Wyn, B. Cwg.

trafynicwr, s. m. (trafwnc) A greedy swallower.
trafn, s. m.—pl. t. au (traf) That causes a stir, turn, or motion; a stir; a bustle; a course; a turn; an impulse. Carw mawr-drafn, the greatly moving stag; dyfais-drafn, the invention-moving.

Trafu gwaew eurlafu geyrtlyd.

The course of a golden-bladed spear imbued with gore. H. ab O. G. Wynedd.

Lle mae pen brawd Cystennyn Fendigedd, Llafr drafn y dris.

Where is deposited the head of the brother of Constantine the Blessed, the blade of the course of conflict. R. Goch Eryri.

*Cartrefol, trafaf trafrus golenn,
 Trwy feli fy Rhi tra fwyf iwas.*

I will fix my home, I will prepare for the paths of light, by adorning my Lord whilst I exist. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

*Agglutinated trafued trafrus gwynydd,
 A'n try o gwydd yn trafrwydd.
 Eia orir wyd, fad Mair, mawruch gwynydd,
 A'n llawen awder, a'n llawenydd!*

The upholder of the system of the course of the regions of happiness, will turn me from a falling state to my eternity. Our hope art thou, Son of Mary, dispensing bliss, and our joyful teacher, and our former! G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

trafnawl, a. (trafn) Ranging; revolving; changing, mutable.

trafnedig, a. (trafn) Ranged; being made to turn, revolve, or change.

trafnid, s. m.—pl. t. au (trafn) A ranging, a making a turn, a revolving; a changing.

trafnid, s. m. (trafn) A range, a turn; a change; exchange; commerce.

trafnidaeth, s. m. (trafnid) Intercourse, commerce, exchange; business. Pe drafnidaeth sy ganddo? in what line of business is he?

trafnidiad, s. m. (trafnid) A carrying on intercourse, or commerce; a bartering.

trafnidiaw, v. a. (trafnid) To carry on intercourse, or commerce; to exchange, to barter.

O drafydd i ddyn fydd gwaithu ych o'r cyfar a ryglarodd ynddo, ni ddyl ei werthu, na ei drafnidaw, yni ddarbo y cyfar.

If a man should desire to sell an ox out of joint ploughing where he has ploughed, he ought not to sell it, nor to exchange it, until he completes the joint ploughing. Welsh Laws.

trafnidiawg, a. (trafnid) Having intercourse, commerce, or exchange.

trafnidiawl, a. (trafnid) Commercial.

trafnidiwr, s. m.—pl. trafniidiwyr (trafnid—gwr)
 One who has intercourse; a trafficker.

trafnidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trafnid) Trafficker.

trafnig, a. (trafn) Of aptitude to range, or to revolve; mutable, declinable.

Tri o urwas nid trafng.

Three of names not declinable.

Llewdden.

trafnoldeb, s. m. (trafnawl) A state of ranging or revolving; mutableness.

trafnu, v. a. (trafn) To range; to revolve; to mutate.

trafnus, a. (trafn) Ranging; revolving.

trafnusaw, v. a. (trafnus) To render ranging, or revolving; to become mutable.

trafnusdeb, s. m. (trafnus) A state of ranging,
 or revolving; mutableness.

trafnusder, s. m. (trafnus) Mutableness.

trafnusdra, s. m. (trafnus) Mutability.

trafnuswydd, s. m. (trafnus) A state of rangin
 or revolving; mutableness.

Trafuwr, s. m.—pl. trafawyr (trafa—gwr) A ranger, one who revolves.

Trafodadwy, a. (trafawd) Capable of stirring.

Trafodaeth, s. m. (trafawd) The act of stirring; a bustle; an intermeddling.

Trafodawl, a. (trafawd) Stirring; bustling.

Trafodi, v. a. (trafawd) To stir, to turn about; to bustle; to strive; to intermeddle.

*Bras y gant cawedi gan wawr,
With a' hola'u ei haitawr;
Doeth ni threfyd nyw yndawr.*

A crow did sing her adage with the dawn, to such as questioned her on her outset; the wise who doth not take pains doth not regard himself. Cefng ab Gwynllin.

*Gwyr a aeth Gatrfaeth gan wawr;
Trafolodyn yn badd yn cofawr.*

Men went the Gatrfaeth with the dawn; they would strive in peace with audacity. Aneurin.

Trafodiad, s. m. (trafawd) A stirring, a turning about; a bustling; a striving; an intermeddling.

Trafodiaeth, s. m. (trafawd) The act of stirring; a bustling; an intermeddling; a transaction.

Trafodiaeth y byd hyn, the transaction of this world. Sil.

Trafodus, a. (trafawd) Apt to stir; bustling.

Trafodusaw, v. a. (trafodus) To render bustling or striving; to become bustling.

Trafodussed, s. m. (trafodus) A stirring state.

Trafodusrwydd, s. m. (trafodus) A stirring state, tumultuousness.

Trafodwr, s. m.—pl. trafodwyr (trafawd—gwr) One who stirs; a hustler; a striver; an intermeddler.

Trafodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trafawd) A stirrer; a hustler; an intermeddler.

Trafoliad, s. m. (boliad) A gormandizing.

Trafoliaw, v. a. (boliaw) To gorge the belly.

Trafoliwr, s. m.—pl. trafoliwyr (trafoliaw—gwr) A gorging, a gormandizer.

Trafu, v. (traf) To stir, to agitate; to scour, to purge.

Trafus, a. (traf) Apt to stir, or to agitate.

Trafusaw, v. a. (trafus) To produce a stirring.

Trafusder, s. m. (trafus) A stirring state.

Trafusedd, s. m. (trafus) A commotion.

Trafusrwydd, s. m. (trafus) An agitated state.

Traff, s. m. (tra) A spread; a scatter.

Traffaeth, a. (ffaeth) Over-mellow.

Traffaethiad, s. m. (traffaeth) A rendering over-mellow; a becoming extremely mellow or rich.

Traffaethn, v. a. (traffaeth) To render over-mellow; to become over-mellow.

Traffaith, s. m.—pl. traffeithiau (paith) A plot.

Traffeithus, a. (traffaith) Plotting. Dynion traffeithus, plotting men.

Trafferth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traff—erth) Business, painstaking, toil, trouble; a great to do. Mac arno lawer o drafferth emdani, he is in great taking about her.

Trafferth ych byd echiwydd.

The toil of the ox till the afternoon.

Adage.

Trafferthawg, a. (trafferth) Full of bustle.

Trafferthawl, a. (trafferth) Bustling, toiling.

Trafferthedig, a. (trafferth) Being busied.

Trafferthiad, s. m. (trafferth) A toiling.

Trafferthiant, s. m. (trafferth) Busy toiling.

Trafferthn, v. a. (trafferth) To bustle, to be busy; to be busily employed; to be toiling.

Trafferthus, a. (trafferth) Bustling, full of business; toiling, laborious; troublous.

Trafferthusaw, v. a. (trafferthus) To render toiling; to become toiling or laborious.

Trafferthusdra, s. m. (trafferthus) Laboriousness.

Trafferthusrwydd, s. m. (trafferth) Tinkling.

Trafferthiwr, s. m.—pl. trafferthiwyrs (trafferth—gwr) A hustler, a toiler.

Traffiad, s. m. (traff) A making a stir; a spreading.

Traffu, v. a. (traff) To make a stir; to spread.

Traffull, s. m. (ffull) Extreme bustle, or haste.

Traffalliad, s. m. (traffull) A bustling greatly.

Traffullhaw, v. a. (traffull) To bustle greatly.

Traffun, s. f. (ffun) Extreme panting. a. ffing extreme panting.

Traffunaw, v. a. (traffun) To pant extremely.

Traffusiad, s. m. (traffun) A panting extremely.

Traffwyr, s. m. (ffwyr) Extreme impulse, or gut, an extreme drive; an extreme assault.

Draffwyr ei draffwyr ias draffus idich O'i draffwr rhag Fortun.

Altogether told his most violent assaults on death against panting from his exertion before Fortune.

Cynddebu i O. Cyffilius.

Traffwyrw, v. a. (traffwyr) To impel greatly.

Traffwyrw, s. m. (traffwyr) A greatly driving.

Traffysg, s. m. (ffysg) Extreme hurry or haste.

Traffysgiad, s. m. (traffysg) A hurrying greatly.

Traffysgiaw, v. a. (traffysg) To hurry greatly.

Traffysgiawl, a. (traffysg) Extremely bustling.

Trag, adv. (tra) Beyond; beside; at; aside.

Tragalar, s. m. (galar) Extreme grief.

Tragalarriad, s. m. (tragalar) A grieving greatly.

Tragalaru, v. a. (tragalar) To grieve extremely.

Tragalarus, a. (tragalar) Very grievous.

Tragall, s. m. (gall) Extreme power or might.

Tragallu, v. a. (tragall) To be extremely able.

Tragallusawg, a. (tragallu) Having over-power.

Tragalluedd, s. m. (tragallu) Extreme power.

Tragarw, a. (garw) Extremely rough or harsh.

Tragerwin, a. (tragarw) Extremely harsh.

Tragerwinaw, v. a. (tragerwin) To render extremely harsh; to become extremely rough.

Tragerwindeb, s. (tragerwin) Over harshness.

Traglew, a. (glew) Extremely clever.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness.

Tragolod, s. m. (golod) Extreme wealth.
Tragolodaw, v. a. (tragolod) To render extremely wealthy.
Tragolodawg, a. (tragolod) Very wealthy.
Tragor, s. m. (gor) Superabundance, superfluity.
Tragorawl, a. (tragor) Excessive; transcendental.
Tragori, v. a. (tragor) To render transcendental; to become transcendent.
Tragoriad, s. m. (tragor) A transcending.
Tragoriaeth, s. m. (tragor) Transcendency.
Tragorian, s. m. (tragor) Transcendency.
Tragoroldob, s. m. (tragorawl) Superexcellence.
Tragorolder, s. m. (tragorawl) Superexcellence.
Tragoreiddra, s. m. (tragorawl) Superexcellence.
Tragorledd, s. m. (tragorawl) Superexcellence.
Tragoroll, v. a. (tragorawl) To render superexcellent; to transcend.
Tragorollad, s. m. (tragorawl) A transcending.
Tragorollwydd, s. m. (tragorawl) Superexcellence; pre-eminence.
Tragorthrm, a. (gorthrm) Extremely oppressive.
Tragorthymawl, a. (tragorthrm) Tending to be extremely oppressive.
Tragorthymder, s. m. (tragorthrm) Extreme oppression.
Tragorthymiad, s. m. (tragorthrm) A greatly oppressing, a tyrannising greatly.
Tragorthymu, v. a. (tragorthrm) To oppress extremely.
Tragoruch, a. (goruch) Most supreme.
Tragoruchder, s. m. (tragoruch) Superexcellence, supereminency; extreme altitude.
Tragoruchel, a. (tragoruch) Extremely elevated.
Tragwael, a. (gwael) Extremely frail.
Tragwaelder, s. m. (tragwael) Extreme frailty.
Tragwaelu, v. a. (tragwael) To render extremely frail; to become extremely frail.
Tragwall, s. m. (gwall) Extreme failing.
Tragwallder, s. m. (tragwall) Extreme fallacy.
Tragwalledd, s. m. (tragwall) Extreme fallacy.
Tragwallu, v. a. (tragwall) To fail extremely.
Tragwallus, a. (tragwall) Extremely fallible.
Tragwan, a. (gwân) Extremely weak.
Tragwander, s. m. (tragwan) Extreme weakness.
Tragwanlad, s. m. (tragwan) A weakening extremely.
Tragwân, v. a. (tragwan) To weaken greatly.
Tragwarth, s. m. (gwarth) Extreme disgrace.
Tragwarthiad, s. m. (tragwarth) A disgracing extremely.
Tragwarthu, v. a. (tragwarth) To disgrace extremely.
Tragwarthus, a. (tragwarth) Very disgraceful.
Tragwelw, a. (gwelw) Extremely pale.
Tragwelwad, s. m. (tragwelw) A turning pale.
Tragwelwedd, s. m. (tragwelw) Extreme paleness.
Tragwelwi, v. a. (tragwelw) To turn very pale.
ragwerth, s. m. (gwerth) Over-value.
ragwerthiad, s. m. (tragwerth) An over-valuing; an over-selling.
ragwerthu, v. a. (tragwerth) To over-sell.
ragwiw, a. (gwiw) Most excellent, most worthy.
ragwiwdeb, s. (tragwiw) Extreme worthiness.
ragwr, s. m. (gwr) A superior man.
ragrawwl, a. (tragwr) Extremely masculine.
ragwres, s. m. (gwres) Extreme heat.

Doel cygan arno: sef a wael ei wleddu ystafell castellu barlannu yn ei gylch ar bethau gwaenar rhag y tragwres.

Sleep came upon him: thereupon his chamberlains did spread a shreen with shelds around him on the shafts of spears against the extreme heat.
Briddwyd Nannu Wledig.

Tragwresawg, a. (tragwres) Extremely hot.
Tragwresawl, a. (tragwres) Extremely heating.
Tragwresiad, s. m. (tragwres) A heating greatly.
Tragwresu, v. a. (tragwres) To heat greatly.
Tragwth, s. m. (gwth) An extreme push.
Tragwthiad, s. m. (tragwth) A pushing greatly.
Tragwthlaw, v. a. (tragwth) To push extremely.
Tragwydd, a. (gwydd) Being beyond presence or cognition; eternal.
Tragwyddawg, a. (tragwydd) Eternal, ever.
Tragwyddawl, a. (tragwydd) Being beyond cognition, or knowledge; eternal.
Tragwyddogder, s. m. (tragwyddawg) Eternalness.

Pa hyd, Argwydd! —

A drig dig dy argwyddogder!

How long, Lord! will thy wrath endure to eternity?
H. Middleton.

Tragwyddoldeb, s. m. (tragwydd) Eternity.
Tragwyddoll, v. a. (tragwyddawl) To eternalize.
Tragwyl, a. (gwyl) Extremely bashful.
Tragwylaw, v. a. (tragwyl) To render extremely bashful; to become very bashful.
Tragwylder, s. m. (tragwyl) Extreme bashfulness.
Tragwyn, a. (gwyn) Extremely white.
Tragwyniad, s. m. (tragwyn) A whitening greatly.
Tragwynu, v. a. (tragwyn) To whiten extremely.
Tragwyr, a. (gwyr) Extremely oblique.
Tragwyrw, v. a. (tragwyr) To render extremely oblique; to become extremely oblique.
Tragwyrredd, s. m. (tragwyr) Extreme obliquity.
Tragwyrriad, s. m. (tragwyr) A rendering extremely oblique.
Tragyr, s. m. (gyr) Extreme impulse.
Tragyrawl, a. (tragyr) Extremely impulsive.
Tragyrriad, s. m. (tragyr) A driving extremely.
Tragryu, v. a. (tragyr) To drive extremely.
Tragryydd, a. (cyrydd) Being beyond cognition; eternal, everlasting. adv. Eternally.

Dyrran i'ch wla, wnydd writhdych hawl,

O'ch wlad fad feldriawl, er mawr wnydd,

I'ch wlad, llyw bechod, lle y bydd dragryydd.

Grant a share to thy supplicant, an object having claim on compassion, of thy kingdom commensurate with good, for inconstant praise, in thy banquet, Lord of life, where thou art to dwell.
Cannedy.

Tragryyddaw, v. a. (tragryydd) To eternalize.
Tragryyddawg, a. (tragryydd) Of eternal duration.
Tragryyddawl, a. (tragryydd) Eternal, ever.
Tragryyddogder, s. (tragryyddawg) Eternalness.
Tragryyddoldeb, s. m. (tragryyddawl) Eternity.
Tragryyddolder, s. m. (tragryyddawl) Eternity.

Y dydd cynaf y gwael ei ddydd dragryyddolder, sef y dydd hwyli ysbrydawl.

The first day he made the day of eternity, that is to say spiritual light.
Bloddorins.

Tragryyddoledd, s. m. (tragryyddawl) Eternalness.

Tragryyddoll, v. a. (tragryyddawl) To eternalize; to eternalize; to perpetuate.

Gwerthu a dragryyddoll dir.

To sell and to perpetuate land.

Welsh Laws.

Tragryyddoliad, s. m. (tragryyddawl) Eternalization, a making eternal; a perpetuating.
Tragryyddoliath, s. m. (tragryyddawl) Eternalization.

Nid yd tri dragryyddawl, namyn un dragryyddawl; sef yw llyw i'ch ddiwedd y dragryyddoldeb y tri.

They are not three eternal, but one eternal; that is to say one undivisible is the eternity of the three.
Llyfr Didry Llanddrei Bref.

Tragryyddollrwydd, s. m. (tragryyddawl) Everlastingness, eternalness.

Traba, s. m. (tra—ha) Extreme exultation; haughtiness, arrogance, presumption.

Gnawd wedi traba tranc hir.

After presumption a lasting perdition follows.

Adage.

Gnawd o ben drythyll draba.

From the mouth of the affluent presumption is natural.

Adage.

Tair traba gadarn cenedl y Cymry y gelwir y tair cyfoddwy. The three mighty presumptions of the nation of the Cymry the three universal expeditions were called.

Tricodd.

Gwae a goddwy Daw drwy syberwyd, Traba a'i syrth yn mhoen yn mheli ddelacryd.

Woe to him that offends God through pride, presumption shall cast him down in torment in the extreme gnawing of teeth.

Milyr ab Gwalchmai.

Trahâad, s. m. (traha) A rendering arrogant; a becoming arrogant, a presuming.

Trahâawg, a. (traha) Arrogant, presuming.

Tri trahâawg Yava Prydain; Sawyl Benuchel, Pasgen, mab Urien, a Rhun, mab Einiauw.

The three arrogant ones of the isle of Britain; Sawyl Benuchel, Pasgen son of Urien, and Rhun son of Einion.

Tricodd.

Trahâawl, a. (traha) Presumptuous.

Trahardd, a. (hardd) Extremely handsome.

Traharddiad, s. m. (trahardd) A rendering extremely handsome; a becoming of extremely fine growth.

Traharddu, v. a. (trahardd) To render extremely handsome; to become very comely.

Trahâu, v. a. (traha) To render arrogant, to fill with presumption; to become arrogant.

Trahâus, a. (traha) Arrogant, haughty.

Trahauder, s. m. (trahâus) Haughtiness.

Trahaudra, s. m. (trahâus) Arrogance.

Trahausedd, s. m. (trahâus) Arrogance.

Trahausfalch, a. (trahâus—balch) Arrogantly proud.

Trahawdd, a. (hawdd) Extremely easy.

Trahawl, s. f.—pl. traholion (hawl) An extreme claim.

Trahelaeth, a. (helaeth) Extremely ample.

Trahelaethiad, s. m. (trahelaeth) A rendering extremely ample.

Trahelaethu, v. a. (trahelaeth) To render extremely ample; to become very extended.

Traheini, a. (heini) Extremely brisk or lively.

Trahen, a. (hen) Extremely old or aged.

Trahenn, v. a. (trahen) To grow extremely old.

Trahir, a. (hir) Extremely long; very tedious.

Trahiriad, s. m. (trahir) A lengthening greatly.

Trahiriaw, v. a. (trahir) To lengthen extremely.

Trahoen, s. f. (hoen) Extreme vivacity.

Trahoff, a. (hoff) Most lovely; very engaging.

Trahoffi, v. a. (trahoff) To like extremely.

Trahoffiad, s. m. (trahoff) A liking extremely.

Traholi, v. a. (trahawl) To make an over claim; to question extremely.

Traholiad, s. m. (trahawl) A making an extreme claim; questioning extremely.

Trahoni, v. a. (honi) To assert extremely.

Trahoniad, s. m. (honiad) An asserting greatly.

Trahurt, a. (hurt) Extremely foolish.

Trahurtiad, s. m. (trahurt) A crazing extremely; a becoming extremely foolish.

Trahurtiaw, v. a. (trahurt) To render extremely crazy; to become extremely foolish.

Trahwyl, s. f.—pl. t. ion (hwyl) Extreme course.

Trahwyliad, s. m. (trahwyl) A making an extreme course.

Trahwyliaw, v. a. (trahwyl) To make an extreme course.

Trahy, a. (hy) Extremely bold or daring.

Trahyder, s. m. (hyder) Extreme confidence.

Trahyderiad, s. m. (trahyder) A confiding extremely; an over-confiding.

Trahyderu, v. (trahyder) To confide extremely.

Trahyfryd, a. (hyfryd) Extremely happy.

Trahyfrydawl, a. (trahyfyrd) Greatly pleasing.

Trahyfrydiad, s. m. (trahyfyrd) A rendering extremely happy; a becoming greatly pleased.

Trahyfrydu, v. a. (trahyfyrd) To make extremely happy; to be extremely pleased.

Trahyll, a. (hyll) Extremely frightful.

Trahylliad, s. m. (trahyll) A scaring extremely; a becoming extremely ugly.

Trahyllu, v. a. (trahyll) To scare extremely; to make very ugly.

Trahynaws, a. (hynaws) Extremely goodnatured.

Trahynawsedd, s. m. (trahynaws) Extreme kindness of disposition.

Trahynod, a. (hynod) Extremely remarkable.

Trahynodi, v. a. (trahynod) To render extremely remarkable.

Trahynodiad, s. m. (trahynod) A rendering extremely remarkable.

Trai, s. m. (tra) An extreme state; a decrease, diminishing, or lessening; an ebb, an ebb tide.

Distyll trai, low water mark.

Myl a ferehys, ac a sal, Ac a gerddu yn draw gerddu trai:

Myl y gwr a ddolliu Gai.

I do ride, and do stand, and passively walk on the kind of the ebbing tide: I am the person who would catch Gai.

Ymdd. Arthur a Gwalchmai.

Mai llyn medu ar drai.

Like a mill pond on the ebb.

Adage.

Traidd, s. m. (tra—idd) A passage or pervasion, pierce through; a strait, passage, or narrow sea.

Traig, s. m. (tra—ig) That tends over.

Traigl, s. m.—pl. treiglion (traig) A turn over, a turn, a roll; a revolution; an accident; a walk about, a case, in grammar.

Traigl mewn hyd waned.

The rolling of a stone to the level.

Adage.

Traill, s. m.—pl. treillion (tra—ill) A drawing over; a trail, a drawing out; a turn; a circumstance. Traill o bysged, a draught of fish.

Gwr yw llesu—

Garw ei draill a girad roe.

Lesna is a person of terrible course with a destructive war.

Quintus Met. 1.

Mewn dau both y mae'n debyg I draill y ci a'r dryll cig.

In two things it is similar to the circumstance of the dog and the piece of meat.

See. Ffynon.

Train, s. m.—pl. treinion (tra—in) A run out, a stroll, a stray; a scattering; a reporting of news. Aur ar drai, gold spread abroad.

Gwelad y trychut, trichant celain;

Gwelad wedi cad coludd ar drai.

I saw their mangled state, three hundred bodies; conflict entrails on a spread.

Quintus Met. 1.

Yn dda da ei ryw, yn ddi drai,

A goreu yn Nghymra gywrai.

A property good in its kind, void of being backwinded, is the best in fair Wales.

See. 11. 1. 1.

Nid ai y rha'n ar drai draw,

Amrwd wedd, i'w mwrddwyddau.

These would not go yonder on a stroll, with thee couldst thou brood over mutual scandal.

See. 11. 1. 1.

Trais, s. m.—pl. treisiau (tra—is) A break of bound; rapine; ravishment, violence; oppression.

Pa both byng a gaffer o drai, a thwyll, a chabwr, a ddyled y cynnell haw.

Whosoever is obtained by craft, and deceit, and such is not maintained through justice.

See. 11. 1. 1.

traith, s. m.—pl. treithion (tra—ith) An utterance, or expression; a treatise.

*A channawli gwaith traith, lle trig
Bronfaith mewu coed ar drefnig.*

To commend the performance in an expression, wherever the thrust slides on the twig of a tree in woods. R. Goch Eryri.

trallafur, s. m. (llafur) Excessive labour.

trallanw, s. m. (llanw) An over-filled state.

trallawd, s. m.—pl. trallodion (llawd) Adversity, affliction.

Drwg trallodas, gwaeth hebbydnt.

Bad are afflictions, it is worse without them. Adage.

Trallodion yw syn yr ywgi sydd yn eiddyn i'r nefodod.

Afflictions are the slaves of the ladder that ascends to heaven. Adage.

trallawen, a. (llawen) Extremely merry.

trallawennu, v. a. (trallawen) To render extremely glad; to become extremely merry.

trallawn, a. (llawn) Extremely full.

trallawnder, s. m. (trallawn) Extreme fulness.

tralleddf, a. (lleddf) Being extremely flat.

tralleddfawi, a. (tralleddf) Tending to flatten extremely.

tralleddfiad, s. m. (tralleddf) A flattening extremely; an inclining extremely.

tralleddfu, v. a. (tralleddf) To decline extremely.

trallenwad, s. m. (trallanw) An over-filling.

trallenwi, v. a. (trallanw) To over-fill.

tralles, s. m. (lles) Supreme benefit.

trallesawli, a. (tralles) Extremely beneficial.

trallesiad, s. m. (tralles) A benefiting extremely.

tralleu, v. a. (tralles) To benefit extremely.

trallid, s. m. (llid) Extreme anger.

trallidiad, s. m. (trallid) A greatly irritating.

trallidiaw, v. a. (trallid) To irritate extremely.

trallidiawg, a. (trallid) Extremely angry.

tralli, s. m. (llw) Excess of colour.

tralliawd, s. m. (tralli) An over-colouring.

tralliaww, v. a. (tralli) To over-colour.

trallodawl, a. (trallawd) Afflicting, vexing.

trallodedig, a. (trallawd) Being afflicted.

trallodi, v. a. (trallawd) To afflict, to vex.

trallodiad, s. m. (trallawd) An afflicting.

trallodus, a. (trallawd) Afflicting, vexations.

trallodusaw, v. a. (trallodus) To render afflicted;

to render afflicting; to become afflicting.

trallodusedd, s. m. (trallodus) Afflictedness.

trallodusrwydd, s. m. (trallodus) Afflictedness.

trallodwr, s. m.—pl. trallodwyr (trallawd—gwr)

One who afflicts.

trallon, a. (llon) Extremely pleased within.

trallonidd, a. (trallon) Tending to yield extreme inward pleasure.

trallonder, s. m. (trallon) Extreme inward pleasure

tralloni, v. a. (trallon) To give extreme delight or inward satisfaction; to be extremely pleased.

tralloniad, s. m. (trallon) A yielding extreme inward pleasure.

trallonydd, a. (llonydd) Extremely quiet.

trallonyddiad, s. m. (trallonydd) A quieting extremely;

a becoming very quiet.

trallonyddu, v. a. (trallonydd) To render extremely quiet; to become extremely quiet.

trallonyddwch, s. m. (trallonydd) Extreme quietness.

tralloeg, s. m. (lloeg) An extreme burning.

tralloegach, s. m. (tralloeg) A state of extreme burning; extreme lust.

tralloegi, v. a. (tralloeg) To burn extremely.

tralloegiad, s. m. (tralloeg) A burning extremely.

trallug, s. m. (llug) Extreme dragging.

trallusgaw, v. a. (trallug) To drag extremely.

trallusgawi, a. (trallug) Dragging extremely.

trallusgiad, s. m. (trallug) A pulling or dragging after extremely.

trallwybr, s. m.—pl. trallwybrau (llwybr) An extreme path; extreme hazard.

*Nen non trawd trallawd trallwybr cidas;
Archaf arch i Ddew, a'n dodas nef,
Nas dote Pedy gloau
Ym luddus ym addas er mau!*

May we not be visited by the affliction to walk the extreme path of poverty; I beseech of God, who dispenses heaven to us, that Peter may not lay on locks, to hinder me to my appropriate place for myself! Eim. ab Gwarchmed.

Trallwybraw, v. a. (trallwybr) To make out an extreme path; to go an extreme path.

Trallwybriad, s. m. (trallwybr) A going on an extreme path; a going into extreme hazard.

Trallwydd, s. m. (llwydd) Extreme prosperity.

Trallwyddaw, v. a. (trallwydd) To prosper greatly.

Trallwyddiad, s. m. (trallwydd) A prospering extremely; a being very fortunate.

Trallwyddiannawl, a. (trallwyddiant) Extremely prosperous or fortunate.

Trallwyddiannu, v. a. (trallwyddiant) To cause extreme prosperity; to become very prosperous.

Trallwyddiannus, a. (trallwyddiant) Extremely prosperous or fortunate.

Trallwyddiant, s. m. (trallwydd) Great prosperity

Nid gelyn ond trallwyddiant.

There is no enemy like too much prosperity. Adage.

Trallwyth, s. m.—pl. t. i (llwyth) Extreme load.

Trallwythaw, v. a. (trallwyth) To overload.

Trallwythawg, a. (trallwyth) Overloaded.

Trallwythawl, a. (trallwyth) Tending to overload.

Trallwythedig, a. (trallwyth) Overloaded.

Trallwythiad, s. m. (trallwyth) An overloading.

Trallydan, a. (llydan) Extremely broad.

Trallydander, s. m. (trallydan) Extreme breadth.

Trallydaniad, s. m. (trallydan) A rendering extremely broad; an over-expanding.

Trallydau, v. a. (trallydan) To render extremely broad; to become extremely expanded.

Trallym, a. (llym) Extremely sharp, or acute.

Trallymder, s. m. (trallym) Extreme sharpness.

Trallymiad, s. m. (trallym) A sharpening extremely;

a becoming very sharp or severe.

Trallymu, v. a. (trallym) To sharpen extremely.

Tram, s. m. (tra—am) An extreme range round.

Tramain, a. (main) Extremely fine or slender.

Tramaint, s. m. (maint) Extreme size. a. Immense

Melfod—

A'i baichradd, a'i baichrodd tramaint.

Melvod with its proud degree, and its proud gift immense.

Cynddeta.

Tramantawl, s. f. (mantawl) An over-balance.

Tramantoli, v. a. (tramantawl) To over-balance.

Tramanwl, a. (manwl) Extremely accurate, exact, or nice; very careful.

Tramanyliad, s. m. (tramanwl) A rendering extremely exact; a becoming very careful.

Tramanyli, v. a. (tramanwl) To render extremely accurate; to become very exact.

Tramanylwch, s. m. (tramanwl) Extreme accuracy;

extreme attention.

Tramawl, s. f. (mawl) Extreme praise.

Tramawr, a. (mawr) Extremely large; immense, infinite.

Tramawrïad, s. m. (tramawr) A magnifying extremely.

Tramawran, v. a. (tramawr) To magnify extremely;

to become extremely large.

Tramawredd, s. m. (tramawr) Extreme greatness.
Trambydiaw, v. m. (trañ—pydiaw) To become exposed to great danger.
Tramdaw, s. m. (tram—taw) Extreme silence.

Ni oedw cwyrau—
 Na cheislaw tramdaw yn y trymder!

It is useless to complain, or to seek an excess of silence in the sad event!
Llywelyn Fardd.

Tramdawliad, s. m. (tramdaw) A causing a deep silence; a becoming extremely silent.
Tramelnder, s. m. (tramaia) Extreme fineness, or slenderness.

Trameddal, a. (meddal) Extremely soft.
Trameddaller, s. m. (trameddal) Extreme softness.
Trameddaledd, s. m. (trameddal) Extreme softness.
Trameddaliad, s. m. (trameddal) A softening extremely.

Trameddalu, v. a. (trameddal) To soften greatly.
Tramedddw, a. (meddw) Extremely drunk.
Tramedddwad, s. m. (tramedddw) Over intoxication.
Tramedddwi, v. a. (tramedddw) To intoxicate extremely; to get very drunk.

Tramelys, a. (melys) Extremely sweet.
Tramelysder, s. (tramelys) Extreme sweetness.
Tramelysiad, s. m. (tramelys) A rendering extremely sweet; a becoming very sweet.
Tramelysau, v. a. (tramelys) To sweeten extremely.
Trameth, s. m. (meth) Extreme failure.
Tramethiant, s. m. (trameth) Extreme debility.
Tramgliwydd, s. m. (tram—clwydd) A stumble.
Tramgliwyddaw, v. a. (tramgliwydd) To fall over, to tumble, to stumble.

Ni lwydda ond a dramgliwydda.

No one shall prosper but who shall tumble. Adage.

Tramgliwyddiad, s. m. (tramgliwydd) A tumbling over, a stumbling.
Tramgoll, s. f. (tram—oell) Extreme loss.
Tramgollu, v. a. (tramgoll) To lose extremely.
Tramgwydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tram—cwydd) A downfall, a tumble, a stumble.

Gnawd wedi traha tramgwydd.

After presumption a fall is a natural consequence. Adage.

Tramgwyddaw, v. a. (tramgwydd) To tumble.

Ni lwyddodd ond a dramgwyddodd.

No one has prospered but who has fallen. Adage.

Tramgwyddawl, a. (tramgwydd) Stumbling.
Tramgwyddedig, a. (tramgwydd) Stumbled.
Tramgwyddfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tramgwydd) A stumbling-block.

Tramgwyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tramgwydd) A stumbling, a falling, or tumbling down.
Tramgwyddwr, s. m.—pl. tramgwyddwyr (tramgwydd—gwr) A tumbler, one who falls.
Tramhwyl, s. f.—pl. t. iau (tram—hwyl) An extreme course.

Mal rhod yn troi tramhwylas,
 Traillawd malth trachymhell trethau.

Like the universe revolving immense courses, a tedious affliction to the severely compelling of taxes. Taliesin.

Tramhwylad, s. m.—pl. t. an (tramhwyl) A taking an extreme course.

Tramhwyliaid, v. a. (tramhwyl) To make an extreme course.

Tramodd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (modd) Extreme means or ability.

Tramoddawl, a. (tramodd) Beyond possibility.
Tramoddiad, s. m. (tramodd) A rendering beyond means; a rendering impossible.

Tramoddiaw, v. (tramodd) To render impossible.
Tramoed, adv. (tra—ym—ood) Beyond my time.
Tramolawd, s. f. (tramawl) Extreme praise.
Tramoli, v. a. (tramawl) To praise extremely.
Tramoliantu, v. a. (tramoliant) To praise extremely; to flatter.

Tramoliantu, a. (tramoliant) Extremely commendable.

Tramoliant, s. m. (tramawl) Extreme praise.
Tramor, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mor) A place beyond sea. a. Transmarine; foreign.

Nid mor heb dramor.

There is no sea without a transmarine region. Adage.

Y mynyddoedd ac y fforestydd a gyanallt y breich yn ddiŵch kido ei hua; merys y gallu dderbyn alltadau tramor yn eiddo, ac i aw roddol yn aglyfarwys; ac i aw haddodol yn gaddol: frachlydd.

The mountains and the forests the king preserved to view to himself; so that he might receive transmarine cities to brew his men; and to give it as a probability; and to appropriate to themselves a land to themselves. Wald Llan.

Tramorawl, a. (tramor) Transmarine.
Tramoredig, a. (tramor) Being made transmarine.
Tramoredigion, transmarine things.

Tramori, v. a. (tramor) To render transmarine; to pass beyond sea; to become transmarine.

Tramp, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tram) A ramble. Myd ar y tramp, to set out on the ramble.

Trapiad, s. m. (tramp) A rambling.

Trapiaw, v. a. (tramp) To ramble, to tramp.

Trapiawl, a. (tramp) Rambling, tramping.

Trapiwr, s. m.—pl. trampwyr (tramp—gwr)

A Rambler, a trampler.

Tramwy, s. m. (tram) A transit; a going about.

Tramwy, v. a. (tram) To go about; to go often;

to frequent, to resort; to pass over, to traverse.

A rhywleidda a gant y frosfrith:

Pan dramwydd dros ddiŵch

Na dd eyn dy gydymath.

Didst thou hear what the thrush did sing! When then dost to over the wilderness, the not an enemy thy company? Eng. J. Cynd.

Tramwyad, s. m. (tramwy) A traversing.

Tramwyadwy, a. (tramwyad) Traversable.

Tramwyaeth, s. m. (tramwy) The act of going about, or traversing.

Tramwyaw, v. a. (tramwy) To traverse.

Tramwyawl, a. (tramwy) Traversing.

Tramwyedig, a. (tramwyad) Traversing; transitory; traversed.

Hardd gwelid y planedau,

A'u llybr yn y gylchwyb gae:

Tremiadu tramwyedig,

A chyl yn deall eu dig.

It is magnificent to behold the planets, with their curve in the empty surrounding ether: of transitory aspects, when (over) the cunning doth understand. Gae. Owen.

Tramwyedigaeth, s. m. (tramwyedig) The act of going about or traversing.

Tramwyfa, s. f.—pl. tramwyfeydd (tramwy) A traversed place.

Tramwyn, a. (mwyn) Extremely genial or kind.

Tramwywr, s. m.—pl. tramwywyr (tramwy—gwr)

A traverser; a traveller.

Tramwydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tramwy) A traverser.

Tramynych, a. (mynych) Extremely frequent.

Tramynychiad, s. m. (tramynych) A frequenting extremely; a becoming very frequent.

Tramynychu, v. a. (tramynych) To frequent extremely; to become very frequent.

Tramynydd, s. m. (mynydd) That is over a mountain. a. Beyond the mountain; transmountain.

Tramynyddawl, a. (tramynydd) Transmountain.

Tran, s. m.—pl. f. an (tra—an) A space, a stretch; a district, or region.

*Gwr heb werth ni wyr chwerrthio,
Tran fain ond bod tro'n i fân.*

A man without property he knows not how to laugh, with a slender stretch only there is a twist in his mouth. How Down.

Tranawf, s. m. (nawf) An over-swim.

Tranawl, a. (tran) Belonging to a region.

Tranc, s. m. (tra—anc) A cessation; exhaustion; end; decease; departure; dissolution, death.

*Rhag draig Môn—drys dyffwr!
A rhawio, a thrio, a thomio cymant!
Ar god gad gwyddio,
Ar trod gryn gwyddio,
Ac am Dai Moelfre
Mili fawer!*

Against the dragon of Môn perpetual confusion, ruin, toil, and an end of pre-eminence ran before him; he came upon conflict provided with gores; he came upon carnage of hard forms; and round the front of Moelfre a thousand banners waving.

Od i'r drin, byd awr dranc, Dwy ddaw y gall dawl ddaw.

Shall he go to the conflict, until the hour of departure, though God the brave may escape. Edys Cain.

Trancadwy, a. (tranc) Perishable; exhaustible.

Trancawl, a. (tranc) Perishing, vanishing.

Tranced, s. f.—pl. f. i (tranc) An earthen vessel or cup, such a cup with a handle as is in common use.

Trancedig, a. (tranc) Perishing, evanescent.

Trancedigaeth, s. m. (trancedig) A state of perishing or vanishing.

Trancedigrwydd, s. m. (trancedig) Perishableness.

Trancedu, v. a. (tranced) To lade with a cup.

Trancell, s. f. (tranc) A quantity of liquor drunk at once, a draught.

Tranciad, s. m.—pl. f. an (tranc) An exhausting; a coming to an end; dissolution.

Tranc, v. a. (tranc) To exhaust; to bring to an end; to perish, to pass away, to die.

Tranerth, s. m. (nerth) Extreme strength.

Tranerthawl, a. (tranerth) Extremely potent.

Tranerthu, v. a. (tranerth) To strengthen extremely.

Traniad, s. m. (tran) A stretching; a laying out a space.

Tranial, s. m. (tra—ial) A clear space; a field of battle.

*Prydym per proff drydar dracel!
Pryddalon gadair gadr ynal.*

Britain the cause of the ample tumult of the hostile field; the throne of poets of mighty energy. Cyddfelen, i H. ab Uwein.

*Bart ar farf, ac yf yn gwaed,
Tal trachel tranel tranel.*

Beard on beard, and weapon embraced with blood, front over front, a field of battle most dreadful. Cyddfelen.

Tranoeth, s. m. (noeth) That is extremely naked; that is over or beyond the night; the next morning. adv. On the next morning, on the morrow.

Ni elwir daw byd tranoeth.

Coming will not be so called till the morrow. Adage.

Dwng trenydd wrth dranoeth.

Bed is the third day to the morrow. Adage.

Tranoethi, v. a. (tranoeth) To make very bare.

Tranofiad, s. m. (tranawf) Transnation.

Tranofaw, v. a. (tranawf) To over-swim.

Tranofawl, a. (tranawf) Over-swimming.

Tranos, s. m. (nos) A time beyond the night; a future night. adv. After the night.

VOL. II.

Trano, v. a. (tran) To stretch; to lay out a space.

Tranwyd, s. m.—pl. f. au (nwyd) Extreme passion.

Tranwydaw, v. a. (tranwyd) To render extremely passionate; to become extremely passionate.

Tranwydawl, a. (tranwyd) Extremely passionate.

Tranwyf, s. m.—pl. f. au (nwyf) Extreme liveliness or vivacity.

Tranwyfaw, v. a. (tranwyf) To enliven extremely; to become very lively.

Tranwyfawl, a. (tranwyf) Extremely animating or exhilarating.

Tranwyfus, a. (tranwyf) Extremely brisk.

Tranydd, s. m. (dydd) A time beyond the day; a future day. adv. After the day.

Trang, s. m.—pl. f. au (trauc) A cessation; exhaustion; end, decease, death. a. Ceasing, vanishing. Ar drang, at the point of death.

*Dar a dyfoga yn ngyrraue,
A therrf, a therrf, a therrfau:
Gwae a wyl na bo golau!*

An oak has grown in the downs, abounding with tumult, and confusion, and death: woe to him that sees that it is not light! Robert Turguwyg Harmond.

*Cyddfelen—
Si fydd ar drang ghoes angau
Dros dyn, i lufydd drisau.*

We believe his going on the departure of the pang of death, for me, humbly to sorrow. How Down.

*Lleuwa myrnedd llawra dyfrydd;
Am ddwyfys os traw!
Trangol traw traw!*

Princes have given room for a multitude of woes; for the haunting of their departure: most destructive, most miserable of misery. Cyddfelen, i H. ab Uwein.

Trangawl, a. (trang) Perishing, vanishing.

Trangedig, a. (trang) Being perished.

Trangiad, s. m. (trang) A perishing; dissolution.

Trangu, v. a. (trang) To perish, to pass away.

Traoed, s. m. (oed) Extreme delay.

Traoedi, v. a. (traoed) To delay extremely.

Traoediad, s. m. (traoed) A delaying extremely.

Traoer, a. (oer) Extremely cold or chill.

Traoeri, v. a. (traoer) To cool extremely; to become extremely cold.

Traoeriad, s. m. (traoer) A cooling extremely.

Traoes, s. f. (oes) Extreme age. a. Over-age.

Traoesawl, a. (traoes) Superannuated.

Traoesi, v. a. (traoes) To become of extreme age; to be superannuated.

Traoesiad, s. m. (traoes) Superannuation.

Traosfa, s. m. (osfa) Extreme fear or dread.

Traosfawg, a. (traosfa) Extremely timid.

Traosfal, v. a. (traosfa) To fear extremely.

Traosfiad, s. m. (traosfa) A fearing extremely; a frightening extremely.

Traphlith, adv. (tra—plith) In a most confused state.

Traphont, s. f.—pl. traphynt (tra—pont) The other side of a bridge. adv. On the other side of the bridge.

Wid pont heb draphont.

There is no bridge without a place beyond bridge. Adage.

Traphwyll, s. m. (tra—pwyll) Extreme impulse.

Traphwys, a. m. (tra—pwy) Extreme pressure.

Trarif, s. m. (rhif) An over number.

Trarifaw, v. a. (tarif) To over-reckon.

Trarifawl, a. (tarif) Supernumerary.

Tras, s. f.—pl. f. au (tra—as) Kindred, relationship, affinity. According to the ancient laws, a person who could prove his descent through nine degrees was a free native. Proof of collateral relationship was also required in the ninth degree, for that determined the family of a person; and this was necessary, as the whole family was liable to be fined for the crimes of its members, rated according to proximity of kindred.

Descending kindred.

- 1 Tad, mam, father, mother.
- 2 Mab, merch, son, daughter.
- 3 Wyr, wyres, grandson, grand-daughter.
- 4 Gorwyr, gorwyres, son, daughter, in the 3d degree.
- 5 Hengaw, hengawes, son, daughter, in the 6th degree.
- 6 Gorhengaw, gorhengawes, son, daughter, in the 7th degree.

Ascending kindred.

- 1 Tad, mam, father, mother.
- 2 Tad cu, mam gw, grandfather, grandmother, or hendad, henfam.
- 3 Gorhendad, gorhenfam, a father, mother, in the 4th degree.
- 4 Taid, nain, a father, mother, in the 5th deg.
- 5 Hendaid, hennain, a father, mother, in the 6th degree.
- 6 Gorhendaid, gorhennain, a father, mother, in the 7th degree.

Collateral kindred descending.

- 1 Brawd, chwaer, brother, sister.
- 2 Cefnderw, cyfnitherw, male cousin, female cousin.
- 5 Cyfyrdw, second cousin.
- 4 Ceifn, third cousin.
- 5 Gorcheifn, fourth cousin.
- 6 Ysgiwion neu plant cyfyrdw, third cousins.
- 7 Gwrthysgiurion, neu plant plant cyfyrdw, fourth consins.
- 8 Caw, caues, son, daughter, in the 4th degree.
- 9 Gorchaw, gorchawes, son, daughter, in the 5th degree.
- 10 Gerni, seventh consin.
- 11 Gwrtherni, eighth cousin.

Or thus:

- | | |
|------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1 Cefnderw | 6 Gwystyn, nen gorchudd |
| 2 Cyfyrdw | 7 Gorchwystyn neu gorchwant |
| 3 Plant cyfyrdw | 8 Car trig, neu goreiddyn |
| 4 Ceifn | 9 Car clud . |
| 5 Gorcheifn | |

Collateral Kindred.

- 1 Ewyrth, modryb, uncle, aunt.
- 2 Nai, nith, nephew, niece.
- 3 Cyfnai, cyfnith, nephew, niece, in the 2d deg.
- 4 Gorchyfnai, gorchyfnith, nephew, niece, in the 3d degree.
- 5 Clud, collateral relative in the 4th degree.
- 6 Car clud, car a chlod, a collateral relative in the 5th degree.
- 7 Gwrth clud, a collateral relative in the 6th degree.
- 8 Car o waed, a collateral relative in the 7th degree.

Trasaid, s. a. (tras) In some degree related.

Trasail, s. f.—pl. trasailiau (sail) Extreme base.

Trasain, s. f. (sain) An extreme sound.

Trasalw, a. (salw) Extremely frail or poor.

Trasalwder, s. m. (trasalw) Extreme frailty.

A Daw a'm troswy o'm trasalwder iaw,
I lawis oethlialw a wybythir!

And may God bring me out of my extreme wretchedness to us, rightly to hope for what is known. Llywelyn Fardd.

Trasawdd, s. m. (sawdd) Extreme sinking.

Trasawg, a. (tras) Having kindred.

Trasawl, a. (tras) Belonging to kindred.

Tros wledydd trasawl ydyd.

Over countries thou art connected by kindred. Iolo Goch.

Trasedig, a. (tras) Connected by kindred.

Trasedd, s. m. (tras) A kindred state.

Trasefyll, v. a. (sefyll) To over-stand; to persist; to be permanent.

Traseiddiad, s. m. (trasaid) A rendering partly related; to be connected by kindred.

Traseiddlaw, v. a. (trasaid) To form a slight relationship; to become slightly related.

Traseiddrwydd, s. m. (trasaid) Slight relationship; common kindred.

Cymerwa angrafft oddiwrt Prifw, breinis Tros, yr enw a'r blodeuaw newu trasaidrwydd, a chyfoeth, enghydod a gwl.

Let us take an example from Prym, king of Tre, he who has been flourishing in extensive kindred and dominion, known as power. Merchuryn Crypsol.

Traseifiad, s. m.—pl. traseifiad (seifiad) That stands extremely firm.

Y Ty yn y Penryn—
Traseifiad trefed lle trig
Treth ball ar llo Tracth Heig.

The house in the peninsula, an extreme permanent society where it is, serving out a revenue on the bank of the sea of Heig. Elly Goch Lyr.

Traseiliad, s. m. (trasail) A forming an extreme base or foundation.

Traseiliaw, v. a. (trasail) To lay an extreme base.

Traseiniad, s. m. (trasain) A sounding greatly.

Traseiniaw, v. a. (trasain) To sound extremely.

Traseiniawl, a. (trasain) Very sonorous.

Trasen, s. f. (sen) An extreme reproach.

Trasênawl, a. (trasen) Very reproachful.

Trasênriad, s. (trasen) A reproaching extremely.

Trasênw, v. a. (trasen) To reproach extremely.

Traserch, s. m. (serch) Excess of fondness, a dotage, dotage.

Nid breinlaeth ond serch;
Nid ysfyrdwydd ond traserch.

There is no empire like that of love, there is no fondness—dotage. Idyl.

Morganwg—
Lle trosen ran o'm traserch:
Lle dewr mab, lle diwair merch.

Morganwg, to where a portion of my fondness is directed: where the son is bold, where the daughter is chaste. D. ad Gwyn.

Traserchawg, a. (traserch) Extremely loving.

Traserchawl, a. (traserch) Apt to dote.

Traserchiad, s. m. (traserch) A doting, a fondling.

Traserchu, v. a. (traserch) To love extremely.

Traserchus, a. (traserch) Apt to dote.

Traserth, a. (serth) Extremely precipitous; very steep.

Traserthiad, s. m. (traserth) A rendering extremely precipitous; a becoming very steep.

Traserthu, v. a. (traserth) To render extremely precipitous; to become very steep.

Trasg, s. m. (tra—asg) That is laid together.

Trasgl, s. m.—pl. au (trasg) A rake.

Trasiad, s. m. (tras) A forming a kindred; a becoming connected by kindred.

Trasoddawl, a. (trasawdd) Tending to sink greatly.

rasoddi, v. a. (trasawdd) To sink extremely.
 rasoddiad, s. m. (trasawdd) A sinking greatly.
 rasom, s. m. (nom) Extreme deception.
 rasomawl, a. (trasom) Extremely deceiving.
 rasomgar, a. (trasom) Extremely deceiving.
 rasomi, v. a. (trasom) To deceive extremely; to disappoint extremely.
 rasomiad, s. m. (trasom) A deceiving greatly; a disappointing extremely.
 rasom, s. m. (son) Excess of noise or talk.
 rasoniad, s. m. (trason) A talking extremely.
 rasoniaw, v. a. (trason) To talk extremely.
 rasoniawl, a. (trason) Extremely noisy.
 rasu, v. a. (tras) To connect by kindred; to become connected by kindred.
 rasur, a. (sar) Extremely sour or acid.
 rasuraw, v. a. (trasur) To sour extremely.
 rasuriad, s. m. (trasar) A souring extremely.
 raswydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (swydd) An over office or employment.
 raswyddawg, a. (traswydd) Having an over-office. s. m. One who fills an over-office.
 raswyddgar, a. (traswydd) Over-officious.
 raswyddgarwch, s. m. (traswyddgar) Over-officiousness.
 rasych, a. (sych) Extremely dry or parched.
 rasychiad, s. m. (trasych) A drying extremely.
 rasychu, v. a. (trasych) To dry extremely.
 rasyllw, s. m. (sylv) Extreme notice or regard.
 rasyllwad, s. m. (trasylv) A regarding much.
 rasyllwi, v. a. (trasylv) To notice extremely.
 rasyrn, a. (syn) Extremely concerned.
 rasyndawd, s. m. (trasyn) Extreme concern.
 rasyniad, s. m. (trasyn) Much consideration.
 rasyriaw, v. a. (trasyn) To feel extremely; to consider extremely.
 rasyriawl, a. (trasyn) Extremely sensible; of extreme consideration.
 rasyru, v. a. (trasyn) To concern or to amaze extremely; to be extremely concerned.
 rasyth, a. (syth) Extremely stiff or erect.

Y balaif, trawaf trasyn.
 Llaif ei barch yn mhob lle byth.

The president, the most forward extremely stiff, the least his respect ever in every place. D. ab Edmwnd.

rasythiad, s. m. (trasyth) A rendering very stiff or erect; a becoming very erect.
 rasythu, v. a. (trasyth) To render extremely erect; to become very erect.
 rathal, s. f. (tal) An over-payment.
 rathaliad, s. m. (trathal) An over-paying.
 rathalu, v. a. (trathal) To over-pay.
 rathawawl, a. (tanawl) Extremely expanding.
 rathaniad, s. m. (taniad) A spreading greatly.
 rathann, v. a. (tannu) To expand extremely.
 rathardd, s. m. (tardd) An excess of spring, or breaking out.
 ratharddawl, a. (trathardd) Tending to spring, or break out extremely.
 ratharddiad, s. m. (trathardd) A springing, issuing, or breaking out extremely.
 ratharddu, v. a. (trathardd) To issue greatly.
 rathasg, s. f. (tasg) An extreme task.
 rathasgawl, a. (trathasg) Being an over task.
 rathasgiad, s. m. (trathasg) A tasking much.
 rathasgu, v. a. (trathasg) To task extremely.
 rathaw, s. m. (taw) Extreme silence.
 rathebyg, a. (tebyg) Extremely similar.
 rathebygiad, s. m. (trathebyg) A rendering very similar; a becoming very like.
 rathebygu, v. a. (trathebyg) To liken much.

Trat heg, a. (teg) Extremely fair or open.
 Tratheiliwng, a. (teilwng) Extremely worthy.
 Tratheiliyngiad, s. m. (tratheiliwng) A rendering extremely worthy; to merit extremely.
 Tratheiliyngu, v. a. (tratheiliwng) To render extremely worthy; to become very worthy.
 Trathelaid, a. (talaid) Extremely elegant.
 Tratheneu, a. (teneu) Extremely thin.
 Tratheneuad, s. m. (tratheneu) A rendering extremely thin; a becoming very thin.
 Tratheneuaw, v. a. (tratheneu) To make extremely thin; to become very thin.
 Trather, a. (ter) Extremely pure or clear.
 Tratheriad, s. m. (trather) A purifying greatly.
 Tratheru, v. a. (trather) To purify extremely.
 Tratherwyn, a. (terwyn) Extremely ardent.
 Tratherwyniad, s. m. (tratherwyn) A rendering extremely ardent; a becoming very ardent.
 Tratherwynu, v. a. (tratherwyn) To render extremely ardent; to become extremely ardent.
 Tratheryll, a. (teryll) Extremely piercing.
 Trathes, s. m. (tes) Extreme warmth; extreme sun-heat.
 Trathew, a. (tew) Extremely thick.
 Trathewiad, s. m. (trathew) A thickening extremely.
 Trathewau, v. a. (trathew) To over-thicken.
 Trathewi, v. a. (trathaw) To render profoundly silent; to become very silent.

A ffrauc troch trathewys.

And the wounded Frank become profoundly silent. Gwalchmai.

Trathirion, v. a. (tirion) Extremely pleasing.
 Trathirionad, s. m. (trathirion) A rendering extremely pleasant or genial; a becoming very pleasing.
 Trathirioni, v. a. (trathirion) To render extremely pleasant; to become very pleasing.
 Trathôri, v. u. (tôri) To break extremely.
 Trathôriad, s. m. (tôriad) An over-breaking.
 Trathost, a. (tost) Extremely severe.
 Trathostur, s. m. (trathost) Extreme pity.
 Trathosturi, s. m. (trathostur) Extreme pity.
 Trathosturiad, s. m. (trathostur) A pitying extremely, a commiserating much.
 Trathosturiaw, v. a. (trathostur) To commiserate extremely.
 Trathosturiawl, a. (trathostur) Extremely commiserating; greatly pitying.
 Trathraul, s. f. (traul) Extreme consumption, wear, waste, or charge.
 Trathrenliad, s. m. (trathraul) A consuming extremely; an over-wasting.
 Trathreuliaw, v. a. (trathraul) To consume extremely; to over-waste.

Brd a fydd byd, heb wynt, heb wlaw.
 Heb ormod crudig, heb trathreuliaw;
 Tir digawn fydd an erw i saw.

The world will be a world, without wind, without rain, without too much ploughing, without consuming to extreme; sufficiency of land will one acre be for nine. Uwsgar. Myrddin.

Trathrin, s. m. (trin) Extreme striving; extreme strife or conflict.
 Trathriniad, s. m. (trathrin) A busying about extremely; a striving extremely.
 Trathriniaw, v. a. (trathrin) To strive extremely.
 Trathriniawl, a. (trathrin) Extremely bustling.
 Trathro, s. m. (tro) An extreme turn.
 Trathrôad, s. m. (trathro) A turning much.
 Trathrôawl, a. (trathro) Tending to turn much.
 Trathrol, v. a. (trathro) To turn extremely.
 Trathrwm, a. (trwm) Extremely heavy.
 Trathrwt, s. m. (trwt) Extreme noise.

- Trathrymaad, s. m. (trathrwm) A rendering extremely heavy; a becoming very heavy.
- Trathrymâs, v. a. (trathrwm) To render extremely heavy; to become extremely heavy.
- Trathrymder, s. m. (trathrwm) Extreme heaviness or pressure.
- Trathrystiad, s. m. (trathrwt) A making an extreme noise or tumult.
- Trathrystiaw, v. a. (trathrwt) To make an extreme noise or tumult.
- Trathrystiawl, a. (trathrwt) Extremely noisy.
- Trathrwl, s. m. (twf) Extreme growth.
- Trathrwl, s. m. (twg) Extreme prosperity.
- Trathrwl, s. m.—pl. trathyrau (twr) An extreme heap or aggregate.
- Trathrwl, s. m. (twrf) Extreme tumult.
- Trathwym, a. (twym) Extremely warm.
- Trathwymuaw, v. a. (trathwymyn) To heat extremely; to become extremely hot.
- Trathwymiad, s. m. (trathwymyn) A heating extremely.
- Trathwymyn, a. (trathwym) Extremely hot.
- Trathyciad, s. m. (trathwg) A thriving, increasing, or prospering extremely.
- Trathycianau, v. a. (trathyciant) To cause extreme prosperity; to become very prosperous.
- Trathycianus, a. (trathyciant) Extremely prosperous or successful.
- Trathyciant, s. m. (trathwg) Extreme increase.
- Trathyciaw, v. n. (trathwg) To increase extremely, to be very prosperous.
- Trathyfawl, a. (trathwfl) Of extreme growth.
- Trathyfâd, s. m. (trathwfl) An overgrowing.
- Trathyfiant, s. m. (trathwfl) An overgrowth.
- Trathyfu, v. a. (trathwfl) To grow extremely.
- Trathylawd, a. (tylawd) Extremely poor.
- Trathylodedd, s. m. (trathylawd) Great poverty.
- Trathylodi, v. n. (trathylawd) To become very poor. s. m. Extreme poverty.

Dau anghwyllyd byd, trachyfoeth a thrathylodi.

The two indiscretions of the world, extreme wealth and extreme poverty. Adage.

- Triathyn, a. (tyn) Extremely tight, or strained.
- Triathyniad, s. m. (trathyn) An over-tightening.
- Triathynau, v. a. (trathyn) To over-strain.
- Triathynra, s. m. (trathyn) Over-tightness.
- Triathynr, a. (tyner) Extremely tender.
- Triathynr, v. a. (trathynr) To render extremely tender; to become very tender.
- Triathyniad, s. m. (trathyn) An over-pulling.
- Triathynu, v. a. (trathyn) To over-pull; to drag.
- Triathryfawl, a. (trathwfl) Very tumultuous.
- Triathryfiad, s. m. (trathwfl) A making an extreme tumult.
- Triathryfu, v. a. (trathwfl) To make an extreme tumult or turmoil.
- Triathryriad, s. m. (trathwr) An over-heaping.
- Triathryru, v. a. (trathwr) To over-heap.
- Triathrywyll, a. (tywyll) Extremely dark.
- Triathrywylliad, s. m. (trathrywyll) A darkening extremely.
- Triathrywyllu, v. a. (trathrywyll) To darken extremely.
- Triathrywyllwch, s. (trathrywyll) Great darkness.
- Trân, v. a. (tra) To pass over, to go beyond; to go through; to bore.
- Traul, s. f.—pl. treulion (tra—ul) Diffusion; wear, waste, consumption; expence, cost, charge, or disbursement. Traul daint ac ystylys, expence of food and raiment: Traul yr haul, the sun's course.

Da traul cetahw a weyrd traul dy.
Gold is the cost of a penny that saves the cost of ten. Adg.

Edifar cybydd am traul.

A miser is sorry for the expence. Adg.

Traul heb ataf a ddanfonyst.

A consuming answer to me they were wont to send. Cynidra.

Traw, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tra) An advance, a progress, a lead, education; a distant, a farther, or other side.

Hol dwf o draw t'r adon.

To fetch water from the other side of the river. Adg.

Edrych yn y dych dy draw,
Ath wneub yn cethlawn.

Behold in the mirror thy adomance, and thy countenance becoming ugly. D. of Gwyn.

Aeth h'n ddyffion o'r tag.

Rhyddid a'r fy rhodod.

Aeth yn dder ag a fegh.

Eriond, taw o'r yw'r taw.

He bewaned me of my jewels of humpson apert; he bewaned me in my course: he has fairly gone with all I ever treasured, &c. Lesson is the severe dealing! Gwr. ab Iefryn, m. v. lant.

Traw, a. (tra) Advancing; progressive; leading, teaching. I ba te yr ei di? Where art thou going? O, draw draw, O, a good way yonder.

Diofryd a roddaf—

Drow ei godu'n draw golen.

I dyf gwynl-gau gen.

A vow I will give, for leading it an over-running task to me as the child's winter-dance. Ido Gwr.

Traw, adv. (tra) Beyond, over, on the other side, yonder.

Treiddion off b m a Morgust.

Traw ddaer; cyngor cyngorant.

Trath ymdal yn hith aethchian.

Traw a bryn a phawr a phant.

Traw o ladd tryfan all Rhodod.

May we penetrate; that is I and Morgust, beyond to me the council of correlatives; enjelas a journey school of flagging, over strand and hill and humpson and rule, a progress that none will hinder expect even as Rhodod. Conely.

Trawaeth, s. m. (traw) Advancement, progression; that comes forward; a circumstance; leading, or bringing onward; education.

Bwrlodd a mewn ddyffwch.

Brad gelyniath, trawaeth trach.

It threw me into the sadness of treacherous unity, is a fortunate circumstance. Gwr. Owen ab Gwyn.

Trawaid, a. (traw) Progressive; conducive.

Trawawl, a. (traw) Tending to bring around; disciplinary.

Trawd, s. m.—pl. trodion (tra) A transit, a come, a pass; a journey.

Nid oes ddaer, dyn gwyn draw.

O'r gwr an gwr madden meddwl.

There is no prophecy, oh man of miserable course, that is made to forgive drunkenness. Ido Gwr.

Traw frys, o'r lly llys dawns dawns.

Traw drawd y gwynlodd wryd fawd fawd.

—Archad Ddaer o'r dda.

Through haste, his splendid court anxiously longed for, drew the range of the imagination, through the prospering of law, I pray to God to take his part. G. ab M. ab Iefryn.

Gled a dard a dard aethgwr.

Glyw ei ryw, ei ryw aethgwr.

A leading one and a hero on the dreadful course, it is a sure to be supreme, he that guides the conflagration. Llywelyn Pwll.

Trawdad, s. m.—pl. t. an (traw—tad) A leading father; a patriarch.

Trawd, s. m. (tra) A transit; a move onward; a pass; a penetration.

Trawdysg, s. m. (traw—dysg) A leading instruction; fundamental instruction; doctrine.

Arwodd fardd bardd yn mhych bryd.

A thrawdysg adraw iddysg.

A conducting hard handsome in every course, and a sure & profound learning to them. Ido. Rhodod, m. v. lant.

Trawed, s. m. (traw) Advancing; the state of being over or at the top.

Trawedig, a. (trawed) Being advanced, disciplined.

Trawedigaeth, s. m. (trawedig) Discipline.

Trawedydd, s. m.—pl. l. ion (trawed) A disciplinarian.

Trawen, s. f. (traw) That is over, or esp.

Owain—

Dygepallir iddo o dir Aledad Goglydd;

Draig yw yn dyhadd drawen ya y Dehen.

Owain, to him, homage will be given from the land of Aledad in the North; he is a leader stirring incursion in the South.

Owain's son.

Traweniad, s. m. (trawen) An over-passing; an over-riding; immersion.

Trawenn, v. a. (trawen) To pass or rise over.

Trawf, s. m. (traw) An advance, pass, or turn over.

Trawiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (traw) An advancing, a forwarding; a rearing, educating, or maturing; a going over; a surpassing.

Y fopelchen—

Tref awawya yw'r twiawya tan,

Twr adall y trawidenn.

These sheeth, they thick both to the dwelling of the spring, the tower of the edifice of competition.

It is the tower.

Trawiadawl, a. (trawiad) Tending to effect an advance or forwardness; instructive.

Trawiadau, v. a. (trawiad) To make an advance or progress; to educate; to effect a passing over.

Trawiadur, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trawiad) One who advances, a forwarder; one who educates; one who goes over, or beyond; one who surpasses.

Y fopelchen—

Twydr aw, trawiadur aw.

The strength of robust champion, the master of the art of love.

It is the tower.

Trawial, s. m.—pl. t. au (traw) A sneaking.

Trawialu, v. a. (trawial) To sneeze.

Trawiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trawiad) One who causes to advance, one who perfects; an instructor.

Trawien, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (traw) A vale, a defile or pass, between mountains.

Trawn, s. m. (traw) That is over or superior.

Trawo, adv. (traw) On the distance; on the farther side; on the other side; over, beyond.

Chweddol pob y lant a'i dyco drawo.

Let every body gather the bridge that brings him over.

Adaga.

traws, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tra) A transverse direction; a traverse; a cross or refractory one. a. Adverse, cross. Torasant ar eu traws gan ddig, they burst themselves with rage.—It is prefixed in composition.

Mi reddi hwn, wriddi hwnnw,

Erlodd led o droed i draws.

He, who is mealy and generous, never gave the breadth of his foot to the forward.

D. Nonconwy.

Angen y gyhydded draws yw bas nawall; a hyd pennall o bed-war i an tan ar bynnyth.

The characteristic of the cross metricity is a verse of nine syllables; and the length of the stanza from four to sixteen verses.

Barddas.

Trawion, all Meirion mawredd, au ofeg,

Traw mawredd ddrwg dyf gwynedd.

Forward ones, like Meirion of magnificence, of the same design, as the noblemen come greatly fair of combining water rolling.

G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

awsachwyn, s. m. (achwyn) A counter complaint. v. a. To recriminate.

awsachwynawl, a. (trawsachwyn) Recriminating

Trawsachwyniad, s. m. (trawsachwyn) A recrimination; a recriminating.

Trawsaddyg, s. m. (addyg) A contrary doctrine

Trawsaddysiad, s. m. (trawsaddyg) A teaching in opposition.

Trawsaddysu, v. a. (trawsaddyg) To instruct contrarily, to teach in opposition.

Trawsagawr, s. m. (agawr) A transverse opening. v. a. To open across.

Trawsagorawl, a. (trawsagawr) Tending to open transversely.

Trawsagori, v. a. (trawsagawr) To open across; to become open across.

Trawsagoriad, s. m. (trawsagawr) An opening transversely.

Trawsald, a. (traw) Apt to be contrary.

Trawsair, s. m.—pl. trawsairiau (traw—gair) A metonymy.

Trawdyle, s. m. (tyle) The cross way or upper end of a dwelling.

Trawsamcan, s. m.—pl. t. ion (amcan) A cross purpose; an adverse design.

Trawsamcaniad, s. m. (trawsamcan) A purposing or designing adversely.

Trawsamcanu, v. a. (trawsamcan) To pursue a cross purpose.

Trawsariad, s. m. (ariad) A cross-ploughing.

Trawsaru, v. a. (aru) To cross-plough.

Trawsbwyth, s. m. (pwyth) A cross-stitch.

Trawsbwythaw, v. a. (trawsbwyth) To cross-stitch, to overcast.

Trawsbwythiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trawsbwyth) A cross-stitching or overcasting.

Trawchwedi, s. m.—pl. t. au (chwedi) A hyperbaton.

Trawschwedliad, s. m. (trawschwedi) A speaking contradictory expressions.

Trawschwedlu, v. a. (trawschwedi) To utter adverse expressions; to speak in contradiction.

Trawsder, s. m. (traws) Crossness, adverseness.

Trawdeyrn, s. m.—pl. t. au (teyrn) An usurper

Trawdeyrnodd, s. m. (trawdeyrn) Usurpation.

Gwrthawr Gwrthawr a wneddu y Gwrthawr gyntaf fy yna hon, ya gwrthawr iddo ya ni drawdeyrnodd.

Gwrthawr Gwrthawr invited the Gwrthawr first into this island, as auxiliaries for him to his usurpation.

Trydydd.

Trawdori, v. a. (tôri) To cut a cross cut.

Trawdoriad, s. m. (tôriad) A cross-cutting.

Trawdyn, s. m. (tya) That is pulled cross-wise.

Trawdymiad, s. m. (trawdyn) A pulling cross-wise; a distorting.

Trawdynu, v. a. (trawdyn) To distort; to draw aside; to pull cross-wise.

Trawddawd, s. m. (dawd) A transverse position.

Trawddodawl, a. (trawddawd) Transpositional.

Trawddodi, v. a. (trawddawd) To transpose.

Trawddodiad, s. m. (trawddawd) An anathesis; a metathesis; transposition.

Trawddwyn, s. m. (dwyn) Transportation.

Trawddygiad, s. m. (dygiad) Transportation.

Trawedig, a. (traw) Being crossed.

Trawodd, s. m. (traw) The state of being transverse, adverse, or cross; crossness, refractoriness, forwardness.

Trawelfen, s. f.—pl. t. au (elfen) A contrary element.

Trawelfeniad, s. m. (trawelfen) Transubstantiation, transelementation.

Trawelfennu, v. a. (trawelfen) To transubstantiate.

Trawelfydd, s. m. (elfydd) A contrary element.

Trawselfyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trawselfydd) Transubstantiation, transelementation.

Trawselfyddu, v. a. (trawselfydd) To transubstantiate.

Trawsenw, s. m.—pl. t. au (enw) Metonymy.

Trawsenwad, s. m. (trawsenw) Transnominatio; a forming a metonymy.

Trawsenwawl, a. (trawsenw) Metonymical.

Trawsenwl, v. a. (trawsenw) To form a metonymy

Trawsfalch, a. (balch) Frowardly-proud.

Trawsfalchedd, s. m. (trawsfalch) Froward pride

Trawsfarn, s. f.—pl. t. au (barn) A cross judgment, a contradictory opinion.

Trawsfarniad, s. m. (trawsfarn) A judging adversely; a contrary decision.

Trawsfarnu, v. a. (trawsfarn) To judge adversely

Trawsfedd, s. m. (medd) Wrong possession.

Trawsfeddiannawl, a. (trawsfeddiant) Having possession wrongfully.

Trawsfeddiannu, v. a. (trawsfeddiant) To possess wrongfully; to usurp.

Trawsfeddiant, s. m. (trawsfedd) Usurpation.

Trawsfeddu, v. a. (trawsfedd) To possess adversely, to possess wrongfully.

Trawsfwng, a. (blwng) Frowardly-sullen.

Trawsfor, a. (mor) Being across the sea.

Trawsforawl, a. (trawfor) Transmarine.

Trawsforedig, a. (trawfor) Being rendered transmarine.

Trawsfraint, s. m.—pl. trawsfreinnian (braint) Usurpation of right.

Gortheyra Gorthema a roddes lldel fab Gotta, o drawsfraint, unbeneath Ynys Frydala.

Gortheyra Gorthema gave to his son Gotta, by usurpation, the monarchy of the Isle of Britain. Triwedd.

Trawsfreinniad, s. m. (trawsfraint) An usurping of right.

Trawsfreinniaw, v. a. (trawsfraint) To usurp a right.

Trawsfreinniawl, a. (trawsfraint) Relating to an usurped right.

Trawsfud, s. m. (mud) A transit; migration.

Trawsfudaw, v. a. (trawsfud) To emigrate.

Trawsfudawl, a. (trawsfud) Migratory.

Trawsfudiad, s. m. (trawsfud) Transmotion; a migrating.

Trawsgainc, s. f.—pl. trawsgaincian (cainc) A cross-bough.

Trawsgan, s. f. (can) An adverse song; a satire.

Trawsganiad, s. m. (trawsgan) A satirizing.

Trawsgannu, v. a. (trawsgan) To satirize.

Trawsgerdded, s. m. (cerdded) Transmigration. v. a. To transmigrate.

Trawsgerddediad, s. m. (trawsgerdded) A transmigration.

Trawsglud, s. m. (clud) Transportation.

Trawsgludaw, v. a. (trawsglud) To transport.

Trawsgludiad, s. m. (trawsglud) Transportation.

Trawsglwm, s. m.—pl. trawsglymau (clwm) A cross-knot; a node.

Trawsglwyd, s. f.—pl. t. au (clwyd) Cross hurdle.

Trawsglwydd, s. m. (clwydd) A transportation.

Trawsglwyddaw, v. a. (trawsglwydd) To transport

Trawsglwyddawl, a. (trawsglwydd) Transporting.

Trawsglwyddiad, s. m. (trawsglwydd) A transporting.

Trawsgryf, a. (cryf) Frowardly strong.

Trawsgymeriad, s. m. (cymeriad) Metalepsia.

Trawsgymeryd, v. a. (cymeryd) To take or to accept adversely.

Trawsgynnal, v. a. (cynnal) To hold adversely.

Trawsgynnaliad, s. m. (trawsgynnal) A holding or supporting adversely.

Trawsgynghanedd, s. f. (cynghanedd) A contrasted consonancy.

Trawsgynghaneddiad, s. m. (trawsgynghanedd) A forming a contrasted consonancy.

Trawsgynghaneddu, v. a. (trawsgynghanedd) To form a contrasted consonancy.

Trawshediad, s. m. (hediad) Transvolation.

Trawsiad, s. m. (traws) A crossing; a putting crosswise.

Trawsineb, s. m. (traws) Adverseness, frowardness.

A wyr nab drawslach setch.

Does any body know the frowardness of love? I am Dyl.

Trawslath, s. f.—pl. t. au (liath) A bar or beam placed transversely; a toft of a boat.

Trawslathiad, s. m. (trawslath) A laying a transverse beam or toft.

Trawslathu, v. a. (trawslath) To lay a transverse beam; to fix a toft.

Trawslëad, s. m. (lîead) Translocation.

Trawslinell, s. f.—pl. t. i (linell) A cross line.

Trawslusg, s. m. (llusg) Transverse trailing. a. Transversely-drawing. Cynghanedd drawing, a transversely trailing consonancy.

Trawslusgaw, v. a. (trawslusg) To drag across.

Trawslusgiad, s. m. (trawslusg) A dragging across.

Trawslyw, s. (llyw) An adverse guide or steersman.

Trawslywiad, s. m. (trawsllyw) A guiding adversely; a misgoverning.

Trawslywiau, v. a. (trawsllyw) To guide contrarily; to steer across; to govern frowardly.

Trawsosawd, s. m. (goesawd) To transpose.

Trawsosodawl, a. (trawsosawd) Transposing.

Trawsosodi, v. a. (trawsosawd) To transpose.

Trawsosodiad, s. m. (trawsosawd) Metathesis; a transposition.

Trawsrwym, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwym) A crossbar

Trawsrwymaw, v. a. (trawsrwym) To bind across.

Trawsrwymawl, a. (trawsrwym) Relating to cross binding.

Trawsrwymiad, s. (trawsrwym) A binding across.

Trawsryw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhyw) A cross breed.

Trawsrywiad, s. m. (trawsryw) A transsection.

Trawsrywiau, v. a. (trawsryw) To transsect.

Trawst, s. m.—pl. t. iau (traws) A rafter.

Trawstiad, s. m. (trawst) A laying a rafter.

Trawstlaw, v. a. (trawst) To lay a rafter.

Trawsu, v. a. (traws) To render cross or adverse.

Trawswch, s. f.—pl. trawswych (traw—swch) A whisker. Gwas heb drawswch cras, a yfed without mustaches.

Trawswyr, a. (gŵyr) Transversely oblique.

Trawswyrw, v. a. (trawswyr) To render transversely oblique.

Trawswyrwawl, a. (trawswyr) Tending to transverse obliquity.

Trawswyredd, s. m. (trawswyr) Transverse obliquity.

Trawsryriad, s. m. (trawswyr) A turning transversely oblique.

Trawsylwedd, s. m. (traw—sylwedd) A contrast substance.

Trawsylweddiad, s. m. (trawsylwedd) Transubstantiation.

Trawsylweddu, v. a. (trawsylwedd) To transubstantiate.

Trawsymddwyn, s. m. (ymddwyn) A metaphor.

Trawsymmod, s. m. (ymmod) A moving over, moving adversely.

rawsymmodawl, a. (trawsymmod) Tending to move adversely.

rawsymmodi, v. a. (trawsymmod) To move adversely.

rawsymmodiad, s. m. (trawsymmod) A moving adversely; transmotion.

rawsymud, v. a. (traw—symud) To transpose.

rawsymudawl, a. (trawsymud) Transposing.

rawsymudiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trawsymud) A transposition.

rawsymymud, s. m. (ymsymud) A mutual moving over; a self moving over.

awsymymudaw, v. a. (trawsymymud) To move over mutually; to move one's self over.

awsymymudawl, a. (trawsymymud) Mutually moving over; self-transporting.

awsymymudiad, s. m. (trawsymymud) A mutually moving over; a moving one's self over.

rawu, v. a. (traw) To forward, to lead onward; to mature, to perfect; to cause to excel.

Eirio, trawu, Daw tri: O Arglwydd; Erglŷw ar fy ngwaddl!

Intercede, make perfect, Triune God; O Lord, hasten to my prayer!
H. D. ab Iŷon.

rawu, a. (traw) Tending to bring forward.

awraw, v. a. (trawu) To render progressive; to render instructive; to become instructive.

awrawydd, s. m. (trawu) Instructiveness.

aymanerch, s. m. (ymanerch) Excess of mutual greeting.

ymannos, v. a. (ymannos) Mutually to greet over-much.

ymannos, s. m. (ymannos) Extreme self-excitation.

ymannos, v. a. (ymannos) To excite one's self extremely.

ymaraws, s. m. (ymaraws) Excess of mutual forbearance.

ymaraws, v. a. (ymaraws) Mutually to forbear extremely.

ymbarotod, s. m. (ymbarotod) Extreme mutual preparation; extreme self-preparation.

ymbarotol, v. a. (ymbarotol) Mutually to prepare over-much; to prepare one's self over-much.

ymboeni, v. a. (ymboeni) Mutually to afflict severely; to take extreme pains.

ymboeniad, s. m. (ymboeni) Mutually afflicting or toiling extremely.

ymdaith, s. f. (ymdaith) An excess of travelling.

ymdaithaw, v. a. (traymdaith) To travel ver-much.

ymdrosi, v. a. (ymdrosi) Mutually to drive ver-much; to over-hurry one's self.

ymdynawl, a. (ymdynawl) Over-contentious.

ymdyniad, s. m. (ymdyniad) Extreme contention; a contending over-much.

ymdynu, v. a. (ymdynu) To contend much.

ymddadled, s. m. (ymddadled) Extreme mutual disputation.

ymddadliad, s. m. (ymddadliad) A mutually spouting extremely.

ymddadlu, v. a. (ymddadlu) Mutually to dispute extremely.

ymdderiad, s. m. (ymdderiad) A mutually ranging extremely.

ymdderu, v. a. (ymdderu) Mutually to wrangle extremely.

ymddiriad, s. m. (ymddiriad) An over-confiding ymddiried, v. a. (ymddiried) To confide over-much.

ymddwyn, s. m. (ymddwyn) An over-bearing one's self.

ymddyn, v. a. (ymddyn) To over-bear one's self.

ymddygiad, s. m. (ymddygiad) An over-caring one's self.

ymegniad, s. m. (ymegniad) Over-exertion.

ymegniaw, v. a. (ymegniaw) To over-exert one's self.

Traymegniawl, a. (ymegniawl) Over-exerting.

Traymerlid, s. m. (ymerlid) An extreme mutual persecution.

Traymerliad, v. a. (ymerliad) Mutually to persecute extremely.

Traymerliadiad, s. m. (traymerliad) A persecuting one another extremely.

Traymestyn, s. m. (ymestyn) An over-stretch of one's self.

Traymestynawl, a. (traymestyn) Tending to be over-stretching.

Traymestyniad, s. m. (traymestyn) An over-stretching or over-extending of one's self.

Traymgais, s. m. (ymgais) An over-attempt.

Traymgaisiad, s. m. (traymgais) An over-attempting, or over-exerting.

Traymgaisawl, v. a. (traymgais) To over-exert.

Traymgaisiad, a. (traymgais) Tending to over-attempt; apt to over-exert.

Traymlid, s. m. (ymlid) An over-pursuit.

Traymlidiad, s. m. (traymlid) An over-pursuing.

Traymlidiawl, v. a. (traymlid) To over-pursue.

Traymlidiawl, a. (traymlid) Apt to over-pursue.

Traymoedi, v. a. (ymoedi) Mutually to delay over-much; to keep one's self away over-much.

Traymoediad, s. m. (ymoediad) A mutually delaying over-much; a keeping one's self away over-much.

Traymorchestawl, a. (ymorchestawl) Tending to exult extremely in an exploit.

Traymorchestiad, s. m. (ymorchestiad) An exulting extremely in an exploit.

Traymorchestu, v. a. (ymorchestu) To exult extremely in an exploit.

Traymryson, s. m. (ymryson) Extreme competition or emulation.

Traymrysonawl, a. (traymryson) Very emulous.

Traymrysoni, v. a. (traymryson) To engage in extreme competition.

Traymrysoniad, s. m. (traymryson) Extreme competition, or emulation.

Traymsenawl, a. (ymsenawl) Mutually apt to reproach over-much.

Traymseniad, s. m. (ymseniad) A mutually reproaching over-much; a reproaching one's self extremely.

Traymsennu, v. a. (ymseanu) Mutually to reproach over-much; to reproach one's self extremely.

Traymsoddawl, a. (ymsoddawl) Apt to sink one's self extremely.

Traymsoddi, v. a. (ymsoddi) To sink one's self extremely.

Traymsoddiad, s. m. (ymsoddiad) A sinking one's self extremely.

Traymsythawl, a. (ymythawl) Apt to make one's self extremely erect.

Traymsythiad, s. m. (ymythiad) A making one's self extremely erect.

Traymsythu, v. a. (ymythu) To make one's self extremely erect.

Traymwadawl, a. (ymwadawl) Of extreme self-denial; mutually denying greatly.

Traymwadiad, s. m. (ymwadiad) A denying one's self extremely.

Traymwadu, v. a. (ymwadn) To deny one's self extremely.

Tre, s. f. (ty—rhe) A resort; a homestead; a hamlet; a town.

Trebaried, Tredegar, manions so called.

Trec, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ty—rhec) An implement; harness gear.

Trec men, cart harness.

Trechad, s. m. (tree) A furnishing, a harnessing.
Trechaw, v. a. (tree) To furnish, to equip out.
Trechawl, a. (tree) Furnishing, harnessing.
Trechedig, a. (trechad) Furnished, harnessed.
Trechwr, s. m.—pl. trechwyr (tree—gwr) A furnisher, a harnesser, a dresser out.
Trecyn, s. m. dim. (tree) An implement, a tool.
Trech, a. (tre—ech) Superior, passing; of superior power: It is generally used for trechach, stronger, more powerful.

Trech gwladnog arglywydd:
 Trech gieu no gwlad.

A country is more powerful than a prince; a great man is more powerful than a country. Adage.

Trech arfer nag arfaeth.
 Habit is stronger than resolution. Adage.

Trech uwgen no deuis.

Necessity is stronger than choice. Adage.

Trech dygwylld no deall.

Chance is more powerful than wit. Adage.

He that is trechaf troubled.

He that is strongest let him oppress. Adage.

Trech a golb no gwlod.

Stronger is he who obtains than who keeps. Adage.

Trechad, s. m. (trech) A getting the better.
Trechawl, a. (trech) Vanquishing, conquering.
Trechedig, a. (trech) Vanquished, conquered.
Trechedd, s. (trech) Superiority; stronger state.
Trechlad, s. m.—pl. trechlad (trech) An overcoming one, a vanquisher, a victor.

Arddwyrf naf—
 Aerdorf gori gwlad derwyn at naid
 I gyntaf ar gyntaf trechlad.

I will extol a chief, the strength of the slaughtering band, whose leap is ardently fierce to deprecate on the security of conquerors. Lt. F. Moch, i Hadr.

Trechianawl, a. (trechiant) Overpowering.
Trechianu, v. a. (trechiant) To obtain superiority, to obtain a conquest.
Trechianus, a. (trechiant) Overpowering.
Trechiant, s. m. (trech) An overcoming.
Trechryni, s. m. (trech—rhym) Aptitude for superiority; ambition.

Dychyreh cyfarwydd; dychyfarwyd a nai;
 O ddechryni y nai, ydd yn trechadwy.

The informed will resort; I have been visited; owing to the passion for superiority of the three, I have been consumed. Gwalchmai.

Trechu, v. a. (trech) To overpower, to overcome; to conquer; to surpass; to be superior.
Trechwr, s. m.—pl. trechwyr (trech—gwr) One who overcomes, a vanquisher.

Tred, s. f.—pl. t. i. (tre—ed) A course, or place of resort; a hamlet.—Cod Andred, Caer Andred, the Weald of Kent: Tred Eileirch, a district on Rumney in Monmouthshire, called by the English Swanton.

Tredd, s. f.—pl. t. au (tre—edd) That is over, that is taken off or from; a crop, or growth; corn; also the same as treth, contribution of corn; a tribute, or tax.

Tref, a. f.—pl. t. ydd (tre) A dwelling place; a homestead; a hamlet; a township; a town. Pwy ydd yn nhref? Who is at home? It forms the names of many places, as Tref Ithel, Ithelham; Tref, Hamburg; and the like. As the name of a single house it answers to the English Ham.

Nid tref nod nef.

There is no dwelling place but heaven. Adage.

Ni châr morwyn nab o'i thref.

A damsel loves not a youth of her own hamlet. Adage.

Pointe rhaeddi a fyd yn nab tref; y nar yn gyntaf a y bedwaredd yn borth i'r tref.

Four dampsteads there are in every hamlet: the three houses and the fourth as pasture to the three. W. L. L.

Trefa, s. f.—pl. trefeydd (tre) A place of resort assembly, or dwelling. Trefa y tylaith leg. a fairy circle: Trefa o yd, a thrave of corn; also a quantity of sheaves laid on the threshing-floor.
Trefad, s. f. (tref) A domicile, a habitation; a dwelling, or inhabiting.

Trefad fy hantaf o'i hantaf.

The dwelling of my ancestor and his dominion. Dr. Sear.

Cynyddedd llawr llwyr trefad.

Over the ground had accumulated complete inhabitation. Gwalchmai.

Trefan, s. f. dim. (tref) A small hamlet.
Trefawg, a. (tref) Having a home, or town.
Trefawl, a. (tref) Relating to a home, or town.
Trefedig, a. (trefad) Settled, inhabited; colonised.
Trefedigion, settlers, or colonisers.

Trefedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (trefedig) The act of settling, or colonizing; the state of being settled, a colony.

Trefgordd, s. f. (tref—cordd) The round or line of a hamlet, a township; community.

Trefnod, s. m.—pl. trefnod (tref) That makes a home; that dwelleth; that is domestic: a sparrow.

Trefnannawl, a. (trefnant) Belonging to habitation; or habitation.

Trefnannu, v. a. (trefnant) To form an habitation, to form a habitation.

Trefnant, s. m. (tref) Habitation, habitation.

Trefnig, a. (tref) Homely, domestic. Gw. Dry. a domestic man.

Trefnawg, a. (tref) Tending to turn about. Gwefian trefnawg, pointing lips.

Trefnys, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tref—lys) A court but Trefn, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (trefn) The state of being disposed in connection; arrangement, system, order.

Hawdd duffer o drefn.

It is easy to accomplish by good order. Adage.

Nid oes yn effwrdd a chian trefn ddi.

There is no bell but the want of good order. Adage.

Trefnadwy, a. (trefn) Capable of arrangement.

Trefnau, s. pl. aggr. (trefn) Utensils, implement.

Llawysgaru trefnaudd

Is a trefnaudd,

A trefnaudd.

A chaotic heap.

They decorated stoves, houses and streets, and rooms in provision rooms. Trefnaudd, Llawn yr Ardd.

Y bradd leuaf blaen yr eiddod yn arbenig o'r ych can, a'r ffrwyd o'i.

The youngest brother owns the principal instrument, and the implements. Gwalchmai.

Trefnawl, a. (trefn) Orderly, systematic.

Trefnedig, a. (trefn) Ordered, systematic.

Trefnedaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (trefnedydd) Regulation, adjustment; ordinance.

Trefnfawr, a. (trefn) Well-ordered.

Trefnig, a. (trefn) Orderly, well-ordered.

Trefnigwrch, s. m. (trefnigwr) Orderliness.

Trefniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trefn) A regulation, arranging, or ordering.

Trefniadu, v. a. (trefniad) To make an arrangement, order, system, or regulation.

Trefniannawl, a. (trefniant) Systematical.

Trefniannu, v. a. (trefniant) To systematise.

Trefniant, s. m. (trefn) System.

Trefniawd, s. m. (trefn) Regulation.

Trefnawdr, s. m.—pl. trefniadron (trefniawdr) A regulator; a systemizer.

*Trefnawdr, llwyr hyawdr flocer a huan,
Trefniad a trefniad, o fyrr amcas,
Trefnau trefniadus ganau a gas.*

These regulator, perfect organizer of moon and sun, then didst originate and then didst form, by simple design, the surerstrained powers of the lips that sing. Carnodyn.

Trefnid, s. m.—pl. t. au (trefn) Arrangement; management; disposal; settlement; order.
Trefniadaeth, s. m. (trefnid) The act of arranging, managing, or ordering; management.

Gwraig hysedd a folir am trefniadaeth, a'i gofal dros ei theulu, a'i canwr at ei gwr a'i plith.

A married woman is to be praised on account of management, and her care for her family, and her love to her husband, and her children. Barddas.

Trefnidaw, v. a. (trefnid) To make an arrangement, or disposition; to manage.
Trefnidawl, a. (trefnid) Economical.
Trefnidd, s. m. (trefnid) Economy.
Trefniadiad, s. m. (trefnid) An economizing.
Trefnidwr, s. m.—pl. trefnidwyr (trefnid—gwr) An economist; a manager.
Trefnidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trefnid) An economist, a manager.
Trefnidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trefniad) One who disposes, or puts in order; a disposer.
Trefniddeb, s. m. (trefniaw) Orderliness.
Trefnidder, s. m. (trefniaw) Orderliness.
Trefnidra, s. m. (trefniaw) Orderliness.
Trefnoli, v. a. (trefniaw) To render orderly.
Trefnu, v. a. (trefn) To dispose, to arrange, to connect or to put in order; to regulate; to manage; to appoint, to settle.

*Trefniad o'ch foledd foledd gwyn:
Trefniad o'ch, a myr foledd dylun;
Trefniad dylun foledd o'ch foledd archun;
Trefniad wera foledd, foledd archun.*

Those made in concert declare thy praise: thou hast regulated stars, and seas of fluctuating tide; thou hast regulated the ample earth with its surface all complete; thou hast regulated the dark region of hell, with respect to Satan. Carnodyn.

Trefnus, a. (trefn) Being arranged, put in order, or disposed; orderly, methodical; well arranged, being in good order, compact, neat, decent.
Trefnusaw, v. a. (trefnus) To render orderly, to put in good order.
Trefnusdeb, s. m. (trefnus) Orderliness.
Trefnusder, s. m. (trefnus) Orderliness.
Trefnusdra, s. m. (trefnus) Orderliness.
Trefnussedd, s. m. (trefnus) Orderliness.
Trefnusrwydd, s. m. (trefnus) Orderliness.
Trefnwr, s. m.—pl. trefnwyr (trefn—gwr) One who regulates, or arranges, an orderer.
Trefnydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trefn) An orderer.
Trefnyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trefnydd) The practice of an economist.
Trefnyddiadaeth, s. m. (trefnydd) Economy.
Trefnyddiaw, v. a. (trefnydd) To economize.
Trefred, s. f. (tref—rheb) An inhabited region; a homestead, a domicile, a habitation.

Gauw ddiogelir yn shrefred.

Security is obtained in an inhabited place. Adage.

Good back yn shrefred no mawr yn alldred.

Better the little in an inhabited place than the great in a wilderness. Adage.

Trestad, s. f. (tref—tad) Patrimony, heritage.

*Caranmael oedd ddiddid:
Ar oedd ddiddidol trestad,
A gawys Caranmael.*

Caranmael was void of ambition; and clear from every claim the patrimony, which Caranmael did seek. Llywarch Hen.

VOL. II.

Trestadaeth, s. f. (trestad) A patrimony.

Trestadawg, a. (trestad) Having a patrimony, or heritage; an inheritor. s. m.—pl. trestadoglon. One who has a patrimony, one in possession of a paternal estate; an heir.

Myd ei gwnathof ei yn trestadawg.

I myself have made him possessed of an inheritance.

Draut y Breninordd.

Trestadawl, a. (trestad) Patrimonial, hereditary.
Trestadiad, s. m. (trestad) A forming a patrimony or heritage.

Trestadoges, s. f.—pl. t. au (trestadawg) A female who inherits; a heiress.

Trestadu, v. a. (trestad) To form a patrimony.

Trestadwr, s. m.—pl. trestadwyr (trestad—gwr) One who establishes a patrimony.

Trefn, v. a. (tref) To form a place of resort; to make a home; to inhabit.

Treid, s. m.—pl. t. au (traid) A decreasing, or abating, a diminution; an ebbing.

Trelaw, v. a. (traid) To decrease, to lessen; to abate; to ebb.

Tregarawg Ddolydd,

Trelaw fy ngherydd!

Merchwr Crenor, lessen my chastisement!

Gwalchmai.

Trelaw Goronwy, trafo modyn medd!

Cof gwyn o'ch llywyr fawr!

Goronwy to be taken away, the tide of mind will turn: Sad the reflection that he should be completely dead!

G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Trelawl, a. (traid) Tending to decrease, lessen, or abate; ebbing, neapy.

Treiddad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tred) A coursing; a resorting.

Treiddaw, v. a. (tred) To course, to range.

Y cysyllawg—

Trest big, hen goodwig a gar,

Trestid, adwysu dalar.

The woodcock, with drooping bill, loving an ancient woody dell, he would range the cranks of the ground.

D. ab Owlgym.

Treiddawl, a. (tred) Ranging; resorting.

Treiddgof, s. m. (traidd—cof) A wounded mind.

Fell yn traidd traiddgof o'ch rymed!

Deeply doth piercing memory (turns me) for his and I am!

Cynddelw.

Treiddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (traidd) A penetrating.

Treiddiadwy, a. (traiddiad) Penetrable.

Treiddiaw, v. a. (traidd) To penetrate; to pervade.

Caldia hawl boddur

Cestwin, ddu ddriddiaw,

Cairt anant newr

Aelaw aelaf.

The pillar of the prerogative of serving costly wise, burning the conflict, minstrel sing with melody of purest store.

G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Treiddiawg, a. (traidd) Being penetrated.

Treiddiawl, a. (traidd) Penetrating; pervading.

Treiddiedig, a. (traiddiad) Penetrated; pervaded.

Treiddiedigawl, a. (traiddiedig) Penetrative.

Treiddioldeb, s. m. (traiddiawl) Piercingness.

Treiddiolder, s. m. (traiddiawl) Penetrability.

Treiddiolrwydd, s. m. (traiddiawl) Piercingness.

Treiddiwr, s. m.—pl. treiddiwywr (traidd—gwr) One who penetrates, a piercer.

Treiddle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (traidd—He) A resorting place.

Treiddyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (traidd) A ridge of high ground running into a vale.

Treiedig, a. (treiad) Decreased, abated, ebbed.

Treiedigaw, v. a. (treiedig) To render lessened.

Treiedigawl, a. (treiedig) Tending to decrease.

Treiglaid, s. m.—pl. treiglaid (treigl) One who roves about, a wanderer.

4 C

treisioli, v. a. (treisiawl) To render oppressive;
treisidrwydd, s. m. (treisiawl) Oppressiveness.
treisiwr, s. m.—pl. treisiwyr (trais—gwr) A forcer, a ravisher; an oppressor.

*Ac Pr treisiwyr, ac i'r trawdon,
 Trefyn elo,
 Yn lle dolo
 Llu dawidion.*

So to the oppressors, and to the forward ones, may there come an end, where comes a host of godly men. W. Middleton.

treisledrad, s. m. (trais—ledrad) Rapine.
treislu, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (trais—llu) A rapacious host.

*Tremysd trwm yno f' chwast
 Tremys treislu trws llaw.*

Sadly was observed in me a desire to observe an oppressing host over the stream. Carnodyn.

treiswaw, s. f. (trais—gwaew) Spear of rapine.
treisw, s. m. (trais) A frown of oppression. a. Oppression-frowning.

*Gwasach a dighich ym dwg
 Dy oing treisw troed.*

More feeble and more troubled in every way thy oppression-frowning eye doth bring me. Dr. ab D. ab Tudgr.

treiswriath, s. m. (treisiwr) The act of a forcer, ravisher, or oppressor.
treisydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trais) A forcer.

*A Dafydd, drudydd drosedd, cyn golo,
 Ni ba o Gymro ei gymrodeidd.*

And David, the oppressor of forwardness, before sepulture there was not a Welshman his equal in worth. D. Benfras.

reithiad, s. m. (raith) A treating; a reciting.
reithiaw, v. a. (raith) To treat, to discourse.

Tafawd a draeth, buchedd a ddengys.

A tongue recites, but the conduct shows. Adapt.

reithiawl, a. (raith) Treating, reciting. reithiedig, a. (reithiad) Being treated.
reithiwr, s. m.—pl. reithiawyr (raith—gwr) One who treats, a discourser.

reithydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (raith) A reciter.
rem, s. f.—pl. t. lau (ty—rhem) Sight, look.
rembeirianneth, s. m. (trembeiriant) An optician's trade.

rembeiriannawl, a. (trembeiriant) Relating to optical instruments.
rembeiriannu, v. a. (trembeiriant) To furnish optical instruments.

rembeiriannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trembeiriant) An optical instrument maker.
rembeiriant, s. m.—pl. trembeiriannau (trem—peiriant) An optical instrument.

remiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trem) An observing.
remiannawl, a. (tremiant) Observant.
remiannu, v. a. (tremiant) To make observation; to cast a look.

remiant, s. m.—pl. tremiannau (trem) Observation; appearance, aspect.

Dian oedd gaste na weisid tremiant criod chd deod a hi ar arall.

Certain it was to him that he had never seen an appearance so fair as she on another. H. Peredur—Mabinogion.

remiator, ger. (tremiad) In observing.
remiaw, v. a. (trem) To look, to observe.
remiawl, a. (trem) Looking, observing.
remid, s. m. (trem) Appearance, object.

*Mab Tegwared bael hawl dremid galon;
 Gal ag ef ni borthid.*

The son of Tegwared the generous questions the appearance of face; an enemy could not resist with him. Cynadeu.

remidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tremid) Observer.
remiedig, a. (tremiad) Observed; eyed.
remitor, sup. (tremid) To be observing.

Tremiwr, s. m.—pl. tremiawyr (trem—gwr) A looker, an observer, one who eyes.

Tremradd, a. (trem—rhadd) Of red aspect.

Tremwyllt, a. (trem—gwyllt) Of wild aspect.

Tremyd, s. m. (trem) The state of being seen.

Tremydiad, s. m. (tremyd) An apparition.

*Tremydiad mynydd, manod tew n'ith ludd,
 N'ith lango eiry na rhew.*

Those phantom of the mountains, so thickly driven snow will obstruct them, may neither snow nor frost affect them. Llywarch Llady.

Tremydiaw, v. a. (tremyd) To raise a phantom; to appear as a phantom.

Tremydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trem) A looker.

Tremyddiaeth, s. m. (tremydd) Science of optics.

Tremyg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tram) Contempt; disparagement. Tremyg barn, contempt of judgment.

Tremyg gwyn yw na ddolo dyn y dydd y galwaf i'r llys.

A contempt of summons is that a person comes not on the day he is called to the court. Welsh Laws.

Tremygiad, s. m. (tremyg) A contemning, a slighting. Tremygiad llys, contempt of court.

Tremygiawl, a. (tremyg) Contemning.

Tremygiedig, a. (tremygiad) Contemned.

Tremygu, v. a. (tremyg) To contemn, to slight.

Tremygus, a. (tremyg) Contemptuous.

Tremygywr, s. m.—pl. tremygywyr (tremyg—gwr) A contemner, a sligher.

Tremyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (trem) Sight, look, aspect, view; a glance.

*Dyd i was o ddu a melyn;
 With hir eirych dy dremyn.
 Tyllais dy weisid cys llyu.*

Hold! young man of black and yellow; by long observing thy aspect, methought I saw thee before this. Eng. Arthur a Guenhwyfar.

Tremynawd, s. m.—pl. tremynodau (tremyn) An object.

O lydd hen, nid mwy y cynis ar y dyg,—nog ar dremynodau arall a welo.

If he be old, no more will he look, upon learning than upon other objects he may see. Welsh Laws.

Tremynawl, a. (tremyn) Observant, looking.

Tremynfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tremyn) A watch-tower.

Tremyngar, a. (tremyn) Observant; keen-eyed.
Tremyngarwch, s. m. (tremyngar) Aptness to observe or to look about.

Tremynwgwag, s. m. (tremyn—cwag) A light sleep.

Tremyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tremyn) An apparition, a phantom; also an epithet for a boar.

*Y natli yw yn eantli had
 At tarw mair, at tremyniad.*

Either of the two he is, begetting seed, or a sleek bull, or an apparition. Gute y Glyn.

Tremynt, s. m. (trem) Sight, look; a glance.

Tremynu, v. a. (tremyn) To look about, to scout.

Oedd tramawr tremynai tuchwedd.

Immense the ruin seemed.

Cynddew.

Yn Aber Taradr yn tremynu.

In Aber Taradr observing.

Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Eligad trwm y tremynant

Udd addlen uch Dyges Dyffant.

In a second heavy conflict they observed the comely chief above Dyges Dyffant. Ll. P. Mer.

Tremyauwr, s. m.—pl. tremyauwyr (tremyn—gwr) An explorer, or a scout.

*A glywelsi a gent Gwlan,
 Dremyauwr, golwg unawn:
 Daw cadarn a barn pob llawn.*

Hast thou heard what Gwlan sung, an observer of steady sight: the mighty God will judge every right. Eng. y Clywed.

Tremynwriaeth, s. m. (tremynwr) The employment of an explorer.

Tremynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tremyn) An explorer, one employed to observe; a sentinel.

Tremynyddiaeth, s. m. (tremynydd) The employment or duty of an explorer.

Tren, s. m. (ty—rhen) Force; rapidity; fury.

Gnawd Saia, nis cwynale, yn cwynaw ei ben;
A gnawd odduch ien ymwyraw.

Many a Saxon, what I lamented not, has been made to complain of his head; and, from high inscience, made to bend himself.

D. Ilofron.

Tren, a. (ty—rhen) Impetuous, forcible, furious; powerful, strenuous. Mae efe yn edrych yn dren iawn, he looks very furious: Afon dren iawn yw hon, this is a very rapid river. Sil.

Cain cynnwyr, croch iwn dren;
Cyntod caru dan frig der-eh;
Edwyn anfad ei pŵerchen.

Fair upspringing dawn, hoarse the furious wave; the stag repairs under the branches of the oak: misfortune doth recognize her possessor.

Ysaffon Bardd Teilo.

Trenaid, a. (tren) Somewhat impetuous.

Trenawl, u. (tren) Impetuous; strenuous.

Treniad, s. m. (tren) An acting impetuously.

Trenig, a. (tren) Impetuous, or furious.

Trenlif, s. m. (tren—lif) A rapid torrent. Sil.

It is as Cefallif, is used in North Wales.

Trent, s. m. (tren) Force; rapidity; fury.

Trenu, v. a. (tren) To act impetuously.

Trenus, a. (tren) Impetuous; strenuous.

Trenusaw, v. a. (trenus) To render impetuous, or strenuous; to become impetuous.

Trenusdeb, s. m. (trenus) Impetuosity, rapidity.

Trenusder, s. m. (trenus) Impetuosity.

Trenusdra, s. m. (trenus) Rapidness.

Trenusedd, s. m. (trenus) Rapidity; quickness.

Trenusrwydd, s. m. (trenus) Impetuosity, rapidness; strenuousness.

Trenydd, s. m. (tra—dydd) The third day to come, the day after to-morrow. adv. Two days hence, the day after to-morrow.

Trenyddiawl, a. (trenydd) Relating to the third day to come.

Trengawl, a. (tranc) Perishing, vanishing.

Trengi, v. n. (tranc) To pass away, to be passing away, to expire, to be at an end; to give up the ghost. Mae y dydd yn trengi, the day is at an end.

Trengid golud, ni threine molud.

Wealth passeth away, but fame will not pass away. Adage.

Trengidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tranc) A destroyer.

Trengwr, s. m.—pl. trengwyr (tranc—gwr) One who is at an end, an expiring man.

Tres, s. f.—pl. t. i (ty—rhes) That is on the stretch, or in exertion, labour, pains, trouble; a trace, or chain, for drawing; a stroke, as with a rod or whip.

Tresawg, a. (tres) Being on the stretch.

Tresawl, a. (tres) Straining; exerting; bustling.

Tresg, s. m. (tres) That is on a stretch.

Tresgl, s. m. (tresg) Tormentil. It is also called tresgl melyn, tresgl yr eithin, or melyn yr eithin; tresgl y moch, the common tormentil.

Tresglen, s. f. dim. (tresgl) A thrush; also called bronfrailh, pen y llwyn. Y dresglen lwyd, the shrike; y dresglen goch, creccr, socen eira, the swine-piper.

Tresglerddyn, s. m. (tres—clerddyn) A sturdy vagabond.

Tresiad, s. m. (tres) A putting on a stretch, or straining; a whipping.

Tresiauw, v. a. (tres) To labour; to belabour. Cei dy dresiauw, thou shalt be belaboured.

Tresiwr, s. m.—pl. tresiwr (tres—gwr) One who belabours or thrashes.

Trest, s. m. (tres) That is strained or stretched.

Trestl, s. f.—pl. trestlan (trest) That strains; a stretcher, a frame; a trestle.

Y ddau drestl, a'r holl ddodur.

The two trestles, and all the furniture. D. at Gully.

Trestlawg, a. (trestl) Having a stretcher.

Trestliad, s. m. (trestl) A furnishing with a stretcher; a framing.

Trestlu, v. a. (trestl) To furnish with a stretcher, trestle, or frame; to frame.

Tresu, v. a. (tres) To put on a trace or chain.

Treth, s. f.—pl. t. i (tre—eth) That is over; that is taken off or from; a crop, growth, or produce; a crop of corn; otherwise called llwyr, also an allowance, contribution, rate or tax; tribute. Y dreth fawr, the land-tax.

Gwelais wehlyth ac eu trethau byth.

I saw the progeny of a stock with their means of tribute. Gr. at Gully.

Trethadwy, a. (treth) Taxable, ratable.

Trethawg, a. (treth) Having a rate or tax.

Trethawl, a. (treth) Tributary; taxed.

Trefng ac an-dynderdeb y rhwng ein hantodau ni ydym ni; odynt wyr hantodau i yr ynydd hon; ac o drwg y gwmpa i drefnawli.

Tamult and dissension amongst our own successors brought to men of Rome into this island; and through oppression to us it is tributary. Gr. at Arber.

Trethedig, a. (treth) Rated, or taxed.

Trethiad, s. m. (treth) A rating, a taxing.

Trethu, v. a. (treth) To rate, or to tax.

Trethwr, s. m.—pl. trethwyr (treth—gwr) A taxer.

Treulfawr, a. (traul) Expensive; wasteful.

Treulfawredd, s. m. (treulfawr) Expensiveness.

Treulgadw, v. n. (traul—cadw) To be going on consuming;

Treulgar, a. (traul) Profuse, or prodigal.

Treulgarwch, s. m. (treulgar) Profuseness.

Treuliad, s. m. (traul) Consumption; as depending; digestion.

Treuliadwy, a. (traul) Capable of consuming.

Treuliaw, v. n. (traul) To consume, to wear out, to expend; to digest; to be worn out.

Nid coll darfod o'r dalat a dresglid yn ym y gader.

The tooth has not been quite a loss that has been consumed in destroying the chain. Adage.

Treuliawd, s. m. (traul) Expence; digestion.

Treuliedig, a. (treuliad) Consumed; expended.

Treuliedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (treuliad) A consumer; an expender.

Treuliwr, s. m.—pl. treuliwyr (traul—gwr) A consumer; an expender; a digester.

Trew, s. m. (tra) A sneeze, the act of sneezing.

Nid da an-trew na dau i angron.

Nor one sneeze nor two will end in death. Adage.

Nac un-trew na dau ni osodd rhag mair.

Nor one sneeze nor two will protect from death. Adage.

Trewi, v. a. (trew) To sneeze, to sternalize.

Trewiad, s. m. (trew) A sneezing; a sneeze.

Trewlwh, s. m. (trew—llwh) Sneezing-dust; and Trewydd, s. m. (traw) A push forward, a push off, or a driving to a distance.

Tŷn wen orewyn wylch wrth dresydd.

White foam-crowned wave bold in its impulsive forward. H. at Gully.

Trewyddiad, s. m. (trewydd) A pushing forward, a pushing off, a driving to a distance.
Trewyddu, v. a. (trewydd) To push forward, to push off, to drive to a distance.

*Y ddolion a drowydd gwyst,
 Gwneid hi ei drowydd
 Hwyl hi, eiddad gwist!*

*This leaf that is driven onward by the wind, woe to it its fate:
 old is it, this year born!*
Llywarch Hen.

Trewyn, s. m. (traw) A means of leading away; persuasion.

Trewynawl, a. (trewyn) Persuasive; diverting.

Trewyniad, s. m. (trewyn) A persuading, an averting or leading from; persuasion.

Trewyns, v. a. (trewyn) To persuade, to dissuade, to prevail with; to part those who fight; to pacify.

Trewynwr, s. m.—pl. trewynwyr (trewyn—gwr) One who leads; a persuader.

Pob harwr, trewynwr trin, Dwygwch—

Every judge, and pacifier of breath, instruct—
W. Middleton.

Trewynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trewyn) Persuader.
Trewynyddiaeth, s. m. (trewynydd) The office of a persuader or pacificator.

Trewynyn, s. m. (trewyn) Yellow loose-strife.

Tri, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ty—rhi) That is firm, fixed, permanent, or in continuity; three. a. Three. The number three was adopted, by the ancient Britons, as a means of facilitating the use of oral tradition; consequently a great deal of their historical memorials, and moral maxims, have been put into the form, which from the number of articles classed together under each head, are called TRIORDD, or Triades.

Tri dyn y cydd: dyn i Ddew, a was dda dros ddwyr; dyn i ddyn, a was dda dros dda, a dwyr dros ddwyr; a dyn i ddaw, a was ddwyr dros dda.

There are three sorts of men: a man to God, who does good for evil; a man to man, who does good for good, and evil for evil; and a man to the devil, who does evil for good. Buridan.

Tri dyn a wasant cyfaeiddi lle bent: bardd, gwr, a thalybwr.

There are three persons who create society where they are: a bard, a smith, and a barber. Triade.

*Tri yw Daw Cell, colofn deon,
 Treu rad, ac un medd, cefnodd ennon;
 Treu yw ei Tud nef, nael glesion radu,
 Nof cwrddu gwrdd gwrdd.*

The God of Mystery is Three, the support of emanated beings, through grace, and one benign, the theme of song: More powerful to be, the Father of heaven, Lord of glorious attributes, than the creature of exalting virtue. Comedy.

Triad, s. m. (tri) A forming a triad.

Triadawl, a. (triad) Belonging to a triad.

Triadu, v. a. (triad) To make into three.

Triadawl, s. m. (tri—adawl) That consists of three members. a. Consisting of three members.

Triadodawg, a. (triadawl) Of three members.

Triannawg, a. (triant) Having a triad.

Triannawl, a. (triant) Tertian; triadic.

Trianniad, s. m. (triant) A forming a triad.

Triannu, v. (triant) To tertiate; to make a triad.

Triant, s. m. (tri) That is in three; a triad.

Triarhymtheg, s. m. (tri—ar—pymtheg) Eighteen. a. Eighteen, or consisting of eighteen.

Triarddeg, s. m. (tri—ar—deg) Thirteen.

Triard, s. m. (tri) A forming a triad.

Triawg, a. (tri) Having three, of three.

Triawl, a. (tri) Belonging to three or triad. ‘Y triawl Ddew,’ the triadic God.

Triban, s. m.—pl. t. au (tri—ban) That consists of three parts; a triplet, or verse of three lines

Memrau cyn cof y bwrir y gorchuanu, a thriban mlwr, a thraethodyn; aef caddynot cryn oen cossodd.

Metres from three lines are primary couplets, whether triplet, and recitative, judged to be; that is they were from age of age.

Tribanawg, a. (triban) Of three parts; triplet.

Tribanawl, a. (triban) Triplet; triplet.

Tribandawd, s. m. (triban) Triplet.

Tribaniad, s. m. (triban) Triplet.

Tribaniasth, s. m. (triban) Triplet.

Triban mlwr—aid o gyhyddi, aith o'i thribanasth, ac ei traid o awdi a thriban, y tyf ei anawdd.

The warrior triplet, not from equal metricality, but from its triplarity, and its property of rhyme and varied verse without its character. Don dda.

Tribann, v. a. (triban) To triplicate; to triple.

Tribedd, s. m.—pl. t. i (tri—bedd) That has three feet; a tripod. a. Three-footed.

Triblaen, s. m. (tri—blaen) That has three points.

Tribys, s. m. (tri—bys) That has three fingers.

Tribysig, a. (tribys) Of three fingers.

Hech trigaun tribysig:—Hech dritig yu ei bysgydd, ac yu ei hais, ac yu ei chian, a gulf y brenin yn ddawnydd gual.

A row of three winters three fingers in thickness—A row of three fingers in her shoulder, and in her ribs, and in her hand, shall the king have as a winter's provision-gift. Welsh Laws.

Trichanfod, a. (trichant) Three hundredth.

Trichanawl, s. m. (trichant—awl) The number of three hundred thousand. a. Three hundred thousand.

Trichanmlifod, a. (trichanawl) Three hundred thousandth.

Trichant, s. m. (tri—cant) Three hundred.

Trichanwailh, s. pl. (trichant—gwaith) Three hundred times. a. Three hundred times.

Dy gwydd rhyngwyd rhagodd trichanwailh Trichan—gwaith gwaith.

They shield before them there has been three hundred times in three hundred wretched conditions. Lt. F. Mack, i. R. Gyg.

Trichorn, s. m. (tri—corn) That has three horns.

Trichornawg, a. (trichorn) Having three horns.

Tridant, s. m. (tri—dant) A trident. a. Three-toothed.

Trideg, s. m. (tri—deg) Three tens; thirty.

Tridelintawg, a. (tridant) Having three teeth.

Tridian, s. m. (tri—dian) The space of three days.

Tridieuawl, a. (tridian) Relating to three days.

Tridincod, s. m. (tri—dincod) That has three pips or seeds. a. Having three pips.

Tridincodawg, a. (tridincod) Having three seeds; a medlar with three seeds.

Tridull, s. m. (tri—dull) That is of three forms.

a. Triform.

Tridullawg, a. (tridull) Having three forms.

Tridyblyg, s. m. (tri—dyblyg) That has three folds. a. Threefold.

*Wyl hon, wyl anig, wyl anedig oer,
 Gwedy gwedy tridyblyg;
 Wyl traw, wyl tridyblyg.*

I am old, I am alone, I am debilitated and cold, after the magnificent couch; I am wretched, I am lost three times. Llywarch Hen.

Tridyblygawl, a. (tridyblyg) Triplet.

Tridyblygiad, s. m. (tridyblyg) Triplet.

Tridyblygu, v. a. (tridyblyg) To triplicate.

Tridyn, s. pl. (tri—dyn) Three persons.

Rhin tridyn cannyd ei ciw.

The secret of three persons a hundred persons will have it. Adage.

Triforch, s. m. (tri—forch) That has three prongs. a. Three pronged.

Triforchawg, a. (triforch) Three-pronged.

Triforchl, v. a. (triforch) To trifurcate.

Trig, s. m. (tri—ig) A stay, a fixed state.

Trigad, s. m. (tri—ig) A staying, tarrying, or remaining fixed.

Trigadiad, s. m.—pl. trigadiaid (trigad) A sojourner, inhabitant, or dweller.
Trigadwy, a. (trigad) Capable of staying, dwelling or remaining.

—Cofwio hwy.
 Rhag adwyth yn drigadwy.

He preserved them, against harm, securely. L. G. Colll.

Trigunaf, s. m. (tri—ganaf) That is of three winters. a. Of three winters old.

Trigaw, v. a. (trig) To stay, to tarry; to be stationary; to remain; also to dwell; to starve, to perish, as with cold. Nis gallaf pe trigaw, I cannot for the life of me.

Canmawi dy fro
 A thrig yno.

Praise thy country and tarry there.

Adage.

Tricid can ni wabodder.

He stays since he is not invited.

Adage.

Gwedi darfo y cylich, deud y pectolau ar y brenia, a thricid yyd ag of yd yn mhen y fwyddyn.

After the circuit is ended, let the patron of the family come upon the king, and let him abide with him until the end of the year. Welsh Laws.

Pu beth a'n godir i olrhaw!
 Nid oes le y cyrcher rhag carcher braw;
 Nid oes le y trigar: oeh o'r trigaw!

Why should we be spared to linger; there is not a place to be resorted to from the prison of dread; there is not a place to be stayed in: every with staying! G. ab yr Ynad Coch.

Trigawi, a. (trig) Tarrying, abiding, dwelling.
Trigion, inhabitants.

Trigfa, s. f.—pl. trigfeydd (trig) An abode.

Trigfan, s. f.—pl. t. au (trig) A dwelling-place.

Trigfanaw, a. (trigfan) Belonging to a dwelling-place or a residence.

Trigfanied, s. m. (trigfan) A making a dwelling-place; a fixing a residence.

Trigfanu, v. a. (trigfan) To make a dwelling-place; to fix a residence.

Trigiad, s. m. (trig) A tarrying, an abiding.

Trigianaw, a. (trigiant) Residentiary.

Trigianiad, s. m. (trigiant) A residing.

Trigianus, v. a. (trigiant) To make a residence, to reside, to dwell, to inhabit.

Trigianus, a. (trigiant) Residentiary, resiant.

Trigiannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trigiant) An inhabitant.

Oes ty heb drigiannydd.

Odium is a house without an inhabitant.

Catwg.

Trigiant, s. m. (trig) Residence, habitation.

Trigias, s. f. (trig) Residence, habitation.

Triglaw, v. a. (trig) To stay, to tarry, to abide.

'Cybydd ni thriglaw,' a miser I will not remain.

Triglawd, s. m. (trig) A residing, a dwelling.

Triglawdwr, s. m.—pl. triglawdwy (triglawdgwr) A resider, a dweller; an inhabitant.

Triglawdr, s. m.—pl. t. on (triglawd) A resiant,
 a resident, a dweller.

Trigledig, a. (triglad) Being dwelled in.

Trigle, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (trig—lle) A dwelling-place

Trilliw, s. m. (tri—lliw) That is of three colours.

a. Tri-coloured. Tansy violet, or heart's ease.

Trillwiawg, a. (trilliw) Of three colours.

Trillwyf, s. m. (tri—llwyf) That has three stories.
a. Of three stories.

Trillwyfan, s. m. (trillwyf) That is of three stories. a. Of three stories.

Trillwyfanaw, a. (trillwyfan) Of three stories.

Trimarch, s. pl. (tri—march) Three horses. a. Of three horses.

Trimarchfen, s. f.—pl. t. i (trimarch) A car or cart drawn by three horses.

Trimarchwys, s. pl. aggr. (trimarch—gwys) Men driving three horses.

Trimin, s. m. (tri—min) That has three edges.
a. Three-edged.

Triminiawg, a. (trimin) Having three edges.

Trimis, s. m. (tri—mis) A space of three months.

Trimisawl, a. (trimis) Of three months; quarterly.

Trimisyr, s. m. (trimis) That is of three months.

Trimisyrriad, s. c.—pl. trimisyrriaid (trimisyr) That is three months old.

Trin, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tri—in) That is persevering or continual; that is complete or of three parts;
 the act of meddling, or handling; a managing,
 or conducting any affair; labour, trouble; a quarrel, a battle.

Ischaf o fwyd bera; ischaf o enillyn ffeith; ischaf o ddiaw gwludwr mast; ischaf gwaith trin y ddolur; ischaf o honny cerdd dant.

The most healthy of victuals bread; the most healthy of man milk; the most healthy of drink water from a gravel-bed brook; the most healthy work cultivating land; the most healthy guest an instrumental song. Adys.

Rhin eidd yn drin;
 Eidd rhin yn drin.

A secret grows to a quarrel.

Adys.

Trin, v. a. (tri—in) To meddle, to handle; to manage, to conduct any business; to labour at; to quarrel; to trim, or to scold. Trin i'r to dress land: Trin i'fawd, to let the tongue run.

Trinodd y byd, trawswir.
 Trwy lawr hwy i'w hoodraa hwr.

He bustled in the world, wished in the extreme, with pain to the end of her long life. F. A. S. Papp.

Trinal, s. c.—pl. trineion (trin) That meddles, conducts an affair; a brawler; one who confus-

Trin dda trineion wy tr,
 Traws trydar tryddol fawd.

The oppression of foreigners will not the conflicting one away, with the forward tumult of the third from host!
 Cyddolau, F. A. S. Papp.

En codelau o'r tri trineion
 Trinal ffrind, addidwr Grogion.

There were mighty ones of the three men of conflict, to us of the Hebrews, the affliction of the Grogion.
 L. F. Munk, L. A. S. Papp.

Trinaw, v. a. (trin) To meddle; to conduct in affair; to bustle; to conflict.

Trinawg, a. (trin) Full of bustle; conflicting.

Trinawl, a. (trin) Bustling; conflicting.

Trindawd, s. m. (trin) The Trinity.

Ni chela ymwelw o'r Trindawd,
 Oes ceta yn yr Undawd.

Attempt not to seek for the Trinity unless thou behest to us in the Unity. Adys.

Trindodawl, a. (trindawd) Trinitarian.

Trindodaeth, s. m. (trindawd) Trinitarianism.

Trindodi, v. a. (trindawd) To form a trinity.

Trindodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trindawd) A tri-tarian.

Trined, s. m. (trin) A trinity, that is of three.

Carenydd y cydd herydd trined.

A connection exists with respect to the Trinity. Adys.

Olynd Dew trined yn trugawdawn.

May the Trinity God cause my attitude of mercy to continue in the Unity. Adys.

Tringar, a. (trin) Intermeddling, officious.

Tringarwch, s. m. (tringar) Aptness to meddle.

Triniad, s. m. (trin) A meddling, a handling, a managing, a dealing; an intermeddling; a quarrelling.

Triniacth, s. m. (trin) A meddling; management; dealing; an undertaking.

Trinlaw, v. a. (trin) To persevere in any matter;
 to meddle; to manage, to conduct.

Trinlaw, a. (trin) Managing, conducting.

Trinator, ger. (triniad) In managing.

iniedig, a. (triniad) Managed, conducted.
 iniedigaeth, s. m. (triniedig) Management; cultivation.
 infor, sup. (trin) To be managing.
 iniwr, s. m.—pl. triniwyr (trin—gwr) A manager, or one who carries on any affair.
 inogaeth, s. m. (trinawg) The act of managing, or carrying on any dealing; traffick. inydd, s. m.—pl. t. lon (trin) A manager.
 iochr, s. m. (tri—ochr) That has three sides.
 iochrawg, a. (triochr) Having three sides.
 riochri, v. a. (triochr) To render trilateral.
 riochriad, s. m. (triochr) A rendering trilateral.
 riochryn, s. m. (triochr) That is trilateral.
 iodawl, a. (triawd) Belonging to a triad.
 iodi, v. a. (triawd) To form a triad.
 iogi, v. a. (triawg) To render of three.
 iogiad, s. m. (triawg) A rendering to consist of three.
 iodeb, s. m. (triawl) The state of being tertiated.
 ioll, v. a. (triawl) To tertiate.
 ioliad, s. m. (triawl) A tertiation.
 rip, s. m.—pl. t. ian (ty—rip) A trip.
 ripe, s. c. (trip) The bowels or guts.
 riplad, s. m. (trip) A tripping, a falling.
 riplan, v. a. (trip) To be tripping.
 riplaw, v. a. (trip) To trip, to stumble.

A double grain, o'! drol is cil,
 E dripla Nib Daw'r opil.

He that oppresses the weak, by turning him behind, the Son of God will come his race to foil.

riphen, s. m. (tri—pen) That has three heads.
a. Three headed.

riphlyg, s. m. (tri—plyg) That has three folds.
a. Triplicate.

riphlygiad, s. m. (triphlyg) Triplication.
 riail, s. m. (tri—ail) That consists of three elements or syllables. a. Of three syllables.
 riailawg, a. (triail) Having three syllables.
 rist, a. (ty—rist) Pensive, sorrowful, sad.

Troch iawn yth farnaf, Dafydd;
 Tros a fu Dyddig o'r dydd!

Very unhappy I deem thee, David; sorrowful was Dyddig of the day!

risthad, s. m. (trist) A sorrowing.

risthawl, a. (tristhau) Tending to deject.

ristia, v. a. (trist) To render sorrowful, to become sad or pensive.

ristedd, s. m. (trist) Pensiveness, sadness, dejection.

ristiad, s. m. (trist) A sorrowing, a rueing.

ristiaw, v. a. (trist) To cause sorrow or sadness.

ristlawn, a. (trist) Sorrowful, or rueful.

ristlondeb, s. m. (tristlawn) Ruefulness.

ristlonder, s. m. (tristlawn) Ruefulness.

ristlondra, s. m. (tristlawn) Ruefulness.

ristlonedd, s. m. (tristlawn) Sorrowfulness.

ristloni, v. a. (tristlawn) To render sorrowful;

to become sad or rueful.

ristlonrwydd, s. m. (tristlawn) Sorrowfulness.

ristwch, s. m. (trist) Pensiveness, or sadness.

Adyd pob hie dristwch.

Every having sorrow is adversity.

Adage.

ristyd, s. m. (trist) Sadness, or sorrow.

ritam, s. m. (tri—tam) That consists of three bites or bits.

ritamald, s. m. (ritam) An epithet for a large sort of oyster.

ritant, s. m. (tri—tant) That consists of three strings; the rebeck.

Trithri, s. m. (tri repeated) Three times three.
 Trithro, s. m. (tri—tro) That is of three turns.
 Trithroed, s. m. (tri—troed) That consists of three feet. a. Three-footed.
 Trithroediawg, a. (trithroed) Three-footed.
 Trithu, s. m. (tri—tu) That is of three sides.
 Trithuawg, a. (trithu) Trilateral, three-sided.
 Triagain, s. m. (tri—again) Sixty. a. Sixty.
 Triagainst, s. m. (triagain) Sixty. a. Sixty.
 Triagainfed, s. m. (triagain) Sixtieth. a. Sixtieth.
 Triagainiawl, a. (triagain) Sexagesimal.

March glas iathlawn! triagainiawl.

A grey horse perfect and of the value of threescore pence.
 Welsh Laws.

Triagainwaith, s. pl. (triagain—gwaith) Three-score times. a. Threescore times.

Triunaw, v. a. (tri—unaw) To unite three in one.

Triunawd, s. m. (tri—unawd) A Trinity.

Triunawl, a. (tri—unawl) Triune.

Triundawd, s. m. (tri—undawd) A Trinity in unity

Goleu'n dydd galon dawd,
 Try iawnder, Daw triundawd.

Shine our faith, with a happy heart, through righteousness, thou God of Trinity in unity.

T. Ll. Deo Powel.

Tro, s. m.—pl. t. lon (ty—rho) A turn; a while, a time; a lax. Tro da, a good turn; e dro i dro, from time to time; troes dro, for a while; y tro yma, this time; rhos troion, sometimes; rhwy dro, sometime.

Tröed, s. m.—pl. t. an (tro) A turning; conversion.

—Ar wydd t'r ar,
 A plys drosau'r gloew drydar,
 Oll o'i galon cyll y galur.

On the border of the cultivated land, he who beams the turn^d of the sprightly churning, entirely from his heart he will lose his gold.

C. B. Swin.

Tröadwy, a. (tröad) Capable of turning.

Tröawl, a. (tro) Turning, rolling, revolving.

Troch, s. f.—pl. t. lon (tro—och) A spray; a lave.

Troch, a. (f. of trwch) Cat, broken; maimed; unlucky, desperate, fell.

Cynnydd ar dros droch llynges llyr.

Cut off was on a sudden the fell fleet of the torrent.

Gwarchmud.

Trochadwy, a. (troch) Capable of being bathed.

Trochawl, a. (troch) Bathing, immersing.

Trochedig, a. (troch) Bathed, immersed.

Trochedigaeth, s. f. (trochedig) The act of bathing

Trochfa, s. f.—pl. trochfeydd (troch) A bathing-place; a bathing.

Trochlader, s. f. (troch—cader) A duckingstool.

Trochl, v. a. (troch) To immerse, to dip, to duck, to plunge, to bathe.

Llyon Cadwallawn o'r Fefain,
 Llew lla llusawg o'r wain,
 Twrf mawr trochias ei ordde.

The camp of Cadwallon on Meini, the lion of the host of numerous train, a great tumult drowned his skirt. Llywarch Hen.

Trochlad, s. m.—pl. t. an (troch) An immersion.

Tros trachwres trochlad ei wrymder.

The bustle of ambition is the immersion of his energy.

Cynddelo.

Trochiant, s. m. (troch) A splashing; immersion.

Trochion, s. pl. (troch) Splashing; suds, lather.

Trochioni, v. a. (trochion) To raise a lather.

Trochionllyd, a. (trochion) Abounding with froth.

Trochwr, s. m.—pl. trochwyr (troch—gwr) An immerser, a bather.

Trochydd, s. m.—pl. t. lon (troch) A dipper, a plunger, a diver; a bather. Trochydd mawr, the great northern diver; trochydd bach, the grey speckled diver; trochydd gwdd/goch, the red-necked diver; troeddd danneddary, the tamer dan diver.

Troedawl, a. (trawd) Transitive; passing over.

Trodi, v. a. (trawd) To make a transit; to pass onward; to journey.

Troddad, s. m. (trawd) A passing onward.

Troddon, s. f. (trawd—gwen) A starting.

Troddail, s. pl. aggr. (tro—dail) Flowers in festoon.

Troddawl, a. (trawdd) Progressive; forwarding.

Troddedig, a. (trawdd) Being passed onward.

Troddi, v. a. (trawdd) To make a transit; to move onward, to make a progress.

Owen with Llewyn ydd wyne nathwyr:

Arthwr at thuchel!

Add a drowl at glawd Goron.

Owen on Llewyn he did watch last night: Arthwr never retreated: the slaughter he passed through on the dyke of Goron.

Llywarch Hen.

Rhod than o' th dorth gin, a' th glin i ia,

Rhod is i wenywau;

A' th gi, cyn troddi un tro,

A' th fras, mth yn farw yno.

Giving a share of the white loaf and thy dinner to a multitude, without room to grumble: and thy dog, before meeting forward one step, and thy crow, there did die.

D. Ll. ab Ll. ab Gruffydd.

Troddiad, s. m. (trawdd) A transition, a passing over; progression.

Troed, s. m.—pl. troed (traw—ed) A foot. It forms the names of many plants: Troed y coillawg, cock's-foot grass; troed y golomen, Ulysian y colom, columbine; troed yr heddydd, lark spur, troed ygyfarnawg, million cedennawg, hare's-foot trefail; troed yr asen, yr arilegawg, garlick hedge-mustard; troed yr arth, bear's foot; troed yr aderyn, common bird's foot; troed y tarw, Ulysian y tarw, bullwort; troed yr wydd, goose foot; troed y cyn, hedge pansley; troed y gath, mountain cat's foot, field cypress; troed y gwynn, water purslain; troed y dryw, field ladies' mantle; troed y bardud, common meadow-rue; troed yr ebuwl, marsh marigold; troed yr erydd, celery-leaved crow foot; troed y llew, ladies' mantle.

Fan thwre duth, pob Sol a dary drowd troe.

When the whe slips, every fool will stamp a foot upon him.

Adage.

Troedawg, a. (troed) Having a foot. s. f. A fetlock; a fetter.

Troedawl, a. (troed) Belonging to the foot, pedal.

Troed-drawa, a. (troed—trawa) Splay-footed.

Troed-drowd, a. (troed repeated) Foot to foot.

Troedfedd, s. f.—pl. t. i (bedd) A foot measure.

Troedfeddawl, s. (troedfedd) Of a foot measure.

Troedfeddu, v. a. (troedfedd) To divide into feet.

Troedfyr, a. (troed—fyr) Short-footed.

Troedgail, a. (troed—call) Having the foot turned out; club-footed.

Troedgam, a. (troed—cam) Wry-footed.

Troedhlir, a. (troed—hlir) Long-footed.

Troediad, s. m.—pl. t. au (troed) A footing.

Troediant, s. (troed) A setting a foot, a footing.

Câr y gathfyr yn ngwath yr hen fêrdd, cyn cael o'r Saxonawg drowiant yn Yngw Prydain.

The wood fresh is to be found in the works of the old bard, before the Saxons had footing in the isle of Britain.

Llywelyn Hen.

Troedlaw, v. a. (troed) To foot; to use the foot; to tread; to kick.

Troedlawg, a. (troed) Having feet, footed. s. m. A pedifer; a foot-holder. He is also called rhagriedddiad.

Troedlawg a ddyly ddyly troed y llaen yn ei wdd, o'r an ddochrone drowd yn ei gyloddach yd ei i gwyn; ac y ddyly y troed; ac yn gwyb a byny o ydand gwyllid o'r troed gwell.

The footman ought to hold the foot of the king in his hip, but the time when he begins to sit in his conviviality in the inn is most to sleep; and his ought to scratch the king; and dany art a space let him guard the king against accident. Wick Low.

Troedig, a. (trönd) Turned, converted; being disposed to turn. Troedigion, preselyna.

Addaf gyl grith, grotach dig;

Addaf gyl grithach troedig.

Adam the rotten rake, a early hauch; Adam a drowd rakin vegubond.

Troedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (tröedig) Circulation.

Troedigawl, a. (tröedig) Circulating, revolving.

Troedias, s. f.—pl. t. au (troed—llas) A tread.

Troediath, s. f.—pl. t. au (troed—llath) Tread.

Troedle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (troed—lle) A trode place; a place of resort. Troedle llybys, a well-known place of resort.

Troedlen, s. f.—pl. t. i (troed—llas) A tread-board; a treadle.

Troedlydan, a. (troed—llydan) Broad-footed.

Troednoeth, a. (troed—noeth) Barefooted.

A hene ddrin na cheddin yn drowdnoeth.

Who save thorns let him not walk barefooted. Adage.

Troednoethl, v. a. (troednoeth) To make barefoot.

Troednoethiad, s. m. (troednoeth) Discussion.

Troedog, v. a. (troedawg) To fetter, to shack.

Troedogiad, s. m. (troedawg) A fettering.

Troedraw, s. f. (troed—rhaw) A foot-spade.

Troedrudd, a. (troed—rhudd) Of a ruddy hue.

s. f. The stinking crumhill; also called ffyn y llwynawg, myrswyd y bugel, pig or arm.

Troedrych, a. (troed—rych) Dry-footed, dry foot.

Troedwst, s. f. (troed—gwst) A foot distance; pace.

Troedwstawl, a. (troedwst) Pedagogical, gawky.

Troedyn, s. m. dia. (troed) A little foot.

Troedygafu, a. (troed—ygafu) Light-footed.

Troell, s. f.—pl. t. au (tro) That effects a turn:

whirl, a wheel for turning, spinning, or winding; a reel; a pulley; a windlass, a screw; a trope. Troellus metis, the phosom of mill-wor.

troell nyddu, a spinning wheel. Adaryn y drow, the goatsucker.

Tori llyw troell ddrin.

To break the thread of the wheel of life.

D. Ll. ab Ll. Pryn.

Troellaid, a. (troell) Like a wheel or whirl.

Crymaw digodolr Dew:—Amlyg yd fôr y gath yn aryd in arwyddocad cyfelybiadawl troellaid.

The abille of the wrath of God:—It is manifest that the expension comes under the denomination that is comparative: a nature of a troep.

Troellawg, a. (troel) Having a turn, whirl, a wheel; of the form of a whirl, or screw, a ringlet; brocaded; having the marks call:

watered, on silks or stuffs; grained, as appearing on boards.

Trillw gwyth troellawg oedd—
y tarw.

Of three gay hoes in ringlets was the hall.

A Dr.

Troellodig, a. (troell) Twirled; in ringlets.

Troellen, s. f.—pl. t. i (troell) A whirl, a twist.

Troellenaid, a. (troellen) Like a whirl.

Troellenawg, a. (troellen) Composed of whorls or ringlets; formed like a cobweb; brocaded.

Troelleniad, s. m. (troellen) A forming into whirls, or ringlets.

Troellennu, v. a. (troellen) To form a whirl:

form into ringlets.

Troellgorun, s. m. (troell—cornu) Horn rack

Troellhoel, s. f.—pl. t. ion (troell—hoel) A screw-nail.

Troellhoeliad, s. m. (troellhoel) A screwing.

Troellhoeliaw, v. a. (troellhoel) To screw.

Troelli, v. a. (troell) To put in a whirling motion; to turn as a whirl, or wheel; to turn as a screw; to screw. Gwagr troelli, a sieve used in cleaning corn.

Troelliad, s. m.—pl. t. an (troell) A whirling.

Troelliannawl, a. (troelliant) Of a whirling or spinning motion.

Troelliannu, v. a. (troelliant) To produce a whirling motion.

Troelliant, s. m. (troell) A whirling motion.

Troellig, s. f. (troell) The spurrey.

Troellych, s. m.—pl. t. an (troell—rhych) The counterpart of a screw, or the groove that receives it.

Troellychiad, s. m. (troellyrch) A grooving or forming the concave part of a screw.

Troellychiaw, v. a. (troellyrch) To groove the concave part of a screw.

Troellwaith, s. m. (troell—gwaith) Wheel-work; the movement of a clock or watch.

Troellweithiad, s. m. (troellwaith) A making of wheel-work.

Troellweithiaw, v. a. (troellwaith) To make wheel-work.

Troellweithiwr, s. m.—pl. troellweithiwr (troellwaith—gwr) One who makes wheel-work.

Troellymadrawd, s. m.—pl. troellymadroddion (troell—ymadrawd) A figurative speech, tropology.

Troellymadroddi, v. a. (troellymadrawd) To express in figurative speech.

Troellymadroddiad, s. m. (troellymadrawd) A making use of figurative speech.

troen, s. f.—pl. t. au (tro) A turn; a swirl; a while, a good while. Ni buaist er ys troen yma, thou hast not been here this good while. Pwys.

roety, s. m.—pl. t. au (troed—ys) A snare. Sil.

roeth, s. f. (trwyth) Wash; lye; urine.

roethai, s. c. (troeth) A chamber pot.

roethbair, a. (troeth—pair) Diuretical.

roethi, v. a. (troeth) To void urine.

roethiad, s. m. (troeth) A voiding urine.

roethlif, s. m. (troeth—llif) A diabetes.

rofa, s. f.—pl. trofeydd (tro) A place of turning or revolving; a turn; a tropic; a glance.

*Gwddol, ar drofa golwg,
Gwen her,—*

I saw, with a glance of the eye, a sweet smile.

Bede Brugnallys.

rofiad, s. m. (trofau) A turning; a revolving; a transition.

rofiawl, a. (trofau) Turning; flexuous.

rofiedd, s. m. (trofa) Tortuosity, flexure.

rofaeg, s. f.—pl. t. an (trofa) A trope.

rofan, s. f.—pl. t. an (tro—man) A tropic.

rofanawl, a. (trofan) Tropical, of the tropic.

rofa, v. a. (trofa) To make a turn.

*Mai naidr fyddar yn trofa,
Tan gas ei oblaenau cyadyd.*

Like the deaf adder winding round, with closing her repulsive ears.

Edm. Fry.

rofaus, a. (trofa) Flexuous; tortuous.

rofaul, a. (trawf) Tending to pass over; a periphery; tending forward.

rofedig, a. (trawf) Being made transitive; being led forward; being instructed, disciplined.

VOL. II.

Trofedigion neu awenyddion, disciples or students. Barddas.

Trofedigaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (trofedig) The act of transition; the act or state of forwarding; a discipleship.

Trofiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (trawf) A transition; a passage; a clause. Trofiadau cuniadaeth, the transitions of music.

Trofiant, s. m. (trawf) A pass over; transition.

Trofus, a. (trawf) Tending to pass over.

Trofusder, s. m. (trofus) A transitive state.

Trohidl, s. m. (tro—hidl) An instrument for the twisting of ropes.

Troi, v. a. (tro) To turn. Troi tir, to plough land: Troi ar, to chide; tro arni, chide her.

Eswag a dry y cellwair yn wir.

The guilty will turn the jesting to truth.

Adage.

*Gwas a dro o glun i glun,
Ac ni fedda both ei hun.*

Woe to him that turns from side to side, and who possesses nothing for himself.

Adage.

*Try allan ddynion trillu,
A rydd, a fydd, ac a fu—
Gor bron ymad.*

There will turn out of men three hosts, that be, that will be, and that have been, in the presence of the Judge.

Gro. Owein.

Grym a gwandd, trânt o'r eidd.

Strength and weakness, they turn from the birth.

Adage.

Troiad, s. m. (troi) A turning, a circling.

Troiadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (troiad) That effects a turning or transition.

Troiadr, s. m.—pl. t. on (troiad) That forms a transition or turn.

Cefn ar na fedrais fydd, Gyferdd draw a'r gerdd droiadr.

I obtained, though I knew no metre, a contact there with the song that abounds with transition. I. ab R. ab Iwan Llyrd.

Trôl, s. c.—pl. t. ian (ty—rhôl) A cylinder, a roller; a roll; a small cart, otherwise called câr trôl; also, a round fat man. Berfa drôl, a wheelbarrow.

Trôlaid, s. f.—pl. troleidiau (trôl) A cart load.

Trôlaidd, a. (trôl) Cylindrical, like a roll.

Trôlen, s. f. (trôl) A roundlet; a fat female.

Trôliad, s. m. (trôl) A trolling, a rolling.

Trôlian, v. a. (trôl) To troll, to keep rolling.

Trôliaw, v. a. (trôl) To troll, to trundle.

Trôliedig, a. (trôliad) Trolled; trundled.

Trôliwr, s. m.—pl. troliwyr (trôl—gwr) A troller; one who rolls; a trandler.

Trôlyn, s. m. dim. (trôl) A roller; a fat one.

Trôlyn o ddyn, a chubby person.

Trôlynnidd, a. (trôlyn) Of the form of a roll.

Trôlynawg, a. (trôlyn) Cylindrical.

Trôlyniad, s. m. (trôlyn) A making a roll.

Trôlynnu, v. a. (trôlyn) To form a cylinder.

Trom, a. (s. of trwm) Heavy, weighty; sad.

Tromfron, s. f. (bron) A grief-oppressed breast.

Tromgad, s. f. (trom—cad) A main battle.

Tromleddf, a. (trom—lleddf) Gravely inflective, a term in prosody for syllables like ceirw.

Tromsain, s. f.—pl. tromseiniau (trom—sain) A grave accent.

Tron, s. f.—pl. t. an (tro—on) A circle, a round; a throne.

Trônawl, a. (trawn) Transcendent.

Trônawl, a. (trôn) Relating to a periphery.

Trôni, v. a. (trawn) To render superior.

Trôni, v. a. (trôn) To rim; to form a periphery.

Trôniad, s. m. (trawn) A transcending.

4 D

Troùiad, s. m. (trôn) A forming a circle, round.
Tros, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tro—os) That is over or placed across, a transverse bar; a lock.
Tros, prep. (tro—os) Over; for, instead of. adv.
Over. Teg dros ben, supremely fair; da dros ben, excellently good: Ei drosto ar redeg, thou wilt go over it on full speed.—Trosaf, trosaf, over or for me; trosot, trosot, over or for thee; troso, trosto, over or for him and it; trosti, trosti, over or for her; trosom, trostom, over or for us; trosoch, trosloch, over or for you; trosynt, trostynt, over or for them.

Dyddi chwast dros ben y cant.

Capidity snatches over a hundred.

Adage.

Gwna dda dros ddwr, uffern ni'th dda.

Do good for evil, hell will not have thee.

Adage.

A ddinia dros ei fai, a wnaidd ddiolw o un cythraul.

He that pleads for his fault makes two devils out of one fond.

Adage.

Ni doddyn dros ei waeth, Fobl anhyfaeth Nanhyf-r.

They come not over sea again, the uncivilized people of Nanhyf-r.

Metaph.

Trosadwy, a. (tros) Capable of being driven over.

Trosedig, a. (tros) Diverted, or turned aside.

Trosedd, s. m. (tros) Transgression, trespass.

Troseddadwy, a. (trosedd) Transgressable.

Troseddawg, a. (trosedd) Full of transgression.

Troseddawl, a. (trosedd) Transgressing.

Troseddedig, a. (trosedd) Being transgressed.

Troseddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trosedd) Transgression.

Troseddu, v. a. (trosedd) To transgress; to err.

Troseddwr, s. m.—pl. troseddwy (trosedd—gwr) A transgressor.

Trosel, s. m.—pl. t. i (tros) A plashed fence.

Troselu, v. a. (trosel) To plash a fence.

Trosenw, s. m.—pl. t. au (tros—enw) A name that is put for another.

Trosenwad, s. m. (trosenw) Transnomination.

Trosenwawl, a. (trosenw) Relating to transnomination.

Trosenwi, v. a. (trosenw) To put one name for another.

Trosfa, s. f.—pl. trosfeydd (tros) A place for turning to. Trosfa gyffredin, a common for turning cattle to.

Trosfynediad, s. m. (tros—mynediad) Metabasis.

Trosglud, s. m. (tros—clud) A conveyance over.

Trosgludaw, v. a. (trosglud) To carry over.

Trosgludawl, a. (trosglud) Transporting.

Trosgludiad, s. m. (trosglud) A transportation.

Trosgliwydd, s. m. (tros—clwydd) A carrying over; a transfer; a conveyance.

Trosgliwyddadwy, a. (trosgliwydd) Transferrable.

Trosgliwyddaw, v. a. (trosgliwydd) To transport; to carry over; to transfer; to convey.

Trosgliwyddawl, a. (trosgliwydd) Transferring.

Trosgliwyddedig, a. (trosgliwydd) Transported; transferred; conveyed over; consigned.

Trosgliwyddedigion, those that are carried over.

Trosgliwyddedigaeth, s. m. (trosgliwyddedig) The act of conveying over or transferring.

Trosgliwyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trosgliwydd) A carrying over, a transporting; a transferring; a consigning.

Trosgliwyddwr, s. m.—pl. trosgliwyddwyr (trosgliwydd—gwr) A transporter.

Trosogl, a. (f. of trosgl) Clumsy, or stumbling.

Angus y ghybodedd drosgl yw hwn chwastl; a byd y prws bodwar hwn i'w yth hwn.

The requisite of the clumsy metricity in a verse of six or eight and the length of the stanza from four verses to eight.

Bards.

Trosi, v. a. (tros) To turn out, to send over, to convey; to move onward; to move about. Trosi gwartheg, to drive out cattle; Trosi i throai, to turn and move about: Trosi parh i hennaint, to verge towards old age.

Elch chwastl a droos yw wylan.

Your laughter will turn to weeping. Cyl. Bards or dms.

Morganwg—

Lle tros iau o'm hennarch.

Morganwg, where a portion of my fondness strays.

D. o. Gwyn.

Trosi ei hwyliu a orng. Ffepan, a ddygys yw wylan. Trosi a orngys, ac wedi cael i'r cwsstyn, cyrchu a wneud Ffepanwylod.

To hold his sails was what Ffepan did; and decreed to report of Tolcan did they; and when they had reached had, he approached the castle of Ffepanwylod.

Gr. o. dms.

Troso, pronom. prep. (tros) Over a person or thing; for or on account of a person or thing. Trosodd, prep. (tros) Over; beyond. adv. Trosol, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traw—ol) A lever; a bar, or bolt, which is placed across any thing.

Mal wy ar drool.

Like an egg on a post.

Adp.

Trosol, v. a. (trosol) To work with a lever.

Trosoliad, s. m. (trosol) A working a lever.

Trosoliaw, v. a. (trosol) To work a lever.

Trosolledig, a. (trosol) Being worked as a lever.

Trosolwaw, s. f. (trosol—gwaw) A lever-bear.

Trosolwydd, s. (trosol—gwydd) Wooden lever.

Trosten, s. f.—pl. t. i (trawst) A long rod.

Trosto, pronom. prep. (tros) Over a person or thing; for or on account of any one.

Parb drosto o hwna, Dws drosto o'i gyd.

Every body for himself, God for us all.

Adp.

Maes dywedyd mynydd a wydd trosto.

It is easier to my mountain than to go over it.

Adp.

Trostr, s. m.—pl. t. au (trawst) A slider.

Gwagys y cleddyf o gordwal du, a thuradur gwardal du.

The glide of the sword of black leather, with gl. sh. a s. sh. sh. sh. sh.

Troterth, s. m.—pl. t. od (trawd—erth) A trotter.

Cyfrwy a roddu eis cafar warch;

Dyrru eis ym droterth.

A saddle thou didst give such as it can not have on its side again a trotter.

T. Pr.

Trotiad, s. (trawd) A trotting, a going on a trot.

Trotial, v. a. (trawd) To keep trotting.

Trotian, v. a. (trawd) To keep trotting.

Y march—

Trosed iau y trostianys.

The horse, under him feet would continue trotting.

Gr. Pr. Bn.

Trotiaw, v. a. (trawd) To trot, to go on a trot.

Trotiawl, a. (trawd) Trotting, apt to trot.

Trotiwr, s. m.—pl. trotiwyr (trawd—gwr) One who trots, a trotter.

Troth, s. m. (tro—oth) That tends through.

Troth, prep. (tro) Through, from side to side.

Dyrrch bar carreg rwr o' hwna.

Lle y mywa trogred trodded troth.

She made the top of the stone with her hammer rwr with horse by side let it bend through the path.

Talcan, Mr. Bards.

Trothi, s. m. (troth) A state of passing through.

trothwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (tooth) A threshold.

Cybydd am drothwy ty y Nadron.

The miser is about the threshold of the house of thieves.

Adage.

trowynt, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tro—gwynt) A whirlwind.

tru, s. m. (ty—rhu) An outcast; wretchedness.

tru, s. (ty—rhu) Being outcast; wretched.

*Tru mór angell dall dull acirfan
Truodd, trô y gymwedd a gymezm'.*

Pitons that so indirectly blind the unseen way of the transgression, which through acidity they take.

Canadyn.

trud, s. m. (tru) A causing misery; a turning to misery or wretchedness.

truidd, a. (tru) Somewhat wretched or piteous.

truan, a. (tru) Feeble, slender; poor, wretched, miserable, pitiful. Wyt yn edrych yn druan iawn, thou dost look very poorly. Druan bach! poor little thing! Druan hyn! poor dear that it was! O druan! oh poor thing! Truaned yw! how miserable it is!

Gwell rhy druanu na rhy druan.

Better too perverse than too wretched.

Adage.

O draenion ddargreudd y llythrenn hifan.

Of piteous tears she then let fall.

Dar. Merddin.

ruanad, s. m. (truanan) A rendering miserable, a becoming miserable.

ruanidd, a. (truan) Somewhat miserable.

ruanau, v. a. (truan) To render wretched; to become miserable or wretched.

ruanawg, a. (truan) Full of wretchedness.

ruanawl, a. (truan) Tending to misery.

ruander, s. m. (truan) Piteousness; misery.

ruanedig, a. (truan) Being made wretched.

ruanedd, s. m. (truan) Wretchedness.

*By sylwedd, truanedd tris,
Mwy ydyw awrodd!*

My substance, a wretchedness of existence, is only a mist invisible.

H. ab Ihuo Fardd Coch.

ruaneiddiad, s. m. (truanidd) A rendering miserable; a becoming wretched.

ruaneiddiaw, v. a. (truanidd) To render miserable; to become miserable.

ruaneiddrwydd, s. m. (truanidd) Miserableness.

ruanen, s. f. dim. (truan) A poor little female.

ruanes, s. f. (truan) A wretched female.

ruaniad, s. m. (truan) A rendering wretched; a becoming wretched.

ruanu, v. a. (truan) To pity, to commiserate; to become feeble, poor, wretched, or miserable.

Truanu wrtho! have pity on him!

ruaw, v. a. (tru) To render piteous; to become piteous, or wretched.

ruawl, a. (tru) Miserable, piteous, wretched.

ruawr, a. (tru) Wretched, or miserable.

Gwell rhy druanu na rhy druanu.

Better it is to be too overbearing than too affect.

Catwg Ddorth.

rudd, s. m. (tru) A break through, a burst.

ruedig, a. (trud) Being made wretched.

ruedd, s. m. (tru) Wretchedness, misery.

rueddu, v. a. (ruedd) To render wretched; to become miserable.

rueddu, a. (ruedd) Piteous, or wretched.

ruiddiad, s. m. (ruidd) A rendering wretched; a becoming wretched.

ruiddiaw, v. a. (ruidd) To render wretched; to become wretched.

ruiniad, s. m.—pl. trueiniad (truan) A wretched one.

Truiniaw, v. a. (truan) To render miserable; to become miserable or pitiful.

Trueiniawl, a. (truan) Tending to misery.

Truineig, a. (truan) Full of misery.

Y rhai euwyr y sy drueinig ac ehwedig.

The wicked ones are wretched and accursed. E. uicarius.

Trueinrwydd, s. m. (truan) Wretchedness.

Trueiniwr, s. m.—pl. trueinwyr (truan—gwr) A wretched man.

Trueni, s. m. (truan) Misery, wretchedness.

Bid lygad Dew ar drueni.

Be the eye of God on wretchedness.

Adage.

Truennas, a. (truan) Miserable, wretched.

Truenusaw, v. a. (truennas) To render miserable, to become wretched.

Truennusdra, s. m. (truennas) Pitifulness.

Truennusedd, s. m. (truennas) Piteousness.

Truennusrwydd, s. m. (truennas) Miserableness.

Truennyn, s. m. dim. (truan) A poor little wretch.

Trugar, a. (tru—car) Compassionate, or merciful.

Tri dyn a ddylid bod yn drugar wrthyt: allud, gwedd, ac smedfud.

Three persons that should be dealt with mercifully: the stranger, the widow, and the orphan.

Cating ab Iwanllir.

Ath orchymynaf gŵr y mawr drugar,

Paidd a gur plant Adall.

I commend thee to the mighty compassionate, he that loves the children of Adam.

Cynddelw.

Gwr a gynall nef, gwir addol gwar,

Gwawr gwerthfawr boed trugar.

He that upholds heaven, the true mansion of peace, the precious light be he merciful.

Bledwyn Fardd.

Trugarad, s. m. (trugarau) Commiseration.

Trugarawl, a. (trugarau) Commiserating.

Trugarau, v. a. (trugar) To commiserate.

A'm trugarawg Arphwydd, trugarod wrthyt,

A mi! wrtho na'm gwrthodol!

And my merciful Lord, may he have mercy on me; and me from him let him not reject.

Iwanllir.

Trugarau, a. (trugarau) Compassionate.

Trugarawg, a. (trugar) Merciful; pitying.

Addoli Duw yw bod yn gylfaw, yn afydd, ac yn drugarawg.

To worship God is, to be just, humble, and merciful. Adage.

Trugarawl, a. (trugar) Commiserating.

Trugarawr, s. m.—pl. trugarawyr (trugarau—gwr) One who commiserates.

Trugarddawn, s. m. (trugar—dawn) A merciful disposition.

Glyned Dew trued ym trugarddawn s

O fawr oes Merfysdawn.

May the Trinity God continue my gift of mercy from the great sovereign of the tribe of Merfyn.

Lt. F. Moch.

Trugaredig, a. (trugar) Compassionated.

Trugaredd, s. m.—pl. t. au (trugar) Compassion.

Car dy Dduw—

Athrw gwir a thrugaredig.

Love thy God, the Lord of truth and mercy. Ihuo Dduw.

Trugareddawg, a. (trugaredd) Merciful.

Trugareddawl, a. (trugaredd) Commiserating.

Trugareddfa, s. f. (trugaredd) A mercy-seat.

Trugarogrwydd, s. m. (trugarawg) Mercifulness.

Trul, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tru) A tool used for turning or trilling of holes.

Truliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trul) A trilling a hole.

Truliaw, v. a. (trul) To trill a hole.

Trull, s. m. (ty—rhull) A store; a store of liquor.

Beirid gynwll am drull, am ddi hdd.

Bards assembling round a store; round three ddraceion.

Cynddelw.

Trulliad, s. m.—pl. trulliaid (trull) One who serves out or draws liquor, a butler.

Y trulliad a ddylly drulliau y llyso, a rhoddli i lawb herwydd y dyllo.

The drawer ought to draw the liquor and to give to every body according to his due. Welsh Laws.

Trulladaeth, s. m. (trulliad) Butlership.

Trulliaes, s. f.—pl. t. au (trulliad) A female butler.

Trullaw, v. a. (trull) To serve out liquor.

Tridyn a'r trillyn yn eu trullaw.

Three persons with the three liquors serving them. L. G. Colli.

Trulliedig, a. (trulliad) Being served with liquor
Trulliwr, s. m.—pl. trulliwyrr (trull—gwr) A server of liquor, a butler.

Trum, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ty—rhwm) A ridge, a back. Trum y mynydd, ridge of the mountain; trum y ty, the roof of the house; trum grwn, the elevated part of a ridge of land; rhych a thrum, furrow and ridge.

*Trefad i dithau y'r trum
Tan gastell teg ei ystum.*

An inheritance for thee is the ridge beneath a castle of splendid aspect. Iolo Goch.

Trumain, a. (trum) Having a ridge, coped.

Nid oddaw o Wynedd Nanyr farn drumain fain fodd.

Of Wynedd he owns nothing, save the coped heap of the narrow grave. Elfen Wen.

Truman, s. c.—pl. trumain (trum) A ridge.

Gwelais drydar crwn ar drumain wor.

I saw a grovelling tamal on the ridges of the sea. Cynddelw.

Trumbeithin, s. pl. (trum—beithin) Ridge tiles.

Trumbeithinen, s. f. (trumbeithin) A ridge tile.

Trumbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (trum—pren) A keel.

Trumiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trum) A ridging.

Trumiaw, v. a. (trum) To ridge, to make a ridge.
to cope, or to trim into a ridge. Trumiaw grwn, to trim or raise a ridge, in a field; trumiaw ty, to form the coping of a house.

*Trum yw'r plwm yn trumiaw'r plas,
To daleis tal dewilion.*

Heavy is the lead coping the nave, the gloomy roof of the houses of religious people. L. Morgenny, i Fyrrchler Nedd.

Trumiawg, a. (trum) Having ridges; ridged.

Trumiawl, a. (trum) Ridging, coping.

Trumwydd, s. m. (trum—gwydd) A keel.

Trus, s. m. (ty—rhus) A ward, or a guard.

Trusi, s. m. (trus) That is an obstacle or guard.

Eiddeden rhag trus trus tewdor.

He put before the breast the thickly covering guard. Anwria.

Trusiaid, s. m.—pl. trusiaid (trus) That wards.

Ei ysgred, of drol, of drolaid.

He is of compact frame, he is daring, he is a bulwark. Ll. P. Meck.

Truslaw, v. a. (trus) To ward off, to guard.

Truslawi, a. (trus) Warding, or guarding.

Truth, s. m. (ty—rhuth) Loose unmeaning talk; flattery, fawning, wheedling.

Truthad, s. m. (truth) A fawning, a wheedling.

Truthadwy, a. (truthad) That may be wheedled.

Truthan, s. c.—pl. truthain (truth) A wheedler.

*Y truthan a'i truthad;
Croesnach croes a conai.*

The wheedler would declare it; sheer ribaldry would he talk. D. ab Owlym, i R. Merger.

Truthgar, s. (truth) Apt to fawn or to wheedle.

Truthgarwch, s. m. (truthgar) Aptness to fawn.

Truthiad, s. m.—pl. truthiaid (truth) A sycophant

Truthiaith, s. f. (truth—iaith) A fawning; flattering language, adulation.

Truthiaw, v. a. (truth) To fawn, or to wheedle.

Truthiawg, a. (truth) Fawning, or feeding.

Truthiawl, a. (truth) Apt to fawn or wheedle.

Truthiedig, a. (truthiad) Being wheedled.

Truthiwr, s. m.—pl. truthiwyrr (truth—gwr) A fawner, a wheedler.

Trw, s. m. (ty—rhw) A turn, or whirl; a state of penetrating or pervading; that is thoroughly or quite. It is prefixed in composition.

Trw, prep. (ty—rhw) Through, or by.

Nid oes iai ymladd a gwyrr rhoco, manyr—trw ymladdu cicer, ceflaw tangnefedda ag wyn.

We have not to fight with yonder men, but, through open a piousness, to endeavour to make peace with them. Dru. y Brwm.

Trwb, s. m. (ty—rhwb) That is rubbed.

Trwc, s. m.—pl. trycion (trw) That is rounded: a turn; a truck.

Moes y march ddyw—

*Trwc lawrdd trwc i cruch,
Trwys fwl hardd, trwys fwl huch.*

Give me a lacy stool, the handker truck, a truckle for my sake, a froward comely son, a lump like a sw. Im. ab Iwan.

Trwca, s. m.—pl. t. od (trwc) A bowl, a cap.

Trwcwl, s. m. (trwc) A rundle; a truckle.

Moes drwcwl—o farch—

Cleddwrn, liopandwrn, pendrit.

Give me a truckle of a stool, our-drooping, heavy-bed, wearing his head. Im. ab Iwan.

Trwch, s. m. (ty—rhwch) A cut into, an incision a section; a thickness or depth; a charl. druch tribys, of the depth of three fingers.

Chwennwyr truch i dria.

The charl is addicted to contention. Adp.

Trwch, a. (ty—rhwch) Cut; broken, unimpaired, unlicky; desperate, fell.

*Trwchyd hwynt f'm tra oed;
Trwch f'm gyfarfod a'r tr.*

They have been ordained to frighten me extremely; I am lucky to meet with the three. D. ab Owlym, i adp.

Trwd, s. m. (trw) That is circulating; that pervades, or passes through.

Trwl, s. m.—pl. tryllan (trw) A pack; a cushion a couch. Trwl o ddyn, a lump of a man.

Trwli, s. m. (trwl) That is round and bally.

Trwli mudi, a fat squabby woman.

Trwliad, s. m.—pl. t. ag (trwl) A bundling up.

Trwlian, v. a. (trwl) To heap together; to roll together.

Trwliaw, v. a. (trwl) To bundle; to roll.

Trwlyn, s. m. dim. (trwl) A soft heap or lump.

Trwlyn o ddyn, a fat chub of a man.

Trwm, s. m.—pl. trymion (ty—rhwm) That heavy, a pressure.

O bob trwm trymaid hantod.

Of every pressure the most pressing is old age. Adp.

Trwm, a. (ty—rhwm) Heavy, weighty; and Trymaid dial yw dymyg.

The heaviest revenge is contempt. Adp.

Maw Morgenny, mawr Cyfrin.

Maw Morgenny mawr tris; Trymaid oed tan dy addolad at, fardd!

Morgenny dead, Cyfrin dead, Morgenny the heaviest of death dead: most and the lingering that thou art left, O Morgenny Cyfrin Morgenny.

Trwmgalon, s. m. (trwm—calon) One with heavy heart. a. Heavy at heart.

Adp. pob trwmgalon.

Disconsol in every heavy hearted one. Adp.

Trwmorddlig, a. (trwm—gorddlig) Balky &c ure; ~~and~~ ~~the~~

TRY

ng.
h a cally the

d. lopped out or

A chop-

A cutter, exclusion.

ain.
and the mangrove
L. at Jernorth.

f; truncated.
An incision.

isive, incisary. rychion) A cut-ate of being cut rief.

set yw hnyr amwr af-arrest for her; that is to nd vengeance. Jer. Owein.

Calamitous.

b) A causing a calaning disastrous.

b) To cause a calami-

b) Disastrous, fell.

ch) Cuttings; shreds.

rychion) A shred.

au (trwch—flam) A dis-thrwyddedawg llys Arthur, the three free guests of the court of Arthur.

Na ddal dy dy wrth gyngor dy drwyddedawg.

Keep not thy house according to the advice of thy guest.
Adage.

Drwg a drefna wrth ei drwyddedawg.

Badly off is he who manages by the advice of his guest.
Adage.

Nid trwyddedawg ond dinah.

There is no free traveller like a penny.
Adage.

Trwyddedawl, a. (trwydded) Relating to the free passing through; licensing.

Trwyddedig, a. (trwydded) Freely admitted.

Trwyddedogaeth, s. f. (trwyddedawg) Freedom of passing through.

Tair baint heidd Ynys Prydain: trwyddedogaeth lle yr elont, nas dyer arf noeth yn eu herbyn, a gair eu gair lwy ar hawb.

The three privileges of the bards of the Isle of Britain: freedom of journeying wherever they go, that a naked weapon be not borne against them, and that their word be taken before every one.
Barddas.

Trwyddedogi, v. a. (trwyddedawg) To permit a free passage.

Trwyddedogiad, s. m. (trwyddedawg) A rendering of free passage, permission of passing.

Trwyddedogrwydd, s. m. (trwyddedawg) Freedom of passing through, free admission.

Trwyddedu, v. a. (trwydded) To pass through; to give free reception.

Trwyddedwr, s. m.—pl. trwyddedwyr (trwydded—gwr) One who freely passes through.

Trwyddedwraig, s. f.—pl. trwyddedwreiged (trwydded—gwraig) A free female ranger.

Trwyddedwraig lleu bewel, Trig a dyhaud, Forfudd, &c.

The free ranger of the glade of birches, stay and solace me, O, Morvudd!

Trwyddew, s. m. (trwydd) What perforates; a piercer, a borer.

Trwyddiad, s. m. (trwydd) A passing through.

Trwyddydd, s. m.—pl. trwyddydd (trwydd) A passage through; a pass; leave of ingress and regress; licence, admittance; fare; provision.

Trwyll, s. f.—pl. trwyll (trwy) What turns round; a swivel, or ring, on a pivot; a ring in a swine's nose.

Dodi trwyll yn ei drwyn.

To put a ring in his nose.
Adage.

Mi yn son am Wyl Fair; ti yn son am drwyll mochn.

I talking about Lady Day; thou talking about a pig's ring.
Adage.

Barrydd i fynydd mewn cerbyd, yr hon oedd a thrwyll o aur, a dau larch gwynion yn ei dyau.

I mounted up in a chariot the which had a ring of gold, and two white steeds drawing it.
Marchawg Croyddod.

Trwyllaw, v. a. (trwyll) To form a swivel, or ring, to turn round on a pivot; to ring a pig's nose; to trowl, or to fish by trawling.

Da trwyllaw trwyn mochn a fo yn tirlaw.

It is well to ring a pig's nose that turns the ground.
Adage.

Trwyllawg, a. (trwyll) Having a swivel, or ring.

Trwylliad, s. m. (trwyll) A swivelling; a forming a ring; a forming a pivot.

Trwyn, s. m.—pl. trwyn (trwy) A point; a snout; a nozzle; a nose. Trwyn y llo, snapdragon.

Sychu trwyn y oeth i fynydd i'r pridd.

To wipe the point of the share before it goes into the soil.
Adage.

Trwynaw, v. a. (trwyn) To nozzle; to nose, to smell with the nose close to a thing.

Trwynawg, a. (trwyn) Having a snout or nose.

Trwynawl, a. (trwyn) Belonging to the snout; nasal.

Trwynbant, a. (trwyn—bant) Having the nose falling in.

Trwynbica, a. (trwyn—pica) Having a turned up nose; snub-nosed.

Trwynbwt, a. (trwyn—pwt) Snub-nosed.

Trwyndwa, a. (trwyn—twn) Broken-nosed.

Trwynedig, a. (trwyn) Snouted; nosed.

Trwynfawr, a. (trwyn—mawr) Large-nosed.

Trwynfyr, a. (trwyn—fyr) Short-nosed.

Trwynffrwy, s. f.—pl. ff. an (trwyn—ffrwy) A nose-band of a bridle.

Trwynffychain, v. a. (trwyn—ffychain) To snort, to snuffle. a. m. A snorting, a snuffling.

Trwynffychain ac agori ei mawr a erug.

Snorting and opening his jaw was what he did.

H. Evans—Mabonwg.

Trwynganad, a. (trwyn—casad) Having the nose closed up.

Trwyngorn, a. (trwyn—corn) Horn-nosed.

Trwyngorniawg, a. (trwyngorn) Having a horned nose. s. m. A rhinoceros.

Trwyngwrn, a. (trwyn—crwn) Having an aquiline nose.

Trwyngrych, a. (trwyn—crych) Crinkle-nosed.

Trwyngrychiad, s. m. (trwyngrych) A crinkling the nose.

Trwyngrychs, v. a. (trwyngrych) To nose crinkle.

Trwynhir, a. (trwyn—hir) Long-nosed.

Trwyniad, s. m. (trwyn) A nosing, a smelling.

Trwynllem, a. (f. of trwynllym) Sharp-nosed.

Trwynllif, s. m. (llif) A running at the nose.

Trwynllifaw, v. a. (trwynllif) To run at the nose.

Trwynllifawg, a. (trwynllif) Snively.

Trwynllym, a. (trwyn—llym) Sharp-nosed.

Trwynsor, a. (trwyn—sor) Apt to turn the nose; apt to take a huff. Y trwynsor, the stinkier goose-foot.

Trwynsori, v. a. (trwynsor) To turn up the nose; to take a huff.

Trwynsoriad, s. m. (trwynsor) A turning up the nose, a taking a huff.

Trwynswch, s. m. (trwyn—swch) Tip of the nose.

Trwyo, prep. (trwy) Through. ade. Through, to the other side.

Trwyogaeth, s. f.—pl. trwyogaeth (trwyawg) The act or state of passing through; pervasion.

Tair trwyogaeth oedd: trylio, trwyf, a thrwym.

The three pervasions of song: thorough learning, thorough vigour, and thorough nature.
Marchawg.

Trwyogedd, s. m. (trwyawg) Pervasiveness.

Trwyogi, v. a. (trwyawg) To render pervading; to become pervasive.

Trwyth, s. f.—pl. trwyth (trwy) What pervades; a solvent, dissolvent, or menstruum; lye; a decoction. Trwyth Trwyth, the bursting boat.

Trwythadwy, a. (trwyth) Capable of being affected by a menstruum or lye.

Trwythaw, v. a. (trwyth) To make a solvent or menstruum; to steep in lye; to wash in hot lye.

Trwythawl, a. (trwyth) Belonging to a solvent or menstruum; steeped in lye.

Trwythedig, a. (trwyth) Being steeped in lye.

Trwythi, s. m. (trwyth) A menstruum; lye.

Trwythiad, s. m. (trwyth) A forming a solvent or menstruum; a steeping in lye.

Trwythwr, s. m.—pl. trwythwyr (trwyth—gwr) One who steeps in lye.

Try, s. m. (ty—rhy) Aptness to go beyond, to turn, to go to the other side, or to go through.

prep. Through. adv. Through.—It is used as a prefix in composition.

Didraw both dry, such a drol.

Wandering, he went through, he went from home.

Idion Rhaidr.

Tryad, s. m. (try) A passing through; pervasion.

Tryal, s. m.—pl. t. au (try—al) A homestead.

Tryarlais, a. (try—arlais) Of a stunning voice.

Dyn tryarlais, a person with a stunning voice.

Tryaw, v. a. (try) To render thorough.

Tryawch, s. f. (try—awch) A pervading energy to attract; magnetism.

Tryawchiad, s. m. (tryawch) A magnetising.

Tryawchu, v. a. (tryawch) To magnetize.

Tryb, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ty—rhyb) The state of being connected or blended.

Tryboddad, s. m. (try—boddad) A dashing thoroughly; a wallowing completely.

Tryboddau, s. a. (try—boddau) To dash thoroughly.

Trybawl, a. (tryb) Tending to blend or to mix.

Trybed, s. f.—pl. t. au (try—ped) A brandiron.

Trybedd, s. f.—pl. t. m. (try—pedd) A stay, or support: a trivet, or brandiron. Trybedd gr ysgwyd, the collar-bone.

Trybeddawg, a. (trybedd) Of thorough footing.

Trybeddawl, a. (trybedd) Thoroughly supporting.

Trybeddiad, s. m. (trybedd) A making a stay.

Trybeddu, v. a. (trybedd) To make a stay.

Trybeddiad rhawd rhag eu dardd.

Let the hand make a firm stay against their coming. Tellerin.

Trybelid, a. (try—pelid) That is thoroughly penetrating; perspicuous, luminous.

Trybelid wyddu a wryst enaf.

The quickly hearing ear-movers guard upon me. Cynddelw.

Morwyn y wledd, mor drybedd,

Mirais gwl, o bwl a bwl gwyd.

A damsel I beheld, so elegant, transcendently wise, who from a throne would be far heard of. Ior. Fyfein.

Cywed, di was Araf euall, orld faw-lawr;

Gowod o synwryfawr faw drybedd.

Alas, thou youth of the line of Araf, meet on the grand scene; from the grandly wise we expect a perspicuous sentence. Philip Brydydd.

Trybelidiad, s. m. (trybelid) A penetrating thoroughly; a making perspicuous.

Lle Maegwyn by ysgyn y dachau,

Aerwyr ced, trybelidiad gwadidau.

The hosts of Maegwyn it was fortunate that they came, the warriors of liberality, the illumination of the gory plains. Ym. Tellerin a Merddin.

Trybelidiaw, v. a. (trybelid) To penetrate thoroughly; to become perspicuous.

Trybelidrydd, s. m. (trybelid) Perspicuousness.

Trybelyd, a. (try—pelyd) Thoroughly radiant.

Trybelydr, s. m. (trybelyd) A thorough radiance.

Trybelydrawg, a. (trybelydr) Thoroughly radiant.

Trybelydriad, s. m. (trybelydr) A radiating through.

Trybelydro, v. a. (trybelydr) To radiate through.

Trybest, s. m. (tryb) Bustle, or commotion.

Trybestawd, s. m. (trybest) A bustling state.

Astoriada Fflamddwyn, faw drybestawd, a deodyn yw ngwystion!—

Then rapt Fflamddwyn, of mighty bustle, would they give in as hasting? Tellerin.

Frybestiad, s. m. (trybest) A bustling.

Frybestu, v. a. (trybest) To bustle, to bluster.

Frybestyd, s. m. (trybest) Bustle; officiousness.

Fryblieth, s. m. (try—plith) A chaos.

Fryboeth, a. (poeth) Being thoroughly hot.

Fryboethi, v. a. (tryboeth) To heat thoroughly.

Fryboethiad, s. m. (tryboeth) A thoroughly heating.

Trybola, s. m. (trybawl) A mixture; a wallowing place, a mire where swine wallow.

Tryboli, v. a. (trybawl) To huddle; to wallow.

Tryboliad, s. m. (trybawl) A huddling; a wallowing.

Trybwl, a. (try—pwl) Thoroughly dull.

Trybwyll, s. m. (pwyll) Thorough reason. a.

Thoroughly rational; of a penetrating mind.

Trybwyllaw, v. a. (trybwyll) To endue with a penetrating mind; to exert a penetrating mind.

Trybwyllawg, a. (trybwyll) Of a penetrating mind.

Trybwylliad, s. m. (trybwyll) An endowing with a penetrating mind; penetration of mind.

Trybwyllan, a. (trybwyll) Of a penetrating mind.

Trybwlawg, a. (trybwl) Being pervaded or loaded with what is thick and heavy. Hin drybwlawg, thick gloomy weather, without rain.

Trybylliad, s. m. (trybwl) A pervasion of dullness.

Trybylu, v. a. (trybwl) To pervade with dullness.

Tryciad, s. m. (trwc) A dragging heavily; a falling, a flagging.

Tryclaw, v. a. (trwc) To cause to fail; to flag.

Drag him, pan dryciad creitl—

Draw of you.

The towering leader, when others should fail, grant his energy. T. Aled.

Tryclaw ordal dr Gwlad.

To cause to fall the region of the land of Cornwall.

Tryclaw ordal dr Gwlad. Hywel Reddall.

Tryclawl, a. (trwc) Flaggings, draggings.

Trycliedig, a. (tryciad) Being made to flag.

Trych, s. m. (ty—rhych) An opening; a scope.

Trychad, s. m. (trwch) A cutting off, excision.

Trychadwy, a. (trychad) Capable of being cut.

Trychawl, a. (trwch) Cutting, mangling, lopping.

Trychddawn, a. (trwch—dawn) Endued with a cutting quality.

Trycheb, s. f.—pl. t. au (trwch) The figure called a thesis, whereby a word is divided by the interposition of another.

Trychedig, a. (trwch) Being cut or bisected.

Trychedd, a. m. (trwch) The state of being lopped.

Trychfa, s. f.—pl. trychfydd (trwch) A cut or chopping-place.

Trychgyf, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trwch—cyf) A chopping-block.

Trychiad, s. m.—pl. trychiad (trwch) A cutter, a lopper; that makes an incision or excision.

A' i'w cyfawr cyfawr i'w t'wch,

A trychiad gwerin Caerfyrddin faw.

And his leader met insurrection and tumult, and the manglers of the people of Caerfyrddin built of stone.

Ein. ab Gwgawn, t. L. ab Iarworth.

Trychiedig, a. (trwch) Being cut off; truncated.

Trychiedigaeth, s. m. (trychiedig) An incision.

Trychiedigawl, a. (trychiedig) Incisive, incisary.

Trychiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trychiad) A cutter, a lopper.

Trychineb, s. m. (trwch) The state of being cut off; disaster, calamity; mischief.

Ar fyrder y daw amser cynhaui laddi; set yw hywy amser af-hydd, trychineb, a dyledd.

Shortly there will come the time of harvest for her; that is to say, the time of misfortune, mischief, and vengeance. Ior. Owen.

Trychinebawl, a. (trychineb) Calamitous.

Trychinebiad, s. m. (trychineb) A causing a calamity or mischief; a becoming disastrous.

Trychinebu, v. a. (trychineb) To cause a calamity; to become calamitous.

Trychinebus, a. (trychineb) Disastrous, fell.

Trychion, s. pl. eggr. (trwch) Cuttings; shreds.

Trychionyn, s. m. dim. (trychion) A shred.

Trychlam, s. m.—pl. t. au (trwch—flam) A disastrous or sad step.

Trychaf, s. m. (trwch) Disaster, calamity, mishap, misfortune.

Trychaf, nid hawdd o' ochel.

Disaster, it is not easy to avoid it.

Adage.

—Aeth fy mwa i

Yn dri-chwap, anafon drychaf.

My bow is gone in three pieces, a woeful accident.

D. ab Gwilym.

Trycholedeb, s. m. (trychawl) A mangled state.

Trycholedd, s. m. (trychawl) A mangled state.

Trycholi, v. a. (trychawl) To render mangled; to become cut and mangled.

Trychu, v. a. (trwch) To cut, to cut into, to make an incision; to lop.

*Trychwys Eingt: trychlon es hadawai.
Loegryso hwygynt lleigynt nid lai,
Can lia.*

*He mangled the Angles: mangled ones he would leave them.
To the Lloegrians the devastation of wrath not the less, though he be slain.*

Cynddelw, m. Cadwallon.

Gwinitlan eydd i ym hanwyld—ac ef a drychodd winwryf ynddi.

To my well beloved there is a vineyard: and he cut a wine-press in it.

Isaiah 5. 2.

Trychwan, s. m. (trwch—gwan) A slit, a split.

Trychwanawg, a. (trychwan) Having slits. Llen-llian drychwanawg, a veil cloth full of slits.

Trychwannu, s. m. (trychwan) To slit, to split.

Trychwil, a. (try—chwil) Thoroughly searching.

Trychwillaw, v. a. (trychwil) To search keenly.

Trychwn, s. m. (try—cwn) That bursts or rises through. a. Bursting through.

Trychwr, s. m.—pl. trychwyr (trwch—gwr) A cutter, a lopper.

Trychwydd, s. m. (trych—gwydd) A glance of the present; a glance or view of knowledge.

*Cerddgar cyfarwar cyfarwydd yw Daw
Diwedder eyn trychwydd;
A'n rhodden, nid rhodd gwatadwydd,
Trech Wynydd, haelonedd hyrydd.*

The calm pleasure of the love of song is cognisable with God, he that determines before the glance of knowledge; he who gave, not the gift of disgrace, that Gwynedd, prosperous in liberality, should prevail.

Cynddelw, m. O. Gwynedd.

Trychwyddaw, v. a. (trychwydd) To obtain visual knowledge.

Trychwyddawl, a. (trychwydd) Visibly present.

Trychwyddiad, s. (trychwydd) A visibly knowing

Trychwyl, s. f. (trw—chwyl) A course through.

Trychwyllaw, v. (trychwyl) To circulate through.

Trychwyliad, s. m. (trychwyl) A circulating through.

Trychwys, s. m. (trw—chwys) A sweat through.

Trychwsawl, a. (trychwys) Transuding.

Trychwysiad, s. m. (trychwys) Transudation.

Trychwysan, v. a. (trychwys) To transude.

Trychwyth, s. m. (trw—chwyth) A blast through.

Trychwythawl, a. (trychwyth) Blowing through.

Trychwythiad, s. (trychwyth) A blowing through.

Trychwythu, v. a. (trychwyth) To blow through.

Trychydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trwch) A cutter, a lopper.

Trychyn, s. m. dim. (trwch) A small cut, a nip.

Tryd, s. m. (try) That tends through. a. Apt to penetrate, or to run through.

*Annelais rhwng fy nwyllaw
Fwa, yw dryd a fu draw.*

I aimed between my hands a yew bow, pervading was the shock.

D. ab Gwilym.

Trydan, s. m. (trw—tan) A pervading principle of expansion, a pervading fire; electric fluid.

Trydanawl, a. (trydan) Belonging to the electric fluid.

Trydaniad, s. m. (trydan) An electrifying.

Trydaniaeth, s. m. (trydan) Electricity.

Trydawn, v. a. (trydan) To electrify.

Trydar, s. f. (tryd—ar) A pervading noise; a chirp, a chatter; a din, a tumult.

*Oedd rym rudd chyr o'r gwyr gwyr;
Oedd ran (dwr fwyaf o'r dryder;
Oedd amllw thuna, twa amwr en mudi
Nid oeddant ddiar.*

There ran dreadful streams of red from the ulcers men; but were they the greatest part of the tumult; motley toward were the waves, breaking in discordant course, they were not making a silence.

Lt. F. Mack.

Trydar, v. a. (tryd—ar) To make a pervading noise; to chirp, to chatter; to din.

Trydarawl, a. (trydar) Chirping; chattering.

Trydariad, s. m. (trydar) A chatting; a dinning.

Trydaru, v. a. (trydar) To chirp, to chatter.

Trydarwr, s. m.—pl. trydarwyr (trydar—gwr) One who makes a chatter.

Trydarydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trydar) Chatterer.

Tryde, s. f. (tryd) A third. a. Third.

Trydedydd, s. m. (tryd—e—dydd) The third day; the third day of the week. Bardism.

Trydedd, s. f. (tryd—edd) A third. a. Third.

Trydeddwaith, s. f. (trydedd—gwaith) Third time.

Trydewaith, s. (tryde—gwaith) The third time.

Trydiad, s. m. (tryd) A pervasion. Trydell drydiad, the pervasion of destruction.

Trydolwyn, s. f. (tryd—olwyn) Course of a wheel.

*Am curfro, am curfro twryna.
Tori awar trydar trydolwyna.*

Round the golden region, round the golden prominence hurt; a ruthless host makes a tumult like the passing wheel.

Cynddelw, f. v. aryl. Rhys.

Trydon, s. f. (tryd) That is pervasive. Y drydon, the stinking goose-foot; also called trwynawr.

Trydon, a. (try—ton) Thoroughly toned.

Trydon dy ffa ar hancrch Trydar o'w, trawlder seorch.

Full-toned thy strain on the glade, with smart chirp, the crier of love.

D. ab Gwilym, f. f. p. 10.

Trydwan, s. m. (tryd—gwan) Four days to come. ade. Four days hence.

Trydwl, s. m.—pl. trydyllau (trw—twll) A hole through any thing, a perforation. a. Perforated.

Trydy, s. m. (tryd) The third. a. Third.

Trydydyn, s. m. (trydy—dyn) A third person.

Trydydd, s. m. (tryd—ydd) A third, one out of three. a. Third.

Trydydd anabegwr brentu yw ei bentaleu; y ddyn mudi yw ei offeiriad teulu, ac ei ymad lly.

The third indispensable of a king is his patron of the family, the other two are his domestic chaplain, and his judge of his palace.

Welsh Laws.

Pan welai Llyr nad oedd ganddo senawr writh ei awgwrth, ac ei fod ar ei drydydd, cywilyddaw a wad.

When Llyr perceived that he had not money to his father, so that he was on his third, he became ashamed.

Gr. ab Iwan.

Trydyddiad, s. m. (trydydd) A forming a third.

Trydyddn, v. a. (trydydd) To tertiate.

Trydygwr, s. m. (trydy—gwr) A third person.

Trydylledig, a. (trydwl) Perforated, bored.

Trydylliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trydwl) Perforation.

Trydyllu, v. a. (trydwl) To perforate.

Trydyllwr, s. m.—pl. trydyllwyr (trydwl—gwr) One who perforates.

Trydyllydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trydwl) Perforator.

Trydd, s. m. (try) That is thoroughly.

Trydded, s. f.—pl. t. au (trydd) Passage through.

Tryddedawg, a. (trydded) Having a free passage.

Tryddedawl, a. (trydded) Passing through.

Tryddediad, s. m. (trydded) A passing through.

Tryddedn, v. a. (trydded) To pass through.

Tryddedwr, s. m.—pl. tryddedwyr (trydded—gwr) A passenger.

Tryddedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trydded) A passer through, a passenger.

Tryddyd, s. m. (trydd) A passage through.

Tryf, s. m. (try) That is thorough.

Tryfal, s. m.—pl. t. au (tryf—al) What has three corners; a trianagl. Tryfal cyfochrawg, equilateral-triangle; tryfal daugyfochr, isosceles-triangle; tryfal enghyfochrawg, a scalenous-triangle; tryfal lleddf, oblique-angular triangle.

Tryfaledd, s. m. (tryfal) The state of having three points or angles; the bottom of a fork, or where it divides.

Tryfaliad, s. m. (tryfal) A forming a triangle.

Tryfala, v. a. (tryfal) To form a triangle.

Tryfall, a. (trw—mall) Thoroughly evil.

Wid mellt tryfall ond dlopt.

There is no evil thoroughly evil but idleness.

Adage.

Tryfalledd, s. m. (tryfall) A state thoroughly evil.

Tryfalliad, s. m. (tryfall) A rendering thoroughly evil; a becoming thoroughly evil.

Tryfallu, v. a. (tryfall) To render thoroughly evil; to become evil thoroughly.

Tryfan, s. m. (try—man) That is spotted through. Dail y tryfan, alan sawr, the petasites, or butter-burr.

Tryfar, s. m. (trw—bar) Thorough wrath. a. Malignant.

Tryfarns, a. (tryfar) Thoroughly malignant.

Tryfawl, a. (tryf) Being thorough or complete.

Tryfer, s. f.—pl. t. i (tryf) A forked spear, or harpoon.

A tryfer brwydr a thrafod.

And the barbed shaft of battle and tumult.

Iolo Goch.

Tryferawg, a. (tryfer) Having a bearded spear.

Tryferiad, s. m. (tryfer) A harpooning.

Tryferu, v. a. (tryfer) To spear; to harpoon. 'Tryferai alon, he transfixt the foes.

Tryferw, s. m. (trw—berw) A thorough boil. a. Thoroughly boiling.

Tryferwad, s. m. (tryferw) A boiling through.

Tryferwl, v. a. (tryferw) To boil through.

Tryferwr, s. m.—pl. tryferwyr (tryfer—gwr) A spearer; a harpooner.

Tryfesur, s. m.—pl. t. au (trw—mesur) A diameter

Tryfesuraw, v. a. (tryfesur) To form a diameter.

Tryfesurawl, a. (tryfesur) Diametrical.

Tryfesuriad, s. m. (tryfesur) A measuring a diameter.

Tryfol, s. m. (try—bol) That is all belly.

Tryfoliad, s. m. (tryfol) A gormandizing.

Tryfoliaw, v. a. (tryfol) To gormandize.

Tryfoliawg, a. (tryfol) Gormandizing.

Tryfoliwr, s. m.—pl. tryfoliwr (tryfol—gwr) A gormandizer, a greedy-gut.

Tryfrad, s. m. (trw—brad) Thorough treachery.

Tryfrith, a. (trw—brith) Streaked, diversified, or spotted all through; thoroughly mixed; swarming, or teeming. Mae y mor yn dryfrith o bysgod, the sea is swarming with fish.

Tryfrithaw, v. a. (tryfrith) To variegatethoroughly; to mix all through; to be swarming.

Tryfrithiad, s. m. (tryfrith) A variegatingthoroughly; a mixing thoroughly; a swarming.

Tryfrwyd, s. m. (trw—brwyd) The state of darting through and through. a. Interweaving.

Tryfrwydaw, v. a. (tryfrwyd) To run through backwards and forwards.

Yn tryfrwyd pelidri.

Javelins darting through backwards and forwards.

Aneurin.

VOL. II.

Tryfrwydawl, a. (tryfrwyd) Interweaving.

Tryfrwydiad, s. m. (tryfrwyd) An interweaving.

Tryfwg, s. m. (try—mwg) Thorough smoke.

Tryfygawl, a. (tryfwg) Tending to smoke through.

Tryfygiad, s. m. (tryfwg) A thorough fumigation.

Tryfygu, v. a. (tryfwg) To fumigate through.

Tryfyned, v. a. (trw—myned) To go through.

Tryfynediad, s. m. (tryfyned) A going through, a passing through; pervasion.

Tryfyw, a. (trw—byw) Thoroughly alive.

Tryfywiad, s. m. (tryfyw) A thoroughly animating.

Tryfywiaw, v. a. (tryfyw) To animate thoroughly.

Tryfywiawg, a. (tryfyw) Thoroughly animated.

Tryffaeth, a. (trw—ffaeth) Thoroughly mellow.

Tryffaethawl, a. (tryffaeth) Tending to make thoroughly mellow.

Tryffaethder, s. (tryffaeth) Thorough mellowness.

Tryffaethiad, s. m. (tryffaeth) A thoroughly mellowing.

Tryffaethu, v. a. (tryffaeth) To mellow thoroughly.

Tryffin, s. f. (trw—ffin) A thorough boundary.

Tryffiniad, s. m. (tryffin) A making a boundary through.

Tryffiniaw, v. a. (tryffin) To make a boundary through.

Tryffiniawl, a. (tryffin) Thoroughly bounding.

Tryffraw, a. (trw—ffraw) Thoroughly agitated.

Tryffwn, s. m. (try—ffwn) Thorough prosperity.

Am Drefan dryffwn rhwng chiroldydd.

About Treven complete prosperity before the interweaver.

Aneurin.

Tryffwrch, s. m.—pl. tryffyrch (trw—ffwrch) The commencement of a forking, or ramification. Tryffwrch pren, the part of a tree where it becomes forked.

Tryllais, s. m.—pl. trylleisiau (trw—llais) A thorough voice. a. Of thorough voice.

Cyfarhais, yn dryllais, draw.

Well Idd's gun it's lively draw.

I greeted, distinctly of voice, yonder D. ab Gwddi, m. fr' god.

Tryllaw, s. m. (trw—llanw) A thorough fullness.

Tryllaw, s. f. (try—llaw) A complete hand. a. Thoroughly handy; dexterous.

Amrywiol dryllaw dryllus.

Accompanied with wealth, dexterity, of thorough training.

Aneurin.

Tryllawn, a. (trw—llawn) Thoroughly full.

Tryllawnder, s. m. (tryllawn) Thorough fullness.

Tryllawni, v. a. (tryllawn) To fill thoroughly.

Tryllawniad, s. m. (tryllawn) A filling thoroughly.

Tryllef, s. m. (trw—llef) A thorough utterance. a. Of thorough utterance, of complete voice.

Llew trylew, trylef ei geinlaid.

The lion altogether brave, completely of voice his minstrel.

Ll. P. Moch, i R. ab Owain.

Tryllefawl, a. (trylef) Of complete utterance.

Tryllefiad, s. m. (trylef) A rendering of complete utterance.

Tryllefu, v. a. (trylef) To render of complete utterance; to render articulate.

Tryllefiad, s. m. (trylais) A rendering of complete voice.

Tryllefiaw, v. a. (trylais) To articulate clearly.

Tryllefiawl, a. (trylais) Of clear articulation.

Tryllen, s. f.—pl. t. i (trw—llen) Thorough learning. a. Thoroughly learned.

Tryllenwad, s. m. (tryllanw) A thoroughly filling.

Tryllenwawl, a. (tryllanw) Tending to fill thoroughly

E.

Trylenwi, v. a. (trylanw) To fill thoroughly.
 Tryles, s. m. (trw—lles) A thorough benefit.
 Trylesawl, a. (tryles) Thoroughly beneficial.
 Trylesiad, s. m. (tryles) A thoroughly benefiting.
 Trylesu, v. a. (tryles) To benefit thoroughly.
 Trylew, a. (trw—glew) Thoroughly collected; full of capability; very brave.

Ef drylew yn rhw,
 A'i dori drylwyn w/w,
 A'i dariau drylu droch.

He abundant in resources on the pass, with his excellent host of dexterous movement, and his shield broken and pervaded with stains.

Trylewder, s. m. (trylew) The state of thorough resource or ability; thorough bravery.
 Trylewldid, s. m. (trylew) Thorough resource of mind; thorough bravery.
 Trylewych, s. m. (trw—llew) Translucency.
 Trylewychawl, a. (trylew) Translucent.
 Trylewychiad, s. (trylew) A lighting through.
 Trylewychu, v. a. (trylew) To shine through.
 Trylid, s. m. (trw—llid) Thorough rage.
 Trylidiad, s. m. (trylid) A thoroughly angering.
 Trylidiaw, v. a. (trylid) To enrage thoroughly; to become thoroughly angry.
 Trylidiawg, a. (trylid) Thoroughly wrathful.
 Trylif, s. m. (try—llif) A thorough flow.
 Trylifaw, v. a. (trylif) To flow through.
 Trylifawl, a. (trylif) Flowing through.
 Trylifiad, s. m. (trylif) A flowing through.
 Trylith, s. m. (trw—llith) A thorough training.
 Trylithawr, s. m.—pl. trylithorion (trylith) That is thoroughly trained.
 Trylithiad, s. m. (trylith) A thoroughly training.
 Trylithiaw, v. a. (trylith) To train thoroughly.
 Trylithiawl, a. (trylith) Tending to train thoroughly; of a thoroughly alluring tendency.
 Trylithr, a. (trw—llithr) Thoroughly gliding.
 Trylithraw, v. a. (trylithr) To glide through.
 Trylithrawl, a. (trylithr) Apt to glide through.
 Trylithriad, s. m. (trylithr) A gliding through.
 Tryliw, s. m.—pl. t. ian (trw—lliw) A pervading colour. a. Being stained through, of one pervading hue; deeply coloured. 'Tarian dryliw goch,' a shield thoroughly stained with red.
 Tryliwiad, s. m. (tryliw) A colouring through.
 Tryliwiaw, v. a. (tryliw) To pervade with colour, to stain through; to make of a deep dye, to engrain.
 Tryliwiawg, a. (tryliw) Of a thorough colour.
 Tryliwiedig, a. (tryliw) Thoroughly coloured.
 Tryloes, s. f.—pl. t. au (trw—gloes) A pang that penetrates through.
 Tryloesi, v. a. (tryloes) To strike a pang through.
 Tryloesiad, s. m. (tryloes) A striking a pang through.
 Tryloew, a. (trw—gloew) Diaphanous, transparent.
 Tryloewad, s. m. (tryloew) A rendering transparent.
 Tryloewdeb, s. m. (tryloew) Transparency.
 Tryloewder, s. m. (tryloew) Transparency.
 Tryloewdra, s. m. (tryloew) Transparency.
 Tryloewi, v. a. (tryloew) To render transparent.
 Trylon, a. (trw—llon) Being thoroughly glad.
 Trylonder, s. m. (trylon) Thorough gladness.
 Tryloni, v. a. (trylon) To render thoroughly glad; to become pleased thoroughly.
 Tryloniad, s. m. (trylon) A gladdening thoroughly.
 Trylosg, s. m. (llosg) Thorough ignition. a. Thoroughly burnt.
 Trylosgi, v. a. (trylosg) To burn thoroughly.
 Trylosgiad, s. m. (trylosg) A burning thoroughly.
 Trylwg, s. m.—pl. trylwgion (trw—llwg) Perspective.

Trylwyn, a. (trw—llwyn) Very quick, ready, or dexterous; ingenious; thoroughly complete.
 Gur trylwyn, a man of quick capacity; a drylwyn, an illustrious pedigree.

Terfysg a thylew a thyrlwyn ffrondor.

A tumult against the thoroughly brave with a quivering shield.

Dawn pwynt yn lawr, yn ddyn eithryllch

A thyrlwyn bwyllidan.

A talent I justly possess, being a person of capacity without perceptiveness.

Trylwynaw, v. a. (trylwyn) To render thoroughly quick or expert; to become thoroughly quick.
 Trylwyndeb, s. m. (trylwyn) Thorough dexterity.
 Trylwynder, s. m. (trylwyn) Thorough dexterity.
 Trylwyndra, s. m. (trylwyn) Thorough quickness.
 Trylwyniad, s. (trylwyn) A rendering thoroughly quick; a becoming thoroughly quick or expert.
 Trylwyr, a. (trw—llwyr) Thoroughly complete.
 Trylwyraw, v. a. (trylwyr) To render thoroughly complete; to become thoroughly complete.
 Trylwyrddeb, s. m. (trylwyr) Thorough completeness.
 Trylwyrdder, s. m. (trylwyr) Thorough completeness, a state quite entire.
 Trylwyrdra, s. m. (trylwyr) Thorough completeness, or thorough entirety.
 Trylwyriad, s. m. (trylwyr) A thoroughly completing or making entire.
 Trylwys, a. (trw—glwys) Thoroughly hallowed.
 Trylwyssder, s. m. (trylwys) Thorough holiness.
 Trylwyssaw, v. a. (trylwys) To render thoroughly pure, holy, or delectable; to become thoroughly holy.
 Trylwyssiad, s. m. (trylwys) A hallowing thoroughly.
 Trylygawl, a. (trylwg) Relating to perfect vision.
 Trylygiad, s. m. (trylwg) A perspective.
 Trylygiad, s. m. (trylwg) A perspective view; a forming a perspective.
 Trylygn, v. a. (trylwg) To view perspective.
 Trylym, a. (trw—llym) Thoroughly keen.
 Trylymdr, s. m. (trylym) Thorough keenness.
 Trylymdra, s. m. (trylym) Thorough keenness.
 Trylymiad, s. m. (trylym) A rendering thoroughly keen, sharp, or severe.
 Trylymu, v. a. (trylym) To sharpen thoroughly.
 Trylyn, a. (try—glyn) Thoroughly adherent.
 Trylyniad, s. m. (trylyn) A thoroughly adhering.
 Trylynu, v. a. (trylyn) To adhere thoroughly.
 Trym, s. m. (ty—rhym) That is compact. a. Compact; energetic; trim.
 Nid wyf i'ch oedl—
 Ion trym, oed thag ofn na tro
 Gwalth i arall gelyd.
 I am not for putting you off, energetic lord, but for fear of the one disgusting turn of another making an attempt. D. Rhydderch.
 Mae'n y nef yn gartredig,
 Lleu trym, a dyna lle trig.
 He is in heaven residing, the energetic lion, and there he will remain. Tho. W. Evans.
 Trymâd, s. m. (trymân) A rendering heavy or weighty; a becoming heavy; a saddening.
 Trymâawl, a. (trymân) Of a tendency to make heavy; saddening.
 Trymaid, a. (trwm) Somewhat heavy or sad.
 Trymâu, v. a. (trwm) To make heavy, to sadden, to become heavy; to become sad or dejected.
 Trymdr, s. m. (trwm) Heaviness, weightiness, depression, sadness; dejectedness, sorrow.
 Trymdra, s. m. (trwm) Heaviness; sadness.
 Trymdrais, s. m. (trwm—trais) Heavy oppression.
 Trymdde, a. (trwm—de) Pervaded with heaviness; sad; drooping.

Trymeiddiad, s. m. (trymaidd) A rendering somewhat heavy; a becoming rather heavy.
 Trymeiddiau, v. a. (trymaidd) To render somewhat heavy; to become rather heavy.
 Trymeidd-dra, s. m. (trymaidd) A some degree of heaviness or pressure.
 Trymeiddrwydd, s. m. (trymaidd) Some degree of heaviness or pressure.
 Trymedd, s. m. (trwm) Heaviness; sadness.
 Trymfraw, s. m. (trwm—braw) Heavy dread.
 Trymfron, s. f. (trwm—bron) Sad breast.
 Trymfryd, s. m. (trwm—bryd) Depression of mind, pensiveness; sorrow.

Morodd—
 Afraid it ddala trymfryd.
 Am bren, na beciwen o'r byd.

Nervad, needless is it for thee to harbour sadness, about a tree, or any birchen in the world. D. ab Gwilym.

Trymfrydiad, s. m. (trymfryd) A rendering depressed in mind; a becoming dejected.
 Trymfrydig, a. (trymfryd) Oppressed in mind.
 Trymfrydigrwydd, s. m. (trymfryd) Pensiveness.
 Trymgar, s. m. (trwm—car) A heavy throb.
 Trymgaraw, v. a. (trymgar) To beat heavily.
 Trymgarid, s. m. (trymgar) A beating heavily.
 Trymgwg, s. m. (trwm—cwsg) A heavy sleep.
 Trymgwyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (trwm—cwyn) A heavy complaint.
 Trymgwynaw, v. (trymgwyn) To complain sadly.
 Trymgwyniad, s. m. (trymgwyn) A complaining heavily.
 Trymgysgiad, s. m. (trymgwg) A sleeping heavily.
 Trymgysgu, v. a. (trymgwg) To sleep heavily.
 Trymhun, s. f. (trwm—hun) A heavy sleep.
 Trymhunaw, v. a. (trymhun) To sleep heavily.
 Trymhunaw, a. (trymhun) Heavily sleeping.
 Trymhuniad, s. m. (trymhun) A sleeping heavily.
 Trymhwdd, s. m. (trwm—hwrdd) A heavy push.
 Trymhyddawl, a. (trymhwdd) Heavily pushing.
 Trymhyrddiad, s. (trymhwdd) A pushing heavily.
 Trymhyrddig, a. (trymhwdd) Lumpish, blockish.
 Trymhyrddigaw, v. a. (trymhyrddig) To render a blockhead; to become dull and heavy.
 Trymhyrddigrwydd, s. m. (trymhyrddig) Lumpishness, blockishness.
 Trymiad, s. m. (trym) A rendering energetic.
 Trymiaw, v. a. (trym) To render energetic; to become energetic; to become trim.
 Trymiawg, a. (trym) Having compactness; having energy; having trimness.
 Trymiawl, a. (trym) Of a compact tendency.
 Trymlwyth, s. m.—pl. t. i (trwm—llwyth) A heavy load.
 Trymlwythaw, v. a. (trymlwyth) To load heavily.
 Trymlwythawg, a. (trymlwyth) Heavily laden.
 Trymly, s. m. (trwm—lly) A heavy look.
 Trymlyad, s. m. (trymly) A rendering sluggish.
 Trymlyaw, v. a. (trymly) To render sluggish.
 Trymlyawg, a. (trymly) Heavily drooping; drowsy, flagging. Hin drymlyawg, heavily oppressing weather.
 Trymlyogder, s. m. (trymlyawg) Drowsiness.
 Trymlyogi, v. a. (trymlyawg) To render drowsy.
 Trymlyogrwydd, s. (trymlyawg) Drowsiness.
 Trymog, s. f. (trym) One that is compact or trim.

*Rhodda's fy mryd ar galaw;
 Rhwch drymog llorog i'm llaw.*

I set my mind on obtaining one; give a trim one with large limbs into my hand. Iw. ab Huw, i'rrch ddawg.

Trymswrth, a. (trwm—swrth) Heavily sluggish.
 Trymyrthni, s. m. (trymswrth) Drowsiness.
 Trymysg, s. m. (try—mysg) Confusion.

Trymysgawl, a. (trymysg) Tending to confuse.
 Trymygiad, s. m. (trymysg) A confusion.
 Trymysgu, v. a. (trymysg) To blend through and through; to confuse.

Nid hawdd trymysgu ar gell.

It is not easy to bring confusion on the cunning. Adage.

Tryn, s. m.—pl. t. i (ty—rhyu) Ardency, fierceness. a. Ardent, fierce, sharp, stern. Dyn a goliog tryn lawu, a person with a very stern look. Sil.

Trynaidd, a. (tryn) Of an ardent tendency.
 Trynawf, s. m. (trw—nawf) A swim through.
 Trynawl, a. (tryn) Of an ardent quality; of a fierce or stern quality.

Trynaws, s. m. (trw—naws) A temper or quality that pervades.

Trynawsedd, s. m. (trynaws) A pervading temperament or nature.

Trynawsi, v. a. (trynaws) To pervade with a quality or disposition.

Trynawsiad, s. m. (trynaws) A pervading with a quality, disposition, or nature.

Trynedd, s. m. (tryn) Ardency; fierceness.

Trynerth, s. m. (trw—nerth) Thorough strength.

Trynerthawl, a. (trynerth) Thoroughly strong.

Trynerthedd, s. m. (trynerth) Thorough strength.

Trynerthiad, s. m. (trynerth) A thoroughly strengthening.

Trynerthu, v. a. (trynerth) To strengthen thoroughly.

Trynodd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trw—nodd) A pervading juice, or fluid.

Trynoddawl, a. (trynodd) Tending to ooze through.

Trynodd, v. a. (trynodd) To ooze through.

Trynoddad, s. m. (trynodd) An oozing through.

Trynoddlyd, a. (trynodd) Thoroughly oozing.

Trynofiad, s. m. (trynawf) A swimming through.

Trynofaw, v. a. (trynawf) To swim through.

Trynofiad, a. (trynawf) Tending to swim through.

Trynwyd, s. m.—pl. t. an (trw—nwyd) A pervading emotion, energy, or passion.

Trynwydaw, v. a. (trynwyd) To pervade with an emotion or passion.

Trynwydawg, a. (trynwyd) Having a pervading emotion or passion.

Trynwydawl, a. (trynwyd) Being thoroughly impassioned.

Trynwydiad, s. m. (trynwyd) A pervading with an emotion or passion.

Trynwyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (trw—nwyf) Thorough liveliness, thorough vivacity.

Trynwyfaw, v. a. (trynwyf) To render thoroughly brisk or lively; to become full of gaiety.

Trynwyfawl, a. (trynwyf) Thoroughly lively.

Trynwyfiad, s. m. (trynwyf) A rendering full of vivacity; a becoming thoroughly animated or enlivened.

Trynwyfus, a. (trynwyf) Full of vivacity.

Trynwyfusaw, v. a. (trynwyfus) To render full of vivacity; to become thoroughly animated.

Trynwyfusrwydd, s. m. (trynwyfus) A state of thorough liveliness.

Tryred, s. f. (trw—rhed) A run through.

Tryredawl, a. (tryred) Being running through.

Tryreddeg, v. a. (tryred) To run through.

Tryrediad, s. m. (tryred) A running through.

Tryrith, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trw—rith) A thorough appearance.

Tryrithiad, s. m. (tryrith) An appearing through.

Tryrithiaw, v. a. (tryrith) To appear through.
Tryrithiawl, a. (tryrith) Appearing through.
Tryryw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (try—rhyw) A perfect kind. a. Thorough-bred.
Tryrywiad, s. m. (tryryw) A rendering of a perfect kind; a becoming of perfect kind.
Tryrywiaw, v. a. (tryryw) To render of perfect kind; to become of a perfect kind.
Tryrywiawg, a. (tryryw) Being of perfect kind.
Tryrywiawl, a. (tryryw) Of a perfect kind.
Trysain, s. f.—pl. tryseinian (trw—sain) A thorough sound. a. Of complete sound.
Trysawdd, s. f.—pl. trysoddion (trw—sawdd) A cube root.
Trysawr, s. m.—pl. trysoran (trws) A treasure.
Tryseiniad, s. m. (trysain) A thoroughly sounding.
Tryseiniaw, v. a. (trysain) To sound perfectly.
Tryseiniawl, a. (trysain) Of a perfect sound.
Trysglaidd, a. (trwsgl) Somewhat awkward.
Trysgleidd, s. m. (trwsgl) Awkwardness.
Trysgleidd-dra, s. m. (trysglaidd) Awkwardness.
Trysgleiddiad, s. m. (trysglaidd) A rendering clumsy or awkward; a becoming awkward.
Trysgleiddiaw, v. a. (trysglaidd) To render clumsy; to become clumsy or awkward.
Trysgleiddrwydd, s. m. (trysglaidd) Awkwardness.
Trysorawl, a. (trysawr) Belonging to treasure.
Trysorfa, s. f.—pl. trysorfeydd (trysawr) A treasury.
Trysori, v. a. (trysawr) To treasure, to store up.
Trysoriad, s. m. (trysawr) A treasuring.
Trysorwr, s. m.—pl. trysorwyr (trysawr—gwr) A treasurer.

Rhys y Fel Ynys flaenawr—Trysorwr pob cerddawr.

Rhys the sovereign of the Honey Island, the treasurer of every minstrel. D. Nanmor.

Trysorydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trysawr) A treasurer.
Trystan, s. c. (trwst) A noisy one, a blusterer.
Trystfawr, a. (trwst) Of great tumult or din.
Trystfawredd, s. m. (trystfawr) A blusteringness.
Trystiad, s. m. (trwst) A blustering, a clattering.
Trystian, v. a. (trwst) To keep a clattering.
Trystlaw, v. a. (trwst) To make a noise; to rattle; to rustle; to bluster, to bustle.

*Meith a was cnaud—mali blodau—
Nau ddail y gwydd, pan ddol gwynt
I drystlaw'n arw drostynt.*

The body shall fall, like flowers, or the leaves of the wood, when wind shall come to bluster harshly over them.

D. Jones o Lanfale.

Trystiawg, a. (trwst) Full of noise; clattering; blustering.

Trystiawl, a. (trwst) Blustering, clattering.

Trystiwr, s. m.—pl. trystiwywr (trwst—gwr) A blusterer, a clatterer.

Tryswn, s. m. (try—awn) A thorough noise. a. Thoroughly noisy.

Trysyniad, s. (tryswn) A making a noise through.

Trysyniaw, v. a. (tryswn) To noise through.

Trysyniawl, a. (tryswn) Thoroughly noisy.

Trythia, a. (trwth) Expanding, swelling out.

Trythawl, a. (trwth) Tending to expand out.

Trythfa, s. f. (trwth) A stretching place.

Trythgwd, s. m.—pl. trythygdau (trwth—cwd) A bag or satchel that is made to draw together.

Sef yw trythawd: y llawcyddau ag a fo ydynt, eithr aur neu arrian, o bydd lle cerdwyr iysau.

A distending bag is thus considered: the hand-bags in which there may be every thing, except gold and silver, if they be where jewels are kept. Welch Laws.

Trythiad, s. m. (trwth) An expanding out.

Trython, s. m. (try—tôn) The sharp dock.

Trythu, v. a. (trwth) To expand or swell out.

Trythwch, s. m. (trwth) The state of being expanded or filled out.

Trythwr, s. m.—pl. trythwyr (trwth—gwr) One who expands himself out.

Trythyll, a. (trwth) Voluptuous; addicted to pleasure; wanton; indulgent.

Drwg ddichwain trythyll.

Evil is the destiny of one addicted to pleasure. S. Day.

Trythyll maeu yn llaw engud.

Wanton is a stone in an expert hand. S. Day.

Nid oes eidd—

A'! thruth oil all trythyllach.

There is not a bird with all her dotage more wanton.

D. ab Gwilym, i farwel.

Trythyllaidd, a. (trythyll) Rather voluptuous.

Trythylliad, s. m. (trythyll) A living voluptuously; a taking enjoyment, a taking pleasure.

Trythyllu, v. a. (trythyll) To live voluptuously; to take enjoyment; to follow pleasure.

Trythyllwch, s. m. (trythyll) A state of ease or enjoyment; voluptuousness; pleasure.

Megys y celf y rhai da drythyllwch o ddifffwr eidd; hys celf y lleill chwercwedd o ddifffwr drosol.

In the manner that the good ones shall obtain the extreme free will; so the others shall obtain the extreme misery. S. Day.

Trythyllwg, s. m. (trythyll) A state of ease, voluptuousness, or enjoyment; pleasure.

Trythyllwg drwg ei ddichwain.

Pleasure is of evil consequence. S. Day.

Trythyllwg a ddwg i ddyn

Dimodd o'! hir eiddia.

Pleasure will bring to a person vengeance from long pain.

Nid oedd o'r teyrnasoedd a allai ymgyfethu o gyfoeth, a trythyllwg, ac amlder pob da yddi, ag Ynys Prydain.

There was not of the kingdoms that could vie in power, enjoyment, and the abundance of every blessing in it, as the Britain. S. Day.

Trythyllwr, s. m.—pl. trythyllwyr (trythyll—gwr) A voluptuary, a man who takes his enjoyment.

Tryw, s. m. (try) That pervades, that is constant, or constancy; a trace, a trace gives perception; knowledge, skill; truth; Universal; constant; true. Y tryw, i agrimony.

Tryw i hwch dyfira.

It is natural for a sow to burrow. S. Day.

Trywal, s. m. (try—gwal) That is spread through.

Trywan, s. f. (trw—gwan) An opening or cut through; a thrust through; a stab. a. Being run through.

Erchwyawg eidd, segydd trywan.

Yr yfale i'! lly Lloiswra gyman

Estrayddedawg lly, erbyr cerbus.

Thou the oppressor of the foe, with perforated shield, hast qualified in thy elegant court of Lloiswra the golden-wind, received in golden cup. Cynddelw, i F. ab Idris.

Trywanawl, a. (trywan) Tending to open a passage through; transfixing, stabbing.

Trywanawr, s. pl. (trywan) Acts of stabbing.

Gwawr trywanawr trin, Eiddo ei ddaed.

Gwagalet amlddau gwagawd hary.

Thou dawn of the gashing of conflict, second in time, thou didst array thyself in a covering of locks. L. Goch ab Idris.

Trywaniad, s. m. (trywan) An opening a passage through; a thrusting through; a stabbing.

Trywanoldeb, s. m. (trywanawl) A state of being a passage through; the state of being transfixed.

Trywan, v. a. (trywan) To divide or open through; to pierce, thrust, or burst through; to transfix.

*Trills oeth a Gymara synt;
Tryw Wynedd y trywenyat.
Three hosts went from Wales of yore; through Gwynedd they penetrated.*

*Drywan was, trywan trywddi; Dwyed an dowed Geri.
Perambulate a course, pass through it: say that we visit Ceri.
O. Cyffiliung.*

Trywanwr, s. m.—pl. trywanwyr (trywan—gwr) One who opens a passage through; a transfixer.
Trywar, a. (trw—gwar) Thoroughly tame or mild.
Trywedd, s. m. (tryw) A trace by scent.
Tryweddiad, s. m. (trywedd) A tracing by scent.
Trywedde, v. a. (trywedd) To trace by scent.
Trywel, s. m. (trw—gwel) A vision through. a. Perspicuous.

Gwelant yn gydaew a thrywel, mabio yw y farn ac y ddoetharh rydawn ar gerdd.

*They will see clearly and perspicuously, that this is the just sentiment and regulation with respect to the system of verse.
Ed. Dafydd.*

Trywled, v. a. (trywel) To see through.
Trywlediad, s. m. (trywel) A seeing through.
Trywiad, s. m. (tryw) A pervading through.
Trywiau, v. a. (tryw) To pervade, to run through; to become continual, or constant.
Trywydd, s. m.—pl. f. au (tryw) A trace, a scent; intimation. Trywydd ceinach, scent of a hare.
Trywyddawl, a. (trywydd) Having a trace.
Trywyddiad, s. m. (trywydd) A foraging a trace; a following a scent.
Trywyddu, v. a. (trywydd) To trace, to follow a scent.

Trywyllt, a. (try—gwyllt) Thoroughly wild.
Trywyn, a. (try—gwyn) Thoroughly happy.
Trywynawl, a. (trywyn) Tending to pervade with bliss; of a conciliatory temper.
Trywyngar, a. (trywyn) Apt to diffuse happiness.

Gurfan esob Tellaw—gwr doeth haelionus ydoedd—ac a ddrydd-tu ya drywyngar yn mabio ymyrrusen.

*Gurvan the bishop of Telio, he was a wise liberal man, and he was wont to arbitrate with a conciliatory effect in all disputes.
Ceredigion o Langerfon.*

Trywyniad, s. m. (trywyn) A conciliating.
Trywynlaw, v. a. (trywyn) To conciliate.
Trywynwr, s. m.—pl. trywynwyr (trywyn—gwr) A reconciler, one who conciliates.
TU, s. m. r.—pl. f. oedd. That forms a side; a side, a region, a part. Tu a thraw, towards yonder; tu ag yma, towards here; Tu yma, this side; tu yna, that side; tu acw, yonder side; tu hant, tu draw, the other side, beyond.

Tu ni fydd Daw ai lwydd.

The side that God wills not will not prosper. Adege.

*Tonon fy ysgwyd ar awry fy nbn:
Cn bwyf hen, ac gallaf,
Ar rodydd Morlas gwyllaf.*

Thn my shield on the left of my side: though I be old, if I am able, on the course of Morlas I will watch. Llywarch Hen.

Tua, adv. (tu—ā) Towards, in a direction to. It is used when a consonant follows.

*I-gan e-gan, mai per honedig yn rhodlaw y ffordd tan nef.
Zag-ag like a gentleman perambulating the road towards heaven.
Adege.*

Tuag, adv. (tu—ag) Towards. It is used instead of tua when a vowel follows.

Gwedi arddigian pob trof, Teg edrych tuag adeol.

*After rumbling every town, it is pleasant to look towards home.
Adege.*

Tuagat, prep. (tuag—at) Towards. Tuagataf, towards me; tuagataf, towards thee; tuagadu, towards him or it; tuagati, towards her; tuagatom, towards us; tuagatoch, towards you; tuagatynt, towards them.

Tuallan, s. m. (tu—allan) An outside. a. Out-side. prep. On the outside. adv. Outward.

Tuaw, v. a. (tu) To form a side; to side.

Tuawl, a. (tu) Relating to a side or party.

Tuch, s. m. (ty—uch) A grunt, a grumble.

Tuchan, s. m. (tuch) A sighing; a groaning.

Tuchanawl, a. (tuchan) Grunting, grumbling.

Tuchaniad, s. m. (tuchan) A groaning.

Tuchanllyd, a. (tuchan) Apt to grumble.

Tuchanu, v. a. (tuchan) To grunt, to groan.

Ni thuchwn ond o'th schaws.

I would not grumble but on thy account. D. ab Gwilym.

Tuchanus, a. (tuchan) Apt to grunt; grumbling.

Tuchanwr, s. m.—pl. tuchanwyr (tuchan—gwr)

A grunter, a grumbler, a groaner; a murmurer.

Tuchaw, v. a. (tuch) To grunt, to grumble.

Tuchiad, s. m. (tuch) A grunting, a grumbling.

Tud, s. m.—pl. f. oedd (ty—ud) A surface; a region, a district.

Moes pob tud yn at ddd.

The custom of every place in its place. Adege.

Penaf nadd Gwafodd, graid ar y Prydain, Pridawr tud allmyr.

A supreme lord is Gwafodd, the ardent eagle of Britain, the proprietor of a transmarine region. Ll. P. Mech, i R. ab Owain.

*Gwyled y bwn a golwg
Golddoedd drwy'r gwledydd drwg;
Gwyled na chaid eu golwg;
Ac nid hael agos o'u tud;
Gwyled yn Eifel haelion;
Gwyled and hael gwlad ond hon.*

Observing with an eye I have seen the riches in bad countries; thus seeing that their wealth could not be had; and that there were not twenty liberal ones on the surface of them; seeing in Eifel liberal ones; and seeing that there was no liberal country but this. L. G. Cuth.

Tudalen, s. m. (tu—dalen) A side of a leaf.

Tudalenawg, a. (tudalen) Having a page.

Tudalenawl, a. (tudalen) Paginal, paged.

Tudaleniad, s. m. (tudalen) A paging.

Tudalenu, v. a. (tudalen) To form a page.

Tudaw, v. a. (tud) To form a surface or region.

Tudfach, s. m.—pl. f. au (tud—bach) A still.

Tudgi, s. m.—pl. f. au (tud—ci) A terrier.

Tudhau, s. m. (tud—hau) A sunning place.

Tudlath, s. f.—pl. f. au (tud—lath) Meeting road.

Tudleau, s. pl. (tud—lle) Brogues.

Tudwed, s. m. (tud—gwed) A sword, or eod.

Llywr loeged ei thudwed a'i the.

Completely burnt was its ground and its roof. Ll. P. Mech.

Tudwedd, s. f. (tud—gwedd) The face of the earth; the sword, or eod.

*Mor drannu—
Ar ddeurudd Tudawg fed tudwedd!*

How miserable that on the cheeks of Madawg there should be the eod! Gwladmael.

Tudd, s. m.—pl. f. ion (ty—udd) That is over, or that covers; an obscurity, or shade; gloom; smoke, vapour.

Tuddad, s. m. (tudd) A covering, or enveloping.

Tuddadwy, a. (tuddad) Capable of being covered.

Tuddaw, v. a. (tudd) To cover, to envelop.

*Piss y bedd yn yr ynys,
Al tudd mor a goror guryel
Bedd Meigen mab Rhys, rwyf lly.*

Who owns the grave in the island, which the sea covers with a border of turf! The grave of Meigen son of Rhys, the regent of a court. Eng. Sioden Mawr.

Tuddawg, a. (tudd) Being covered, enveloped.

Tuddawl, a. (tudd) Tending to cover over.

Tudded, s. f.—pl. t. au (tudd) A covering.

Gwas ystafell bla hen ddillad y brenin oll, elthr ei dudded grawys.

The groom of the chamber owns all the old clothes of the king, except his Lent garment. Welsh Laws.

Tuddedawg, a. (tudded) Having a covering.

Tuddedawl, a. (tudded) Belonging to a garment.

Tuddediad, s. m. (tudded) A putting on a garment.

Tuddedu, v. a. (tudded) To put on a covering.

Tuddedyn, s. m. dim. (tudded) A covering.

Pob tuddedyn dinesig xxiv a dal : pob tuddedyn pentan viii.

Every town-wrought garment twenty-four pence is its value; every homespun garment eight pence. Welsh Laws.

Can ni bo i dalawdr namyn tri thuddedyn, efe a ddylly dalu y ddau.

Since there should be to a debtor only three garments, he ought to part with two in payment. Welsh Laws.

Tuedd, s. m. (tu) The state of being on a side; a coast, a region, district; inclination, proneness, tendency.

*A oes bryd mor ysbrydawl
A bod ar ffordd—
Tuedd cymyredd mawr;
Tref Rufala tyrla ryfawr!*

Is there any season so spiritual as to be on the road, a course of great estimation, to the city of Rome over-teeming in population? R. Idnu.

*Melli, gwlaw, mwg, fo eu dwg byd ar
Duedd eithafon dalar.*

Lightning, rain, smoke, it bears them to the region of the extremities of the earth. W. Middleton.

Tueddadwy, a. (tuedd) Capable of being rendered inclined or partial.

Tueddawg, a. (tuedd) Having inclination, partial.

Tueddawl, a. (tuedd) Tending to a side; partial, inclined; conducive.

Tueddedig, a. (tuedd) Being made partial.

Tueddfryd, s. m. (tuedd—bryd) Bent of the mind.

Tueddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tuedd) Inclination.

Tueddogi, v. a. (tueddawg) To render partial; to take a side; to become partial.

Tueddoldeb, s. m. (tueddawl) Tendency; partiality; inclinedness; conduciveness.

Tueddolder, s. m. (tueddawl) Tendency; partiality

Tueddoli, v. a. (tueddawl) To render inclined or partial; to become partial.

Tueddoliad, s. m. (tueddawl) A rendering inclined or partial; a becoming partial.

Tueddolrwydd, s. m. (tueddawl) Inclinedness.

Tueddu, v. a. (tuedd) To incline, to bias.

Tueddus, a. (tuedd) Tending to make partial.

Tueddusaw, v. a. (tueddus) To render partial; to become inclined or partial.

Tueddusrwydd, s. m. (tueddus) Inclinedness.

Tueddwr, s. m.—pl. tueddwyr (tuedd—gwr) An incliner, one having partiality.

Tuell, s. f.—pl. t. i (tu) A covert, a cover.

Y tri pheth y dyls gwr maeddu ei wraig: am roddi peth ni ddytyo ei roddi; ac am ei chaffel gan wr a dan duell; ac am un-aw medd ar ei fari.

The three things for which a husband ought to beat his wife: for giving away what she ought not to give; for finding her with a man under a covert; and for wishing disgrace on his head. Welsh Laws.

Tuelliad, s. m. (tuell) A forming a covert.

Tuellu, v. a. (tuell) To form a covert; to take to a covert.

*Tuellu bydd tua lle bo,
Tir i werth tery wrtho.*

Taking to a covert he will be about where he stays, land for sale he will find out. S. Brynnaug.

Tusfaes, s. m. (tu—maes) An outside. a. Outside. prep. On the outside. adv. Outward.

Tufewn, s. m. (tu—mewn) An inside. a. Inside. prep. Inside. adv. Inwardly.

Gwell tufewn berth na tusfaes castel.

Better withinside a hat than outside of a castle. Idnu.

Tufewnawl, a. (tufewn) Internal, inward.

Tuhwnt, s. m. (tu—hwnt) The further side, the off side, the other side. prep. On the further side, on the other side.

Tul, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ty—ul) An envelop; a shroud.

Tuli, s. m. (tul) That envelopes; a shroud.

Tuliad, s. m. (tul) An enveloping, a shrouding.

*Gwythl aer, gwaith Emyllt;
O'i gwadw yn gwas yn dan gwyllt;
Tullid am twedid dilyn;
Ewais ar awch nai syr Rhyt.*

Golden veins, of Emyllt's art, from his flesh shrouding in fire; an envelop round a safely-guarding child; I have sworn named the nephew of Sir Rhyt. Rhyt Tr.

Tuliaw, v. a. (tul) To envelop; to shroud.

Tum, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tu—um) A bend, or turn.

Tumiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tum) A forming a bend.

Tumiaw, v. a. (tum) To form a bend, or angle.

Tumiawg, a. (tum) Having a bend, or angle.

Tumiawl, a. (tum) Tending to form a bend.

Tumon, s. f. (tum) A bender, the rower or hinder region of the back, the spine; the part of a carcass called a saddle; one of the twelve priv pieces of a stag.

Tun, s. m. (tu—un) That pierces or pervades.

Tunad, s. m. (tun) A piercing, a pervading.

Tunaw, v. a. (tun) To pierce, or to pervade.

Tunawl, a. (tun) Piercing, pervading.

Tur, s. m. (tu—ur) A change of side, or a reverse.

Turiad, s. m. (tur) A reversing, a turning out.

Turiaw, v. a. (tur) To reverse, to turn up.

Turiawl, a. (tur) Reversing, turning.

Turn, s. m.—pl. t. au (tur) A turn. a. Round.

*Mac'n ei gylch er mwyn ei gylt,
Dwrn byr mor darn a bari.*

There is about it, for the sake of the one behind it, a handle as round as a barrel. L. G. Cothi, 1781.

Turnen, s. f. dim. (turn) That turns; a whirl; a turner's wheel; the wood in the centre of a wheel, or the shaft. Turnen metin, the wood in the centre of a millstone whereto the spindle is fastened.

Turniad, s. m. (turn) A turning, a whirling.

Turniaw, v. a. (turn) To turn round, to whirl; to do turnery work.

Turs, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tur) A snout, or chop.

Tursiad, s. m. (turs) A making a snout.

Tursiaw, v. a. (turs) To make a snout.

Tursyn, s. m. dim. (turs) A snout, or chop.

Tus, s. m. (tu—us) That binds or wraps.

Tusiad, s. m. (tus) A binding or wrapping.

Tusiaw, v. a. (tus) To bind round; to wrap.

Tusw, s. m.—pl. t. au (tus) A whip, a whisk, a small bundle, a bunch.

Tuswad, s. m. (tusw) A whiping, a whip.

Tuswaw, v. a. (tusw) To form a whip, or bundle.

Tuswawg, a. (tusw) Having a whip or bundle.

Tuswy, s. m.—pl. t. on (tusw) A whip, a back.

Tuth, s. m. (ty—uth) A trot. Tuth blaid, the trudge of a wolf; tuth march, the trot of a horse.

Tuthfawr, a. (tuth) Greatly trotting.

Tuthiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tuth) A trotting.

Tuthiaw, v. a. (tuth) To trot, to go on a trot.

*Daethost dan agwrid duthiaw,
Ar frys rhag arnon fraw.*

Thou didst come with mighty driving, in haste led on to be in dread. M. ab Gw. Gethin, 1841.

Tuthiawg, a. (tuth) Having a trot; trotting.

Fathawl, s. (tuth) Trotting, going on a trot.
Futhiedig, s. (tuthiad) Being made to trot.
Futhiwr, s. m.—pl. tuthiwywr (tuth—gwr) A man who trots, or a trotter.
Futhwraig, s. f.—pl. tuthwreigedd (tuth—gwraig) A trotting-woman; a gadding gossip.
W, s. m. r. A rise up or out; a drive, an urging; sway. It is also the imperative of the verb.

Twl farch benthyr.

Go on! hired horse.

Adage.

'wa, v. a. (tw) To drive, to impel, to urge on.
wb, s. m.—pl. t. ian (ty—wb) A round lamp.
Twb y dail, a chevin, a chub fish.
wc, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tw) A cut, clip, or chip.
wca, s. m.—pl. t. od (twc) A kind of knife.
wciad, s. m. (twc) A clipping, a docking.
wciaw, v. a. (twc) To clip, to dock, to trim.
wciwr, s. m.—pl. twciwyr (twc—gwr) A clipper.
wdd, s. m. (tw) That pokes or juts out.
wddf, s. m.—pl. tyddfa (twdd) What pokes out.

At twddf sy yt, at oddfyn!

Is it a hunch or an enunciation that thou hast!

D. ab Edmunt.

weg, s. f. (tw—eg) A shock or bush of hair.

*Tag o dwf yw tweg dyn,
 Test haul, mai tanusai telyn.*

Fair of growth is the hair of the nymph, a sun's radiation like the strings of a harp.

D. ab Edmunt, i walli.

wf, s. m. (tw—wf) A growth; an increase.

*Mall can efaio,
 Mai twf dr Gwynn.*

Soft the bloom of arene, like the growth of the soil of Gwynne.

Adage.

*Gwr diffal o'i gryd i'w fodd,
 A yr twf ar ei lloedd.*

A man faultless from his cradle to his grave, will bring increase on his issue.

W. Llwyn.

wff, s. m. (tw—wff) A rise, a lift; a tuft.

wg, s. m. (tw—wg) That is forward; luck.

*Por y tir yu perit twg
 Ar y gwir yn Morgannwg.*

The lord of the soil causing prosperity on the wine in Morgannwg.

D. ab Gwilym, i Ifor.

*Haf—
 Yn hanes dail i'm llanerch,
 A thug ar las awing serch.*

The summer filling my glade with leaves, and a prospering of the conspicuous flit of love.

D. ab Gwilym.

wl, s. m.—pl. tylau (ty—wl) That is rounded or smooth; a toft.

*O gortydd, m dydd na dda,
 Dor'r talar drwy'r tylau.*

If there should be an occasion on one day or another, to break up the headland through the tofts.

Ll. Goch y Dant.

wlc, s. m.—pl. tylciau (twl) A dent, a hollow; a small cot, or hovel; a sty. Heb na thy na thwlc, without either house or hovel. Is Aled.

*Neidol—
 Ci coch o dwlc moch i ml.*

A red dog leaped from the pig sty upon me.

D. ab Gwilym.

wich, s. m.—pl. tylchau (twl) A round mass, a heap; a tump, or knoll; a pile. Tylchau, the Knolls, a hilly district in Glamorgan so called.

Bu bwich, bu twich tandde.

There was an opening, there was a pile paraded with flame.

Anwritin.

wiff, s. m.—pl. tylfa (twl) A round lump.
wiffen, s. f. dim. (twiff) A bulky female. Dyna globen o dwiffen, see there a load of a chubby one wiffyn, s. m. dim. (twiff) A fat bulky person.
wii, s. m. (twl) Buckram, stiff cloth.
wio, s. m. (twl) A bulk; a booth, a hut.
wll, s. m.—pl. tylau (tw—wll) A hole; a pit;

a cavern; a dimple. Twll oip, an oilet hole;
twll yn ei boch, dimple in her cheek.

Twm, s. m. (ty—wm) A round heap.

Twmffed, s. m.—pl. t. l (twm—ffed) A funnel.

Twmffedu, v. a. (twmffed) To use a funnel.

Twmp, s. m.—pl. tymplan (twm) A tump.

Twmpian, s. f. dim. (twmp) A round mass; an epithet for a fat female.

Twmpath, s. m.—pl. t. au (twmp) A hillock, a knap, a tump; also a bush. Twmpathau, a sort of games.

Gwneuthar mysgdd o dwmpath myrio.

Making a mountain of an ant hill.

Adage.

Y twmpath lle chaddid Rhys a'i wyr a eiwir Bryn y Boddau.

The tump where Rhys and his men were buried is called the Hill of the Graves.

Caradawg o Llangorfan.

Twmpathawg, a. (twmpath) Abounding with tumps or knolls; covered with bushes.

Twmpathiad, s. m. (twmpath) A forming a tump; a forming a bush.

Twmpathu, v. a. (twmpath) To form a tump or knoll; to form a bush.

Twmpethyn, s. m. dim. (twmpath) A small hillock.

Twmpiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (twmp) A dropping.

Twmpian, v. a. (twmp) To continue dropping, or falling; to drop; to let fall suddenly; to nod, or to drop, as the head does when a person is overcome with sleep; to strike upon, to stamp, to flap, to thump.

Twmpiaw, v. a. (twmp) To drop, to fall.

Twmpiawl, a. (twmp) Dropping, falling.

Twn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ty—wn) A break, or rising up of a surface; a scaling, a splint; a fracture. a. Having the surface broken: scaled, splintered; fractured, broken. Esgyrn twion, splintered bones: Bara twn, broken bread.

Twnadwy, a. (twn) Capable of being fractured.

Twnic, s. m. (ty—wnc) That is brought forward or upon; a deposit; the chief rent. Twnic y brenin, the king's rent.

Twnedig, a. (twn) Being broken, fractured.

Twnfriw, a. (twn—briw) Broken to pieces.

Llhwne twr twafrw.

Many a tower broken to shatters.

Gwalchmai.

Twniad, s. m. (twn) A breaking, a fracturing.

Twniaw, v. a. (twn) To break, to fracture.

Twnrif, s. m.—pl. t. ion (twn—rhif) A broken number, or fraction.

Twnrifaw, v. a. (twnrif) To reckon fractionally.

Twnrifawg, a. (twnrif) Consisting of fractions.

Twnrifawl, a. (twnrif) Fractional.

Twnrifedd, s. m. (twnrif) Fractions.

Twnrifiad, s. (twnrif) A reckoning fractionally.

Twnrifyn, s. m. (twnrif) A fractional number.

Twnwg, s. m. (ty—wng) That is brought forward, destined, fated, or assigned; that is pledged, or alluded; a lot or share; a plight, troth, or oath; a pledge of homage; a yearly acknowledgement due to the lord of the soil, according to the laws of Wales; also a certain ration of corn due from tenant to landlord.

Nid twng ond a fyao Daw.

There is no destiny but what God wills.

Adage.

*Mi wn en trwydded,
 En tro, en cerdded,
 En twng, a'n tynged.*

I know their course, their turn, their walk, their lot, and their destiny.

Tallorin.

Twysawg, a. (twys) Being a top; having a top, or tuft; having a spire, eared.
Twysawl, a. (twys) Topping; tufting, springing.
Twysen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (twys) An ear of corn.

Twysen lawa a oswng ei phen; twysen wag a saf ya syth.

A full ear lowers its head; an empty ear stands up straight.
Adage.

Twysenawl, a. (twysen) Spirring, earing.
Twyseniad, s. m. (twysen) A spirring, a shooting into ears.

Twysenig, s. f. dim. (twysen) A single ear.

Twysenn, v. a. (twysen) To spire, to ear.

Twysg, s. m.—pl. t. au (twys) A mass, a heap; a quantity; some quantity, some part; the quantity of yarn usually contained on a spindle.

Mae wedd dirwyn ei dwysg.

He has gone his length.

Adage.

Tes gloew teg, twysg liw tywyn,

A haul a distasteful hyn.

Pair clear radiance, some dawn of shining, and the sun would this dissolve.

D. ab Gwilym, yr rhos.

Twysgaw, v. a. (twysg) To amass, to heap, to collect a certain quantity; to get to a head, to get on, to get to an end with any thing; to limit. Yr wyf yn twysgaw ar fy arian yn arw, I am getting through with my money sadly.

All yn diagyn, slon dwysgaw,
 With aer-twysgaw Arthur freisgodd.

When descending, the foes consuming, like in stalking through the slaughter to the greatness of Arthur.

D. ab Edmwnd, i Rys o Fon.

Y ffoetl a dwysgal ato.

The multitude gathered to him.

W. Saltbury.

Twysgawl, a. (twysg) Tending onward, proceeding; collective, aggregating.

Twysged, s. f.—pl. t. au (twysg) A mass; a quantity; a good deal; a certain portion, some.

Yr wybodaeth y buom trwy ein bywydau yn ei chnaglu, nid yw hawer o bawl opd awybbodaeth yn unig; a thwysged o bawl yn waeth.

The knowledge that we have been through our lives collecting, much of it is nothing but sheer ignorance; and some of it is worse.
Is. Rhys.

Twysgen, s. f. dim. (twysg) A quantity; a good deal; a certain quantity or portion; some.

Twysgiad, s. m. (twysg) A proceeding, a going on; a getting through; a limiting; a collecting.

Twysgwr, s. m.—pl. twysgwyr (twysg—gwr) One who proceeds; one who goes through; a limiter.

Twysiad, s. m. (twys) A topping; a spirring.

Twyth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (twy—yth) A spring, or pliancy; aptness to proceed; celerity, dispatch.
Dyn hydwyth, a tractable person.

Arddwyraaf hael o hil Rodri,
 Arddwyraed gorwlad, gwerllin tethi;
 Teithlawg Prydain,
 Twyth afdrwyth Owain,
 Teyrnau ni grain ni grawn rai.

I will exalt the generous one of the line of Rodri, the curber of the bordering country, endowed with gifts of an illustrious stock; the heir of Britain, ambitious the passion of Owain, the princely one who submits to none, who hoards no treasure.

Gwalchmai.

Twythad, s. m. (twyth) A springing, a bounding.

Twythadwy, a. (twythad) Capable of springing.

Twythaw, v. a. (twyth) To spring, to bound.

Twythawd, s. m. (twyth) The act of springing.

Twythawg, a. (twyth) Having spring, elastic.

Twythawl, a. (twyth) Springing, bounding.

Twythedig, a. (twythad) Being made elastic.

Twythedigaeth, s. m. (twythedig) The act of rendering elastic; a springing.

Twythfalc, a. (twyth—balch) Aspiringly proud.

Next—

Gwag gwalc dwythfalc o hif dacti.

Next with eye of a hawk aspiringly proud, of princely origin.
Gwalchmai.

Twythfawr, a. (twyth) Greatly springing.

Arglwydd tethlwg twythfawr yn arllan,
 Yn arllwydd byddiannwr;
 Arglwydd tethlwg twythfawr;
 Arglwydd tethlwg, dacti gwr.

A rightful sovereign greatly energetic in arms, in the superior tail of martial feat; the bulwark of a host before the enemy; the shield, the overshadowing leader, the wolf of the throat.
Cyddfardd, i Wraymawr.

Twythiad, s. m. (twyth) A springing, resiliency.

Twythiannawl, a. (twythiant) Of a tendency to spring or bound; resilient; of an elastic quality.

Twythiannu, v. a. (twythiant) To cause a springing or resiliency; to make a rebound.

Twythiant, s. m. (twyth) Elasticity; resiliency.

Twythig, a. (twyth) Springing, elastic; rising.

Twythigrwydd, s. m. (twythig) Aptness to spring.

Twythus, a. (twyth) Apt to spring or bound.

Twythusaw, v. a. (twythus) To render elastic.

Twythusdra, s. m. (twythus) Aptness to spring.

Twythusrwydd, s. m. (twythus) Aptness to spring.

Twythwal, s. m. (twyth—gwal) Elastic couch.

Fell o Fon fain ydyd, dwythwal, warch
 Emswyrth ydyd yn awerw gytha.

Far from pleasant Mon art thou, soft place of repose, where to habitancy is at once enjoying a splendid collection.
Gwalchmai.

Twythwaleh, s. m.—pl. twythwelch (twyth—gwalch) A springing hawk.

TY, s. m. r.—pl. t. au. A being about or going on; that is inclusive; a house. Ty ar enllorid, house and chattels. It is a prefix in composition, implying a state of being going on or being in.

Athraw pawb yn ei dy.

Every body is master in his house.

Adage.

Ni wyr dyn nad ei dy dy.

A man knows naught who goes out out of his house.

Adage.

Gwse y ty liw nas clywer Bala corydd.

Woe to the house where the voice of reproach is not heard.

Adage.

Nid allan o'i ffordd a gwyddu i dy ddyddyd.

He is not out of his way who strays to the house of the dead.

Adage.

Tyad, s. m. (ty) A housing; a domifying.

Tyaeath, s. m. (ty) A house establishment; a household. Perchen tyaeath, the owner of a household.

Mae Daw ei hun yn gorchymyn yn nalltawr i bob parthau aeth i'w rhannu ei deula.

God himself doth command particularly that every owner of a household should instruct his family.
Ros. Pychan, Yn. Ddunwidd.

Tyaid, s. m.—pl. tyeidiau (ty) A household.

Tyaidd, a. (ty) Like a house; domestic.

Tyaw, v. a. (ty) To house, to put in a house, to domify.

Tyawg, a. (ty) Having a house, or housed.

Tyawl, a. (ty) Belonging to a house, domestic.

Tyb, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ty—yb) Opinion, action, sentiment, thought; suspicion.

Celwydd ni was ond clyw;
 Nid da heb duedd yn yb dwg.

A falsehood will only create an angry look; no bad opinion is commendable without a foundation.
G. ab I. ab Llywelyn Pychan.

Tybgar, a. (tyb) Opinionated; suspectful.

Tybgarwch, s. m. (tybgar) Opinionatedness; suspectfulness, suspiciousness.

Tybiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tyb) A supposing, a respecting, an imagining, a thinking.

Tybiant, s. m. (tyb) Opinionation, opinion.

tybiaw, v. (tyb) To opine, to suppose, to suspect.

Cu a dybio ei fod yn well na neb ar bob peth ac yntau yn wael-af oll.

Odious is he who thinks that he is better than any body in every thing and he being the worst of all.

A dybiwys a gamgyrwyys.

He that hath suspected hath mistaken.

Adage.

tybiawl, a. (tyb) Supposing, suspecting.

tybied, v. a. (tyb) To suppose, to suspect.

tybiedig, a. (tybiad) Supposed, imagined.

tybiedigawl, a. (tybiedig) Putative, opinative.

tybiwr, s. m.—pl. tybiwyr (tyb—gwr) An opinator, a supposer, a suspecter.

tyboet, s. m.—pl. tybyst (ty—post) A house-post.

Y tyboet, pedair oclawng cyfruth yw ei worth.

A house-post, four lateral pieces in the value.

Welsh Laws.

ybus, a. (tyb) Apt to suppose, suspecting.

ybusaw, v. a. (tybus) To render suspecting; to become suspicious, to be suspectful.

ybuswydd, s. m. (tybus) Suspectfulness.

ybwg, s. m. (tyb) The state of being supposed.

ybygadwy, a. (tybwg) Supposable, imaginable.

ybygiawl, a. (tybwg) Suppositive; supposed.

ybygiad, s. m. (tybwg) An imagining.

ybygiedig, a. (tybygiad) Supposed, imagined.

ybygoldeb, s. m. (tybygiad) Suppositiousness.

ybygoli, v. a. (tybygiad) To render suppositious; to become suppositive.

ybygoliaeth, s. m. (tybygiad) Supposition.

ybygolrwydd, s. m. (tybygiad) Imaginableness.

ybygwr, s. m.—pl. tybygwyr (tybwg—gwr) A supposer, one who imagines.

yciad, s. m. (twg) A prospering, a succeeding;
a prevailing; a befitting.

yciannawl, a. (tyciant) Prospering; prevailing;
tending to suit or to agree with.

yciannu, v. a. (tyciant) To cause prosperity, or success; to become successful.

yciannus, a. (tyciant) Prosperous; lucky.

yciannusaw, v. a. (tyciannus) To render prosperous; to become successful.

yciannusdra, s. m. (tyciannus) Prosperousness.

yciannusrwydd, s. m. (tyciannus) Prosperous-ness, successfulness.

yciant, s. m. (twg) Prosperity, success; meetness yciaw, v. a. (twg) To prosper, to succeed; to prevail; to befit, to suit, to agree with.

Yn lle y bo y da.

Y rhoir ac y tyda.

Where there is property, there will be given and it will prosper.

Adage.

Nid oedd yn Ffrainc wr a dychai lido gyhydreg ag Ewropa.

There was not in France a man to whom it would succeed to contend with Europe.

Gr. ab Arthur.

yciawl, a. (twg) Prospering; prevailing.

yd, s. m. (ty—yd) That is continuous or whole.

ydain, s. m. (ty—tain) The centre of expansion,
the centre of fire; that is universally pervasive;
an epithet for the sun. Tydain Tad Awen, or Tydain Father of the Muse, is a personage often alluded to in the Triades and in our poetry, as the founder of the bardic system; and he probably was so named on account of his superior genius; as, in such a case, the epithet was not improperly applied to him, in a metaphorical sense. It is remarkable that, in the mythology of the Greeks and Romans, Apollo had similar attributes with the Tydain of the Cymry; and therefore he was probably the same person;
and was feigned to be the sun from the cogency of the original epithet. I believe Tydain to have been a real person; yet it were easy to turn the whole into an allegory, supported by a verse, which says that his grave was in Bron Aren; for Bron means the breast, and the arell of a hill, often applied in the names of places;

Aren, also is the appellative of several hills, descriptive of their smoothness, and it means smooth or eloquent, with respect to composition.

Rodd Tydain Tad Awen

Yn ngwllr Bron Aren.

The grave of Tydain Father of the Muse in this boundary region of Bron Aren.

Eng. Bedden Myny.

Tydalaeth, s. m. (ty—talaeth) House-porch.

Tydi, pron. (ty—ti) Thou. Tydi dyhun, tydi yth hun, tydi dy hunan, tydi yth hunan, thou thyself.

Tydi, Arglydd, rwydd rinweddau bob awr,

A roddid dan llawr, fawr fwrddau;

Tydi, Dew, gwddi gwasodau cof ydy

Cyfoeddi i'w rddau.

Thou, Lord, at all times freely dispensing virtues, wert placed beneath the mid, grant the desires; thou, God, afterwards, memorable themes of praise, didst rise in thy blessings.

G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Tyddfawg, a. (twddf) Having a jutting, hunchy.

Tyddfawl, a. (twddf) Tending to jut out.

Tyddfiad, s. m. (twddf) A jutting or projecting.

Tyddfu, v. a. (twddf) To poke out, to jut out.

Tyddiad, s. m. (twdd) A spreading or laying out.

Tyddu, v. a. (twdd) To spread out, to lay out.

Tyddyn, s. m.—pl. f. od (twdd) Land under cultivation; a farm, a tenement.

Podair erw yn mhob tyddyn a ddyly fod; podair tyddyn yn mhob rhanad: deuddeg erw a thriugain a tydd yn y rhanad syl-ruthiaw, rhwng rhwydd a drys, a choed a mara, a gwyb a cych, either yr orllewod.

There ought to be four acres in every manor; four manors in every shireland: there are to be seventy-two acres in a lawd shireland, between the open and the wild, and wood and field, and wet and dry, except the accessory township.

Welsh Laws.

Awa i aredig y tyddyn,

Sy rhwng y ty a'r ody.

Let us go to plough the field that is between the house and the kiln.

D. ab Gwilym.

Tyddynawl, a. (tyddyn) Relating to a tenement.

Tyddynyn, s. f. dim. (tyddyn) A small tenement.

Tyedig, a. (tyad) Being housed; domified.

Tyfadwy, a. (twf) Capable of growing.

Tyfawl, a. (twf) Growing or vegetating.

Tyfedig, a. (twf) Being grown or vegetated.

Tyfiad, s. m.—pl. f. au (twf) A growing.

Tyfiannawl, a. (tyfiant) Vegetative, growing.

Tyfiannu, v. a. (tyfiant) To produce vegetation.

Tyfiannus, a. (tyfiant) Tending to vegetate.

Tyfiannusaw, v. a. (tyfiannus) To render vegetative; to become vegetative.

Tyfiant, s. m. (twf) A growth, or vegetation.

Tyfu, v. a. (twf) To grow; to cause to grow.

Had dystelaid a dyfiant yn mhob tir;

Had synwyr braidd y tyfiant yn na tir.

The seed of plowmen will grow in every land; the seed of reason scarcely will they grow in any land.

Adage.

Dar a dyfws yn meillion,

A chae a'i llyw a'i bi groo;

Gwae wr wrth ei gaeion.

An oak hath grown amidst the trefolis, and since it has been wounded it is not round; woe to a man amongst his foes.

Robert Tywysorg Normandi.

Tyfw, s. m.—pl. tyfwyr (twf—gwr) A grower.

Tygiad, s. m. (twg) A prospering, a succeeding,

Tygiaw, v. a. (twg) To prosper, to befit.

Yn awlad Tregingl i tygia,

Am fiod a wa, ym gaei da.

In the county of Tregingl it will prosper, for the fame I confer, for me to obtain a benefit.

G. ab S. ab Rhys, ab Hy. Gortmor.

Tyhun, pron. (ty—hun) Thyself. See Tydi.

Tyhanan, pron. (tyhun) Thyself, thou thyself.

Twysawg, a. (twys) Being a top; having a top, or tuft; having a spire, eared.

Twysawl, a. (twys) Topping; tufting, spiring.

Twysen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (twys) An ear of corn.

Twysen lawn a oetwng ei phen; twysen wag a walf yn syth.
A full ear lowers its head; an empty ear stands up straight.
Adage.

Twysenawl, a. (twysen) Spiring, earing.

Twyseniad, s. m. (twysen) A spiring, a shooting into ears.

Twysenig, s. f. dim. (twysen) A single ear.

Twysenn, v. a. (twysen) To spire, to ear.

Twysg, s. m.—pl. t. au (twys) A mass, a heap; a quantity; some quantity, some part; the quantity of yarn usually contained on a spindle.

Mae wedi dirwya ei dwysg.

He has gone his length.

Tes gloew teg, twysg llw tywyn,
A haul a ddiatodol hyn.

Fair clear radiance, some dawn of shining, and the sun would this dissolve.
D. ab Gwilym, 6'r rhos.

Twysgaw, v. a. (twysg) To amass, to heap, to collect a certain quantity; to get to a head, to get on, to get to an end with any thing; to limit. Yr wyf yn twysgaw ar fy arian yn arw, I am getting through with my money sadly.

All yn diagyn, sion dwysgaw,
With ser-lwysgaw Arthur frelagedd.

When descending, the foes consuming, like in stalking through the slaughter to the greatness of Arthur.
D. ab Edmund, i Rys o Fon.

Y fystal a dwysgal ato.

The multitude gathered to him.

W. Saltbury.

Twysgawl, a. (twysg) Tending onward, proceeding; collective, aggregating.

Twysged, s. f.—pl. t. au (twysg) A mass; a quantity; a good deal; a certain portion, some.

Yr wybodaeth y broom trwy ein bywydau yn ei chaeu, nid yw fawr o honi ond anwybodaeth yn unig; a thwysged o' honi yn waeth.

The knowledge that we have been through our lives collecting, much of it is nothing but sheer ignorance; and some of it is worse.
Ian. Rhys.

Twysgen, s. f. dim. (twysg) A quantity; a good deal; a certain quantity or portion; some.

Twysgiad, s. m. (twysg) A proceeding, a going on; a getting through; a limiting; a collecting.

Twysgwr, s. m.—pl. twysgwyr (twysg—gwr) One who proceeds; one who goes through; a limiter.

Twysiad, s. m. (twys) A topping; a spiring.

Twyth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (twy—yth) A spring, or pliancy; aptness to proceed; celerity, dispatch.
Dyn hydwyth, a tractable person.

Arddwyneaf bael o hili Rodri,

Arddwyd gorwad, gwerin teithi;

Teithiawg Prydain,

Twyth afduwyt Owain,

Teyrnau ni grain ni grawn rai.

I will exalt the generous one of the line of Rodri, the curber of the bordering country, endowed with gifts of an illustrious stock; the heir of Britain, ambitious the pashon of Owain, the princely one who submits to none, who hoards no treasures.

Gwalchmai.

Twythad, s. m. (twyth) A springing, a bounding.

Twythadwy, a. (twythad) Capable of springing.

Twythaw, v. a. (twyth) To spring, to bound.

Twythawd, s. m. (twyth) The act of springing.

Twythawg, a. (twyth) Having spring, elastic.

Twythawl, a. (twyth) Springing, bounding.

Twythedig, a. (twythad) Being made elastic.

Twythedigaeth, s. m. (twythedig) The act of rendering elastic; a springing.

Twythfalc, a. (twyth—falc) Aspiringly proud.

Nest —

Golwg gwalc dwythfalc o brif ddeli.

Nest with eye of a hawk aspiringly proud, of princely origin.

Gwalchmai.

Twythfawr, a. (twyth) Greatly springing.

Arglwydd teithiawg twythfawr yn arho.

Yn arlwydr byddinawr;

Arglwydd teithiawg twythfawr;

Arglwydd teithiawg twythfawr.

A rightful sovereign greatly energetic in arms, in the superior toll of martial feats; the bulwark of a host before the (small) shields, the overshadowing leader, the well of the stout.
Cydrallu, i Wrecsam.

Twythiad, s. m. (twyth) A springing, resiliency.

Twythiannawl, a. (twythiant) Of a tendency to spring or bound; resilient; of an elastic quality.

Twythiannu, v. a. (twythiant) To cause a springing or resiliency; to make a rebound.

Twythiant, s. m. (twyth) Elasticity; resiliency.

Twythig, a. (twyth) Springing, elastic; rising.

Twythigrwydd, s. m. (twythig) Aptness to spring.

Twythus, a. (twyth) Apt to spring or bound.

Twythusaw, v. a. (twythus) To render elastic.

Twythusdra, s. m. (twythus) Aptness to spring.

Twythusrwydd, s. m. (twythus) Aptness to spring.

Twythwal, s. m. (twyth—gwal) Elastic coach.

Fell o Fon fala ydyd, dwythwal, watha

Esmwyth twythwal yn ascerw gyfrin.

Far from pleasant Mon art thou, soft place of repose, when inhabitation is at once enjoying a splendid scoldance.
Gwalchmai.

Twythwaleh, s. m.—pl. twythweilch (twyth—gwalch) A springing hawk.

TY, s. m. r.—pl. t. au. A being about or going on; that is inclusive; a house. Ty ac allfordd, house and chattels. It is a prefix in composition, implying a state of being going on or being in.

Athraw pawb yn ei dy.

Every body is master in his house.

Adage.

Ni wyr dyn nad ei dy dy.

A man knows naught who goes not out of his house.

Adage.

Gwse y ty lle nas clywer llais cerydd.

Woe to the house where the voice of reproof is not heard.

Adage.

Nid allan o'i ffordd a gwyddir i dy derydd.

He is not out of his way who strays to the house of the dead.

Adage.

Tyad, s. m. (ty) A housing; a domifying.

Tyaeth, s. m. (ty) A house establishment; a household. Perchen tyaeth, the owner of a household.

Mae Dew ei hun yn gorchymyn yn ddilysuol i bob perchen tyaeth aethrawiaeth ei deula.

God himself doth command particularly that every owner of a household should instruct his family.

Rom. Pechen, Ym. Ddewid.

Tyaid, s. m.—pl. tyeidian (ty) A household.

Tyaidd, a. (ty) Like a house; domestic.

Tyaw, v. a. (ty) To house, to put in a house; to domify.

Tyawg, a. (ty) Having a house, or housed.

Tyawl, a. (ty) Belonging to a house, domestic.

Tyb, s. m.—pl. t. ian (ty—yb) Opinion, action, sentiment, thought; suspicion.

Celwydd ni wna ei clyw;

Nid da heb droad un tyb drwg.

A falsehood will only create an angry look; no bad opinion is commendable without a foundation.

G. ab I. ab Llywelyn Pechen.

Tybgar, a. (tyb) Opinionated; suspicious.

Tybgarwch, s. m. (tybgar) Opinionateness; suspiciousness, suspiciousness.

Tybiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tyb) A supposing, a suspecting, an imagining, a thinking.

Tybiant, s. m. (tyb) Opinionation, opinion.

Tymberydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tymber) A seasoner.

Tymhest, s. m. (tymp) That breaks out.

Tymhestl, s. f.—pl. tymhestledd (tymhest) A tempest, a storm.

Tymhestlaidd, a. (tymhestl) Tempestive.

Tymhestlawg, a. (tymhestl) Tempestuous.

Tymhestliad, s. m. (tymhestl) A tempesting.

Tymhestlu, v. a. (tymhestl) To tempest.

Med ydd oeddynt etefi yn ymladd o bob parth, ar warthaf yr eglaw, cnycha yn ddiwyf y gwybhang wrthwyneb yn chwylu, ac yn tymhestlu y weigl, ac yn gwagaru y llosgau i smryddio draethau.

As they were in that manner fighting on all sides, upon the face of the ocean, behold suddenly the adverse winds blowing, and tempesting the torrent, and dispersing the ships to various shores.
Gr. ab Arthur.

Tymhestlus, a. (tymhestl) Tempestuous.

Tymhig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tymp) A prickle, a twitch, a stinging.

Tymhigaw, v. a. (tymhig) To twitch, to prickle.

Tymhigawl, a. (tymhig) Twitching, pricking.

Tymhigiad, s. m. (tymhig) A twitching.

Gallai fod i ddyn, cyn y credai of cariad Daw tangat yn Nghrist, maeu mawr o ymstyngiad cyfreithlaw, a thymhigiad calon.

A person might have, before he believed in the love of God towards him in Christ, a great degree of obedience according to the law, and pricking of conscience.
S. Trefredyn.

Tymhigiedig, a. (tymhigiad) Being twitched.

Tymhigwr, s. m.—pl. tymhigwyr (tymhig—gwr) A twitcher, a stinger.

Tymig, a. (tym) Ample; seasonable, timely, of full time, mature, efficient.

Nid oes o ddyrn—

God tywarchen dymig bruddlen, domawg bridled!
There is nothing of man but the clad an extending gloomy veil, mazy and composed of dust!
Gr. Ddu.

Tymmor, s. m.—pl. t. au (tym—mor) Season.

Hinnon bodwch a wna bob tymmor yn haf.

The halcyon days of peace make every season like summer.
Adage.

Tymmoraid, a. (tymmor) Tending to be seasonable; seasonable; fit, befitting. Byw yn dymmoraid, to live comfortably.

Tymmorawl, a. (tymmor) Temporal; seasonable.

Tymmordy, s. m.—pl. t. au (tymmor—ty) A house that is managed by the season; a house that is held by the season, or tenanted at will.

Tymmoreidd—dra, s. m. (tymmoraid) Seasonableness; comfortableness.

Tymmoreiddiad, s. m. (tymmoraid) A rendering seasonable; a becoming seasonable.

Tymmoreiddiaw, v. a. (tymmoraid) To render or become seasonable; to render fitting.

Tymoreiddrwydd, s. m. (tymmoraid) Seasonableness; comfortableness.

Tymmoreiddwch, s. m. (tymmoraid) Seasonableness; comfortableness.

Tymmorgwaith, s. m. (tymmor—gwaith) A certain season, a certain time.

Tymmorl, v. a. (tymmor) To make a season.

Tymmorlad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tymmor) A making a season; a fixing a season.

Tymmorledeb, s. m. (tymmorawl) Seasonableness.

Tymhyr, s. m.—pl. t. au (tymp) A temporality.

*Pwyllai Forant of a'i wyr,
Fy neol a llosg fy nhymllyr.*

Morgan and his men would rush onward, expelling me and burning my native place.
Llywarch Hen.

Fy mrodyr a'm tymhyr a gwynaf!

My brothers and my native land I mourn!
Llywarch Hen.

*Lloest Cadwallon heno
Trathir yn nhymllyr Penfro.*

The encampment of Cadwallon to-night is the extreme of the temporality of Penfro.
Llywarch Hen.

*Ni rydd rhwyng eidd
Hyd troed o'i dymhyr,
Er olyn hwytr
Yn herw ystwad.*

He that is of eagle course will not give the length of his foot of his temporality, for fear of depredators in the path of depredation.
Gwalchmai, t. P. ab Iorwedd.

Tymhyraw, v. a. (tymhyr) To attemptate, to temper; to moderate. Tymhyra fo yn dda, temper it well.

Tymhyrawl, a. (tymhyr) Attemptate.

Tymhyriad, s. m. (tymhyr) A tempering.

Tymhyroldeb, s. m. (tymhyrawl) Temperateness.

Tymp, s. m. (tym) Enlargement; the act or time of bringing forth; birth; season.

Budd cyn tymp.

Profit before the birth.

Adage.

Tyn, s. m. (ty—yn) A pull, a draught; a stretch; a tendency, or inclination.

Ni phaid Prydenlaid a's tyn.

The Britons will not refrain from their inclination.

D. ab I. Ddu.

Tyn, a. (ty—yn) Stretched, tight, strait, tightly stuffed or pressed; stubborn, pertinacious.

Pe tynaf fo y llynon cyntaf y tyr.

The tightest the string may be the sooner it will break.

Adage.

Gochel y pechawd cyntaf, canys y mae llyng yn dyn wrth ei sawl.

Avoid the first sin, for there is a legion close at its heel.

Adage.

Tynâd, s. m. (tynân) A tightening, a straining.

Tynâwl, a. (tynân) Tightening, straining.

Tynân, v. a. (tyn) To tighten, to strain.

Tynawl, a. (tyn) Drawing, straining, pulling.

Tynchwydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (tyn—chwydd) A tumour.

Tynder, s. m. (tyn) Stretchedness, tightness, straitness; rigidity, rigour; austerly; stubbornness.

Rhag baichder, tynder y tir, Gwared ff, Arglwydd gwirion.

From the pride, the stubbornness of the land, deliver me righteously Lord.
H. D. ab I. Iwan.

Tyndir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (twn—tir) A fallow.

Tyndra, s. m. (tyn) Tightness, or straitness.

Tyndrec, s. m.—pl. t. lau (trec) A draught geer.

Tyndrecyn, s. m. dim. (tyndrec) An elevatory, a surgical instrument so called.

Tynedig, a. (tyn) Being drawn or pulled.

Tynedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (tynedig) Attraction.

Tynedigawl, a. (tynedig) Attractive, drawing.

Tynedigolrwydd, s. m. (tynedig) Attractiveness.

Tynell, s. f.—pl. t. i (tyn) A barrel; a tun.

Tynellaid, s. f.—pl. tynelleidiau (tynell) The quantity contained in a tun.

Tynelliad, s. m. (tynell) A filling a tun.

Tynellu, v. a. (tynell) To fill a tun.

Tyner, a. (tyn) Tender, lenient; assuasive.

Gair tyner dadi galed.

Tender word hard argument.

Adage.

Tynerâd, s. m. (tynerân) A rendering tender, an assuaging; a becoming tender.

Tynerâwl, a. (tynerân) Tending to soften.

Tyneraid, a. (tyner) Somewhat tender.

Tynerân, v. a. (tyner) To become tender.

Y lly—

*Er gradd ei drugareddau
Daw Ner rhodd hwy i dymorâd.*

The multitude, according to the degree of his meekness, may the Lord God incline them to become gentle.
H. D. ab I. Iwan.

Tynerawl, a. (tyner) Of a soothing nature.

Tyneredig, a. (tyner) Being made tender.

Tylad, s. m. (twl) A making smooth; a forming a smooth toft.

Tylaith, s. m. (ty—llaith) That destroys.

Tylath, s. f.—pl. t. an (ty—llath) A house beam.

Tylawd, a. (ty—llawd) Poor, needy, being in want, being bereaved.

Ffawd ar ol ffawd a wnaet ddyn yn dylawd.

Luck after luck will make a person poor.

Adage.

Tylcyn, s. m. dim. (twlc) A small hovel.

Tylchawg, a. (twlch) Abounding with knolls.

Tylchiad, s. m. (twlch) A forming a knoll.

Tylchu, v. a. (twlch) To form a knoll or tump.

Tyle, s. m.—pl. t. au (twl) A gentle swell or elevation, a small bank or rising hill, a down; a toft, the site of a building; a couch. It forms the names of several places; as Tyle Denis Powys; Tyle Forgan; Tyle Garw; Tyle y Gwel; Tyle Tref Gatwg. Tyle Ysgawd, or Scottish Tyle, an old appellation for Ireland.

Treddiant—

Ta a threfnas,

A thyllas,

A chellau bwyd.

They will pervade houses and furniture, and meads, and meat closets.

Yn nghyfarfod clod cludfeidd dyle,

Yn nghyffwrdd gyswysu gan wawr y se.

In the convention of fame on the ears of the assembling birds, in an intellectual reception in the glory of the stars.

Lt. P. Mech.

Pan edrychyst y dyle, nid oedd arael namyn byrwellt dyallt chwerinlyd.

When they surveyed the couch, there was upon it only broken straw dusty and full of fleas.

Lleidd. Rhonabwy.

Tylinad, s. m. (glin) A kneading of dough.

Tylinaw, v. a. (glin) To knead, to work dough.

Mae gwith Gildas wedi myned trwy ddwyllaw y mynach; gwyr a fedrynt yn dda delgawn dylinau pob peth i'w dybenion eu hunain.

The work of Gildas hath past through the hands of the monks; men who knew well enough how to mould every thing to their own purposes.

Evan Evans.

Tylinedig, a. (tylinad) Being kneaded.

Tylinwr, s. m. (tylinaw—gwr) A kneader.

Tylodaidd, a. (tylawd) Somewhat poor or needy.

Tylodedd, s. m. (tylawd) Poverty, poorness.

Tylodi, s. m. (tylawd) Poverty, or poorness.

Nid oes gan gyflawnder na golud na thylodi.

Equity has neither wealth nor poverty.

Adage.

Amludd cybydd ys tylodi arno.

A miser's abundance is poverty to him.

Adage.

Nid tylodi ond clefyd.

There is no poorness like disease.

Adage.

Tylosus, a. (tylawd) Tending to make poor.

Tylosusaw, v. a. (tylosus) To render poor.

Tylosusedd, s. m. (tylosus) Impoverished state.

Tylosusrwydd, s. m. (tylosus) State of poverty.

Tylosyn, s. m. dim. (tylawd) A poor person.

Tyln, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ty—llu) A household.

Tylüaidd, a. (tylu) Familiar; sociable, domestic.

Tylüedd, s. m. (tylu) The state of being a household, socialness, sociableness.

Mad ganed o genedl fonedd.

Nawr wldig mawrwlad tylüedd.

Blessed was he born of a noble race, the great sovereign of the great country of society.

Cyad. Llew. i Dydilio.

Tylüeiddiad, s. m. (tylüaidd) A familiarizing.

Tylüeiddlaw, v. a. (tylüaidd) To familiarize.

Tylüeiddrwydd, s. m. (tylüaidd) Familiarness.

Tylüwr, s. m.—pl. tyluwyr (tylu—gwr) A family man, a domestic man.

Tylwyth, s. m.—pl. t. au (ty—llwyth) A household, a family; kinsfolk; a tribe. Y tylwyth teg, bendith eu mamau, gwreigedd unwyf, y teulu, aerial beings, sylphs, gnomes, or fairies; but they are not considered of a diminutive form, as the fairies are, in English tales.

Byw ar dir y tylwyth teg.

To live on the land of the fairy tribe, or by unknown means.

Adage.

Tylwythaw, v. a. (tylwyth) To form a family.

Tylwythawg, a. (tylwyth) Having a household, having a family, or kindred; having a great family; populous.

Tylwythawg dyfha yr anawwawl, at bydd faddiart.

The ungodly of extended household, it shall not be prosperous.

Dyddiad i. i.

Tylwythiad, s. m. (tylwyth) A forming a family.

Tylwythogi, v. a. (tylwythawg) To form a household or family.

Tylwythogrwydd, s. m. (tylwythawg) The state of having a family.

Tylwodraeth, s. m. (ty—llywodraeth) House management, household economy.

Tyllawg, a. (twll) Having holes, perforated.

Tyllfras, a. (twll—bras) Of ample opening.

Gwen forddwyd tyllfras

A wylas neithwyr yn agorwyr rhyd Farnas:

A chhu bu mab ym ni thebas.

Gwen with thigh of wide opening did watch last night on the border of the ford of Farnas: and as he was my son he fed me.

Llywarch Hen.

Tyllrug, s. m. (twll—crug) The opening of the ground in dry weather.

Tylliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (twll) A boring.

Pau oeddwn yn sefyll ac yn rhyfeddu gyfnged y tyllid, a welwn hen wiber yn myned i mewn, ac yn gylindro yn ddaud i ei hol yn gyfnewydd ac yn leuan.

When I was standing, and wondering how narrow was the perforation, I beheld an old serpent going in, and immediately coming back renovated and young.

Marchwyl Crydd.

Tylliedig, a. (tylliad) Bored, or perforated.

Tylliedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tylliad) A borer.

Tyllogi, v. a. (tyllawg) To make full of holes.

Tyllogrwydd, s. m. (tyllawg) The state of being full of holes, porousness.

Tyllu, v. a. (twll) To make a hole, to bore.

Y dafn a dyll y gareg, nid o gryfder ond o fnych cythbas

The drop will perforate the stone, not through strength but often falling.

Adage.

Tyllwr, s. m.—pl. tyllwyr (twll—gwr) One who bores a hole, or perforates.

Tyllydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (twll) A borer.

Tym, s. m. (ty—ym) A principle of extension, a principle of enlargement; a tendency to enlarge; space.

Tymher, s. m. (tym) Temperament.

Tymheraidd, a. (tymher) Temperamental.

Tymherawl, a. (tymher) Temperamental.

Tymhereiddiad, s. m. (tymheraidd) A rendering temperamental; a becoming temperate.

Tymhereiddlaw, v. a. (tymheraidd) To render temperate; to become temperate.

Tymhereiddrwydd, s. m. (tymheraidd) Temperateness.

Tymheriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tymher) A temperist.

Tymheriedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tymher) One who renders temperate.

Tymheru, v. a. (tymher) To temper; to mollify.

Tymherus, a. (tymher) Temperate.

Tymherusaw, v. a. (tymherus) To render temperate; to become temperate.

Tymherusdra, s. m. (tymherus) Temperateness.

Tymherusedd, s. m. (tymherus) Temperateness.

Tymherusrwydd, s. m. (tymher) Temperateness.

Tymherwr, s. m. (tymher—gwr) A temperer.

Tymberydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tymher) A seasoner.

Tymbest, s. m. (tympt) That breaks out.

Tymhestl, s. f.—pl. tymhestledd (tymhest) A tempest, a storm.

Tymhestlaidd, a. (tymhestl) Tempestive.

Tymhestlawg, a. (tymhestl) Tempestuous.

Tymhestliad, s. m. (tymhestl) A tempesting.

Tymhestlin, v. a. (tymhestl) To tempest.

Mai ydd oeddynt eithy yn ymladd o bob parth, ar warthaf yr eithaw, enycha yn ddwyfod y gwybodaeth gerbydd yn chwyrto, ac yn tymhestlin y wellig, ac yn gwrsgaru y llongau i amryfollod draethau.

As they were in that manner fighting on all sides, upon the face of the ocean, behold suddenly the adverse winds blowing, and tempesting the torrent, and dispersing the ships to various shores.

Or. ab Arthur.

Tymhestlus, a. (tymhestl) Tempestuous.

Tymhig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tympt) A prickle, a twitch, a stinging.

Tymhigaw, v. a. (tymhig) To twitch, to prickle.

Tymhigawl, a. (tymhig) Twitching, pricking.

Tymhigiad, s. m. (tymhig) A twitching.

Gallai fod i ddyn, cyn y credai of cariad Daw taarato yn Nghrist, mawr mawr o ymstyngiad cyfreiliaw, a thymhigiad calon.

A person might have, before he believed in the love of God towards him in Christ, a great degree of obedience according to the law, and pricking of conscience.

S. Trefredyn.

Tymhigiedig, a. (tymhigiad) Being twitched.

Tymhigwr, s. m.—pl. tymhigwyr (tymhig—gwr) A twitcher, a stinger.

Tymig, a. (tyni) Ample; seasonable, timely, of full time, mature, efficient.

Mid oes o ddyn—

Oed tywarchen dymig bruddlen, domawg bridled!
There is nothing of man but the clod an extending gloomy veil, mry and composed of dust!

Or. Ddu.

Tymmor, s. m.—pl. t. au (tym—mor) Season.

Hfion heddwch a was bob tymmor yn haf.

The halcyon days of peace make every season like summer.

Adage.

Tymmoraid, a. (tymmor) Tending to be seasonable; seasonable; fit, befitting. Byw yn dymmoraid, to live comfortably.

Tymmorawl, a. (tymmor) Temporal; seasonable.

Tymmordy, s. m.—pl. t. au (tymmor—ty) A house that is managed by the season; a house that is held by the season, or tenanted at will.

Tymmoreidd-dra, s. m. (tymmoraid) Seasonableness; comfortableness.

Tymmoreiddiad, s. m. (tymmoraid) A rendering seasonable; a becoming seasonable.

Tymmoreiddiaw, v. a. (tymmoraid) To render or become seasonable; to render fitting.

Tymoreiddrwydd, s. m. (tymmoraid) Seasonableness; comfortableness.

Tymmoreiddwch, s. m. (tymmoraid) Seasonableness; comfortableness.

Tymmorgwaith, s. m. (tymmor—gwaith) A certain season, a certain time.

Tymmori, v. a. (tymmor) To make a season.

Tymmoriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tymmor) A making a season; a fixing a season.

Tymmoroldeb, s. m. (tymmorawl) Seasonableness.

Tymhyr, s. m.—pl. t. au (tympt) A temporality.

Peryllol Fergant o'i wyr,

Fy neoi a lloeg fy nhymhyr.

Morgan and his men would rush onward, expelling me and leaving my native place.

Llywarch Hen.

Fy mrodyr a'm tymhyr a gwynaf!

My brothers and my native land I mourn!

Llywarch Hen.

Lloest Cadwallon heno

Tratuir yn nhymhyr Penfro.

The encampment of Cadwallon to-night in the extreme of the temporality of Penfro.

Llywarch Hen.

Ni rydd rhwyng eyr
Hyd troed o'i dymhyr,
Er o'i'n hwyfyr
Yn hwr ystawd.

He that is of eagle course will not give the length of his foot of his temporality, for fear of deprecation in the path of deprecation.

Or. ab Idris.

Tymhyraw, v. a. (tymhyr) To attempt, to temper; to moderate. Tymhyra fo yn dda, temper it well.

Tymhyrawl, a. (tymhyr) Attemptate.

Tymhyriad, s. m. (tymhyr) A tempering.

Tymhyroldeb, s. m. (tymhyrawl) Temperateness.

Tymp, s. m. (tym) Enlargement; the act or time of bringing forth; birth; season.

Budd cyn tympt.

Prodit before the birth.

Adage.

Tyn, s. m. (ty—yn) A pull, a draught; a stretch; a tendency, or inclination.

Ni phaid Prydonaid a'n tyn.

The Britons will not refrain from their inclination.

D. ab I Ddu.

Tyn, a. (ty—yn) Stretched, tight, strait, tightly stuffed or pressed; stubborn, pertinacious.

Pe tynaf to y llyng cynaf y tyr.

The tightest the string may be the sooner it will break.

Adage.

Gochel y perchawd cynaf, caen y mae llang yn dyn uph at sawd!

Avoid the first sin, for there is a legion close at its heel.

Adage.

Tyniad, s. m. (tynau) A tightening, a straining.

Tyniadawl, a. (tynau) Tightening, straining.

Tynau, v. a. (tyn) To tighten, to strain.

Tynawl, a. (tyn) Drawing, straining, pulling.

Tynchwydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (tyn—chwydd) A tumour.

Tynder, s. m. (tyn) Stretchedness, tightness, straitness; rigidity, rigour; austerity; stubbornness.

Rhag bachder, tynder y tyr,

Gward B, Arglydd gwir.

From the pride, the stubbornness of the land, deliver me righteously Lord.

H. D. ab Idris.

Tyndir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (twn—tir) A fallow.

Tyndra, s. m. (tyn) Tightness, or straitness.

Tyndrec, s. m.—pl. t. iau (trec) A draught geer.

Tyndrecyn, s. m. dim. (tyndrec) An elevatory, a chirological instrument so called.

Tynedig, a. (tyn) Being drawn or pulled.

Tynedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (tynedig) Attraction.

Tynedigawl, a. (tynedig) Attractive, drawing.

Tynedigolrwydd, s. m. (tynedig) Attractiveness.

Tynell, s. f.—pl. t. i (tyn) A barrel; a tun.

Tynellaid, s. f.—pl. tynelleidiau (tynell) The quantity contained in a tun.

Tynelliad, s. m. (tynell) A filling a tun.

Tynellu, v. a. (tynell) To fill a tun.

Tyner, a. (tyn) Tender, lenient; assuasive.

Gair tyner dadi galed.

Tender word hard argument.

Adage.

Tyneriad, s. m. (tynerau) A rendering tender, an assuaging; a becoming tender.

Tyneriadawl, a. (tynerau) Tending to soften.

Tyneraid, a. (tyner) Somewhat tender.

Tynerau, v. a. (tyner) To become tender.

Y llyng—

Er gradd ei drugareddau

Daw Ner rhodd lwy i dnyrta!

The multitude, according to the degree of his merces, may the Lord God incline them to become gentle.

H. D. ab Idris.

Tynerawl, a. (tyner) Of a soothing nature.

Tyneredig, a. (tyner) Being made tender.

Tyneredd, s. m. (tyner) Tenderness, leniency.
Tyneriad, s. m. (tyner) A making tender; emollition, mollification.
Tyneriant, s. m. (tyner) Emolllition; leniency.
Tyneruwyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (tyner—nwyf) A tender passion.
Tyneru, v. a. (tyner) To soften, to assuage, to lenify, to make tender; to become tender.
Tynerus, a. (tyner) Of a tender quality.
Tynerusaw, v. a. (tynerus) To render lenient; to become tender, or lenient.
Tynerusrwydd, s. m. (tynerus) Tenderness.
Tynerwch, s. m. (tyner) Tenderness, lenity.
Tynfa, s. f.—pl. tynfeydd (tyr) A draught.

A oedd y fath rin a thyfa yn llala yr anwyld i ennill yr hen egiwys gynt!

Was there such a charm and attraction in the voice of the lover to gain the old church formerly? Ier. Owain.

Tynfach, s. m.—pl. t. au (tyr—bach) A harpago,
 the gaffe of a cross-bow.

Tynfaen, s. m. (tyr—maen) A loadstone.

Tynfalch, a. (tyr—balch) Stubbornly proud.

Tynfalchedd, s. m. (tyr—falch) Stubborn pride.

Tynfarch, s. m. (tyr—march) A draught horse.

Tynhegl, s. f. (tyr—hegl) A stretching limb.

Gorewynawg ton, tynhegl ebrwydd.

*Crowned with foam the wave, of stretching limb the quick one.
 H. ab Owain Gwynedd.*

Tynhug, s. f.—pl. t. au (tyr—hug) A close coat.
Tyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tyr) A pulling, a drawing, a tension; a pull, a draught; deduction.
Tyniadau a chyweirdannau, modulations and chord-strings.

Tyniar, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tyr—iar) A bubble.

Tyniedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tyr—iad) A drawer.

Tynlath, s. f. (tyr—lath) A draught-tree.

Tyno, s. m. (tyr) A plain area, a plat, or plot;
 a dale; a green. Tyno Coch, the old name of Ceredigion.

Cood, maes, tyno, a bryn.

Wood, field, dale, and hill.

Tatteris.

*Nid oes dwyn, na dwyn dyro,
 Yn neutsa glyn Nant y Glo—
 Na wyddost.*

*There is no tump nor tedious dale, about the dingle of Nant y
 Glo, but thou knowest.* D. ab Gwilym.

Tynraff, s. f. (tyr—rhafl) A drawing rope.

Tynrwyd, s. f. (tyr—rhwyd) A dragnet.

Tynrwydd, s. m. (tyr) Rigidity, or tightness.

Tynrwym, s. m. (tyr—rhwym) A tight bandage.

Tynrwymaw, v. a. (tyr—rhwym) To bind tightly.

Tynrwyriad, s. m. (tyr—rhwym) A striction.

Tyna, v. a. (tyr) To draw, to pull, to tug. Tyna hi gan bryll, draw her on gently. Dyfed.

Cyllon a dynant at y mel.

The wasps will draw to the honey.

Adage.

*Na thyn chwara ar dalawg;
 Na fydd ry hyf ar rywiawg.*

Draw no play from a savage; be not over encroaching on the good-natured. Llywarch Hen.

*Hawdd tynu dannedd blaidd, ond hwyr y tynir o bano ei anian.
 It is easy to draw a wolf's teeth, but it will be long before his nature is pulled out of him.* Adage.

*Anturiwn, hwyliwn bell a thonau,
 A thynwn fed yn rhi,
 Ynad pob gwlad rad roddi,
 Un ion aithrawn a thiri.*

Let us venture, let us range the brine and waves, and let us draw towards our Lord, the judge of every nation, dispensing grace, one supreme of lords and thine. Casnodwr.

Tynwr, s. m.—pl. tynwyr (tyr—gwr) A puller.

Tynwydd, s. m. (tyr—gwydd) Direction, information, intelligence.

Tynwyddaw, v. a. (tyrwydd) To direct, to guide

Tynwyddawl, a. (tyrwydd) Directing, informing.
Tynwyddiad, s. m. (tyrwydd) Direction, guidance.
Tynwyddwyr, s. m.—pl. tynwyddwyr (tyrwydd—gwr) One who directs, or an informer.

Tynwyddyd, s. m. (tyrwydd) Direction, guidance, information, intelligence. A eili di mi tywyddyd i mi am dano? canst thou give me intelligence about it? Sil.

Tyngad, s. m. (twng) A making a deposition, a plighting; a swearing; adjuration.

Tyngadwr, s. m.—pl. tyngadwyr (tyngad—gwr)
 An exorcist; an adjurer.

Tynged, s. f.—pl. t. ion (twng) Destiny, fate, fortune, luck. Tynged ddwrwg iddo! Bad luck to him!

Gores tynged diwedd da.

The best fortune is a good end.

Adg.

Nid i bob amddawd tynged.

Fate is not attached to every circumstance.

Adg.

Trech tynged nog arfetha.

Fate is more powerful than resolution.

Adg.

Ni all dyn ochei tynged.

A person cannot avoid fate.

Adg.

Tyngedawl, a. (tynged) Belonging to destiny.

Tyngedfen, s. f.—pl. t. au (tynged—men) The fated or sworn necessity, fate, destiny.

Nid oes nawdd rhag tyngedfen.

There is no refuge against destiny.

Adg.

Tyngedfenawg, a. (tyngedfen) Being fated.

Tyngedfenawl, a. (tyngedfen) Belonging to fate, fatal; fortunate; predestined.

Tyngedfeniad, s. m. (tyngedfen) A rendering lable to fate; predestination.

Tyngedfenoldeb, s. m. (tyngedfenawl) The act of being subject to destiny; fatality.

Tyngedfenoli, v. a. (tyngedfenawl) To subject to fate; to become destined.

Tyngedfenolrwydd, s. m. (tyngedfenawl) A state subject to destiny.

Tyngedfennu, v. a. (tyngedfen) To predestinate.

Tyngedfennu, a. (tyngedfen) Predestinarian.

O fol drwg tyngedfennu! O ddolw ysyd! O aggrawd ty oes genyd twy o ddolli no chan safed.

Oh thou foolish one evil of destiny! Oh vain man! Oh—than a shadow of a man! thou hast no more to do: thou belongs to a beast. Merchug (1722).

Tyngedfenwr, s. m.—pl. tyngedfenwyr (tyngedfen—gwr) A fatalist; a predestinator.

Tyngediad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tynged) Exorcism.

Tyngedig, a. (tynged) Being sworn. Mac of n—dyngedig, he is rather addicted to swearing.

Tyngedigawl, a. (tyngedig) Juratory.

Tyngediad, s. m. (tynged) Adjuration.

Tyngedu, v. a. (tynged) To make a pledge; to adjure. Wyf yn dy dyngedu i fyned allen, I do adjure thee to go out.

Arthur nis bogdaf;

Na wnant cad a'i tyngedaf;

O'm lleddir, minnau a luddaf.

Arthur I will not be intimidated by; now hundred battles I adjure him: if I should be killed, I too will kill.

Ynodd. Trydan a Constan.

Tyngedwr, s. m. (tynged—gwr) An exorcist.

Tyngiad, s. m. (twng) A swearing, a deposing.

Tyngnaith, s. f. (twng—naith) A sanctuary.

I'w tyngnaith cewant dangnef,

Y gwyr all o'i safor et.

To their sanctuary they will seek for transgression of his high choir. Ier. Sear ab Rhysier (1722).

Tyngnawdd, s. m. (twng—nawdd) Sworn protection.

Tyngu, v. a. (twng) To render fixed or unalterable; to depose; to swear, to take an oath; to adjure. Tyngu anudon, to swear a false oath.

Ni ddawr dindd pa dyng.

The mischievous curse not what he swears.

Adapt.

Mal hys y bu y daengfudd rhyngddynt: nid amgen, talu o Hauri—dirfwr swmp o arfand i Lowys, fab brenia Ffrinac, twy dygu ohoon ystau deyrnos Lloegr yu dragwyddawl.

In this manner was there peace between them; that is to say, by Henry's paying an immense sum of money to Louis, the son of the king of France, through his adjuring on his part the kingdom of England for ever.

Brut y Sassen.

Tyngwr, s. m.—pl. tyngwyr (twng—gwr) A sweater.

Tyrwl, a. (twr) Heaping, or accumulating.

Tyrch, s. m. (torch) That consists of circles.

Tyrchaid, a. (twrch) Hoggish, or like a hog.

Tyrchawl, a. (twrch) Belonging to a pig, or hog.

Tyrches, s. f.—pl. t. od (twrch) A splayed sow.

Twrch a thrches, a splayed boar and splayed sow.

Tyrchiad, s. m. (twrch) A burrowing, as a pig.

Tyrchn, v. a. (twrch) To turn up; to burrow.

Tyrchwr, s. m. (twrch—gwr) A mole-catcher.

Tyrchyn, s. m. dim. (twrch) A little hog; a hoggish fellow.

Tyrddain, v. a. (twrdd) To be blustering, to storm.

Tyrddan, s. m. (twrdd) A blustering, a turmoil.

Tyrddiad, s. m. (twrdd) A blustering, a storming.

Tyrddu, v. a. (twrdd) To bluster, or to storm.

*Trigdd yno ny fro frus,
Tyrdded mewn tal o orddu.*

Let him abide there in the rich country, let him bluster in houses of renown.

Tho. Llywelyn.

Tyrddwr, s. m. (twrdd—gwr) A blusterer.

Tyrdig, a. (twr) Heaped, or accumulated.

Tyrfa, s. f.—pl. tyrfeydd (twrf) A multitude.

*Un dyrf a was derfyg
Rhag f'r Mall gual mael i'n myg.*

One host smelt a tumult, lest the other should obtain an advantage amongst us.

H. D. ab Iffon.

Tyrfain, v. a. (twrf) To be blustering, to storm.

s. m. A storm, a tumult.

Mal gwlith Arderydd gwrth ar dyrfain cad.

Like the battle of Arderydd wrath in the storm of conflict.

Cynddelw.

Tyrfau, v. a. (twrf) To cause a drawing together; to be contracted.

Tyrfedig, a. (twrf) Being heaped; being drawn together; contracted.

Tyrfiad, s. m. (twrf) A heaping; a turning up, as swine do the ground; a contraction, or shrinking.

Tyrfia, v. a. (twrf) To draw together; to rise tumultuously; to contract, to shrink.

Tbu tyrfid, told ordd.

The wave is heisterns, it covers the shore.

Llywarch Hen.

Kidlon i was, huch i dyrfia.

An ox to spread, a sow to turn up.

Tallerin.

Tyriad, s. m. (twr) A heaping; accumulation.

Tyriaw, v. a. (twr) To heap up; to turn up.

Tyru, v. a. (twr) To heap, to pile; to make a heap, to amass, to collect, to accumulate.

*Am benneth ydd ym, am bennaf terfyna
Tyrrast fôrdd am alaf.*

Around a chief we are, around the chiefest of the fierce bands will gather together after wealth.

Cynddelw, i O. ab Madawg.

Tyrwn, s. m.—pl. tyrynod (twr) A sand-bank; also called tywooden and traethell.

Tyrwr, s. m.—pl. tyrwyr (tyru—gwr) A heaper.
Tysmwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (tws—mwy) A throbbing, a palpitation; horror, trembling. Tysmwy ar un wedi gweled ellyll, horror upon one after seeing a monster.

*Nid amwyth hys o dyrmwy;
Ni be boen ar farw-groen lwy.*

Not comfortable this fit of shivering; there never was a benumbed skin in greater pain.

D. ab Owlym.

Tysmwyad, s. m. (tysmwy) A throbbing, a palpitation; a trembling with fear.

Tysmwyaw, v. a. (tysmwy) To throb; to tremble with fear.

Tysmwyawl, a. (tysmwy) Throbbing; shivering.

Tyst, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ty—yst) One who testifies.

Tystiad, s. m. (tyst) A testing, a witnessing.

Tystiant, s. m.—pl. tystiaint (tyst) A witness.

Tystiaw, v. a. (tyst) To testify, to bear witness.

Tystiawl, a. (tyst) Testifying, witnessing.

Tystiedig, a. (tystiad) Being testified or witnessed.

Tystiolaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (tystiawl) Testimony.

Tystiolaethawl, a. (tystiolaeth) Testimonial.

Tystiolaethiad, s. m. (tystiolaeth) A testifying.

Tystiolaethu, v. a. (tystiolaeth) To give a testimony; to bear witness.

Tystiolaethwr, s. m.—pl. tystiolaethwyr (tystiolaeth—gwr) One who gives testimony; testifier.

Tystiwr, s. m. (tystiaw—gwr) A testifier.

Tysyn, s. m. dim. (tws) The bottom of a ball of yarn or thread.

Tytmyw, s. m.—pl. t. au (twyt—mwy) A loop; a clasp; a buckle.

*Tytmyw ar adwy ydoedd,
Tyst coed, ar nant cwlarn oedd—
Y farw.—*

A fastening on a gap is it, the string of the wood, across a ditch; strong was the brist.

D. ab Owlym.

Tytmywyad, s. m. (tytmwy) A fastening with a loop, clasp, or buckle.

Tytmyyaw, v. a. (tytmwy) To fasten with a loop, clasp, or buckle; to buckle.

Tytmyyawg, a. (tytmwy) Having a fastening loop.

Tytmywyedig, a. (tytmwyad) Fastened by looping.

Tyw, s. m. (ty) That tends to over-spread.

Tywall, s. m. (tyw—gwall) A pour; a spill. v. a.

To pour; to shed, to spill.

Tywalliad, s. m. (tywall) A pouring; a shedding.

Tywallt, s. m. (tywall) A pour; a spill. v. a. To pour; to shed, to spill.

Tywallitawg, a. (tywallt) Having a pouring.

Tywallitawl, a. (tywallt) Pouring, spilling.

Tywallitedig, a. (tywallt) Being poured out.

Tywallitiad, s. m. (tywallt) A pouring; a shedding.

Tywalltiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tywallitiad) One who makes a pouring; a pourer.

Tywallitu, v. a. (tywallt) To pour; to shed.

Tywallitwr, s. m.—pl. tywallitwyr (tywallt—gwr) A pourer; a shedder.

Tywallitydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tywallt) A pourer.

Tywarch, s. m. aggr. pl. tyweirch (tyw—arch) A spreading element; a sod, a clod, a turf.

Nid oes dim dyfawrn, ond digon o dywarch yn y Wddgrug.

There is no deep peat, but plenty of turf in the Wyddgrug.

Ed. Lloyd.

Tywarchawg, a. (tywarch) Turfy, glebous; swardy.

Tywarchawl, a. (tywarch) Turfy, or glebous.

Tywarchawr, s. m.—pl. tywarchorion (tywarch)

That is of the sod; an epithet for the ox in a yoke on the turf side, as opposed to rhyrchawr, or the one that walks in the furrow.

Tywarchen, s. f.—pl. t. i (tywarch) That is over or covering, a stratum; an element, a constituent matter; a sod, a clod. Y pum tywarchen, the five elements. Barddas.

Y ddwy dywarchen yr â pawb llydynt; y nef ac y ddalwr.

The two elements into which every body go; the heaven and the earth. Triodd Athroni.

Syrthiwy y rhai brathedig, a'r cryddiau yn eu hymysgaroedd; a chwa anled y rhedai y dywarchen o'r gwael, a chyd bai disgyfdd ddechruwynt yn llywca ddyfwr mor.

The wounded ones were falling, with the propelled shafts in their bowels; and so abundantly did the sod run with blood, as if a sudden south wind were sinking the snow into the sea. Gr. ab Arthur.

Tywarchiad, s. m. (tywarch) A forming of glebe, turf, or sod; a swarding.

Tywarchlyd, a. (tywarch) Turfy, swardy, glebous. Tywarchu, v. a. (tywarch) To form turf or sod; to sward; to cover with turf.

*Cyn gweryd gorodwr digu,
Cyn anawu tywaws tywarchu
Fy nghawd, tywarchen o bobtu,
Bwyl gwas Daw cyn nom gostegu!*

Before the bed fall in the extreme and unlovely, before the universal spread of covering with turf my flesh, a sod on either side, may I be a servant of God ere I be silenced! Ellor Sall.

Tywas, s. m.—pl. tyweision (ty—gwas) A house servant, a domestic.

Dy gynwgu ni gynall y tywas.

Thy debtor will not maintain the domestic. Ll. P. Moch, i Ll. ab Iorwerth.

Tywawd, s. m.—pl. tywodydd (tyw) Sand.

Tywei, s. m.—pl. t. i (tyw) A cloth, a towel. Tyweiki caws, cheese cloths.

Tywell, a. (s. of tywyll) Dark, obscure, dusky.

*Nos da f'r yys dywell;
Ni wa oes an yys well.*

Good night to the dusky Isle; I know not that there is a better Isle. Ll. Goch ab Iorwerth.

Tywerchyn, s. m. dim. (tywarch) A clod, a sod.

Tywi, s. m. (tyw) The state of being spread.

Tywiad, s. m. (tyw) A spreading over.

Tywiaw, v. a. (tyw) To spread about.

Tywiawl, a. (tyw) Tending to overspread.

Tywodaidd, a. (tywawd) Arenaceous; like sand.

Tywodawl, a. (tywawd) Having sand; sandy.

Tywodawl, a. (tywawd) Arenaceous; sandy.

Tywodi, v. a. (tywawd) To sand; to become sand.

Tywodiad, s. m. (tywawd) A forming of sand.

Tywodlyd, a. (tywawd) Sandy, full of sand.

Tywodlydrwydd, s. m. (tywodlyd) Sandiness.

Tywodwlydd, s. m. (tywawd—gwydd) Sandwort.

Tywodyn, s. m. dim. (tywawd) A grain of sand.

Tywota, v. a. (tywawd) To gather sand.

Tywu, v. a. (tyw) To spread about, to dilate.

Tywydd, s. m. (tyw) That is of a spreading principle; the atmosphere; the weather.

*Hwa ar dywydd dydd, a wnaeth deuddyn hen;
Hwynt a gad o briddyn.*

He, on the expansion of day, did form two primitive persons; they were had from earthly substance. L. G. Cokk.

Am y tywydd goren tewl.

About the weather it is best to be silent. Adage.

Tywyll, s. m. (ty—gwyll) Dark; dusk, gloom. a. Dark; dusky, gloomy.

Llewychid gwir yn nhywyll.

The truth shines in the dark. Adage.

*Ystafell Cynddylan yn tywyll heno,
Heb dan, heb oleud;
Eidd andaw am danad!*

The hall of Cynddylan is dark this night, without fire, without light: a deadly silence goes about there! Lly. Goch Hen.

Tywyllawd, s. m. (tywyll) An obscuration.

Tywyllawdr, s. m.—pl. tywyllodron (tywyllawd) One who makes obscure or dark.

Tywyllawr, s. m. (tywyll) An obscurer.

Tywyllledig, a. (tywyll) Darkened, obscured.

Tywylliad, s. m. (tywyll) A darkening, an obscuring.

Tywyllu, v. a. (tywyll) To darken, to obscure; to grow dark, to become obscure, to grow dusky or gloomy.

Tywyllwch, s. m. (tywyll) Darkness, obscurity.

Tywyllwg, s. m. (tywyll) Darkness, obscurity.

Tywyllwr, s. m.—pl. tywyllwyr (tywyll—gwr) A darkener, one who renders obscure.

Tywyn, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (tyw) A spread; a strand; a ray, or beam of light.

Blin yw ar bob blaennwydd, Blodenyw o dywyn dydd.

Troubled is it on every change, a flower from the bud of day. D. ab Gwilym, 1178.

Tywynawg, a. (tywyn) Having a splendor.

Tywynawl, a. (tywyn) Shining, resplendent.

Tywynedig, a. (tywyn) Being made shining.

Tywynedigaeath, s. m. (tywynedig) Resplendent.

Tywynedigrwydd, s. m. (tywynedig) Shining.

Tywyniad, s. m. (tywyn) A shining, a radiance.

Tywynu, v. a. (tywyn) To shine, to cast a lustre.

Tan o fron y tywn fry Tywynodd.

Fire from the bosom of the expanse above did shine. Iolo Goch, 1178.

Tywynwg, s. m. (tywyn) A shiningness.

Tywynygawl, a. (tywynwg) Resplendent.

Tywynygiad, s. m. (tywynwg) Illumination.

Tywynygu, v. a. (tywynwg) To cast a splendor.

*Y fedd a wneid yn rhin nam,
Hi a dywynyg yn azydd cast.*

The crime that is committed in the secret of the day, reflect a light in the presence of a hundred. Id.

Tywsa, s. m. (ty—gwsa) A lead, or guidance. v. a. To lead, to conduct.

Llhwys gorydd—Llhwys gwion hawd ffrwyd tywsa.

Many a steeled, many of dusky hay prancing in the lead. Gwalter.

Tywsaw, v. a. (tywsa) To lead, or to conduct.

Tywsawg, a. (tywsa) Having a lead. a. m.—f.

Tywsogion. A leader, a prince.

Mynych f'r pridd bod ar wall pen fo tywsog priddig.

Frequently must the herd be strayed when the steer is a herdsman. Id.

Tywsawl, a. (tywsa) Leading, conducting.

Tywsedig, a. (tywsa) Being conducted or led.

Tywsel, s. f.—pl. t. i (tywsa) A plug.

Tywsyg, s. m. (ty—wysg) A procession. v. a. To proceed forward.

Bu, o Gadwaladr hyd at Gwilym Bostardd, ughl truh Saxson olynol, a thrichannlynedd y bennat yn tywsyg.

There have been, from Cadwaladr down to Wllym Bostardd, a thrichannlynedd y bennat in succession, and there have been they continued going on. Id.

Tywsygaw, v. a. (tywsyg) To proceed onward.

Tywsygawl, a. (tywsyg) Tending to go onward.

Tywsygiad, s. m. (tywsyg) A proceeding forward.

Tywsygiad, s. m. (tywsyg) A leading, a conducting.

Tywsygaeth, s. f.—pl. t. an (tywsygaw) Principality.

Tywsygaidd, a. (tywsygaw) Like a leader.

Tywsygaawl, a. (tywsygaw) Like a leader.

Tywsygeiddiad, s. m. (tywsygaidd) A leading princely; a becoming princely.

Tywsygeiddaw, v. a. (tywsygaidd) To lead princely; to become princely.

Tywsygeiddrwydd, s. m. (tywsygaidd) Princeliness.

Tywsyoges, s. f.—pl. t. an (tywsygaw) A prince.

Tywsywr, s. m.—pl. tywsywyr (tywsygaw) A man who leads.

U.

UCH

UB, s. m. r. That is out, or extreme; that is high, or loud; a howl, a loud cry.
Ubain, v. a. (ub) To howl, to utter doleful cries.
s. m. A howling.

Gwae hwynt y gethera,
 A fynynt uffern
 Dyth gwedi yma;
 Yn y mawr uchaf,
 A mawr pia.

Woe to them the fiends, who seek for hell over after the present;
 where there is howling, where there is waiting, and many a torment.

Uban, s. m. (ub) A howling, a loud crying.
UCH, s. f. r.—pl. t. lon. That breaks out, or rises; a sigh.

Quid ach yn nghawdd,
 Neud Urian at blaidd!

If there is a cry in distress, is it not Urian with distress is away!
Taliesin.

Uch, a. (uch, s.) Being over or above; higher.
Uch, prep. (uch, s.) Above, over. a. Higher, used for uchaf.

Gwedd uch ben dedwydd ddiodes.

Accordant over the head of the prudent is a shelter. Adage.

Uchad, s. m. (uch) The act of rising higher.
Uchaf, a. (uch) Upmost, uppermost, highest.

A pair Daw yn uchaf.

With the word of God uppermost. Adage.

Uchafael, s. m. (uchaf) A going aloft; ascension.

Gostwng a fu'r cyfrwng cael
 A chyfod iau'r Uchafael.

Hemilitation was the intermediate act, and a resurrection on Ascension Thursday. Iwan Dduwryn.

Uchafed, a. (uchaf) Being over or above. Llethr uchafed, upper leather.

Uchafedu, v. a. (uchafed) To make a top part; to vamp.

Uchafedd, s. m. (uchaf) Loftiness, pre-eminence.

Uchafiad, s. m. (uchaf) A rising over or above.

Uchafiaeth, s. m. (uchaf) Supremacy, superiority.

Llyma fal y dopwrthant deyrnau Cymru yn dair rhan: un a hi uchafiaeth ar y ddyw; nid angen nos Aberffraw pia y bendeg-weth.

Behold the manner they divide the kingdoms of Wales into three parts: one possesses supremacy over the two; that is to say, Aberffraw has the sovereignty. Trioedd.

Uchafiaethawl, a. (uchafiaeth) Appertaining to supremacy.

Uchafiaetholdeb, s. m. (uchafiaethawl) A state of supremacy or superiority.

Uchafiaethu, v. a. (uchafiaeth) To create supremacy; to exercise superiority.

Uchanedd, s. m. (uch—anedd) The gums. Dodi mel ar uchannedd plentyn, to apply honey to the gums of a child. Dyfed.

Uchanian, s. f. (uch—anian) A superior nature. a. Of superior nature; supernatural.

Uchanianaeith, s. f. (uchanian) Metaphysics.

Uchanianawl, a. (uchanian) Metaphysical.

Uchanianoldeb, s. m. (uchanianawl) A state of superior nature; supernaturalness.

Uchanianolder, s. (uchanianawl) Supernaturalness
Uchanianoll, v. a. (uchanianawl) To render of superior nature; to become of superior nature; to become supernatural.

Uchanianolrwydd, s. m. (uchanianawl) A state of superior nature; supernaturalness.

VOL. II.

UCH

Uchaniann, v. a. (uchanian) To render of superior nature; to become of superior nature; to become supernatural.

Ucharn, s. m.—pl. t. edd (uch—arn) The region of the ankle; the ankle; the same as uffarn.

Uchaw, v. a. (uch) To heighten, or to elevate.

Uchawl, a. (uch) Relating to height; elevating.

Uchdeb, s. m. (uch) Highness, loftiness, height.

Uchder, s. m. (uch) Highness, loftiness, height.

Uchdeyrn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (uch—teyrn) A sovereign prince.

Uchdeyrnas, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (uchdeyrn) A superior realm or kingdom.

Uchdeyrnedd, s. m. (uchdeyrn) Supreme monarchy.

Uchdra, s. m. (uch) Loftiness, altitude, height.

Uched, a. (uch) High, elevated, or exalted.

Pam ucher uchod pan atchubed Ffrainc,
 Pan farson foed.

Five elevated vespers were had when France was saved, when mighty ones were put to flight. H. ab Owain Gwynedd.

Uchediad, s. m. (uched) A soaring, an elevation.

Uchedu, v. a. (uched) To soar; to elevate.

Uchedydd, s. m.—pl. t. lon (uched) A soarer.

I gyngar gyda threud yr ych,
 A choul gyda'r uchedydd.

To sleep with the turning out of the ox, and to rise with the lark. Adage.

Uchedd, s. m. (uch) Highness, loftiness, altitude; grandeur; a top, or surface.

Uchel, a. (uch—el) High, lofty; towering; stately. It is prefixed in composition. 'Mol-uch of yn yr uchelion,' Praise him in the high-places.

A ddringo yn rhy uchel, fo dyr y brwynnau dano.

He that climbs too high, the branch will break under him. Adage.

Darlwr'r gwaf, darlwr'r oerfel,
 Darlwr'r gwaf a'r gwafodd uchel;
 Darlwr'r gwaf a'r gwafodd uchel;
 Darlwr'r gwaf a'r gwafodd uchel.

'Past is the winter, past is the cold, past is the rain and the high winds; the green vegetating spring is come, leaves to the grove, and the dale covered with trefolle. Ed. Mathew, o Forgenny.

Uchelawg, a. (uchel) Having height or altitude: yr uchelawg, the mistletoe; also called uchel-awr, uchelff, uchelfal, and uchelfar.

Ucheldad, s. m. (uchel—dad) A supreme father.

Uchelder, s. m.—pl. t. au (uchel) Loftiness, height.

Y Daw safedraul—
 Fy llygaid i fy hun ei gwel,
 At ddringo ucheldrad.

The incomprehensible God, my own eyes shall him behold, on pleasant heights. Ellis Wyn.

Ucheldir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (uchel—tir) High land.

Ucheldra, s. m. (uchel) Highness, or elevatedness.

Ucheldrem, s. f.—pl. t. iau (uchel—trem) A high look. a. Of supercilious look.

Ucheldremiad, s. (ucheldrem) A highly looking.

Ucheldremiaw, v. a. (ucheldrem) To look highly.

Ucheldremiawl, a. (ucheldrem) Highly looking.

Ucheldrum, a. (uchel—trum) A high ridge.

Ucheldrumiad, s. m. (trum) A forming a high ridge.

Ucheldrumiaw, v. a. (ucheldrum) To form a high ridge.

Ucheldrumiawg, a. (ucheldrum) Being high ridged.

Ucheldyb, s. m.—pl. t. iau (uchel—tyb) A high opinion. a. Of a high opinion.

Ucheldybiaw, v. a. (ucheldyb) To hold a high opinion.

Ucheldig, a. (uchel) Being heightened, elevated.
 Ucheidd, s. m. (uchel) Altitude, elevatedness.
 Uchelfa, s. f.—pl. uchelfeydd (uchel) High place.
 Uchelfaer, s. m. (uchel—maer) A high constable.
 Uchelfal, s. m. (uchel—bal) The misseltoe.
 Uchelfalch, a. (uchel—balch) Of stately pride.
 Uchelfalchedd, s. (uchelfalch) High-mettledness.
 Uchelfan, s. f.—pl. t. au (uchel—mân) High place.
 Uchelfar, s. m. (uchel—bar) A high summit; also the misseltoe, otherwise called uchelfa, uchelfal, uchelyydd, uchellawg, uchellawr, pren uwyr, and grysgeonllys.

—Cor goelfain
 Uchelfar uchelfab Owain.

The circle of the oracle stone of the Aigh branch of the elevated son of Owain: Cyndeiw.

Uchelfawr, a. (uchel) Eminently great or grand.
 Uchelfeddwl, s. m. (uchel—meddwl) Lofty mind.
 Uchelfen, s. f.—pl. t. au (uch—elfen) A superior element.
 Uchelfryd, s. m. (uchel—bryd) A lofty mind. a. High-minded, magnanimous.
 Uchelgaer, s. f. (uchel—caer) A high rampart.
 Uchelgaerawg, a. (uchelgaer) Of high rampart.
 Uchelgais, s. f. (uchel—cais) A lofty attempt.
 Uchelgeisiaw, v. a. (uchelgais) To make a lofty attempt; to be ambitious.
 Uchelgrug, s. m. (uchel—crug) A lofty tump.

O fro Echelfaint uchelgrug.

From the region of Echelfaint of elevated peak. LL. P. Mach.

Uchellylid, s. m. (uchel—cylid) A chief rent; an annual tribute of corn.
 Uchelhed, s. f. (uchel—hed) A high flight or soar.
 Uchelheddiad, s. m. (uchelhed) A high-flying.
 Uchelheddydd, s. m. (uchelhed) A high-flier.
 Ucheliad, s. m. (uchel) A making lofty, a heightening; a becoming elevated.
 Ucheliant, s. m. (uchel) Elevation, exaltation.
 Uchelradd, s. f. (uchel—gradd) A high degree.
 Uchelraddawg, a. (uchelradd) Of a high degree.
 Uchelraddiad, s. m. (uchelradd) Of a high degree.
 Uchelraddu, v. a. (uchelradd) To raise to a high degree.
 Uchelraith, s. f.—pl. uchelreithian (uchel—rhaith) A grand jury.
 Uchelred, s. f. (uchel—rhed) An elevated course.
 Uchelreithiad, s. m. (uchelraith) A forming a grand jury.
 Uchelreithiaw, v. a. (uchelraith) To form a grand jury; to act as a grand jury.
 Uchelreithiwr, s. m.—pl. uchelreithiwr (uchel—rhaith—gwr) A grand jury man.
 Uchelryw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (uchel—rhyw) A superior kind. a. Of superior kind; highborn.
 Uchelsaf, s. f. (uchel—saf) High standing.
 Uchelsain, s. f. (uchel—sain) A high note.
 Uchelsant, s. m. (uchel—sant) A superior saint.

Eurbarch uchelsaint baint breninlwi.

The gloriously revered superior saints of royal privilege. Bledyn Ferdd.

Uchelsantaeth, s. m. (uchelsant) A hierarchy.
 Uchelswydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (uchel—swydd) A high office.
 Uchelswyddawg, a. (uchelswydd) Having a high office. s. m.—pl. uchelswyddogion, A high officer.
 Uchelsyth, a. (uchel—syth) Being highly erect.
 Uchelsythiad, s. m. (uchelsyth) A rendering highly erect.
 Uchelsythu, v. a. (uchelsyth) To be highly erect.
 Uchelu, v. a. (uchel) To make high, to exalt.
 Uchelurdd, s. f.—pl. t. au (uchel—urdd) High order

Uchelurddas, s. f.—pl. t. au (uchelurdd) High dignity.

Uchelurddaw, v. a. (uchelurdd) To raise to a high order, rank, or station.

Uchelurddiad, s. m. (uchelurdd) A raising to a high order, rank, or dignity.

Uchelwaed, s. m. (uchel—gwaed) High blood.

Uchelwr, s. m.—pl. uchelwyr (uchel—gwr) A high man; a gentleman; a freeholder.

Un lle y dylly mab fod yn arglwydd ar ei dad o gefneth: a der fydd uchelwr roddi ei ferc'h i'w alltud ei ban, a bwl hwyer llydion, a gwedi hyny marw yr uchelwr, a chobel o'i hwyer alltodd famwyo o dir eu henedd; y rhai hyny fyddant arglwydd ar eu tad, o fewnys, a dawed eu tad yn rhannu yr alltudion: yna bydd y nabh yn arglwydd ar ei dad.

There is one case where a son ought to be lord over his father by law: if a freeholder should have given his daughter to his own alien, and they have children, and then the freeholder dies, and the children of the alien obtain maternal right to the land of their grandfather; those ones will be lord over their father through maternalty, as their father comes under the division of the aliens: so therefore the son becomes lord over his father.

Welsh Law.

Uchelwriaeth, s. m. (uchelwr) The rank or state of a gentleman, or freeholder.

Uchelwyl, s. m. (uchel—gwyl) A high festival.

Uchelydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (uchel) A superior.

Lle bydd uchelydd ar ychydig.

Where there is lord over a little.

Spoken Verse.

Uchelyddiaeth, s. m. (uchelydd) The state of a superior.

Uchell, s. f. (uch) What is on high or aloft.

Uchellawg, a. (uchell) Having a lofty site.

Uchellawr, s. m. (uchell) What is most exalted: the misseltoe.

Caing uchellawr tringaint a dal.

A branch of misseltoe sixty pence is its value. Welsh Law.

Uchenaid, s. f.—pl. ucheneidion (uch—caid) The rising or groan of the soul; a sigh.

Uchenaid gwraich ar ol ei hawd.

The sigh of an old woman after her candle. Idyl.

Am frig Moreiddig mawr radd welyrdd
 Ar Lloer fawr ucheneid.

For the top of Moreiddig great the necessity for the church of England to cast a sigh. Religious Verse.

Ucheneidiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (uchenaidd) A sighing.

Ucheneidiaw, v. a. (uchenaidd) To utter sighs.

Ucheneidiawl, a. (uchenaidd) Sighing, apt to sigh.

Ucheneidiwr, s. m. (uchenaidd—gwr) A sigher.

Ucher, s. m. (uch) An overcast; the evening.

Pa decas y bore, bacraf yr ucher.

The more fine the morning, the more rough the evening. Idyl.

Ucher a ddaw gan ddrygion.

A gloom will come with the storm. Idyl.

Cadfan—

Bendigadd a dalith o'n gywilydd,
 Pan doeth i'r cyfoeth, henneth, henneth;
 Pan dyfe chwant sylis ar eiddiadau,
 Yn mber Aber Menwener ucler ebbwydd.

Cadfan, blessed is whoever travels through his saddest, who be comes into the country, by night, by day; when a man beholding came on a progeny, in the sweet estuary of a river over of tranquil evening. Llynwyls Verse.

Ucherawl, a. (ucher) Being overcast; evening.

Ucherddaw, s. m. (ucher—daw) Evening tide.

Mor deg y gelli di gall arwyddaw

Mierwrydd echwydd ac ucherddaw.

So fair cannot thou discreetly delineate the tranquil eve and evening tide. Idyl.

Ucherydd, s. m. (uch—ergydd) A high shock.

Mai ucherydd gwynt wrth awydd.

Like the high shock of the wind on ash trees. Tidra.

Ucheriad, s. m. (ucher) An overcasting; a becoming evening.

Ucheru, v. a. (ucher) To overcast; to become evening. Pan ucherai y dydd, when the day drew to a close.

Ucherwyl, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ucher—gwyl) Evening tide watch; a vesper, or vigil.

Uchfrait, s. m.—pl. uchfreintiau (uch—braint) A supreme right, a prerogative.

Uchfreintlys, s. m. (uchfrait—llys) A court of superior privilege.

Uch-hed, s. f. (uch—hed) A superior flight.

Uch-hedeg, s. a. (uch—hed) To fly in a higher course.

Uch-hedfa, s. f. (uch—hed) A superior flight.

Uch-hediad, s. m. (uch—hed) A superior flying.

Uchiad, s. m. (uch) A brightening; exaltation.

Ucho, prep. (uch) Above. adu. Above, over.

*Y byd go domlyd a ddelwale i gyd,
A chwan o lechyd a chwanychale;
Am oled y byd mi a wylale dwr byu,
Am echo wirlawd mi a chwerdale!*

The world of frail tendency I have experienced all, and a state of health I have desired; after the wealth of the world I have wept living water, concerning the tree God above I have laughed.
L. G. Collis.

Uchod, prep. (uch) Above. adu. Above, over head. Nef uchod a ddaer isod, heaven above and earth beneath.

Uchuch, prep. (uch, repeated) Above and above.

Gwynllach eiry uchuch achos dolydd.

White driving snow above and above the surface of the dale.
Isorworth Pychem.

UD, s. m. r. That is high, loud, or shrill; a howl; a blast of a clarion or trumpet.

Udaw, v. a. (ud) To howl, to yell; to yelp.

Aruthredd gwelid y diefyl, y seirff, ac y dreigiau! a chan wrachion y tan y gorchant wy; wyntau hagen a'r germain trwmall gwa-ddys; ac yn udaw, ac yn wylaw, ac yn ymffwl.

Dreadful thing to behold the devil, and the serpents, and the dragons! and it is from the sparks of the fire that they are; they besides keep up the most miserable outcry, and are howling, and weeping, and striking one another.
Elucidarius.

Udawg, a. (ud) Full of howling; yelling.

Udawl, a. (ud) Howling, yelling; yelping.

Udfa, s. f.—pl. ndfeydd (ud) A howling, yelling.

Udgau, s. f. (ud—can) A sound of a trumpet.

Udganawl, a. (udgan) Sounding as a trumpet.

Udganlad, s. m. (udgan) A sounding a trumpet.

Udgann, v. a. (udgan) To sound a trumpet.

Udganwr, s. m.—pl. udganwyr (udgan—gwr) A trumpeter.

Udgorn, s. m.—pl. udgyrn (ud—corn) A trumpet

Udgorn angau yw powch sych.

The trumpet of death is a dry cough.
Adaga.

Jdiad, s. m. (ud) A making a howling, a yelling.

Jdlais, s. m.—pl. ndleisau (ud—lais) A howling noise.

—Bar ordd
Eligion adlais gweiddoedd.

Various was the deeply howling cry of nations.
W. Middleton.

Jdlef, s. (ud—llef) Ejaculation; howling voice.

Jdlefain, v. a. (udlef) To make a howling cry.

Jdlefawg, a. (udlef) Having a howling cry.

Jdlefawl, a. (udlef) Of a howling cry.

Jdlefiad, s. m. (udlef) A making a howling cry.

Jdow, s. m. (ud—on) A solemn cry; an imprecation.

Jdonawl, a. (udon) Being imprecated.

Jdoni, v. a. (udon) To make imprecation.

Jdoniad, s. m. (udon) An imprecating.

Jdoniaeth, s. m. (udon) An imprecation.

Jdwr, s. m.—pl. ndwyr (ud—gwr) A howler.

DD, s. m. r. That is over, above, or superior; a chief; a lord. Mor Udd, the name of the British Sea, or King's Channel.

*Grafudd mynawg add mynad;
Mynad with soul, with stony be gwidd,
Be goriadwy ar almyr.*

Grafudd the courteous master of civility; civility to the song of praise, towards the warriors he was furious, he was the trouble of regions beyond the sea. D. ab Ll. Myrddin, m. G. ab Cyfion.

Uddyf, a. (udd—yf) Humble, obedient, meek.

A fych gwyf fannu, Uddyf y tyf a fydd iau.

What thou wouldst likewise have from me, obsequious will grow up what will be thine. H. ab I. ab Rhys.

Uddyfand, s. m. (uddysau) Obedience.

Uddyfau, v. a. (uddyf) To humble; to obey.

Uddyfawd, s. m. (uddyf) Obedience; humility.

UF, s. m. r. That is over, spread, or diffused.

Ufel, s. m.—pl. t. ion (uf—el) Elementary fire; a spark of fire.

*At an hysat gwynt, ni os dwf mor,
At an udd tan twf ddaer!*

Is there but one course to the wind, is there but one to the water of the sea, is there but one to the spark of fire of irresistible tumult! Tolluain.

*Rhestr sêr afri,
Rhyndd awel Rhydd fabia.*

Like the dotted summit of fire, like the chilling of the robe in the war of youth.
Chadrig.

*Ti angau—
Ni llyng ufel,
Ni llydd awel,
Ni llydd arth.*

Thou death, that fire will not burn, that cold will not obstruct, that arms will not slay.
Iolo Goch.

Ufelai, s. c. (ufel) That generates fire, that is elementary of fire; oxygen.

Ufelaldd, a. (ufel) Of fiery tendency; sulphurous

Ufelawg, a. (ufel) Full of fiery particles.

Ufelre, s. f. (ufel—bre) A fire hill; a volcano.

The name of a hill in Pembrokeshire, giving name to a comot.

Ufelar, s. m. (ufel) That generates fire; that yields sparks or flame; sulphur.

*Llywelyn, ryd llydery trwy far,
Cydd lloegry nid llyng ufelar.*

Llywelyn, whilst he stays through wrath, whilst he burns not feeble the sulphur flame.
Ll. P. Moeh.

*Lias Amer nerllaw, seirlyd ufellar,
Aerthir bar buedd efrid;
Llyw glyn gweidraws yn agoedd,
Llew tort llyng eurygymid.*

The slaughter-lion Amer fell! in wrath
As fiery flame the hearth with scorching lance.
In difficulty brave as guide and chief,
With gold rim shield a lion of the host.
Cynadelfw, m. t. O. Gwynedd.

Ufelin, a. (ufel) Of a fiery nature, generating fire; oxygen.

Ufelu, v. a. (ufel) To generate fire; to ignify, to ignite.

Ufelydd, s. m. (ufel) That is on fire.

*Dwr ar fân drwy'r erw a fydd
Dau fî yn dau ufelydd.*

Beneath the noble boat along the plain water to sparkling fire hides upon the stones.
T. Alod, i Jorch.

Ufelyddiad, s. m. (ufelydd) Ignition, an igniting.

Ufelyddiaeth, s. m. (ufelydd) Pyrotechny.

Ufelyn, s. m. (ufel) The element of fire.

*Seith tan ufelya
Seith cad cyferbyn,
Seithfed Cynfeira
I bob cynfa.*

The seven fires of the preceding elements are seven hosts in opposition, the seventh is Cynfeira to every foretold slither.
Ymdd. Taliesin a Merddin.

*Rhoes hi fîngi yn yr edyn
Ond seith yn dau ufelya.*

She put a flame in the kiln so that it became a fire of conflict.
D. ab Gwilym.

Ufell, a. (uf—ell) Obsequious, or humble.

Ufelldawd, s. m. (ufell) Obsequiousness.

Ufydd, a. (uf—ydd) Humble, obedient, meek.

*Dy ddol wyt, lle'r wyfrydd
U'cawa wyt, dy was ufydd.*

Thy bashful image, where I am at liberty thy nightingale I am, and thy obedient servant. L. G. Corah.

Ufyddâd, s. m. (ufyddân) An obeying; a becoming humble, humiliation; obedience.
Ufyddâwl, a. (ufyddau) Of obedient disposition
Ufyddaidd, a. (ufydd) Tending to humility.
Ufyddân, v. a. (ufydd) To obey; to be humble.

Yn y faint hono y gorddymasm ni ei chaffael a'i meddu, hyd na wddam ni ufudda i garthiwd; a hono hagen pel celynt y dwyau ei dwyn i corymp, ni a iafuriam yn y faint y galleu oc y holl oerth o'i hantol yn eu herbyn.

In such a degree we were accustomed to obtain and enjoy it, so that we knew not how to be humbled to servitude; and this persecution were the Gods to attempt to deprive us of it, we would exert ourselves to the utmost of all our power to preserve against them. Bent y Bredydd.

Ufyddaw, v. a. (ufydd) To obey; to humble.
Ufyddawl, a. (ufydd) Obedient, or humble.
Ufyddâwr, s. m.—pl. ufyddâwyr (ufyddau—gwr)
One who obeys.
Ufydd-dawd, s. m. (ufydd) Humility, obedience.
Ufydd-dra, s. m. (ufydd) Humbleness, obedience
Ufyddfryd, s. m. (ufydd—bryd) Humble mind.
a. Of an obsequious disposition.
Ufyddgar, a. (ufydd) Obsequious; dutiful.
Ufyddgarwch, s. m. (ufyddgar) Obsequiousness.
Ufyddiad, s. m. (ufydd) A humbling; an obeying Ufyddiannawl, a. (ufyddiant) Of a humbling tendency; tending to obedience.
Ufyddiannu, v. a. (ufyddiant) To be obedient.
Ufyddiannus, a. (ufyddiant) Of a humiliating tendency; disposed to obedience.
Ufyddiannusaw, v. a. (ufyddiannus) To render obedient; to become obedient.
Ufyddiant, s. m. (ufydd) Obedience; humility.
Ufyddoldeb, s. m. (ufyddawl) Humbleness.
Ufyddolder, s. m. (ufyddawl) Humbleness.
Ufyddolrwydd, s. m. (ufyddawl) Humbleness.
Ufyddwr, s. m. (ufydd—gwr) An obedient man.
Ufyll, a. (uf—yll) Obsequious, or humble.
Ufyldawd, s. m. (ufyll) Obsequiousness.
Ufylder, s. m. (ufyll) Humility; meekness.

*Rhag llyddlyd prid, praw ufyllder byd,
Rhif byd a'm dyd dyg a chialder.*

Against over-pursuing of an object, the experience of an humility of mind, the lord of the world will give me instruction and discretion. G. n. M. ab Dafydd.

UFF, s. m. r. That straitens, closes, or confines.
Uffarn, s. f.—pl. t. an (uff—arn) The ankle; also called ucharn, ffer, and migwrn.

Y rhingyll a ddily gwaun yr ychain ac y gwartheg, a gaffer o'i gyhuod ef, i wneuthur cwrnau cyfawch a'i uffarnau.

The serjeant ought to have the legs of the oxen and the cows, which shall be obtained through his informing, for making buskins reaching up to his ankles. Welsh Laws.

Uffern, s. f.—pl. t. i (uff—ern) A strait or confined drift; the state of reprobation in the bar-dic doctrine of transmigration; the infernal region, hell.

Nid oes ar uffern ond eliau ei threfnu.

There is in hell only the want of being put in order. Adage.

Hunanoldeb yw y diawl daaf yn uffern.

Selfishness is the blackest devil in hell. Adage.

Y diawl ffolaf yn uffern yw hunandeb.

The simplest devil in hell is self-conceit. Adage.

Yr aderyn a facer yn uffern yn uffern y myn drigaw.

The bird that is reared in hell, in hell he will seek to dwell. Adage.

Uffernaidd, a. (uffern) Like hell, or hellish.

Uffernawl, a. (uffern) Infernal, or hellish.

I d y mae caelid i gerdded trwy swyrwyl ffigh, ac uffernau dal, a chreiglau ddiarollon dillid: Dywyl i ni yn ddaer i ych ei phreuswylau chonod.

*For thee there is liberty to traverse through night pain, and infernal mansions, and to assign the destiny of terrible beings.
Inform me what region thou wouldst have me to dwell there.* Bent y Bredydd.

Ufferngi, s. m. (uffern—ci) A hell-bound.

UG, s. m. r. That is over or exterior; that close upon or envelops.

Ugain, s. m.—pl. ugeiniau (ug) That has a completion, or close; the close of reckoning; twenty. a. Twenty.

Ugaint, s. m.—pl. ugeinniau (ugain) Twenty.

Ugaint, teg; deg-ar-ugaint, cryf; deugaint, gulchwr; deg deugaint, doeth; a throes en hoedraus, nid gwr m. on y mna'r liall.

*Twenty, fair; thirty, strong; forty, bustling about; calm; &c.
wise; and as to those in the extremes of their ages, it is so &c.
while to make mention of the one or the other.* Adag.

Ugeinfed, s. f. (ugain) The twentieth.

Ugeiniawl, a. (ugain) Belonging to twenty.

Ugeinplyg, s. m. (ugain—plyg) That is twenty-fold. a. Twenty-fold.

Ugeintro, s. m. (ugain—tro) That consists of twenty turns. a. Of twenty turns.

Ugeintroed, s. m. (ugain—troed) That has twenty feet. a. Of twenty feet.

Ugeinwaith, s. pl. (ugain—gwaith) Twenty times.

UL, s. m. r. That is humid, or damp. *a. Humid, damp, or muggy. Mae yn ul iawn heddiw, it is very muggy to-day: Mae yr ud yn rhy ul i fald, the corn is too damp to be ground: Yn
y gwair yn rhy ul iddei gyswain, the hay is too moist to be carried off. Sil.*

Ulai, s. a. (ul) That generates humidity or moiture; hydrogen.

Ulaw, v. a. (ul) To render moist or humid; to smother; to become close, damp, or muggy;
to heat by closeness, to generate hydrogen.

Uliad, s. m. (ul) A filling with humidity; a smothering; a growing close, or muggy; a heating by laying close together; a producing hydrogen.
Uliar, s. m. (ul) A humid nature; a phlegmatic habit.

*Un a fo a'i ardyrwr o'r allar a fydd wico, a breidd m.
ei notyr, ond egnaw: yn yr all cyfarwyl hwy a fydd ffrwyd on y bobl a font o'r allar—a hwy a fyddant ddiwyddia phobl o'r cyfarwydd creill, a herwydd eu beidd.*

One whose constitution is of the phlegmatic habit is much of brown complexion, because their nature is hot: for he could respect they who are of a phlegmatic habit will be and fat; and they will be less energetic than people of other positions, because of their cold nature. Meddygyn Dyfodol.

Ulw, s. m. (ul) That is divested of the principle of moisture; the remains of any thing burnt;
ashes; cinders. Mae fo wedi llwgi yn ul, it is become burnt to cinders.

Ulwaidd, a. (ulw) Like smothered hot ashes.

Ulwawg, a. (ulw) With remains of combustion.

Ulwyn, s. m. (ulw) The scoria or remains of any burnt matter: ashes, embers, or cinders.

ULL, s. m. r. That bursteth out; that is sudden or abrupt.

Uilda, s. m. (ull—ta) That has sudden start; a oaf; a dolt.

Uildach, s. m. (ull—tach) An oaf, a changeling.

Uilliad, s. m. (ull) A bursting out; a sudden start or impulse.

UM, s. m. r. That spreads out or about.

UN, s. m. r.—pl. t. au. That is individual, that is identified as one; one. Yr un un, the same one, the very same, idem, eadem. It is a prefix in composition.

Cared pob un ei gynbaltirf.

Let every one love his native place.

Adage.

Tri un cyrnaf y add; so mae gellio amgynnog yn y bont; yn Dwy, yn gwrthod, ac yn gwrthod, ac yn gwrthod yn y bont pob gwrthod.

There are three primitive ones; and nothing otherwise than one of them, one possibly be: one God, one truth, and one point of liberty, that is where every opposition equivoques.

Berddas.

Gwell mared gwr nag un gwrall.

Better is the activity of a man than that of a woman.

Adage.

Un, a. (un, a.) One; identical, of the same, same. Nid yw fal yr un, he is not like the same one.

Un gadarn, un fryd fry,
Un brain, un brenhin, un fryd,
Un allu, un cwyliu—Un Daw.

Of one energy, of one mind above, of one pre-eminence, of one possession, of one power, of one will: one God. Iolo Goch.

Ys awr ydych un raddodd
A'ch hawl ddiad.

At present you are of the same attribute as your generous grandfathers. J. Ceis.

Unad, s. m. (un) A making into one; union. Unagwedd, s. m. (agwedd) One appearance. a. Of similar appearance.

Unarbytheg, s. m. (un—ar—pymtheg) Sixteen. a. Sixteen. Unarddeg, s. m. (un—ar—deg) Eleven. a. Eleven Unaw, s. f. (un) To make into one; to unite; to accord, to agree.

Unawl, s. f. (awdl) A single rhyme. a. Unirhyme.

Unawl, a. (un) Belonging to one; uniting.

Unawr, s. f. (awr) A single hour. a. Of one hour.

Unbaladr, a. (paladr) Of one shaft; of one or the same verse.

Unbaladrawg, a. (unbaladr) Of one shaft; of one or the same verse.

Unban, s. m. (ban) Being of one verse or line.

Unbanawg, a. (unban) Having one verse.

Unben, s. m.—pl. unbyn (pen) A one head, a one supreme, a monarch; also a complimentary appellation, like sir.

Tri unben rhith Ynys Prydain: un, Cawallawr ab Llied ab Beil ab Mynog; all, Caradawg ab Bran ab Llyr Lliedlith; trydydd, Owain ab Maxen wledig: sef o'r rhith gwlad a chennid y ddedd ar yst yr unbenneith, lle nad oeddut hyneddith.

The three jury monarchs of the Isle of Britain: the first, Cawallawr son of Llied son of Mynog; second, Caradawg son of Bran son of Llyr of Barbarous Speech; third, Owain son of Maxen the patriot; that is to say, through the judicious election of the country and nation was the monarchy given them, when they were not chosen. Triad.

Tri tharw unben Ynys Prydain: Elenor mab Cadair, Cynhafal mab Argoed, Afon mab Taliesin: Tri mab beidd oeddynt.

The three bull champions of the Isle of Britain: Elenor son of Cadair, Cynhafal son of Argoed, Afon son of Taliesin: They were three sons of bards. Triad.

Ha unben! Daw a'ch noddo; ni ddim gwestal orioed o honni a'f fywyd gathu.

Oh sir! God protect you; there never escaped a guest from me with his life. H. Culterch—Mabingion.

unbenaeth, s. m.—pl. t. an (unben) Sovereignty. Unbenaeth Prydain, the sovereignty of Britain; the name of a national hymn, now lost, which used to be sung before the armies, on the onset of battle. Probably, this was some piece of music, to which different words were adapted, agreeably to the incidents of the times; but all tending to impress an idea, consonant to the title of the piece, that the welfare of the British Monarchy was the object contended for: thus all the different chiefs of the island, in their quarrels, were impelled by a national maxim, ostensibly to be supporting the supreme government.

Y bardd teulu a gollir ydion o bob arbenith y he wrth ei dduw cyfwrdd; a rhith gwr holl, mae pob gwladwr aml; ymddi gae Unbenaeth Prydain rhagdynt, yn nydd cad ac ymddi.

The bard of the household shall have a heart out of every soul he bears a part in taking with the family; and the share of a large species, like every other individual of the family; and he then shall sing the Monarchy of Britain before them, in the day of battle and war. Welsh Laws.

Unbenaethawl, a. (unbenaeth) Monarchical.

Unbenaethiad, s. m. (unbenaeth) A forming a monarchy or sovereignty.

Unbenaethu, v. a. (unbenaeth) To establish a monarchy or sovereignty.

Unbenaidd, a. (unben) Monarchal; royal.

Bonedd hon unbenaidd had.

Her descent of royal progeny.

Merwig Dafydd.

Unbenaui, a. (unben) Monarchal; royal.

Unbenes, s. f.—pl. t. au (unben) A female monarch; also a title of respect, equivalent to lady and madam.

Arlywydd, ni thych i nob ymddi yr unbenaui rhago; ni wddwyd i'farch dyma yu y gwrthod o hys; ac ni thych i mai ei dyddid!

Lord, it will avail nobody to pursue yonder lady: I know of no swifter horse in the kingdom than this; and it doth not avail me to pursue her! H. Pwyll—Mabingion.

Unbenesidd, a. (unbenes) Appertaining to a female monarch; like a queen; royal.

Gwrth y rhod trued y traidid,
Ynydd unbenaidd.

The reverse of the wheel though this will run, thus little else seeming like a queen. Gro. Umars, i. Fen.

Unbeniad, s. m.—pl. unbeniad (unben) That is one head, a monarch; a sovereign.

Tri glesion unbeniad Ynys Prydain; Cynfelys Wledig, Caradawg ab Bran, ac Arthur: sef y gwrthodant ar eu galon, hyd nes gollid many o frad a chynhyrfa eu gorfod.

The three brave sovereigns of the Isle of Britain: Cynfelys the Patriot, Caradawg son of Bran, and Arthur; that is to say, they would obtain success over their enemies, so that it were not possible except by treachery to overcome them. Triad.

Unbenig, a. (unben) Monarchical, monarchal.

Unbenigder, s. m. (unbenig) Monarchicalness.

Unbenigdra, s. m. (unbenig) Monarchicalness.

Unbenigrydd, s. m. (unbenig) Monarchicalness.

Unbriodas, a. f. (un—priodas) Monogamy.

Uncorn, s. m.—pl. uncyrn (corn) That has one horn; an unicorn.

Nicadw—

Rhag oyrn yr uncyrn enydd.

We preserve awhile from the horns of the unicorns. H. Mabingion.

Undad, s. m. (tad) A same father. a. Of the same father.

Undanc, a. (tanc) Being united in tranquillity.

Undawd, s. m. (un) A state of being one.

Roed y byddwyf, gwddi haddawd,

Cyd o'r Undawd mawr yn ei undawd.

Be it that I may exist, after the course of the grave, with the great one God in his unity. Einion ab Gwalcham.

Undeb, s. m. (un) Unity. Undeb a bradgerwch, unity and brotherly love.

Undeg, s. m. (deg) Eleven. a. Eleven.

Undegawl, a. (undeg) Belonging to eleven.

Undegfed, s. m. (undeg) An eleventh. a. Eleventh.

Undeg fed awen: undegfed awydd

A wladys fy ngydd,

O'm gwadw ran, o'm ban, o'm barddeg,

O welch fath, o Welchlawd gived.

Eleven goodly themes: the eleventh wish my destiny will produce, with respect to my share of praise, of my elevation, of my heroic treasure, from a towering inspiration, from the Welshman tribe. Cynadfa, Gwylgyddion Penry.

Under, s. m. (un) Unity, almplessness, singleness.

Gorwch, o ran bennod, yu y path a sillar under headed ac anawdd, ac heb gwrthod headed ac anawdd.

Superior, with respect to origin, is the thing which stands upon simplicity of existence and quality, over every complex existence and quality. Barddon.

Undodiad, s. m.—pl. undodiaid (undawd) Unitarian.

Undodiaeth, s. m. (undawd) Unitarianism.

Undon, s. f. (ton) That is of one tone or voice. a. Monotonous.

Undonydd, s. m. (undon) A monotonous one.

Undonyddiaeth, s. f. (undonydd) Monotony.

Undras, s. f. (tras) That is of the same kindred. a. Of the same kindred.

Undrwh, a. (trwch) Of equal thickness.

Undud, s. m. (tud) Sameness of region. a. Of the same region.

Gogoniant—

I'r Driodawd Undawd unded prwelydd.

Glory to the Trinity of Unity the inhabitant of the same region.
D. Dda o Hiraiddug.

Undull, s. m. (dull) Same form or manner. a. Of the same form.

Unduw, s. m. (duw) The same or one God.

Undwf, s. m. (twf) That is of one growth. a. Of the same growth.

Undydd, s. m. (dydd) One day; same day. a. Of one day. Undydd a blwyddyn, a year and a day.

Undyddiawg, a. (undydd) Of a single day.

Ni ddyl neb gymeryd mach yn undyddiawg.

No body ought to take ball as of one day. Welsh Laws.

Undyn, s. m. (dyn) A single person.

Gwae undyn a wneid gant yn drit.

Woe to the one person who makes a hundred sorrowful.
Adage.

O cal fy nghledd ar fy nghlan,
A'm llaw ddaen i'm difyn,
Ai gwaeth ffrainc oeg undyn?

If I obtain my sword by my side, and my right hand to defend me, am I then more despicable than any person?
Ymdd. Ffrydian a Gwalechmai.

Uddalen, s. f. (dalen) One leaf; one page; same leaf. a. Of one leaf; of the same leaf.

Uddalenawg, a. (uddalen) Monopetalous.

Uddawn, s. m. (dawn) Sameness of attribute. a. Of one attribute; of the same endowment.

—Uch archengylion,

Uddodlon nelfon werth heb dregl—

Unduw yst wyntau a ddaen drit.

Over archangels, lords of attributes—conquer once with power never failing, one God are they and truly three. Gwalechmai.

Udddefnydd, s. m. (defnydd) That is of the same material. a. Homogenous.

Uddull, s. f. (dull) Unity of form. a. Uniform.

Uned, s. m. (un) Unity; accordance, concurrence; entreaty, solicitation.

Archaf i Ddaew drwy uned.

I will ask of God through entreaty. Llywelyn Fardd.

Unesgar, s. m. (esgar) Sameness of foe. a. Having the same enemy, of common foe.

Cymmodi a wneynt, a myned ungar unesgar.

They were reconciled, and became of common friend of common foe.
Gr. ab Arthur.

Unfaint, s. m. (maint) Unity of size. a. Of the same size, of equal magnitude.

Unfan, s. m. (mân) The same place. Safa yn ei unfan yn wastad, he stands in his one place continually.

Unfath, s. m. (math) Unity of sort. a. Of the same sort, similar.

Unfed, s. m. (un) The order of one; a first. a. Being in the order of one; first.

Unfed-dydd, s. m. (unfed—dydd) The first day.

Unfin, s. m. (min) A one edge. a. One-edged.

Unfiniawg, a. (unfin) Having one edge.

Unfodd, s. m. (modd) Sameness of mode. a. Of the same manner; similar.

Unfrait, s. m. (brait) Sameness of rank, right, or privilege. a. Of the same rank.

O bydd amryson rhwng deudynau unfrait an dderia, y mae wrper gwirionedd y rhyngddynt, tyged pob un a dderia, a gwedi hynny rhannu y tir amryson.

If there shall be contention between two persons of equal rank respecting a boundary, and the truth be not ascertained between them, let each one swear his boundary; and after that, let the land of contention be divided.

Unfri, s. m. (bri) Sameness of privilege. a. Of equal privilege.

Unfryd, s. m. (bryd) One mind, sameness of intention. a. Of one mind, unanimous.

Nid unfryd yafyd a chall.

Not of the same mind the simple and the cunning. Adage.

Nid unfryd cybydd a chorodyn.

Not of the same mind the sober and the liberal. Adage.

Unfunnd, s. f. (ffunnd) Sameness of appearance. a. Of the same appearance; exactly alike.

Unfurf, s. m. (ffurf) Sameness of form. a. Of the same form; uniform.

Ungar, s. m. (car) Sameness of friend. a. Of common friend.

Unged, s. f. (ced) Sameness of treasure. a. Of one treasure, having one treasure in common.

Ungoel, s. f. (coel) Sameness of belief. a. Of one belief, of the same creed.

Deus, unged, ungoel.

Ye berth, yd borthur yn wyl.

The supreme arbiter, of universal beauty, of universal truth that is holy, he is served with humility. Cyprian.

Ungor, s. f. (cor) That is of one turn or twist. a. Of a single turn or twist. Edaf ungor, a single twisted thread.

Cadarnach yw yr edaf yn gyfrododd un yn ungor.

Stronger is the thread of double twist than of single twist. Adage.

Ungorn, s. f. (corn) That is of one turn. a. Of a single turn. Edaf ungorn, the same as edaf ungor.

Unywaith, s. m. (un—gwaith) A particular turn, or purpose. The same as unwyrdd.

Unywaith merched y gwelydd.

El edrych fo fal drych fydd.

The sole work of the girls of the country round out to be as it is as a mirror. L. ab Hywel Iorwerth.

Ungwr, s. m. (gwr) One man; any man.

Ungyfun, a. (cyfun) Uniformly the same.

Tri banogion pob byw yn ungyfun y gwylydd: awen, hysbydd, a swydd; ac nid gellir dau yn bod yn ungyfun yn mhob peth; y bydd cyfaw pob un yn y bwrdd hysbydd; ac nid o'r arddim, heb y maint o'r ddiachon fod o hysbydd.

The three peculiar distinctions of every living being are: a principle of felicity; vocation, privilege, and disposition; and it is possible for two beings to be uniformly the same in these three; for every one will have a plenitude of what is essential to him; and there is no plenitude of any thing, without another in a degree that comprehends the whole of it that can rise. Bacon.

Unhaen, s. f. (haen) A single layer, or spread. a. Of one spread or stratum.

Unhawl, s. f. (hawl) A sole claim. a. Of a single claim, of common claim.

Unhwyl, s. f. (hwyl) A sole course. a. Of a single course, of a common course.

Unhyd, s. m. (un—byd) A single length. a. Of one length; of the same length, or duration.

Uniad, s. m. (un) A making one; a uniting.

Uniaith, s. f. (iaith) A single speech. a. Of a single language, of a common speech.

Uniannaw, a. (uniant) Tending to unite.

Uniannu, v. a. (uniant) To produce union.

Uniant, s. m. (un) The state of being one.

Uniawn, s. m. (lawn) That is right, straight, or direct. a. Right, straight, direct; upright, perfect, just. Rhed yno yn uniawn, run there directly: Mi of yn uniawn deg, I will go immediately.

*Llenwr pob deall uniawn,
A llyfr cyfrinach yr hith lawn.*

The former of every just idea, the law book of the perfect language. Gr. Grgg, i D. ab Gwilym.

*A fo'n enwog fyw'n uniawn,
Pe rydd Daw fawredd a dawn.*

He who nobly leads a righteous life, God will give him greatness and virtue. S. Tudgr.

Unig, a. (un) Sole, only, lonely, lonesome, single, solitary, singular. O yr unig! How singular!

Digawn Daw da i unig.

God is able to help the solitary.

Adage.

Hydr saw unig.

Confident is the song of the solitary.

Adage.

Uniganedig, a. (unig—ganedig) Only-begotten. Unigaw, v. a. (unig) To render sole; to become sole, single, or solitary.

Unigawl, a. (unig) Of a solitary or singular quality; ununited, independent. Y saw unigedig, the nine digits.

Unigder, s. m. (unig) Solitariness, loneliness.

Unigdra, s. m. (unig) Solitariness, loneliness.

Unigedd, s. m. (unig) Solitude, or loneliness.

Unigenid, a. (unig—genid) Only-born.

Unigfydd, a. (unig—fydd) Of singular faith.

Unigfyddiad, s. m.—pl. unigfyddiaid (unigfydd) A solifidian.

Unigiad, s. m. (unig) A rendering solitary.

Unigdeb, s. m. (unigawl) Singularity.

Unigolder, s. m. (unigawl) Singularity.

Unigoll, v. a. (unigawl) To render solitary or singular; to become singular.

Unigolrwydd, s. m. (unigawl) Solitariness.

Unigrwydd, s. m. (unig) Loneliness, solitariness.

Unionad, s. m. (uniawn) A straightening, a righting, a making even, a rectifying.

Uniondeb, s. m. (uniawn) Rightness, rectitude, uprightness; straightness; evenness.

Unionder, s. m. (uniawn) Rightness; straightness.

Uniondra, s. m. (uniawn) Rightness; directness.

Unionedd, s. m. (uniawn) Rightness; directness.

Uniongongl, s. f.—pl. t. au (uniawn—cong) A right angle.

Uniongonglawg, a. (uniongongl) Rectangular.

Uniongred, s. f. (uniawn—cred) Orthodoxy. a. Of right belief, orthodox.

Uniongyrch, s. m. (unlawn—cyrch) A direct course. a. Of a direct course; immediate.

Yr ychyd a hwynt o Ddud yr ychydodd; yr hwn a elwir felly, mae yn debygol, o herwydd eu hwynt o hono of yn uniongyrch, heb fod allweddol yn cydgerdded, mae yn cyfyngu dim all.

The spirit proceeded from the Father of spirits; who is so called, it is probable, because of their proceeding from him immediately without second causes being concurring, or contributing any thing at all. Irr. Owens.

Uniongyrchawl, a. (uniongyrch) Directly proceeding.

Uniongyrchiad, s. m. (uniongyrch) A directly or immediately proceeding.

Uniongyrchu, v. a. (uniongyrch) To proceed directly; to proceed straightly.

Unioni, v. a. (unlawn) To straighten, to rectify; to make even; to become straight.

Unionran, s. f. (uniawn—rhan) An exact portion.

Unionraniad, s. m. (unionran) A sharing exactly.

Unionrau, v. a. (unionran) To share exactly.

Unionredd, s. f. (uniawn—rhed) A direct course. a. Directly recurrent.

Unionrwydd, s. m. (unlawn) Straightness.

Unionserth, a. (unlawn—serth) Straightly falling.

Unionserthawl, a. (unionserth) Of a perpendicular fall or dip.

Unionserthiad, s. m. (unionserth) A dipping or falling perpendicularly.

Unionserthu, v. a. (unionserth) To dip or fall perpendicularly.

Unionsyth, a. (uniawn—syth) Directly erect.

Unionsythawl, a. (unionsyth) Tending to a perpendicular erectness.

Unionsythiad, s. m. (unionsyth) A rendering perpendicularly erect.

Unionsythu, v. a. (unionsyth) To render perfectly erect or upright.

Unionwr, s. m. (unlawn—gwr) A straightener.

Unionydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (uniawn) Straightener.

Uniof, s. f. (llef) Sameness of tone. a. Of one tone, of the same sound; monotonous.

Awel yw ein uniof y geiriau gobenyddiaid.

Rhyme is the uniform sound of the terminating words. Barddas.

Unllaw, s. f. (llaw) One hand. a. One-handed, single-handed.

Bwrw a'th unllaw, cais a'th ddwyllaw.

Cast with thy one hand, get with thy two hands. Adage.

Unllawlawg, a. (unllaw) Having one hand.

Unllawlawg fydd unllawmorch.

A nerve is single-handed.

Adage.

Unlle, s. m. (lle) One place, same place; any place, any where. Ni bum yn unlle, I have not been any where.

Unlled, s. m. (lled) One breadth. a. Of one breadth, of equal breadth.

Unllef, s. m. (llef) Sameness of tone or voice. a. Of the same voice, unison.

Unlliw, s. m. (lliw) Sameness of colour. a. Of one colour.

Adar o'r unlliw a dynant i'r unlle.

Birds of a colour will flock together.

Adage.

Unlliwlawg, a. (unlliw) Having one colour.

Unllygad, s. m. (llygad) One eye. a. One-eyed.

Unllygaidlawg, a. (unllygad) Monocular.

Unllygaidlawg a ddyf y cast.

The one-eyed ought to have a hundred.

Adage.

Unllygaidlawg fydd brein yn ngwlad y ddaifid.

The one-eyed will be a king in the country of the blind ones.

Adage.

Unman, s. f. (man) Same place, sameness of place; any where. a. Of the same place.

Gwir trwy byth yn yr unman.

The truth for ever in the same place.

Adage.

Nid llai y crefydd yn unman na lle bo mwyl y ddiellu am dano.

Not less the religion any where than in the place where there is most disputing about it.

Adage.

Unmodd, s. m. (modd) Sameness of mode; any wise. a. Of the same mode.

Unnawd, s. m. (nawd) Sameness of nature. a. of the same nature or quality.

Unnawu, s. f. (nawu) Sameness of disposition or temper. a. Of the same temper.

Unne, s. m. (un—gne) That is one colour. a. Of one hue, of the same hue. Unne geirw, equal in hue to the torrents.

Unnerth, s. m. (nerth) Sameness of power. a. Of one power, of equal might.

Trindod yn gwarad a'n gwarad,

Tri unlawn aoneth y cydant:

Trwy y Tad, a Rhed yn rhediant,

Trwy y Mab gwestid i'w bob grymiant.

The Trinity our deliverance and our security, three perfect of equal power in glory; through the Father, with Grace concomitant, through the Son, all were made of every energy. Carmichael.

Unodiaeth, s. f. (unawdl) Sameness of rhyme.

Ni ddylai gyswain fod yn nechreu y sill olaf o'r awdl yn amgen a fo yn yr unodiaeth.

The consonant ought not to be in the beginning of the last syllable of the word of the rhyme different from what may be in the unity of rhyme. Barddon.

Unodiawg, s. (unawdl) Having unity of rhyme.

Unodledd, s. m. (unawdl) The state of being of continued rhyme; tinirhyme.

Unodli, v. s. (unawdl) To agree in rhyme.

Nid unodia sillaf dalgryn ond ag un dalgryn arall o'r un bwysa ni.

An inflective syllable will agree in rhyme only with another inflective syllable of the same accent with itself. W. Middleton.

Unodiad, s. m. (unawdl) A forming unirhyme.

Unood, s. m. (un—ood) One age, same age, sameness of age. a. Of one age, of equal age; of the same time.

Fyn pedwar prif-oes crymmod,
Yngyfarfyddyt yn unood:
Fas a bentist, haist a hood.

My four principal forms through life, they have met together in unity of time: cough and old age, disease and grief. Llywarch Hen.

Unoes, s. f. (un—oes) One life; same age, sameness of age. a. Of one age; cotemporary.

Unoldeb, s. m. (unawl) Unity; identicalness.

Unolder, s. m. (unawl) Identicalness, sameness.

Unoldra, s. m. (unawl) Sameness, similarity.

Unoli, v. a. (unawl) To render united, to accord; to become the same; to identify.

Unoliad, s. m. (unawl) Union; accordance.

Unoliaeth, s. m. (unawl) The state of being the same or identified; accordance.

Yn nghred ni welod, unoliaeth Gwalchmai,
Wr well.

In christendom there has not been seen, the likeness of Gwalchmai, a better man. T. Ald, & T. Salctri.

Unollant, s. m. (unawl) Union; integration.

Unolrwydd, s. m. (unawl) Sameness, similarity.

Unon, s. m. (un—on) Particularity; doubt, question, supposition. v. a. To suppose. Ni raid unon y dot di yma, there is no need to suppose that thou wilt come here.

Er bod dy ddôben di yn nesáu o fewn ychydig ddalenau yn fy llyfr diocant i'r; eto nid rhaid i ti unon soddi at Lucifer.

Notwithstanding that thy end draws near within a few leaves in my unerring volume; yet thou needest not to fear of slinking to Lucifer. Elin Wyn, Bardd Cwsg.

Unparth, s. m. (parth) One part. a. Of one part.

Unpeth, s. m. (peth) One thing, same thing. a. Of one thing.

Unplyg, s. m. (plyg) One double or fold. a. Of one double or fold.

Unraith, s. f. (rhaith) Sameness of right or law. a. Of equal law, of equal right.

Unran, s. f. (rhan) One share. a. Of one share.

Unrwydd, s. m. (un) A state of being one.

Unrwyg, s. m. (rhwyg) Sameness of course or sway. a. Of the same sway.

Unryw, s. m. (rhyw) A same kind, a same sex; same. a. Of the same kind.

Unrywiaeth, s. m. (unryw) A rendering of the same kind; identity.

Unsain, s. f. (sain) An unison. a. Unison.

Unawd, s. f. (sawd) A same state. a. Of the same state.

Unseiniad, s. m. (unsain) A forming an unison.

Unseiniaw, v. a. (unsain) To form an unison.

Unseiniawg, a. (unsain) Having one sound.

Unsill, s. f. (un—sill) One syllable. a. Of one syllable.

Unsilawg, a. (unsill) Having one syllable.

Unswd, s. m. (swd) Same state. a. Of one state.

Unswd, s. m. (swd) Same state. a. Of one state. of the same condition. Unswd ac swd, so and so.

Unswn, s. m. (swn) A same sound. a. Of the same sound.

Unswydd, s. m. (swydd) A same office or business; one purpose. a. Of one business or purpose.

Eis gyo yn unswydd, I went there on purpose.

Unswydd, s. m. (swydd) Sameness of substance. a. Of one substance, or material.

Unswyddawg, a. (unswydd) Consubstantial.

Unswyddawl, a. (unswydd) Homogeneous.

Unswyddiad, s. m. (unswydd) A rendering of the same substance; a becoming homogeneous.

Untaith, s. f. (taith) One journey. a. Of the same journey.

Unteithiawg, a. (untaith) Having one journey.

Untref, s. f. (tref) Sameness of habitation. a. Of the same habitation or town.

Nid untref gwadd no crrf.

Not of one habitation a mole and an eagle. Idy.

Untri, s. m. (un—tri) Three united in one.

Untro, s. m. (tro) One turn. a. Of one turn.

Untroed, s. m. (troed) One foot. a. One-footed.

Untroedawg, a. (untroed) Having one foot.

Untu, s. m. (tu) One side. a. One sided.

Untuawg, a. (untu) One-sided; partial. (Cyfr.) untuawg, a side-saddle.

Taw, gwyn untuawg unnoeth,
A beiaw.

Be silent, thou complaisant partial and unwise, with unbefitting.

Untuawg fwyg ond teg fydd,
Ac yn hardd fwl gwynn huddfudd!

The one-sided man is it not fair, and beautiful like to me day's gooseman. T. Ald, & T. Salctri.

Untuawl, a. (untu) Belonging to one side.

Untuogrydd, s. m. (untuawg) The state of being on one side; partiality.

Untuolrwydd, s. m. (untuawl) A one-sided state.

Unwalth, s. f. (un—gwaith) One time. a. Of one time. adv. Once, at one time.

A fo drwg unwalth a wyr fod yn ddwrg yr olaf.

He that is bad one time knows how to be bad a second time. Idy.

Unwalth yr oeth yr arwydded i nodw hi a follen.

Once the lady went to swim she was drowned. Idy.

Unwedd, s. f. (un—gwedd) Sameness of appearance, similitude. a. Similar; uniform, comparable. adv. Alike.

Y doeth a'r unnoeth unwedd,
O gyrra'r byd gyf i'r bodd.

The wise and the unwise alike, from the entrance of this world he sends to the grave. Idy.

Unweddawg, a. (unwedd) Having a fellow or partner. s. c. A monogamist.

Unweddawl, a. (unwedd) Uniform; of one aspect.

Unwr, s. m.—pl. unwyr (gwr) A man who unites agrees, or accords.

Unwyneb, s. m. (gwyneb) Sameness of face. a. Of the same face or surface.

Unwynebawg, a. (unwyneb) Having one face.

Gelll cyssain ragndig fod wrethiau yn unwynebawg, ac b wrethiau dim ond trefyn y rhagndig, mab—

'A'm try angwa o'm tryngwa.'

A consonant of the leading rhyme may sometimes be a weak preface; that is, without performing any thing more than the former preface, as in the above verse. Idy.

Unyd, s. m. (un) The state of being one; continuity; a state of being thoroughly united; alike. a. Being united, continual, or uninterrupted; like. adv. As one, continually; like.

Cad fan Gwyllydd,
Ovarr Eiddlonydd,
Gwyllydd sayd.

The mighty son of Gwyllydd, the teminary of Eiddlonydd, the same as Gwyllydd. Rhaderdy.

Gwel, Adyn, adolod byfryd,
O hwr i hen yu sayd.
Buarfryd dirfawr.

Behold, O man; a pleasant structure also, from the bottom to the summit all complete, the immense terrestrial world. Miss Wyn, Dordd Crag.

UR, s. m. r. That is extreme, over, or superior; that is essential, or pure; that is sacred, holy, or inviolable.

Urael, s. m. (ur) That is of pure element; amianthus, asbestos; also the cloth made of that fossil.

Urael yw lleiswyr o'r manweiddid, o'r man yafnoe, ac a oidd a'r tan, wedi y bndroddid.

The Urael is a cloth garment of the finest texture, made of the asbestos stone, and which used to be cleansed with the fire, after it had been soiled. Adedd. Fyrd Mab Dwr.

Ar ddeu gwynnau, ar dal unel,
Mwr y mae ei—fryd.

On white towers, on houses of asbestos, great is his delight. L. G. Cuth.

Mab addwyn o rym unel mawr,
Mab Arlydd yr Israel.

A hostile son out of a bandage of ample asbestos, the Son of the Lord of Israel. L. G. Cuth.

Urdd, s. f.—pl. t. au (ur) A dignified order, rank, or class; a sacred order.

—Yn gwyllydd
Ar Ddew nef a'r urddau naw.

Praying to God of heaven and his orders nine. L. ab Rh. ab Iwan Llwyd.

Urddain, a. (urdd) Abounding with dignity.

I fwrdd dwfn dyfidd a gollid;
I Gyneddau—oidd urddau urddain.

To have profound will be preserved what they commemorate; to Urddain it was his honourable claim. Cyneddau, m. O. Gwynedd.

Urddas, s. f.—pl. t. au (urdd) Dignity; a sacred order; church hierarchy, or orders.

Ddegwath urddas auw da.

Two parts of dignity is a good name. Adage.

Yn mhob enid y mae anrhydded,
Yn mhob anrhydded y mae urddas,
Yn mhob urddas y mae bwrdd,
Yn mhob bwrdd y mae dyfawrwydd.

In every gain there is honour, in every honour there is respect, in every respect there is privilege, in every privilege there is a duty. Catwg ab Gwynllw.

Urddaudd—
A wneith ei, ei iawnwaith oedd.

Riverchie he created, his righteous work was that. Dr. S. Cent.

Urddasaid, a. (urddas) Relating to dignified or holy orders; honorary.

Urddaswg, a. (urddas) Having sacred orders; dignified. s. m.—pl. urddasogion, A dignitary.

Urddasawl, a. (urddas) Relating to dignified rank; relating to sacred orders; dignified; honourable.

Urddasedig, a. (urddas) Dignified; ordained.

Urddasiddid, s. m. (urddasidd) A dignification.

Urddasiddiaw, v. a. (urddasidd) To render dignified, or honorary; to become dignified.

Urddasiddrwydd, s. m. (urddasidd) A dignified state.

Urddasiad, s. m. (urddas) A dignification; a conferring of holy orders.

Urddasoldeb, s. m. (urddasawl) A dignified state.

Urddasoldeb swydd yw ei chysawli yn gyfawr.

The honourableness of an office is to fulfil it justly. Adage.

Urddasolder, s. m. (urddasawl) Honourableness.

Urddasoldra, s. m. (urddasawl) Honourableness.

Vol. II.

Urddasoli, v. a. (urddasawl) To render dignified; to become dignified.

Urddasolrwydd, s. m. (urddasawl) Honourableness

Urddasu, v. a. (urddas) To dignify, to honour; to confer orders.

Urddaswr, s. m.—pl. urddaswyr (urddas—gwr) A dignifier; one who confers orders.

Urddaw, v. a. (urdd) To confer dignity, rank, or order; to confer holy orders; to ordain.

Dyn a urdd y lle, ac nid urdd y lle y dyn.

A man honours the station, and the station honours not the man. Adage.

Urdd wrddig lleny yn awyrlu;
Urddw Dwr diwyrsod Owain!

A patriot dignifies the arms of a host ranging through slaughter; God has ordained the day of Owain! Cyneddau, m. O. Gwynedd.

Urddawd, s. m. (urdd) A dignification; an ordaining.

Urddawg, a. (urdd) Having dignity or orders.

Urddawl, a. (urdd) Relating to dignity, rank, or order; dignified; honourable.

Reolad pob ceinlad canon cerdd eidd,
Seilid awr deiddid o wad urddolion.

Prescribed by every songster is the regular composition of song, the subject is the golden branch from the blood of exalted ones. W. Llwyn.

Urddawn, a. (urdd) Of dignified or exalted state.

Seilid wogawn bardd urddawn urddwch,
Urddawloerid, can eiddawrdd.

We energetic bard, do honour to an honourable band, the graduated of song, through repentance. Cyneddau.

Urddedig, a. (urdd) Dignified; being ordained.

Fyrdai y urddedigion—

Gap ryl Bangor, gar goron urddedig.
The poets would posit before the chief of Bangor, the heir of a dignified crown. Iorwerth Brit.

Urddedigwath, s. f.—pl. t. au (urddedig) Ordination.

Urddedigaw, v. a. (urddedig) To render dignified; to ordinate; to become dignified.

Urddedigawl, a. (urddedig) Tending to dignify.

Urddedigrwydd, s. m. (urddedig) A dignified state.

Urdddeiniad, s. m. (urddain) Dignification.

Urdddeiniaw, v. a. (urddain) To render dignified.

Urdddeiniawl, a. (urddain) Dignifying; tending to honour.

Mae'r pen fydd, Dofydd dwyfnwl, gryn lli
I'w urddol enid urdddeiniawl.

The object of the faith, the Divine Regulator, is with thee, to exalt thee, thou honoured virgin. D. Dda o Heddwr.

Urddden, s. f. (urdd—gen) A superior intelligence or genius; a sacred intelligence. a. Of superior genius.

Awdl urddden amgen amgall digwau.

A different song of superior intellect amply comprehensive. Cyneddau.

Gwanel yn nghyngor eior Medrawd

Mal-Urian urddden, a'i amgylidw.

He that is second to Medrawd would distinguish in counsel, like Urian of exalted genius, with his comprehension. Meigr.

Gwyr Powys—

Cad orllawen orllawen,
Petais cytanodd, awyrlu—amgylidw,
Ar ddeg yr dugant o Feigen.

The Men of Powys, in far-extending battle triumphant, fourteen prerogatives, the preservation of mighty pre-eminence of genius, they bore from Meigen. Cyneddau.

Urddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (urdd) A dignifying, a conferring of honour; a giving of degree, rank, or order; an ordaining.

Urddiain, a. (urdd) Abounding with dignity.

Dywawd Derwyddon—

O wyron Owain,
Ar wyneb Frydain
Un urddiain Llandain,
O lan deitl.

Druids declare, of the descendants of Owain, over the face of Britain one shall be supreme of London, of sacred character. Ll. P. Much, t. L. ab Iorwerth.

Urddiannawl, a. (urddiant) Dignifying.
Urddiannu, v. a. (urddiant) To create dignity.
Urddiannus, a. (urddiant) Dignifying, honouring.
Urddiannusaw, v. a. (urddiannus) To render dignified; to become honourable.
Urddiant, s. m. (urdd) Dignification; ordination.
Urddiator, ger. (urddiad) In dignifying.
Urddin, a. (urdd) Being honoured or exalted.

Cyfoethawg Ddew urddin.

The powerful God of exalted state.

Taliesin.

Urddineb, s. m. (urddin) A dignified state.
Urddoldeb, s. m. (urddawl) A dignified state; the state of being ordained.
Urddolder, s. m. (urddawl) A dignified state.
Urddoldra, s. m. (urddawl) A dignified state.
Urddoledd, s. m. (urddawl) A dignified state.
Urddoles, s. f.—pl. t. au (urddawl) A female who holds dignity or rank.
Urddoli, v. a. (urddawl) To render dignified; to ordinate, to ordain.
Urddoliad, s. m. (urddawl) A dignifying, a conferring of rank, degree, or orders; ordination.
Urddoliath, s. m. (urddawl) Ordination.
Urddolrwydd, s. m. (urddawl) A dignified state.
Urddon, s. m. (urdd) The grass-poly.
Urddoni, v. a. (urddawn) To exalt, to honour.
Urddoniad, s. m. (urddawn) A yielding dignity.
Urddoniant, s. m. (urddawn) Exaltation, honour.
Urddrad, s. m.—pl. t. au (urdd—rhad) An exalting virtue.
Urddun, s. m. (urdd) An exalted state or rank.
Urddunaw, v. a. (urddun) To honour, to exalt.
Urddunawl, a. (urddun) Tending to honour.
Urdduniad, s. m. (urddun) A dignification.
Urdduniannu, v. a. (urdduniant) To endow with pre-eminence.
Urdduniannus, a. (urdduniant) Tending to dignity.
Urdduniant, s. m. (urddun) Pre-eminence, honour.
Urddwag, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (urdd—gwag) A robe of state, a dress of order.
Urddwr, s. m.—pl. urddwyr (urdd—gwr) A man who dignifies; one who confers orders.
Urddyn, s. m. (urdd) A dignified or exalted one.

Wyr Owain Prydain praff ddychryn galon—
Mab Iorwerth mad ganed urddyn.

The grandson of Owain of Britain, the ample terror of the foe;
the son of Iorwerth, happily was the exalted one begotten.

Lt. F. Moch.

Uriad, s. m.—pl. t. on (ur) That is pre-eminent, an exalted one; an elder.

Dag Iawfon Aron uriad
Aeron a dall.

The hand-stick of Aaron the elder bore berries and leaves.
I. ab Hywel Sarnwal.

US, s. m. r.—pl. t. ion. What is a peel, or connected coating; also the husks of corn, or chaff.
a. Outside; illusive; trifling, light, frail. It is a general termination of words of quality or adjectives; as gweddus, covered with decency, of a decent appearance, or seemingly.

Adwaeu hen farch us.

An old horse knows chaff.

Adagr.

Yr enaid, gochel rinweidd
Y corff os o'i felus fedd.

My soul, avoid the nature of the frail body and its honeyed enjoyment.

D. ab Dafydd Llwyd.

Usaldd, a. (us) Like husk, or chaff; husky.

Usawg, a. (us) Abounding with husks or chaff.

Usion, s. pl. aggr. (us) Chaff, husks of corn.
Ustongrug, s. m. (ustion—crug) A chaff heap.
Usionl, v. a. (ustion) To yield husks or chaff.
Ualyd, a. (us) Abounding with chaff, full of chaff.
Uslydrwydd, s. m. (uslyd) Fullness of chaff.
Ust, s. m. (us) A silence; a hush, or hie. It is also the imperative verb: Hush!

Y tynged—
Drew a hieit: ar ei aif ar
Gut ewytr a dyfawant.

Thunder-claps God doth cause; at his word they become a den silence and are still'd.

D. Jones

Ustiad, s. m. (ust) A silencing, a hushing.
Ustlaw, v. a. (ust) To silence, to quell, to hush.
Uswydd, a. (us—gwydd) Of peeled surface.

Llitgoed of lufawr, newwr uswydd.

Red-stained his blade, shield of fattered front. Lloyd G.

Gut ewytr newwr uswydd holl.

A haw splitting the gold-covered shield of fattered front.
D. Jones

Usyn, s. m. dim. (us) A single particle or chaf.

Usyn wyl, ac oshaw north,
Ac awgon yn ogyr-gorth!

A frail chaff am I and wanting strength, with dash to my
D. Jones

Utgorn, s. m.—pl. utgyrn (adgorn) A trumpet.

UTH, s. m. r. That is extreme; extended.

Uthr, s. m. (uth) That stanneth. a. Awful, wonderful; astonishing; terrific; horrible.

Y cythraul new uth-uth.

The bend yonder a horrid upright.

F. Dep.

Uthraldd, a. (uthr) Tending to astonish.

Uthraw, v. a. (uthr) To astonish, to amaze.

Uthrawl, a. (uthr) Astonishing, amazing.

Uthredig, a. (uthr) Astonished, terrified.

Uthredd, s. m. (uthr) Astonishment; horror.

Uthriad, s. m. (uthr) An astonishing.

Uthroldeb, s. m. (uthrawl) Astonishment; fullness; horribleness.

Uthrollder, s. m. (uthrawl) Astonishment; fullness; horribleness.

Uthroled, s. m. (uthrawl) Astonishingness; fullness; horribleness.

Uthrol, v. a. (uthrawl) To render astonishing, to render awful; to render terrified; to become awful; to become terrified.

Uthrolrwydd, s. m. (uthrawl) Awfulness.

Uwch, prep. (uch) Above, over; also used in uchach, higher, upper.

Uwch pen na dwy ysgwydd.

Higher a head than two shoulders.

Abp

Uwchder, s. m. (uwch) Highness, altitude.

Uwchdra, s. m. (uwch) Highness, altitude.

Uwchedd, s. m. (uwch) Highness, altitude.

Uwchel, a. (uwch) High, lofty; eminent.

Uwd, s. m. (wd) Any liquid thickened by boiling meal in it; hasty-pudding; bargo; pap; or the like mixtures. Uwd poillied, flour boiled in milk; uwd maird glas, grits boiled in whey; uwd sugathen, a poultice.

A fo aml ei fet rhod ar ei wad.

He who has abundance of honey let him put it in his pudding.

Abp

Uwdaidd, a. (nwd) Like hasty-pudding.

Uwdfya, s. m. (uwd—bya) The nursing finger, the fore-finger.

W.

W F F

W. THIS vowel's sound is an inflection of e; and it expresses a tendency from, out, or beyond; and when affixed to primitives, it gives them a contrary import; as in gwedd, that is wedded, if formed into gweddw, it denotes being beyond a wedded state, or a widow; so u, moisture, becomes uw, the remains what is deprived of moisture, as embers, or cinders: and with respect to the gender or words, the r denotes the masculine and e the feminine. It is used as an interjection expressive of alarm.

Wab, s. m.—pl. t. lwa (ab) A slap, a stroke.

Wabiad, s. m. (wab) A slapping, a beating.

Wabiaw, v. a. (wab) To slap, to beat, to cuff.

Wabiwr, s. m.—pl. wabiwyr (wab—gwr) Slapper.

W, s. m. r. The state of being expelled; the state of being out, over, or up. interj. It is expressive of anxiety: ah!

Wb wyr! mawdd naf rhagoch; er y byd na wroch hwy: ni ddach neb orsed i wad y'r arch o Owein a did a'i fyrryd gwisg.

Demand ye man! God's protection before you! for the world do not so: no body ever came to demand Owen who went away with his life. H. Cuthbert—Hobbsington.

Wb o'r hia, o'r wybr hene!

Out with the weather from the sky to-night! D. ab Gwilym.

Wbain, v. a. (wb) To keep howling, to howl.

Wwb, interj. (wb repeated) It is expressive of distress, anxiety, and revolting.

WCH, s. m. r. A spread out, or expansion.

Wchw, interj. (wch) It is expressive of calling out for assistance: Hoa.

WD, s. m. r. That is extreme, extended, or stretched out.

Wedi, adv. (gwedi) After, afterwards; then.

*Y da a ei yn dy waith
Wd'r ei y ddyr o'r o'rwaith;
Dy raa o'r arfaeth,
Dy wlad o'r ddyr y da.*

The property expended in the work, after it is gone the second time it will come (by portion of rest) producing land, thy whole country will the property make good. Iorwerth Fynglwyd.

Wcithian, adv. (gwaith) This time, now, at length. It is used for y waith hen, y wraithon, and wcithion.

Wcithian, adv. (gwaith) Sometimes, at times.

*Wcithian—
Wcith gylwed, cythid fad dya,
E gylw wraithon ddrwy gwlithan.*

The jealous one in listening thinking there is a man, he sometimes hears the noise of the falling dew-drop. T. Frye.

Wcithion, adv. (gwaith) This time, at length.

Wcithon, adv. (gwaith) This time, now; at last.

Wel, v. imp. (gwel) Lo, behold, see, see now.

conj. So, well. Wel dachw fo, lo yonder it is: wel dachw, see now below: wel dachw, lo above: wel dyma iddi beth, well here is some for her: wel dyma i ti, see there now for you.

Wel, dyma wael anghedd!

Well, that is a difficult perception! D. ab Gwilym.

Wela, v. imp. (wel) Lo, behold, see, see now; well. Wela dyma i, see now here am I: wela paid, well then be quiet: wela haf, very well then, well then it shall be so.

WF, s. m. r. A flow, glide, or running out; that is liquid.

WFF, s. m. r. Motion from or out; expulsion.

W O

Wft, s. m. (wft) A push off; a slight, or scorn; a fie, an expression of disapprobation.

Wft'r dya a wftio hant heb wybod mwy am dano.

Fie upon the person whom every body cries he upon without knowing any more about him. Adage.

Wftiad, s. m. (wft) A pushing off scornfully; a shewing disapprobation with surprise; a crying fie upon.

Wftiaw, v. a. (wft) To push away with disapprobation; to cry shame; to cry fie.

WG, s. m. r. An overspread; an outside.

Whw, interj. It is expressive of calling out for assistance.

WL, interj. It is expressive of joy; Hey; hey-day; oh.

O wil O Ddeu! y gwanthwr gwaith ydd arfethnant ieddi Cae'r gwrthwynebu i Rodydd, ac nid galleant!

O you! O God! the number of times that the curbs of Chreter purposed to oppress Gwilydd, and they could not! Buchedd G. ab Cynan.

Am fy ngwddi ei brichian—

Waur curaid: wi o'r harwy!

Bound my neck her arms, the golden luminary: ah, what a wretch! D. ab Gwilym.

Will o'r gwaith yw ar ei grys:

Will o'r llw ar y llwys!

Oh! what art there is on his vest: Oh! what a colour on the shirt! D. ab Gwilym, i bwrn.

Wichwach, interj. (gwich) It expresses frolick.

Wihl, s. m. (wi) The whinnying of a horse.

Wihlad, s. m. (wihl) A whinnying, as a horse.

Wihlaw, v. a. (wihl) To whinny like a horse.

Winc, s. m.—pl. t. od (gwinc) A chaffinch.

WL, s. m. r. That is subtle, fine, or small.

WLL, s. m. r.—pl. yllod. A fragment, a fraction.

WM, s. m. r. That closes about; a covert; a vold, or hollow.

Wmp, s. m. (wm) A covert, or a shade.

—Mial imp coedidd,

Wmp ar dalerau o fwrn fydd.

Like the shoots of trees, a shade on the headland its load will be. Llywarch Benturth.

WN, s. m. r. That is on, upon, close, or at; that is beginning or commencing; that tends to; that is of an energetic nature.

Wnc, s. m. (wn) The state of being close, at, or hard by; proximity. a. Close, near, hard by. prep. Near, nigh. adv. Here.

Dydwddi o wnc, gwanas o bell.

Exposure from a neighbourhood, murder from afar. Adage.

Wnco, pron. m. (wnc) That one at a distance, speaking of the masculine; the feminine is wncu. adv. There. Dyfed.

Wncw, adv. (wng) There; yonder.

Wng, s. m.—pl. yngon (wnc) The state of being close, at, or by. a. Close, near, hard by; strait. prep. Near, nigh. adv. Here. Engyrth yngaf, difficulty the most confined.

Ing ya ing yngon rangledd.

Strait in strait be proximities of amplitude. Adage.

Trow a throw, wng a throw, y daethen!

Trow a throw, undoech Bras a Mchuan.

Through and through, close and between, they came: over and over, of the same course Bras and Mchuan. Myrdin.

WO, s. m. r. A motion out or ended; a call made to stop a horse. v. imper. Wo, stop, stand still.

Wö, s. m. The cry of hounds in chase.
 WP, s. m. r. The state of being out or over.
 WR, s. m. r. The state of being on, over, or at.
 Wrch, s. m. (wr) That is high, or rotund.
 Wrdd, s. m. (wr) Touch, contact; impulse.
 Wrth, s. m. (wr) A touch, a contact, the state of being by, opposite, or against.
 Wrth, prep. (wrth, s.) In contact, close to; by; with; in comparison, compared with. adv.
 While. Pa beth yw hyny wrth hyn? What is that compared with this? Wrth fynyed heibio, in going by: Wrth liw dydd, by day light: Nid allaf wrth hyny, I cannot help that: Wrth ganu, while singing: Taraw wrth, to meet with: Dos wrth dy byws, go taking thy time: Cadw oddi wrth y byd, keep from the world; ymneill-dua i wrth y byd, separate thyself from the world: Y byd bo wrth eich bodd! be the world well with you! Dyfed. Mae y fawch wrth ben ei hal, the cow is just in calving. Dyfed. Wrth is compounded with pronouns, and is declined thus—Wrthwyf, wrthof, by me; wrthyt, wrthot, by thee; wrtho, by him, or it; wrthi, by her; wrthym, wrthom, by us; wrthyh, wrthoch, by you; wrthynt, by them. Ni ellir wrtho, thou canst not help it: Wrtho ei hun, by himself.

Calon Sais wrth Gymro.

The heart of an Englishman towards a Welshman. Adage.

Rhaid i'r fawch wrth losgwrn.

Necessary to the cow the being with a tail. Adage.

WS, s. m. r. That is impulsive, that is precipitous; action, effort; ardour.

Wag, s. m. (ws) That opens or separates.

Wst, s. m. (ws) A thrust, push, or drive; a gust; the hypochondria, the hip.

Waw, s. m.—pl. t. od (ws) That abounds with impulse, or energy; an epithet for the horse; a steed.

Os gweydyr, ewch dros Gaer Wyt;
 Os harnais waw arnynt—
 Yngelwch.

If appears, go ye over Winchester; if on them steed harness be, hide yourselves. L. Mon.

WT, s. m. r. That is extreme, or outward; out.

Wtre, s. f.—pl. wtrëydd (wt—rhe) A lane.

Wtres, s. f.—pl. t. an (wt—tres) A revel, a carousal.

Carw mewn cor!—
 Cyn y flar canu 'fheren,
 A myn'd i wtres a merch,
 A rhoddi neges Rhydderch.

A buck in a choir! before the bargain he sings a mass, and goes to revel with a damsel, and presents the gift of Rhydderch. G. ab Iffydd ab Tudgr.

Wttresaid, a. (wtres) Revelous, carousing.

Wttresawl, a. (wtres) Reveling, carousing.

Wttresgar, a. (wtres) Revelous, apt to feast.

Wttresgarwch, s. m. (wtresgar) Riotousness.

Wttresiad, s. m. (wtres) A revelling.

Wttresiaeth, s. f. (wtres) Loose festivity.

Llenais mewn llanerch
 Wttresiaeth traserch
 I winfaeth wenferch.

I prepared in a glade a carousal of ardent love for a wine-nurtured damsel fair. D. Edward.

Wttresu, v. a. (wtres) To carouse, to revel.

Wttreswr, s. m.—pl. wttreswyr (wtres—gwr) A carouser, a riotous person, a spendthrift.

Wttreswyl, s. f.—pl. t. iau (wtres—gwyl) A carousal.

Wtr, s. m. aggr. (wt) The small light grain amongst corn.

Od oes wtr mewn das lli.

If there be empty grain in a stalk of thine. Iwan Tew.

WTH, s. m. r. That expands or stretches out.
 WY, s. m. r.—pl. t. au. That proceeds from; that is produced; an egg.

Mai wy ar droedol.

Like an egg on a lever. Adage.

A ddwyo yr wy a ddwy yr iar.

He that steals the egg will steal the hen. Adage.

Wy, pronom. prep. Of or to the third person; of him, of her, of it; for which i, ei, ei, iddi, are generally used. 'Hi yn faw wy thad, She being mother to her father.

Wybr, s. f.—pl. t. an (gwybr) Firmament, atmosphere; the sky; ether; the least possible thing.

Nid ysgafn ond wybr.

There is nothing so light as air. Adage.

Yr haul—

Ymddingaws crof, oaf corth.

Ys mwyach wybr, cyn mwyach.

Thou sun, show thyself for my sake, with more sign, in the midst of the firmament, before the time of noon. G. Llwyd ab Dafydd.

Roegen fu farw o hoesod;

Ni bo ar ben wybr o hoesod.

None did die of old age; there was upon him not the radiance of disease. L. G. (ah)

Wybraidd, a. (wybr) Like the firmament.

Nid Rhodri wybraidd gorchir;

Lluddedig ychais; lluan tir.

The month of April aerial is the horizon; assigned to me here the land. Amos.

Wybraw, v. a. (wybr) To form a firmament; to move in the air; to soar into the air; to become aerial.

Wybrawl, a. (wybr) Firmamental; aerial.

Y padarn—

Gwilt wybrawl gwlaw wrth Rhodri.

The bands seem as aerial dew of April eight thou padarn. Amos Rhodri.

Wybreiddiad, s. m. (wybraidd) A rendering like the firmament; a becoming aerial.

Wybreiddiaf, v. a. (wybraidd) To render firmamental; to render aerial; to become like air.

Wybren, s. f.—pl. t. i (wybr) A firmament.

Arwydd caned—

Ys cynt no rhywynt och rhaid wybr.

The swayer through a hundred battles, he is more quiet in a storm-wind over the ruddy welsh. L. P. Meek, i Gr. ab Iffydd.

Drwy'r wybrenydd y dydd a dan

El lwyrych wely arin.

Through the sides the day doth spread his silver couch upon the gay. D. Iwan.

Wybrenaid, a. (wybren) Firmamental; atmospheric.

Wybrenawl, a. (wybren) Being firmamental; atmospheric.

Wybrgoel, s. f. (wybr—goel) Aëromancy.

Wybriad, s. c.—pl. wybriaid (wybr) That is the firmament; that exists in the air.

Llenystan—

A'i bodied Rhian wybriaid Rhodri.

The falcon with her gleaming flight a shining habitation of air. G. Rhian.

Wybriaeth, s. m. (wybr) Aërology; formation of air.

Wybrig, a. (wybr) Firmamental; atmospheric.

Wybriw, s. m. (wybr—lliw) A cerealous hue.

Wybrwr, s. m.—pl. wybrwyr (wybr—gwr) One of the firmament; one who soars into the air; an aërologist.

Ni fywn, er mwyn f'edaid,

Wybrwr llon, a'm bwriad Rhodri.

I would not, for the sake of my soul, have a lily for a son, that would throw me in the dirt. Iwan Tew.

Iwan Tew, i dda mor i canu.

Wyd, v. (wy) Art, thou art. It is used for wydt ti, when no emphasis is required.

Wycngawl, a. (wy—engawl) Oviparous.

Wyengi, v. a. (wy—engi) To propagate by eggs.

Wyl, v. (wy) Am, I am. When the person is emphatically discriminated wi is used with it: Wyl f i yn barad ond nid wyd ti, I am ready, but thou art not.

*Wyl trideblyt hon, wyl unswad drol,
Wyl ahoi, wyl auwar;
Y mawt o'm carodd ni'm car!*

I am old three ways bent, I am sickly bold, I am heedless, I am wild; the one who has loved me loves me not!
Llywarch Hira.

Wyl, s. m. (wy—yl) A gush out; a wail.

Wylad, s. m. (wyl) A wailing, a weeping.

Wylaw, v. a. (wyl) To wail, or to weep. Wylid ddaugra heilltiau, thou wilt weep salt tears.

Wylid ni wyl ei berchen.

Let him weep who sees not his owner. Adage.

Bandd perll i fangon uphaw.

It is easy to cause the wry-mouth to weep. Adage.

Mys wylaf am Dedydd;

A wylwyf i ell fydd.

Myself I will weep for Darydd; what I do weep it will be a live. A. G. Cuth.

Wylaf, s. m. (wyl—of) A weep, a wailing.

Wylfaeth, s. m. (wyl—of) The act of wailing.

*Clywale lef cila wylfaeth,
Caill dros y wlad irad seth!*

I heard a cry of the breaking out of weeping, a knoll over the country woefully hath gone! Ieu. Thomas.

Wylfain, v. a. (wylaf) To wail, to weep.

Wylfedd, s. m. (wylaf) A weeping, a wailing; mourning, lamentation.

Wylfio, v. a. (wylaf) To wail, or to weep.

Wylfiof, a. (wylaf) Wailing; doleful.

Wyn, s. pl. aggr. (oen) Lambs. Wyn bach, little lambs.

Wyna, v. a. (wyn) To collect lambs; to yean.

*Oo gwyn a gwlff dyn da
Yn y chwann, yn lach wyna.*

If fetters be a good man's lot in the event, advise with collecting lambs. Llywelyn ab Idris.

Wyneb, s. m.—pl. t. au (gwyneb) A face, a visage; a surface. Wyneb uchel, of a high look; derbyn wyneb, a receiving the presence, a receiving fairly; ar y wyneb, upon the surface.

Wyneb trist drwg a oty.

A sad countenance awaits mischief. Adage.

Tri pheth sydd ar wrald, a garo weled y cyntaf nis anghar y ddus arall: wyneb ei hun mewn drych; oedn ei gwyr o beth, a gorchochwr yn ei gwely.

Three things appertain to a woman, who loves to see the first she will not dislike to see the other two; her own face in a glass; her husband's back far off, and a paramour in her bed. Triodd.

Wynebawg, a. (wyneb) Having a face; faced.

Wynebawl, a. (wyneb) Belonging to the face.

Wynebiad, s. m. (wyneb) A facing, a fronting.

Wynebpryd, s. m. (wyneb—pryd) A countenance

Wynebn, v. a. (wyneb) To face, to front.

Wynebus, a. (wyneb) Of countenance, of goodly visage; seemly.

Wynebwarth, s. m. (wyneb—gwarth) A face covering; shame of face; blush of face; an affront; also the fine in law for an affront.

Wynebwarth pawb ei wriedd heb dderchafael.

The affront fine of every one is his insult fine without advancement. Welsh Laws.

Y dryswar, os etall yr un o'r penwyddogion, talied lldo ei wynebwarth.

The dwarfkeeper, if he obstruct any one of the chief officers, he must pay to him his cloak of foam. Welsh Laws.

Wynebwriad, s. m. (wyneb—gwriad) A fine-drawing in sewing.

Wynebwriad, v. a. (gwriad) To fine draw.

Wynebw, s. m. (wyneb—gwr) A facer.

Wynos, s. pl. dim. (wyn) Lambkins.

Wyr, s. m.—pl. t. kon (wy—yr) That is spread, stretched, or extended; a grandson.

*Ni chwrn yr llwyd
Ond ddole yr wyr.*

There will be no loving completely until the grandchild comes. Adage.

Och, a Gwrn, a Ddwed, iwr wyrion Bwch, a Cylwch, a Sefwich.

Grass, shoot, and scream, the three grandchildren of Gwch, Tear, and Rent. H. Culhwch—Mabinigion.

Wyrain, a. (wyr) Spreading, extending.

*Disgwydd yr dram rhag alawdd wyrain,
Wyr llw llaes ysgwydwr.*

There was a heavy falling down from the spreading flow of mind, the spread of a boat with trailing wheels. Adage.

Wyrw, v. a. (wyr) To distend, to reach out.

Wyre, s. f. (wyr) A spread, an expanse. Yr Wyre Fawr, Yr Wyre Fach, The Great Spread, The Little Spread, rivers in Cardiganshire.

Wyres, s. f.—pl. t. au (wyr) A grand-daughter.

Wys, s. m. (wy—ys) Aptitude or tendency for motion.

Wysawg, a. (wys) Having aptitude; abounding with currency or fluidity. Caer Wysawg, one of the old names of Oxford.

Wysg, s. m. (wys) A tendency forward, tendency, direction, bias; presence; a current, course, or stream. Ar wysg y Ceisariad, in pursuit of the Romans: Llauga fu yn wysg ei draed, drag him with his feet foremost: Ys wysg dy drwyn, in the direction of thy nose.

*Canid i cwr-dwyg
A gwrdd i'r wyg,
Yn llyngs dyr-fwyg,
Yn llyngs dyr-fwyg.*

A glorious blood-spilt head will come into thy presence, as a golden head conquering, a multitude completely fresh. D. Ddu o Eilwddog.

*Aethyn—
Ys wysg fy mhen yn eugol.*

I went in the direction of my head slowly. D. o Ddyllyn.

Wysg, adv. (wys) In a forward direction; forward. Dos wysg dy ben, go with thy head forwards, go headlong.

Wysgaw, v. n. (wysg) To move onward; to glide onward; to go headlong.

Wyt, v. (wyd) Art, thou art. When there is an emphasis required to distinguish the second person from any other Ti is added: Wyt yma, thou art here; wyt ti yma, ac nid arall, thou art there, and not another.

Ned wyt wr arddwr, arddwr efras cad Cedwyrdd Eneas.

Surely thou art a man that is the bulwark of conflict, a sturdy swayer of battle of the prowess of Eneas. L. P. Mech, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Wyth, s. m.—pl. t. au (wy—yth) The state of being extended out, or separate from an identity; the number eight, eight. a. Eight.

Wythaw, v. a. (wyth) To form into eight, to make up eight; to divide into eight parts.

Wythawl, a. (wyth) Belonging to eight.

Wythban, s. m. (wyth—ban) That is of eight parts; that is of eight verses; that is of eight syllables. a. Of eight parts.

Wythbanawg, a. (wythban) Of eight parts; of eight verses; of eight syllables.

Wythblyg, s. m. (wyth—plyg) That is of eight folds. a. Of eight folds.

Wythblygawl, a. (wythblyg) Of eight folds.

Wythblygiad, s. m. (wythblyg) A forming of eight folds.

Wythblygu, v. a. (wythblyg) To render eight fold.
 Wythdeg, s. m. (wyth—deg) Eighteen.
 Wythdegfed, s. m. (wythdeg) Eighteenth.
 Wythdro, s. m. (wyth—tro) That is of eight turns.
a. Of eight turns.
 Wythdroed, s. m. (wyth—troed) That is eight-footed. a. Eight-footed.
 Wythdroedawg, a. (wythdroed) Having eight feet
 Wythddeg, s. m. (wyth—deg) Eighty. a. Eighty.
 Wythddegfed, s. m. (wythddeg) Eightieth.
 Wythfed, s. m. (wyth) An eighth. a. Eighth.
 Wythfedwaith, s. f. (wythfed—gwaith) Eighth time
 Wythganfed, s. m. (wythgant) Eight hundredth.
 Wythganfedwaith, s. f. (wythganfed—gwaith)
 The eight hundredth time.
 Wythganmil, s. m. (wythgant—mil) Eight hundred thousands.
 Wythganmilfed, s. m. (wythganmil) An eight hundred thousandth.
 Wythgant, s. m. (wyth—cant) Eight hundred.
 Wythganwaith, s. pl. (wythgant—gwaith) Eight hundred times.
 Wythiad, s. m. (wyth) A forming of eight; a dividing into eight parts.
 Wythmis, s. m. (wyth—mis) A space of eight months. a. Of eight months.
 Wythmlwydd, s. m. (wyth—blwydd) That is of eight years. a. Of eight years.
 Wythmlwyddawl, a. (wythmlwydd) Octennial.
 Wythmlynedd, s. m. (wyth—blynedd) That is of eight years. a. Of eight years.
 Wythmlyneddawl, a. (wythmlynedd) Octennial.
 Wythnos, s. f.—pl. t. au (wyth—nos) That consists of eight nights; a week. Wythnos y gwoeddiu, rogation week. Anciently the days of the week were thus named—Unfeddydd, first day; deufeddydd, deufeddydd, eifeddydd, second day; trydeddydd, third day; pedrydddydd, fourth day; pumfeddydd, fifth day; chwecheddydd, sixth day; seithfeddydd, seventh day.
 Wythnos y llwynawg.
 The week of the fox. Adage.
 Wythnosawl, a. (wythnos) Weekly.
 Wythnosi, v. a. (wythnos) To form a week, to divide into weeks.

Wythnosiad, s. m. (wythnos) A forming a week, a dividing into weeks.
 Wythnydd, s. m. (wyth—dydd) A space of eight days. a. Of eight days.
 Wythnyddawl, a. (wythnydd) Of eight days.
 Wythnyn, s. m. (wyth—dyn) That is of eight persons. a. Of eight persons.
 Wythnynawl, a. (wythnyn) Of eight persons.
 Wythochr, s. m. (wyth—ochr) An octagon.
 Wythochrawg, a. (wythochr) Octagonal.
 Wythochrawl, a. (wythochr) Octagonal.
 Wythochri, v. a. (wythochr) To form an octagon.
 Wythochriad, s. (wythochr) A forming an octagon.
 Wythongl, s. m. (wyth—ongl) That has eight angles. a. Octangular.
 Wythonglawg, a. (wythongl) Octangular.
 Wythonglawl, a. (wythongl) Octangular.
 Wythongli, v. a. (wythongl) To form an octangular figure.
 Wythongliad, s. m. (wythongli) A forming an octangular figure.
 Wythor, s. m. (wyth—or) That has eight borders. a. Of eight borders.
 Wythorawl, a. (wythor) Of eight borders.
 Wythori, v. a. (wythor) To make to consist of eight borders.
 Wythoriad, s. m. (wythor) A making to consist of eight borders.
 Wythran, s. f. (wyth—rhan) That has eight shares. a. Of eight shares or parts.
 Wythranawl, a. (wythran) Relating to what consists of eight parts.
 Wythryw, s. m. (wyth—rhyw) That consists of eight sorts. a. Of eight sorts.
 Wythryw yd a thri o waith.
 Eight sorts of corn and three of hay. B. at Gwyn.
 Wythrywiad, s. m. (wythryw) A forming into eight sorts or kinds.
 Wythrywawl, v. a. (wythryw) To form eight sorts.
 Wythrywlawg, a. (wythryw) Of eight sorts.
 Wythrywawl, a. (wythryw) Of eight sorts.
 Wythail, s. f. (wyth—sill) That has eight syllables. a. Of eight syllables.
 Wythaillawg, a. (wythail) Having eight syllables.
 Wythwaith, s. pl. (wyth—gwaith) Eight times.
 Wythweithfed, s. f. (wythwaith) The eighth time.

Y.

Y. THIS is a derivative sound, whose origin is E, being short, open, and indistinct, and having much of the character of the Hebrew sheva, or that transient sound, which transpires between certain consonants. It is the mutation of O and W in some forms of construction, and it particularly forms the plural of monosyllables. It is also the article the, preceding the words with consonant initials; but before vowels, for the sake of euphony, it takes dd and r, as affixes, to form ydd, yr. With verbs it assumes an adverbial character; and often is a mere expletive sound.

Gwyn fydd y ferch a allu fod gan ei hunan.

Happy is the woman that can be by herself.

Adage.

Ar ddwedd y mae barnu.

On the conclusion is to be judging.

Adage.

Arthur—
Yn mlaen lle Camlan y lla.

Arthur, in the front of the host of Camlan was he slain.
J. G. Coe.

YB, s. m. r. A state of expulsion; the state of being out, over, or up.

Ybain, v. a. (yb) To make a howling; to howl.

YCH, s. m. r. That is out, over, or before: a neat, bullock, or ox. Ychais, oxen.

Ni seugle yr ych du ar dy droed.

The black ox has not trodden on thy foot.

Adage.

Gwell oen fy hun nog ych arall.

Better a lamb of my own than the ox of another.

Adage.

Tal ychais yw troth a ddodda Mawr Wladislaw, a Gwlad Fy yn Eifael, yn lle areddi cymharu holl, mawrdd bob plyn go odd.

Payment for corn is a tax that was established by Mawr Wladislaw, of Fy's Castle in Eifael, instead of the custom people to her, once every four years.

Adage.

Ych, s. (ych, a.) Ye or you are; are ye, are you.
Ycha, s. imper. (ych) Lo, behold, see. Ycha acw, lo yonder.

Ychad, s. m. (ych) A coming in view.

Ychadaf, adv. (ychad) In a most conspicuous way.

Rheolaugur the ar hyd traeth:
Ychadaf ffordd arthol:
Cid o aced gwadl ffo ar ffrath.

Fall of motion the wave along the strand: thou plainly a par- pose is broken: a battle near him the prattler taken to flight.
Llywarch Hen.

Ychwaen, adv. (chwaen) Peradventure, by chance

Ychwaith, conj. (chwaith) Neither, not even so.

Ychwaneg, s. m. (chwaneg) More. adv. More.

Ychwanegadwy, s. (ychwaneg) Capable of augmentation.

Ychwanegawl, s. (ychwaneg) Apt to augment.

Ychwanegedig, s. (ychwaneg) Being augmented

Ychwanegiad, s. m. (ychwaneg) Augmentation.

Ychwaneg, v. a. (ychwaneg) To augment.

Ychwardd, s. m. (chwardd) Tendency to laughter.

Ychwarddawl, s. (ychwardd) Tending to laughter.

Ychwarddriad, s. m. (ychwardd) A causing laughter

Ychwarddri, v. a. (ychwardd) To cause laughter.

Ychwarddriad yn wyth trdyddi:
Ychwarddriad yn wyth trdyddi.

I laughed bravely the passing day; weeping came the second day. D. ab Iwan Ddu.

Ychwarian, adv. (chwarian) In a gentle manner.

Ychwarian o achlysur byd.
Ychwarian o achlysur byd.
Ychwarian o achlysur byd.

I will congratulate on account of the world, to I gently come forward: Who will reign after Gwynn? Cyffwrdd Merddin.

Ychwerig, adv. (chwerig) Playfully, sportively.

Ychwinia, adv. (chwinia) At present; immediately

Pae ffo yn swperu ychwinia ddechreu nos.

When he is supping just at the beginning of night.

H. Ebor—Mabinogion.

Ha wrwg! y heb plan y geisio, ti o gwadl yma ychwinia.

Ha wrwg! he to whom the corpse belongs, thou shalt see here immediately. H. Culwch—Mabinogion.

Ychydig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (cyd) A little, a small quantity; a few. a. Little, small as to quantity and number. adv. Little.

Ychydig yn tael a was llawer.

A little often will make much.

A dage.

Ychydig a wddid am y naif pol difodddid offery.

Little would there be done for heaven if hell were extinguished.
A dage.

Tri ychydig a was enill llawer: ychydig o anwyddau drwg, ychydig o wall, ac ychydig o lodrus.

Three small things will be the means of losing much: a little of angry passions, a little carelessness, and a little theft.
Triodd.

Ychydigaw, v. a. (ychydig) To lessen in quantity or number; to render few; to become few.

Ychydigawl, s. (ychydig) Tending to lessen.

Ychydiger, s. m. (ychydig) A littleness of quantity and number; fewness, paucity.

Gores ar heb chware ychydiger.

The best of every play is a little.

A dage.

Ychydigdra, s. m. (ychydig) Littleness, fewness.

Ychydigrwydd, s. m. (ychydig) Littleness, fewness

Ychydigyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (ychydig) A very little.

Y tir bwn—yr oedd rhyw ychydigyn o oleuni yn caethu i cwm lledu yn awr o'r cwmwl.

This land, there were some small particles of light shooting to it at once time and at another. Ier. Owen.

, s. m. r.—pl. t. au That is; a being; corn.
d byw, standing corn. It forms the termination of a class of nouns, and of some verbs in the infinitive mood. Yd meddw, darnel.

Po byddaf yr yd byddaf fydd i'r byd.

By so much the older the corn more like it will be to the world.
A dage.

Taw o frig y tyf yr on,
Tawach yw curdodion;
Bai yd y gwelid a bydd gwyr,
Rhy ffa yw i'r Rhododwyr.

Thick of branches the ash doth grow, more thick are mountcains; if the grass were corn and food for men, too scanty it would be for the Romans. Ier. Da. y Biling.

Yd, adv. (yd, s.) A particle idiomatically used, answering to if, that, and doth, in the formation of verbs; and it is often merely an expletive, used for euphony.

Triet yd gwyb pob colladig.

Sadly doth every condemned one complain.

Taliesin.

Triet cynnyddu eia yd weler.

He would intimidate an opponent were he but man.

L. P. Mor.

Rir yd goffir a goffir.

Long will be remembered what I record.

D. Hen/tes.

Yda, v. a. (yd) To gather corn; to go about begging for corn.

Ydaidd, s. (yd) Like or of the nature of corn.

Ydawg, s. (yd) Abounding with corn, full of corn.

Ydawl, s. (yd) Belonging to corn, of the quality of grain.

Ydbys, s. pl. aggr. (yd—pys) Vetches. Ydbys fragwyddawl, cichlins.

Yd-dir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (yd—tir) Corn land.

Yd-dy, s. m.—pl. t. au (yd—ty) A granary.

Yden, s. f. dim. (yd) A grain of corn.

Ydfaes, s. m. (yd—maes) A corn field.

Ydfron, s. f.—pl. ydfrain (yd—bran) A rook.

Ydfwyd, s. m. (yd—bwyd) Food made of corn.

Ydfwyd i ddyn, cigfwyd i gwa.

Corn food for man, flesh food for dogs.

A dage.

Tri yphorth dyn a harnat iechyd, hiron, a wywyrr gnew; yd-fwyd, iechyd, a gnewfwyd.

The three sustenance of man that will cause health, long life-and clear sense: food made of corn, milk food, and vegetable food. Caring ab Gwynllaw.

Ydgeirch, s. pl. aggr. (yd—ceirch) Wild oats.

Ydgist, s. f.—pl. t. iau (yd—cist) A corn bin.

Ydgordd, s. f.—pl. t. au (yd—cordd) Corn-yard.

Ydi, v. (yd) Is; it is, he is, she is; is it, is he,
is she.

Ydig, s. m. dim. (yd) Degenerate corn; cockle;
it is also called gith.

Ydian, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (yd—llan) A corn-yard.

Ydoedd, v. (yd—oedd) Was. Ydyw, is.

Ydwal, s. f.—pl. t. au (yd—gwal) A corn garth.

Ydwyd, v. (wyd) Art, thou art, art thou. Pwy ydwyd? who art thou? Ai Meilgr ydwyd? Art thou Meilgr?

Ydwyf, v. (wyf) Am; I am; am I. Ydwyf yma,
I am here: a ydwyf? am I?

Ydych, v. (ych) Ye are, you are; are ye, are you.

Ydynt, v. (ynt) They are; are they. Dynion yd- ynt, they are men: ai dynion ydynt? are they men?

Bod a chelwydd, nid deuboth ydynt.

Boasting and lying, they are not two things.

A dage.

Ydyd, s. m. (yd—ys) The calendar, or weevil.

Ydyw, v. (yw) Is; it is, he is, she is, when the particular person is known.

Dyn ni wna ddael neb
Ydyw un a dda wyneb.

A person who will do no good to any body is the one with two faces. O. Gwynedd.

YDD, s. m. r. That is moving before; that is conspicuous. a. Forward; conspicuous. It is the article the, used in common with yr, before nouns with vowel initials, as y is before those with consonants; with verbs it assumes an adverbial character; and it is frequently a mere expletive sound. It is used sometimes as a pronoun. It is also a termination of masculine nouns.

Ffordd Llanfagien ydd air i nef.

By the way of Saint Mary Magdalen it is that we must go to heaven. Adage.

*O orw i gant yr a gwr;
O ddwy i mi ydd i awr.*

From an acre to a hundred will a man proceed; from two to one it is that the fribble falls. Iwan Deutywn.

*Neu rhodder i Ryn, rwyf iolydd, cantrf,
A rhant eiddonydd!
Ac nu rodd oedd well aog ydd.*

Have I not been gifted by Rhun, a chief of celebrity, with district and a hundred line! but one gift was better than them. Llywarch Hen.

YF, s. m. r. That is of a flowing or liquid nature; a liquid; a moisture.

Yfawr, a. (yf) Drinkable, capable of being drank

Yfawr, a. (yf) Relating to drinking.

Yfed, v. a. (yf) To drink. a. m. A drinking.

Yf dy gawl cyn oero.

Drink thy broth before it cools. Adage.

Ar ol yfed eychod aydd.

After drinking there comes thirst. Adage.

*Ac os yf un gwas afach
Fw feddwl ei, e fydd iach.*

And if any youth unwell shall drink so as to make him drunk, he will be well. Iwan ab Gr. Letaf, i'r canwr.

Yfedgar, a. (yfed) Fond of drinking, or tippling.

Yfedgarwch, s. m. (yfedgar) Fondness for drink.

Yfedr, s. m. (yfed) A drinking habit.

Yfetri, v. a. (yfedr) To drink often; to tipple.

Yfgar, a. (yf) Fond of drink, bibaceous.

Yfgarwch, s. m. (yfgar) Fondness for drink.

Yfiad, s. m. (yf) A drinking; a bibbing.

Yfory, s. m. (mory) To-morrow. adv. To-morrow.

Yfu, v. a. (yf) To drink; to imbibe, to suck.

Yfwr, s. m.—pl. yfwyr (yf—gwr) A drinker.

Yfwraig, s. f.—pl. yfwreigedd (yf—gwrraig) A drinking woman.

YFF, s. m. r. A tendency out or from.

Yffi, s. m. (yff) A bit broken off; a particle.

Yfflaw, v. a. (yffi) To break off; to shiver.

Yfflon, s. pl. aggr. (yffi) Fragments; shatters.

Dyna fo yn yfflon man, there it is all to shatters.

Yfflyn, s. m. (yffi) A piece, a shiver.

YG, s. m. r. The state of being open, or void.

Yl, s. m. r. That is pervasive; that is apt to move; a moving agent. It is a termination of a class of words.

Yleni, s. (eleni) The present year. adv. This year.

YLL, s. m. r. That tends to part, or to separate.

Yldryd, s. m. (yll—tryd) A vagabond, a stroller.

Yliad, s. m. (yll) A ripping, or a dividing.

Yilt, s. m. (yll) A rip, rent, or parting.

Yllyd, s. m. (yllt) A ripper; an epithet used for a plough.

Yllynedd, s. (llynedd) Last year. adv. Last year.

Yllyr, s. m.—pl. i. ion (yll) A mole or want.

YM, s. m. r. That tends to identify; that is identic. It is a particle of very general use in composition. Prefixed to verbs, and verbal nouns, it makes a reflexion of the action on the agent or agents; as, golchi, to wash; ymolchi, to wash one's self; sennu, to chide; ym- sennu, to chide mutually. It is also the pronoun my, used for my or ey in certain forms of construction; and, it is the personal verb, we are.

Am Wyn, ym Crist, wwy ni'n cred!

About Iambe, my Christ, he will not believe us now. Gau; Gyn.

Cynghorwr ar wr, yr a'i ayyo gwr;

Cynghorfwyt a' gar wrth si can.

Caru ym myd i'm, a'm ddisple;

Carid a'i byllid i'm at baid;

Car au dda'i dilyn, a'm ddaig;

Carenydd Dofydd beanydd a'm bo!

A counsellor to man, for such as humbly seeks him; my a will not harbour to who loves him. The love of my enemy is a me that shall not condemn me; love with his guidance is as it not fall; the friend whose intercession is sure, may be desired the favour of the Creator be it daily to me!

Meigr ad Gwicken.

Yma, s. m. (ma) Here, this place. adv. Here, at this place.

Gwac'at bwy y gubren

A fynaet uffwr

Byth gwedi yma.

Woe to them the crew, who seek for hell ever after the gown. Iwan ab Gr.

A cochfygo yma a gorenaf fry.

That coquise here will be crowned above. Idag.

Ymachlud, s. m. (achlud) The act of enveloping. v. a. To obscure one's self; to obscure mutually; to become obscured.

Ymachludaw, v. a. (ymachlud) To be obscuring, to obscure mutually; to become obscured.

Iosaph a ymachludwr gorff yr Iesu mewn llaw gwa.

Joseph shrouded the body of Jesus in clean linen.

Ymachludawl, a. (ymachlud) Tending to be enveloped or to be obscured.

Ymachludiad, s. m. (ymachlud) A becoming enveloped; a mutually obscuring.

Ymachludd, s. m. (achludd) The act of enveloping. v. a. To obscure one's self; to become obscured.

Y mac gwely i'm gelyr,

Llo'r ymachludd ddaidd dyn.

To my foe there is a bed, where the chains of a ymchud are obscured. M. ab Iwan.

Ymachladdaw, v. a. (ymachludd) To obscure one's self; mutually to obscure.

Ymachladdawl, a. (ymachludd) Tending to become obscured.

Ymachluddiad, s. m. (ymachludd) A becoming obscured; a mutually obscuring.

Ymachub, s. m. (achub) Self-security. v. a. To save one's self, to deliver one's self; to save mutually.

Cyfof, ddrygwae cas, cala laeth bronno mact,

Ymachub a'th giwyfau.

Arise, thou odious wicked chap, get thee milk of me and deliver thyself of thy disorders. Madog Dafydd.

Ymachubaw, v. a. (ymachub) To save one's self, to deliver one's self; to save mutually.

Ymachubawl, a. (ymachub) Tending to self preservation; mutually preserving.

Ymachubiad, s. m. (ymachub) A saving one's self; a mutually saving.

Ymachubwr, s. m.—pl. ymachubwyr (ymachub—gwr) One who saves himself; one who mutually saves.

Ymachwyn, s. m. (achwyn) A complaint of one's self; a mutual complaint. v. a. To complain of one's self; to complain mutually.

Ymachwyniad, s. m. (ymachwyn) A complaining of one's self; a mutually complaining.

Ymachwynwr, s. m.—pl. ymachwynwyr (ymachwyn—gwr) One who complains of himself; a mutual complainer.

Ymadael, v. a. (gadael) To leave, to forsake; to quit; to depart; to leave mutually.

Ymadaw, v. a. (gadaw) To leave, to forsake; to depart; to elope; mutually to leave.

Llym gyssef ffordd yr ymadwy dyn a'i dda, trwy drall, lledrad, sagtyfarch, llog, adnas, benthys.

Behold the various ways that a person will part with his property, through opposition, theft, trover, hire, pledge, loan.

Welsh Laws.

Ymadawiad, s. m. (ymadaw) A leaving, a forsaking; a departing, egression; elopement.

Ymadawwr, s. m.—pl. ymadawwyr (ymadaw—gwr) One who leaves or forsakes.

Ymadferth, s. m. (adferth) Self-exertion. v. a. To exert one's self; to defend or help one's self.

Ymadferthawl, a. (ymadferth) Self-exerting; tending to mutual aid.

Ymadferthiad, s. m. (ymadferth) Self-exertion; a helping one's self.

Ymadferthu, v. a. (ymadferth) To exert one's self; mutually to aid.

Ymadferthwch, s. m. (ymadferth) A state of self-exertion.

Ymadfyw, s. m. (adfyw) Self-revival. a. To revive one's self; to become revived.

Ymadfywiad, s. m. (ymadfyw) A reviving of one's self; a becoming revived; reviviscence.

Ymadfywiaw, v. a. (ymadfyw) To revive one's self; to become revived, to come to life again.

Ymadgryfiad, s. m. (ymadgryfau) A self-reinvigoration; a becoming strengthened.

Ymadgryfiawl, a. (ymadgryfau) Self-reinvigorating.

Ymadgryfau, v. a. (adgryfau) To strengthen one's self again; to become reinvigorated.

Ymadgyweiriad, s. m. (adgyweiriad) A repairing of one's self; a becoming repaired.

Ymadgyweiriaw, v. a. (adgyweiriaw) To restore one's self to order; to become repaired.

Ymadlenwad, s. m. (adlenwad) A self-replenishing; a becoming replenished.

Ymadlenwawl, a. (adlenwawl) Self-replenishing; tending to become replenished.

Ymadlenwi, v. a. (adlenwi) To replenish one's self; to become replenished.

Ymadnabod, s. m. (adnabod) Self-knowledge; mutual acquaintance. v. a. To know one's self; to become acquainted.

Ymadnewyddawl, a. (adnewyddawl) Self-renovating; tending to become renewed.

Ymadnewyddiad, s. m. (adnewyddiad) Self-renovation; a becoming renewed.

Ymadnewyddu, v. a. (adnewyddu) To renovate one's self; to become renewed.

Ymadolwyn, v. a. (adolwyn) To interest one's self; to entreat earnestly and often.

Ymadrawd, s. m.—pl. ymadroddion (adrawd) Discourse; a sentence or period, in discourse; speech. v. a. To discourse, to talk.

Hob awen dda—

Nie gwyf modd ymadroddion,
No llythren beirau lle bon.

Without a good genius, he knows not the form of sentences, nor the characters of faults where they exist.

I. ab Hywel Sorddawl.

Ymadrawd yw cyfansoddiadau llawen o ddrws ystyf.

A sentence is a collection of a number of words together.

Edeyrn Dafydd Aneur.

Ymadred, s. f. (adred) A self-returning; a return.

Ymadredawl, a. (ymadred) Self-returning.

Ymadredeg, v. a. (ymadred) To return one's self back; mutually to return.

Ymadrediad, s. m. (ymadred) A returning one's self back; a mutually returning.

Ymadroddawl, a. (ymadrawd) Discursive.

Vol. II.

Ymadroddi, v. a. (ymadrawd) To discourse.

Ymadroddiad, s. m. (ymadrawd) A discoursing.

Ymadroddiaeth, s. m. (ymadrawd) Conversation.

Ymadroddiant, s. m. (ymadrawd) Interlocution.

Ymadroddus, a. (ymadrawd) Well-spoken.

Ymadroddwr, s. m.—pl. ymadroddwyr (ymadrawd—gwr) A discourser, an interlocutor.

Ymadwedd, s. m. (adwedd) A self-returning.

I gaeu ragorawl,

Ag arfaeth gwerfawl,

Ammodawl ymadwedd.

To an excellent city, with praise-worthy usage, under promise to a return.

S. Fychan.

Ymadweddawl, a. (ymadwedd) Tending to bring one's self back.

Ymadweddiad, s. m. (ymadwedd) A bringing one's self to a former condition.

Ymadweddu, v. a. (ymadwedd) To bring one's self to a former state.

Ymadwasawl, a. (addasawl) Self-qualifying; mutually fitting.

Ymadwasiad, s. m. (addasiad) A qualifying one's self; a becoming qualified, meet, or proper.

Ymadwasu, v. a. (addasu) To qualify one's self; to qualify mutually.

Ymadwaswr, s. m.—pl. ymadwaswyr (addaswr) One who makes himself fit or meet.

Ymaddaw, v. a. (addaw) To promise mutually; to bind one's self in a promise.

O ddydd i ddyd ymaddaw ag arall am berth, heb dystion yn y lle, nid amod hwan.

If a person should enter into a promise with another for a thing without witnesses in the place, that is not a covenant.

Welsh Laws.

Ymaddawiad, s. m. (ymaddaw) A mutually promising; a binding one's self in a promise.

Ymaelodi, v. a. (aelodi) To make one's self a member; to become a member.

Ymaelodiad, s. m. (aelodiad) A making one's self a member; a becoming a member.

Ymaes, prep. (maes) Without. adu. Without.

Ymafael, s. m.—pl. t. ion (gafael) A mutual hold; a wrestle, a struggle. v. a. To lay hold; to wrestle.

Nae ymafael a'i hael hi.

Do not connect thyself with her skirt.

D. ab Gwilym.

Ymafaelgar, a. (ymafael) Apt to lay hold.

Ymafaelgarwch, s. m. (ymafaelgar) Aptness to lay hold mutually.

Ymafaeliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymafael) A laying hold mutually.

Ymafaelu, v. a. (ymafael) To lay hold; to lay hold mutually, to wrestle.

Ymafaelwr, s. m.—pl. ymafaelwyr (ymafael—gwr) One who lays hold; a wrestler.

Ymafaelydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymafael) One who takes hold; a wrestler.

Ymafiwr, s. m.—pl. ymafiwyr (gafwr) One who lays hold; a wrestler.

Ymafyd, s. m. (gafyd) A mutual laying-hold; a wrestle. v. a. To lay mutual hold; to lay hold; to wrestle.

Ymafyd cwmp, to wrestle a fall.

Ymagawr, s. m. (agawr) A becoming open.

Ymagenawl, a. (agenawl) Tending to become lifted or chapped.

Ymageniad, s. m. (ageniad) A becoming rifted.

Ymagennu, v. a. (agennu) To become rifted.

Ymagorawl, a. (ymagawr) Self-expanding; tending to become open.

Ymagori, v. a. (ymagawr) To become open or expanded; to open one's self.

4 I

Ymagoriad, s. m.—pl. t. an (ymagawr) A becoming open; an opening of one's self.

Ymagoryd, v. n. (ymagawr) To become open.

Ymagweddi, s. m. (agweddi) Self-conformity; mutual conformity.

Ymagweddawl, a. (ymagwedd) Self-conforming. Ymagweddiad, s. m. (ymagwedd) A conforming one's self; a mutually conforming.

Ymagweddu, v. a. (ymagwedd) To conform one's self; to conform mutually.

Ymagweddwr, s. m.—pl. ymagweddwyr (ymagwedd—gwr) One who conforms himself.

Ymaith, adv. (maith) Hence, away. v. imp. Hence, avannt, away. be gone. Dos ymaith, go away.

*A few ymaith ei fywyd yn ddischaws, marw droes y dawl y mae—
He that throws away his life without cause, dies for the devil.
Adage.*

Ymalw, v. a. (galw) To continue calling; to invoke; to call mutually.

Ymalwad, s. m. (ymalw) A mutual calling.

Ymalltudaw, v. a. (alltudaw) To banish one's self; to become strange.

Ymalltudawl, a. (alltudawl) Self-estranging.

Ymalltudiad, s. m. (alltudiad) A self-estranging; a banishing one's self.

Ymallu, v. n. (gallu) To take to one's self power; to be able. Od ymell, o dichawn, if he be able.

Ymalluaw, v. a. (ymallu) To endue one's self with power; to become able or capable.

Ymamlaad, s. m. (amlaad) A self-multiplying.

Ymamlaen, v. a. (amlau) To self-multiply.

Yman, s. m. (man) Here, this place. adv. Here.

Ymanafawl, a. (anafawl) Tending to self-harm.

Ymanafiad, s. m. (anafiad) A self-hurting.

Ymanafu, v. n. (anafu) To hurt one's self.

Ymanafyd, v. n. (anafyd) To hurt one's self.

Ymanaws, s. m. (anaws) Self-excitement; mutual excitement. v. a. To excite one's self; to excite mutually.

Ymandaw, s. m. (andaw) A keeping one's self in listening or attention; a mutual listening. v. a.

To keep one's self listening; to listen mutually.

*Droed a giad, gwladodd ymandaw,
Doeth a choeth, cyfoeth cyfnew.*

*A bold one and a leader, the admiration of countries, wise and precious, the subject of a kingdom's united prayer.
Llygod Gwr, i Ruff. Maslaur.*

Ymandawliad, s. m. (ymandaw) A keeping one's self in listening; a mutually listening.

Ymanfon, s. m. (anfon) A mutual sending. v. a. To send mutually.

Mynych ymanfon dygn gofion dig Erof, arien ganwyll rydg.

*Frequently she commissions severe remembrances of anger on my account, the splendidly cold laminary of presumption.
Cynddelw.*

Ymanfoniad, s. m. (ymanfon) A mutually sending.

Ymanerch, s. m.—pl. t. ion (anerch) A mutual greeting; congratulation. v. a. To congratulate.

*Saethodd o'i gloew-froen gin
Serch ymanerch i mianau.*

She darted from her constant benighted breast a love-shaft of congratulation to me. D. ab Gwilym, i Forfudd.

Ymanerchawl, a. (ymanerch) Mutually greeting.

Ymanerchi, v. a. (ymanerch) To greet mutually.

Ymanerchiad, s. m. (ymanerch) A mutually greeting.

Ymannog, s. m. (annog) Mutual excitement; self-excitement. v. a. To excite one another; to self-excite.

Ymannos, adv. (yman—nos) The night past; the night before the present; the night before last; heretofore.

Mynwn fy mod ymannos Yn lori pen Atropos.

I could have wished to be the other night cutting of the last Atropos. Gled y llyp.

*Lleidir, y mewn ddrin ddrach.
Ymannos fawr: mynab fwrch.*

A thief, in graceless dotage, the other night I was I cross off a maid. B. ab Gwilym.

Ymanosawl, a. (ymanaws) Self-exciting; mutually exciting.

Ymanosiad, s. m. (ymanaws) A self-exciting; mutually urging or exciting.

Ymanrheithiad, s. m. (anrheithiad) Self-spoilation; mutual spoliation.

Ymanrheithlaw, v. a. (anrheithlaw) To self-spoil; to despoil one another.

Ymanrheithlawl, a. (anrheithlawl) Self-despoiling; mutually despoiling.

Ymanurddaw, v. a. (anurddaw) To self-disfigure.

Ymanurddawl, a. (anurddawl) Self-disfiguring.

Ymanurddiad, s. m. (anurddiad) A self-disfiguring.

Ymangerddawl, a. (angerddawl) Tending to put one's self in a passion.

Ymangerddiad, s. m. (angerddiad) A making one's self violent.

Ymangerddu, v. a. (angerddu) To make one's self violent; to become impassioned.

Ymangwanegawl, a. (angwanegawl) Self-augmenting.

Ymangwanegiad, s. m. (angwanegiad) A self-augmenting.

Ymangwanegu, v. a. (angwanegu) To increase one's self.

Ymaraws, s. m. (araws) A bearing with; bearing suffering. v. a. To bear with, to endure.

Ymarbed, s. m. (arbed) A self-restraint.

Ymarbedawl, a. (ymarbed) Self-refraining; mutually abstaining.

Ymarbediad, s. m. (ymarbed) A self-refraining; a mutually abstaining.

Ymarbedu, v. a. (ymarbed) To save one's self to abstain; mutually to abstain.

Ymarbedus, a. (ymarbed) Self-restraining.

Ymarbedusaw, v. n. (ymarbedus) To become stemions.

Ymarbod, s. m. (arbod) Self-preparation, introduction; self-manifestation; the state of being interested or concerned. v. a. To interest one's self, to be concerned. Am bod ymarbod amdano? Is there no stirring about it?

Daw a foth—yn gyanelluwr a gwaredwr, ac yn breuer a ymarbod o barth Mab, ac olli odd y rhwymddau, ac i portu briddolledau.

*God is to be worshipped, as the upholder and avenger, as a redeemer in his second interesting of himself with respect to Son, and all of the virtues, and the appropriate attributes.
Bran.*

Ymarbodawl, a. (ymarbod) Self-preparing.

Ymarbodi, v. a. (ymarbod) To prepare one's self to become concerned or interested.

Ymarbodiad, s. m. (ymarbod) A preparing one's self; a becoming concerned about or interested.

Ymarbodus, a. (ymarbod) Being concerned about.

Ymarbodusaw, v. n. (ymarbodus) To become concerned or interested.

Ymarbodusrwydd, s. m. (ymarbodus) The state of being concerned, or interested.

Ymarbodwr, s. m.—pl. ymarbodwyr (ymarbod—gwr) One who prepares himself; one who interests himself.

Ymarbwyll, s. m.—pl. t. ion (arbwyl) A concerting. v. a. To be concerting.

Goreu gwallh celfydd ymarbwyll a'i amcan.

The best act of the ingenious is to be concerting with his invention. Cadwy Idoroth.

(marbwylliad, s. m. (ymarbwyll) A being concerting or considering.

(marddelw, s. m. (arddelw) A possession; a setting up a claim; a challenge. v. a. To make a profession; to set up a claim; to challenge.

*Cael ymarddelw hawdd a hi,
Ymarddelw serch benn creddi.*

Obtaining an easy conversation with her, making profession of love I was for her sake. D. ab Gwilym, i. Perfedd.

(marddelwad, s. m. (ymarddelw) A making a claim.

(mardderchafael, s. m. (ardderchafael) A self-exalting. v. a. To become exalted.

Gwddi gwybod a Arthur bod a'n ofn eiddo ar bawb, ymardderchafael a'raig ystaws.

After it was known to Arthur that his dread was thus upon every body, he then upbraid himself. Gr. ab Arthur.

(mardderchafiad, s. m. (ardderchafiad) Self-exaltation; a becoming uplifted.

(mardderchafu, v. a. (ardderchafu) To uplift one's self; to be self-exalted.

(mardderchafus, a. (ardderchafus) Self-exalting.

(mardderchaw, a. (ardderchaw) Self-exalting.

(mardderchiad, s. (ardderchiad) Self-exaltation.

(mardderchogaw, a. (ardderchogaw) Self-exalting.

(mardderchogi, v. a. (ardderchogi) To self-exalt.

(mardderchu, v. (ardderchu) To exalt one's self.

(marddygwyl, s. m. (arddygwyl) A keeping one's self in expectation. v. a. To keep one's self in expectation.

Drydau a'raig ystaws parhau a'r mwy; a dyddiau parhau ar yno, dan ymarddygwyl a'raig ystaws.

They made haste towards the smoke; and approaching towards there, by keeping on the watch from a distance, beheld Dillan Longbeard scorching a wild boar. B. Cuthbert—Mabington.

(marddygwylliad, s. m. (ymarddygwyll) A keeping one's self in expectation.

(marddygwyllaw, v. a. (ymarddygwyll) To keep one's self in expectation.

(marddygwyllus, a. (ymarddygwyll) Apt to keep one's self in expectation.

(marfaeth, s. m. (arfaeth) A self-exercising.

v. a. To habituate one's self.

Braa a gaet chwedd yn mhen trath,

Wrth nas gwylynt ymarfaeth:

Nid meddiant ond gwybodfaeth.

A crow did sing her song at the head of the sand, to those who could not habituate themselves: there is no possession like knowledge. Cadwy Idoroth.

(marfaethiad, s. m. (ymarfaeth) A self-habituating or inuring.

(marfawd, s. f. (arfawd) A self-arming.

(marfer, s. f.—pl. t. ion (arfer) The using of one's self; exercise, practice; habit, custom. v. a. To use one's self; to exercise.

(marferawl, a. (ymarfer) Self-exercising.

(marferiad, s. m. (ymarfer) A self-exercising.

(marferu, v. a. (ymarfer) To exercise one's self, to accustom one's self.

(marferwr, s. m.—pl. ymarferwyr (ymarfer— gwr) One who exercises himself.

(marfiad, s. m. (arfiad) A self-arming.

(marfodawl, a. (ymarfawd) Self-arming.

(marfodi, v. a. (ymarfawd) To deal blows mutually.

(marfogi, v. a. (arfogi) To arm one's self; mutually to arm.

(Ymarfogiad, s. m. (arfogiad) An arming of one's self; a mutually arming.

(Ymarfoll, s. m. (arfoll) A mutual reception; a becoming confederated.

(Ymarfollu, v. a. (ymarfoll) To receive one another; to become mutually connected; to connect one's self; to become confederated.

Ar hyny pawb onaddyt a ymarfollt hyd ar Eneus.

Upon that every one of them collected themselves together unto Eneus. H. Durod.

(Ymarfolliad, s. m. (ymarfoll) A mutual reception; a becoming mutually connected; a becoming confederated.

(Ymarfu, v. a. (arfu) To arm one's self.

(Ymarial, s. m. (arial) A self-invigoration.

(Ymarialiad, s. m. (ymarial) A self-invigorating; a becoming lively.

(Ymarialu, v. a. (ymarial) To self-invigorate; to become full of animation.

(Ymarialus, a. (ymarial) Self-invigorating.

(Ymariloes, s. m. (ariloes) A self-emptying. v. a.

To empty one's self.

(Ymariloesi, v. a. (ymariloes) To pour out one's self, to empty one's self.

(Ymariloesiad, s. m. (ymariloes) A pouring out or emptying one's self.

(Ymarilwys, s. m. (arilwys) A pouring out one's self. v. To empty one's self, to self-empty.

(Ymarilwysawl, a. (ymarilwys) Self-emptying.

(Ymarôd, s. m. (ymarô) A keeping one's self in waiting; a bearing with; mutual forbearance.

(Ymarôwl, a. (ymarô) Keeping one's self in waiting; of a forbearing temper.

(Ymarô, v. a. (arô) To bear with; to forbear.

(Ymarosawl, a. (ymaraws) Apt to be waiting.

(Ymarosol, v. a. (ymaraws) To keep one's self in waiting; to wait mutually.

(Ymarosiad, s. m. (ymaraws) A keeping one's self in waiting; a mutually waiting.

(Ymarôus, a. (ymarô) Long-suffering, patient.

'Bydd ymarôus wrthyf,' be patient with me.

(Ymarôwr, s. m.—pl. ymarôwyr (ymarô— gwr) One who bears with.

(Ymarswyd, s. m. (arswyd) A self-terrifying.

(Ymarswydaw, v. a. (ymarswyd) To terrify one's self, to dread mutually.

(Ymarswydawl, a. (ymarswyd) Self-terrifying.

(Ymarswydiad, s. m. (ymarswyd) A self-terrifying.

(Ymartheithiad, s. m. (arteithiad) A self-torturing.

(Ymartheithiaw, v. a. (arteithiaw) To self-torture.

(Ymartheithiawl, a. (arteithiawl) Self-torturing.

(Ymartheithiwr, s. m.—pl. ymartheithiwr (arteithiwr) (Ymaruthraw, v. a. (aruthraw) To astonish one's self; mutually to astonish.

One who tortures himself.

(Ymaruthrawl, a. (aruthrawl) Tending to amaze one's self.

(Ymaruthriad, s. m. (aruthriad) A making one's self amazed; a mutually astonishing.

(Ymarwain, s. m. (arwain) A self conducting.

v. a. To conduct one's self.

Hafren a—

Ddirwyn afonydd ereill;

Ac fy mor, gwyr ymarwain,

Y rhod—

Several other rivers doth attract; and knowing how to conduct itself, runs to the sea. S. Fyfe.

(Ymarwar, s. m. (arwar) A calming one's self; a mutual assuagement. v. a. To calm one's self; to assuage one another.

Mai ymarwar Lludd a Lleuwl.

Like the reconciliation of Lludd and Lleuwl. Llywelyn Fardd.

Ymarwedd, s. m. (arwedd) Comportment, demeanour. v. a. To demean one's self, to behave.
Ymarweddawl, a. (ymarwedd) Self-demeaning.
Ymarweddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymarwedd) A demeaning one's self, a behaving; behaviour.
Ymarweddiad da, good behaviour.
Ymarweddu, v. u. (ymarwedd) To self-demean.
Ymarweddwr, s. m.—pl. ymarweddwyr (ymarwedd—gwr) One who demeans himself.
Ymarweiniad, s. m. (ymarwain) A conducting or leading one's self.
Ymarweiniaw, v. a. (ymarwain) To lead one's self; mutually to lead.
Ymarweiniawl, a. (ymarwain) Self-leading.
Ymarwerthu, v. a. (arwerthu) To offer one's self to be bought, sold, or redeemed.

Archyf arch i'm Naf,
 Y dewin doethaf,
 Nid ymarwerthaf,
 Heb ei wyrthiaf.

I will implore favour of my Lord, the Divine Being most wise,
 I will not offer to redeem myself, without his miracles.
Gr. ab yr Ynad Coch.

Ymaswyn, s. m. (aswyn) A self-excusing.

Tarf ierfaith goddath gwaswyn
 T'u'u a thelu a thelwyn wasawr
 A gwr mawr ymaswyn.

Like the violently far-extending tumult of the conflagration of spring the tribe with a thick multitude bearing a thick grove of spears, and the mighty men mutually pledging.
Cyuddelo, i'r argl. Rhys.

Ymaswynaw, v. a. (ymaswyn) To excuse one's self; to plead for one's self.

Ymaswynawl, a. (ymaswyn) Self-excusing.
Ymaswyniad, s. m. (ymaswyn) A self-excusing.
Ymateb, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ateb) A mutual answer.
Ymatebawl, a. (ymateb) Mutually answering.
Ymatebiad, s. m. (ymateb) A correspondence.
Ymatebu, v. a. (ymateb) To answer mutually.
Ymatgno, s. m. (ad—cno) A rumination.
Ymatgnod, s. m. (ymatgno) A ruminating.
Ymatgnoi, v. a. (ymatgno) To ruminate.
Ymatgof, s. m. (ad—cof) A self-recollection.
Ymatgofiad, s. m. (ymatgof) A self-recollecting.
Ymatgofawl, v. a. (ymatgof) To self-recollect.
Ymatgor, s. m. (atgor) A self-return. v. a. To return one's self.

Lia Prydala yn ymatgor.

The army of Britain returning itself back. Cyuddelo.

Ymatgorawl, a. (ymatgor) A self-returning.
Ymatgudd, s. m. (ad—cudd) A self-revealing.
Ymatguddiad, s. m. (ymatgudd) A self-revealing.
Ymatguddiaw, v. a. (ymatgudd) To self-reveal.
Ymatguddiawl, a. (ymatgudd) Self-revealing.
Ymattreg, s. f. (attreg) A self-stopping; a mutual stop or demur.
Ymattregawl, a. (ymattreg) Self-stopping; mutually stopping.
Ymattregiad, s. m. (ymattreg) A self-stopping; a demurring with one's self; a mutually stopping.
Ymattregu, v. a. (ymattreg) To stop one's self; to stop one another; to demur mutually.
Ymattal, s. m. (attal) Self-restraint; continence. v. a. To restrain one's self; to live in abstinence, to contain one's self.
Ymattalgar, a. (ymattal) Self-restraining.
Ymattaliad, s. m. (ymattal) A self-restraining.
Ymattalrwydd, s. m. (ymattal) Abstemiousness.
Ymattalus, a. (ymattal) Self-restraining.
Ymawyddiad, s. m. (awyddiad) A filling one's self with desire.
Ymawyddu, v. a. (awyddu) To fill one's self with avidity or desire.
Ymbaffiad, s. m. (paffiad) A mutually boxing.

Ymbaffiaw, v. a. (paffiaw) To box mutually.
Ymbaffiwr, s. m.—pl. ymbaffiawyr (paffiwr) One who uses himself to boxing; a boxer.
Ymbaid, a. (paid) Self-refraining.
Ymbalfaliad, s. m. (palfaliad) A groping.
Ymbalfalu, v. a. (palfalu) To reach one's limbs in every direction; to grope out one's way.
Ymbalfalwr, s. m.—pl. ymbalfalwyr (palfalwr) One who gropes his way.
Ymbalfust, v. a. (ymbalf—fust) To encounter.
Gorfof ymbalfust a gofalu, obliged to strive and economize.

Ymball, s. m. (pall) A self-failure.
Ymballu, v. a. (ymball) To fall into error.
Ymbarchawl, a. (parchawl) Self-respecting.
Ymbarchiad, s. m. (parchiad) A self-respecting; a mutually respecting.
Ymbarchu, v. a. (parchu) To respect one's self; to respect mutually.
Ymbarotod, s. m. (parotod) A self-preparing.
Ymbarotodawl, a. (parotodawl) Self-preparing.
Ymbarotöi, v. a. (parotöi) To prepare one's self.

Deuparth taith ymbarotöi.

Two parts of a journey is to prepare one's self. Ab.
 Ymbarotöi i gyhwedd adfyd yw y ffordd mawr at hanes.
 To prepare one's self to meet adversity is the narrow way to happiness. Mac.

Ymbawr, s. m. (pawr) The eating of pasture.
Ymbedawl, a. (pedawl) Being using one's feet, being ranged in order of battle.
Ymbediad, s. m. (pediad) A taking to one's feet, a ranging in order of battle.
Ymbedu, v. a. (pedu) To take to one's feet, to make use of the feet.

Gwedi derfod y Prydeiniaid o'r parh arall gwyddu am ynt ac ymbada, nid ammodrnt o pob parh newidus agos ddynodau.

After the Britons on the other part had finished eating of the selves and putting themselves in array, they did not return to every side with exchanging deadly blows. Gr. ab. 4. 10.

Ymbeidiad, s. m. (peidiad) A making one's self to cease; a desisting.

Ymbeidiaw, v. a. (peidiaw) To abstain, to desist.
Ymbeidiawl, a. (peidiawl) Abstaining, desisting.
Ymbellâd, s. m. (pellâd) A rendering one's self distant or far removed.

Ymbellâwl, a. (pellâwl) Tending to render one's self distant.

Ymbellâu, v. a. (pellâu) To render one's self distant; to be far removed.

Ymbenbleth, s. m. (penbleth) The distraction of one's own head.

Ymbenblethiad, s. m. (ymbenbleth) A distraction of one's head.

Ymbenblethu, v. a. (ymbenbleth) To distract one's head.

Ymbennoethi, v. a. (pennoethi) To make one's head bare.

Ymbennoethiad, s. m. (pennoethiad) A making one's head bare.

Ymbesgi, v. a. (peagi) To fatten one's self.

Ymbesgiad, s. m. (peagiad) A fattening one's self.

Ymbil, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pil) An entreaty, a petition. v. a. To entreat, to implore, to crave.

Ymbiliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymbil) An imploring.

Ymbiliaw, v. a. (ymbil) To implore, to crave.

Ymbiliwr, s. m.—pl. ymbiliwyr (ymbil—gwr) An implorer.

Ymbinciad, s. m. (pinciad) A trimming or mending one's self.

Ymbinciaw, v. a. (pinciaw) To trim one's self. 'Hi a ymbinciaw yn wych iawn', she arrayed herself very finely.

Ymbliciawl, a. (pinciawl) Self-smartening.
Ymbinciwr, s. m.—pl. ymbinciwyr (pinciws) One who smartens himself.
Ymblaid, s. f.—pl. ymbleiddia (plaid) A faction.

*Tyn yr oes o llin yr ffa echryswl
 A chroenion ymbleiddia.*

*Deliver the age from beneath a horrid yoke and adverse factions.
 D. Thomas.*

Ymbleidgar, a. (ymblaid) Apt to be factious.
Ymbleidgarwch, s. m. (ymbleidgar) Factionness.
Ymbleidiad, s. m. (ymblaid) An attaching one's self to a party or faction.
Ymbleidiaw, v. a. (ymblaid) To attach one's self to a party, to join a faction.
Ymbleidiawl, a. (ymblaid) Apt to join one's self to a party.
Ymbleidiwr, s. m. (ymblaid—gwr) One who attaches himself to a party.
Ymblethawl, a. (plethawl) Self-entwining.
Ymblethiad, s. m. (plethiad) A self-entwining.
Ymblethu, v. a. (plethu) To self-entwine.
Ymbluad, s. m. (pluad) A feathering itself.
Ymbluaw, v. a. (pluaw) To plume one's self.
Ymbluawl, a. (pluawl) Self-depluming.
Ymbluafaw, v. a. (pluafaw) To self-feather.

*Mynag oes, minhwyr ydyd,
 I ble'r ai, ymbluaw'r wyd!*

*Say bird, for thou art endowed with utterance, where art thou going, as thou art adjusting thy feathers?
 D. Ll. ab Ll. ab Gruffydd.*

Ymbluawl, a. (pluawl) Self-feathering.
Ymblygawl, a. (plygawl) Self-bending.
Ymblygiad, s. m. (plygiad) A self-bending.
Ymblygu, v. a. (plygu) To bend one's self.
Ymblyfaw, v. a. (plyfaw) To attach one's self to a parish.
Ymblyfiad, s. m. (plyfiad) An attaching one's self to a parish.
Ymboenawl, a. (poenawl) Pains-taking.
Ymboeni, v. a. (poeni) To pain one's self.
Ymboerawl, a. (poerawl) Self-bespawling.
Ymboeri, v. a. (poeri) To bespawl one's self.
Ymboethawl, a. (poethawl) Self-heating.
Ymboethi, v. a. (poethi) To heat one's self.
Ymboethiad, s. m. (poethiad) A self-heating.
Ymborth, s. m. (porth) Sustenance, support.

Ymborth awyrodde yr awr ac arllan.

The sustenance of iniquity are gold and silver. Adage.

Ymborthawl, a. (ymborth) Sustaining, supporting; alimentary.
Ymborthedig, a. (ymborth) Self-supported.
Ymborthi, v. a. (ymborth) To sustain one's self; to bear or carry one's self; to feed one's self; to feed.

Mair mad ymborthes ei hethlogi.

Mary well did make herself to bear her progeny. Meilyr.

Ar orwyddaw berth yd ymborthaf.

On splendid cavalcade I will be conveyed. Llywelyn Fardd.

A ddycio y god ymborthod o honi.

Who bears the bag let him feed himself out of it. Adage.

Ymborthiad, s. m. (ymborth) A sustaining one's self; a bearing one's self.
Ymborthianna, v. a. (ymborthiant) To seek self-support; to seek mutual support; to supply one another; to traffick.
Ymborthiannawl, a. (ymborthiant) Tending to self-support; mutually supporting.
Ymborthiannu, v. a. (ymborthiant) To afford self-support; to afford mutual support.

Ymborthiannus, a. (ymborthiant) Tending to self-support; tending to mutual support.

Ymborthiant, s. m. (ymborth) Self-supportation; mutual supportation.

Ymborthwr, s. m.—pl. ymborthwyr (ymborth—gwr) One who supports himself; a mutual supporter.

Ymbrawf, s. m. (pawf) A putting one's self to trial; experience; trial, essay; contest.

Am ddodolion a brinahan beirdd Ynye Prydain, mi a lewy ymroddais i'r ymbrawf a allwn i rywfaingo i'w.

*With respect to the customs and privileges of the bards of the Isle of Britain, I gave myself entirely to the trial whether I could afford some degree of benefit.
 Ed. Dafydd.*

Ymbrestledd, s. m. (prestledd) The habit of giving mutual repartees.

Ymbrestliad, s. m. (prestliad) A mutually giving repartees.

Ymbrestlu, v. a. (prestlu) To repartee mutually.

Ymbriodawl, a. (priodawl) Tending mutually to marriage.

Ymbriodi, v. a. (priodi) To marry one's self; to become married, to intermarry.

Ymbrofawl, a. (ymbrawf) Self-trying.

Ymbrofedig, a. (ymbrawf) Being self-trying; being mutually tried.

Ymbrofi, v. a. (ymbrawf) To try together; to encounter; to vie; to try one's self; to experience.

Nichawen—

Eidyr gwarth a gwrthryn wrth ymbrofi.

*They obtained nothing but disgrace and repulse to contesting.
 Ll. F. Mech.*

Trefred i bryfed, lle yd ymbrofi

True cool ysgol ogar boethiaa.

*The habitation of reptiles, where they will experience a full course of ascent of a divided region of heat.
 Canadyn.*

Dydd prawf yn y difallth; yn y lle yr ymbrofyd eich tadon.

*The day of trial in the wilderness; in the place where your fathers entered into temptation.
 D. Dafydd.*

Ymbrofiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymbrawf) A mutually trying; a contesting; a trying one's self; an experiencing.

Ymbrofwr, s. m.—pl. ymbrofwyr (ymbrawf—gwr) One who mutually tries; a contesteer; one who tries himself.

Ymbryd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pryd) The using of one's self to seasons; a fast.

Ymbrydiad, s. m. (ymbryd) A using one's self to seasons; a fasting.

Ymbrydiaw, v. a. (ymbryd) To use one's self to stated times or seasons; to observe seasons; to fast.

Ymbrydiawl, a. (ymbryd) Apt to use one's self to seasons; fasting.

Ymbrydiwr, s. m.—pl. ymbrydiwyr (ymbryd—gwr) One who observeth seasons; a faster.

Ymbryn, s. m. (pryn) Self-redemption.

Ymbrynsawl, a. (ymbryn) Self-redeeming.

Ymbryniad, s. m. (ymbryn) A self-redeeming.

Ymbrynu, v. a. (ymbryn) To redeem one's self.

Oe amddiffynwr a oddiwedd—cofder of trwy garchar, nes ymbrynu.

If it be the defendant who is cast, let him be punished by imprisonment, or let him redeem himself. Deddfund Rhuddlen.

Ymbrynwyr, s. m.—pl. ymbrynwyr (ymbryn—gwr) One who redeems himself.

Ymbrysuraw, v. a. (prysuraw) To self-hasten.

Ymbrysurawl, a. (prysurawl) Self-hastening.

Ymbrysurdeb, s. m. (prysurdeb) A self-hastening.

Ymbrysiad, s. m. (prysiad) A hastening one's self.

Ymbrysurwr, s. m.—pl. ymbrysurwyr (prysurwr) One who hasteneth himself.

Ymbaraw, v. a. (puraw) To purify one's self.

Ebal anghu, Tu draw i'r wal o'rh ol y mae y parden; caeys yn dy fywyd y dyfaint ymbaraw.

Said a death, On the other side of the wall behind thee is the purgatory; for in thy life time thou shouldst purify thyself.

Elia Wyn, B. Cwg.

Ymbarawl, a. (parawl) Self-purifying.

Ymburiad, s. m. (purad) A self-purification.

Ymbarwr, s. m.—pl. ymbarwyr (parwr) One who purifies himself.

Ymbwyad, s. m. (pwyad) A self-buffeting.

*Dy gyfoeth pennoeth, poen ymbwyad,
A goiliad, i drala, drucoldi dygiad.*

Thy property, the infliction to one's self of pain, nightly I have lost, to rapine, the stroller's crime. Treachery Drydydd Mawr.

Ymbwyaw, v. a. (pwyaw) To buffet one's self.

Ymbwyawl, a. (pwyawl) Self-buffeting.

Ymbwyll, s. m.—pl. f. ion (pwyll) Consideration, concern.

Addysg ffol ei ymbrawf; addysg doeth ei ymbwyll.

The instruction of the fool his experience; the instruction of the wise his consideration.

Adage.

Daw Ysbryd Ghan a folir—am rin darwedd i fywyd—a fwydd ddifffant yn mhob ymbwyll yn Nghrist Iesu.

God the Holy Spirit is to be praised, for his leading us into life and soaring faith in every concern in Christ Jesus.

Barddas.

Ymbwyllaw, v. a. (ymbwyll) To consider with one's self; to have consideration; to be concerned.

Ymbwyllgar, a. (ymbwyll) Considerate, rational.

Ymbwylliad, s. m. (ymbwyll) A considering with one's self; a concerning one's self.

Ymbwyllus, a. (ymbwyll) Apt to reason with one's self; considerate.

Ymbwyllwr, s. m. (ymbwyll—gwr) One who considereth with himself.

Ymbwyth, s. m. (pwyth) Self-exertion.

Ymbwythaw, v. a. (ymbwyth) To exert one's self; to vie mutually.

*Am bethau teg ymbwythaw;
Am gig bydd, a maeu cwn.*

For fair things we will mutually strive; for the flesh of the stag, and the rearing of dogs.

Ll Saunders.

Ymbwythawl, a. (ymbwyth) Self-exerting; mutually vying.

Ymbwythiad, s. m.—pl. f. an (ymbwyth) An exerting of one's self; a mutual competition.

Ymbwys, s. m. (pwys) A self-pressure.

Ymbwysaw, v. a. (ymbwys) To weigh one's self; to cause one's self to weigh or incline; to press mutually.

Ymbwysawl, a. (ymbwys) Self-pressing; mutually pressing.

Ymbwysiad, s. m. (ymbwys) A weighing one's self; a self-pressing; a mutually pressing.

Ymbyd, s. m. (pyd) A self-danger.

Ymbydiad, s. m. (ymbyd) A self-endangering.

Ymbydiaw, v. a. (ymbyd) To endanger one's self.

Ymbydiawl, a. (ymbyd) Self-endangering.

Ymbydiwr, s. m.—pl. ymbydiwyr (ymbyd—gwr) One who endangers himself.

Ymbyliad, s. m. (pyliad) A self-blunting.

Ymbylu, v. a. (pylu) To become self-blunted.

Ymchwaen, s. f. (chwaen) A self-yielding to chance.

Ymchwaenawl, a. (ymchwaen) Tending to yield one's self to chance.

Ymchwaeniad, s. m. (ymchwaen) A consigning one's self to chance.

Ymchwaenn, v. a. (ymchwaen) To consign one's self to chance.

Ymchwal, s. f. (chwal) A spread of one's self.

Ymchwaliad, s. m.—pl. f. an (ymchwal) A self-spreading; a self-dispersion.

Ymchwalu, v. a. (ymchwal) To spread one's self.

Ymchwalwr, s. m.—pl. ymchwalwyr (ymchwal—gwr) One who spreads himself.

Ymchwant, s. m. (chwant) That yields to lust.

Ymchwanta, v. a. (ymchwant) To yield one's self to lust or desire.

Ymchwantiad, s. m. (ymchwant) A self-yielding to lust, a giving one's self to covet.

Ymchwediaw, v. (chwediaw) To chat together.

Ymchwediaw, s. m. (chwediaw) Confabulation.

Ymchwediawaw, v. a. (chwediawaw) To chat together.

Ymchwediawawl, a. (chwediaw) Confabulatory.

Ymchwediad, s. m. (chwediad) A confabulation.

Ymchwediaw, v. a. (chwediaw) To confabulate, to chat together.

Ymchwediwr, s. m.—pl. ymchwediwyr (chwediwr) A confabulator.

Ymchweiliad, s. m.—pl. ymchweiliad (ymchwal) One that returns or causes a return.

*Daeth cyffwrdd gwr chwyra ei ymchweiliad;
Ymchweiliad trosglad, trwm ei godon!*

The bones of a hero of rapid reversals are come: the cause of the return of the heavy battle, and the recollection of his.

Dr. Beufra, i Llysoedd III.

Ymchwel, s. f. (chwel) A return; a reverse.

Ymchweladwy, a. (ymchwel) Reversible.

Ymchweledig, a. (ymchwel) Reversed.

Ymchweledigaeth, s. m. (ymchwel) Conversion.

Ymchweiliad, s. m.—pl. f. an (ymchwel) Conversion.

Ymchwelwr, s. m.—pl. ymchwelwyr (ymchwel—gwr) One who returns, a reverter; a converter.

Ymchwelyd, v. a. (ymchwel) To return, to revert; to convert; to turn upside down, to overturn.

Ymchwelyd, v. a. (ymchwel) To return, to revert; to convert; to turn upside down, to overturn.

Ymchwelyd, v. a. (ymchwel) To return, to revert; to convert; to turn upside down, to overturn.

Pwybydd a fydd yn llwyr gwybod brisioedd y ffrwyd i'r cedid o' cyfwrddiaid Dyfawd Mochmad, y rhai a ymchweiliad das o Gymraeg yn Lladin.

Whoever would completely know the privileges of their rank let him procure the laws of Dyfawd Mochmad, the which also translated out of Welsh into Latin.

Dr. ab Idris.

Ymchwerwad, s. m. (chwerwad) An embittering one's self; a mutually exasperating.

Ymchwerwl, v. a. (chwerwl) To self-embitter; to become exasperated; mutually to exasperate.

Ymchwiliad, s. m. (chwiliad) A self-searching.

Ymchwiliaw, v. a. (chwiliaw) To search one's self.

Ymchwiliad, v. a. (chwiliad) To self-scrutinize.

Ymchwiliwr, s. m.—pl. ymchwiliwyr (chwiliwr) One who searches himself.

Ymchwlydd, s. m. (chwlydd) A swelling of one's self.

Tri pheth mawr o ymchwlydd ymberth ar wad: gwl, hwn, i rhyfelwr.

Three things great with self-swelling by feeding on t-m. i leech, a tike, and a warrior.

Llan.

Ymchwlyddaw, v. a. (ymchwlydd) To self-swell.

Ymchwlyddawl, a. (ymchwlydd) Self-swelling.

Ymchwlyddedig, a. (ymchwlydd) Self-inflated.

Both or dawed o honysat alon, ag ymchwlyddedig chwaen odd, a dderbyddwn ni bywat ar mwyd byny!

What, if they should come to us, with the purpose even of vanity, shall we receive them in consideration of us?

Rev. Owen.

Ymchwlyddiad, s. m. (ymchwlydd) A self-puffing.

Ymchwlyth, s. m. (chwlyth) A self-blowing.

Ymchwlythiad, s. m. (ymchwlyth) Self-inflation.

Ymda, v. a. (ta) To be walking about.

Or ymda gwrdd ei hennu—

If a woman perambulates by herself.

W. d. Llan.

Ymdaeliad, s. m. (taeliad) A self-trimming.
Ymdaelu, v. a. (taelu) To trim one's self.
Ymdaelusaw, v. a. (taelusaw) To make one's self tidy; to trim one's self.
Ymdaelusiad, s. m. (taelusiad) A making one's self tidy.
Ymdaeluswr, s. m.—pl. ymdaeluswyr (taeluswr) One who makes himself tidy.
Ymdaenawl, a. (taenawl) Self-expanding.
Ymdaeniad, s. m. (taeniad) Self-expansion.
Ymdaenu, v. a. (taenu) To expand one's self.
Ymdaenwr, s. m.—pl. ymdaenwyr (taenwr) One who expands or spreads himself.
Ymdaerawl, a. (taerawl) Mutually disputing.
Ymdaeriad, s. m. (taeriad) A mutually disputing.
Ymdaeru, v. a. (taeru) To dispute together.

O ymdaeru! ymdaeru, o chrisu! i arfyn.

*From mutual dispute to mutual blows, from words to arms.
 Elio Wyn, R. Gwy.*

Ymdaerwr, s. m.—pl. ymdaerwyr (taerwr) One given to disputation; a disputer.
Ymdafliad, s. m. (tafliad) A throwing one's self; a mutually throwing.
Ymdafnu, v. a. (tafnu) To throw one's self; to throw mutually. Ymdafnu eg ofalus dar, to throw at one another with iron balls, a kind of ancient game.
Ymdafodi, s. m. (tafodi) A wrangling. v. a. To wrangle together.

*Tafoddi ni chad ni yd,
 Gwneithi dyd ymdafodi,
 Nid byrr iu iawod dirididi.*

*A tongue that doth not conceal its energy, the worst of acquiescence is contention, it will not be long but it will easily do mischief.
 Ceryn ab Gwynllan.*

Ymdafodiad, s. m. (tafodiad) A wrangling together.
Ymdafodwr, s. m.—pl. ymdafodwyr (tafodwr) One given to wrangling.
Ymdagelliad, s. m. (tagelliad) A forming to one's self a double chin; a bridling up one's self.
Ymdagellu, v. a. (tagellu) To bridle up one's chin.
Ymdaith, s. f.—pl. ymdeithian (taith) A journey. v. a. To journey, to travel; to go, to walk.

Y barddonia a'r gwyf wrth gerd a sym ar ymdaith i giera, o dy leuyn ab Gurgant i dy Rhys fab Tudyr: a Rhys a oedd hael wrthynt.

*The bard and the musician went on a journey to exercise minstrelsy, from the house of Iestyn son of Gurgant to the house of Rhys son of Tudyr: and Rhys was liberal to them.
 Cerddau o Len Cornu.*

Ymdalpu, v. a. (talpu) To clod together.
Ymdan, s. m. (tan) A self-spreading. v. a. To spread one's self; to mount a horse.
Ymdanawl, a. (ymdan) Self-spreading.
Ymdaniad, s. m. (ymdan) A self-spreading.
Ymdanu, v. a. (ymdan) To spread one's self.
Ymdanc, s. m. (tanac) Mutual peace or amity.
Ymdaraw, v. a. (taraw) To strike mutually; to keep striking, or warding off blows; to fight it out, or to shift for one's self. Pa fodd yr wyf yn ymdaraw? How dost thou battle it out: How goes it with thee? Mi ymdarawaf yn lew, I shall get through very well.

Post weloch chi'r dert yn ymdaraw!

See you not the oak striking together?

Cyddfelen.

Nid oedd farchwng, er ei gryfed, a foddol ymdaraw neu yndrech ag ef.

There was not a knight, let him be ever so strong, who would dare to combat or to contend with him.

H. Bow—Maltington.

Ymdarawiad, s. m. (ymdaraw) A striking mutually; a warding off blows; a combating; a shifting for one's self.

Ymdarawu, a. (ymdaraw) Notable in shifting for one's self.

Ymdawdd, s. m. (taudd) A self-dissolving.
Ymdaweliad, s. m. (taweliad) A self-assuaging.
Ymdawelu, v. a. (tawelu) To calm one's self; to grow calm; to recover from passion.
Ymdawr, s. m. (traw) The being concerned.

North petards of ymdawr.

The strength of the patron of a family in his ancient arms.

Ceryn Ddaeth.

Ymdecad, s. m. (ymdecân) A making one's self fair; a self-beautifying.

Ymdecâwl, a. (ymdecân) Tending to make one's self fair.

Ymdecân, v. a. (tecan) To self-beautify.

Ymdebygiad, s. m. (tebygiad) A making one's self similar.

Ymdebygu, v. a. (tebygu) To make one's self like.

Howe tri pheth yd ymdebygu dyn i Ddew: cyflawder, gwybodaeth, a thogaredd.

*In three things man doth make himself like God; righteousness, knowledge, and mercy.
 Ceryn ab Gwynllan.*

Ymdeg, s. m. (tag) A self-adorning. a. Of native fairness.

Nid y gallant ymdeg.

Like the flower of native beauty.

Adage.

Ymdeimlaw, v. a. (teimlaw) To feel one's self.

Ymdeimliad, s. m. (teimliad) A self-feeling.

Ymdeithiad, s. m.—pl. f. an (ymdaith) A travelling

Ymdeithiaw, v. a. (ymdaith) To travel, to journey

Ymdeithiawg, a. (ymdaith) Travelling, journeying

Ymdeithiawl, a. (ymdaith) Travelling, journeying.

Ymdeithig, a. (ymdaith) Ready for travelling.

Llithedig on hection, ymdeithig on hafeyn.

Gwlad welys forgotten.

Threw out their sails, ready for journeying their rein, the borders of a ravaging country.

Taliesin.

Ymdeithigrwydd, s. m. (ymdeithig) Aptness for travelling.

Ymdeithiocad, s. m. (ymdeithiawg) A preparing one's self for travelling; a becoming wayfaring.

Ymdeithiocâwl, a. (ymdeithiawg) Tending to become wayfaring.

Ymdeithiocân, v. a. (ymdeithiawg) To prepare one's self for travelling; to become wayfaring.

Ymdeithiwr, s. m.—pl. ymdeithiawyr (ymdaith—gwr) A traveller, a sojourner.

Ymdeithwastad, a. (ymdaith—gwastad) Of an even pace.

Ymdeithydd, s. m.—pl. f. ion (ymdaith) A traveller, a sojourner.

Ymdeneniad, s. m. (ymdeneuân) A self-attenuation; a self-rarefying.

Ymdenenâwl, a. (ymdeneuân) Self-rarefying.

Ymdeneuân, v. a. (teneuân) To self-attenuate; to self-rarefy.

Ymderfyniad, s. m. (terfyniad) A mutually limiting; a self-limiting.

Ymderfynu, v. a. (terfynu) To limit mutually; to fix a limit to one's self.

Ymderfysgawl, a. (terfysgawl) Apt to put one's self in a tumult; mutually tumultuous.

Ymderfysgiad, s. m. (terfysgiad) A putting one's self in a tumult; a becoming agitated; a raising a tumult together.

Ymderfysgu, v. a. (terfysgu) To put one's self in a tumult; to raise a tumult together.

Ymderiad, s. m. (teriad) A self-purifying.

Ymdern, v. a. (teru) To self-purify.

Ymdesach, s. m. (tesach) A wanton dalliance. v. a. To give up one's self to wantonness.

Ymdeuad, s. m. (tesiad) A basking one's self in the sun.

Ymdeu, v. a. (tesu) To bask one's self in the sun.
Ymdeuad, s. m. (tewad) A making one's self thick; a mutually thickening.

Ymdeuawl, a. (tewawl) Self-thickening.

Ymdeuau, v. a. (tewau) To self-thicken.

Ymdiraw, v. a. (tiraw) To stretch out one's self; to bask one's self; to enjoy one's self.

*Mac deu-wre ym i'm diru,
Ei goed o'r glyn gyda'r glo.*

There are two warmths for me to bask myself, his wood from the dingle with the coal.

Guto y Glyn.

Ymdirioni, v. a. (tirioni) To make one's self pleasing; to become pleasing; to become mutually pleasing.

*With ym mron, drwy 'mdirioni,
Yn fy mywyd an a mi.*

Close at my breast, by becoming mutually pleasing, through my life one with me.

Edm. Pry.

Ymdirioniad, s. m. (tirioniad) A becoming mutually pleasing.

Ymdlysiad, s. m. (tlysiad) A self-beautifying.

Ymdlysu, v. a. (tlysu) To make one's self smart or pretty; to smug one's self up.

Ymdo, s. m. (to) A self-covering, a self-sheltering.

Ymdoad, s. m. (ymdo) A covering one's self.

Ymdoddawl, a. (ymdawdd) Self-dissolving.

Ymdoddi, v. a. (ymdawdd) To self-dissolve.

Ymdoddiad, s. m. (ymdawdd) To self-dissolve.

Ymdol, v. a. (ymdo) To cover one's self.

Ymdolciad, s. m. (tolciad) A self-butting, or self-punching; a mutually butting.

Ymdolciaw, v. a. (tolciaw) To punch one's self; to butt one another.

Ymdoliad, s. m. (toliad) A becoming more sparing of one's self.

Ymdoliaw, v. a. (toliaw) To be more sparing of one's self; to spare one's self.

*Cenawon Cymru
Cuniad a'i deffry
Cenedl a'i dyfr
Nid ymdolia.*

The wheelp of the Welsh are leaders who will rescue him, a generation that claims him, he will not reserve himself.

D. Bn/rae, i Llywelyn III.

Ymdomi, v. a. (toml) To bemire one's self.

Ymdomiad, s. m. (tomiad) A self-bemiring.

Ymdon, s. f. (ton) A self-breaking in waves.

*Dar a dyfwr ar dir pen gallu
Oer ymdon mor Hafren:
Gwas wr na bai digon hen!*

An oak did grow on the land on the cliff top by the self-spraying of the Severn sea: woe to the man that he should not be old enough.

Robert T. Normand.

Ymdoni, v. a. (ymdon) To break out in waves.

Ymdoniad, s. m. (ymdon) A breaking out in waves.

Ymdorchawl, a. (torchawl) To self-roll or coil.

Ymdorchi, v. a. (torchi) To roll one's self; to self-coil; to become entwined.

Ymdorchiad, s. m. (torchiad) A self-coiling.

Ymdordain, s. m. (tordain) A lolling. v. a. To loll, to stretch one's self along.

Ymdordynawl, a. (tordynawl) Self-gorging.

Ymdordyniad, s. m. (tordyniad) A gorging.

Ymdordynu, v. a. (tordynu) To self gorge.

Ymdorf, s. f. (torf) A thronging together.

Ymdorfawl, a. (ymdorf) Mutually thronging.

Ymdorfiad, s. m. (ymdorf) A jointly thronging.

Ymdorfu, v. a. (ymdorf) To throng mutually.

Ymdorfynygiad, s. m. (torfynygiad) A breaking one's neck; a throwing one's self headlong; a prostrating one's self.

Ymdorfynygiu, v. a. (torfynygiu) To break one's own neck; a throwing one's self headlong; a prostrating one's self.

Ar y byleuau a'r pyrrh ydd ymdorfynygiu i gyfarw rwy.

On the battlements and the gates they had pressed of themselves to make a salutation.

H. Geraint—Mabynog.

Ymdori, v. a. (tôri) To be cutting one's self.

Nid ymdorir, ac nid ymfocir drostyt.

Men shall not cut themselves, and shall not make themselves bald for them.

Ymdoriad, s. m. (tôriad) To break one's self; to self-break; to become bursted; disruption.

Ymdorlwythaw, v. a. (torlwythaw) To self-gorge.

Ymdorlwythant â bwyd a diawl, ac yno perthol a thrasau.

They glut themselves, with victuals and drink, and thereby satisfy their lusts.

R. Fychan, Ym Ddewid.

Ymdorlwythawl, a. (torlwythawl) Self-gorging.

Ymdorlwythiad, s. m. (torlwythiad) A self-gorging.

Ymdrafael, s. f. (trafael) A mutual tolling.

Gwaseth draff gwyar uch Traffwng Eibol, Pan fo ymdrafael dros ac ordwyr.

He caused a vast torrent of gore above Traffwng Eibol, the mutual tolling bold and luminous took place.

E. de M. Rhod.

Ymdrafaeliad, s. m. (ymdrafael) A mutually tolling.

Ymdrafawd, s. f. (trafawd) A mutual stirring; a bustling of one's self.

Ymdrafodawl, a. (ymdrafawd) Mutually stirring or bustling; self-bustling.

Ymdrafodi, v. a. (ymdrafawd) To make a mutual stir; to strive together; to conflict.

*Does' pryd hwn yr addwys!
Drwy fodw yn ymdrafodi.*

Yesterday at this time I was through marches hurrying one another.

Llanid.

Ymdrafodiad, s. m. (ymdrafawd) A making a mutual stir; a striving together, a hurrying of one's self.

Ymdrafodwr, s. m.—pl. ymdrafodwyr (ymdrafawd—gwr) A mutual stirrer; a self-burster.

Ymdraferth, s. f.—pl. t. ion (traferth) A self-bustling.

Ymdrafferthawl, a. (ymdrafferth) Self-bustling.

Ymdrafferthiad, s. m. (ymdrafferth) A busy one's self.

Ymdrafferthu, v. a. (ymdrafferth) To busy one's self; mutually to bustle.

Ymdrafferthus, a. (ymdrafferth) Self-busy.

Ymdrafferthwr, s. m. (ymdrafferth—gwr) One who is full of bustle.

Ymdraffnll, s. m. (traffnll) A self-bustling.

Ymdraffulliad, s. m. (ymdraffall) A mutual bustling; a busy one's self.

Ymdraffullaw, v. a. (ymdraffall) To keep one's self in a bustle; to bustle mutually.

Ymdraffullwr, s. m.—pl. ymdraffullwyr (ymdraffall—gwr) One who bustles greatly.

Ymdraigl, s. f. (traigl) A mutual turn; a returning.

Ymdrallodawl, a. (trallodawl) Mutually afflicting; self-vexing.

Ymdrallodi, v. a. (trallodi) To afflict mutually to afflict one's self.

Ymdrallodiad, s. m. (trallodiad) A mutual affliction; a self-afflicting.

Ymdrallodwr, s. m.—pl. ymdrallodwyr (trallodi—gwr) A self-afflicter.

Ymdramwy, s. m. (tramwy) A mutual resort being using one's self to resort.

Ymdramwyad, s. m. (ymdrumwy) A mutually resorting; a being resorting.

Ymdramwyaw, v. a. (ymdramwy) To resort mutually; to use one's self to resorting.
Ymdraphwyll, s. m. (traphwyll) A mutual impulsion; an opposing of one's self. v. a. To oppose mutually; to oppose one's self.

Dylid wrth seenu y drwg ei droglaw yn llwyr e galon ac arfer dyu, yn ymdraphwyll a dawl.

In rebelling evil it were proper to expel it utterly from the heart and the habit of man, in opposing one's self to the devil.
Berddas.

Ymdras, s. f. (tras) Mutual relationship.
Ymdrasawl, a. (ymdras) Of joint relationship.
Ymdrasiad, s. m. (ymdras) A forming of mutual relationship; a becoming related.
Ymdrasu, v. a. (ymdras) To form mutual relationship; to become related.
Ymdrech, s. m. (trech) A mutual struggle.

Archael Brutus ei gadw i weled cadwrest ac ymdrech rhyngddo ei a Corineus.

Brutus had commanded him to be kept in order to see a combat and mutual striving between him and Corineus. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymdrechawl, a. (ymdrech) Mutually struggling.
Ymdrechfa, s. f. (ymdrech) A place of mutual strife; a contest.

Nhi on i ni ddim i'w weled—yn nghreulondeb yr ymdrechfa.

There is nothing for us to behold in the cruelty of the contest.
C. Edwards, H. y Ffydd.

Ymdrechliad, s. m. (ymdrech) A jointly struggling.
Ymdrechfu, v. a. (ymdrech) To mutually strive.

Corineus gwared am drosu a ymdrechawl, ymdrechliad pan ymdrechliad.

Blood will overflow round the feet of those who strive together, they were mangled ones when they strove together.
Lk. F. Moch.

Ymdrechus, a. (ymdrech) Given to mutual strife.
Ymdrechwr, s. m.—pl. ymdrechwyr (ymdrech—gwr) A mutual striver or struggler.
Ymdrechydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymdrech) A mutual striver or struggler.

Ymdrefn, s. f. (trefn) A self-ordering.
Ymdrefnawl, a. (ymdrefn) Self-ordering.
Ymdrefniad, s. m. (ymdrefn) A self-ordering.
Ymdrefnu, v. a. (ymdrefn) To put one's self in order.

Ymdrefnwr, s. m. (ymdrefn—gwr) One who puts himself in order.

Ymdreidiad, s. m. (treidiad) An exercising one's self in walking; perambulation.

Ymdreidiaw, v. a. (treidiaw) To exercise one's self in walking.

Wedi mynych ymdreidiaw o'r niferodd o'r estwys pwy gilydd, i wneud amrygl gydyddolliethas—dawed i'r llys a orngynul.

After frequently exercising themselves in walking of the companies from one church to another, to hear various musical compositions, they came to the court.
Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymdreidiawl, a. (treidiawl) Being exercising one's self in walking; perambulatory.

Ymdreiddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (treiddiad) A thrusting one's self through.

Ymdreiddiaw, v. a. (treiddiaw) To self-penetrate.

Ymdreiddiawl, a. (treiddiawl) Mutually penetrating; self-thrusting.

Ymdreigliaw, v. a. (traigl) To roll one's self.

Ymdreiglfa, s. f. (treiglfa) A place for rolling one's self in.

Ymdreigliad, s. m. (treigliad) A self-rolling.

Ymdrenliad, s. m. (trenliad) A self-consuming.

Ymdrenliaw, v. a. (trenliaw) To self-consume.

Ymdrin, s. m. (trin) Mutual striving; contention; variance; the act of busying one's self. v. a. To strive mutually; to busy one's self.

VOL. II.

Ymdriniad, s. m. (ymdrin) A mutually striving; a busying one's self.

Ymdriniath, s. m. (ymdrin) Mutual strife; a self-busying.

Ymdro, s. m. (tro) A self-turning; self-course.

Ys yml add lwyerudd, cas agro, fflyddiawg, fflyddiawg ei ymdro.

To me belongs a chief of pleasing countenance, bating melancholy, faithful, fortunate in his career.
Phyllip Brydydd, i Rys Gryg.

Ymdrôad, s. m. (ymdro) A turning one's self about; a delaying.

Ymdrôawl, a. (ymdro) Self-turning about.

Ymdroch, s. m. (troch) A self-immersion.

Ymdrochawl, a. (ymdroch) Self-immersing.

Ymdrochi, v. a. (ymdroch) To bathe one's self; to plunge one's self in; to wallow.

Ymdrochiad, s. m. (ymdroch) A bathing one's self.

Ymdroi, v. a. (ymdro) To turn one's self; to delay; to loiter.

Ymdrws, s. m. (trws) A self-attiring.

Ymdrwiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymdrws) A self-arraying; a dressing one's self.

Ymdrwiadu, v. a. (ymdrwiad) To self-trim.

Ymdrwiawl, v. a. (ymdrws) To self-trim.

Deuparth pryd ymdrwiawl.

Two thirds of appearance is to dress one's self. Adage.

Ymdrwiawl, a. (ymdrws) Self-attiring.

Ymdrwiwr, s. m.—pl. ymdrwiwyr (ymdrws—gwr) A self-arrayer.

Ymdrybaeddawl, a. (trybaeddawl) Self-wallowing; mutually wallowing.

Ymdrybaeddiad, s. m. (trybaeddiad) A self-wallowing; mutually wallowing.

Ymdrybaeddu, v. a. (trybaeddu) To wallow, or to welter; to wallow mutually.

Ymdryboli, v. a. (tryboli) To self-wallow; to wallow mutually.

Ymdryboliad, s. m. (tryboliad) A wallowing one's self; a mutually wallowing.

Ymdrychawl, a. (trychawl) Mutually cutting.

Ymdrychiad, s. m. (trychiad) A mutually cutting.

Ymdrychu, v. a. (trychu) To cut mutually.

Moch daw rhwng Saxson rhadant ymdrychu.

Speedily will come between Saxons the onset of mutual wounding.
Talesin.

Ymdryfoliad, s. m. (tryfoliad) Self-gorging.

Ymdryfoliaw, v. a. (tryfoliaw) To self-gorge.

Ymdryfoliwr, s. m.—pl. ymdryfoliwr (tryfoliwr) One who gorges himself.

Ymdrymâd, s. m. (trymâd) A rendering one's self heavy; a becoming heavy.

Ymdrymâwl, a. (trymâwl) Tending to grow or become heavy.

Ymdrymân, v. a. (trymân) To become heavy.

Wae pechodau dyulon yn ymgyrnyddu, ac yn ymdrymân, pan ydynt yn cogeulmaw guodeddguethau rhybeddau Duw.

The sins of men are increasing, and becoming heavy, when they are neglecting the public institutions of God.
Ier. Owein.

Ymdrythylliad, s. m. (trythylliad) A mutually enjoying; a self-enjoying.

Ymdrythyllu, v. a. (trythyllu) To enjoy mutually; to enjoy one's self.

Ymdrythyllwch, s. m. (trythyllwch) Mutual enjoyment; self-enjoyment.

Ymdrythyllwr, s. m.—pl. ymdrythyllwyr (trythyllwr) A self-enjoyer.

Ymdudd, s. m. (tudd) A self-envelopement.

Ymduddaw, v. a. (ymdudd) To envelop mutually; to envelop one's self, to self-envelop.

Ymduddawl, a. (ymdudd) Self-enveloping.

Ymduddiad, s. m. (ymdudd) A self-enveloping.
 Ymdueddawl, a. (tueddawl) Self-inclining; apt to incline mutually.
 Ymduddiad, s. m. (tueddiad) A self-inclining; mutual inclination.
 Ymdueddoli, v. a. (ymdueddawl) To incline one's self; to incline mutually.
 Ymdueddu, v. a. (tueddu) To make one's self partial; to become partial, to incline one's self; to incline mutually.
 Ymdueddwr, s. m.—pl. ymdueddwyr (tueddwr) One who inclines himself.
 Ymdum, s. m.—pl. t. an (tum) A mutual bend; a self-bending.
 Ymdumiad, s. m. (ymdum) A mutually bending; a bending one's self.
 Ymdumiaw, v. a. (ymdum) To bend mutually; to bend or to mould one's self.
 Ymdumiawl, a. (ymdum) Mutually bending in-to shape; self-bending.
 Ymdwng, s. m. (twng) Mutual swearing.
 Ymdwr, s. m. (twr) A self-heaping.
 Ymdwyll, s. m. (twyll) Mutual deceit; self-deception.
 Ymdwyllaw, v. a. (ymdwyl) To deceive mutually; to deceive one's self.
 Ymdwylliad, s. m. (ymdwyl) A mutually deceiving; self-deception.
 Ymdwymaw, v. a. (twymaw) To warm one's self.
 Ymdwymiad, s. m. (twymiad) A self-warming.
 Ymdwymnaw, v. a. (twymnaw) To self-warm.
 Ymdwymniad, s. m. (twymniad) A warming of one's self.
 Ymdwysgaw, v. a. (twysgaw) To limit mutually; to limit one's self.
 Ymdwysgawl, a. (twysgawl) Mutually limiting; self-limiting.
 Ymdwysgiad, s. m. (twysgiad) A mutually determining or limiting; a self-limiting.
 Ymdwyth, s. m. (twyth) A mutual spring, aptness, or pliancy; a self-springing.
 Ymdwythaw, v. a. (ymdwyth) To spring mutually; to spring one's self.
 Ymdwythiad, s. m. (ymdwyth) A springing mutually; a self-springing.
 Ymdŷad, s. m. (tŷad) A housing one's self.
 Ymdŷaw, v. a. (tŷaw) To house one's self.
 Ymdyn, s. m. (tyn) A mutual pull; contention.
 Ymdynawl, a. (ymdyn) Mutually pulling.
 Ymdyniad, s. m. (ymdyn) A mutually pulling; a contending, a striving mutually.
 Ymdynu, v. a. (ymdyn) To pull or drag one another; to strive together, to contend. 'Ymdynu ar draws tanau,' to pull one another across fires.
 Ymdynwr, s. m.—pl. ymdynwyr (ymdyn—gwr) One who pulls mutually; a contender.
 Ymdyngawl, a. (ymdwng) Mutually swearing one's self.
 Ymdynged, s. f. (ymdwng) A state of being mutually devoted; self-devotion.
 Ymdyngedawl, a. (ymdynged) Mutually adjuring, self-devoting.
 Ymdyngediad, s. m. (ymdynged) A mutually adjuring; a self-devoting.
 Ymdyngedu, v. a. (ymdynged) To adjure mutually; to pledge one's self.
 Ymdyngiad, s. m. (ymdwng) A mutually swearing; a swearing one's self.
 Ymdyngu, v. a. (ymdwng) To swear mutually; to plight one's troth.

Pran a gant o frwg gwyrdd
 Yn ngŷfyr holl adar coeddydd;
 Ddech a ymdwng a Dwydd.

A crow sang from the top of the tree, in the hearing of all the birds of the woods: the wine swells Adams with the berry.
 (Garry, Idia, 2.)

Ymdyrawl, a. (ymdwr) Mutually thronging.
 Ymdyriad, s. m. (ymdwr) A jointly thronging.
 Ymdyrn, v. a. (ymdwr) To throng together.
 Ymdystiaw, v. a. (tystiaw) To witness mutually; to self-testify.
 Ymdystiawl, a. (tystiawl) Mutually testifying, self-witnessing.
 Ymdywylliad, s. m. (tywylliad) A mutually darkening; a self-obscuring.
 Ymdywylln, v. a. (tywylln) To darken mutually; to self-obscure.
 Ymdywyn, s. m. (tywyn) A mutual shining; a self-shining.
 Ymdywynawl, a. (ymdywyn) Mutually shining; self-shining.
 Ymdywyniad, s. m. (tywyniad) A mutually shining; a self-shining; a becoming resplendent.
 Ymdywynu, v. a. (tywynu) To shine mutually; to become resplendent.
 Ymdywynyg, s. m. (tywynyg) A self-shining.
 Ymdywynygawl, a. (tywynyg) Self-shining.
 Ymdywynygiad, s. m. (ymdywynyg) A casting; mutual splendour; a becoming resplendent.
 Ymdywynygu, v. a. (ymdywynyg) To cast a mutual splendour; to cause one's self to shine; to become splendid.

Rhod curaid a ymdywynygai ymgylich yr haol.

A golden circle drew me resplendent about the sun.

(Eneid, 10.)

Ymddadchwyddaw, v. a. (dadchwyddaw) To divest one's self of swelling.
 Ymddadchwyddiad, s. m. (ddechwyddiad) A divesting one's self of swelling.
 Ymddadebrawl, a. (dadebrawl) Self-resuscitating.
 Ymddadebriad, s. (dadebriad) Self-resuscitating.
 Ymddadebra, v. a. (dadebru) To self-resuscitate.
 Ymddadffinaw, v. a. (dadffinaw) To divest one's self of fatigue.
 Ymddadffiniad, s. m. (dadffiniad) A divesting one's self of fatigue.
 Ymddadgrymiad, s. m. (dadgrymiad) A unbending or raising one's self.
 Ymddadgrymu, v. a. (dadgrymu) To unbend one's self from a bending posture.
 Ymddadguddiad, s. m. (dadguddiad) A self-revealing.
 Ymddadguddiaw, v. (dadguddiaw) To self-reveal.
 Ymddadguddiawl, a. (dadguddiawl) Self-revealing.
 Ymddadl, s. f. (dadl) Mutual dispute.
 Ymddadlawl, a. (ymddadl) Controversial.
 Ymddadleithiad, s. m. (dadleithiad) A mutually dissolving; a self-dissolving.
 Ymddadleithiaw, v. a. (dadleithiaw) To dissolve mutually; to self-dissolve.
 Ymddadleithiawl, a. (dadleithiawl) Mutually dissolving; self-dissolving.
 Ymddadleu, v. a. (ymddadl) To contend in word.
 Ymddadlenad, s. m. (ymddadleu) Mutual disposition; jointly disputing.
 Ymddadleuaw, v. a. (ymddadleu) To dispute mutually.
 Ymddadlewychawl, a. (dadlewychawl) Tending mutually to reflect light; self-refracting.
 Ymddadlewychiad, s. m. (dadlewychiad) A mutually reflecting light; a self-refraction.
 Ymddadlewychu, v. a. (dadlewychu) To reflect light mutually; to self-refract.

Ymddaliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymddadi) A mutually arguing; controversy, contention.

Ymddalin, v. a. (ymddadi) To dispute mutually; to use one's self in dispute.

Ymddaliwr, s. m.—pl. ymddaliwyr (ymddadl—gwr) A mutual disputer.

Ymddaliwythaw, v. a. (dadiwythaw) To divest one's self of a load.

Ymddaliwythawl, a. (dadiwythawl) Tending to disburden one's self.

Ymddaliwythiad, s. m. (dadiwythiad) A disburdening one's self.

Ymddaliydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymddadi) A disputant.

Ymddadwreiddiad, s. m. (dadwreiddiad) A self-eradicating.

Ymddadwreiddiaw, v. a. (dadwreiddiaw) To self-eradicate; to be plucked up by the root.

Pe byddai rannach fyddai gelych ddywydyd wrth y fasnau hon, Ymddadwreiddiad.

If ye had faith, ye might say unto this syzygious tree, Be thou plucked up by the root. Luke 17. 6.

Ymddadwreiddiawl, a. (dadwreiddiawl) Tending to be self-eradicated.

Ymddalaiariad, s. m. (daiariad) A self-burying.

Ymddalaiarn, v. a. (daiarn) To burrow one's self.

Ymddal, s. m. (dal) The act of mutual holding; perseverance. v. a. To persevere.

Tri arddangwys ddaeth: ymddal ar dwyll, ymddal ar awen, ac ymddal ar welliediged.

The three indications of wisdom: a keeping after reason, a keeping after genius, and keeping after improvement.

Cyngor ab Gwynn.

Ymddaliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymddal) A mutually holding; a self-holding; that is holden; an opinion.

Yr Arglwydd a ddrathai byny, i fueddu y'r llawr felch ymddaliad y Phariseu.

The Lord declared that, to hunt to the ground the proud opinion of the Pharisee. Marchant Croydred.

Ymddaliwr, s. m.—pl. ymddaliwyr (ymddal—gwr) One who mutually holds; one who holds himself.

Ymddalliad, s. m. (dalliad) A mutually blinding; a self-blinding.

Ymddallu, v. a. (dallu) To blind mutually; to blind one's self.

Mae gormod yn ymddallu wrth y tair tywyngus eby.

Too many do blind themselves with the three ymngwys below. Ellis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ymddallus, a. (dallus) Being self-blinding.

Ymddallwr, s. m.—pl. ymddallwyr (dallwr) One who blinds himself.

Ymddanneddiad, s. m. (danneddiad) A mutually shewing the teeth, mutually snarling.

Ymddanneddu, v. a. (danneddu) To snarl mutually; to employ one's self in snarling.

Gwelwn rai yn ymddallu ac yn ymddanneddu am eu brasol.

We could perceive some thrusting themselves forward and mutually snarling for their rank. Ellis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ymddanneddwr, s. m.—pl. ymddanneddwyr (danneddwr) A snarler.

Ymddantia, s. m. (dantiad) A shewing one's teeth

Ymddantu, v. a. (dantu) To shew one's teeth.

Megys corgi yn ymddantu a mureh rhyngwng.

Like a cur dog snarling at an snarling deed. Theo. Evans.

Ymddangaws, s. m. (dangaws) A mutual shew; a shewing of one's self. v. a. To appear mutually; to shew one's self.

Ymddangosawl, a. (ymddangaws) Mutually appearing; self-exposing.

Ymddangosgar, a. (ymddangaws) Ostentatious.

Ymddangosgarwch, s. m. (ymddangosgar) Ostentatiousness.

Ymddangosiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymddangaws) A self-shewing, an appearing; an appearance.

Ymddangosiadawl, a. (ymddangosiad) Relating to self-shewing.

Ymddangosiadus, a. (ymddangosiad) Ostentatious

Ymddarostwng, s. m. (darostwng) Self-debasement. v. a. To debase one's self.

Ymddarostyngawl, a. (darostwng) Self-debasing.

Ymddarostyngiad, s. m. (darostwng) A lowering one's self, a humbling one's self; a self-debasing, condescension.

Ymddarostyngwr, s. m.—pl. ymddarostyngwyr (ymddarostwng—gwr) A self-debaser.

Ymddarpar, s. m. (darpar) Self-preparation.

Ymddarpariad, s. m. (darpar) A self-preparing.

Ymddarparu, v. a. (darpar) To self-prepare.

Ymddarparwr, s. m.—pl. ymddarparwyr (darpar—gwr) A self-preparer.

Ymddarwedd, s. f. (darwedd) A self-yielding.

Ynaglych 1111, yr oedd Owain ab Cadwgan yn drygu yn ddym-arwedd o'i anglych.

About the year 1111, Owain son of Cadwgan was taking with-out remorse all around him. Cerdding o Larn Cwsg.

Ymddarweddawl, a. (darwedd) Self-conforming; of a pliant nature; mutually complying.

Ymddarweddliad, s. m. (darwedd) A self-conforming; a mutually complying.

Ymddarwedu, v. a. (darwedd) To conform one's self; to comply mutually.

Ymddattawd, s. m. (dattawd) A mutual loosening; a loosening of one's self.

Clywem iais yn peri i minnan, wrth fy enw, ymddattawd: ar y gair, mi ym clywem yn dechreu lodd, mi oesog eidda yn ogwes yr haul.

I could hear a voice commanding me also, by my name, to loosen myself: at the word, I could feel myself beginning to melt, like a snowball in the heat of the sun. Ellis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ymddattodawl, a. (ymddattawd) Self-loosening.

Ymddattodi, v. a. (ymddattawd) To loosen mutually; to loosen one's self.

Ymddattodiad, s. m. (ymddattawd) A mutually loosening; a loosening one's self.

Ymddedfodwr, s. m.—pl. ymddedfodwyr (defodwr)

One who adheres to a custom.

Ymddeffraw, s. m. (deffraw) A self-waking.

v. a. 'To wake one's self.

Ymddeffrôad, s. m. (ymddeffraw) A self-waking.

Ymddeffrôawl, a. (ymddeffraw) Self-waking.

Ymddeffrôdi, v. a. (ymddeffraw) Self-waking.

Ymddelintiad, s. m. (delintiad) A mutually snarling

Ymddelintaw, v. a. (delintaw) To snarl mutually.

Ymddenawl, a. (denawl) Mutually alluring; self-alluring.

Ymddeniad, s. m. (deniad) A mutually alluring; a self-alluring.

Ymddenu, v. a. (denn) To allure mutually; to allure one's self.

Ymddëodi, v. a. (deawd) To divest one's self.

Am Fadawg banawg mynw harloni,

Medi gylw gleudraws mewn myngi;

Am Owain Prydain, Pryderi hali,

I'nnial yaddial ymddendi.

For Madawg, the distinguished centre of liberality, the bravely-froward leader whose store was sweet benignity; for Owain of Britain, equal to Pryderi, the casket of self-vengeance in mutually Ymddëodiad, s. m. (ymddëodi) A divesting one's self of garments.

Ymddëol, s. m. (dëol) Mutual separation; self-separation; self-banishment.

Cynddelu.

4 K 2

Ymddēoli, v. a. (ymddēol) To separate mutually; to separate one's self; to banish one's self.
Ymddēoliad, s. m. (ymddēol) A mutually separating; a separating one's self.
Ymddēor, s. m. (dēor) The state of being hatched. v. a. To be hatched.

Cydwylbod yw y nyth lle ydd ymddēor pob daloni.

Conscience is the nest where every good is hatched. Adage.

Ymddēorawl, a. (ymddēor) Being employed in hatching or brooding.
Ymddēori, v. a. (ymddēor) To be employed in hatching.
Ymddēoriad, s. m. (ymddēor) A being in the act of hatching.
Ymddērawl, a. (dērawl) Mutually taunting.
Ymdderbyn, s. m. (derbyn) Mutual reception. v. a. To receive mutually; to employ one's self in receiving.
Ymdderbyniad, s. m. (ymdderbyn) A mutually receiving; a being receiving.
Ymdderbyniaw, v. a. (ymdderbyn) To receive mutually; to be receiving.
Ymdderbyniawl, a. (ymdderbyn) Mutually receiving; being receiving.
Ymdderiad, s. m. (dēriad) A mutually taunting.
Ymddern, v. a. (dērn) To taunt mutually.
Ymddial, s. m. (dial) A revenging one's self. v. a. To revenge one's self; to be revenged.
Ysbyrd ymddial, a. vindictive spirit.

*Eu beidiau n'a cudd gyddwal
 Ni feniad heb ymddial:
 Gwrien, Morien, a Morin.*

*They whose graves are obscured by furze, they were not slain without avenging themselves: Gwrien, Morien, and Morin.
 E. Breddau Milwyr.*

Ymddialgar, a. (ymddial) Revengeful, vindictive Ymddialiad, s. m. (ymddial) A self-avenging.
Ymddialu, v. a. (ymddial) To avenge one's self.
Ymddialydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymddial) A self-avenger.
Ymddiang, s. m. (diang) Self-escape. v. a. To extricate one's self.

Pan adnabu Orsudd ab Cynan na allai ymddiang ecfely, ydd arth yn ygraft y canonwyr yn Aberdaron, ac yn hoco a daa rwyf ydd ayn yn Iwerddon.

*When Gruffudd son of Cynan perceived that he could not extricate himself so, he procured the ferry of the canons in Aberdaron, and in that, by the use of the oar, they went to Ireland.
 Buch. Gr. ab Cynan.*

Ymddiangawl, a. (ymddiang) Self-extricating.
Ymddiangiad, s. m. (ymddiang) A self-escaping.
Ymddiarfiad, s. m. (diarfiad) A self-disarming.
Ymddiarfogi, v. a. (diarfogi) To self-disarm.
Ymddiarfogiad, s. m. (diarfogi) A self-disarming.
Ymddiarfu, v. a. (diarfu) To disarm one's self.
Ymddiargeliad, s. m. (diargel) A divesting one's self of seclusion, a revealing one's self.
Ymddiargelu, v. a. (diargeln) To divest one's self of seclusion; to manifest one's self.
Ymddiariadiad, s. m. (diariadiad) A divesting one's self of wantonness.
Ymddiarialu, v. a. (diarialu) To divest one's self of wantonness.
Ymddiaruthraw, v. a. (diaruthraw) To divest one's self of astonishment.
Ymddiaruthriad, s. m. (diaruthriad) A divesting one's self of astonishment.
Ymddiasgeniad, s. m. (diasgeniad) A divesting one's self of blemish; a rendering one's self unpolluted.
Ymddiasgennu, v. a. (diasgennu) To divest one's self of blemish or harm.

Ymddiawchiad, s. m. (diawchiad) A divesting one's self of appetency or desire.
Ymddiawchu, v. a. (diawchu) To divest one's self of appetency or eagerness.
Ymddibarchiad, s. m. (dibarchiad) A divesting one's self of respect.
Ymddibarchu, v. a. (dibarchu) To divest one's self of respect or reverence.
Ymddibetrusaw, v. a. (dibetrusaw) To divest one's self of hesitation; to cease hesitating.
Ymddibetrusiad, s. m. (dibetrusiad) A divesting one's self of hesitation.
Ymddiblau, v. a. (diblau) To dangle one's self.
Ymddibleidiad, s. m. (dibleidiad) A divesting one's self of a party.
Ymddibleidiaw, v. a. (dibleidiaw) To divest one's self of a party; to appeal from a decision.

Tri rhyw ymddibleidiaw y sydd herwydd cyntab: cynt w' i wrth y plas i'r orsedd, all yw yn y modd, trydydd yw yn ddelw.

There are three ways of appealing from a decision: the first from the hall to the high court, the second is with respect to form, the third is in the matter. Welsh Law.

Ymddibleidiawl, a. (dibleidiawl) Respecting to being divested of a party.
Ymddibleidiwr, s. m.—pl. ymddibleidiwyr (dibleidiwr) One who recedes from a party.
Ymddiblethiad, s. m. (diblethiad) A divesting one's self of plaits or wreathes.
Ymddiblethu, v. a. (diblethu) To self-divest of plaits; to become unwreathed.
Ymddibliad, s. m. (dibliad) A self-dagging.
Ymddiblisgaw, v. a. (diblisgaw) To become divested of shell.
Ymddiblisiad, s. m. (diblisiad) A becoming divested of shell.
Ymddiboeni, v. a. (diboeni) To divest one's self of pain or labour.
Ymddiboeniad, s. m. (diboeniad) A divesting one's self of pain or labour.
Ymddiborthi, v. a. (diborthi) To divest one's self of support.
Ymddiborthiad, s. m. (diborthiad) A divesting one's self of support.
Ymddibwyllaw, v. a. (dibwyllaw) To divest one's self of impulse or of reason.
Ymddibwylliad, s. m. (dibwylliad) A divesting one's self of reason or wit.
Ymddibwysaw, v. a. (dibwysaw) To divest one's self of weight.
Ymddibwysiad, s. m. (dibwysiad) A divesting one's self of weight.
Ymddibynawl, a. (dibynawl) Self-suspending, self-impending; dependent.
Ymddibyniad, s. m. (dibyniad) A suspending one's self; a becoming dependent.
Ymddibynnu, v. a. (dibynnu) To suspend one's self; to render one's self dependent.
Ymddichelliad, s. m. (dichelliad) A making one's self cunning.
Ymddichellu, v. a. (dichellu) To furnish one's self with cunning or wiles.

Dichell ar bob dichell ymddichellu ddelw.

An art above every art is to make one's self wiled in process.

Ymddichoni, v. a. (dichoni) To become able.
Ymddichoniad, s. m. (dichoniad) A rendering one's self able or capable.
Ymddidoli, v. a. (didoli) To separate one's self; to separate mutually.
Ymddidoliad, s. m. (didoliad) A separating one's self; a mutually separating.

Ymddidreiat, s. m. (didreiat) A divesting one's self of bustle.

Ymddidreus, v. a. (didreus) To divest one's self of bustle or hurry.

Ymddidwyllaw, v. a. (didwyllaw) To undeceive one's self; mutually to undeceive.

Ymddidwylliad, s. m. (didwylliad) An undeceiving of one's self.

Ymddidwyn, s. m. (diddwyn) A self-weaning. v. To wean one's self.

Shall ymddidwyn a'r byd os oir I'r nef.

It is necessary to wean one's self from the world, if one is to go to heaven.

Ymddidrysiaid, s. m. (diddrysiaid) A disentangling one's self.

Ymddidrysus, v. a. (diddrysus) To disentangle one's self.

Ymddidithraw, v. a. (dithraw) To render one's self unexceptionable.

Ymddidithriad, s. m. (dithriad) A rendering one's self unexceptionable.

Ymddienyddiad, s. m. (dienyddiad) A making away with one's self.

Ymddienyddu, v. a. (dienyddu) To make away with one's self.

Ni ddylai argywydd oherdw gwr a ymddienyddu.

The lord is not entitled to the harlot of a man who puts on red to his own conscience.

Ymddifa, v. a. (difa) To end one's self.

Ymddifad, s. m. (ymddifa) A self-ending.

Ymddifad, a. (difad) Being destitute of good or comfort; fatherless or motherless. Plant ymddifad, orphan children.

Is wddi wyf i'n ymddifad a dyw wddi i'm a'i dad!

I am in the same manner void of comfort as a person after losing his father and mother!

Ymddifadiad, s. m. (ymddifad) A being made destitute; a becoming destitute.

Ymddifadu, v. a. (ymddifad) To bereave of comfort; to become destitute.

Ymddifanniad, s. m. (difanniad) A making one's self to vanish away.

Ymddifannu, v. a. (difannu) To make one's self to vanish.

Ymddifedi, s. m. (ymddifad) A state void of solace; the being destitute; deprivation; an orphan state.

Nwy ym cymhellir i wylw nos! ddywedyd aruth ac ymadreddion uchel; os achareu yw hwy treuedd yw gwyf i y ymddifedi a'r gwander a ddawvoints iai.

I am more compelled to weep than to speak an oracle and high expressions; the reason of which is the wretched state and the weakness that have happened to us.

Ymddifeiad, s. m. (difeiad) Self-exculpation.

Ymddifeiaw, v. a. (difeiaw) To self-exculpate.

Ymddifeichiad, s. m. (difeichiad) A clearing one's self from bail.

Ymddifeichiaw, v. a. (difeichiaw) To clear one's self from bail.

Ymddifaniad, s. m. (difanniad) A making one's self to vanish.

Ymddifannu, v. a. (difannu) To cause one's self to vanish.

Ymddifinaw, v. a. (difinaw) To divest one's self of fatigue; to refresh one's self.

Ymddifiniad, s. m. (difiniad) A diverting one's self of fatigue; a refreshing one's self.

Ymddifregawl, a. (difregawl) Tending to be sad.

Ymddifregiad, s. m. (difregiad) A rendering one's self serious.

Ymddifregu, v. a. (difregu) To render one's self void of frailty; to become serious. Ymddi- fragu a Ddu, to address one's self seriously to God.

Ymddifreiniad, s. m. (difreiniad) A divesting one's self of privilege or right.

Ymddifreinniaid, v. a. (difreinniaid) To divest one's self of privilege or right.

Ymddifrodi, v. a. (difrodi) To rob one's self.

Ymddifrodiad, s. m. (difrodiad) A self robbing.

Ymddifwynaw, v. a. (difwynaw) To divest one's self of enjoyment.

Ymddifwyniad, s. m. (difwyniad) A divesting one's self of enjoyment.

Ymddifyddinaw, v. a. (difyddinaw) To become disbanded as an army.

Ymddifyddiniad, s. m. (difyddiniad) A becoming disbanded as an army.

Ymddifyrawl, a. (difyrwl) Self-diverting.

Ymddifyriad, s. m. (difyrriad) A diverting one's self; a mutually diverting.

Ymddifyru, v. a. (difyrn) To divert one's self; to divert one another.

Ymddifawdd, s. m. (difawdd) A self-extinguishing. v. a. To self-extinguish.

Ymddiffer, s. m. (differ) Self-protection; mutual defence or protection.

Ymddifferawl, a. (ymddiffer) Self-protecting.

Ymddifferiad, s. m. (ymddiffer) A self-protecting; mutual protection.

Ymddifferu, v. a. (ymddiffer) To defend one's self; to protect mutually.

*Aynt hyd yn Môn, ac wyat a Gwffudd; ac yno ydd ymddifferu
They went as far as Môn, then and Gwffudd; and there they defended themselves.*

Ymddifferwr, s. m.—pl. ymddifferwyr (ymddiffer—gwr) A self-defender.

Ymddiffoddawl, a. (ymddiffawdd) Self-extinguishing.

Ymddiffoddi, v. a. (ymddiffawdd) To self-extinguish.

Ymddiffoddiaid, s. m. (ymddiffawdd) A self-extinguishing.

Ymddiffwys, s. m. (diffwys) The state of being imminent or impending; eventual.

Y galon—

*Has a hair could render,
Hwyl ymddiffwys, gwynu gwedd.*

The heart: it will cause the seat of imagination, reveal the name, to harbour pride.

Ymddiffwysaw, v. a. (ymddiffwys) To render one's self impending.

Ymddiffwysawl, a. (ymddiffwys) Self-impending.

Ymddiffwysiad, s. m. (ymddiffwys) A rendering one's self impending.

Ymddiffyn, s. m. (diffyn) Self-defence; mutual defence. v. a. To defend one's self.

Ymddiffynadwy, a. (ymddiffyn) Defensible.

Ymddiffynawl, a. (ymddiffyn) Self-protecting.

Ymddiffynedig, a. (ymddiffyn) Self-protected.

Ymddiffynfa, s. f.—pl. ymddiffynfeydd (ymddiffyn) A place of defence.

Ymddiffyniad, s. m. (ymddiffyn) A defending.

Ymddiffyniaeth, s. (ymddiffyn) System of defence.

Ymddiffynu, v. a. (ymddiffyn) To self-defend.

Ymddiffynus, a. (ymddiffyn) Self-defending.

Ymddiffynwr, s. m.—pl. ymddiffynwyr (ymddiffyn—gwr) A defender, a protector.

Ymddiffynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymddiffyn) A defender.

Ymddigaloni, v. a. (digaloni) To dishearten one's self; to become disheartened.

Ymddigaloniad, s. m. (digaloniad) A disheartening one's self.

Ymddigariad, s. m. (digariad) A divesting one's self of love.
Ymddigarn, v. a. (digarn) To divest one's self of love or affection.
Ymddigasâad, s. m. (digasâad) A divesting one's self of hatred or enmity.
Ymddigasâu, v. a. (digasâu) To divest one's self of hatred or enmity.
Ymddigeliad, s. m. (digeliad) A self-revealing.
Ymddigelu, v. a. (digelu) To reveal one's self.
Ymddigeniad, s. m. (digeniad) A self-exfoliation.
Ymddigennu, v. a. (digennu) To self-exfoliate.
Ymddigiad, s. m. (digiad) A making one's self angry; a becoming angry.
Ymddigiaw, v. a. (digiaw) To anger one's self.
Ymddigiawl, a. (digiawl) Tending to anger one's self; becoming angry.
Ymddigonad, s. m. (digonad) A self-sufficing.
Ymddigoni, v. a. (digoni) To self-suffice.
Ymddigrifâad, s. m. (digrifâad) A delighting one's self; a self-amusing.
Ymddigrifau, v. a. (digrifau) To amuse one's self; to delight one's self.
Ymddigrifaw, v. a. (digrifaw) To amuse one's self, to delight one's self; to make one's self happy.

Ymddigrifau yn dy gyfrith.

I have delighted in thy law.

Psalms 119. 70.

Ymddigrifawl, a. (digrifawl) Tending to self-delight; becoming delighted.
Ymddigrifiad, s. m. (digrifiad) A self-delighting; a becoming delighted.
Ymddigrifwch, s. m. (digrifwch) Self-delight.
Ymddiguddiad, s. m. (diguddiad) A rendering one's self unhidden.
Ymddiguddiaw, v. a. (diguddiaw) To unhide one's self; to become unhidden.
Ymddigyfeilliad, s. m. (digyfeilliad) A divesting one's self of friendship.
Ymddigyfeillaw, v. a. (digyfeillaw) To deprive one's self of friendship.
Ymddigyfnerthiad, s. m. (digyfnerthiad) A divesting one's self of assistance.
Ymddigyfnerthu, v. a. (digyfnerthu) To divest one's self of assistance.
Ymddigyfoethi, v. a. (digyfoethi) To divest one's self of wealth or power.
Ymddigyfoethiad, s. m. (digyfoethiad) A divesting one's self of wealth.
Ymddigyfraniad, s. m. (digyfraniad) A divesting one's self of participation.
Ymddigyfranu, v. a. (digyfranu) To divest one's self of participation.
Ymddigyfrwyddaw, v. a. (digyfrwyddaw) To render one's self unpropitious.
Ymddigyfrwyddiad, s. m. (digyfrwyddiad) A rendering one's self unpropitious.
Ymddigyfyngiad, s. m. (digyfyngiad) A rendering one's self unstraitened.
Ymddigyfyngu, v. a. (digyfyngu) To render one's self unstraitened.
Ymddigyffrôad, s. m. (digyffrôad) A divesting one's self of agitation.
Ymddigyffrôi, v. a. (digyffrôi) To divest one's self of agitation or excitement.
Ymddigymhorthi, v. a. (digymhorthi) To deprive one's self of assistance.
Ymddigymhorthiad, s. m. (digymhorthiad) A depriving one's self of assistance.
Ymddigynheniad, s. m. (digynheniad) A divesting one's self of contention.

Ymddigynhennu, v. a. (digynhennu) To divest one's self of contention.
Ymddigysylltiad, s. m. (digysylltiad) A rendering one's self unconnected.
Ymddigysylltu, v. a. (digysylltu) To disconnect one's self.
Ymddigywilyddiad, s. m. (digywilyddiad) A divesting one's self of shame.
Ymddigywilyddiaw, v. a. (digywilyddiaw) To divest one's self of shame.
Ymddihafarchiad, s. m. (dihafarchiad) A divesting one's self of timidity or dread.
Ymddihafarchu, v. a. (dihafarchu) To divest one's self of timidity or fear.
Ymddihalogi, v. a. (dihalogi) To divest one's self of pollution.
Ymddihalogiad, s. m. (dihalogiad) A divesting one's self of pollution.
Ymddihatriad, s. m. (dihatriad) A divesting one's self of covering or dress.
Ymddihatru, v. a. (dihatru) To divest one's self of covering or dress.
Ymddiheiniad, s. m. (diheniad) A divesting one's self of infection.
Ymddiheiniaw, v. a. (diheniaw) To divest one's self of infection.

A'm bo gan Dduw—

God or I am, am ddawn ymddiheinio

Byd—

Please God, may I be on the right, for grace drawing me of the infection of the world.
Ymddiheurad, s. m. (diheturad) Self-vindication.
Ymddiheuraw, v. a. (diheturaw) To self-avow to vindicate one's self.
Ymddihoeni, v. a. (dihoeni) To self-enfeeble; to divest one's self of spirit; to pine one's self.
Ymddihoeniad, s. m. (dihoeniad) A divesting one's self of vivacity or spirits.
Ymddihuddaw, v. a. (dihuddaw) To self-uncover.
Ymddihuddiad, s. m. (dihuddiad) An uncovering of one's self; a becoming uncovered.
Ymddihunaw, v. a. (dihunaw) To self-wake.
Ymddihuniad, s. m. (dihuniad) A self-waking.
Ymddihwylaw, v. a. (dihwylaw) To disarray one's self; to disorder one's self.
Ymddihwylad, s. m. (dihwylad) A disarranging of one's self; a self-disordering.
Ymddilesiad, s. m. (dilesiad) A depriving one's self of benefit.
Ymddilesu, v. a. (dilesu) To deprive one's self of benefit or advantage.
Ymddilidiad, s. m. (dilidiad) A divesting one's self of wrath or anger.
Ymddilidiaw, v. a. (dilidiaw) To divest one's self of wrath; to become pacified.
Ymddiloni, v. a. (diloni) To divest one's self of cheerfulness; to make one's self sad.
Ymddiloniad, s. m. (diloniad) A divesting one's self of cheerfulness.
Ymddiluddaw, v. a. (diluddaw) To render one's self unobstructed or unrestrained.
Ymddiluddiad, s. m. (diluddiad) A divesting one's self of restraint; a divesting one's self of weariness.
Ymddiluddedu, v. a. (diluddedu) To divest one's self of restraint, or of weariness.
Ymddiluddiad, s. m. (diluddiad) A divesting one's self of obstruction.
Ymddilwythaw, v. a. (dilwythaw) To unload one's self, to unburden one's self.
Ymddilwythiad, s. m. (dilwythiad) A discharging of one's self.

Ymddilygrïad, s. m. (dilygrïad) A divesting one's self of corruption.
Ymddilygru, v. a. (dilygru) To divest one's self of corruption.
Ymddilyu, s. m. (dilyu) The being in pursuit; mutual pursuit. v. a. To be in pursuit; to pursue mutually.
Ymddilyuawl, a. (ymddilyu) Apt to be pursuing.
Ymddilyuagur, a. (ymddilyu) Apt to be pursuing.
Ymddilyuad, s. m. (ymddilyu) Being pursuing; a mutually pursuing.
Ymddilyuwr, s. m. —pl. ymddilyuwywr (ymddilyu —gwr) One who uses himself to pursue.
Ymddilysiad, s. m. (dilysiad) A self-securing.
Ymddilysu, v. a. (dilysu) To secure one's self.
Ymddilladiad, s. m. (dilladiad) A self-clothing.
Ymddilladu, v. a. (dilladu) To clothe one's self.
Ymddillad, s. m. (dillad) A self-folding.
Ymddillaw, v. a. (dillaw) To self-fold.
Ymddinerthiad, s. m. (dinerthiad) A self-energizing, a becoming debilitated.
Ymddinerthu, v. a. (dinerthu) To self-debilitate.
Ymddindraw, v. a. (dinidraw) To disentangle one's self, to disembarass one's self.
Ymddindriad, s. m. (dindriad) A disentangling of one's self.
Ymddiniweidiad, s. m. (diniweidiad) A rendering one's self harmless.
Ymddiniweidiaw, v. a. (diniweidiaw) To render one's self harmless.
Ymddinwyfaw, v. a. (dinwyfaw) To divest one's self of vivacity or spirit.
Ymddinwyfiad, s. m. (dinwyfiad) A divesting one's self of vivacity, life, or vigour.
Ymddiobethiad, s. m. (diobethiad) A divesting one's self of hope.
Ymddiobethiaw, v. a. (diobethiaw) To render one's self hopeless.
Ymddiodi, v. a. (diödi) To supply one's self with drink; to be drinking.
Ymddiodiad, s. m. (diödiad) A supplying of one's self with drink.
Ymddiofaliad, s. m. (diofaliad) A divesting one's self of care; a becoming careless.
Ymddiofalu, v. a. (diofalu) To divest one's self of care; to become careless.
Ymddiofiad, s. m. (diofiad) A divesting one's self of affliction.
Ymddiofiad, v. a. (diofiad) To divest one's self of affliction.
Ymddiofni, v. a. (diofni) To divest one's self of fear; to become fearless.
Ymddiofniad, s. m. (diofniad) A divesting one's self of fear; a becoming fearless.
Ymddiofrydiad, s. m. (diofrydiad) A rendering one's self decided, determined, or devoted.
Ymddiofrydu, v. a. (diofrydu) To render one's self decided, resolved, or devoted.
Ymddioganiad, s. m. (dioganiad) A divesting one's self of reproach.
Ymddioganu, v. a. (dioganu) To divest one's self of reproach or scandal.
Ymddiogellad, s. m. (diogellad) A self-securing.
Ymddiogelu, v. a. (diogelu) To self-secure.
Ymddiogel, v. a. (diogi) To make one's self lazy.
Ymddiogiad, s. m. (diogiad) A making one's self lazy or listless.
Ymddiol, v. a. (diöf) To divest one's self of a trace or footstep.
Ymddiolind, s. m. (diöliad) A divesting one's self of a trace or track.

Ymddireidiad, s. m. (direidiad) An employing one's self unnecessarily.
Ymddireidiaw, v. a. (direidiaw) To employ one's self unnecessarily.

Gwell pobllaw nag ymddireidiaw.

Better to desert than to employ one's self uselessly. Adage.

Ymddirgeliad, s. m. (dirgeliad) A making one's self private or secret.

Ymddirgelu, v. a. (dirgelu) To self-secret.

Ymddiriad, s. m. (dirlad) Self-instigation; mutual instigation; confidence.

Gwaethaf twyll twyll ymddiriad.

The worst deceit is deceit through confidence. Adage.

Ymddiriaw, v. a. (dirlaw) To self-instigate; to instigate mutually.

Medir a ymddir hamdden.

He that trusts to opportunity will be foiled. Adage.

Ymddirlawl, a. (dirlawl) Being self-impelling.

Ymddiried, s. m. (diried) Mutual impulse; mutual dependence; confidence, trust. v. a. To give mutual impulse; to confide, to rely or depend upon.

Nid ymddiried ond cydymalkh.

There is no trust like a companion. Adage.

Cas a ymddiried i rodd.

Hateful is he that trusts to a gift. Adage.

Tri pheth nid allir ymddiried iddynt: iechyd i hen, hionedd y gwaith, a dirwydydd arghwylod.

Three things to which no trust can be given: health to the old, fair weather in winter, and the diligence of a lord. Adage.

Ymddiriediad, s. m. (ymddiried) A confiding.

Ymddiriedu, v. a. (ymddiried) To confide, to trust.

Ymddiriedus, a. (ymddiried) Confiding, trusting.

Ymddirmygiad, s. m. (dirmygiad) A self-contemning.

Ymddirmygu, v. a. (dirmygu) To self-contemn.

Ymddirper, s. m. (dirper) The being deserving.

Ymddirperiad, s. m. (ymddirper) A rendering one's self deserving or meriting.

Ymddirperu, v. a. (ymddirper) To render one's self deserving.

Ymddirprwy, s. m. (dirprwy) A mutual supply.

Ymddirprwyad, s. m. (ymddirprwy) A self-supplying; a getting one's place filled by proxy.

Ymddirprwyaw, v. a. (ymddirprwy) To supply one's self; to self-accommodate.

Ymddirwest, s. m. (dirwest) A self-refraining.

v. a. To refrain one's self.

Goreu pob dirwest ymddirwest rhag trachwast.

The best refraining is to refrain one's self from cupidity. Coling Llaneth.

Ymddirwyad, s. m. (dirwyad) A self-fining.

Ymddirwyaw, v. a. (dirwyaw) To fine one's self.

Ymddirwydaw, v. a. (dirwydaw) To extricate one's self, to become disentangled.

Ymddirwydiad, s. m. (dirwydiad) A disentangling one's self; a freeing one's self.

Ymddirwymaw, v. a. (dirwymaw) To unbind one's self, to liberate one's self.

Ymddirwymiad, s. m. (dirwymiad) A liberating or unbinding one's self.

Ymddirwystraw, v. a. (dirwystraw) To render one's self void of impediment or interruption.

Ymddirwystriad, s. m. (dirwystriad) A divesting one's self of hinderance or impediment.

Ymddirywiad, s. m. (dirywiad) A divesting one's self of energy or power.

Ymddirywiad, v. a. (dirywiad) To divest one's self of energy or power.

Ymddirywiad, s. (dirywiad) A self-degenerating.

Ymddirywiad, v. a. (dirywiad) To degenerate one's self, to become degenerate.

Ymddiscyn, s. m. (discyn) The act of bringing one's self down.
Ymddiscyniad, s. m. (ymddiscyn) A bringing one's self down; a self-dismounting.
Ymddiserchiad, s. m. (diserchiad) A divesting one's self of affection.
Ymddiserchu, v. a. (diserchu) To divest one's self of affection or fondness.
Ymddisomi, v. a. (disomi) To undeceive one's self; to become undeceived.
Ymddisomiad, s. m. (disomiad) A divesting one's self of disappointment.
Ymddiwalliad, s. m. (diwalliad) A self-satiating.
Ymddiwalltu, v. a. (diwalltu) To divest one's self of the head hair.
Ymddiwallu, v. a. (diwallu) To self-satisfy.
Ymddiweddu, v. a. (diweddu) To finish one's self.
Ymddiweiddiad, s. m. (diweiddiad) A self-eradicating; a being unrooted.
Ymddiweiddiaw, v. a. (diweiddiaw) To eradicate one's self; to be plucked up by the root.
Ymddiwresiad, s. m. (diwresiad) A divesting one's self of heat.
Ymddiwresu, v. a. (diwresu) To divest one's self of heat or warmth.
Ymddiwydiad, s. m. (diwydiad) A rendering one's self diligent or persevering.
Ymddiwydiaw, v. a. (diwydiaw) To render one's self diligent or persevering.
Ymddiwygiad, s. m. (diwygiad) Self-reformation.
Ymddiwygiaw, v. a. (diwygiaw) To self-reform.
Ymddiwynaw, v. a. (diwynaw) To self-pollute.

Ymddiwyssant gan waed, mai na eidd cyherdd a'u dillid hwynt.

They have polluted themselves with blood, so that their garments could not be touched. Galewedd 4. 14.

Ymddiwyniad, s. m. (diwyniad) A self polluting.
Ymddiysgogi, v. a. (diysgogi) To render one's self unshaken or inflexible.
Ymddiysgogiad, s. m. (diysgogiad) A rendering one's self unshaken or firm.
Ymddodawl, a. (dodawl) Self-depositing.
Ymddodi, v. a. (dodi) To deposit one's self.
Ymddodiad, s. m. (dodiad) A self-depositing.
Ymddofi, v. a. (dofi) To tame one's self.
Ymddofiad, s. m. (dofiad) A self-taming.
Ymddogni, v. a. (dogni) To self-allow.
Ymddogniad, s. m. (dogniad) Self-allowancing.
Ymddoleniad, s. m. (doleniad) A self-coiling.
Ymddolennu, v. a. (dolennu) To coil one's self.
Ymddoli, v. a. (doli) To self-curve; to become curved.
Ymddoliad, s. m. (doliad) A self-curving.
Ymddoniad, s. m. (doniad) A self-endowing.
Ymddoniaw, v. a. (doniaw) To self-endow.
Ymddori, v. a. (dori) To concern one's self.
Ymddoriad, s. m. (doriad) A self-concerning.
Ymddreliad, s. m. (drelia) A rendering one's self churlish or boorish.
Ymddreliaw, v. a. (drelia) To render one's self churlish, forward or surly; to abuse mutually.
Ymddringaw, v. a. (dringaw) To use one's self to climb; to be climbing.
Ymddrychiad, s. m. (drychiad) A self-appearing.
Ymddrychiawl, a. (drychiawl) Self-apparent.
Ymddrychioli, v. a. (ymddrychiawl) To make one's self apparent; to become apparent.
Ymddrychioliad, s. m. (ymddrychiawl) A making one's self apparent; a becoming apparent.
Ymddrychu, v. a. (drychu) To make one's self to appear.

Ymddrygiad, s. m. (drygiad) A becoming bad.
Ymddrygu, v. a. (drygu) To become bad.
Ymddrylliad, s. m. (drylliad) A pulling one's self to pieces.
Ymddrylliaw, v. a. (drylliaw) To pull one's self to pieces; to pull to pieces mutually.
Ymdduad, s. m. (duad) A blackening one's self.
Ymdduaw, v. a. (duaw) To blacken one's self.
Ymdduchan, s. f. (duchan) A mutual lampoon.
Ymdduchanawl, a. (ymdduchan) Mutually jeering.
Ymdduchaniad, s. m. (ymdduchan) A mutually lampooning; a using one's self to scoff.
Ymdduchanu, v. (ymdduchan) To scoff mutually.

El wydd—

Fe ymdduchanu a chnau.

His employment was to lampoon mutually with a lampoon. Ian. ab D. ab Owen.

Ymdduliad, s. m. (duliad) A self-beating; a mutually beating or thumping.
Ymdduliaw, v. a. (duliaw) To beat one's self; to beat mutually.
Ymddulliad, s. m. (dulliad) A self-modification; a mutually modifying.
Ymddulliaw, v. a. (dullia) To shape one's self; to modify mutually, to shape mutually.
Ymddwliw, s. m. (dwlw) A fancying one's self.
Ymddwyo, s. m. (dwyyn) A self comportment, gestation. v. a. To bear, comport, or dress one's self; to bear, or go with young.

Hwyra' ddi ddi ymddwyo.

The latest recompense is the recompense of departure. Idem.

Ymddwyre, s. m. (dwyre) A self-elevation. s. a. To elevate one's self.
Ymddwyread, s. m. (ymddwyre) A self-elevation.
Ymddyben, s. m. (dyben) Mutual conclusion, self-conclusion.
Ymddybenawl, a. (ymddyben) Mutually conclusive; self-concluding.
Ymddybeniad, s. m. (ymddyben) A mutually concluding; self-concluding.
Ymddybennu, v. a. (ymddyben) To end mutually; to conclude with one's self.
Ymddyberi, v. a. (dyberi) To be self-easing.
Ymddybleidiad, s. m. (dybleidiad) A connecting one's self with a party.
Ymddybleidiaw, v. a. (dybleidiaw) To connect one's self with a party; to be mutually espousing a party.
Ymddybleidiawl, a. (dybleidiawl) Being mutually espousing a party.
Ymddyblygiad, s. m. (dyblygiad) A self-bending; a mutually bending or folding.
Ymddyblygu, v. a. (dyblygu) To be doubling one's self; to be mutually bending.
Ymddyborthi, v. a. (dyborthi) To self-support.
Ymddyborthiad, s. m. (dyborthiad) Self-supportation.
Ymddychryniad, s. m. (dychryniad) A frightening one's self.
Ymddychrynu, v. a. (dychrynu) To self-frighten.
Ymddychwedliad, s. m. (dychwedliad) A back in mutual discourse.
Ymddychwedlu, v. a. (dychwedlu) To converse mutually.
Ymddychweliad, s. m. (dychweliad) A self-returning; a self-conversion; a mutually returning.
Ymddychwelyd, v. a. (dychwelyd) To self-convert; to turn back mutually.

Ymddyddan, s. m.—pl. t. ion (dyddan) A conversation. v. a. To converse or to discourse together.

Mac ymddyddanion drwg yn llygrru moesau da.

Evil communications corrupt good manners.

Adage.

Nid corddgar ond ymddyddanar;
Nid ymddyddan oud am Ddaw.

None so informed as the converseable person; no conversation like that concerning God.

Adage.

Ymddyddanaidd, a. (ymddyddan) Communicative.
Ymddyddanawl, a. (ymddyddan) Discoursing.
Ymddyddanar, a. (ymddyddan) Apt of discourse.
Ymddyddanlad, s. m. (ymddyddan) A conversing.
Ymddyddanu, v. a. (ymddyddan) To converse.
Ymddyddanwr, s. m.—pl. ymddyddanwyr (ymddyddan—gwr) A converser, a discourseser.
Ymddyethrad, s. m. (dyeithrad) A self-estranging; a mutually estranging.
Ymddyethraw, v. a. (dyeithraw) To self-estrangle, to estrange mutually.
Ymddyfaliad, s. m. (dyfaliad) A being guessing or figuring to one's self.
Ymddyfalu, v. a. (dyfalu) To be guessing or describing to one's self.

Ymddyfalu a gerndaw ar glerwrtheth orwag, ac offergerdd i llesu cynwyr.

To be amusing one's self and listening to frivolous minstrelsy and vain song to weaken the understanding.

Demogton.

Ymddyfalu meddw foleid;
Son yu ffruth am gwrw Sanfrald.

To imagine in one's self a drunken pantoymist; eloquently to talk of the ale of Sanfrald.

Id. ab Urntym.

Ymddyfeistad, s. m. (dyfeistad) A being imagining; a mutually devising.
Ymddyfeisiaw, v. a. (dyfeisiaw) To be imagining in one's self; to devise mutually.
Ymddyfetha, v. a. (dyfetha) To destroy mutually; to destroy one's self.
Ymddyfethiad, s. m. (dyfethiad) A mutually destroying; a self-destroying.
Ymddyfniad, s. m. (dyfniad) A becoming used.
Ymddyfnnu, v. a. (dyfnnu) To use one's self.
Ymddyfoliad, s. m. (dyfoliad) A being gorging one's self; a being mutually swelling.
Ymddyfoliaw, v. a. (dyfoliaw) To be gorging one's self; to be mutually gorging.
Ymddyfrysiad, s. m. (dyfrysiad) A being hurrying one's self; a being mutually hurrying.
Ymddyfrysiaw, v. a. (dyfrysiaw) To be hurrying one's self; to be mutually hurrying.
Ymddyfustlaw, v. a. (dy—bustlaw) To be mutually throwing out gall; to deal in mutual sarcasm.

Am ddau ychydig dduf dafa afon
Ymddyfustlaw i'w gylu gwynion;
Ymddyfustlaw i'w ar lan Aeron berth,
Pan borthes crysion.

About the two sides of the stream of a deep river, comrades formerly were dealing gall to one another; thus a lion would be hrowing out bitterness on the banks of fair Aeron, when he fed his eagles.

Cyaddetu, i H. ab Urntym.

Ymddyfustliad, s. m. (bustliad) A being mutually hrowing out gall or sarcasm.
Ymddyfyniad, s. m. (dyfyniad) A self-approximating; a self-summoning; a mutually approximating.
Ymddyfynu, v. a. (dyfynu) To self-approximate; to self-summon; to summon mutually.

Ymddyfynwch fy sarcasid ddiwedd o ogoeddu aw Ddu.

Enquire within yourselves as to my innocent intention of glorifying God.

H. G. J. redyn.

Ymddygliad, s. m. (dygliad) A being mutually concealing; a being self-concealing.

VOL. II.

Ymddygelu, v. a. (dygelu) To be mutually concealing; to be self-concealing.

Rhyb wyf i, heb yntau, mab Tewdwr, arglwydd y cyfoeth hwn o fewn ychydig, ac yr awron yn wrthloddedig, ac yu ffridic, ac yu ddolmoneuig hualach ydd wyf yn ymddygelu yn y noddia hon.

I am Rhyb, replied he, the son of Tewdwr, the sovereign of this country a little while ago, but now expelled, and having, being almost perishing, I am concealing myself in this sanctuary.

Buch. Gr. ab Cynan.

Ymddygawl, a. (dygawl) Self-deporting; mutually deporting.

Ymddygiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (dygiad) Self-deportment; behaviour, deportment, demeanour.

Ymddygiadus, a. (ymddygiad) Relating to self-deportment or demeanour.

Ymddygnawl, a. (dygnawl) Self-tormenting.

Ymddygniad, s. m. (dygniad) A self-tormenting; a mutually tormenting.

Ymddygnu, v. a. (dygnu) To torment or to harass one's self; to toil mutually.

Ymddygoddi, v. a. (dygoddi) To be mutually vexing; to be vexing one's self.

Ymddygoddiad, s. m. (dygoddiad) A mutually vexing; a vexing one's self.

Ymddygrymiad, s. m. (dygrymiad) A being bowing one's self; a being mutually bowing.

Ymddygrymu, v. a. (dygrymu) To be self-bowing; to be mutually bowing.

Ymddygrynôad, s. m. (dygrynôad) A being collecting one's self; a being mutually collecting.

Ymddygrynô, v. a. (dygrynô) To be self-collecting; to be mutually collecting.

Ymddygrysiad, s. m. (dygrysiad) A being hastening one's self; a being mutually hastening.

Ymddygrysiaw, v. a. (dygrysiaw) To be self-hastening; to be mutually hastening.

Ymddyguddiad, s. m. (dyguddiad) A being self-hiding; a being mutually hiding.

Ymddyguddiaw, v. a. (dyguddiaw) To be self-hiding; to be mutually hiding.

Ymddygnuraw, v. a. (dygnuraw) To be beating mutually; to be beating one's self.

Ymddyguriad, s. m. (dyguriad) A being mutually beating; a being beating one's self.

Ymddygw, s. m. (dygw) A self-striving. v. a. To employ one's self in toil. to be toiling.

Ymddygwydd, s. m. (dygwydd) A mutual befalling.

Ymddygwyddaw, v. a. (ymddygwydd) To befall mutually; to be happening.

Ymddygwyddawl, a. (dygwydd) Mutually falling.

Ymddygwyddiad, s. m. (ymddygwydd) A mutually befalling.

Ymddygwmpaw, v. a. (dygwmpaw) To be mutually falling; to be self-falling.

Ymddygychwyn, v. a. (dygychwyn) To be mutually starting off; to be starting one's self.

Ymddygychwyniad, s. m. (ymddygychwyn) A being mutually starting; a being starting one's self.

Ymddygyd, s. m. (dygyd) Deportment. v. a. To demean one's self, to conduct one's self; to bear or go with young.

Mab Owain, gyfyrain gaidig.

Mad rained, mad f.m. n'l bymddig.

The son of Owain, of uprising temper, fortunately was he born, fortunate the mother who bore him.

L. P. Mech.

Ymddygyfeiriad, s. m. (dygyfeiriad) A mutually coming in opposition.

Ymddygyfeiriaw, v. a. (dygyfeiriaw) To be coming mutually in opposition.

Ymddygyfiad, s. m. (dygyfiad) A being mutually combining or becoming equal.

Ymddygyfiaw, v. a. (dygyfiaw) To be combining mutually.

Ymddygyfianc, s. m. (dygyfianc) A mutual intercourse. v. a. To have mutual intercourse.
Ymddygyffrôad, s. m. (dygyffrôad) A being self-agitating; a being mutually agitating.
Ymddygyffrôi, v. a. (dygyffrôi) To be self-agitating; to be mutually agitating.
Ymddygylichu, s. m. (dygylichu) A being mutually surrounding; a being surrounding one's self.
Ymddygylichu, v. a. (dygylichu) To be mutually surrounding; to be self-surrounding.
Ymddygymhell, v. a. (dygymhell) To be mutually instigating; to be self-instigating.
Ymddygymhelliad, s. m. (ymddygymhell) A being mutually instigating; a being putting one's self forward.
Ymddygyymmod, s. m. (dygyymmod) Self-reconciliation; a mutual reconciliation.
Ymddygyymmodi, v. a. (ymddygyymmod) To be reconciling one's self; to be mutually reconciling.
Ymddygyymmodiad, s. m. (ymddygyymmod) A being reconciling one's self; a being mutually reconciling.
Ymddygyymysgiad, s. m. (dygyymysgiad) A being mutually mixing; a being mixing one's self.
Ymddygyymysgu, v. a. (dygyymysgu) To be mutually mixing; to be mixing one's self.
Ymddygyynnal, v. a. (dygyynnal) To be self-supporting; to be mutually upholding.
Ymddygyynnaliad, s. m. (ymddygyynnal) A being self-supporting; a being mutually upholding.
Ymddygyynnull, s. m. (dygyynnull) A self-collecting; a mutual collection. v. a. To collect one's self; to collect together.
Ymddygyynnulliad, s. m. (ymddygyynnull) A being collecting one's self; a being mutually collecting.
Ymddygyynnwys, v. a. (dygyynnwys) To be mutually receiving or containing; to be containing one's self.
Ymddygyynnwyriad, s. m. (ymddygyynnwys) A being mutually receiving or containing; a being containing one's self.
Ymddygyrchawl, a. (dygyrch) Mutually resorting.
Ymddygyrchiad, s. m. (dygyrch) A being mutually resorting; to be resorting.
Ymddygyrchu, v. a. (dygyrchu) To be mutually resorting; to be resorting.
Ymddygysgodi, v. a. (dygysgodi) To be self-sheltering; to be mutually sheltering.
Ymddygysgodiad, s. m. (dygysgodiad) A being sheltering one's self; a being mutually sheltering.
Ymddygystuddiad, s. m. (dygystuddiad) A being self-afflicting; a being mutually afflicting.
Ymddygystuddiaw, v. a. (dygystuddiaw) To be self-afflicting; to be mutually aggrieving.
Ymddygythraddaw, v. a. (dygythraddaw) To be perturbing one's self; to be mutually perturbing.
Ymddygythraddiad, s. m. (dygythraddiad) A being perturbing one's self; a being mutually perturbing.
Ymddyhaeriad, s. m. (dyhaeriad) A being mutually asserting; a being asserting one's self.
Ymddyhaeru, v. a. (dyhaeru) To be mutually asserting; to be asserting one's self.
Ymddyhebu, v. a. (dyhebu) To be self-divesting.

Tri nod cywir y dydd ar ddyn i ddiawl, ac nis gall ymddyhebu ag hwynt: ei alir, ei olwg, a'i ymmod.

There are three certain marks on a person who belongs to the devil, and he cannot divest himself of them: his word, his look, and his deportment.

Catur ab Gwynnir.

Ymddyheud, s. m. (dyheud) A making one's self to pant; a mutually panting.
Ymddyheuaw, v. a. (dyheuaw) To make one's self to pant; to pant mutually.
Ymddyhewydiad, s. m. (dyhewydiad) A fixing a mutual affection or devotion; a devoting one's self; a self-resolving.
Ymddyhewydiaw, v. a. (dyhewydiaw) To fix a mutual affection; to devote one's self.
Ymddyhiraw, v. a. (dyhiraw) To use one's self to linger; to linger or to loiter mutually.
Ymddyhiriad, s. m. (dyhiriad) A using one's self to linger; a mutually lingering.
Ymddyholi, v. a. (dyholi) To be mutually questioning; to be questioning one's self.
Ymddyholiad, s. m. (dyholiad) A being mutually questioning; a being questioning one's self.
Ymddyhuddaw, v. a. (dyhuddaw) To be covering one's self; to be covering mutually; to appear one's self; to be mutually quieted.
Ymddyhuddiad, s. m. (dyhuddiad) A being covering one's self; a being mutually covering; a quieting one's self; a mutually appeasing.
Ymddyhysbyddiad, s. m. (dyhysbyddiad) A being mutually exhausting; a being self-exhausting.
Ymddyhysbyddu, v. a. (dyhysbyddu) To be mutually exhausting; to be self-exhausting.
Ymddylamiad, s. m. (dylamiad) A being self-bounding; a being mutually rebounding.
Ymddylamu, v. a. (dylamu) To be self-rebounding; to be mutually rebounding.
Ymddylathriad, s. m. (dylathriad) A being rendering one's self glittering.
Ymddylathru, v. a. (dylathru) To be making one's self to glitter.
Ymddylenwad, s. m. (dylenwad) A being filling one's self; a being mutually filling.
Ymddylenwi, v. a. (dylenwi) To be filling one's self; to be mutually filling or replenishing.
Ymddylifad, s. m. (dylifad) A being mutually flowing; a self-flowing.
Ymddylifaw, v. a. (dylifaw) To be mutually flowing; to be self-flowing.
Ymddylochi, v. a. (dylochi) To protect mutually; to protect one's self.
Ymddylochiad, s. m. (dylochiad) A protecting mutually; a protecting one's self.
Ymddyldaw, v. a. (dylndaw) To employ one's self in pursuing; to adhere mutually.
Ymddyludiad, s. m. (dyludiad) A self-adhering; a mutually adhering.
Ymddyluniad, s. m. (dyluniad) A self-delineating; a mutually delineating.
Ymddyluniaw, v. a. (dyluniaw) To delineate one's self; to delineate mutually.
Ymddylusgaw, v. a. (dylusgaw) To be dragging one's self; to be mutually dragging.
Ymddylusgiad, s. m. (dylusgiad) A being dragging one's self; a being mutually dragging.
Ymddylŷad, s. m. (dylŷad) A being mutually obliged; a rendering one's self obligatory.
Ymddylŷaw, v. a. (dylŷaw) To be mutually obligating; to render one's self obligatory.
Ymddylyniad, s. m. (dylyniad) A being mutually adhering; a causing one's self to adhere.
Ymddylynu, v. a. (dylynu) To be mutually adhering; to cause one's self to adhere.
Ymddyliliad, s. m. (dyliliad) A mutually shadowing; a self-overwhelming; a looking frowningly.
Ymddyllu, v. a. (dyllu) To overshadow mutually.

to overshadow one's self; to look frowningly; to stare with a stern look.

Dyrryswys Pŷmddwys yn bedwarth, Gollwre a Rheged i ymddyllis.

Fiamddwyn hastened with four hosts, Goddeu and Rheged to overtake him.

Ymddylyngiad, s. m. (dyllyngiad) A being self-loosening; a being mutually liberating.

Ymddylyngiaw, v. a. (dyllyngiaw) To be self-loosening; to be mutually loosening.

Ymddynesad, s. m. (dynesad) A being self-approimating; a being mutually approximating.

Ymddynesh, v. a. (dynesh) To be self-approimating; to be mutually approximating.

Ymddynesiad, s. m. (dynesiad) A self-approaching; a being mutually approaching.

Ymddynesu, v. a. (dynesu) To be drawing one's self near; to be mutually approaching.

Ymddynoethi, v. a. (dynoethi) To be self-denuding; to be mutually denuding.

Ymddynoethiel i erall heb fy llaw i.

Then hast discovered thyself to another besides me.

Esay lvi. 9.

Ymddynoethiad, s. m. (dynoethiad) A being denuding or exposing one's self; a being mutually making naked.

Ymddynward, s. m. (dynward) A being as a mimic. v. a. To be mimicking; to be mimicking one another.

Ymddynwardiad, s. m. (ymddynward) A being employing one's self in mimicry; a being mutually mimicking.

Ymddyoddef, v. a. (dyoddef) To be self-suffering; to be mutually suffering.

Ymddyoddefiad, s. m. (ymddyoddef) A being self-suffering; a being mutually suffering.

Ymddyodden, v. a. (dyodden) To be bearing one's self; to be mutually bearing.

*Ydd gydymith glomwlith glau:
Ymddyodda'u well ymddyddan.*

Be a true companion of lucid speech: accommodate thyself better to discourse.

D. ab Gwilym, i'r bardd.

Ymddyosg, s. m. (dyosg) A self-disarraying.

Ymddyosgi, v. a. (dyosgi) To undress one's self.

Ymddyosgiad, s. m. (ymddyosgi) An undressing or disarraying of one's self.

Ymddyrchafael, s. m. (dyrchafael) A self-exalting. v. a. To exalt one's self; to exalt mutually.

Y mab hwnaw, wedi ymddyrchafael, ymroddi a crug yn ngodiach.

That youth after exalting himself, gave himself up to adulation.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymddyrchafiad, s. m. (dyrchafiad) A self-exalting; a mutually exalting.

Ymddyrchafiaeth, s. m. (dyrchafiaeth) Self-exaltation; self-advancement; mutual exaltation.

Ymddyrchafu, v. a. (dyrchafu) To exalt one's self; to exalt or to advance mutually.

Ymddyrchafwr, s. m. (pl. ymddyrchafwyr (dyrchafwr)) One who exalts himself.

Ymddyrchawl, a. (dyrchawl) Raising one's self.

Ymddyrchiad, s. m. (dyrchiad) A self-raising.

Ymddyrchu, v. a. (dyrchu) To uplift one's self.

Ymddyrnodiad, s. m. (dyrnodiad) A mutually boxing; a beating one's self.

Ymddyrnodiaw, v. a. (dyrnodiaw) To box one another; to thump one's self.

Ymddyröad, s. m. (dyröad) A being self-yielding.

Ymddyröi, v. a. (dyröi) To be yielding one's self.

Yn wrol i'r fabolaeth Ymddyrö'n Gymro, nid gwaeth.

Manfully through the time of thy youth be passing thyself as a warrior, and no worse will come.

I. Tuo Bryddydd Ieuenc.

Ymddyrwyddaw, v. a. (dyrwyddaw) To be facilitating one's self.

Ymddyrwyddiad, s. m. (dyrwyddiad) A being facilitating one's self.

Ymddyrwyn, s. m. (dyrwyn) A self-winding. v. a. To wind one's self; to wind up mutually.

Ymddyrwyniad, s. m. (ymddyrwyn) A winding of one's self; a mutually winding up.

Ymddyrysiad, s. m. (dyrysiad) A self-entangling; a mutually entangling.

Ymddyrysn, v. a. (dyrysn) To entangle one's self to entangle mutually.

Dichrell a ymddyrysn yn ei ehrogiath ei hunan.

Craft will entangle herself in her own snare.

Adage.

Ymddysbwyll, s. m. (dysbwyll) Self-consideration. v. a. To examine one's self.

Gores gwaith synwyr ymddysbwyll difuant.

The best act of the sense is undiguisd examination of one's self.

Cating Udoeth.

Ymddysbwylliad, s. m. (pl. t. au (ymddysbwyll)) A considering one's self.

Ymddysbyddiad, s. m. (dysbyddiad) A self-depletion.

Ymddysbyddu, v. a. (dysbyddu) To empty one's self.

Ymddysgleiriad, s. m. (dysgleiriad) A making one's self to shine; a mutually glittering.

Ymddysgleiriaw, v. a. (dysgleiriaw) To make one's self to glitter; to glitter mutually.

Ymddysgiad, s. m. (dysgiad) A self-instructing; a mutually instructing.

Ymddysgori, v. a. (dysgori) To clamour mutually; to be clamouring.

Ymddysgoriad, s. m. (dysgoriad) A clamouring mutually; a keeping a clamour.

Ymddysgu, v. a. (dysgu) To instruct one's self; to instruct mutually.

Ymddysgwyl, s. m. (dysgwyl) A keeping one's self in expectation. v. a. To keep one's self expecting; to expect mutually.

Ymddysgwyllgar, a. (ymddysgwyll) Apt to keep one's self expecting; mutually looking.

Ymddysgwylliad, s. m. (ymddysgwyll) A keeping one's self expecting; a mutually expecting.

Ymddysgyriad, s. m. (dysgyriad) A keeping one's self in screaming.

Ymddysgyriaw, v. a. (dysgyriaw) To scream mutually; to keep one's self in screaming.

Ymddystawiad, s. m. (dystawiad) A mutually silencing; a making one's self silent.

Ymddystewi, v. a. (dystewi) To become mutually silent; to make one's self silent.

Ymddynaw, v. a. (dynaw) To unite one's self; to unite together, to confederate.

Ymddynniad, s. m. (dynniad) A connecting one's self; a mutually uniting.

Ymddywadiad, s. m. (dywadiad) A being mutually denying; a being denying one's self.

Ymddywadu, v. a. (dywadu) To be mutually denying; to be denying one's self.

Ymddywalaad, s. m. (dywalaad) A mutually enraging; a making one's self furious.

Ymddywalaü, v. a. (dywalaü) To enrage mutually; to render one's self furious.

Ymddywasgiad, s. m. (dywasgiad) Self-compression; a being mutually squeezing.

Ymddywasgu, v. a. (dywasgu) To self-compress; to be mutually squeezing.

Ymddywediad, s. m. (dywediad) A mutually speaking; a keeping one's self speaking.

Ymddywedyd, v. a. (dywedyd) To speak mutually; to employ one's self in speaking.

Gwell darffo cieted y gyfraithiaid, yna y mae lawm i'r ysgud ddywedyd wrth y ddwy blaidd. Ymddywedwch o gyfraith weithon.

When the court shall be lawfully sitting, then it is right for the judge to say to the two parties, now do you mutually speak of law.

Ymddyweddiad, s. m. (dyweddiad) A mutually espousing; a coupling one's self.

Ymddyweddiaw, v. a. (dyweddiaw) To espouse mutually; to become wedded or espoused; to yoke or join one's self.

Gwrtheyrn Gwrtheyras a ymddyweddiaw a Rhonwen ferch Horn. Vortigern with Repulade Lips yoked himself with Rhonwen the daughter of Horn.

Ymddywisgaw, v. a. (dywisgaw) To be dressing one's self; to be mutually arraying.

Ymddywisgiad, s. m. (dywisgiad) A being dressing one's self; a being mutually arraying.

Ymddywyn, s. m. (dywyn) A mutual blessing; a self-blessing. v. a. To bless mutually; to render one's self blessed.

O treid mab dyn heb ymddywyn a Daw.—

If a son of man shall depart without sanctifying himself of God.

Ymddywynaw, v. a. (ymddywyn) To devote, to consecrate; to pay a vow.

Ymddywyniad, s. m. (ymddywyn) A mutually blessing; a consecrating or blessing one's self.

Ymddywynygu, v. a. (dywynygu) To appear resplendent.

Ni thâl dim lle nad ymddywynyan yddo ryw grynodeb.

What there doth not appear conspicuous in it some connection to good for nothing.

Ymddywystlaw, v. a. (dywystlaw) To be mutually pledging; to be giving one's self a hostage.

Ymddywystliad, s. m. (dywystliad) A being mutually pledging; a being pledging or giving one's self as a hostage.

Ymëangiad, s. m. (ëangiad) A self-amplifying; a mutually giving space.

Ymëangu, v. a. (ëangu) To self-amplify; to enlarge mutually.

Ymebrwyddaw, v. a. (ebrwyddaw) To accelerate one's self.

Ymebrwyddiad, s. m. (ebrwyddiad) A self-accelerating; a mutually hastening.

Ymechrydiad, s. m. (echrydiad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually quaking.

Ymechrydu, v. a. (echrydu) To cause one's self to tremble; to tremble mutually.

Ymechrysiad, s. m. (echrysiad) A causing a mutual shock or terror; a rendering one's self self-shocking.

Ymechrysu, v. a. (echrysu) To cause mutual horror; to be self-shocked.

Ymechwyna, v. a. (echwyna) To borrow or to lend mutually; to lend one's self.

Ymechwyniad, s. m. (echwyniad) A mutually lending; a lending one's self.

Ymedfryd, s. m. (edfryd) Self-restoration. v. a. To restore one's self, to renew one's self.

Ymedllw, s. m. (edllw) Mutual reproach; self-reproach.

Ymedllwiad, s. m. (edllw) A mutually reproaching; a self-upbraiding.

Ymedllwiaw, v. a. (ymedllw) To reproach mutually; to upbraid one's self.

Ymedllwied, v. a. (ymedllw) To upbraid mutually; to upbraid one's self.

Ymedrych, s. m. (edrych) To look mutually; to look at one's self.

Ymedrychgar, a. (ymedrych) Being apt to look about warily.

Ymedrychiad, s. m. (ymedrych) A mutually looking; a looking at one's self.

Ymedryd, s. m. (edryd) Self-restoration; mutual restoration. v. a. To restore one's self; to restore mutually.

Ymedrydiad, s. m. (ymedryd) Self-restoration; mutual restoration.

Ymechlurad, s. m. (eglurad) Self-manifestation; mutual illustration or manifestation.

Ymechlurân, v. a. (eglurân) To manifest one's self; to be mutually manifest.

Ymechluraw, v. a. (egluraw) To explain one's self; to explain mutually.

Ymechluriad, s. m. (egluriad) A self-explaining; a mutually explaining.

Ymegniad, s. m. (egniad) A self-exertion; mutual exertion.

Ymegniaw, v. a. (egniaw) To exert one's self; to exert mutually.

Ymegniawl, a. (eguiawl) Self-exerting; of mutual exertion.

Ymegniwr, s. m.—pl. ymegniwyr (egniwr) One who exerts himself.

Ymegori, v. a. (egori) To open one's self; to open mutually.

Ymegoriad, s. m. (egoriad) A disclosing one's self; a mutually opening.

Ymegwyddori, v. a. (egwyddori) To furnish one's self with principles or elements; mutually to instil principles.

Ymegwyddoriad, s. m. (egwyddoriad) A furnishing one's self with principles; a mutually instilling principles.

Ymehedeg, v. a. (ehedeg) To make one's self to fly; to fly mutually.

Ymehediad, s. m. (ehediad) A making one's self to fly; a mutually flying.

Ymeiddilaw, v. a. (eiddilaw) To diminish one's self; to enervate one's self.

Ymeiddiliad, s. m. (eiddiliad) Self-enervation.

Ymeiddunaw, v. a. (eiddunaw) To employ one's self in wishing; to wish mutually.

Ymeiddnniad, s. m. (eiddnniad) An employing one's self in wishing; a mutually wishing.

Ymeilliad, s. m. (eilliad) A shaving one's self.

Ymeilliaw, v. a. (eilliaw) To shave one's self.

Ymfoel ac ymeillu am dy blant meuch.

Make thee bald and poll thee for thy delicate children.

Ymeirgar, a. (geirgar) Querulous; loquacious.

Ymeirgarwch, s. m. (ymeirgar) A cavilling disposition.

Ymeiriach, s. m. (eiriach) A mutual deprecation. v. a. To deprecate mutually; to be deprecating.

Ymeiriad, s. m. (geiriad) Altercation; mutual war of words.

Ymeiriaw, v. a. (geiriaw) To contend in words.

Ymeiriawl, a. (eiriawl) An employing of one's self in interceding; mutual persuasion. v. a. To employ one's self in interceding; mutually to intercede.

Yffwr—

Yffwr mae mawrion heb ymeiriawl.

Hell: in it there is extreme of war without intercession.

Ymeiriolad, s. m. (ymeiriawl) A mutual intercession; a mutual persuasion.

Ymeirioli, v. a. (ymeiriawl) To intercede mutually; to be interceding or persuading.

Ymeiriwr, s. m.—pl. ymeiriwyr (ymeiiraw—gwr) A talkative man.

Nid wynech gwr mawr ymeiriwr.

A talker is seldom a great man.

Adage.

Ymeisaw, v. a. (eisiaw) A making one's self destitute; mutually to make destitute.

Ymeisiwad, s. m. (eisiwad) A rendering one's self destitute; a mutually making destitute.

Ymeistedd, s. m. (eistedd) A mutual sitting; a seating one's self. v. a. To sit mutually; to seat one's self.

Ymeisteddiad, s. m. (ymeistedd) A mutually sitting; a seating one's self.

Ymeliad, s. m. (eliad) An appointing one's self.

Ymeliaw, v. a. (eliaw) To appoint one's self.

Ymeliwa, v. a. (eliwa) To seek self-profit; mutually to seek gain.

Ymeliwad, s. m. (eliwad) The employing one's self in seeking gain.

Ymelwain, v. a. (gelwain) To keep calling.

Ymen, s. m. (en) That is contained, pent, or dammed up. a. Being collected together.

Gwel mawr y doliol na mwy doli gwin.
Mwy na doli mawr ymen Doli.

He would cause where he might come that he should not lack wine, more than the water of the mill of where there is a dam of Teivi.

Madogwg Dogwg.

Ymeniwd, s. m. (eniwd) A self-hurting; a mutual hurting.

Ymeniww, v. a. (eniww) To hurt one's self; to cause mutual harm.

Ymenllibiad, s. m. (enllibiad) A mutually detracting; a self-scandalizing.

Ymenllibiaw, v. a. (enllibiaw) To detract mutually; to scandalize one's self.

Ymennylid, s. m. (annellid) A taking aim.

Ymennylu, v. a. (annellu) To employ one's self in aiming.

Y cerun—
Minnau oedd yn ymennyl.

The star, I too was employing myself in viewing. Iolo Goch.

Ymennyn, s. m. (ennyn) A self-kindling. v. a. To self-kindle; to kindle mutually.

Ymennyniad, s. m. (ennyniad) A self-kindling; a mutually kindling.

Ymennynu, v. a. (ennynu) To self-kindle; to kindle mutually.

Ymenwad, s. m. (enwad) Self-nomination; a mutual naming.

Ymenwaediad, s. m. (enwaediad) A self-circumcising.

Ymenwaedu, v. a. (enwaedu) To self-circumcise.

Ymenwi, v. a. (enwi) To self-nominate, to nominate mutually.

Ymenwogi, v. a. (enwogi) To signalize one's self

Ymenwogiad, s. m. (enwogiad) A self-signalizing

Ymenydd, s. m.—pl. f. au (ym—enydd) The brain.

Ymenyddawl, s. m. (ymenydd) Belonging to the brain

Ymenydd-dro, s. m. (ymenydd—tro) A vertigo.

Ymenyddiad, s. m. (ymenydd) A braining.

Ymenyddu, v. a. (ymenydd) To form brains.

Ymenyn, s. m.—pl. f. au (ymen) Butter.

Tri enllyn lechyd: mel, ymenyn, a llaeth.

The three sources of health: honey, butter, and milk. Adage.

Ymenynaid, a. (ymenyn) Like butter.

Ymenynawl, a. (ymenyn) Of buttery nature.

Ymenyneiddiad, s. m. (ymenynaid) A rendering like butter; a becoming like butter.

Ymenyneiddiaw, v. a. (ymenynaid) To render like butter; to become like butter.

Ymenyniad, s. m. (ymenyn) A buttering.

Ymenynllyd, a. (ymenyn) Full of butter.

Ymenynu, v. a. (ymenyn) To form butter.

Ymeofni, v. a. (ëofni) To self-embolden; mutually to embolden.

Ymeofniad, s. m. (ymëofni) A making one's self bold; a mutually emboldening.

Ymëoni, v. a. (ëoni) To embolden one's self; to embolden mutually.

Ymëoniad, s. m. (ëoniad) A self-emboldening; a mutually emboldening.

Ymeppiliad, s. m. (epiliad) A self-producing.

Ymeppiliaw, v. a. (epiliaw) To self-produce.

Ymerbyn, s. m. (erbyn) The being in opposition or ready to receive. v. a. To be in opposition; to receive mutually.

Ydd oedd ymerbyn heb ymerbed.

There was a mutual encounter without self sparing.

Cynadeio.

Flaps Octa—hyd i Gaer Efrw, at Owm at gafodwr; a then arall i Gaer Alciwyd, ac yno ymerbyn ag Emrys.

Octa fled as far as the city of York, to Owm his cousin; and another division to the city of Alciwyd, and there putting himself in opposition to Emrys.

Dr. ab Arthur.

Ymerbyniad, s. m. (ymerbyn) One who employs himself in receiving; one who is in opposition; one mutually in opposition.

Cad ymerbyniad eidd dichwant.

The mutual opponents of battle regardless of life.

O. Cyfriliawg.

Ymerbyniaw, v. a. (ymerbyn) To put one's self to receive or in apposition; to receive mutually Ymerbyniawl, a. (ymerbyn) Being in receiving.

Ymerbyniad, v. a. (ymerbyn) To put one's self to receive or in apposition; to receive mutually Ymerbyniwr, s. m.—pl. ymerbyniwyr (ymerbyn —gwr) One who employs himself in receiving;

one who places himself in apposition; a mutual receiver.

Ymerfyniad, s. m. (erfyniad) A being requesting or intreating; a mutually intreating.

Ymerfyniaw, v. a. (erfyniaw) To be requesting; to request mutually.

Ymergydiad, s. m. (ergydiad) A self-projecting; a mutually projecting or casting.

Ymergydiaw, v. a. (ergydiaw) To project one's self; to project mutually.

Ymerlid, s. m. (erlid) The employing one's self in pursuing; mutual persecution.

Ymerlidiad, s. m. (ymeilid) An employing one's self in pursuing or persecuting; a mutually persecuting.

Ymerlyn, v. a. (erlyn) To employ one's self in pursuing; to pursue mutually.

Ymerlyniad, s. m. (ymerlyn) An employing one's self in pursuing; a mutually pursuing.

Ymerlynwr, s. m.—pl. ymerlynwyr (ymerlyn—gwr) One who employs himself in pursuing; a mutual pursuer.

Ymerlynnydd, s. m.—pl. f. ion (ymerlyn) One who employs himself in pursuing; one who pursues mutually.

Ymerthn, v. a. (erthn) To strive together.

Ymerwinad, s. m. (gerwinad) A self-exasperation; a mutually ruffling.

Ymerwinaw, v. a. (gerwinaw) To ruffle one's self; to exasperate mutually.

Ymerwinawl, a. (gerwinawl) Self-ruffling, mutually exasperating.

Ymeagar, s. m. (eagar) A self-separation; mutual separation. v. a. To separate one's self; to separate mutually.

Ymesgariad, s. m. (ymesgar) A separating one's self; a mutually separating.

Ymesgaru, v. a. (ymesgar) To separate one's self; to separate mutually.

Ymesgeulusaw, v. a. (esgeulusaw) To make one's self neglectful; to neglect mutually.

Ymesgeulusiad, s. m. (esgeulusiad) A causing one's self to neglect; a self-neglecting; a mutually neglecting.

Ymesgor, s. m. (esgor) The state of being delivered or brought to bed.

Ymesgori, v. a. (ymesgor) To be delivered.

Ymesgoriad, s. m. (ymesgor) A self-delivering.

Ymesgnodi, v. a. (esgnodi) To make excuse for one's self; to make a mutual excuse.

Ymesgyn, v. a. (esgyn) To cause one's self to ascend; to ascend mutually.

Ymesgyniad, s. m. (ymesgyn) A self-ascending; a mutually ascending.

Ymesmwythaw, v. a. (esmwythaw) To ease one's self; to relieve one's self.

Ymesmwythawl, a. (esmwythawl) Self-easing; tending to mutual ease.

Ymesmwythiad, s. m. (esmwythiad) A self-easing; a making mutually easy.

Ymestyn, s. m. (estyn) A self-stretching. v. a. To stretch one's self.

Ymestynawl, a. (ymestyn) Self-extending.

Ymestyniad, s. m. (ymestyn) A self-extending.

Ymethol, s. m. (ethol) Self-election; mutual election.

Ymetholi, v. a. (ymethol) To self-elect; mutually to elect.

Ymetholiad, s. m. (ymethol) A self-electing; a mutually electing.

Ymeuocâad, s. m. (euocâad) A making one's self guilty; a becoming mutually guilty.

Ymeuocâu, v. a. (euocâu) To make one's self guilty; to become mutually guilty.

Ymeuogi, v. a. (euogi) To make one's self guilty; to become mutually guilty.

Ymeuogiad, s. m. (euogiad) A making one's self guilty; a rendering mutually guilty.

Ymewinad, s. m. (ewinad) A using one's nails.

Ymewinaw, v. a. (ewinaw) To fasten one's nails.

Ymfachiad, s. m. (bachiad) A hooking one's self.

Ymfachu, v. a. (bachu) To hook one's self.

Ymfalchiad, s. m. (balchiad) A priding one's self.

Ymfalchiaw, v. a. (balchiaw) To be self-proud.

Pa hyd—
Yr ymfalchiant yn eu drwg,
Gan fygwth amlwg firostes!

How long will they pride themselves in their wickedness, with manifest and scornful threat?
Edm. Prye, Ps. 94.

Ymfanson, s. m. (manson) A muttering. v. a. To mutter to one's self.

Ymfarweiddiad, s. m. (marweiddiad) A deadening or mortifying one's self.

Ymfarweiddiaw, v. a. (marweiddiaw) To deaden one's self.

Ymfawdd, s. m. (bawdd) A self-drowning.

Ymfawràad, s. m. (mawràad) A self-magnifying; a magnifying mutually.

Ymfawràu, v. a. (mawràu) To self-magnify; to magnify mutually.

Ymfawrygiad, s. m. (mawrygiad) A magnifying one's self; a mutually magnifying.

Ymfawrygu, v. a. (mawrygu) To magnify one's self; to magnify mutually.

Ymfeiddiad, s. m. (beiddiad) A venturing one's self; a mutually daring.

Ymfeiddiaw, v. a. (beiddiaw) To venture one's self; to adventure, or dare mutually.

Howd i bawb a thl i'rh wnech, am fodd,
Ymfeiddiaw am ateb.

It is easy for every body to look there in the face, for a ph. & presume for an answer.
Gw. R. G. i. 2. d. 10. v. 1.

Ymfelltithiaw, v. a. (melltithiaw) To self-cure; to curse mutually.

Ymfenwedigaw, v. a. (menwedigaw) To bless one's self; to bless mutually.

Ymfenwedigiad, s. m. (menwedigiad) A blessing one's self; a mutually blessing.

Ymfenwydaw, v. a. (menwydaw) To make one's self happy; to yield mutual happiness.

Ymfenwydiad, s. m. (menwydiad) A making one's self happy; a mutually giving happiness.

Ymfiniaw, v. a. (minial) To be mutually putting lips together; to kiss one another.

Ymfiniaw, v. a. (miniaw) Mutually to touch lips.

Ymfiniaw, v. a. (blinaw) To tire one's self.

Ys awr nac ymfined neb
O'rh wyniaw am ddoethiaw.

At present let no one trouble himself about the hankering for wisdom.
Ed. Egan & Ab. Dr.

Ymfiniad, s. m. (bliniad) A tiring one's self.

Ymfoddâad, s. m. (boddâad) A pleasing one's self.

Ymfoddâu, v. a. (boddâu) To please one's self.

Ymfoddiad, s. m. (boddidiad) A contenting one's self; a mutually contenting.

Ymfoddiaw, v. a. (boddidiaw) To content one's self; to yield mutual contentment.

Ymfoddioni, v. a. (boddioni) To make one's self contented; to rest contented; to acquiesce to content mutually.

Ymfoddioniad, s. m. (boddioniad) A self-contenting; a mutually contenting.

Ymfoeli, v. a. (moeli) To make one's self bold.

Ymfolach, s. m. (molach) Self-flattery; mutual flattery or wheedling.

Ymfolachiad, s. m. (ymfolach) A flattering one's self; a mutually flattering.

Ymfolachu, v. a. (ymfolach) To self-flatter.

Ymfolachna, a. (ymfolach) Self-flattering; apt to flatter mutually.

Ymfolachwr, s. m. (ymfolach) One who flatters himself; a mutual flatterer.

Ymfoldesiad, s. m. (boldesiad) A basking one's self in the sun.

Ymfoldesu, v. a. (boldesu) To be basking one's self in the sun.

Ymfolhenlaw, v. a. (bolhenlaw) To bask one's belly in the sun.

Ymfolhenliad, s. m. (bolhenliad) A basking one's belly in the sun.

Ymfoliaw, v. a. (boliaw) To gorge one's self.

Ymfolrythiad, s. m. (bolrythiad) A stretching out one's belly.

Ymfolrythn, v. a. (bolrythn) To stretch out one's belly.

Ymfonclustiad, s. m. (bonclustiad) A mutually boxing the ears.

Ymfonclustiaw, v. a. (bonclustiaw) To box the ears mutually.

Ymforiad, s. m. (moriad) An employing one's self in seafaring.

Ymforiaw, v. a. (moriaw) To employ one's self in seafaring.

Ymfrasâad, s. m. (brasâad) A self-fattening.

Ymfrasâu, v. a. (brasâu) To fatten one's self.

Mae y goidawg yn ymfrasâu ar ddogras y tŷ.
The wealthy is fattening himself on the ruin of the poor.

Ymfrawiad, s. m. (brawiad) A self-dismaying.
Ymfrawu, v. a. (brawu) To dismay one's self.
Ymfrawychiad, s. m. (brawychiad) A filling one's self with dismay.
Ymfrawychu, v. a. (brawychu) To fill one's self with dismay.
Ymfreicheidiaw, s. m. (breicheidiaw) A mutually embracing.
Ymfreicheidiaw, v. a. (breicheidiaw) To embrace mutually.
Ymfrihaw, v. a. (brithaw) To self-variegate.
Ymfrihiad, s. m. (brithiad) A self-variegating.
Ymfrochl, v. a. (brochl) To be in a fume.
Ymfrochiad, s. m. (brochiad) A putting one's self in a fume or chafe; a self-ruffling.
Ymfroni, v. a. (broni) To swell one's bosom.

Mac llawer yn hoesfaldchion, yn ymfroni, ac yn ymosewedd allan oren y gallont.

There are many in sprightly pride, swelling out their bosoms, and shewing themselves out as well as they are able.

Morgan Llwyd.

Ymfrwydraw, v. a. (brwydraw) To engage one's self in battle; to fight mutually.
Ymfrwydriad, s. m. (brwydriad) An engaging one's self in battle; a mutually battling.
Ymfrysiaid, s. m. (brysiaid) A hastening one's self; a mutually hastening.
Ymfrysiaw, v. a. (brysiaw) To hasten one's self; to hasten mutually.
Ymfucheddiad, s. m. (buceddiad) A conducting one's self in life.
Ymfuchedu, v. a. (buceddu) To conduct one's self in life; to pass a life.

A fydd ddaid yn drwm ar ei clyd ymfucheddu yn lla.

He that would revenge heavily on his foe let him conduct himself uprightly.

Adage.

Ymfustiaw, v. a. (bustiaw) To self-embitter; mutually to deal in sarcasms.
Ymfustiad, s. m. (bustiad) An employing one's self in rancorous words; a mutually shewing rancour.
Ymfwriad, s. m. (bwriad) A purposing with one's self; a mutually designing or purposing.
Ymfwriadu, v. a. (ymfwriad) To employ one's self in purposing; to purpose mutually.
Ymfwynaad, s. m. (mwynaad) A self enjoying; a mutually enjoying.
Ymfwynau, v. a. (mwynau) To enjoy one's self; to enjoy mutually.
Ymfychaniad, s. m. (bychaniad) A lessening one's self; a mutually lessening or disparaging.
Ymfychanu, v. a. (bychanu) To lessen one's self; to be mutually lessening or depreciating.
Ymfydiaw, v. a. (bydiaw) To conduct one's self in the world.

Gores ddiwydwyd ymfydiaw yn ddarbedawl.

The best nobility is to conduct one's self in the world circum-spectly.

Catwg Ddaeth.

Ymfyddinad, s. m. (byddinad) A self-embattling; a mutually embattling.
Ymfyddinaw, v. a. (byddinaw) To embattle one's self; mutually to embattle.

Ffons Hingestr a'i wyl i Gaer Cynan—'a' hynid a' oreg Emrys; ac yno ymfyddinaw a lliad llawer o bobol.

Hingestr and his men fled to the fortress of Cynan; so Emrys pursued them; and thereupon they mutually array, and kill many on both sides.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymfyfyriad, s. m. (myfyriad) A contemplating with one's self.
Ymfyfyriaw, v. a. (myfyriaw) To contemplate with one's self.
Ymfygydiad, s. m. (mygydiad) A self-masking.

Ymfygyda, v. a. (mygyda) To mask one's self.
Ymfynteiaid, s. m. (mynteiaid) A joining one's self to a throng; a mutually flocking.
Ymfynteiaw, v. a. (mynteiaw) To unite one's self to a multitude; to flock mutually.
Ymfyrâd, s. m. (byrâd) A self-curtailing; a mutually shortening.
Ymfyrân, v. a. (byrân) To self-curtail.
Ymfyriad, s. m. (byriad) A self-shortening.
Ymfyriaw, v. a. (byriaw) To self-shorten.
Ymfywiad, s. m. (bywiad) A self-animating; a mutually enlivening.
Ymfywau, v. a. (bywau) To enliven one's self; to animate mutually.
Ymfywiocâd, s. m. (bywiocâd) A self-enlivening; a mutually animating.
Ymfywiocau, v. a. (bywiocau) To enliven one's self; to animate mutually.
Ymfywiogi, v. a. (bywiogi) To self-enliven; to become mutually animated.
Ymfywiogiad, s. m. (bywiogiad) A self-enlivening; a mutually enlivening.
Ymfieiddiad, s. m. (fieiddiad) A self-loathing; a mutually loathing.
Ymfieiddiaw, v. a. (fieiddiaw) To loathe one's self; to loathe mutually.
Ymfionodiad, s. m. (ffionodiad) A mutually cad-gelling or dealing blows.
Ymfirost, s. m. (ffrost) A self-vanquishing.
Ymfirostiad, s. m. (ymffrost) A self-vanquishing.
Ymfirostiaw, v. a. (ymffrost) To self-vant.

Cae a ymfirosti o'i gystyllid o'i hun.

Odious is he who prides himself of his own shame.

Adage.

Ymfirwynaw, v. a. (ffirwynaw) To self-bridle.
Ymfirwyniad, s. m. (ffirwyniad) A self-bridling.
Ymfurfiad, s. m. (ffurfiad) A self-conforming; a mutually forming or shaping.
Ymfurfiaw, v. a. (ffurfiaw) To conform one's self; to conform mutually.
Ymfust, s. m. (ffust) A self-threshing; a mutual beating or boxing.
Ymfustiad, s. m. (ymffust) A self-threshing; a mutually threshing.
Ymfustiaw, v. a. (ymffust) To self-thresh; to beat one another.
Ymfyddiad, s. m. (ffyddiad) A plighting one's self; a plighting mutual faith.
Ymfyddiaw, v. a. (ffyddiaw) To plight one's faith; to plight a mutual troth.

Rhaid yw ddaed tair llaw ychydig wrth reddi dyn yn fach: llaw y macu, a llaw y neb a'i rhoddo yn fach, a llaw y neb ei cymero, ac ymfyddiaw o law i law.

It is necessary for three hands to come together on producing a person for bait: the hand of the bait, and the hand of him who gives him to bait, and the hand of the one who shall have accepted him, and to plight mutually from hand to hand.

Welsh Laws.

Ymgabliad, s. m. (cabliad) A self-calumniating; a mutually calumniating.
Ymgablu, v. a. (cablu) To calumniate one's self; to calumniate mutually.
Ymgadarnaad, s. m. (cadarnaad) A self-strengthening; a mutually strengthening.
Ymgadarnau, v. a. (cadarnau) To self-strengthen; to strengthen mutually.

Cae a ymgadarnau newn drwg.

Odious is he who shall defend himself in evil.

Adage.

Rhyw i ddyn bechu, ond rhyw i ddalw i yn unig ymgadarnau yn ei barhad.

It is natural for man to sin, but it is natural for the devil alone to defend himself in his sin.

Adage.

Ymgadw, v. a. (cadw) To keep one's self; to contain one's self; to refrain, to forbear; to keep or guard mutually.

Death flows a Hingestyr at y brenin, i geidaw caer neu gastell i ymgadw.

Hors and Hingestyr came to the king, to obtain a fortress or castle to secure themselves. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgadwad, s. m. (ymgadw) A self-keeping; self-preservation; self-restraint.

Ymgadwynaw, v. a. (cadwynaw) To chain one's self; to chain mutually.

Ymgadwyniad, s. m. (cadwyniad) A self-chaining; a mutually chaining.

Ymgael, v. a. (cael) To obtain to one's self; to conceive; to obtain mutually; to meet, together.

Pa fam a'i hymgaodd!

What mother has conceived him!

Mabinogi.

Pa gyfarwydd a fydd iwl o ymgael ag y gwr a ddywedi dill

What certainly will there be for me of finding the person thou art speaking of!

H. Pwyll—Mabinogion.

Ymgaeithiaw, v. a. (caethiaw) To confine one's self; mutually to confine.

Ymgaffael, s. m. (cassael) Self-acquirement; mutual attainment. v. a. To be acquiring; to attain mutually.

Ymgaffaeliad, s. m. (ymgaffael) A self-acquiring; a mutually obtaining.

Ymgaffiad, s. m. (caffiad) A reaching out one's arms; a mutually catching or grasping at.

Ymgaffiaw, v. a. (caffiaw) To reach out one's arms to catch; to catch at mutually.

Ymgagliad, s. m. (cagliad) A bedagging one's self.

Ymgaglin, v. a. (caglin) To bedaggle one's self.

Ymgaint, s. f.—pl. ymgeinniau (caint) The act of mutual bickering or scolding.

Ymgais, s. f.—pl. ymgeisiau (cais) An effort, an attempt; self-exertion. v. a. To make an effort; to attempt; to seek for; to seek mutually.

Galliedig pethau mawrion gan ymgais.

Great things are possible with self-exertion.

Adage.

Tri pheth sydd yn ymgadarnu beunydd, gan fod mwyafr y ymgais alyst: cariad, gwybodaeth, a chyfaeorder.

Three things are daily acquiring strength, since the attraction towards them is greater: love, knowledge, and equity.

Barddas.

Nid ymgais diriad i da.

The unoblivious will not exert himself towards good.

Adage.

Ymgalediad, s. m. (calediad) A self-hardening; a mutually hardening.

Ymgaledu, v. a. (caledu) To harden one's self; to harden mutually.

Ymgalonl, v. a. (caloni) To hearten one's self; to encourage mutually.

Ymgaloniad, s. m. (caloniad) A heartening one's self; a mutually encouraging.

Ymgalliad, s. m. (calliad) A making one's self cunning; a becoming mutually cunning.

Ymgallau, v. a. (callau) To make one's self cunning or discreet; to be mutually cunning.

With 60 lwl Caluar rhag y Prydeiniold—gwrach odd y ffrinc yn ceisw ei wrthladd o'r terfymas. A gwrdi gwelid o lwl Caluar bygy yngallau a oreg, no nid ymroddes i bedderder ymladd a'r bwl greslawn hono, unawg agori ei drywr.

By Julius Caesar's retreat from the Britons, more courageous were the French, in endeavoring to drive him from their boundaries. So when Julius Caesar had seen that, what he did was to employ himself craftily, and he did not give himself up to the uncertainty of war with that ferocious people, but he opened his treasures. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymganlyn, v. a. (canlyn) To employ one's self in following; to follow mutually.

Ymganlyniad, s. m. (canlyniad) An employing one's self in following; a mutually following.

Ymganmawi, s. m. (canmawi) Self-praise; mutual praise. v. a. To praise one's self; to praise mutually.

Ymganmoli, v. a. (ymganmawi) To praise one's self; to praise mutually.

Ymganmollad, s. m. (ymganmawi) A praising one's self; a mutually praising.

Ymganred, s. f. (canred) To mutual permit. v. a. To pursue or follow mutually.

Nid ymganred, Nid ymddiried, Nid f'r ghydd.

There will be no mutual fellowship, there will be no confidence with any towards others. Tebem.

Ymgangheniad, s. m. (cangheniad) A self-branching; a mutual ramification.

Ymgangheni, v. a. (cangheni) To branch out one's self; to branch mutually.

Ymgardodi, v. a. (cardodi) To employ one's self in charity; to practise mutual charity.

Goren crefydd cydymgardodi.

The best religion is to practise mutual charity together.

Adage.

Ymgardodiad, s. m. (cardodiad) An employing one's self in charity; a practising mutual charity.

Ymgaredigaw, v. a. (caredigaw) To be caring; mutually.

Ymgaredigiad, s. m. (caredigiad) A being mutually caring.

Ymgariad, s. m. (cariad) The using one's self to love; a mutually loving.

Ymgarthiad, s. m. (carthiad) A self-cleaning.

Ymgarthu, v. a. (carthu) To self-purge.

Ymgaru, v. a. (caru) To habituate one's self to love; to love mutually.

Nid ymgar y llawen.

Contented will not love one another.

Adage.

Ymgaslad, s. m. (caslad) The using one's self in hating; a mutually hating.

Ymgaslu, v. a. (caslu) To fill one's self with hate; to become disgusted; to hate mutually.

Nid oes boddys, am euyddas, Nid yd yd yn ymgaslu.

The life of to-day, with respect to others, is thus becoming & guided. T. Aeth.

Ymgasgliad, s. m. (casgliad) A self-collecting; a mutually aggregating or collecting.

Ymgasglin, v. a. (casglin) To self-collect; to collect mutually; to assemble mutually.

Ymgastelliad, s. m. (castelliad) A spreading one's self round; a mutually spreading round.

Ymgastellu, v. a. (castellu) To spread one's self round; to spread round mutually.

Ymgatlad, s. m. (ymgatlu) An employing one's self in battle; a mutually battling.

Ymgatlu, v. a. (catlu) To employ one's self in battle; to battle mutually.

Ymgathewrach, s. m. (cathewrach) A bickering together. v. a. To bicker together.

Ymgau, v. a. (cau) To shut one's self; to become closed; to shut mutually.

Y brawd a ymgauol am y bwa.

The fat closed itself about the blade.

Bardas i. 3.

Ymgecraeth, s. m. (cecreaeth) A mutual brawling.

Ymgecriad, s. m. (cecriad) A mutually brawling.

Ymgecru, v. a. (cecru) To brawl mutually.

Ymgefnogi, v. a. (cefnogi) To back one's self; to back mutually; to encourage one another.

Ymgefnogiad, s. m. (cefnogiad) A backing one's self; a mutually backing.

'mgegiad, s. m. (cegiad) A mutually mouthing.
'mgegu, v. a. (cogu) To mouth mutually.
'mgegrwr, s. m.—pl. ymgegrwyr (cogwr) A mouther, a wrangler.
'mgeingar, s. (ymgaint) Quarrelsome.

Dried hit ymgeingar.

The mischievous let him be quarrelsome. Llywarch Hen.

'mgeinniad, s. m. (ymgaint) A scuffling mutually.
'mgeinnialth, s. m. (ymgaint—ialth) Quarrelsome language.

Rhye Meigen—
Gwalth ymgeinnialth a gaal i howl.

Rhye Meigen, the work of abusive language he would sing to every body. D. ab Gwilym.

mgeiniawr, v. a. (ymgaint) To scuffle; to scold.

Duth draws, ai wael dithas draw
Amgouch wox ymgeiniawr.

Untoward the journey, thou wilt ponder do nothing else but quarrel. D. ab Gwilym, i Gr. Grgg.

Yr oedd trwt gwaleidd yn ymgeiniawr yn eu mysg, a rhyforthey fawr o eirias, mli lli mewn afon.

There was the die of women quarrelling together amongst them, and a great torrent of words, like a flood in a river.
Morgan Llwyd.

mgeintach, s. m. (ceintach) Mutual scuffle.
v. a. To bicker, to scuffle, or to scold mutually.

mgeintachiad, s. m. (ymgeintach) A mutually scuffling or quarrelling.

mgeisiad, s. m. (ymgals) A making an effort or attempt; self-exertion; mutual exertion; a mutual seeking.

mgeisiaw, v. a. (ymgals) To make an effort or attempt; to seek; to exert one's self; to make a mutual effort or attempt; to exert mutually.

Yr oedd Eiddol yn ymgaisaw & Hingwyr; ac o'r diwedd yr ymgeisynt, ac ymaddi ond by y tan o'u harfau, mli melli llech-edenaw i y mlaen tarau.

Eiddol was exerting himself to meet with Hingwyr; and at length they mutually met, and fought so that the fire was struck from their arms, like gleaming lightning before thunder.
Gr. ab Arthwr.

mgeisiwr, s. m.—pl. ymgeisiwyr (ymgals—gwr)
One who makes an effort or attempt; one who exerts himself.

mgel, s. m. (cel) Self-concealment; mutual concealment.

Yn mhob rhy, yn mhob rhyfel,
A wael hardd a' ochel,
Nid drug ond drug yn mgel.

In every extremity, in every war, what is seen is easily avoided, there is no mischief like mischief in concealment. Gerald.

mgelciad, s. m. (celciad) A self-sculking.

mgelciaw, v. a. (celciaw) To hide one's self slyly; to sculk mutually.

mgeleddig, s. (ymgel) Self-concealed; mutually concealed.

mgeledd, s. m. (cel) A protection, or succour;
a taking care; solicitude. Priodi er mwyn ym- geledd, to marry for the sake of being nursed.
Nef a gadarn iddo ei ymgeledd! Heaven preserve to him his succour!

Ni cheilir hodi hir er ymgeledd.

Long life will not be obtained with being careful. Adge.

mgeleddawl, s. (ymgeledd) Employing one's self in cherishing; mutually cherishing.

mgeleddiad, s. m. (ymgeledd) An employing one's self in screening; a cherishing.

mgeleddu, v. a. (ymgeledd) To take care of, to look after; to succour, to cherish, to nourish.

Ymgeleddu yr iaith, to cultivate the language.

mgeleddas, s. (ymgeledd) Apt to cherish.

mgeleddwr, s. m. (ymgeledd) A cherisher.

mgeiliad, s. m. (ymgel) A hiding one's self; a mutually hiding.

VOL. II.

Ymgelu, v. a. (ymgel) To hide one's self; to hide mutually.

Y gwr gwrdd uchel,
A'r gwaw gwadd bawl,
Pan ei yn rhyfel
Nid ymgelu.

The man ardently towering, with the spear making the gale to howl, when he goes into war he will not hide himself.
D. Benfras, i Llywelyn III.

Ymgellwair, s. m. (cellwair) The being in jest; a mutual jesting.

Ymgellweliad, s. m. (ymgellwair) A being jesting;
a jesting with one another.

Ymgellweliaw, v. a. (ymgellwair) To employ one's self in jesting; to jest mutually.

Ymgengeniad, s. m. (cefigeniad) A making envious; a mutually envying.

Ymgengennu, v. a. (cefigennu) To make one's self envious; to envy mutually.

Ymgernial, s. m. (cernial) A wrangling. v. a.
To wrangle; to be cheek by jowl.

Ymgernodiad, s. m. (cernodiad) A knocking one another about the head.

Ymgernodiaw, v. a. (cernodiaw) To knock one another about the head.

Ymgerydd, s. m. (cerydd) Self-reprehension;
mutual reproof or reprimand.

Ymgeryddiad, s. m. (ymgerydd) A self-reprehending; a mutually reprehending.

Ymgeryddu, v. a. (ymgerydd) To self-rebuke;
to reprehend mutually.

Ymgestiad, s. m. (cestiad) A self-guzzling; a mutually guzzling.

Ymgesta, v. a. (cestu) To guzzle one's self; to guzzle mutually.

Ymgethriad, s. m. (cethriad) A self-arguing; a mutually driving or egging on.

Ymgethru, v. a. (cethru) To drive one's self; to drive, to urge, or to importune mutually.

Ymgigaw, v. a. (cigaw) To go after the flesh.

Ymgigiad, s. m. (cigiad) A seeking carnal gratification.

Ymgigwiniad, s. m. (cigwiniad) An employing one's self in clatching of flesh; a mutually clatching.

Ymgigwiniaw, v. a. (cigwiniaw) To employ one's self in clatching of flesh; to mangle flesh mutually.

Ymgil, s. m. (cil) A self-retreating; a mutual recession or retiring.

Ymgiliad, s. m. (ymgil) A being retreating; a mutually retreating or receding.

Ymgillaw, v. a. (ymgil) To be retreating; to retreat or to recede mutually.

Trystan barabli difni,
Ys aydd trin mid ymgiliad,
Cydymith it oedd Gwalechawl.

Trystan of blameless conversation, in the day of conflict that would not be retreating, a comrade of thine was Gwalechawl.
Eng. Gwalechawl a Trypsan.

Ymgiprys, s. m. (ciprys) A mutual brawl.

Ymgiprysiad, s. m. (ymgiprys) A mutually brawling, or scrambling.

Ymgiprysu, v. a. (ciprys) To wrangle mutually.

Ymgiladdiad, s. m. (claddiad) A self-barrying.

Ymgiladdu, v. a. (claddu) To bury one's self.

Ymgleddyfawd, s. m. (clleddyfawd) A mutual cutting with sword.

Ymgleddyfiad, s. m. (clleddyfiad) A mutually cutting or fencing with sword.

Ymgleddyfu, v. a. (clleddyfu) To use the sword mutually; to fence.

Ymgiload, s. m. (clload) A locking one's self; a mutually locking.

4 M

Ymglofori, v. a. (clodfori) To exalt one's self in fame; to celebrate mutually.

Y cenedloedd—yddio ef yr ymgloforant.

The nations, in him they shall bless themselves. Jeremi 4. 2.

Ymgloforiad, s. m. (clodforiad) A self-exalting in fame; a mutually celebrating.

Ymgloi, v. a. (cloi) To lock one's self; to lock mutually.

Ymgloiad, s. m. (cloliad) A mutually babbling.

Ymgloian, v. a. (cloian) To babble mutually.

Ymglodaw, v. a. (cludaw) To self-carry; to carry mutually; to heap mutually.

Ymgindiad, s. m. (cludiad) A self-carrying; a mutually carrying or heaping.

Ymglywydd, s. m. (clwydd) The act of bringing one's self forward.

Ymglywyddaw, v. a. (ymglywydd) To bring one's self forward; mutually to bring to pass.

Ymglymiad, s. m. (clymiad) A self-binding; a mutually binding.

Ymglymu, v. a. (clymu) To self-bind; to bind or tie mutually.

Ymglymynt yr heg am fy mhen.

The sedges have wrapped themselves about my head. Iona 2. 5.

Ymglywad, s. m. (clywad) A feeling one's self; a mutually feeling.

Ymglywed, v. a. (clywed) To feel one's self; to feel mutually.

Nesum goron aegon anghyfnorthi:

Nid ymglyw dyw byw o'r hyd fal fi!

Shall I not be overcome by death of pining grief: not a living person in the world feels himself like me!

Elin. ab Gwalchmai, m. Nest

Ymgnoad, s. m. (cnoad) A being gnawing.

Ymgnoi, v. a. (cnoi) To keep gnawing.

Ymgodi, v. a. (codi) To raise one's self.

Ymgodiad, s. m. (codiad) A raising one's self.

Ymgodymiad, s. m. (codymiad) A tumbling one's self; a mutually tumbling.

Ymgodymu, v. a. (codymu) To tumble one's self; to tumble mutually.

Ymgoddi, v. a. (coddi) To vex one's self; to vex or tease mutually.

*Yn llys y Wryddgrag,
A Lloegr yn agluddag,
Llawer a'u goddug
Yn ymgoddi.*

In the court of Gwyddgrag, whilst England is under a cloud, many will attract our notice afflictting themselves.

Ll. P. Moch.

Ymgoddiad, s. m. (coddiad) A vexing one's self; a mutually vexing or afflictting.

Ymgoeliad, s. m. (coeliad) A being believing; a mutually believing.

Ymgoeliaw, v. a. (coeliaw) To be believing; to believe mutually.

Ymgofiad, s. m. (cofiad) A self-recollecting; a mutually remembering.

Ymgofiaw, v. a. (cofiaw) To self-recollect; to remember mutually.

Ymgoffeidiad, s. m. (coffeidiad) A being embracing; a mutually embracing.

Ymgoffeidiaw, v. a. (coffeidiaw) To employ one's self in embracing; to embrace mutually.

Mae—Adeg i ymgoffeidiaw.

There is a time to embrace one another.

L. Hopcyn.

Ymgoffiad, s. m. (coffiad) A self-recollecting.

Ymgoffau, v. a. (coffau) To self-recollect; to remember mutually.

Ymgoled, s. m. (coled) A self-cultivating; a mutual cultivation.

Ymgoleddiad, s. m. (ymgoled) A being self-cultivating; a mutually cultivating.

Ymgoleddu, v. a. (ymgoled) To self-cultivate; to cultivate mutually.

Ymgoledduw, s. m. (ymgoled—gw) One who self-cultivates.

Ymgoli, s. m. (coll) A self-loss; a mutual loss.

Ymgolli, v. a. (ymgoll) To lose one's self; mutually to lose.

Ymgolliad, s. m. (ymgoll) A losing one's self; a losing one another.

Ymgomiaw, v. a. (comiaw) To be conversing.

Ymgorfiad, s. m. (corfiad) A self-embodying; a mutually embodying.

Ymgorfiaw, v. a. (corfiaw) To self-embody; mutually to embody.

Ymgorffolaethu, v. a. (corffolaethu) To self-incorporate; to incorporate mutually.

Ymgorniad, s. m. (corniad) A mutually butting with horns.

Ymgorniaw, v. a. (corniaw) To butt one another with horns.

Ymgosbi, v. a. (coabi) To punish one's self.

Ymgosbiad, s. m. (coabiad) A punishing one's self; a mutually punishing.

Ymgosi, v. a. (coal) To scratch one's self; to scratch one another.

Ymgosiad, s. m. (coiad) A scratching of one's self; a mutually scratching.

Ymgrafangiad, s. m. (crafangiad) A self-clawing; a mutually clawing.

Ymgrafangt, v. a. (crafangu) To claw one's self; to claw one another.

Ymgrafiad, s. m. (crafiad) A scratching of one's self; a mutually scratching.

Ymgrafu, v. a. (crafu) To scratch one's self; to scratch mutually.

Nid oes goddo yr enlaidd i ymgrafu.

He has not got the sense to scratch himself. Aep.

Ymgrafwr, s. m.—pl. ymgrafwyr (crafw) One who scratches himself.

Ymgrebychiad, s. m. (crebychiad) A beaming crinkled; a mutually crinkling.

Ymgrebychu, v. a. (crebychu) To become crinkled; to crinkle mutually.

Ymgred, s. m. (créd) A mutual pledge or plight; espousal; a self-pledging.

Ymgrediad, s. m. (ymgred) A mutually pledging; a pledging one's faith.

Ymgredu, v. a. (ymgred) To enter into mutual belief; to give mutual pledge.

Ymgrefiad, s. m. (crefiad) A being craving; a mutual craving.

Ymgrefu, v. a. (crefu) To employ one's self a craving; to crave mutually.

Ymgreiniad, s. m. (creiniad) A self-crawling about the ground.

Ymgreiniaw, v. a. (creiniaw) To be crawling.

Lle yr ymgreinio y march y gedy beth o'i faw.

Where the horse shall have rolled himself he will have made his heir. Aep.

Ymgreiriad, s. m. (creiriad) A swearing one's self on relics; a mutually covenanting.

Ymgreiriaw, v. a. (creiriaw) To swear one's self to covenant mutually.

Ymgrenloni, v. a. (creulon) To become cruel; to become mutually cruel.

Ymgrenloniad, s. m. (creuloniad) A becoming cruel; a becoming mutually cruel.

Ymgripiad, s. m. (cripiad) To claw one's self; to claw or scratch one another.

Ymgripiaw, v. a. (cripiaw) To claw one's self; to scratch or claw one another.

Ymgroesi, v. a. (croesi) To cross one's self; to secure one's self; to be cautious, to be mindful, to beware. Gweli i ti ymgroesi, better for thee to beware.

Ymgroesiad, s. m. (croesiad) A securing one's self, a bawaring; a taking heed.

Ymgrogi, v. a. (crogi) To hang one's self.

Ymgrogiad, s. m. (crogi) A hanging one's self.

Ymgrothi, v. a. (crothi) To swell one's paunch.

Ymgrothiad, s. m. (crothiad) A swelling out one's paunch.

Ymgwydrad, s. m. (crwydrad) A using one's self to stray; a mutually straying.

Ymgwydraw, v. a. (crwydraw) To use one's self to stray; to wander mutually.

Ymgryfiad, s. m. (cryfiad) A self-strengthening; a mutually strengthening.

Ymgryfau, v. a. (cryfau) To strengthen one's self; to strengthen mutually.

Ymgryfau ac ymryfau; nac awyryd ac nac ofio; cawr y'r Argyrdd dy Ddew y gryn i ti.
Fortify thyself and be of good courage! be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed; for the Lord thy God is with thee. Isaiah 1: 10.

Ymgrymawl, a. (crymawl) Self-prostrating; mutually prostrating.

Ymgrymiad, s. m. (crymiad) Self-prostration; a mutual prostration; a mutually bowing.

Ymgrymu, v. a. (crymu) To prostrate one's self; to prostrate mutually.

Ymgrymwr, s. m.—pl. ymgrymwyr (crymwr) One who prostrates himself.

Ymgrynâd, s. m. (crynâd) A rounding of one's self; a mutually rounding.

Ymgrynâu, v. a. (crynâu) To round one's self; to become rounded; to round mutually.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.

Ymgwag, s. m. (cawg) A putting on a frown; v. a. To put one's self in a frown.

Mi yn ymgwag, a'm phant yn ymgwagol.
I putting on a frown, and my children altogether by the ears.
Arwel Gwyn.

Ymgwydd, s. m. (cwydd) A self-falling; a mutual fall.

Ymgwyddaw, v. a. (ymgwydd) To cause one's self to fall; to fall mutually.

Ymgwyddiad, s. m. (ymgwydd) A falling of one's self; a mutually falling.

Ymgwynaw, v. a. (cwynaw) To be complaining; to complain mutually.

Ymgwynfan, v. a. (cwynfan) To keep one's self in continual wailing; to wail or to complain mutually.

Ymgwyniad, s. m. (cwyniad) A being complaining; a complaining mutually.

Ymgwynofain, v. a. (cwynofain) To employ one's self in complaining, to be mutually wailing.

Ymgyd, s. m. (cyd) A self-connection; a mutual union or junction; communion.

Tri pheth a gellir dyn a gwrdd yn Nwyr: a fo radd yn y byd, bodwch cydwybod, ac ymgyd a'r nefwyl.
Three things will men obtain by believing in God: what may be necessary in the world, peace of conscience, and communion with the heavenly.
Barddas.

Ymgydgam, s. m. (cydgam) A mutual dalliance. v. a. To dally mutually.

Cart—
A wneitham ymgydgam gywl.
We obtained a mutual dalliance formerly.
D. ab Gwilym.

Ymgydgori, v. a. (cydgor) To join one's self to a congregation; mutually to unite in a congregation.

Gwilymwrdd Emyr Llydaw a ddathledd i'r ymge hon gyda Gwilymwrdd Rheddyr, i adnewyddu cred a bodwyl, ac ymgydgori yn Ymge Llydaw a wneith.
The family of Emyr Llydaw came into this island with Gwilymwrdd son of Rheddyr, to renew the christian faith, and unite themselves in congregation in the land of Llydaw as what they did.
Bonded y Saint.

Ymgydgyfarch, s. m. (cydgyfarch) A self-congratulation; a mutual congratulation. v. a. To congratulate one's self; to congratulate mutually.

Ymgydgyfarchiad, s. m. (ymgdgyfarchiad) A self-congratulating; a mutually congratulating.

Ymgydiad, s. m. (ymgyd) A joining mutually; a coupling one's self.

Ymgydiaw, v. a. (ymgyd) To lay hold or to join mutually, to couple one's self; to grapple together.

Ymgydociad, v. a. (cydociad) To make one's self cotemporary; mutually to be cotemporary.

Ymgydociad, s. m. (cydociad) A making one's self cotemporary; a mutually becoming cotemporary.

Ymgydredeg, v. a. (cydredeg) To render one's self concurrent; a mutually concurring.

Ymgydrediad, s. m. (cydrediad) A being concurrent; to concur mutually.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniaw, v. a. (cydryniaw) To be consenting; to consent mutually.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymgydryniad, s. m. (cydryniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.

Ymguddiaw er gwa y gwl.
To hide one's self on the top of the chest.
Addeg.

Ymguddiaw, s. m.—pl. ymguddiawyr (ymgudd—gwr) One who hides himself.

Ymgulad, s. m. (culad) A making one's self slender, or narrow; a mutually narrowing.

Ymgulan, v. a. (culan) To make one's self lean or slender; mutually to narrow.

Ymguraw, v. a. (caraw) To beat one's self; to beat mutually.

Ymguriad, s. m. (cariad) A self-beating; a mutually beating.

Ymgurwr, s. m.—pl. ymgurwyr (carwr) One who beats himself; one who employs himself in beating; a fighter.

Ymgusanad, s. m. (casaniad) A mutually kissing.

Ymgusanu, v. a. (cusanu) To kiss mutually.

Gwyr dda, llyr gryn dda lu
A'm gas hon i'w gwanu.
The fresh good liquor, it would send too hard concerning an old gudge to kiss me another.
Icu. ab Gruffudd Llew, i Gwyr Cawr.

Ymgyfadrnabod, v. a. (cyfadrnabod) To acknowledge mutually; to acknowledge one's self.

Ymgyfaddasiad, s. m. (cyfaddasiad) A mutually conforming; a rendering one's self mutually suitable.

Ymgyfaddasu, v. a. (cyfaddasu) To conform mutually; to adapt one's self.

Ymgyfaddaw, v. a. (cyfaddaw) To bind one's self in a mutual promise.

Ymgyfaddawiad, s. m. (ymgyfaddaw) A binding one's self in a mutual promise.

Ymgyfagweddiad, s. m. (cyfagweddiad) A self-conforming; mutual conformation.

Ymgyfagweddu, v. a. (cyfagweddu) To conform one's self; to conform mutually.

Ymgyfammodi, v. a. (cyfammodi) To covenant mutually; to self-covenant.

Ymgyfammodiad, s. m. (cyfammodiad) A mutually covenanting; a covenanting or agreeing for one's self.

Ymgyfaniad, s. m. (cyfaniad) A making one's self whole; a becoming mutually entire.

Ymgyfanu, v. a. (cyfanu) To make one's self whole; to become mutually entire.

Ymgyfarfod, s. m. (cyfarfod) A mutually meeting; a mutual contact; a mutual encounter. v. a. To meet mutually; to make a mutual onset.

Ar yr ymgyfarfod cynllaf, ef a las podwar cant o wyr Bradmunt.

On the first encounter there were slain four hundred of the men of Bradmunt.

Eb Hywel—ni a ddygwn rhagdynt hwyntau yr ellddynt, o rhydd Dew cœid i ymgyfarfod a hwynt.

Hywel said: we will take from them too what they possess, if God will give permission for to come in mutual contact with them.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgyfarfodiad, s. m. (ymgyfarfod) A being meeting; a mutually meeting.

Ymgyfartaliad, s. m. (cyfartaliad) A making one's self equal, a comparing one's self; a mutually vicing.

Ymgyfartalu, v. a. (cyfartalu) To make one's self equal; to vie mutually.

Pa dryswag a oill ymgyfartalu i frenin Prydain, o gadetald a dewredd marchogion!

What prince can put himself in competition with the king of Britain, as to the fortitude and gallantry of his knights!

Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgyfarwyddaw, v. a. (cyfarwyddaw) To self-inform; mutually to direct or inform.

Ymgyfarwyddiad, s. m. (cyfarwyddiad) A directing one's self; a mutually directing.

Ymgyfateb, s. m. (cyfateb) Mutual correspondence. v. a. To correspond mutually.

Ymgyfatebawl, a. (ymgyfateb) Mutually corresponding.

Ymgyfatebiad, s. m. (ymgyfateb) A mutually corresponding.

Ymgyfathrach, s. m. (cyfathrach) A mutual connection.

Ymgyfathrachiad, s. m. (ymgyfathrach) A forming a mutual connection.

Ymgyfau, v. a. (cyfau) To render one's self whole; to become mutually whole.

Ymgyfeilliachu, v. a. (ymgyfeilliach) To join one's self in friendship; to contract a mutual friendship.

Ymgyferbynaw, a. (cyferbynaw) Being set in opposition; mutually opposing.

Ymgyferbyniad, s. m. (cyferbyniad) A coming in opposition; a mutually opposing.

Ymgyferbynied, v. a. (cyferbynied) To set one's self against; to counteract mutually.

Nid oedd yr ail a fal can ddevered ag ef ya y deyrnam, ac a ddyferbynied ag ef.

There was not another who were as brave as he in the kingdom, and who could mutually contend with him.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgyfethl, s. m. (cyfethl) A mutual struggle. v. a. To be striving together.

Damweliawr dda was kenne ardderchawr, y wallt cymhell y nai i'r brenin, a'r thall ya nai i Afarwydd. Lloedd cydion y gwara paled, ac o'r divedd liddaw am y fuddgyddieth: a yu oedd enw nai y brenin Hlirin, ac enw y thall Cabelyn: a gnd ymddiw ac ymgyfethl ymgyfethl clyddi: a wnaid Cabelyn a hnt pen Hlirin.

Two noble young men, the one of them a nephew to the king, and the other a nephew to Afarwydd son of Lloedd, happened to dispute, in playing at ball, and at last to grow angry about the winning; and to be particular, the name of the king's nephew was Hlirin, and the name of the other Cabelyn: then, after growing mutually angry and striving together, Cabelyn drew his sword and cut off the head of Hlirin.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgyfethliad, s. m. (ymgyfethl) A being striving; a mutually struggling.

Ymgyfethlu, v. a. (ymgyfethl) To be struggling; to struggle mutually.

Ymgyfhogi, v. a. (cyfhogi) To edge at one another mutually.

Dybbellaw clyddi a wnaid ac ymgyfhogi.

Draw sword was what they did and mutually cut at one another.

H. Owen ab Idris—Mabynog.

Ymgyfhogiad, s. m. (cyfhogiad) A mutually edging at one another.

Ymgyfiad, s. m. (cyfiad) A making one's self equal; a mutually equalling.

Ymgyfiaw, v. a. (cyfiaw) To make one's self equal; to become mutually equal.

Ymgyfiawniad, s. m. (cyfiawniad) A self-justification; a mutually justifying.

Ymgyfiawnau, v. a. (cyfiawnau) To self-justify; to justify mutually.

Pa fodd yr ymgyfiawnau!

What way shall we justify ourselves?

Gemma et. R.

Ymgyfiawniad, s. m. (cyfiawniad) A self-justifying; a mutually justifying.

Ymgyfiawnu, v. a. (cyfiawnu) To justify one's self; to justify mutually.

Ymgyfiawni, v. a. (cyfiawni) To self-complete; to become mutually complete.

Ymgyfiawniad, s. m. (cyfiawniad) A self-completing; a mutually completing.

Ymgyfiad, s. m. (cyfiad) A self-collocation; a mutual collocation.

Ymgyfiad, s. m. (cyfiad) A making one's self mutually beneficial.

Ymgyfiesu, v. a. (cyfiesu) To make one's self mutually beneficial.

Ymgyfiu, v. a. (cyfiu) To situate one's self mutually to collocate.

Ymgyfiogi, v. a. (cyfiogi) To hire one's self; to hire mutually.

Nid enwyth ymgyfiogi.

It is not easy to hire one's self.

Adap.

Ymgyfiogiad, s. m. (cyfiogiad) A hiring one's self; a mutually hiring.

Ymgyfiogwr, s. m.—pl. ymgyfiogwyr (cyfiogwr) One who hires himself.

Ymgyfiwynaw, v. a. (cyfiwynaw) To be consociated; mutually to consociate.

Tudyl ferch Brycheu a las gae y Sennu, pan oedd ya ymgyfiwynaw a'i thad.

Tudyl daughter of Brycheu was killed by the Sennu, when she was visiting her father.

Adap. y Sennu.

Ymgyfiwyniad, s. m. (cyfiwyniad) An associating one's self; a mutually associating.

Ymgysychiad, s. m. (cyfychiad) A mutually connecting one's self.

Ymgysychu, v. a. (cyfychu) To connect one's self mutually.

Ymgysychu a deuth, ac nac ymgysych ag unweith.

Consolate thyself with the wise, and do not connect thyself with the unwise.

Ymgysuaw, v. a. (cyfauaw) To render one's self of the same temper; to become mutually of one temper.

Ymgysuawsiad, s. m. (cyfauawsiad) A making one's self congenial.

Ymgysnerthiad, s. m. (cyfnerthiad) A collecting one's strength together; a mutually assisting.

Ymgysnerthu, v. a. (cyfnerthu) To collect together one's strength; to assist one another mutually.

Ymgysnesiad, s. m. (cyfnesiad) Self-approximation; mutual approximation.

Ymgysnesu, v. a. (cyfnesu) To self-approximate; mutually to approximate.

Ymgysnewid, s. m. (cyfnewid) Self-transformation; a mutual change of one's self; a mutual interchange.

Ymgysnewidiad, s. m. (ymgyfnewid) A self-transforming; a mutually interchanging.

Ymgysnewidiaw, v. a. (ymgyfnewid) To transform one's self; to interchange mutually.

Ymgysnydd, s. m. (cyfnydd) A self-intertwining; a mutual intertwining.

Yn ymgysnydd ddydd neu ddau.

Intertwining together a day or two.

W. Cymanul.

Ymgysnyddawl, s. m. (ymgyfnydd) Self-intertwining; mutually intertwining.

Ymgysnyddiad, s. m. (ymgyfnydd) A self-intertwining; a mutually intertwining.

Ymgysnyddu, v. a. (ymgyfnydd) To self-intertwine; mutually to intertwine.

Ymgysodi, v. a. (cyfodi) To raise one's self; a mutually rising.

Y rhai a ymgysodynt i ym herbyn a ddarostyngol ddaidd.

Those who raised themselves against me hast thou subdued under me.

S. Samuel 22. 66.

Ymgysoddiad, s. m. (cyfodiad) A raising one's self; a mutually rising.

Ymgysoddi, v. a. (cyfoethi) To enrich one's self; a mutually becoming rich.

Ymgysoddiad, s. m. (cyfoethiad) A self-enriching; a mutually enriching.

Ymgysodhogi, v. a. (cyfoethogi) To self-enrich; to be mutually enriched.

Ymgysodhogiad, s. m. (cyfoethogiad) A self-enriching; a mutually enriching.

Ymgysfranc, s. m. (cyfranc) A bringing one's self into mutual contact; a mutually meeting.

Ymgysfrancu, v. a. (cyfrancu) To bring one's self into mutual contact; to meet mutually.

Ymgysfraniad, s. m. (cyfraniad) A bringing one's self to participate; a mutually participating.

Ymgysfranogi, v. a. (cyfranogi) To render one's self participating; to become mutually participating.

Ymgysfranogiad, s. m. (cyfranogiad) A rendering one's self participating; a becoming mutually participating.

Ymgysfrannu, v. a. (cyfrannu) To bring one's self to divide mutually; a mutually partaking, dividing, or communicating.

Ymgysfred, s. m. (cyfred) Mutual concurrence.

Ymgysfredawl, s. m. (ymgyfred) Mutually concurrent

Ymgysfredog, s. m. (ymgyfred) To run together mutually; to form a concurrence.

Ymgysfrediad, s. m. (ymgyfred) A mutually running together; a mutually concurring.

Ymgysfreithgar, s. m. (cyfreithgar) Apt to be litigious; mutually litigious.

Ymgysfreithgarwch, s. m. (ymgyfreithgar) Aptness to be litigious; mutual litigiousness.

Ymgysfreithiad, s. m. (cyfreithiad) A being litigious; a mutually litigating.

Ymgysfreithlaw, v. a. (cyfreithlaw) To commit one's self to law; to bind one's self by law; to litigate mutually.

Gwell cydunaw yn ddwrwg naog ymgysfreithlaw yn dda.

Better to agree badly than mutually to litigate well.

Ymgysfreithlwr, s. m. (cyfreithlwr) One who litigates.

Ymgysfrif, s. m. (cyfrif) A self-reckoning; a mutual reckoning.

Ymgysfrifaw, v. a. (ymgyfrif) To reckon one's self, to esteem one's self; mutually to reckon.

Ymgysfrifiad, s. m. (ymgyfrif) A reckoning one's self; self-estimation; a mutually reckoning.

Ymgysfrin, s. m. (cyfrin) A confederacy. v. a. To join in mutual secrecy.

Gores cyfeillach ymgysfrin a ddwydd.

The best company is a communion with the happy.

Calog Ddaeth.

Ymgysfrinachiad, s. m. (cyfrinachiad) A being communicating mutual secrets.

Ymgysfrinach, v. a. (cyfrinach) To employ one's self in mutual secrets; to talk mutual secrets.

Ymgysfrinachant yn ddilcheligar yn erbyn dy bobl.

They have taken counsel together craftily against thy people.

Psalm 23. 2.

Ymgysfrinaw, v. a. (cyfrinaw) To render one's self mysterious; to become mutually mysterious.

Ymgysfriniad, s. m. (cyfriniad) A rendering one's self mysterious; a becoming mutually mysterious; a joining together.

Ymgysfrithiad, s. m. (cyfrithiad) A making one's self to seem or to appear; a mutually appearing.

Ymgysfrithlaw, v. a. (cyfrithlaw) To make one's self to appear; mutually to seem or to appear.

Ymgysfroddi, v. a. (cyfroddi) To render one's self contributory; mutually to contribute.

Ymgysfroddiad, s. m. (cyfroddiad) A making one's self to contribute; a mutually contributing.

Ymgysfrwch, s. m. (cyfrwch) A bringing one's self in contact; a mutual meeting. v. a. To put one's self in contact; to meet mutually.

Ymgysfrwyddaw, v. a. (cyfrwyddaw) To self-expedite; to become mutually expeditious.

Ymgysfrwyddiad, s. m. (cyfrwyddiad) A self-expediting; a mutually expediting.

Ymgysfunaw, v. a. (cyfunaw) To combine one's self; to combine mutually.

Ymgysfunaw a orug Gwrgi Garwydd a'i wyr ag Edolled brenin y Saxon.

What Gwrgi Garwydd did was to unite himself with Edolled king of the Saxons.

Ymgysfuniad, s. m. (cyfuniad) A self-uniting; a mutually uniting or combining.

Ymgysfwrdd, s. m. (cyfwrdd) A meeting together; a encounter. v. a. To come into mutual contact.

Ymgysgriad, s. m. (cyfygriad) A self-straitening; a mutually straitening.
Ymgysygu, v. a. (cyfygu) To self-straiten, to straiten or embarrass mutually.
Ymgysfelybiad, s. m. (cyffelybiad) A self-comparison; a becoming mutually similar.
Ymgysfelybu, v. a. (cyffelybu) To compare one's self; to become mutually similar.
Ymgysfred, s. m. (cyffred) Self-comprehension; a mutual comprehension.
Ymgysfredawl, s. (ymgyfred) Self-comprehending; mutually comprehending.
Ymgysfrediad, s. m. (ymgyfred) A self-comprehending; a mutually comprehending.
Ymgysfredu, v. a. (ymgyfred) To self-comprehend; to comprehend mutually.
Ymgysfroad, s. m. (cyffroad) A self-agitating; a mutually agitating.
Ymgysfroadwl, s. (cyffroadwl) Self-agitating; mutually agitating or moving.
Ymgysfroi, v. a. (cyffroi) To agitate one's self; to become mutually agitated.
Ymgyshoeddi, v. a. (cyhoeddi) To announce one's self; to become mutually public.
Ymgyshoeddiad, s. m. (cyhoeddiad) A proclaiming or announcing one's self; a mutually proclaiming.
Ymgysyddaw, v. a. (cyhoddaw) To accuse one's self; to accuse mutually.
Pan ei lladron i ymgysyddaw, y self cywiriald eu da.
When thieves go to accuse one another, honest people get their property.
Ymgysyddiad, s. m. (cyhuddiad) A self-accusing; a mutually accusing.
Ymgysyhrdd, s. m. (cyhwrdd) A mutual contact.
Ymgysyhrddu, v. a. (ymgyhwrdd) To come in contact; to meet mutually.
Ymgysyhydiad, s. m. (cyhydiad) A rendering one's self co-extending.
Ymgysyhydiad, s. m. (cyhydiad) A mutually vying or emulating; a putting one's self in competition.
Ymgysyhydu, v. a. (cyhydu) To put one's self in competition; mutually to emulate.
Ymgysyhydu, v. a. (cyhydu) To make one's self co-equal in length; mutually to co-extend.
Mae iom i yr amddiffynwr ddangos ei fraint, ac ymgysydu ei fraint ag yr hawlwr.
It is proper for the defendant to show his right, and to compare mutually his right with the plaintiff.
Ymgysyhrddiad, s. m. (ymgyhwrdd) A becoming in contact; a mutually encountering.
Ymgysyhrddu, v. a. (ymgyhwrdd) To come in contact; mutually to come in contact.
Ymgysyllaeth, s. m. (cyllaeth) The giving up one's self to grief; a mutual sorrow.
Ymgysyllleliad, s. m. (cylleliad) A cutting one's self with a knife; a mutually cutting with knives.
Ymgysyllleu, v. a. (cyllellu) To cut one's self with a knife; to cut one another with knives.
Ymgysydeithaslad, s. m. (cymdeithaslad) A mutually consociating; a mutual incorporation; a connecting one's self with society.
Ymgysydeithasu, v. a. (cymdeithasu) To associate mutually; to associate one's self.
Ymgysymodriad, s. m. (cymodriad) A proportioning or regulating one's self, a mutually proportioning.
Ymgysymodrol, v. a. (cymodrol) To moderate one's self, mutually to moderate.

Ymgysymodroliad, s. m. (cymodroliad) A self-moderating, a mutually befitting.
Ymgysymodru, v. a. (cymodru) To regulate mutually.
Ymgysymeriad, s. m. (cymeriad) A taking one's self, a being taking, a mutually taking.
Ymgysymeryd, v. a. (cymeryd) To take one's self, to be taking, to take mutually.
Po bawch yna cwrch wled y tan iu drew i ych cwrch ac ymgymeryd i ych dlogi hyd anwra.
If you were here you should see the fire on the further side of the walls just becoming kindled to burn you to nothing.
Ellis Wyn, R. Cong.
Ymgysymu, s. m. (cymysu) To mix one's self, to mix mutually.
Take thyself away and cut thyself off into the sea. W. B. Roberts.
Ymgysymesuraw, v. a. (cymesuraw) To proportion one's self, mutually to adapt.
Ymgysymesuriad, s. m. (cymesuriad) A self-adaptation, a mutually proportioning.
Ymgysymhariad, s. m. (cymhariad) A joining one's self in fellowship; a mutually becoming connected.
Ymgysymhara, v. a. (cymhara) To pair one's self; to associate mutually.

*Gwyllt a gwar a 'ymgymeras
 Er anafid hys—*

The wild and the tame will couple together to hugst offspring.
E. P. P.

Ymgysymbell, s. m. (cymbell) A self-urging; a mutual urging.
Ymgysymbellu, v. a. (cymbellu) To urge one's self; to urge mutually.
Ymgysymbelliad, s. m. (ymgymbell) An urging one's self; a mutually urging.
Ymgysymbyllaw, v. a. (cymbyllaw) To persuade one's self, to persuade mutually.
Ymgysymbylliad, s. m. (cymbylliad) A reasoning one's self, a mutually persuading.
Ymgysymbwysaw, v. a. (cymbwysaw) To adapt one's self, to adjust mutually.
Ymgysymbwysiad, s. m. (cymbwysiad) A self-adapting; a mutually proportioning.
Ymgysymodi, v. a. (cymmodi) To make one's self agreeable; to reconcile one's self; to become mutually reconciled.
Ymgysymodiad, s. m. (cymmodiad) Self-reconciliation; mutual reconciliation.
Ymgysymoni, v. a. (cymoni) To make one's self compact; to become mutually compact.
Ymgysymoniad, s. m. (cymoniad) A rendering one's self compact; a mutually disposing.
Ymgysymwyniad, s. m. (cymwyniad) A rendering one's self complacent, a becoming mutually courteous.
Ymgysymwynu, v. a. (cymwynu) To render one's self complacent; to become mutually courteous.
Coron o bob gwyblyd ymgysymu.
The best of every happiness is to be mutually complacent.
Adams.

Ymgysymyreddiad, s. m. (cymyreddiad) A self-assuming, a mutually assuming.
Ymgysymyreddu, v. a. (cymyreddu) To arrogate to one's self; to assume mutually.
Ymgysymysiad, s. m. (cymysiad) A mixing one's self, a mutually mixing.
Ymgysymysu, v. a. (cymysu) To mix one's self; to mix mutually.
Ymgysymysiad, s. m. (cymysiad) A self-cutting; a mutual excision.
Ymgysymysu, v. a. (cymysu) To cut one's self; to cut down mutually.

Med yr eidd y byddiadau yn ymddangos yn ymgyngedig i'w chynhyr, yd ymgydd Eidd a' ymgydd ymgydd, ac ymgydd y cydhyr.

As the boats were mutually docking above and nothing done one another indeed better-docking together, Edd found an opportunity to come in contact with Eidd, and they mutually agreed upon the words.

(mgynyddiad, s. m. (cyndyniad) A making one's self stubborn, a mutually being obstinate.

(mgynyddu, v. a. (cyndynu) To be stubborn; to act with mutual obstinacy.

(mgynddelirigi, v. a. (cynddelirigi) To madden one's self; to become mutually enraged.

(mgynddelirigiad, s. m. (cynddelirigiad) A maddening one's self, a becoming mutually enraged.

(mgynheiniad, s. m. (cynheiniad) A being contending, a mutually wrangling.

(mgynheiniu, v. a. (cynheiniu) To contend, to wrangle mutually.

Gaeu eidd—
Gae lwa eidd ymgyddu.

The chieftain office with this one was to employ himself in wrangling.

(mgynheiniad, s. m. (cynheiniad) A self-warming, a becoming mutually warmed.

(mgynheiniu, v. a. (cynheiniu) To warm one's self, to become mutually warmed.

(mgynhyrriad, s. m. (cynhyrriad) A self-agitating, a mutually disturbing.

(mgynhyrriu, v. a. (cynhyrriu) To disturb one's self; to disturb mutually.

(mgynnadl, s. f. (cynnadl) Mutual dispute or conversation.

(mgynnadliad, s. m. (ymgynadl) An employing one's self in conversation, a mutually conversing.

(mgynnadliu, v. a. (ymgynadliu) To be conversing; to converse mutually.

Wa dderwydd ymgyddu a dylid.

Seek not to be disputing with an angry person.

Cery.

(mgynnal, s. m. (cynnal) A self-support; mutual support. v. a. To support one's self; to contain one's self; to support one another.

(mgynnalid, s. m. (ymgynnal) Self-supportation, a mutually supporting.

(mgynnefnaw, v. a. (cynnefnaw) To accustom one's self; to become mutually familiar.

(mgynnefniad, s. m. (cynnefniad) A familiarizing one's self; a mutually habituating.

(mgynnull, s. m. (cynnull) A self-collecting; a mutual gathering.

(mgynnullaw, v. a. (ymgynnull) To self-collect; mutually to collect.

Gwedi ychydig o ddyddiau cynnalid Eidd gweid ymgyddu a' lwyddu ac yn ddyddu ac yn ddyddu.

After the space of a few days Eidd found his ships collected together making, a descent on the land of Aithu.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgydduad y dydduad y dan y nef yn na.

Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place.

Genesis 1. 9.

(mgynnulliad, s. m. (ymgynnull) A self-collecting; a mutually assembling.

(mgynnwys, s. m. (cynnwys) Self-compression; a mutual compactness; mutual admission.

(mgynnwysaw, v. a. (ymgynnwys) To make one's self compact, to compress one's self; to contain one's self; mutually to compress; mutually to admit.

(mgynnwysiad, s. m. (ymgynnwys) A containing one's self; a shrinking one's self; a mutually receiving or admitting.

(mgynnwys, s. m. (cynnwys) A containing one's self; a mutual offer. v. a. To offer one's self; to offer mutually.

As I saw I saw that in silence, one or other would do that in silence in silence with one or other in silence.

When the first of that a moment, there were present one or other in silence of one and of another, one or other in silence.

(mgynnwysiad, s. m. (cynnwysiad) A self-offering; a mutually offering.

(mgynnwysu, s. m. (cynnwysu) Self-growth; a mutual growth or increase.

(mgynnwysiad, s. m. (cynnwysiad) A self-increasing; a mutually increasing.

(mgynnwysu, v. a. (cynnwysu) To increase one's self; to increase mutually.

(mgynnwysu, s. m. (cynnwysu) Self-increase; mutual increase.

(mgynnwysiad, s. m. (cynnwysiad) A self-increasing; a mutually increasing.

(mgynnwysu, v. a. (cynnwysu) To increase one's self; to increase mutually.

Ymgydduad ymgyddu ac yn ddyddu.

They have assembled together against the nation.

Psalm 11.

(mgynnwysiad, s. m. (cynnwysiad) A mutually consulting, a consultation together, a self-consulting.

(mgynnwysu, s. m. (cynnwysu) A giving a mutual pledge; a self-pledging.

(mgynnwysu, v. a. (cynnwysu) To give a mutual pledge; to combine together, to pledge one's self.

By the hand of ymgyddu ac yn ddyddu, as the ymgyddu ac yn ddyddu of the nation.

Hebrew took the crown from Arthur through compulsion and robbery; and so that he might have it, what he did was to enter into a mutual compact with the nation.

Psalm 11.

(mgynnwysu, s. m. (cynnwysu) A mutual adhesion; a mutual coupling; a self-coupling.

(mgynnwysiad, s. m. (cynnwysiad) A mutually connecting or coupling; a coupling one's self.

(mgynnwysu, v. a. (cynnwysu) To adhere mutually; to couple mutually; to couple one's self.

(mgynnwysu, v. a. (cynnwysu) To lay a mutual pledge or wager.

(mgynnwysu, s. m. (cynnwysu) A laying a mutual pledge or wager.

(mgynnwysu, s. f. (cynnwysu) A mutual approach; an encounter.

(mgynnwysu, s. m. (cynnwysu) Congreasing; encountering, mutually approaching.

(mgynnwysu, s. m. (cynnwysu) A mutually approaching, a mutually resorting.

(mgynnwysu, s. m. (cynnwysu) A mutual approach, a mutual onset.

(mgynnwysu, v. a. (cynnwysu) To approach or to resort mutually; to make a mutual onset; to use one's self to resort.

Ymgyddu ac yn ddyddu, as the ymgyddu ac yn ddyddu of the nation.

Hebrew took the crown from Arthur through compulsion and robbery; and so that he might have it, what he did was to enter into a mutual compact with the nation.

Psalm 11.

(mgynnwysu, s. m. (cynnwysu) A self-reaching; a mutual reach or attainment. v. a. To reach one's self; to attain mutually.

(mgynnwysu, s. m. (cynnwysu) A reaching one's self, a mutually reaching or attaining.

(mgynnwysu, v. a. (cynnwysu) To reach one's self; to reach or to attain mutually.

(mgynnwysu, s. m. (cynnwysu) A matching or comparing one's self; a mutually comparing or vying.

(mgynnwysu, s. m. (cynnwysu) A matching or comparing one's self; a mutually comparing or vying.

Ymgysadlu, v. a. (cysadlu) To make one's self equal or equivalent; to vie with one another.

Ymgysgiad, s. m. (cysgiad) A sleeping one's self; a mutually sleeping.

Ymgysgodi, v. a. (cysgodi) To shelter one's self; to shelter or to shadow mutually.

Ymgysgodiad, s. m. (cysgodiad) A shadowing one's self; a mutually sheltering.

Ymgysgu, v. a. (cysgu) To sleep one's self; to sleep mutually.

Pan yddoeddyt gwedi gosawd y byddinoedd o bob parth, ac yn ymgysgu halmch, cynychu eu mam eili dau, oeddi i'w eiwa, yn brydaw, ac yn cerdded trwy y gosododigion fyddinoedd.

When they had made an end of arraying the hosts on every side, and just sleeping themselves in suspense, behold the mother of both of them, who was yet alive, hastening and walking through the embattled hosts.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgysgrawl, a. (cysgrawl) Self-consecrating; mutually consecrated.

Ymgysgriad, s. m. (cysgriad) A consecrating one's self; a mutual consecration.

Ymgysgru, v. a. (cysgru) To consecrate one's self; to consecrate mutually.

Ymgysoni, v. a. (cysoni) To make one's self consonant; to become mutually consonant.

Ymgysoniad, s. m. (cysoniad) An according one's self, a mutually according or harmonizing.

Ymgysylltiad, s. m. (cysylltiad) A self-conjoining; a mutually conjoining.

Ymgysylltu, v. a. (cysylltu) To conjoin one's self; to conjoin or to connect mutually.

O anghraifft eu brein ymgysylllaw, ac o'r wryw fynawen feddyd hono ymlaen ac ymgysylltu a theyrnas nef a organ.

From the example of their king they rather themselves together, and out of that same baptismal font, purify themselves and ally themselves with the kingdom of heaven, was what they did.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgystiwn, s. m. (cystiwn) Mutual alliance.

Ymgystynawi, a. (cystiwn) Mutually allied.

Ymgystlyniad, s. m. (cystiwn) A mutually joining in alliance; a connecting one's self.

Ymgystlynu, v. a. (ymgystiwn) To form a mutual alliance; to ally one's self.

Tair gornes gadarn Ynys Prydain & gystlynynt yn un :—Sef cystall y Cornau, ac ymgystlynu a wnsynt ag y Cysariad, onid ayt yn un; ac al o'r tair y bu y Cysariad; i'w dydd oeddynt y Bacton, ac ymgystlynu ag ddwy ereill a wnsynt, yn erbyn y Cymry.

The three powerful molestations of the Isle of Britain that combined in one: to be particular, the first was the Cornau, and what they did was to combine themselves with the Cæsarians, so that they became one; and the second of the three were the Cæsarians; the third were the Bactons, and what they did was to combine themselves with the other two, against the Cymry.

Triedd.

Ymgystlynwr, s. m.—pl. ymgystlynwyr (ymgystlwn—gwr) One who joins himself in alliance.

Ymgystlynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymgystlwn) One who joins himself in alliance.

Ymgystuddiad, s. m. (cystuddiad) A distressing or afflicting one's self; a mutually afflicting.

Ymgystuddiaw, v. a. (cystuddiaw) To afflict one's self; to distress one another mutually.

Cyhoeddais ymryd i ymgystuddiaw ger bron ein Daw.

I have proclaimed a fast to afflict ourselves in the presence of God.

Ezra 8. 21.

Ymgystuddiwr, s. m.—pl. ymgystuddiawyr (cystuddiwr) One who afflicts himself.

Ymgystwyad, s. m. (cystwyad) A chastising one's self; a mutually castigating.

Ymgystwyaw, v. a. (cystwyaw) To chastise one's self; to castigate mutually.

Ymgysuraw, v. a. (cysuraw) To comfort one's self; to afford mutual comfort.

Al yn y rhai hyn yr ymgysurwn?

Is it in these that I should receive comfort?

Isaiah 57. 6.

Ymgysuriad, s. m. (cysuriad) A self-comforting, a mutually comforting.

Ymgysttynu, v. a. (cyd—tynu) To agree mutually.

Ymgysweiriad, s. m. (cysweiriad) A putting one's self in order; a preparing one's self; a mutually preparing.

Ymgysweiriaw, v. a. (cysweiriaw) To put one's self in order; mutually to prepare.

Arglwydd, ehai Cabelyn, ymgysweiriaw yn ddifedd, i'w gysweryd corow Ynys Prydain.

My Lord, said Cabelyn, prepare thyself immaculately, and run to receive the crown of the Isle of Britain.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgyswilyddiad, s. m. (cyswilyddiad) A shaming one's self; a mutually shaming.

Ymgyswilyddiaw, v. a. (cyswilyddiaw) To shame one's self; to shame mutually.

Ymgyswiraw, v. a. (cyswiraw) To perfect one's self; to fulfil one's promise; mutually to perfect.

Ymgyswiriad, s. m. (cyswiriad) A perfecting one's self; a making one's self true; a mutually becoming true.

Ymgyswreiniad, s. m. (cyswreiniad) A making one's self accurate or correct; a mutually becoming accurate.

Ymgyswreiniaw, v. a. (cyswreiniaw) To make one's self exact, to adjust one's self; mutually to adjust.

Sef a waia Bown ymgyswreiniaw yn ei gyfwr.

What Bown did was to adjust himself in his mind.

B. Bown—Bisop.

Ymhaeriad, s. m. (haeriad) An affirming or asserting one's self; a mutually asserting.

Ymhaerlwgaw, v. a. (haerlwgaw) To make one's self surly or snarling; to become mutually surly.

Ymhaerlwgriad, s. m. (haerlwgriad) A making one's self surly; a becoming mutually surly.

Ymhaeru, v. a. (haeru) To assert one's self; to maintain, assert, or affirm mutually.

Ymhagrâd, s. m. (hagrâd) A making one's self ugly; a rendering mutually ugly.

Ymhagrân, v. a. (hagrân) To make one's self ugly; to become mutually ugly or harsh.

Ymhagriad, s. m. (hagriad) A making one's self ugly or harsh; a becoming mutually ugly.

Ymhagru, v. a. (hagru) To make one's self ugly or harsh; to become mutually harsh.

Ymhalogi, v. a. (halogi) To defile one's self; mutually to pollute.

Nac ymhaloged neb am y mawr.

Let none defile themselves for the dead.

Leithen 2.

Ymhalogiad, s. m. (halogiad) A polluting one's self; a mutually polluting.

Ymhalogwr, s. m.—pl. ymhalogwyr (halogwr) One who defiles himself.

Ymhaniad, s. m. (haniad) A causing one's self to separate or proceed; a mutually proceeding.

Ymhau, v. a. (hanu) To separate one's self; to separate or to proceed mutually.

Ymhaddiad, s. m. (haddiad) A self-adorning; a mutually adorning.

Ymharddu, v. a. (harddu) To make one's self slightly; to deck one's self; to adorn mutually.

Er mwyn gwyr o bell—ymharddu i'r harddu.

For the sake of men from afar thou hast decked thyself with ornaments.

Ezra 8. 21.

Ymheddychiad, s. m. (heddychiad) A self-pacifying, a mutually pacifying.

Ymheddychu, v. a. (heddychu) To pacify one's self; to pacify mutually.

ymhel, v. a. (hel) To employ one's self; to meddle; to meddle mutually. Paid ag ymhel a hwn, cease meddling with this.

ymhela, v. a. (ymhel) To employ one's self; to meddle; to meddle mutually.

ymhelaethawl, a. (helaethawl) Self-amplifying, mutually amplifying.

ymhelaethiad, s. m. (helaethiad) A self-enlarging; self-elongation; a mutually amplifying.

ymhelaethu, v. a. (helaethu) To amplify one's self; to amplify mutually.

ymhell, adv. (pell) At a distance, far off.

ymhellach, adv. (ymhell) At a greater distance.

ymheneiddiad, s. m. (heneiddiad) A making one's self seem old.

ymheneiddiaw, v. a. (heneiddiaw) To make one's self seem old.

ymherawd, s. m. (perawd) A self-causing.

ymherawdr, s. m.—pl. ymherodron (ymherawdr) That is self-causing; a tyrant; an emperor. It is the same with amherawdr and ymddyberawdr.

Ymherawdr o ddyn, a tyrant of a person. Sil.

ymherawdwr, s. m.—pl. ymherawdwyr (ymherawd—gwr) One who causeth of himself; an emperor.

ymhercyd, v. a. (hercyd) To apprehend.

ymherodraeth, s. m. (ymherawdr) The sway or government of an emperor; an empire.

ymherodraidd, a. (ymherawdr) Like an emperor.

ymherodrawl, a. (ymherawdr) Imperial.

Oedl eis byngymyngs ymherod, yr ymherodwr fyddia hachw a wsguon rhag y Prydeiniad.

After the mutually mixing of them together, the imperial or my presently dispersed before the Britons. Dr. ab Arthur.

ymherodres, s. f. (ymherawdr) An empress.

Em herodres, an empress
Ymherodres ieo wyt d.

Gem of the resurgent heaven, for light the empress of radiance art thou. Dr. ab Gwilym, fr. hwd.

ymheriad, s. m. (heriad) A shewing one's self out; a putting one's self in a posture of defiance; a mutual defying.

ymheriaw, v. a. (heriaw) To shew one's self out; to put one's self in a threatening posture; to threaten mutually.

ymheulaw, v. a. (heulaw) To bask in the sun.

ymheuliad, s. m. (heuliad) A sunning one's self.

ymhewydiad, s. m. (hewyd) A self-devoting; a mutually devoting.

ymhewydu, v. a. (hewydu) To devote one's self; to devote mutually.

O ymhewyda, ymhewyda ddywyfoledd
In self-devoting, devote thyself to godliness. Adage.

ymhiliad, s. m. (hiliad) A self-generating; a mutually producing or generating.

ymhiliaw, v. a. (hiliaw) To self-produce; to produce or generate mutually.

ymhlirâd, s. m. (hirâd) A self-lengthening; a mutually lengthening.

ymhlirâu, v. a. (hirâu) To self-lengthen; to lengthen or elongate mutually.

ymhlegyd, adv. (plegyd) In respect of.

ymhlith, adv. (plith) Amongst, in the midst.

ymhoewi, v. a. (hoewi) To enliven one's self; to be mutually sprightly.

ymhoff, v. a. (hoff) To please one's self; to take delight; to love mutually.

Yr hen sydd yn toi y nefoedd a chymylau—nid ymhoewi efe yn ogerlun fwr.

He who covereth the heavens with clouds: he taketh no pleasure in the legs of a man. Psalms 117, 16.

VOL. II.

Ymhoffiad, s. m. (hoffiad) A pleasing one's self; a taking delight; a mutually loving.

Ymhoffwr, s. m.—pl. ymhoffwyr (hoffwr) One who takes delight.

Ymholf, v. a. (hoff) To employ one's self in questioning; to be enquiring; mutually to question. Paid ag ymholf, adose with questioning.

Ymholiad, s. m. (holiad) A being questioning; a mutually questioning.

Ymholwr, s. m.—pl. ymholwyr (holwr) One who employs himself in questioning.

Ymholydd, s. m.—pl. h. ien (holydd) One who employs himself in questioning; a disputant.

Pa le mae ymholydd y byd hwn?

Where is the disputer of this world? 1 Cor. xiii. 11, 20.

Ymhollti, v. a. (hollti) To split one's self; to split mutually.

Ymholltiad, s. m. (holltiad) A splitting one's self; a mutually splitting.

Ymhoni, v. a. (honi) To assert one's self; to avouch, to claim, to challenge for one's self; to assert mutually.

Ymhoniad, s. m. (honiad) An assuming to one's self; a mutually assuming.

Ymhonwr, s. m.—pl. ymhonwyr (honwr) One who assumes or asserts himself.

Ymhuddaw, v. a. (huddaw) To cover one's self.

Ymhuddiad, s. m. (huddiad) A self-covering.

Ymhuliad, s. m. (huliad) A decking one's self over; a mutually enveloping.

Ymhuliaw, v. a. (huliaw) To deck or envelope one's self; to envelope mutually.

Ymhunaw, v. a. (hunaw) To sleep one's self; to sleep mutually.

Ymhuniad, s. m. (huniad) A sleeping one's self; a mutually sleeping.

Ymhunydd, s. m. (hunydd) Self-repose.

Ac os Dan o nef ned ym cynyddi,

Cetudod gwa llynydd iau ym hynyddi.

And if God of heaven but possess me, fairly placed with the splendour one there will be for me the spot of self-repose. Gwaithmaei.

Ymhwedd, s. m. (hwedd) A beseeching earnestly. v. a. To be beseeching; to implore mutually.

Ymhwedd, s. m. (hwedd) A mutual push; a mutual assault. v. a. To make a mutual assault.

Ymhwyll, s. m. (hwyl) A putting one's self in a course; a mutual setting off.

Ymhwyliad, s. m. (ymhwyl) A putting one's self in order or on a course; a mutually setting off.

Ymhwyliaw, v. a. (ymhwyl) To take to one's self a course; mutually to set in order.

Ymhyderiad, s. m. (hyderiad) A self confiding; a mutually depending.

Ymhyderw, v. a. (hyderw) To fit one's self with confidence; a mutually confiding.

Ymhyfaad, s. m. (hyfaad) A self-emboldening; a mutually emboldening.

Ymhyfan, v. a. (hyfan) To self-embolden; to embolden mutually.

Ymhyfiad, s. m. (hyfiad) A self-emboldening; a mutually emboldening.

Ymhyfrydiad, s. m. (hyfrydiad) A self-delighting; a becoming mutually delighted.

Ymhyfrydu, v. a. (hyfrydu) To delight one's self; to be mutually delighted.

Ymhyfn, v. a. (hyfn) To embolden one's self; to be mutually assuming confidence.

Ymhyfnaf er arghyhoeddi dyn—ei fod ei newn eddw o elysbath yn e. byu Daw.

I will embolden myself to slander the man, of his being in a state of cunity against God. S. Tr. fedyd.

Ymhylliad, s. m. (hylliad) A scaring one's self; a mutually scaring.

Ymhyllu, v. a. (hyllu) To scare one's self; to scare mutually.

Ymhynodi, v. a. (hynodi) To signalize one's self, to signalize mutually.

Ymhynodiad, s. m. (hynodiad) A self-signalizing; a mutually signalizing.

Ymhyrddiad, s. m. (ymhwrdd) A thrusting one's self; a mutually impelling or thrusting.

Ymhyrddu, v. a. (ymhwrdd) To impel or thrust one's self; to thrust mutually.

Ymhyrddwr, s. m.—pl. ymhyrddwyr (ymhwrdd—gwr) One who thrusteth himself.

Ymhysysiad, s. m. (hysysiad) An informing one's self; a making one's self known; a mutually informing.

Ymhysysu, v. a. (hysysu) To inform one's self; to make one's self known; to inform mutually.

Illa fab dyn, llefara wrth bendurriad Israel—pa rai yr ymhysysais llydus lwy, wrth eu dŵyn allan o dir yr Aipht.

Son of man, speak unto the elders of Israel: those to whom I have made myself known, in bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt. Ezekiel 20. 9.

Ymiachâad, s. m. (iachâad) A self-healing; a mutually healing; a bidding mutual adieu.

Ymiachân, v. a. (iachân) To heal one's self; to heal mutually; to bid farewell to one another.

A chwi pan ymiachawyd, Fôrfa dir y prysfaid wyf.

With you when I mutually bid farewell, I am the food of worms. Ll. ab Hywel ab Iew. ab Gronw.

Ymiasâad, s. m. (iasâad) A pervading one's self with a sudden emotion or shock; a mutually giving a shock.

Ymiasân, v. a. (iasân) To pervade one's self with a shock; to shock mutually.

Ymiasiad, s. m. (iasiad) A being affected; a mutually filling with quick emotion.

Ymiasu, v. a. (iasu) To fill one's self with emotion; mutually to shock.

Ymiawl, s. m. (iawl) The employ of one's self in worship; mutual worship.

Ymiolad, s. m. (ymiawl) A being worshipping; a mutually worshipping.

Ymioli, v. a. (ymiawl) To employ one's self in adoration; to worship mutually.

*Ni nawd I ddriadiad ymioli & Duw,
Yn erbyn dydd cynt;
Ni thebyg drud y trengi.*

It is not common for the mischievous to be employing himself in converse with God, against the day of affliction: the bold thinks not that he shall die. Riacha.

Ymiraw, v. a. (iraw) To anoint one's self.

Pwy bynag a ymro a'i lawr enaint, fe wel ei friwiau.

Whoever anoints himself with the true anction, he will see his wounds. Ella Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ymiriad, s. m. (iriad) A self-anointing.

Ymiseliad, s. m. (iseliad) A self-lowering; a mutually lowering or humbling.

Ymiselu, v. a. (iselu) To humble one's self; mutually to lower or humble.

Ymlacâad, s. m. (llacâad) A slackening one's self; a mutually slackening.

Ymlacân, v. a. (llacân) To slacken one's self.

Ymladiad, s. m. (lladiad) A blessing one's self.

Ymladrata, v. a. (lladrata) To employ one's self in stealing; to steal mutually.

Ymladu, v. a. (lladu) To bless one's self.

Ymladd, s. m.—pl. t. an (lladd) A mutual cutting off; a battle, a fight. v. a. To cut off mutually; to fight.

Self yw ymladd, dyrchaf, a gwasod, a gwed, a gach.

What constitutes fighting is lifting up the hand, and striking; and blood, and wound. Wast Law.

A wydd, ehai Dyfrig, ymladdwch trwm eich gwad.

Ah, good people, said Dyfrig, fight for your country. Gt. ab Arthur.

*Er bod yn hawdd ei charu,
Hi â ymladd drowy orwenn.*

Though she is easy to be courted, she will fight through me. Arwâl y gurgwyl.

Nid gwaeth yr ymladd ôg no gieu.

Not worse will the wrathful fight than the brave. Idag.

Ymladdawl, a. (ymladd) Pugnacious, fighting.

Ymladdfa, s. f. (ymladd) A place of battle.

Ymladdgar, a. (ymladd) Pugnacious, fighting.

Ymladdgarwch, s. m. (ymladdgar) Pugnacity.

Ymladdiad, s. m. (ymladd) A fighting.

Ymladdwr, s. m.—pl. ymladdwyr (ymladd—gwr) A fighter.

Ymlaen, adv. (blaen) Before, forward, onward.

Gwell on gair ymlaen na dda yn ol.

Better one word before than two after. Idag.

Ymlaenllaw, adv. (ymlaen—llaw) Before-hand.

Ymlaesiad, s. m. (llaesiad) A self-declining; a decaying gradually or drooping.

Ymlaesu, v. a. (llaesu) To slacken one's self; to decline mutually; to flag; to decline; to become indifferent.

Ymlafniad, s. m. (llafniad) A mutually blading; a romping, or pulling about.

Ymlafniaw, v. a. (llafniaw) To be mutually blading; to romp.

Ymlamiad, s. m. (llamiad) An employing one's self in striding; a mutually striding or skipping.

Ymlamsach, s. m. (llamsach) An employing one's self in skipping; a mutually skipping. v. a. To be skipping; to skip mutually.

Ymlamu, v. a. (llamu) To employ one's self in striding or skipping; to stride mutually.

Ymlanâad, s. m. (glanâad) A cleaning one's self; a mutually purifying.

Ymlanâu, v. a. (glanâu) To self-clean; to expiate one's self; mutually to purify.

Taenella arysat ddwr paredigweth—a goibent ar fwrdd ac felly ymlanâant.

Sprinkle over them the water of purification: and let them wash their clothes, and so they shall make themselves clean. Revel. 7.

Ymlanâwr, s. m.—pl. ymlanâwyr (glanâwr) One who cleanseth himself.

Ymlanw, v. a. (llanw) To fill one's self; to fill mutually.

Ymlanwad, s. m. (ymlanw) A self-filling; a mutually filling.

Ymlaryeiddiad, s. m. (llaryeiddiad) A self-mollifying, a mutually assuaging.

Ymlaryeiddiaw, v. a. (llaryeiddiaw) To self-assuage, mutually to soften.

Ymlasiad, s. m. (glasiad) A making one's self pale; a mutually turning blue.

Ymlasu, v. a. (glasu) To make one's self blue, to turn blue or pale mutually.

Ymlawenâad, s. m. (llawenâad) A gladdening one's self, a mutually gladdening.

Ymlawenân, v. a. (llawenân) To gladden one's self; to gladden mutually.

Ymlaweniad, s. m. (llaweniad) A gladdening one's self; a mutually gladdening.

Ymlawen, v. a. (llawen) To gladden one's self; to become mutually glad.

Ymlawenychiad, s. m. (llawenychiad) A causing one's self to exult; a mutually rejoicing.

Ymlawenychn, v. a. (llawenychn) To fill one's self with rejoicing; to rejoice mutually.

Ymlawenychwr, s. m.—pl. ymlawenychwyr (llawenychwr) One who rejoices in himself.

Ymleâd, s. m. (lleâd) A self-placing or self-location; a mutually placing.

Ymleâu, v. a. (lleâu) To place one's self; to self-locate, to place mutually.

Ymlechiad, s. m. (llechiad) A hiding one's self; a mutually sculking.

Ymlech, v. a. (llechn) To secrete one's self.

Ymlechwyr, s. m.—pl. ymlechwyr (llechwyr) One who hides himself.

Ymlediad, s. m. (lleidiad) Self-expansion.

Ymledrithiad, s. m. (lledrithiad) A making one's self visible and invisible at pleasure; a mutually using delusion.

Ymledrithiaw, v. a. (lledrithiaw) To make one's self illusive; to use illusion mutually.

Ymledu, v. a. (lledu) To self-expand, to spread one's self; to become diffused; to expand mutually.

Ymlefiariad, s. m. (llefiariad) A self-speaking; a mutually speaking.

Ymlefaru, v. a. (llefaru) To employ one's self in talking; to talk mutually.

Nid âr ar fyd ymlafair.

He will not go to sea who deth not use himself in talking. Adage.

Ymleferydd, s. m. (lleferydd) Dotage, drivelling, deliriousness. v. a. To utter nonsense; to drive, to be delirious.

Nid yw Camden ar dygeddied, diwisted, a manyled gwr ydoedd; ond ymlleferydd am lawer o bethau.

Camden, though he was so learned, so industrious, so accurate a man, deth only drivell with respect to many things. R. Evans.

Ymleff, s. m. (lleff) A quarrelling in words. v. a. To utter out words mutually.

Ymleihad, s. m. (lleihad) A self-lesseening; a mutually diminishing.

Ymleiau, v. a. (lleiau) To lessen one's self.

Ymleiddiad, s. m.—pl. ymleiddiaid (ymleidd) A combatant.

Ymlenwad, s. m. (ymlanw) A self-filling.

Ymlenwi, v. a. (ymlanw) To fill one's self.

Gwybwr ddyog, fâl terfng taeior gweilgi gan, Genym ni, fân am fân yn ymlenwi.

Heroic the example possessed by us, like the tumult of the raging sea in a white torrent loudly round the shore filling itself. Gr. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Ymletgynt, s. m. (lletgynt) A mutual contact.

*Dygawn ymletgynt;
Ceodas a'm doidynt,
Mor ynt anfonawg.*

We shall have to be mutually coming together; messengers to me are come, so numerous are they sent. Taliesin.

Ymletŷa, v. a. (lletŷa) To lodge one's self; to lodge mutually.

Ymletŷad, s. m. (lletŷad) A lodging of one's self; a mutually lodging.

Ymletŷwr, s. m.—pl. ymletŷwyr (lletŷwr) One who lodges himself.

Ymlewâd, s. m. (glewâd) An aptly exerting one's self; a being mutually clever.

Ymlewân, v. a. (glewân) To exert one's self, to become mutually clever.

Ymlewychiad, s. m. (llewychiad) A causing one's self to shine; a mutually shining.

Ymlewychu, v. a. (llewychu) To make one's self to shine; to be mutually shining.

Ymlowydd, s. m. (llewydd) Persuasion. v. a. To use persuasion, to persuade.

Yr hanneriad ymlowydd a wanynt a'r bobl, er mwyn gwyfyn Barabbas, a choill yr Iesu.

The elders, what they did was to use persuasion with the people, for the sake of asking for Barabbas, and destroy Jesus. W. Saltbury.

Ymlowyddiad, s. m. (ymlewydd) A persuading.

Ymlowyrchiad, s. m. (llewyrchiad) A self-shining; a mutually shining.

Ymlowyrchu, v. a. (llewyrchu) To make one's self to shine; to shine mutually.

Ymlowyrchol o fywydd Parau.

He shined forth from mount Parau.

Dred. 22. 2.

Ymliasiad, s. m. (lliasiad) A mutually wrangling; an employing one's self in wrangling.

Ymliasn, v. a. (lliasu) To wrangle mutually; to employ one's self in wrangling.

Ymliid, s. m.—pl. i. iau (llid) A pursuit; a following. v. a. To pursue.

Ennwng a fy lle nos ymlidior.

The guilty will see where he is not pursued.

Adage.

Ymlidfa, s. f. (ymliid) A pursuit, a chase.

Ymlidiad, s. m. (ymliid) A pursuing, a chasing.

Ymlidiawl, a. (ymliid) Pursuing, chasing.

Ymlidiwr, s. m.—pl. ymliidiwyr (ymliid-gwr) A pursuer, a chaser.

Ymliosogi, v. a. (lliosogi) To self-multiply; to multiply mutually.

Ymliosogiad, s. m. (lliosogiad) A self-multiplying; a mutually multiplying.

Ymlithr, s. m. (llithr) A sliding or slipping one's self away; a defection.

Ymlithrad, s. m. (ymlithr) A self-slipping; a mutually slipping or sliding.

Ymlithraw, v. a. (ymlithr) To slip one's self.

Ieremi aeth allan o Ierusalem, i fyned i wiad Benjamin, i ymli-thraw oddiyno yn nghaeol y bobl.

Jeremiah went forth out of Jerusalem to go into the land of Benjamin, to separate himself thence in the midst of the people. Jeremi 37. 12.

Ymlithrawl, a. (ymlithr) Slipping one's self.

Ymliw, s. m. (lliw) A reproach, a finding fault. v. a. To reproach, to find fault, to expostulate.

Rhaid i mi—

Ymliw a'ch aden emises.

I must find fault with thy studied trailing wine.

D. ab Gwilym, yr bardd.

Annerwydd ym, ond yw niw,

A'ch amled a chwi ymliw.

Unfortunate we are, that it is of no use, and you being so numerous, with you to expostulate.

T. Ald.

Ymliwiad, s. m. (ymliw) Self-expostulation.

Ymliwiad, v. a. (ymliw) To self-reproach; to expostulate.

Ymliwiadl, a. (ymliw) Self-accusing.

Ymliwied, v. a. (ymliw) To self-reproach; to expostulate.

Ymlochlach, s. m. (llawch—llach) Pederasty. v. a. To commit pederasty.

Ymlodraw, v. a. (llodiaw) To breach one's self; to breach mutually.

Ymlodriad, s. m. (llodriad) A breaching one's self; a mutually breaching.

Ymloewi, v. a. (gloewi) To brighten one's self.

Ymlogawl, a. (llogawl) Hiring of one's self.

Ymlogi, v. a. (llogi) To hire one's self, to prostitute one's self; to hire mutually.

Ymlogiad, s. m. (llogiad) A hiring of one's self, self-prostitution; a mutual hiring.

Ymmod, s. m. (mod) Motion. v. a. To move.

Ymmod pres at ddol! Pw ymmod.

To shake a tree that will not hurt to be shaken. Adage.

Ymmodadwy, a. (ymmod) Moveable.

Ymmodawl, a. (ymmod) Moving. Ymmodolion, moving things.

Ymmodbren, s. m.—pl. i. i (ymmod—pres) A stirring stick.

Ymmodedig, a. (ymmod) Being moved.

Ymmodi, v. a. (ymmod) To move, to stir.

Ymmodiad, s. m. (ymmod) A moving, a stirring.

Ymmodoldeb, s. m. (ymmodawl) Moveableness.

Ymmodrwydd, s. m. (ymmod) Moveableness.

Ymmodwr, s. m.—pl. ymmodwyr (ymmod—gwr) A mover, a stirrer, an agitator.

Ymnabod, s. m. (nabod) Mutual acquaintance. v. a. To be acquainted.

Covered ymnabod ymnabod dy honan.

The best acquaintance is to be acquainted of thyself.

Coleridge Dialect.

Ymnochad, s. m. (nachad) A refusing one's self; a mutually refusing.

Ymnochau, v. a. (nochau) To refuse one's self; to refuse mutually.

Ymnochdd, s. m. (nachdd) A being a protection.

Ymnochdi, v. a. (ymnochdd) To be employed in protecting.

Ymnochd, s. m. (nedd) Earnest entreaty. v. a. To beseech earnestly; to use mutual persuasion.

Ymnochdawl, a. (ymnochdd) Entreating; persuasive

Ymnochddiad, s. m. (ymnochdd) An entreating, a using persuasion; a mutually persuading.

Ymnochdu, v. a. (ymnochdd) To employ one's self in entreaty; to entreat earnestly; to persuade; to entreat mutually.

Y tylwad—ps foleit mwy yr ymnochda ei gysylltton odditho! er maist a ymnochdo, ni throant etc.

The poor: how much more do his friends go far from him! however he may pursue them with words, they will not turn to him. Discretion 19. 7.

Ymnochdwr, s. m.—pl. ymnochdwyr (ymnochd—gwr) One who entreats.

Ymnochitwad, s. m. (neillitwad) A putting one's self aside; a mutually going aside.

Ymnochitwaeth, s. m. (neillitwaeth) Self-recession; a mutual recession.

Ymnochitwaw, v. a. (neillitwaw) To put one's self aside; mutually to go aside.

Ymnochitwaw, alltwaw, odditwaw.

Separate thyself, I pray thee, from me. Genesis 12. 9.

Ymnochitwawl, a. (neillitwawl) Self-separating; mutually separating.

Ymnochitwawr, s. m.—pl. ymnochitwawyr (neillitwawr) One who separates himself, a separatist.

Ymnochthawl, a. (nerthawl) Self-strengthening; mutually strengthening.

Ymnochthiad, s. m. (nerthiad) A self-strengthening; a mutually fortifying.

Ymnochthu, v. a. (nerthu) To strengthen one's self; to strengthen mutually.

Ymnochthu cich dwyllaw, a byddwch feibon grymus.

Let your hands be strengthened, and be ye valiant men. 2 Samuel 2. 7.

Ymnochthwr, s. m.—pl. ymnochthwyr (nerthwr) One who strengthens himself.

Ymnochwad, s. m. (neswad) A drawing one's self near; a mutually drawing near.

Ymnochawl, a. (nesawl) Tending to draw one's self near; mutually approaching.

Ymnochau, v. a. (nesau) To draw one's self near; to draw near mutually.

Ymnochiad, s. m. (nesiad) A putting one's self near; a mutually moving nearer.

Ymnochau, v. a. (nesau) To move one's self near; to move near mutually.

Ymnochwid, s. m. (newid) A change of one's self; a mutual change. v. a. To change one's self; to change mutually.

Ymnochwidiad, s. m. (ymnochwid) A changing of one's self, a mutually changing.

Ymnochwidiaw, v. a. (ymnochwid) To change one's self; to change mutually.

Ymnochdraw, v. a. (nidraw) To entangle one's self; to entangle mutually.

Ymnochdriad, s. m. (nidriad) A self-entangling; a mutually entangling.

Ymnochfeiriad, s. m. (nifeiriad) A self-increasing in number, a mutually making numerous.

Ymnochfeiriaw, v. a. (nifeiriaw) To self-increase in number; to become numerous mutually.

Self a orag Gwafudd ab Rhys—dechreu ymnochdu, a gwyr ei gedi ac ni caml yn ymnochdu iung ato.

What Gwafudd son of Rhys did was to begin to form an army, and the men of his nation gathering themselves in numbers towards him. Caradawg o Lan Carfan.

Ymnochdi, v. a. (noddi) To self-protect, to seek refuge, to protect mutually.

Ymnochdiad, s. m. (noddiad) A self-protecting; a mutually protecting.

Ymnochethi, v. a. (noethi) To self-denude, to expose one's self, mutually to expose.

Noeth—a yhi o'r gwia, ac a foddwr, ac a ymnochethi yn aglennol ei tabell.

Noeth drank of the wine, and was drunken, and he uncovered himself within his tent. Genesis 9. 21.

Ymnochethiad, s. m. (noethiad) A making one's self naked; a mutually exposing.

Ymnochfiad, s. m. (nochfiad) A swimming one's self, a mutually swimming.

Ymnochfiaw, v. a. (nofiaw) To swim one's self, to swim mutually.

Ni waeth gnoddu gwy a foddwr, on gall eidd ymnochfiaw.

He cares not who shall be drowned, if he can swim himself. Adage.

Ymnochfiaw, v. a. (nwychfiaw) To enliven one's self, mutually to wanton.

Ymnochfiad, s. m. (nwychfiad) A self-enlivening; a mutually wantoning.

Ymnochddiad, s. m. (nyddiad) An entwining one's self; a mutually entwining.

Ymnochddu, v. a. (nyddu) To entwine one's self.

Ymnochthiad, s. m. (nythiad) A nestling one's self; a mutually nestling.

Ymnochthu, v. a. (nythu) To nestle one's self, a mutually nestling.

Ymo, adv. (wm—o) Aptly forthcoming.

Breloglym orwyddawr roddion ymo.

Steeds amply swift the gifts aptly coming forth. Llygod Gwr.

Ymochethiad, s. m. (gobeithiad) A filling one's self with hope, a mutually hoping.

Ymochethiaw, v. a. (gobeithiaw) To fill one's self with hope, mutually to hope.

Ymochryn, s. m. (gobryn) A mutual bargain. v. a. To bargain mutually.

Ymochryn a wael a'r wraig feithria y mab.

He entered into a bargain with the woman to nurse the boy. Malinogti.

Ymochryniad, s. m. (ymochryn) A mutually bargaining, a self-bargaining.

Ymochel, s. m. (gochel) An avoidance or eschewing; a mutual avoidance.

Ymochelgar, a. (ymochel) Apt to take care of one's self, apt mutually to avoid.

Ymocheliad, s. m. (ymochel) A taking heed of one's self, a mutually avoiding.

Ymochelwr, s. m.—pl. ymochelwyr (ymochel—gwr) One who takes care of himself.

Ymochelyd, v. a. (ymochel) To take heed of one's self; mutually to avoid.

Rhag yr hyn oll a ddywedais wrth y wraig, ymocheled hi.

Of all that I have said unto the woman, let her beware.

Barnwyr 13. 12.

Ymodinebu, v. a. (godinebu) To commit adultery

Gwrtheyrn Gwrthenau a roddes Ynys Duned—am gael ymodinebu a Rhonwen.

North ern of repulsive lips gave the Isle of Thanet for leave to commit adultery with Rowena.

Triaddd.

Ymodwrdd, s. m. (godwrdd) The engaging one's self in a tumult, a mutual tumult. v. a. To engage one's self in a tumult, to raise a mutual tumult.

Ymoddef, s. m. (goddef) A self-sufferance, mutual forbearance. v. a. To suffer one's self; to forbear mutually.

Ymoddefawl, a. (ymodder) Self-suffering, of mutual forbearance or suffering.

Ymoddefiad, s. m. (ymodder) A suffering one's self, a mutually bearing.

Ymoddefu, v. a. (ymodder) To suffer one's self, to forbear or to bear mutually.

Ymoddefwr, s. m.—pl. ymoddefwyr (ymodder—gwr) One who suffers himself.

Ymoedi, v. a. (oedi) To delay one's self, to delay or linger mutually.

Ymoediad, s. m. (oediad) A delaying one's self; a mutually delaying.

Ymoerfela, v. a. (ymoeri) To seek cool retreats.

Ymoeri, v. a. (oeri) To cool one's self.

Ymoeriad, s. m. (oeriad) A cooling one's self; a mutually cooling.

Ymofaliad, s. m. (gofaliad) A making one's self careful; a mutually caring.

Ymofalu, v. a. (gofalu) To make one's self careful; to be careful; to care mutually.

*Ymofalwn am fofi,
I wneuthur arch Un a Thri.*

Let us be careful in adoring, to fulfil the command of the One and Three.

D. ab Edmwnd.

Ymofalwr, s. m. (gofalwr) One who is careful.

Ymofeg, s. f. (gofeg) The having an impulse of the mind; an idea.

I wyli daeth ymofeg Ymofyo pw yw'r dyn deg.

An idea occurred to me of enquiring who the fair person can be.

D. ab Gwilym.

Ymofegiad, s. m. (gofeg) A forming an idea.

Ymofidiad, s. m. (gofidiad) A paining one's self; a mutually afflicting.

Ymofidiaw, v. a. (gofidiaw) To pain one's self; mutually to afflict.

Ymofidia a griddfana, merch Sion!

Be thou in pain, and do thou groan, daughter of Zion!

Micah 4. 10.

Ymofidiwr, s. m.—pl. ymofidiwyr (gofidiwr) One who puts himself in pain.

Ymofni, v. a. (ofni) To fill one's self with fear; mutually to become fearful.

Ymofniad, s. m. (ofniad) A filling one's self with fear; a mutually fearing.

Ymofwyad, s. m. (gofwyad) A visiting one's self; an employing one's self in visiting; a mutually visiting.

Ymofwyaw, v. a. (gofwyaw) To visit one's self; to employ one's self in visiting; to visit mutually.

Ymofyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (gofyn) The employ of one's self in asking; a mutual asking; an enquiry. v. a. To enquire.

*Ni wyf ond a welais;
Nid bybys ond a ymofyao.*

No one knows but who has seen; no one is informed but who shall have enquired.

Idg.

Ymofynawl, a. (ymofyn) Enquiring.

Ymofynblaid, s. f. (ymofyn—plaid) The seeking party; a plaintiff.

Ymofyngar, a. (ymofyn) Inquisitive; prying.

Ymofyngarwch, s. m. (ymofyn) Inquisitiveness.

Ymofyniad, s. m.—pl. t. an (ymofyn) An inquiring or seeking.

Ymofyniedydd, s. m. (ymofyniad) An inquirer.

Ymofynwr, s. m. (ymofyn—gwr) An inquirer.

Ymofynydd, v. a. (ymofyn) To inquire.

Ymofynydd, s. m. (ymofyn) An inquirer.

Ymogau, s. f. (gogan) Self-ridicule; mutual banter.

Ymoganiad, s. m. (ymogan) A ridiculing one's self; a mutually ridiculing.

Ymogannu, v. a. (ymogan) To ridicule one's self; to banter mutually.

Ymogawr, s. m. (gogawr) A shelter; a dwelling.

Gwae yr hen a gollu ei ymogawr.

Woe to the aged who shall have lost his dwelling.

Ymogel, s. m. (gogel) Self-care; mutual waiting.

Ymogelawg, a. (ymogel) Apt to avoid; wary.

Ymogelgar, a. (ymogel) Apt to avoid; wary.

Ymogeliad, s. m. (ymogel) A taking care of one's self; an avoiding; a mutually avoiding.

Ymogelus, a. (ymogel) Apt to take care; mutually apt to avoid.

Ymogelwr, s. m.—pl. ymogelwyr (ymogel—gwr) One who takes care of himself; one who waits.

Ymogelyd, v. a. (ymogel) To take care of one's self; to avoid; to avoid mutually.

Gwalth ysgafu ymogelyd.

It is light work to avoid.

Idg.

A wael drwg ymogeled.

Who doth evil let him take care of himself.

Idg.

A ymogelo rhag dyn ni ymogel rhag Duw.

He that shall protect himself against man will not protect himself against God.

Idg.

Ymogoneddiad, s. m. (gogoneddiad) A self-glorifying; a mutually glorifying.

Ymogoneddu, v. a. (gogoneddu) To glorify one's self; to glorify mutually.

Ti fy ngwas, Israel, yr hwn yr ymogoneddui tynd.

Thou my servant, O Israel, in whom I will be glorified.

Idg.

Ymogoni, v. a. (gogoni) A becoming elated or proud.

Ymogoni a wneut y gwyr o wledu eu gwraig.

The men become elated from seeing their wives.

Idg.

Ymogoniannu, v. a. (gogoniannu) To exalt one's self in triumph.

Ymogoriad, s. m. (ymogawr) A sheltering.

Ymogoriaw, v. a. (ymogawr) To shelter one's self.

Pob gogawr ydd ymogorio dyn ag ef, cadwed paw a agor.

As to a shelter that a person shall shelter himself, every body keep his shelter.

Idg.

Ymoguddiad, s. m. (goguddiad) A partly hiding; a mutually hiding partly.

Ymoguddiaw, v. a. (goguddiaw) To hide one's self partly; mutually to hide partly.

Ymogwyddaw, v. a. (gogwyddaw) To incline one's self; a mutually inclining.

Ymogwyddiad, s. m. (gogwyddiad) An inclining one's self; a mutually inclining.

Ymogyfarch, s. m. (gogyfarch) A partly noticing or noticing mutually.

mogyfartaliad, s. m. (gogyfartaliad) A rendering one's self partly equal; a mutually becoming partly equal.

mogyfartain, v. a. (gogyfartain) To make one's self partly equal.

mogyfuchiad, s. m. (gogyfuchiad) A rendering one's self equally exalted, a mutually becoming equally exalted.

mogyfuchiaw, v. a. (gogyfuchiaw) To render one's self equally exalted; mutually to become equally exalted.

Pan welas ef fod yn rhafori ar holl raddau yr enghyllon o oronant a thagwch, gan dremysu pawb, ef a arfartai ymoggyrchu a Daw.

When he perceived that he was surpassing all the orders of angels in glory and beauty, by contemplating every one, he formed the design to exalt himself equally with God. Stuclerius.

mogylchiad, s. m. (gogylchiad) A partly surrounding one's self, a mutually surrounding partly.

mogylchu, v. a. (gogylchu) To self-encircle partly, mutually to surround partly.

mogynianniad, s. m. (gogynianniad) A rendering one's self elated, a mutually elating.

mogyniannu, v. a. (gogyniannu) To make one's self elated, mutually to elate.

Ymogyniannu a orng Constance, ac addaw i Wrtheyrn gadaidd o ef i'w law y deyrnau.

What Constance did was to elate himself, and promise Gorthern to leave to him the government of the kingdom.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymogyniannu a orng Uthyr, ac ymdrolihan ar yr elawr—a dywedd—galwodd ef yn hasner marw: yn gwell yr hasner marw a orio nor byw cwbl y gorfer arno.

What Uthyr did was to elate himself, and turn himself on the litter, with saying, then better is the half dead that conquers than the completely living who is conquered. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymolodad, s. m. (golodad) A self-wallowing.

Ymolchfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (golchfa) A lavatory.

Ymolchi, v. a. (golchi) To wash one's self.

Ymolchiad, s. m. (golchiad) A washing one's self, a mutually washing.

Ymolenthiaiw, v. a. (golenthiaiw) To self-worship, mutually to flatter.

Ymoloi, v. a. (goloi) To lie down, to wallow.

A fagwyd ar y domen a gar ymoloi yn y dom.

That is bred upon the dunghill loves to wallow in the dung. Adams.

Ymolli, v. a. (olli) To grasp, to lay hold.

Peridia—yddi y mae pyramus, mae'n a llyg y llaw a'i hymollo.

Peridia, in there is the pyramus, a stone that burns the hand that shall lay hold of it. Deiv y Byd.

Ymolliad, s. m. (olliad) A grasping, a holding.

Ymolllwng, s. m. (gollwng) To let or loosen one's self, mutually to let go.

Trosom oddiwrth y byd bach, a throa y cyfng ymolllwngom i'w wlad dragwyd i'w, rhwng y ddau llys, i y gwagle byll.

We turned away from the little world, and over the intermediate region, we dropped ourselves to the eternal country, between the two courts, into the terrific void. Elia Wyn, B. Cwag.

Ymolllngawl, a. (ymollwng) Self-loosening, mutually loosening.

Ymolllngiad, s. m. (ymollwng) A letting one's self off; a mutually letting go.

Ymommedd, s. m. (gommedd) A self-refusal; a mutual refusal. v. a. To refuse one's self; to refuse mutually.

Rhen nef a'r rhodda ai ran trugaredd, Teyra-iron tanc erom heb ymommedd.

The Sovereign of heaven give us a portion of the mercy of the royal throne of peace, for our sake without inclining himself to refuse. Gr. ab Yr Ynad Coch.

Ymoralw, s. m. (goralw) An inquiry, a seeking. v. a. To inquire.

Ymoralwad, s. m. (ymoralw) An inquiring.

Ymorbwyll, s. m. (gorbwyll) A self-persuading; a mutual persuasion.

Dyfid ymorbwyll i dynion drwg, a cheislaw eu darwedd at ddadloni a doethineb.

It is necessary to our persuasion with bad men, and endeavour to allure them to goodness and wisdom. Bardas.

Ymorbwyllaw, v. a. (ymorbwyll) To employ one's self in persuading; to persuade mutually; to persuade.

Ymorbwylliad, s. m. (ymorbwyll) A being persuading; a mutually persuading.

Ymorchest, s. f. (gorchest) Self-exertion; mutual exertion or emulation.

Ymorchestawl, a. (ymorchest) Self-exerting; mutually striving, mutually emulous.

Ymorchestfa, s. f.—pl. ymorchestfeydd (ymor- chest) A place for feats or games.

Ymorchestgar, a. (ymorchest) Apt to exert one's self; mutually emulous.

Ymorcheiad, s. m. (ymorchest) A striving to excel; a mutual emulation.

Ymorchestu, v. a. (ymorchest) To employ one's self in excelling; to strive mutually for excellence; to struggle together; to emulate.

Yr ydym yn ymorchestu—eio bod yn gymeradwy ganddo ef.

We are labouring that we be acceptable with him. 3 Corinthaidd s. 9.

Ymorchestwr, s. m.—pl. ymorchestwyr (ymor- chest—gwr) One who strives to excel.

Ymorchuddiad, s. m. (gorchuddiad) A self-covering, a mutually covering over.

Ymorchuddiaiw, v. a. (gorchuddiaiw) To cover over one's self; to cover over mutually.

Merch weddw heb ymorchuddiaiw.

A single woman without entering into coverture. T. died.

Ymorchwydd, s. m. (gorchwydd) A self-swelling, a filling one's self with rage; mutual rage. v. a. To swell with rage; to swell with mutual rage.

Cynwan torf terfyn ymorchwydd, Cynwaw gywth gweithfuddig argwydd.

The foremost rank of a host of the tumult of mutual outrage, there the foremost spear of wrath a conquering chieftain bears. Cyddreio, m. O. Gwynedd.

Llyw gliw glew yn ymorchwydd.

The leader of a brave prince swelling himself with rage. Fryddad Bychan.

Ymorchwyddaw, v. a. (ymorchwydd) To swell one's self with rage, to grow mutually enraged.

Ymorchwyddiad, s. m. (ymorchwydd) A swelling one's self with rage.

Ymorchwyliad, s. m. (gorchwyliad) A self-occupying; a mutually working.

Ymorchwyllaw, v. a. (gorchwyllaw) To employ one's self; to operate mutually.

Ymorchymyniad, s. m. (gorchymyniad) A self-commending; a mutually desiring.

Ymorchymynu, v. a. (gorchymynu) To self-commend; to desire mutually.

I ddaw a Dewi ydd ymorchymynyst.

To God and Dewi they were commending themselves. Golyddan, Armes Frydd.

Ymorddiweddiad, s. m. (gorweddiad) An advancing one's self to an end; a making one's self to surpass; a mutually advancing to an equality.

Ymorddiweddu, v. a. (gorddiweddu) To make one's self to come up, to advance one's self to an equality; mutually to advance to an end.

Merys nad ymorddiwedda un creadur â Daw, ag of yn ymorddiwedda a phob peth; felly nid oes un creadur or a weler a allo ymorddiwedda a'r enaid, canys ef a ymorddiwedda a phob creadur gweladig.

As no creature advanceth itself to be equal with God; and he self advancing to be present with every thing; so there is not one creature, which is seen, that can advance itself equal with the soul for it advanceth itself to be present with every visible creature.
Escladarius.

Ymorddiwes, s. m. (gorddiwes) A mutual overtaking; the making one's self to overtake.

Ymorddiwesiad, s. m. (ymorddiwes) A making one's self to overtake.

Ymorddiwesa, v. a. (ymorddiwes) To overtake mutually; to make one's self to overtake.

Ymorfoleddiad, s. m. (gorfoleddiad) A mutually exulting; a self-exulting.

Ymorfoledda, v. a. (gorfoledda) To exult mutually; to exult in one's self.

Ymorfoleddwr, s. m.—pl. ymorfoleddwyr (gorfoleddwr) One who exults mutually, one who exults in himself.

Ymorfod, s. m. (gorfod) A self-conquest, a mutual conquest. v. a. To conquer one's self, to conquer mutually.

Ymorfodiad, s. m. (ymorfod) A self-conquering, a mutually conquering.

Ymorfoli, v. a. (gorfoli) To vaunt mutually, to vaunt one's self.

*Ymorfawi am a orfo,
Ymwas a llain yn min llo.*

He vaunts himself as to what he accomplished, thrusting with a blade in front of a boot.
Iolo Goch.

Ymorphwys, s. m. (gorphwys) A resting one's self, a mutual rest. v. a. To rest one's self, to rest mutually.

Ymorphwysaw, v. a. (ymorphwys) To rest one's self; to rest mutually.

Ymorheula, v. a. (gorheula) To bask one's self in the sun. s. m. The seeking of sunshine.

Dewiabeth—Ymorheula pen mynydd.

A choice enjoyment—the seeking of the sunshine of a mountain top.
Adams.

Ymorheuliad, s. m. (gorheuliad) A basking one's self in the sun.

Ymorhoffi, v. a. (gorhoffi) To delight one's self extremely; mutually to take extreme delight or fondness.

Ymorhoffiad, s. m. (gorhoffiad) A delighting one's self extremely; a mutually loving extremely.

Ymorillaesiad, s. m. (gorillaesiad) A self-trailing.

Ymorillaesu, v. a. (gorillaesu) To trail one's self.

Ymoriliwyn, s. m. (goriliwyn) A mutual escort; a self-protection.

Ymoriliwyniad, s. m. (ymoriliwyn) A mutually escorting; a self-protecting.

Ymorneat, s. f. (gornest) A mutual combat.

Ymorneatiad, s. m. (ymorneat) A mutually combating; an employing one's self in combat.

Ymorneatu, v. a. (ymorneat) To combat mutually, to employ one's self in combat.

Ymorneatwr, s. m.—pl. ymorneatwyr (ymorneat—gwr) One employed in combating.

Ymorol, s. m. (gorol) The act of seeking.

Ymorolgar, s. m. (ymorol) Inquisitive, seeking.

Ymoroli, v. a. (ymorol) To enquire, to seek.

Ymorsaf, s. f. (gorsaf) A station where one fixes himself.

*Gwilyd dy welid—
A'th foldadfa a'th fath ymorsaf.*

Observe to behold thee, with thy watched himle and thy exalted station.
Cynddelw, s. H. ab Owain.

Ymorsafiad, s. m. (ymorsaf) A stationing one's self, a mutually stationing.

Ymorsafu, v. a. (ymorsaf) To station one's self, to station mutually.

Ymorthio, s. m. (gorthio) A self-envelopement.

Ymorthiad, s. m. (ymorthio) A self-enveloping.

Ymorthï, v. a. (ymorthio) To self-envelop.

Ymorthïus, a. (ymorthio) Self-enveloping.

Ymoruchafiad, s. m. (goruchafiad) A self-exaltation, a mutually exalting.

Ymoruchafiaethiad, s. m. (goruchafiaethiad) An assuming to one's self pre-eminence, a mutually assuming pre-eminence.

Ymoruchafiaethu, v. a. (goruchafiaethu) To assume to one's self pre-eminence, to assume pre-eminence mutually.

Ymoruchafu, v. a. (goruchafu) To exalt one's self, to exalt mutually.

Ymorwyliad, s. m. (gorwyliad) The using one's self to watch or overlook.

Ymorwyliaw, v. a. (gorwyliaw) To use one's self to watch or overlook.

Ymorwyth, s. m. (gorwyth) An enraging. v. a. To put one's self in a rage.

Ymorwythaw, v. a. (gorwythaw) To put one's self in a rage, to enrage mutually.

Ymorwythiad, s. m. (gorwythiad) A putting one's self in a rage, a mutually enraging.

Ymosawd, s. m. (gosawd) A settling or placing one's self, a mutual onset. v. a. To place one's self, to set on mutually, to assault.

A'th wawd radd yn rhyu ymosawd.

With thy ready spear dreadfully assaulting.
Ll. P. Rhod.

Ymosgôd, s. m. (osgôd) A mutually going aside or avoiding, a withdrawing one's self aside.

Ymosgôl, v. a. (osgôl) To shun mutually, to withdraw one's self aside.

Ymosgorddi, v. a. (gosgorddi) To surround one's self with a retinue, mutually to form a retinue.

Ymosgorddiad, s. m. (gosgorddiad) A surrounding one's self with a retinue, a mutually forming a retinue.

Ymosgrain, s. m. (gosgrain) A crawling along.

Ymosgreiniad, s. m. (ymosgrain) A dragging one's self along, a crawling along.

Ymosgreiniaw, v. a. (ymosgrain) To drag one's self along, to crawl along.

Pe gwelid ddiawg y drag a'i cry, odo a ymosgreiniad of heu rhag of a chrysalis.

If the lady were to see the evil that awaits him, he would let himself out of his cloth for fear and shame.
Cadogan Rhys.

Ymosgryd, s. m. (gosgryd) A self-trepidation, mutual trepidation.

Ymosgrydiad, s. m. (ymosgryd) A mutually troubling; a making one's self to quake.

Ymosgrydiaw, v. a. (ymosgryd) To tremble mutually; to cause one's self to tremble.

Ymosgryn, s. m. (gosgryn) A mutual shock, a self-agitation.

*Gauwd gosgo gosgordd yn ddiha
Fol ymosgryn mawr gwr Gamlus;
Gauwd cyntaf folus i, fol Afan Ffridd,
Ben Bardduwus Aroun.*

The character of a host running away to like the great one perturbation of the throat of Gamlus; it is characteristic of a strong man, like Aven Verdug, or like the hero of Aroun.
Cynddelw, s. H. ab Owain.

Ymosgryniad, s. m. (ymosgryn) A mutually causing; a causing a self-perturbation.

Ymosgrynu, v. a. (ymosgryn) To cause mutually; to agitate one's self; to give one's self a shock.

Ymosmeithiad, s. m. (gosmeithiad) A self-provisioning; a mutually provisioning.

Ymosceithiaw, v. a. (yosceithiaw) To furnish one's self with provision; to provide mutually.
Ymosodawl, a. (ymosawd) Relating to self-placing; relating to mutual onset.
Ymosodi, v. a. (ymosawd) To self-place; to attack mutually.
Ymosodiad, s. m. (ymosawd) A placing one's self; a mutually placing; a setting on mutually.
Ymosodwr, s. m.—pl. ymosodwyr (ymosawd—gwr) One who places himself.
Mostegiad, s. m. (gostegiad) A silencing one's self; a mutually silencing.
Mostegu, v. a. (gostegu) To silence one's self; to silence mutually.
Mostwng, s. m. (gostwng) Self-debasement, self-humiliation, self-submission; a mutual lowering. v. a. To bring one's self down; to make a bow.
Mostyngawl, a. (ymostwng) Self-debasing.
Mostyngar, a. (ymostwng) Self-submissive.
Mostyngiad, s. m. (ymostwng) A lowering of one's self; self-humiliation; self-condescension; a bowing one's self; a mutually lowering.
Mpryd, s. m.—pl. t. ian (pryd) A fast.
Mprydiad, s. m. (ympryd) A fasting.
Mprydiaw, v. a. (ympryd) To keep a fast.
Mprydiawl, a. (ympryd) Relating to a fast.
Mprydiwr, s. m.—pl. ymprydiwyr (ympryd—gwr) One who keeps a fast.
Mrabin, s. m. (grabin) A mutual grasping. v. a. To clasp, close, or grapple together.

With ymrabin y mae y cathau yn ymgaru.

By clawing together it is that the cats show their love.

Adage.

Mrabiniad, s. m. (grabin) A mutually grasping.
Mrabiniaw, v. a. (ymrabin) To grasp mutually.
Mrafael, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhy—gafael) Contention, variance, or strife. Tôrri yr ymrfael, to break the dispute.
Mrafaelgar, a. (ymrafael) Contentions.
Mrafaelgarwch, s. m. (ymrafaelgar) Contentiousness, a state of mutual wrangling.
Mrafaeliad, s. m. (ymrafael) A contending.
Mrafaeliaw, v. a. (ymrafael) To contend.
Mrafaeliwr, s. m.—pl. ymrafaeliwyr (ymrafael—gwr) One who engages in contention, a wrangler.
Mrain, s. m. (rhain) A partaking in coition. v. a. To partake in coition.

Tri achawu y gedy gwrnig ei gwr: o bydd claf, neu ag anadl ddreudiedig i'ddo, neu heb allu ymrabin.

For three causes a wife forsakes her husband; if he be leprose, or with stinking breath, or without being able to partake of coition.

Welsh Laws.

Mraint, adv. (braint) Almost, at the point of.

Gwellfild ymraind ei goill.

A neglectful one at the point of being lost.

T. Alod.

Nran, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhan) A schism; a sect.
Nranawl, a. (ymran) Schismatic; mutually separating or dividing.
Nraniad, s. f.—pl. t. au (ymran) A becoming divided; a dividing into schisms. Rhwyl ymraniad, a leader of a sect.
Nranu, v. a. (ymran) To self-separate; to become divided; to separate mutually.

Neddeu gydag ef, yn ddilawryd, at ffin y ddyfa, yn y lles, ag y ffaniau yn ymrannu o'n deuta.

I approached with him without dread, to the edge of the precipice, in the veil, whilst the flames were dividing themselves about us.

Ellis Wyn, B. Cwng.

VOL. II.

Ymranwr, s. m.—pl. ymranwyr (ymran—gwr) One who separates himself.
Ymrathiad, s. m. (rathiad) A mutually rubbing; a rubbing one's self.
Ymrathu, v. a. (rathu) To rub mutually; to rub one's self.
Ymre, s. f. (rhe) Procreation. v. a. To copulate.

Nid o'i gorrff ydd ymre y gwylbedys.

It is not from his body that a fly hath procreated.

Adage.

Ymread, s. m. (ymre) Coition, copulation.

Ni thaf dim drwg ymrëad.

No kind of bad connection will prosper.

Adage.

Ymrëain, v. a. (ymre) To copulate, to couple.

Tair gwaith y dyrchaf ar safiad gwr, pan ymrëir ei wraig.

Three advancements shall be made on the marital sine, to a husband when connection shall be had with his wife.

Welsh Laws.

Ymredeg, s. m. (rhedeg) To run one's self; to run mutually.

Ymrediad, s. m. (rhediad) A running one's self; a mutually running.

Ymreddfiad, s. m. (greddfiad) A self-habituating; a mutually habituating.

Ymreddfu, v. a. (greddfu) To habituate one's self; to mutually habituate.

Ymrefriad, s. m. (rhefriad) A basking one's self; a basking mutually.

Ymrefru, v. a. (rhefru) To bask one's self; to bask mutually.

Ymreg, s. f. (rheg) A mutual ban or curse.

Ymregawl, a. (ymreg) Mutually cursing.

Ymregiad, s. m. (ymreg) A cursing mutually.

Ymregu, v. a. (ymreg) To curse mutually.

Ymrem, s. f. (rhem) A wambling, a stir; a stir in the stomach.

Ymremial, s. m. (ymrem) A wrangling together.

Ymrewydd, s. m. (rhewydd) Coition, copulation. v. a. To copulate.

Ni fynai y rhai creulawu, gan y morwynion, ond ymrewyddi i hwynt; ac am ras cecet, ac llaid a oryngnt.

The cruel ones would have no less, from the virgins, than to cohabit with them, and forasmuch as they could not they slew them.

Gr. ab Arthwr.

Ymrewyddiad, s. m. (ymrewydd) A copulating.

Ymrewyddu, v. a. (ymrewydd) To copulate.

Ymrifaw, v. a. (rhifaw) To number one's self; to number mutually.

Ymrifiad, s. m. (rhifiad) A numbering one's self; a mutually numbering.

Ymrinciad, s. m. (rhinc) A mutually jarring.

Ymrincian, v. a. (rhincian) To jarr mutually; to employ one's self in jarring.

Ymriniad, s. m. (rhiniad) An employing one's self in mysteries; a talking mutual secrets.

Ymriniaw, v. a. (rhiniaw) To employ one's self in secrets; to talk mutual secrets.

A fydd na wypo neb ei ris, ymrinedd a'i bwyll yn unig.

He who would that no body should know his secret, let him employ himself about secrets with his mind alone.

Adage.

Ymrithiad, s. m. (rhithiad) A shewing one's self; a making one's self to appear; a mutually appearing; a taking a form.

Ymrithiaw, v. a. (rhithiaw) To show one's self; to make one's self to appear or to seem; to become apparent; to knit, as applied to the formation of fruit; to appear mutually.

Ymrithi y drwg ar lan daloni.

Evil will shew itself in the form of good.

Adage.

Ymrithawl h. orug Menn yn rhith ederyn, a disgynn a wael uch bell y gwai.

What Ymrw did was to appear in the semblance of a bird, and h. alighted above the den. H. Cuthack—Hobnagion.

- Ymrithawl, a. (rhithawl)* Apt to make one's self seem; mutually seeming.
Ymrithiwr, s. m.—pl. ymrithiwr (rhithiwr) One who appears or puts on a semblance.
Ymröad, s. m. (rhöad) Self-resignation; a mutually giving or resigning.
Ymröawl, a. (rhöawl) Self-resigning; mutually resigned.
Ymrodiad, s. m. (rhodiad) An employing one's self in walking about; a mutually walking about or perambulating.
Ymrodiaw, v. a. (rhodiaw) To employ one's self in walking about; to perambulate mutually.
Ymroddawl, a. (rhoddawl) Self-resigning; mutually resigning or giving up.
Ymroddedig, a. (rhoddedig) Self-resigned; mutually resigned or become yielding.
Ymroddi, v. a. (rhoddi) To resign one's self; to give up or resign mutually.

Cae dyn a ymroddo mewn saurddas er arddas i un arall.

Hateful the person who shall give himself up to dishonour for the honour of another. Adage.

- Ymroddiad, s. m. (rhoddiad)* A self-resignation; mutual resignation.
Ymroddwr, s. m.—pl. ymroddwyr (rhoddwr) One who resigns or yields himself.

Gwell ymroddwr no dialwr.

Better the one who forgoes than the retaliator. Adage.

- Ymroi, v. a. (rhoi)* To give one's self; to resign one's self; to become resigned, to submit; to resolve; to give up mutually. Ymroi i farw, to resign one's self to die; ymroi i fyw yn dda, to resolve to live well; ymroi ati, to fail to it in earnest.

- Ymroliad, s. m. (rholiad)* A rolling one's self; a mutually rolling.

- Ymroliaw, v. a. (rholian)* To be rolling one's self; to be mutually rolling.

- Ymroliaw, v. a. (rholiaw)* To roll one's self; to roll mutually.

*Ef oedd—
Yn ymroliaw am yr selwyd.*

He was rolling himself about the hearth. Rhls. Iorwerth.

- Ymron, adv. (bron)* Hard by; almost. Ymron marw, almost dying; ymron tagu, almost choked.

- Ymronyniad, s. m. (gronyniad)* A becoming granulated; a self-granulating.

- Ymronynu, v. n. (gronynu)* To become granulated; to self-granulate.

- Ymruglaw, v. a. (rhuglaw)* To trail one's self; to trail mutually.

- Ymrugliad, s. m. (rhugliad)* A trailing one's self; a mutually trailing.

- Ymruthraw, v. a. (rhuthraw)* To rush one's self on; to rush on mutually.

- Ymruthriad, s. m. (rhuthriad)* A rushing one's self on; a mutually rushing.

- Ymruthrwr, s. m.—pl. ymruthriwr* (rhuthrwr) One who rushes himself onward.

- Ymrwnach, s. m. (grwnach)* A using one's self to grumbling. v. a. To use one's self to grumbling.

- Ymrwtiad, s. m. (rhwtiad)* A self-chafing.

- Ymrwtiaw, v. a. (rhwtiaw)* To rub one's self.

- Ymrwydaw, v. a. (rhwyrdaw)* To entangle one's self; to entangle mutually.

- Ymrwyddad, s. m. (rhwyrddiad)* A self-entangling, a mutually entangling.

- Ymrwyddad, s. m. (rhwyrddad)* A facilitating one's self, a mutually facilitating.

- Ymrwyddau, v. a. (rhwyrddau)* To facilitate one's self, mutually to facilitate.

- Ymrwyddaw, v. a. (rhwyrddaw)* To facilitate one's self, to facilitate mutually.

- Ymrwyddiad, s. m. (rhwyrddiad)* A facilitating one's self; a mutually facilitating.

- Ymrwyfaw, v. a. (rhwyrfaw)* To urge one's self forward, to row one's self; to row mutually.

- Ymrwyfiad, s. m. (rhwyrfiad)* A working one's self onward; a rowing one's self; a mutually rowing.

- Ymrwygaw, v. a. (rhwrygaw)* To tear one's self, to tear mutually.

- Ymrwygiad, s. m. (rhwrygiad)* A tearing or rending one's self; a mutually rending.

- Ymrwyllaw, v. a. (rhwryllaw)* To become full of interstices; to work out through crevices.

*Lle'r ymrwyllaw'r mor allan,
Lle i'g y maent flogau maw.*

Where the sea through crevices marks itself out, is the place the small ships are laid. Lle'r flogau.

- Ymrwylliad, s. m. (rhwrylliad)* A becoming full of interstices; a working through crevices.

- Ymrwymaw, v. a. (rhwymaw)* To bind one's self, to bind mutually.

- Ymrwymawl, a. (rhwymawl)* Self-binding, being mutually binding.

- Ymrwymiad, s. m. (rhwymiad)* A binding one's self; a mutually binding.

- Ymrwymwr, s. m.—pl. ymrwymwyr* (rhwymwr) One who binds himself.

- Ymrwysaw, v. a. (rhwysaw)* To self-invigorate, to invigorate mutually.

Deeparth lechryd ymrwysaw.

The two parts of health is exercise. Adage.

- Ymrwysiad, s. m. (rhwysiad)* A self-invigorating, a mutually invigorating.

- Ymrwysraw, v. a. (rhwysraw)* To hinder one's self, to hinder or to delay mutually.

- Ymrwystriad, s. m. (rhwystriad)* A hindering one's self, a mutually hindering.

- Ymrwystraw, v. a. (rhwystraw)* To hinder one's self, to hinder or to delay mutually.

- Ymrwystriaw, v. a. (rhwystriaw)* To hinder one's self, to hinder or to delay mutually.

- Ymrwythaw, v. a. (rhwythaw)* To pervade one's self, to pervade mutually.

- Ymrwythiad, s. m. (rhwythiad)* A self-pervading, a mutually pervading.

- Ymrydwt, s. m. (grydwt)* An employing one's self in twittering. v. a. To be twittering, to twitter mutually.

- Ymryddad, s. m. (rhyddad)* A liberating one's self, a mutually liberating.

- Ymryddau, v. a. (rhyddau)* To liberate one's self; to liberate mutually.

- Ymryfeddiad, s. m. (rhyfeddiad)* A wondering one's self, a mutually wondering.

- Ymryfeddu, v. a. (rhyfeddu)* To wonder in one's self, to wonder mutually.

- Ymryfel, s. m. (rhyfel)* The being engaged in war; mutual warfare.

- Ymryfeliad, s. m. (ymryfel)* An engaging one's self in war; a mutually warring.

myrfela, v. a. (rhyfela) To engage one's self in war; to war mutually.

*Marwawl ddyw—
Sef ymyrfela a mi bydd;
A phleenydd ym gorthrymawl.*

Mortal man: he engages himself in war against me; and daily he causes me affliction. Edm. Frye, Poem lvi. 2.

myrfelwr, s. m.—pl. ymyrfelwyr (ymryfel—gwr) One who uses himself to war.

myrfygawl, a. (rhyfygawl) Self-arrogating; mutually presuming.

myrfyglad, s. m. (rhyfyglad) To assume to one's self; a mutually presuming.

myrfygu, v. a. (rhyfygu) To assume to one's self; to presume mutually.

Sylberwyd, ael yw hyry ymyrfygu a ddyw yn ei gniawd, a cheirhau ymyrfychael yn awch poŷ y dyfio.

Hughtiness, that is for a person to arrogate to himself in his imagination, and seek to exalt himself higher than he ought. Id. G. Herge.

myrfygwr, s. m.—pl. ymyrfygwyr (rhyfygwr) One who arrogates to himself.

myrfyg, s. m. (rhyfyg) A confused state; mutual confusion.

*Pan ddol ymyrfael ac ymyrfyg bith,
Rhe hwydd gan derfyg,
Thawr i mawr.*

When there comes contention and dire confusion, void of rest from tumult, do thou strike in. B. D. ab Iwan.

myrfygiad, s. m. (ymryfyg) A putting one's self in confusion; a mutual confusion.

myrfygu, v. a. (ymryfyg) To confuse one's self; to confuse mutually.

myrffael, s. m. (rhyffael) A rubbing or galling one's self; a mutually rubbing.

myrffau, v. a. (rhyffau) To rub or gall one's self; to rub mutually.

myrffiad, s. m. (gryffiad) To strengthen one's self; to self-invigorate; to invigorate mutually.

myrffaw, v. a. (gryffaw) To self-invigorate; mutually to invigorate.

myrffu, v. a. (rhyffu) To study with one's self; inwardly to digest.

myrffiad, s. m. (rhyffiad) A studying to one's self; a deeply considering.

myrffon, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhyffon) The engaging of one's self in dispute; mutual dispute, contention, disputation. v. a. To contend in argument, to dispute.

Nid gwall ymyrffon ond ymyrffon.

There is no want of sense like contention. Adage.

Tri pheth sy gweru eu gwneud ar fry: dal chwain, trol o flordd ei coddellirawg, a gochel ymyrffon.

Three things which are best to be done in a hurry: to catch deceit, to turn out of the way of a mad dog, and to avoid contention. Adage.

myrffonath, s. m. (ymrffon) Contention.

myrffonawl, a. (ymrffonawl) Controversial.

myrffongar, a. (ymrffongar) Contentious.

myrffongarwch, s. m. (ymrffongar) Contentiousness.

myrffoni, v. a. (ymrffon) To contend, to strive.

myrffoniad, s. m. (ymrffon) A contending.

myrffonnes, a. (ymrffon) Contentious.

myrffonwder, s. m. (ymrffon) Contentiousness.

myrffonwr, s. m.—pl. ymyrffonwyr (ymrffon—gwr) A contender, a wrangler.

myrffiad, s. m. (rhyffiad) A stretching one's self widely.

myrffu, v. a. (rhyffu) To stretch out one's self widely; to stretch out mutually.

myrffiad, s. m. (rhyffiad) A rendering one's self of a kind; a mutually becoming of a kind.

Ymyrffaw, v. a. (rhyrffaw) To render one's self of a kind; to become mutually of a kind.

Ymyrffogi, v. a. (rhyrffogi) To render one's self kindly or genial, mutually to become genial.

Ymyrffiad, s. m. (saethiad) The employing one's self in shooting; a mutually shooting or darting.

Ymyrffu, v. a. (saethu) To employ one's self in shooting; to shoot or dart mutually.

*Rhyngom yr arth ymyrffu
A dyf ddaia, mi ac om gw.*

Between us a mutual shooting took place with two sights, me and the lovely fair one. Rede Ardarn.

Ymyrffiad, s. m. (safriad) The opening of one's jaw; a mutually jawing.

Ymyrffrythiad, s. m. (safrythiad) An employing one's self in extending the jaws; a mutually gaping.

Ymyrffrythu, v. a. (safrythu) To employ one's self in opening the jaws.

Ymyrffu, v. a. (safu) To open one's jaw; a mutually jawing.

Ymyrffu, s. f. (sang) A mutual treading or trampling, an employing one's self in treading; a mutual struggle; a wrestling. Ymyrffu tarf, the trampling of a host: Llythyren ymyrffu, epenthesis.

Ymyrffaw, a. (ymrffaw) Self-treading; mutually treading or trampling.

Ymyrffiad, s. m. (ymrffaw) An employing one's self in treading; a mutually treading.

Ymyrffu, v. a. (ymrffaw) To employ one's self in treading; to tread mutually.

Ymyrffiad, s. m. (sarddiad) A self-chiding, a mutually chiding.

Ymyrffu, v. a. (sarddu) To chide mutually.

Ymyrffu, s. m. (sarffu) A behaving riotously. v. a. To behave riotously.

Ymyrffu, s. f. (sathr) The employment of one's self in treading; a mutual tread.

Ymyrffu, s. m. (ymrffu) An employing one's self in treading; a mutually treading.

Ymyrffu, v. a. (ymrffu) To employ one's self in treading; to tread mutually.

Ymyrffu, s. m. (sawdd) A sinking of one's self; a mutual sinking in.

Ymyrffu, s. m. (seddiad) A seating one's self; a becoming mutually seated.

Ymyrffu, v. a. (seddu) To seat one's self; to become mutually seated.

Ymyrffu, s. m. (sefyddiad) A fixing one's self, a mutually fixing or establishing.

Ymyrffu, v. a. (sefydlu) To fix one's self, to fix or to establish mutually.

Ymyrffu, s. m. (seiliad) A making a foundation for one's self; a mutually founding.

Ymyrffu, v. a. (seiliu) To lay a foundation for one's self; a mutually founding.

Ymyrffu, s. m. (sel) The state of being beholding; a mutual beholding; perception.

Dylid cyflwynu gyfelybu—herwydd hanfod, ac anagwdd, a rhyw, a phwyll, a deall, ac ymyrffu, ac anwyr.

A simile should be justly drawn, with respect to nature, and quality, and genius, and reason, and understanding, and perception, and time. Boddad.

Ymyrffu, s. m. (ymrffu) The employing one's self in beholding; a mutually beholding.

Ymyrffu, v. a. (selu) To employ one's self in beholding; to behold mutually.

Ymyrffu, a. (senawl) Self-reproaching; mutually reproaching or upbraiding.

Ymyrffu, s. m. (seniad) A self-reproaching; a mutually upbraiding or reproaching.

Ymaenu, v. a. (senu) To use one's self in reproach, to upbraid one's self; to upbraid or to reproach mutually.

Y neb rydd hoff ganddo ymaenu, rydd hoff ganddo bechawd.

He that is delighted in engaging himself in strife, is delighted with sin.
Deuteronomy 17. 10.

Ymaenwr, s. m.—pl. ymaenwyr (sennwr) One who uses himself to reproaching.

Ymsengi, v. a. (ymsang) To employ one's self in trampling, to be encroaching.

Ymaerchiad, s. m. (serchiad) A filling one's self with fondness or love, a mutually doating.

Ymaerchu, v. a. (serchu) To fill one's self with fondness; to entertain mutual fondness.

Aboloh—a ymaerchiad yn ei chariadau.

Aboloh doated on her lovers.

Ezekiel 23. 5.

Ymsereniad, s. m. (sereniad) A spangling one's self with stars or sparkles.

Ymserenn, v. a. (serenn) To make one's self to sparkle with stars.

Ymserth, s. m. (serth) The giving one's self up to abuse, mutual abuse.

Ymserth gwraig sy merys defni parau.

The contention of a wife is like a continual dropping.

Proverbs 10. 13.

Ymserthiad, s. m. (ymserth) A using one's self to abuse, a mutually abusing.

Ymserthu, v. a. (ymserth) To employ one's self in abuse or in talking obscenely; to talk abuse or obscenity mutually.

Ymserthant, cabiant eu gwyr;
Triulant beiau truglwyf.

They mutually abuse, they curse their husbands; they belay the heads of wretched men.
S. Phyllip.

Ymsiarad, s. m. (siarad) An employing one's self in talking; a mutually talking.

Ymsiaradaeth, s. m. (ymaiarad) A using one's self to talking; a state of mutual talking.

Grym y trydydd orchymyn yw barniad ar ofer-addoliad Daw;
a gwaharddriad o ymsiaradaeth ofer.

The substance of the third commandment is a condemnation of impropriety in the worship of God; and the interdiction of vainly being employed in talking.
S. Trifredyn.

Ymsiared, v. a. (siared) To employ one's self in talking; to keep talking; to talk mutually.

Ymsiglaw, v. a. (siglaw) To shake or rock one's self; to shake mutually.

Srillau y nefoedd a gyffroasant, ac a ymsiglasant am iddo of ddiglaw.

The foundations of the heavens have been agitated, and they have been shaken, because he was wroth.
2 Samuel 22. 8.

Ymsigliad, s. m. (sigliad) A shaking or rocking one's self; a mutually shaking.

Ymsisial, s. m. (sisial) A mutual chat. v. a. To chat together; to employ one's self in chatting or whispering.

Ymsoddawl, a. (ymsawdd) A sinking of one's self; mutually sinking.

Ymsoddi, v. a. (ymsawdd) To sink one's self.

Ymsoddliad, s. m. (ymsawdd) A sinking one's self; a mutually sinking.

Ymsomi, v. a. (somi) To disappoint one's self; mutually to disappoint.

Ymsomiad, s. m. (somiad) A disappointing one's self; a mutually deceiving.

Ymson, s. m. (son) The employment of one's self in mentioning; mutual talk. v. a. To be mentioning; to talk mutually.

Mewn cerdd hawl ac angh—howe purpaw yn dyn at y pord ac y deall o bethau, meg mawr un dda arall; ac yn hysbysu m awryfollon farnau.

In a poem that is in dialogue, it is easier to give down the reason and the understanding of things, than in any other mode, and it is easier to make mention about various opinions.
Buridan.

Ymsoniad, s. m. (ymson) An employing one's self in talking; a mutually talking.

Ymsoniaw, v. a. (ymson) To employ one's self in talking; to talk mutually.

Ymsori, v. a. (sori) To shew one's self offended, or to be sulky; to sulk mutually.

Ymsoriad, s. m. (soriad) A shewing one's self sulky; a becoming mutually offended.

Ymswrn, s. m. (awrn) The employment of one's self in snarling; a mutual snarl. v. a. To employ one's self in a snarly mood; to snarl mutually.

Ymswrn ag ygwyr gwr gwrdd.

A snarling with the asperity of a piousness man.

Rhys Goch Bryn.

Amser yw hwn i ymswrn;
Amhuan y wna y mac wrn.

A time is this to be grumbling; about the summer a season express a doubt.
Llyn, ab O. ab Cyrrig.

Ymswyddaw, v. a. (swyddaw) To employ one's self in office; to seek for office; to officiate.

Gueirw nad oes gwyblydd;
Rheolaw ac ymswyddaw rydd.

We see that there is no shame: to scramble and to seek for office is what prevails.
Llew Fawr.

Ymswyddiad, s. m. (swyddiad) An employing one's self in office; an officiating.

Ymswyn, s. m. (swyn) Self-security by some mysterious rite.

Ymswynaw, v. a. (ymswyn) To bless one's self; to secure one's self, as by some secret rite or charm; to cross one's self, to beware.

Ymswyniad, s. m. (ymswyn) A blessing one's self; to secure one's self by a talisman; to cross one's self.

Ymswynwr, s. m.—pl. ymswynwyr (ymswyn-gwr) One who blesses himself; one who crosses himself, or uses charms.

Ymsyfrdaniad, s. m. (syfrdaniad) A making one's self giddy; a mutually stupefying.

Ymsyfrdanu, v. a. (syfrdanu) To stupefy one's self; mutually to stupefy.

Ymsymud, s. m. (symud) Self-motion. v. a. To move one's self; to move mutually.

Ymsymudaw, v. a. (ymsymud) To move one's self; to move mutually.

Ymsymudawl, a. (ymsymud) Self-moving, self-removing; mutually moving.

Ymsymudliad, s. m. (ymsymud) A moving one's self; a mutually moving.

Ymsymudwr, s. m.—pl. ymsymudwyr (ymsymud-gwr) One who moves himself.

Ymsymudydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymsymud) A self-mover.

Pob ymsymudydd, yr hwn sy tyw, a fydd i chad yn byst.

Every moving thing, the which to move, shall be sent for its ground.
Genesis 1. 1.

Ymsyniad, s. m. (syniad) A perceiving or feeling one's self; a mutual feeling.

Ymsyniaw, v. a. (syniaw) To perceive or to feel one's self; to reflect, to contemplate; to intend mutually.

Ymsyniawl, a. (syniawl) Self-perceptive; reflecting to mutual feeling or impulse.

Ymsynied, v. a. (synied) To perceive or to feel one's self; to reflect, to feel or to be affected mutually.

Ymsynu, v. a. (synu) To astonish one's self; to be mutually struck or astonished.

Ymsynwyr, v. a. (synwyr) To reason with one's self; to reason mutually.

Y rhai ynt herwydd y cawd, am bethau y cawd yr ymsynwyrant.

They that are after the flesh, about the things of the flesh do they concern themselves. W. Salisbury.

Ymsynwriad, s. m. (synwriad) A reasoning to one's self; a mutually reasoning.

Ymsyplad, s. m. (syplad) A gathering one's self in a heap, a mutually thronging.

Ymsyplaw, v. a. (syplaw) To gather one's self into a heap; to agglomerate; mutually to press together.

Ymsyrthiad, s. m. (syrthiad) A falling one's self; a mutually falling.

Ymsyrthiaw, v. a. (syrthiaw) To fall one's self; to fall mutually.

Ymsyrthiad, s. m. (sythiad) A raising one's self erect; a mutually rising up.

Ymsyrthia, v. a. (sythu) To raise one's self erect, to straighten one's self; to swagger.

Ymsyrthwr, s. m.—pl. ymsyrthwyr (sythwr) One who raises himself up.

Ymufyddiad, s. m. (ufyddiad) Self-humiliation; mutual humiliation.

Ymufyddân, v. a. (ufyddân) To humble one's self; to humble mutually.

Ymunaw, v. a. (unaw) To unite one's self; to join or to combine together; to incorporate mutually.

Ymundawd, s. m. (undawd) The act of uniting one's self; a mutual union.

Ymuniad, s. m. (uniad) A self-uniting; a mutually uniting or connecting.

Ymunioni, v. a. (unioni) To straighten one's self; to be straightened.

Yr oedd gwrraig ag yddi ysbryd gwendid—ac ni allai hi mewn modd yu y byd ymuniôn.

There was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity; and she could in no wise lift up herself. Luc 13. 11.

Ymunioniad, s. m. (unioniad) A self-straightening; a mutually straightening.

Ymwad, s. m. (gwad) Self-denial, mutual denial.

Ymwadawl, a. (ymwad) Self-denying; mutually denying or disowning.

Ymwadiad, v. m. (ymwad) A self-denying; a renouncing; a disavowal; abjuration.

Ymwadu, v. a. (ymwad) To deny one's self; to renounce, to disavow; to deny mutually.

Os myn neb ddawed ar fy ol i, ymwaded ag ef ei hun.

If any man shall come after me, let him deny himself. Matthew 16. 24.

Ymwadwr, s. m.—pl. ymwadwyr (ymwad—gwr) One who denieth himself.

Ymwaediad, s. m. (gwaediad) A self-bleeding; a mutually letting blood.

Ymwaedlydiad, s. m. (gwaedlydiad) An imbruing one's self in blood; a mutually imbruing in blood.

Ymwaedlydu, v. a. (gwaedlydu) To imbrue one's self in blood.

Ymwaedu, v. a. (gwaedu) To bleed one's self; to let blood mutually.

Ymwaethiad, s. m. (gwaethiad) A making one's self worse; a mutually growing worse.

Ymwaethu, v. a. (gwaethu) To make one's self worse; to become mutually worse.

Gwneith no phob gwneithaf ymwaethu.

The worse of every bad thing is to make one's self worse. Idage.

Ymwagâd, s. m. (gwagâd) A self-emptying.

Ymwagâu, v. a. (gwagâu) To empty one's self.

Ymwahanawl, a. (gwahanawl) Self-separating; mutually separating.

Ymwahaniad, s. m. (gwahaniad) A self-separating; mutual separation.

Ymwahaniaeth, s. m. (gwahaniaeth) Self-separation; mutual separation.

Ymwahanu, v. a. (gwahanu) To separate one's self; to be divided or parted; to separate mutually.

Ellas—a darwail y dyfroedd, a hwy a ymwahanant yma ac acw.

Ellas smote the waters, and they were divided hither and thither. 2 Ezechiel 2. 5.

Ymwahanwr, s. m.—pl. ymwahanwyr (gwahanwr) One who separates himself.

Ymwallâd, s. m. (gwallâd) A rendering one's self faulty or neglectful; a mutually neglecting.

Ymwallân, v. a. (gwallân) To render one's self faulty, to become neglectful; to neglect mutually.

Ymwallgof, v. a. (gwallgof) To distract one's self; to become mutually distracted.

Ymwallgofiad, s. m. (gwallgofiad) A self-distracting; a mutually distracting.

Ymwan, s. f. (gwan) A mutual wounding or transfixing; combat, tournament. v. a. To transfix mutually; to combat with lances.

Disgwaw arwydd ymwan, ac afelly gware podydd a marchogion, a phob cyfrrw amryhl waron a wlad yno.

Exhibiting a sign of combat, and so the sport of infantry and horsemen, and every kind of the like sports was seen there.

Gr. ab Arthwr.

Yna yr al Gwalchmai i ymwan ag y marchwag, a chwmallt o bell amdanu ac amdan ei farch.

Thereupon Gwalchmai went to combat with the knight, having a covering of velvet about him and about his horse.

H. O. ab Urien—Mabinogion.

Ymwanâd, s. m. (gwanâd) A weakening of one's self; a mutually weakening.

Ymwanu, v. a. (gwanu) To weaken one's self; mutually to weaken.

*Gwelw hwy y dydd golau
Yn min hwy yn ymwanu.*

I could see the light of the splendid day on the verge of evening growing faint. T. Llewelyn Jones.

Tri pheth sydd yn ymwanu beunydd, gan falot penaf yr ymwanu yn eu gwrth: cas, camwedd, ac anwybodach.

Three things are daily growing weaker, from the continual increase of their opposing impulses: enmity, injustice and ignorance.

Barddas.

Ymwanlad, s. m. (ymwan) A mutually wounding; a combating with lances; a combating.

Ymwannu, v. a. (ymwan) To combat mutually; to be combating; to combat.

Ymwanwr, s. m.—pl. ymwanwyr (ymwan—gwr) One who wounds with a lance.

*Ymwanwyr gwych mewn aer gylt,
Y beddydd byd lodynt.*

Brave combatants in battle of ancient time, for them the world was named. O. ab Llywelyn Moel.

Ymwanychiad, s. m. (gwanychiad) A self-debilitating; a mutually enfeebling.

Ymwanychu, v. a. (gwanychu) To self-debilitate; to enfeeble mutually.

Ymwarchad, s. m. (gwarchad) A self-guarding; a mutual care. v. a. To employ one's self in guarding; to take care of one's self, to have mutual care.

*Ar don, oer ei adenydd,
Ymwarchad o'r bad y bydd.*

On the wave, cold his wings, to preserve himself from the boat is what he seeks. T. Celti.

Ymwared, s. m. (gwared) The having in one's self the means of averting; deliverance, defence. v. a. To deliver one's self, to avert mutually.

*Addwyn gaer y sydd ar don newfed;
Addwyu ei gwerin yn ymwared.*

A pleasant fort stands on the brink of the ninth wave, pleasant its multitude affording mutual defence. T. Celti.

Ymwaredawl, a. (ymwared) Self-delivering; mutually averting.

Ymwarediad, s. m. (ymwared) A self-delivering, the extricating one's self; a mutually averting.

Ymwaredu, v. a. (ymwared) To deliver one's self; to deliver or to avert mutually.

Ymwaredus, a. (ymwared) Self-delivering, having in one's self the means of deliverance; mutually delivering.

*Arglwydd Dad, mawr rad, ymwaredus nerth, fawn wyrthiau rhyglyddus,
Cymer f—*

*O Lord the Father, abundant in grace, of power being the means of deliverance, whose true miracles are efficacious, receive me.
H. D. ab Ifan.*

Ymwarthiad, s. m. (gwarthiad) A self-disgracing, a mutually disgracing.

Ymwarthu, v. a. (gwarthu) To disgrace or to shame one's self, mutually to disgrace.

Ymwasgariad, s. m. (gwasgariad) A spreading of one's self, a mutually spreading or dispersing.

Ymwasgaru, v. a. (gwasgaru) To spread one's self, to disperse mutually, to become scattered.

Ymwagerwch yn nysg y bobl.

Disperse yourselves amongst the people. 1 Samuel 14. 34.

Ymwasiad, s. m. (gwasgiad) To squeeze or to press one's self; to press mutually.

Ymwasgodi, v. a. (gwasgodi) To shelter one's self, mutually to shelter.

Ymwasgodiad, s. m. (gwasgodiad) A sheltering of one's self; a mutually sheltering.

Ymwasgu, v. a. (gwasgu) To squeeze one's self; to keep one's self close, to cleave; to press together.

Ymwastataad, s. m. (gwastataad) A rendering one's self even or level; an establishing of one's self; a mutually establishing.

Ymwastatau, v. a. (gwastatau) To make one's self even; to establish one's self; to make mutually even.

Ymwawd, s. m. (gwawd) Self-praise; self-flattery, mutual flattery.

Ymwawdiad, s. m. (ymwawd) A flattering one's self, a mutually flattering.

Ymwawdiaw, v. a. (ymwawd) To flatter one's self; to flatter mutually.

Ymwëad, s. m. (gwëad) A self-combining; a becoming interwoven; a mutually weaving.

Ymwedd, s. f. (gwedd) Self-demeanour; mutual conformity or fitness.

Ymweddiad, s. m. (ymwedd) A self-conforming; a demeaning; a mutually according.

Ymweddu, v. a. (ymwedd) To conform one's self; to conform mutually.

*Tri modd, pond da'r ymweddu?
Hudawl, a diw, a hodd dyn!*

Three circumstances how aptly they assimilate together, that of the mountebank, and a dice, and the life of man! T. Alce.

Ymwehyniad, s. m. (gwehyniad) A pouring out or emptying one's self; a mutually pouring.

Ymwehynu, v. a. (gwehynu) To empty one's self; to self-exhaust; to become empty.

Ymweisiad, s. m. (gweisiad) A rendering one's self a servant; a mutually serving.

Ymweisiaw, v. a. (gweisiaw) To make one's self a servant; a mutually serving.

Nid ymweis a fo parch.

That is of honour will not stoop to serve. Alce.

Ymweithiad, s. m. (gweithiad) A self-working; a fermentation; a mutual operation.

Ymweithiaw, v. a. (gweithiaw) To work one's self, to ferment, to operate mutually.

Ymweled, s. m. (gweled) A mutual seeing, a visitation. v. a. To shew one's self, to see mutually, to visit.

Ymwelediad, s. m. (ymweled) A mutually visiting; a visitation.

Oe ymweled i hwynt ag ymwelediad pob dyn, nid yr Arglwydd n'm haufonodd.

If they be visited after the visitation of all men, it is not to Lord who hath sent me. Amos 14. 2.

Ymweliad, s. m.—pl. f. au (gwelliad) A visitation.

Ymweliwr, s. m.—pl. ymweliwyr (gwellwr) A visitor.

Ymwellaad, s. m. (gwellaad) Self-improvement, a mutually mending.

Ymwellau, v. a. (gwellau) To improve one's self; to improve mutually.

Tra ydoeddant yn ymadd yn wrechr eiddo, hyma y Rhodwyr yn wrechr yn ymwellau, ac yn doryn rharthi i wyr Llydaw.

Whilst they were bravely fighting thus, behold the Rhodwyr gallantly repairing themselves, and making an assault on the men of Llydaw. Or. ab I. 100.

Gwyn ei fyd a ymwella o gyngor ei borth ac nid o gwyboda ei ofnus.

Happy is he who makes himself better from the counsel of reason, and not from the counsel of his fears. Alce.

Ymwelliannu, v. a. (ymwelliant) To make one's self better; to become improved or reformed.

Nid anghlod ymwelliannu.

It is no disgrace to reform one's self. Alce.

Ymwelliannu, s. m. (gwelliant) Self-improvement.

Ymweneithiad, s. m. (gwenieithiad) A flattering of one's self; a mutually flattering.

Ymweneithiaw, v. a. (gwenieithiaw) To flatter one's self; to flatter mutually.

Ymweneithiaw y mae yr anawdawl i bwrdd ei len.

The ungodly flatters himself in his own eyes. Psalms 51.

Ymwennynaw, v. a. (gwenwynaw) To poison one's self; to be fretting one's self; to fret mutually.

Ymwennyniad, s. m. (gwenwyniad) A poisoning of one's self; a fretting one's self, a mutually fretting.

Ymwerinaw, v. a. (gwerinaw) To associate one's self, to become mutually associated, to become civilized.

Talr bradormes Ynys Prydain—cydymwernu a'u rhai wneynt, yn Lloegr, ac yr Albana.

The three treacherous molestationers of the Isle of Prydain mutually confederate themselves together was what they did England and Scotland. T. Celti.

Ymweriniad, s. m. (gweriniad) A joining one's self to society; a mutually associating, a becoming civilized.

Ymwerthiad, s. m. (gwerthiad) A self-sell; self-prostitution, a mutually selling.

Yawertha, v. a. (gwertha) To sell one's self, to prostitute one's self; to sell mutually.

Wedi ein gwerthu yr uchafbwydd dydd, ac wedi ein gwerthu i ddwyllaw y gelyn.

After we have been made free agents, and after we have been left to the freedom of our own inclination, we have sold ourselves as bondmen into the hands of the enemy. For. Uman.

Ymwên, v. a. (gwên) To self-combine, to inter-weave, mutually to interweave.

Ymwingaw, v. a. (gwingaw) To writhe one's self, to writhe mutually.

Ymwingiad, s. m. (gwingiad) A writhing one's self, a mutually writhing.

Ymwiriad, s. m. (gwiariad) A self-asserting as true, a mutually asserting.

Ymwiriaw, v. a. (gwiariaw) To employ one's self in proving, to assert the truth mutually.

Ymwigaw, v. a. (gwigaw) To dress one's self.

Ymwigiad, s. m. (gwigiad) A self-dressing, the state of being arrayed.

Y froufrith—Ymwigiad angel cogyl.

The thrush, angel wings her wings down does form. U. ab Gwilym.

(mwleda, v. a. (gwleda)) To feast one's self, to be feasting mutually.

(mwleddiad, s. m. (gwleddiad)) A feasting one's self, a being mutually feasting.

(mwnc, s. m. (wnc)) The being near or immediate. a. Imminent, immediate.

*Daw—
Ti ya mhob pwr:
Dysa fy ymnc
Mi wyr ommad.*

God, thou art in every point; the desire ardently approaching who doth not know how to refuse. Gr. Grg.

(mwneuthur, s. m. (gwneuthur)) A mutual operation. v. a. To combine one's self, to resolve mutually.

Ymgynghwraet yn unfryd, ac ymwneuthur i'w herbyn.

They have consulted together with one consent, they have confederated against thee. Psalm 138. 2.

(mwneyd, v. a. (gwneyd)) To combine one's self, to combine mutually.

(mwng, s. m. (wng)) The being immediate. a. Imminent, immediate. adv. Instantly.

A rhoddol yn ywng rhoddol amon.

And giving immediately ready gems. Gr. ab M. ab Dafydd.

*Lloerl eu truedd,
A dymen lloerlled,
Ac ywng colled.*

Burning their habitation, and taking away their load, with imminent loss. Taliesin.

mwr, s. m. (gwr) The becoming superior.

mwradyddaw, v. a. (gwradyddaw) To scandalize one's self; mutually to scandalize.

mwradyddiad, s. m. (gwradyddiad) A self-scandalizing; a mutually scandalizing.

mwrandaw, s. m. (gwrandaw) To employ one's self in listening; to listen mutually.

*O ael! ymwrandaw i ni,
I droi gwyb o'r drygion.*

Oh heaven! give an attentive ear to us, so that men may be turned from their iniquity. T. Llan.

mwrandawiad, s. m. (ymwrandaw) An employing one's self in listening; a mutually listening.

mwrdd, s. m. (gwrdd) The being ardent.

Mwrdd wrth ymwrdd o ddiart.

Great was the peak of the ardency of his dart. T. Alad.

mwrregysiad, s. m. (gwrregysiad) A self-girding.

mwrregysu, v. a. (gwrregysu) To gird one's self.

Ymwresogi, v. a. (gwrresogi) To fill one's self with warmth; to become zealous; mutually to fill with warmth.

Ymwresogiad, s. m. (gwrresogiad) A filling one's self with warmth; a becoming zealous; a mutually filling with warmth.

Ymwrriad, s. m. (ymwr) An acting manfully; a mutually striving.

Ymwrrial, s. m. (ymwr) The being in continual strife. v. a. To strive mutually.

Ymwrriaw, v. a. (ymwr) To act manfully; to show courage; to strive mutually.

Tan a dwr yn ymwrriaw Yw'r amannu, deirgias ddrw.

Fire and water mutually warring are the thunder claps, the dearest gleaming darts. D. ab Gwilym.

Ymwrtingelliad, s. m. (gwrtingelliad) A putting one's self in a flutter.

Ymwrtingellu, v. a. (gwrtingellu) To put one's self in a flutter; to make a fluttering.

Ymwrroli, v. a. (gwrroli) To render one's self manful; to grow courageous.

Ymgyffia ac ymwrroli, nac ofn ac anawryda.

Be strong and be of good courage, fear not, and be not dismayed. 1. Chronicles 28. 13.

Ymwrthawd, s. m. (gwrthawd) An using one's self to reject; abdication; abjuration. v. a. To abdicate, to abstain.

Ymwrthfyn, s. m. (gwrthfyn) A self-withdrawing, a self-withholding.

Ymwrthfynu, v. a. (ymwrthfyn) To withdraw one's self.

Ymwrthladd, s. m. (gwrthladd) Self-opposition. v. a. To oppose one's self.

Ymwrthladdiad, s. m. (ymwrthladd) A self-opposing; a mutual pugnation.

Ymwrthodawl, s. m. (ymwrthawd) Self-rejecting. Ymwrthodoffon, abstinent.

Ymwrthodi, v. a. (ymwrthawd) To restrain one's self; to abstain mutually.

Ymwrthodiad, s. m. (ymwrthawd) A self-refusing, abdication, abjuration, dereliction.

Ymwrthodwr, s. m.—pl. ymwrthodwyr (ymwrthawd—gwr) One who abstains.

Ymwrthodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymwrthawd) One who abstains or rejects.

Ymwrthryn, s. m. (gwrthryn) Mutual exertion to oppose; mutual resistance; mutual ejection.

Oa o ymwrthryn y deidia dyn ei hawl; ni eith ymwrthryn amyn dau ddyd a fyddent yn eistedd ar yr un tir ynghyd; ac os bu ammodd a dyn wrthryn y llall, yn y dydd y gaddiddeidd, lawr dywedd ei fod ei yn briadwr.

If by mutually exerting a person shall choose his action; there cannot be a mutually ejection but by two persons who shall be seated upon the same land together; and, if one of them be minded to eject the other, in the day that he succeeds, it is right to say that he is a proprietor. Welsh Laws.

Ymwrthrynawl, s. m. (ymwrthryn) Mutually opposing; controversial.

Ymwrthryniad, s. m. (ymwrthryn) An exerting one's self in opposition, a mutually exerting in opposition.

Ymwrthrynu, v. a. (ymwrthryn) To exert one's self in opposition; mutually to strive in opposition; to engage in mutual controversy.

Ymwrthrywiad, s. m. (gwrthrywiad) A rendering one's self heterogeneous; a mutually becoming of opposite kind.

Ymwrthrywiaw, v. a. (gwrthrywiaw) To render one's self of opposite kind; to become heterogeneous, to become mutually of contrary kind.

Ymwrthsefyll, s. m. (gwrthsefyll) A placing one's self in opposition; a mutually withstanding.

Ymwrthsefyll, v. a. (gwrthsefyll) To place one's self against; to withstand mutually.

Ymwrthunaw, v. a. (gwrthunaw) To self-disfigure; to disfigure mutually.

Ymwrthuniad, s. m. (gwrthuniad) A self-disfiguring, a mutually disfiguring.

Ymwrthwynebiad, s. m. (gwrthwynebiad) A setting one's self against.

Ymwrthwynebu, v. a. (gwrthwynebu) To set one's self against; to oppose mutually.

Ymwrwat, s. m. (ymwr) A mutual struggle. v. a. To struggle mutually.

Ymwrys, s. (gwrys) A self-striving, mutual strife.

Ymwrysiad, s. m. (ymwrys) A striving one's self; a mutually striving.

Ymwrysiaw, v. a. (ymwrys) To strive one's self; to strive mutually.

Ymwrystwr, s. m.—pl. ymwrystwyr (ymwrwat—gwr) One who engages in strife.

Ymwith, s. m. (gwith) A mutual pushing.

Ymwithgar, a. (ymwith) Mutually pushing.

Ymwithiad, s. m. (ymwith) A pushing one's self, a mutually pushing.

Ymwithiaw, v. a. (ymwith) To push one's self, to push together, to crowd.

Ymwithiawl, a. (ymwith) Self-obtruding; mutually pushing or pressing.

Ymwithiwr, s. f.—pl. ymwithiwr (ymwith—gwr) One who pushes himself.

Ymwybod, s. m. (gwybod) Self-knowledge; mutual acquaintance. v. a. To acquaint one's self, to get mutual knowledge.

*Myned yr wyf—
I ymwybod a meibion
Tudyr, ben ymwanwyr Mon.*

I am going to acquaint myself with the sons of Tudyr, the chief defenders of Mona. Iolo Goch.

Ymwybodi, v. a. (gwybodi) To employ one's self in obtaining knowledge; to become acquainted.

Dylai ynad—ymwybodi yn gyflawn a phob hawl a ddolawr ger ei fron.

A judge ought—to employ himself justly in obtaining a knowledge of every claim and dispute brought before him. Triodd Dyfnwal.

Ymwychiad, s. m. (gwychiad) A making one's self gay or fine; a mutually decking out.

Ymwychn, v. a. (gwychu) To make one's self gay, mutually to deck out.

Ymwyliad, s. m. (gwyliad) An employing one's self in watching; a mutually watching.

Ymwyliaw, v. a. (gwyliaw) To employ one's self in watching; to watch mutually; to shew solicitude.

Prydnawn—Ymwyli'n emyl a mi.

In the afternoon be thou visiting my jewel and me. D. ab Gwilym, i'r haul.

Ymwylltiad, s. m. (gwylltiad) A making one's self wild; a mutually scaring.

Ymwylltiaw, v. a. (gwylltiaw) To make one's self wild; to scare mutually.

Ymwyraw, v. a. (gwyraw) To put one's self awry; mutually to bend aside.

Ymwyriad, s. m. (gwyriad) A putting one's self awry; a mutually bending.

Ymwystlaw, v. a. (gwystlaw) To pledge one's self; to give mutual hostage.

Oed a gall yr yngnad llyu i ymgofian dengain niwyrnawd, o circh, cyn ymwystlaw.

The judge of the palace shall have time to refresh his memory for forty days, if he desired, before he enters into mutual pledge. Welsh Laws.

Ymwystliad, s. m. (gwystliad) A pledging one's self; a mutually giving hostage.

Ymwystlwr, s. m.—pl. ymwystlwyr (gwystlwr) One who pledges himself.

Ymwythaw, v. a. (gwythaw) To put one's self in a rage, to become mutually enraged.

Ymwythiad, s. m. (gwythiad) A self-enraging, a mutually enraging.

Ymyfed, s. m. (yfed) A tipping; a mutual drinking. v. a. To be drinking, to be tipping; to drink mutually.

Ymyl, s. m.—pl. t. au (byl) A side; an edge or brink. Safa yn fy ymyl, stand by the side of sea.

*Tori, dōys dāl, mae 'ngalon,
Mal y tyr ymylau tōn.*

Breaking, slender nymph, is my heart, as when the tyr's Ed. Rhye, a fœtus.

Ymylawg, a. (ymyl) Having edges, rimmed.

Ymylwlch, s. m.—pl. ymylwlchau (ymyl—wlch) A notch in an edge.

Ymylfychiad, s. m. (ymylwlch) An engraving.

Ymylfychu, v. a. (ymylwlch) To edge-notch.

Ymylgylch, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymyl—cylich) A border or fringe.

I wys ymylgylch pals Macigwa.

To touch the border trimming of the coat of Macigwa. Rhye, Ed.

Ymylgylchiad, s. m. (ymylgylch) A putting a fringe or trimming round the edge.

Ymylgylchu, v. a. (ymylgylch) To put a fringe or trimming about the edge.

Ymyliad, s. m. (ymyl) A rimming or edging.

Ymyln, v. a. (ymyl) To rim, to edge; to skim, as in the throws of an animal.

Ymylwe, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ymyl—gwe) Selva.

Ymyr, s. m. (gyr) A mutual drive; a self-intermediation; a tendency; an intermeddling.

Ymyraeth, s. m. (ymyr) A mutual driving; a making one's self busy; an intermeddling.

Pob ffol a llyu ymyraeth.

Every fool seeks for intermeddling. Dischion II. 1.

Ymyrawl, a. (ymyr) Apt to intermeddle.

Ymyrgar, a. (ymyr) Apt to be intermeddling.

Ymyriad, s. m. (ymyr) An intermeddling.

Ymyrth, s. m. (gyrth) The state of being touching against or repelling; a mutual appulse.

Ymyrthawl, a. (ymyrth) Tending to be touching or appulsive; mutually touching.

Ymyrthiad, s. m. (ymyrth) A being touching; mutual appulsion.

Ymyrthu, v. a. (ymyrth) To be touching one's self against; mutually to touch or run against.

Anian ni ymyrth a'i ymyr.

Nature will not be repulsive to its cause. Iolo Goch.

Ymyrthwr, s. m.—pl. ymyrthwyr (ymyrth—gwr) One who touches or runs against.

Ymyrn, v. a. (ymyr) To drive on mutually; to instigate one's self; to be pursuing; to be intermeddling.

Cas a ymyrn ar bob peth heb achaw.

Hateful is he who intermeddles with every thing without aid.

Sores Cal wrth Arthur; nid ymyrws Cal yn rhwng y hyn Allan.

Cal was offended with Arthur; Cal did not concern himself with him from thence forward. M. Ca. 4. 10. 11.

Ymyrnus, a. (ymyr) Apt to be intermeddling.

Ymyrwr, s. m.—pl. ymyrwr (ymyr—gwr) One who pursues or concerns himself.

Ymyryd, v. a. (ymyr) To drive one's self on; to drive mutually, to tamper, to intermeddle.

*God ymleth ymyryon cyn ymyryd arall.
Leave off contention before it is meddled with.
Mark 17. 14.*

Ymysgafnhad, s. m. (yagafnhad) A self-lightening, a mutually lightening.

Ymysgafnau, v. a. (yagafnau) To lighten one's self, to lighten mutually.

Ymysgafniad, s. m. (yagafniad) A lightening one's self; a mutually lightening.

Ymysgafnau, v. a. (yagafnau) To lighten one's self, to lighten mutually.

Ymysgar, s. pl. aggr. (yagar) That carry on secretion; the bowels.

Ymysgarcoel, s. f. (yagar-coel) Haruspiciam, divination by examining of entrails.

Ymysgariad, s. m. (ymygar) A self-separation, a mutual separation.

Ymysgariaw, v. a. (ymygar) To separate one's self; to separate mutually.

Ymysgaroedd, s. pl. aggr. (ymygar) The bowels.

Ymysgethriad, s. m. (yagethriad) A being instigating, a mutually goading.

Ymysgethru, v. a. (yagethru) To employ one's self in instigating, to be mutually goading.

Ymysgrain, s. m. (yagrain) Self-prostration; mutual state of prostration. v. a. To prostrate one's self; to be mutually prostrate.

Torfoedd ymogyrya tarf ymysgrain.

The hosts of terror put to flight so as to cause a mutual prostration.

Ymysgreiniad, s. m. (ymygrain) A prostrating one's self along; a being mutually prostrating.

Ymysgreiniaw, v. a. (ymygrain) To prostrate one's self; to be mutually prostrating.

Ymysgrytiad, s. m. (yagrytiad) A being wriggling one's self.

Ymysgrytiaw, v. a. (yagrytiaw) To wriggle.

Ymysgwŷ, s. m. (yagwŷ) The employing one's self in snatching; a mutual snatch.

*Addef ymyg ymysgwŷ dydd;
Addef mawr y mawr crogwŷ.*

*Instruction is the confusion of the mutual scramble of the frowns: felony is fair in the opinion of him who deserves a halter.
Hymel Yderyn.*

Ymysgwyd, s. m. (yagwyd) To shake one's self, to shake mutually.

Dyns y byd yr ych'chwi yn ei fawrdd, chad oŷ; ac atioŷw cymerwch fy rhan i ohono; ac ar y gair oŷ ymysgyddwŷ oŷwŷwŷ.

*Lo that is the world, which you do magnify, mid be; and I beseech you take my portion of it; and on the word be about himself away from them.
Elio Wyn, S. Cwyr.*

Y mynyddoedd—wela yr oeddynt yn crynu; ac yr hollf rhyddu a ymysgyddwŷwŷ.

*The mountains, behold they were trembling; and all the hills were shaken.
Jeremi 4. 24.*

Ymysgyfiad, s. m. (ymygwŷ) A being snatching, a mutually snatching.

Ymysgyfiaw, v. a. (ymygwŷ) To be snatching, to be mutually snatching.

Ymysgytiad, s. m. (yagtytiad) A self-concussion, a concussing mutually.

Ymysgytiaw, v. a. (yagtytiaw) To shake one's self, to produce a mutual concussion.

Ymyslotiad, s. m. (yalotiad) A being dabbling or slopping one's self in water.

Ymyslotian, v. a. (yalotian) To be slopping.

Ymyslotiaw, v. a. (yalotiaw) To employ one's self in slopping or dabbling in water.

VOL. II.

Ymyswyraw, v. a. (ystwyraw) To agitate one's self; to stretch one's self, as in the act of recovering from drowsiness.

Ymyswyriad, s. m. (ystwyriad) Pandiculation.

YN, s. m. r. The state of being in, contained, or included. prep. In, at; in the way of; for, for the use of; into. pron. Our. If yn be put before verbs and adjectives, it forms the expressions denominated participles and adverbs. Yn ŷeri, breaking; yn ŷen, quickly: Oŷ gweŷi yn dda, if thou seest good; yn awr, at present; yn lleigus, by and by; yn y mas, yn y lle, presently.

Arf glaw yn ei galen.

The weapon of the brave is in his heart.

Adage.

Adfyd a ddaw a dyg yn ei law.

Adversity comes with instruction to his hand.

Adage.

Gobwg yn yd gwyf yd gar.

Sight is such as can see is lovely.

Adage.

Gwell bwrh yn gartref na lly yn allbwrh.

Better a cottage for a home, than a palace to resort to as a stranger.

Ac yn larch bellach Pr hel;

Ac yn lach gann uchel!

And adieu at length to the triumph; and adieu the loud rejoicing.

L. G. Cwŷ, m. ei fah.

Llynn yn gobeth ni, ac yn amddŷn, ac yn llawnydd, ac yn llynn.

Behold our hope, and our defence, and our joy, and our king.

Dr. ab Arthur.

Yna, adv. (yn—a) There, in that place; then, at that time: there now! lo!

Yna y mas fy enaid glaw.

A'm clyll yna allan.

In there is my pure soul, and my phantom here without.

D. ab Owain, the bard Merfudd.

Yna o hon y gweith amodd ymysgyddwŷ.

Then from the top of the dreadful steep we let ourselves down.

Elio Wyn, S. Cwyr.

Ynad, s. m.—pl. t. on (wn—ad) That is wary or deliberate; a judge.

Pan farnar tri allan—

Bardd Dwy an dŷn i weithiad

Y nrodd, yn nrodd ynad.

When the three multitudes shall be judged, God will be judging our being conveyed to the blessed society of heaven, agreeably to the attributes of judges.

Cyddaleu.

Ynadaeth, s. m. (ynad) The office of a judge.

Ynaeth, adv. (yn—aeth) Then, thereafter.

Ynadd, s. m. (wn) Energy, vigour, force.

Ellid ynadd yna.

Adage.

Let vigour go into him.

Ynaddo, pronem. prep. (yn) In it; in him. Yn—ddaf, in me; ynaddot, in thee; ynaddi, in her; ynaddom, in us; ynaddoch, in you; ynaddym, in them.

O bydd mawr cerddedwŷ o ŷitad ar y ffordd, pa ŷir byngw y he mawr ynaddo, oŷ a dŷyŷ dda ŷa o ŷitadwŷ.

*If a traveller who is a foreigner shall die on the road, whatsoever land he dies in, he ought to pay twenty-four pence of burial.
Welsh Laws.*

Ynadd, s. m. (wn) Energy, vigour, force.

Ynfer, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (yn—mer) An influx, a confluence, the fall of one water into another.

It is generally called Cymer and Aber.

Cad yn rhyd Aled, cad yn ynfer.

A battle in the ford of Aled, a battle in the confluence.

Taliesin.

Ynfyd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yn—myd) That is furious or mad, that is foolish. a. Furious, frantic, mad, foolish.

Y dŷnion byn, ni dŷyŷle credu on tyfioeth: cœth, mad, byddar, ac ynfyd cœnŷwŷwŷ, new rŷwŷwŷwŷ.

These persons, their testimony is not to be believed: a slave, a male, a deaf one, and one insane under restraint, or that is frantic.

Welsh Laws.

Ni chel ynyd ei foddwl.
The foolish will not conceal his mind. Adage.
Arf doeth pwyll; arf ynyd dur.
The weapon of the wise reason; the weapon of the foolish steel. Adage.
Po henaf y Cymro ynyd fyd.
By so much the older the Welshman the more simple he is. Adage.

Ynfydawg, a. (ynfyd) Abounding with folly.
Ynfydawl, a. (ynfyd) Tending to folly.
Ynfydedd, s. m. (ynfyd) Foolishness, frantiness.
Ynfydiad, s. m. (ynfyd) Dementation; a rendering foolish or frantic, a becoming foolish.
Ynfydrwydd, s. m. (ynfyd) Foolishness.

Nid ynfydrwydd ond cariad.
There is no foolishness like love. Adage.
Ynfydu, v. a. (ynfyd) To render frantic, to make foolish, to rave, to be mad, to lose the wits.

Ynfytty, s. m.—pl. t. an (ynfyd—ty) A mad-house.
Yni, s. m.—pl. t. an (wn) Energy, vigour.

Triathrawon yniau dyn: synwyr awerdd o reddf ac ania; pwyll o ystyriaeth a chywybod; a damweldoldeb cylich einloer; ac hebddynt eis gellir gwybyddiaeth cyflawn.

The three instructions of the energies of man: good sense from disposition and nature, reason from consideration and conscience, and the eventfulness of the course of human life; and without these no perfect knowledge is possible. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Yni, adv. (yn—i) Until, until the time.

*Ni ddof oddiwrth nai Dafydd
Yni ddel y nos yn ddydd.*

I will not come away from the nephew of David until the night turns to day. L. G. Costl.

Yniaw, v. a. (yn) To energize; to invigorate.
Yniawl, a. (yni) Energetic or vigorous.
Ynig, a. (wn) Energetic, or vigorous.
Ynmhell, adv. (pell) In the distance; far.
Ynmhlaid, adv. (plaid) In respect of.
Ynmhlegyd, adv. (plegyd) In respect of.
Ynmhlith, adv. (plith) Amongst, among.
Ynmlaen, adv. (blaen) In the advance; before.
Ynmlaenllaw, adv. (blaen—llaw) Beforehand.
Ynmraint, adv. (braint) In right; nearly.
Ymron, adv. (bron) In presence; nearly, almost.
Ynmysg, adv. (mysg) Amongst, amidst.

Mwy no phwyg yn mysg mor.
More than fishes in the midst of the sea. Adage.

Ynnill, s. m. (yn—nill) Advantage, gain.

*Bonedd ynnill bonedd o Ddau;
Bonedd geul bonedd o dda.*

Nobility by acquirement is nobility from God; nobility by birth is nobility from man. Adage.

Ynnill, v. a. (yn—nill) To get advantage, to gain, to win; to profit. Ynnill plant, to beget children.

Cas a bryno bob peth, ac heb ynnill dim.

Useful is he who buys every thing, and without gaining any thing. Adage.

Ynnilladwy, a. (ynnill) Profitable; acquirable.
Ynnillaw, v. a. (ynnill) To gain, to get.
Ynnilledig, a. (ynnill) Gained, gotten.
Ynnillfawr, a. (ynnill) Advantageous.
Ynnillgar, a. (ynnill) Profitable, gainful.
Ynnilliad, s. m. (ynnill) A gaining, a getting.
Ynnillwr, s. m.—pl. ynnillwyr (ynnill—gwr) A gainer, a winner, a getter.
Ynnof, pronom. prep. (ynddof) In me. Ynnof, in thee; ynno, in him; ynni, in her; ynnom, in us; ynnoch, in you; ynnynt, in them.
Yno, adv. (yn—o) There; then: speaking of the distant, either as to time or place. Awn yno, we will go there. Yno y marwai hi, there she died. Dyfed.

*O chert di wrth casu,
Colledat a gerallt yno.*
If thou wilt love the one who loves thee not, thou hast lost the fruit of thy love. Adage.

Yno y denat ynau sbet hi yn gollwng.
Then he would repair to her secretly. Gr. ab Ithor.

Ynt, v. (wn) Are; they are. It is used in common with its derivative ydynt.

*Marw Cal a Mearig—
Man wye ynt lleu ar eu bod.*

Dead are Cal and Mearig: small men are they of them who they are. T. An.

Yntan, pron. (wn—tan) Him also, him too, he also, him neither; the other.

*Sant yw, a mabanat i'r tan,
Santidd y gwelais yntan.*

A saint is he, and a tender child for mine: and worthy, I have seen him too. L. G. Costl.

Cas na chreio neb, na heb yntan.

Odious is he who believes nobody, and nobody him either. Adage.

Ynte, adv. (ynt—o) Else, then. Di ynt, w otherwise.

A syni di ffol dri mil o ffaen dy clydion, a bwy yn dy erid i ynta bod hwy yn y wlad dri diwrnod!

Wilt thou see three months before thou comest, what purpose thou! or that there be postillions for three days in the land! S. Samuel M. B.

Yntef, adv. (ynt—ef) Else, then, that, there.

*Rhy lloes yntef
Undan gyffwrdd
Gae enylioedd saf,
Nee ry arddwyd.*

There was consecrated there an enormous banquet from the angels of heaven, that he had been seated. Gwynion.

Ynwst, s. m. (yn—gwst) Humidity, dampness.

Ynwysg, adv. (gwyg) In a forward direction.

Ynyd, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (wn) A state of forming or gathering strength; a beginning; recreation: Shrove-tide. Ynyd y gweu, the beginning of Lent; Sul ynyd, Shrove-sunday; Nes ynyd, Shrove-tide eve; Maerth ynyd, Shrove-tuesday: Mae ef yn cael a ynyd, he obtains the height of his enjoyment.

*Nid oes wdd na mwa mwy ynyd yn'r gwyl;
Nid oes mwa chwr gwyl a gwyd!*

There is neither order or management, a frivolous past is country; there is no good, but indelicacy and vice! Griff. Dda a Dyfn, m. ap Gr. Llwy.

Ynyfydd, v. imp. (yn—y—bydd) There be.

Deuthant am y fagwyr a'r carcharwr: ynyfydd cyrllt griddfen a gylwyn.

They came on the other side of the wall with the prisoner: hold they could hear lamentation and groaning. H. Cuthbert—Mabwys.

Ynys, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (wn—ys) That is open, beginning, or forming; an island; also a rising ground or dry spot in a marshy place.

Tair rhagynys gwydd Ynys Prydein—Orc, Manaw, a Gwynedd hyn y toras y mor y tir, oedd at hys y mor; a a newedd Ynys Orc a dored, oedd at yno hys a ynydd: a nynydd yn ynydded a wnaent manaw ereill a y cyllt a Cymru.

The three primary adjoining islands of the Isle of Britain—Orc, Manaw, and Gwynedd; and afterwards the sea broke the land, so that Man became an island, and in the same way the Isle of Orc was broken, so that many islands were there; and other places of Alban and the land of the Britons came islands. P. Jones.

Ynysdir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ynys—tir) Low a flat land. Gwent.

Ynysawg, a. (ynys) Having islands.

Ynysawl, a. (ynys) Insular, belonging to an island.

Ynysig, s. f. dim. (ynys) A small island, an isle.

Ynystad, s. m. (ynystau) A becoming humid.

Ynystan, v. a. (ynwst) To become humid.

Ynystwydd, s. m. (ynwst) Humidity, dampness.

Ynyta, v. a. (ynydd) To seek after recreation.

ng, s. m. (yn) That is close or near upon; a bare touch or slight hint.

ngan, s. m. (yng) Intimation. v. a. To intimate.

O goid, rho i gail rhu;
Ac i anghall nac yngan.

If thou canst, give a share to the discreet; and to the indiscreet give no intimation.
O. Gwynedd.

nganawl, a. (yngan) Intimating, hinting.

nganiad, s. m. (yngan) A closely whispering; a hinting or intimating.

nganu, v. a. (yngan) To utter indistinctly, to whisper; to intimate, to hint.

ngawg, a. (wng) Being proximate or near.

ngawl, a. (wng) Being close or near upon.

ngder, s. m. (wng) Closeness, or nearness.

ngdra, s. m. (wng) Closeness, proximity.

ngenyd, v. a. (yngan) To intimate, to hint.

nglyrch, adv. (wng—cyrch) Imminently.

nglyd, adv. (cyd) In contact, together. Myssed ynglyd, to go in contact.

Ys llyngborth gwelid i frwydrin
Gwyf ynglyd, a gwed bryd ddiadla,
Rhac rhydd mawr mab Erbin.

In Llongborth I saw the turmoil of men together, and blood to the knees, from the great assault of the son of Erbin.
Llywarch Hen.

A sath ynglyd, sath i'r byd.

That is gone together it is gone into the world. Adage.

nglych, adv. (cylich) About, round, in compass.

Fall ad myn:
Nid araf gwyn
El cyrchu;
Ys lle ddiadla,
Ynglych ei wyal
Gwelid corpan.

Veret he will not have: not the white asbestos his hands; instead of fine linen, around his temples rays were seen.
Y Brawd Madrug ab Gwalther.

ngiad, s. m. (wng) A rendering close or near.

ngiala, s. m. (wng—liala) A confined voice, a voice of distress.

nglef, s. m. (wng—llef) A cry of distress.

Oedd ddoe i Daugwystl ddoe ynglef.

It was yesterday that Daugwystl had to utter the shriek.
L. G. Coch.

ngleisain, v. a. (ynglef) To cry confinedly.

ngleisiad, s. m. (ynglais) A speaking or uttering with difficulty.

ngleisaw, v. a. (ynglais) To speak or to utter the voice with difficulty.

ngnad, s. m.—pl. t. on (wng—nad) A judge.

ngneidiad, s. m. (yngnad) The acting as a judge.

ngneidiaeth, s. m. (yngnad) The office of a judge; legislature; judicature.

Tair colofn gwladolish Ysya Prydain—rhith gwlad, teyrnodd, ac yngneidiaeth, herwydd deuparth Prydain ab Aedd Mawr.

The three foundations of government of the Isle of Britain—the voice of the country, monarchy, and legislature, according to the regulation of Prydain son of Aedd the Great. Friedad.

ngneidiaw, v. a. (yngnad) To act as a judge.

ngneidiawl, a. (yngnad) Belonging to a judge.

nguis, s. f. (wng—guis) An epithet for a shoulder.

Gwen with Lawen pl wylis netheryr,
A'y ynyrd ar ynguis;
A oedd he sath ym ni ddiadla.

Gwen by Lawen did he watch last night with the shield on his shoulder; and as he was my son he did not retreat.
Llywarch Hen.

ngo, adv. (wng) Hard by, or near, here.

ngod, adv. (yngo) Hard by, or near, here.

Blidd a bidd, bidd ludd i bidd,
Bidd wrth y bodd ysgod.

A wolf he will be, without an obstacle for it, severe to the people here.
Llywarch ab Owain.

Ewig—

A ddiadla o'm fridd yngod.

A hind has escaped from my park hard by. Iwan Dyfl.

Yngogiad, s. m.—pl. yngogiad (yngawg) A neighbour, a proximate.

Goren yngogiad gelfy
Goren yngogiad moch.

The best as neighbours are goats; the best in confinement are swine. Adage.

Yngreg, a. (wng—rhég) Of narrow gift; stingy.

Yngres, s. m. (wng—gres) Violence, arduity.

Yn llawn o yngres gwres.

Being full of the ardency of heat. Talliesin.

Dau ddragon yn yngres.

Two dragons in violence. Gwalchmai.

Yngs, v. a. (wng) To close upon, to stricken.

Yngus, a. (wng) Of a close or narrow quality.

Yngwrth, adv. (yn—gwrth) Suddenly, unexpectedly.

Yngwrth orthochliad engus!

Unexpectedly the conquest of death! Llew Morris.

Yngyrth, s. m. (wng—gyrth) A close push.

Achygar ei bar, berygl brys yngyrth,
A bair engus dilyn.

Unlovely his death, the danger of hasty onset, that causes certain death. Stenton Offord.

YR, s. m. r. That is distant, past, out or from; that is opposite or against. prep. For, with respect to. art. The, used for y, preceding words with vowel initials: It is also used adverbially, as—Yr oedd gwr a'i enw Ioan, there was a man whose name was John.

Cerdd doeth yr enillion.

Let the wise love the remains of antiquity. Adage.

Mai y tan yn yr awlyd.

Like the fire in the hearth. Adage.

Ci a hollu holl ffrwyd ni bydd du ar yr an.

A dog that hunts every beast will not be good for any one. Adage.

Pan gellir yr hion, O'r gogledd daw eton.

When the fine weather shall be lost, from the north it will come again. Adage.

Arfer swarier yw yr arfer waethaf y n byd.

To be in the habit of no habit is the worst habit in the world. Adage.

Yrth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yr) A touch; a stop, obstacle, let, or hinderance. a. Impeding. Mae efe yn siarad yn yrth, he is speaking lispingly. Sil.

All marth mawr mor de;
All yrth, all yrth se.

Like the great expanse of the south sea; like the concussion, like the fall of stars. Gwalchmai.

All yrth yrth yn gwrthfynasant;

As agwedd ymlwedd am berdd angant bre,
Bron yr Erw y gawnd.

A second shock of onset they sought against us; a second vehement conflict round the fair circumference of a hill, Bron yr Erw, which they call. Ll. F. Moch, i Llywelyn II.

Yrthiad, s. m. (yrth) A touching; a stopping.

Yrthlaw, v. a. (yrth) To touch; to stop.

Yrthwch, s. m. (yrth) An impediment, a stammer.

Gnawd gwedy rhydeg yrthwch.

After extreme smoothness generally comes a rub. Adage.

YS, s. m. r. That is, that arises or issues out; that proceeds; that is active, violent, or consuming; a combustible principle. It is a common prefix in composition.

Ys, v. (ys, s.) Is, hath, a being, existeth. Ys id? Is there? is it? be there?

Arfer no doddŷ y trech.
Custom is mightier than law.
Adage.
Amledd cybydd y lloidi arno.
The abundance of the miser is poverty to him.
Adage.
Mef y gwawd o waddwawd hir.
Reproach is attendant on long widowhood.
Adage.
Bedd Eickwyth y gwylch gwlaw,
Maw Mawdawg y ddaaw;
Dryad Cynon yno ei awyau.
The grave of Eickwyth the ruin deth drench, the plain of Mawdawg beneath him; him Cynon ought to mourn.
E. Bedden Milywr.
Ys id yn y boly hwn blaedd!
Cetniald cynallfald, diavrniald yn abrin
Rhag cedwyr cad barawd!
Is there in this leathern bag some men! slingers of deprecators, failing one in conduct before the warrior of ready battle.
E. Dron, Mabingion.

Ysawry, a. (ys) Consumable, or ignitable.
Ysawl, a. (ys) Consuming, or devouring; caustic.
Tan ysawl, consuming fire.
Ysach, s. m. (bach) A grapple, or a clawing.
Ysachawl, a. (ysach) Grappling; rumpling.
Ysbachiad, s. m. (ysbach) A clawing; a rumpling.
Ysbachu, v. a. (ysbach) To claw; to rumple.
Ysag, s. f.—pl. t. au (bag) A talon.
Ysbagawg, a. (ysbag) Having claws or talons.
Ysbagawl, a. (ysbag) Like a talon or claw.
Ysbagu, v. a. (ysbag) To claw, to clutch.
Ysbawd, s. f.—pl. ysbodau (pawd) A blade, a blade-bone, a shoulder-bone; a shoulder. Ysbawd mollt, palfais mollt, palfais dafad, a shoulder of mutton.
Ysbledd, s. m. (bledd) That is got by rapacity.
Ysbledda, v. a. (ysbledd) To gather spoil.
Ysbleddach, s. m. (ysbledd) Spoil, prey, or booty.

Y brenin nagan: cyfarch, a gorachafach, ac ysbleddach drwgddawl!
The monarch death: I greet thee pre-eminence and eternal spoil!
Ellis Wym, B. Cwag.

Ysblenyddiad, s.—pl. t. au (ysplenydd) A raying.
Ysbrig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (brig) A sprig.
Ysbrigaw, v. a. (ysbrig) To produce sprigs.
Ysbrigawg, a. (ysbrig) Full of sprigs.
Ysbrigawl, a. (ysbrig) Tending to yield sprigs.
Ysbrigiad, s. m. (ysbrig) A sprigging.
Ysbrigyn, s. m. dim. (ysbrig) A sprig, a twig.
Ysbril, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ys—bril) A bat. Dyfed
Ysbrychiad, s. m. (brychiad) A speckling.
Ysbrychu, v. a. (brychu) To speckle, to blur.
Ysbyrd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pryd) That is intelligent, that is mental; a spirit.

Gwae ni hiafer lles yn ei ysbyrd,
Ysbyrd fyr tydawl fod yn mheneid;
Gwae ei yn nghan ym nghymledd Cain
Cynryfelawg, lygriad enbyd!

Woe to him who labours not a benefit in his spirit, during the short wordy space being in penance; woe to him who goes into iniquity in a course similar to Cain the first rebellious, a perilous corruption!
Melir ab Gwalchmai.

Mae rhyw nerth yn mysg dynion, yr awr hon, nad oedd o'r blaen;
mae rhyw yspird rhyfodd yn gwelidlaw.

There is some power, at present, among men, which was not heretofore; there is some extraordinary spirit working.
Morgan Llwyd.

Ysbyrdawg, a. (ysbyrd) Having a spirit.
Ysbyrdawl, a. (ysbyrd) Spiritual, or ghostly.
Ysbyrdiad, s. m.—pl. ysbyrdiaid (ysbyrd) An intelligence, a spiritual agent.

Ni aethon drwy deyrnas yr wybr, lle yr oedd holl ddryg ysbryd-haid yn triga.

We went through the kingdom of the air, where all the evil intelligences had their abode.
Marchawg Cwydrad.

Ysbyrdiaeth, s. m. (ysbyrd) Spirituality.
Dyben cerdd yw gwellu y deall, dyddanu y byrd, ac yr ysbyrdiaeth.
The intention of poetry is to improve the understanding, to delight the mind and the spirit.
Barddas.

Ysbyrdlaw, a. (ysbyrd) Spirited, full of spirit.
Ysbyrdlondeb, s. m. (ysbyrdlaw) Spiritfulness.
Ysbyrdlonedd, s. m. (ysbyrdlaw) Spiritfulness.
Ysbyrdloni, v. a. (ysbyrdlaw) To render spiritual; to become spiritual.
Ysbyrdlonrwydd, s. m. (ysbyrdlaw) Spiritfulness.
Ysbyrdoldeb, s. m. (ysbyrdawl) A spiritual state.
Ysbyrdolder, s. m. (ysbyrdawl) A spiritual state.
Ysbyrdoleddig, a. (ysbyrdawl) Spiritualised.
Ysbyrdoledd, s. m. (ysbyrdawl) Spirituality.
Ysbyrdoli, v. a. (ysbyrdawl) To render spiritual, to spiritualize.

Ysbyrdoliad, s. m. (ysbyrdawl) Spiritualisation.
Ysbyrdoliaeth, s. m. (ysbyrdawl) Inspiration, the working of the spirit.

Ysbyrdoliaethu, v. a. (ysbyrdoliaeth) To spiritualize, to render spiritual.

Ysbyrdolrwydd, s. m. (ysbyrdawl) A spiritual state.

Ysbyrdus, a. (ysbyrd) Spiritual, spiritual.

Ysbyrdusaw, v. a. (ysbyrdus) To render spiritual to become spiritual.

Ysbyrdusedd, s. m. (ysbyrdus) Spirituality.

Ysbur, s. m.—pl. t. iau (bur) The pedestal or base of a pillar; a short post or supporter of a shelf, in ancient houses, projecting into the floor, in the form of a akreen, and used to put by such victuals as is in present consumption.

Ysbwrial, s. m. aggr. (bwrw) Refuse, unsweepings, rubbish.

Ysbwrialu, v. a. (ysbwrial) To make rubbish.

Ysbyd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (oab) Hospitality.

Ysbydaeth, s. m. (ysbyd) The practice of receiving guests, hospitality.

Ysbydawl, a. (ysbyd) Relating to the receiving of guests.

Ysbydiad, s. m. (ysbyd) A receiving of guests.

Ysbydu, v. a. (ysbyd) To receive guests.

Ysbydwr, s. m.—pl. ysbydwyr (ysbyd—wr) The master of an hospital.

Ysbys, a. (bys) Noticeable; manifest, evident.

Ysbysawl, a. (ysbys) Tending to manifest.

Ysbysiad, s. m. (ysbys) A specifying.

Ysbysoli, v. a. (ysbysawl) To render manifest; to become special or particular.

Ysbysoliad, s. m. (ysbysawl) Specification.

Ysbysrwydd, s. m. (ysbys) A specification, notice, or information.

Ysbysu, v. a. (ysbys) To specify, to give notice.

Ysbyswr, s. m.—pl. ysbyswyr (ysbys—wr) A specifier, a declarer.

Ysbysydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysbys) A specifier.

Ysbyty, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysbyd—ty) A hospital.

Ysdawr, s. m. (dawr) That is of concern or an object of care or anxiety.

Ysdiif, s. m. (diff) That forms a spout or jet.

Ysdiifiad, s. m. (ysdiif) A spouting out.

Ysdiifiaw, v. a. (ysdiif) To spout or to jet out.

Ysdiifi, s. m. (ysdiif) That spouts or spirts.

Ysdiifiawg, a. (ysdiifi) Full of spouting or jetting.

s. f. The cuttle-fish.

Ysdill, s. m.—pl. t. ion (dill) That folds or plies.

Ysdilliad, s. m. (ysdill) A making a plaiting.

Ysdilllaw, v. a. (ysdill) To form a fold or plait.

Ysdori, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysdawr) What is of concern or in mind; a matter of record.

Ysdoriad, s. m. (ysdori) A relating as history.

Ysdoriaw, v. a. (ysdori) To relate a story.

Ysdoriawl, a. (ysdori) Historical, historic.

Ysdragiad, s. m. (dragiad) A dragging about.

Ysdragiaw, v. a. (dragiaw) To mangle, to drag.

Ydwrddiad, s. m. (dwrddiad) A threatening.
Ydwrddiaw, v. a. (dwrddiaw) To threaten.
Ydwrddiwr, s. m.—pl. ydwrddiwr (dwrddiwr) A threatener.
Ydyferiad, s. m. (dyferiad) A distillation.
Ydyferion, s. pl. aggr. (dyferion) Distillations.
Ydyferu, s. a. (dyferu) To distil, to drop.
Ydyfuig, a. (dyfuig) Obstinate, stubborn.
Ydyfuigaw, v. a. (ydyfuig) To act stubbornly; to become obstinate or stubborn.
Ydyfuigrwydd, s. m. (ydyfuig) Stubbornness.
Ysedig, s. (ys) Corroded; consumed; oxidated.
Ysenyd, s. m. (enyd) A space of time, a while.

*Dyd strifed dros wledydd;
 Brithfyd er ymwyd sylb.*

A world of numerous changes over countries; a confused world for a good while hath been. Lly. ab Ior. ab Ednyfed.

Ysta, v. f.—pl. ysfeydd (ys—ma) A spot devoured or consumed; a feeding place; a sheep walk; an itching.

Dwg yst, lle'r wyd, gwasfa, Dda nodiaw a dringaw drin.

Bear an itching, where thou art, slender shank, white param-bulging and climbing of thorns. T. Prye, i'r dryn.

Ysfa, s. f.—pl. t. an (ys—man) A consuming place; a biting place; an itching. Mae yn codi ysfa, it causes an itching.

Ysg, s. m. (ys) A tendency to act, or move, or to separate.

Ysgadan, s. pl. aggr. (cad) Herrings; also called penwig, or empty heads.

Ysgadenyn, s. m. dim. (ysgadan) A herring.

Ysgaen, s. f.—pl. t. an (cseu) A sprinkle.

Ysgaeniad, s. m. (ysgaen) A sprinkling.

Ysgaennu, v. a. (ysgaen) To sprinkle, to spread.

Ysgafael, s. m.—pl. t. an (cafael) That is taken; capture, prey.

*Maerod gwyned, mawr ysgafael,
 Y rhag Ceur Lwydood, seus dug Moriall
 Fymthecant mayn a phen Gwtrial.*

Briskly posing for combat, a great booty, before the fortress of Grey-wood, has not Moriall taken it fifteen hundred kine, and the head of Gwtrial. Morgan, m. Cynddylan.

Ysgafellad, s. m. (ysgafael) A capturing.

Ysgafaelu, v. a. (ysgafael) To capture.

Ysgafaelus, a. (ysgafael) Predatory, rapacious.

Ysgafaeth, s. f.—pl. t. an (cfaeth) A booty, a board.

Ysgafaethawl, a. (ysgaeth) Rapacious.

Ysgafaethiad, s. m. (ysgafaeth) A making a booty; a hoarding.

Ysgafaethu, v. a. (ysgafaeth) To make a booty; to lap up a board.

Ysgafu, s. m. (cafn) A light heap or body; that is light or easy; a stack of corn. Marw ysgafu, a death-bed; a resignation to death, or a death-bed song.

Ysgafu, s. a. (cafn) Light, volatile; fickle.

Ysgafu y deuth, ysgafu yr aeth.

Lightly it came, lightly it went.

Gloerwch syddant y mint yna sathwath no'r haul, ac ysgafu-ach o funder syddant no mredwi.

The mint will be then seven times brighter than the sun, and lighter of motion than thought. Rhincdarius.

Ysgafuad, s. m. (ysgafuad) A lightening.

Ysgafuadawl, a. (ysgafuad) Tending to be light.

Ysgafuaidd, a. (ysgafu) To render light.

Ysgafuad, v. a. (ysgafu) To make light, to make easy; to become light.

Ysgafnder, s. m. (ysgafu) Lightness; levity.

Ysgafndra, s. m. (ysgafu) Lightness; levity.

Ysgafndrefn, a. (ysgafu—trefn) Of light order; lightly arrayed, lightly armed.

Ysgafnodd, s. m. (ysgafu) Lightness, levity.

Ysgafniad, s. m. (ysgafu) A making light.

Ysgafnleddf, a. (ysgafu—leddf) Softly yielding.

Ysgafurwydd, s. m. (ysgafu) Lightness, levity.

Ysgafnu, v. a. (ysgafu) To lighten, to make light; to make a light heap, to stack corn; to become light.

Ysgafell, s. f.—pl. t. an (cafell) A ledge, edge, rim, or brow. Dynafte yn edrych dan ei ysgafell, there he is looking slyly, or under his brow.

Ric s'm dplnt i ymhell bell y tu uchaf i'r castell, ac ar ysgafell o gwmwl gwyn gorphwysm.

He stretched me far and far above the castle, and on the edge of a white cloud we rested. Ellis Wyn, B. Gwent.

Ysgafellawg, a. (ysgafell) Having a ledge.

Ysgafelliad, s. m. (ysgafell) A ledging.

Ysgafellu, v. a. (ysgafell) To form a ledge.

Ysgal, s. m. (ysg) Froth, foam, or acum.

Ysgain, s. m. (cain) A sprinkle. a. Sprinkling.

s. a. To sprinkle, or to spread out.

Rhodddawg fwrhawg fwrch ysgal.

A red-stained knight with a spattering weed. Cynddelw.

Bradw ysgaf bryd ysgal wrth laf.

With a frail shield his front gleaming at the shout. Cynddelw.

Yn rith cleddyf cior, Cled ysgal yn cer.

In the semblance of a bright sword, spreading fame in conflict. Cynddelw.

Cad ysgal cad ddiysog.

Boasty scattering in battle unshaken. Prydydd Dycheu.

Ysgainc, s. f.—pl. ysgainciau (cainc) That branches or forms a branch.

Ysgaing, s. f. (cainc) That forms a branch. Ysgaing o edaf, a skain of thread.

Ysgais, s. m. (cainc) That is attempted or essayed.

Ysgall, s. pl. aggr. (call) The thistle. Ysgall gwynion, ysgall mair, ysgall brithion, milk thistle; ysgall duon, black thistle; ysgall bendigaid blessed thistle; ysgall y penwr, the teasel; ysgall y blaidd, ysgall gwylltion, spear thistle; ysgall campen, field eryngo; ysgall y moch, llasith ysgall, llymeid/rydd, sow-thistle; ysgall y meirch, marchysgall, endive.

A he ysgall ni fed weath.

Who soweth thistles will not reap wheat. Adage.

Ysgallaidd, a. (ysgall) Like a thistle.

Ysgallawg, a. (ysgall) Abounding with thistles; of the nature of thistle. Llysiau ysgallawg, acanacious plants.

Ysgallen, s. f. (ysgall) A thistle: ysgallen ddu, black chameleon thistle; ysgallen ddraenwen, common carline thistle; ysgallen fogtynawg, sea eryngo; ysgallen fwyth, melancholy thistle.

Ysgant, s. m. (cant) That forms a curve or whirl.

Ysgar, s. f.—pl. t. ion (car) A separate part, a part, portion; or share; a piece, or fragment; a separation, a divorce.

Ysgar, v. a. (car) To separate, to divide; to divorce; to cast off.

Ysgarant, s. m.—pl. ysgaraint (ysgar) One that is separated or parted; an adversary.

*Pia y bodd hwn! Bodd Brant
 Y rhag hwyys a hollant!
 Bodd gur gwss i ysgarant.*

Who owns this grave! The grave of Brant, between the horizon and a slight ravine; the grave of a man of the name. R. Bodden Mithyr.

Ysgardd, s. f. (ysgar) A spread, a dispersion.

Ysgarddawl, a. (ysgardd) Dispersing, scattering.

Ysgardde, s. m. (ysgardd) Separation, dispersion.

Ysgarddig, a. (ysgar) Separated, divided.

Ygaroddigath, s. m.—pl. t. au (ygarodig) Separation; a scattered state.
Ygarodd, s. m. (ygar) Separateness.
Ygarod, s. m.—pl. t. au (ygar) Separation.
Ygarineth, s. m. (ygar) A separation.
Ygarinw, s. a. (ygar) To separate, to part.
Ygarm, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (garm) An outcry.
Ygarmin, s. a. (ygarin) To keep up a continued outcry or shouting.
Ygarmanw, s. (ygarin) Shouting, screaming.
Ygarmer, s. f.—pl. t. au (ygarin) The being employed in an outcry or shout; the work of shouting; a skirmish.

Mass a new 'garmer a wren'.

A bottle and nine skirmishes they would go through.
L. G. Cuth.

Ygarriad, s. m. (ygarin) A shouting.
Ygaru, s. a. (ygarin) To set up a shout.
Ygarth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (carth) Offscouring.
Ygarthawg, s. (ygarth) Excrementitious.
Ygarthawl, s. (ygarth) Excremental, excretive.
Ygarthiad, s. m. (ygarth) Excretion; a scouring out, or purging.
Ygarthiyo, s. (ygarth) Tending to expel or to purge.
Ygartho, s. a. (ygarth) To purge out, to expel.
Ygaru, v. a. (ygar) To separate, to part.

Nid ygar newyn a diogt.

Hunger will not part from idleness.

Adage.

Ygatydd, s. m. (gad—bydd) Peradventure, perhaps.
Ygau, s. m. (can) That is hollow or scooped; a scoop. a. Scooped.
Ygaw, s. m. egr. (caw) Elder wood, elder.
Ygaw y ddaiar, cor-ygaw, ygaew Mair, gwawd y gwyr, dwarf-elder.

Tri pheth a gyawdd ar y gwir,
 Gwydd, ac ygaui, ac ygaew.

Three things increase in the rain, grass, and thistle, and elder.

Adage.

Ygawd, s. m. (cawd) That rises over, a shade.
 Gwawd rwyf yn hollt bell wneud,
 Gwawd ygaui ygaui a gwa ygaui.

Like the effect of the ear in the breeze in the liquor of Bell, like a light shade on the back of a shadow.

Taliesin.

Ygawen, s. f. (ygaw) An elder-tree. Ygawen y gwr, or corawen, water-elder.
Ygaw, a. (ysg) Abounding with activity. Ygawd gwyth, wrath is active.

Ygaui ddygwydd ddydd gwydd.

Formerly descended the tumult of the concubine.

Taliesin.

Gogwa—
 Py ygaui addaf
 Py ddyddiad nef;
 Py iu dorch hwyf
 O ddair hwyf awy.

I have to tell what was the crowing pathos when heaven was appeared; what was a mail clad from earth to sky.

Taliesin.

Ygawn, s. m. (cawn) A light body. a. Light.

Ygawn llyth a gied.

The light head will accumulate.

Adage.

Ygawn llyth ygaui llyth.

Light in entering, light in egress.

Adage.

Ygawndad, s. m. (ygawndau) Alleviation.
Ygawndawl, s. (ygawndau) Tending to lighten.
Ygawndu, s. a. (ygawndau) To lighten; to become light; to become volatile.
Ygocran, s. m. (ocran) A bickering, a brawling.
Ygocrain, s. a. (ocrain) To be bickering.

Ygocrawl, s. (ocrawl) Bickering, brawling.
Ygocriad, s. m. (ocriad) A bickering, a brawling.
Ygocra, s. a. (ocra) To bicker, to brawl.
Ygedd, s. m. (ys—cedd) The sea kale.
Ygegiad, s. m. (cegiad) A throttling; a shaking by laying hold of the throat.
Ygegiaw, v. a. (cegiaw) A shaking by laying hold of the throat; a shaking roughly.
Ygegiwr, s. m.—pl. ygegiwyr (ygegiaw—gwr) A throttler, one who shakes roughly.
Ygeinderf, s. f. (ygein—torf) A spreading heat.

Ygeinderf fawddd rif torodd surfad.

The spreading heat of the sun by legions sea covered.

L. F. Hall.

Ygeiniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ygein) A spreading out; a sprinkling; a squinting.
Ygeiniaw, v. a. (ygein) To spread abroad; to spirt, to slap; to sprinkle; to squint.

Yna y gwelid y tan llychwr yn ygeinwyr o'r arin.

Then was seen the gleaming fire sprinkling from the arin.

Ygeiniaw y waf

O do y waf.

They would spread out in a flame high from the road.

Taliesin.

Dyddon cywain
 O am dir hollwain;
 Eu cerdd a gwynhau,
 Eu gwawd a ygein.

Tribes would come from about the land of Rome; but not will harmonize, their praise will spread abroad.

Taliesin.

Ygeiniawl, s. (ygein) Sprinkling; squinting.
Ygeiniedig, s. (ygeiniad) Scattered; sprinkled.
Ygeiniedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ygeiniad) A scatterer; a sprinkler; a squinter.
Ygeiniwr, s. m.—pl. ygeiniwyr (ygein—gwr) A scatterer; a sprinkler; a squinter.
Ygeintiad, s. m. (ygein) A whisking about.
Ygeintiaw, v. a. (ygein) To whisk about.
Ygeintiawl, s. (ygein) Whirling, whisking.
Ygeintiwr, s. m.—pl. ygeintiwyr (ygein—gwr) One who whisks about.

Ygeiniad, s. m. (ygein) An endeavouring.
Ygeiniaw, v. a. (ygein) To be endeavouring.
Ygeiniawl, s. (ygein) Endeavouring.
Ygeiniwr, s. m.—pl. ygeiniwyr (ygein—gwr) One who attempts or endeavours.
Ygeler, s. (cel) Atrocious, villainous, nefarious, detestable; obscene.

Ygelerdawd, s. m. (ygeler) Atrociousness.
Ygelerder, s. m. (ygeler) Atrociousness.
Ygelerdra, s. m. (ygeler) Flagitiousness.
Ygelereidd, s. m. (ygeler) Flagitiousness.
Ygeleriad, s. m. (ygeler) A rendering flagitious; a becoming scandalous.

Ygelera, v. a. (ygeler) To render flagitious; to become atrocious or flagitious.

Ygelynllys, s. m. (celyn—llys) The ribwort. It is also called estyllenlys.

Ygcllog, s. f. (ygall) Wild succory.
Ygemydd, s. m. (cam) A curve, the outside edge of any thing that curves.

Tri ygaui ceras Yna Prydau: Gwair aml Cwair.
 Morion all Ygaui, a Gwain Gwair.

The three hammers in of battle of the Isle of Britain: the son of Cadwyll, Morion son of Ygaui, and Gwain hammers.

Taliesin.

Ygemydd cloddydd cwydd a llyth.

A celebrated circle equally prosperous with llyth.

Madon of Gwyn.

Yn gwyn llyth, yn gwynhau,
 Yn llyth llyth llyth;
 Yn llyth llyth llyth;
 Yn llyth llyth llyth.

Bring much heat, like a sickle, burning like the rim of a wheel being bent on its curving edge, being bent to rest up to a rim.

Madon of Gwyn.

Ygen, s. m. (cen) Morpheus, or dandriff.
Ygenedi, s. f. (cenedl) A generation, a tribe.

Eagor difreiddiad mudi nychdwyra Ygen ygenedi gychwedi gychwyr.

The departure of the protection of the good manach will spread the quickly flying report of the family.
Bis. ab Gwalcham, i Llywelyn II.

Ygenedlawg, a. (ygenedi) Generating.
Ygenedliad, s. m. (ygenedi) A generating.
Ygenedlu, v. a. (ygenedi) To generate.
Ygeniad, s. m. (ygen) A generating of scales; a generating of dandriff.

Ygenllys, s. m. (ys-cân-llys) Hemispheric liver-green.

Ygentyn, s. m. dim. (yngant) A caperer; a buffoon.
Ygentynaid, a. (ygentyn) Buffoon-like.

Ygenn, v. a. (ygen) To generate scales; to generate scurf or dandriff.

Yger, s. f. -pl. ysgyr (cer) A kind of stone which breaks into bars.

Ygerbwd, s. m. (ysgar-pwd) A skeleton, a carcase; carrion.

Samson—a drowsy i eiddych ygerbwd y llaw.

Samson failed to examine the carcase of the lion.

Barnwyrr 14. a.

Ygeth, s. f. -pl. t. au (ceth) That pushes or repels; a spear.

*Hyder gymbell ar freithell fanwyd,
 Ni nodi nac ygeth nac ysgwyd.*

With a confident impulse towards the banner staff, thou wilt mark her spear not shaketh.
Aneurin.

Ygethiad, s. m. -pl. t. au (ygeth) Propulsion; repulsion.

Ygethin, a. (ygeth) Propulsive; repulsive.

Ygethr, s. f. -pl. t. au (cethr) That drives.

Ygethrwg, a. (ygethr) Iterating, driving.

Ygethrawl, a. (ygethr) Iterating, driving.

Ygethiad, s. m. (ygethr) An iterating.

Ygethrin, a. (ygethr) Iterative, impulsive.

Yr oedd ddrwyddau mudi ygethrin yn rhwygaw y mwg ddodw oedd y sodd awfwrth yn ei ddrw.

Three shafts of desperate lightning rended the thick black smoke, which the horrid gulf threw out.
Edo Wyn, B. Cwgr.

Ygethu, v. a. (ygethr) To iterate, to impel.

Ygethu, v. a. (ygeth) To push; to repulse.

Ygenad, s. m. (ysgau) A hollowing, a scooping.

Ygenaw, v. a. (ysgau) To hollow, to scoop.

Ygenawl, a. (ysgau) Hollowed, scooped.

Ygeneg, s. f. -pl. t. au (ysgau) A scoop.

Ygenegiad, s. m. (ysgeneg) A scooping.

Ygenegu, v. a. (ysgeneg) To scoop out, to hollow.

Ygewin, a. (ysgaw) Being of elder wood.

Ygewyll, s. pl. aggr. (ysgaw) Oziers; twigs.

Aderyn a'—

Esgyll blaen ysgewyll blwydd.

A bird with its wings the tops of yearling twigs.

H. ab D. ab Ien. ab Rhys.

Ysgewyll y ysgewydd

Ac yu y gwallth eglu gwydd.

Twigs form a leafy circle, and in the work the seed of woods.

D. ab Edmund, i Gas bedw.

Ysgewyllawg, a. (ysgewyll) Having twigs.

Ygi, s. m. -pl. t. od (ysg) Exertion; a clearance, a cutting off; a parer, a clearer; a bat, either for play or to beat clods; a paring knife; an instrument for cutting up mole hills, with handles like a plough, guided by one person and drawn by another. Cenedl ygi, a tribe of depredation.

*Llad yn cwyryu,
 Euryr, yn llaw,
 Llâw yn ygi,
 Ygi yn moodyddaf.*

Liquor in golden horns, golden horns in hand, hand in labour, labour in society.
Tallan.

Ygliad, s. m. (ygi) A clearing, a cutting off.

Ygliaw, v. a. (ygi) To cut away, to pare, to clear; to bat, to beat clods.

Ygliawl, a. (ygi) A paring, or a slicing.

Ygliell, s. f. (ygi) A scud of fine weather.

Yglien, s. f. dim. (ygi) A cutter, a parer, a chopper; a scymitar; a large knife; a grafting knife; a wooden knife for cutting of butter; a turner's spring or lath; a tall awkward woman.

Nis ladd cledd nac yglien.

Not sword nor scymitar will kill him.

D. Marner.

Ysgig, a. (cig) Carnivorous, flesh-eating.

Ysgil, s. m. -pl. t. iau (cil) The state of being behind, as on horse-back; a recess.

Ysgilbren, s. m. -pl. t. i (ysgil-pren) The stent in the traces of a horse.

Ysgiliad, s. m. (ysgil) A setting behind; a going or riding behind; a recession; a throwing behind.

Ysgillaw, v. a. (ysgil) To set behind; to lay or throw aside; to go behind; to ride behind on horseback.

Ysgiliwr, s. m. -pl. ysgiliwyr (ysgil-gwr) One who sets behind; one who takes behind on horseback.

Ysgin, s. f. -pl. t. au (cin) A robe made of skin with the fur on it, a pelisse.

Rhita Gwrr a wnaid lldo ysgin o farfan breninodd.

Rhita the Giant made for him a robe of the beard of kings.

Gr. ab Arthwr.

Ysginaw, v. a. (ysgin) To dress in a robe.

Ysginawg, a. (ysgin) Having a robe, gowned.

Ysginawr, s. m. -pl. ysginawrion (ysgin) A robe.

Ysginawr gwrth—
Ysginaw, llw ffeindid fflamir.

An immense robe of scarlet, the hue of the gleaming of flames.
L. F. Moch.

Ysginen, s. f. dim. (ysgin) A robe, a gown.

Ysginiad, s. m. (ysgin) A dressing in a robe.

Ysginydd, s. m. -pl. t. ion (ysgin) A robe-maker.

Ysginyddiaeth, s. m. (ysgin) The trade of a robe-maker, a pelisse-maker.

Ysgip, s. m. -pl. t. iau (cip) A quick snatch.

Ysgipiad, s. m. (ysgip) A snatching away.

Ysgipaw, v. a. (ysgip) To snatch away.

Ysgipial farf—
Ysgwydr hwyi beidr haul.

It would snatch off a beard of a wandering course like the sun beams.
R. Goch Brydd, i Gydell.

Ysgiplawg, a. (ysgip) Snatching, rapacious.

Ysgipiawl, a. (ysgip) Snatching, rapacious.

Ysgipiedig, a. (ysgiad) Being snatched.

Ysgipiolrwydd, s. m. (ysgipiawl) Rapaciousness.

Ysgiw, s. m. -pl. t. ion (ciw) A skreen or shelter; a cousin in the third degree.

Ysgiwad, s. m. (ysgiw) A screening, a sheltering.

Ysgiwaw, v. a. (ysgiw) To screen, to shelter.

Ysglawring, s. m. (clawr) Glue, cement.

Ysglawringaw, v. a. (ysglawring) To glue.

Ysglawringiad, s. m. (ysglawring) A gluing.

Ysglem, s. f. -pl. t. iau (clem) A slice, a alive.

Ysglem glew o'r crinprew crw.

A good slice of the brittle sharp ice.

D. ab Gwilym.

Ysglemiad, s. m. (ysglem) A slicing, a slicing.

Ysglemiaw, v. a. (ysglem) To slice, to slice.

Ysglemiawl, a. (ysglem) Slicing, or slicing.

Ysglemiwr, s. m. -pl. ysglemiwr (ysglem-gwr) One who slices.

Ysglomydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysglen) A slicer.

*Rhagyn o wr—
A pen ion fal ysglomydd.*

*A skeleton of a man, with a sharp chin like a slice.
Grove's William.*

Ysglen, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ysg—llen) A sex.

Ysglenawg, a. (ysglen) Having a sex.

Ysglenawl, a. (ysglen) Sexual, belonging to sex.

Ysgleniad, s. m. (ysglen) A forming a sex.

Ysglent, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ysg—llent) A slide, a slippery drift, as of ice.

Ysglentiad, s. m. (ysglent) A making a slide.

Ysglentiaw, v. a. (ysglent) To form a slide, to slide as upon the ice.

Ysglentiawl, a. (ysglent) Sliding, like a slide.

Ysglentiwr, s. m.—pl. ysglentiwyr (ysglent—gwr) A slider on the ice.

Ysglin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (glin) A knob, a knot.

Ysglinaw, v. a. (ysglin) To form a knob.

Ysglinen, s. f. dim. (ysglin) A knot in a tree.

Ogli iawnwedd heb ysglinen.

A branch, of tree blood, without a knot.

S. Tudyr.

Ysgliniad, s. m. (ysglin) A forming a knob.

Ysgloen, s. f. dim. (cloen) A maiden, a damsel.

Ysglofen, s. m. dim. (clofen) A slip, a spray.

Ysglofeniad, s. m. (ysglofen) A branching.

Ysglofennu, v. a. (ysglofen) To cut a slip.

Ysglyf, s. m.—pl. t. ion (glyf) That seeks prey.

*Yn aberfyg yn aberfyg Saeson,
Yn aberfoed cyhoedd cyngreinion,
Yn aberf cewerys gwyr gwros,
Yn aberf lla, a lla ysglyfion,
Cyrru cwynt, cerddys cara wellwion ar dir,
Ar derfyn Caer Lleon.*

In a tumult on the Saxons, boundary, in the conspicuous hosts of mutual struggles, in the violent pursuit by an ardent hero, in the turmoil of a host and scream of birds of prey, horns resounded, the pale-footed steeds scudded over the land, on the limit of Caer Lleon.

Cyndelet, m. O Gwynedd.

Ysglyfaeth, s. f.—pl. t. an (yglyf) Depredation.

Ysglyfaethawl, a. (yglyfaeth) Depredating.

Ysglyfaethiad, s. m. (yglyfaeth) A depredating.

Ysglyfaethu, v. a. (yglyfaeth) To depredate.

Ysglyfaethus, a. (yglyfaeth) Predatory.

Môr yglyfaethus a bardud.

As rapacious as a kite.

Adage.

Ysglyfiad, s. m.—pl. ysglyfiad (yglyf) A depredator, a ravager.

Ysglyfiad lla gwlodirad.

Let the depredator be craftily bold.

Adage.

Ysglyfiannawl, a. (yglyfiant) Depredating.

Ysglyfiannu, v. a. (yglyfiant) To depredate.

Ysglyfiant, s. m. (yglyf) Depredation.

Ysglyfiaw, v. a. (yglyf) To depredate.

Ysglyfied, v. a. (yglyf) To depredate, to spoil.

Ysglyfiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yglyfiad) A ravager, a depredator.

Ysglyfiwr, s. m.—pl. ysglyfiwyr (yglyf—gwr) A rapacious one; a snatcher.

Ysglyfu, v. a. (yglyf) To take forcibly, to snatch, to depredate.

Cyridwen yn dawed i mewn ac yn gwelod ei llafer yn golledig, yglyfu rhodri a tharaw y dall Mordaf ar ei ben a wael.

Cyridwen coming in and seeing her labour lost, what she did was to snatch up a staff and strike the blind Mordaf on his head.

Henes Talierin.

Ysglymawl, a. (clymawl) Tending to knit.

Ysglymiad, s. m. (clymiad) A forming a knot.

Ysglymu, v. a. (clymu) To form into a knot.

Ysgnawd, a. (ys—cnawd) Being habitual.

Ysgnodawg, a. (ysgnawd) Having a habit.

Ysgnodawl, a. (ysgnawd) Tending to habituate.

Ysgo, s. m. (ysg) A going or starting aside; a winter habitation, or the hændref.

Ysgoad, s. m. (ysgo) A going or starting aside.

Ysgodawl, a. (ysgo) Tending to start aside.

Ysgob, s. m. (cob) That bears sway.

Hændref methiant ddaw i d.

*A hysg'n ddigynwedd;
Hwaw arad i'n a ysgob
I'f drol o bob dderod.*

Old age of decrepitude will come to thee, and that without remedy; that will on thee bear a sway to turn thee from every vain pursuit.

Sam. & Rhod.

Ysgobell, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysgob) A saddle.

Ysgodawg, a. (ysgawd) Sheltered, shaded, frequenting shades. s. m.—pl. ysgodogion; One of the shades, one of the woods; a person in disguise; a hobgoblin; a Scot; otherwise called Gwyddel, Celt, and Celtiad.

Gwyddyl, ddyf ddeu;

Ysgodogion, dynion haddfwr.

The Gwyddelians, black devils; Scots, men void of wye.

Idge.

Ysgodawl, a. (ysgawd) Sheltering, shading.

Ysgodi, v. a. (ysgawd) To shelter, to shade.

Ysgodig, a. (ysgawd) Sheltered, shaded.

Ysgodigaw, v. a. (ysgodig) To frighten by disguise; to be frightened.

Ysgoeg, a. (coeg) Empty, vain, frivolous.

Ysgoegi, v. a. (ysgoeg) To make empty; to become empty or frivolous.

Ysgoegiad, s. m. (ysgoeg) A rendering empty; becoming empty or frivolous.

Ysgoegyn, s. m. dim. (ysgoeg) A coxcomb, a top.

Ysgoel, s. f.—pl. t. ion (coel) That is to be credited, or relied upon.

Ysgoeliad, s. m. (ysgoel) An inducing a belief.

Ysgoeliaw, v. a. (ysgoel) To induce a belief.

Ysgoew, a. (ysgo) Apt to fly backwards and forwards; full of motion; wavering.

Ysgoewain, a. (ysgoew) Full of fickleness.

Ysgoewan, s. f. (ysgoew) A fickle or wavering one.

Ysgoewi, v. a. (ysgoew) To waver; to fly backwards and forwards.

Ysgog, s. m.—pl. t. ion (cog) A sudden motion, a stir. v. a. To stir, to start.

Mae gallu yn yr ewyllys i ysgog; ond nid oes mor ewyllys yn gallu i ddechrelyd.

There is power in the will for stirring; but there is not in will with the power to return.

Myrion Llwyd.

Marw yw—

Nid ysgog o meddylg mwy.

He is dead; he will stir no more for all the danger he.

Dr. & Cat.

Ysgogawl, a. (ysgog) Tending to stir, starting.

Ysgogedig, a. (ysgog) Being stirred; started.

Ysgogi, v. a. (ysgog) To wag, to stir, to move.

Ysgogiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (ysgog) A stirring.

Mae rhai wedi ymgorio orion yn y cartid, ddyf i'w cwylyte, yr hwn sydd yn eu gwngwara fel gwyddolion o'n o'n ei ben.

There are some who have over borne themselves in the way through the working of the will, which scattereth them like seeds out of itself.

Myrion Llwyd.

Ysgogydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgog) A stirrer.

Ysgogyn, s. m. dim. (ysgog) A sickle one.

Gwelwne lawer ysgogyn rhyngynawg, a sbect clythre a wne wylt ei gwyddon.

I could see many strutting fop, who might whinge here to the wind of his train.

Edm. Wyn, & Cwy.

Ysgol, v. a. (ysgo) To turn or start aside; to shun; to go aloof; to avoid; to escape.

Ysgol, s. f.—pl. t. ion (col) That matures; a school.

Tri harddwch gwlad: ysgolwyr, olli, ac ysgol.

The three ornaments of a country: a herd, a mother, and a school.

Idge.

Ysgôl, s. f.—pl. t. ion (còl) That rises up in a point; a peak, a pointed rock; a ladder. It is the same with ceol and colfa; and it forms the names of some precipices, as Ysgolion Duon, in Caermarthenshire; and Nant yr Ysgolion, in Montgomeryshire.

Trefnais wera uffern—
Trefnais i bryfed, lle yd ymbrofaſ;
Troch heol ysgol esgar boethfaſ.

Thou didst prepare the slough of hell, a habitation for worms, where they straggle together; a broken path of the precipice of the fiery place of separation.

Ysgolaidd, a. (ysgol) Appertaining to a school.
Ysgolaig, s. m.—pl. ysgolaigion (ysgol—aig) A scholar; a clerk, a clergyman; a parish clerk.
Ysgolaig y ddinas, the town clerk.

Ysgolawr, s. m.—pl. ysgolorion (ysgol) A scholar.
Ysgoldy, s. m. (ysgol—ty) A school-house.

Ysgoleigdawd, s. m. (ysgolaig) Scholarship.

Ysgoleigdra, s. m. (ysgolaig) Scholarship.

Ysgoleiges, s. f. (ysgolaig) A female scholar.

Ysgoleigiad, s. m. (ysgolaig) A schooling.

Ysgoleigiaeth, s. m. (ysgolaig) A schooling.

Ysgoleigiaw, v. a. (ysgolaig) To school.

Ysgoleigiawi, a. (ysgolaig) Scholastical.

Ysgoleigiwr, s. m.—pl. ysgoleigiwyr (ysgolaig—gwr) A schoolman.

Ysgoli, v. a. (ysgol) To school, to give schooling.

Ysgoliad, s. m. (ysgol) A giving a schooling.

Ysgolp, s. m.—pl. t. iau (colp) A sharp pointed spar or wagget, a wooden pin. It is also called colp, and aseth.

Ysgolpen, s. f. dim. (ysgolp) A sharp spar.

Ysgolpiad, s. m. (ysgolp) A fastening with a wooden pin or wagget.

Ysgolpiaw, v. a. (ysgolp) To pin, or to wagget.

Ysgolydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgol) A schoolmaster.

Ysgor, s. f.—pl. t. an (còr) That encircles; a circular entrenchment; a fortification; rampart, or bulwark.

Ysgor ymddiffyn pan ymddiffyr gwlad.

A bulwark of defence when he guards a country. Cynyddw.

Traſs ar ysgwyd rhag ysgor Dintleir.

The shield was borne down before the camp of Dintleir. Cynyddw.

Ysgor gadw ni gadwis llyfrder.

A protecting bulwark that protected not cowardice. Cynyddw.

Blaidd esgar ysgor yd ddiſſuth;

Baich cryr baran Llyr Lledlath.

He will blast the rampart of the foe to ruins; a towering eagle with the front of Llyr Lledlath. Cynyddw, i O. ab Madawg.

Ni lleſale neb traſs tros ei ysgor;

Ni chymhwyl neb twyl tyllie ei ddor.

No body dares any trespass over his wall; no body will devise a fraud to break through his door. Llywelyn Pardd.

Ysgorawg, a. (ysgor) Having a surrounding fence or rampart, an epithet for a ship.

Ysgorawi, a. (ysgor) Relating to fortification.

Ysgordd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (cordd) That encircles as a retinue.

Ysgorfa, s. f.—pl. ysgorſeydd (ysgor) A place of defence; protection, defence.

Gwyr a seith Galttraeth gan wawr,

Wy neb llydyn' ysgorfa ysgwydau;

Crau cyrchynt cyn hynſ treſawr;

Yn gyſfca iai taras twrſ seſawr.

Heroes went to Galttraeth with the dawn, to whom there was no protection from shields; blood they would seek before the course of the ebbing tide, loud in the front like thunder the din of shields. Ancwrt.

Awen pan ddeffrau

Am ddeudwydd ddiau

A'm bucheidd ara'

A'm oſwan ygorfa.

The muse when it flows, in happy days and in my tranquil life it shall be the protection of ages. Taliesin.

Ysgori, v. a. (ysgor) To form a circular camp.

Ysgoriad, s. m. (ysgor) An encompassing with a

VOL. II.

rampart; an entrenching or forming a circular camp.

Ysgorn, s. m. (ysg—orn) Scorn, contumely.

Al byddar' wyl, fy nghariad,
Al ysgorn heb gelaſaw gwad!

Art thou deaf, my love, or is it scorn, without seeking a denial. D. ab Gwilym.

Ysgorniad, s. m. (ysgorn) A scorning, a slighting.

Ysgorniaſ, v. a. (ysgorn) To scorn, to slight.

Ysgornllyd, a. (ysgorn) Scornful, slighting.

Ysgort, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ysg—or) A harsh noise; a report; a jar; a twang; a rap.

Ag ysgort megys y gwn.

With a report as of the gun.

D. Nanmor.

Dwy Went a giſw hyd awyr

Ysgort gwn yn mysg tŵart gwyr.

The two Gwents will hear through the air a report of a gun among a guard of men. Rhys Brydydd.

Ysgortiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgort) A making a report, an explosion; a jarring.

Ysgortiaſ, v. a. (ysgort) To make a report.

Ysgortiaſi, a. (ysgort) Apt to make a report.

Ysgorwg, s. m. (ysgor) That forms a screen round.

Ysgorydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgor) One who forms a rampart or camp.

Ysgotiad, s. m.—pl. ysgotiaid (ysgawd) One of the shades, or of the woods; a Scot.

Ysgotiaith, s. f. (ysgawd—iaith) The Scottish or Gwyddelian tongue.

Ysgoth, s. m. (coth) A purge, or a voidance.

Ysgothaw, a. (ysgoth) Purging, or voiding.

Ysgothfa, s. f.—pl. ysgothſeydd (ysgoth) A privy.

Ysgothi, v. a. (ysgoth) To void by a purge, to scour.

Ysgothiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgoth) A purging.

Ysgra, s. m. (cra) That is harsh or dry.

Ysgrab, s. f.—pl. ysgrabau (crab) What is drawn up or puckered; a scrip.

Ysgrabin, a. (ysgrab) Tending to pucker.

Ysgrabiniaid, s. m. (ysgrabin) A puckering.

Ysgrabiniaſ, v. a. (ysgrabin) To pucker.

Ysgrabiniaſi, a. (ysgrabin) Puckering.

Ysgrabiniaſiwr, s. m.—pl. ysgrabiniaſiwr (ysgrabin—gwr) A puckerer.

Ysgrabwth, s. m. (ysgrab) That is in a heap.

Ysgrad, s. m. (crad) That is rigid or stiff.

Ysgraell, s. f. (ysgra) The sea-swallow.

Ysgraen, s. f. dim. (ysgra) A sea-swallow; also called morwennol. Ysgraen ddu, the black tern.

Ysgraf, s. m. (craff) That scrapes or scratches.

Ysgrafell, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysgraf) A currycomb; a grater; a rasp.

Ysgrafelliad, s. m. (ysgrafell) A currying.

Ysgrafella, v. a. (ysgrafell) To curry, to scrape.

Ysgrafellwr, s. m.—pl. ysgrafellwyr (ysgrafell—gwr) A currier; a scraper.

Ysgrafellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgrafell) A currier, or a scraper.

Ysgrafen, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysgraf) A scraper.

Ysgrafena, v. a. (ysgrafen) To go a begging.

Ysgrafiad, s. m. (ysgraf) A scraping.

Ysgrafu, v. a. (ysgraf) To scrape; to grate.

Ysgraff, s. f.—pl. t. au (craff) That is sharp; that makes an impression; also a ferry.

Ysgraffin, a. (ysgraff) Apt to scratch or graze.

Ysgraffiniad, s. m. (ysgraffin) A scarification.

Ysgraffiniaw, v. a. (ysgraffin) To scarify.

Ysgraffiniaw, a. (ysgraffin) Scarifying.

Ysgraffiniwr, s. m.—pl. ysgraffiniwyr (ysgraffin—gwr) A scarifier.

Ysgrain, s. m. (crain) That is crawling.

Ysgraw, s. f. (craw) That forms a crust.

4 Q

Ysgrawen, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysgraw) A crust.
Ysgrawenlad, s. m. (ysgrawen) An incrustation.
Ysgrawenn, v. n. (ysgrawen) To incrustate.
Ysgrawiad, s. m. (ysgraw) An incrustation.
Ysgrawiaw, v. a. (ysgraw) To incrustate.
Ysgrawling, s. m. (ysgraw) Cement, glue.

Y rhesu—

Iis greulawn, fai ysgrawling.

The ice of cruel touch, like glue.

D. ab Gwilym.

Ysgrawlingaw, v. a. (ysgrawling) To glue.
Ysgrawlingiad, s. m. (ysgrawling) A gluing.
Ysgre, s. f. (cre) That makes a crying.
Ysgread, s. m. (ysgre) A making a crying.
Ysgreaw, v. a. (ysgre) To make a crying noise.
Ysgreawl, a. (ysgre) Crying, or craving.
Ysgrech, s. f.—pl. t. ion (crech) A scream, a shriek. Ysgrech y coed; a jay; also called ysgrechog.

Ysgrechawg, a. (ysgrech) Full of screaming.
Ysgrechlad, s. m. (ysgrech) A screaming.
Ysgrechian, v. a. (ysgrech) To scream, to shriek; to chatter as a jay.
Ysgrechiaiw, v. a. (ysgrech) To scream, to shriek.
Ysgrechiawl, a. (ysgrech) Screaming, shrieking.
Ysgrechiwyr, s. m. (ysgrech—gwr) A screamer.
Ysgrechlais, s. m. (ysgrech—llais) A screaming voice.

Ysgrechlef, s. m. (ysgrech—llef) A screaming voice.
Ysgrechlefaen, v. a. (ysgrechlef) To utter a screaming noise or chattering.
Ysgrechleisiad, s. m. (ysgrechlais) A making a screaming noise.
Ysgrechleisiaw, v. a. (ysgrechlais) To make a screaming noise.
Ysgrechleisiawl, a. (ysgrechlais) Of a screaming or shrieking voice.

Ysgrechleisiwyr, s. m.—pl. ysgrechleisiwyr (ysgrechlais—gwr) One who screams.
Ysgrechog, s. f. (ysgrech) A jay or culist.
Ysgrepan, s. f. dim. (ysgrepan) A wallet, a scrip.
Ysgrepana, v. a. (ysgrepan) To collect into a bag; to go a begging; also called cardota, hel bywyd, and cerdded tai.

Ysgrepaniad, s. m. (ysgrepan) A scripping.
Ysgrepanu, v. a. (ysgrepan) To put in a bag.
Ysgretan, s. c. dim. (ysgrad) Any lean or lank looking animal; the sea-swallow; also called gwrachen, and ysgraen.

Ysgrew, s. f. (ysgre) That is full of loquacity.
Ysgri, s. f.—pl. t. ion (cri) A shriek, or scream.

Diarheb llydnt dori
Dy cawr wen wedi ysgri.It is a proverb that they broke thy white shank after the shriek.
L. G. Cothi.

Ysgriad, s. m. (ysgri) A shrieking, a screaming.
Ysgriaw, v. a. (ysgri) To make a screaming.
Ysgriawl, a. (ysgri) Screaming or shrieking.
Ysgribiniad, s. m. (cribiniad) A raking together.
Ysgribiniaw, v. a. (cribiniaw) To rake together.
Ysgrif, s. f.—pl. t. ion (crif) A writing.
Ysgrifaw, v. a. (ysgrif) To notch; to write.
Ysgrifawl, a. (ysgrif) Relating to writing.
Ysgrifed, s. f. (ysgrif) A writing; a manuscript.
Ysgrifen, s. f. dim. (ysgrif) A piece of writing.
Ysgrifenawl, a. (ysgrifen) Relating to writing.
Ysgrifenedig, a. (ysgrifen) Being written.
Ysgrifeniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgrifen) A writing.
Ysgrifenu, v. a. (ysgrifen) To write, to pen.

P'el ysgrifennau Daw wir enw pob dyn ar ei dalcen, pa leu cawld defnydd mygwad i bawb a'i ceisla!If God had written the true name of every man on his forehead, where could there have been found stuff for a mask for every one who should seek for it!
Adwgc.

Ysgrifenuwr, s. m.—pl. ysgrifenuwr (ysgrif—gwr) A writer.

Ysgrifenydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgrifen) A scribe, a writer, a secretary.

Ysgrifenyddiaeth, s. m. (ysgrifenydd) The trade or profession of a writer.

Ysgrifiad, s. m. (ysgrif) A writing, a scribbling.
Ysgrifiyfr, s. m.—pl. ysgrififyfran (ysgrif—lyfr) A manuscript.

Ysgrifwr, s. m.—pl. ysgrifwyr (ysgrif—gwr) A writer.

Ysgrog, s. m. (crog) That is hung or swung.
Ysgrogell, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysgrog) A drawbridge.
Ysgrogi, v. a. (ysgrog) To suspend, to impend.
Ysgrogiad, s. m. (ysgrog) A suspending.
Ysgrubl, s. m.—pl. t. od (crubl) A beast.

Ysgrubl diried yn eiddad.

A mischievous beast on the outside.

Alep

Ysgrublaidd, a. (ysgrubl) Being beast-like.
Ysgrublawg, a. (ysgrubl) Abounding with beams.
Ysgrubliad, s. m.—pl. ysgrubliad (ysgrubl) A beast, a brute creature.

Ysgrud, s. f.—pl. t. ion (crud) A frame; a skeleton; a carcass.

Ysgrud fad draig Seisig Ser.

A silent corpse is the potent leading child.

Alep

Ysgrudiad, s. m. (ysgrud) A making a frame; making a skeleton.

Ysgrudiaw, v. a. (ysgrud) To make a frame; to form a skeleton; to make a carcass.

Ysgrud glud glewyd fyd faldod;
Ysgrud gryd greiddawl hawl hydymet.

The chief will make a skeleton of the heroism of the owl's glory; he will about a about of the robustness claim of the heroism.

Alep

Ysgrudiawl, a. (ysgrud) Belonging to a frame, belonging to a skeleton.

Ysgruth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ysg—ruth) A full speed. Mae ef yn myned ar ei ysgruth, he is going on his full pace.

Ysgrwd, s. m.—pl. ysgrydion (crwd) A carcass. Hen ysgrwd, an old wretch.

Pa ddall enaid—

Ysgrwd wag is y fagwyr,
Oo gwrth, mayn fy ngwrd, a'u gwr.What the condition of the soul, whether happy, be not—coar beneath the wall knows not, upon my faith.

Alep

Ni roir pen un o'r cein

Er ei ysgrawd.—

Not the head of one of the leeks would he give for his own.

Alep

Ysgrwdiad, s. m. (ysgrwd) A carcassing.
Ysgrwdiaw, v. a. (ysgrwd) To make a carcass.
Ysgrwth, s. m. (crwth) A heap or bulk; a pile.
Ysgrwydr, s. m. (crwydr) A straying course.
Ysgrwydraw, v. a. (ysgrwydr) To make a wandering journey.

Ysgrwydrawl, a. (ysgrwydr) Of a wandering tendency.

Ysgrwydriad, s. m. (ysgrwydr) A making a wandering journey.

Ysgryd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (cryd) A shiver, a quiver.
Ysgrydiad, s. m. (ysgryd) A shivering.

Ysgrydian, v. a. (ysgryd) To keep shivering.
Ysgrydiannawl, a. (ysgrydiant) Shivering.

Ysgrydiannu, v. a. (ysgrydiant) To be in constant shivering or shuddering.

Ysgrydiant, s. m. (ysgryd) A shivering.

Maeit fydd yn ngwagwyr yr ysgrydiant.

So great in the dispersion will be the dispersion.

Alep

Ysgrydiaw, v. a. (ysgryd) To shiver, to quake.

*Ysgryd gryd rhag graid eborrhau
Ysgred wlydd ar wlydd y mertholau.*

*The shout will re-echo before the vehement purveyor of the pampered carcass over the carrion feast.
Cynddelw, i O. Cyfrillawg.*

ysgrydlaw, a. (ysgryd) Shivering, quaking.

sgrydu, v. a. (ysgryd) To shiver, to quake.

sgrydwr, s. m.—pl. ysgrydwyr (ysgryd—gwr)
A trembler.

sgryn, s. m. (cryn) A trembling, a shiver.

sgrynaw, a. (ysgryn) Tremulous, quaking.

sgrynedig, a. (ysgryn) Trembling, quaking.

sgryniad, s. m. (ysgryn) A tremulation.

sgrynu, v. a. (ysgryn) To cause a trembling.

sgrytiad, v. a. (ysgrwd) To keep wriggling, to writhe the body, as to allay an itching.

sgrythiad, s. m. (ysgrwth) A going all of a heap;
a tumbling about on the ground as animals do.

sgrythu, v. a. (ysgrwth) To tumble in a heap,
to tumble about as horses and other animals do.

SGRYTHYR, s. f.—pl. t. au. The Scripture.

grythrawl, a. (ysgrythyr) Scriptural.

grythyriad, s. m. (ysgrythyr) A making use of the Scripture, a quoting Scripture.

grythyra, v. a. (ysgrythyr) To make use of the Scripture, to quote Scripture.

grythrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgrythyr) A scripturist.

gual, a. (cual) Of a furious or fierce nature.

*Ar arechwydd ethyw gwall
O frau marchwag ygwail:
A fydd wrth Urian strall?*

*Upon the intention there came a disappointment from the dread of a terrific knight: Will there be another compared with Urian?
Llywarch Hen.*

gub, s. f.—pl. t. au (cub) A sheaf; a besom.

Hawdd rhifaw yr ygabau ar faes gwr diawg.

*It is easy to reckon the sheaves on the field of an idle man.
Adage.*

rubaid, a. (ysgub) Bundle-wise; like a whip;
like a sheaf; like a broom.

rubaw, v. a. (ysgub) To whiak, to whip; to weep.

rubawl, a. (ysgub) Sweeping, brushing.

rubawr, s. f.—pl. ysguboriau (ysgub) A place or corn in the sheaf, a cornyard; a barn.

Cyrt y llysg yr odyr no'r ysgubawr.

*Sooner will the kiln be burnt than the barn.
Adage.*

ubedig, a. (ysgub) Being swept with a broom.

ubell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (ysgub) A whip, a small bundle; a besom; a brush. Ysgubell o siau per, a bunch of aromatic herbs.

ubellaidd, a. (ysgubell) Like a whip;

ubellan, s. f. dim. (ysgubell) A small whisk.

ubellig, s. f. dim. (ysgubell) A small besom.

ubiad, s. m. (ysgub) A sweeping.

ubion, s. pl. aggr. (ysgub) Sweepings.

abolan, s. pl. aggr. (ysgubawl) Sweepings.

uboran, s. f. dim. (ysgubawr) A small barn.

uboriad, s. m. (ysgubawr) A putting in a barn.

uboriaw, v. a. (ysgubawr) To put in a barn.

iborig, s. f. dim. (ysgubawr) A small barn.

uborwr, s. m.—pl. ysguborwyr (ysgubawr—wr) A barn-keeper.

abwr, s. m.—pl. ysgubwyr (ysgub—gwr) A reaper with a besom.

abwraig, s. f.—pl. ysgubwreigedd (ysgub—wraig) A female sweeper.

ibydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgub) A sweeper.

ibyddes, s. f. (ysgubydd) A female aweeper.

Ysgud, s. m. (cud) That rounds or whirls.

Ysgudaw, v. a. (ysgud) To scud about; to whisk.

Ysgudawl, a. (ysgud) Scudding, whisking.

Ysgudell, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysgud) A dish, a platter.

Ysgudellaid, s. f.—pl. ysgudelleidiau (ysgudell)
A dishful.

Ysgudelliad, s. m. (ysgudell) A dishing.

Ysgudella, v. a. (ysgudell) To put in a dish.

Ysgur, s. m. (cwr) That is impulsive.

Ysguraw, v. a. (ysgur) To make an impulse.

*Ys egsuraw hawl hawdd adnaws,
Ys egsur i hawl am boues.*

*In impelling a claim easily he gave a pledge, being a foe to every body for a country.
Li. P. Moch, i Roderi.*

Ysgurawl, a. (ysgur) Impulsive, repulsive.

Ysguriad, s. m. (ysgur) An impulsion.

Ysgutyll, s. m. dim. (ysgud) A scudder.

Ysgutyll yn cynnuli cad.

A scudder gathering the battle together.

D. ab Gwilym, i gellhawg du.

Ysguth, s. m. (cuth) A scud, a sudden whisk.

Ysguthan, s. f.—pl. t. od (ysguth) A woodpigeon.

North ysguthan yn ei hadanedd.

The strength of a wood-pigeon in her wings.

Adage.

Ysguthaw, v. a. (ysguth) To scud, to whisk.

Ysguthell, s. f.—pl. t. od (ysguth) A scudder.

Doal ysguthell o ddolwyn caruam i mewn, tan ddyhead a chrynu.

*There came in a scudder of a wry-footed imp with panting and trembling.
Ellis Wyn, B. Cwg.*

Ysguthiad, s. m. (ysguth) A scudding.

Ysgw, s. m. (cw) Guard, care, or safeguard; refuge. v. imper. Regard, take care.

Ysgwad, s. m. (ysgw) A guarding, a taking care.

Ysgwaeth, s. m. (ysgw) Guardianship; refuge.

Ysgwaetheroedd, adv. (gwaeth—er—oedd) The more the pity.

Ysgwaw, v. a. (ysgw) To guard, to take care.

Ysgwawl, a. (ysgw) Guarding, care-taking.

Ysgwd, s. m. (ysg) A thrust, a push, a jet, a drive, an impulsion; a step, a stile. Ysgwd metlin, a mill jet.

Ysgwdawl, a. (ysgwd) Pushing, impulsive.

Ysgwdlad, s. m. (ysgwd) A pushing away.

Ysgwdn, v. a. (ysgwd) To make a push, to thrust.

Ysgwdwl, s. m. (ysgwd) That pokes or pushes.

Ysgwer, s. f. (ysgw) A kind of musical composition, so called.

*Per, per ysgwer, oes calne mawr folaant
Mor felys gŵl teulinc?*

*Melodious, melodious the ysgwer, is there a tune greatly famed so sweet to youths?
L. G. Culi, i Ysgwr-fach.*

Ysgwf, s. m. (cwf) That closes upon or holds.

Ysgwfi, s. m.—pl. ysgyfion (ysgwfi) A grapple, a snatch; a scuffle.

Ysgwl, s. m.—pl. ysgyllon (cwl) An excrescence;
a knob, or knur; a scab.

Ysgwl du yn misen oagi dar.

A black excrescence on the top of an oak branch.

D. ab Gwilym.

Ysgwn, s. m. (cwn) That rises or soars.

*Nie crown cod agad rhag ysgwn;
Na thalawg mysgwn, na mysgwn.*

*Treasure will not be accumulated by the baaty before the adelted one: nor by the boor with long hair, nor that is cropt.
Cynddelw, i O. Cyfrillawg.*

Cyfarfa ysgwn ag egsurant ar.

*The exalted one met with the dispersed ones of slaughter.
O. Cyfrillawg.*

Ysgwn, a. (cwn) Rising, uplifting, raising.

Gair teulu yn ysgwn.

The word of a family uplifting.

Adage.

Gwaeu ysgwn agad yn mhlynnwyd.

*The uplifted spear flinging in the livid slaughter.
Cynddelw.*

Ysgwn ſheiniad yn ngadian.
 The towering confagurator in the battle field. Cynddelw.
Cad nagen ysgwn ysgwyd Bell.
 The ruin of battle with the uplifted shield of Bell. Cynddelw.
Gal ysgwn ysgwyd anghylan,
Garw eagar yn ygor Gadfan.
 A foe with uplifted shield unentire, furiously he scatters in the field of Cadfan. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.
Oedd ysgwn, oedd twn talaeth ei darian.
 It was uplifted, it was broken, the border of his shield. D. Llosgwrn Mew.
Deuran-waew terwyn ei tores bar dygrwn,
Pao ysgwn eagores.
 Two hundred ardent spears the accumulating wrath did break, when eminently he escaped. Ll. P. Moch.
Ys gwyr hi hydr ein gormail,
Ysgwn daith dan ysgin dail.
 She knows the drift of our vexation, on her flying journey under a covert of leaves. D. ab Gurlym, i'r new.
Ysgwr, s. m.—pl. ysgr (cwr) A spike, a splinter; a bough or a branch; also violence.
Hael heddodd liseddau llech ar ysgr.
 The caam of the wolf the screaming slaughtering on the pikes. U. Cyfiliung.
Neuon gwaet ysgwr o gwr dy god?
 Am I not wounded by a spike from the corner of thy bag? Llywarch Hen.
Ar ysgwr o'r afallen oedd oedd corn canu mawr.
 On a branch of the apple-tree there was a large blowing horn. H. Girasid—Mabingion.
Nac egnid fawdr, nac ysgwr,
Nac ysgwyd o'w wiced, na gwr—
 Nor the strong battle, nor spike, nor the shoulder of a steed, nor man, nor obstruct thee. D. ab Gurlym.
Ysgwrlwg, s. m. (ysgrw—llwg) A rustle, crackle
Ysgwrlwgach, r. a. (ysgrwllwg) To rustle; to crackle; to rattle, to clatter, to clash.
Ysgwrn, s. m. (cwrn) That juts or runs out.
Ysgwt, s. m. (cwt) A scud, a tail, a bottom. Ysgwt y gyghen, a mischief maker.
Ysgwth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (cwth) A push, a thrust.
Ysgwthiad, s. m. (ysgwrth) A propulsion.
Ysgwrthaw, r. a. (ysgwrth) To push, to impel.
Ysgwrthiawl, a. (ysgwrth) Propulsive, pushing.
Ysgwrthiwr, s. m.—pl. ysgwrthiwr (ysgwrth—gwr) An impeller.
Ysgwrth, s. m.—pl. ysgrthion (ysgwrth) A carving, engraving, or cutting into; a cut out or from; a paring.
Ys ysgwrth trydar,
Ys ysgwrth dargwr,
Ys llachar ny'n lloches.
 In the tapping of tumbrel, in the exalted preparation, gleefully he protected us. Ll. P. Moch.
Ysgwyd, s. m. (ysg) A shake, a flutter. r. a. To shake, to flutter. Ysgwyd llaw, a shake hand; ysgwyd law, shake hand; ysgwyd adn, to flutter a wing.
Ysgwyd, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysgw) A shield, a target.
Lladw ygor ysgwyd byddinaw.
 Ashes the structure that was the saule of hosts. Cynddelw.
Oedd ysgwn ysgwyd twn.
 Uplifted was the broken shield. Cynddelw.
Ys rhith rhyu ysgwyd,
Rhag ysgwn blyndwyd.
 In the similitude of a terrac shield in front of a rising tumbrel. Cynddelw.
Ei ysgwn gwnnif,
Ei ysgwyd yn agnif.
 His rising conflict, his shield in toil. Cynddelw.
Gryn ysgwn ysgwyd wyalied.
 The rising energy of the gory shield. Llygad Gwr.
Aer ysgwn aur ysgwyd oedd.
 The stay of slaughter with a golden shield was he. Buddyn Fardd.
Ysgwydadwy, a. (ysgwyd) That may be shaken.
Ysgwydaw, r. a. (ysgwyd) To use a shield.

Ysgwydawg, a. (ysgwyd) Having a shield.
Ysgwydawl, a. (ysgwyd) Belonging to a shield.
Ysgwydawl, s. m. (ysgwyd) A shield, a target.
Neuon rhoddes i llan Rhyddolwr
Cant hald, na chaet ysgwydawl.
 Have I not been gifted by Rhos the Magalder with a horse swarms, and a hundred shields? Llywarch Hen.
Ysgwydedig, a. (ysgwyd) Shaken, or agitated.
Ysgwydfa, s. f. (ysgwyd) A shake; a tem.
Ysgwydfolch, a. (ysgwyd—bolch) With notched shield.
Ysgwydfrih, a. (brith) With a variegated shield.
Ysgwydfriw, a. (briw) With a broken shield.
Ysgwydfwrw, s. m. (ysgwyd—bwrw) A cast of shields, an aggregate of shields.
Yn nydd gwyth gweithfawdd ddrwg
Ar llwyr ysgwydfwrw ysgyrion.
 In the day of wrath a conquering leader under the direct throng of shields. Cynddelw, i D. Gwynedd.
Ysgwydiad, s. m.—pl. ysgwydiad (ysgwyd) (he that bears a shield.
Pan ddofes pwr trachwres trochlad
Par lwy far lwy lwydd ysgwydiad,
Por cleor acawr weinlad,
Pond rhagddaw he ffaw he dyddiad!
 When calmed the ardent impulse of the plunging of the war through wrath through a myriad of shieldmen, the chief was the bearer of the buckler, before him was there not a force thronging! Ll. P. Moch, i D. ab Owain.
Ysgwydrwy, s. f. (rhwy) A shield border.
Rhudd em fy nghylchwy;
Aur fy ysgwydrwy.
 Of redly gem my wreath; gold my shield border. Taliesin.
Ysgwydwas, s. m.—pl. ysgwydweis (ysgwyd—gwas) A shield-bearer.
Ysgwydwr, s. m. (ysgwyd—gwr) A shield-man.
Ysgwydwyn, a. (ysgwyd—gwyn) White-shielded.
Canad gwasad ysgwydwyn. Cyffwrdd Mordir.
Ysgwydydd, s. m. (ysgwyd) A shield-bearer.
Ysgwydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (cwydd) A shoulder.
Gorwen fy ysgwyd ar fy ysgwydd i drub;
Cerulal ni gelaif gylis awydd.
 White topt my shield on my shoulder for conquest; I saw what I did not obtain, notwithstanding what there might be avidity. Ll. ab Owain.
Ysgwyddaw, v. a. (ysgwydd) To shoulder.
Ysgwyddawg, a. (ysgwydd) Having a shoulder.
s. f. That has the whole shoulder; a shoulder; as of mutton; a gammon.
Ysgwyddawg y derchafael a gymralol i gwn fyllion lant.
 The beaver shoulder I did receive from the children of land. Llywarch Hen.
Ysgwyddawl, a. (ysgwydd) Scapulary; shoulder.
Ysgwyddiad, s. m. (ysgwydd) A shouldering; jutting out; a jostling.
Ysgwyddian, s. m. (ysgwydd—llian) A shoulder-scarf; an ephod.
Ysgwyddwsg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ysgwydd—gwg) A shoulder-scarf; an ephod.
Ysgwyf, s. m. (cwyf) A thin covering or sprinkle scum.
Ysgwyfan, s. c. (ysgwyf) A sprinkle. Tofa ysgwyfan o lo drosto, throw a sprinkle of coal over it.
Ysgwyfawl, a. (ysgwyf) Generating scum.
Ysgwyfen, s. f. dim. (ysgwyf) A sprinkle; a thin scum.
Ysgwyfiad, s. m. (ysgwyf) A scumming.
Ysgwyfa, s. f. (ysgwyd) A shake; a stirring.
Ysgydiad, s. m. (ysgwyd) A shaking; a stirring.
Ysgydiaw, v. a. (ysgwyd) To shake; to stir.
Na ddoda dy hoddor mewn cawndawd gurd; ysgyd mawr o guryd, draw ymarier a gorchwylion daban.
 Pore not thy affection upon carnal love; shake of weak men, through the being accustomed with good accustoms. Marchwyl i Gwynedd.

(sgydiaw), a. (yagwd) Shaking, agitating.
(sgydidg, a. (yagwd) Apt to be shaking.
(sgydidgaw, v. a. (yagydig) To cause a shake.
(sgydiwr, s. m. (yagwd—gwr) A shaker.
(sgydw, s. m. (yagwd) That is made to shake or stir. v. a. To be made to shake.

*Et sgwdw am egor ei ddaid
 Ysgydwyr llathridfawr llathred.*

He comes to shake about the dwelling of his grandfathers a shield glittering with high polish. Ld. P. Mech, i Redri.

(sgydwad, s. m. (yagydw) Agitation.
(sgydwawi, a. (yagydw) Being agitated, shaking.
(sgydyd, v. a. (yagydw) To cause a shake.
(sgyfain, a. (yagwf) That abounds with involutions, that is convoluted; pulmonary.
(sgyfaint, s. f. (yagyfain) The lights; the lungs; also the strangles.

Tri rhyw sgysfaint y sydd; ysgyfaint, a gwyn sgysfain, a da sgysfain.

There are three sorts of pulmonary; inflammation of the lungs, white pulmonary, and black pulmonary.

Meddygyniaeth.

(sgyfala, a. (cyfal) Being in an uniform state; unemployed, being at ease, being at leisure; careless. Ystafell sgysfala.

Myned a wael i le dirgel sgysfala i ddwyn buchedd ddwywael.

He went to a private place that was secure, to lead a pious life.

Hanes G. ab Cynan.

Efe a darawel y fyddin; canys y fyddin oedd sgysfala.

He smote the host; for the host was secure. Barrowy t. 11.

(sgyfalad, s. m. (sgysfala) A rendering easy or secure; a becoming safe.

(sgyfalas, v. a. (sgysfala) To render easy, to render secure; to become at leisure.

(sgyfalawch, s. m. (sgysfala) A state of ease or composure; security.

(sgyfar, s. f.—pl. t. au (yagwf) An auricle, an ear.

Ysgyfar waedddu yddfarn.

A wry-necked sheep full of noise. Ld. ab Gwilym, i delyn lode.

(sgyfarllynig, a. (yagfar—llyn) Having stained ears.

Serched breudd Aber Fraw fel hyn y tellir; can mawr with bob cantrw s fo iddo; a thawr gwyn sgysfarllynig with bob can mawr oadddy; a gweleu awr gyhyd ag ei huan, a chan frawd a'i fye bychan, a chan dued ag ewin amach ryfo amach naw mlynedd.

The inviolable line of the king of Aber Fraw in this manner shall it be paid: a hundred kine for every cantrow that belongs to him; and a white bull with red ears to every hundred kine of them; and a gold rod as long as himself, and equal in roundness to his little finger, and as thick as the nail of a husbandman who has been a husbandman for nine years.

Welsh Laws.

(sgyfarn, s. f.—pl. t. au (yagfar) An ear.

Y gwas ystafell hwn o'r gwartheg arhath cynuflwr ag a fo cy-byd eu roru ag eu hygyfarn.

The groom of the chamber claims of the captured cattle as many as have their horns and ear of equal length.

Welsh Laws.

(sgyfarnawg, a. (yagfarn) Abounding with ears. s. f.—pl. sgysfarnogod. That is large-eared, a hare; also called ceinach, and cath eithin. Ysgysfarnawg y mor, the gurnard.

Rhaid pwyaw llawer llyw cyn cilio sgysfarnawg.

It is necessary to beat many a bush before a hare is started.

Adage.

Ysgysfarnawg sy belia ddolef, am ei bod yn cadw ei helynt er minni fo yr ymddiarn.

The hare is a cry chase, because that she keeps her course however great the pursuit of her may be.

Cyfraith Hela.

(sgyfarnogaid, a. (yagfarnawg) Like a hare.

(sgyfeiniad, s. m. (yagfain) A forming of lungs.

(sgyfeiniaw, v. a. (yagfain) To furnish or form lungs; to get the strangles.

(sgyfeiniawg, a. (yagfain) Having lungs; pulmonary; having the strangles.

(sgyfeiniawl, a. (yagfain) Pulmonical.

(sgyfeiniilyd, a. (yagfain) Pulmonarious.

(Ysgyfeiniawt, s. m. (yagfain—gwst) Pulmonaria.

(Ysgyflaid, v. a. (yagwf) To snatch hold.

(Ysgyflgar, a. (yagwf) Apt to snatch hold.

(Ysgyflgarwch, s. m. (yagygflgar) Rapaciousness.

(Ysgyflgi, s. m.—pl. ysgyflgwn (yagwf—cl) A worrying dog.

(Ysgyflin, a. (yagwf) That is laid hold of. Bera sgysflin, a shew-bread.

(Ysgyfliad, s. m. (yagwf) A snatching hold.

(Ysgyflu, v. a. (yagwf) To snatch hold.

Pan ydoedd Achel yn mynu tynu arfas Troilws i amddao, nycha Menon yn dawed ac yn sgysfla corff Troilws.

When Achilles was about to pull the armour of Troilus from off him, so Menon coming and snatching away the body of Troilus.

H. Dered.

(Ysgyflwr, s. m. (yagwf—gwr) A snatcher.

(Ysgyfrang, s. m. (cyfrang) That comes in contact.

(Ysgyfrith, a. (cyfrith) Being of uniform aspect.

(Ysgyl, s. m. (yg) That is thin or edged.

(Ysgylf, s. m.—pl. t. lon (ygylf) That is taken or held by the beak; prey.

(Ysgylfiad, s. m. (yagylf) A beak-snatching.

(Ysgylfiaw, v. a. (yagylf) To snatch with the beak.

(Ysgylfu, v. a. (yagylf) To snatch with the beak.

(Ysgymmod, s. m. (cymmod) That is accordant.

(Ysgymmodawl, a. (yagymmod) Accordant.

(Ysgymmodi, v. a. (yagymmod) To unite together.

(Ysgymmodiad, s. m. (yagymmod) Accordance.

(Ysgymyn, s. m. (cymyn) A felling or hewing.

(Ysgymyngyf, s. m.—pl. t. lon (yagymyn—cyf) A chopping-block.

(Ysgyn, s. m. (cyn) An ascent, rise, or mount.

(Ysgynawl, a. (yagyn) Ascending, or rising.

(Ysgyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (yagyn) Ascension.

(Ysgynial, v. a. (yagyn) To be ascending.

Rhag bron Buddygro Brala-dwynn wyr sgysynial.

Before the course of victory the hovering crows ascend in the sky.

Adairia.

(Ysgynu, v. a. (yagyn) To ascend, to mount.

(Ysgynwll, s. m. (yagyn) That uplifts or raises.

*Ys cnaul f'r sgysynwll,
 A droos y pmoos o'r pwll.*

I will sing to the uplifter, that turned the five ages from the pit.

Herri Hir.

(Ysgynydd, s. m.—pl. t. lon (yagyn) A mounter.

(Ysgyrch, s. m. (cyrch) That tends towards.

(Ysgyrchawl, a. (yagyrch) Tending to, gravitating.

(Ysgyrchiad, s. m. (yagyrch) A tending towards.

(Ysgyrchiant, s. m. (yagyrch) Gravitation.

(Ysgyrchlam, s. m.—pl. t. au (yagyrch—llam) A leap towards.

(Ysgyrchlamawl, a. (yagyrchlam) Apt to leap or bound towards.

(Ysgyrchlamiad, s. (yagyrchlam) A leaping towards.

(Ysgyrchlamu, v. a. (yagyrchlam) To leap towards.

Rhyw i fab ysgyrchlamu.

It is natural for a youth to run forwards.

Adage.

(Ysgyrchu, v. a. (yagyrch) To tend to; to gravitate.

(Yagyren, s. f. dim. (yagwr) A split piece of wood, a splinter; a stave.

(Yagyrenig, s. f. dim. (yagyren) A small splint.

(Yagyrlon, s. pl. eggr. (yagwr) Staves, splinters.

Rhoddes Daw yn llyw y llafn waedllyf, a'i yagyrlon yn ngul.

God furnished my chief with the blood-stained blade, and his shaft of shivers in the conflict.

Einion Wen.

(Yagyrloni, v. a. (yagyrlon) To cleave into splinters; to shiver; to stave.

(Yagyrloniad, s. m. (yagyrlon) A splintering.

(Yagyrlony, s. m. dim. (yagyrlon) A splinter.

(Yagyrlawg, s. m. (yagwrn) A snarl, or a grin.

Ygyrrygawl, a. (ygyrrwg) Snarling, grinning.
Ygyrrnygiad, s. m. (ygyrrwg) A snarling.
Ygyrrnygu, v. a. (ygyrrwg) To snarl, to grin.
Ygyrrwydd, s. pl. aggr. (yagwr—gwydd) Cleft wood. Pont ygyrrwydd, a bridge of split timber; cylchau ygyrrwydd, hoops of split wood.
Ygyryd, s. m. (yagwr) That consists of branches, spikes, or points; that is rough or harsh. a. Full of ruggedness.

Dewis, wr da ygyryd.

Choose, thou black rough man.

H. Dd.

Y cawr ac y widdon a gyrrhynt leodd ygyryd.

The giant and the hag were resorting to rugged places.

Mabinogi.

Ygytfa, s. f. (yagwd) A concussion, a shake.
Ygytiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (yagwd) A concussion.
Ygytlan, v. a. (yagwd) To keep shaking violently.
Ygytiaw, v. a. (yagwd) To shake violently.
Ygytiawl, a. (yagwd) Concussive, percussive.
Ygytiwr, s. m.—pl. ygytiwyr (yagwd—gwr) One who shakes violently.

Ygythawl, a. (yagwth) Jetting, or spouting.

Ygythiad, s. m. (yagwth) A spouting out.

Ygythr, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yagwth) A fang; a tusk.

Gwerth pob un o'r ygythredd, dwy few, a deugaint ariant; canys bagei y dannedd yst.

The value of every one of the fang teeth, two crowns, and forty pence; for they are the guards of the teeth.

Welsh Laws.

Rhaid imi oichi fy mhen, ac eilihaw fy marf: ygythr Ygythrwyn Pen Bodd a fynaf i eilihaw.

It is necessary for me to wash my head, and to shave my beard: the tusk of Whitetusk the Supreme Bear I will have to shave.

H. Culhwch—Mabinogi.

Ygythradwy, a. (ygythr) That may be lopt.

Ygythrawd, s. m. (ygythr) A cut off, or gash.

Ygythrawg, a. (ygythr) Having tusks or fangs.

Ygythrawl, a. (ygythr) Cutting; lopping; carving; engraving.

Ygythreddant, s. m.—pl. ygythreddaint (ygythr—dant; a fang tooth.

Ygythredig, a. (ygythr) Cut out; carved.

Pennffestlin euraidd ygythredig o arwydd draig.

A golden helmet carved with the figure of a dragon.

Gr. ab Arthur.

Ygythredd, s. m. (ygythr) The state of being projected or jutting out.

At wrth dy orchymyn di yr ymgyfyd yr ebyr—ac yr erys—ar ygythredd y graig?

Is it at thy command that the eagle doth rise up, and that it resteth on the pinnacle of the rock?

Job 39. 28.

Ygythriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (yagwthr) A cutting; a carving; an engraving.

Ygythru, v. a. (yagwthr) To cut away, to lop, to shred; to carve; to engrave.

Ygythred yma gyich o naw radd yr engyllion, megys y perthyno i bob gradd yn briawd.

Let him carve here a circle of the nine orders of angels, as it may appertain to every order in particular. Cystreptlan Fuchedd.

Ygythrw, s. m.—pl. ygythrwyr (ygythru—gwr) A cutter; a carver; an engraver.

Ygythrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ygythru) A cutter; a lopper; a carver; an engraver.

Ygythu, v. a. (yagwth) To jet or spout out.

Ygywen, s. m. (cy—gwen) That is fair or bright.

Yhiliad, s. m. (hiliad) A spawning.

Yhiliaw, v. a. (hiliaw) To deposit spawn.

Yhwyliad, s. m. (hwyliad) A making a course.

Yhwyliaw, r. a. (hwyliaw) To take a course.

Ysi, adv. (ys—i) There is, there may be; it may be.

Ysiad, s. m. (ys) A consuming; a devouring.

Ysiannawl, a. (ysiant) Tending to consume.

Ysiannu, v. a. (ysiant) To make a consumption.

Ysiant, s. m. (ys) A consuming; a devoration.

Ysid, adv. (ys—id) There is; it may be.

Ysid ar bawb ei bryder.

There is on every one his anxiety.

Idy.

Hawdd yw genyf cafnell hyn. Cyd cefyeth hyn yd i cafnell.

It is easy for me to obtain that. Though thou move soon that, it may be thou wilt not obtain it.

H. Culhwch—Mabinogi.

Ysig, a. (ys) Inflammatory, fretting.

Ysigaw, r. a. (ysig) To inflame; to fret.

Hawdd ysigaw hon gwyf.

It is easy to fret an old sore.

Idy.

Ysigdawd, s. m. (ysig) A bruise, a contusion.

Ysigfa, s. f.—pl. ysigfeydd (ysig) A bruise, a contusion.

Ysigiad, s. m. (ysig) A bruising; a contusion.

Ysigiedig, a. (ysigiad) Bruised, or crushed.

Ysigwr, s. m.—pl. ysigwyr (ysig—gwr) A bruise, or one who makes a contusion.

Yslab, s. m. (llab) That is lengthened out, or distended.

Yslabi, s. m. (yslab) A manikin, a slattern.

Yslabiad, s. m. (yslab) A forming a slab.

Yslac, a. (llac) Discinct, slack, or loose.

Yslachad, s. m. (yslachau) A making slack; a slackening, a becoming slack.

Yslachu, v. a. (yslac) To make slack, to slacken.

Yslacawd, s. m. (yslac) A slack or loose state.

Yslaciad, s. m. (yslac) A slacking; a loosening.

Yslaciaw, v. a. (yslac) To slack; to loosen.

Yslaciwr, s. m.—pl. yslaciwyr (yslac—gwr) A slacker; a loosener.

Yslacrwydd, s. m. (yslac) Slackness, looseness.

Yslafan, s. m. (llafan) The laverplant.

Yslaif, s. m. (glaisf) A slash; a slice, or cut.

Yslam, s. m. (llam) That leaps or bounds. a. Skipping or leaping.

Gwaenther gwaith yslam ag ef.

To make hasty work of it.

Idy.

Yslamawl, a. (yslam) Tending to rebound.

Yslamiad, s. m. (yslam) A making a rebound.

Yslamu, v. a. (yslam) To make a bound.

Yslan, s. m. (glan) That is pure, clean or immaculate. a. Immaculate.

Yslanidd, a. (yslan) Of a clean, or pure nature.

Yslaniad, s. m. (yslan) A rendering pure.

Yslanu, v. a. (yslan) To render immaculate.

Yslapiad, s. m. (yslab) A slapping; a flapping.

Yslapiaw, v. a. (yslab) To slap; to flap.

Yslath, s. f.—pl. t. au (llath) A rod; a perch.

Yslebwag, a. (yslab) Lanky, gawky. Yslebwag ddynes, a slattern of a woman.

Yslebr, s. m. (yslab) That is lanky.

Yslebrén, s. f. dim. (yslebr) A slattern.

Yslebyn, s. m. dim. (yslab) A lanky thing.

Yslecawd, s. m. (yslac) The state of being slack or out of tone; a slight indisposition.

Ysled, s. f.—pl. t. i (lled) A drag, a drey.

Ysledfen, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysled—men) A drag-cut.

Ysleifiad, s. m. (yslaif) A slashing, a slicing.

Ysleifiaw, v. a. (yslaif) To slash, or to slice.

Ysleifiawl, a. (yslaif) Slashing, or slicing.

Ysleifiwr, s. m.—pl. ysleifiwyr (yslaif—gwr) A slasher, a slicer.

Ysleifyn, s. m. dim. (yslaif) A slash, or a slice.

Yslepan, s. f.—pl. t. au (yslab) A trap.

Ysletan, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysled) Any flat body or vessel, a flat, a flat-bottomed boat; a flat boat peculiar to some of the creeks in Wales, now growing out of use.

Yslib, s. m. (llib) That is glib or smooth.

Ysliapan, s. m. (yslib) A burnish, or a polish.

Ysliapaniad, s. m. (ysliapan) A burnishing.

slipann, v. a. (yslipan) To burnish, to polish.

Ha wr! ei gwr a ddywedir arnat ti, y gwyddost yslipann cledid-fus yn ôd!

Well man! to fit true what is said of thee, that thou knowest how to burnish swords in a good manner! M. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

slipanwr, s. m.—pl. yslipanwyr (yslipan—gwr)
A burnisher, a polisher.

Yslipanwr cledidfus gorve yn y byd wyf i, ebal Cal.

*The best burnisher of swords in the world am I, ebal Cal.
H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.*

slod, s. m. (llod) A paddle; a dabble.

slotiad, s. m. (yslot) A paddling, a dabbling.

slotian, v. a. (yslod) To paddle; to dabble.

*Rhwyfau, mai rhwyfau f'n rhau,
Isel siting i'w tistia—
Ar hyd gwrâ thosau.*

*Care, like shores for our share, of low stop to paddle along the top of the waves.
T. Fryn.*

slotiwr, s. m.—pl. ysloitiwyr (yslotian—gwr) A paddler, a dabbler.

slwch, s. m.—pl. yslychau (llwch) A slough.

smach, s. m. (mach) A buffet; a rumple.

smacht, s. m. (ysmach) A buffet; a rumple.

smachtiaid, s. m. (ysmacht) A buffeting.

smachtiawr, v. a. (ysmacht) To buffet, to rumple.

smachtiawr, s. m.—pl. ysmachtiawyr (ysmacht—gwr) A buffeter, one who rumples.

smal, s. m. (mal) That is light or fickle.

smala, a. (ysmal) Light, fickle; droll, waggish, humorous, whimsical.

smalâid, s. m. (ysmala) A rendering humorous or droll; a becoming droll.

smalâwyl, a. (ysmala) Of a droll tendency.

smalân, v. a. (ysmala) To act with humour; to become droll or humorous.

smalâwch, s. m. (ysmala) Levity; drollery, waggery, humour.

smaldawd, s. m. (ysmal) Drollery, humour.

smalder, s. m. (ysmal) Drollery, waggery.

smalrwydd, s. m. (ysmal) Waggishness, drollery.

smeltyn, s. m. (meityn) A space, a while; a good while. Er ysmeltyn, a good while since.

smiciad, s. m. (ysmig) A blinking, a winking.

smician, v. a. (ysmig) To blink; to ogle.

smiciaw, v. a. (ysmig) To blink; to wink.

smiciawl, a. (ysmig) Blinking; winking.

smiciwr, s. m. (ysmig—gwr) A blinker; a winker.

smig, s. f. (mig) A blink or wink, an ogle.

smigiad, s. m. (ysmig) A blinking; an ogling.

smigiaw, v. a. (ysmig) To blink; to ogle.

smigwst, s. f. (ysmig—gwst) A blinking ailment; dumps. Mae yr ysmigwst arno, mae ef yn glaf o ysmigwst, he is in the dumps.

smot, s. m.—pl. f. iau (mod) A patch, a spot.

smotiad, s. m. (ysmot) A dappling, a spotting.

smotiawr, v. a. (ysmot) To dapple, to spot.

smotyn, s. m. dim. (ysmot) A small spot or patch; a hare's scut; also called cwt, cwtyn, and cwtawg.

smud, s. m. (mud) Emotion, instigation.

smudai, s. c.—pl. ysmudeion (ysmud) That causes emotion; that instigates.

smudaw, v. a. (ysmud) To cause emotion.

smudawl, a. (ysmud) Instigating; motive.

smudiad, s. m. (ysmud) Instigation, emotion.

smudwr, s. m.—pl. ysmudwyr ysmud—gwr) One who moves; an instigator.

smwca, v. a. (ysmwg) To collect a little smoke, to dim, to be dimmed.

smwcah, s. m. (ysmwg) A little puff of smoke, fog, or mist

Ysmwcan, s. c. dim. (ysmwg) A little volume of smoke, fog, or mist; fog.

Ysmwciad, a. m. (ysmwg) A dimming with smoke, mist, fog, or vapour.

Ysmwciaw, v. a. (ysmwg) To dim with smoke, Mae y drych wedi ysmwciaw, the glass is become dim.

Ysmwciawl, a. (ysmwg) Somewhat smoked.

Ysmwg, s. m. (mwg) That generates smoke.

Ysmwll, s. m. (mwll) That is close and damp. a. Sultry and damp.

Ysmwllach, s. m. (ysmwll) Close damp weather.

Ysmwt, s. m. (mwd) That is round or squabby.

a. Squabby. Trwyn ysmwt, a bottle nose.

Ysmygawl, a. (ysmwg) Tending to smoke.

Ysmygiad, s. m. (ysmwg) A dimming with smoke.

Ysmygu, v. a. (ysmwg) To dim with smoke.

Ysnid, s. f.—pl. f. au (nid) A snout or beak; a drop at the nose; a snipe.

Ysniten, s. f. dim. (ysnid) A snout; a drop at the snout.

Ysnoden, s. f.—pl. f. l (noden) A fillet, band, riband or lace; a head band, a hair lace; a marilock, also called cudyn dedrwydd. Ysnoden gorni, rhwymyn, a swaddling band; ysnoden y mor, sea-thongs; ysnoden mair, English galingale.

Ysnoden aur a gwn carth.

A gold lace with a hampen gown.

Adage.

Ysnodenaidd, a. (ysnoden) Like a fillet or lace.

Ysnodenawg, a. (ysnoden) Having a fillet, band, or riband; filleted, laced.

Ysnodenawl, a. (ysnoden) Filleted, laced.

Ysnodeniad, s. m. (ysnoden) A filleting, a lacing.

Ysnodenig, s. f. dim. (ysnoden) A bandlet.

Ysnodenn, v. a. (ysnoden) To fillet, to bind with a lace or riband; to belace.

Ysnodenwr, s. m.—pl. ysnodenwyr (ysnoden—gwr) A dealer in fillets or laces.

Ysnodenydd, s. m.—pl. f. ion (ysnoden) A dealer in fillets; laces, and ribands.

Yso, adv. (ys—o) Is thence; it may be thence.

Ysoldeb, s. m. (ysawl) A consuming state.

Ysoli, v. a. (ysawl) To render consuming; to cauterize.

Yspadd, s. m. (padd) That is exhausted, or spent.

Yspaddawl, a. (yspadd) Tending to exhaust.

Yspaddiad, s. m. (yspadd) An exhausting.

Yspaddu, v. a. (yspadd) To exhaust, to empty.

Yspai, s. m. (pai) That is clear or visible.

Yspaid, s. m. (paid) A cessation, an intermission; a term or space of time. Tros yspaid tair blynedd, for the space of three years.

Yspaidd, a. (paidd) Being emptied or exhausted.

Yspail, s. f.—pl. yspelliau (pall) A spoil or prey.

Nid yspail ond gwyn.

There is no spoiling like that of wind.

Adage.

Yspaih, s. m. (paith) That is open or clear; a prospect, a scene, a view, a vision.

Yspant, s. f.—pl. yspeinniau (pant) That is involving or inclosing; a flake.

Yspar, s. f.—pl. ysperi (par) A spear, or pike.

Llathriaw ych caraw, yspart weyll.

Likd Pyl arf drydryll, arfard Rhodri.

*A smooth hand giving aid to guests, with blades of spears wrathful as Pyl, with weapon broken in thine, and stroke of Rhodri.
D. ab Gwilym.*

Ysparawg, a. (yspar) Having a spear or pike.

Yspardun, s. f.—pl. f. au (yspar—tun) A spur; also called ethy. Yspardunau y marchawg, the larkspur.

Yspardenad, s. m. (ysparden) A spurring.
Yspardenaw, v. a. (ysparden) To spur.
Yspardenwr, s. m.—pl. yspardenwyr (ysparden—gwr) One who uses a spur.
Ysparth, s. m.—pl. t. an (parth) A separation.
Ysparthiad, s. m. (ysparth) A separating.
Ysparthu, v. a. (ysparth) To separate, to part.
Yspas, s. m. (pas) That is in the act of passing.
a. Passing; probationary.
Yspawr, s. m.—pl. ysporian (pawr) That is used as fodder; the refuse of fodder.
Yspeiad, s. m. (yspai) An exploring, a spying.
Yspeiant, s. m. (yspai) An exploration.
Yspeiaw, v. a. (yspai) To explore; to spy.
Yspeiawd, s. m. (yspai) An exploration.
Yspeiawl, a. (yspai) Exploratory; spying.
Yspeiawr, s. m. (yspai) That is visible.
Yspeidiad, s. m. (yspaid) An intermission.
Yspeidiaw, v. a. (yspaid) To make an intermission; to form a space of time; to desist.
Yspeidiawl, a. (yspaid) Intermittent.
Yspeienna, v. a. (yspelant) To prowl about.
Yspeiliad, s. m. (yspail) A spoliation.
Yspeienddyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yspeiant—dyn) A person who prowls about.
Yspeiliata, v. a. (yspeiliad) To be pilfering.
Yspeiliatan, v. a. (yspeiliad) To be pilfering.
Yspeiliaw, v. a. (yspail) To spoil; to ravage.
Yspeiliawd, s. m. (yspail) A spoliation.
Yspeilledig, a. (yspeiliad) Spoiled, ravaged.
Yspeilledydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yspeiliad) Ravager.
Yspeiliota, v. a. (yspeiliawd) To be pilfering.
Yspeiliwr, s. m.—pl. yspeiliwyr (yspail—gwr) A spoiler, a ravager.
Yspeinniaw, s. m. (yspant) An involving or enclosing; a shelling.
Yspeinniaw, v. a. (yspant) To involve, to enclose, to shell. Yspeinniaw ffa, to shell beans.

*Yspelinaw Rhys ab Eilion
 A oera sala yr oes hon.*

The enveloping of Rhys the son of Eilion renders the voice of this generation dismal. L. G. Coitt.

Yspeinwydd, s. m. (ys—pan—gwydd) Box-wood.
Yspeiorad, s. m. (yspeiawr) Exploration.
Yspeiorawl, a. (yspeiawr) Exploratory.
Yspeiori, v. a. (yspeiawr) To explore.
Yspeithiad, s. m. (yspaith) A looking about.
Yspeithiaw, v. a. (yspaith) To look about.
Yspeithiawl, a. (yspaith) Relating to a looking about; exploratory.
Yspeithig, a. (yspaith) Tending to look about.
Yspeithigaw, v. a. (yspeithig) To form an open prospect or view.
Yspel, s. m. (pel) An exposition; expulsion.
Yspeliad, s. m. (yspel) An exposing.
Yspeliaw, v. a. (yspel) To expose; to expel.
Yspelw, s. m. (yspel) A gall, a rub, or fret.
Yspelwad, s. m. (yspelw) Exulceration.
Yspelwi, v. a. (yspelw) To gall, to be galled.
Yspell, s. m. (pell) That is far or long.

*Yr eryr a ddywawd: mi a ddeuthym yma er ysbell o amser.—
 The eagle said: I am arrived here for this long space of time.* H. Cuthbert—Malinbeg.

Yspelliad, s. m. (yspell) A rendering distant.
Yspellu, v. a. (yspell) To render distant.
Yspennydd, s. m. (yspant) That involves. a. Involving; overwhelming.

*Liary yspar yspennydd ei naid;
 Llew wrth aer, a llwfr wrth eirchiald.*

A mild one with a spear of overwhelming bound; a lion in the slaughter, and a yielding one to the suitor. Ll. P. Moch, i Rodri.

Ysperygl, s. f. (perygl) A leg bone, or the tibia.

Yspicell, s. f.—pl. t. an (yspig) A dart.
Yspicella, v. a. (yspicell) To throw darts.
Yspicellad, s. m. (yspicell) A darting.
Yspicellu, v. a. (yspicell) To throw a dart.
Yspig, s. f.—pl. t. an (pig) A spike, a spine.
Yspigaw, v. a. (yspig) To spike; to prick.
Yspigawd, s. f.—pl. yspigodan (yspig) A spigot.
a. a spigot.

Yspigawg, a. (yspig) Full of spikes or prick.
Yspigawglys, s. pl. aggr. (yspigawg—lys) Spine.
Yspigydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yspig) The tinner also called yspigydd bach.

Yspil, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pil) A dribblet.
Yspilyn, s. m. dim. (yspil) A little matter, a dribblet. Mae arno ryw yspilyn bach i mi, he re me some small trifle.

Yspin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pin) A spine, a prick.
Yspinan, s. m. dim. (yspin) That is spinous; gooseberry-bush.

Yspinawg, a. (yspin) Abounding with spinous s. f. The squincy.

Yspinc, s. m. (pinc) That is smart or trim.

Yspincyn, s. m. dim. (yspinc) A finch; it is also called pinc.

Yspinen, s. f. dim. (yspin) That is spinous; prickly plant.

Yspinglarch, s. m. (yspin—clairch) Bridgman

Ysplan, a. (plan) Clear, bright, splendid.

Ysplanu, v. a. (ysplan) To elucidate, to explain.

Ysplanawl, a. (ysplan) Luminous, lucid.

Ysplander, s. m. (ysplan) Brightness, splendor.

Ysplandra, s. m. (ysplan) Brightness, clearness.

Ysplanedig, a. (ysplan) Being brightened.

Ysplannedd, s. m. (ysplan) Brightness, lucidity.

Ysplaniad, s. m.—pl. t. an (ysplan) A brightening.

Ysplenydd, a. (ysplan) Lucid or lustrous.

Ysplenyddu, v. a. (ysplenydd) To irradiate.

Ysplent, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (ysplan) A slippery slide; a sheet of ice.

Rhaid eu gryn, am oered eu rhyngwlad, fr yspint he'r ngwlad yr is trwyddaw.

They must be driven, because of the coldness of their faces to the great sheet of ice in the region of eternal frost. Ellis Wyn, i Gog.

Ysplyg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (plyg) A splice.
Ysplygawl, a. (ysplyg) Spliced, infolded.
Ysplygiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (ysplyg) A splicing.
Ysplygu, v. a. (ysplyg) To splice, to infold.

Da oedd ysplygu y cynganeddion a'u henyw felly.

It were well to enfold the concubines with their own soris. G. R. R.

Yspodol, s. f.—pl. t. an (yspawd) A slice or spatula.
Yspodoli, v. a. (yspodol) To spatulate; to beat with the flat side of any thing; to slap.

Yspodoliad, s. m. (yspodol) A spattling; a slapping.

Ysponc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ponc) A jerk, a jolt, a spurt; a skip or quick bound.

Taraw, o'm awydd ddyrr, Tair ysbonc, tores y byn.

Striking, from my mischievous whim, three with a jerk broke. D. de Gwyn.

Ac ysbonc y wên bach.

And the smack of the delicate lip. Llanidloes, G. R. R.

Ysponciad, s. m. (ysponc) A sudden jerk or bound; a twitch; a smack.

Ysponciaw, v. a. (ysponc) To bound sharply; to smack; to jerk, to jet.

Ysperi, v. a. (yspawr) To feed; to eat fodder.

Ysporiad, s. m. (yspawr) A feeding; the eating of fodder, a foddering.

Ysporiaw, v. a. (yspawr) To eat fodder.

Ysporion, s. pl. aggr. (yspawr) Refuse of fodder.
Ysporion, v. a. (ysporion) To produce refuse or leavings of fodder.

Ysporth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (porth) Sustenance.
Ysporthawl, a. (ysporth) Supporting, sustaining.
Ysporthell, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysporth) A provision basket or pannier.

Ysporthen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (ysporth) A basket or pannier.

Ysporthi, v. a. (ysporth) To support or sustain.
Ysporthiad, s. m.—pl. ysporthiad (ysporth) A sustainer or supporter.

Cyfarthaf—
i llywyr cry, arf gwagwlad a gwad
A gwyddu ysporthiad.

I will greet the warriors of the eagle, the weapon of a happy country with blood, and the fender of the wild dogs.

Ll. P. Moeh, t. D. ab Owain.

Ysporthiadawl, a. (ysporthiad) Of a supporting or sustaining tendency.

Ysporthiannawl, a. (ysporthiant) Yielding sustenance or support.

Ysporthiannu, v. a. (ysporthiant) To produce sustenance or support.

Ysporthiant, s. m. (ysporth) Sustenance, food.

Ysporthion, s. pl. aggr. (ysporth) Refuse of fodder.

Ysporthionl, v. a. (ysporthion) To make leavings of fodder.

Yspred, s. pl. aggr. (pred) Outcasts; refuse.

Ys call—o effr—
Yspred o anybyddedd.

There was a fold of goats, outcasts of mere phantasies.

Gr. ab Iydrad ab Tudyr.

Fe dal yr Arctwyd fr yspred

A woady y welidur dywyll.

The Lord will requite the ones who committed that dark deed.

Lewis Morris.

Ysprudd, a. (prudd) Moping, stupid, or dull.

Yspruddach, s. m. (ysprudd) That is of a dejected aspect, a moper, a stupid one.

Yspwng, s. m.—pl. t. au (pwng) A light tuft, such as the tops of reeds; sponge.

Gwawd yd gorch cyawng o'i gnaif pwng,
Nai pan gorch Shanda Shanda yspwng.

Habitual for him to attack adversaries in his overwhelming rage, so when the flaming fire invades an inflammable covering of reeds.

R. ab Madwyn ab Rhodri.

Yspwy, s. m. (pwyr) A rebuff, or a repulse.

Yspwyed, s. m. (yspwy) A rebuffing, repulsion.

Yspwyaw, v. a. (yspwy) To rebuff, to repulse.

Yspwyll, s. m. (pwyll) A mental faculty.

Yspwyllaw, v. a. (yspwyll) To ratiocinate.

Yspwylliad, s. m. (yspwyll) Ratiocination.

Yspwyllus, a. (yspwyll) Ratiocinative.

Yspwys, s. m. (pwys) That is impressive or weighty. a. Impressive, imposing. Gwraig yspwys, and gwraig bwyys, a wedded wife, or a spouse.

Meis yspwys ydyw achrys ochren.

The imposing conduct of the conspicuous terrific party.

Cyrddeu.

Rheoli gwyllt—
By o yspwys i Shwgar.

The ruling of the outrageous is of weight to Jasper.

L. G. Cuth.

Yspwysaw, v. a. (yspwys) To impress.

Yspwysawl, a. (yspwys) Impressive, imposing.

Yspwysiad, s. m. (yspwys) An imposing.

Ypydd, s. m. (pydd) A jutting, or run out.

Ypyddad, s. m. aggr. (yspydd) That runs out; that expels; that is projecting; a hawthorn.

Ypyddad amad,
Haint ach of angad.

The Hawthorn surrounded by obstacles, with pain at his hand.

Taliesin.

Ypyddaden, s. f. dim. (yspyddad) One that is armed or protected; hawthorn, whitethorn.

VOL. II.

Ypyddaid, a. (yspydd) Jetting; prickly; harsh, sharp, repulsive; protected. Mac o yn dywed-yd mór ypyddaid, he is speaking so wildly. Sil. Heirdd ypyddaid, refugee bards.

Ypyddawd, s. m. (yspydd) A running out; a repelling or guarding; protection.

Parawd ypyddawd i ebyd Prydain,
Udd pyddawr ei wryd,
Marolodd—

Of ready protection to the refugees of Britain, a chief of steady form, Marolodd—

Ll. P. Moeh, m. M. ab Cynan.

Ypyddiad, s. m. (yspydd) A jutting out.

Ypyddu, v. a. (yspydd) To jut, to run out.

Ysran, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhan) A dividend.

Ysranawl, a. (ysran) Forming a dividend.

Ysraniad, s. m. (ysran) A making a dividend.

Ysranu, v. a. (ysran) To make a dividend.

Ysraeth, s. m. (rhaeth) That is rubbed.

Ysraethawl, a. (ysraeth) Productive of friction.

Ysraethiad, s. m. (ysraeth) A causing a friction.

Ysraethu, v. a. (ysraeth) To cause a friction.

Ysraith, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhaith) That is apparent.

Ysraithiad, s. m. (ysraith) A making apparent.

Ysraithaw, v. a. (ysraith) To make apparent.

Ysryydd, a. (rhwydd) Tending to facilitate.

Ysryyddaw, v. a. (ysryydd) To render facile.

Ysryyddawl, a. (ysryydd) Of a clearing tendency

Ysryyddiad, s. m. (ysryydd) A rendering facile.

Ysawd, s. m. (sawd) That combines or forms.

Yssig, a. (ys—sig) Shattered, crushed, bruised.

Yssigaw, v. a. (ysig) To shatter, to crush, to bruise. Yssigaw byddinocdd, to crush armies.

Yn Saxoth—
Tyrus twa eu mur,
Tyring eu llyfur,
Torloedd ddaegur
A'hyddu.

In Saxony towers with their broken walls, tumult their toll, hosts void of inactivity will crush them.

D. Benfras.

Yssigawl, a. (ysig) Tending to shatter or crush.

Yssigawd, s. m. (ysig) Shatteredness, bruisedness; contusion, a crushed state.

Yssigiad, s. m. (ysig) A shattering, a crushing, a bruising; a contusion.

Yssigwr, s. m.—pl. yssigwyr (ysig—gwr) A shatterer, one who bruises, or makes a contusion.

Ysodi, v. a. (ysawd) To render combined.

Ysy, s. m. (ys—sy) That has existence, or has entity. adv. That is, that be.

Ysydd, s. m. (ys—sydd) That has existence, or that has entity. adv. That is, that be.

No anethia ni bellach, namyn awaf ac addod ysydd arnaf, ag a fo mwy, os mynai: dyro lai dy farch.

Be not shooting at us any more, for the harm and ruin that is upon thee, as to what more may be, if thou wilt: give us thy daughter.

H. Cuthbert—Mabingston.

Ysyddawl, a. (ysydd) Causing of existence.

Ysyddiad, s. m. (ysydd) A causing of existence.

Ysyddu, v. a. (ysydd) To cause to be, or exist.

Ysyddyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. od (ysydd) That is occupied; a tenement.

Ysyddynawl, a. (ysyddyn) Under occupation.

Ysym, adv. (ys—sy—ym) That is to me, that is of mine.

Ysymi hddyw pan y mis,
Yn y wstia ydd edewis.

What might be mine this day ending the month, in the entertainment I have left it.

Llywarch Hen.

Ysym arglwydd gwdd.

There is to me a powerful lord.

Cyrddeu.

Yst, s. m. (ys) That exists; that proceeds; that is active or ardent.

Ystac, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tag) That is reared; a heap; a stack.

Ystac, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ystac) A standard; a heap; a measure of capacity, equal to 5½ bushels, used in Glamorgan; but in the neighbouring parts it is called Tel; and Ytasec is used as a measure of length.

4 R

Ystaciad, s. m. (ystac) A forming a standard; a forming a heap; a stacking.

Ystaciaw, v. a. (ystac) To form a standard; to form a heap; to stack.

Ystad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tad) That is continuous or proceeding; state, condition.

Ystadawl, a. (ystad) Being continuous or even.

Ystaden, s. f. dim. (ystad) A measure of length; a stadium.

Ystadiad, s. m. (ystad) A forming a position.

Ystadi, s. m. (ystad) That is continuous, that is proceeding, or that is uninterrupted.

Ystadi cad cynnydd.

The threaten of the induction of battle.

Taliesin.

Ystadledd, s. m. (ystadi) A continuous state.

Ystadliad, s. m. (ystadi) A rendering continuous.

Ystadu, v. a. (ystad) To remain, to stay.

Ystaen, s. m. (taen) That is spread out; that is sprinkled over; a stain; also tin. a. Out-spreading; stained.

Niwel—

Rhwyd ystaeu yn rhydd;

Rhwyd adar y ddalar ddu.

The mist, an outspreading riddle diffusing rest; the net of the birds of the sable earth.

D. ab Gwilym.

Ystaenidd, a. (ystaen) Tending to overspread; of a staining quality; like tin.

Ystaenawd, s. m. (ystaen) The state of being spread, sprinkled, or stained.

Rhag gwyer ar gwawd,

Afar ystaenawd.

Against gore on flesh, a dismal staining.

Taliesin.

Ystaenawl, a. (ystaen) Tending to spread, of a staining quality; belonging to tin.

Ystaenawr, s. m.—pl. ystaenorion (ystaen) A tinner, or a worker of tin.

Ystaenlad, s. m. (ystaen) A spreading out; a staining; a working of tin; a tinning.

Ystaenlaw, v. a. (ystaen) To spread over; to stain; to tin.

Ystaeniwr, s. m.—pl. ystaeniwyr (ystaen—gwr) One who stains; a tinner.

Ystaenu, v. a. (ystaen) To cover with tin.

Ystaenydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ystaen) A tinner.

Ystaf, s. f. (taf) That is spread, extended, or laid out; that is stretched out or laminated.

Ystafell, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ystaf) A chamber, an upper room; a bedchamber.

Mi a fedraf ystafell:

Dau o wair; nid oes ei well.

I can form a chamber: a haystack; there is not its better.

D. ab Gwilym.

Ystafelliad, s. f.—pl. ystafelleidiau (ystafell) A chamber-full, a room-full.

Ystafellaidd, a. (ystafell) Like a chamber.

Ystafellawg, a. (ystafell) Having a chamber; having a room, or a cell.

Pedair ar aghat fydd ebediw gwr ystafellawg; deuddeg celawg yr ebediw guraig ystafellawg; ac i argwydd y tir y bo yr ystafell arno y tellir.

Twenty-four pence shall be the heriot of a man having a cell; twelve pence is the heriot of a woman having a cell; and to the lord of the soil whereon the cell may be shall it be paid.

Welsh Laws.

Ystafelliad, s. m. (ystafell) A chambering.

Ystafellu, v. a. (ystafell) To form a chamber.

Ystafellwas, s. m.—pl. ystafellweision (ystafell—gwas) A chamberlain.

Ystafellwr, s. m.—pl. ystafellwyr (ystafell—gwr) A chamber-man.

Ystafellwraig, s. f.—pl. ystafellwreigedd (ystafell—gwraig) A chamber-woman.

Ystafellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ystafell) A chamberlain, a groom of the chamber.

Pwy gyd a mi! Pwy! A dau neu del o'r ystafellid a rychyd arna.

Who along with me! Who! And two or three of the chamberlains looked at him.

Ystafellyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (ystafellydd) A chambermaid.

Ystafellyddiaeth, s. m. (ystafell) Chamberlainship.

Ystagiad, s. m. (tagiad) A causing a choking.

Ystagu, v. a. (tagu) To suffocate, to choke.

Ystain, s. m. (tain) That spreads or expands.

Ystal, s. f.—pl. t. on (yst—al) A stock or produce, a stall; a frame on stone pillars for corn racks.

Aeth i'r cor ystor ac ystal omedd,
Gwedd yn ymwyg Mairadell.

Went to the stable in the treasure and the stock of corn, to blood of the prince of Mathraul.

W. Cynd.

Rhyngodd, reynodd ystal;

Fynna's Rhywyn a Ffannal.

He prospered, he extended a stock; prospering in Tyne and Fennal.

Ystaliad, s. m. (ystal) A producing a stock.

Ystalm, s. m. (talm) A determined space; a good while, a good space.

Ystalmiad, s. m. (ystalm) A forming a determined space; a determining.

Ystalmu, v. a. (ystalm) To form a determined space; to form a conclusion; to determine.

Ystalu, v. a. (ystal) To form a stock; to obtain produce.

Ystaliw, a. (ystal) Being made productive.

Ystalwyn, s. m.—pl. t. i (ystaliw) A stallion.

Gwerth ystalwyn grewys a allo dol, a cheng rwyd o'i hant arall yn ei ol.

The value of a stallion is a stud that he can cover, with a low mare before him and another behind him.

W. ab Iwan.

Ystaliwnaidd, a. (ystaliwyn) Like a stallion.

Ystan, s. f. (tan) That is spread or laid out.

Eistedd 'n an ystan awydd,
Trin fydd cys y toro a' fwyd.

Sitting in one spread of coldness, a bowl there will be when they carve any victuals.

S. ab Iffydd Cyf.

Ystanc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (yst—anc) That is stud; that confines; a pile; a holdfast; a bracket; a wooden hook nailed to a wall. Ystanc off, a horse block; ystanc f awstafan awn, a pile in the ground to keep up a canopy.

Ystanciad, s. m. (ystanc) A piling; a peeping; a bracketing.

Ystanciaw, v. a. (ystanc) To pile; to prop; to pin; to bracket.

Ystang, s. m.—pl. t. au (yst—ang) That is strait; that straitens or bounds; a stang or perch, used as a measure; in some parts of South Wales it is 18 feet; in others 21 feet; and it is also a square measure: in Cardiganshire it is 100 square rods 13½ feet each: in Pembrokeshire it is a quarter of a Welsh acre, and contains 160 yards by 16 yards.

A'i ystang a wnaeth angan.

And his spear has death accomplished.

R. Rhydd.

Ystangiad, s. m. (ystang) A straitening, a limiting; a limiting; a measuring the space of a ystang.

Ystangu, v. a. (ystang) To straiten, to pin; to limit; to measure out the space of an ystang.

Ystarn, s. m.—pl. t. au (tarn) Saddle; a pack-saddle.

Gwedd, mai ystarn ar gefn huch.

Fitting, like a saddle on the back of a cow.

Iar.

Ystarnawg, a. (ystarn) Having a saddle.

Ystarniad, s. m. (ystarn) A saddling.

Ystarnu, v. a. (ystarn) To saddle; to put on a pack-saddle.

Y brwddwr llys addity, y gan y pŵgwastrawd, ddilwalia ni farch o'r holl syniad hyd y ddweddol; ac ei ystarnu, ac ei ddwyn llyd ac ei ystarnu arno, pan farfchoch.

The judge of the palace ought to have, from the chief groom, his horse made complete, from the first nail to the last; and to have the saddle put on, and brought to him with the saddle on, when he rides. Welsh Laws.

Ystarnwr, s. m. (ystarn—gwr) A saddler.

Ystau, s. m. (tau) That is silent or calm.

Ystawd, s. f.—pl. ystodion (tawd) A course, a race; a layer; a swath of hay or corn, laid with a scythe. Ystard amian, course of nature.

Man oŵ wodd torffys—y dygwylidadau anghyffredin cydd yn ddaerwain yn ystard rhaglenioch.

He has determined the uncommon accidents that happen in the course of providence. Isr. Owein.

Ystawi, s. m.—pl. ystofion (tawf) That is regulated or ranged; a warp, in weaving.

Ystawiad, s. m. (ystaw) A rendering silent.

Ystawi, s. f.—pl. ystollion (tawi) A stool. Ystawi fair, the lesser centuary.

Ystawi, dwy geinlaw a ddi.

A stool, its value is two pence. Welsh Laws.

Ystawr, s. f.—pl. ystornau (tawr) What covers; any resin; rosin.

Eu gwynafyd yw cyfoeth, dyb ansoeth bob awr hyd elawr, was ystawr, yn wasad.

Their happiness is wealth, a foolish notion, continually to the heir, a frail covering. D. Williams.

Ystefing, s. f. (ystaf) The roof of the mouth.

Ysteiniad, s. m. (ystain) A causing a spread.

Ysteiniaw, v. a. (ystain) To cause to spread.

Ystel, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tel) That stretches.

Ystele, s. f.—pl. t. iau (tele) That is shrinking; a lark; a lotter.

Ystelciad, s. m. (ystele) A causing a shrinking; a lurking; a lottering.

Ystelcian, v. a. (ystele) To go in a shrinking manner; to lurk about; to loiter.

Ystelciaw, v. a. (ystele) To go shrinkingly; to lurk; to loiter.

Ystelciwr, s. m.—pl. ystelciwyr (ystele—gwr) A lurker; a loiterer.

Ystelf, s. m.—pl. t. od (ystel) That is rigid; a blockhead.

Ystelfiad, s. m. (ystelf) A rendering rigid.

Ystelfin, v. a. (ystelf) To render rigid or stiff.

Ysteliad, s. m. (ystel) A stretching, a causing a spring or elasticity.

Ysteliaw, v. a. (ystel) To stretch, to spring.

Yn Mynyw wên y mae'n wir; Dros dwy-wlad yr ysteli.

In fair Mynyw it is in truth: over two countries it will be made to extend. L. G. Colli.

Ystelyw, s. m. (ystel) That is stretched out.

Ystem, s. f. (tem) That forms a round spread; a base, a stem.

Yster, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ter) That is ardent.

Ysteraig, s. (ter) Apt to produce ardency.

Hwerthiawg to Craig For all ysteraig.

Abounding with broken sound by the side of a rock the pair tree is not of an ardent quality. Taliesin, Cad Godden.

Ysterc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (terc) That makes a jerk.

Ysterciad, s. m. (ysterc) A making a jerk.

Ystercian, v. a. (ysterc) To be jerking out.

Ysterciaw, v. a. (ysterc) To jerk, throw, or mount up, as a football.

Ysteriad, s. m. (yster) A rendering ardent.

Ysterlewyn, s. m. (yster—llewyn) A meteor.

Ystern, s. m.—pl. ystern (tern) That produces ardency or motion; that is sharp or active. s. of an active or sharp tendency.

*Gogwa niofawr
Bryng niof h hiofawr—
Cwru gan yw ystern;
Pan yw llefawr gogwa.*

I know the regulation between heaven and earth: or also why it is of an active quality; the alder why it is of a periphrastic hue. Taliesin.

*Ston yw yr all prau, cialaw daw,
Ow el hysn, a roid arnau.*

This is the second issue, an adverse man of cold impulses, which thou hast set upon us. Rage Goch Bryn.

Ystern, v. a. (yster) To render ardent or vivid.

Ystid, s. f.—pl. t. au (tid) That forms a wreath.

Ystid gach, yn da dy gaf.

A red wreath, thy memory is good.

D. ab Gwilym, i goinech.

Ystidaw, v. a. (ystid) To form a chain.

Ystidiad, s. m. (ystid) A rig-ma-roll.

Ystig, s. (yst) Assiduous, persevering.

*Ystyr, and da yw ystig
I ddyd ei dda a'i ddaw yn ddi.*

Consider that man's wealth is not uninterruptedly good should his God be displeased. Dr. S. Cent.

Ystigaw, v. a. (ystig) To act with assiduity, to persevere; to become assiduous.

Ystigiad, s. m. (ystig) A persevering; a becoming assiduous; a sticking close to work.

Ystigrwydd, s. m. (ystig) Perseverance, assiduity, diligence, close application.

Ystigl, s. f. (ystig) A stile. Ceredigion.

Ystin, s. (yst) Of a tendency to be or to act.

Ystinos, s. m. (ystin) The asbestos.

*Yn y gwyfyn—ar melyn—
A gale dyn ac ystinos.*

In the girdle, yellow gold will a person seek, and asbestos. R. Goch, Bryn.

Ystie, s. m. (ystyl) That is impulsive; that is extreme; a flight or retreat; kindred.

*Caranmael, cymhwys arodd,
Alwedd dy ystie o god;
Gnawd man ar ran cymhwys.*

Caranmael, there being a constraint on thee, Alwedd thy retreat from battle; a mark is natural on the brow of a combatant. Llywarch Hen.

All dydd brawd, brawd ystied ystie.

Like the day of judgement, terrific the course of retreat. Gwaichmair.

Ystlen, s. f.—pl. t. i (yst—llen) A sex, a kind.

Cyfrwng dros ofonedawli wraiglen ystlen.

Intercede for the devoted female sex.

Dafydd Ddu, o Hiraidd.

Ystlenaid, s. (ystlen) Sexual; kindred.

Ystlenawl, s. (ystlen) Sexual; kindred.

Ystlom, s. m. (ystyl—om) Excrement, ordure.

Ystlomi, v. a. (ystlom) To void excrement.

Ystlomiad, s. m. (ystlom) A voiding excrement.

Ystlwn, s. m. (yst—llwn) Connection; kindred.

Ystlwyd, s. m. (yst—llwyd) Grey or hoary.

Ystlwyn, s. m. (yst—llwyn) A luxuriant grove.

*Am y rhai yr yd
Ta e'r ystlwyn tir ystlwyd.*

Often of superior quality thou art towards the lively grove of land of dusky growth. Iwan Tew.

Ystlym, s. m.—pl. t. od (yat—llym) A bat.

Nid diffaith ond ystlym.

There is nothing so filthy as a bat. Adagr.

Ystlynnawl, s. (ystlwn) Connected; related.

Ystlyned, s. f. (ystlwn) That is connected, associated, or in communion.

Ac ym Rheu gwyn gwan ystlyned wyf i.—

And to my blessed Creator a feeble communicant am I. Stevenson ab Gwaichmair.

Ystlynedd, s. f. (ystlwn) Connection, kindred.

Ni ba coddwdd beirdd o'r ystlynedd.

Bards have not been of needy life from his connection. Gr. ab Gwilym.

Ystlyniad, s. m. (ystlwn) A forming a society; a forming a relationship.

Ystlynnu, v. a. (ystlwn) To associate; to form a connection, or kindred.

Yatlys, s. f.—pl. t. au (yatyl) A side, a flank.

Cadarn a chruallaw oeddynt oc y ddwy yatlys; ond ar y diwedd testyn a gafel y luddygolmeith.

Mighty and furious were they of the two sides; but at length testyn obtained the victory. Ceredwig o Langarfen.

Yatlysawl, a. (yatlys) Lateral, or sided.

Yatlysboet, s. m. (yatlys—post) A side-post.

Yatlysidid, s. f.—pl. t. au (yatlys—tid) A side chain, the trace of draught harness.

Yatlysgam, a. (yatlys—cam) Lob-sided.

Yatlysgamiad, s. m. (yatlysgam) A bending laterally; a rendering lob-sided.

Yatlysgamun, v. a. (yatlysgam) To be lob-sided.

Yatlysgell, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (yatlys—cell) A side-chamber, a cell.

Yatlysgerdded, v. a. (yatlys—cerdded) To walk by the side; to walk sideways.

Mae yn yatlysgerdded a gwirionedd.

It is going parallel with truth.

Adage.

Yatlysglawdd, s. m.—pl. yatlysgloddian (yatlys—clawdd) A flanker, in fortification.

Yatlysiad, s. m. (yatlys) A forming a side; a rendering lateral; a sidelling.

Yatlysu, v. a. (yatlys) To tend to one side.

Yatlyswaith, s. m. (yatlys—gwaith) A lateral work, a work that flanks.

Ystodi, v. a. (ystawd) To dispose a course, range, or layer; to form a swath.

Ystodiad, s. m. (ystawd) A disposing a course, a ranging; a forming layers or swaths.

Ystofawl, a. (ystawf) Tending to regulate or dispose in order; warping.

Ystofen, s. f. dim. (ystof) A warping tray.

Ystof, v. a. (ystof) To regulate, to dispose; to warp thread or yarn for weaving; it is also called dyllfauc. Ystof y gwaith, to regulate the work.

Aiwr bar taerfar yn tori cadon,

Cadarn-freidr ystof.

A hero with an ardently wrathful spear breaking through battles, dispicing a mighty conflict. Llegad Gwr, i Llywelyn III.

Ystofiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystawf) A regulating, a disposing; a warping.

Ystofawd, s. m. (ystawf) Regulation, disposition; the act of warping yarn.

Ystofawdr, s. m.—pl. ystofodron (ystofawd) A regulator; a warper.

Ystofawdr gwylid yn dithl.

The combiner of wood that is faultless.

D. o. Gwilym, i hel fedm.

Ystofwr, s. m.—pl. ystofwyr (ystawf—gwr) One who regulates or puts in order; a warper.

Ystol, s. f.—pl. t. ion (tol) That involves; that covers or includes.

Ystola, s. f. (ystol) A scarf, an ephod; a wrapper, a loose gown, a stole.

Gwelwyd wr iwanac yn eistedd ar y tu deau; wedi rhy wleug mewn ystola gsteold.

They beheld a young man sitting on the right side, being clad in a shining coat. W. Salisbury.

Ystolc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tolc) That is hollow or indented by pressure.

Ystolciad, s. m. (ystolc) A forming a hollow or indenting by punching; a butting.

Ystolcian, v. a. (ystolc) To butt repeatedly.

Ystolciaw, v. a. (ystolc) To make a depression or indenting by butting.

Ystor, s. m.—pl. t. au (tor) That forms a bulk or heap; a store.

Ystorad, s. m. (ystawr) A forming of resin.

Ystoraeth, s. f. (toraeth) That is a produce; that is productive or plentiful; a store.

Ystoraidd, a. (ystawr) Resinous, or like resin.

Ystorawl, a. (ystawr) Resinacious, resinous.

Ystordy, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystor—ty) A storehouse.

Ystordyn, s. m. dim. (tor—tyn) A trigger in bowling; a mark to jump from.

Ystoreithiad, s. m. (ystoraeth) A rendering productive; a forming a store.

Ystoreithiaw, v. a. (ystoraeth) To render productive or yielding; to form a store.

Ystori, v. a. (ystawr) To cover with resin; to do with rosin.

Ystoriad, s. m. (ystor) A forming a store.

Ystoriaw, v. a. (ystor) To treasure up, to store.

Y doethlon a ystoriawt wybodant.

The wise men do treasure up knowledge. Bartholom. 12. 12.

Ystorm, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (torm) A tempest, a storm.

Ystorm o ffynnon dwyrain.

A storm from the bosom of the east.

D. o. Gwilym.

Bloedd a colyn—

Ystyrman yr ystormaidd.

A about those wouldst give, thou trumpet of the storm. M. o. Ellyf, 7. 1. 1.

Ystormaui, a. (ystorm) Stormy, tempestuous.

Ystormiad, s. m. (ystorm) A raising a storm.

Ystormiaw, v. a. (ystorm) To raise a storm.

Ystormus, a. (ystorm) Stormy, tempestuous.

Ystorwr, s. m.—pl. ystorwyr (ystor—gwr) A warehouseman.

Ystrad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trad) A flat, a vale, a bottom, or valley, formed by the course of a river. It forms the names of many places in Wales, as Ystrad Yw, Ystrad Tywi, and the like.

Lleu ddu gwynnau am gwynnau Ellyf.

Am Ddengyl, deg ystrad.

Two heavens were slain is heaving of the Angles, about Tenby 571, a pleasant vale. Cynhira.

Ystradaidd, a. (ystrad) Like a vale or dale.

Ystradawl, a. (ystrad) Belonging to a vale.

Ystraff, s. f. (traff) That stirs about or strews.

Ystraffawl, a. (ystraff) Strewing; wasteful.

Ystraffiad, s. m. (ystraff) A strewing; a wasting.

Ystraffu, v. a. (ystraff) To strew, to lavish.

Ystraffwr, s. m.—pl. ystraffwyr (ystraff—gwr) A strewer, a lavisher, a waster.

Ystrail, s. m.—pl. ystreigion (traig) A buckle.

Ystrail, s. m.—pl. ystreigion (traig) A turn.

Ystrail, s. m.—pl. ystreillion (traill) That is drawn, trailed, or turned over; a mat.

Ystrail, s. f. (train) A tribe; a crew, a brood.

Gochel yr ystrail, beware of the brood.

Ystram, s. f.—pl. ystremydd (tram) A frame.

Ystram y drws, the door-frame; ystram y frestr, the window-frame.

Ystranc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tranc) A trick, a wit.

Ystranciad, s. m. (ystranc) A playing tricks.

Ystranciaw, v. a. (ystranc) To play tricks, to quirk. March yn ystranciaw, a horse shewing vicious tricks.

Ystranciawl, a. (ystranc) Apt to play tricks.

Ystrancus, a. (ystranc) Apt to play tricks.

Ystraul, s. f. (traul) That is diminished.

Ystraw, s. m.—pl. t. on (traw) That is progressive; that is advanced or matured.

Arlywydd o'r nen pen pob ystraw;

Arlywydd pob moeddy a'i rym y deau.

The Lord from above is the head of every embassy: the lord of every house of stone his energy is to come to stone. Llywarch ap Idris, in Llywarch 14.

Ystrawd, s. m.—pl. ystroddion (trawd) That makes a course or transit.

Betred llyth—

En gwand a'i'm gwr,

Ar ystrawd, ar ystraw.

The fleet birds, their praise will not bring me to earth, nor on a course, nor on a station. Thomas.

Ystrawiad, s. m. (ystraw) An advancing.

Ystraw, s. a. (ystraw) To advance; to educate.
Ystre, s. f.—pl. t. on (yst—rhe) A course.

Cynaf aber rhag ystre.

The tumult of a course before the course.

Answerin.

Cynoddf! Owain egypte ar ystre.

The disposition of Owain is to mount upon the course.

Answerin.

Oedd ddiwedd ar ystre.

He was a bulwark on the course.

Llywarch Hen.

Pan wing giew yr ystre.

When a hero arrays the course.

Llywarch Hen.

Casroedd Gwenllian, gwyn llywe so

The ramparts of Gwenllian, fair as the sparkling of stars, the lovely fair one the splendour of the course.

L. P. Moeh.

Dy fodd a'rh rannod a ddoeth real,

Difoddiawg farchawg farch ystry.

Thy mood and thy wealth thou wilt wisely distribute, thou distinguished rider of the steeds of the course.

D. Benfras, i Llywelyn 111.

Ystred, s. f.—pl. t. i (tred) A village. Daethost trwy yr ystredi, thou hast come through the villages, said to a drunken person. Sil.

Ystref, s. f.—pl. t. i (tref) That forms a dwelling.

Ystref, s. m. (ystref) A forming a dwelling.

Ystrefu, v. a. (ystref) To form a dwelling.

Ystreiglaw, v. a. (ystraigl) To turn; to roll.

Ystreigliad, s. m. (ystraigl) A turning.

Ystreiliach, s. m. (ystrail) A trundling along. Mi of dinben ystreiliach, I will go topsy-turvy.

Ystreiliad, s. m. (ystrail) A trundling along.

Ystreiliaw, v. a. (ystrail) To trundle along.

Ystrem, s. m. (trem) That forms a scene; that is exhibited or displayed. Geiriau ystrem, magical words.

Ystremiad, s. m. (ystrem) A forming a scene.

Ystremiaw, v. a. (ystrem) To form a scene.

Ystrem, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ystrem) A dash, a stroke; a trick, a charm, witchery.

Ystrempiad, s. m. (ystrem) A dashing; a tricking; a charming; a bewitching.

Ystrempiaw, v. a. (ystrem) To dash; to stroke; to trick; to charm; to bewitch.

Ystrempiawl, a. (ystrem) Dashing; charming.

Ystrempiwr, s. m.—pl. ystrempiwyr (ystrem—gwr) A tricker; a bewitcher.

Ystres, s. f.—pl. t. i (tres) That forms a wreath.

Y Nidder—

Ystres (raith astres) frathau.

The snake, a variegated chain of affecting bites. Imen Gethin.

Ystresawl, a. (ystres) Forming a wreath.

Ystresiad, s. m. (ystres) A forming a wreath.

Ystresu, v. a. (ystres) To form a wreath or chain.

Ystrew, s. m.—pl. t. au (trew) A sneeze.

Ystrewi, v. a. (ystrew) To sneeze, to sternutate.

Ystrewiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystrew) A sneezing.

Ystrewiaw, s. m. (ystrew—llwch) Snuff.

Ystrewlys, s. m. aggr. (ystrew—llys) Sneezewort, tansy; water tansy.

Ystrin, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (trin) That causes strife or bustle. v. a. To cause strife.

Gwne strion, blislon blaid,

Ac ystrin gwne estrionblaid.

Woe to foot, a vexatious crew, and to cause a strife woe to strangers.

T. Prye, i gleddey.

Ystrodur, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ystrawd) The framework of a saddle or of a packsaddle; a pack-saddle; the saddle of draught harness.

Ystrodwm, s. m. (ystrawd) A roundabout.

Ystrwy, s. m. (trwy) That passes through.

Ystrwyad, s. m. (ystrwy) A forming a passage.

Ystrwyaw, v. a. (ystrwy) To form a pass through.

Ystrwyth, s. m. (trwyth) That is pervasive.

Ystrwythaw, v. a. (ystrwyth) To saturate.

Ystrwythiad, s. m. (ystrwyth) A saturation.

Ystrych, s. m. (trych) That forms an opening.

Ystrychawl, a. (ystrych) Having a scope.

Ystrychiad, s. m. (ystrych) A forming a scope.

Ystrychnu, v. a. (ystrych) To form a scope.

Ystryd, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tryd) That is trodden or travelled; a street.

Ystryd anhyfryd yw hoc,

Is dular aml wastela!

An unpleasant way is this, under ground sojourners go!

D. ab Iwan Daf.

Ystrydawl, a. (ystryd) Belonging to a street.

Ystrydeb, s. m. (ys—try—teb) Stereotype.

Ystrydebu, v. a. (ystrydeb) To stereotype.

Ystrym, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (trym) A main stream, a current, a channel; also called rhin.

Ystrym yw y Môlwr Edmwnd,

A yr y morwyr o'r mwnd.

Master Edmwnd is a stream that will drive the sailors from the mound.

Gwilym Tref.

Ystryw, s. f.—pl. t. iau (tryw) Penetration, subtlety; finesse, craftiness, stratagem, device; a trick. Mae e/fe yn llawn o ystrywiau drwg, he is full of bad tricks.

Y sawl ai rotia ddydd yw

Yn ei drwg ystryw gyngor.

Happy is such as walks not according to the counsel of bad device.

Edm. Prye, Psalm 1.

Ystrywgar, a. (ystryw) Subtle; full of finesse, devices, or tricks; wily.

Nid ystrywgar oed ystrywgarw.

There is nothing so apt to see tricks as a hare.

Adage.

Ystrywgarwch, s. m. (ystrywgar) Craftiness.

Ystrywiad, s. m. (ystryw) A devising schemes.

Ystrywiaeth, s. m. (ystryw) A using subtlety; a using finesse or stratagem; a plotting; a devising or imagining.

Ystrywiau, v. a. (ystryw) To act with craft or cunning; to devise, to invent.

Yn Aber Ystrwyth yn ystrywiau gwyth,

Gwath Fadden ymdelluau,

Gwagurall bawd rhagddau.

In Aber Ystrwyth devising wrath, appearing as in the battle of Badoon, every body would disperse before him.

Cynadelfin, i B. ab Owain.

Ystrywiau, a. (ystryw) Full of craftiness.

Y ddywyblid—

On drwg yn ystrywiau wail,

Drwg o'i grynhoed, drwg awail.

Both parties, if had the one, of crafty falling, tender out of his reach, had in the other.

B. D. ab Iwan.

Ystrywiawl, a. (ystryw) Plotting, devising.

Ystrywns, a. (ystryw) Crafty, wily, cunning.

Ystum, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tum) A shape, form, gait, or fashion; turn, bend, or curve. Garw dy ystumiau di, strange are thy looks; derbyn ystum, to receive a turn, a term in coursing.

Flwra yn gadno,

Cydaidd ystumiau;

Flwra yn foleu,

Mai yn thrywys.

I fled as a reynard, of even-paced turns: I fled a martin, so that it availed not.

Taliesin.

Ystumgar, a. (ystum) Flexible; well-formed.

Ystumgarwch, s. m. (ystumgar) Flexibility.

Ystumiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystum) A giving a shape, form, or fashion; sinuation.

Ystumiau, v. a. (ystum) To form, to shape, to mould, to fashion; to bend.

Ystumlawg, a. (ystum) Having a form, shape or mould; having a bend.

Ystumlawi, a. (ystum) Tending to form or to fashion; pliable, sinuous.

Ystumliwr, s. m.—pl. ystumliwyr (ystum—gwr) One who assumes shapes.

Ystum, s. m. (tum) That is irritating.

Ystumad, s. m. (ystum) Instigation, irritation.

Ystumaw, v. a. (ystum) To instigate, to irritate.

Mae neudid cythraulid yn ystunaw llygreddgeithus maddwi dyn a chynhyrfa angheddawli samhwyl, chwantes, a chyfeillorol.
The breath of devils is irritating the corruptions of the mind of man with vehement impulses of madness, lust, and excess.
C. Edwards, H. y Ffydd.

Ystunawl, a. (ystun) Instigating, irritating.

Ystwc, s. m.—pl. ystyciau (twc) A shallow wooden vessel, a pail, a bucket, also a shock of corn.

Ystwff, s. m. (twff) That forms a lift, or rise.

Ystwffwl, s. m.—pl. ystyffylau (ystwff) That keeps up or suspends; a log, a stock; a holdfast; a staple; the knocker of a door.

Yr ystwffwl hwn a'r hwn draw,
Mwy gorddyfmasi am damw
Ewch llo, a llywyr anaw.

The stock that is here, and this one there, more congenial round them would have been the triumph of a host, and the path of melody.
Llywarch Hen.

Ystwg, s. m. (twng) A putting down; a depression. v. a. To put down; to depress.

Yr ab fab ym rhwyf ry gwaeth gwtwg
Ar ei estronion, ya drud echwg.

The only son of my lord completely caused a depression on those estranged to him, an awful event.

E. ab Madawg Rhawd.

Ystwr, s. m. (twr) That makes a rising; a stir.

Lleiaf 'stwr, fal lleiaf 'deryn,
Awr doot, gwua blinder i'r dyn.

The least noise, as the note of a bird, on a painful moment, causes trouble to a man.
L. Hopkin.

Ystwiad, s. m. (ystwr) A making a bustle.

Ystwriaw, v. a. (ystwr) To make a bustle or stir.

Ystwy, s. m. (twy) That causes a stop, a check.

Ystwyad, s. m. (ystwy) A checking, a curbing.

Ystwyal, s. f.—pl. ystwyail (ystwy) A cudgel.

Ystwyaliad, s. m. (ystwyal) A cudgelling.

Ystwyalu, v. a. (ystwyal) To cudgel.

Ystwyaw, v. a. (ystwy) To check, to restrain.

Ystwyawl, a. (ystwy) Checking, restraining.

Ystwyll, s. m.—pl. t. au (yst-gwyll) That exists in the gloom; an epithet for the star of the Epiphany; the Epiphany. Dydd ystwyll, twelfth day.

Ystwyr, s. m. (twyr) That is agitated; that is stretched out.

Ystwyrain, v. a. (ystwyr) To cause a continual agitation; to be stretching.

Ystwyrw, v. a. (ystwyr) To agitate; to stretch out as to recover from lassitude.

Ystwyrwl, a. (ystwyr) Apt to be agitated; stretching as recovering from lassitude.

Ystwyrgram, a. (ystwyr—cam) Obliquely stretched.

Ystwyrriad, s. m. (ystwyr) A rendering agitated; a stretching out.

Ystwyth, a. (twyth) That is springing; flexible, pliant, supple, limber.

Ystwythad, s. m. (ystwyth) A making pliant.

Ystwythaid, a. (ystwyth) Apt to be pliant.

Ystwythaw, v. a. (ystwyth) To render elastic; to render flexible or supple; to become elastic; to grow flexible or pliant.

Ystwythawl, a. (ystwyth) Of a pliant nature.

Ystwythder, s. m. (ystwyth) Elasticity; flexibility; suppleness, pliancy.

Ystwythdra, s. m. (ystwyth) Elasticity, pliancy.

Ystwythedig, a. (ystwythad) Being made pliant.

Ystwythedd, s. m. (ystwyth) Elasticity; pliancy.

Ystwythiad, s. m. (ystwyth) A rendering pliant, flexible or elastic.

Ystwytholdeb, s. m. (ystwythawl) Pliancy.

Ystwythwr, s. m.—pl. ystwythwyr (ystwyth—gwr) One who makes pliant or elastic.

Ystycaid, s. m.—pl. ystyceidian (ystwc) A pailful.

Ystyccyll, s. m. (ystwc) A signal of safety.

Y ceiliawg du—
Ystyccyll yn cynnull cad.

The black cock, a signal collecting a host. D. ab Gwilym.

Ystyffernuch, a. pl. aggr. (ystwff—arn) Urmuch.

Ystyffylawg, a. (ystwffwl) Having stocks; stapled.

Cist ystyffylawg, a stock chest; a great chest with a raised lid, hutch, or bin, that has pedata.

Ystyffylgi, s. m. (ystwffwl—ci) A dog with a leg fastened to him.

Ystyffylad, s. m. (ystwffwl) A stocking or legging; a suspending by a staple.

Ystyffylu, v. a. (ystwffwl) To prop with a stock or log; to fasten with a staple.

Ystyl, s. m. (yst—yl) A cause of activity.

Ystyr, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yst—yr) That gives existence, form, or figure; that gives similarity; sense, meaning. adv. As may be deemed.

Tri chyferfyddio doethleob: awen, ystyr, ac ymgydd.

The three concomitants of wisdom: genius, study, and reason.
Ceryn of Gwynedd.

Ystyrbell, a. (ystyr—pell) Of profound import.

Tri pheth blodeusawg ar gerdd: ystyrbell leith, a gofwr ystyr, a chyfarfain gelfyddyd.

Three things that are forked in song: profoundly sacred language, and sweetly leaved ideas, and accurate art. Davies.

Ystyrbwyll, a. (ystyr—pwyll) Of important consideration or meaning.

Ystyredig, a. (ystyr) Being considered or studied.

Argwydd, gwrandawr fy agwedd i'r rhyddid,
Bidd dy giastina yn ystyredigion!

Lord, hearken kindly to my prayer, be thine ears attentive and Duf. Daf. a. Hwysog.

Ystyrgar, a. (ystyr) Apt to reflect, considerate.

Nid ystyrgar ond awmawt.

There is none so apt to consider as the ingenious. Alas.

Ystyriaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystyr) Reflection.

Tri chynfodollon doethleob: deall, ystyriaeth, ac adeigr.

The three originations of wisdom: understanding, reflection, and instruction.
Ceryn Hen.

Tad doethleob yw deall, a'i ffrwyd yw ystyriaeth.

The father of wisdom is memory, and his mother is reflection.
Alas.

Ystyriaethawl, a. (ystyriaeth) Having consideration or reflection.

Ystyriaethiad, s. m. (ystyriaeth) A using consideration or reflection.

Ystyriaethu, v. a. (ystyriaeth) To use consideration, to use reflection.

Ystyriannawl, a. (ystyriant) Considerate.

Ystyriannu, v. a. (ystyriant) To use consideration.

Ystyriant, s. m. (ystyr) Consideration.

Ystyriaw, v. a. (ystyr) To consider; to regard, to take notice.

Cyfarfawr ym Rhew,
Ystyriaw awen,
Fy ddyddwng engen,
Cyn no Chyrtwren.

I will enquire of my Creator, musing upon intellect, who deserveth the state of necessity, before Cyrtwren. Taliesin.

Ystyriawg, a. (ystyr) Having consideration.

Ystyriawl, a. (ystyr) Considerate; sentimental.

Ystyried, v. a. (ystyr) To consider, to reflect.

Tri pheth a ddydd dyn ei ystyried: o ba le y dech, y ba le y mae, ac i ba le yr ei.

Three things ought a man to consider: from what place he comes, in what place he is, and to what place he goes.
Taliesin Hen.

Ystyriedig, a. (ystyr) Considered, studied.

Ystyriedigaeth, s. m. (ystyriedig) Consideration.

Ystyrioldeb, s. m. (ystyriawl) Considerateness.

Ystyrioli, v. a. (ystyriawl) To render considerate, to become considerate.

Ystyriwr, s. m.—pl. ystyriwyr (ystyr—gwr) One who considers or reflects, a studier.

Ystyrmant, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystyr—mant) A jaws-harp.

Y gwynt—
Ystyrmant yr ystymydd.

The wind, the frame of the storm. D. ab Gwilym.

styw, s. m. (tyw) That spreads out or about; a settlement.

stywaws, s. f. (ystyw) Stays, a pair of stays.

Dwy ystaws pedair celnawg a dahant.

Two stays fourpence are they worth.

Welsh Laws.

stywan, s. m. (ystyw) A settling, a flattening.

stywaniad, s. m. (ystywan) A settling; a slapping.

stywanu, v. a. (ystywan) To settle; to belabour.

stywell, a. (ystyw) Stedfast; manageable.

Begian brua, bid ystywell.

A'm cynnelych a fo gwell.

Wooden crook, be steady that thou mayest support me the better.

Llywarch Hen.

stywelliad, s. m. (ystywell) A making stedfast.

stywellu, v. a. (ystywell) To make steady.

su, v. a. (ys) To hanker, to itch: to corrode; to consume, to devour, to eat. Mac fy nyrrau yn

ysu am dy darau, my fists are itching for striking thee.

Ni ddylly drwg fely namyn drwg ysa.

A bad stomach ought not to devour badly.

Adage.

swad, s. (gwâd) A throwing down, a falling flatly swadan, s. m.—pl. t. au (yswad) A stroke, a slap.

swaetheroedd, adv. (ys—gwaeth—er—oedd) It is worse for what was, the more the pity.

swail, s. m.—pl. ysweilion (yswall) That ejects;

that is thrown out, ejected, or wasted.

swain, s. m.—pl. ysweinnoedd (gwain) An esquire; an armour-bearer.

Yswain aur-adain ydyw.

A golden-winged page is he.

Byppyn Cefnllung.

A'rh yswain a'rh llin o'rh ffaen.

And thy acquire with thy blade before thee.

Iolo Goch.

swatiad, s. m. (yswad) A squatting down.

swatiaw, v. a. (yswad) To squat, to lie flat.

swatiwr, s. m.—pl. yswatiwyr (yswatiaw—gwr)

A squatter.

swbwb, s. m. (wbwb) A tossing about; a hubbub.

interf. Confusion!

Yswbwb! hobi anyberw ydych.

Hi a adwaen eich arfer.

Confusion! a pack of ignoble people ye are: I know your custom.

D. ab Gwilym.

swbwbliad, s. m. (yswbwb) A tossing about; a rumpling.

swbwbliaw, v. a. (yswbwb) To toss about, to tumble about; to rumple.

swbwbliwr, s. m.—pl. yswbwbliwyr (yswbwb—gwr) One who tosses about, a rumpler.

sweiliad, s. m. (yswall) An ejecting, or casting out; a wasting; a brawling.

sweiliaw, v. a. (yswall) To eject, to cast out; to waste; to bicker.

sweilydd, s. m.—pl. t. lon (yswall) One who ejects or casts out; a brawler.

Ysweiniad, s. m.—pl. ysweinaiad (yswain) An esquire, an armour-bearer; a page.

Myned a orugynt ar eu traed, a gadaw eu meirch gan eu hysweiniad; a gadau Arthwr yn eu blaen a orugyt.

Go they did on their feet, and leave their horses with their pages; and letting Arthwr to be before them was what they did.

Gr. ab Arthwr.

Yswid, s. m. (gwid) That makes a quick turn.

Yswidw, s. f. dim. (yswid) That is made to twirl or hop about; the titmouse.

Yswigw, s. f. dim. (gwig) A titmouse; also called yswidw, and sywidw.

A'r yswigw hr seiglad.

And the titmouse on a banquet.

Phyllip Emlyn.

Yswil, a. (gwil) Bashful, abashed; timid.

Yswilder, s. m. (yswil) Bashfulness, timidity.

Yswildra, s. m. (yswil) Bashfulness, timidity.

Yswiliad, s. m. (yswil) An abashing.

Yswiliaw, v. a. (yswil) To induce bashfulness; to be abashed.

Yswitiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (yswid) A chirping.

Yswitian, v. a. (yswid) To chirp, to make a small noise.

Yswitiaw, v. a. (yswid) To chirp, to twitter.

Yswr, s. m.—pl. yswyr (ysa—gwr) A consumer.

Yswyddden, s. f. (gwydden) A privet tree.

Yswymbren, s. m.—pl. t. l (gwym—pren) A quiver for arrows.

Yswyr, s. m. (gwyr) That dawns; the east.

Yswyrain, a. (yswyr) Eastern or oriental.

Yswyth, s. m. (gwyth) That pervades; that aches.

Yswythbysg, s. pl. aggr. (yswyth—pysg) The cramp-ray, the torpedo.

Yswn, s. m. dim. (ys) That is all in agitation.

Mac wadi myned yn yswyn gwyllt.

He is become a wild firebrand.

Adage.

Ysywaeth, adv. (y—sy—gwaeth) That is the worse, the more the pity.

Yta, v. a. (yd) To collect corn; to beg for corn.

Ytoedd, v. (m. of ydoedd) That was, was, were;

she, it, was or were. Pan ytoeddwn, when I was.

Ytyw, v. (m. of ydyw) That is, is; he is, she is, it is.

YTH, s. m. r. That tends to stretch out or to be continuous.

Yw, v. (yw, s.) Is; be; it is. Pwy yw? Who is it?

Angus rhyw angus yw.

Want of kind is want indeed.

Adage.

YW, s. m. r.—pl. t. ydd. That exists; yew tree.

Bangor Eglwr, a Bangor Henllan,

Ydd er clodion clyd ywydd.

The minister of Eglwr, and the minister of Henllan, they be so celebrity for sheltering yew.

Gr. Brychrlawng.

Ywen, s. f. dim. (yw) A single yew tree.

AN OUTLINE
OF
THE CHARACTERISTICS
OF THE WELSH, AND
ITS UTILITY IN CONNECTION WITH OTHER Ancient Languages,
FOR DEVELOPING THE PRIMITIVE SPEECH OF MANKIND.

BY
W. OWEN PUGHE, D.C.L. F.A.S.

DENBIGH:
PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY THOMAS GEE.

1832.

AN OUTLINE
OF
THE CHARACTERISTICS
OF THE
Welsh, &c.

THE language of the Cymmry, or Welsh, is limited, at the present time, to express the wants of a population, amounting in number to about six hundred thousand, which inhabits the mountains of Wales.* This language, in the course of the long period of its existence, extended over the most considerable part of Europe; and it still remains spoken, with more or less variety of dialect, by about four millions of the inhabitants of the western parts of France, under the name of the Breton; and also in Lusatia, and other districts of the north of Germany, under the name of Wendish,† being the connecting link between the Welsh and the various Slavonic dialects. It has largely contributed to the formation of other tongues, which have supplanted it, through several subsequent periods, in different countries.

There are many peculiar characteristics in the Welsh language which are well deserving the attention of the learned; and from this consideration, some account of them becomes a pertinent appendage to my Dictionary: I shall therefore endeavour to convey to the reader a general idea of the subject, with as much precision as I am able, and as far as the brevity of this sketch will admit.

The investigation may be conveniently included under the five following heads:

1. The structure and character of the Welsh language, with its dialects.
2. Its alphabet, with an analysis of its literal mutations.
3. Its stability shown, by comparing its present state, with what, from proofs, it was in other periods, with examples of different evidences of the high antiquity of its formation.
4. Its three primary branches, with the extent of their difference.
5. Its affinity with other languages, as a corroborative evidence of its being spoken by the first inhabitants of Europe, and who migrated out of Asia, as is evident, from a comparison with the oriental languages.

* The population of Wales, according to the official returns, in 1831, amounted to upwards of 800,000.

† Some interesting particulars respecting the Wendi may be seen in the CAMARO-BRITON, vol. iii. pp. 433, 477.

I. THE STRUCTURE OF THE WELSH, OR LANGUAGE OF THE CYMMRY.

This is a subject that is highly deserving the attention of the philosopher; as it abounds with some remarkable phenomena, and, perhaps, peculiar to itself, which may greatly contribute to illustrate the original formation of speech.

I consider the most prominent peculiarity of the Welsh tongue to be, that it has for its basis, nearly two-thirds of all the possible variety of simple or elementary sounds, each of them being the appropriate or fixed symbol of one simple idea. Upon these radical and indigenous principles depends the whole of its structure, regularly combined, so that, by having an accurate knowledge of the import of the ideas symbolized by those elements, we become considerably advanced towards learning the signification generally of all the compounded words in the language.

What I have here pointed out is an excellence, which can be but imperfectly appreciated by those who are acquainted only with languages that are not formed upon their own intrinsic materials: therefore, it may be necessary to enter into a particular illustration of the subject. And, in the first place, the following table of the elementary words will be useful for accomplishing the design in view.

Class 1, of elementary words.

a e i o w y
ae ai au aw—ei eu ew—ia ie io iw—oe oi ow—wi wy—yw=23.

Class 2, of elementary words.

ab ac ach ad add af aff ag ang al all am an ar as at ath—eb ec ed edd ef eff eg eng el ell em en er es eth—ib ic ich id idd if iff ig ing il ill im in ir is it ith—ob oc oech od odd of og ong ol oll om on or os ot oth—ub uch ud udd uf uff ul ull um un ur us ut uth—wb wch wd wdd wf wff wg wng wl will wm wn wr ws wt wth—yb ych yd ydd yf yff yg yl yll ym yn yr ys yth=109.

Class 3, of elementary words.

ba be bi bo bu bw by—ca ce ci co cu cw cy—da de di do du dw dy—fa fe fi fo fu fw fy—ga ge gi go gu gw gy—ha he hi ho hu hw hy—lla lle lli llo llu llw lly—ma me mi mo mu mw my—na ne ni no nu nw ny—pa pe pi po pu pw py—rha rhe rhi rho rhu rhw rhy—sa se si so su sw sy—ta te ti to tu tw ty=91.

Total ~~23~~ 109+91=223.

The number of elements in the foregoing table amounts to two hundred and twenty-three. Out of these, seventy-eight are words of defined and common acceptation; that is to say, they are used as names for some actions, qualities, or things.

Of the remaining one hundred and forty-five elements, I do not know that any are used simply and unconnectedly as absolute names ; but in their combined forms we may discover them to be signs of abstract ideas ; and by which it may be inferred, in what manner they originally stood absolutely for the names of things, like the others.

Out of the last mentioned number of one hundred and forty-five, there are fifty-one which may be classed under the denomination, given them by Horne Tooke, of "little winged words ;"^{*} and which perform the various functions of pronouns, articles, conjunctions, and prepositions.

Deducting those fifty-one symbols, we have ninety-four still left to be designated ; and these are not discoverable in their individual capacities, but enter into combinations, and serve as prefixes and affixes.

In the first compartment of the table are seen the vowels, standing singly, and also connected together in couples. These vowel sounds are symbols in themselves, or words having significations, of which it is important to obtain an accurate knowledge. Notwithstanding this, some philological theorists have asserted, that these vowel sounds are in themselves symbols of no ideas ; and that, being of no consequence as to meaning, they may be used one for the other, promiscuously, in the analysing and comparing of languages.†

The vowels, in a general sense, are words significant of action, or of motion, either past, present, or future : and this faculty they even preserve, in various degrees, when they are combined with other powers.

Illustrations.

The word a implies action or motion ; also what is present, or objective ; and continuity, or accompaniment. Whatever functions it has to perform in speech, they originate from the attributes here detailed as belonging to it. In the structure of the Welsh tongue it performs the functions of the words and, that, with, do, did, does, in English.

By the word e is expressed that which is past, gone, or distant ; and therefore it is used as the pronoun for the third person masculine.

The vocable i is a word that has respect to the future, and it implies to, towards, into, unto ; and, as a pronoun, it represents the first person.

By the vocable o is indicated the past ; and thus it implies of, from, out of. As a pronoun it stands for the third person neuter.

The remaining three vowels, u, w, y, are derivatives, as being inflections of the primary vowels. It is only the last, or the y, that stands as a word unconnected with other powers ; and it serves to point out an object ; and therefore it is a definitive article, answering to the in English.

The important functions performed by these primary elements of speech, in the vocable class, demand some additional illustration ; and this may be obtained by attending to the following examples.

^{*} From the Homeric expression, εκα προεοντα.—

† Theorists thus forget the difficulty they would have to encounter in finding what affinity there could subsist, for instance, between the words bed, bad, bid, bud ; bit, bet, bat, but, and others, of similar consonants.

Examples of vowel-words in construction.A e i o—

Going is he into out of.

A e o dy i dy—

He goes from house to house.

I ba le yr ei di?—

To what place art thou going?

Af i do y ty—

I will go to the roof of the house.

A ei di o dy le?—

Going wilt thou go out of thy place?

or

Wilt thou go from thy place?

Ai da i ti à yw da i mi?—

Is it good for thee that is good for me?

Ti a ei er dy lw.

Thou--going--wilt go for the sake of thy oath

Cu yw hi i ti, a da i mi.

Dear is she to thee, and good to me.

Ni bu da i ni a fu da i ti.

It has not been good for us that has been good for thee.

A ei di yno?

Going, wilt thou go there?

A á hi i ei thy?—

Going, will she go into her house?

Pwy à á yno?

Going, who will go there?*

The vowel w, which is a mutation of o, discovers a very peculiar faculty, or power, in the termination of words, for it describes a state beyond what is expressed by the past participle.

Thus gwedd, connection, order or trim, when formed into gweddw, is a state beyond connection, or a widow.†—Again, wl is moisture; and ulw what has been divested of moisture; that is, embers, or cinders; and further, a, motion, by having w joined to it, becomes aw, a fluid, or water; and that is, instead of moving or flowing, it is become the element that is flowing. The same may be said of the following words:

Ban—banw	Ca—caw	Gwae—gwaew	Llan—llanw
Ble—blew	Del—delw	Gwel—gwelw	Lli—lliw
Cad—cadw	Du—duw	Her—herw	Llad—lladw
Car—carw	Da—daw	Hel—helw	Rh—rhew :

also of several other words.

* Yno, there, means a place out of view, or distant; as yns, there, implies a place in view, pointed at, or present.

† The English words, a wedded state and a widow, are derived from one common original—the Welsh gwedd: for the initial of gwedd in many forms of construction becomes quile: cent.

The remarkable discrimination of time, action, and position, in the vowel words, is retained even when they are combined with other powers, producing articulate sounds; yet this principle may be often so subtle as to elude common observation, in words composed of several elements; but in simple words it is plainly discernible.

EXAMPLES.

Ta, that spreads, or is in continuity.
Te, that is spread or extended.
Ti, that is in, that is in prospect; thou, thee
To, that is outer or over; a covering, a roof
Tu, that is lateral; a side; a region.
Tw, that rises out or up; drive: sway.
Ty, that is about or including; a house.

A clear knowledge of these elements, or seeds of language, and of their significations, opens to the mind a prospect for speculation, wherein many very curious phenomena may be discovered; and respecting which the following general hints may satisfy or amuse the cursory observer of the mechanism of language.

A radical word denoting some abstract idea becomes the name of a thing, which has its predominant characteristic described thereby: thus te, that is over, or as an exterior, becomes the appellation for a roof;* and ty, which is an inflection of te, signifies a house.

This principle extends also to words of the first order of compounds: thus, for instance, the word tan, a compound of the two elements, ta and an, abstractedly implies an expanding principle; and as the name of the greatest agent of expansion, it signifies fire. The word dal, compounded of the elements da and al, means abstractedly what is held out, or borne, and a bearing; it also denotes a leaf.† But, in these two, and in similar instances, in order to preserve the characteristic difference between the abstract and the appropriated significations, each class has its peculiar inflections and terminations: thus tanu and toenu are to expand, and tanaw is to fire; again, dala is to hold or bear, and deiliaw is to foliate, and deila is to accumulate leaves.

All the elementary words of the Welsh tongue are to be explained in the same manner as the foregoing examples; and, according to a few simple rules, their powers and meanings, when they enter into various combinations to form longer words, may be discovered; the component parts of which longer words must therefore be pregnant with their several primary ideas. And, as before observed, they extend to the compass of about two-thirds of all the possible simple articulations ; for that reason, no sound, or articulation can be uttered, but what is significant of some meaning in the language now under consideration, unless it may happen to be one of the number pointed out as not retained therein. This is a circumstance, which to persons who may only be acquainted with such languages as, by intermixture or other causes, have been deprived of their original simplicity of character, can scarcely be represented with due effect ; such languages, for instance as the Greek, the Latin, and all the modern ones ; but, on the contrary, a speaker of these mixed tongues utters many of the longest words, the component parts whereof separately convey to his mind no meaning whatever.

* The form of the letter τ, in some ancient inscriptions, represents the gable end of a house; there being a line crossing the perpendicular from the two points of the sloping top; and indeed its general form sufficiently preserves the resemblance.

† The Hebrew letter ל is called daleth, which also means a leaf; and so the Welsh dal-ecch and deiliacch mean foliation: and the same letter in the Arabic alphabet was called dal. The form of the letter ד in most alphabets represents a leaf; and in some ancient inscriptions the fibres of the leaf are delineated.

By having a correct knowledge of the elementary keys, briefly noticed here, many of the intricate arcana even of modern languages may be opened ; not excepting those that have undergone every kind of commixion, like the French and the English, the intricacies of which are impenetrable by all other means.* The power, that has been explained as belonging to the vowel words of the Welsh language, for instance, is seen to govern in the formation of the past, the present, and the future, of the English verbs.

With the exception of the Welsh and its sister dialects of the Celtic, there is not one of the European languages that has preserved the benefits resulting from being constructed upon the significant elements which are here under consideration ; and yet these elements, in a greater or lesser number, can easily be proved to pervade all languages, but destitute of any abstract import annexed to them in those languages that have suffered intermixture ; and the number of elements, any way preserved in such mixed languages, is very small, as may be seen in the following table.

A table of elementary words in mixed languages.

	Nouns.	Pronouns, Prepositions, &c.	Total.
Greek.....	4	40	44
Latin	5	40	45
German	4	27	31
French	6	33	39
English	7	31	38

Should the same criterion be applied to the Oriental languages, which all allow to be more ancient than those that are analysed above, a very different result will appear, and that result stands in them as follows.

	Nouns.	Pronouns, Prepositions, &c.	Total.
Hebrew	35	30	65
Arabic	100	48	148
Persian	81	41	122

* The English word love is preserved in the Welsh, with its primary meaning, which is a lick with the tongue, being the way in which animals show their fondness ; and the verb, to love, is in the Welsh to lick with the tongue. The primary import of heaven, Ayemen, and cream, is the same ; and this may be thought rather strange. But let it be recollected, that heaven, or himmel, is the expanse over-head ; and Ayemen, (though, in aftertimes, a little deity,) meant originally a veil ; and cream is the top of milk : and the verb to heave is from the same root.

Two thousand years and upwards have passed away since the Hebrew was a living language, as spoken in its purity*: much of it is, therefore, undoubtedly lost; and of the portion of it preserved, with respect to a great many words, the exact and primitive significations are not known. Had it been otherwise, a critic, well versed in that tongue, would be able probably to show a greater number of simple sounds, as signs of ideas, to be preserved therein, than I have produced, as still existing in the Welsh. But, even as we have the Hebrew in ruins, it exhibits the very remarkable fact, that 33 of its elements, out of the whole number of 65, which we now discover in it, have an identity of signification and functions with those in the Welsh.

In the next place, by examining the other more ancient languages of the East, and still spoken, there are of elementary words, agreeing in like manner with the Welsh, in the Arabic 63, and in the Persian 61.

Though the several European tongues, exhibited in a foregoing table, have not preserved the elementary words, as signs of abstract ideas, or as names of things; nevertheless, such elements are distinctly discoverable as contributing largely to the structure of them all; and on that account they are deserving of very particular attention from those who investigate the principles of language. And the result, which is above brought to the view of the reader, is of itself very conclusive evidence of the descent of the several nations of the world from one common origin. It may serve, also, as an unerring index, by which may be pointed out the nature and form of the primitive language of mankind, which has ceased to exist, as entire, prior to every record of history, though we discern more or less remains of its ruin in all subsequent combinations of speech. And, aided by this index, we obtain a glance at that original language, leading to a conviction of its being in its construction far more perfect than has been hypothetically conceived, as the perfection of speech, by the profoundest philosopher of ancient or modern times†.

The structure of the Welsh language more particularly analysed.

The first form which the elementary words takes is, when any two of such words are combined together, the first with a consonant initial, and the other with a vowel; the first element is then a qualifying prefix to the other, which is the object.

Words of this first combination are either short or long monosyllables, as the vowel of the first element happens to be short or long. Thus, the y, being a short vowel, and dropped in the combination, forms tda, which

* The Hebrew ceased to be a living language about four hundred and fifty years before our era, when the Chaldee, closely resembling it in idiom and genius, but differing in some characteristics, was substituted in its stead. Hence from that period, the Old Testament is found to be written only in the Chaldee.—H. P.

† Many learned writers, and, among the number, Grotius, are of opinion, that the primitive language was entirely lost in the confusion at Babel. It is, however, far more probable, as above intimated, that it was partially retained in all the new dialects, and most perfectly in the Hebrew. Yet it should be noticed, that this distinction has been claimed for the Syriac, the Arabic, the Coptic, the Ethiopic, the Armenian, and others, by their respective champions.—H. P.

word is from ty and en, the first vowel disappearing by such a formation; and a, being a long vowel, forms tan, a word compounded of the elements ta and en. All similar words, or those of the first combination, claim our particular attention, as being to be depended upon in etymological researches and comparisons, like bdr, hev, cdr, car, ode, con, and others; and, being a class of the first formed words, they are therefore most likely to be found diffused through the various languages of the earth*. Words under the primary combinations are generally signs of ideas more precise and unequivocal than the elements themselves, when they are separately made use of; for the latter being of general import, a nice discrimination is requisite to fix upon a word in a different tongue, which shall preserve their subtle meanings.

Another class of monosyllabic words of the first combination is, that where the short vowel y disappears, so that two consonants come together either in the beginning or in the ending of such words. They are like the following:—

Brad, bran, bardd, baru, cras, carn,—brinat, brawt, plant, trmest,—asin, main, cwyn, mwyn, twyn, trwyn, plaid, phwyf, ffrawdd, ffrcyl.

Words of the second form of combination are dissyllables, and consist of two elements, each preserving its original form entire; and such are the following:

Adar, anaw, arad, awel, awyr—batu, baru, dehu, deru, emin, ehr, isel, iwia, ogof, ofer, ufel, ulu, syho.

The elementary words, with the above three classes of their combination, comprehend the substance of the language; as all other kinds of words are farther combinations, by prefixes of various functions, or by postfixes, for the formation of verbs, adjectives, and the several distinctions of nouns. And these are so numerous, and in so many ways connected, as to give the language a copiousness of expression beyond all others, and almost unlimited.

A primary source of the copiousness above mentioned, is the great number of qualifying prefixes in the language, and which are, unlike what we find in other languages, capable of being universally applied to qualify all nouns, adnouns, and verbs.

There are fifty-two simple prefixes; and these may be compounded, so as to make altogether about three hundred: thus any radical word, whether in the form of a noun, adnoun, or verb, should such a thing be required, may be modified in form and sense three hundred ways.

A few examples may suffice for the illustration of these prefixes: Lled, is breadth or expanse; lledawl, expanding; lledu, to expand.

Amledu, to expand about.

Ymledu, to expand one's self.

Goledu, partly to expand.

Gorledu, to over expand.

Dyledu, to be expanding.

Tryledu, to expand through.

* Thus the word hen, old, is common to the Welsh, the Armenian, and the Burman languages.

Traledu, to expand extremely.

Arledu, to expand on the surface.

Diledu, to unexpand.

Afledu, to cease expanding.

Adledu, to re-expand.

Cytledu, to expand equally.

Amymledu, and gumledeu, to expand one's self about.

Gumledeu, partially to expand about.

Gymledeu, partly to expand one's self.

Gerymledeu, to expand one's self about extremely.

Dymledeu, to cease expanding one's self.

It is in consequence of the copiousness of the language, that some peculiarities of dialect are to be found in different parts of Wales; for that variety is principally produced by the use of many synonymous modes of expression. Hence also has arisen the poetic dialect, which generally is very unlike the speech of common life; and especially, as it appears in the poetry of some of the early periods, and in none more so, than in the remains of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. Indeed in the poetry of these eras so freely are the transcendental prefixes made use of in addition to singular modes of construction, that a person, acquainted only with the speech of common life, would almost conclude the other to be altogether a distinct language. There can scarcely be a greater dissimilarity, and at the same time in one language, than between the mode by which the moderns would express the ideas in the following expressions:—

Dychymrwio lôn amllw am lôn;

The billow of many hues will be spraying itself together about the shore.

Dychmyr ufeliar bar;

The sulphur fire will be taking to itself rage.

Dymgwaddbles Duw ddfa uwen;

I have been endowed of God with a profound genius.

Caraf drachas Lloegr;

I love the extreme enmity of England.

Rhymdoddwy ddawn;

There was given of talent to me superabundantly.

Dadludla;

Divest thyself of wrath.

2. ON THE ALPHABET, AND THE ORIGIN OF WRITING AMONG THE CYMMRY.

The articulations of the Welsh language are represented by sixteen radical letters, four vowels and twelve consonants, to denote so many primary sounds; and from these are derived twenty-seven secondary letters, eight vowels, and nineteen consonants, which are mutations or modified powers of the radicals, under certain circumstances of combination, as signs of the same number of secondary sounds.

From the two classes of radical and secondary letters is derived the system of literal mutation, which is more peculiarly Welsh, and forms a prominent portion of its grammatical principles; a system that displays the aptitude which the radical letters possess of changing their sounds, as before observed, thus requiring, by a modification of their forms, as many secondary characters as equal the number of their mutations. But, since an original alphabet, of which a description will be given in the sequel, has fallen into disuse, the mutable characteristic of the letters is become more difficult of explanation than otherwise it would have been to those who are unacquainted with our language. And, though this principle of literal mutation, according to fixed rules, is now peculiar to the Welsh, yet the effects of such an aptitude in some of the letters, both consonants and vowels, to change their sounds, is observed to pervade all languages, more or less; but, in the Welsh, it regulates many of its fundamental forms of construction, as well with respect to syntax, as to the composition of words.

There are nine out of the twelve radical consonants which are susceptible of being affected by the principle of mutation, or which have their sounds changed under certain forms of construction; and, for representing such sounds, so many modifications of the primary letters are used in forming the secondary ones.

The mutable consonants are c, p, t, —b, d, g, —ll, m, rh: and these are reducible to three classes, each class consisting of three letters. Those of the first class are c, p, t; which undergo three modifications each; that is, they take a soft, an aspirate, and a light sound. The letters of the second class are b, d, g; and these assume a soft and an aspirate sound. The third class consists of ll, m, rh; and they have each one mutation, from being aspirates, by becoming soft.

Thus the letters c, p, t, by being softened, sound respectively like g, b, d; by being aspirated, they sound as ng, mh, nh; and their light sounds are like ch, ph, and th.

The letters b, d, g, by being softened, assume sounds like f, dh, and i, (or quiescent); and, by being aspirated, they sound as m, n, and ng.

The remaining three letters, ll, m, rh, by losing their inherent aspirate character, sound as l, f, and r.*

* The system of literal mutation, it is certain, formerly prevailed in most tongues, and its remains are still to be traced in several. In the Welsh alone, however, is it preserved as intimately connected with the grammatical construction of the language. The following table of the mutation of initial letters, in Welsh, will perhaps be acceptable here, as reducing to a compressed form the observations above made.

Mutable Letters,	c	p	t	b	d	g	ll	m	rh
Soft Mutations,	g	b	d	f	dh	—	l	f	r
Aspirate,	ng	mh	nh	m	n	ng
Light,	ch	ph	th

It would be curious to trace the ruins of this system as they are to be found in other languages; but space does not suffice in the compass of a note. A short collation of words

Some tribes of the Britons, the Cymmry more particularly, from very remote antiquity, were possessed of a characteristic alphabet, containing all the appropriate and necessary signs for representing every modification of sound in their language; and which alphabet, as implied by the method of writing it, was denominated COELBREN Y BEIRDD, or Stave of the Bardic Symbols. The forms of the letters consisted of straight perpendicular strokes and angles, as all curves were necessarily excluded, in consequence of their being written, or cut across the sides of squared pieces of sticks; and these sticks, or staves, after having been so written upon, were put into a frame-like form, and so inserted, as to admit of being turned round, to facilitate the reading of the inscription on all the sides; and this aggregate of staves was called a Pethymen.

Allusions to such a method of writing on sticks very frequently occur in the voluminous remains of the poetry of the bards of Wales of all periods; and this is an important evidence of its existence from the most early times.* To such evidence may be added another of at least an equally decided character; and which is, that the Coelbren y Beirdd is preserved among many other curious remains, collected under the sanction of several congresses of the bards, convened in the course of the fifteenth, sixteenth, and seventeenth centuries, by the Nevilles, the Herberts, and other noblemen and gentlemen of South Wales; and the last of these congresses was held in the year 1681, at Bwpyr Castle, in the county of Glamorgan, wherein all the prior collections were blended into one, examined, and sanctioned by the procurement of Sir Richard Bassett.† For the more complete verification of the genuineness of the bardic alphabet, a third important proof to be referred to is, the inscriptions on ancient stone monuments. Amongst those preserved in Camden's Britannia, several may be seen, having the Bardic characters occasionally intermixed with those that are generally Roman: such are the l in legion, the s in filius and ejus; also the ff, p, f, and the t.‡

The invention of the Bardic Alphabet was particularly convenient and useful in a pastoral state of society, such as the Historical Triads describe to have been that of the Cymmry;§ and, as the only necessary tool was a knife for preparing the sticks, and for cutting letters thereon, such an invention might have been, and probably was, of universal usage wherever the in various languages, ancient and modern, that appear to have undergone this process, may be seen in the Cambro-Briton, vol. i. p. 407. H. P.

* Writing on sticks is alluded to in Ezekiel xxxvii. 16—20. "Son of man, take thee one stick and write upon it, For Judah, and for the children of Israel his companions: then take another stick, and write upon it, For Joseph, &c." Also, Numbers xvii. 2—"Take of every one of them a rod—write thou every man's name upon his rod."

† A more particular account of these bardic meetings is prefixed to Owen's translation of the Heroic Elegies of Llywarch Hen, prince of the Cambrian Britons, printed in 1792.

‡ See Gibbon's edition of Camden, vol. ii. pages 1007, 1030, 1031, 1038, and 1458. Ancient graves were also discovered, in 1821, at Pentrev Voelas, in Denbighshire, whereon, among others, the peculiar character for the s (r) is to be seen, in the word ejus.

§ It may be doubted whether a state of society, strictly pastoral, according to the popular acceptation of the term, was ever known to the Cymmry. The Coelbren y Beirdd, or Bardic Alphabet, above alluded to, will be seen in the subjoined comparative table. It has also appeared in other publications. In the CAMBRO-BRITON, vol. i. p. 241, may be seen the derivative as well as the radical letters, amounting altogether to forty-four. H. P.

bardic system, or dreadism, had extended its influence. But, after the introduction of Roman arts, and that of writing on parchment, among others, the ancient practice of cutting letters on staves gradually gave way to the use of the Latin characters and manner of writing, excepting so far as being traditionally preserved amongst other bardic memorials. By the adoption of the present common alphabet of Europe, the Welsh have been reduced to the expedient of using double, and even triple signs, for representing single articulate sounds. Yet the uncouthness thus produced might be easily obviated, by affixing the soft, aspirate, and light accents to those primary letters of modern formation that undergo such mutations, as may be represented by those accents: for there could exist no other difficulty than to obtain the public sanction to their being admitted into general use.

By a comparison of the various forms of the alphabets in use amongst all the nations in Europe, it at once appears evident that they are derived from one common origin; and the oldest specimen known of such a primitive character is the one commonly denominated the Pelasgic, or the Græco Phœnician. To prove the proposition thus advanced, it will only be necessary to examine the following table, wherein those ancient alphabets are collaterally exhibited.

Old Greek,	Υ Τ Ξ Ϝ Ϛ ϙ ϣ Ϡ ϡ Ϣ ϣ Ϥ ϥ Ϧ ϧ Ϩ ϩ Ϫ ϫ Ϭ ϭ Ϯ ϯ ϰ ϱ ϲ ϳ ϴ ϵ ϶ Ϸ ϸ Ϲ Ϻ ϻ ϼ Ͻ Ͼ Ͽ Ͽ
The same,	A B Γ Δ Ε Φ Η Ι Κ Λ Μ Ν Ο Π Ρ Σ Τ Υ
Etruscan,	A B Γ Δ Ε Ζ Β Θ Ι Χ Ι Μ Ν Ο Ζ ϑ ς τ υ
Old Latin,	A B C D E F H I K L M N O P R S T V
Runic,	A B γ Δ F Ϙ * I K ϒ M R X ϕ R Y T H
Bardic,	A L C > J F H I C A W H O P Y U T V

As the Welsh is not written in its proper orthography, there are some double letters used in this work, for representing single sounds. Such are the following :—ch sounds as the Hebrew ch, the Greek ch, the Spanish j and x ; dd sound as th, in the words the, this, or that ; the ll represent an aspirated l, which is peculiar to the Welsh ; the th may merely be noticed as being like the Greek θ.

8. ON THE STABILITY OF THE WELSH LANGUAGE AND ITS ANTIQUITY.

Those languages which are constructed upon the basis of their own regular elements, but whose origin is obscured or lost in the various revolutions that they may have undergone, are thereby necessarily involved in a state of endless fluctuation and change. On the contrary, one that is formed upon its own intrinsic materials, and those being elementary words of obvious meaning and in use, is by that circumstance secured against innovations. And this is one of the most remarkable characteristics discoverable in the Welsh tongue, and is highly deserving the attention of the philologist. It still remains the same as it was, to a certainty, thirteen hundred years past, as can be fully proved; and I have no hesitation in asserting its usage is common parlance above two thousand years since. As to its being spoken by the Cymmry in the sixth century, it will be sufficient to lay the few following extracts from the works of the bards of that period before the reader, as being the familiar speech of the present day, to obtain his assent to the first fact; and then some of the names of places in Britain, as given by the Romans, and still preserved, may, without going farther, suffice as to the other point, as corroborated by some collateral evidences in the sequel of this sketch.

Familiar Welsh Phrases from the Bards of the Sixth Century.

TALIESIN.

Gwelais wyr gorfawr,
A ddygyrchynt awr,
Gwelais waed ar lawr :
Rhag rhuthr cloddyfawr
Glesynt esgyl gwawr.

I have seen men pre-eminent,
who were assembling to the shout,
I have seen blood on the ground :
from the rush of swords
they tinged with blue the wings of the dews.

Addwyn aeron yn amser cynhauf;

Pleasant the fruits in the time of harvest;

Arall addwyn gwenith ar galaf.

another pleasure—wheat on stalk.

Màn y mae meillion,

Where there are trefoils,

A gwlith ar dirion;

and dew on lands;

Màn y mae cerddorion.

where there are minstrels

Yn gywair gyson—

in accordant harmony—

Cain bid eu gofalon precious be their anxieties

Gan Wledig gorchorddion.

with the Sovereign of supreme circles.

Enaid Owain ab Urien

The soul of Owain the son of Urien

Gobwyllid ei Ren ei raid :

may his Lord compassionate his necessity;

Rheged udd ei cudd tom las,

the chief of Rheged that is hidden by the green mound,

Nid oedd fas ei gywyddaid.

not low was his panegyric.

ANEURIN.

Mal pan ddel medel ar freith-hin

As when there comes a reaping in fair weather

Y gwnai Marchleu waedlin.

would Marchleu cause a stream of blood.

Pan grysiat Caradawg i gad,

When Caradawg arrayed for conflict

Mal baedd coed trychwn trychiad.

like a boar of the woods an upturning tearer,

Tarw byddin yn nhrin gymyniad,

a bull of the host in the felling toil,

Ef lithiai wyddgwn o'i angad :

he would allure wild dogs from his hand :

Ys wy fy nhyst, Owain fab Eulad, there be my evidence, Owain the son of Eulad,

A Gwrien, a Gwyn, a Gwriad, and Gwrien, and Gwyn, and Gwriad.

O Gattracth gymyniad.

from the felling of Cattraeth.

Gwyr a grysiasant, buant gydnaid,	Men have arrayed themselves, they have together heaped,
Heodlfyrion, meddwon uch medd hidlaid;	short-lived ones, drunken ones ever purified mead;
Gosgordd Mynyddawg, ourawg yn rhaid,	the retinue of Mynyddawg, adorned with gold in a strait,
Gwerth eu gwledd o fedd fu eu henaid.	the price of their feast of mead has been their soul.
Yn nydd gwyth adwyth oedd ei lafnawr,	In the day of wrath his blades were devastation,
Pan grysiat Cynon gan wyrdd wawr.	when Cynon had arrayed with the green dawn.
O gywrysedd gwragedd gwych y gwnaethant	From the contention of women gallantly they have caused
Llawer mam a deigr ar ei hamrant.	many a mother with a tear on her eyelid.

LLYWARCH HEN.

Yr aelwyd hon, neus cudd glesin?	This hearth, is it not hidden by green sward?
Yn myw Owain ac Elffin	in the life of Owain and Elfin
Berwasai ei phair breiddin.	its cauldron had boiled venison.
Tawel awel ti hirglyw:	Gentle gale, far art thou heard:
Odid a fo moledyw,	scarcely shall there be that is praise-worthy,
Nam Urien, can nad yw!	after Urien, since he is not!
Y ddeilen hon neus cynnired gwynt,	This leaf so buffeted by wind,
Gwae hi ei thynged:	woe to her her fate:
Hi hen, eleni ganed!	she is old, this year was she born.

Examples of British Names of Places in Roman Authors, and still in use.

Mona, Anglesey, in Welsh Mon. It is pronounced long, as if written Mone.

Aberconovium, Aberconwy, or the Efflux of the Conwy, in Carnarvonshire.

Aberavonium, Aberavan, or the Efflux of the Avan, in Glamorganshire. Abergavennium, Abergavenni, the Efflux of the Gaveni, in Monmouthshire. Avona, or Auvona, the Avon river; one in Somersetshire, one in Wiltshire, and another in Worcestershire. Avon is the common term for a river in Welsh; therefore I conceive that those rivers in England, if correctly written, should be Avan, like the river in Glamorganshire.

Avalonia, or Glastonbury, which the Welsh call Ynys Avallen, or the Island of the Apple-tree.

Caledonia, the woody parts of Scotland, or the Forest of Caledonia, which the Welsh call Coed Celyddon, or the Wood of the Coverts. And this name is synonymous with Celtica, Scotia, and Goidheli, or Gwyddeli.

Ceretica, Cardiganshire, called by the Welsh Ceredigion.

Corinium, Cirencester, called by the Welsh Caer Corun.

Conovium, the river Conway, called by the Welsh Conry, or the Dart Stream.

Deva, the river Dee, passing by Chester, and the Dee at Dundee, in Scotland. The Welsh name is Dwyv. Hence the inhabitants near the Deva or Dwyv were called Ordevices, or the dwellers on the Dwyv; or, as the Welsh would stile them, Arddwyvgywys.

Demetia, Pembrokeshire, called in Welsh Dyved.

Damnonia, Devonshire, which the Welsh call Dymaint.*

Isea, or Osea, the Esk, in Devonshire and in Scotland, and the Usk in Monmouthshire, the Welsh name for which is Wysg.

Menevia, the district where St. David's is situated, called Mynyw in Welsh.

Nidum, the Neath river in Glamorganshire, which is called Nedd in Welsh.

Tava, the name of several rivers, synonymous with Tain; therefore the Welsh call the Thames, Tain and Taw; and the Tyne in Devon and Northumberland is called Tava, as well as the Tay and the Esk, in Scotland. Tav and Tain mean the spreading stream.

In addition to what has been here brought forward to prove the antiquity of the Welsh language in its present state, there is another most remarkable evidence: and it is, that the people of Wales and of Britany are able at this day to converse together;† yet they must have been separated from each other for upwards of two thousand years.‡ We learn from the Triads that the Cymmry migrated to Britain over the Hazy Sea from about the Elbe, where they left a memorial of their name in the Chersonesus Cimbrica; and in that neighbourhood we find the Wendi still preserving the language of the Cymmry, though not so purely as in Wales and Britany, owing to their being in a situation more liable to produce an intermixture with strangers.

From the period, when the Romans abandoned Britain, down to the present time, the Welsh language had to withstand the effects of the intimacy and encroachments of the English, which must have been more intrusive upon its stability than any thing it had to oppose during any former period of equal duration, even including the time of its being under the influence of the Latin language. If therefore the English connection has produced no change in our language during a thousand years, the inference is, that it must have undergone less alteration in any other equal period.

* This word implies, literally, deeps and hollows, which, it will be allowed, is descriptive enough of the country to which it is appropriated.—H. P.

† A vessel from Morlaix, in Britany, being in the Thames, in 1840, the captain was invited to come to hear the harp, by the Cymreigyddion. One of the members, after an air had been played, said to the Breton, in Welsh,—“Dyna ganu da.” To this the Breton replied,—“Na: dyna chwara da: canu à genau; a chwara à thelyn.” So that the Welshman was corrected in his own speech by the stranger, thus—“No: that is good playing: it is singing with the voice; and playing with the harp.”

‡ The Historical Triads record, that the Cymmry came to Britain, and another colony of them to Llydaw, Armorica, or Britany, from the Chersonesus Cimbrica, or Jutland. The Welsh cannot disown with the Irish of Ireland and Scotland; therefore the latter must have separated at an earlier period from the original stock. The old name of Hamburg is Treva, and of which, as a Welsh name, the former is a literal translation.

As a collateral evidence in support of the subject before examined, the Laws of Hywel may particularly be referred to. The body of this code of ancient institutes, divested of some technical phrases and of several allusions to obsolete customs, is expressed in the familiar speech of the present time.* Names of places still left existing in England and Scotland, which are Welsh words of common use, are also good proofs, so far as they extend; for they show that portion of the language once spoken, where the names are found, was exactly the same as is now used in Wales; and by plain inference in proving a part, they prove the identity altogether. Such, for instances, are the names of Avon and Aber, which are preserved, even without a literal difference, in various parts of the island.

Again, we have manuscripts as old as the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, which prove the remarkable fact, that even the peculiarity of the dialects of the different parts of Wales then existed as we find at this day.

And lastly, next to the internal structure of the Welsh language, the primary cause of the preservation of it without a change has been probably the singular institution of bardism; and the system of poetical prosody under that institution became gradually, from the thirteenth century downwards, so very strict and mechanical as to euphony, that even the sounds and syllables intended to be expressed could not possibly be mistaken. Consequently, we know to a certainty what the ancient pronunciation of the language must have been. Besides which, its preservation unadulterated was a fundamental maxim of the Bardic system, as appears by the following triad:—

“Tri pheth a ddylai Bardd eu cynnal: yr iaith Gymraeg, y brif farddoniaeth, a chof am bob daionus a rhagor”

Three things which a bard ought to maintain: the Welsh language, the primitive bardism, and the memorial of every thing good and excellent.

3. ON THE THREE PRIMARY DIVISIONS OF THE LANGUAGE OF THE CYMMRY.

The three dialects of the primitive language of a great part of Europe are—the Slavonic; the Cymmryic, of which there are remains in Wales, and in Britany; and the Gwyddelig, originally spoken in Gaul and the south-east of Britain, and still spoken in Ireland and the Highlands of Scotland.†

The first people that penetrated Europe westward from the shores of

* The Laws of Hywel were compiled in the tenth century.—H. P.

† Perhaps the popular distinctions of Gothic and Celtic would embrace the three dialects here noticed, though the subdivisions, above adopted, must be allowed to be more accurate. Some excellent observations on this point, by the same writer, may be seen in the Cambrian Register, vol. i. p. 13—20.—H. P.

the Ruxine, went under the general appellation of Celts, among the Greek historians; and the Romans recognised, in after ages, the wooded parts of Gaul under the same name, in contradistinction to the Gal, or open country. The generic name of Cymmry,—the Cimmerioi of the Greeks—by which the original stock was known while it remained on the sides of the Caucasus and on the Cimmerian Bosphorus, became lost among all the colonies from thence; by their assuming appellations descriptive of peculiar situations, excepting the faint traces of the Cimmerii in Italy, the Cimbri in Denmark, and the Cymmry in Britain.

Now, as the Wendi, on the Elbe, the Bretons, in France, and the Cymmry, in Wales, have so far preserved an identity of speech, as to be able to hold an intercourse one with another, whilst at the same time neither of these three nations can converse with those who speak the Irish in Ireland and Scotland, the necessary conclusion must be, that an earlier separation must have taken place between the progenitors of the Irish people of Ireland and Scotland, and the progenitors of the Wendi, the Bretons, and the Cymmry of Wales, than the separation between the three last mentioned people respectively. The inference to be drawn therefore is, that the ancestors of the Irish people, though of the same original stock as the Cymmry, who migrated towards the Elbe, in the north of Germany, must have separated themselves from their brethren by taking a rout from the shores of the Ruxine, following the course of the Danube, and eventually spread colonies over Gaul and Italy.

It must be owing to the proximity of the ancestors of the Irish people to the Romans that there is a greater affinity of character between the Irish dialect and the Latin, than there is between the Welsh and the Latin; for the Romans formed no settlements in Ireland, so as to produce that affinity, which is much more evident than what can be traced between the Welsh and the Latin, though the Romans remained in Britain about five hundred years. In addition to this remarkable fact, there is another equally so, which is, that the Welsh language has a far greater resemblance to the Greek than to the Latin, in its characteristics, which leads to the conclusion of there having been an intermixture of the progenitors of the Cymmry and of the Greeks, in some period prior to all historical record, by which the manner of that intermixture can be satisfactorily explained.

At about what era that the more central mass of the Celts, or Woodmen, of Europe began to be distinguished under the appellation of Slavonians would be difficult to determine satisfactorily; but it is pretty evident that they must have originated from that branch of the Cymmry before mentioned, as having had an intimate connection with the Greeks, before their

† The name of Celt was the most appropriate that could be applied by the first colonies to themselves; and, no doubt, it was applied by themselves, and so the Greeks got it. The meaning of Celt is a covert, from Cel, a shelter; and it is applied to woody places, as opposed to Gal, an open place or plain. Celt would necessarily be a name of frequent use among first colonies, as is now the case in America, where woodmen is the term applied. It is remarkable, that all the old synonymes of Celti, Celyddon, Gwyddeli, and Ygodi, or Ygogodion, are still preserved in Welsh, being the originals of Celtica, Caledonia, Gwetholia, and Scotia.

progression into the north of Germany; and that the other branch of the Cymmry, which penetrated into Gaul and Italy, had not the appellation of Slavonians applied to any of its colonies. Under the name of Slavonic are comprehended the several dialects spoken in Dalmatia, Albania, Carniola, Croatia, Servia, Poland, Russia, and Lusatia, with other small districts in the neighbourhood, by the people called Wendi. And this last dialect is the connecting link between the Welsh and the Slavonic dialects.

In the South-east part of Britain an extensive colony established itself, known to the Cymmry under the appellation of Lloegrwys, and the territory inhabited by this people was called Lloegr, which is now the name given by the Welsh to all England, notwithstanding its being brought under the sway of the Saxons and Angli. Our Triads of History record that the Lloegrwys originally came to Britain from Gascony, that is, from Celtic Gaul; where they left traces of their name on the river Liger, or the Loire, as well as in the North of Italy, which we recognise in Liguria.* Names of places in Lloegria still preserved, and of men, as given by Roman authors, warrant the inference before drawn, and the Lloegrwys of Britain, and the Liguri of Celtic Gaul and of North Italy, spoke a dialect, whereof the present Irish is the remains. So that the Lloegrwys were probably the first people that settled in Ireland, with whom subsequent colonies of Belgians from the South of Britain intermixed, as mentioned in our old chronicles.

There is reasons for supposing that the dissimilitude between the Irish and the Welsh languages has been increased by an intermixture or some other cause as affecting the former in Ireland, one third of the words of which only is recognised in the Welsh tongue, as words in common use.† It deserves to be noticed that the Irish people, owing to some cause not easily accounted for, have greatly altered the pronunciation of their language since the first use of letters among them, and arising principally from their causing a great many of the sounds in their words as written to be quiescent. Thus most Irish words preserved in the Welsh would not be understood by a Welshman, when spoken by a native of Ireland, though readily understood when committed to writing: for every word is distinctly pronounced in Welsh as written, without variation or exception.‡

Like the rendering of sounds quiescent, as above mentioned, in the Irish, what causes the dissimilitude of dialect between the Welsh and the Slavonic, in all its varieties, is the vitiating of the letters t, th, and d, in the latter by a mutation, into sounds represented by sch, tz, dz. This mutation of t and d into tz and dz is rather common in the pronunciation of the Irish;

* The Triadic record, here alluded to, describes the Lloegrwys as one of the "three social" tribes of Britain: the other two are the Cymmry and Brython.—H. P.

† The patronymic name of the Irish, in their own tongue, as well as in the Welsh, is Gaoidhel, or Gwyddel, which the Welsh pronounce as if written Goithel, but the Irish pronounce it Gael. And the Irish who write on their own history, in this age, take the liberty to write the name Gäel, to the discredit of their history, with a view of identifying the Irish as the descendants of the Gauls.

‡ Yet, by selecting phrases, identities such as this may be found: "O Ddia! baithidh mi mi fhein mar dhuin uasal." "O Duw! boddaf fi fy hun mál dyn gwsawl." O God, I will drown myself like a gentleman.

and not unfrequently the Welsh use it in familiar talk. When an Irishman swears, he pronounces his Mon diawl as if written Mon dziaul, which is the Myn diawl of the Welsh, and the Mon diable of the French. And the Welsh word Meddyliaw, cogitations, is pronounced Medzolie by the Wendi; Mezoulion by the Bretons; but the Welsh pronounce their words as if written Metkolia or Medkolia. In the Albanian dialect Vladica, or Wladica, signifies a Bishop; but Gwledig, in Welsh, is a supreme one over a country, in a general sense, and often applied by the poets to the Deity; as Iolaf Wledig nef, I will adore the Supreme of heaven. Here, Iolaf Gwledig nef would be the phrase, independent of the literal mutation; but the g takes its soft sound, or becomes quiescent.

4. THE AFFINITY BETWEEN THE WELSH, OR CYMMRAEG, AND OTHER LANGUAGES, AS A CORROBORATIVE EVIDENCE OF ITS ORIENTAL ORIGIN, AND OF ITS BEING SPOKEN BY THE FIRST INHABITANTS OF EUROPE.

This is a very important topic, and upon which the true history of the origin of nations principally depends; for, though much has been said and written upon it, the light elicited thereby has been so very faint and imperfect, that little knowledge and information has been thereby obtained. Indeed, it is what would require a perseverance in labour so intense for its accomplishment, as almost to deter any one from the undertaking, even though possessed of the requisite qualifications. The outline of such a work has been laid down, though imperfectly, by E. Lhwyd, in his Archæologia Britannica; and it has been so far advanced by Gebelin, in his Monde Primitif, as sufficiently to discover, that the Greek and Latin, with the modern languages of Europe generally, are derived, for the most part, from a common origin, and which common origin, though improperly, is denominated the Celtic, and of which the language still spoken in Wales, owing to some fortuitous circumstances, preserves the most uncontaminated remains. If the extraordinary writer last-mentioned had had the advantage of acquainting himself with the whole compass and characteristics of the language, which he took as the basis of his superstructure, he would have accomplished every thing that could be desired; but, as such advantage did not fall to his lot, the work remains to be finished by some other Gebelin who may arise to do justice to this curious and interesting subject. All that I profess to do here, however, is merely to state the case, and, by way of estimate, to exhibit a few general observations, accompanied by some necessary examples for the illustration of it, with a view of being serviceable to future inquirers.

The following vocabularies of the affinities, existing between the Welsh and the Hebrew and Greek languages, must be considered only as specimens, and that generally with respect to their primitive words only. Connections equally close might be proved between the first-mentioned tongue and the Sanscrit; and in the next place, it might be shown, that about one half of the primary words of the French and English consist of the remains of the speech of the original population of Europe, commonly denominated Celts, blended with the Teutonic or Gothic.

EXAMPLES OF HEBREW AND WELSH AFFINITIES.

The extinction of a primitive language has been asserted in a former section of this work ; and we find, in Genesis xi. the scene of that event laid at Babel, and the cause assigned for it to have been the dispersion of mankind. It may be pertinent to offer one or two remarks here, in support of the proposition, that the Hebrew tongue, notwithstanding all that has been said to the contrary, had its origin, like others, in the confusion of the first language.

Men had not multiplied so greatly, after the flood, as to be compelled to form themselves into separate communities, or at least to acquire national distinctions, at the era of the confusion of Babel ; and, from the tenour of the history given of that confusion, we are plainly to infer the implication of the whole of the human race therein. But, towards obtaining a clearer view of the subject, we shall be aided by recurring to the subjoined table of a few leading dates, subsequent to the epoch of the flood, A. C. 2348.

EVENTS.	Years after the flood.
The confusion of language	101
The birth of Abraham	352
The birth of Isaac	452
The death of Shem	502
The birth of Moses	775

Or the following dates may be taken.

Shem lived until the age of Isaac was ..	50
Isaac lived until Levi was	60
Levi lived until Amram was	41
Amram lived until Moses was	40

Thus, it appears that Shem died only two hundred and seventy-three years before the birth of Moses, or that only four generations intervened between them. Again : by examining the above dates, we observe, that Shem lived four hundred years after the dispersion from Babel ; and, Shem being the patriarch of all the families then on the earth, it cannot be well supposed, that the building of the tower could have been projected without his concurrence. Had it been otherwise, the primitive language must, undoubtedly, have been preserved by him in its purity until his death, and by his descendants, through two hundred and seventy-three years, to the time of Moses ; so that, in that case, he and they must have spoken Hebrew. But there are the remains of the first language discoverable in the composition of all the ancient tongues, which collectively prove them to be formed from the ruins of an original one now lost ; and this original language, as those ruins prove, was, in every respect, far more perfect than the Hebrew, or any other known language.

On a comparison being made between the Welsh and the Hebrew, we do not, at first sight, discover any great connection between the two languages ; though, by a closer examination, we recognise their common origin :

and this apparent dissimilitude is, perhaps, principally to be accounted for, from that system of construction, in the Hebrew, of blending the prepositions, conjunctions, pronouns, and other particles, with the primary words, either as prefixes, or as postfixes; whereas they preserve their separate stations, in the Welsh. The affinity might also appear more manifest, if the Hebrew had remained better preserved as a living language: for, as that is not the state wherein we find it, we may suspect many niceties of pronunciation, without adverting to words and phraseology, to have been lost, notwithstanding the precautionary adoption of the masoretic points, both in respect to the vowels, as also the mutable consonants.

K

- כח, greenness, verdure; pleasantness.
חח, exclamation of pleasure, or of pain.
חח, or חחי, one of the same kindred or kind; a brother.
חל, or חיל, strength, power; virtue; an epithet applied to the Deity, and to any being or thing that is great.
לא, a negation; not; nothing.
אלה, a plural pronoun; these.
אל, a ram.—אלילים, idols.
אל, a deer, male or female; that is, a buck or a doe.
איש, a being, a person, a man: יש, to be.
אלח, a curse, or ban; an oath.
אלף, to teach; to manage, to rule.
אלף, a kine, or one of the cattle kind; also a thousand. אלפים, or אלופים, cattle or bullocks.
און, און, vigour, strength; labour.
און, און, affliction, grief, sorrow.
און, און, virtue, or good quality.
און, און, an object of worship in Egypt, and in Canaan.
אין, אין, an interrogative particle as to time or place: when, where; here; there.
אין, not; nothing, nonentity.
אנס, to press, to molest, to trouble.
אף, fie! ha! denoting dislike.
אץ, to urge, to press forward, to drive on.
אר, a river; light, lucidity.
אר, to flow, to run as a fluid.
אח, that is elementary; crude, raw.
אח, a forcible utterance; a moan; oh! alas!
אח, a root, a stem; lineage, kindred; by, near, at.
אח, what has in itself the power of motion; a moving principle; an intelligence; a spirit; an angel.
אח, other; another; extra or outward; very, most.
אח, they, those: אח אח, they twain.
אח, what is out or divided: אח, goblins.
אח, influence; harmony; power: אח, a musical being, a fawn.
אח, a space of existence, or being; an age.
אח, אח, אח, a curse, an oath.
אח, to energise, to endow, to enrich.
אח, pl. אח and אח, cattle, also chattels. Like Aleph, the Welsh use אח for an animal, and for a thousand.
אח, vigour, energy, strength; force.
אח, effusion; hue; liveliness.
אח, that proceeds from, or that is derived.
אח, the sun, from אח, that is pervasive. אח, in Egypt, was called by the Greeks Heliopolis.
אח, אח, אח: אח, in; אח, in there; אח, in such a place; there; then, at such a time or place.
אח: אח: אח, prefix of negation; and אח, is no.
אח, to pursue, to drive, to molest.
אח! fie! אח! אח! fie upon thee!
אח, to point, to sharpen; to urge; to vex.
אח, brightness, splendour, lucidity.
אח, to emit; to utter; to utter a sound.

- אש, fire : to set on fire, to consume. Ys, that consumes ; ysu, to consume, to burn.
אש, a verbal particle, or adverb, is, there is. Oes, there is. A oes yma neb? Is there any body here?
אחז, to come, to arrive, to reach to. Athz, to proceed or to go : dathz, to come.
אחז, a pruning knife, or cutter. Aeth, that is sharp, or pointed ; a point.

ב

- באר, a well, or pit. See בר Bwr, a trench, an entrenchment ; a vallum.
בית, a house, a dwelling. Bwth, a hut, a cottage, or a booth.
בטן, the belly, or the stomach. Poten, a paunch, a belly, a stomach.
בכה, to weep, to moan, to lament. Beickiaw, to cry aloud, to roar, to scream.
בל, to mix, to blend ; to confound. Boli ; cyboli, to mix, to commix.
בל, the idol of Babilon ; Belus. Bel, that breaks out, a peak ; a budding.
בול, a stump of a tree, or a stem. Bwl, a rotundity ; a bole, or stem.
בול, decay, or withering ; October. Pall, ruin, decay ; failure ; a miss.
בול, to decay, to waste, to wear out. Pallu, to decay ; to fail ; to miss.
בלי, corruption, decay, waste. Beli, havoc, devastation ; war.
בלע, destruction, ravage ruin. Bela, havoc, ravage ; tumult ; war.
בן, that is reared, that is built ; a son. Ban, high, lofty ; a height, a peak.
בנה, to build, to erect, to rear. Banu, to elevate ; to exalt ; to rear.
בניה, a structure, a building. Banaeth, what is raised or reared up בנין, a structure, a building. Banan, dybanan, what rears ; a builder ; an ant.
בר, to purify, to clean ; to be clean. Briaw, to render excellent ; to dignify.
בור, a pit, a well ; a grave. Bwr, a trench ; an entrenchment.
בר, corn ; a child, a son. Bura, corn, bread. Bars, bread ; bar, a summit, a top.
ברי, clearness, the pure matter of the heavens. Bri, excellence ; dignity, honour.
ברית, purification, or a cleansing. Briaeth, excellency ; the giving dignity.
ברא, to create. ברא אלויים, the Al-
ים created. Peru : e berai elye, the powers caused, or created.
ברך, to honour, as in bending the knee ; to bless. Parchu, to revere, to respect, to honour ; to confer honour.

ג

- גאח, loftiness ; raging, as of the sea. Gzyth, a swell out ; wrath, indignation.
גאל, to redeem, to buy off ; to avenge. Galu, to render clear, open, or free.
גאל, a redeemer ; an avenger. Gal, a conspicuous station ; that breaks out ; a foe.
גדל, to greaten ; to grow great or large. Gwyddoli, to render cognitive, or conspicuous.
גדל, greatness ; dignity, honour. Gwyddawl, that is conspicuous, or present.
גדר, to fence, to enclose, to hedge. Gedrew, to form a skirt, border, or rim.

גבר, a fence, or an enclosure.
גו, a body, the whole person.

גוי, a body of people, a nation.
גלל, what rolls along, up and down, or to and fro; any rotundity in form or motion; and often it is compounded into גלגל.
גלל, to roll, to turn, or to wheel.
גון, to defend, to fence, to protect;
also a shelter, a place sheltered.
גר, to make strange; to sojourn.

גרר, a sojourner, a stranger.
גח, a press, as for grapes or olives.

Gedre, a skirt, a border, a rim.
Ciw, compact; what is compact. Ys-giwion.
Ciwed, a multitude; a tribe; a rabble Gels, that moves or rolls along; that oozes; a leech, from its rolling motion. Gel, aptness to move, flow, or ooze; a leech.
Gelen, to move with a rolling motion
Ganu, to contain, to include. Gan, capacity; a mortise.
Gweiraw, to break out, to stray :
Gwair, a stray.
Gweirawr, one who roves or strays.
Gwth, a press; a push; a thrust.

ד

דא, to fly, as birds do.
דב, to be fruitful, to multiply, to increase.
דב, fish, from their great increase.
דבן, corn, or grain of any sort.

דבון, fertility. To this idol the Philistines attributed all their plenty.

דד, plural דדים, paps; love.

דיו, ink, for writing with.

דח, דחה, to drive, force, urge, or expel.

דל, דלת, a leaf; the thin part of a door; a lid, a cover: the letter ד, or D

דל, poor, low, meek, humble.

דלי, a bucket, or a pail.

דמן, dung, a heap of dung.

דן, to judge, to rule, to order, to govern. And with the formative מ, אמן, one who has power to judge;
a lord, or master; and it is also written ארון אדני, a dispenser of virtue.

דור, דור, space, or time, a round of life;
an age, a generation.

דשן, to make fat, to become fat.

דת, statute, law, or appointment.

Dawu, to come or move towards.
Dwgu, to bear; to produce, to yield
Dwg, that is full or perfect; a bearing Dwgon, a continuity of bearing; a produce.

Dwgan, a bearing or producing agent,
a producer.

Did, diden, a pap or a nipple.

Du, black; a black; ink.

Techu, to cause to sculk; to sculk.

Dal, dalaeth, deiliad; dal, a leaf;
dalaeth, foliage; deiliad, a leafing,
or foliation.

Del, churlish, dogged; obdurate.

Dalat, that holds; a receptacle.

Tomen, a heap of dung, a dung-hill.

Doniau, to dispense, in any way; to endow, or to enrich; addomai, one who has to dispense a virtue or gift; one who has a virtue or endowment. It is formed from the prefix a an dawn, a gift.

Dor, what overspreads, a covering;
the leaf of a door.

Dwysaw, dwysain, to make dense, to be dense.

Dedd, and deddf, statute, or rule of action.

ה

חב, חבה, to give, to bring to.

חר, חרה, to praise, to give thanks.

חוי, an exclamation expressive of grief.

הי, heigh; alas! oh! ah! woe!

Hybu, to get onward; to recover; to get before.

Hoddi, hoddiau, to render easy or accessible.

Hwi, to set up a halloo; a halloo.

Hai, excitation; hurry, haste! hie!

ח

זָה, hazeh, a demonstrative pronoun, and adverb.

חָהַר, hahar, to be big, to grow big: חָהַר, she bigged with, she conceived.

חָר, har, a mountain, a hill.

חָרִיבִּנְנוֹת, haribnaw, a mount of several heights.

חָרִי שָׂרָף, harishaf, mountains of prey.

חָרָה, harah, one pregnant, plural חָרִית, harith, חריות.

Hon, hwn, hyn: hon, this female; hwn, this masculine; hyn, this thing: hyna, that thing.

Hori, to become round or bulky: dyhorai, she became bulky, or paunched.

Hawr, what is distended or swelled out.

Hawr gofanyaw, a swell of several heights.

Hovori tarf, protuberances of scaring.

Hovai, horeh, one that is swelled out. Pl. Horoedd, and horod, tikes.

זָב, zab, to flow, to gush, to bubble out.

זָב, liquor, also a husk, or shell.

זָו, zaw, compound of זָה and זָה—a demonstrative pronoun; it; this; that; here.

זָהַר, zahar, clear, bright; a clear sky; clearness.

זָחַל, zahal, to be afraid. A serpent.

זָל, zal, profusion, squandering; waste.

זָמַם, zamm, to imagine, to think, to devise; whim, fancy—to seem: זָמַם, whim, fancy, conceit: זָמַם, Deut. ii. 20. Imaginers.

זָן, zan, to feed, to provide; store, provision.

זָוֹן, zawn, store, provision, victuals.

זָנָה, zannah, to fornicate, to whore.

זָנָה, zannah, a harlot: זָנוֹת, zanaw, whoredoms.

זָעַזַע, zazaz, to move, or shake, to be agitated.

זָרָא, zarah, loathsome, repulsive, offensive.

זָרַח, zarach, to disperse; to winnow.

זָר, zar, a stranger.

זָר, zar, a rim, a bandlet; a crown.

Swyf, scum; yeast, swyfew, to form scum.

Sug, liquor, juice; what is sucked.

Sy, and Sydd, is: pwysy glaf? who is ill: pwysydd yma? who is here.

Pa elw sydd? What profit is there.

Ser, stars, the starry system: Serw, sparkling.

Sychwylaw, to turn or roll aside: Sychwyl, a whirl off.

Sil, that is produced; spawn, seedling; issue.

Symiaaw, to consider the magnitude of a thing; to consider: sym, size, magnitude: symaeth, a state of ease, or enjoyment: somaymied, illusory seemers.

Swyn, a preservative: swynaw, to apply a preservative.

Myswyn, that is put by; that is protected.

Synw, to cause sensation; to cause consternation.

Synai, that causes concern: Synoodd, dreads.

Sangu, to trample; to tread, to pace.

Sar, a repulse; insult, offence.

Sars, to throw off, to repulse; to insult.

Sarai, mysar, that is thrown or pushed off.

Ser, seri, that tends round; a bill-hook.

ח

חָב, chab, to lay up close, to hide.

חָדַל, chadal, to cease, to desist, to leave.

Cub, a bundle; cubaw, to make into a heap.

Gadel, gadu, to desist, to leave; to forsake.

- חֶרֶץ, the world, or the universe.
 חֶרֶר, a recess, a retired place; a chamber.
 חוּוּה, Eve, the first woman.
 חוּוּה, to look upon, to see: to contemplate.
 חוּוּה, חוּוּוּן, חוּוּוּן, a vision, a sight that is shown.
 חוּוּה, חוּוּה, any hooked, prickly, or bushy stuff, briar, thorn; a clasp, a fibula; a bracelet.
 חוּוּה, חוּוּה, to tie up, to bind; to restrain.
 חוּוּה, to live, or to have life.
 חוּי, life; living, lively, vivacious.
 חוּי, חוּי, a living creature, an animal.
 חוּץ, the palate; the mouth.
 חוּל, חוּל, to break in upon, to violate: wounded, smitten; slain.
 חוּל, to hurt, to annoy, to grieve; to be sick.
 חוּל, sickness, illness, malady.
 חוּל, the sand or beach of the sea.
 חוּל, the loins. Kings shall come out of thy loins.
 חוּמ, חוּמ, a wall, a mound. The waters were a wall on the right and on the left.
 חוּמ, to desire, to long after; to take pleasure in: also desire.
 חוּמ, to turn aside: חוּמ, the joints of the thighs.
 חוּמ, five, from the number of the fingers, and their use in counting: also חוּמ, חוּמ, five.
 חוּן, חוּן, to be kind, gracious, or favourable.
 חוּן, kindness, grace, or favour.
 חוּן, one that is kind, gracious, or merciful.
 חוּן, kindly disposed, gracious. merciful.
 חוּן, graceful, comely: חוּן עֶרְבִי, his comely body.
 חוּן, חוּן, חוּן, supplication.
 חוּן, to pitch a tent, or to encamp.
 חוּן, חוּן, a pitching, or encamping.
 Gwadal, that is fixed, firm, or established.
 Cader, a strong hold, or fortress; a chair.
 Chwyfai, that exerts motion, that has motion.
 Gwyddaw, to become perceptible or present.
 Gwydd, knowledge; presence: gwyddon, a knowing one, a perceiver; one having presence.
 Cwuck, that is wrinkled; a knitting of the brows, or a frown.
 Cadw, to keep, to guard; to save.
 Chweiaw, to be volatile, brisk, or lively.
 Chwai, ertness; alert; brisk; nimble, quick.
 Chwaiai, that is recipient of motion, or activity.
 Ceg, a mouth, an inlet, or outlet.
 Cwll, what separates; a stomach: cyllu, to separate, to divide.
 Cwl, a fault: cwlau, to hurt; to become sick.
 Cwli, a weak state, sickness.
 Chwal, a spread, a dispersion.
 Coludd, bowels, or entrails.
 Cwm, a rounding or rising up, the sides of hills forming a hollow.
 Cymmodi, to be sociable; to reconcile; to covenant.
 Camog, what is bent; a felly: camegu, to form bends or fellies.
 Cymmys, and cyfys, from cy and bys, the finger in conjunction: also cymmysai, and cymmynasth.
 Cwynaw, cwynain, to utter complaint.
 Cws, one that attracts, a chief; kind, gracious.
 Cunon, a kind or gracious one.
 Cunain, attractive, kindly disposed.
 Cain, bright, fair: ei gain gorff o.
 Cwynan, the uttering plaints, a complaint.
 Chwaenu, to come abruptly, or by chance.
 Chwaen, chwaena, a hap, a start; a pitch.

חנית, a spear, a halbert, a pike.
 חסד, a turning from; חסד חוא, it is a bad or wicked thing.
 חסד, goodliness; mercy; חסדו, its goodliness, his love, or good will.
 חסות, מחסה, shelter, refuge, safety.

חפה, to cover over: חפיו, they covered.

חוף, a sea-port, where ships are under cover.

חפז, to be in a hurry, or hurried.

חפץ, to delight in any thing, to fancy.

חפץ, delight; frankness; willingness.

חוף, what is divided; a field; a street;
 חוף, על פני, upon the field.

חור, to heat, to kindle, to incense.

חרי, חרון, חרון, heat, anger, or ire.

חורים, חורים, noble or illustrious ones: בן חורים, a son of nobles.

חורם, the solar fire; the sun.

חורם, some hot fiery humour.

חוש, חוש, to hurry, to hasten; חוש, haste, stay not. חוש, hurry, haste.

חוף, חוף, to sink down, to bring down or under; to reduce; to cast down.

Conad, conaeth, a point; a shaft.

Casedd, hatefulness, hatred; an odious thing.

Cysed, what tends to assuage; a quiet state, quietude.

Cysaeth, mychysaeth, security; quietude.

Cyfu, to compass, to hem in, to surround.

Cwf, that hems in or encompasses.

Chwyfan, to flutter; to heave; to hover.

Hoffeddu, hoff, to render delightful; to like.

Hoffedd, delight; endearment, fondness.

Cwys, a division; a gore; a furrow;
 hul pen y cwys, the cover of the furrow head.

Chwerwi, to become bitter; to embitter; to incense.

Chwero, that is acrid; a bitter; bitter, severe.

Cawri, great ones of strength, or stature; giants; mab cawri, son of mighty ones.

Gwres, sun heat; ardeny; fever.

Gwres, heat, inflammation; fever.

Chwys, to sweat: chwys, be thou in a sweat; chwys, chwys, sweat.

Ceth, an ejection; cethi, to eject, to cast out, to expel, to force out.

ט

טב, good; goodly, fair, sweet, pleasing, profitable, regular, in order.

טמא, clean, clear, pure, refined; also clearness.

טח, to overlay, to daub, to plaster; a daub, a plaster.

טמ, the inside: טמא, inward parts.

טיט, mud, mire, or clay.

טור, טיר, טור, a row, a rank, a range.

טל, dew, or fallen vapour.

טלל, to cover, to envelop, to enclose.

טף, little children, or youngsters.

טש, a castle; a habitation, a town, a village.

טורף, to break in pieces, to snap a bit, to tear.

טורף, that is chased; prey, or spoil.

Taf, that tends to spread out; an even spread; a spread, or layer.

Tw, subtle, pure, clear, refined, transparent, clarified.

Tawch, that rises or stretches over; vapour, haze: tuch, to cover with haze.

Teck, a hidden place; a skull, a lurk

Tud, ground, soil; a surface, a region

Tor, a bulge, a swell out, a prominence.

Til, a minute particle, a grain.

Telu, to expand over: telys haf, summer covering.

Tw, growth, growth in the aggregate

Twr, a tower; twrf, a habitation; a town.

Tort, to break, to fracture; to cut.

Tarf, expulsion; a scare, a drive, a flight.

יָגוֹן, to grieve, to vex, to afflict.
 יָגוֹן, grief, sorrow, or affliction.
 יָר, יָרָה, to cast, to put forward; to handle; to shoot, to throw, to cast
 יָר, a hand, or the fore limb.
 יָר, a banner, a monument; a trophy
 יָל, יָלָל, to cry out, to exclaim, to howl
 יָנָה, a dove; an emblem of love.
 יָצַר, the ' mutable, to form, to fashion
 יָצַר, one who formeth, a fashioner.
 יָש, is, or are; there is, there are.
 יֹתֵר, overplus, remainder; excellence;
 also a string, as of a bow, a cord.

Igiaw, igian, to sob, to sigh deeply.
Igian, a sobbing, or a sighing deeply
Id, that is stretched out; a point:
idiaw, to push out; to render acute
Idaf, a hand, what takes hold.
Id, that is drawn or stretched out.
Wylaw, to cry, to weep, to wail.
Ion, a source, or origin; the Lord.
Saeru, to act as a wright, joiner, or mason.
Saer, a wright, a carpenter, a mason.
Oes, there is; is there? A oes yma neb? Oes.
Eithr, that is besides or over; an exception; except; but.

כָּבֵד, weight; glory, weighty; heavy
 כָּבֵד, the liver, the organ so called.
 כָּבַשׁ, to bring under, to keep in subjection, to subdue.
 כָּר, a pitcher, a bottle, a jar, a jug.
 כָּר, destruction, ruin, savage:
 כִּידִין, supposed to be a dart: Joshua put it out as a sign to an ambuscade כַּח, masculine, and כִּי, feminine, a restrictive particle: thee; thine; there; here; so.
 כִּי, restriction, used as a particle; why, wherefore, so, therefore; but; if; because.
 כֹּהֵן, a priest; a minister of God; also of a king.
 כָּלַם, to restrain, to withhold, to confine.
 כָּלַם, כָּלִי, confinement; a prison.
 כָּלִי, any piece of work, or thing done: a tool, an instrument: כָּלִי בֵּיתְךָ, the utensils of thy house.
 כֶּן, some insect that settles in the skin; house.
 כֵּן, right, fixed, stable: adverb, so.
 כָּנַס, to heap, to gather, to collect together.
 כָּס, כָּסָה, a covering; a covered place
 כָּסָל, the flank, or loins, the haunches
 כָּפ, a curvity, or bending over; the bottom of the foot; the hollow of the hand; a vault.
 כָּמַח, a stem, a stock, as of a tree.

Cyffwrdd, power, dominion; wealth, riches.
Cyffwrdd, a coming or rising together.
Cyfasu, to bring down together, to subdue together.
Ced, a receptacle to keep any thing in
Cid, havoc, ravage, destruction.
Cudw, a flowing lock of hair or wool, a flowing ringlet.
Cw, a rounding; quick motion; wherefrom, whence; at or in what place, where.
Cy, a particle denoting a mutual act, or quality, or effect. Cy gynted, as quick.
Cwyn, a setting in motion, or agitating; a plaint, a complaint.
Ciliaw, to draw back, to recede; to drive back.
Cilfa, a retired place, a recess, a retreat.
Celfi, tools, instruments, or utensils: also any trifling things: celfi dy fwrth, the utensils of thy house.
Chwain, fleas, from their nimbleness.
Can, sight; brightness; because; for; as; with; of.
Cynnwys, to concentrate; to contain; to admit.
Cas, a being separated; a castle; hate, envy.
Cesail, the arm-pit, the bosom; a cove
Caf, what curves inward; a grapple, a grasp, a rake with bent prongs; a snatch.
Cyf, a stock, a stem, a stump, or boll

- כפול, coupled or double ; כפול, a couple.
 כרי, כריים, soldiers keeping guard by their going round ; patroles.
 כר, to dig, or to delve ; to turn the ground.
 כח, כחח, to break, to bruise, or to wear to pieces ; to dissipate ; a wearing away.
 כחן, a coat, or vesture ; raiment : Халат.
Cwpsol, a junction, or joint ; a couple
Cor, a round, a circle ; cori, rounds ; circles : cor, is also a crib, or stall
Cori, to turn ; to form rounds or circles.
Cotki, to cast off, to throw off, to eject, to squirt : a throw off : a squirt.
Coden, what envelopes ; a bag ; coden, a shaggy coat.

ל

- לא, לוא, not ; nay ; nothing. לא, זר, not oppressed.
 לאש, to cover, or to conceal : to suppress, to be silent.
 לבא, לביא, a lion, male or female.
 לחם, to burn, to set on fire.
 לו, to wrest, to turn aside, to distort ; to depart : perverse.
 לוח, לוחח, a slab, a plank, a table : לוחח, tables, or slabs.
 לוחי, the flat part or side of the face.
 לט, to drop, to hang as a drop : a drop ; also dropping, pendant.
 בלט, cautiously.
 לט, some rich gum ; what drops.
 ליש, a lion, from ליש, to temper the chops, as a sign of greediness.
 לכד, to take, to catch, to lay hold on.
 לכר, a taking, or catching ; a trap.
 לן, to lodge, to stay, to harbour at a place.
 לע, to swallow, to gulp : the swallow.
 לע, to repeat ; to explain : to interpret
 לע, and לרץ, a repeater ; an interpreter, or explainer.
 לש, to temper ; to knead, or work about.
 לשך, moisture ; juice of plants ; fresh oil.
 לשן, to tongue ; to abuse ; to prattle.
 לשון, לשון, the tongue ; language ; Arabic, Lisan.
Llai, lesser, less ; it is used for llaiach, smaller : llaisar, less offence.
Llethu, to press flat : to overlay or press down.
Lleibai or lleibiai, that licks up.
Llidiaw, to inflame ; to grow angry.
Llysu, to bar out, to put aside, or to reject. Llys and llysiad, rejection.
Llech, a flat stone, a slab : also a squat, a sculk : llechoedd, llechau, and llechi, slabs, flat stones.
Llechwedd and llechi, the side of the face, the temple.
Lled, that is prone or flat : a flat : lleddu, to make flat ; to become flat
Llydd, that is diffusive : that is poured out.
Llwy, that is cleared or cleaned : that clears or cleans out.
Llochiadu, to mound, to pen up, to fold.
Llochiad, a forming a mound or dam, a penning up.
Llen, a cover, a veil : llennu, to cover, to veil.
Llyngu or llynau, to swallow : lleng, the swallow.
Llithiaw, to allure, to train : to read a lesson.
Llith, that is given as nurture, a lesson. Llithion, one who allures ; a trainer, a lecturer.
Llws, mucilage, slime : llwsu, to yield mucilage, to slime.
Llysaid, a slimy state, mucilage.
Lleisoni, to produce a voice ; to form the voice.
Lleison, the organ that forms the voice.

מאד, strength, might; greatness: adverb, very much: entirely.

מאס, to abhor, to despise: to reject, to cast off.

מנג, to melt away, to dissipate,
to dissolve.

מנר, what is excellent, or precious:
thus, pleasant things are מנרים.

מד, מדר, to mete, to measure.

מד, מדה, ממד, a measure.

מה, מי, how? what? who?

מחר, to hasten, to speed, to be quick;
also one that is hasty or rash.

מחט, to slide, to slip aside or asunder: thus, בל מחט, is, they cannot be moved.

מל, to cut, to chop, to chop off, to cut down, to bray, or to bruise.

מלל, to speak, to talk: מלה, a word.

מל, to cut off the top; to circumcise.

מול, plural. מלים, circumcised.

מולת, circumcision, that is a baring
the top.

מול, מול, opposite to, near to, over against.

מלא, to fill, to fill up: to complete:
fulness.

מלח, to salt, to season with salt: salt,
or saltiness.

מלחה, pervaded by salt; barren.

מלאכה, work, affair to be managed;
affair, business.

מלאך, an agent, a messenger; an angel.

מלך, to have supreme power, to reign,
to rule.

מלך, a sovereign, a king, or a prince:
also the title of an object of worship—Moloch.

מלכין, a brazen image of Moloch, so named, probably from its form of a bust.

מלכה, the queen of heaven, the ruler of heaven; the moon.

מלכות, ממלכה, מלכות, a kingdom;
reign.

מלץ, sweet, of a sweet savour or smell

Med, that is full, perfect, or mature:
as far as to the full; to, unto, as far as.

Masw, to depart; to swoon, or to faint away.

Mygw, to become smoke; to smoke;
to suffocate.

Myged, reverence, honour; grandeur;
glory: mygedion, grand things.

Medw, to render extended, full, or perfect.

Med, medai, that is full or perfect.

Mac, there is; is there? what is?
where is?

Meru, to flit, to drop: mer, that is dropped off or parted; a drop.

Mudaw, and symudaw, to flit, to move, to quit; also ymmod, motion; and ymmodi, to move.

Malu, to bray or break small, to grind; maluwyn, to chafe, to foam at the mouth, as a horse doth.

Malu, to liken: to joke; to utter levity.

Moeli, to make bare or bald the top or head.

Moel, bare, bald: plural moelion,
bald ones.

Moelaeth, the act of making bare or bald.

Moll, that surrounds, closes upon, or includes.

Mola, to concrete matter, to form gum.

Molochi, to raise a ferment: moloch, ferment. Prydain arfoloch, Britain in a ferment.

Molochw, that has passed through a ferment.

Maeloca, the act of trafficking, or a merchandising.

Mabwch, one that is light or volatile.

Maelochu, maelogi, to act as a manager, or trader.

Maelawg, maelwog that has means of power, that has abundance; that has traffick.

Maelgwn, the summit or head of power: the name of a king of Wales, who died A. D. 542.

Maelocai, a teeming one: that tends to increase.

Maelogaeth, a state of teeming or abundance.

Melys, sweet, dulcet: a sweet.

- מנה, to dispose into classes or ranges, to sort.
מין, מינה, מין, a species, or kind; likeness, or appearance; a peculiar thing; a particle like hoar, which the Israelites on seeing, called out מן הוא! it is a species of itself; as they knew not what it was מנה, מניח, plural, a sum or quantity of money.
מין, מינה, kind, or species: למינו, after his kind.
מני, an object of idolatry: a drink offering to מני, that number; therefore מניתי, I will number you to the sword. Isaiah lxx. 11.
מני, to rule, to order: what is regular, rule, order.
מסח, מסח, to melt, to dissolve, to loosen: a soft or melting mood; voluptuousness.
מסך, to mix, or to intermingle.
מץ, מצה, to squeeze, to press together, to crush, to squeeze out; also a squeezer.
מצא, to find, to meet with, to come upon; to supply; to be present: to succeed.
מריא a fattling; plural מריאים
משש, משש, to feel, to handle, to take hold: משש, to take or draw out: to remove.
מח, מח, to die: מחי, I die.
מח, a dead person: מחיים, mortals.
מחח, pleasant, agreeable, sweet.
- Moni, to individualize, to become a separate one.
Mon, a separate or isolated being: man, a spot, a speck; a place: man, what consists of small particles: manion, small particles of any thing: man yw fo, a speck it is, or yw fo man, it is a spot.
Mwnai, that is formed of or having ore; money.
Mynw, an individual; a person, a body.
Menw, an intellect, mind, or soul: also a mythological personage, stiled Menw mab teirywaedd, or Menw the son of three cries.
Mynu, to will, to exert volition; to obtain.
Masn, to volatilize; to swoon, to faint.
Maswedd, a volatile state; voluptuousness.
Mysgu, to mix, to intermingle, to blend.
Mathu, to render flat or even; mathru, to tread or trample: that is flat, spread out, or even.
Meddu, to possess, to own, to have, to have command of: to be able.
Merydd, a fattling; plural meryddes.
Moes, conduct, behaviour; civility: moesa, to give, or to confer: to hand.
Methu, to fail; to become inert: methwyf, I fail.
Meth, a failure; a state of inertness.
Mwythawg, tender; soothed; pampered; softening.

J

- ניר, comfort, or solace; joy; ease.
נחה, to make a moaning, to grieve.
נח, נחי, a lament, a moan, a wail.
נחרי, to run as a stream, to flow; to run: a stream.
נוח, a home, a dwelling a habitation.
נץ, to shoot out, to fly out or upon.
נחח, to cut in pieces; to dissect.
- Naid, a refuge, or a sanctuary.
Neuaw, to wish earnestly, to long, to pant.
Nen, a pant, or an earnest wish.
Ner, that tends out; that is forward: abortion.
Nef, a hollow; a place of rest; heaven.
Nwyth, a drift; a whim: nwythaw, to do a freak.
Naddu, to chip; to cut with any tool.

D

- סבך, to entangle; to perplex, to vex.
סבך, a tangle; a thicket, or brake.
- Sybachu, to draw in a heap, to shrink up.
Sybach, that is drawn in a heap.

- סג, סג, סג, segg, dross, or drags. Soeg, that is-seethed; draff; grains of malt.
- סגר, to enclose, to shut up; to confine. Segru, to enclose; to put apart; to secrete.
- סגר, what encloses; a caul; a border. Segr, that keeps apart; that is enclosed.
- סוד, סוד, to lay a foundation, to found; to advise: to ordain. Sodi, to fix, to constitute, to implant; to limit.
- סוד, סוד, foundation, or base; council; secret. Sawd, tendency; juncture; extremity, limit.
- סוח, סוח, to sweep, or to brush off any thing. Sychu, to dry; to grow dry; to wipe.
- סס, to turn aside: a turn aside, plural, ססס, those that turn aside. Swydaw, to intimidate, to awe: swydion, intimidated or scared ones.
- סך, סכך, to cover over, as a tent; to shelter; a covering; a shelter, a covert. Swchu, to envelope the point of a thing, as a cone: swchu esgid, to toe-piece a shoe.
- סך, that covers, or is covered; a shelter, a covert; also written סוך. Swch, a snout; a soc, or share of a plough: swch esgid, point of a shoe.
- סכה, plural סכה, a booth; a tent. Swchai, that envelopes in the form of a cone.
- סכל, to be thoughtless, foolish, or silly. Siglaw, to waver, to act with fickleness.
- סכל, thoughtless, foolish, silly: a fool. Sigl, a waver, a shake or rocking; a wag.
- סכלות, thoughtlessness, folly, stupidity. Siglaeth, a state of wavering or fickleness.
- סל, סלח, to exalt, to elevate, to raise. Syllu, to gaze. Sylla, sela, behold! lo!
- סלם, a ladder, a gradual raise. Sylam, that serves for a step or a stride.
- סע, סעה, to move along, or to proceed. Sangu, to tread, to trample, to tramp along.
- סער, to stay, or to prop; to strengthen: also a stay or prop. Sangadu, to make a step: sangad, a pace, a tread, a trampling.
- סר, to turn aside, to turn off; to take a huff. Sòri, to offend; to become sulky, to sulk.
- סר, סורר, one that revolts, or turns off. Sor, a sulk: sorai, one that sulks or revolts.
- סרה, a turning away; revolt; aversion. Sor, a sulk; sullenness; aversion.
- סח, to stir up, to irritate; to entice: also a stirring up, or irritation; enticement. Sythu, to render erect or stiff: erectness, rigidity; erect, stiff; rigid.
- סרו, winter, or the cold season. Sytha, that causes stiffness or rigidity

ע

- ער, to set, appoint, constitute, or fix: an appointment; a set portion, or an allotment; a witness; any length of time: ער, ערי, of old. Oedi, to set a time, to make an appointment; to delay: Oed, a set time; age; an appointment; yn oed y dydd, during the day: plentyndw ydd o oed, a child of a year old.
- ער, ערי, to, unto; yet; whilst: ער, כל, all the while. Hyd, to, unto, until; whilst: hyd yma, as far as here; o hyd, all the while.
- ערה, an assembly; a putting off; protest; testimony, evidence. Oedi, a setting of time; an appointment; a putting off, or delaying.
- ערי, plural עריים, an ornament. Eddi, flue; fringe: also thrums.

ע

- עדן, delight; delicacy; delicate, nice. Addwyn, what is fair; delight: becoming; kind.
 עדן, the name of a country; Eden. Addwyn, that is intellectual.
 על, עלה, to be up or upon; to ascend. Hulaw, to cover, to deck, to spread over.
 על, above, up, over, on high. Hul, a cover; a coverlet; a mat.
 על, עליון, on, upon: near by. Hul, hulgn, what covers; a coverlet.
 על, על, a yoke. על לא עלה עליה על, which no yoke hath come upon. Hwyl, a course; regimen, order: plight, or state; also a sail.
 עלה, עלה, what ascends; burnt offering. Hulai, that tends to cover, or to overspread.
 עלה, a leaf; also a branch. Hulai, that tends to cover, that forms a cover.
 ענן, to cloud: a cloud: ענני ענן, when I cloud a cloud. Haenen, a stratum; a sprinkling; a covering: pen hacnwyf haenen.
 עץ, plural עצים, a tree; wood. Gwydd, a shrub, a tree: a wood.
 ער, ערה, to pour out, to stir up, to rouse. Gweiriaw, to shoot out; to make hay.
 ער, a stirrer up, a rouser, a mover. Gwair, that shoots out, is brisk, or luxuriant; hay.
 ער, plural ערות, a juicy plant; Gwyr, that is luxuriant or verdant; verdancy.
 ערב, Arabia: Arabia is a peninsula. Gwyrch, that juts out; a peninsula.
 ערב, the evening, or night-fall. Gwyrfa, the place of declination.
 עשק, to press down, to oppress; also a pressure, or oppression. Gwasgu, to press, to squeeze: gwasg, a press; pressure.
 עת, a time or season of any thing. Gwaith, course, turn, or time; season.
 עת, to distort, to wrest, to writhe. Gwaethu, to deteriorate, to hurt.
 עתו, עתו, an he goat; a ram; from the idea of their pushing. Gwthiad, that butts, or pushes: a pusher.

D

- פגר, a carcase, or a dead body. Pegor, a pivot; a dwarf; a pert little body.
 פו, to be stiff; to be dense; to be strong. Pwysaw, to weigh; to press, to weigh down.
 פו, that is dense; solid metal; solid gold. Pwys, weight, pressure, moment.
 פו, to blow, to give wind; to vent. Puchaw, to pant; to sigh: puch, a pant.
 פחד, to be amazed; to surprise, to astonish. Puchadu, to make a panting: to sigh.
 פחד, amazement, surprise, dread. Puchad, a producing a panting; a sighing.
 פיר, destruction, ravage, havoc, ruin. Pyd, that sinks or falls in; a pit, a snare.
 פלג, to divide, to sever, to share. Pellogi, to render of remote state.
 פלג, a division, a distribution. Pellwg, a distant or remote state.
 פלד, it is rendered torches. Peiliad, a brandishing, a gleaming.
 פלח, to separate, to sever; to divide. Pellu, and pellau, to render distant.
 פנה, to turn to, to turn about. Pennu, to head; to come to head or end.
 פנה, a turning, a corner: the פנות, chief of the tribes of Israel: a corner stone is פנהח. Pen, a head, a front: an end or extremity: penaeth, a chief, or principal: a corner stone, maen penarth.
 פניו, in regimen פני, the face or fore part. Pen, a head: a front: an end: a fore part.
 פניאל, face of God, a place so called. Pen-i-el, a head or front to a spirit.

פסח, to halt, to limp, to be lame.
פסח, the passover; but literally a halting at, or stopping at.

פר, to break, to fracture; to cut off,

פר, a bullock: plural פרוה, kine; and פריס, bulls.

פור, a lot, destruction: plural פורים: to throw down: to break.

פיר, a boiling pot, or a kettle.

פרד, to separate, to divide, to part off

פרס, a village, or open town.

פרך, It is rendered rigour: the Egyptians made the Israelites serve with rigour.

פרץ, to break forth, to burst, to spread abroad: a breach, a breaking forth: a destroyer: Mount Perizim.

פריץ, one that bursts forth; a robber

פרש, to spread, stretch out, or extend פרש, a rider, upon any animal.

פש, to increase, to grow big: that is great, or of weight. במש ממש, with great extremity.

פשתה, flax, the filament of the plant.

פסע, to stride, to take a step; to march: also the stride by which we step: a step.

פת, a bit, a morsel, a mouthful.

פה, a hinge, that part of the body on which it turns, the hip; fickle; sudden.

פת, to slide, to slip, or to glide.

פתח, פתי, easily turned; fickle; simple.

פתן, it is rendered the asp, or adder.

פתח, to open, in a general sense; to loose; to grave, to engrave; to carve: a laying open; an engraving; a carved work: an aperture; a door.

פתל, to twist, to twine together.

פתיל, a twist; a cord; a thread; a lace.

פתר, to open, to explain; to interpret, to expound dreams, or oracles: an opening, or expounding.

Pesychu, to intermit; to cough.

Pasych, and pesuch, an intermittent effort: a cough.

Pori, to graze, from pawr, what is grazed.

Porai, that grazes, a grazing animal: poreion, grazers.

Bwrw, a cast, a throw: a woof; a tally: to cast, to throw down.

Pair, a cauldron, or a boiler.

Paredu, to make a partition, to partition.

Pres a resort: a covert: pres y ci, a dog-kennel.

Parch, awe, respect, reverence, honour: parchu, to be in awe; to respect.

Preiddiau, to make a booty of cattle, to predate: praid, a herd; a booty of cattle, to predate: praid, a herd; a booty of cattle: mynydd preiddiau.

Preiddiai, one that hunts for prey; a depredator.

Proysaw, to protrude: presu, to hurry

Proysai, one that urges or presses on.

Pwysaw, to weigh: to press: to oppress: pwys, weight, pressure: myned wrth bwys, to go on leisurely; peth o bwys, a thing of moment.

Peisiaeth, coating: peiswyn, chaff of oats.

Pysang and mysang, a trample: py-sangu and mysangu, to trample.

Peth, a thing; a small quantity, a little; some.

Pwyth, that runs in; a point; a turn; an angle, a stitch; a requital.

Pwythaw, to thrust in; to form an angle; to stitch.

Pwythaid, having a tendency to thrust in.

Python, a period or circle of time.

Peithwchu, and peithwgu, to make clear or open: peithwch, and peithwg, that is open or clear; that abounds with openings, as a comb; hunting ground.

Pwythyllu, to form interstices or intertexture.

Pwythell, an interstice, an intertexture.

Peithori, to lay open, to explore. The Gauls called the priests of Apollo pateru: peithorau, expounders.

ז

זר, a side; a turn; a hunt; בזרז, in the side thereof.

זיר, ציר, that is aside, store, provisions; a hunting: also one that hunts.

זריח, a laying by, or in wait, a sculk

זרק, exact, righteous; just: righteousness: to render exact, to justify זרקה, exactness, righteousness, justice.

זריק, one that is exact or just; a just man; one that can justify.

זר, to be dried up; to desiccate: such a hue as a dry wind gives: pale, white.

זר, dry; white, pale: a dry wind.

זרח, a drought: that is dry, dry.

זרח, to laugh, to deride; to sport.

זיון, ציון, a title; a way-mark; a sign

צל, צלל, a shadow: shelter: צלמות, shadow of death: the plural of צלם, an image, is צלמות.

צום, to be empty; to fast: צומים, fasted a fast: צמים, robbers.

צום, the being empty: a fasting.

צמא, to hunger; to thirst: emptiness, thirst, or hunger.

צמח, to bring to nothing; to vanish, to waste, to consume.

צעד, to step, to go along; to march.

צעד, צערה, צערה, a stepping; a march, a treading, a pacing.

צעה, a throwing down, or prostrating; a travelling.

צעצע, tread to tread; he made two cherubims of צעצע, mutual movement.

צר, to vex, to afflict, to straiten, to press together; to bind up.

צר, צור, צורר, צורר, that afflicts, that oppresses, an enemy: vexed: straitened, close, narrow, bound up.

צר, some cutting tool; a knife: a flint

Sid, a turn; a rim; a circle; a wind, a reel.

Sidai, a recipient of turns or courses; one that winds about.

Sidiaw, to wind about: a winding about.

Sodig, that is fixed or constituted: sodigaw, to render fixed or exact.

Sodica, that is fixed or implanted.

Sodawg, that is implanted or exact: one that is fixed or exact.

Sychu, to dry; to be dried, to desiccate; to wipe: kin sych, dry weather.

Sych, dry, parched: syched, thirst, drought.

Sych-sych, drought upon drought.

Swochoca, to make mouths, to grimace

Senu, a mark, sign, or stigma.

Sel, a distant sight or glance: sehu, a gaze, a beholding, a view: sehu meth, a sight of annihilation.

Somi, to produce emptiness; to balk, to disappoint.

Som, a vacuity, or a void; a balk.

Soma, to gather emptiness: emptiness, a void state.

Somaethu, to produce emptiness, or a void state.

Sangu, sangadu, to step; to trample.

Sangad, sangiada, ymsangiad, mysangiad, a treading, a trampling.

Sangu, to trample, to tread upon.

Sang-sang, tread to tread, of mutual tread, or stepping together.

Sardu, to throw off; to abuse; to insult, to offend; to injure.

Sar, that is on or along; that is apt to cast down; fury, rage; insolence: offence: disgrace, reproach

Ser, that tends to enclose; a bill, or bill-hook.

פ

קבל, to receive, to accept, to obtain.

קבל, an engine of war; a grapple.

קב, to hollow out; to dent, to pierce

קב, a vessel of measure, as is supposed; a cob.

קבח, the maw; the belly, or paunch.

Cafael, to get, to obtain, to have.

Gafael, a hold, a gripe, a grapple.

Cibaw, to form a vessel, shell, or pod

Cib, a vessel; a shell, a pod: cibyn, a peck measure.

Cwb, a concavity; a cote, or kennel; a hut.

קד, to bend or bow down the head.
קו, קומ, a line, a string, a cord.

קל, to abate: to see if the waters
חקלו, were abated; lightness, vileness; despised, vile.
קלט, to contract, to shrink.

קלע, to sling; a sling; what is slung,
also a slinger: a hanging.

קום, קומ, what is raised or set up; a rising up; a statue: an image;
also one that rises up, an insurgent; to raise up; to arise; to stand up, to fix.

קנ, קנה, a reed; a cane; a pipe; a stalk.

קנח, קנה, to get, to acquire, to obtain;
to purchase.

קנה, קנן, to lament, or to bewail.

קונה, קנה, one who acquires or gets;
a buyer.

קינה, lamentation, or complaining.

קנא, zeal: envy, jealousy: one that is zealous; an envious one.

קנוא, one full of zeal; a jealous one.

קיר, קריה, in regimen קרית, plural קריות, a wall: בקיר החומה, on the battlement of the wall.

קרן, to shoot forth, to cast rays or horns; to have horns.

קרן, a horn; a ray, or beam; a shoot

קש, stubble, bits of straw, or any refuse

קשה, to be rigid, hard, or stiff; to be cruel; to harden.

קשי, rigidity, stiffness, stubbornness.

קשקש, a bow, for shooting with.

רא, to look; to see, to perceive.

ראי, the look; a gazing-stock; מראת, mirror.

ראש, the head; a chief; a point;
priority: principal, head, chief.

ראש, to sum up: a sum total; account.

ראשית, the chief or first; a beginning.
רב, to strive, to contend; to make words.

Cwyddaw, to fall, to lapse; to tumble
Caw, a bine, a bind, a tie, a band, a bandage.

Ciliaw, to retreat; to retire; to chace, to drive away: cil, a recess;
a flight, a retreat.

Caledu, to harden; to grow hard or dense.

Gollhong, to let go; to loosen: a departing point; a loosening.

Cwm, a rounding together; a hollow, by the rising of the sides: the sides of hills forming a dingle; a deep valley: cwmaw, a buttock; a kive.

Cawn, what is empty; canes, reed-grass.

Canu, to have in possession or with:
to be with.

Cwynaw, cwynain, to complain, to lament.

Canai, a recipient of possession.

Cwyna, a reiteration of complaint.

Ceina, a glancing cautiously: ceiniaw ni twydd, it is useless to pry.

Ceinai, one that looks suspiciously.

Caer, a wall or mound; a fortified camp; a fort, a fortress; caer sidi, the ecliptic.

Corni, to be formed as a horn; to have a horn.

Corn, any pointed projection; a horn;
a roll.

Cws, cwsur, refuse of corn and straw

Casau, to be severe; to be at enmity, to hate.

Casi, hatred; envy: ceasir, hard snow, hail.

Cisaeth, that is by the effect of a touch or twang.

Rheiau, to ray, to gleam, to radiate.

Rhai, a ray, a glance, or a gleam:
rheiaeth, radiation.

Rhys, a start, offset: a beginning.
Pen Rhys, in Wales, and Start Point, in England, are synonymous names.

Rhesu, to place in a rank, or row:
rhes, a row, a rank.

Rhysaeth, the act of putting on a start.
Rheibiaw, to snatch violently, to clutch.

ריב, strife, contention, quarrel.	Rhaib , greed, voracity : a snatch, or clutch.
רבה, to increase; to multiply; to grow large.	Rhyfu , to enlarge, to swell out, to puff.
רב, that is large or big: great, large: much; enough.	Rhyf , that enlarges or swells out; a puff; pride: rhyf , rhy , too much, excess, extreme.
רב, רוב, multitude; greatness.	Rhyf , the state of being beyond or over: excess.
רבע, to lie or squat down; to repose.	Rhybwysaw , to over-press, to preponderate.
רבע, a reposing, a squatting down.	Rhybwy , over-pressure, preponderance.
רנל, to foot, to trace by the foot.	Rhuglaw , to move on briskly: to clear away.
רנל, a foot, a limb to move with.	Rhugl , that is of free motion; quick, ready.
רנן, to murmur, to mutter.	Rhagain , to make a murmur: to creak.
רנע, to be at ease, to settle, to rest; to pause.	Rhygyngu , to go leisurely, to amble.
רנע, a being easy; a pause; ease.	Rhygyng , an easy or ambling pace.
רר, ררה, to go down, to submit; to subdue, to have dominion.	Rhediaw , to necessitate; to need, to render needful.
רר, ררה, a being down; submission: down.	Rhaidd , need, necessity; that is unavoidable.
רח, רוח, wind; breath, breathing; spirit.	Rhock , a forcible or rough utterance; a grunt.
רח, to blow; to breathe, to take breath: to wind.	Rhechi , to breathe forcibly: to grunt.
רח, to triturate, to grind: a mill.	Rhwgu , to triturate; to rub: rhwyg , a rub.
רחח, something to fan with for blowing off chaff.	Rhockad , a blower, that blows roughly
רווח, a breathing, or a blowing.	Rhocka , a making a rough noise: a grunting.
רוח, to wind; to smell; to stink.	Rhechu , to break wind forcibly: to fart.
רום, to raise, to lift up, to exalt; to be high.	Rhamu , to rise over; to soar; to vault.
רום, רוּם, high, exalted: height; exaltation; haughtiness.	Rham , exalted, soaring; a rise over; a reach over.
רמת, exaltation: praise, eulogy.	Rhamaeth , the state of being over or above.
רמה, to cast, to fling; to throw out; to report.	Rhemiau , to run or thrust out, to puff out.
רע, רעה, noise, din, or clatter.	Rhinc , a continued sharp noise; a squeak.
רעה, to be with, to accompany; to manage, to feed: a companion; a friend; a mate.	Rhangn , to accommodate; to render replete; to satiate: rhang , accommodation.
רעה, רעה, a companion; a mate; also another: a shepherd; attendance; pasture.	Rhangai , one that fulfils or satisfies; one that renders conducive.
רץ, to run; to break, to crumble, to bruise.	Rhedu , to run, to perform a course, to race.
רץ, one that runs; a post; a soldier; what is made to run.	Rhedat , one that runs; one that produces a running.

רצו, to delight, to be pleased, to enjoy.
 רצון, delight; will, pleasure; acceptance.
 רצו, to leap, to bound, or to jump.
 רש, to drive out: to inherit: to succeed.
 רש, poor: ריש, poverty: רישון, driven out, expelled.
 רשע, to vex: to worst; to wrong: to be wrong.
 רשע, worsting: vexing: wrong, injury.

Rhyddaw, to make easy; to become free.
Rhyddon, a facilitating faculty.
Rhuthadu, to make a burst; to burst away.
Rhusaw, to cause to start; to start; to hesitate.
Rhus, that is started or driven out; also a fox.
Rhysangu, to over tread, to over trample.
Rhysang, an over-tread, an over-trample.

ש

שאל, שאל, the lowest state; the grave; a pit.
 שאון, משאון, noise; ostentation; pomp.
 שאר, to remain, to be left as a residue.
 שאר, שארית, remainder, remnant.
 שאר, שארית, ferment, leaven.
 שב, שוב, to turn; to turn to and fro; to change: a turn, a change, return.
 שבת, to cease, to stop, to desist, to rest.
 שבת, שבתון, cessation, rest, leisure.
 שד, שדר, to harass, to spoil, to dissipate.
 שד, שוד, שוד, a harasser, a spoiler.
 שדי, that causes to be set forth; a maintainer, or establisher; the all-bountiful.
 שרי, heathen gods, or idols: that is, heavenly bodies.
 חשדי, a vale where now the dead sea is: if not so called from a temple to the stars of heaven, it might be from its immersion.
 שד, to plaister; to bedaub; to lime.
 שיד, lime, burnt stone; plaister.
 שט, שטח, to turn or go aside, to run aside.
 שטן, to stand up against; an adversary: Satan.
 של, שלל, to shed; to put off, to pull off.
 שלה, to be easy, quiet, or inactive.
 שלו, שלי, שלום, tranquillity, ease, quiet.

Sail, a base, a ground-work; a foundation.
Son, ymson, noise, report, rumour.
Saraw, to throw off; to injure; to insult.
Sar, saraeth, a throw off; fury, insult.
Sw, an acid; saraeth, sourness: acid sour.
Swbiaw, sybwiaw, to pile or bundle together, to toss about: sybwb, a rumple.
Seibaw, seibaethu, to take respite, to rest.
Seibiaeth, respite, leisure, rest.
Swydaw, to awe, to intimidate, to scare.
Swydai, that is a cause of intimidation.
Swyddai, that has jurisdiction or office, that has service.
Sidydd, the tropics: sidoedd, revolvings; and sidion, revolving bodies.
Soddion, immersions, or sinkings. If so named from a temple, the Welsh word sidion would be descriptive of it.
Suddaw, to pervade; to moisten.
Sudd, what pervades; moisture; juice.
Swtu, to be volatile or sudden; to fly about.
Swydan, one that intimidates or scares.
Sllaw, to yield; to spawn; to hull grain.
Swlaw, to become flat or prone; to make flat.
Sola, the being flat, prone, or grounded.

- שטמ, to throw off: to dismiss, to cast out of the hand; to release.
 שטמה, a throwing off; a discarding; a release.
 שמן, to fatten, to become fat; to make fat.
 שמן, fat; rich juice; oil; ointment.
 שנה, to hate, to dislike, to reject, to disapprove.
 שק, a sack, a bag, or pouch.
 שקל, to weigh, or to balance.
 שקל, weight: a coin so called: a weigher: and thus—משקל is a plummet.
 שר, שרר, to regulate or order the voice; to sing: and שיר, a song.
 שרף, a burning; also a serpent.
 שרק, to hiss; to whistle, to blow.
 שט, to set, to put; to beset; to appoint: also that is set or put.
 שט, a foundation; the buttocks.
 שתי, the fixed threads in weaving; the warp.
- Symudaw*, to move, to stir, to remove; to displace.
Symud, motion, move, stir, or removal.
Seimian, seimiau, to grease, to become greasy.
Saim, seimiant, grease, oily fat.
Senu, to taunt, to scoff; to chide; to reproach.
Sack, a sack, or a bag: sackaid, a sackful.
Siglaw, to vibrate as a balance: to shake, to rock.
Sigl, vibration; a shake, a stir; a rocking: siglaeth, vibration.
Saer, a wright, or mason: it is curious that the Welsh word cerdd is also a craft, and a song.
Sarff, a serpent, or a dragon.
Sarugaw, to be stern, surly, or austere.
Sythu, to stiffen, to make rigid or erect; to become stiff, rigid, or erect.
Sedd, a sedate or still state; a seat.
Sythi, straight or stiff things, upshots.

ח

- חכן, to fix the proportion or quantity of a thing: to establish.
 חכן, a settled quantity or proportion: a sum or tale, a total.
 חלה, to hang up, or to suspend.
 חל, a heap, a pile, a mass.
 חלי, a quiver for holding arrows.
 חר, to turn or go about, as a person turns to look about him.
 חר, one who pries about, a traverser.
 חר, a turn, order, or round: a prying.
 חור, חורר, a turtle dove, from its wheeling in flight.
 חום, חום, a whole: integrity: entirely.
- Dogni*, to settle a quantity, to proportion: to fix an allowance.
Dogn, a settled quantity, share, or proportion: sufficiency.
Telu, to put on a stretch, to strain.
Twl, what is rounded, also a toft.
Telai, that is strained; that is suspended.
Troi, to turn, to wind, to wheel, to circulate.
Troat, one that is made to turn or wind.
Tro, a turn, a round; a twist.
Tur, a turn, or reverse; an overturn.
Twm, a bend, a turn, a form: a round heap.

EXAMPLES OF GREEK AND WELSH AFFINITIES.

There are in the Welsh several characteristics, which discover it to have a greater affinity than any other language of Europe with the Greek; and, among the most prominent of those characteristics are the following.

The Welsh and the Greek agree in containing about an equal number of vowels and consonants; that is, upon an average, there are in each a hundred vowels to every hundred consonants. The language that approaches nearest to the like proportion is the Italian, the average of vowels wherein is eighty-eight to every hundred consonants; then follow in order, the Latin, the Spanish, the French, and the English.*

There is a great variety of qualifying prefixes in both the Greek and the Welsh, but in the latter tongue more particularly; for, enumerating such as are simple and compound together, it contains upwards of two hundred and fifty, and which are of universal application to all classes of words.

A considerable identity exists in respect to the conjugation of the verbs of the two languages, but more especially in each having reflexive verbs, or those denominated of the middle voice; yet with this difference, that, in the Welsh, the qualifying agent is prefixed to the root of the verb, and in the Greek inserted between the root and the various terminations. Thus ymdygyff is, in the Welsh, I regulate myself, and τιομαι, in Greek, is I honour myself: and the root of the former is tyg, and of the latter τι is the root.

The two languages are so alike in the general sound of their words, that the first impression upon strangers, from hearing the service of the church read in Welsh, is of its being the Greek which they hear.

The primitive words of the Welsh language are capable of being compounded almost infinitely, and generally upon similar principles to those of the Greek, so celebrated for this convenient quality. Thus Βωπις, the Homeric epithet for the queen of heaven, might be expressed in the Welsh with equal elegance, by these words—buolwg, bulygad, budrem, budremant, budremiant and budremynt; or, in a plural form thus—buolygon, bulygaid, bylgadon, budremion, budremeinnion, budremiannion, and budremynnion. This epithet of Βωπις discovers the poverty and inelegance of the French translation, wherein it is rendered Junon aux yeux de bœuf, which is scarcely better than beef-eyed Juno; but, in the Welsh, Juno-lygad-eidion is not quite so bad.

Again, βουκολος, a cow-keeper, has, in the Welsh, the very ancient equivalent term of Bygeilydd; and from which we might use the name of Bugeileg, or the speech of the herdsman, for the Bucolics of the poets.

Independently of the above mentioned analogies, we discover in both languages a large stock of primitive words, agreeing in sound and meaning, as is exemplified in the subjoined vocabulary.

A

* ἄγγος, ἀγγεῖον, a vessel: ἀγγεια, Matt. xiv. 4—8.	Angad , angas , angeian : angeian —a receptacle,
* ἄγκυα, ἀγκυλαί, the arms.	Angeien , angellan , a fore leg, & pinion; an arm.
* ἄγκυρα, an anchor.	Angor , a bearing round; an anchor.
* ἄδω, to please, to delight, to content	Hoddiaw , to render easy: to become easy.
* ἄε, always, ever, continually.	Au , a continuity of motion: the liver

* I have not made out the average in any of the Tentonic dialects, excepting the Dutch, which has a less proportion of vowels than the English.

- 'Αερ, air, the element to breath in.
 'Αητος, vehement, eager, or earnest.
 Αιγιαλος, the shore, or the sea coast.
 'Αιδης, αιδης, hell: πῦρ σου, αἶδη τὸ νικοῦ.
 Αἶθω, to burn, to consume by fire.
 Αικάλλω, a fawn, a young deer.
 Αἶξ, a she goat.
 Αἶω, to hear, to perceive by the ear.
 Αἰών, αἰώνος, an age, life.
 'Ακτή, the shore, or the sea-coast.
 'Αλείφω, to anoint, to rub with oil.
 'Αλίσκω, to take, to seize, or to catch.
 'Αλλω, to roll, or to turn about.
 'Αλλοίω, to change, or to alter.
 'Αλς, salt.
 'Αλω, to pine, or to languish.
 'Αμφι, about, in a circle, around.
 'Ανία, sadness, dejection.
 'Ανώγω, to instigate, to spur; to command.
 'Αρα', prayers; vows, or promises.
 'Αρης, a title of Mars.
 'Αρκτος, a bear, the animal so called.
 'Αροτῆς, a plougher, a ploughman.
 'Αρώ, to plough, or to till.
 'Αρτίω, to dress, to deck, to adorn.
 Ασκις, a shield, or buckler.
 'Αυλή, an area; a hall, a court.
 Αῦλος, a pipe, or flute: αῦλα, pipes.
 Αυχέω, to vaunt, to boast, to brag.
 'Αχλὺς, darkness, or obscurity.
 Αχλύνω, to grow dark, to darken.
 Αωγρ, sky; air; the firmament.
 Αethus, pungent, acrid; grievous.
 Αἰγιάλ, the bound or limit of the sea.
 Had, seed; the bardic hell: py tan, had, dy nychad?
 Αethu, to be pungent; to smart;
 . goddeithiaw, to burn.
 Eigell, a teeming or bearing animal.
 Ewig, the she of deer, or a hind.
 Oiaw, to hear; to hearken, or to listen.
 Einiocs, life, or the duration of life.
 Aigdde, a shoaling spread; the sea shore.
 Eliaw, to anoint, to rub with salve.
 Hylusgaw, to drag, to trail along.
 Okaw, to track, to leave a trace.
 Alleiaw, altu, to alternate, to alter.
 Hal, halen, heli, hallt, salt, brine.
 Aeleu, alaethu, to grieve, to pine.
 Am, about, round; for concerning.
 Anawyf, ENNUI, want of vivacity.
 Annogi, to incite, to instigate; to exhort.
 Ar, the faculty of speech: arau, speeches.
 Aerwas, a youth of slaughter: a hero.
 Arth, a bear: arthas, a she-bear.
 Aradaur, a plougher: arader, a ploughman.
 Ars, to plough, to till: aru fir, to till.
 Arduyaw, to keep in trim, to keep in check.
 Aes, a flat; a shield: aesbaith, a flat surface.
 Gal, a clear space; dyna dy al, there is thy station.
 Awelai, any wind instrument.
 Awchiaw, to be ardent; to sharpen.
 Achlud, covert, concealment; darkness.
 Achludaw, to cover with darkness; to conceal.

B

- Βάινω, to ascend, to mount up.
 Βάθος, deepness, profundity, depth.
 Βαίος, little; small, diminutive.
 Βάλανος, an acorn; a bolt; a clasp.
 Βάλλω, to throw, to dart, to fling.
 Βήξ, a cough.
 Βίος, life: age, or duration of life.
 Βιὼς, a bow, for shooting with.
 Βόμβος, a buzz, a humming.
 Banu, to elevate, to go to the top.
 Bawdd, an immersion, a drowning.
 Bach, little, small, tiny, or minute.
 Balant, a shoot, a spray; a bud.
 Balu, to throw out, to eject; to shoot.
 Pas, pesweck, that is expulsive; a cough.
 Byw, bywyd, life, duration of life.
 Bwa, a bow; an arch: bwa cyfammod, bow of covenant, rainbow.
 Bwmwyr, a hollow noise, a murmur.

Bopa, food, nourishment.

Βουλῆ, counsel, or advice.

Βαλέω, to deliberate, to counsel.

Βῆνός, a hill, an ascent, or rise.

Βῶς, an ox, kine, or cow ; cattle.

Βόσκω, to graze, to feed.

Βραδύς, dull, heavy, dejected.

Βραχίων, an arm ; force, or strength.

Βραχιόνιον, a bracelet, or armlet.

Βράχω, to resound, to bruit ; to brake

Βρύχω, to bite, to gnash the teeth ;
to shiver.

Βρύω, βρυσσω, to bud, to sprout.

Βρώμος, a stink, a bad smell.

Βρωμέω, to stink, to smell offensively.

Βρωμίοδης, stinking, of ill scent.

Βρώσκω, to eat ; to browse, to graze.

Βυκάνη, a trumpet.

Βῶλος, βῶλαξ, a lump, a clod.

Bara, bread ; food : bara miod, fritters.

Pwyll, pwylla, impulse ; reason, sense, wit.

Pwyllaw, to clear a way ; to deliberate

Ban, bant, banad, a height, an ascent.

Bu, biw, bach, bwch, an ox, or kine, a cow.

Pesgi, to feed, to fatten, to grow fat.

Bradw, fretting away, diminishing.

Braich, breichiawn, an arm ; strength of arm.

Breichionen, breichionyn, a bracelet.

Brochi, to wax fierce, to bluster, to chafe.

Brwchu, to make a stir, or tumult.

Bruaw, brwysaw, to generate ; to flourish.

Bram, bramiad, a breaking wind.

Bramu, bremiaw, bremian, to break wind.

Bremiadus, apt to break wind.

Brwysgaw, to grow heavy, or unwieldy ; to get drunk.

Bugunai, that makes a bellowing.

Bwl, bwlog, rotundity ; a round hollow body.

Γ

Γαίω, to boast, to vaunt, or to brag.

Γάλα, γαλαξ, γαλακτος, milk.

Γένεσις, Genesis, generation.

Γένος, kind, race or generation.

Γένυς, the chin, the mandible.

Γέρανος, a crane, the bird so called.

Γέρων, an old man, an old fellow.

Γλαφω, to carve, to engrave, to grave.

Γλήνη, the apple of the eye, or pupil ; the eye.

Γλῶσσα, γλωττα, the tongue.

Γνάθος, the mouth, the jaw, or chops.

Γοάω, a sigh, a wail, a weeping.

Γόης, a cheat, trickster, or deceiver.

Γραία, an old woman, or a hag.

Γράφω, to engrave, to grave, to write.

Γύνη, γυναιξ, a woman, a female.

Gawa, gewa, to stretch, or extend out.

Gal, what is fair ; milk : galaeth, the galaxy.

Genidas, the act or state of bringing forth.

Genad, genadaeth, a generating ; a being born.

Cen, the chin : car gen, the jaw bone.

Garan, a crane, the bird so called.

Geryn, a querulous, or grumbling one.

Gleifiaw, to blade, to use a blade.

Glain, gleinai, what is pure ; a gem ; the pupil.

Gluoth, glytha, a couch, from its form ; a voluptuary.

Gnwoth, gnythawd, voracity : gnythai, a devourer.

Gwae, woe ; a wail, a moan ; grief ; a curse.

Geuus, geuawg, that is false or lying.

Geraí, gwrach, a querulous one, a hag.

Creifiaw, to notch : crafu, to scratch.

Genai, genog, that generates ; geneth, a girl.

Δ

- Δαῖρ, a brother-in-law, a step-brother.
 Δάκνω, to bite, to separate with the teeth.
 Δακρυ, a tear: μετὰ δακρύον, with tears.
 Δαμάω, to tame, to make gentle.
 Δάνος, a gift: interest; usury, gain.
 Δεκα, ten: δέκατος, tenth.
 Δέρκω, to see, to look, or to behold.
 Δέργμα, a look, aspect, or appearance.
 Δηλέω, to deceive, to impose upon.
 Δηρις, quarrel, strife, debate, brawl.
 Διδάσκω, to teach: διδάσκε, teach thou.
 Δόλος, deceit, treachery, artifice.
 Δολόω, to deceive, to mislead, to cheat.
 Δονέω, δονεύω, to shake, or to move.
 Δούλος, a slave, a servant.
 Δράσσω, to snatch, to lay hold.
 Δρῦς, δρύνος, an oak; the oak.
 Δυο, two: δύο και, two woes.
 Δου, to give: δο εμι, I give.
 Δωρεω, to present: δῶρον, a gift.
 Daw, dawawr, a boon; a son-in-law.
 Dogni, to divide into morsels: dygnoi, to bite.
 Dagr, deigr, deigryn, a tear: cyda dagrion, with tears: meddu deigrion, having tears.
 Dofdu, dofi, to tame, to grow tame.
 Dawn, doniad, a gift, or talent.
 Deg, ten: degfed, degaid, tenth.
 Drychu, to make manifest; to give a look.
 Drychfa, drychiad, drychiant, appearance.
 Twyllaw, to deceive, to cheat, to mislead.
 Deriad, a bickering, or a brawling.
 Dysgu, dyddysgu, to teach: dyddysga, do thou teach.
 Twyll, twyllad, deceive, cheating, fraud.
 Twyllaw, to deceive, to cheat, to mislead.
 Twynaw, to move, or wave about; to nod.
 Dylai, dylad, that is owned or possessed.
 Treisiaw, to do violence; to ravish.
 Dar, derw, derwen, an oak; the oak.
 Dau, two, masculine: dwy, two, feminine: dwy wae, two woes.
 Dodi, to give, to place: dodwyf, I give.
 Dyroi, to give, to present, to bestow.

Ε

- Έαρ, ηρ, the spring, the vernal season.
 Έαρίζω, to send the spring season.
 Εγγνς, near, contiguous, or close.
 Έγγίζω, to approach, to approximate.
 Εδω, to eat, to take food, to feed.
 Επω: ειπον: ειπε μοι, he said to me.
 Εχ, from, or out of, and of.
 Είλω, to cover, or to envelope.
 Έμοι, for me, or to me.
 Εν, in: εν αγορᾷ in the market.
 Ενθα, adverb, there, on that side.
 Ετι, as yet, yet: ερχονται ετι δύο και.
 Ir, that is verdant; verdant, green, juicy.
 Ireiddiaw, ireiniaw, to render juicy, or green.
 Wag, yngus, near, contiguous, or close.
 Yngus yngiadu, yngusaw, to become near, to near.
 Eidiaw, to enliven: ysu, to consume.
 Ebu, to say: ebwn: ebai imi, said he to me.
 Ach, off; near; by: ach ei llaw, by his hand.
 Huliaw, to cover, or to envelope.
 Imi, to me, or for me.
 Yn, in: yn agorfa, in an open place.
 Yna, there, or in that place.
 Eto, yet, again: erchwyna eto ddwy wae, two woes are yet to come.

H

Ἦ, or: ἡ ἀπεῖν, Ἔγειρα, or to say, arise.	Αἰ: ai ebian, agora , or to say, open.
Ἠ, a pronoun: ἡ ὄνομα, her name.	Εἰ, his, her, its: ei henw , her name.
Ἡλιος, and anciently, ἥλ, the sun.	Haul , the sun; also called huan .
Ἡνία, a bridle, or a head-stall.	Hoenai, hwynai, hoenen, hwynyn , a thong.
Ἡρέμος, soft, peaceable, or tranquil.	Araf, arafaid, arafus , slow, soft, gentle.
Ἡρεμέω, to rest; to appease, to tranquillize.	Arafu, arafeiddiaw, arafusaw , to appease.
Ἡσυχος, ἡσυχαιος, ease, quietude.	Heddwch, heddychiad, hedd , peace, tranquillity.
Ἡσυχία, peace, rest, or quietude.	Heddychiad , an appeasing or quieting.
Ἡσυχάζω, to be at rest, to be quiet.	Heddychusaw, heddychiadu , to become at ease.
Ἡχος, ἡχώ, sound, noise, or din.	Aich, eichiad , a loud noise; a scream, a roar.
Ἡες, ἡες, aurora, the dawn, the day-spring.	Eaws, eosig , the nightingale.

Θ

Θέμελον, θεμελιον, a base, or foundation.	Teml, temlon , a spread, or expanse: a seat.
Θεός, God, the supreme being, deity.	Duw , that is beyond darkness; God
Θέρω, to warm, to heat moderately.	Twyraw , to agitate; to parch; to heat.
Θηλή, the nipple, a teat, or a dug.	Telai , that is strained, or stretched out.
Θήρ, θηρίον, a wild beast.	Ter, terydd, teryn , a furious state; that is vehement.
Θίς, a bunch, a heap, a cluster.	Twys , a bunch; an ear of corn.
Θην, a rampart, or a wall.	Din, dinas , an intrenchment, a fort; a city.
Θολός, filth, dirt; mud, or mire.	Tail , dung, manure, soil, muck.
Θόρυβος, tumult, noise, stir, bustle.	Twrf , tumult, din, noise, bustle, stir.
Θορυβεω, to make a noise, to shout.	Twrfu , to make a tumult, or uproar.
Θράνω, to break, or to fracture.	Trafu , to stir; to scour: tori , to break.
Θρώσω, θρώχω, to jump, or to leap.	Trosi, trachu , to convey over, or beyond.
Θύελλα, a storm, or a tempest.	Twyllai , that produces gloom or darkness.
Θύρα, a door, a gate, or opening.	Trwy, trwya , a passage, or a pass.
Θάω, θάω, to nourish, to nurse.	Toi , to cover over, to cover in; to roof.
Θάω, θέω, to run: to fine; to do.	Twya, twyaw , to put in order or form; to order.

Ι

Ἰάχω, to hawl out, to make a noise.	Eichaw , to make a loud din; to scream.
Ἰδιος, own, proper, one's own, peculiar.	Eiddaw, eiddo , one's own: eiddof , mine; eiddot , thine.
Ἰς, ινος, a sinew; a fibre; strength.	Gi, gien , a fine fibre or string; a nerve.

Ἰστωρ, ιστορος, learning; knowledge.

Ἵνα, preposition: ἵνα ῥυσθῶ ἀπὸ, that I may be delivered from. Rom. xv. 31.

Ystyr, ystyriad, meaning; consideration.

Hyna, that: hyna y rhyddwyf heibio, that I be loosened past, or from.

K

Καθαίρω, to purge, or to cleanse out.
Καινός, new, recent, or fresh.
Καίνω, to kill, to deprive of life.
Καινίς, slaughter, or a killing.

Κάλαμος, reed, cane, or straw.
Καλέω, to call, to implore, to crave.
Καλύπτω, to conceal, or to hide.
Κάμηλος, a camel, a dromedary.
Κάμπτω, to bend, to curve.
Καρδία, καρδιά, the heart.
Κράνηον, κράνον, κράνιον, the head; a skull.

Κατα, by, of, according to; against: kata sō, with thee, kata sē, with thy: καταγγέλλω, I declare: ὃν καταγγέλλομεν, whom we preach: Col. i. 28.

Καύχῃσιν, boasting: πῶ οὖν η καύχῃσιν

Κελλω, to land safely, to get ashore.
Κέρκος, a tail, or hinder part.

Κεύθω, to hide, to conceal, to cover.

Κεύθος, κεύθεος, a lurking-place.
Κέω, to cleave, to rend, or to rift.
Κηρός, wax: ὁ κηρός, the wax.
Κιβωτός, a coffer, a chest; an ark.
Κίρκος, a circle, or a round.

Κίσσα, disgust, nausea; a magpie.
Κισσάω, to have a disgust, or hate.
Κλειω, to shut up, to close in, to enclose.

Κλείς, a key; also a bolt, or bar.
Κλίνω, to incline, to bend, to lean, to decline: κλινουσιν, they prostrated themselves.

Κλισία, κλισία, a tent.
Κλύω, to hear; to understand, to apprehend.

Κλυτός, famous, or renowned.
Κνάω, κνέω, κναιω, to gnaw; to vex.
Κοιλία, the belly, the stomach.

Κολλώμενος, a joining, or tying together.

Κολέω, to cut off, or to sever apart.

Cothi, cothori, to cast out, or to eject
Cain, that is clear, bright, or fair.
Ceintiau, ceintiau, ceintach, to bicker
Ceinta, ceintach, a conflict, or a scuffle.

Calaf, reed; stalk or straw of corn.
Gaw, to call; to name; to summons
Celu, celiadu, to conceal, or to hide.
Camell, a curving or bending animal.
Camu, camiadu, to bend, or to curve.
Craidd, the centre, or middle part.
Corun, coronan, the crown of the head; a summit.

Cyda, along with, with; cyda thi, with thee, cyda dy, with thy: cydanghelwyf, I bring out of concealment: hwn cydanghelwn, him we declare.

Coegedd, vaunting, boasting: py yna y coegedd?

Cellu, to make a lodgement, or recess
Cwrcwd, a squat; the posterior; a cowering.

Cuddiau, to hide, to secrete, to conceal.

Cudd, cudded, a hide, a secret place.
Ceuaw, to make hollow: to penetrate
Cwyr, wax: y cwyr, the wax.

Cib, cibawd, any vessel; a measure.
Cyrch, a round place; a resort; a meeting.

Cus, casedd, odious; hate, loathing.
Casau, to hate; to become disgustful
Cloi, to lock: to fasten with a lock; to enclose.

Clo, a knob, or boss; a lock; a close
Cleiniaw, to lie prostrate: cleiniasant, they have prostrated themselves.

Clydai, that gives shelter, that covers
Clynu, clywed, to hear; to have perception.

Clodus, renowned; praiseworthy.
Cnoi, cnawu, to gnaw, to bite: to vex
Cylla, the separating organ, the stomach.

Cylmyniad, connection, a tying together.

Cwllu, to cut, to separate to sever.

- Κολωνός, a hill, a mount, a bank.
 Κόχλω, to turn, or to wind about.
 Κυκλος, a circle, a cycle, a round.
 Κραίνω, κραιάινω, to perfect, to finish.
 Κρέκω, κρεζω, to sound, or to report.
 Κρημνός, a precipice, a steep place.
 Κρήνη, a spring, or fountain: also κρουνός.
 Κρίζω, κρίζω, κρίχα, to make a sharp noise, or cry.
 Κρινον, κριναν, the lily.
 Κρίνα, the poor, or necessitous ones.
 Κρίνον, a kind of dance.
 Κρίνω, to choose, to judge, to decide.
 Κρούω, to beat, to strike, or to bang.
 Κυλλος, maimed, lame, or halt.
 Κῦμα, a wave, or a billow at sea.
 Κύμβος, a concavity, or hollowness.
 Κυμβη, a boat, or a small vessel.
 Κύτος, a cavity, or a hollow place.
 Κύω, κνέω, to carry, also to kiss.
 Κύων, a dog, an animal so called.
 Κώθων, a crater; a cup, a rummer.
 Κώμη, a village; also a street.
 Κωμητησ, a peasant, a countryman.
 Κώνος, a cone, a figure so called.
 Κωνω, to cause to kindle, to kindle.
 Κωφος, a silly fool; dull; deaf; dumb
 Col, colyn, a round point; a pivot; a sting.
 Cwchlu, cylchu, to circle; to round; to hoop.
 Cylch, a circle, a round; a hoop.
 Cywreiniaw, to make accurate, to perfect.
 Creciaw, crechu, to creak; to scream
 Crim, crimell, crimen, a ridge, a ledge
 Cronai, that collects, or generates.
 Cregu, crecu, crechu, crechian, to creak, to squeal.
 Crinon, crinen, crinlys, the violet.
 Crinion, brittle or dried ones; hunks, misers.
 Cronen, that forms a round or circle.
 Crynōi, to gather or put together.
 Curaw, to beat, to strike, to throb.
 Call, callus, that is divergent: troed-gall, club-footed.
 Cwmai, that rises to form a hollow.
 Cwm, cwmaw, a sinking in; a kive, a rump.
 Cafn, a trough; a boat; a ferry-boat
 Cwt, cut, a hovel, a shed, a sty.
 Cuaw, to fondle: cw, a cleaving to.
 Ci, cian, a dog: plural, cion and cwn.
 Cwthwn, cwthyn, what throws off, or ejects.
 Cyma, cymod, cymmod, a community.
 Cymydai, one of a commune; a neighbour.
 Con, that ends in a point; coned.
 Cynneu, cynnewaw, to kindle, to set on fire.
 Cyff, a stock, a stump, a butt, a dolt.

Λ

- Λᾶτ, λᾶατ, a stone, a stone slab.
 Λάλεω, to speak; to chat, to talk.
 Λάλος, a prattler, or a chatterer.
 Λαός, λεος, the people, or multitude.
 Λάπτω, to lap, or take with the tongue.
 Λαρινός, fat and sweet, plump, agreeable.
 Λαριντύω, to fatten, to become fat.
 Λαρός, agreeable, sweet, or dulcet.
 Λάσκω, to revile, to calumniate.
 Llech, a flat stone, or a slate.
 Lloliaw, llolian, to chatter, to prate, to chat.
 Llotyn, a chatterer, a jabberer, a bab-bler.
 Lliaws, a multitude, a great many; a mob.
 Lleibiaw, lleipian, to lick, to lap.
 Llerwin, nice, delicate, or fine.
 Llerwi, llerwinaw, llerwcinaw, to grow nice.
 Llerw, nice, smart, delicate; fine; subtile.
 Llesgu, to be or become weak; to en-feeble.

Ἰστωρ, ἰστωρος, learning; knowledge.

Ἴνα, preposition: ἵνα ῥυθῶ ἀπὸ, that I may be delivered from. Rom. xv. 31.

Ystyr, ystyriad, meaning; consideration.

Hyna, that: hyna y rhyddwyf heibio, that I be loosened past, or from.

K

Καθαίρω, to purge, or to cleanse out.
Καὶνός, new, recent, or fresh.
Καίρω, to kill, to deprive of life.
Καὶρίς, slaughter, or a killing.

Καλαμος, reed, cane, or straw.
Καλέω, to call, to implore, to crave.
Καλύπτω, to conceal, or to hide.
Κάμηλος, a camel, a dromedary.
Κάμπτω, to bend, to curve.
Καρδία, καρδία, the heart.
Κάρανον, κράνον, κράνιον, the head; a skull.

Κατα, by, of, according to; against: κατα σὺ, with thee, κατα σὺ, with thy: καταγγέλλω, I declare: ὃν καταγγέλλομεν, whom we preach. Col. i. 28.

Καύχῃται, boasting: πᾶ ὃν ἡ καύχῃται

Κελλω, to land safely, to get ashore.
Κέρας, a tail, or hinder part.

Κρύβω, to hide, to conceal, to cover.

Κρυθός, κρυθός, a lurking-place.
Κεῶ, to cleave, to rend, or to rift.
Κηρός, wax: ὁ κηρός, the wax.
Κιβωτός, a coffer, a chest; an ark.
Κίρκος, a circle, or a round.

Κίσση, disgust, nausea; a magpie.
Κισσῖναι, to have a disgust, or hate.
Κλειω, to shut up, to close in, to enclose.

Κλεις, a key; also a bolt, or bar.
Κλίνω, to incline, to bend, to lean, to decline: κλισσέν, they prostrated themselves.

Κλισία, κλισία, a tent.
Κλίσω, to hear; to understand, to apprehend.

Κλῆρος, famous, or renowned.
Κρῆναι, κρῆναι, κρῆναι, to gnaw; to vex.
Κελία, the belly, the stomach.

Καλλύμενος, a joining, or tying together.

Καλῶ, to cut off, or to sever apart.

Cothi, cothori, to cast out, or to eject
Cain, that is clear, bright, or fair.
Ceintiau, ceintiau, ceintach, to bicker
Ceinta, ceintach, a conflict, or a scuffle.

Calaf, reed; stalk or straw of corn.
Galo, to call; to name; to summons
Celu, celiadu, to conceal, or to hide.
Camell, a curving or bending animal
Camu, camiadu, to bend, or to curve.
Craidd, the centre, or middle part.
Corun, corunaon, the crown of the head; a summit.

Cyda, along with, with; cyda thi, with thee, cyda dy, with thy: cyd anghelwyf, I bring out of concealment: hwn cydanghelu, him we declare.

Coegedd, vaunting, boasting: py yd y coegedd?

Cellu, to make a lodgement, or room
Cwerced, a squat; the posterior; a cowering.

Cuddiau, to hide, to secrete, to conceal.

Cudd, cudded, a hide, a secret place.
Cenau, to make hollow: to penetrate
Cwyr, wax: y cwyr, the wax.

Cib, cibawd, any vessel; a meeting.
Cyrc, a round place; a meet; a meeting.

Cas, casedd, odious; hate, loathing.

Casau, to hate; to become disgusted.

Cloi, to lock: to fasten with a lock; to enclose.

Clo, a knob, or boss; a lock; a close.

Cleiniaw, to lie prostrate: cleiniaw, they have prostrated themselves.

Clydai, that gives shelter, that covers.

Clywau, clywed, to hear; to have perception.

Clodus, renowned: praiseworthy.

Cnoi, enaien, to gnaw, to bite; a mach.

Cylla, the separating organ, the mach.

Cylymyniad, connection, a tying together.

Ciellu, to cut, to separate to serve.

Λάω, to see; to enjoy, to be pleased.
 Λαίω, to enjoy, or to feel pleased.
 Λέγω, to say; to enjoin, or to bid.

Λέχα, to lie down, to be prostrate.
 Λέσκη, idle chat, tattle or babble.
 Λήγω, to cease, to make an end; to quit.

Λήθω, λησω, to lie hid, to sulk.
 Λιάζω, to divide, or to separate.
 Λιμὴν, a harbour, port, or haven.
 Λίμνη, a lake, a pool, a mere.
 Διτὴ, a prayer, or a petition.
 Λοετρὸν, washings.
 Λοχος, an ambush, also a troop.
 Λοχαω, to lay an ambuscade.

Λύθρον, blood and dust, or grime.
 Λυθρω, to wallow in blood or grime.
 Λύπη, grief, sorrow, vexation: εν
λύπη.

Λύρα, a lyre, a stringed instrument.

Λύχνος, a lamp, a torch, a flambeau.

Llyw, to guide, to direct; to steer.
Llywiaw, to direct: llywy, a paragon.
Llygu, to clear: llug, a gleam, a glance.

Llechu, to lie close, to squat; to sulk.
Llesga, llesgedd, listlessness; idleness.
Llugu, to grow slack, loose, or sluggish.

Llethu, to press flat: llaesu, to trail.
Llysu, lliasu, to part off, to separate.
Llifon, llion, a place of flooding.

Llyn, llifon, a lake, a pool, a mere.
Llith, a lure; a lesson, or a lecture.
Lhotron, any liquid dirt, or dregs.
Lloches, a covert, a hiding place.
Llochi, llochaw, lochesu, to make a covert.

Lhotron, llotrach, alimy matter, grime.
Llutriaw, to begrime; to form grime.
Llipa, that is flaccid or flagging.

Llyre, a tortoise: the shell formed the lyre.

Lluch, lluchyn, llugas, a gleam of light.

M

Μάκαρ, happy, blessed, fortunate.
 Μαλάσσω, to mollify, or to soften.

Μαλος, tender, soft, or delicate.

Μαμμη, μαμμα, μαμμαία, a grand-mother.

Μανὸς, rare, thin, fine, or slender.
 Μαραίνω, to fade, to wither, to decay.

Μαρνάμαι, to fight, to combat, to battle.

Μάχομαι, to fight, to battle, to contend.

Μάχη, a battle, a fight, a combat.

Μέγας, μεγάλου, great, grand, puissant, big: Λιδασκαλε, ποία ἐντολή μεγάλη ἐν τῷ νόμῳ;

Μέδω, to command: also μεδέω, μεδευω.

Μέθυ, μεθνος, wine, the juice of grapes.

Μέθη, drunkenness, or intoxication.
 Μεθυω, to drunk: ἐμεθύσθησαν: μεθύσαν.

Μεθύσκω, to make drunk, to intoxicate

Μελίσσω, to sweeten; to become sweet.

Μελαίνο, to become black, to blacken.

Mygyr, grand; splendid, glorious.
Mallusaw, to make soft or lax; to grow soft.

Mall, mallus, soft or lax; insipid; blasted.

Mam, a mother; mammai, a matron.

Man, small, fine: main, thin, slender.

Merwinaw, to grow torpid; to be numb.

Murniaw, murnofi, to obstruct; to murder.

Macku, machofi, to endeavour to secure.

Mack, machai, security, that secures Myg, mygawl, grand; solemn, glorious: dyddysgolai, pa y ddylwed mygolaf yn y nam?

Meddu, to possess, to have command of.

Medd, origin of motion; centre: mead

Meddw, drunk; meddwad, ebriety.

Meddwi, to inebriate: ymfeddwasant: meddwasai.

Meddwadu, to make drunk, to intoxicate.

Melyn, to sweeten, to become sweet.

Melynu, to grow yellow, to grow swarthy.

Μελι, melios, honey, the food of bees.

Μελιηδες, sweet, or dulcet.

Μελισσα, a bee, or gatherer of sweets.

Μέλλω, to delay, to defer, to put off.

Μέλος, melody; verse or song.

Μένος, the mind, or intelligent power.

Μένω, to remain; to last, to wait.

Μένος, the middle, or central part.

Μέτρον, measure, that metes things.

Μεινός, small, little, or slender.

Μεινύω, to diminish or to lessen.

Μόλος, battle and noise: also μῶλος.

Μολύνω, to pollute, or to defile.

Μόνος, alone, deserted, or desolate.

Μονον, one; only, single; singly.

Μοῦσα, a muse, the power of poetry.

Μυδάω, to moulder, to wear away.

Μυδαλίος, mouldy, musty, stale.

Μυδαίνω, to rot, or to putrefy.

Μύλη, a mill-stone, a grinder.

Μύρμος, μύρμηξ, an ant; μυρμηδον, an ant-hillock.

Μύρω, to flow, or to run as water.

Μωρος, silly, foolish, or simple.

Mel, melid, honey; melys, honeyed, sweet.

Meleidus, of the nature of honey.

Melysai, a honey-bearer: a sweetener.

Malu, to dally, to fondle; to trifle.

Melawd, that is sweet, like honey.

Menw, intellect, mind, or soul.

Manu, to set a place; to impress.

Medd, the origin of motion; a middle.

Mydr, mydrai, mydryn, a metre.

Man, manw, small, fine, tiny, petty.

Manaethu, manweiddiau, to make fine

Moloch, tumult, uproar, riot, stir.

Molwynaw, to spot; to cover with foam.

Mynw, that is isolated or lonely.

Mon, monyn, that is alone: a sulky one.

Mawsai, a recipient, of sweetness.

Mwydaw, to become damp, to sodden.

Mwydiolus, of a soddening tendency.

Mwydioni, to become pulp or pith.

Malai, that grinds or that brays.

Myr, myrion, ants: mor, an ant: morion, ants: myrfydon, a mound of ants

Meru, to drop; to dribble, to distil.

Meredig, being drooping; stupid.

N

Naiw, naíw, raw, to dwell, to abide.

Ναῦς, a temple: ναος τῷ θεῷ. 1 Cor. iii. 17.

Ναῦς, a ship, or a sailing vessel.

Νέμω, to divide, or to separate.

Νέος, new; novel, or recent.

Νέω, to swim, to move on water.

Νησος, an island, or an isle.

Νικάω, to overcome: νικα, overcome.

Νίφω, to snow, to drop in snow.

Νήθω, to spin, to draw out in threads

Νέθως, illegitimate, bastard.

Νέος, the mind, intelligent power.

Νέξ, night.

Noddi, noddau, to harbour; to take refuge.

Neuadd, a hall, a saloon: neuadd y Duw.

Nawfai, nofai, a floating agent.

Nawu, to stigmatize; to except.

Newydd, new, novel; that is new.

Noflaw, to swim; also to float.

Ynys, an island: ynysig, an islet.

Nycku, to torture; to pine: nycha, cause pain.

Nyfu, nyfiaw, odi, bwrrw cira, to snow.

Nyddu, to spin; to twist, or to writhe.

Nwythus, nwydus, eccentric, freakish.

Naws, temperament, disposition.

Nos, night: noson, noswaith, a certain night.

O

Ὁ, the article the.

Οἱ, pronoun: οἱ εἶπον, they said.

Ὄγω, to open, to set open, to lay out.

Ὅλος, a whole, all of a thing, a total.

Ὅμιλω, to engage.

Ὀν, pronoun: ὃν καταγγέλλομέν. Col. i. 28.

Y, and yr, the article the.

Hwy, they: hwy ebynt, they said.

Agu, agenu, to rift; agori, to open.

Holl, oll, a whole, or all, a total.

Ymaelu, ymaelyd, to take mutual hold

Hwn, this one; whom: hwn cyd-anghelw.

G

Όνομα, a name : ηἰ ὄνομα, her name.
 Όξύς, sharp, quick, ready ; sour :
 'οξείς οἱ πόδες αὐτῶν. Rom. iii. 15.
 Οὖν, therefore : πᾶ οὖν ἡ καύχησις
 Rom. iii. 27. Where then the boasting ?
 Ουαί, a woe, or wailing.

Enw, a name : ei hennw, her name.
Aiochus, keen, ardent ; greedy : aech- us eu pedos hwynt.
Yna, there ; then ; there now ! pa
yna y coegedd ? what then the vaunting ?
Gwae, a woe, a wailing, a curse.

Π

Παίω, to strike, to beat, to knock.
 Παλλω, to dart, to throw, or to fling.
 Παύω, to cease ; to rest, to be still.
 Πέδιον, a shoe ; a sock, a buskin.
 Πιέζω, to press, to squeeze, to crush.
 Πλέκω, to double, to fold, or to plait.
 Ποέω, to blow, to breathe, to respire.
 Πούς, ποδος, a foot : ὀξείς οἱ πόδες
αὐτῶν,
 Πρίσμαι, to purchas, to buy : ἐκπρίω,
 to redeem.
 Πρίν, preposition ; before : πρίν Ἀβρααμ γενεσθαι, ἐγώ εἰμι : before Abraham was, I am.
 Πρό, for, before, instead.
 Πωλέω, to sell, to offer for sale.
 Πωλος, a colt, or a young horse.

Pwyaw, to beat, to pummel, to thump
Peiliaw, to spread out, to radiate.
Peuaw, to pause ; to hesitate ; to pant.
Pedol, pedolan, a foot-trace ; a horseshoe.
Pwysaw, to weigh ; to press ; to ponder
Plygu, to double, to fold ; to bend.
Peuaw, to pause ; to hesitate ; to pant.
Pedd, ped, a foot : aeochus eu pedos
hwynt.
Priwyaw, to attain, or to reach : ech- brwyaw, to attain from.
Prin, scarce ; scarcely : prin y genid
Abraham, myfi wyf, scarcely was Abraham produced, I am.
Priwy, a tendency forward or onward.
Peliaw, to spread out, to brandish.
Ebawl, a male colt ; eboles, a she colt.

Ρ

Ψάδιος, easy, facile, of free course.
 Ράσσω, to dash against, or to rush.
 Ρέγγω, to snore, or to breathe hard.
 Ρέω, to flow ; to spread, to scatter.
 Ρέω, to speak ; to tell, or to relate.
 Ρίζα, a root, or a radix.
 Ριν, a nose ; as of a man or beast.
 Ροδανός, running, or swiftly moving.
 Ροῦς, a stream, or a current.

Rhwydd, rhwyddus, facile, easy of progress.
Rhyslaw, to move violently, to rush.
Rhochi, to make a rough noise ; to grunt.
Rheu, to move ; to be active ; to run.
Rhuaw, to cry aloud, to roar ; to chatter.
Rhadd, that advances, or proceeds onward.
Rhyn, that stretches out ; a point, a cape.
Rhodianus, coursing ; rhedimnus, running.
Rhawd, a course, a way, a rout ; a race.

Σ

Σάρξ, the flesh, the body.
 Σκόλος, a stake, post, or pale.
 Σκοτος, darkness, obscurity.
 Σκοτῶ, σκοτίζω, σκοταζω, to darken.
 Σκύβαλον, dung, filth, or rubbish.
 Σκυβαλιζω, to cast out filth or refuse.

Sarch, what covers ; also gear, harness
Ysgolp, a sharp pointed spar or stake
Ygawd, that rises over ; a shade.
Ygodi, ysgodusaw, ygodiadu, to shade
Ygubellion, or ysgubion, sweepings,
 refuse.
Ygubellu, ysgubaw, to sweep, to use a broom.

Σταυρος, a cross ; a gallows.
Στήλη, a pillar : στύλος : στηλαι.

Στομα, στοματος, the mouth.

Ystwyrai, that writhes : a stretcher.
Ystawl, a stem ; a stool : ystolion, pinnacles.
Ystumai, the organ of shaping or turning.

T

Ταλαντον, a talent ; scales ; weight.

Τασσω, to order, or to arrange.
Ταῦρος, a bull, the male of kine.

Ταχὺς, quick : ταχύ, quickly.
Τείνω, to stretch, or to extend.

Τείρω, to beat ; to vex, or to afflict.
Τελαμών, a strap, or a thong.
Τέλος, the end, or termination.
Τέλειω, to finish, to terminate.

Τέμνω, to cut, to cleave, to break down
Τερίω, to bore through, to perforate.

Τετθός, the breast, or the nipple.
Τεθῆ, τεθνη, a nurse.
Τερην, tender, delicate, or soft.
Τιμάω, τιω, to honour, to respect.

Τραχύς, rough, harsh, or rugged.
Τρεῖς, τρία, three ; τρίτος, third.
Τρέχω, to run, to race, to strive in a race.
Τρίπλαξ, τριπλακα, triple, three-fold.
Τρῖνω, to break, to tear ; to push, to thrust.
Τύμβος, a tomb, a tumulus.

Τύπος, a type, figure, form, likeness.
Τυφλός, blind, deprived of sight.
Τυφλώω, to blind, to deprive of sight.

Υδω, to sing, to make melody.
Υμῆν, a covering, a membrane.

Tawl, toliant, a cast : mantawl, a balance.

Tywyaw, to lead, or to conduct.
Tarw, that strikes or bursts through ;
 a bull.

Toc, that is short or quick ; shortly.
Taenu, to spread, to extend, or stretch out.

Taraw, to strike, to hit ; to affect.
Telamwyn, a stretch-defence or band
Telad, a straining out or to a verge.
Telu, to put on a stretch ; to extend out.

Timynu, to break into small bits.
Trwyaw, to bore through, to pass through.

Teth, a teat ; a nipple, a dug ; a breast
Tethai, tethenai, that has a teat.

Tirion, pleasant, tender, or genial Tumiao, to make a bend : twyaw, to order.

Trwch, a cut ; cutting ; rough, harsh
Tri, three ; trifed, trydydd, third.

Trechw, to surpass, to overcome, to master.

Triphlyg, threefold, or triple.
Trwyaw, to penetrate : tori, to break

Tom, tomen, a mound, or heap ; a tumulus.

Teb, a parallel state, a type, a like.
Tywyll, dark, obscure : dull, blind.
Tywyllu, to darken : dallu, to blind.

Y

Hudaw, to allure, to fascinate.
Hufen, the top formed upon liquids ;
 cream.

Φ

Φάω, to shine, to glitter, to illumine.
Φάυς, light ; splendour ; sunshine.
Φέρβω, to pasture, to depasture ; to feed.

Φορβη, φορβειά, pasture, or grass.
Φεύγω, φύγω, to shun, or to avoid.
Φυγίς, a fugitive ; a vagrant.
Φλάω, to smash, to break.
Φλέγω, φλεγεθω, to burn, to blaze.
Φλυω, φέω, to trifle, to act idly.

Ffawu, to render radiant or glorious
Ffawdd, radiation, splendour.
Porfa, to pasture, to depasture.

Porfa, pasture, a grazing place.
Ffoi, to flee, to run away, to retreat.
Ffoadai, a fugitive, or a vagrant.
Fflawu, to shiver, to splinter, to flake
Ffaglu, ffaglaethu, to flame, to blaze
Ffieuaw, to radiate : ffuaw, to seem.

Φρέαρ, a well ; a ditch.	Ffreuer , a ditch : ffrenad , a gushing.
Φρέξ, the roaring of the sea.	Ffwrch , ffrock , a violent gust ; a storm.
Φωνή, voice ; report, noise or din.	Ffwn , respiration, breath ; a puff ; a sigh.
Φῶρ, a thief ; a spy, or a prying one.	Ffwyr , a violent drive or chase : assault.

X

Χαίρω, to rejoice, or to be glad.	Chware , to play, to sport ; to be merry
Χαλάω, to loosen, or to relax.	Chwaku , to spread, to disperse, to separate.
Χάρις, grace, favour ; love, kindness.	Cariad , love, affection, or kindness.
Χθές yesterday, or the day past.	Echdoe , the day before yesterday ; doe , yesterday.
Χολή, choler, bile, or gall.	Caul , a maw ; chyle ; rennet ; curd.
Χορός, a choir, a ball, a rout, or assembly.	Cor , a circle, a round ; a crib ; a choir.
Χρόνος, time, space, or season.	Cronawd , a state or act of revolving.

Ω

Ὠθέω, to push, to thrust, or to press	Gwthiaw , to push, to thrust ; to obtrude.
Ὠλένη, the elbow, or bend of the arm	Elin , the elbow, the bend of the arm.
Ὠμός, crude, raw, undigested.	Of , uncombined ; crude, raw, fresh.
Ὠόν, ὦιον, also ὦιον, an egg.	Wy , wyan , and wynn , an egg.
Ὠρα, time, or age ; an hour.	Awr , an hour ; time or season.
Ὠρυω, to howl, to cry as a dog.	Gawru , to howl, to scream ; to shout

ON THE AFFINITIES OF THE LATIN AND WELSH.

Those who form systems from general premises, without being duly acquainted with the characteristic features of their various component parts, would not hesitate to assert, that a considerable portion of the Welsh tongue must necessarily be derived from the Latin, in consequence of the dominion held by the Romans over Britain, for about five hundred years. What impression might have been produced upon the dialect of the Lloegrian Britons by such an intimate connexion with foreigners, it would be difficult, at this time, to determine, as the peculiar characteristic of that dialect cannot be traced, from its having been successively blended with the Saxon, the Danish, and the Norman, so as to have gradually formed the present English tongue. But, in respect to Wales, it might be urged as an argument of great weight, that the proportionate intercourse of the Romans there, must have been of too insignificant extent, to produce any change in the dialect of the natives, as none has been subsequently effected by the far more general intercourse of the English, holding a sovereignty there, and in every way a closer connexion, and through a much longer period of time. All the influence, that the Roman domination had upon our language, was the giving of currency to a few score words ; and the sway of the English has effected about as much : yet the strange words, whether from one nation or the other, have not been naturalized in the Welsh, as they still plainly discover their alien origin.

However, it is not by any means intended here to claim the smallest advantage from such argumentative objections, but, on the contrary, to state the important fact, that the Welsh language contains thousands of words in common with the Latin; yet these words can be satisfactorily proved not to have been borrowed by the Welsh from the Romans; neither could the latter people be indebted to the Britons for them. Therefore, the affinity, existing between the two languages, must be attributed to a common origin of such words, and preserved in each from a period anterior to the commencement of the history of either nation.

The Latin is, to a very considerable degree, a mixed language, being gradually formed by adventitious circumstances, whereby the original basis of its structure has been so obscured, that scarcely any of the words therein are regularly reducible to those primary elements, or radices, within itself, which are essentially the characteristics of the Welsh and other unmixed languages. Had not the Welsh a systematic combination of its words, yielding to an obvious and certain analysis, it would then stand only on equal terms with the Latin, with respect to words common to both languages; and in that case there would be no certain criterion, by which the claim of originality to such words could be awarded to either of them. This point may be illustrated by a few of those common words, traced to their primary elements in the Welsh, and which are not capable of being so analyzed in the Latin language. The following are obvious proofs:—

Latin words.

Catena
Caterna
Turba
Garrio
Garrulus

Welsh words.

Cadwen, a chain
Cattyrfu
Tyrfu
Geiriaw
Geiriolus.

These words are precisely of the same signification in both languages; but it is only in the Welsh that they can be resolved to their primary elements.

The feminine noun cadwen is in the masculine form cadwyn; the en, in the former, and yn, in the latter, being general terminations for all similar nouns. Taking away these terminations, we have cadw, a keeping, a guarding, a preserving in safe custody; also, to keep, to guard, to have in custody; and cadw is derived from cad, a striving to take; also a conflict, or a battle; the simple elements forming cad being ca and ad. The plurals, most commonly used, out of several, of cadwen and cadwyn, are cadweni, cadwenau, cadwyni, and cadwynau.

The caterva is a very remarkable word, from its being so written in the Latin; because that one of its parts, terva, is plainly the Welsh word tyrva, which used to be written terva, before the y was introduced into our alphabet; and which is precisely of the same import as turba. The Welsh word is nearly of the same import, whether written catyrva or cattyryva,—the first from ca and tyrva, and the other from cad and tyrva,—and implies a troop of defence and a troop of conflict: cattyryva, in ancient numeration, expressed 100,000. The meaning of cad, a conflict, is literally an aptitude or effort to keep, having ce and ad for its elements. The word tyres is partly explained already; but its structure may be farther defined. Tior implies a heap, a crowd, an aggregate, or accumulation; and thence comes tyrn, a multitudinous noise, or tumult, and often used for tarun, thunder. The u of all monosyllables becomes y, when such words are extended; and thus tyrn becomes tyrya. The a postfixed gives the idea of continuity, accumulation, or collection; and such words are used both as nouns and verbs.

The Welsh primitive gair, a word, by a regular inflection forms the verb geiriaw, to word, to express words, to form words, to use words. From gair, in the same manner, is formed the adnoun geiriawl, wordy, verbose, belonging to a word; and from geiriawl is formed geiriolus, apt to be wordy, full of words, or garrulous.

Some thousand Latin compound words have their similitudes in the Welsh with respect to structure and signification; and all to be analyzed, like the foregoing examples, in the latter language, thus proving, that they could not have been borrowed from the former, but that such words exist in both languages from one common origin.

CONCLUSION.

Notwithstanding all that has been hitherto written, the origin and affinities of the several nations of Europe remain in great obscurity; and the principal cause for this, where we have not the light of history to guide us, must be attributed to the want of a proper examination of the languages of those nations, so as to discover the approximate relation existing between some of them, and the contrary characters of other. As a proof of how little is generally and correctly known in respect to this subject, we need only point out that there are remnants of an original population still existing in France, in Flanders, in Germany, in two parts of Britain, and in Ireland; and who speak their ancient and common language, under diversities of dialects, and which is identified with the Slavonic; and these remnants of a primitive people are the Bretons, the Walloons, the Wendi, the Welsh, and the Gwydhelians of Scotland and Ireland. Historians have not used an appropriate and generic name for the common language of the people here mentioned; for the several appellations mostly in use, except the Slavonic, which is not very ancient, of Gallic, and Celtic, are only relevant to circumstances of locality; such as denote a dwelling in open regions, or in woods and forests. There is one name, however, which is descriptive of a generic character, and still preserved by one remnant of those nations, and used to designate itself, and also applied to it nationally, from the remotest periods of history. This appellation is used by the Welsh, who call themselves CYMMRY; and which was written Cimmerioi, Cimmerii, and Cimbri, by the Greeks and Romans.

